DR. OVERTON ELECTED TO HEAD CLUB

PRESIDENT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IN COMING YEAR PLANS FOR YEAR

Will Be Announced at Regular Meeting Held on Next Monday

Dr. Jno. W. Overton is the new president of the Hereford Chamber of Commerce. He was placed in nomination by the special committee on officers last Monday at the Stockman's Cafe, and unanimously elected to serve for the ensuing year. The Doctor's executive committee for the year, over which body he will preside, consists of G. A. F. Parker, vice president, Gano Hastings, treasurer, and Geo. L. Muse and A. Herbst. The question of a permanent secretary is still in abeyance. Seth B. Holman, who has held the office for several years, asked to be relieved, but so far a suitable man has not been found for the place and the present incumbent will continue to serve until a final decision is arrived at.

There was only one objection raised to Dr. Overton's election. F. H. Oberthier said he had heard a grave suspicion brought against the physician that he felt should be cleared up before he was elevated to such an exalted position. It seems, stated Mr. Oberthier, that during the recent absence of the Rev. and Mrs. Garvin in Colorado Dr. Overton, near neighbor, has been in charge of the Garvin's poultry yard. And upon the return of Mr. and Mrs. Garvin they found quite a shortage in the number of chickens in the yard. Mr. Oberthier insisted that the Doctor clear himself of all suspicion in this connection before he could agree to support him. After quite a spirited contest on both sides Mr. Oberthier's objection was overridden and Dr. Overton declared elected.

Whereupon he delivered his "inaugural address" upon taking the chair, which had been occupied by Mr. Parker up to this point. Among other things he announced that the new slogan for the year would be "More waterworks for the president and less golf for the secretary." Speaking seriously, he outlined a policy of agricultural development and publicity for the new board and prophesied bright things for the Hereford community during the coming twelve months.

Attention was called to the Christian Convention, to convene Wednesday, and Messrs. Parker, Homer Wilkinson and E. S. Ireland appointed a committee to secure cars to take the visitors about town and show them an irrigation well in action.

The meeting next Monday will be held at the Cordova Hotel, at which time a plan of work for the coming year will be presented by the new executive committee. Those present Monday were: G. A. F. Parker, Dr. Jno. Overton, Rev. W. P. Garvin, C. C. Rockwell, Phillip Broadwell, G. W. Brumley, W. E. Teckman, Chas. Paddock, Judge W. E. Dameron, Herman Grey, J. C. Allred, E. S. Ireland, W. E. Dunlap, C. A. Skelton, George Overton, Homer Wilkinson, D. F. Ashbrook, Gano Hastings, Judge Dewey Lawrence, F. H. Oberthier, Rex Tynes, T. K. Wilson, L. Baskin, Walter Spradley.

THREE HUNDRED ATTEND BIG ALL DAY MEETING AT FORD

An all day gathering at the Ford schoolhouse last Sunday attracted a big crowd. A barbecue dinner was served at noon, Rev. Paul J. Merrill preached and special music was rendered throughout the day. A motion was passed that a similar gathering be held every fifth Sunday, and Progressive was chosen for the next meeting, the fifth Sunday in November.

About 300 attended the Ford meeting, which was presided over by Mrs. Bob Higgins and which set a precedent for a royal good time.

A. H. ELLISTON AND FAMILY RETURN TO CALIFORNIA

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Elliston, accompanied by their daughter and son, Miss Ruth and Joe Bailey, who have been here spending the summer months, left Monday morning overland for Whittier, Calif., at which place Miss Ruth will enter school.

Final Details of School Opening Are Announced

The formal opening of the Hereford schools will be held in the Christian church Monday morning, September 8, at ten o'clock. A program will be given and necessary announcements will be made. This will last about an hour or less after which an opportunity will be given for the people of the community to meet the teachers and to meet each other in some cases. The patrons of the school especially should meet and know the teachers, who will strive to instruct their children, whether the teachers be new or old in point of service in the Hereford schools. The children will be entrusted to the care of the teachers a large part of the time during the next nine months and it is highly important for all concerned that parents have more than a mere speaking acquaintance with those with whom they share the training of their children.

An error was made in the announcement published in these columns last week. It was said that juniors and seniors would report on Saturday, September 13, for enrollment. The date should have been September 6, or one week earlier than the date first mentioned. On that date all who expect to be seniors this year should report from nine to eleven o'clock and juniors from one to three o'clock in the afternoon. A few juniors may come at eleven o'clock in the forenoon if they prefer, though all of them cannot be taken care of at that time. Since the announcement of last week it has been decided to have the ninth grade students enroll on Saturday afternoon following the juniors about three o'clock. Eighth grade students will enroll Monday afternoon beginning at one o'clock. Seventh grade students will report at the Central school Monday morning at eight o'clock. All others will enroll Monday afternoon beginning at one o'clock.

It is very important that all students come at the time assigned them, otherwise they may be delayed in getting started in their work. High school students who do not report with their respective groups may have to wait until all registration is completed before they can enroll. Moreover, those coming late may have to take a schedule that is not as desirable as they might like, as the sections of the different subjects will be kept equal in number where possible. In some cases new books or additional books may have to be ordered. An early registration will facilitate the handling of these and other matters.

New students should bring report cards and book cards to save delay and possible embarrassment. It will probably save time if those who were in school in Hereford last year do likewise. All students will report to the grade in which they think they belong. Necessary adjustments will then be made. C. H. DILLEHAY.

Another shift in the business roster is scheduled for October 1, when Wes Anthony, now manager of the Panhandle Lumber Company's yard at Dimmitt, will take charge of the Fullwood Secondhand Store, which he has purchased from E. H. Fullwood. The Brand was unable to ascertain his detailed plans this week.

Mr. Fullwood states that he will open up an exclusive repair shop, but will not carry a stock of furniture, etc., as in the past.

TROY WOMBLE HOME FROM SPRINGS—MUCH IMPROVED

Troy Womble returned Wednesday from Hot Springs, N. M., where he spent about ten days or two weeks taking the baths and drinking the water there for an attack of acute rheumatism. For five weeks before leaving he was confined to his bed with the dread malady.

He is greatly improved from his trip and is about free from pain, although still stiff from the effects of the long struggle.

Farmers Asked To Help Secure Fair Exhibits

Deaf Smith county will have an agricultural exhibit at the Amarillo Tri-State Fair, at either the Lubbock of the Abilene Fair, and also to the State Fair at Dallas. The directors of the Chamber of Commerce have authorized this work and asked the Exhibit Committee to get busy and round up an exhibit that will be a credit to the county.

The committee consists of A. M. Jones, chairman; J. S. Jones, J. B. Jones, Burt Elliston and Sherm Williams. This committee appeals to the farmers of this county to notify them of any good fields, garden stuff or fruit that they may have. The committee will send a car for it immediately. Notify any member of the committee. The time is short in which this work can be done, so immediate attention to this will be necessary.

Cash prizes will be awarded those who win with their exhibits that are shown here on one day just before the Amarillo fair, when the local committee will assemble all of the county's exhibits and have them judged. The exact day and prizes will be published next week.

Thompson Home is Sold to Hamilton, Castro Co. Man

Another splendid indication of the increasing activity in business and property circles is given this week in announcement of the sale of the Alvin C. Thompson home, adjoining the Cordova Hotel, to Irving Hamilton of Castro county.

This is a nice little five room and bath modern bungalow and is comparatively new. Mr. Hamilton will take possession next Saturday and prepare to place his children in the Hereford schools.

Mr. Hamilton is one of Castro county's best known farmers and citizens and will be welcomed to Hereford right heartily. Mr. Thompson states that he will build another home in the spring and meanwhile is seizing the opportunity to take his vacation. He will go to New Mexico on a camping trip next week while Mrs. Thompson visits relatives in Abilene. They will "camp out" as Mr. Thompson puts it, upon their return until their new home is built.

DEFENSE DAY TEST PLANS WORKED OUT

SEPTEMBER 12 TO BE OBSERVED HERE IN FITTING WAY

JUST ONE HOUR

To Be Devoted to Ceremonies Commemorating St. Mihiel

National Defense Test Day, Friday, September 12, will be properly observed in Hereford when all current activities will stop for one hour, between five and six o'clock in the afternoon, and the citizens of this community will honor the anniversary of the battle of St. Mihiel, hallowed by the blood of American boys shed on foreign fields, and at the same time will honor General John J. Pershing, who on that day will be retired from active leadership of the American forces, having reached the age limit.

It will be flag day in Hereford, and the merchants will be asked to display their flags before their places of business. All the demonstration will be staged during the one hour in the afternoon, when the stores will be asked to close for that period and the people will gather at the courthouse. A parade is being planned to start at the court house, circle Main street and return to the courthouse. The Sunday schools of the city will be asked to participate in this parade, headed by the Hereford Band. At the courthouse a program of three short speeches will be rendered. In all probability these speakers will be Rev. Paul J. Merrill, Carl Gilliland, and Judge J. D. Hamlin of Farwell. The National Guard company will participate in full uniform and will stand at attention while the band plays the Star Spangled banner.

Detailed plans for the Demonstration are in the hands of a special committee composed of Acting Mayor C. H. Dyer, Rev. Paul J. Merrill, C. C. Rockwell, Dr. W. F. Gabbert and Captain Buford Farmer.

"Fewer Cattle But Better Cattle" is Slogan

The growing sentiment that this country must raise "fewer cattle and better cattle" in the future was never better exemplified than on Monday of last week when Messenger & Son, who live twenty seven miles west of Hereford, marketed twenty three head of calves on the Kansas City market, netting them $37.50 a head. These calves were just ten and a half months old and they averaged 545 pounds. They were high grade range stuff, carried over the winter and fed liberally on bundled stuff, but no grain.

Prior to shipment Mr. Messenger could not obtain $32.50 from local buyers who thought that price too high. But they topped the market at Kansas City and proved a glaring illustration of the fact that it pays, and pays well, to handle a few good ones, and take excellent good care of what you do handle.

And here's a point with a moral. There were two of these calves just very slightly thinner than the others; a difference so slight that but few men would notice it. But the buyer cut these two calves back to $25, while the other twenty one brought .75, a difference of $1.50 per hundred just on account of a slightly better condition.

Cash & Carry is Sold to Purcell and Wallace Cox

A rather unexpected piece of news broke out this week when it leaked out that Sheriff C. S. Purcell has purchased the Cash & Carry Grocery from F. A. Bone. Wallace Cox, well known groceryman, has an interest in the deal and will become associated with Mr. Purcell in the conduct of the business. He will have charge of the store until January 1, when the sheriff's term of office expires and he can turn his attention to the new business.

The trade takes effect October 1 and the stock will be invoiced before that date. It is understood that Mr. Bone will move to Amarillo in October.

Mr. Bone has established a local reputation as a keen merchant and has made a financial success of the cash business. Mr. Purcell states that the business will be conducted absolutely along the same cash basis as Mr. Bone has established it, and that the new owners will strive to maintain a high standard of excellence and service.

Mrs. W. S. Williams, accompanied by Mrs. B. E. Dixon, left Wednesday overland for Lockney, Texas, at which place they will be delegates to a meeting of the Methodist Missionary Association.

LARGEST CONVENTION OF THE CHURCH

IN PANHANDLE IS HELD BY CHRISTIANS IN MEETING HERE

TO PAMPA NEXT

New Officers Are Chosen on Thursday. Fine Meeting, is Claim

The largest district convention ever held by the Christian churches of the Panhandle was scheduled to wind up its business Thursday night, after two days of splendid work at the First Christian church. A total of ninety out-of-town visitors were on hand Thursday afternoon. Not all of them had registered and the names of only sixty-six could be obtained before going to press.

The printed program was adhered to throughout the meeting, and there were many inspiring addresses and songs scattered throughout the sessions. There was a spirit of fellowship, and cooperation in this meeting that means much for the future work of the churches.

A business meeting was held Thursday and new officers for the association elected as follows: Rev. W. F. O'Malley, Amarillo, president; Rev. G. W. Davis, Pampa, vice president; Rev. Walter P. Jennings, Lubbock, secretary. Next years convention will be held at Pampa. A movement was on Thursday, but not completed at the time of going to press, to make the Panhandle Convention of the Christian church a Delegate Convention, which means that each Christian church in the Panhandle would select delegates and send them to the convention to transact business. If the movement should pass the Hereford church would be entitled to send twelve delegates.

Those who had registered at noon Thursday were:

An unusual situation prevails in Hereford. A situation that adds weight to the optimistic predictions of local boosters. A situation that Hereford is to be congratulated upon, in our opinion.

This unusual situation is the fact that all three of Hereford's banks cooperate, financially and morally, with the local commercial organization in a determined effort to get the most out of the possibilities of this section.

We call it unusual. We believe that's a good word in this connection. Look about you at other towns, search your recollection of any similar condition elsewhere, and we believe you will agree that the town is to be congratulated upon this spirit of progress and amity shown by the men at the throttle of our financial machine.

If ever the merchants of any town had an incentive to stick to their Chamber of Commerce and get the most out of the opportunities that arise the merchants of Hereford have it. And we are firm in the belief that they will do so, too. The Hereford Chamber of Commerce has a unique record of six years' continuous and steady service, made possible by the kind of cooperation demonstrated by these banks. A splendid foundation has been laid for the future and with the splendid crops in prospect this fall and the spirit of stick-to-it-iveness demonstrated by the community leaders the Hereford future looks bright indeed.

SHAKE HANDS WITH GOOD TIMES

Every city, town and village in the country will feel the benefit of trade improvement as a result of the adoption of the Dawes plan. Some will benefit more than others, profit accruing in proportion to ability displayed, the vision of the community and the willingness of the business man to grasp his opportunity. Of course there will be some spots over which the boom will pass like a summer breeze. The race is still to the swift and the battle to the strong. Those who are alive to opportunity and have the courage to grasp it will reap the reward and engender the jealousies of the lethargic and incompetent. There will be many a sleepy merchant in his general store who will continue to drone away his life and see prosperity walk past his door without even a sign of recognition. Others will leap into the field of speculation and sooner or later become the victims of their impelling desire to get something for nothing. To the earnest, thoughtful business man, however, the times are full of hope. Great captains of industry agree that the country is facing a long and steady era of great prosperity. Reports of German activity in buying up German securities in expectation of a sudden rise in prices of course are obviously such bald propaganda it is hard to see how thinking men can find in them anything but a bid to get American foolish money loosened from the savings banks and placed where the red fire attracts. The hour is at hand, however, for steady, courageous enterprise, for industry and business boldness tempered by reason. Good times are ahead for the business man; it does not matter much what happens to the gambler. He never has and never will help a nation.

WHERE SOME MERCHANTS FAIL

Community building presents many complex problems. The most perplexing seems to be the arrival of the public mind at the happy medium between sleepiness and inactivity, and impetuous action which has brought so much of trouble to small communities, saddling them with heavy debt, weighing the people down with tremendous taxes and strangling at birth the growth of potentially healthy villages and towns. There is some dispute among economists as to whether in the building of the community, increase of population follows in the wake of good stores or good stores are the basis of increased population. It is certain, however, that good stores attract home seekers and that by the property of the merchant increases with his trading population. As a fact, most merchants hold their fate in their own hands and fall to

Adams Chosen in House Amid Great Excitement

Written for Hereford Brand
By EDWARD PERCY HOWARD
Thru Automobile Service

When Henry Clay stepped from his carriage to interview the stricken candidate for the Presidency, Crawford, the contest had reached that pass where he came to look upon the Georgian with considerable favor. Clay unquestionably held the balance of power. He liked Crawford personally. They had spent many a jovial time over hot toddy and stacks of poker chips. Peculiarly it was a poker game that caused the bitterness between Adams and Clay. On one occasion Clay was holding a poker party in a hotel. Adams occupied the adjoining room. The Clay party grew boisterous and kept Adams awake until the small hours of the morning, for which Clay was then and afterwards denounced by Adams as a good-for-nothing runabout.

Clay remained with Crawford for an hour. At the end of that time he was quite convinced that he was too ill, too shattered to warrant support for the Presidency. Had not Clay seen the condition of Crawford, the latter probably would have become President of the United States, physically wretched and mentally weakened as he was. With Crawford eliminated—for he was to all intents and purposes eliminated after the Clay interview, the Jackson men had high hopes, believing Clay would not dare endorse an Eastern man. The Jackson men, however, suspected a strong dislike of Jackson by Clay and the practical politicians jumped into the fray with more than conscience. Mass meetings were called and resolutions quietly passed demanding the election of Jackson. Then came resolutions denouncing Clay for his reported support of Adams. Pamphlets, letters, protests poured into Washington like rain. Clay, shrewd politician, however, saw through this backfire warfare and ignored it.

Then the Jackson men resorted to the methods of the blackmailer and the intimidator. The first thing they did was to send out a report that Clay had made a deal with Adams, selling his strength in return for a promise of the office of Secretary of State. Clay denounced the author of the story as a "dastard and a liar," but the story would not down. He demanded a congressional investigation, but the injury could not be overcome. The lie traveled on wings, while the truth crawled after it like a snail.

This situation revived the hopes of the followers of Crawford. They felt under the circumstances, that Clay could not possibly go to Adams and they were certain he would not go to Jackson. Moreover to the bitter end, Van Buren was in the ring for Crawford. As the day of election neared there were fears of riots, threats of bloodshed, even talk of revolution. No one knew what was in the mind of Clay. Washington had a population of 20,000. Every hotel and boarding house in the city was bulging with people.

The custom was to nominate candidates for election through caucus. The election was then decided by roll call of the House of Representatives. Each state delegation was instructed by its constituents to vote for the man selected by a majority of the people of that district. Thus the House of Representatives took on the appearance of a present-day political convention and the man selected by the majority became President.

As there was only one party when these candidates ran, a nomination was sense the fact. They complain that trade goes to near-by and larger centers. When this is a fact, then as a rule the merchant has himself to blame. Either he fails to handle the lines of goods demanded, he fails to give adequate service, his prices are too high, or he fails to let the people know the character of the store he conducts and the trading opportunity he affords. Too few merchants appreciate the value of advertising—too many regard it as an expense instead of an investment. They fail to see its silent force, preferring to measure it by the yardstick of direct and immediate result. For the most part the housewife who is the major purchaser unconsciously leans towards the house that goes frankly to the public who signed statements of its offerings and prices. Whether she realizes it or not, she becomes suspicious of the house that does not dare to go into the market place to announce it wares. The housewife is a clever buyer. She knows values and is hard to fool. Silence may deceive her for a time, but sooner or later she begins to wonder why it is that "Wear-em & Misfit" never state publicly the bargains they have to offer, but prefer to whisper their prices and assurances. Then she takes a journey out of town.

equivalent to election. But the meagerly attended caucus nomination of Crawford upset the political apple cart and threw the election into the House with every man having a free hand and an uncertain vote.

The hour of the roll call came. Clay, commanding, pale, mounted the Speaker's rostrum. Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island and Connecticut stood solidly for Adams. Massachusetts provided one bolter who voted for Jackson. Delaware and Georgia stood like a rock for Crawford. Of course, the big struggle was for New York. Van Buren was for Crawford, but the decision of Clay prevented his winning the state. The vote stood Adams 18, Crawford 14, Jackson 2. The state went to Adams. Clay's western supporters then went to Adams who took Missouri, Ohio and Kentucky. This evening gave Adams 13 states, Jackson seven and Crawford four. The contest was decided by the west. When the result was announced the halls rang with hisses coupled with applause of the Adams' supporters. The uproar in the galleries threatened to end in a riot. But in the midst of the uproar, Clay majestic and calm, raised the gavel, and let it fall with one bang. "Clear the galleries," he said. "We stand adjourned."

There is now a season when every farm can't have one—the payments are so small you will never miss them. We know, and the experience of over two and a half million users proves it, that the De Laval skims cleaner, lasts longer, and is easier to clean and operate than any other cream separator—that's why there are as many in use as all other makes put together.

The De Laval has always been known as the best and in the long run the cheapest—and on such terms you can't afford to be without one. And remember you can always get service and repairs on a De Laval, no matter how long you may use it. Call us up or stop in and let us go over this proposition with you.

DOWN BY THE SEA— AND "YATES"

I noticed Mr. Wright was not drinking. After my second cocktail I insisted that he try one and held the glass up to him. "Please, just take the curse off of it," I wheedled. He touched it to his lips but that was all, and he did that because it was the gallant thing to do under the circumstances. With all the rest of the crowd looking, to have turned me down would have been humiliating.

The music started. "Yates" has an orchestra that makes little thrills can all over me. I confided to my good looking escort. "It's wonderful. That saxophone would make anyone commit murder—or even worse."

"Come on," I said and pulling at his arm started toward the room where they were dancing. They were playing a heavenly waltz. He danced like I was afraid he would, in good time and perfect step, but without any of the latest variations.

I felt a warm glow of exhilaration. I glanced up at my partner. He was the most distinguished dancer on the floor and longed to have him hold me closer.

The violins played the minor chords in "The Song of India," and I wanted to dance, dance, dance as I never danced before.

Ted broke on us. When Ted and I had danced half way across the floor the orchestra changed from the waltz it had been playing into an Argentine tango. The other dancers left the floor and we knew it meant an exhibition.

"Ted add Sallie, bravo!" shouted the others.

We had danced many times at charity entertainments and they knew us so well at "Yates" that at least once during the evening they played the tango for us that they had called "Sallie's."

Ted's arm about my waist tightened and became an embrace. He was more like a lover of the Pampas, red-blooded, fiery and impassioned. On we danced. We passed the darkened doorway and I saw Curtiss Wright standing in the shadows. Through the smoke of his cigarette I could see that his gaze was fastened on our movements, and yet his eyes held none of the admiration by which I had hoped. Rather, I saw there a look of indifferent amusement. I stopped dancing. I don't know what it was, but a devil sat on my shoulder, spurring me on to live up to the things that Mr. Wright had heard about us.

"Come on, everybody," I called, let's all go swimming!"

"There," Ted signified his approval, "didn't I tell you Sallie was the life of the party and that when SHE got here things would start hummin'!"

I went over to where Mr. Wright was standing.

"I brought one of dad's suits along for you," I told him meekly, "but maybe you disapprove of moonlight swimming. I assure you we'll be properly clothed. We aren't in the movies."

"On the contrary, you were very thoughtful to take such good care of a poor, friendless stranger and there's nothing I'd like more than a swim with you in the ocean."

The crowd scattered.

I was the last to leave the bath house. Curtiss Wright was waiting for me.

"You see, I am at least within the law," I told him. "I have on three garments, two of which are stockings." I looked down at my chiffon hose which I had rolled half way down below my knees, but he touched my gypay bandana.

"Wrong count," he smiled. "You've forgotten the most becoming part of your attire."

We started toward the ocean. We could see the rest of the party, like dark moths on a beach which had been made into ivory satin by the moonlight. When half way down I turned and glanced over my shoulder. I caught my breath at a picture. The sand dunes, bathed in white moon-dust, lay silent, warm and voluptuous. They stretched their undulating hills unending behind us. Palm trees, silhouetted against the sky, made magic music and crooned seductively. I felt the lure and stopped quickly.

"Wait a minute," I caught the arm of my companion. "Let's not go in the water. Let's go up yonder," I suggested, pointing to the exquisite setting behind us.

THE LURE OF GOLF

An old Scotchman and a youth had spent the whole day on the golf links and had a remarkable close, exciting game. As they left for home the old man remarked:

"Hey, mon, but it's been a grand day!"

"It has," the youth assented.

"Think ye could come again on the morrow, laddie."

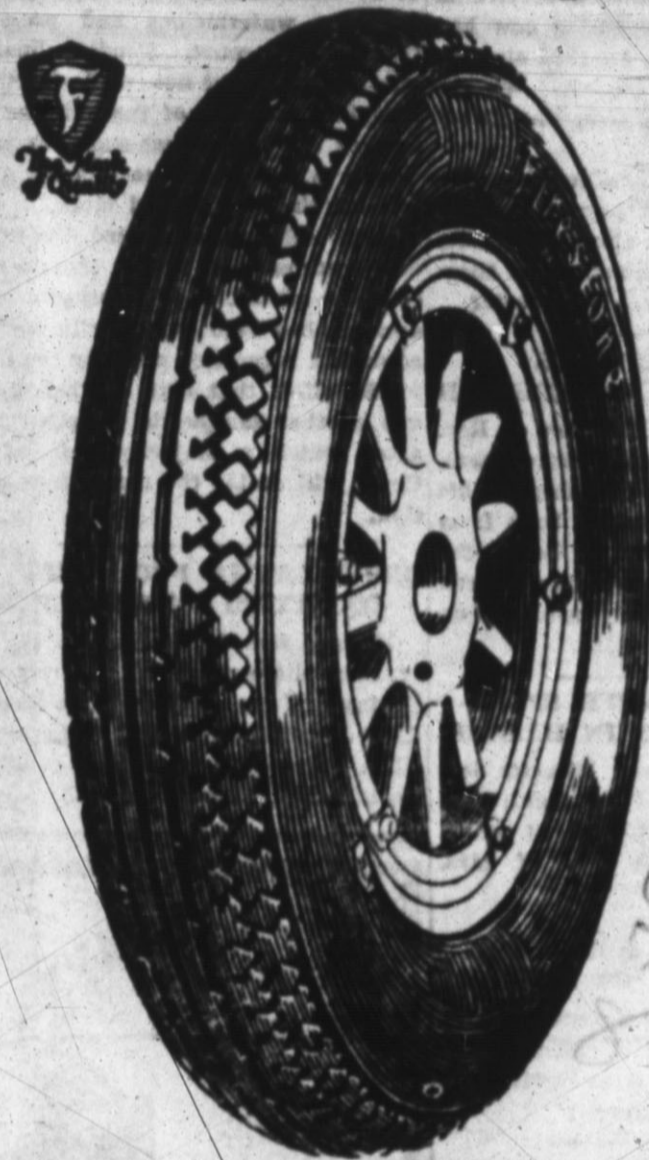

"Well," the young man answered, reflectively, "I was to be married, but I dare say I can put it off."

Sold Her Baby on Installment Plan

Mrs. Agnes Mack, of Brooklyn, N. Y., is held with Erwin Dath, (both shown above) the man to whom she sold her 10-month-old baby for $300, fifty dollars of which was paid down, and the balance to follow in installments. The mother tearfully admits she wants her baby back.

Golf Handicaps Cannot Be Given Without Scores

All members of the Hereford Golf Club are requested to turn in their daily scores to the secretary, so that each man's handicap may be fixed each month. A mail box is placed at Tee One for that purpose. The officers of the club cannot rate a man, or consider him for tournament or match play purposes, without this handicap. It is the custom elsewhere when two golfers meet on the course and play together that the handicap between them is allowed. That is impossible here now until each man is rated properly.

Beginning with August the secretary kept the daily score cards posted up and during September the ratings of each man who turned in his score is shown below. If a member's name is not mentioned then that member will know that he did not comply with the score card request and has no tournament or match play standing in the club until he does so. The list of handicaps so far are:

Acker, C. C.	92
Fox, E. D.	86
Fox, Homer	82
Foster, A. A.	86
Foster, L. H.	87
Garrison, Geo.	96

FOREIGN MISSIONARY WITH BAPTISTS SUNDAY

The people of Hereford generally, as well as the Baptist people, are to be favored in having among them on next Sunday a real missionary from a foreign land. Rev. E. A. Ingram, of Campos, Brazil, S. A., and now on a furlough home at Dallas, has been secured to make addresses at 10:45 a. m. and 8:00 p. m. at the Baptist church. He is a highly honored missionary of the Southern Baptist Convention, and will bring an interesting measure each time. Mr. Ingram was heard with great delight recently at the Baptist Assembly at Ceta Canyon and immediately an effort was made by the Hereford Baptists to have him come here. He is esteemed an interesting speaker in addition to the interest that surrounds a missionary from another land. A cordial invitation is extended visitors to worship with us.

They are Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Clennin and two daughters of Tulsa, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Clennin of Friona, Texas, and Mrs. Homer Fox of Hereford, Texas. The Messrs. Clennin are brothers of Mrs. Gordon and Mrs. Fox is a sister. They motored through from Texas, and the Gordons have been showing them through this section. Saturday morning they motored to Telluride from Vanadium and after a short stop here, left via Lizard Head for the Mesa Verde. They expect to be on the trip four days and will return via the D. S. O. highway."

BENCH CONGRESS EATS WATERMELONS—MAKES NO DECISION

The Bench Congress, which holds daily court in the office of Ralph Barnett of the Hereford Insurance Agency, adjourned hastily and with scant dignity last Friday when W. S. Dixon and J. P. Roberson brought in a pair of delicious watermelons and presented them to the court. Pending business was dropped right now while the Court fled into the rear of the building and entered into an earnest endeavor to ascertain which of the watermelon growers had the best fruited vines.

Both melons disappeared during the deliberations and before the question could be settled. As a consequence the decision has been temporarily postponed until a suggestion made by the Court to the effect that both gentlemen submit another sample, is complied with, after which a majority vote of the Court will decide the momentous question.

day, some voters went but there was no one holding the election.

We are getting plenty of rain now, several good showers this week.

Only a few more holidays for the children, as our school is going to open September 8.

Adrian's new school building will soon be completed.

Sabbath decoration is a very out-breaking and effective form of individuality. Our Lord said that if we love him we will keep his words. A most determined effort is being made, these days to destroy the Sabbath. If it succeeds there will be but little opportunity for the Church of Christ to do anything effective. Many people spend their Sabbath working, picnicing and many other ways which is wrong on the Sabbath day.

Let us remember that in six days God made heaven and earth, and all that in them is, and he rested on the seventh day and sanctified it. We have six days for labor and pleasure, and we should remember to keep the Sabbath as we are commanded.

Our West Texas is a great and fine country, we should try to make it a better country.

Many Hereford Folks Are Suffering How to Avoid Needless Suffering

There's nothing more annoying than kidney weakness or inability to properly control the kidney secretions. Night and day alike, the sufferer is tormented and what with the burning and scalding, the attendant backache, headache and dizziness, life is indeed a burden. Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys—have brought peace and comfort to many Hereford people. Profit by this Hereford resident's experience:

C. Runtion, farmer, Hereford, says: "A dull hurting across my back annoyed me a great deal. When I stooped, my back felt so stiff and sore I could hardly straighten. My kidneys acted too freely, especially night when I had to get up. I bought Doan's Pills, at the Corner Drug Store, and they regulated my kidneys and rid me of backache."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Pills—the same that Mr. Runtion had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N.Y.

At a meeting of the citizens interested in the Farmer County Fair at Friona, Friday night, it was decided to hold the fair as usual for the past two years but to make it a two-day fair instead of one. All citizens should lend their unstinted influence to the enterprise to insure its success. The date chosen is September 19-20.

IRON FALSE TEETH. WAR AND CRIME DOESN'T PAY. YOUTH AND LAWLESSNESS. SOME CAN'T WEAR 'EM.

The great Krupp concern, makers of big cannon on which the Kaiser's power used to rest, now manufactures false teeth of steel, enameled, the same steel that once went into fighting machinery.

Can you imagine anything stranger in history than the possibility of the Kaiser wearing a set of false teeth made by the Krupp? Not the same bite in that set as there was in the old cannon.

Two things never pay—crime and war. The big war cost two hundred and fifty billions of dollars, besides lives lost. The Chicago crime that attracts attention will cost at least $600,000. It's expensive, even for taxpayers. They will supply about $100,000 as their share.

The parents of the deprived youths that murdered young Franks will spend about $500,000.

That is the price of two young men's attempt to get $10,000 by kidnapping. Their two necks may be added to the total.

A Hollander is on his way to Marseilles, a distance of 700 miles. To win a bet he must travel all the way turning somersaults. Starting in November, 1923, he has until next February 12 to finish the trip. About two million somersaults will cover the distance. The man is well padded, and seems quite happy, like many that think as he travels, also in somersaults.

Italy doesn't know what to do with her wine crop this year. She has not enough cash to hold it. Chicago egg walk into a wine cellar and "kick as much as desired" for a few cents.

Good prohibitionists will say, "What terrible drunkenness there will be in Italy." But they don't know the Italian people. They don't get drunk, whether the wine is cheap or dear.

Judge Talley says, "The United States is the most lawless nation, and most criminals are youngsters." That's just it. The United States is a youngster. Youth is always lawless. Lawlessness is terrible, but there is one worse thing, and that is stagnation.

Paris of the West that were once most lawless in the old gold fever days are now typically law abiding. This country will settle down. There is a cure for exuberance, none for sterility.

Disease is one of earth's mysteries. And most mysterious is the trouble that Nature takes to protect disease germs against their enemies, including man.

For instance, the tubercular bacillus, which kills millions, lives encased in "a heavy capsule of fat," which gives it elasticity and protects it from its enemies in our blood.

Sir Leonard Rogers, who has specialized in fighting leprosy, noticed the resemblance between the germs of leprosy and of tuberculosis, and tried on his consumptive patients injections of sodium morthuate, that worked well in leprosy. It is the salt obtained from the body of codfish, and has shown extraordinary results in leprosy and tuberculosis.

Knickerbockers are sensible, worn at the right time, but they are not for every female figure. In the North you see hundreds of young women in knickerbockers that remind you of the stone wall built by the honest farmer, "Three feet high, three feet wide," so that if it blows over it will be just the same. Some young ladies in knickerbockers would look about the same if they blew over. But why fine the poor creatures? Many are fining themselves to the value of one husband.

A woman, eighty, bobs her hair, partly because she is tired of hearing young people of fifty and sixty talking about it. Some of the youngsters consider an eighty-year-old "boyish bob" amusing. But many a woman of eighty is literally younger than the worn-out flapper of eighteen or thirty-eight. It's the youth in the eyes, not in the years, that counts.
