Texas legislators will just have to iron out the difference in comprise talks, Clements told a Thursday news conference.

Both houses have approved a 1962-83 spending bill but there is about $188 million difference in the totals. The final version sent to Clements will be written by a 10-member House-Senate conference committee.

And before the bill gets to Clements, Comptroller Bob Bullock must certify there is enough state revenue in sight the next two years to finance

The compromise also envisions Reagan's vow of a balanced budget in 1984, pro-jecting a surplus of slightly more than $1 billion that year - assuming several billion dollars in future cuts yet to be identified.

The plan, however, makes no mention of Social Security cuts - neither those Reagan proposed as part of a fiveyear, $53 billion package just four days ago nor the $6 billion the Senate recommended be saved by delaying 1982 cost-of-living raises for three months for millions of Social Security and other pensioners.

But while those omissions might reflect strong House opposition to cutting Social ecurity, they do not prevent Congress from voting less money later.

Reagan's original budget proposal called for a $45 billion deficit, while the compromise plan predicts a 1982 deficit of $37.6 billion. Several Democrats, however, criticized the forecasts of strong economic growth and interest rates of (See REAGAN, Page 2)

MANAGING EDITOR About a dozen local employers got an update on the amended Texas Unemployment Compensation Act at the chamber of commerce office here Thursday as the chamber's Job Service Improvement Committee sponsored a program featuring remarks from three Texas Employment Commission officials.

Bill Cheyne, Assistant TEC District Director from Amarillo presided at the meeting, which also featured remarks by Robert Gordon of the local TEC office and by Bill King, Supervisor of Unemployment Field Services for the Amarillo office.

Cheyne gave an update on the current conditions on the state level for the TEC, while Gordon, local task force chairman, presented information on the impact of measures taken to improve TEC service locally, and King gave a brief outline of the amended act, Senate Bill 2, which was passed by the legislature and became effective upon the governor's signature on March 20 of this vear.

Cheyne told the employers present yesterday that of the B4 TEC committees Istatewide, 13 are inactive at this time. He said the committees are busy, with a "lot tof action taking place all over "the state." One project which The assistant director said had been particularly successful in the recent past was a high technology job fair for the electronics industry.

Gordon reported on improvements made at the local level following requests made by local employers to im-prove services of the TEC office here.

Those improvements included better selection and screening of applicants for jobs, training local interviewers in better techniques, making on-site visits to potential employers, giving typing

Italian anti-terrorist experts were working today to determine whether Mehmet Ali Agca, the 23-year-old Turk charged with the shooting the pope during his weekly audience in St. Peter's Square, acted alone or was part of a conspiracy.

One of the top magistrates investigating the shooting was quoted by an Italian newspaper as saying investigators are convinced the attack was part of some kind of an international plot.

"As far as we're concerned, documents prove that Mehmet Ali Agca didn't act alone. He is a killer enlisted by an international group with subversive aims," state prosecutor Achille Gallucci was quoted as saying by the Turin daily La Stampa. The report did not elaborate, but some Italian newspapers sug-gested that the gunman may have sought to destabilize the world situation.

The Polish-born pope, a robust sports-loving man who turns 61 on Monday, was feeling well enough Thursday to receive a few visitors by his bedside, take Communion and listen to Mass.

The bill also splits Corpus Christi between two districts. The House redistricting committee voted 16-1 Thursday to send the measure to the House floor for action. A Senate subcommittee will hold a hearing Saturday on a congressional remap plan that probably will come to a Senate vote next week.

Rep. Hugo Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi, had hoped to offer changes to meet objections of Mexican-American organizations to unable to prepare them before the committee voted. He said he would present them as amendments when the House considers the bill. Rep. Tim Von Dohlen, the committee chairman, indicated he would oppose any changes because of their "ripple effect" on the delicate population balance contained in the bill.

There is less than a 1 percent population difference from district to district. U.S. Supreme Court decisions require congressional districts to be substantially equal in population in order to maintain equal representation of all citizens.

Mattox, D-Dallas, was given a district that includes heavy Republican concentrations in Collin County and eastern Dallas County.

Nueces County, now part of Patman's district, would be split along a line that substantially separates its Anglo population from the Mexican-American community. The eastern part of the county would go into a coastal district extending into southern Harris County and including the home of U.S. Rep. Ron Paul, R-Lake Jackson. The western part would be added to the district now represented by U.S. Rep. Abraham Kazen, D-Laredo. The Mexican-American Legal Defense and Educational Fund (MALDEF) protested the heavy concentration of Hispanics in Kazen's district because it would dilute their strength in the ad-joining district of Congressman Tom Loeffler, R-Mason.

Given to PWD

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The House has tentatively approved a bill giving the Sam Houston homestead, now owned by Sam Houston State University, to the Parks and Wildlife Department.

The bill won voice-vote approval Thursday, and faces another vote. SHSU graduate Rep. Bill Blythe, R-Houston, said the Parks and Wildlife Department would do a bet-ter job of maintaining the Huntsville home. He said SHSU has become too big a university to spend much time or effort maintaining the historic homestead.

Rep. Rodney Tow, D-Woodlands, spoke against the bill, and said there are strong feelings in his district on the measure.»

"Either way I vote on this thing I personally lose," he said. Tow argued it would be a bad precedent for the Legislature to take property away from a state university. The Houston homestead has stirred' considerable controversy in the Huntsville area. Much of the squabble is about refurbishing being done at the home and law office.

Rep. Wayne Peveto, D-Orange, also an SHSU graduate, supported the measure. Peveto said he once worked at the Houston homestead.

The House voted 96-11 against Tow's motion to table the bill, and then approved the measure on voice vote.

Money Market Law

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements says his office is taking a close look at pending legislation that would require money market funds to retain reserves in Texas.

"I am concerned about personal liability of investors in these funds," he said. "I understand there may be an implied partnership that would involve an investor more than just the money he invested."

A Senate committee approved the bill but it was sent back to the committee by its sponsor, Sen. Bill Meler D-Euless. Operators of the mone market funds, which are sold mostly by brokerage houses, claimed Texa banks and savings and loan com-panies were trying to hamper them ith state regulation.

Clements told a news conference he had watched the Senate debate close ly. "I favor people being able to invest their savings and resources however they would like so long as their liability and exposure to loss is fully and completely explained to them," he said in a written statement distributed. "The very important issue of the personal liability of the in-vestor in money market funds has been raised in this debate and is as yet unresolved."

The federal Securities and Exchange Commission requires "full disclosure" of any financial venture offered an investor.

"I want to make very sure the people of Texas have full disclosure...what may work in New York under their laws may be entirely different in Texas under our laws," he said.

favorable, the larger crops in key producing countries may lead to a significant buildup in world grain inventories, department officials said Tuesday.

A day earlier, the department reported that a record U.S. winter wheat crop is about ready for harvest and that the Soviet Union is expected to boost its total grain production sharply from depressed levels of the past two years. The new reports on Tuesday assessed the overall global and U.S. supply and demand situation and took a further look at Soviet grain import and domestic use re-

Conditions Favorable for Crop

The Soviet Union, burdened by poor harvests in 1979 and 1980, drew heavily on reserve grain supplies and, after the United States embargoed additional shipments early in 1980, paid high prices for grain from Argentina and other alternative suppliers. "Current record livestock inventories and expected larger supplies of grain would boost overall domestic usage of grain for feed use to the high levels of three years ago," the report said.

It also said total meat output, which declined during the U.S. embargo, could recover to the levels of 1978 and 1979.

Although the early-season projections for U.S. crop production could be altered dramatically by weather developments in coming months, another report showed American farmers can expect a record total grain output this year if production trends stay on keel.

For example, the projections showed a 1960 U.S. corn crop of 7.73 billion bushels is possible - give or take 775 million bushels, depending on weather - compared with 6.65 billion in 1980 when hot. dry weather shriveled the crop. The record was 7.94 billion bushels in 1979.

Consequently, farmers might expect corn prices to range between $2.75 and $3.35 a bushel in 1961-82, compared with the $3.20 department experts predict for the current season average.

Wheat production could total a record 2.7 billionbushels, with a plus or minus margin of 220 million bushels.

In those days, hundreds of free spirits gathered in this dilapidated old German settlement in the Texas Hill Country about 60 miles northwest of San Antonio to sit on the ground and take in the frivolity.

Crouch conceived such ideas as "Washer Olympics," "Drunk and Falling Down Contest," "World Champion Moseying Contest" and the "hell Hath No Fury" women's chili cookoff. But after Crouch's death and the "Luckenbach, Texas" song rang its course, current town owner Kathy

Morgan got cross-wise with some of the spoofers and the last big bash, "When the Mud Daubers Return to Luckenbach" celebration, was in 1977. Koock, a star in the former

"Carter Country" television series, though, plans to carry on the tradition the weekends of June 26-28 and July 3-5 by putting on the "Return of the Fifth Great Sometimes Annual Luckenbach World's Fair" at a nearby ranch. Koock has sponsored the jalapeno lollipop and selfappointed president of the World Armadillo Breeding and Racing Association, to come to the defense of the armadillo.

"Guich has had it in for armadillos from birth," Lewis countered. "His family's pet armadillo gave birth the same day his ma had him. They named the baby armadillos Mike, Sam, Jack and Texas. That about used up all the good names so they called the kid Guich. I guess you can't blame him for not liking armadillos."

Lt. Gov. William Hobby sent Koock a humorous letter saying Hobby preferred to back the armadillo, suggested by the school children of Texas as the state mascot, instead of a mythical animal supported by "one irate citizen of Luckenbach."

Koock has arranged to bring the unicorn, a one-horned Angora goat owned by Otter and Morning Glory G'Zell of Los Gatos, Calif., as a major attraction to the world's fair. The rare animal, born with a single spiraled born in the center of its forehead, has been featured on "Those Amazing Animals," "That's Incredible" and "The Merv Griffin Show," Koock said.

"The showing of the unicorn is part of our pro-greatest and most patriotic San Angelo, inventor of the celebration of the Fourth of July."

Koock said a unicorn race was suggested but "since there is only one unicorn that would cut down on the excitement of seeing a photo finish."

He said he took an armadillo with him to California to pose for pictures with the unicorn and the two animals got along swimming-

ly. "We think the result is going to be an armacorn," said Koock, who will star with Gabe Kaplan in a new television series this fall.

"They will cross," he said, warming up for the punchline.

"Armadillos are notorious about cross-breeding with anything they come across. They favor Mack trucks. Attemptin' to breed a Mack truck is very much like a black widow spider, they kill their mates."

BY BOB WEAR BEING AFRAID, now and then, is part of being human; and there is much in our world to cause fear. We cannot ignore the happenings of the day or the possibilities of what may happen in the future; however, we cannot afford to let fear dominate our thoughts and our lives. "FEAR IS implanted in us as a preservative from evil; but its duty, like that of other passions, is not to overbear reason, but to assist it. It should not be permitted to tryannize in the imagination, to raise phantoms of horror, or to beset life with supernumerary distresses." - Johnson. THERE WILL BE some fear, of course, but we cannot live scared. If we wish to live any where near a satisfactory life, we must learn to be courageous; not foolhardy, but courageous; not unrealistic, but courageous. This does not mean that we are blind to dangers, but that we equip ourselves the very best we can; and continue to live in the strength of good courage.

IN FEAR BE the total motivation for action, the action will be disappointing and may be disastrous. Such domination of a life will de-vitalize, and dissipate the essential life elements. There is a better way.

COURAGE CAN BE required, if we desire it and are willing to put forth the effort; and will accept the life discipline that produces it. It is allied with a justified faith, a clear conscience and a wisely conceived value system

"TRUE COURAGE is the result of reasoning. Resolution lies more in the head than in the veins; and a just sense of honor and of infamy, of duty and of religion, will carry us farther than all the force of mechanism."-Coller.

THE TIMES DEMAND courageous living, but this has been true in each succeeding generation. None but the courageous live well. It has been said, "The courageous die only once, but the cowardly die a thousand times."

A SOUND BASIS for courage is an enduring faith. We will find, in the experiences of life, that our courage to live victoriously will increase as our justified faith incrases. For this reason, we must put our minds to the right things; and put the right things into our minds.

Representatives Approve 'Fine Tuning' Bill Senator Bill Sarpalius

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The House has refused to return to the old ways of levying property taxes but has voted to make reappraisals required by the new system less traumatic.

State representatives voted initial approval Wednesday, 111-36, to a bill "fine tuning" the 1979 Property Tax Code or "Peveto Bill" - and was expected to pass it to the Senate today.

Rep. Wayne Peveto,

bill also would have D-Orange, introduced the bill to correct poblems that became apparent after lawmakers passed the tax code for which he had crusaded for years. Before the House got to his bill Wednesday, they rejected, 88-56, Rep. Lynn Nabers' proposal to reinstate most of the state's pre-Peveto property tax practices. Nabers wanted to reinstate "assessment ratios" to lower eliminated the countywide appraisal districts created by the Property Tax Code and made county tax assessorcollectors the single appraisal authority in each county.

Appraisal districts have been set up in most counties. and are supposed to start appraising property for taxation in 1982.

Taxing on full market value is part of the Peveto system, and where reappraisals occurred in 1980 and 1981, increases in taxable values made the change a horror for some taxpayers. House members voted 125-16 to restrict how much a taxpayer's property values could rise in 1982-85. They approved an amendment limiting the percentage growth in value of a piece of property to 50 percent over the percentage growth in a taxing jurisdiction's tax rolls. The following year, the property would be taxed on its ment ratio."

full value. If a city, county or school district's tax rolls increased by 100 percent in a year, no taxpayer could have an increase of more than 150 percent in his valuation.

Peveto headed off a move for elected boards of directors of appraisal districts by gaining approval, 73-64, of an amendment requiring each director to be an elected official of one of the local governments served by a district.

Nabers insisted on elected board members, saying "an appraisal board is answerable to no one" and some board had "gone uncontrollable in spending money." But Peveto said elected directors would "destroy the appraisal system" because they would run on platforms of "elect me and I'll roll those values down."

COOTES

Despite this tight budget, we know there are some things we have to increase. Teachers' salaries are one example. Education is too important to neglect. The need to hire and retain good teachers must be addressed or our young people could have real problems as we move into the 21st Century. State employees also have a problem. Texas is having a harder and harder time recruiting and keeping competent employees. While we need to keep a lid on the number of people the state hires, we need to keep our turnover rate low, too. Turnovers cost money.

We need your guidance as we prepare to spend your money. Please write to Senator Bill Sarpalius, P.O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711.

Anti-Abortion Group Disputes over Tactics

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Secretary short-cut effort to end abortions by defining when life begins appears to be backfiring, dividing the usually unified anti-abortion movement in a dispute over tactics.

At issue is whether the focus should be on amending the Constitution to outlaw abortion or pushing instead for a law to define life as beginning with conception, thus allowing states to outlaw abortions as murder.

The bill has the blessings of President Reagan and Health and Human Services hweiker. It is sponsored by two of Congress' most prominent spokesmen in the antiabortion movement - Sen. Jesse, Helms, R-N.C., and Rep. Henry Hyde, R-III., author of the "Hyde amendment" limiting federal funds for abortions. The amendment has cut the number of federally subsidized Medicaid abortions from 295,000 in 1977 to 6,900 last vear.

The National Pro-Life Political Action Committee reports that the attempt to Richard ban abortions by defining life as starting with conception has drawn opposition from some of the most important elements of the anti-abortion movement.

Nellie Gray, who leads the annual January March for Life in Washington; the National Committee for a Human Life Amendment, which is the lobbying arm of the Catholic bishops, and the National Right to Life Committee have all come out against that approach, the political action committee said.

But Moral Majority remains committed to the bill. We expect the president to New Law Passed Opens sign it by the end of this AUSTIN - Deaf students in Texas will have new educational opportunities because of legislation which has been passed by the Texas Legislature.

Senate Bill 892, a joint effort of Senator Chet Brooks of Pasadena, House Speaker Bill Clayton and Representative Craig Washington of Houston, authorizes independent status for the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf. Federal lands deeded to Howard County Junior College at Big Spring will be used exclusively for the purpose of operating the institute.

The legislation provides $1,815,567 in state funding for 1982, and $2,161,060 for 1983. It is anticipated there will be 105 state and 45 out-of-state students in 1982, and 140 state and 60 out-of-state students in 1983. The cost per student would be $12,105 in 1982, and $10,805 in 1983.

mountable difficulties in continuing their education beyond the high school level, or in starting a career. Traditional institutions, however, are not well suited to provide the highly specialized type of instruction necessary to prepare these persons on a large scale basis. Currently, Howard County

Junior College operates the post-secondary institute for the deaf on a "program" basis. The federal government is deeding facilities of the abandoned Webb Air Force Base to the college for the purpose of establishing the Institute. It is hoped that through this legislative recognition and support, the Institute will be able to attract additional sources of funding as well as gain widespread public recognition. The bill authorizing and supporting the establishment nof the Institute is the result of porters, the committee calls the bill "a half loaf" and "an incomplete solution" that would "sour some in Congress" and discourage them from supporting the constitutional amendment. The organization offered this analysis of the consequences of the bill's enactnent:

'In effect, Congress would have opted for a states' rights solution to the thorniest 'no win' social issue of the last and current decades. "The net effect would be the practical and moral checkerboard that existed before January 1973 when an unborn baby's life depended on its mother's ability to travel."

The Supreme Court decided in 1973 that state laws could not interfere with a woman's right to have an abortion in the first three months of pregnancy. The split in the ranks of abortion opponents became evident last month when Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, chairman of a Senate Judiciary and subcommittee, changed his mind and decided against holding joint hearings with Sen. John East, R-N.C., on

Dr. Joanne Luoto, the Office of Smoking and Health's medical staff director, said the figures show for the first time since 1966 that the number of women who smoke fell below 30 percent of the female population.

generally smoke lower tar and nicotine cigarettes than men, but he questioned whether they look on low-tar cigarettes as "a step towards quitting or possibly a substitute for quitting."

The surgeon general's office has warned that since women have begun to smoke like men, they can expect to begin to suffering lung cancer and other health problems at rates comparable to those of men.

Lung cancer is projected to outstrip breast cancer as the leading cause of cancer deaths among women during the decade, according to the surgeon general's 1980 smoking report.

Federal officials also have said women who smoke while they are pregnant stand a greater chance of miscarriage and having pre-term babies or low-birth weight babies.

The tobacco industry has maintained that questions about the effects of cigarette smoking on health remain

AUSTIN - The State Fire Marshal's Office, State Board of Insurance, will open two new regional offices in Lubbock and Corpus Christi in May. The first two regional offices were opened last year in Huntsville and Duncanville. William P. Daves, Jr., Chairman of the State Board of Insurance (the agency under which the State Fire Marshal's Office operates), said the opening of the two new offices is part of a continuing effort to regionalize the operations of the State Fire Marshal.

"We want dur people spending more of their time helping local fire and law enforcement officials and less of their time on the road," Daves said. The move toward regionalization is in line with recommendations for reorganization of the State Fire Marshal's Office presented to the 1979 Texas Legislature, he said. State Fire Marshal Ernest

The basis for the districts will be 1980 U.S. Census population figures. Data shows that the state grew 26.4 percent over the last ten years. Today, there are nearly 14.2 million Texans. That gain accounts for three new seats in Congress. It also means that the ideal size for a congressional district will increase from 466,530 to 526,977 persons. A state Senate district will increase from 361,185 to 458,980 persons; and a state House district from 74,674 to 94,856 persons.

The latest in computer programming is being implemented to provide districts that meet legal requirements as to size, compactness, and contiguity; minimized contests among incumbents, recognition of identifiable community or regional interests; and preservation of historical boundaries. felt like it was going in." Boston built a 17-point lead before Houston scored 13 straight points early in the fourth quarter. Then Bird settled the issue, giving the Celtics the title and approximately $25,000 per player in four games to two.

It was Boston's first world title since 1976. Red Auerbach, president and general manager, puffed on his familiar cigar and said, "This team ranks right up there with any we've had in regards to character. They never bitched and moaned. They never yelled at each other."

The Celtics shot 55 percent from the field - their highest of the series - to just 41 percent for the Rockets, who were led by Robert Reid's 27 points. Malone had 23 points and 16 rebounds.

Forward Cedric (Cornbread) Maxwell, who had 19 points and 5 rebounds, was named the series MVP by a sports magazine.

Training the Herd

Herd assistant coach Bobby Lantelme puts some Whiteface linemen through the paces Thursday during practice at the La Plata field. The Herd gridders are in the midst of spring training, and will get together at 7 p.m. tonight at Whiteface Stadium for a controlled scrimmage. The annual Maroon-White Game is set for Tuesday, May 26. (Brand Photo).
