

Residents Elated Over Release of 52; Unsure Over Accord Terms, U.S. Status

In Hereford, as across the nation, there is elation over the long-awaited release of the 52 American hostages held for 444 days in Iran. Flags fly, anthems play, and prayers of joy and thanksgiving are offered.

But mixed with that elation is a sense of uncertainty over "just how much America did give up" to secure the hostages' return, as well as heart-felt hope that this nation has, indeed, learned a vital lesson from an ordeal that turned into a national embarrassment.

Three Hereford residents who are veterans of military service made their own observations on the issue of the return of the hostages and the process America went through to attain the end result, while four Hereford women, including one who left Iran just after the hostage issue riveted the eyes of the nation on the American embassy there also shared their thoughts on the hostage crisis issue.

Susie Woodford of Hereford had her own close brush in Iran as the hostage issue heated up there and left that country as anti-American sentiment grew to a fever pitch and the American hostages were seized in Tehran.

She gave voice to her own feeling of empathy for what the hostages were going through in the final hours before they flew to freedom.

"I remember leaving Iran on the way back to the U.S. You are sitting there waiting to leave and thinking how you won't feel safe until you get in the air and are finally out of Iranian air space. As I left Iran I was thanking God that I was free of Iran at last and I can just imagine how relieved the hostages were," said Ms. Woodford.

"It was just like Khomeini to keep the hostages waiting on the Tarmac at the airport until the last possible minute. The act was typical of his twisted mind. I'm really relieved the hostages are out of Iran now," she continued.

Three of the county's military veterans joined in the elation over the release of the hostages, but they tempered their elation with speculation over the meaning of the terms for the hostage release, and with hopes that such an issue will be better handled should it arise again.

"I'm happy that the hostage release finally came to pass. I'm a little apprehensive as to what this country gave up though, and I'm not too happy about that," stated James Jesko, a veteran of World War II who served with the Navy aboard an aircraft carrier in the South Pacific.

"I think that we'll regret that we let things drag on for 444 days instead of getting the hostages back early in the game, but I'm certainly glad to see those people coming home," Jesko continued.

The hopes of a nation for rescue of its hostages died with eight crewmen in the fiery crash of aircraft in the Iranian desert in an abortive rescue attempt which further humiliated the U.S.

Jesko admitted he was not surprised at the failure of the rescue mission, however.

"We are a peace-loving nation and we don't know how to fight. Until we have our backs to the wall we just aren't fighters by nature. For that reason, I wasn't at all surprised that the rescue mission failed," stated Jesko.

Dr. Milton Adams, another veteran of World War II who served in both the Atlantic and the Pacific with the U.S. Navy aboard amphibious craft expressed some misgivings about the hostage issue along with joy at the safe return of the 52 American citizens who had been held against their will.

"It didn't seem to me that the hostage crisis was handled all that well, yet I don't know how it could have been handled any better," stated Dr. Adams.

"I thought that the rescue attempt was a good gesture but it was a poorly-planned attempt," he added.

"I feel that the U.S. is still vulnerable for such a thing as the seizing of the hostages in Iran to happen again. Our country places such value on human life that other areas of the world never have. The only way we can cope is to have a group trained to go in and make rescues because this could happen to us time and time again," Dr. Adams continued.

Mark Andrews, a veteran of the Viet Nam War who served with the U.S. Army at Da Nang expressed hope that the U.S. will be better prepared should a similar crisis arise again.

"Being a Viet Nam veteran and having been in a place I really didn't want to be in, I can appreciate the hostages' problem. We, as a town and a nation, can be thankful that no harm came to the hostages and that they are safely on the way home. What we have had to give up in order to get the hostages back, only time will tell," said Andrews.

"I hope we learned a lesson from this episode and that we will be capable of handling such a situation effectively and in a shorter time, should it arise again," said Andrews. The Viet Nam veteran expressed support for the concept of the hostage rescue mission which failed.

"I'm glad the rescue was attempted. I just wish it had been successful...I wish we had tried again. I was pleased that the U.S. did at least try to do something," he related.

"I think this issue shows the weakness of the U.S., as a whole, world-wide. I hope our nation has learned a lesson from this," stated Andrews.

Hospital Revenues Up

By CHERI WARD
Staff Writer

Revenues for the month of December surpassed expenses by $15,068, the Deaf Smith General Hospital board of directors heard in a Tuesday meeting at the hospital.

Jim Bullard, hospital administrator, said, "That's super for the month of December. We usually lose money."

Part of the month's surplus came from a profit on the ambulance service.

For the first time since its inception by hospital personnel Bullard said the ambulance service showed a profit. December's gross revenues over expenses were $542, he said.

Hospital accounts show a $54,000 cash balance compared to $172,000 for December of 1979, but Bullard said the difference could be found in a $100,000 certificate of deposit for bond payments.

Board members approved the purchase of a Colter S blood counting machine for $25,000. The machine will be bought on a five-year financing plan.

Administrator Bullard told board members that December "was an excellent month." Bullard said the hospital had an average census of 27.6 patients per day.

He said January's figures also show an increase in patients served.

Bullard said surgical procedures were up over last year's figures, a financial advantage for the hospital.

Laboratory tests for December 1980 made a huge jump of over 2,600 tests over figures for December, 1979.

Board members and Bullard attributed this jump to an increase in surgical procedures and medical illnesses.

Outpatient visits to the hospital also increased for December by over 100.

In other business, board members approved the move of Tillie Miller, County Health Nurse, to the Public Health Clinic from her office in the Old Central School subject to an agreeable negotiation of rent with the county commissioners.

"Operationally and logistically the hospital administration has no problem with moving the county nurse here," Bullard said.

The Public Health Clinic at the hospital served 375 patients during December, an increase of over 200 patients from December of 1979.

The consolidation of the two entities will enable ease of operation, and it will also enable the two nurses to better coordinate their activities.

Board members listened to Miller's report of her duties which include bi-monthly blood screenings, diabetic screenings, rabies control responsibilities, tuberculosis and venereal disease control and home visits.

Miller also helps parents of crippled children receive state benefits for children with disabilities that would be helped by surgery or appliances. Her current case load is over 100 children.

In addition to these duties, Miller screens about 15 to 20 welfare children monthly for visible problems and refers them to a doctor if needed.

Immunization clinics of the Public Health Clinic nurse also benefit from Miller's services.

Board members discussed a proposal to eliminate confusion in finding the emergency room for people unfamiliar with the hospital.

Proposals included moving the emergency room to the back entrance of the hospital, moving the emergency entrance to the front door of the hospital and moving the emergency room from its present location to a site between surgery and intensive care units.

Bullard proposed a long-range goal of moving the emergency room to the more convenient center between medical units, but suggested that for short-range plans, the telephone at the emergency room entrance be supplied. (See HOSPITAL, Page 2)

Reminders of Rejoicing

Residents of Deaf Smith County joined their fellow Americans today in celebrating the release of the 52 U.S. prisoners held by Iran for 444 days. Downtown Hereford was afire with flags displayed at the front of businesses and there were individual displays too, such as this yellow ribbon tied to the mail box at the home of Dr. David Carruth, 307 Elm. Yellow ribbons and the red, white and blue were in evidence across America Tuesday and today in honor of the American citizens who underwent the ordeal in Iran.

Chamber Board Approves Budget, Plans Activities

By CHERI WARD
Staff Writer

Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce board members discussed plans for the coming year and approved a $74,320 budget at their annual retreat Thursday, January 15.

The budget shows close to a 12 percent increase over the budget for 1980, but 1980's budget left a surplus of $5000.

The budget will be funded mainly by membership dues, and chamber members will make an all-out effort this year to recruit new members.

Burdett said board members are especially interested in attracting farmers to the chamber fold because, "They are the foundation of the community."

Burdett said the chamber would act as a voice for the farmers in any way desired.

Board members discussed the MX missile system, a plan that concerns area farmers, Burdett said.

While the chamber is anxious for everyone to learn all they can about the system, the county government will be taking the lead here, said Burdett.

Mike Carr, chamber manager, said the chamber will be continuing work in 1981 to see that the Buffalo Lake project is not forgotten.

Bill Sarpalius, state senator from Hereford, has pledged to work closely with the chamber in supporting efforts to get the dam repaired at the lake and to make the area suitable for fishing, camping and other recreational activities, Carr said.

Buffalo Lake, near Umbarger, was the subject of a major campaign by chamber members last year when the Corps of Engineers proposed eliminating the lake, said Carr.

Both Carr and Burdett said plans for the annual chamber banquet were going well, and Carr projected attendance at about 900.

He said over 50 percent of the tickets have already been sold, and reservations need to be made before February 1 at the chamber office to insure getting a ticket.

The banquet at 7 p.m. Thursday, February 5, in the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn features Miss America of 1980, Cheryl Prewitt.

The Citizen of the year will be named by the Noon Lions Club, said Burdett. This award is for community service over a period of years.

Tickets for the banquet are $10 each and are on sale at both banks and from the Hereford Hustlers, a group of chamber members that function mainly in public relations, Carr said.

Carr also said board members discussed plans for the second annual citywide Crazy Days in coordination with a spring Fun Breakfast.

Crazy Days is a chamber promotion designed to promote enthusiasm for Deaf Smith County businesses.

The chamber sponsors watermelon eating contests, frisbee contests and awards prizes for the employee wearing the most bizarre outfit during the celebration.

The chamber plans to give away prizes, trips and Deaf Smith County bucks in the promotion.

Carr said a new project sponsored by the chamber is the purchase of a projector and audio-sound films for the use of member businesses.

Member businesses can check out films on shoplifting, pilferage and check forging to show employees.

Carr said last year's trial of the project was well received, and he plans to add more

Hereford Industrial Foundation Elects New President, Board

Bud Eades was elected president and five new directors were named when Hereford Industrial Foundation held its annual membership meeting Tuesday afternoon at the chamber office.

Eades, Plains Insurance Agency, was named to succeed Don Tardv as president of the foundation. Other new officers are Troy Waddell, a

Joe Reinauer Jr., vice presidents; Don Lane, treasurer; and Mike Carr, secretary. New directors, elected for three-year terms, are Jim Rowton, Dick Montgomery, Bobby Veigel, Tim Gearn and Ken Hagar. Rowton was re-elected while the others are serving their first terms on the board.

The foundation was organized to work with the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce in locating new industries in the community. The foundation's role is to provide financing, sites or buildings when necessary.

The foundation provided the land and building for Sue Ann Corp. and leases the facility to the garment industry. The corporation recently changed its name to Center Stage, Inc.

In the Tuesday meeting, directors also discussed the possible use of industrial revenue bonds in landing new industrial prospects.

Holdover directors for the foundation include Dick Gerles, Jeff Carlile, Stan Simmons, Bobby Griego, Speedy Nieman, Gene Ehler, Reinauer, Lane, Waddell and Eades.

Thanksgiving Services Slated for Tomorrow

Hereford residents will join the mood of thanksgiving and rejoicing which has swept the nation following the release of the 52 American hostages imprisoned in Iran as the Hereford Ministerial Alliance conducts a community thanksgiving service tomorrow during the noon hour.

The thanksgiving ceremony, open to the entire community, will be held at the First Christian Church, 401 West Park. The service will begin at 12:10 p.m.

The service will include prayers and scripture readings conducted by members of various congregations from around the city, and has been scheduled as "a way of showing collective relief and expression of thanks for the safe return of the American hostages," according to Mack McCarier, pastor of the First Christian Church.

Residents here joined with their fellows across the nation Tuesday in their own private celebrations following the news of the end of the hostages' long ordeal in Iran.

The United States flag was on display across the city today as the Hereford High School Key Club placed flags at city businesses to help celebrate the release of the Americans who were held prisoner.

Members of the club will be passing out yellow ribbons to Hereford High students today as a reminder of the release of the Americans from Iran.

In addition, the club has put a large yellow ribbon on the flag pole that stands outside the high school.

Hostages Finally Safe

WIESBADEN, West Germany (AP) — Safe in American hands at last, the 52 former hostages entered a U.S. military hospital in West Germany at dawn today to begin getting used to freedom.

The 50 men and two women were taken to their rooms after a 12-hour, 4,550-mile flight from Tehran, with stops in Athens and Algiers, and telephone calls to their joyful families in the United States.

Many were exuberant or smiling. All appeared to be in fair health or better despite their 14½-month ordeal at the hands of the Iranian revolutionaries who seized the U.S. Embassy in Tehran and its staff on Nov. 4, 1979.

They were expected to spend three to five days of "decompression" after their 444 days in captivity, undergoing medical and psychological examinations and resting, before their return to the United States.

Hundreds of jubilant Americans stationed in Germany gave the heroes of the 14½-month ordeal tumultuous welcomes as two Air Force hospital planes brought them to the Rhein-Main Air Base in Frankfurt and two buses ferried them 20 miles to the hospital at Wiesbaden.

The Hesse state radio said police received bomb threats against the buses shortly before the Americans left the airport. The police refused to confirm or deny the report, but the buses traveled with a large escort and there was no interruption in the trip.

Cyrus Vance, who was secretary of state when the hostages were taken on Nov. 4, 1979, and quit because he opposed the unsuccessful attempt to rescue them in April, headed the greeters at the Frankfurt airport and rode in the first bus to the hospital.

Ex-President Carter was flying to Germany today as President Reagan's special envoy to greet the freed Americans. They were not flown out of Tehran until 25 minutes after Carter's presidency ended Tuesday and Reagan was inaugurated, and one of Carter's aides commented: "You can't come to any other conclusion than that they deliberately held the hostages until President Carter left office — they did it on purpose."

Air Force officials said Carter would arrive at 8:30 p.m. — 2:30 p.m. EST — meet privately with the Americans, and give a speech at Frankfurt airport before flying home at 10:45 p.m. — 4:45 p.m. A West German government spokesman said Chancellor Helmut Schmidt would join Carter in greeting the Americans.

"Welcome To The Freedom Hotel" read a big sign on the third floor of the hospital where the freed Americans' rooms were. A special telephone room was set up with 24 booths so they could call anyone anywhere and free.

They were to be served American food in a special dining room equipped with 10 banquet tables.

Reagan Celebrates Presidency, Release of American Hostages

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan partied past midnight in celebration of his presidency and the hostages' freedom, and then settled into the White House today with a renewed commitment to rebuild the economy and pare the size and cost of government.

"We don't have a thing to worry about," a jubilant Reagan declared to a black-tie crowd of supporters packed into a hotel ballroom. "Between us we're going to straighten things out and we're going to take the high road."

After swearing in his White House staff today, Reagan planned to convene his first Cabinet meeting. His aides said he would issue a directive to begin searching for waste and abuse in the federal bureaucracy and also may suspend pending federal regulations so they could be reviewed.

Also being considered, but likely to come later, is an executive order abolishing the Council on Wage and Price Stability, the officials said.

The return of the 52 American hostages from Iran was still unfolding as Reagan set out Tuesday night for appearances at a formal dinner and nine inaugural balls. As aides told him the latest developments, he shared the news with partygoers, updating his announcements as the night wore on.

"I think you might like to have a little news bulletin," he said early in the evening. "I have just learned that the planes have landed in Algiers. Fifty-two — and I won't call them hostages, they're prisoners of war — are well and hearty and preparing to board American planes."

At his final appearance, he told the audience, "These POWs are only minutes away from landing in Wiesbaden, West Germany," where they will stay for the next few days to readjust to freedom.

Reagan's announcements and characterization of the hostages as POWs drew cheers and whistles at each stop.

Over a four-hour span, Reagan sped from party to party around town, never staying more than 10 or 15 minutes. Organizers estimated the total attendance at more than 45,000, and all the balls were packed.

Reagan was decked out in white tie and tails, but his wife Nancy stole the fashion show. Mrs. Reagan, with her hair pulled back in a chignon, wore a white satin and lace sheath that sparkled with crystal and chalk beads.

"I think she looks gorgeous," Reagan said. For Reagan it was, in his words, a "perfect day," particularly because of the hostages' release.

Bells and Hugs Greet Release

By The Associated Press

The Empire State Building was lit in red, white and blue, bells that had been silent for years were rung in joy and strangers embraced on city streets as Americans celebrated the liberation of the 52 hostages from Iran.

Gamblers in six states played hunches and flooded state-run lotteries with bets on the number 444 because the hostages were freed on their 444th day of captivity. The gamblers lost.

In midtown Manhattan, office workers began throwing adding-machine confetti and toilet-paper streamers out of windows when the news spread that the hostages had been freed. Mayor Edward Koch said he would like to hold a real ticker-tape parade for the former hostages when they come back to the United States.

In Memphis, Tenn., church bells rang for half an hour, increasing in volume as word of the hostages' freedom spread from church to church.

"The reaction of the people downtown was kind of like the ending of World War II — people were embracing in the streets," said the Rev. Douglass Bailey of the Calvary Episcopal Church in Memphis.

In Washington, the lights on the national Christmas tree on the ellipse near the White House were turned on. The tree was dark during the holiday season as a reminder of the hostages' plight.

The Statue of Liberty in New York harbor was lit Tuesday night for the first time since 1976.

In San Francisco, Mayor Diann Feinstein proclaimed Tuesday as Freedom Day after the city's Emergency Services Department let loose with its sirens in a tribute to the hostages.

Truck Strikes Hereford Man

A 37-year-old Hereford man struck by a feed truck and dragged about 50 feet this morning was listed in fair condition in Deaf Smith General Hospital at Brand press time.

Curtis Ritchie, 428A Ave. B, is suffering from a fractured pelvis and shoulder, said Dr. Doris Morgan, nursing supervisor for the hospital.

A feed truck driven by Raymond Turrubiates, 18, struck Ritchie as he left a feed room at Barrett-Crofoot West, 17 miles west of Hereford, early this morning.

A Barrett-Crofoot employee said Turrubiates didn't know he had hit Ritchie until he stopped his truck to investigate "scrapping sound."

Ritchie was caught on the truck's right front axle and was dragged until Turrubiates stopped the truck. Ritchie, 37, is an employee of Shupe Brothers Trucking of Hereford.

Deputies and an ambulance were called to the scene at 8:28 this morning.

the freedom of the hostages," remarked Mrs. Clayton Sanders, president of the Summerfield Study Club, who pointed out that the Iranian situation was the topic for a discussion forum at that organization's meeting last week.

Mrs. R.L. Wilson of the Pioneer Study Club summed up what is apparently the overriding sentiment of the nation, however, as 52 harried Americans finally find themselves on the road home.

"I think their release is just wonderful. Our prayers for them have been answered. All of us feel the same way...happy for the hostages and happy for their families."

Honorary Fireman

Wallace Shelton, Sr., (right) dispatcher for 17 years for the local police and fire department, was honored this past weekend with a retirement party by the fire department. Shelton, 82 years old, was presented with a plaque of appreciation, a fire helmet, and members of the volunteer fire department made him an honorary fireman, "which has never been done before," according to Spain. The plaque was presented by Fire Chief Bill Bankston shown left.

For Project County History

Volunteers Needed to Compile Book

Work on Project County History is being carried on by numerous volunteers, and others are needed to complete the task of compiling a book that will include hundreds of family histories as well as general history of Deaf Smith County, according to Sue Coleman, office secretary.

Anyone who would like to have a part in assembling material, writing or assisting with routine office work is invited to telephone 364-4338, or come by the project office in the E.B. Black House between 1 and 5 p.m. Tuesdays through Fridays.

Volunteers started the work last summer, preparing initial mailing lists. They included Argen Draper, Ruby Kendrick Sears, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Lawrence, Jennie Buckner, Lola Vayez Veavey, Vesta Mae Nunley and Nelda Guy Ricketts.

Marian Kreig has taken the responsibility for continued mailing and is being assisted by Lucile Hughes, Aileen Montgomery, Ruth King and others.

At work now processing material from previous histories of the county are June Owens, Kerrie Steiert and Mildred Betzen. Mrs. Steiert will assist with the writing, as will Leta Kaul and others.

Volunteers serving on the steering committee and helping with almost every phase of the work are Troyce Hanna, chairman; Kathryn Ruga, vice-chairman; Marie Mehlberg, treasurer; Violet Reinauer, promotion chairman; Marguerite Newell, design artist; and Lois Gilliland, DSC Museum director.

Officers Investigate Dump Fire, Two Thefts

Police investigated two reports of theft and one fire yesterday.

Earl Warrick, 204 Centre, told police that hubcaps valued at $76 were stolen from his 1976 Mercury two-door car while it was parked at Hereford High School.

Police are investigating another case and expect some results today in the theft of a tire from a van at 146 Greenwood.

An investigator for the district attorney's office saw an individual crawl under a van belonging to Whiteface Aviation and attempted to remove a tire. While the investigator called police, the thief escaped.

Police officers and firemen investigated a fire started at the city dump by a man trying to remove rubber from copper tubing.

A city employee reported the violation of a state law to police, and two fire trucks responded to the call at 12:54 p.m. Tuesday.

The fire was extinguished at about 3 p.m.

Police issued nine citations, investigated one minor accident and answered nine police-related calls.

MX Task Force to Meet Friday

The MX Missile Task Force of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission will meet Friday morning, January 23, at 10:30 a.m. in the first floor conference room of the Amarillo Building, Third and Polk Streets. The meeting will be chaired by West Texas State University President Max Sherman.

The meeting was originally scheduled for January 6, but had to be cancelled because copies of the environmental impact statement (EIS) to be used by the task force members did not arrive at the PRPC headquarters.

During their Jan. 23 meeting, each of the 23 members of the task force will get a copy of the seven volume, 1902-page statement. The members are assigned to one or more of three impact study groups which include human impact, economic impact, and physical impact.

Members of the impact study groups will have a brief period to evaluate the EIS, then the task force will reconvene. The groups will probably formulate final reports for President Sherman. These reports will be summarized and turned over to elected officials in the Panhandle counties that will likely be affected by the multi-billion dollar defense installation.

The officials can in turn use the reports as a basis for framing questions during a public hearing on the missile system. That hearing was originally scheduled for sometime within the three months after December 18, which would put it in the second week of March. Air Force officials are now considering adding some time to the 90-day clock. The additional time stems from a problem with scheduled delivery of the EIS copies to the commission and selected sites around the Panhandle and in the states that would be affected by the mammoth missile installation.

films to the collection soon.

The Pheasant Hunt will once again be a major chamber fund raising project with an estimated $2000 in income for the chamber, Burdett said.

Chamber committees will also investigate possibilities for a function similar to Friona's Maize Days to honor area agricultural producers, said Burdett.

Burdett said, "I am very enthusiastic about the program of work adopted and the prospective chairmen named to head committees."

"The chamber is starting off on a positive note for 1981," he said.

Burdett said the chamber's emphasis for 1981 would be on recruitment of new members. "The main concern is that a member be a legitimate, bonafide business within the county and that the business or individual is reputable in the area," said Carr.

Yearly dues for chamber memberships are $96 per person for business memberships and $48 for individual memberships available to retired persons, school employees and employees of the state and county governments, Carr said.

Carr said he was excited about 1981.

"Some of the ideas from the retreat offer a great deal of potential through the Chamber of Commerce," he said.

Letter to the Editor

(Editor's Note: The following poem about the inauguration was submitted by a Brand reader.)

"So Shall It Be"
The bright lights formed a cross where he stood and finally said, "It has sunk in!"
But, the President, destined to carry the awesome load of the world could only dream that America, his America should go down in history as a nation of eight for the courageous and free. So as he understood, his job in the Oval Home, he pledged his love and prayed for support, wishing to be a useful vessel and a lasting tribute to Him.

And God smiled and finally, said,
"So Shall It Be!"

Small Talk

By SUE COLEMAN

A nice note from Corinne Jowell Neely since the first of the year, along with her annual newsletter with her Christmas card, indicates that she is still enjoying life in the home at Camarillo, Calif. that she shares with her brother.

Oldtimers in this county knew Corinne and others in the Jowell family well, then she left for a while but came back and lived here until the move to the West Coast a few years ago. Her name was practically synonymous with Red Cross in Hereford for a long time.

She and her brother make a hobby of exploring the country in driving distance of Camarillo, going to historic spots, scenic places and manmade sights that are numerous around there. They read about their destination beforehand, then record their trip with photographs—and that's another hobby.

Also they are making a special garden, experimenting with different plants, and Corinne says their dog is a hobby all by himself.

She said she misses friends in Hereford, and mentioned Genevieve Miller and Betty Turpin. Of course she has a sister, Louise Roberson, still living in this neighborhood and there are other members of the large Jowell family scattered about nearby so Corinne has plenty of incentive to come back for visits occasionally.

Something I wish Hereford had more of — and I could say this for nearly every town in the Panhandle — is outlets for talents of its residents. Talents, that is, in music, dance, drama, any of the performing arts.

Success of the Chamber Singers shows that some effort in this direction can not only give people who like to sing a chance to sing, but it results in a performing unit that is an asset to the town.

It has always seemed to me a pity that our schools turn out such a fine crop of musicians every year, from bands, orchestras and choirs, and then most of those musicians never touch another instrument or sing in another group the rest of their lives.

Town bands are a thing of the past, I guess, but wouldn't it be great to have one?

The same goes for orchestras and it wouldn't need to be full concert groups; ensembles like a string quartet or a brass choir can spice up many a program and give the performers opportunities to use their talents.

Hereford's Community Players had a successful few years back around 1970, staging some excellent plays. But there was never enough public support, and the Players were unable to find a permanent location with room to store scenery, hold rehearsals and present performances.

Maybe nobody today will pull loose from the TV to support local groups, but their absence is a loss to the community, and maybe the Chamber of Commerce should reach out from its base with the Chamber Singers and sponsor some other entertainment units.

LeGate to Head Country Club Board

Tom LeGate was named as the 1981 president and five new directors were elected when Hereford Country Club held its annual meeting Tuesday night.

LeGate, owner of Pro Sports Center, succeeds Gerald "Jiffy" Payne as president. Steve Hodges was named as vice president, and Rex Easterwood is the new secretary.

Elected as new directors for three-year terms were Lewis Block, Tommy Bowling, Dwayne Cassels, Jim Easley and Melvin Cor-dray.

Directors whose terms expired included Payne, Wes Fisher, Gladys Cavness, Ed Barrett and Bill Reinauer. Fisher was the vice president last year, and Mrs. Cavness served as secretary.

Inquiry Class Set Slated

St. Anthony's Catholic Church has announced plans for the beginning of an Inquiry Class for those who are interested in information and understanding of the Catholic faith.

The Rev. Norman Boyd, associate pastor of the church, will conduct the classes. He said he was prompted to offer the classes after hearing many comments concerning problems in neighborhoods, worry about inflation and church membership.

The no-obligation classes will begin Feb. 23 at 7:30 p.m. at the rectory.

McPherson Urges Club To Study Bills

Deaf Smith County Sheriff Travis McPherson urged members of the Pioneer Study Club to study bills to be brought before the legislature when he spoke to the club recently.

"Some of the new bills concern the Mafia, illegal aliens and drugs," according to McPherson, who was introduced to the group by Mrs. Wm. Wimberley, program chairman.

A question and answer period followed.

The club met at the Caison House Restaurant for lunch. Mrs. J.V. Pickens gave the invocation, Pledge of Allegiance by Mrs. Ted Panciera, and Pledge to the Texas Flag by Mrs. O.G. Hill, Sr.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. R.L. Wilson. It was announced that the next meeting would be guest day at the Country Club. Mrs. Vesper Smith of Higgins, President of Top of Texas District (TFDC) will be guest speaker then.

Mrs. L.H. Lookingbill, legislative chairman, reported that the Domestic Violence Senate Bill was never brought to the floor for a vote and therefore has died for this session of Congress.

Mrs. Delmar Sigle and Mrs. Herman Ford, reported they had done some work on Mother's Park.

Mrs. Wimberley gave a memorial to the late Mrs. Ruth Craig. Mrs. Craig had been a member of the club and was chairman of the telephone committee.

Mrs. Sigle, Mrs. Wimberley and Mrs. Lookingbill were hostesses. The serving table was decorated in a "Crime Convention" theme.

The next scheduled meeting will be a luncheon at the Country Club, Feb. 10.

Aerobics Discussed At Mothers' Meeting

A program concerning Rhythm Aerobics was presented to members of the Young Mothers' Study Club when they met Monday at the Hereford State Bank Friendship Room.

Becky Grousnick and Debbie Davenport presented the program to the group. Mrs. Grousnick is an instructor of Rhythm Aerobics in Hereford.

During the brief business meeting before the program it was announced a Valentine dinner will be held Feb. 9 at the Hereford State Bank for members and their husbands.

Guests present at the meeting were Janie Poland, Carla Hollinger and Alice Gollinugh.

Members present were Jan Dudley, Dee Dee Coker, Kathy Haney, Leota Kelson, Darla Stone, Maureen Self, Kathy Boyd, Beverly Davies, Jo Lynn Schilling, Sherry Wilson, Donna McGee, Janie Street, Debbie Holmes, Kandy Castillo, Mary Taylor, Lisa Blakely and Rita Cole.

Mrs. Moore to Lead Music Booster Club

Vi Moore has been elected president of the newly organized Band and Orchestra Booster Club.

Mrs. Moore was elected when the group met for the first time Monday. The purpose of the organization is to promote band and orchestra activities and to help defray expenses when the high school clubs travel to Arizona for a spring contest.

Other officers elected include Betty Lady, vice president; Barbara McMillon, secretary, Bera Boyd, treasurer; and Janie Maldonado, public relations.

Membership dues were set at $3 per person or $5 per couple. The organization also decided to have a dance Jan. 31 at the KC Hall as its first official fund-raising project.

Anyone who is interested in joining the booster club is, asked to call Mrs. Moore at 364-6159 or Mrs. McMillon, at 364-6194.

Local Club Nominates Mrs. Pierce

Mrs. Welma Nell Pierce was nominated recently for "Woman of the Year," by West Hereford Extension Homemakers Club, held in the home of Mrs. Christine Larson.

The meeting was opened by the reading of a poem, "The Sparrow."

Evelyn Bell read the roll call and each member answered with "how our Christmas was." The minutes were read and approved, and the treasurers report was given by Eldora Boyd.

Members of the EH Club were informed that their program for the year would be to make lap covers for the Veterans Administration Hospital.

Louise Walker and Pennie Cribbs, extension agents, gave a program on "Stress." The two women played a tape of exercises related to relieving stress. Each member participated in the exercises.

A rising Republican star

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Though the department that Drew Lewis has been nominated to head is hardly the most important in town, the transportation secretary-designate is being hailed by transition insiders as one of the most influential members of the incoming Cabinet and as a rising star of the Republican Party.

At 49, Lewis is a 20-year veteran of Republican politics in Pennsylvania. He emerged as a power in Ronald Reagan's campaign because he possessed something critical to victory that was in short supply among the candidate's oldest and closest aides: good connections throughout the Northeast and the industrial Midwest. Lewis ran the fall campaign in that region and is credited with Reagan's success there.

Lewis heads his own management-consulting firm, which is headquartered near Philadelphia. He specializes in aiding companies in financial difficulty, often serving as a board member or chief executive officer while nursing them back to financial health.

In politics, however, Lewis has usually remained in the background. He ran all the congressional campaigns of Richard Schweiker, the two-term senator who is slated to become secretary of health and human services. Lewis's only try at elective office was as an unsuccessful candidate for governor of Pennsylvania in 1974.

Perhaps surprisingly, much of Lewis's recent political activity has been decidedly anti-Reagan.

In 1976, he ran President Ford's primary campaign in Pennsylvania. At the Republican Convention in Kansas City, he held the delegations of Pennsylvania and several other states behind Ford, thus helping to thwart Reagan's late drive for the presidential nomination. Lewis remained with Ford even after Schweiker, a close friend, became Reagan's running mate.

When Reagan was assembling his campaign staff early in 1980, he remembered Lewis and asked him to run his primary effort in Pennsylvania. Despite his moderate leanings, Lewis agreed.

As the Republican Convention approached, Lewis gained admission to Reagan's inner circle. He strongly urged the selection of George Bush as the vice-presidential nominee. During the fall campaign, he was one of the leading advocates among Reagan's close advisers of the head-to-head debate with President Carter.

Reagan's growing confidence in Lewis was demonstrated early in the transition period when the Pennsylvania was placed in charge of political clearances of all potential appointees. It was Lewis who the Republican governors sought out when they gathered in Philadelphia for their post-election conference with lists of friends and supporters who they were pushing for administration posts. When many of those office seekers get their jobs, it will be Lewis who receives the political IOUs.

Lewis was also on hand when the Reagan inner circle began debating Cabinet appointments. Reagan reportedly told the group that he had already made up his mind on a few nominations and that he wanted certain other individuals in the Cabinet but would leave it up to his advisers to decide upon their departments. Lewis was in this second category.

So, while Lewis may not have high visibility as transportation secretary, he is expected by many insiders to wield substantial influence within the new administration. In fact, he may well end up as its leading moderate.

You can look for Drew Lewis to emerge as a major figure in Republican politics of the future.

Thomas Jefferson was one of the first Americans to rotate crops and employ contour plowing.

To Persistent Monterey Plainswomen, 54-49

Hereford Girls Drop 1st District Clash

By Mauri Montgomery
Brand Sports Editor

Beforehand, the Hereford girls' varsity cage team had a 20-1 record and a 19-game winning streak. Monterey rested at a similarly potent 19-1 mark.

Both forces reacted against each other here Tuesday night before a packed house and proved, true, the theory Energy equals Mass x the Speed of Light squared.

Hereford's consecutive game winning energy fell away after it failed to see the light at the end of the tunnel—uncompromising hopes for a win over last year's state finalist Monterey, flickered in the waning seconds of the final quarter to give Lubbock a complete equation 54-49.

Despite being held to less than overpowering footholds during three quarters of play by the consistently thwarting Hereford defense, the Plainswomen overcame a seven-point third period deficit in the fourth quarter to claim their first district victory.

The disappointing loss, sent the Whitefaces to an even 1-1 slate in opening league play.

"Monterey just did it when they had to and we didn't—we should have won the game because we're just as good a team as Monterey," noted HHS coach Larry Sowers following the close ordeal. "But we've never really played a game like this before."

"The one thing we have go-Monterey's Etheridge took possession of the ball on the rebound and in turn was fouled by Schumacher—ing for us this year is our experience, but our experience with games of this type is limited. Last year they beat us by 14 points in the first game and literally blew us away the second time—we just lost a little bit of our composure there at the end."

With 2:40 remaining in the final period and Monterey trailing by 49-46, MHS's Andrea Moore (5-11 post) managed to cap a trio of rebounded attempts under the basket to narrow Hereford's lead by one.

Then Mendy Ayuob, who had come of the bench only at intermittent times in the second half, took a wide-open pass from offensive stalwart Kamie Etheridge under the basket for a go-ahead layup with 1:20 left.

And it wasn't until less than 20 seconds showed on the board that Monterey put the finishing touches on the win. Ironically enough, it was Lubbock's fiery full-court press that turned the tide.

Hereford's Amy Schumacher, who had consistently dispelled the threat of Lubbock's pressing tactics by splitting it right up the middle, was fouled by pursuing Kamie Etheridge with 19 seconds left. Her ensuing one-and-one situation, like so many others Hereford tried in the final quarter, fell short of its mark.

Etheridge missed her charity attempt also, but the persistent Plainswomen finally completed one of several rebounded attempts from the field to take a 52-49 advantage with 1:16 remaining. Schumacher again fouled Etheridge in hopes that

Hereford might somehow have a final shot at the board, but the Monterey All-State guard pumped in both ends of free-throw show to give the Whitefaces their first loss in 19 games. And it was a sequence of events that humbled Monterey's head mentor Tim Tasker. "We really did have trouble on offense. Hereford took us completely out of our type of game in the first half, and almost shut us off completely in the third quarter. But we had dealt with that kind of pressure before and it paid off for us tonight at the end," he said of Monterey's fourth quarter surge.

"I can truthfully say that Hereford has been our toughest opponent this season—and that included South Oak Cliff and some of the other defending champions we've played earlier this year. They did a superb job on us defensively. But I'm also being truthful when I say we've seen better playing days ourselves."

"I told the kids before this game, that I thought we've played a tougher schedule than Hereford had, and that it would help us against them. And I think it did. Hereford lost a little of its poise near the end, just like we had during the third quarter. It just turned out that we were able to do what we had to do," he said.

Both teams, at times showing the echoing full-court rampages of college teams (Hereford hit 48.2 percent of its attempts from the floor), still managed to eliminate each other's efforts for total runaway offensive sprees during first half play.

The Whiteface's outshot Monterey by only one point in the first period despite brilliant long-distance bombs pumped in by Terri Harkins (Hereford's top scorer on the night with 20 points), Cathy Lane, Louise Mays (Lane and Mays hit eight points apiece), and the inside efforts of post Deborah Rogers (who netted six points in the conflict).

Monterey, led by Kamie Etheridge's 10-point spread in the second quarter, outscored Hereford 18-16. Hereford then dominated the third quarter solely 11-3 before faltering, 16-4 in the final stanza.

"Monterey is the type of team that makes you pay for any mistakes you commit and we had a few," said Sowers. "I don't think we're out of the race in this half by any means, but we sure needed to win this one—it was a lot easier to beat them here than it will be when we meet them there in the second game."

Mavericks Fall to Kansas City Attack

DALLAS (AP) — Many have given up on the chances of the Kansas City Kings to make the National Basketball Association playoffs this year, but coach Cotton Fitzsimmons disagrees.

"We feel we can get into the playoff even if others have written us off," Fitzsimmons said after his team jumped out to a 23-point lead in the first quarter and held off the Dallas Mavericks for a 104-91 victory Tuesday night.

"I was positive about the win tonight, especially since we have lost the last four in a row."

Kansas City, now 22-28, moved past Houston and Utah into second place behind Midwest Division frontrunner San Antonio.

"We've been struggling this year, but we want to get into the playoffs," said Phil Ford, who led Kansas City with 24 points, including 8 in the first quarter.

"Our team has the talent to play with anybody else, and I think if we get into the playoffs we'll fare very well," Ford added.

Otis Birdsong, the league's fourth-leading scorer, missed his third straight game with a bruised heel, but the Kings didn't need him. Kansas City hit 15 of 24 from the field (63 percent) the first quarter, with Ernie Grunfeld hitting 10 of his 19 points in the period and Scott Wedman 8 of his 16. Meanwhile, Dallas hit only one of its first eight shots to fall behind 8-0, had only 3 of 13 with 2:53 to play when they trailed 27-10 and finished the period with only 5 of 21 for 24 percent.

"We got about four good shots at the first, none of them fell and we were down by eight," Dallas coach Dick Motta said. "Something went through us. When it gets bad, it gets bad. Grunfeld played extremely well. That often happens when one of your top guys is out."

Grunfeld said the Kings "played real good defense" in the first half.

"We made 'em shoot a lot of 18-20 foot shots, and they weren't falling. We were getting the rebounds, and when we get the ball in Phil Ford's hands, he can do a lot of things with it," Grunfeld said.

Bum Phillips Appointment to Saints Staff Likely

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — With the resignation of General Manager Steve Rosenbloom, it appears likely that former Houston Oilers Coach Bum Phillips will be named head coach of the New Orleans Saints before the Super Bowl on Sunday.

Chances of an early announcement had dimmed over Senior Bowl week as Phillips, Rosenbloom and Saints owner John Mecom Jr. said there were still several details to be ironed out before an agreement could be reached.

Although all three repeatedly brushed it off as an easily resolved detail earlier, the issue of who would control team personnel apparently became an impassable barrier.

As coach and general manager at Houston, Phillips had total control of drafts and trades. Rosenbloom said he had that authority with the Saints, working through Dick Steinberg, his hand-picked vice president for personnel.

"I already have a general manager," Mecom said earlier, when he was asked if the issue of player personnel could be a stumbling block to hiring Phillips.

Mecom, Rosenbloom and Steinberg met Tuesday. When Rosenbloom could not get a commitment to building through the draft, with him and Steinberg continuing to make personnel decisions, they both quit, the AP learned.

Their brief statement made no mention of the struggle. None of those involved could be reached for followup comment.

The resignation statement said:

"We came to the Saints with a mutual understanding and agreement in philosophy with the ownership on how to construct a stable winning organization.

"It has been apparent for some time that there exists a difference of opinion regarding how these goals should be approached. Under these circumstances, we feel that this decision is the best for all concerned.

"We do not feel that further comment on the situation is necessary."

Last Saturday, Mecom gave the first hints that he was becoming disenchanted with Rosenbloom. He said he didn't like Rosenbloom's describing the Saints' 8-8 record in 1979 as "cosmetic," among other things.

Rosenbloom joined the Saints after that 1979 season, the team's best ever, and before this year's skid to 1-15. He said his job was never in jeopardy but joined with Mecom in firing Coach Dick Nolan with four games left in the season.

Mecom has not announced that he is going to hire Phillips, but he said Monday that Phillips was 99 percent sure to be the next New Orleans coach.

No news conference has been scheduled to announce the new coach.

Rosenbloom grew up in the NFL, son of the late Carroll Rosenbloom, owner of the Baltimore Colts and later the Los Angeles Rams.

After his father's death, the control of the Rams passed to Rosenbloom's stepmother. They had personal differences and Rosenbloom left Los Angeles and joined the Saints.

The Houston Chronicle

quoted Mecom as saying Monday he had "decided on Bum" and an official announcement will be made as soon as he confers with Pete Rozelle, National Football League commissioner.

Mecom said he had been unable to reach Rozelle, who reportedly was in Washington for President Reagan's inauguration.

Phillips said he was looking forward to tackling his second rebuilding job.

"Anybody can do good in one place," he said. "I'm looking forward to the opportunity to do good in two places. I've said it a million times, but that's what Don Shula did in Baltimore and Miami. Now John Mecom has given me the opportunity to do it."

Phillips was fired after the Oilers lost to the Oakland Raiders 27-7 in the wild card game of the American Football Conference championship playoffs.

The announced reason for the firing was a difference of opinion over whether he should have an offensive coordinator. Phillips had a career record of 59-38 with the Oilers.

Texas A&M Drops Fourth SWC Game to Rice

By The Associated Press
At the start of the college basketball season, Texas A&M was supposed to be the team to beat in the Southwest Conference.

And that's exactly what's been happening so far. Just about everybody in the SWC is beating the Aggies these days, including Rice Tuesday night by a 54-50 score.

"This was a tremendous win for Rice University," said Coach Mike Schuler. "Over the year, I have felt we would be a good team and do well. And tonight was a big one for us. We haven't beaten

A&M since I have been the coach but tonight we didn't back off."

The loss was the fourth in five SWC games for Texas A&M. And the Owls beat the Aggies' great front line to the punch, holding superstars Vernon Smith and Rynn Wright to a mere total of 11 points.

"I thought our guards really battled," noted Texas A&M Coach Shelby Metcalf. "We just didn't get what we needed out of our front line. I don't believe we'll win a game that Rynn and Vernon get 11 points combined. We just depend on them too much."

Only one ranked team was in action Tuesday night in a relatively light schedule. In that game, No. 10 Maryland beat Maryland-Eastern Shore 81-65.

Kenny Austin scored 20 points for Rice and a sagging, aggressive zone defense did the rest for the Owls. It was the first time that Rice has beaten Texas A&M in 15 games, dating back to 1973.

The Owls led by as much as 11 points early in the second half, but had to blunt a furious Aggie rally late in the game. Reggie Roberts led the Aggie scoring with 14 points, 10 of them in the second-half rally. "Kenny Austin was the key to this win but all of them deserve credit because that was a very good basketball team we beat tonight," said Schuler. "It was a credit to our kids that they withstood the charge by the Aggies in the second half. I was concerned, but did not feel that the Aggies could continue hitting as well as they did in that stretch."

Metcalf: "Kenny Austin is their worst foul shooter, but when we fouled him he stepped up there and knocked them in. Rice played well. Austin has really improved. I didn't realize he was so quick. He was the difference in the ballgame."

Buck Williams and Ernest Graham combined for 45 points as Maryland broke away in the second half to defeat Maryland-Eastern Shore. Williams scored 24 points and grabbed 15 rebounds as the Terps improved their record to 13-3. Graham added 21 points.

"It's hard to get up for a game like this," Williams said. "In a way, we were focusing on Saturday's game against Notre Dame."

Maryland plays the 13th-ranked Irish in a nationally televised game Saturday. Notre Dame beat the Terps by one point last year. Elsewhere, Kris Anderson's 15 points carried Florida State past Jacksonville 59-50; Kevin Compton's two free throws with one second left lifted Rhode Island over Pitt 62-60 and Darrell Browder's 25 points paced TCU over SMU 53-43.

76ers Fall to Pistons

By The Associated Press
With 3½ minutes to go in Pontiac, Mich., everything was going according to form. The Philadelphia 76ers, the winningest team in the National Basketball Association, held a 75-71 lead over the Detroit Pistons, who had lost their last nine games. And then, suddenly, the Sixers fell apart. They were held scoreless for the remainder of the game as the Pistons reeled off the final 12 points and walked away with a stunning 83-75 victory.

The 75 points tied the lowest output ever for Philadelphia, which also was held to 75 in games against Cleveland in 1973 and Washington in 1974.

The loss trimmed Philadelphia's lead over the second-place Celtics in the Atlantic Division to just one game.

In other games, the San Antonio Spurs edged the Phoenix Suns 119-112 in overtime, the Washington Bullets beat the Utah Jazz 121-113.

'Capillary Water' Could Offer Area New Hope

In an unprecedented investigation, the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District is seeking to confirm the availability of additional ground-water reserves still in storage in the dewatered areas of the Ogallala Formation which would come near to or equal the quantity of water already pumped from storage by gravity (approximately 200 million acre feet). If the assumption is confirmed, the second phase of this study will include methods to recover this water.

The water that is estimated to still be in storage in the dewatered section is "capillary water" held by surface tension around the clay, sand and gravel deposits of the formation already exhausted of its "free water" reserves by gravity pumping. The amount of water that hydrologists speculate may be contained as "capillary water" in the formation could rival the estimated 500 million acre feet of water originally thought to be recoverable from the Ogallala Formation in Texas. If their theories prove correct, an additional 500 million acre feet of water may still be clinging to the wetted sands and other materials in the geologic deposit when the formation will no longer yield water to wells through the natural forces of gravity. The value of this additional water, if capturable by some method of secondary recovery and estimated at $100 per acre foot, could be as much as fifty billion dollars.

One idea for recovering this capillary water involves the drilling of small diameter wells down into the formation to below a clay lense, sealing the well and then injecting compressed air into the wet sand section below. This will theoretically result in the release of the capillary water, allowing it to move by the force of gravity down to the existing water table for capture.

A simple air compressor propelled by a wind driven device similar to the old time windchargers on the High Plains, could provide power for such a secondary recovery operation, and take advantage of the natural winds of the area to conserve energy.

The total volume of water in storage in the Ogallala Formation can be calculated as the product of the volume of saturated material times the porosity, (or the ratio expressed in percentage of void space to total volume). Unfortunately, much of the water will not drain from the formation material by the forces of gravity for capture by wells. Therefore, the quantity of water in storage that is available to wells by gravity flow is computed by multiplying the volume of saturated material by the specific yield (the quantity of water that the formation will yield under the force of gravity if it is first saturated and then allowed to drain - the ratio being expressed in percentage of this water to the volume of material drained). The specific yield of the Ogallala Formation in Texas is about 15 percent. On hundred feet of saturated material would contain about 15 acre feet of water per surface acre. An acre foot of water is 325,851 gallons.

Water District Measuring Deaf Smith County's Wells

The High Plains Water District has begun its annual program of measuring the depth to water levels in more than 900 observation wells scattered throughout the fifteen county District area.

Deaf Smith County irrigators may see a blue and white Water District vehicle in the vicinity of their property in the coming weeks while Dwight Adams of the district staff measures the 88 wells in the District's observation network in Deaf Smith County.

Since most of the wells to be measured are operational irrigation wells, the month of January was chosen to begin observations in order to allow for a dormant period and well recovery from the cone of depression developed during the pumping season. Wells will be measured to find the depth to "static" water level. After measuring, each well will receive a red District identification tag for the owner's information.

Data gained from this program is used for decline rate projections, determining the amount of water left in storage, and very importantly, as a basis for the income-tax depletion allowance claims on landowner's tax returns.

The annual measurement program is expected to be completed in February, weather permitting. Data on individual wells will be available within a few days of completed readings, but tabulated data on the entire network is not expected until mid-year.

Conkwright is Re-Elected To Water District Board

LUBBOCK - A.W. Webb Gober and James (Jim) Conkwright have been elected to the Board of Directors of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 according to complete but unofficial returns from the balloting conducted on Saturday, January 17. Also elected were twenty-one (21) County Committeemen.

Gober was elected from Director's Precinct Three which is composed of Bailey, Castro and Parmer Counties for his fifth term on the Board. He lives northeast of Farwell and farms 480 acres of irrigated land.

Conkwright, from Hereford, will be serving as a director for his second term and is representing Director's Precinct Four which is composed of the water district areas in Armstrong, Deaf Smith, Potter and Randall Counties. Conkwright is engaged in the production of registered Hereford cattle and in farm production. J.F. Martin, Troy Sublett and Tom Robinson have been elected as County Committeemen from Deaf Smith County.

The three men will serve four-year terms on the committee that represents Deaf Smith County residents at water district meetings and activities.

They will join Bill Cleavinger of Wildorado and W.L. Davis, Jr. of Hereford on the five-member committee which handles approval of water well drilling permits and other related activities in Deaf Smith County.

New Ag Secretary Must Win Support

COLLEGE STATION - "The greatest challenge the new Secretary of Agriculture will likely face is winning support for his producer-oriented policy proposals within other agencies of government."

Several of the major issues confronting Agriculture Secretary Designate John Block are of direct interest to other government departments, according to Dr. Ronald D. Knutson.

Knutson is an economist in policy and marketing with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. He also has been serving on the staff of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Transition Task Force for the incoming Reagan administration.

Knutson said agricultural issues where conflicts are likely to occur among agencies of government include lifting of the Soviet grain embargo, increases in food prices, and proposals to increase price and income supports that have the potential for adding to government outlays.

Knutson, in an address before the Texas Farmers Union in Dallas Jan. 9, said that two major changes will occur within the USDA as a result of the election of Ronald Reagan as President and appointment of Block as Agriculture Secretary.

"First, USDA policy proposals and decisions will be more market-oriented. In this situation, forces of supply and demand are the prime determinants of farm prices and income," said Knutson.

This contrasts directly with the Carter administration farm policies where prices of major food and feed grains have been maintained in a relatively narrow range, mainly through low release and call levels within the government-controlled but farmer-held reserve, the economist explained.

"Second, USDA policy proposals and decisions will be more producer-oriented. In this type of farm policy, decisions are made primarily on the basis of their impact upon producers. This also contrasts with the Carter administration where policy decisions have been heavily influenced by consumers and consumer impacts.

"In other words, the trend toward consumerization of the USDA will be interrupted," Knutson said.

These changes will have significant implications for farmers and their organizations, the economist noted.

Vaccine Reduces Incidences of Shipping Fever

LUBBOCK - The incidence of shipping fever, a plague of the cattle industry and particularly feedlot operators, can be greatly reduced by a vaccine being developed at Texas Tech University.

Dr. Clarence L. Baugh, associate professor of biological sciences at Texas Tech, is doing research on a combination vaccine that combats the most common bacteria involved in the shipping fever and provides cattle a high degree of immunity against several dangerous bacteria species in one treatment.

San Angelo veterinarian

Dr. W.H. Wohler is assisting in the project by providing Baugh with tissue and serum samples from feedlots throughout the state. Samples are taken from animals which have died from pasterellosis and salmonellosis, the two most common forms of shipping fever found in Texas.

Wohler often brings the samples personally from feedlots in Pecos, Hereford and other areas, travelling by plane. Baugh meets the veterinarian at the airport and quickly takes the sample to his Texas Tech lab, where he begins streaking for culture growths. By the next day he can have the shipping fever bacterium isolated.

"Wohler is getting the advantages of a laboratory, and I am getting the advantage of having somebody in the field," Baugh said.

The three main organisms the researchers are battling are Pasteurella multocida, Pasteurella hemolytica, and Salmonella typhimurium, bacteria which cause either death or significant weight loss in cattle.

Cattle become susceptible to infection by these organisms after stress, especially during shipping.

Baugh's combination vaccine contains these three bacteria, and others. Animals injected with small doses of the dead bacteria develop antibodies in their blood stream that produce immunity against later infection by those bacteria.

Field observations showed that Baugh's combination vaccine, prepared as a water in oil emulsion and injected subcutaneously, was highly successful in preventing shipping fever.

The treatment reduced the incidence of the disease from 30 or 40 percent to 1 percent or less, and reduced deaths from as high as 10 percent to 0.9 percent or zero.

Baugh and Wohler have not found significant differences in the occurrence of difference types of shipping fever in different parts of the state. They attribute this fact to a common source of the disease.

"Most of our cattle are coming through sale barns in the southeastern part of the United States," Baugh said. "They pick up the same diseases."

The vaccines Baugh is using are not new, the researcher pointed out, but a product that combines them in one emulsion is unique. The vaccine is being marketed only in Texas as Poly-Bac B. Texas Vet Lab, Inc., is funding Baugh's Research.

Wohler and Baugh published experimental data on the shipping fever vaccine in the November 1980 issue of "Modern Veterinary Practices."

HYF Farm Sale

Seeking Items

The Hereford Young Farmers chapter is continuing to seek consignments of equipment for a farm machinery auction to be sponsored by the local chapter March 7.

The auction is tentatively scheduled to get underway at 10 a.m. on that date and will be held on South Highway 385 in the area fronting Case Power and Equipment Co. and New Holland Hereford.

Ted Walling of Walling and Associates has donated his services to the local Young Farmers as auctioneer for the event.

Young Farmers officials point out that the auction will allow area farmers who have only a few items of equipment for sale to place the equipment on the block in a large-scale auction expected to draw numerous bidders.

The Young Farmers will receive a six percent commission on auction items and funds received as a result of the commission will be used to defray costs of advertising the event.

Any leftover proceeds will be used by the Young Farmers for their high school scholarship fund and other activities.

Area farmers who have items they wish to have included in the auction should contact Gerald Marnell at 289-5355 or Ray Schlabs at 364-5825.

Producers with consignments for the auction are urged to contact Young Farmers officials as soon as possible in order that their items may be included on the sale bill for the auction.

TCGA Meeting Set for Jan. 30

DIMMITT - The Texas Corn Growers Association will hold its eighth annual membership meeting at the Castro County Expo Building here Jan. 30.

The meeting will get underway at 9:30 a.m. and will proceed under the theme of "Marketing for Higher Prices."

Rep. Kent Hance of the 19th Congressional District and Reagan V. Brown, Texas commissioner of agriculture will be the featured speakers for the morning session of the gathering.

A free barbecue lunch will be provided at noon with the business meeting and afternoon program to follow.

Included in the business meeting will be a discussion of recommendations regarding legislative action needed to accelerate the development of the alcohol fuel industry.

Resolutions and policy statements will also be considered during the meeting.

Charles Hottel, Castro County Extension agent, will head a panel of speakers for the afternoon program.

Other speakers will include Leon New, area irrigation specialist; Dr. Ray Thompson, area entomologist, and Dr. William E. Black, marketing specialist.

Cotton Quotas Okayed

WASHINGTON (AP) - Growers of extra long staple cotton have approved for the 28th consecutive year federal marketing quotas for their 1981 crop.

Of 854 ballots cast in a mail referendum last month, 733 were for quotas and 121 against an approval of 85.8

percent for continuing quotas on ELS cotton, as the department calls it. A majority of at least two-thirds is required for quotas to be approved.

The only ELS cotton grown in the United States is in Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

PFIZER GENETICS F40A AND S33 SORGHUMS GROW LIKE NOBODY'S BUSINESS.

If you aren't familiar with dependable, high-yielding Pfizer Genetics sorghum, you should be.

Like Pfizer Genetics F40A. This full-season forage sorghum hybrid produces outstanding ensilage-type sweet forage and yields in excess of 30 tons/acre. Look for a large, semi-compact head.

And like Pfizer Genetics S33 Sorghum-Sudangrass. Capable of growing over 12 inches in height a week, S33 has the potential to produce up to 1,000 lbs. of high-protein green feed per acre per day. High head-to-stem ratio, too.

See me today for all your sorghum needs.

In a year of product shortages, we are in better shape than our competitors. Let us meet your seed needs. WE'VE GOT IT DOWN TO A SCIENCE.

Whenever I read the obituaries I cluck to myself, "You're right-again." Sign this letter--Bay Area Observer

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have finally figured out why so many women outlive their husbands. It has nothing to do with the way men are put together physically or emotionally, or the amount of stress they endure. It is simply God's way of rewarding women for all the years they had to put up with onery, contrary, hard-headed, spoiled, selfish, irrational, demanding, moody men.

Oh, yes, he can be amusing and delightful-when he wants something, especially sex. (Why is it that men rarely get headaches?) God, in his loving kindness, takes all things into account and rewards these long-suffering wives by removing the "thorn" from their sides and giving them about six or seven years of richly earned freedom.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Thank you for your "mature" letter. It sure showed a lot of class. According to my pocket calculator, you started to date 14-year-old boys at the age of 12. I wish you both lots of luck. You are going to need it.

DEAR ANN: I have a problem with my father. Every time he tells me to do something, he always adds, "Heard?" I'll give you some examples: "Lock the door behind you, heard?" "Wear

DEAR MAZOO: Deeply ingrained conversational habits are very difficult to break. This sort of criticism might come off as being super-critical and disrespectful. You'd better learn to live with it.

I had an aunt Ray who lived in St. Pasy years ago. She used to tack "You know, see?" on the end of every sentence. It must have grated on the ears of some people but my sisters and I saw the humor in it and it never bothered us. Maybe this is a way for you to go. Try it.

What are the do's and don'ts of teaching your child about the birds and the bees? Let Ann Landers' new booklet, "How, What, and When to Tell Your Child About Sex," give you the ground rules. For your copy send 50 cents along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Ann Landers Relief for Women

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You must be getting hardening of the arteries of the brain or rheumatism from old age. We are two 13-year-old girls who think your advice is getting moldy, and it's time for you to retire.

You told a 13-year-old girl from Tennessee that she was too young to be dating. What should girls be doing at that age - hanging onto their mothers' skirts?

We both have been dating since last year. Our steadies are 15-year-old guys who have permits to drive. We are not cheap or loud. We are very mature and have a lot of class. Your advice is rotten.-Former Readers

Newspaper Bible

"AM I THE ONE?" Then Judas Iscariot, one of His disciples, went to the chief priests to arrange to betray Jesus to them.

When the chief priests heard why he had come, they were excited and happy and promised him a reward. So he began looking for the right time and place to betray Jesus. On the first day of the Passover, the day the lambs were sacrificed, His disciples asked Him where He wanted to go to eat the traditional Passover supper.

He sent two of them into Jerusalem to make the arrangements. "As you are walking along," He told them, "you will see a man coming towards you carrying a pot of water. Follow him. At the house he enters, tell the man in charge, 'Our Master sent us to see the room you have ready for us, where we will eat the Passover supper this evening!'"

He will take you upstairs to a large room all set up. Prepare our supper there." So the two disciples went on ahead into the city and found everything as Jesus had said, and prepared the Passover.

In the evening Jesus arrived with the other disciples, and as they were sitting around the table eating, Jesus said, "I solemnly declare that one of you will betray Me, one of you who is here eating with Me." A great sadness swept over them, and one by one they asked Him, "Am I the one?" He replied, "It is one of you twelve eating with Me now. I must die, as the prophets declared long ago; but, oh, the misery ahead for the man by whom I am betrayed. Oh, that he had never been born!" Mark 14:10-21

Records show the first clock was built about 1360. It was made of iron with a 500-pound weight and only one hand. It was off about two hours a day.

Health Officials Stumped By Thallium Poisonings in Bay Area

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP)—Texas health officials are stumped by at least 10 cases of poisoning from thallium, a rare metal banned from consumer products in 1972.

"It's just something you don't see everyday," said Ron Tisdell of the University of Texas Poison Control Center in Galveston.

"We've probably seen more cases in the past several months than have been reported in the past 20 or 30 years in medical literature."

He told the Corpus Christi Caller of 10 confirmed Gulf Coast cases reaching from Beaumont to Corpus Christi but declined to identify the people or exact locations involved.

Thallium is a rare, poisonous element normally used in gasoline antiknock compounds, photoelectric cells and rat poisons but banned from its former use in such consumer products as hair dye for eight years.

What puzzles officials is that the metal is suddenly appearing in relatively large quantities.

"It's honestly like a jigsaw puzzle," said Rich Miller, with the Occupational Safety and Health Administration in Houston.

Tisdell said the poison attacks the central nervous system and that little is known about what tolerance humans may have for it.

Jan Murphy, 37, of nearby Portland, was one of the first victims officials found, and her case led them to find nine others.

She said her problems began about three years ago when she and her family moved a new house.

After several months her hair began to fall out, her toenails decayed and her feet became numb.

"You could stick a needle all the way in it and I couldn't feel it," she said, but her doctors could not tell her what was wrong until December 1979, when a neurologist diagnosed thallium poisoning.

Since then, tests on her husband and children have shown traces of the rare metal.

Tisdell said the substance was also discovered in an elderly woman who died last month in a Galveston hospital. He said no autopsy was performed and no link between the death and the metal poisoning could be established.

Charles H. Gillman, with the Texas Department of Health Resources here, said his office has "tested for just about everything you can think of."

"Right now, we're no better off than when we started," he said.

Gillman said his office conducted extensive tests at the Murphy home.

"We ran tests on the insulation and the dirt in the area, the water and all the medications ... rat bait, hair spray, foodstuffs — just about everything you could think of. It all came up negative."

Miller said checks for possible industrial sources of the metal also have been unproductive.

"We are trying to organize a concerted effort to screen these people and narrow down the possible sources," Tisdell said.

Symptoms of the poisoning include loss of hair, black pigment deposits at the hair root, numbness in the legs and feet, chest pain, stomach cramps and hysteresis. Anyone showing three or more symptoms "should be evaluated," said Tisdell.
