Best Band

The Stanton Junior High School band returned from Greater Southwest Music Festival held in Amarillo last weekend with a trophy and sweepstakes honors. The band was recognized by Greater Southwest as "Outstanding Band."

The Hereford High School Orchestra, under the direction of Bill Huff, was named the Outstanding Honor Orchestra of the Mountain States Music Festival held at Arizona State University last weekend. Some 17 orchestras from five states attended the festival.

The HHS Orchestra attended the festival along with the HHS Honors Band, Symphonic Band, and Concert Band. All three of those groups earned a second division rating at the festival.

And, while the high school musicians were heading West, the Stanton and La Plata Junior High Bands made a trip north to the Greater Southwest Music Festival in Amarillo.

The Stanton Band, directed by Layne Sorensen, was named the top band in its division. After earning Sweepstakes honors in the CC Division, the Dogie Band was named the division's Outstanding Band.

Stanton earned three Is in concert and a I in sightreading for the Sweepstakes honor. The La Plata band made it a sweep for Hereford as it was the only other band to earn Sweepstakes honors at the festival. Under the direction of Jim Priest, the Maverick band also earned three Is in concert and a I in sightreading.

Comments concerning the HHS orchestra's performance included:

"Very good balance in the orchestra. Good sound. Beautiful tone quality and intonation—a really fine job. Reflects good work and musical discipline."—Judge Walter Flnoch

"Beautiful woodwind tone concepts; beautiful balanced horn work. Good balance...there is so much musical talent in this ensemble that I find myself just sitting and enjoying."—Judge Carlo Veronda

"An exciting selection which I am happy to hear a high school orchestra perform (Referring to "Introduction to Act III of Lohengrin by Richard Wagner). I'm glad that I had a chance to hear you."

The judges had this to say about the Stanton Band: "Excellent sounds throughout. I really enjoyed the group."—Judge Ron Thielman

"A fine job of teaching and rehearsing. Good luck with this fine band."—Judge Kennedy

Concerning both the Stanton and La Plata bands, Judge Robert Foster said, "A very nice band. Congratulations."

Riots Follow Sands' Death

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer
BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Roman Catholic housewives banged out a requiem with the lids of their garbage cans for Bobby Sands early today as the death of the IRA hunger striker set off several more hours of violence in Catholic districts of Belfast and Londonderry.

"This is about what we expected," a police spokesman said. "We are prepared for it."

The 27-year-old IRA guerrilla died at 1:17 a.m. in the Maze Prison outside

Belfast. It was the start of the 66th day of his fast demanding that the British government give imprisoned IRA members the special political-prisoner privileges it took away from them in 1976. Sands had been an unknown prisoner for most of his nine years in the Irish Republican Army's Provisional wing, with no notable military exploits to his credit. But when he died on a prison hospital waterbed with a golden crucifix from Pope John Paul II in his emaciated hand, he became for supporters of the IRA and many other Catholics the newest martyr in their cause — the unification of the Protestant-dominated British province of Northern Ireland with the mostly Catholic Irish Republic.

Meanwhile, the IRA's fight for the special privileges Sands did not win was carried on by three other hunger strikers in the Maze. Visitors said one of them, Francis Hughes, 25, was within days of death after 92 days without food. Two other guerrillas in the 45th day of their fast were in less serious condition.

Despite pleas for calm from Catholic leaders and Sands' family, three days of mourning ordered by the IRA began with rioting by roving bands rampaging through the dark streets of Belfast and Londonderry, the province's two biggest cities. Hundreds of extra police were deployed in the battle-scarred Catholic districts of West Belfast and Londonderry, intent on keeping the rioters from spilling over into neighboring Protestant districts and setting off a backlash by the extremists of the Protestant Ulster Defense Association.

The violence simmered down around dawn, and the Protestants were not involved.

The police fired six shots over the heads of rioters in Londonderry. Firemen fought a fire in a West (See RIOTS, Page 2)

City Fathers Increase Swimming Pool Rates

By BOB NIGH
Managing Editor
If you're planning to head for the city pool for a refreshing dip when it opens the end of May you'd better throw a little extra change in your pocket.

The Hereford City Commission voted unanimously Monday night to increase the admission fee to the pool. Still, an afternoon swim is still probably the cheapest form of entertainment around.

The city fathers raised the rates from 20 cents to 35 cents for children up to age 12 and those over age 12 respectively to a whopping 50 cents and 75 cents respectively.

The increase will help defray some of the near $12,000 in expenses of late in getting the city pool at Dameron Park into usable shape for this summer. The city has sandblasted the deck at the pool and re-painted it as well as doing other repairs at the facility within the past few weeks.

"We know there is no way we are going to break even on the pool," City Manager Dudley Bayne said. "But, we haven't raised the price of admission for many years and feel that now is the time to do so."

In other action, the commissioners accepted the low bid on a submersible pump for the city water department, authorized to advertise for bids for an emergency vehicle for the fire department, okayed an oil lease, appointed members to the Hereford Family Services Center Board, and turned down a request for rent adjustment for a hangar at the airport.

A bid of $4,750 from Water Industries, Inc. of Hereford was accepted by the commissioners for the pump for the water department. The pump will be used at city water well No. 21, which is located south of Tierra Blanca School. Other bids submitted included $4,859.20 from Wall & Sons Drilling, Inc. and $5,600 from Big T Pump Co.

Mike Moon, of the Family Services Center, was present at the meeting last night to recommend board members for the center. Two board members' terms are expiring, including Nathan "Corky" Lockmiller and Donna Vandervee. Moon told the commissioners that Lockmiller has requested another term and that Hereford High School counselor Patsy Giles had agreed to fill the other seat.

Commissioners approved both of those nominations to the board.

The city fathers okayed a five-year oil lease to Frank Youngblood for a parcel of city property, but weren't as (See CITY, Page 2)

Democrats Concede Budget Cuts Winning

WASHINGTON (AP) — As debate gives way to action, House Democratic leaders are conceding they can't match President Reagan's lobbying clout and lack the votes to block the administration's budget cuts.

"It's a little bit like going into the ring and the other guy has got brass knuckles and all you've got is 16-ounce gloves," said House Democratic leader Jim Wright of Texas. "We don't have any rewards to bestow, favors to withhold or punishment to mete out...."

"The speaker (of the House) and the majority leader do not have anything except a hunting license to persuade, and we've been trying with varying degrees of success," Wright said Monday in an address to the National Press Club.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. was more direct. "Am I getting commitments? The answer is no, to be truthful on the thing," the Massachusetts Democrat said. "Have I got disappointments? The answer is yes."

The House was moving toward votes late today on amendments to a budget blueprint, with a final vote expected Wednesday.

In the Republican-controlled Senate, debate begins Wednesday or Thursday on a similar administration-backed plan approved by the Senate Budget Committee.

An Associated Press survey late last week found 29 House Democrats definitely supporting the president's plan instead of their own party's alternative and at least five others leaning that way. If Republicans stay solid, a switch of 36 Democrats would be necessary to give Reagan a victory. GOP leaders say they expect only one Republican to vote against the president.

O'Neill said Monday his count showed 175 of the 242 Democrats in the House standing firm, 41 votes short of what is needed. That assessment generally matched the prediction of Rep. Phil Gramm, D-Texas, co-author of the substitute budget plan endorsed by Reagan, that 40 to 50 Democrats will vote with the president.

But in a last-ditch move to keep potential defectors in line, House Democratic leaders argued that a vote now will lock members into budget-cutting decisions they will regret later.

Reagan, meanwhile, was working hard to seal a victory.

Two dozen congressmen, mostly Southern Democrats, met with the president Monday at the White House, a few at a time. More were to be invited today and possibly Wednesday.

Among Monday's visitors was Rep. Donald J. Albores, D-Mich., who said he expected to vote for the administration-favored budget resolution sponsored by Gramm and Rep. Delbert L.

Three Injured In Van-Car Accident

Three Hereford residents were transported to Deaf Smith General Hospital following a two-vehicle collision at the intersection of 13th Street and Blevins around 9:30 p.m. Monday.

Daniel Ramos, 21, of 826 Blevins, Juan Jose Alejandro, 19, of 416 Ave. E, and Gregorio Cantu, 11, were all treated and released from DSGH. Ramos suffered a fractured clavicle and lacerations in the accident, while the two others were treated for facial lacerations.

According to the police report Ramos was driving a Chevrolet van, and ran a stop sign at the intersection, colliding with a car driven by Joe Martinez, of 833 Irving. The van pushed the car across the intersection and up over the opposite curb.

No citations were issued at the scene, but investigation is continuing into the accident at this time police said.

In other reports Chuck's Auto Repair, 103 Jewell, reported that a radiator valued at $300 had been removed from a grain truck over the weekend. Workers at the construction site of the new Nazarene Church at 1412 La Plata, told police that someone had cut away 150 feet of copper tubing there.

Reagan Sending Personal Emissary

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is sending former Undersecretary of State Philip C. Habib to the Middle East as his personal emissary to try to reduce tensions building there, a White House spokesman said today.

Reagan, who personally appealed to Israel to refrain from attacking Syrian surface-to-air missile batteries in Lebanon, is thus stepping up his involvement in efforts to give international diplomacy a chance to defuse the explosive situation.

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said this morning that Habib would consult with the leaders of Lebanon, Syria and Israel on his mission, which is likely to begin later this week.

"He will be exploring ways to reduce tensions produced by recent developments surrounding the situation in Lebanon," Speakes said.

Speakes said the leaders of the three nations on Habib's itinerary had agreed to receive the envoy. Reagan scheduled a meeting with Habib for shortly before noon in the Oval Office.

Speakes said Habib's departure plans remained uncertain. He said the envoy would meet with Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr., who is returning from Europe today, either late in the day or Wednesday morning.

The spokesman said Habib's mission will be "to explore ways to defuse the situation. He will want to hear what the leaders say before advancing ideas."

Asked whether Habib would have sufficient time to get to work, given the tense situation in the Middle East, Speakes said: "The condition this morning remains essentially the same as yesterday, relatively quiet. The United States welcomes the restraint being exercised and it's our hope it will continue."

Leasing Policies

Delay Oil Production

HOUSTON (AP) — Irratic federal leasing policies have delayed production but the nation's areas still offer great oil and gas potential, a Shell Oil Company official says. Leasing schedules and energy policies of the past decade also have contributed to the current and potential shortages of trained people and equipment, C.L. Blackburn, Shell's executive vice president said Monday.

"It is critically important to our nation's future that all promising offshore areas be explored quickly and efficiently to determine the real potential for production," Blackburn told a general session of the Offshore Technology Conference.

"The delays in federal lease offerings in the period between 1975 and the end of 1980 mean that much of the production we were expecting to come onstream during the 1980s will be delayed until 1990 or even beyond," Blackburn said.

Blackburn said long-term planning is necessary to maintain trained personnel and equipment.

"Long-term predictability is essential if we are going to train the people, expand our equipment-producing capability and make the significant capital commitments that will be required in the '80s," he said.

Virus Threatens

Texas, South

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — A Texas A&M entomologist says he expects summer to bring Texas more cases of a disease that one sufferer said made him feel like his joints had been broken with a hammer.

Dr. Jim Olson said Monday that 58 cases of the mosquito-borne virus dengue, pronounced "dan-gee," were reported in Texas last summer. He said the illness is nicknamed break-bone fever.

"Where it's going this year we don't know," Olson said. "It's already occurring in Tampico, Mexico, and eyes are turning back towards South Texas."

Olson said the yellow-fever mosquito carries dengue.

"We're fertile ground to both the yellow fever and dengue outbreaks because of the mild winter and the build-up of this species of mosquito in Texas," Olson said.

"The medical community needs to be aware of the potential re-emergence of the virus back into Texas and the United States."

A case last fall involving a 5-year-old Brownsville girl marked the first time since 1945 that a person in the United States had caught the disease locally, Olson said.

The Texas A&M researcher said the essential element to stopping the virus is stopping the mosquito. This appears to break a natural cycle, he said. If a mosquito bites a person with dengue it can spread the disease by biting another person.

The major symptoms are high fever, severe headache, pain behind the eyes, backache, joint pains and sometimes a rash. It rarely is fatal.

Olson said there is currently no vaccine for the virus and the disease is difficult to diagnose. Treatment is symptomatic, which means reducing the pain and intravenous feeding.

Representative Wants

Judge Impeached

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler should be impeached, convicted and removed from the bench, a state representative says.

Rep. Ken Riley, R-Corpus Christi, told the House State Affairs Committee late Monday night that Justice — whose far-reaching civil rights, bilingual education, and prison reform decisions have angered many people — has "created numerous problems for the Texas Department of Corrections and the taxpayers."

The resolution asks the U.S. House of Representatives to impeach the judge for "abuse of power and usurping the rights of the people of Texas."

The measure also calls on the U.S. Senate to "convict and remove him (Justice) from office."

"An impeachable offense is whatever the House of Representatives says it is," Riley told the committee.

In support of the resolution, Riley read excerpts from anonymous letters from three prison officials who said Justice's ruling in the inmates' civil rights case had created problems for them.

Justice ruled in the case that conditions in Texas prisons violated inmates' civil rights. He cited overcrowding, in which about 2,800 prisoners sleep on the floor, as one of the reasons.

Small Car

Registration Raised

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Small car owners may save on gas but it will cost them more for license plates, if the Texas Senate has its way.

The Senate passed on voice vote and sent to the House Monday a bill that would increase registration fees for cars up to 3,500 pounds from $12 to $17.

Sen. John Traeger, D-Seguin, said county road and bridge funds would benefit from the increase by receiving up to $350,000 in each county, compared to a top of $175,000 that counties receive now for selling motor vehicle license plates.

Traeger said the bill would give Texas counties an extra $22 million in 1982, plus adding $900,000 to the state general revenue fund. By 1986, Traeger said, local governments would be getting a revenue gain of $48.1 million while the state would gain $10 million.

"Five dollars is not going to make any difference to drivers of small cars," Traeger said. "They can pay this and still save money from gasoline bills."

"We all know this is nothing but a new tax bill, no matter what Gov. Bill Clements says," said Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin.

Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, argued the increase in registration fees should be passed on to larger cars, which pay $22 or $30 dollars. "This is a deterrent to those who want to save money by driving smaller cars," he said. "This will particularly hit low-income people and students."

"I know a lot of low-income people and students who drive big cars," said Traeger, "and a lot of these small foreign cars cost more than the big domestic cars."

Truan tried to amend Traeger's bill to make the $5 increase effective for cars 3,501 to 4,500 pounds, which now pay $22 registration fees. The effort got only five supporting votes with 28 against.

Traeger's bill passed to the House on voice vote.

Leaders Pleased with U.S. Commitment to Open Talks

ROME (AP) — Western European leaders say they are pleased by the U.S. commitment to open talks with the Soviet Union on missile deployment in Europe and by President Reagan's personal letter to Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev.

Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. went a long way toward easing anxieties among the NATO allies by disclosing Monday that the United States intends to open talks with Moscow before the end of the year to limit the number of medium-range nuclear weapons stationed by the two superpowers in Europe.

Haig's announcement was made during a closed-door meeting of the foreign ministers of the 15 members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The meeting ends today with the issuance of a communiqué.

The secretary of state told the other foreign ministers he would have preliminary talks about the missiles with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko at the U.N. General Assembly in September. Conference sources said lower-level talks might be held earlier to establish ground rules for the negotiations.

Some West European governments had hoped for an earlier start to the arms control talks, but most of their representatives seemed satisfied that Haig was able to go as far as he did.

To deter the 1,040 missiles the Soviets have deployed in betteries trained on Western Europe, NATO agreed in December 1979 that the United States in 1983 would begin deploying 872 cruise and Pershing II missiles in Western Europe unless the superpowers agreed otherwise before then.

Sentiment against the U.S. deployment has mushroomed in Western Europe since the NATO decision. Haig's announcement Monday apparently reflected a realization by the Reagan administration that its allies could turn against the stationing of new weapons on their territory unless the United States agreed to start arms control talks with the Soviets.

Haig suggested that serious negotiations with the Russians on the arms question would not be possible if Moscow engaged in military adventurism in Poland or elsewhere.

During the session Monday, Haig also disclosed that Reagan sent a handwritten letter to Brezhnev a few days ago. The timing of the letter appeared aimed at placating the many European governments which have contended that the new administration's anti-Soviet rhetoric has been excessively strident.

Reagan's letter, several pages long, reportedly said Haig would be willing to meet with Gromyko in the fall to lay the groundwork for the missile-control talks.

Reagan's willingness to open a dialogue with Brezhnev contrasts sharply with his attitude during his first days in the White House. He said then that the Soviets' goal was world revolution, and they were willing to resort to almost any tactic, including lying and cheating, to promote it.

Habib resigned from government service in April 1978. As a career foreign service officer, he had risen to the position of under secretary of state for political affairs.

Habib, 61, has served both Democratic and Republican presidents. He was a senior adviser to the U.S. delegation at the Vietnam peace talks in Paris from 1969 to 1971. He was also ambassador to South Korea from 1971 until 1974, when he became assistant secretary of state for East Asian and Pacific affairs. He took on a temporary State Department assignment in 1979 and 1980, when he served as a special adviser to the secretary of state.

He is a Brooklyn-born Lebanese-Christian and the son of a grocer.

Speakers said Monday that Reagan had sent a personal letter to Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin urging all parties to the Lebanese situation "to maintain the restraint... which has been shown in the past weeks."

The Man Behind the Tree

Don't cut me:
Don't cut me:
Cut the man behind the tree!

I can't remember the first time I heard that saw. I last heard it from Indianapolis Mayor Hudnut who was explaining the president's problem in cutting government expenditures.

Everybody applauds the idea in theory — as long as it's "the other fellow" who gets pinched.

When the president explains that the gravy train has run out of gas and we're all going to have to get off the elephant and push... the electorate shouts "Bravo!"

But — "not me!" Cornell scientist Carl Sagan says — cut the budget except for his science programs.

Governors say — cut the budget except for medical aid. Mayors say — cut the budget except for urban renewal.

Big labor's Lane Kirkland says — cut the budget except food stamps and such...

Our ship of state is broadside into a hurricane and everybody recognizes the sail must be trimmed — "but not mine!"

Should some future Gibbon have to record the decline and fall of the American Empire, he will surely remember that we were willing to sacrifice the guy behind the tree...

But not me! The goofiest and most self-defeating of all our government's tax practices may be the tax on your so-called "unearned income."

Interest received from your bank account, dividends from investments; such moneys are called "unearned."

In the first place, of course, you earned the money before you could deposit it or invest it. When you earned it you paid taxes on it.

But then, though government urges us — "put our money to work" — we are punished when we do with disproportionate taxes. In some brackets the tax on unearned income is as high as 70 percent.

President Reagan is recommending that this higher tax rate be cut down to a maximum of 50 percent over the next three years.

But what's this? In the congressional hopper is a bill—HR 2385 — which would immediately lop the tax back to a maximum of 50 percent.

And the ramrod behind HR 2385 is a Democrat!

Congressman William Brodhead of Michigan. Mr. Brodhead notes that the government will harvest more taxes, not less, as investors come in out of their precarious tax shelters and put their money in economically sound investments.

As is, Americans in January — were saving at an incredibly low rate of 4.4 percent.

With our country having to come from behind economically, we need invested capital from whatever source; this would encourage that.

Additional officers elected were Thelda Selver, vice president; Irene Reinart, secretary; Lupe Cerda, treasurer; and Mary Johnson, reporter.

During the meeting several reports were heard including the announcement of the recent Safety Poster contest held for hospital employees. John Cox with decided at a later date.

Members also voted to buy Baxter London a blazer for his devoted assistance.

Visitor Amy Long was introduced to those members present.

4-H Firsthand

4-H Offers Chance For International Living

By ROBBY VANN
County Extension Agent
Through the 4-H program, Texas youth are becoming more involved in the international scene.

Every year youth take part in the International 4-H Youth Exchange (IFYE). Between 35 and 40 countries participate in this program.

with more than 85 participants exchanged each year.

When the IFYE program began in 1948, it was primarily a cultural exchange program. With changing world conditions, however, emphasis in the exchange has been made to best meet the needs of youth and their educational programs.

To create international understanding and assist in the development of youth programs throughout the world, delegates from the United States and their foreign counterparts travel abroad from three to six months during spring, summer or fall. Inbound foreign delegates usually arrive in the United States in spring or summer.

Exchanges live and work with their host families to learn the cultures, language and ways of life. Opportunities are provided for pursuing special student interests and for observing and working with youth programs.

Serving as a host family to a foreign exchange is a rewarding and satisfying experience. The host family can provide lots of information of distant lands and their people.

Families interested in hosting a foreign youth exchange or youth interested in being a delegate to a foreign country can contact the county Extension office for additional information.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serves people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Ann Landers

Fly the Friendly Skies

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You are the best source to get the most attention. I failed to do this last year but made up my mind to do it today.

To all the pilots, co-pilots and flight attendants who fly the airways of the world: I would like to express my appreciation of your skills, expertise and all the other qualities it takes to do the tremendous job you do every day - taken for granted by many and completely overlooked by some.

I've had the privilege of flying on several long and some short flights, and I have never ceased to be amazed at the technology and skills required to get those large craft off the ground, into the air and down again without a mishap.

I realize I am not expressing this very well, but I want to take this opportunity to thank all of you for the great job you are doing. - D.J.

DEAR D.J.: I happened to be aboard a TWA flight to New York when I read your letter. (I never travel without a briefcase filled with mail.) Your letter was so nice I asked the flight attendant to give it to the captain. Here is a copy of his response:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Thank you for the opportunity to read the letter from that grateful passenger. Not only the passengers, but we in the cockpit tend to take our work for granted. It becomes routine like most other jobs that have a gloss of glamour, but the roots are in the routine. In fact, the routine becomes boring after awhile and the progress of technology keeps demanding less of us. After several thousand hours in the air it is difficult not to become complacent.

This is why the letter you shared with us was so encouraging. It is gratifying to be reminded occasionally that someone appreciates what we do. Thank you, Ann Landers, for making our day a little brighter. -Capt. Jake East, TWA FR 320-2.

P.S. The reverse of this paper is a TWX attached to our weather package and it's at times like this that we really earn our keep. -J.R.

DEAR READERS: The TWX was the weather report. It told of turbulence and limited visibility ahead. When I read it, I was once again reminded of the enormous responsibility these airline pilots have. Their skill and judgment are a matter of life. I, too, am a grateful passenger.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is there some way you can get the message across that people, unless invited, are not welcome on weekends - especially between 5 and 7 p.m.?

We have some close relatives who have fallen into the habit of showing up just as we are about to sit down for supper. Then there is a mad scramble to reset the table and provide enough chairs for everyone. Stretching a meal to feed ten, when it was prepared for six, is a no job.

I know we are not the only ones who have this problem. Can you suggest a solution? - Trapped

DEAR TRAPPED: Yes. Either grow some guts or quit complaining. The next time the locusts descend, let them sit awhile and then say, "It's getting near supper time and I'm sorry we don't have enough for four extra. Please phone in advance next time and let us know when you are coming, so we can be prepared."

What are the do's and don'ts of teaching your child about the birds and the bees? Let Ann Landers' new booklet, "How, What, and When to Tell Your Child About Sex," give you the ground rules. For your copy send 50 cents along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

When using a new pattern or when sewing with expensive fabric, it's a good idea to make a test garment of muslin, suggests Nancy Brown, a clothing specialist. This will allow for needed alterations, she explains.

BEDWETTER

LET THEM HAVE A DRY BED

The greatest gift you can give a bedwetter and the rest of the family, too, is an end to this serious problem, and make no mistake, bedwetting is serious. It can cause complicated psychological problems that last a lifetime. It's so needless because bedwetting, when not caused by organic defect or disease, can be ended. Send for our free brochure, "Bedwetting - What It's All About and How To End It," a report by two medical doctors. No obligation.

At Wits End By ERMA BOMBECK

Someone once told me there is a patrol saint of women's underwear named St. Frederick. I never really believed this. The person who told me said she used to pray to him all the time to keep her slip from creeping up on her like a venetian blind, and to give her courage when she crossed her legs and saw her pantyhose crotch around her knees.

I still don't know if such a saint exists, but if what I read is true about the garter belt coming back, then I have to take the chance.

Dear St. Frederick: (read with feeling)
As I have said so often, there is no other saint in your line of work so kind, so charitable and so caring. Who can forget how you, in your infinite compassion, gaveth us the one-size-fits-all and taketh away the girdle?

That is why I do not understand why you permit the return of the garter belt. Was it something I said? Did I go too far in my criticism of the pantyhose? Is there no one who wants to sit on the eggs anymore?

I beg not for myself, but for an entire generation of young people who saw Liz Minnell in "Cabaret" and think garter belts are sexy.

They don't know garter belts as I know them. Without a top hat and starved legs, they're nothing! Garter belts are what happens when you assign a committee to design something to take your mind off your headache. The elastic band that cuts your waist in half supports two dangling marionette supporters that never warm up. They are positioned so that when you turn to reach the supporter in the back, they travel up to your waist. When you reach behind your waist, they fall to your knees.

They make ridges in your legs when you sit on them, and when you stand, sometimes release the very stockings they are supposed to hold up.

I beg you, St. Frederick, to intercede for women everywhere and arrange for an unfortunate accident to occur to garter belts on the comeback trail.

Naturally, we will live with thy will, but when 30 million women stand in front of their mirrors looking at themselves in garter belts, trust me, Freddie, you're going to work a seven-day week!

Writer Turns 13 Unmarked Graves into Hometown Novel

CHANEYSVILLE, Pa. (AP) — Stand on the hill where rough-hewn stones mark their graves.

You can almost hear the sounds the 13 runaway slaves might have made, their feet stumbling and lungs struggling, as they fled before their pursuers 122 years ago.

Then, the awful moment of truth — no escape save one. A spiritual sums it up: "And before I'll be a slave, I'll lie buried in my grave, and go home to my Lord, and be free."

One by one, author David Bradley believes, the 13 slew themselves.

In a novel that pulls no punches about the cruelties suffered by such runaways and their descendants in his nearby hometown of Bedford, Bradley has brought the 13 slaves back to life.

Drawing fiction from a local legend, he examines their flight and the unraveling of fate that brought them to be buried here, in a white family's mountainside graveyard high above Blue Gap Run.

Their story, passed down from generation to generation in this isolated southwestern Pennsylvania valley, now comes to a larger audience in "The Chaneyville Incident," Bradley's second novel, published April 8 by Harper & Row.

It is the story of a young, black college professor's search for self. In trying to understand why his father, an eccentric moonshiner, died, he discovers the death was linked to the deaths of the runaway slaves more than a century earlier.

The book has created a sensation in Bradley's hometown, population 3,200 and peacock-proud of its past. The novel is sold out at the Bedford bookstore, despite — or maybe because of — the jobs it takes at the community's history.

"It's caused talk, let's put it that way," said storeowner Doris Atkinson. "It did open my eyes a little bit."

A boyhood friend of Bradley's, Bill Clark, is now sports editor of the Bedford Gazette. Clark, who is white, said he felt the novel portrays prejudice in the town more starkly than he remembers.

"There's things in there I didn't know, growing up side-by-side with him," Clark said.

In the story, Bedford is referred to as "the Town," a site of political corruption, segregated eating places, barbers who won't cut the hair of blacks and a lynching.

The novel also says that it was at the colonnaded Bedford Springs Hotel, just outside town, that the Supreme Court justices holed up, with their magnesia water and black servants, before handing down the infamous Dred Scott decision.

That's the one that said, in effect: once a slave, always a slave. It held that a slave's residence in free territory did not make him or her free and denied citizenship rights to the descendants of slaves.

The book spans 250 years of history and local landmarks and institutions are recognizable in its pages, Bedford residents say. "I used the things that I knew," Bradley acknowledged.

He was not always kind. His treatment of the town combines nostalgia with anger.

The mixture also comes through in conversation. He speaks affectionately of the old people in town and their endless stories, but the voice grows taut when he recalls his years as one of a small knot of blacks in the local high school. "Sheer, unadulterated terror," he said. "Somebody beat me up every day."

But overall, "they're very good people," he said. "One of the reasons that I didn't use the name of the town in the book was because what happened there could have happened anywhere."

Reconstructing the past is Bradley family tradition. The author's mother, Harriette Bradley, is a history buff. So was his father, the Rev. David Bradley, who died last year.

It was while helping prepare a history of Bedford County in 1969 that Mrs. Bradley heard the legend of the runaway slaves.

She traced the tale to the "south county," near Chaneyville, and finally found the unmarked stones in the graveyard of the James clan, one of the county's founding families.

"They put them in their family cemetery. They must have been some quite good people at that time," Mrs. Bradley said.

Bradley, by then studying creative writing at the University of Pennsylvania, was fascinated by the story. He promised himself to write about the slaves fleeing their masters and passing it through here on the Underground Railroad.

Bradley's mother said she heard the slaves were killed by sympathetic whites at the slaves' request when they realized capture was imminent. But the author dismisses that part of the story, saying anyone who killed slaves was liable for their value and punishable under law.

He thinks suicide by the band was a more likely explanation, saying that slave suicides were common and widely documented.

"Their idea of death was different," he said. "When these people found themselves in an untenable position, they would simply escape. Instead of escaping North, they would escape in a different direction."

The Newspaper BIBLE

THAT'S TELLING IT LIKE IT IS!

"Sir," said an expert in religious law who was standing there. "You have insulted my profession too, in what you just said."

"Yes," said Jesus. "The same horrors await you! For you crush men beneath impossible demands—demands that you yourselves would never think of trying to keep."

"Woe to you! For you are exactly like your ancestors who killed the prophets long ago. Murderers! You agree with your fathers that what they did was right—you would have done the same yourselves."

"This is what God says about you: 'I will send prophets and apostles to you, and you will kill some of them and chase away the others.' And you of this generation will be held responsible for the murder of God's servants from the founding of the world... from the murder of Abel to the murder of Zechariah who perished between the altar and the sanctuary. Yes, it will surely be charged against you."

"Woe to you experts in religion! For you hide the truth from the people. You won't accept it for yourselves, and you prevent others from having a chance to believe it."

The Pharisees and legal experts were furious; and from that time on they plied Him fiercely with a host of questions, trying to trap Him into saying something for which they could have Him arrested. Luke 11:45-54

Dear Editor:

I was very interested to read in your paper recently, an item on the subject of the U.S. sugar supply and its effect on consumer prices.

While your article described very accurately the current supply situation, the following background information may give your readers a more comprehensive picture of the problem.

Over the last few weeks, amid the noisy hubbub caused by the new Administration's economic policy, hearings have been going on quietly before the House and Senate's Agricultural sub-committees.

The purpose is to fashion a new version of the Farm Bill, due for renewal this year. "Glamor" commodities such as wheat and milk have received a great deal of publicity - perhaps because they are produced in such abundance that special legislation is required for disposing of the surplus. The understanding for decades has been that it is in the national interest for grain and dairy farmers to remain prosperous.

Although often lumped together with other food commodities, sugar presents a very different case. Just over half the country's needs are met by its domestic sugar growers and processors, requiring the importation of the remaining 41 percent.

In spite of scare stories from food faddists, sugar is still an essential part of the American diet and is used extensively in the preparation of manufactured foods such as ice cream, canned fruits and cookies. Only about 24 percent of this country's annual sugar supply is bought for family consumption (2.2 million metric tons out of a total U.S. consumption of 9.5 million metric tons).

Approximately three-quarters of the sugar imported into the U.S. is supplied by the 16 countries belonging to an international commodity organization with the acronym of GEPLACEA.

The price of this is set on the world market and the U.S. must pay this price, which is then reflected in the costs of many foods in the supermarket.

Right now, the U.S. is the largest importer of sugar in the world. It is also the only major nation without some kind of policy to protect its consumers from unreasonable prices and its domestic sugar industry from being wiped out.

Already, in the last 4 years, 13 beet sugar processing plants, and a dozen raw cane mills have closed down and many thousand acres of sugar beets have been eliminated from the production stream. If exporting nations operate in concert to manipulate the sugar supply - either by withholding supplies or by dumping - both U.S. consumers and processors could be badly hurt.

The only action that can prevent this from happening is for the government to come up, this year, with a sound piece of legislation that will protect, on a long-term basis, the pocket-books of this country's consumers and the livelihoods of its sugarbeet farmers and sugar processors.

Cordially,

House Reunion Set

AUSTIN — An ambitious undertaking to hold a reunion for all former members of the Texas House of Representatives is expected to draw a large crowd of former lawmakers to Austin on Speaker's Day, May 18.

Many former members routinely come back to the Capitol and are recognized by the House and receive privileges of the floor. Since the first legislature convened in 1846, however, there has never been a reunion of the entire membership.

Representative Pete Laney, chairman of the House Administration Committee, said 768 former members have been invited to attend the legislative session on May 18, so that they may be properly recognized.

Laney said that several members from the 39th Legislature, 1925-1927, have indicated they will try to attend. He is hopeful that members who served in earlier Legislatures may be found. "We are asking for the help of anyone who may know the address of a former member to contact us," Laney said.

Speaker Bill Clayton said in addition to formal recognition by the House that morning, that he would hold a barbecue for them at noon on the Capitol grounds and they would be special guests at the Erwin Center that night at a party expected to draw 4,000 persons.

Q. I'm stumped. I just bought a new battery to replace my old one which could no longer hold a charge. But, the new one won't hold a charge either. What now?

A. Start simply. Is your battery equal to your accessory load? Next check out your generator or alternator for defects and, while you're about it have a look at your voltage regulator for the correct setting and for defects. Check your battery terminals for corrosion. Be sure corrosion hasn't crept up under the insulation on your battery cables. If your car is difficult to start, you may be wearing down the battery while starting. And last, but most common: Check your fanbelt; it simply might not be tight enough.

Carlton Now 5-0; Astros Top Cubs

By KEN RAFFOPOORT
AP Sports Writer

You may not have heard it, but there's another hot left-hander in the National League in addition to Fernando Valenzuela of the Los Angeles Dodgers. Remember Steve Carlton, last year's Cy Young winner? While the sensational Valenzuela has been making news with his peerless 6-0 record, Carlton has been pitching just as steadily as last season for the World Champion Philadelphia Phillies.

Monday night, the unbeaten Carlton posted his fifth straight victory with a 6-4 decision over the San Francisco Giants.

Carlton is off to his best start in 16 years. Monday night was his 25th straight start in which he didn't allow more than four runs in a game. Incidentally, he moved ahead of Carl Hubbell into 11th place on the all-time National League victory list with 254.

In other NL action, it was Atlanta 6, St. Louis 6; Montreal 4, Los Angeles 3 and Houston 5, Chicago 4.

After spotting the Giants a 4-0 lead in the first three innings, Carlton settled down and allowed only two hits through the final six and finished with a seven-hitter. He struck out eight to boost his career strikeout total to 3,014, just one behind Cincinnati's Tom Seaver for fifth place on the all-time list.

Astros 5, Cubs 4
Jose Cruz' three-run homer in the first inning powered Houston over Chicago. Terry Fuhl opened the Houston first by reaching on an error and Danny Heep drew a walk before Cruz smashed his fifth homer, off Mike Krakow.

Winner Joaquin Andujar was working on a six-hit shutout when Hector Cruz, Jose's brother, hit his first homer of the season in the sixth. The Cubs rallied for three more runs in the ninth before Joe Sambito came out of the bullpen to nail down the victory.

Expos 4, Dodgers 3
Steve Rogers scattered seven hits in 8 1/3 innings and Montreal took advantage of two Los Angeles errors in a four-run second to beat the Dodgers. Only one of the Expos' runs against Los Angeles starter Rick Sutcliffe was earned.

Ron Cey homered for one of the Dodgers' runs and they got two more in the ninth before Elias Sosa shut the door in relief.

Braves 3, Cardinals 6
Bob Horner slugged four hits and drove in three runs, including the tiebreaker in a three-run eighth inning, as Atlanta cooled off St. Louis.

deadlocking 5-5 in a game suspended by curfew after 10 innings.

Yanks Top A's; Baltimore Wins

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

Lately, when Ron Davis throws baseballs, nobody hits them. And no matter who pitches the ball, Barry Foote seems to hit them...out of the park.

That combination — along with Lou Piniella and rookie pitcher Gene Nelson — bedeviled the California Angels 4-2 Monday night.

Davis tied an American League record with eight consecutive strikeouts and, added to the five batters he fanned to conclude a Yankee victory in Oakland Sunday, he's struck out 13 of the last 14 men to face him.

Foote, acquired from the Chicago Cubs last week as a fill-in for injured catcher Rick Cerone, hit his fourth homer as a Yankee in the sixth inning after Piniella had homered earlier in the inning to put the Yanks on top 3-2.

Elsewhere in the AL, it was Baltimore over Minnesota 4-3 in 10 innings; Milwaukee besting Seattle 9-5, and Boston and Kansas City

Streck 'Sleeps' To Title

HOUSTON (AP) — When he finally got his eyes open, Ron Streck had one question about his day-late, storm-shortened victory in the Michelob-Houston Open Golf Tournament.

"Is this totally official?" the still-sleepy Streck asked shortly after dawn Monday morning.

It is.

Even though the tournament's final round was canceled because of flooding, reducing the tournament to 54 holes, it goes into the books as an official event and Streck receives full winner's benefits, including entry into next year's Masters and the Tournament of Champions.

Amarillo Loses, 5-4

By The Associated Press
Dave Kable's grand slam home run in the bottom of the ninth gave the Arkansas Travelers a 6-3 come-from-behind Texas League baseball victory over the Jackson Mets Monday night. In other Texas League action, San Antonio edged Amarillo, 5-4 and Midland shut out El Paso, 10-0. Tulsa's scheduled game at Shreveport was postponed because of rain.

Although the tournament triumph counts in full measure, the financial payoff was, in accordance with Professional Golfers' Association Tour guidelines, reduced to 75 percent of the announced $350,000.

Strech, who appears younger than his 26 years, received $47,250 for his second career triumph. It boosted his year's earnings to $84,175, the best of his five seasons on the PGA Tour.

Celtics Favored To Beat Houston

By ALEXSACHANE
AP Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics were the pick here to win the championship series in five games when the playoffs began March 31, and there's no reason to change now. Of course, there was no picking the Houston Rockets to reach the finals, but that's another story.

The Rockets dethroned Los Angeles, surprised San Antonio and then beat the National Basketball Association's other Cinderella club, Kansas City, to earn their berth in the finals after a lackluster 40-42 regular season.

"This team has defied all the odds so far," said Rockets General Manager Ray Patterson. "It has been a great achievement to get where we are. But when you get this close, you want the whole pie even more."

But the Rockets' chances of getting the whole pie appear slim. They do have a brilliant center in Moses Malone, the indefatigable rebounder who is capable of dominating any game. And they do have explosive Calvin Murphy, who can come off the bench for 30 or 40 points just about any night out. But they don't appear to have enough else to stay with the poised, talented and psyched-up Celtics.

Boston had every chance to pack it in after falling behind 3-1 in the best-of-seven Eastern Conference finals against Philadelphia, then falling behind by double-figure margins in each of the remaining three games. But the Celtics fought back and pulled out each of those games to win the emotion-charged series, setting off a tumultuous celebration inside Boston Garden that spilled out onto the streets.

"Everybody believed," said Chris Ford, the Celtics' veteran guard. "We did it because we never stopped believing."

And why stop believing now? The Celtics, while not without some weaknesses such as spotty outside shooting and no reliable bench scorer, are stronger than the Rockets in several significant areas.

Boston's fast break can be a devastating weapon and Houston has little chance of staying with the Celtics once they start running. The Rockets say they have become stronger defensively and have the half-court offense to beat any team, but the Celtics boast a tenacious half-court defense that held Philadelphia without a field goal in the final 5:23 of their seventh and deciding game.

Celtics veteran Nate Archibald is among the best in the league at directing a fast break.

Add Houston's 13-game losing streak against the Celtics, last season's four-game playoff sweep by Boston and the Rockets' 3-30 record at Boston Garden, and the pick is: Boston in five.
