Congressmen Outraged at Hostage Treatment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Denouncing Iranian captors as bums, barbarians and blackmailers, Congress is reacting with outrage at reports of brutality against the American hostages during their 14½ months in captivity.

Two resolutions were introduced Thursday encouraging President Reagan to renege on the deal that freed the 52 Americans. Other congressmen urged Reagan to plan swift, harsh measures against any future hostage seizures.

"I think we have been humiliated by a bunch of bums and I don't think the nation's honor hangs on the thin thread of any agreement with people like that," Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., said.

But while denouncing the reports of Iranian beatings, death threats and indignities against the hostages, many senators and House members said both Congress and Reagan should let tempers cool before deciding whether to carry out Jimmy Carter's deal that brought the captives to freedom.

Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker called Iran's treatment of the hostages "barbaric" and said the Senate Foreign Relations Committee "will inquire fully into the brutal treatment" but only after "the wounds heal a little."

"The wounds are fresh; the story is not complete," Baker said. "We should calmly and carefully listen to the tale of horror and atrocity."

Then, he said, "we'll decide whether it has some impact on the validity and durability of those agreements."

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, said while he has made no final judgment, he believes the deal must be kept.

"It's a question of honor," Percy said. "A deal's a deal."

The resolutions that would offer Reagan congressional support in backing out of the hostage agreement were introduced by Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., and Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill.

"Rewarding terrorists and blackmailers is a dangerous precedent," DeConcini said.

"It is an established matter of criminal law that agreements made under the duress of blackmail have no legal validity."

Findley said that when Carter negotiated the deal freeing the hostages "he did not know how cruelly some had been treated" and Reagan "has ample justification for setting aside any part of the treaty which he deems inimical to U.S. interests."

Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, reserved comment on the agreement "until I study the implications."

Sen. Harrison Schmitt, R-N.M., said: "I frankly think we should reconsider whether we can fully accept this agreement."

But Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., said Reagan should take his time and make any decision on the hostage deal part of a comprehensive U.S. policy against such terrorism in the future.

Man Killed in Recovery Of Plane Stolen Here

Law enforcement authorities have located a single engine airplane stolen from the Hereford Airport during the Christmas holidays and at least one suspect in the theft has been killed in the recovery effort.

The plane, a Cessna 210 owned by Jim Sears and Jim Easley of Hereford, was located last night on a farm to market road about 32 miles north of Pecos according to Travis McPherson, Deaf Smith County sheriff.

Details surrounding the locating of the plane were sketchy at Brand presstime and local law enforcement authorities were attempting to obtain further information from Customs officials and the Culberson and Reeves County sheriff's departments.

Law enforcement officials apparently were involved in a shootout with the plane's thieves and one man was killed as he walked into the turning propeller of the aircraft.

A second man was apparently shot by law officers while two others were also taken into custody and several remained at large, according to word from the Pecos area.

Identity of those involved in the incident was unavailable at Brand presstime, although local law officials were attempting to get further information and readying to travel to the Pecos area to help in recovering the plane.

"Law enforcement officials in Pecos notified us last night that the plane was down and (See PLANE, Page 2)

Region Bandsmen To Give Concert

Bandsmen from two Hereford junior high schools and the high school will join other All-Region bandsmen from within this region to perform in concert Saturday at Canyon.

Members of La Plata and Stanton bands will perform in concert Saturday at 2 p.m. and the high school students will perform at 5:30 p.m.

These students competed in an All-Region contest in the later part of 1980 and all those named to the honor in this region will perform.

Parents and local residents are urged to attend the concerts which will be held at Mary Moody Hall on the WT Campus. No admission will be charged.

According to Randy Vaughn, each band will perform about five selections for the public. Frank Piersol of University of Iowa serves as this year's clinician.

The students are in Canyon today for a full day of rehearsal. They will rehearse again Saturday prior to the concert.

All-Region high school students include Demita Goforth, Annabeth Friemel, Stay Schroder, Shirley Hutton, Paula Alexander, Annette Lafuente, Amy Griffin, Grady Brown, Nedra Fuhrmann, Barbie Koelzer, Jill Paschel, Raymond Aguilar, Bruce Wright, Renee Latham, Mike Caudle and Debra Rogers.

$8,000 in Jewelry Stolen from L & B

Burglars netted over $8000 in jewelry from an attack on L&B Enterprises, 404 E. 7th, late Wednesday night or early Thursday morning.

Police said burglars pried open to the garage-type door in the rear of the building and made off with gold and silver rings, several belt buckles and other assorted jewelry.

Several good fingerprints were found at the scene, and police are still investigating the case.

Betty Danley, 133 Star, told police that sometime between 8 and 11 p.m., a light beige men's jacket valued at $312 was stolen from a rack in Dickies restaurant.

Jerry Shipman, 121 Fir, day at Rainbow Car Wash, 417 N. 25 Mile Ave., and was washing his car yesterday discovered four floor mats he had left to dry had been stolen.

Police said the mats were valued at $125.

Joyce Lyons, 119 Douglas, told police a briefcase valued at $150 was stolen from her car sometime before Christmas.

Police investigated two minor accidents yesterday afternoon about ten minutes apart.

An accident at Park and Avenue H about 3:20 p.m. resulted in slight injuries to a woman who refused hospitalization and minor damages to two cars.

Rows of mannikin heads of varying hue line the shelves and tables of Hereford High School's cosmetology lab.

Eleven girls concentrating on rolling rainbow-colored rollers into plastic heads of hair and brilliantly shadowed eyes are practicing for state cosmetology examinations.

The state boards are top-most in their minds and daily practice in skills will prepare them for the standardized skills and theory test.

The cosmetology program, a two-year program taught by Billie Young, prepares students for a career as beauticians or teaches them cosmetic skills.

"Some of these kids couldn't even go to college without vocational training to give them a job," Kenneth Helms, Vocational Administrator for HISD said.

He explained that several Hereford graduates have worked their way through college by working part-time at a trade or skill learned while in the vocational program at HHS.

Young said a girl now attending West Texas State saved $1000 in ten weeks last summer after she passed her state cosmetology exam.

The average salary for a beginning beautician is $150, Young said, and most girls in the Hereford area can make that much per week easily.

During the two year program, the students get over 1000 hours of laboratory practice and theory to qualify for state boards.

Practice in shampoos, roller placement, pin curling, haircuts permanent waves and hair coloring is included in the four semester course, Young said.

Cosmetology services are available to the community—students will shampoo and set hair for $1.25, cut hair without charge, and give permanent waves for $10.

Young said appointments can be made for patron services by calling 364-4421.

While some may feel nervous about letting someone in a training program cut their hair, this reporter received a haircut of superior quality

Thursday.

The students are supervised in their work on patrons, and each girl will have at least one appointment a week, and sometimes as many as three.

Most appointments are handled by senior students who have over 500 practice hours.

Junior students in the three-hour block classes receive one hour of theory and two hours of lab practice, senior students use the entire three hours for laboratory practice.

During the three-hour morning block, junior students receive one hour of theory instruction and two hours of lab practice.

This year, a male student has enrolled in the cosmetology program for the first time and, "is doing quite well," according to Young.

"He got interested in the program by french braiding his sister's hair and just thought it was something he'd like to work at," Young said.

He does get teased, but the girls in the program are the first to take his side, she con-

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says we usually persuade others more by the depth of our conviction and our enthusiasm than by either logic or proof.

In times of trouble no words, no matter how magnificent, can match a helping hand.

The return of the hostages from Iran, coupled with the inauguration of a new President, made Jan. 20, 1981 a date to remember in American history.

The hostage situation had Americans from all walks of life holding their breaths in anticipation for several days. When the news came that the hostages were free, it pulled the nation together for a joyous experience that has been unequalled in many years.

We think President Carter and his State Department deserve our appreciation for their constant efforts and the final victory. And, we believe President Reagan's veiled threats helped force the Iranians into accepting the terms.

There will be some second-guessers about the terms, especially now that it has been revealed that some hostages received brutal treatment at the hands of Iranians.

But, for now, we are content in the fact that the 52 Americans are safe and headed home. It was a red-letter day filled with yellow ribbons.

One statistic on the makeup of the new Congress was largely overlooked the other day when our legislative body reconvened in Washington.

There are 34 fewer lawyers representing us in Congress this year than two years ago, and many of us think that's a step in the right direction.

We don't have anything against lawyers and we need some of them in Austin and Washington. But we think voters have put far too many of them in our legislative halls. It's not their fault, of course, it's just that more of them run for office and are elected.

According to U.S. News and World Report, our new House of Representatives contains 186 lawyers, 117 businessmen, 42 educators, 29 public officials, 20 farmers and ranchers, 3 dentists or doctors, and 3 preachers.

Over in the Senate, there are 57 lawyers, 23 businessmen, 5 educators, and 5 farmers or ranchers. The Senate also has an astronaut, a pro athlete, an airline pilot, a Navy admiral, a judge, and a veterinarian.

New County Agent Aide Basically 'A Country Girl'

By DENISE SMITH
Staff Writer

Bubbly, 22-year-old Penny Cribbs opened the doors to her new career Jan. 1 when she entered the county courthouse, walked a flight of stairs and entered a small cubicle designated for the assistant county agent.

Enthusiastic about life and people in general, Ms. Cribbs assumed her new title with anxiety.

According to a team of extension service personnel who interviewed the vivacious woman, Ms. Cribbs is "a person who enjoys working with people and children, maintains high values and morals, and is a professional."

The assistant county agent, a former Texas Tech University student, was born in Amarillo and raised in Channing. Graduating from high school in 1976, she attended West Texas State University for a semester when she quit and traveled to Hawaii for six months.

Living in Honolulu with family friends, Ms. Cribbs was employed as a secretary by Adrian Designs, a company which wholesales in jewelry.

Missing Texas and deciding she wanted to go back to school, Ms. Cribbs returned home where she began studies at Tech. Choosing a major in home economics, she received her degree in that field with a speciality in child development in December of 1980.

Formerly a speech and drama major, Ms. Cribbs previous participation in 4-H for nine years, and her love for children and people prompted her to enter the field.

Her interest in 4-H first leaned to clothing projects, which attracted her to entering the field of fashion design and merchandising.

Taking a home and family living course at Tech, Ms. Cribbs was honored to teach a child development course her last year at the University. She also worked for the Department of Human Resources, an opportunity available through Tech, training day care workers for the Lubbock, Plainview and Levelland area.

"My previous extension agents were very influential in my life. I wanted a job where I could meet people," Ms. Cribbs stated.

Receiving a phone call from Louise Walker, county agent, Ms. Cribbs immediately came to Hereford for her interview. The District Extension Agent offered the Hereford position to the young woman and the Deaf Smith County commissioners approved her hiring for the post.

"I think my mission work during college and my participation in 4-H when I was younger had a great deal to do with my obtaining this position," the assistant agent stated.

Senate Resolution

Honors Daniel

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Two senators who were close friends of the late Price Daniel Jr. have eulogized the slain former House speaker as a "memorable leader" who was the heir to a unique family tradition of public service.

Daniel, 39, died of gunshot wounds Monday at his Liberty home and was buried Wednesday with numerous legislators attending the funeral.

His father is a former governor, United States senator, state attorney general and state Supreme Court justice.

The Senate adopted a resolution and adjourned for the weekend in Daniel's memory Thursday.

Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, said Daniel "will go down in the history of the state as dedicated to opening up state government as never before in the history of the state."

"It's fitting that we pause to remember a man who did make his mark on this state, particularly in the legislative process," said Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, who was assistant presiding officer of the House under Daniel.

Daniel was elected speaker in 1973 in the wake of the Sharpstown Bank scandal and pushed through several reforms, including open meetings, open records, an ethics law and a lobby registration law.

Parker said Daniel's "ideals forced upon this Legislature — literally — the will of the people" for "openness, honesty and integrity" in government.

The resolution co-sponsored by Truan and Parker said Daniel guided reform legislation through the House "with both rectitude and scrupulous fairness admired even by those otherwise minded."

Both senators were in the House with Daniel in 1969-1975. They were elected to the Senate in 1976.

Houston Traffic Called Intimidating

HOUSTON (AP)— Col. James B. Adams, director of the Department of Public Safety, says everytime "I drive in Houston I am absolutely intimidated by the traffic."

"I feel I could just put my car in neutral and get sucked right on in without touching my accelerator," Adams said.

If the traffic problem in Houston could be solved, he said, the entire state would benefit.

Adams explained, "the state gets 1,000 new licensed drivers each day and one-third of them are in Harris County. If you have success here, then we have success over the state."

There appears to be little concern, the state official said, over the state's traffic problems. "We kill 86 people a week in Texas and hardly any outcry is demonstrated over that."

In the last five years, he said, Texas has had a 22 percent increase in licensed drivers, 20 percent increase in motor vehicles, 22 percent increase in the number of miles driven, but only a 2.5 percent increase in the number of highway patrolmen.

"California has three times as many highway patrolmen and one-half as many miles to patrol, but I don't find much real support in the Texas Legislature for increasing the size of our highway patrol," he said during a Thursday speech to a group of highway engineers.

Houston Flu Cases Decrease

HOUSTON (AP) — The number of influenza cases in Houston is decreasing but scientists at the Baylor College of Medicine Influenza Research Center are puzzled over a possible new strain of virus.

Dr. W. Paul Glezen, an epidemiologist at the center, said Thursday the epidemic appears to be on the way out. But, he said, 16 samples of a newer virus have been sent to National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta for evaluation.

Glezen said, "the variant is so new it hasn't been named and it needs much more checking."

The epidemiologist said it was possible that people already felled by one type of flu virus could be stricken again with a different strain.

About 400 cases of influenza were confirmed in Houston since the current outbreak started in October.

Glezen said, "I had thought the epidemic might not peak until the last week of January. But unless something strange occurs it looks like we are on the downward curve."

Clements Addresses Legislature

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements' budget director says the governor has not given up on direct tax relief even though he offered no specific ideas on the subject in his "state of the state" address to the Legislature.

The governor made only one proposal Thursday for soaking up the treasury surplus: create a State Water Trust Fund as a savings account against a future water shortage.

His $26.2 billion 1982-83 budget leaves a $300 million surplus, based on Comptroller Bob Bullock's latest revenue forecast. It is $500 million below the Legislative Budget Board's spending proposal, which exceeds estimated state income by $200 million.

Paul Wrotenbery, the governor's budget director, briefed reporters on Clements' spending proposal Thursday afternoon and said his boss' attitude toward tax relief was wait-and-see.

"We found several ways to offer tax reductions, none of which was free of problems or concerns. ... Since we don't know the amount of the surplus now, he wants flexibility to do it later," Wrotenbery said.

Paul Clements believes that his budget ultimately would leave $1.4 billion in unspent revenue that could be used for tax cuts and the water fund.

The governor said the state's booming population will raise the demand for water.

"There is no more important or critical issue facing the state of Texas — and I mean all Texans, from all parts of the state, from all size cities and towns and from farms and ranches," Clements told the lawmakers.

A water trust fund to hold surplus tax dollars in reserve has a "high priority" and would be a form of tax relief, Clements said.

Without money in reserve, future water projects could create an "onerous tax burden" in later years as declining oil and gas production causes revenue from that source to wither, he said.

"It (the water fund) is indeed a tax savings in the long-term sense, and I support it wholeheartedly," Clements said.

Speaker Bill Clayton, from whom the governor borrowed the idea, applauded loudly and grinned with delight when Clements voiced his support for the water fund.

Legislative committee chairmen who will receive Clements' major anti-crime proposal, a bill allowing the Department of Public Safety to tap the telephones of suspected drug dealers, did not applaud when he said wiretapping was needed.

"I hope it doesn't pass," said Sen. Oscar Mauzy, chairman of the Senate Jurisprudence Committee.

Rep. Lynn Nabers, chairman of the House Criminal Jurisprudence Committee, said if a bill comes out of his committee it would not allow surreptitious entry into someone's home or office to plant a bug.

"That reminds me of Nazi Germany," he said.

Clements put in a pitch for another idea the 1979 Legislature rejected, as it did wiretapping.

Two-thirds of all Texans polled want the right of initiative and referendum — which Californians used in 1978 to cut their property taxes — and the Legislature should offer it to them, he said.

The governor also asked for legislation that would:

- Put Texas in a regional presidential primary in 1984 and subsequent election years with New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana.
- Prohibit automatic payroll deduction of state employee union dues.
- Repeal the five cents per gallon state motor fuels tax on gasoline, a mix of ethanol alcohol and unleaded gasoline.
- Allow prosecutors to use defendants' oral statements against them as evidence.
- Create a Texas Department of Commerce that would work for economic development and promotion of trade and commerce.
- Pay raises of 22 percent for teachers, 24 percent for state employees and 28 percent for state college professors.

- Competency testing of prospective teachers before they may be certified.
- Laws allowing school districts to set up special guidance centers for unruly students and remedial schooling for pupils who fall behind.

Clements' budget is sure to draw fire. It would cut the number of students at medical schools, add two new state prisons and add only $10 a year in Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

AFDC recipients get a $33 a month, and the Department of Human Resources had asked for $44.

Wrotenbery said granting the request would bring another 21,000 persons onto the welfare rolls. He said that when free medical care, prescription drugs, food stamps and social services are added, welfare families in Texas get an average of $566 a month.

He and his staff said they had not computed how much a welfare family gets if its members do not get sick or take advantage of social services.

"Continuing the trend of increased eligibility would hurt people who really need help," Wrotenbery said.

Clements' budget has a couple of innovations:

- It provides separate line items for merit pay raises but says they cannot be spent by an agency until it has established formal procedures for evaluating employee performance.

The governor also recommended part of some agency budgets be appropriated on a contingency basis. The money could not be spent without documenting the need and submitting a "plan to meet the need in an orderly manner."

Wrotenbery said the contingency items total more than $100 million.

He said without the kind of control Clements proposes, state agencies are able to use some money reimbursed to them by the federal government as a "slush fund."

Wrotenbery justified Clements' recommended cut-back of medical school enrollments by saying Texas gains 150 to 200 doctors a year from other states.

"If we include that, we have no need at this time for expanded first-year enrollments," he said.

Reagan Tackles Economic Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — After issuing a round of orders aimed at putting the brakes on government spending, President Reagan is meeting with the Republican allies who will have to provide the push if he is to get his economic program through Congress.

He invited GOP congressional leaders to breakfast today for his first working session with them since he was sworn in Tuesday. He was having lunch later with Paul Volcker, the Carter administration appointee who is chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

Reagan, whose advisers have said they hope to have the economic program ready for submission to Congress in three or four weeks, also planned his second Cabinet meeting in three days.

When Reagan first visited Washington after the November election, he spent much of his time courting Democrats in the House and Senate, seeking to avoid many of the problems Jimmy Carter encountered in his thorny relations with Congress during his early years in office.

Reagan's early sessions were billed as get-acquainted meetings.

Now that he is in the White House and preparing his legislative program, consultation with the Republican leaders in Congress can be crucial to the reception his program will receive.

While Reagan's first three days in office focused on economic matters, the agreements negotiated by Carter for release of the hostages held in Iran, and their treatment there, were getting a large share of attention.

Reagan sent a message to the former hostages, telling them: "Our most immediate concern is to ensure that you are quickly reunited with your families and that you are once again able to enjoy the precious blessings of freedom."

His press secretary, James Brady, said reports of brutal treatment against the hostages will not stop the administration from implementing the agreement that secured their release if all of its details comply with domestic and international law.

The president held a series of back-to-back, 15-minute conferences Thursday with several key House committee chairmen — all Democrats — whose panels deal with economic issues: Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, of the Ways and Means Committee; Rep. Jim Jones, of the Budget Committee, and Rep. Jack

Paul Harvey News The Day Wall Street 'Died'

When the stock market goes down, Wall Street analysts, professional and amateur, will say it "reflects a business decline."

If the stock market goes up, they will say "anticipation of a business decline has been discounted."

They'll use interest rates, money supply, the index or the weather to explain market moves in either direction.

The truth is that nobody knows why the stock market does what it does — usually.

Sometimes we know.

On the first Monday of the New Year, the market went up because economists on a TV program were unanimously bullish.

On the first Wednesday of the New Year, the market went down because of Joe Granville.

Joe Granville is a 57-year-old investment advisor who lives in Holly Hill, Fla., and publishes a newsletter to subscribers.

Even if he lived in Southern California he'd be considered "a character." Sometimes he dresses up in an attention-grabbing costume and sprinkles his lectures on economics with song-and-dance routines.

Obviously, Joe Granville loves attention.

He makes himself available for interviews on TV and radio, thus to enhance circulation for his market letter.

He says that he makes so much money from this stock market newsletter that he does not have to bother with investing in stock himself.

It was he who blew the whistle on the bull market Jan. 7 — advised his readers to bail out — and triggered a stock market slide of 23.80 points in one day.

When his obedient subscribers recover from their euphoria, they may discover that they are having to pay at least a capital gains tax on their profits — and can buy back in only at a higher price — and so will have lost money in the long run.

It has been my long-term observation of the roller-coaster stock market that the only people who get hurt are the ones who jump off.

Those who sit tight through the dips eventually are rewarded, for the inevitable long-term trend of the market is up — if only to compensate for inevitable inflation.

But I cannot participate in the condemnation (or) which much of the media is heaping on the financial guru from Holly Hill.

Some consider him "a dangerous man" and demand legislation to curtail such "market manipulation."

"Smash his crystal ball!" Nonsense!

Enough of these experiences and investors will learn — as theatergoers have learned — that the reviewers are right only sometimes.

pressive. She worked with the Baptist Student Union at Tech, holding Sunday School in the evening for children who did not attend a Sunday School class, and she has traveled to Kentucky for a summer missionary camp.

Ms. Cribbs is a member of the First Baptist Church.

Other activities Ms. Cribbs was active in at Tech include Phi Epsilon Omicron, a home-ec honorary society promoting home economics; Family Life Student Association, an association for child development and family relations majors, a professional organization; and Mortar Board, a national interdisciplinary honors organization for seniors. The board worked with the administration and faculty.

A former intramural basketball and racquetball player, Ms. Cribbs is an avid football fan of Tech. She enjoys sewing, cooking, and "all the things a home-ec major is supposed to like."

"I like working in parent-child relationships," Ms. Cribbs continued.

The county agent keeps active in the livestock area, having formerly shown steers and other livestock in 4-H. She is a hiker, camper, and a back packer.

"I'm basically a country girl," she said with a slight smile, adding "after living in Lubbock, I was ready to return to a small community."

Ms. Cribbs is the daughter of Martin and Rebba Cribbs of Channing. Her father is a cowboy boss at Cactus Feeders outside of Dumas, and her mother is a computer programmer.

A fan of music, the county agent likes country western, blue grass, Christian, and classical music.

Basically a happy person, Ms. Cribbs praises the Lord for "giving me a lot of things...the ability to enjoy life and people."

A warm person, Ms. Cribbs doesn't know many strangers. She shows a lot of faith in people.

"I like to read, write

poetry, and give time of myself to others," Ms. Cribbs said, adding that she also enjoys spending time alone.

"God was very instrumental in putting me in Hereford. The kids are wonderful, enthusiastic, kind and helpful," she said.

She stressed that her office door as well as her home door is always open to anyone wanting to talk, needing help with their homework, or anyone having a problem.

Ms. Cribbs has many plans for her term as an assistant county agent. Among these include finding way to involve the children with the community more as well as the senior citizens.

She wants 4-H'ers to become more active with their parents in 4-H projects.

Currently in the process of organizing a 4-H group in Dawn, Ms. Cribbs plans to attend as many livestock shows, as she can take 4-H girls to a fashion show for personal review, and organize a Community Team 4-H Fashion Board, involving local women's department stores.

Another problem with the vocational program is attracting enough students to meet the 20 students required by state for continued support of the program.

Helms said retaining qualified instructors is difficult too, because these instructors can make considerably more money by working in industry or a business other than practicing their trade.

Sarpalius Honors Texan 'Hostages'

AUSTIN — Senator Bill Sarpalius has introduced a resolution honoring three Texans who were among the Iranian hostages released Tuesday. The Senate passed the resolution unanimously.

The three Texans honored by the Panhandle Senator and the full Senate are Lieutenant Commander Robert Engelmann of Hurst, William Royer, Jr. of Houston and Marine Sergeant John McKeel, Jr., of Balch Springs.

The resolution praised the bravery of the three Texans, "held in captivity in Iran for 444 days by a group of barbaric fanatics." Sarpalius' resolution told of the three Texans being "subjected for 14 months to physical abuse by being bound, gagged, blindfolded, pushed and shoved often in the presence of mobs of maniacal, militant Iranians who taunted and flaunted their captives before the world."

Sarpalius, through his resolution, praised the courage, forbearance and dignity of the hostages, calling it "unsurpassed in history." The resolution also invited the three to visit the Senate for a personal welcome, heartfelt thanks, and recognition of valor. Additionally, each man will be presented with a Texas flag which was flown over the Texas Capitol on January 30, 1981, the day the former hostages were released.

"We as people have a lot to be proud of. If you don't believe that, look at these three men. These Texans have set an example for all of us. I am very proud of them, and I was glad to be able to show them the Senate is proud of them, to," Sarpalius said.

Ann Landers Security Officers

DEAR ANN: You have printed several letters from people who wanted to explain their jobs so the public would understand. Will you please print one more for me? I am a security officer.

I am not a "hobby-cop" in love with my badge, trying to be a bully or getting off on my power. I am doing a job because there have been thefts, acts of vandalism, violent incidents and other problems that the police were unable to prevent. A lot of it happens to ordinary people, like you and me. We end up paying replacement costs, higher insurance and hospital bills. Many police departments are swamped by calls to settle domestic fights, take people to the hospital, prevent suicides and so on.

Hundreds of us are underpaid, yet we stay up all night, walk miles around buildings to check unlocked areas, and ask people who are loitering what business they have there. Sometimes this can be a very dangerous question.

I have been physically attacked by hostile drunks, mentally ill persons, and there is always a chance that I might be severely injured or killed - just as it is with a police officer. In some cases my risk is even greater because some folks believe I have no right to defend myself or that they have a right to "get" me because I am not a cop.

I find lost kids, stolen property, escort women to their cars late at night and answer all kinds of questions. My presence sometimes prevents thieves from stealing property they would otherwise walk off with. Just seeing me scares them off.

These positive things keep me doing the job in a conscientious manner. I realize there are those who do not belong in this line of work, so, if you meet one, report him to his superiors and get him out of this profession. But please, don't make it rougher on the rest of us. We're just trying to make the world a little nicer for everybody. Thanks, Ann. Several million security officers thank you. - A Security Officer (Wis.)

DEAR WIS: Thanks to you and your colleagues for making this dangerous and untidy world a safer place. The security officers around the Chicago Sun-Times are terrific. And two are women!

DEAR ANN: I had a job after school working in a restaurant. We were paid from 3 p.m. to 10 p.m., which was closing time. The boss expected us to stay and clean up the tables, run the sweeper and make sure the kitchen was in A-1 condition before we left. This took at least 45 minutes. Nobody was paid for the extra time. I never said anything because I couldn't afford to lose my job. I think this is common practice in many restaurants. I am out of high school now and don't work there anymore, but for the sake of the others, what can be done about taking advantage of people like this?

The owner was highly patronizing to his church member friends, but I don't think this was a very Christian way to treat his employees.--A Late Com-plainer.

DEAR LATE: Were you paid by the hour? If so, you should have been compensated for the clean-up time. If, however, you were paid by the day or week, the extra duty was part of the job.

Workers who feel they are being unfairly treated can and should complain to the National Labor Relations Board of their state department of labor. Look in the phone book.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex-Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Women Replace Tampons With Natural Sponges

Some women worried about getting toxic shock syndrome are using natural sea sponges instead of ordinary tampons during their menstrual periods. Tampons have been connected with this rare but serious disease.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has not approved sponges for sale as substitutes for tampons. This is because no medical studies have been done to show that they are safe and effective.

Most directions for using the sponges call for re-using them after rinsing them in water. FDA is concerned that this may leave germs on the sponges that could cause an illness.

The health agency also is concerned that the sponges may contain harmful substances when they are sold. A study done recently at the University of Iowa found that sponges from a local clinic contained grains of sand that could not be completely rinsed out. The Iowa researchers also found bacteria, fungus, arsenic, nicotine, and other harmful chemicals in the sponges. (They believe these chemicals get into the sponges because of pollution in the oceans, where the sponges grow.) The study also found that the sponges can crumble easily, with relatively sharp pieces breaking off.

FDA is investigating these problems with sponges to see what should be done. Even though some women are using the sponges because of the connection between ordinary tampons and toxic shock, the sponges will not protect women from the disease. Two cases of toxic shock have been reported in women who were using sponges instead of ordinary tampons.

Toxic shock is a nearly recognized disease that seems to strike mostly women under 30 years old during their menstrual periods. The disease is rare but it can strike quickly and can cause death.

Toxic shock is caused by bacteria but almost all of the women who have had the disease were using tampons when they became ill. No one knows exactly why tampons are connected with toxic shock. Scientists from the Government and from companies that make tampons are continuing to study the disease. FDA has proposed that warning labels be put on boxes of tampons to alert women to the danger of getting toxic shock.

Women can almost entirely avoid the risk of getting toxic shock by not using tampons. Or, if they wish to use tampons, they can at least reduce their risk by using them on and off during each period (that is, when removing a tampon, replace it with a sanitary napkin and vice versa).

Local Residents Attend Thanksgiving Service

Approximately 65 local residents turned out Thursday afternoon to raise their voices with fellow countrymen in thanksgiving for the release of the American hostages from Iran during a special community service held at the First Christian Church.

The service was conducted as a community outpouring of praise and thanksgiving and included prayer, scripture reading and hymns.

The ceremony was organized by the Hereford Ministerial Alliance. Among celebrants at the service were Bill Marquis of the First Christian Church; Rev. Dorman Duggan of the Community Church of Hereford; Rev. Gene Belford of the First Presbyterian Church; Father Paul Haefner of St. Anthony's Catholic Church; Rev. Ermilo Montemayor of Iglesia Metodista San Pablo; Father Charles Threewit of St. Thomas Episcopal Church and Nell Culpepper.

How to Guard Against Cold and Flu Symptoms

Joggers, construction workers, policemen, preschoolers and the elderly all have one thing in common. They are prime targets for winter colds and flu. They, and you, could lessen the risk, however, by following a few simple precautions.

Family infections are most often initiated by children and up to three-fourths of family outbreaks may be introduced by children of preschool age.

People who work outdoors, such as construction workers, city service employees, firemen and policemen are more susceptible than others because of the variance of outdoor and indoor temperatures. Joggers are also prime candidates for colds and flu because of temperature variance.

The elderly too must observe every precaution to prevent common colds or flu since their reaction to a virus is much more severe.

Researchers say the most common warning signs for the common cold and flu of which everyone should be aware are:

- Moderate cough
- Scratchy throat (hoarseness)
- Nasal congestion & discharge
- Weakness, muscular pains
- Mild headache
- Chills
- Loss of appetite
- Nausea

If you or a member of your family experience such symptoms, the following corrective measures can be taken for relief:

- Drink plenty of fluids or the favorite drink of physically active people.
- Plenty of bed rest. The body requires more rest during this time because body organs are working faster to fight off the virus.

-Keep warm. It is important to keep the body clothed with warm attire to insure proper retention of body warmth.

-Most importantly, consult your physician. Don't play doctor.

Manufacturer Initiates Safety Related Recall of Childrens Car Seat Harness

The Safe-T-Rider car seat introduced in June 1980 by Century Products, Inc., Stow, Ohio is the first car seat designed specifically for use by older children, from 30 lbs to 65 lbs., who have outgrown conventional safety seats. The seat provides protection, comfort and improved visibility for young automobile passengers.

As an accessory to the Safe-T-Rider, Century Products provides a 4-point harness for use in those instances when a combination lap and shoulder belt is not available. However, the company has discovered that some harnesses manufactured between June and September 1980 may not withstand a 1,000 lb. static load test. The potential condition has since been corrected and harnesses manufactured after September 1st exceed all safety requirements.

Although no harness breakages have been reported, Century urges that any purchaser having a seat with a manufacturing date prior to September 1, 1980 notify Century Products, Inc., 1366 Commerce Drive, Stow, Ohio 44224, telephone 1-800-321-8252, and ask for Department "G". A replacement harness will be immediately supplied at no charge. Manufacturing date will be found on the underside of the seat. However, if your harness is labeled "BODY-GUARD R-2" it has already been corrected and there is no need for a replacement.

The Safe-T-Rider was developed in Australia to meet the need for crash protection for children who have outgrown the conventional car seat but are too small to see out of the car windows when only buckled into the lap belt. The inventors have granted Century Products, Inc. exclusive rights to manufacture and market this much needed safety device in the United States.

The seat is in limited production at present, but will be available throughout the nation by February 1981. This area of the seat harness contained the condition previously described, which has since been corrected.

Small Talk

By SUE COLEMAN

When you're going to have a garage sale or rummage sale or whatever you want to call it, the main thing is to have plenty of things for sale. That's what the Hereford Satellite Center wants for its sale next weekend.

Not this weekend, but Saturday, Jan. 31, and after church Sunday, Feb. 1. The place will be the Center's new location at the corner of Park Avenue and Avenue E, the building once occupied by Hereford Bakery.

Helen Cherry, chairman of the board of directors, says donations of anything salable will be much appreciated. If you need to have someone pick up your contributions, please telephone her at 364-2690 or the Center, 364-5861.

If you have something big, like a major appliance, that you would like to have sold on consignment, the sales force will handle that, too.

Maybe you need to be reminded that the Satellite Center serves mentally retarded adults, supplying a sheltered workshop where they can learn to do tasks at their skill level and by working on contract jobs can earn money that in some instances keeps them off welfare.

At present there are 13 clients. Center directors, struggling with rising costs, have lately appealed for public support to keep the program going. The garage sale is one way to give that support.

Carl Lomenick of Moab, Utah, came in Wednesday for a visit with relatives here including cousins, Marian and Hawk Kreig, and an uncle, Ross Lomenick.

He had taken his wife to Lubbock to spend several days with their foster daughter, who lately underwent surgery, and stopped in Hereford as he started back home.

When I was wishing the other day that there were more ways Hereford people could use their talents as performers, somehow the Easter Opry Road Show just didn't occur to me.

They're not really that easy to overlook, and they're just the sort of thing I mean. A bunch of people who like to make music got together to put on a show and make some money to help a neighbor, and that was the way it started, I understand.

That worked so well that more performers joined in and the outfit took to the road and has appeared in several nearby towns. Seems they are making another appearance, with a lot of fun for everybody concerned. More power to 'em!

Local Church To Feature Rev. Moll

The Rev. Harold Moll of Amarillo will be the evening speaker at Grace Gospel Church Sunday.

The program will begin at 6 p.m. at the church located at 13th Street and Avenue K. The public is invited to attend the service.

WAKE UP! GET UP! LET'S GO!

And now they came to an olive grove called the Garden of Gethsemane, and He instructed His disciples, "Sit here, while I go and pray."

He took Peter, James and John with Him and began to be filled with horror and deepest distress.

And He said to them, "My soul is crushed by sorrow to the point of death; stay here and watch with Me."

He went on a little further and fell to the ground and prayed that if it were possible the awful hour awaiting Him might never come.

"Father, Father," He said, "everything is possible for You. Take away this cup from Me. Yet I want Your will, not Mine."

Then He returned to the three disciples and found them asleep. "Simon!" He said, "Asleep? Couldn't you watch with Me even one hour?"

Watch with Me and pray lest the Tempter overpower you. For though the spirit is willing enough, the body is weak."

And He went away again and prayed, repeating His pleadings.

Again He returned to them and found them sleeping, for they were very tired. And they didn't know what to say.

The third time when He returned to them He said, "Sleep on; get your rest! But no! The time for sleep has ended! Look! I am betrayed into the hands of wicked men. 42 Come! Get up! We must go! Look! My betrayer is here!"

Reagan Tempers Previously Made Pledges

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — In business suit instead of formal dress, President Reagan had given the Speech before, from a hundred and more platforms, on the path to the White House. But as a campaigner, he often had suggested he would get quick results in his efforts to prune government, balance the budget, slow inflation. In his inaugural address, those pledges were tempered a bit, perhaps by the magnitude of the federal bulwark before him. He said it will take more than days, weeks or months to deal with the nation's economic ills. He said progress will be measured in inches and feet, not miles, as he sets about trying to curb the powers of the federal government.

His first step as president was a step in that direction, a freeze on federal hiring to replace Jimmy Carter's order permitting government agencies to fill one of every two vacancies.

But the new administration conceded the impact of that order is not clear. "The net reduction in federal civilian employment as a result of the order cannot be predicted with confidence at this time," the White House said. Reagan's order said there could be exemptions to the hiring freeze "in rare and unusual circumstances" for the delivery of essential services.

Government officials — even Republican government officials — tend to consider all their services essential, all their circumstances rare and unusual.

That is one of the reasons change comes slowly for even the most determined of administrators.

But Reagan vowed from the steps of the Capitol that change there will be. "We must act today in order to preserve tomorrow," he said. "And let there be no misunderstanding — we are going to act beginning today."

He came close to declaring the economic emergency some of his advisers had suggested during the transition, calling the situation a crisis, an "affliction of the greatest proportions."

His cures are tax reduction, the easing of federal regulations, a government that spends within its means.

"On these principles," he said, "there will be no compromise."

He wove in some campaign applause lines. "Government is not the solution; government is the problem," he said. He said he wants to make government work, "stand by our side, not ride on our back."

It was not an address of ringing new phrases, but a summation of the conservative Reagan creed.

Reagan focused it on problems at home, the economy prime among them. His message to the world was one of restraint, from a president the campaigning Carter had said might risk war.

He said he would negotiate, sacrifice, but never surrender for peace.

"When action is required to preserve our national security, we will act," the president said.

Expert Says Killer Bees Could Reach U.S. This Decade

SEATTLE (AP) — African "killer bees" have reached Panama and could be colonizing Texas by the end of this decade, says an expert on the aggressive swarming bees. However, the tide of bees eventually will be stopped cold. Winter weather in the northern states will be an apiary barrier the equal of the Great Wall of China, says Mark Winston of Simon Fraser University at Burnaby, British Columbia.

Besides, the bees' threat to humans has been exaggerated, Winston said Wednesday at the American Beekeeping Federation convention in Seattle. But the bees, which eventually will spread through the southern states and California, have killed livestock and humans in South America. Such attacks have occurred only when a large number of the bees have been provoked into making a "massive response," Winston says. "The African people have co-existed with these bees for many centuries," Winston said. "All that is required is to keep a watch for their nests and avoid disturbing them."

Beekeepers unwittingly turn the bees into a killer force by keeping high-population hives. Normal beehives have become "Africanized" when the queen bees mate with killer bees in the wild, he said.

The African bees are sensitive to vibrations made by an intruder in the hive area, Winston said. The bees have on occasion, aggressively emerged from the hives together and attacked to protect their colonies.

The killer bees spread through South America after 26 colonies, brought to Brazil for research, escaped in 1956. There now are an estimated 10 million colonies in South Africa.

The bees have spread northward through Central America at the rate of 200 to 300 miles per year and now have reached the Colombia-Panama border. They could fly through Mexico and reach Texas as soon as 1988, Winston said.

"Some people have suggested that a gas pipeline be installed, and a wall of flame 500 feet high be kept burning the length of the Panama Canal to stop the spread of the African bees," Winston said.

This would be fruitless, he says.

"If just one colony of bees jumps the barrier, the spread will continue — they travel and multiply so rapidly."

Winston said beekeepers should be able to prevent their colonies from being Africanized by using advanced techniques of artificial insemination of queen bees or replacing the queen bee in a hive.

Winston, a graduate of the University of Kansas, was a member of a U.S. Department of Agriculture team sent to South America to study the African bees. He spent nearly five years in the research.

Can Clarifying Statistics Improve Government?

NEW YORK (AP) — To reduce public confusion, aid decision making and improve government, one thing the new administration can do is clarify the statistics that have become so basic to everyday life.

Statistics rule. If you doubt that just consider the turmoil in stock markets when money supply figures are released, the increases in Social Security benefits when the Consumer Price Index is applied to them, the depressing mood engendered when the savings rate falls.

Now consider that nobody really knows if the weekly money supply figures are significant or even accurate; that the CPI is known to distort reality; that some of the expenses measured by it do not apply to retirees; that last year's statistics on personal savings consistently misstated the savings rates through most of the year.

Pay scales are adjusted on the basis of cost-of-living numbers subject to revision.

The sense of job security may depend on oft-revised unemployment rates. A false sense of security and pride might evolve from a Gross National Product puffed with inflation.

Presidential elections are affected by them. And though the numbers might be revised after the elections, the political results are not. Ask Jimmy Carter and Gerald Ford, both of whom may have lost votes because the economic numbers at election time looked worse than those in the post-election revisions.

It isn't, so far as is known, that anyone manipulates the numbers. In fact, even critics acknowledge that U.S. statistical workers are the top of the craft.

Instead, it could be the fault of the users. Numbers are considered efficient little capsules of condensed information that save time, space and thinking. In one tiny pill they offer the whole story.

The trouble is that the weekly, monthly and quarterly statistics have none of the permanence of numbers chiseled on granite. They are resurrected and changed rather regularly — after the impact.

That this should be simply the nature of economic statistics. As more data become available, researchers are able to refine results, even though the results might have mainly historical value by the time final revisions are made. Ironically, the criticism also applies to some "leading indicators" used mainly as forecasting tools.

With such deficiencies inherent, it is a wonder the numbers have come to be used so popularly and with such tremendous impact on short-term decisions affecting so many people.

A classic situation is the indexing of Social Security benefits to the consumer price index. First, the CPI is known to distort current living expenses by assuming all families are buying houses at current prices and paying current interest rates. Then the CPI is applied to retiree benefits, even though retirees are relatively free of many CPI expenses.

The popularity of the CPI submerges other inflation indexes economists insist are far more accurate. Those other measures, such as the Gross National Product deflator, are now about 2 points lower than the CPI.

SPS Promotes Hunter, Milner, Pullum

Southwestern Public Service Company's board of directors elected Sam R. Hunter and Larry S. Milner as vice presidents, and Mary L. Pullum as assistant secretary, in action following the company's annual stockholders meeting.

The three also were elected officers of the company. Hunter, who becomes vice president, communication & public affairs, formerly served as director, communication & public affairs. He was first employed by SPS as manager of industrial development in 1966, and earned a bachelor of arts degree at the University of Texas.

Pullum moves to her new position as assistant secretary from duties as secretary in the corporate financial office. She began the company's articles of incorporation to increase the total authorized capital stock from $180 million to $330 million. This increases the number of common stock shares from 30 million to 55 million and the preferred shares from 3 million to 5 million. This amendment was necessary to allow the company to continue financing its ongoing construction program.

Also, the board declared a regular quarterly dividend of 34 1/2 cents per share of common stock, payable March 2, 1981, to holders of record at the close of business on February 13, 1981. Regular dividends were also declared on preferred stock, payable May 1, 1981, to holders of record at the close of business on April 20, 1981.

The stockholders re-elected the incumbent board of directors for 1981.

If no one person in a family contributes more than one-half of the cost of supporting an individual, the group should choose one of its members to claim the exemption. Usually the taxpayer who paid the most in support is the one receiving the exemption. However, that taxpayer must have contributed more than 10 percent of the total support and must meet all other dependency tests.

The remaining contributors in the group must complete and sign Form 2120, "Multiple Support Declaration," stating that they will not claim the exemption that year. The forms are filed with the income tax return of the person claiming the exemption.

Big Band May Replace Fading Disco Music

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Where have all the dancers gone, now that disco's bubble has burst? A group of big band leaders, left out in the cold by two solid decades of rock dominance, is seeking to fill the boogie vacuum — and getting unexpected support from young audiences.

"Disco music is fading, but it created a whole group of dancers," says veteran trumpet player and bandleader Ray Anthony. "And dancers want to keep dancing once they get going. It's the ideal time to come up with something new."

So Anthony founded Big Band '80s, whose members include such big band figures as Harry James, Les Brown, Alvino Rey and Buddy Rich. Originally the group's efforts were aimed at promoting members' recordings on radio stations; recently, they've set up a mail-order record club to sell directly to consumers.

Their records are by no means on the verge of the multimillion sales commanded by a Fleetwood Mac or Eagles album, Anthony acknowledges. But there are unmistakable signs of a renaissance — more radio stations playing the music, more demand for live big bands.

And for the first time in quite a few years, Frank Sinatra — that most enduring of big band singers — came up with half a dozen Grammy nominations for his "Trilogy" album and its jaunty "New York, New York" track.

Anthony, sensing that something was afoot when he started getting enough jobs to reassemble his band after almost 20 years, decided to do something to nourish big band listenership.

"So I called a group of local bandleaders who were hungry," he says. "We started out with 10, we eventually got it up to around 35."

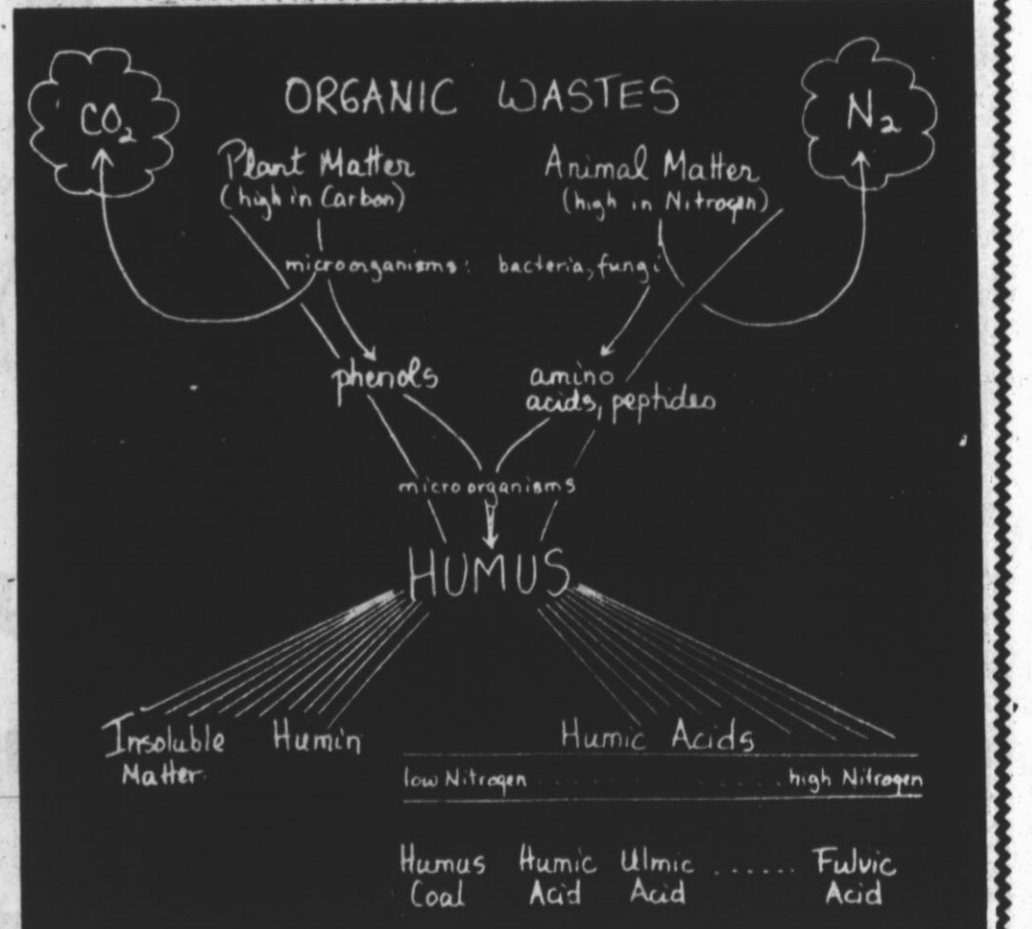

The first thing the bandleaders did was to pool their mailing lists. They came up with names of about 300 radio station contacts and sent out letters offering to supply them with recordings, including an anthology LP put out by the organization and featuring new tunes by each of half a dozen members.

The stations — ranging from a few dozen with a 100 percent big band to those who feature the music once or twice a week — responded enthusiastically, — and others began writing in at a gratifying clip.

"That list is now up to 1,000," Anthony says. "The thousand came within the last few months. There are more stations every day."

Anthony is in the process of arranging to buy big band recordings from record companies at wholesale prices and in turn offer them through a catalog which will initially go to about 150,000 fans on a mailing list assembled by the band members.

North Carolina Trips Deacons

Associated Press

You can't put the knock on Wood, certainly not after North Carolina triple-threat forward Al Wood knocked third-ranked Wake Forest from the unbeaten ranks with his scoring, rebounding and passing Thursday night.

Wood scored 25 points, including all seven in a 7-2 burst in the second half that gave No. 17 Carolina a comfortable 48-38 lead en route to a 74-60 victory, its 13th in 17 games. Wake Forest had won its first 14 starts.

With the Demon Deacons' demise, the only two unbeaten major college basketball teams are top-rated Oregon State and runner-up Virginia. Oregon State (14-0) continued its winning ways with a 66-53 Pacific-10 Conference victory over Washington State that gave Coach Ralph Miller his 500th career triumph.

Elsewhere, ninth-ranked Iowa won on Big Ten rival Indiana's court for the first time in 10 years, edging the Hoosiers 56-53; No. 11 South Alabama's 14-game winning streak, the nation's second longest, was snapped 86-70 by Virginia Commonwealth; No. 16 Michigan needed two overtimes to down No. 15 Illinois 80-76 in a Big Ten contest and defending national champion Louisville, struggling to reach the .500 mark, lost for the eighth time in 14 games, dropping a 60-55 overtime Metro Conference decision to Memphis State.

Wake Forest fell behind North Carolina 28-19 at halftime thanks to dismal 29 percent shooting. The Deacons were within 41-36 with 11:08 remaining when Wood dropped the bomb.

"You can forget his points, although I don't want you to," said Coach Dean Smith. "His rebounding and his assists were the key to this game." "It's just a matter of who you play and how the ball bounces," said Wood, a 6-foot-6 senior whose 17 rebounds were one more than Wake Forest's entire front line.

Wake Forest Coach Carl Tracy said his team was "real tentative on offense. Our offense probably was the worst it has been all year. This is just a temporary setback, though. I think our team's character will show and they will bounce back."

Oregon State bounced out to a 24-16 halftime lead over Washington State. Steve Johnson, the Beavers' 6-10 center, scored 16 points, hitting seven of nine shots and blocking five by the Cougars. Washington State Coach George Raveling called time with 20 seconds left and presented Miller with the game ball.

"I'm not knocking it," Miller said of his 500th victory. "It's better than 499. I'm happy with the players. It is another victory on the way to the defense of our (Pac-10) title. I thought Steve played very well. He didn't make any stupid fouls. If he keeps doing that, he will be able to stay in games longer. This was one of his smarter games."

Sophomore guard Bob Hansen nailed down Iowa's triumph at Indiana by sinking four free throws in the final 10 seconds — his only points of the game — to keep the Hawkeyes tied for the Big Ten lead. Indiana rallied from a 46-40 deficit to tie the score with 7½ minutes left but the Hawkeyes went into a stall for three minutes before Kenny Arnold's short jumper put them in front for good.

"I was pretty confident when I stepped up to the free throw line," said Hansen. "I really didn't hear the crowd. I really didn't think about all the field goals I had missed before I went to the free throw line."

South Alabama proved a gracious host for Virginia Commonwealth. The Jaguars trailed by only a point at halftime but quickly fell out of contention in the second half as the visitors shot a sizzling 64.6 percent for the game, led by Edmund Sherod's 26 points and Danny Kottak's 23.

"We don't complain about the referees, but we were not allowed to play our usual aggressive game," griped South Alabama Coach Cliff Ellis, who was ejected for picking up his third technical foul with 2:19 to play.

Johnny Johnson, who missed three days of practice after spraining an ankle last weekend, paced Michigan over Illinois by connecting on 12 of 14 shots for a career-high 31 points.

And Memphis State ended Louisville's 16-game Metro Conference winning streak behind Hank McDowell's 18 points and 10 rebounds. Two free throws by McDowell gave the Tigers a 55-54 lead in the overtime period, Phillip Haynes added two more and Dennis Isbell's dunk with 38 seconds to go finished off the Cardinals, 6-8 over-all.

Unranked Purdue retained a share of the Big Ten lead by defeating Northwestern 55-50 as Drake Morris scored 12 of his 20 points in the second half, including a key basket with 3:44 left after the Boiler-makers' 11-point lead shrank to one.

Adams, Walker Named As LCC Recruits

Adams Walker

Former Hereford Whiteface football players, Keith Adams and Joe Walker were listed by the Lubbock Avalanche Journal as two of 44 new faces recruited by the Lubbock Christian College football program Thursday.

The announcement came on the eve of coach Don Carthel's second month as helmsman for the club. The previous mentor, Jerry Don Sanders, was forced to resign following the Chaparral's bleak 0-10 performance last year.

Adams and Walker, who fielded respective wide receiver and tailback duties for the 1979-80 Hereford squad, will join former HHS defensive lineman and Chaparral freshman Donny Lauderback in this year's club rebuilding.

76er Bench Helps Snap Bullet Streak

By The Associated Press

On the Philadelphia 76ers, the talent doesn't end with the starting five. It extends well down the bench.

Reserve forward Bobby Jones, who was selected to participate in the National Basketball Association All-Star Game Feb. 1, scored 20 points to help the 76ers to a 128-116 victory over Washington Thursday night, snapping the Bullets' five-game winning streak.

Jones is one of three players on the Philadelphia bench who have been chosen for NBA All-Star Games, the others being Steve Mix and Lionel Hollins. Mix didn't play at Washington because of injury, but Hollins contributed 17 points as the Sixers beat the Bullets for the fourth time this year. Two other Philadelphia benchmen, Ollie Johnson and Clint Richardson, added 15 and 8 points, respectively, as the Sixers raised their record to 43-9, best in the league.

"The bench really made the difference," Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham said flatly. "We played good enough to win and they couldn't put us away until late, but they have a lot of bench power," agreed Washington Coach Gene Shue.

In other NBA games, the New York Knicks beat the San Diego Clippers 100-93, the Chicago Bulls defeated the Detroit Pistons 125-92 and the Cleveland Cavaliers topped the New Jersey Nets 108-94.

Julius Erving, who topped the 76ers with 28 points, credited the Bullets with having a good game plan even if it didn't work.

"They knew we were playing our third game in a row," said Erving. "They tried to get us into a fastbreak game, get into a shootout and try to fatigue us."

But Philadelphia's depth turned that strategy to its own advantage. Cunningham substituted freely, the 76ers got frequent layoffs off the running game and shot 59 percent from the field to win.

Philadelphia led most of the way, but Washington closed to within 114-110 with 4:06 left before the Sixers pulled away.

Greg Ballard led Washington with 27 points and Don Collins, playing only his second game since being acquired from Atlanta, added 23 while shooting 10-for-11 from the field.

Knicks 100, Clippers 93
Ray Williams scored 24 points and had six steals to help the Knicks rally to their third straight win.

Entries Begin for Texas State Bowling Tourney

The Texas State Bowling Association has announced that all male bowlers should be aware that entries in the state bowling tournament to be held in Abilene will close at midnight February 1 and all entries must be post marked no later than that date.

The tournament will begin March 21 and will continue through July 21.

All prospective entrants are urged to send their entries in as soon as possible.

Entry blanks are available at area bowling centers or you can call Jack Shuffler at the state office 214-388-5610.

Nelson Shares Lead in Open

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A brief recovery from some putting woes helped stake Larry Nelson to a share of the first round lead in the $300,000 Phoenix Open golf tournament.

But a return to his erratic behavior on the greens — he missed three short putts coming home — cost him sole control of the top spot and dropped him back into a tie with Australian David Graham.

"Kind of a strange day," Nelson mused Thursday after his 6-under-par 65 on the 6,762-yard Phoenix Country Club course.

"I didn't birdie No. 1 or 18 (both par-5 holes) and they're critical on this golf course," Nelson said. "For a while I couldn't make a three-footer, then I felt like I could make everything, and then I missed a lot of short putts coming home."

"Kind of strange. But I'm delighted with the score. I've always wanted to win in the West. I'd really like to play well this week."

Nelson and Graham shared a 1-stroke lead over John Schroeder, who scored eagle-3 on consecutive holes, veteran Bobby Nichols and Canadian Jim Nelford, tied at 66.

Bill Kratzert and George Burns headed a bulky group of 13 who shot 67's in the warm desert sunshine.

Bruce Lietzke, a winner last week, had a 69. Arnold

Palmer, as usual trailed by the largest gallery of the day, also was 2 under par. Johnny Miller, a winner at Tucson two weeks ago, was 1 over par at 72.

As usual, the flat little course yielded some extremely low scores. Well over half the field, 85 players, shot par or better.

"You expect low scores this week," said Graham, a former PGA champion who didn't make a bogey in his first competitive round of the year.

"The course is in excellent condition. It's a short golf course. If you keep it in the fairway, you can shoot some very low numbers."

And Graham had a very low number, 5-under-par 31, on his front side. He scored four birdies on putts in the six-eight foot range and flipped a wedge to within three feet of the flag for the other one.

His best shot, however, failed to produce a bird. He hit the bottom of the flagstick on the fifth hole, tearing up the cup. But the ball bounced out, rolled some four feet away and he missed the putt.

His only birdie on the back nine came on the 13th, where he holed a short bunker shot.

SKIING
HAUTE-NENDAZ, Switzerland (AP) — Tamara McKinney, an 18-year-old skier from Olympic Valley, Calif., gained her first giant slalom victory on the World Cup circuit.

McKinney posted a total time of 2 minutes, 35.09 seconds. Hanni Wenzel of Liechtenstein was second in 2:35.53.

WINTER PARK, Colo. (AP) — Heidi Bowes sped to her third slalom victory of the season by winning the Adolf Cup race, the fifth stop on the Elbert Trophy ski series.

Bowes was clocked in 1 minute, 22.63 seconds over the 52-gate course.

In the men's slalom, Niklas Scherrer covered a 55-gate course in 1:29.59 for his third slalom triumph of the year.

When I insured my store, I was Mr. Creamy. When I had a claim, I was Mr. 873-54269.

When you buy insurance, there are two types of agents you can deal with. A one-company agent who works directly for one insurance company. Or an independent insurance agent who represents several companies. What's the difference? There are quite a few. First of all, if you buy insurance from a one-company agent, he's probably not the person you talk to when you have a claim. Most one-company agents have nothing to do with the claims process. If you have a claim, it's between you and the adjuster.

Your independent insurance agent doesn't do business that way. He's right there ready to serve you when you have a claim... helping you reach a fair settlement as quickly as possible.

Personal involvement is not the only advantage your independent insurance agent offers you. Since he doesn't represent only one insurance company, he can offer you policies from several companies. So he can help you choose the policy that's right for you — at the right price.

Whether you need homeowners, auto, life or business insurance, we treat you like a person. Not a number.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Their record was 2-3 and Coach Tom Flores' face was sending a shiver through some of the veteran players on the Oakland Raiders.

"He had a look of dismay," said guard Gene Upshaw, captain of the team. "He looked like a man wondering where his next job would be, like a man saying to himself, 'What's going on here? What have I gotten myself into?'"

Tackle Art Shell, who plays alongside Upshaw on the left side of the Raider offensive line, saw the same ashen look in Flores and it hit him in the pit of his stomach.

"I told Gene, I thought we needed a meeting," said Shell. "He called it. Closed doors. No coaches."

There was some soul searching done at the session and a lot of the Raiders will tell Upshaw, the eldest Raider, presided.

"Gene is an excellent leader," said Hardman. "He sometimes appears to be a direct descendent of (Raider owner) Al Davis."

"I told them the coaches were doing all that they could, but the players were not putting out 110 percent," Upshaw said. "I said they'd better get going or we'd have new coaches and new players in the room and that's something I don't want at this stage."

The meeting created a togetherness atmosphere among the Raiders. It helped Thursday when rambunctious defensive end John Matuszak was located dancing on Bourbon Street at 3 a.m. and was fined $1,000 for his curfew indiscretion.

After the 2-3 meeting, Oakland won nine of 11 regular season games and three more in the playoffs, posting the 16th consecutive winning season for the franchise, longest streak of success in the National Football League.

At about the same time, Philadelphia was zooming to an 11-1 start, posting the best record in the league. Then suddenly, the Eagles seemed to go flat, losing three of their last four games. But there were no team meetings, no soul searching sessions for this team.

"We didn't feel it was a slump when we lost by one point to San Diego and got beaten by Atlanta and Dallas," said quarterback Ron Jaworski. "Those are three fine football teams. We could have won those games and we didn't play poorly. Once in awhile you get beat. If we had lost to New Orleans, the Jets and the Giants, then we'd have been concerned."

KRAKOW, Mo. (AP) — Former American hostage Rodney V. "Rocky" Sickmann somehow kept up with recent off-season baseball trades which occurred during his captivity in Iran, but he didn't care for one of them.

In a telephone conversation with his younger brother only hours after he was freed, the Marine sergeant asked why the St. Louis Cardinals had traded Ken Reitz and Ted Simmons.

Kurt Sickmann, a student at Washington High School, said Rocky was particularly upset that Reitz had been traded to the Chicago Cubs.

In July, on his 23rd birthday, the serviceman had received a card from Reitz.

Super Bowl XV Becomes More Than Simple 'Xs', 'Os'

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — It will be seen by more people than watched the walk on the moon, more than the entire populations of all but nine countries in the world.

It will slow down crime and highway fatalities, virtually paralyze trade, disrupt family harmony and turn a large hunk of humanity into a wild, frenzied mass.

It is the world's greatest one-day sports spectacle.

For a country wrung out by the emotion of the sudden freedom of America's hostages in Iran and the changing of the guard at the White House, Super Bowl XV is a welcome timeout, an opiate for months of agonizing and tension.

It is more than a football game, more than the climax of a five-month season, the deciding of the National Football League championship.

The football game becomes almost secondary to the massive buildup that spews for two weeks like a lighted fuse and then suddenly explodes into a mad, colorful kaleidoscope.

Actually, it isn't purely a sports contest at all. It is a happening, touching almost every facet of American life.

A few years ago Prof. Michael A. Real of the University of California in San Diego called it "a minuscule portrayal of life itself, stressing the key elements of modern society, emphasizing control of territory, efficient use of male domination, disciplined personnel management, financial motivation, even slick packaging."

Just think: Rival coaches Dick Vermeil of the Philadelphia Eagles and Tom Flores of the Oakland Raiders have figured it to be a simple exercise in "Xs" and "Os."

For the host city of New Orleans, it means a windfall of $60 million to $100 million that will be poured into the economy of this old river town with its quaint French heritage.

ing in by commercial airways, private jets, $50 million yachts, train and car.

The Super Bowl is the scalpers' heaven. They can easily demand $300 per pasteboard. If they can find a desperate and wealthy sucker, they may get $1,000.

NBC-TV estimates that the game will be witnessed by 105 million in the United States and scores of other countries.

Advertisers pay a phenomenal $550,000 per minute for commercials.

More than 75,000 will jam into the vast Superdome, which looks like one of the plump nuclear chimneys at Three Mile Island, for the live action.

Some 3,000 guests will attend Pete Rozelle's big press bash tonight at Rivergate, where they will feast on two tons of French cuisine while the kings of jazz, Count Basie, Doc Severinsen and the Preservation Hall Jazz Band play the jivey and soulful tunes of the levees.

Isolated from this reverie are the rival teams, the disciplined, straight-laced Philadelphia Eagles and the rakish so-called renegades who play for Oakland.

Sugar Ray Set To Fight Kalule

NEW YORK (AP) — Sugar Ray Leonard looking for new worlds to conquer, is set to fight Ayub Kalule in a junior middleweight title bout.

But, Mike Trainer, Leonard's attorney, said Thursday Leonard is not turning his back on his old world — the world of the welterweights which he rules with Tommy Hearns.

A match between World Boxing Council champion Leonard and unbeaten World Boxing Association champ Tommy Hearns for universal title recognition shapes up as a major fight in terms of money and interest.

"I can assure you that Ray Leonard wants a Hearns fight the worse way," Trainer told The Associated Press by telephone. "But I won't let him in there unless we can get what I think he's worth."

So, while Leonard and Trainer wait until the price is right for a fight against Hearns, who defends against Wilfred Benitez Feb. 23, Sugar Ray will move from the 147-pound division to the 154-pound class in a bid for the World Boxing Association title held by Kalule, an Ugandan living in Denmark, who has won all 34 of his pro fights.

The fight, which will be promoted by Bob Arum, will be held in the United States in May or June, according to Trainer, who said it probably will be a closed-circuit television event.

Trainer said Leonard's move into the junior middleweight division is a test "to see how he maintains weight." If Leonard is comfortable at 154 he would look toward the middleweight (160 pound) division ruled by Marvin Hagler, if he only gets up to 150-151 who probably would not consider another move up, said Trainer.

But even if he beats Kalule and then fights Hagler, which unlikely for some time, Leonard would fight Hearns as a welterweight, said Trainer.

The Kalule fight will be Leonard's third richest. "It will not top either Duran fight, but it will far exceed any of his other fights. He has a high guarantee plus a percentage," said Trainer. Leonard got $9.5 million when he lost the title to Duran, his only defeat against 28 wins, and $7 million for winning the title back from the Panamanian last Nov. 25.

Box 753, Hereford, Texas, 79045, is making an application for a loan from the Rural Electric Administration, which provides for the construction of approximately 24 miles of single wood structure 69 KV transmission line and two 7500 KVA substations. These facilities are located as follows:

- Approximately three (3) miles Southeast of Dimmitt, Texas, tap the existing 69 KV line between Highway 194 and Burlington Railroad, and build approximately five (5) miles of 69 KV line, and construct a 7500 KVA substation just North of Five-Point.
- Approximately two (2) miles South of Friona, tap the existing 69 KV line near Highway 214 and construct approximately six (6) miles of 69 KV transmission line and construct a 7500 KVA substation just North of the Hub intersection.
- Approximately nine (9) miles South of Summerfield, Texas on FM 1057 at our existing Substation No. 13, construct a 69 KV line approximately 12 miles North along FM 1057, and two (2) miles West to our existing Substation No. 9.

These facilities will make it possible for the Cooperative to meet the increasing demands for electric power for the member-owners in the Deaf Smith, Castro and Parmer County areas. If there are any comments on the environmental aspects of the proposed construction, it should be submitted to the Cooperative on or before March 15, 1981. Additional information may be obtained at the Cooperative at the above address. 144-1c

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

See doctor about diarrhea

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have been having diarrhea for a couple of years. When I'm nervous or upset it seems to act up more. For a year now, I've been on a diet a friend gave me. I take wheat germ, bran and honey mix once a day with vitamins. Is there any diet or information of any kind you have that I may follow up on? Do you have a list of diet foods I could eat or a diet sheet I could follow?

DEAR READER - If celiac sprue is a cause of your diarrhea, the wheat germ and bran could make it definitely worse. Sprue is an allergic-type reaction to gluten found in all cereals - including wheat - except corn and rice.

The point is that you can't treat a person's diarrhea properly without knowing what causes it. Some people have diarrhea because they have an infection of the bowel. Some of these can be chronic. Others have important diseases such as ulcerative colitis. Still others have a spastic colon.

Some people have diarrhea because they can't tolerate milk or any foods that contain milk products. In fact, if a complete examination fails to provide any reason for diarrhea then it is sometimes useful to temporarily try a diet that eliminates all milk and foods containing milk products, all cereals except rice and corn (including foods that contain cereals such as cream soups, even ice cream and cold cuts), coffee, tea and spices.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Would you discuss the effects of sugar on the digestive system? I have a problem with spastic colitis and I love sweets. I eat nutritious meals, brush my teeth afterwards and do not worry about my weight. I have the idea that I would all be better off with little or no sweets except for fresh or dried fruit. Someone told me recently that I need sugar and that it is absorbed in the bloodstream before it ever gets to the intestines. If this is true then it would not affect colitis.

DEAR READER - Sugar, honey and other sweets are digested and absorbed in the small intestine, mostly within the first few feet after they are emptied out of the stomach. So in a normal person, no sugar or other sweets should reach the colon or even the distal part of the small intestine. You are right. They will not affect the colon.

The problem is that they contain no bulk and the colon needs bulk. If you are providing enough bulk from the rest of your diet that is not a consideration. Concentrated sweets can also cause rebound low blood sugar levels in the few people who have reactive low blood sugar (hypoglycemia) problems. Otherwise, the main difficulty with sweets is what they don't provide, not because of anything harmful in them.

DEAR DR. LAMB - What can you tell us about B-12 shots? I am a 54-year-old female and have a relatively low blood count. I go to the doctor fairly regularly. He checks my blood count and sometimes the iron and always gives me a B-12 shot. If I go more than six weeks between these shots I start to feel like a windup toy about to run out of power. I seem to cut corners too short, bumping into things, can't seem to coordinate my thoughts and my bad memory gets worse. So does my writing. It takes almost a week after the B-12 shot to start to feel all together again. I asked my doctor about this and I didn't get a very straight answer. "As long as I felt better, did it really matter?" I'd appreciate anything you can tell me.

DEAR READER - Well, that certainly is the bottom line and I'm glad you do feel better. Vitamin B-12 is essential to many aspects of cellular function. Most people think of it as being associated with pernicious anemia. Certainly if you are low on B-12 your bone marrow will not be able to produce new red blood cells and pernicious anemia will follow.

B-12 is necessary for cell production throughout the body. Since many of your cells constantly regenerate, it is essential in replacing old cells with new - including those that line your digestive system.

B-12 is essential in formation of the sheath for nerve fibers. In its absence these sheaths degenerate and this leads to poor coordination and even degeneration in the spinal cord. B-12 deficiencies can lead to confusion (but there are many other causes for confusion and poor memory, too). It is quite possible that the symptoms and their relief you describe are related to a vitamin B-12 deficiency.

Folic acid will not replace your body's need for B-12. It can correct the anemia but not help with the nerve sheaths. If a person does have a deficiency of B-12, it is quite important to get regular B-12 replacement and that usually requires B-12 shots.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am a 62-year-old female with a health problem that I can't get an answer to. I seldom feel well. I can only eat a little food at a time, then I get a full feeling, then cramping in my stomach. The stool is very light in color - cream color. It's quite shocking to have such anemic looking bowel movements. Is there a reason for this - one that would cause me to feel lousy most of the time?

DEAR READER - The color of the stool is dependent upon bile pigments in the bile drained from your liver. Clay-colored stools are often seen if there is an obstruction of the bile ducts. But that condition usually leads to jaundice. The bile pigments are acted upon in the intestine to give either a green or brown color.

Milk drinkers and those not getting any meat in their diet sometimes have light colored stools so the first question is what do you eat. I suspect your diet has a lot to do with why you are not feeling up to par. But check with your doctor. He may want to test your liver function.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Cramer - Hot spots in table top

DEAR POLLY - How do you remove spots from a table top (inlaid with pretty wood) that had hot baked food placed on it. These spots make it necessary to keep a tablecloth on to hide them. - MRS. E.S.

DEAR MRS. E.S. - As many of you readers well know, my favorite cure for this problem is to make a paste of cold cigarette ashes and butter and then rub the spots, going with the grain of the wood. Another method is to put a bit of toothpaste on a damp cloth and rub, also with the grain of the wood. If spots are not entirely removed, add a bit of soda to more toothpaste and reapply it. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - This is for the reader who has a hole in a down jacket. I once stood too close to a heater while wearing mine and it melted a hole in the back, near the bottom, of the coat. I looked through my box of material and had nothing to match the jacket, which is bright green. However, I did have a piece of plaid cotton that was yellow, blue, white and green.

I cut a square to cover the hole and sewed right through it on the sewing machine. It looked so good that I cut several more plaid pieces and sewed them on the quilted squares all over the front, the pockets and every other square on the back. When I wore it to town, I got many compliments on my jacket. I never did buy a new one.

The only places that do not have patches are the sleeves. I do not have a free-arm sewing machine. By the way, I cut these squares with pink shears, so I did not have to turn hem. I stitched very close to the edges. The jacket has been washed and dried as usual and the patches have stayed in perfect shape. - ROSE

DEAR POLLY - I recently put a decorative toilet tissue holder in our bathroom. Not wanting to be wasteful and throw out the old one, I put it in the kitchen to use as a dish towel rack. This works well for small mother's helpers in the kitchen. - CHARLOTTE

DEAR POLLY - For many years we did not have running water in the house, but now that I have city water, it remains precious and expensive to me. There is a hot and cold mixing faucet at my sink, but I feel I must not waste water to get either the hot or cold temperature. I fill empty 16 oz. pop bottles that have screw-on lids with water while waiting for the right temperature. This is used to water my flowers. I might also grab a couple of bottles to take outside to put in the birds' water pan.

I find sticking a needle in the thread on a spool weakens the thread, so I leave at least an 18-inch knotted double thread on a needle, lay it against the side of the spool and wind that thread around the spool. It stays there and I have a threaded needle when I am in a hurry. - MAXINE

FAITH WILL GIVE YOU PATIENCE FOR TODAY'S WORLD

In this age of instant foods and virtually everything else, we often clamor for the immediate fulfillment of all our wishes as a matter of course. Patience has nearly become a lost art because we seem to have so little need of it in this push-button era. However, faith in God will not only help you regain your patience, but will let you know if the rapid results you have come to expect are really worthwhile attaining. There may be no such thing as instant success, but there is an instant faith which will direct you toward it in the proper manner. It's as near as your Church.

"But let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing."
— James 1:4

He that has patience may compass anything.
— Francois Rebelais
