Hightower, Perry swap more charges

AUSTIN (AP) - The two candidates for agriculture commissioner are at odds over one another's record on protecting the environment.

Incumbent Democrat Jim Hightower said Thursday he has worked to ban such dangerous chemicals as chlordane, and that his opponent is lying about the record. Republican challenger Rick Perry said Hightower had fallen down on the job and was lying about Perry's ties to the chemical industry.

"The dirty tricks, outright lies and phony billboard campaigns of Rick Perry continue to bury themselves in the mud... Perry's campaign blames Jim Hightower for chlordane found in Austin's Town Lake," said Hightower campaign manager James Clark. "This is just another 'Perry Tale.'"

"The truth is that Jim Hightower banned the sale of chlordane in Texas one year before the Environmental Protection Agency took the pesticide off the shelves nationwide," Clark said.

But Perry, at appearances in Temple, Granbury and Dallas, called Hightower's water protection record "abysmal" and said he had "lied about me being a pawn of the chemical lobby."

"We can't eat the fish in the Trinity River, yet Hightower would like to have us believe he stood strong on the chemical issue," Perry said.

"He says his chlordane program was a national model and that the Environmental Protection Agency used this to generate a ban on chlordane. We have documentation that EPA was looking to suspend the chemical's registration the year before Hightower even placed the chemical on the limited use list," Perry said.

Sugarbeet harvest going smoothly

Area farmers have been taking advantage of open weather over the past three weeks to make major strides in the region's sugarbeet harvest. The beets eventually wind up at Holly Sugar, above, and will continue to roll in for a month or more. Harvest may slow this weekend with a good chance of rain, possibly some snow, and much colder temperatures. The sugarbeet harvest has produced average-and-above yields this year.

Williams gets help in swing

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - With Democrat Ann Richards closing the gap in opinion polls and election day nearing, Republican gubernatorial hopeful Clayton Williams is getting help from the GOP's biggest guns.

Two new opinion polls today showed a tightening race.

A Mason-Dixon poll conducted for various media outlets showed Williams at 45 percent support and Richards at 43 percent; a Texas Poll showed the race 42-35 for Williams.

"Even if I was a betting man, I wouldn't place any bets on this one," James Dyer, who directed the Texas Poll, told the Austin American-Statesman.

Having already received an in-person endorsement from former President Ronald Reagan, Williams is scheduled to spend his final day on the campaign Monday stumping with President Bush.

He's also campaigned alongside U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm and began airing a TV commercial this week featuring first lady Barbara Bush and former Dallas Cowboys Tom Landry.

Williams says he appreciates the assistance.

"I need all the help I can get," he said Thursday. "I'm very proud to tie to the administration. While George Bush may have been attacked, well, Lord, not me. I support his Desert Shield. He's my friend."

But Richards, campaigning in Texarkana, said Williams needs more than help from big-name Republicans. Williams has made Texas a "laughingstock" with his blunders, she charged.

"It's not just what's happening in Texas. Everybody is looking here and saying, 'What in the world is going on?'" Richards said.

Williams this week expressed ignorance of a proposed constitutional amendment he already had voted on affecting gubernatorial appointments. He later said he temporarily forgot the proposal. Other campaign gaffes have included Williams making a joke about rape, for which he apologized.

"It's just one sort of misstep after another," Richards said. She said the gaffes have helped her gain on Williams in polls.

"The one thing they (polls) are consistent on is showing that we are gaining. And as long as we're doing that, I feel very, very good about our possibility to win this race on Tuesday," Richards said.

The Mason-Dixon Poll was based on phone interviews with 824 likely voters between Monday and Wednesday. It had a margin of error of 3.5 percentage points. Since Oct. 11, that survey said, Williams' support has fallen from 51 percent to 45 percent.

The Texas Poll, conducted Oct. 19-29 by the Public Policy Resources Laboratory of Texas A&M University for Harte-Hanks Communications, involved phone interviews with 622 likely voters and had a margin of error of 4 percentage points.

Williams attended a campaign rally at the Austin Opera House on Thursday night, two-stepping with wife Modesta and picking up the support of yet another name, former University of Texas football star Earl Campbell.

"I've been like a person in a closet and I don't say a lot about politics," Campbell told the rally.

"I don't do a lot about politics. There's going to be a lot of people disappointed with what I've decided to do as far as politics are concerned, but that's their business. I think it's time I chose a side. I think Clayton Williams will be great governor, and I wish him and Modesta good luck," he said.

At an earlier rally at the University of North Texas in Denton, Richards took after Williams' proposal to put young drug offenders to work "bustin' rocks."

Bee quarantine eased in South

COLLEGE STATION (AP) - A two-mile quarantine imposed last month near Hidalgo in South Texas where officials discovered the nation's first known swarm of so-called "killer bees" is being lifted because no more have been found.

The quarantine, which restricted movement of managed bee colonies into and out of a 12.6-square-mile area, was to end at 8 a.m. today, said Paul Jackson, chief inspector for the Texas Apiary Inspection Service, an arm of Texas A&M University.

"We just haven't found any more Africanized bees," Jackson said Thursday.

But a quarantine that bars commercial movement of bees out of South Texas will remain in effect in eight counties, perhaps through next spring when more swarms of the Africanized bees likely are found.

"We're at the end of the fall swarming period now and we're finding very little movement of bees at this time," Jackson said.

Iraqis to free four

By ANDREA HAMILTON Associated Press Writer

Iraq pledged to release four more sick and elderly Americans. Smuggled letters from remaining captives describe a life of fear, and President Bush has denounced Saddam Hussein's claims that the hostages are well-treated.

Bush said Thursday the Iraqi president was worse than Hitler, raising some eyebrows by comparing Saddam to the man whose policies led to the extermination of millions of Jews and others during World War II.

Today marked the beginning of the fourth month of the Persian Gulf crisis, which started when Iraq invaded Kuwait on Aug. 2.

The commander of U.S. forces in the region said American troops could destroy Iraq but that such action might not be "in the interest of the long-term balance of power" in the region.

In an interview published today in The New York Times, Gen. H.

Norman Schwarzkopf said war could erupt any time but that he doesn't expect it to.

In other developments, the London-based Kurdistan Democratic Party, an Iraqi opposition group, said thousands of deserters from Iraq's army are hiding in northern Iraq or have fled to Turkey and Saudi Arabia.

Thousands of Marines held exercises in which they simulated a landing on the beaches of Kuwait. Navy officials refused to disclose details about the maneuvers but said they were being held off Oman.

In announcing plans to free four sick and elderly Americans, Iraqi Information Minister Latif Jassim denied the captives were being treated badly. Thousands of foreigners, including about 1,000 Americans, remain in Iraq and Kuwait. Iraq has selectively freed hundreds of them.

Letters smuggled from two American hostages and released by a U.S. official in Baghdad painted a harsh picture.

One of the unidentified Americans said he had been moved five times and was receiving no mail or messages. He said he had lost 35 pounds.

The other said he considered himself a prisoner in the "Iraqi gulag" and pleaded: "Please do not forget the guest hostages." Iraq calls the detained foreigners guests.

President Bush denounced the hostage-holding and slammed Saddam with his harshest accusations yet.

"They have committed outrageous acts of barbarism," Bush said of Saddam's forces. "Brutality - I don't believe that Adolf Hitler ever participated in anything of that nature."

"The brutality against innocent citizens will not be tolerated and will not stand," he told an audience in Burlington, Mass.

Thatcher group in turmoil

LONDON (AP) - Debate over Britain's integration into the European Community has thrown Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher into a political crisis after her deputy, Sir Geoffrey Howe, quit in protest of her resistance to the process.

Howe's resignation late Thursday prompted speculation that he or another senior lawmaker may try to oust her as leader of the Conservative Party - and thus the premiership - in a challenge this winter.

But many observers believe a leadership challenge would be too risky for the party, now less than two years from the June 1992 deadline for the next general election.

Howe, 63, handed his resignation to her without notice in a 30-minute interview on Thursday evening.

He cited "a growing difference" between them over Britain's role in Europe. "We need to persuade friends as well as challenge opponents. ... We should be in the business, not of isolating ourselves unduly, but of offering positive alternatives," he said.

Howe had stayed on as deputy prime minister after Mrs. Thatcher removed him as foreign secretary during his will last year.

The end came for him when she lashed out after a European Community summit in Rome last weekend. The leaders agreed 11-1 to set a timetable for monetary union and debated proposals for closer political ties.

Mrs. Thatcher shouted "No, No, No!" during a rowdy debate in the Commons on Tuesday and ducked an invitation to back Howe.

Howe was the last survivor of the 21-member Cabinet named by Mrs. Thatcher when she first won power in 1979. His departure left her government looking in disarray and the prime minister increasingly embattled.

The 65-year-old Mrs. Thatcher has been at bay before over Europe, which has now ended the Cabinet careers of four top ministers since 1986. And she has gone on to win again.

The split over Europe has blown up with the Thatcher government already in deep trouble. For 16 months it has lagged behind the Labor Party in poll ratings, and is now a daunting 16 points behind.

The government's unpopularity is mainly over high interest rates, 10.9 percent inflation, a new local government tax that has backfired and criticism of Mrs. Thatcher's rigorous style.

The Europe issue is becoming increasingly serious as the 11 other EC nations press on with setting timetables - although no actual agreements - for closer ties that Mrs. Thatcher rejects.

In 1986, two Cabinet ministers quit in a dispute over whether a European or U.S. consortium should rescue Britain's ailing Westland helicopter company.

Last October, Chancellor of the Exchequer Nigel Lawson resigned over Mrs. Thatcher's stalling on linking the pound to other European currencies.

In July, Trade Secretary Nicholas Ridley, whose views were believed close to those of Mrs. Thatcher, was forced to quit after calling moves toward monetary union a "German racket."

A primary school teacher asked her class what they wanted to be when they grew up. She got the traditional replies from most of the pupils--such as doctor, nurse, fireman, policeman, teacher, etc.

One little boy sat quietly, giving no indication of his future plans. "What about you, Bubba?" the teacher asked. "What do you want to be when you grow up?"

The boy shrugged. "Gee, I don't even know what I want to be for Halloween yet!"

Police arrest four persons

Four persons were arrested Thursday by Hereford police, including two men, ages 27 and 32, for public intoxication; a man, 22, for driving without liability insurance; and a woman, 20, for theft when caught trying to steal merchandise from a local store.

Reports included tires slashed in the 400 block of Brevard and in the 700 block of East 4th; a van was spray-painted in the 600 block of N. Miles; problems with a girl trying to run away; and two boys, 10, involved in a fight in the 500 block of Star.

Police issued 16 citations and investigated two minor accidents.

Colder, rain chance through Sunday

Tonight, cloudy with scattered showers and turning cooler. Low in the lower 40s. Rain chance is 50 percent. Wind becoming north to northeast 10 to 20 mph by midnight.

Saturday, colder with a 70 percent chance of rain. High in the lower 50s. East wind 10 to 20 mph.

The outlook for Sunday through Tuesday: a chance of showers Sunday. Generally dry Monday and Tuesday. Highs in the lower to mid 40s Sunday and Monday warming to the mid to upper 50s by Tuesday. Lows in upper 20s to mid 30s.

This morning's low at KPAN was 57 after a high Thursday of 83.

Walk location is moved

The American Heart Association's "Turkey Walk" has been moved from the track at Whiteface Stadium to inside Sugarland Mall in Hereford.

The walk, a fund-raiser for the group, will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. Saturday. Participants and other interested persons should make note of the new location. The location has been changed because of the inclement weather forecast for Saturday.

WASHINGTON - Democrats charged Thursday that Republicans are trying to intimidate minority voters in North Carolina and Texas, and asked the attorney general to step in to protect voting rights.

AUSTIN - The head of the ClayDesta National Bank says it is cooperating with investigators, despite a complaint to the contrary from the Travis County attorney.

FORT WORTH - A San Antonio law firm that has a corner on government contracts for collecting delinquent property taxes has given $31,000 to five Texas politicians, with a third going to House Speaker Gib Lewis.

Military strength lies in support groups

FORT BLISS, Texas (AP) - Operation Desert Shield has proved what Donna Santos has known for a long time: Family support services increasingly are becoming an integral part of the military.

Since the draft ended, the makeup of military forces has changed from single, young soldiers to married soldiers with children. And the consequences of such an Army have emerged as thousands of soldiers deploy to the Persian Gulf.

"Family assistance needs to be an important part of the mission," said Ms. Santos, director of Army Community Services. "The military needs to start looking at us in the same way they look at whether they have enough ammunition."

Ms. Santos said her office, which provides such services as budget counseling to soldiers' families and spouses, monthly fields about 5,000 requests for help.

Only in the last 25 years, since the end of the Vietnam War, have family assistance programs become a priority in the military, post spokesman Brad Rose said.

"We find many of those people who are eligible are not only married, but already have one, two or three children," Rose said.

And Santos believes that after Operation Desert Shield, military officials will recognize the need for more preparation of families for the possibility of deployment.

"After Desert Shield, I guarantee every ACS is going to say this: 'We need to be proactive,'" she said.

Soldiers are required to have prepared wills and powers of attorney for their spouses before they deploy. But some military spouses left alone find themselves inexperienced about running the household.

"That word dependent really makes me mad. ... I'm putting out the trash or something goes wrong with the car and I stop and think, he's over there and depending on me to keep things running," said Diana Barrego, whose husband is a member of the E-2-7 11th Brigade. "I say, no, I'm not the dependent. My husband is depending on me."

The deployments seem to particularly affect spouses of lower rank enlisted soldiers, many whose pay qualifies them for food stamps.

Dagmar Fraser, leader of a support unit for the 233rd Transport Company, said spouses in her group have said they were forced to pawn wedding rings and microwaves and sell blood plasma to make ends meet.

"The majority of my ladies have tremendous financial problems. In the lower enlisted ranks, there's really not a lot of money to throw around so you buy a lot of things on credit. Their budgets are so stretched so if anything unusual happens there's just no money," she said.

Although many of the women in her group are aware of the Army Community Services assistance, she said many are embarrassed to seek help.

"I have told all of these girls they have to go to various places to get the help if they need it," Ms. Fraser said.

Ms. Fraser said she has been frustrated by Army red tape and had difficulty getting answers to her questions.

"Part of the point is that these women's husbands are serving their country, and they have to kind of lower themselves and go ask for food or assistance of some sort," she said.

Army officials said the problems in Ms. Fraser's group were not widespread and that Ms. Fraser had only visited their office once seeking help.

"We want people to come forward with these problems and to come to people trained to help them with these problems," Ms. Santos said.

"There are an awful lot of financial difficulties in the military just like there are in civilian life. Some people do well with their money, some don't," she said.

Army Community Services at Fort Bliss has set up a network of support groups with each unit stationed at the Army post.

The groups hold regular meetings and check one another by phone. Together they offer one another moral support, help with baby sitting and rides, and try to find agencies that can help them with larger problems.

Employees file federal law suit

PLAINVIEW (AP) - A group of former employees of a defunct Plainview manufacturing firm claim in a federal lawsuit that they were not provided 60 days notice that the firm implement plant was closing.

The federal plant closing law requires that plants with more than 100 employees must notify employees 60 days in advance of a plant closing.

The lawsuit, filed Thursday by former employees of Caldwell-Hamby Inc., was filed by Texas Rural Legal Aid of Plainview and a Dallas lawyer.

The company's former president responded to the lawsuit Thursday, saying his firm was too small to be covered by the plant-closing legislation.

"Because their jobs were so unexpectedly cut short, they didn't have a chance to plan for a future without those jobs," Milo Mumgaard, a TRLA representative, said in a prepared statement. "Many of these workers lost their cars, many face tax foreclosures, and nearly all have gone many months without any kind of work."

The purpose of the plant-closing law is to give workers time to prepare for their futures, Mumgaard said.

"Caldwell-Hamby had fewer than 100 employees," said Don Hornung, the firm's president. "We don't feel like we should be covered under the act."

Hornung said the company had fewer than 50 employees when it closed.

Hornung said he had not yet received a copy of the lawsuit, but added, "I knew it was coming. It's no surprise."

The Caldwell-Hamby closing also does not fall under the scope of the plant closing law, Hornung said, because the facility was forced to close by a natural disaster.

He said federal law exempts plants closed by circumstances such as the drought that caused the closing of the Plainview plant.

"The area was in the grip of a major drought," Hornung said. "We don't feel like it applies."

Mumgaard said the number of employees working at the Plainview facility is irrelevant because the law refers to the number of employees under the corporate umbrella.

The TRLA attorney claims that CrustBuster Inc. of Dodge City, Kan., is affiliated with Caldwell-Hamby and is also named as a defendant in the lawsuit.

Mumgaard said the lawsuit is only the second he is aware of in Texas stemming from the plant-closing law. The first, he said, was over a plant closing in Garland.

Texas House Speaker denies conflict of interest with law firm

FORT WORTH (AP) - A San Antonio law firm that has a corner on government contracts for collecting delinquent property taxes has given $31,000 to five Texas politicians, with a third going to House Speaker Gib Lewis.

Lewis denies any conflict of interest.

And partners with the law firm of Heard Goggan Blair & Williams say they only want "good government," not favoritism.

According to a Fort Worth Star Telegram copyright story, the law firm has given about $31,000 to five state politicians, with about a third going to Lewis.

Oliver Heard Jr., one of the firm's partners, says claims of political favoritism are "unfounded rumor."

But Lewis has benefited from his relationship with the firm, the newspaper reports.

Recently, Lewis was able to get an extended deadline for taxes owed by a Fort Worth shooting range. The speaker owns about 50 percent of the business.

Heard Goggan, which has a reputation for tenacious collecting, pulled back from a lawsuit filed against the business, when asked to do so by the speaker.

The business owes about $11,000 in back taxes and penalties. Heard Goggan, which makes about $20 million annually for suing late taxpayers also paid more than $5,000 of the business' late tax bill.

In a statement issued to The Associated Press Thursday Lewis' press secretary Tim Conger said the story was "filled with inaccuracies and false assumptions."

"...the taxes in question have been paid by the Speaker, not Heard Goggan Blair and Williams," Conger said. "The law firm did not pay taxes owed by Shooter's Palace (the shooting range)."

Conger said Lewis paid the taxes even though he, as merely an investor in the company, was not liable for the taxes.

The Lewis release also refutes the newspaper's statement that the Speaker contacted Heard Goggan asking why the business had been sued and demanding that the law firm pick up the penalties, interest and legal fees.

(Lewis) questioned why he should be held responsible for late penalties and interest when the company had not received notification that the taxes were due," Conger said. "After consulting with Heard Goggan, the law firm confirmed that the initial notice had been sent to an incorrect party and address. Upon confirmation of the mistake, the law firm agreed to waive the penalties and interest on the taxes owed."

The release calls suggestions that Lewis used his office's influence to avoid the penalties "unfair and (a) false assumption."

The firm has offices in Austin, Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, Fort Bend, Denton, Angleton, Harlingen, Laredo, Brownsville, Conroe and Beaumont.

Heard Goggan Blair & Williams has received 120 contracts from city and county governments to recover more than half of the $1 billion owed in delinquent property taxes.

At least 15 bills have been introduced since Lewis became speaker in 1983 that would have changed the tax collection law and placed millions of dollars in collections fees back into the coffers of government agencies.

Lewis assigned all the bills to the House Ways and Means Committee. None of them made it to a House vote.

Heard Goggan's political contributions include:

- $10,000 to Lewis in 1986.
- $7,000 to state Rep. Dan Morales, a San Antonio Democrat over the past three years. Morales is now a state attorney general candidate.

- $5,000 to former State Rep. Stan Schlueter of Killeen, who served as the state House Ways and Means committee chairman from 1983 to 1987.

- $2,500 to Rep. Hugo Berlanga, a Corpus Christi Democrat in the past three years. Berlanga is a House Ways and Means committee member and chairman of the Calendars Committee that sets the Legislature's agenda.

- $7,000 to Tarrant County Judge Roy English in the last year. English voted against the renewal of the law firm's contract with the county in 1989.

Heard has no qualms about his firm's lobbying efforts. The firm makes contributions, he says, because of its interest in "good government." Heard refused to discuss the amount of the contributions, the Star Telegram reported.

The release Thursday did not address Heard Goggan's political contributions.

Partners with the firm have denied they vacation with the speaker. But Lewis said he has traveled a few times with the firm's attorneys. He cites a trip to Manzanillo, Mexico as an example.

That 1987 trip cost the firm $28,000 according to unidentified sources who spoke to the Star Telegram on condition of anonymity.

Other trips taken with the speaker include a sailing cruise to Caribbean and a vacation to Jamaica.

McDonald's hailed for paper switch

CHICAGO (AP) - McDonald's Corp.'s decision to switch from polystyrene containers to paper for its food products is being hailed by some - but not all - environmentalists.

"It is a mistake to make plastic the great Satan and paper the great saint," said Jan Beyea, a scientist at the National Audubon Society. "Both processes generate pollution."

A recycling company, meanwhile, lamented McDonald's announcement Thursday that it would start phasing out its clamshell-shaped containers - which had been blamed for filling landfills and depleting the ozone layer - within two months.

The fast-food giant had been playing a key role in educating the public about the need to recycle, said E. James Schneiders, president of National Polystyrene Recycling Co.

McDonald's just last week said it planned to expand an experimental plastic recycling program to all of its 8,500 U.S. restaurants.

"NPRC is disappointed to learn that McDonald's has decided to phase out its use of polystyrene foam packaging," Schneiders said.

But the non-profit Environmental Defense Fund, which had worked with McDonald's since August on plans to phase out the plastic foam containers, was elated.

"McDonald's understands that the future is green," said Frederic D. Krupp, the fund's executive director. "I think other companies will follow suit."

Several U.S. cities have banned the use of polystyrene foam, saying it contributes to landfill problems by lingering for years before disintegrating. The polystyrene production process also is suspected of harming the Earth's ozone level.

"Although some scientific studies indicate that foam packaging is environmentally sound, our customers just don't feel good about it," McDonald's Corp. President Edward Rensi said by telephone Thursday from the company's suburban Oak Brook headquarters. "So we're changing."

McDonald's said the foam containers will be replaced by paper products manufactured in a new process that will preserve the food's temperature and freshness.

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

Retired Ministers Day will be observed this Sunday, Nov. 4, in the local churches of the Northwest Methodist Conference in honor of all the retired ministers and their spouses and surviving spouses. A special offering may be given by envelope or left at the altar rail during communion.

Known well by First Church members and attending here in their retirement are King's Manor residents, Rev. and Mrs. O.L. Knowlton, Rev. and Mrs. Charles Gates and Mrs. Don Davidson. Rev. and Mrs. James Hamilton reside at 200 Elm.

As of Jan. 1, 1990, there are 201 retired ministers and 136 surviving spouses, a total of 337 persons, for which the Northwest Texas Conference has responsibility for retirement income.

One hundred and twenty of these ministers are members of the

Emerson attends convention

The 1990 National Council Session of Girl Scouts of the United States of America was held Oct. 20-23 in Miami Beach, Fla. Attending the event from Hereford was Michelle Emerson, granddaughter of Martha Emerson.

The official voting delegates for the Texas Plains Girl Scout Council were Joan Horn, president; and Henry Janhsen, first vice-president. They were elected at the March annual meeting of the council.

Visiting representatives were Jean Wood, executive director; Natalie Stephenson, program director; and Vicki Greer, troop leader.

This year two Girl Scouts were selected to attend the convention. Michelle Emerson of Troop #288 in Hereford, granddaughter of Martha Emerson, and Jenny Gaskill of Troop #110 in Amarillo were selected as visitors. The girls attended regularly convened sessions as well as meetings designed for them and others attending from all over the nation.

During the convention, the national council heard reports from the national board of directors for the 1987-1990 triennium; considered and acted upon proposals and held elections for officers, regional chairs, and members-at-large of the national board and the national nominating committee for 1990-1993.

Tri-city concert planned

Connie Jones and his Crescent City Jazz Band will be performing in Borger at the High School auditorium Sunday, Nov. 4, at 3 p.m.

Jones began playing the trumpet at the age of 17. He would play in Sunday afternoon concerts at Tony Almerico's Parisian Room in the French Quarter of New Orleans. Since that time, he has played with many famous jazz ensembles including the bands of Santo Pecora, Jack Teagarden, Billy Maxted and Pete Fountain.

With a repertoire of over 400 tunes, the band plays all of the well-loved Dixieland standards, such as "Bill Bailey," as well as some almost forgotten old treasures like "Frog-1-More Rag."

All Hereford members are invited to attend.

DR. DOLLITTLE'S CREATOR

MAIDENHEAD, England (AP)—Hugh Lofting, born here in 1886, was the creator of Dr. Dolittle, a favorite character in children's fiction.

Lofting spent most of his adult life in the United States, except for service with the British Army in World War I. While overseas, he wrote fantasy stories about Dr. Dolittle and his animal friends in letters home to his children. These appeared in book form in 1920 and were the first of a popular series.

Northwest Texas Conference. Eight-one have served in the conference and are now members of other conferences and are living outside the conference.

According to the service record of the Northwest Texas Conference there are over 20 living retired ministers who served 40 years or more as members of the conference. The longest record is 49 years.

Spikers ready for Area match with Sweetwater

The Hereford Lady Whitefaces will look to go farther into the Class 4A volleyball playoffs than they have ever gone before when they face the Sweetwater Lady Mustangs in an Area match at 6 p.m. Saturday at Lubbock Coronado.

The match will be the second half of a double header as Dumas and Pecos will meet at the Coronado gym at 4 p.m. Admission for the matches is $3 for adults and $1 for students.

Lady Whiteface coach Brenda Reeh said the main thing for the Herd is to not allow a mental letdown after knocking off top-ranked Lamesa in Tuesday's Bi-District playoff. "The main thing we are stressing with the kids is that we cannot afford to take Sweetwater lightly," Reeh said. "We have to realize that we have to go out there and play just as hard as we did against Lamesa."

"It's been tough mentally and there is a tendency to want to slack off and coast a little, but we have to stay sharp. I think as long as we can stay mentally prepared to play, and avoid any letdowns during the match, we'll be in good shape."

Reeh added that Tuesday's win, the first ever in the playoff for Hereford, has left the team with a good frame of mind.

"The attitude of the team has been tremendous after beating Lamesa," she said. "The kids are all pumped up and excited about that. But we still must concentrate on doing our job Saturday."

The Lady Whitefaces will enjoy a considerable height advantage in the match as Sweetwater has only two players as tall as five feet, nine inches.

"Where size will help us is on blocking," Reeh said. "Sweetwater has one big hitter, Nikki Heath, who is about 5-8. She hits the ball real hard and she hits it straight down, so if we can get in her way and put the ball back at her a few times, we should be able to handle her a little."

"What we have to do is force their defense to pick the ball up as much as possible. They are really scrappy and do a good job of setting their hitter up."

Reeh added that not having seen Sweetwater will make things tougher at the start of the match.

"When you get to this point in the playoffs, you have to go with your strengths to start," she said. "Then, if the other team is doing something you're not quite used to, you have to be able to adjust to that and do it quickly."

"A lot of times in the playoffs the team that wins is the one that can make those adjustments more smoothly. And that comes back to being mentally ready to play. We have to be able to read what they're doing and make the necessary changes to handle it."

Castillo, Borden seeking state berths at regional harrier meet

The Hereford Whiteface cross country teams will be represented Saturday at the Region I-4A Meet at Lubbock's Mae Simmons Park by Teresa Castillo and Jack Borden.

Castillo, who won her second District 1-4A individual title last week, will be going for her third consecutive trip to the Class 4A state meet while Borden, a sophomore, makes his first post-season appearance.

Coach Martha Emerson said Castillo stands a good chance of returning to the state meet while Borden will need his best race to advance.

"Teresa was kind of down because she wanted the team to go so badly, and I think it does help to run for a team," Emerson said. "But her goal all year has been to win a medal at the state meet, and I think she still has that in mind. She's a competitor and she's had the individual goal as well as team goals."

"Jack could improve some work habits, but when it comes to Saturday he competes and he competes with whatever's there. He's excited about the chance to qualify for state. He changes his pace some when it's on the line."

Emerson said the competition in the field will make a difference in how the pair runs.

"I haven't seen enough on the boys," she said, "but based on the times from last year, Jack is going to have to improve 30 or 40 seconds. He'll have to get down around 16 and-a-half minutes."

"It just depends on who's there. There may be some real tough runners out there may not, but he's going to have to run better than he has before on that course."

Borden covered the three miles in 17 minutes, 11 seconds in placing third at district and ran a 17:30 at the Lubbock Invitational meet four weeks ago.

Castillo broke 12 minutes for the first time at district, clocking an 11:59, and has a best time of 12:12 on the Lubbock course.

"The girl that won state last year ran a 12:07 at regional last year," Emerson said. "She's going to be a year stronger, but so is Teresa. She's running better than she did last year. It may take around 12 minutes to win it. I would like to see Teresa break 12 on that course."

"The competition will help her run faster and besides that, your just more pumped up for a trip to Austin."

Emerson added that while the rest of the Herd harriers did not qualify for the meet, team members have been invaluable in helping Castillo and Borden prepare.

"The boys and girls have helped Teresa and Jack a whole lot this week," she said. "Those guys have worked hard for three days and their teammates have gotten out there and run with them and paced them and made them work harder."

"The teams came back and did a good job of helping those two. They were disappointed that their seasons were over, but they got out there and helped the two that are going."

Two major factors in the race will be weather and knowing the course, but Emerson said the Hereford pair probably does not hold any significant edge over other competitors.

"We haven't run in bad weather yet," she said of the expected cold day Saturday. "We had one meet where it was a little bit chilly, but the kids didn't even wear tights that day."

"If it is cold Saturday, it might slow the times down some. I don't know if that will be an advantage for Teresa or not. It would probably hurt us less than someone from Fort Worth, but I don't think it will make that much difference."

"Most of the runners that come have run on that course before, either in practice or the Lubbock meet or they've been there for regional before. So there won't be that big an advantage for us there either."

"It is a tough course if you haven't run on it before."

The meet will include races for boys and girls in all five University Interscholastic League classifications. The Class A boys race will get things started at 8:20 a.m. Borden is scheduled to run at 10:20 a.m. and Castillo at 10:40 a.m.

JV, Frosh Maroon earn wins

The Hereford Whiteface junior varsity closed out its season Thursday with an 18-12 squeaker at Borger while the Herd freshman teams played their final games as separate units. The freshman Maroon picked up its first win of the year, also 18-12, over Canyon Randall while the freshman White fell at Borger, 32-6.

Herd JV 18, Borger 12
The Herd JV scored the winning touchdown on Petey Colvin's 4-yard run with 20 seconds left in the game and then held off a Borger charge that included a play after the final buzzer.

Hereford took a 6-0 lead in the first quarter when Shawn Fogo broke loose from 60 yards away on the Herd's first possession of the game.

Colvin added another score on a 3-yard run in the second quarter to give Hereford a 12-0 lead.

Borger came back to score before halftime and cut the margin to 12-6.

After a scoreless third quarter, the Bulldogs tied the game with 3:10 remaining.

Hereford took the kickoff and drove 75 yards for the winning score. The Herd overcame two penalties in the possession and converted a fourth-and-11 situation when Fogo took a screen pass from Chad Sandoval for 12 yards. Receptions by Kevin Kelso and Clay Wallace also helped the drive progress.

Borger reached the Herd 45 following the kickoff before Colvin appeared to ice the game with an interception he returned for a touchdown. The play was called back on a penalty, however, and Borger was given an extra snap with no time on the clock. Jason Tatarevich decided the issue when he tipped the pass away.

The win was the sixth straight for the JV, which finished with an undefeated record against District 1-4A members.

Frosh Maroon 18, Randall 12
The Hereford freshmen came back from a 12-0 halftime deficit with three second-half touchdowns in a game that ended in confusion and darkness.

Randall scored on its second play of the game to take the lead at 6-0 while the Herd could not cross the 50-yard line the entire first quarter.

After exchanging punts on four straight series, the Raiders upped the lead to 12-0.

Randall had a chance to increase the margin after a Hereford fumble set the Raiders up at the Herd 31 with less than two minutes to go in the half. The Herd defense stiffened and forced a field goal attempt, which missed.

Hereford got on the board on its second play of the third quarter when Justin Wright raced 49 yards on the option for the touchdown.

Randall looked to get the points back after returning the ensuing kickoff to the Herd 11, but defensive tackle Joe Montoya stripped the ball carrier on the next play and rumbled 87 yards to tie the game.

Hereford forced a Randall punt and then drove 71 yards for the winning touchdown as darkness fell. The Herd converted a fourth-down play to keep the drive going and set up Wright's second score, which came on a 5-yard run.

Randall reached the Herd 35 in the dark before losing the ball on downs to set things up for a wild finish. Wright broke a long run on third down with less than a minute left, but the play was called back on a penalty.

Hereford downed the ball on the next play in an attempt to run out the clock and was ready to do so again on fourth down, but the Randall offense had come onto the field and ran the swinging gate for a touchdown.

After everything was straightened out, Hereford ran its fourth-down play and Randall took over at the Herd 45 with eight seconds left.

The Hereford defense managed to find the ball carrier on the next two plays as time expired.

Borger 32, Frosh White 6
Borger took advantage of Hereford turnovers to jump out to an 18-0 lead in the first quarter and upped the margin to 24-0 before halftime.

The Bulldogs added another touchdown in the third period to finish their scoring before Chris Vallejo put hereford on the board with a 23-yard run in the fourth quarter.

Quarterback Jeremy Blair completed six passes for 120 yards to lead the Herd offense with Josh Tice hauling in four passes.

Alex Gilmore headed the defense with a pair of fumble recoveries.

The Herd freshman teams will combine for next week's final game at Plainview.

Frog's QB Clay to miss Houston tilt

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

The Horned Frogs faced an uphill battle to keep alive their hopes of a storybook season by taking on the undefeated Houston Cougars in the Astrodome even before they learned that they had lost quarterback Leon Clay.

The Frogs had been slammed back to reality last Saturday when they were upset, 26-21, by the Baylor Bears. The second shoe fell Thursday when the Frogs learned they'd be without their top offensive weapon going into the showdown with the high-scoring Cougars.

The loss of the man who was responsible for 21 of their 28 touchdowns this season became official Thursday when it was discovered that the hand that had been giving him trouble since the Baylor game has a hairline fracture.

TCU coach Jim Wacker took the news with a stiff upper lip even though it means facing the No. 6 Cougars on their home field without the man who ranks No. 9 in the nation in total offense.

Clay has completed 119 of 223 passes with seven interceptions for 1,565 yards and 16 touchdowns. He was on a pace to have the best season of any TCU quarterback since Heisman Trophy winner Davey O'Brien threw for 19 touchdowns and ran for three more in 1938.

Junior Matt Vogler will replace Clay, Wacker said.

"It's not like we're not used to adversity," Wacker said. "The good news is that Matt has gotten all the work this week, and he's going to get his shot. I believe he'll do a fine job.

"What this team has to do now is rally around Matt and make it happen," Wacker added.

The Cougars are averaging 41 points per game against league opposition. Last year Houston beat the Frogs 55-10 in Fort Worth.

Undefeated Houston rated a 21-point pick over TCU.

"It's homecoming for us, but it will be a challenge to beat a very, very fine football team," said Houston coach John Jenkins. "There should be a lot of passes thrown with their triple shoot and our run and shoot offenses."

In other SWC matchups, oddsmakers picked Texas A&M by 31 points over Southern Methodist in a 1 p.m. game at Ownby Stadium,

Texas was a 11-point selection over Texas Tech in a noon (Raycom TV) game in Jones Stadium, and Arkansas, who has allowed more than 200 points in four straight losses to league opposition, was a 5-point choice over Rice in a 7 p.m. clash at Little Rock.

Since Houston can't go to the Cotton Bowl because of NCAA probation, the Texas Longhorns have the best league mark at 3-0. Baylor, which is idle this weekend, and Texas A&M are next with 1-1-1 ledgers.

Baylor returns to action against Arkansas at noon Nov. 10 in a regionally televised game (Raycom) from Waco.

Houston's David Klingler leads the nation in total offense with 420 yards per game.

Arkansas has won nine straight games over Rice, but the Hogs are off to their worst league start since 1958 when Frank Broyles was the coach. Rice last won 17-16 at Little Rock in 1980.

Arkansas coach Jack Crowe said he knew the Hogs would have problems before the season began but "the way we've lost is something that has shocked me."

"Nobody has stopped Arkansas' offense yet," Rice coach Fred Goldsmith said. "We still respect them and we know they are ready to explode at any time with their tremendous speed. You look at their offense and wonder how in the world they lost a game. Then you see their defensive breakdowns and say you might have a good chance."

Texas A&M's Darren Lewis will be trying to lead to his SWC career rushing total. Lewis passed SMU's Eric Dickerson last week and stands at 4,453 yards in a rush to the 5,000-yard marker.

Texas coach David McWilliams returns once again to the town he jilted. McWilliams left Texas Tech to return to Austin in 1987 as coach of the Longhorns. Texas is off to its best start since the 1984 team went 6-0-1 out of the starting gate.

"Tech played very well early in the year," McWilliams said. "That's what scares you. We're worried they might hit their stride again."

A&M coach R.C. Slocum feels the Aggies are still in the SWC although they will need some help to catch Texas.

"There's a lot of excitement left in the season," Slocum said. "We've fallen back into the pack a little bit. We can still have a good season."

UIL lets G-P back in playoff picture

AUSTIN (AP) - Football coach Bruce Bush of Gregory-Portland told the University Interscholastic League to punish him, not his team, and the UIL did basically what he asked.

The governing body of schoolboy athletics on Thursday publicly reprimanded Bush, suspended him for two games and placed him on probation for one year because meals were provided for his team.

But Gregory-Portland, which had been disqualified from the Class 4A football playoffs by its district committee, will be allowed to compete for state honors under a motion adopted by the UIL State Executive Committee.

The team is undefeated in district with two games remaining, which Bush will miss.

The UIL state committee did issue a public reprimand against the Gregory-Portland football program and extended for one year, to February 1992, probation that already was in effect for another incident.

It was reported that pizzas and breakfasts were paid for by the school from an account used to pay for such things as athletic trips in the playoffs.

Pizzas also were bought for the team by school principal Dottie Childs, according to UIL records.

Bush said the meals were bought to show support for players who had reached the playoffs, and he did not think about it being a possible rule violation.

He said, however, "Any violation we have in our program is my fault, and I'm the one who should be punished, not the kids."

"Everybody was trying to do so much for the kids," Bush added. "I'm not a cheater, and we don't cheat at Gregory-Portland High School."

Gregory-Portland Superintendent Bob Jameson said the food totaled $10.96 per player, and players have reimbursed the school for the expense.

In other cases of alleged violations, the UIL's State Executive Committee:

- Publicly reprimanded Sanderson football coach Gary Shackelford and placed him on probation for one year as a result of his pulling his team from the field with six minutes to go in a losing game at Van Horn on Oct. 12.

- Refused to add its own penalty to a junior high school coach accused of recruiting a running back for the Judson Independent School District.

Converse Judson High School, in the San Antonio area, currently is ranked No. 6 in 5A schoolboy football.

On Oct. 2, the District 26-5A executive committee issued a public reprimand and probation for one year to the Judson football program and suspended running back Jerod Douglas from varsity athletics for two years.

The district committee transferred to the UIL state committee the case of junior high coach Donny Littlefield for consideration of a penalty greater than a private reprimand for allegedly recruiting Douglas for Judson.

The state committee rejected public and so-called private reprimands by votes of 2-6 and 3-5, respectively. A motion to refer the case back to the district committee for consideration of possible further action also failed, 2-4.

Bill Fish, chairman of the District 26-5A committee, said the committee had interviewed 26 persons in its investigation.

Fish, principal at San Antonio Lee, was asked, "You have no doubt that a recruiting violation occurred?"

"That is correct," Fish responded. Littlefield denied recruiting Douglas, saying, "I never thought about going out and trying to get the kid."

(Editor's note: Bush is a former head football coach at Dimmitt-jfb.)

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

THE REBUILDER OF A NATION!

NEHEMIAH, OF THE TRIBE OF JUDAH, WAS OFFICIAL CUP-BEARER TO KING ARTAXERES OF PERSIA. THE JEWS, HAVING BEEN TAKEN CAPTIVE OUT OF JUDEA ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY YEARS BEFORE BY KING NEBUCHADNEZZAR, HAD RISEN TO HIGH PLACES IN MANY INSTANCES, BECAUSE OF THEIR TALENTS. NEHEMIAH, BORN IN CAPTIVITY, ROSE TO THE LEVEL OF CLOSEST ROYAL ADVISER IN THE ENTIRE KINGDOM. IN 445 B.C., HEARING OF THE DESPERATE PIGHT OF THE FEW JEWS LEFT IN JERUSALEM—A RUINED CITY OF CRUMBLED WALLS AND BROKEN GATES, COMPLETELY AT THE MERCY OF ROVING BANDS OF CUT-THROATS AND THIEVES WHO TERRIFIED THE COUNTRYSIDE—NEHEMIAH GOT PERMISSION FROM HIS KING TO GO THERE AND TO REBUILD ITS WALLS SO THAT THE INHABITANTS WOULD HAVE PROTECTION AGAINST MARAUDERS. A PERIOD OF TWELVE YEARS ELAPSED, FROM THE TIME HE ARRIVED IN THE CITY, UNTIL THE DEDICATION OF THE REBUILT WALLS (432 B.C.). BUT BEYOND JUST REBUILDING JERUSALEM'S WALLS, NEHEMIAH COMPLETELY RENEWED THE JEWISH NATION AND REVIVED ITS RELIGION, THE TEMPLE, AND ALL THE ANCIENT CUSTOMS AND MOSAIC LAW! AN EXCEEDINGLY DIFFICULT TASK, WHEN ONE CONSIDERS THE MANY STRATEGEMS AND TRICKS EMPLOYED BY NEAR-BY PETTY KINGS TO PREVENT JERUSALEM FROM RISING TO ITS FORMER STATUS—ALL OF WHICH IS EXCITINGLY RELATED IN THE BOOK OF NEHEMIAH.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: HOW FOND MEN ARE OF JUSTICE WHEN IT COMES TO JUDGING THE CRIMES OF FORMER GENERATIONS. — ARMAND SALACROU

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 36 years old and happily engaged to a fine man. Fourteen years ago I was engaged to another man. Unfortunately, my first fiance, I'll call Greg, refused to set the date and kept putting me off.

After wearing his beautiful diamond ring for three years, I decided to remove it from my hand to avoid the embarrassing question from family members and friends, "When are you two going to get married?" I kept seeing Greg for three more years, hoping he'd get serious about marriage, but it never happened.

As time rolled on, I had to face the fact that Greg was never going to marry me. I decided to break up with him and asked if he wanted the ring back. He said, "No. It's yours. I gave it to you for your birthday."

Because of my admiration for this man, I agreed that we should remain friendly. We both developed other relationships, introduced one another to our new partners and often double-dated.

Last week Greg told me he wants to marry the woman with whom he's been living this past year. He has asked me to return the diamond ring he gave me 14 years ago. It's a perfect stone weighing 1.5 carats, purchased in 1976 for $1,800. He says today it would cost at least twice as much.

Ann, I have been paying insurance on this ring for 14 years, not to mention that I am pretty upset about Greg's request. I don't want to look like a gold digger or an overly materialistic woman. On the other hand, I love that ring and would hate to part with it.

Please tell me what to do.—P.M.K., Branford, Conn.

DEAR BRANFORD: If you value Greg's friendship give the ring back. If you feel that he has so damaged the relationship that you no longer want to be friends—I wouldn't blame you—keep the ring and tell him to take a hike.

Legally, the ring is yours because he gave it to you as a birthday gift. Had that not been the case, he would have been entitled to the ring because YOU broke the engagement. Incidentally, according to a Chicago diamond consultant, Lester Lampert, a fine quality diamond ring that cost $1,800 in 1976 would probably be worth about $10,000 today.

Please write again, I'm dying to know how this turns out.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife and I are happily married and someday soon with to have a child. As married couples often do, we've discussed possible names for the children. My wife wants very much to have a junior. I, on the other hand, feel a child should have its own identity and said I was opposed to it.

Six months ago when my pregnant sister and her husband approached me and asked if they could name their baby after me (if it's a boy) I was flattered and said, "Of course." This is when the problem started.

My wife was upset that I had agreed to this after I had objected so strongly to our using the name. Second, she was hurt that she hadn't been consulted. Now every time the family gets together and the baby's name is used, she becomes upset and withdrawn.

Do you have any suggestions on how we can make this situation bearable in the future? -- Caught in the Middle in Pa.

DEAR PA.: It's too late to completely rectify the situation but I think your wife is right on both counts.

Your only hope is to agree to name your son after you and pray for a girl.

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? "The Ann Landers Guide for Brides" will relieve your anxiety. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Brides, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada, send $4.45.)

NEW YORK (AP) - Kadeem Hardison, who plays college geek Dwayne Wayne on the NBC sitcom "A Different World," says he took the part only because he was sure the show would die quickly.

"I get restless," he says in this weekend's issue of USA Weekend. Hardison, 25, says he figured the show would get him to Hollywood with a little money to tide him over until he could make it into movies.

Now the highly rated show is in its fourth year and Hardison's contract extends through 1993.

"If I just do TV, it'll be harder to get movies" later, he says. But he adds, "No one has offered me anything."

Having a "spooky" good time

American experience returns

A great many Americans who enjoy history as well as those who just enjoy good television will be able to rediscover the past thanks to the return of public television's popular series "The American Experience."

The hour-long films are hosted by noted historian and author David McCullough, who provides brief introductions to each program.

The series merges America's storytelling traditions with the documentary filmmaker's craft, to bring vivid dimensions to historic figures and events.

The series, which airs Monday nights, will feature subjects such as Charles A. Lindbergh, the first man to fly alone across the Atlantic; the life and career of one of the most powerful figures in modern American history, Richard Nixon; the Crash of 1929, an event so severe the effects are still plainly visible decades later; and the history of the "space race."

Now in its third season, the series is underwritten in part by Aetna Life and Casualty. It is a co-production of WGBH/Boston, Thirteen/WNET in New York, and KCET/Los Angeles.

In the words of Judy Crichton the executive producer, "If television is America's predominant storyteller, it's time for television to tell America's story."

Gen. Robert E. Lee, the Confederate military commander, died in Lexington, Va., in 1870. He was 63.

SEATTLE (AP) - It was a Halloween trick all right, but was the sight of five naked men dancing onstage with rocker Billy Idol a treat? Idol told the crowd of 14,000 at Seattle Coliseum he knew something would happen because Wednesday was the last night of the tour - the night band members traditionally play pranks on each other.

Not to mention that Idol had already had 600 dead fish dumped on Faith No More as they opened the show - in a soggy, smelly gag spoofing one of the band's video that shows a fish flopping on the ground.

When the payback came, Idol grinned widely as the naked men cavorted onstage in a conga line, wearing only masks or T-shirts over their heads.

Idol kept plugging away at his final song, "Got to Be a Lover," until the bare band danced off, then blushed a little and broke out laughing.
