

An Ordinance to be Known as Ordinance No. 97.

Forbidding the storage of old implements and machinery within the fire limits, and requiring the owners of such lots to cause such implements and machinery to be removed therefrom, and requiring the removal of scraps and waste from property North of railroad track.

BE IT OBTAINED BY THE CITY COMMISSION OF THE CITY OF HEREFORD:

Section 1. It shall hereafter be unlawful for any person to abandon or leave upon any lot within the fire limits of the City of Hereford any worn out or cast away implements or machinery or vehicle of any description and any person violating the provisions of this ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine in any sum not to exceed Fifty Dollars.

Section 2. It shall hereafter be unlawful for the owner, tenant or person in possession of any lot within the fire limits of the City of Hereford to permit any person to leave, abandon or deposit thereon any worn out or discarded or useless implement or piece of machinery or vehicle of any description. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine in any sum not to exceed Fifty Dollars.

Section 3. It is hereby made the duty of the owner of any lots within the fire limits of the City of Hereford to cause to be removed therefrom any abandoned or discarded implements, piece of machinery, wagon or vehicle of any description, or any part thereof, any scraps of lumber or metal and accumulation of junk and waste of any kind whether deposited there by himself or another. Any person violating the provisions of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not to exceed Twenty Five Dollars. Each day any person shall fail or refuse to comply with the provisions of this ordinance shall constitute a separate offense.

Section 4. It shall hereafter be unlawful for any person to store or deposit upon the property of another or on any street or alley North of the railroad track within the City of Hereford, except on account of an accident or temporarily for repairs, any implement or engine or machinery of any kind. Any person violating the provisions of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine in any sum not to exceed Twenty Five Dollars.

Section 5. It is hereby made the duty of any owner of any lot within the City of Hereford to cause to be removed therefrom, and from the alley adjoining the same, if deposited therein by himself or members of his family, all cinders and ashes and all refuse accumulations of hay, straw, stalks and manure. Any person failing or refusing to comply with the provisions of this ordinance after being notified so to do by authority of the City Commission shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine in any sum not to exceed Twenty Five Dollars. Each day any person shall fail or refuse to comply with the provisions of this ordinance after being notified so to do shall constitute a separate offense.

Section 6. It is hereby made the duty of the owner of any lot North of the railroad track in the city of Hereford to cause to be removed therefrom all scraps of metal and accumulations of junk whether deposited thereon by himself or another. Any person failing or refusing to comply with the provisions of this ordinance after being notified so to do by authority of the City Commission shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not to exceed Twenty Five Dollars. Each day any person fails or refuses to comply with the provisions of this ordinance after being notified so to do shall constitute a separate offense. Provided, that this ordinance shall not apply to dealer in junk and scrap iron, who is storing the same on his own premises, not within the fire limits; nor to a blacksmith or tinner maintaining a pile of scraps on his own premises not within the fire limits.

Section 7. It is hereby made the duty of any tenant or any person in possession of any lot north of the railroad track within the City of Hereford to cause to be removed therefrom and from the alleys adjoining the same all cinders and ashes, all scraps of metal and lumber and wood and all accumulations of junk and all refuse accumulations of hay, straw and manure, collected or deposited thereon by himself or by members of his family. Any person failing or refusing to comply with the provisions of this ordinance, after being notified so to do, under the authority of the City Commission, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding Twenty Five Dollars. Each day any person fails or refuses to comply with the provisions of this ordinance after being notified so to do shall constitute a separate offense. Approved May 31st, 1916, Wm. M. Knight, Mayor. Adopted May 31st, 1916, J. E. Crouch, City Clerk.

FARROTT.

Our community was visited by a fine rain Sunday night and at this writing, Tuesday morning, the clouds bid fair for another good wetting soon.

Frank Metcalf is having his house on the old Helphry place newly papered and painted and remodeled and will move into it as soon as the work is completed.

A great many of our community folks attended the show in Hereford last week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Neely spent Saturday and Sunday in Amarillo.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Burkenfield and Mr. and Mrs. George Baucus and children of Nazareth visited Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Wagner, the occasion being Mr. Wagner's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shepard attended church services in Dimmitt Sunday and were out in the rain coming home pretty well soaked.

Floyd Hacker and Lewis Baber visited

Sunday with Roy Wagner at the Neely ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Robinson of Hereford called on Mr. and Mrs. H. Fay Neely one day last week.

Pat Walker is hauling hogs this week to the Metcalf ranch.

Mr. George Shepard and Mrs. Jacob Wagner are on the sick list this week.

Ned Neely was in Dimmitt Friday and Saturday of last week writing the State examination for first grade teachers' certificate.

Mrs. E. F. Neely is preparing to go to Battle Creek, Mich., where she will stay a couple of months for treatment in a sanatorium.

Mrs. Jacob Wagner owns a bronze turkey hen which seems to be a record breaker as an egg producer. The hen is just one year old, she laid thirty-five eggs then they supposed she had quit laying when last Sunday they found her nest in new quarters with nine eggs in it, a they have only one hen there can be no mistake.

THE FULL OF LIFE.

Laughing waters, with cadence low,
And a soft breeze stealing by;
Leeks of white 'gainst a turquoise dome
And the lift of a bird on high;
Then a tinkling chime from the rox-gloves' haunts,
And the drone of a dragon-fly,
Glints of the violets' veiled eyes,
With their Amethystine gleams;
Blush of the crimson scented rose,
As swaying her hammock, she dreams
And a spider black at a spinning-wheel
Weaves gems in its web's gray seams.
Attar of grasses newly mown;
Sheen of the cornflower's blue;
Flash of a daisy's silvery disc
With her carabane of dew
And then, at the full of life's summer day,
Heartsease—O beloved—and you!

CALOMEL WHEN BILIOUS? NO! STOP! MAKES YOU SICK AND SALIVATES

"Dodson's Liver Tone" is Harmless To Clean Your Sluggish Liver and Bowels.

Ugh! Calomel makes you sick. It's horrible! Take a dose of the dangerous drug tonight and tomorrow you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with sour bile crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are sluggish and "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour, just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonight on my guarantee.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store and get a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it can not salivate or make you sick.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will keep your entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children. It is harmless; doesn't gripes and they like its pleasant taste.

Ice Cards

We want to give you good delivery service, and you can help us do this by the use of an Ice Card which we will furnish.

Ice cards are a convenience to the drivers, and an equal convenience to the customers.

Get your card out early for the amount of ice you want that day, and before the driver gets past your place. Put it in a place where it will not blow down, and where the driver can plainly see it from the street.

It is hard to give you prompt service unless they are used just as intended. The regular driver may know each day the amount of ice you want, but he may be off, and the new man depends entirely on the ice cards.

Should the driver miss your card, let us know as early as possible, as it gives us a better chance to take care of you.

Just a word to those who buy a nickel's worth of ice from wagon. You must meet the wagon, and take your ice from the wagon, as drivers will not have time to carry a nickel's worth of ice in house and wrap it; this is too much to ask of us for a nicke, as we lose money every time we stop the wagon to cut a nickel piece of ice.

Cry aloud to ruled and rulers,
The sweet signal of good cheer,
Brotherhood;
French it to the whole creation
Till all the nations pause and hear,
Brotherhood;
We will banish war forever from the land and from the sea,
And the countries all shall prosper and the people all be free,
When mankind shall dwell together in the bond of unity,
Brotherhood;

C. R. Piety

If variety is the spice of life, Panhandle weather for the past few days has been decidedly spicy.

Where are the trash receptacles that were to be provided for the business section?

Wonder if it is any easier to be thankful for the rain than if we had done less groching because we were afraid it wasn't coming.

The truth of the familiar, "There's two sides to every story" is verified in the war reports sent out by England and Germany.

After the awful naval battle off Jutland, May 31st, the city papers carried headlines similar to the following: "England mourns the loss of 6000 sailors but finds consolation in the fact that the German loss is probably as great." This from the nation whose proud boast for time past has been her Christian civilization and that her flag is carried by the forefront of Christianized, civilized, educated thought, seems a complete disavowal of these principles.

That the leaders in both warring nations entertain such sentiments is proven by the fact that they continue their campaigns of wholesale murder, disguising their barbarism under the guise of patriotism and go on plunging the best manhood of Europe into a living hell from which there is no respite until death sends a merciful release.

Surely the war-fiend is transforming men into beasts.

Thresher Machine Protection.

As a result of a study of explosions in thresher machines, the department now recommends that one or more of three measures be adopted to prevent loss from this cause. These are: (1) The installation of an efficient grounding system for the removal of static electricity from the machines; (2) the installation of a suction fan to remove smut and dust and to prevent the formation of an explosive mixture of dust and air while the threshing is being carried on; and (3) the installation of a device to act as an automatic fire extinguisher which in the event of fire will not only save the machine but prevent the flames from spreading to the surrounding grain.

The first two of these devices have been tried with successful results in the field. The automatic fire extinguisher was not constructed until the threshing season had been closed, but it has been tested under severe conditions in the explosion galleries of the Bureau of Mines at Pittsburgh, and in these tests under practical threshing conditions at the Government farm at Arlington and proved effective in extinguishing fires which were produced in different types of grain separators there.

A total of 27 tests were made in both places. In no case was there a failure to act promptly and efficiently, nor was there a premature action.

Blue prints of each of these three devices may be secured upon application to the office of Public Roads and Rural Engineering of the department at Washington. In view of the great damage which has been caused by these dust explosions in recent years, manufacturers, threshing-machine owners, and operators are advised to give careful attention to the question of equipping their machines in this manner.

Studies of dust explosions and fires in grain separators have been carried on both by the department in cooperation with the University of Idaho and by the Washington State College. These indicate that static electricity is the cause of the great majority of these accidents. The electricity may be produced in a number of ways by the operation of the machine during the threshing process and under certain conditions will readily ignite the dust-laden atmosphere within the thresher. It is generally agreed that before this can take place the dust must be fine and dry and in a state of suspension, but the exact conditions necessary to bring about an explosion have not been definitely determined. This uncertainty, it is said, is a strong argument for equipping all threshers with the preventive devices already named.

The best method, the investigations indicate, for carrying off any static electricity that may be produced is to connect wires from all moving parts on the machine to one wire and ground that wire. This is the method that has been adopted in the system recommended by the department specialists. In this system the common wire or conductor is grounded through a rod which should be driven at least three feet into the ground, which should be kept well moistened. There are connections to this conductor from the shaft of the cylinder, from the shakers, from the entire sieve, and from the metal castings of the stacker fan. These parts are the ones on which static electricity appears most likely to be generated. The common lead and its main branches are of No. 14 bare copper wire. The connections should be of flexible insulated wire coiled a sufficient number of times to permit full flexibility. The wire should be attached to the framework of wooden machine by staples, which should be of the insulated type, or else there should be a cushion of rubber or other material between the staple and the wire. Otherwise the wire is likely to snap and break the circuit.

The installation of the suction fan is desirable because before any explosion can occur, there must be a favorable mixture of dust and air. The purpose of the fan, therefore, is to remove the dust from the vicinity of the cylinder. The arrangement recommended by the investigators is to attach a suction fan to the top of the separator. This fan exhausts from above the cylinder and also from beneath the fan.

While it is pointed out that there is no way of absolutely demonstrating that either the grounding of the machine or the suction fan actually prevents explosions, the fact remains that no such occurrences have taken place as far as is known, with separators that were properly equipped in this way. On the other hand, explosions are constantly occurring in other machines operated without them but otherwise under identical conditions.

These devices, however, do not remove all danger from fire, for in addition to electric sparks foreign materials which find entrance into the separator may start fires, and for this reason the automatic fire extinguisher is regarded as a desirable additional protection. This device, the details of which are shown in the accompanying illustration, consists of a tank mounted on top of the separator. This tank is filled with water containing soda, and in addition there is a bottle of sulphuric acid. A wire line in which are mounted a number of fuses, connects the tank with the separator. If sufficient heat is developed within the separator, one or more of Benediction.

These fuses will melt. This breaks the wire line and releases a trigger, which in turn frees a tripping mechanism and causes a hammer within the tank to strike and break the bottle of sulphuric acid. This discharge of the sulphuric acid into the water containing soda forms carbon dioxide. This generates sufficient pressure to force the water through the discharge pipe and the discharge nozzle to all the crevices of the separator.

The location of the fuses will vary with each type of machine. They must be of such, however, that the fuses are sure to be reached either by the flame or the heat. On the other hand, they must be so placed that the wire connecting them will not be broken by the straw or by the moving parts of the separator. The location of the nozzle also depends upon the type of the machine. Further details in regard to the construction of this device and of the two others will be furnished with the blue prints upon application to the office of Public Roads and Rural Engineering.

In recent years the number of explosions and fires in threshing machines appears to have been increased to such an extent that the situation is now serious in many sections of the country. Definite reports of 166 such accidents were received by the field workers of the department and investigated. It is probable however, that many more explosions occurred on which no report was made. Such accidents have been known to cause serious injuries to workmen and in addition are responsible for much destruction of property and for practically prohibitive insurance rates. For these reasons it is believed that Killing Hogs in Summer.

Select a cool morning on which to kill, and as soon as the hog is nicely dressed take the carcass down and cut into pieces of only a few pounds each and not more than two inches thick, cutting across the bone. Have ready a kettle of boiling water and dip two or three pieces at a time into same until it is thoroughly heated through and well scalded. Then lay it out until cool, when it will be ready to put into brine. Pack the meat loosely into jars in the purest salt brine, having the brine quite strong and putting the brine into the jars before the meat goes in. Scalding the meat removes some little blood, but the main thing it is done for is to get rid of the animal heat, a very essential point when killing in warm weather.

When the common cold weather cures such as the "government cure" is used in summer it is necessary to boil the brine and skim it well then allow it to cool before using.

One way to keep sausage for use in summer is to fry it as for immediate use, pack it in wide mouthed gallon crocks, and when cool run lard over it. All you need to do on hot days is to take out some, heat the small cakes through and serve.

INDIANS SKULLS FOUND WEST OF CITY; OTHERS PROBABLE

Prof. R. L. Marquis of the Normal, was out west of town two weeks ago and got two Indian skulls and a number of bones from the skeleton of the bodies. The skeleton was found last winter by a trapper, who thinking that it was the grave of robbers and no doubt contained a fortune, had torn in pieces the skeletons while digging for the supposed fortune.

From the ruins of the grave Mr. Marquis was able to get in good condition the skulls, a number of bones from various parts of the body and many beads which were made from marine shells carefully cut across the ends. It is likely that the Indians used them for clothing decorations judging from the number found around the grave. In addition, there were remains of blankets, an arrow head and other trinkets.

Mr. Marquis says that he does not know what particular tribe of Indians operated through this section of the country. However, it is known that they buried their dead in a crouched position. He imagines that the remains found were those of a man and woman.

Mr. Marquis suggests that if more graves are found that he be notified at once, before the graves are destroyed or disturbed. He wishes to have the grave photographed, which will be sent to the Smithsonian Institute in order to gain definite information as to the tribe of Indians which were in this part. Furthermore, he wishes to get the skeleton in the original position together with the trinkets in order that the same may be placed in the Normal in the original setting. It would be of great value to the school in the study of the Indians, of which the people of the United States know so little.

This makes the third grave that has been torn up before Mr. Marquis was called. He states that while it is very doubtful of a fortune being concealed in the grave, that in case of anything valuable being found it will go to the discoverer. All he wants is the skeleton and the original setting in the grave to reproduce in the Normal. Randall Co. News.

MANY IN HEREFORD TRY SIMPLE MIXTURE

Many Hereford people are surprised at the QUICK action of simple buckthorn, bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-Lika. This simple remedy acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels, removing such surprising foul matter that ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE, constipation, sour stomach or gas. A few doses often relieve or prevent appendicitis. A slow treatment helps chronic stomach trouble. The INSTANT, easy action of Adler-Lika is a astonishing. Bew. Clarke, Druggist.

WITNESS MY HAND, this 29th day of May A. D. 1916. R. W. Baird, Sheriff Deaf Smith County, Texas. 19-4

Plain Facts About Charbon or Anthrax

ANTHRAX OR CHARBON is an acute infectious disease that attacks both man and animals.

THE INFECTED TERRITORY is found along the lower Mississippi valley and the Gulf States.

IN TEXAS the disease was recognized along the Gulf Coast, and because of the manner of handling stock has gradually spread into the interior.

THE CAUSE of the disease is a rod-shaped bacilli which multiplies in the blood of the animal and is thrown off in the discharge of the body. After death the bacilli may be found in any portion of the body.

THE SPORES or seed of the bacilli are formed as soon as the bacilli leaves the body. The spores retain its life for many years and can only be destroyed by burning. Insecticides as commonly used do not affect it. Anthrax as a rule affects only grown stock and occurs in three forms, but all forms infect the pastures with the spores and scatter the disease.

THE ACUTE FORM shows few symptoms. The animal dies suddenly and in many cases drops dead, showing no particular symptoms.

THE SUBACUTE FORM produces high fever, nervousness, sometimes convulsions, bloody discharges and lasts from one to three days. In the milk cow, the flow of milk is stopped at once. There is no single symptom that may not appear in some other disease or condition.

THE CHRONIC FORM may last for several days, and usually shows a swelling on the neck or under the belly. The fever is not so high as in the subacute form nor is the nervousness so noticeable. The swelling is hot and painful and contains a peculiar yellow fluid. The animal may live several days and finally recover.

OTHER DISEASES are sometimes mistaken for Anthrax, such as Texas Fever, Black Leg, Malignant Ephemera, Forage or Pasture Poisoning and Hydrophobia.

TEXAS FEVER is caused by a germ transmitted by the flea. As in Anthrax, there is rapid pulse, breathing, high fever with nervousness, loss of appetite and constipation or diarrhoea. The blood is pale and watery in Texas Fever while in Anthrax, the blood is dark, frequently a tarry black.

BLACK LEG is also caused by a germ and affects usually young cattle. Rapid pulse and breathing with high fever are generally present. As the name suggests, there is a swelling of the leg. This swelling, when pressed or pinched, gives a peculiar feel or sound due to the small pockets of gas and fluid formed under the skin. If the skin over the swelling be cut, these pockets along with the blackened spots may be plainly seen. In Anthrax the swelling usually occurs under the chin, neck or belly, does not contain these pockets of gas, does not give this peculiar feel or sound or pressure, and is filled with a thick yellow fluid.

MALIGNANT OEDEMA in the animal is similar to blood poisoning in man, and is caused by a germ infecting a wound. It produces a swelling and fever and other symptoms similar to Black Leg and Anthrax. The swelling may appear at any point on the body and on any aged animal, but does not spread from one to the other.

THE PREVENTION of these three diseases is a very easy matter, if prompt and scientific methods are used.

TO PREVENT TEXAS FEVER, rid your pastures of ticks and do not buy tick infested cattle. Ticks may be eradicated by dipping or spraying with a standard solution at regular intervals during the season.

TO PREVENT ANTHRAX, vaccinate all stock in the later part of the spring or early summer. Separate all sick stock from well. When the animal is dead, burn the carcass, scatter straw or leaves on the place where it has been while sick and burn it. The burning of pasture, the killing of buzzards, and stray dogs and wolves, will lessen the spread of Anthrax. If the double dose system of vaccination is used do not mix them or use the No. 2 first. This vaccine matter will produce a mild form of the disease and should be handled by a scientific veterinarian only. The container and all the instruments should be burnt after the vaccination is over.

TO PREVENT BLACK LEG, vaccinate all stock under 2 years of age in the spring. Vaccination for Blackleg is a very simple matter to an experienced vaccinator, but should be handled with care by the inexperienced.

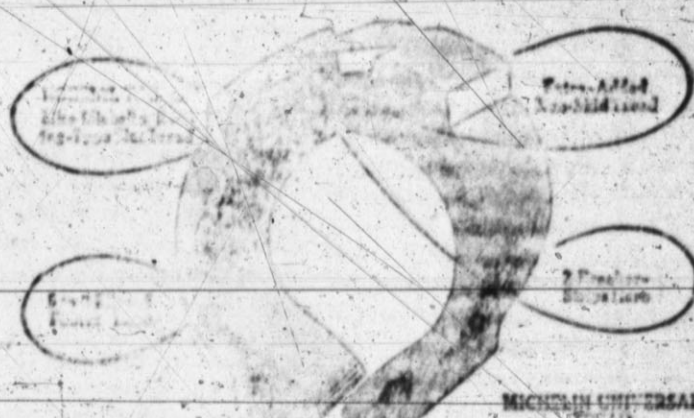

CATTLEMEN who are raising fine stock will reduce the sickness among their stock by burning all dead stock without regard as to the cause of death. By burning off their pastures regularly, by cleaning up their watering places, and by reporting any deaths from unknown causes in their communities.

THE LIVE STOCK SANITARY COMMISSION, at Fort Worth or THE STATE BOARD OF HEALTH, Austin, will investigate any outbreak of disease among the stock and will assist in the suppression of such epidemics. Notification of such diseases or requests for information should be addressed to the Commission or board.—State Board of Health.

The first Sunday school picnic of the season was enjoyed by about one hundred members of the Methodist Sunday School on Tuesday at Sulphur Park. Mr. E. H. Black, the enterprising superintendent, had previously arranged a "New Members contest" in which the boys succeeded in bringing in more new members than the girls who were for that reason hostesses to the Sunday School at the picnic. In addition to a bountiful picnic luncheon there was an abundance of lemonade and ices.

Wading at the dam, fishing, and general merry-making combined to make a most delightful outing.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Wilkinson was opened to the Beta Psi Deities, on Tuesday, when Mrs. Wilkinson and Miss Bess Snyder entertained the club. Three tables of five hundred furnished enjoyable diversion and refreshments of cream and cake were served.

The guests included: Misses Mabel Gase, N'Anna Elliott, Elzina Mounts, Louise Oberthier, Reta Shank, Mattie Sloan, of Navasota, May Pratt, Jane Gregg and Mesdames Brautig and Brack Williams.

A wedding of interest to many Hereford people was solemnized Sunday, at Silverton, the bride being Miss Ruby Anderson, of Silverton, and the groom Mr. Fred Elliston, of McKinney.

The wedding was a pretty home affair attended only by relatives and close friends. After the ceremony which was performed by the pastor of the Methodist church at Silverton, an elaborate wedding dinner was served.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. F. L. Anderson, county clerk of Briscoe county, and was a popular teacher in Deaf Smith county schools the past winter. She is a most worthy young lady and has many friends in and near Hereford.

The groom is a son of Wesley Elliston, of McKinney, and a cousin of W. B. Elliston, of this city. He has spent several months here and is an industrious and estimable young man.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliston will reside for the present on the farm of W. I. Valentine, west of town.

Those from Hereford attending the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Valentine, and Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Arthur. The bride and groom accompanied these friends back to Hereford and went at once to housekeeping.

A charming society event of Friday evening was the dinner party at which Mrs. W. B. Davis was hostess.

The pleasant home was very attractive, simply decorated with cut flowers effectively arranged.

The delicious three-course dinner with its dainty serving and appointments was a real delight.

An impromptu musical followed the dinner and expressed the pleasure of the guests who were privileged to share the pleasant occasion and who were: Misses Jane Gregg, Mary Jones, Reta Shank, Bess Snyder and French Davis.

That mere men are fully equal to the occasion when it comes to entertaining their friends was demonstrated on Friday when that genial good fellow and royal entertainer Will O'Brien invited a number of friends to join him in an old fashioned fish fry in honor of a business guest, Mr. VanAldale of Wichita, Kansas.

Accompanied by George Dent, the well-known fish hypnotizer, as mascot, the party motored to the river near the Rat Jowell ranch. Perch almost swam ashore in their eagerness to verify the reputation of the Tierra Blanca as a fisherman's paradise. These were absolutely ignored as unworthy of the efforts of real fishers and only good sized bass contributed to the bountiful dinner and supper which these hungry men enjoyed. Seldom are fish of such size and numbers caught in a day's sport even in this favored spot and to prove the truth of their fish story a number of fine bass were brought back to town.

In the party were Messrs. Van Alstyne of Wichita, Kans., Cal Ponelson, H. Wilkinson, Wink Valentine, Rat Joell, O. G. Hill, Fred and John Brownlee, O. M. Shore, Ray Barber, George Dent and Will O'Brien.

They were joined in the afternoon by E. Renfro, George O'Brien, Jim Wilkinson and F. D. Perkins.

Woman's Love.

It takes a hundred men to make an encampment but it takes only the influence of one woman to make a home. I not only admire women as the most beautiful object created, but I reverence her as the redeemed glory of humanity, the sanctuary of all virtues, the pledge of all perfect qualities of heart and head. It is because women are so much better than men that their faults are considered greater. The one thing in this world that is considered constant, the only peak that rises above the clouds, the window in which light burns forever, the one star that darkness can not quench, is woman's love. It rises to the greatest height; it sinks to the lowest depths; it forgives the most cruel injuries. A woman's love is the perfume of the heart; this is the real love that subdues the earth; the love that has wrought miracles of art; that gives us music all the way from cradle song to the grand symphony that bears the soul away on wings of fire—a love that is grater than power, sweeter than life and stronger than death.—Robert G. Ingersoll.

Improvements on the Santa Fe.

Seasoned travelers comment quite emphatically on the service of the Santa Fe Railway hereabouts. The equipment is good, the track heavy and firm, and the treatment of officials and employees courteous and helpful. Comment is also frequently heard on the neatness of depots and grounds. The parking around the station at Amarillo is most attractive. So is it at Clovis and Albuquerque where trains stop for meals. It is not generally known that every Saturday the section crews clean up the yards in addition to keeping the track and switches in perfect order. At many of the stations men are employed for the sole purpose of keeping the looks of things up to the Santa Fe standard of neatness and beauty. F. C. Fox the general manager of the western lines of the system with headquarters at Amarillo takes pride in keeping everything up to standard.

The laying of ninety pound steel is progressing well through the Panhandle. Steel laying gangs are at work on the Pecos Valley line and if the season is favorable, heavy steel will be laid from Clovis to Roswell at least by the end of the year. There are many betterments under way in New Mexico and northwest Texas at this time, all being made for the purpose of improving the service over the Santa Fe system.

MARKETING POULTRY PRODUCTS

(By H. M. Cottrell, Agricultural Demonstrator, Rock Island Lines)

The farmers of the United States lose at least $45,000,000 a year through neglect in handling the eggs they market. This loss comes from marketing dirty eggs, stale eggs, rotten eggs, small eggs and broken eggs.

The eggs graded firsts in the market are fresh, good sized eggs with clean, sound shells and weigh twenty-five pounds per case of thirty dozen eggs. When the egg is broken into a plate, the yolk must stand up firm and the white must not be watery. A fresh laid egg fills its shell. The longer an egg is kept the larger the air space in the interior on account of evaporation through the shell. An old egg may not fill over half its shell.

Careless breeding and poor feed and care will produce scrub hens that lay small eggs. These when fresh and with clean, sound shells bring in western markets from three to ten cents a dozen, less than large eggs of the same quality. Small eggs bring the same price as dirty eggs. In a case of small eggs taken at random from a carload, an average dozen of the small eggs weighed eighteen ounces.

It is astonishing to go to a large egg receiving depot and see the enormous quantities of dirty eggs sent to market. These dirty eggs are sorted out by the shippers before being sent to the eastern markets and make carload after carload. There are eggs covered by manure and feathers and eggs stained yellow like tobacco juice because the straw in the nests was wet. The dirty eggs bring three to ten cents a dozen less in the large markets than clean eggs.

There are comparatively few rotten eggs in the early spring but in hot weather there are often carloads where only three eggs out of a dozen are fit to eat. In a shipment of eggs in hot weather from a Kansas point, where the case was opened a live chicken was found that had hatched after the eggs were packed. Some farmer did not have quite enough eggs to fill out a case and had taken some from under a setting hen that was soon ready to take of a brood.

The first step to take in improving the quality of the egg is to get rid of the "roosters." All eggs sent to market should be infertile. Males should not be allowed with the hens except when eggs are wanted for hatching and then only with the hens whose eggs are to be hatched.

A fertile egg will often start to germinate in the hen's body before it is laid. After the egg is laid, the embryo, unless killed, will grow any time the temperature gets to seventy-four degrees or above.

When the facts are considered, it is easy to see why there are so many spoiled and poor eggs on the markets. The germ in a fertile egg will grow during the week that it is kept in a warm kitchen waiting for the farmer to go to town Saturday. It will grow while a few hours in a hot hen house and it will grow while on the road to town and on the depot platform on a warm day. DO NOT LET A SINGLE ROOSTER RUN WITH HENS WHOSE EGGS ARE TO BE EATEN. In an extended investigation made in Kansas by the U. S. Department of Agriculture it was found that in warm weather there was a total loss of forty-two and a half per cent of all fertile eggs marketed and that two-thirds of this loss was made on the farm.

Hens will lay as many eggs and sometimes more without the males and the eggs will cost less. Eggs laid by hens that have no males with them contain no germs to be developed and therefore withstand the heat. They are much slower to become stale or decay from other causes.

On the farm, the young cockerels should be marketed as soon as they reach a weight of one and a half to two pounds. One pen can be fenced and hens and cocks intended for breeding can be kept in it during the hatching season. After that is over the hens can run with the rest of the flock and the male birds that are desirable to keep for breeding another season can be kept in the pen, the same as fowls are kept in towns.

Dirty eggs can be avoided by clean quarters and plenty of nests. In muddy limes keep the floor of the poultry house well bedded with clean litter. One of the chief causes of dirty eggs is too few nests. A hen lays a clean egg and leaves the nest, another hen gets in the nest and stepping around in it before she sets down fouls the clean egg laid by the first hen. Wet straw in the nest often stains the eggs a dirty yellow. Do not wash eggs. This injures their keeping qualities.

Eggs kept in a damp moldy place and eggs smeared over from broken eggs develop rotten spots. The farmer should keep eggs in a cool, dry, dark place. A cool, dry cellar is a good place. Eggs are damaged quickly in a damp cellar or in a warm pantry or kitchen.

Eggs should be gathered daily in cool weather and twice a day or oftener in hot weather. They should be placed as soon as gathered in a cool dry place and should be protected from heat by being covered while on the road to town, the same as cream.

Most farmers need to change their stock and secure hens that will lay a uniform quality of good sized eggs that, when properly taken care of, will grade as "firsts."

Moldy feeds and overfeeding are likely to produce eggs with a bad flavor. Eggs absorb bad odors from vegetables, meat, kerosene and other bad smelling surroundings. Eggs packed in bran, oats or chaff that are molded or damp are likely to absorb bad odors or flavors. Eggs should never be placed against metal, such as is done when they are gathered in a tin fall. The metal is likely to make a spot on the shell where it touches the egg.

To make good sales it is first necessary to produce a good article. Then to find a buyer who will pay for quality.

A poultry raiser who can be depended on to furnish regularly large, fresh eggs can usually get three to five cents a dozen above top market price by selling to a grocer who has the best trade in the nearest large town. Where several reliable poultry raisers ship their eggs together they are in a position to hunt and supply a high priced market, whether it be ten or 1,000 miles distance. The poultry raiser in a small town in eastern Colorado did this and found a high priced market in central New Mexico.

A Club Boy's Pig.

A Texas boy joined the pig club last year early in April. He selected a Duroc Jersey pig weighing forty-one pounds and commenced to feed it. He grazed it on oats, Bermuda grass and Alfalfa, supplementing with shorts, some maize chops, skim milk and toward the end some cottonseed meal.

Hereford Electric Light & Power Co.

Seven months later the pig was killed and it dressed 225 pounds. The meat lard, sausage, etc., when sold at retail brought $31.65, and gave the boy a net profit of $23.31.

The total cost, including feed, original cost of pig, cost of killing, cutting and refrigeration, was $28.34. The net profit of $23.31 was just about twice what he would have received had the pig been sold on foot.

Month by month the pig gained as follows: Weight at beginning, 41 pounds; at the end of first month, 89 pounds, second month, 145 pounds; third month, 204 pounds; fourth month, 276 pounds; fifth month, 346 pounds, sixth month, 414 pounds. It was then eight months old and had gained 373 pounds in six months—or a little better than two pounds daily. Very little gain was put on during the seventh month, as the hog was quite fat.

Good stock, a good start before weaning, pasture—particular emphasis on this—balanced ration, a mineral mixture always before the pig, and the work and care of an industrious boy all contributed to this successful pig feeding. The way he went at it there is money in hogs.—Ft. Worth Livestock Reporter.
