

Texans Offer Crude To Oklahoma Refiners

Effect On Big Spring of Slump In Crude Oil Prices Presented To Club Members By Joseph Edwards

Revealing startling facts, citing present situations, and predicting a steady recovery of the oil industry, Joseph Edwards, president of the Chamber of Commerce and of the Big Spring Pipe Line Co. delivered, Wednesday what members were liberal in calling one of the most informative and interesting addresses ever presented the Business Men's Luncheon club.

In the proven area of Howard and Glasscock counties there are 18 to 22 producing wells, with the majority of these in sands from 1000 to 1800 feet, and comparatively few extending into the deep pay. This field has an estimated potential output of 68,000 barrels per day, but under the present system of proration only 30,000 barrels are allowed, said Edwards.

Local refineries use nearly eleven thousand of the thirty thousand daily, which at the present price of 25 cents per barrel represents a net value of around $225,000 monthly. One eighth of that goes back to the land owners as royalties and amounts to approximately $28,000. The lifting cost, including replacement of material, taxes, and other overhead represents a total of nearly $175,000 based on the 25-cent oil, declared Edwards, the larger part of which eventually goes back into the field and local economy.

Second Tour Over County Set Thursday

Larger Number Expected To Join In Inspection Of Crops

Thursday morning at 7:30 a. m. the second of three motorcades under the supervision of the Chamber of Commerce will leave the Settles Hotel for a tour of the northwestern part of the county. The first of the three trips was made Thursday last through the northeastern section of the county. Crops in that territory were generally excellent.

C. T. Watson, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, said Wednesday he hoped more would take part in tomorrow's tour than in the last, although a very representative and highly interested crowd took part in the first journey. The trip assumes the nature of semi-inspection and good will tours. The trek will not require so much time but that any business man in Big Spring can easily make the trip, it was pointed out. The tour will terminate here at 11:45 a. m., or possibly before.

Leaving Big Spring the motorcade will take to the Lamesa road, or highway 9 north to John Miller's farm; thence west to the Moore school house and north two miles, and again west one mile to the L. H. Thomas farm where the caravan will stop for its first close-hand inspection of crop conditions. From the Thomas place the caravan will move north to highway 9 once more and will follow this road to the Highway school, thence west to Martin's farm, north to the Sam Little Place, thence west to the farm belonging to Frank Hodnett, and there pause for the second halt of the tour. Another first hand inspection tour of the crops and farming conditions will be made. Resuming the tour a northern route will be taken past the Denton farm into East Knott for a stop at 9:40 a. m. which will terminate at 9:40 a. m. when the caravan moves on to West Knott for a short stay. Leaving there at 10:10 a. m. the motorcade will then go south to the John Pugh and Talbot farms to Claude Harland's location at 10:40 a. m. and an additional inspection and night seeing trip over the farm. Turning west to the Highway school house, the motorcade will proceed on highway 9 for the final time and into Big Spring at 11:45 a. m.

September 1 New Date For Public Sale

Attorneys Agree To Dismissal of Injunction Suit

Following a hearing Tuesday afternoon before Judge Fritz R. Smith in 32nd district court counsel in the suit for injunction filed by Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Settles against the Milano Furniture Company to prevent holding of a public sale by the sheriff of Howard county property of Mr. and Mrs. Settles agreed to dismissal of the injunction suit.

The agreement carried the understanding that the sheriff would again be authorized to advertise the property for sale and this was done. The sale is now set for September 1. Result of filing of the injunction suit, therefore, was to postpone the proposed sale from August 4 to September 1, chief aim of Mr. and Mrs. Settles. The furniture company had entered a plea of privilege, asking that venue of the injunction suit be transferred to the 14th district court, Dallas. This was not acted upon following the agreement. The sale was ordered following award of a judgment in Dallas county in favor of the Milano Furniture Company for $75,210.58 against Mr. and Mrs. Settles. The Settles are represented by Thomas and McDonald, Big Spring, the furniture company by H. E. Spafford, Dallas.

Plants Facing Shut Down As Wells Close; Order May Affect Gasoline Dealers

Guardsmen Advance From Oklahoma City To Greater Seminole Area; 6500 Persons Thrown Out of Work

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 5 (AP)—Refiners here, facing a shut down today because of Governor Murray's closure of Oklahoma wells, were deluged today by telegrams from East Texas offering crude at 10 to 15 cents per barrel on loading racks there. The freight rate is 34 to 36 cents a barrel, thus making it possible to get Texas crude here for about 50 cents per barrel.

Oklahoma City pipe lines protested today when national guardsmen refused to allow pipelines to take cruds already produced and in tanks. They were allowed to do so.

Otto Bradford, field proration umpire, was attempting to have Murray's order clarified. Lieut. Col. Cicero Murray and Adjutant General Charles F. Barrett prepared to leave for Seminole to close wells there. They will then go to Wewoka and other areas, calling guardsmen of nearby towns to help them. It was expected that all of the state's pools would be closed in a few days. It appeared likely the Black Gold refinery would be the only one in this field operating in 48 hours unless Texas or other crude is delivered. It had oil for 15 to 20 days.

Reports indicated more than 6,500 persons would be left jobless by closing of the wells. The order, coming at the end of several days of impatient waiting by independent operators suffering from low crude prices decreed that each well remain closed until purchasers agreed to pay a minimum of $1 per barrel at the wells. Fifty cents was the top price yesterday. At Oklahoma City the shut down of nearly 800 wells was completed in less than four hours after the troops moved in. Stripper wells and gasers furnishing fuel for drilling wells were exempted.

Sinclair oil company employees, against which company the governor named fiery remarks in his order, asked guardsmen for written orders, but withdrew quietly when they saw Col. Murray was not planning to arbitrate. Governor Murray accused Sinclair and associates of judicial juggling through injunctions. "Caused Low Prices" He asserted their combined operations caused low prices of crude to increase their profits, while they were running smaller independent firms without such complete industrial facilities. Going deeply into Oklahoma law nearly 3,000 words were contained in the order. Principal points were: (1) protection of school children of the state (oil on school land produces a considerable part of the state's revenue); (2) conservation of natural resources; (3) protection of taxpayers rights in oil revenues; (4) to establish guarantee of protection under the fourteenth amendment to the federal constitution to independent operators, against taking property "without due process of law"; (5) to protect citizens from "general monopolistic control of their natural resources by corrupt combinations of capitalists who produce, transport, refine and sell oil."

Pipe lines got off to a slow start in the Oklahoma City field because guardsmen sought to prevent removal of available oil from leases, but Otto Bradford, field umpire, intervened and at noon pipe lines were running all available crude. Murray's order did not shut down pipe lines. Independent filling station operators, seeing the refineries would be unable to meet their demands by the end of the week, were worried they were being forced to (CONTINUED ON PAGE 5)

He used the butt of a pistol, she said.

Davis, an eye witness to the trouble, testified that he did not see McDowell strike Mrs. McDowell.

Taking of testimony consumed practically the entire day. The court room was crowded all day.

J. B. Litter and G. A. Woodward represented the defendant. Prosecution was in charge of James Litter, county attorney, assisted by Judge Wright of San Angelo, special prosecutor.

Action Delayed On Bill Cutting Cotton Acreage

AUSTIN, Aug. 5 (UP)—The senate, after warm argument, voted 15 to 12 to postpone action on the Cunningham cotton acreage reduction bill. Its advocates charged postponement was designed to kill the measure, since the session is nearing a close.

The bill was endorsed here yesterday by the southwide cotton conference. It would make planting of cotton on the same land in successive years a misdemeanor.

House Passes Wagstaff Bill

Measure Creating Conservation Commission Next On Docket

AUSTIN, Aug. 5 (UP)—The house, acting as a committee of the whole, approved the Wagstaff oil conservation bill by vote of 101 to 19. Governor Sterling favors the bill.

A few minutes earlier the house defeated 102 to 26 the McGregory substitute bill, which would have denied the state the right to set allowable production.

The Wagstaff bill remains to be passed in regular procedure but final approval is considered certain. It gives a conservation commission power to set allowable and close wells where excessive waste is found. It also speeds up court procedure by various means.

The house next considered a companion bill replacing the railroad commission as proration authority with an appointive commission. The senate state affairs committee has approved a bill similar to the Wagstaff measure and passage is expected in the upper house.

Home Town Talk by Betty

The Oklahoma oil shut down order is going to result in a lot of interesting situations. It is something new. Before all the litigation connected with it has ended several highly important points may be discussed before the highest court in the land.

The right of a state to enforce such an order, the effect upon oil operators' employees, the purchase of crude from producers in other fields, the effect upon independent filling station operators—all these things come up.

If East Texas independents succeed in selling in large quantities to Oklahoma refiners the major purchasers in East Texas may find themselves unable to get as much of that cheap oil as they want and this may force them to raise the price.

If Oklahoma traffic becomes paralyzed because filling stations run out of gasoline a public reaction so strong that majors may be forced to satisfy it with higher prices may follow.

Whether the majors can weather through the public's wrath long enough to fight the thing out in the courts is the big question. They may give way to that wrath, hike the price, and then fight it out in the courts for future protection.

The big topic in every oil field today is the Oklahoma situation. The legislature of Texas appears certain to pass the Wagstaff bill. It would authorize a conservation commission to fix allowable production, shut down wells where excessive waste occurs.

But, what is actual waste?

That's the big knot. One group defines it one way, and others have different ideas.

The opinion of the conservation commission, naturally, would determine the policy of enforcing the anti-waste provision. If the commission felt holding excessive amounts of oil in storage led to actual waste they might have to stop the drilling of wells to prevent such waste.

Say, this is getting to be an oily slum. Well, fate of the oil industry, as well as agriculture and livestock, spells the future of Big Spring. So, why not?

Labor Leader Urges More Public Works

Overthrow of Economic Structure May Occur, Says Green

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 5 (UP)—Unless the United States government greatly increases its program of public works in order to absorb larger numbers of the unemployed there is danger of overthrow of the country's economic structure, President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, warned in an address to-day.

Should that happen, Green told the Massachusetts Federation of Labor's convention, "something much worse will be substituted."

Green asked that President Hoover call an immediate conference of financiers, labor representatives and economists for intimate discussion of the unemployment problem.

He suggested that following the conference employers pledge that they will retain all employees now at work.

Green said records of his organization showed there were approximately 6,000,000 unemployed men at present.

"The unemployed man is a menace to his community," Green said. "And 6,000,000 unemployed men increase that menace 6,000,000 fold."

Green said the unemployment situation was especially alarming because of its duration.

Green advocated shortening of the work week not only to five days, but even to as much as three days in some places, to distribute work among greater numbers and to prevent layoffs.

Laborers have greatly increased their efficiency and we must reduce the hours of labor to meet the situation," he declared.

He criticized employers who forced wage cuts, forming such reductions "filly."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (UP)—President Hoover announced that $200,000,000 worth of public building construction would be undertaken by fall to counteract unemployment and with this statement issued a labor department report showing jobs had been found for 435,269 persons from April 1 to July 31.

Secretary of Labor Doak reported to Mr. Hoover that the United States employment service had found jobs for 281,769 persons during those months. The balance of employment was provided through affiliated cooperative employment offices.

Mr. Hoover's report on progress of the public building program was in the form of a treasury department statement. It was based on progress from May 15 to July 15. The last report submitted to Mr. Hoover by the treasury was as of May 15.

In making public's treasury department report on progress of the building program, Mr. Hoover said preliminaries are nearly completed and the projects were moving along rapidly now.

A total of 758 buildings has been authorized at a cost of about $452,000,000, according to the report. It stated six additional projects have been completed in the 60 days prior to July 15 bringing the total of completed buildings up to 87 at a cost of $58,826,876.

Howard was charged with driving while intoxicated. His car and one in which Mrs. Matthews was riding with Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Norworthy crashed.

Vanderbilt Is Divorced

Absolute Decree Given In Reno; Property Rights Settled

RENO, Nev., Aug. 5 (UP)—Mary Weir Vanderbilt won a divorce decree from her young society author-husband, Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr.

The decree was absolute and was granted by Judge Ben F. Currier after Mrs. Vanderbilt, her attorney, William Woodburn, and Vanderbilt's lawyer, Samuel Platt, appeared in court.

Vanderbilt was not present. The hearing was private. No evidence was offered and Woodburn issued a brief statement saying "all property rights and interests involved have been amicably settled."

Mrs. Vanderbilt charged her husband with cruelty.

Her petition was a cross-complaint to an original petition filed by Vanderbilt in which he made a similar charge.

The affairs of the socially prominent young couple came into national-wide prominence several weeks ago when Vanderbilt reported he had armed himself and chased Peter Arno, New York cartoonist, across a stretch of desert because of Arno's attentions to Mrs. Vanderbilt.

Arno subsequently was divorced by his wife.

Woodburn, discussing reported attempts of Vanderbilt to effect a reconciliation with his wife, said after the hearing today that "reconciliation was impossible."

"Mrs. Vanderbilt was granted an absolute decree. Mr. Vanderbilt decided to offer no contest or evidence and was represented only by his attorney."

"Details of the court proceedings and property settlement will not be given to the public."

"LET'S FIRE SOME CUSTOMERS"

The sales manager jumped to his feet.

"Wait a minute, gentlemen. I have a better recommendation than that. LET'S FIRE SOME CUSTOMERS. And let's tell our prospective customers that we don't want their business—"

"Do what?" interrupted the chairman. "Why, what do you mean?"

"That's just what we are doing," was the answer, "WHEN WE DECREASE OR CUT OUR ADVERTISING. We fire our greatest asset: our customers. When we quit telling them about the goods we have to sell, they'll go elsewhere to buy products that they read about. Every year our business has grown, because our number of customers has increased.

"Instead of being in favor of fewer customers, I want to see more. I move the original full amount recommended by the advertising manager be approved."

Startled at the realization of what they might have done, the group, without further discussion, passed the motion.

Can any business grow and prosper without customers? Without, in fact, a constantly growing number of customers?

Obviously, no!

Certainly this is no time to discharge customers, to send them to buy the goods of your competitor. Instead, isn't it a period when you must hold all your regular customers, and invite and attract new ones?

East Texas Leads Way For Slight Gain In Daily Output Of Crude In United States

TULSA, Aug. 5 (UP)—A slight gain in the nation's daily average petroleum production was reported today by the Oil and Gas Journal while attention of the industry was centered on Oklahoma and Texas where drastic measures to stabilize the industry were under consideration.

The statistics reflected the important part of these two major producing states in the petroleum crisis. While the East Texas production showed a huge increase, Oklahoma, where a voluntary shut-down program was in effect and martial law was invoked to curb further flush production, was down to new low levels.

National daily crude production for the week ending August 1 gained 13,162 barrels to 2,490,425 barrels. Oklahoma's production in the United States declined 19,250 barrels to 201,000 barrels.

In East Texas, the production of which is the subject of a special session of the Texas legislature, daily average production rose 52,005 barrels to 997,501 barrels.

The midcontinent area increased 40,001 barrels to 1,580,812 barrels. California declined 19,250 barrels to 201,000 barrels.

Independent refiners play an important part in price structure in any territory. Edwards explained to the club how it was possible that the oil of this section would still be bringing only ten cents a barrel had it not been for the independent refiners of North and West Texas.

Advertising Helps Sell Large Lamb Crop

SAN ANGELO, Aug. 5 (UP)—Advertising has helped the Texas sheep men sell their biggest lamb crop, and it is the only hope of marketing at anything like a profitable figure this coming crop of 1931-32, according to Edward N. Wentworth, Chicago, representative of a packing company.

The market already has absorbed 600,000 more lambs this year than last, and in relation to wholesale prices of all commodities the price is much better, Wentworth said. The country this year must absorb above its record crop of 1930 about 2,300,000 more lambs, of which 1,731,000 head come from the 13 western sheep states and 713,000 come from Texas, he said.

Japanese Party Given By Mrs. Robert E. Lee

Ski-Hi Bridge Club and Members Cleverly Entertained

Mrs. Robert E. Lee entertained the members and friends of the Ski-Hi Bridge Club with a lovely Japanese party Tuesday afternoon at her home.

Score cards, tallies and three prizes were cleverly painted by the artist who is an artist. They carried out the Japanese atmosphere in every detail.

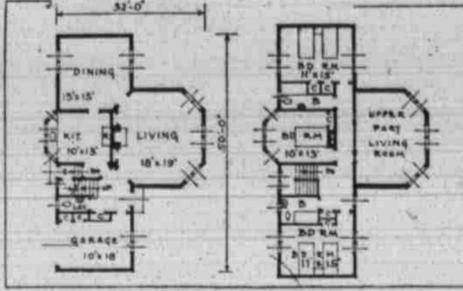

Whaley made high score for the first picture and Mrs. ... made high score for the second picture. ... made high score for the third picture in the shape of the state of Texas. Prizes were also given to those making high scores at each of the four tables. They were ... and were awarded the following: Misses Paul Lowmire, Duff and Duncan.

A salad course was served at the close of the games.

The members and visitors were Misses J. A. Lane, Cecil Floyd, V. R. Burton, A. L. Wood, D. C. Hamilton, Dallas Whaley, P. W. Malone, E. W. Lowmire, Rayner, Paul, W. M. Paul, Hugh, ... R. L. Heath, Ensey, Duff and Lee Levering.

Mrs. Lowmire will be the next hostess.

English House Has Unusual Living Room

Individuality appears in both the interior and the exterior of this house of English type.

Brick, stone and half-timber are interestingly combined in the walls, from a picturesque character particularly evident when the planning is in keeping.

The half-timber is stained a weathered gray or a darker tone in contrast with the stucco of light cream or slate or tile, but wood or composition shingles may be used. Choice of the roof color should be made carefully with a view to harmony with the rest of the house.

Most unusual in the plan is the living room. Here, instead of a rectangular shape, the designer has provided an octagonal room, the ceiling of which is considerably higher than that of the remainder of the first floor.

Because of this design, one may glimpse the living room from a balcony on the second floor, passing over the fireplace group and affording opportunity for the decorator.

Drapery may be used effectively here, at the same time serving a utilitarian purpose in screening those passing on the balcony from plain a view from the room below.

The unusual shape of the living room will result in an arrangement of furniture not at all ordinary. Happily, the windows which should provide abundant ventilation in summer also give views of the garden from three different angles.

If the kitchen and garage are placed on the north side, the important rooms downstairs will get the sun from the south. The conveniently arranged kitchen has a large window area and the dining room is cross-ventilated.

There are three bedrooms and two bathrooms upstairs. The two bedrooms are large and have windows on two sides; a side of the small bedroom is a large bay window.

Texas Clubs To Elect President At Lubbock

At Lubbock Convention of the T. F. W. C.

A broad field of interest that is comprehensive in scope.

Mrs. Fincher

The Sorosis club of Houston presents the name of Mrs. J. W. Fincher as a candidate for the office of president of Texas Federation of Women's Clubs subject to the action of the convention in Lubbock.

Mrs. Fincher is a woman versed by experience in every detail of club work; she has shown marked ability to plan, and great skill in execution. As a presiding officer she has poise, dignity, and courage and at all times her official service has shown respect, consideration, understanding and appreciation for others.

The service of Mrs. Fincher as president of the Sorosis club of Houston, her chairmanship of bill board restriction and her knowledge of parliamentary usage, have fitted her as a leader in club work, but the club points with special pride to her work as president of the Fourth District of Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

At the beginning of the present administration the fourth district had only 52 clubs in good standing; it now has a membership of 112 clubs with all dues paid in full. The fourth district has a beautiful key home erected on the campus of the A. & M. College. Through the personal efforts of Mrs. Fincher in solicitation, the china, the living room and bed room furniture of the Key home have been donated by Houston merchants for the benefit of club work.

Mrs. Fincher has actively served on the permanent headquarters building committee during the present administration of Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. She is familiar with details of the activities of this administration, and in sympathetic accord with the majority voice of the federation.

The cultural attainments, interest in the woman club movement, efficient handling of detail work, proven ability as an executive, interest, enthusiasm and familiarity with the unfinished objectives of the present administration of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs peculiarly fit Mrs. Fincher as a worthy leader at this time.

W. R. King has moved his family from Abilene to Big Spring.

Historic Associations Cluster Around Site of Club Headquarters

The July issue of the Texas Federation News has the following to say about the permanent headquarters of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs:

On the crest of one of Austin's high hills the State Federation of Women's Clubs will erect its home for the club women of Texas.

The site chosen is an admirable one, located on the corner of Main and San Gabriel streets, within a few blocks of the University of Texas. The ground upon which the building will stand is historic, being a part of the plot attached to the Southern mansion known as the Cochran residence. This property was formerly owned by Col. Neil a Texas pioneer, member of the Mer Expedition and who drew a white bean in that crucial experience. In early days many Texas patriots, among them General Sam Houston enjoyed the hospitality of the old place. Later on many astute politicians and famous members of the Texas bar assembled there for social, as well as for affairs of State.

The steering committee with Mrs. James Weider and the president, Mrs. R. F. Lindsay, in the forefront, are deservingly of the cordial endorsement and support of the women of Texas, as well as of Austin citizens, who will be proud to add the handsome structure to Austin's increasing group of distinctive buildings.

It is pleasing to note that the plans for the Federation Home of noble design, artistic and complete in all of their appointments and details are the work of a young Texas architect, Mr. Henry Coke Knight of Dallas, an alumnus of the University of Texas.

Bluebell Crop Being Destroyed, Damaged Garden Club

Do not pull up the Texas bluebells by the root, is an emphatic suggestion made by the Garden Club, to flower lovers of the city.

Many people are unthinkingly committing this crime against wild flowers. Multiplied by the hundreds, they are about to destroy the bluebells entirely. These flowers grow very slowly and unless their roots are left there soon will be few bluebells.

It is easy to put a knife or a pair of scissors in the car when you are going for the flowers. Even then, leave at least one stalk in each bunch to reseed.

Big Spring is large enough now so that conservation of wild flowers is absolutely essential if the flowers are to continue in abundance, says the club.

Buys Preacher's Union Crop With Worthless Check; Bound Over

DALLAS, Aug. 3 (UP)—The Rev. James H. Hunt grows fine Buys' musk melons on his farm near here, and is proud of his product.

Along came Francis M. Dyer, also an onion fancier. He surveyed the Rev. Hunt's crop, said he liked it, and bought part of it, giving the reverend a check for $28.

The check came back. It's unfortunate occurrence caused the Rev. Hunt to have Dyer arrested.

After hearing a long sermon from the Rev. Hunt about the way of the transgressor and how hard it is, even on onion fanciers, Dyer was bound over to the grand jury.

THE HOME

is the bulwark of the Nation and the idol worshipped in the shrine of the home, is not only the coldy splendid Grand piano but is the hot, sooty kitchen range. It works by contraries—using the temperature of hell its oven produces the Angelic baked potatoes and heavenly pies that have made mother famous.

It is near this smoking sanctum that the freedom of speech is never abolished when father comes home and finds dinner late.

When too much argument brings on indigestion use CUNNINGHAM & PHILIPS Dyspepsia Tablets.
