Browns honored at dinner

Benny Pickrell, left, sales manager for Asgrow Seed, presents an engraved plaque to the Brown family at a surprise dinner on Saturday at K-Bob's. Accepting the plaque are, from left, Tommy, David, Dennis, Floyd, Eldred, Sammy and Ernest Brown.

Browns honored at surprise dinner

The Brown family of Bootleg and vicinity was honored with a surprise dinner and gift presentation Saturday by Asgrow Seeds.

Benny Pickrell, area sales manager for Asgrow, and other Asgrow representatives feted the Browns. The family set a new national record in winning the non-irrigated division of the National Grain Sorghum Producers contest in 1991.

The Browns harvested 155.19 bushels per acre with their Asgrow A504, a new variety which was released last year by Asgrow. The yield was 111.09 bushels per acre above the county's five-year average on dryland. That is the highest score ever in the NGSP contest.

The Browns received special national champion caps and jackets from Pickrell, a fancy engraved plaque, a blown-up picture of the family standing in the field last summer and a framed letter from Asgrow.

The family will be honored at the annual NGSP meeting later this month in Kansas City.

Richards presents own plan to boost economy

WASHINGTON (AP) - Texas Gov. Ann Richards says Congress can pass an economic growth package by March 20 - but not necessarily because of President Bush's challenge to Democratic lawmakers.

Bush appealed Monday to a bipartisan group of governors at a White House meeting to press Congress to meet the March 20 deadline he set during his State of the Union address last week.

Some Democrats on Capitol Hill have bridled at the deadline, suggesting Bush was injecting election-year politics into a difficult issue and giving them little time to debate complex and often competing proposals.

Bush has no authority to enforce the deadline, but has promised to take the issue to the American people if the Democrat-controlled Congress doesn't meet it.

"I don't think, Mr. President, there was any question that the Democratic governors as well as the Republican governors are anxious to have Congress move expeditiously," Richards said.

"But I suspect that the Congress is going to move very quickly, not only because we're going to urge them to do that - because it's the right thing to do - but because we are very cognizant that it is an election year. It is time for Congress to get its budget proposals out there."

While Richards and Bush apparently were in agreement on one subject, the Democratic governor parted company with the president on his economic development plan.

Richards, in Washington since Thursday for the National Governors Association winter meeting, has been a vocal critic of the plan Bush outlined last week.

She countered with her own plan Monday - give states the federal dollars that once used to be spent on defense.

Cuts in federal defense spending, while needed, are wreaking havoc with local economies, Richards said.

"We are already in a recession and joblessness is going to increase," she said. "And this administration has not laid down any plan whatsoever to rectify that."

She has also criticized the Bush administration for not creating jobs and retraining programs for defense workers given their pink slips.

"We had assumed that there was some focus and planning on what we were going to do about jobs once the economy of the country had changed from a defense-oriented economy to a peacetime economy."

"But unfortunately that has not been the case," she told the Democratic governors Monday morning.

The administration should give the states the money it no longer spends on defense, for use in highway construction programs, school construction, maintenance and other capital improvements, Richards said.

Group begins meeting to help with physicians

A Physician Recruitment Task Force, recently formed by Deaf Smith County Hospital District, held its first meeting Monday evening to discuss the purpose and goals of the committee.

Chairman Ron Rives, hospital administrator, outlined the task force's role in helping secure and retain physicians in the community. Committee members will study the various recruitment methods available. Rives said the retention of physicians was as important as recruiting new doctors.

The hospital board appointed the support group with directors John Perrin and Dr. Stan Fry Jr. representing the board. The task force also includes doctors Nadir Khuri and Robert Bidwell from the medical staff; Rives and Renee Hammock from the hospital staff; Margie Daniels, Troy Don Moore and O.G. Nieman from the community; and Ray Mason, a vice president from Lubbock Methodist Hospital.

City rejects lone bid for refuse body

The only bid submitted to the City of Hereford for purchase of a garbage truck refuse body was rejected Monday night by City Commissioners who complained that the $31,370 bid was too high.

Commissioners asked City Manager Chester Nolen to seek estimates on rebuilding the body in use.

Nolen also was requested to find out why bids were not submitted by other manufacturers of the refuse body.

He reported that two invitations to bid on the equipment were returned to the city marked "undeliverable" and another supplier returned a "no bid" response.

The only bid received came from Davis Trucking and Equipment of Clifton for a Pak-Mor refuse body. The bid price for the equipment, with a hydraulic lift, was $8,188 more than the allocation.

Budget allocation for the new sanitation equipment was $59,000. A new chassis was ordered last month when the commission accepted

Stevens Chevrolet's low bid of $35,818, leaving $23,182 for the body.

Based on prior purchases, the city expected the body to cost less than the bid. However, since the last garbage truck was purchased, the manufacturer has stopped selling directly, preferring to sell through dealers, the commission was told.

In other business, the commission heard a report on a proposed paving project on Norton and Knight Streets and appointed Terri Johnson to the board of trustees, Firefighters' Relief and Retirement Fund.

Nolen said the city engineer, Bill McMorris, estimated the city's share of the paving project would be about $9,000. The work hinges on full participation in an assessment program by property owners.

Appointment of Johnson to the firefighters' fund board fills the vacancy left by the retirement of Bonnie Duke from the City of Hereford. Johnson now serves as city secretary, the position formerly held by Duke.

County accepts bid on insurance

Insurance coverage costing $36,753 was accepted for Deaf Smith County during a special meeting Monday of Commissioners' Court.

A single bid was submitted at the regular Jan. 27 meeting by Plains Insurance Agency, Inc., but action was delayed to allow the bidder to obtain additional information.

Roger Eades, representing Plains, was asked at Monday's meeting to submit a figure for increasing liability insurance to the Feb. 10 meeting.

More than half the expense of insurance, $20,863, is related to property, liability and crime coverage.

Automobile coverage will cost $11,898. Electronic equipment protection premium amounts to $496 while boiler and machinery coverage expense is $1,363. A fire policy on dwellings costs $1,411 and fine arts coverage, including antique musical instruments, is $631.

Budget process: gimmicks, smoke and mirrors

WASHINGTON (AP) - Once again, the government's budget planners are bouncing their reality checks.

Smoke and mirrors, some call it. Used by Republicans and Democrats alike.

How to shrink the gargantuan federal deficit? If you're President Bush, you unveil a $1.52 trillion budget that changes the accounting technique used to measure two government programs. Presto, the red ink shrivels by $38 billion over the next two years.

What to do if your spending plans surpass budget limits? If you're the Democrats who control Congress, you decree - as happened last fall - that $5.8 billion of the spending not begin until the last day of the fiscal year.

That gets the money spent while keeping the year's deficit where it should be. Worry about the following year's deficit later.

It's a game as old as federal budgets, using accounting rules from the Twilight Zone.

Since Bush presented his fiscal 1993 budget last week, Democrats have derided it almost daily for embracing phony numbers to free up money for his favorite causes.

"Gimmicks," Colorado's Democratic Gov. Roy Romer told Bush on Monday at a White House meeting, in full earshot of reporters. "Filled with gimmicks," Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, said Sunday on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press."

Even Bush's housing secretary, Jack Kemp, on Saturday said on CNN that some of Bush's proposals were gimmicks. Later, Kemp said he hadn't used a good choice of words.

But for years the Democratic Congress also has relied on funny budget numbers.

"Neither party and neither branch of government is completely innocent in this game," said Robert Reischauer, who has seen his share as director of the non-partisan Congressional Budget Office.

Between them, the White House and Congress have come up with some doozies:

-In 1989, they agreed to pretend that the entire Postal Service did not exist for budget reasons.

-That same year, the government decided to spend $50 billion to begin bailing out the shattered savings and loan industry. Bush and Congress agreed to create a new non-government entity, the Resolution Trust Corp., and have it borrow $30 billion and "give" that money to the government. Result: the $30 billion was considered revenue, and the deficit looked $30 billion smaller.

-Defense Secretary Dick Cheney needed some savings, so he shifted one of the military's paydays up a couple of days, from early October into late September. Since the federal fiscal year begins Oct. 1, the new year's deficit became $3 billion smaller.

None of this is new. President Lyndon Johnson used to routinely add tens of millions of dollars in revenues to his budgets by assuming that the government would sell Dulles and National airports in Washington and the Alaska railroads. Congress never considered the sales seriously.

Back in the 1980s, President Reagan assumed profits from the sale of Conrail, the freight line, for several years before the transaction ever occurred. And Reagan budget director David Stockman has admitted he included a "magic asterisk" in his first spending plan that called for tens of billions of savings that were never specified.

This year is no different. Democrats are complaining about several lines in Bush's spending plan, including:

-The $38 billion accounting change.

-Claims that slashing the capital gains tax rate, paid on profits from property sales, will raise money for the government over the long run,

World/National

WASHINGTON - President Bush's expected proposal to squeeze Medicare and Medicaid to pay for health-insurance tax breaks is drawing outrage and ridicule even before it is unveiled.

WASHINGTON - Once again, the government's budget planners are bouncing their reality checks. Smoke and mirrors, some call it. Used by Republicans and Democrats alike.

TOKYO - Americans who think Japan's leaders bash U.S. workers out of ill will should consider instead the fears of Tokyo politicians: that Japanese are so enamored of American culture they'll be infected by its perceived ills.

BELOTTE, Haiti - Hours after getting off a U.S. Coast Guard cutter, 41-year-old Moise Dorcelly was back in his one-room thatched hut wondering what to do next. "I'm happy now, but now I have to find some way of surviving," he said.

INDIANAPOLIS - Mike Tyson's lawyer sought to establish that the boxer's suggestive talk and roaming hands made it clear he wanted sex from Miss Black America contestants.

DALLAS - Stepping up pressure on the Dallas police to accept a lesbian onto the force, a state judge struck down a Police Department ban on gay officers.

WASHINGTON - Bill Clinton is the early top contender for the presidential nomination among members of the Democratic Party's governing body, the 1992 Associated Press survey of delegates shows. But most members are still undecided.

WASHINGTON - Albert V. Casey laughs when told people are calling him the czar of the savings and loan bailout. But he doesn't deny the characterization. "Either that or Genghis Khan. ... I'm sort of an enlightened despot," he says.

Texas

DALLAS - A judge's ruling against the Dallas police department's ban on gay officers may have opened the door for a lesbian seeking to join the force. But one city councilman said it was absurd of the judge to protect "inappropriate and illegal and improper conduct."

DALLAS - The aerospace and defense arm of LTV Corp. is getting new owners and an old name.

SAN ANTONIO - Health and Human Services Secretary Louis W. Sullivan says the Bush administration's health care reform plan will rely on private insurance and managed care to reduce health costs.

WASHINGTON - Military facilities in the San Antonio area stand to gain the most under the Pentagon's proposed military construction budget for Texas.

IRVING - Country singer Willie Nelson is recruiting the Cowboys to help America's farmers.

WASHINGTON - Texas Gov. Ann Richards says Congress can pass an economic growth package by March 20 - but not necessarily because of President Bush's challenge to Democratic lawmakers.

DALLAS - A 38-year-old mother who briefly fled with her two children instead of returning them to her ex-husband, a confessed rapist-murderer, has been released on bond.

AUSTIN - The controversy over a contract for the first Texas lottery game continued to heat up, but state officials say they will stand by their decision to grant a contract despite conflict of interest charges.

AUSTIN - A hotly contested senatorial race is shaping up in West Texas between two incumbents who are fighting for their political lives.

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico - A census shows the population in Ciudad Juarez is bursting with new residents and elder citizens. The population of the city across the border from El Paso ballooned by 41 percent during the last decade.

New business holds ribbon cutting

Brice Busby cut the ribbon Monday to officially open B&B Furniture in the east end of West Park Plaza in Hereford. The store features new and used furniture. With Busby are members of the Hereford Hustlers, goodwill ambassadors for the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

America-bashing caused by frustration with U.S.

TOKYO (AP) - America-bashing by Japan's leaders often reflects this nation's infatuation with the United States. Many fear Japan will go too far in emulating its postwar patron and end up with the same problems.

Remarks like those made by Prime Minister Kiichi Miyazawa on Monday indicate frustration with the troubled United States of today because it falls so short of Japan's nostalgic vision of America the industrial powerhouse.

Yukio Suzuki, an economics professor at Yokohama University, recalls the days when Japanese politicians coveted American-made Packard automobiles for their speed and image.

"I even felt angry that American business operators so humiliated themselves" during President Bush's Jan. 7-10 trade summit by demanding help from Japanese automakers, he said in a commentary in The Japan Times.

Miyazawa said Monday during a parliamentary meeting that he thought U.S. workers were losing their work ethic. Today, he sought to explain himself, saying he "did not intend to criticize U.S. workers at all."

Miyazawa dwelled on his disappointment with the erosion of the U.S. manufacturing base.

He complained that the American pride in producing value had been replaced by a "money market" system of high Wall Street salaries, junk bonds and leveraged buyouts.

"I spoke about my economic philosophy by using an expression of the sense of an ethic," Miyazawa said. "If using the word 'ethic' produced a misunderstanding, it is not what I really meant."

Yasunori Abe, professor of politics at Showa Women's University, said Miyazawa had intended his comments as a "reverse lesson" for Japanese.

"More than criticizing America, Miyazawa was telling Japanese to keep strong so as not to become that way," Abe said.

"We believe that Americans have the strength to bear down and we want to know why they don't exert more effort."

By making such comments, Miyazawa and other politicians also may be trying to drive home a message that Tokyo has often sent to Washington in recent months: the United States must get its own house in order because Japan has done all it can do to help ease its chronic trade surplus.

Miyazawa's comments were much milder than those of many other politicians.

The speaker of this country's House of Representatives outraged many Americans last month when he accused U.S. workers of being lazy and sometimes illiterate. Several other senior leaders have been obliged to apologize after making disparaging comments about American minority groups.

Another reason that such criticisms keep cropping up, despite the outrage they have provoked in America, is that Japanese politicians simply aren't used to editing their comments for an international audience.

In gatherings with their constituents and even in televised Parliament sessions, Japanese politicians "feel they are talking among themselves. It's very much a club, within the family," says Gregory Clark, a professor of economics at Sophia University in Tokyo.

But today, with the eclipse of the Cold War, increasingly focusing Americans' attention on Japan, politicians are finding they can no longer criticize the United States without consequence.

"They're not really aware, but still it doesn't help our two countries to make unnecessarily provocative comments," said Itaru Umezui, director of the Japan Institute of International Affairs.

Seemingly disparaging comments about the United States also reflect growing Japanese self-confidence, and some say loss of respect, for their ailing ally.

Cowboys recruited by Nelson for benefit

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Country singer Willie Nelson is recruiting the Cowboys to help America's farmers.

Nelson and Dallas Cowboys President Jerry Jones held a joint news conference Monday with farmers to announce Farm Aid V would be held at the 65,022-seat Texas Stadium.

About 30 bands and solo musicians have committed to perform at the March 14 event, Nelson said.

Cowboys players, cheerleaders and players from other NFL teams will participate, Jones said.

Jones said it was a "natural thing to be involved in this great cause." "We want to incorporate the Cowboys and the enthusiasm we have now," he said.

The mass concert will be the fifth show Nelson has sponsored to raise money for U.S. farmers. Nelson said the big fundraiser is needed now, perhaps more than ever.

"As our economic condition worsens, it's easier now for people to understand what we were talking about back in 1985 when we said when the farmer goes under, everybody goes under," Nelson said Monday.

Nelson blamed many of America's urban problems on family farmers being forced out of business and into the cities.

"Our problems of homelessness, alcoholism, suicide and drug addiction will, I guarantee you, lessen once we get people back in a position where they can take care of themselves, grow their own food, make their own way," he said.

Nelson is president of Farm Aid Inc., which has donated more than $10 million to farm organizations and service agencies in 41 states.

At Monday's meeting, farmers and representatives of farm groups said they were frustrated with U.S. farm policy and hard times.

Castro County corn farmer Harold Bob Bennett said small farmers are angry, hurt and broke, but they don't want government handouts.

"We're fed up with the failed agriculture policy we've had for 12 years in this country that has redistributed the wealth to fat-cat multinational trading companies and food processors," Bennett said.

Also at the news conference were lineman back Bill Bates, offensive line man Mark Steponski and running back Daryl Johnston.

The annual rally, sponsored by the Baylor Parents League in the Amarillo area, is designed for prospective and newly admitted Baylor students and their families, parents of Baylor students, Baylor alumni, high school counselors, friends of the university and interested guests. The meeting is free and open to the public.

Prospective students will have a chance to meet campus representatives and to discover the lifetime educational opportunities available at Baylor.

Topics of discussion will include preparation for university study, academics, faculty, costs, admission, orientation, advisement, registration, housing and student life.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Milton Berle, guest-starring on NBC's "The Fresh Prince of Bel-Air," says he was impressed by the series' star, rapper Will Smith.

Berle, 83, appears in next week's episode as an aging vaudeville star who ends up in the hospital with Smith.

"It's a generation gap story," Berle said Monday. "The rapport is really very terrific" and Smith is "extra talented."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was appalled by your response to the mother who wanted to know if she was justified in excluding her daughter's lesbian partner from the family photo.

Your statement that "live-in partners, whether straight or gay, do not qualify, no matter how long they have been together" was outrageous. The message you are sending gays and lesbians is that they don't count.

I'd like to know that we DO count. We function like families. We pay taxes and lead fulfilling lives, which is more than can be said for many straight couples. That column was enormously damaging to a great many people who expected better from you. Get a grip, Ann. --Scott B.M.

DEAR SCOTT: --and the thousands of others who wrote to protest my answer:

Please go back and read that column. You will see that the mother who wrote said the photo was being taken for the purpose of recording the family genealogy. Since I am not an authority on genealogy, I checked with someone who is.

Robert Sheets, president of the American Archives Association, said, "Legal Marriage is required for genealogical purposes unless the state recognizes common-law marriages."

That response, to my way of thinking, meant that live-in lovers, gay or straight, should not be included in pictures taken for the purpose of recording family genealogy.

My personal opinion is that they SHOULD be included in family photos, but when it comes to genealogical matters, I feel I have an obligation to listen to the authorities I've asked for advice.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Every time I read a letter in your column from a woman who is involved with a married man, your response is "dump the louse."

While many married men who cheat on their wives are unconscionable philanderers, has it ever occurred to you that some of us find ourselves locked into rotten, miserable marriages we simply can't get out of for legitimate reasons?

A husband who would never have thought of cheating finds himself with two alternatives--find love elsewhere or live without female companionship.

If he meets a woman who would be compatible and he is honest about being married she will back off. The woman either thinks he is lying about the sad state of his marriage, or she has read too many of your columns.

Consequently, the "louse" who longs for friendship, companionship and love (not just sex) doesn't have many options. He can keep his married status to himself, he can pick up a tramp with whom he has very little in common, or he can live a life without love while he is miserable and--locked in a Loveless Marriage

DEAR LOCKED: Put that show on the road, buster. What's wrong with being honest with your wife? If the marriage is "totally rotten and miserable" for you, it can't be very good for her. A man who wants the comforts of home and the fun of playing around on the outside gets no green light from me.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter is getting married soon. We have relatives who live 1,000 miles away and we haven't seen them in years. Is it appropriate to send an announcement? We aren't looking for anything. Should I write on it, "No gifts, please?" What's your advice? Davenport, Iowa

DEAR DAV: Drop a note and tell them the news or send a small wedding picture. While many people will disagree, I feel that an announcement puts a person on the spot and makes him feel that he should send a gift.

Do you have questions about sex, but no one to talk to? Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teen-Ager," is frank and to the point. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check, or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Teens, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

HJH girls split, boys sweep

The Hereford Junior High girls' basketball teams split four games with Canyon Tuesday at HJH, while the HJH boys' teams swept Canyon at Canyon.

The girls' seventh grade Maroon team shut out its opponent in the fourth quarter and came from behind to win 18-15. The Maroon had trailed 13-8 at the half.

Coach Brenda Reeh said they didn't do anything different defensively in the fourth quarter.

"We just reinforced how important defense was," Reeh said. "The thing I'm most happy about is that I substituted kids more than I have in a while, and everybody contributed."

Danielle Cornelius led the team with 15 points.

The eighth grade White shut out its opponent in the first quarter on its way to a 34-12 rout. Carlota Ruiz led with 10 points.

"Lots of people were scoring," Coach Maria Eck. "We had consistent scoring through the quarters (7, 10, 8 and 9). We didn't let up. They played hard all four quarters."

The seventh White tried to hold down scoring in its game, and trailed only 4-0 at halftime. They ended up losing 18-7.

"This is the best game I've seen from these ladies defensively," Coach Kathyna Hatla said. "This is a team that usually scores 30 points."

The eighth Maroon lost 46-33. They trailed 14-11 after one quarter and fell a little more behind after each quarter. Heather Hodges led the team with 12 points.

"Canyon has some outstanding girls who can shoot," Coach Jane Radford said. "We ran offense well. We scored aggressively. We played good defense. We played with them until the end of the third quarter. We had a few too many turnovers in the last quarter and had trouble scoring."

Heather Hodges led the team with 12 points, and Radford praised the play of Hodges and Tarabeth Holmes.

The HJH boys didn't really play a close game in sweeping Canyon. The eighth grade Maroon won 50-31, taking a permanent lead with a 15-7 second quarter. Todd Dudley poured in 21 points to lead Hereford.

The eighth White strided out to a 13-3 first-quarter lead and held on to that margin to win 43-33. Todd Radford had 10 points to lead Hereford.

The seventh Maroon won 28-21 after outscoring the Canyon team 13-5 in the second half. Rob Reinauer led Hereford with 12 points.

Finally, Hereford's seventh White triumphed 49-39. Hereford scored 19 points in the first quarter for a 19-7 lead, then held off a Canyon charge in the second. The White's had two big scorers: Johnathan Keenan with 17 and Jeremy Reiter with 15.

In other basketball over the weekend, the girls' seventh grade teams finished up their district tournament Saturday with two games each. The Maroon team finished fourth and the White team finished sixth.

The Maroon, which had won in the first round, fell to Canyon Purple 31-21 in the second round, then lost to Borger Red 27-24 in the third-place game.

Cornelius led the scoring in both games with 12 against Canyon and nine against Borger. Jones added eight against Borger.

The White, which lost in the first round, got a win, 20-18 over Pampa Red when they held Pampa scoreless in the second half. Pampa led 18-8 at halftime.

Next, the White lost 38-24 to Borger White in the fifth-place game. Kelly Thompson led Hereford with 10 points in each game.

7th Maroon girls win

Jennifer Jones of Hereford's seventh grade Maroon team drives the lane during her team's 18-15 win over Canyon at HJH. Following the action are Hereford players Danielle Cornelius (40) and Erica Shipp (20).

9th grade girls take 6th in Plainview tournament

Hereford's ninth grade basketball team lost in the consolation finals of the Plainview Tournament.

Hereford fell 58-38 to the ninth-graders from Clovis' Yucca Middle School. Yucca outscored Hereford 16-4 in the first quarter and 17-7 in the second quarter, but Hereford got better in the second half.

"The second half was the best basketball we've played all year," Coach Brett Stegall said. "In the first half we were scared to death. In the second half we started doing things right and looked good."

Kit Jones led Hereford with 16 points, and Leslie Tatarevich scored nine.

Hereford beat Kress 42-15 in the second round, Tatarevich led the scoring with 10 and Beth Weatherly added eight.

In other high school basketball over the weekend, the sophomore boys lost 73-46 in Borger Friday, despite Josh Tice's 16 points and Stacey Sanders' 10.

Herd hosts Harvesters

Hereford will host five games tonight between the Herd and the Pampa Harvesters.

The action starts at 5 with the sophomore boys. At 6:30, the Lady Whitefaces take on the Lady Harvesters, who are in second place in District 1-4A. The boys' junior varsity game is also at 6:30.

The Herd meets the top-ranked Harvester boys at 8. Pampa leads the boys' district race, and is 23-2 on the season.

The girls' JV game is also at 8.

The varsity games and the sophomore game will be in Whiteface Gymnasium, and the JV games will be in the junior high gym.

79 left in arbitration

NEW YORK (AP) - Seventy-nine players are left in salary arbitration with the hearings set to begin today.

Eight more players settled Monday, while three free agents agreed to minor league contracts with new teams.

Left-hander Curt Young signed with Kansas City, while right-hander Jim Acker signed with Seattle. Veteran infielder Ken Oberkfell, meanwhile, signed with California.

The first arbitration case of the year is scheduled for today, when catcher Benito Santiago and San Diego are due to be heard. Santiago, who won in arbitration in 1990 and lost in 1991, is asking for $3.3 million, which would be a record for a catcher. The Padres are offering $2.5 million.

Last season, Santiago hit .267 with 17 homers and 87 RBIs.

Malone's free throws push Jazz past Bulls in 3-overtime thriller

By CHRIS SHERIDAN
Associated Press Writer
The Chicago Bulls locked horns with the Utah Jazz in what was arguably the NBA's best game of the season - a triple-overtime marathon that ended with the ejection of basketball's best player, Michael Jordan.

Jeff Malone hit three free throws with a half-second left in the third extra period Monday night to give the Jazz the 126-123 victory over the Bulls.

Malone was awarded two free throws when he was fouled by Jordan as he drove the lane. He got a third free throw when Jordan picked up a technical foul for arguing with referee Tommie Wood.

The Jazz-Bulls game was the first triple-overtime contest in the NBA this year, and the longest game in Jazz history.

"I had three shots. I wasn't going to blow three shots," an exhausted Malone said of his game-winning free throws.

Jordan refused to speak to reporters after the game. But Coach Phil Jackson vented his anger at the officials.

"Whatever he (Jordan) said, that referee deserved it because you don't make foul calls like that in the end of an NBA game. People know it is a desperation drive."

For Jordan, it was a night to forget. He had two chances to end the game - once in regulation and once in double OT.

He missed a 20-footer with one second left in the fourth quarter, then missed two free throws with 30 seconds left that would have given Chicago a five-point lead in the second overtime.

Karl Malone led the Jazz with 34 points and 21 rebounds.

Jordan had 36 for Chicago, while Scottie Pippen added 26.

Warriors 122, Magic 114

In Orlando, Fla., the Golden State Warriors made it 2-for-2 on their four-game eastern road swing, fast-breaking their way to a victory. Chris Mullin scored 31 points and Mario Elie notched a career-high 27.

Kings 99, Mavericks 95
In Sacramento, Calif., Mitch Richmond scored 10 of his 22 points in the fourth quarter to hand the Mavericks their sixth straight loss.

The Mavericks made 12 of 17 field goals in the fourth quarter, including 11 straight baskets during a 9:05 span, but missed their last four shots.

Spud Webb contributed 19 points, including 11 in the Kings' 35-point fourth quarter. Rolando Blackman scored 23 points for Dallas.

Timberwolves 114, Nuggets 99

In Minneapolis, the Timberwolves used a strong first half to snap a team-record 11-game losing streak.

The Timberwolves scored 71 points before halftime and led by as many as 21, but managed only 43 in the second half as Denver used a full-court press to get back into the game.

Rookie center Dikembe Mutombo scored a career-high 39 points and added 21 rebounds for Denver.

Rockets 122, Pacers 111

In Houston, Hakeem Olajuwon had 21 points, 14 rebounds and nine blocked shots - narrowly missing the eighth triple-double of his career.

Vernon Maxwell was high scorer for the Rockets with 23 points.

Detlef Schrempf led the Pacers with 25.

Suns 113, Lakers 104

In Phoenix, Tim Perry scored a season-high 27 points and pulled down 15 rebounds as the Suns tied a franchise record with their 18th consecutive home victory, a nine-point win over the Lakers.

SuperSonics 112, Hawks 110

In Atlanta, Ricky Pierce's 20-foot jump shot with 3.5 seconds remaining carried the Seattle SuperSonics to a win.

Pierce led the Sonics with 26 points and Eddie Johnson added 22.

Kevin Willis had 24 points and 23 rebounds for the Hawks.

Hearing steps

Deanna McCracken of Hereford's eighth grade Maroon team puts up a breakaway layup as several Canyon players rush up behind her. The eighth Maroon lost 46-33.

Surprise kiss highlights Syracuse win

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) - Mike Hopkins wasn't fazed by Connecticut's bantering. He couldn't say the same about Syracuse teammate Lawrence Moten's kiss on the cheek.

Moten accomplished what the Huskies couldn't - but not before Hopkins sank a tiebreaking free throw with three seconds left to lift No. 13 Syracuse to an 84-83 Big East victory over 10th-ranked Connecticut Monday night.

"Then Moten kissed me and it changed everything," said Hopkins, who put up an airball on his second attempt. "I don't know if it turned me on or what. I think I was just concentrating so hard on the first one."

"I just hope my mother didn't see it," he added with a laugh.

"I didn't even realize I did it," Moten said. "I'm just so intense. He made the shot and I felt so good for him. He deserves it. He does so much for us that doesn't show up on the stat sheet. He's our workhorse."

In other games involving ranked teams, No. 3 Kansas routed Kansas State 80-58 and Wake Forest beat No. 14 Tulane 69-66.

Syracuse (16-3, 8-3) rallied from nine points down with 10:21 to play and overcame a 28-for-71 shooting performance to take possession of first place in the Big East from the Huskies (16-3, 7-3).

Syracuse trailed 64-55 with 10:21 to go before using an 11-1 run to take a 66-65 lead, its first since scoring the opening basket. The game see-sawed until Connecticut scored seven straight points to go ahead 83-79.

Dave Johnson, who led Syracuse with 26 points, made it 83-81 with 1:30 left on a follow shot and Moten, who added 23, scored on a breakaway layup with 1:01 left after stealing the ball from Chris Smith.

Smith, who scored 17 of his 25 points in the final 13 1/2 minutes, missed a 25-footer with 19 seconds and the rebound bounced off Donyell Marshall, giving the ball to Syracuse.

After Syracuse called a timeout, Moten missed a 3-pointer, but McRae was fouled after picking up the loose ball and trying to lay it in.

Connecticut got the ball at sidcourt after Hopkins' airball, but Smith was double-teamed and Autry and McRae combined to deflect

Smith's attempted pass to Kevin Ollie in the corner as time expired.

No. 3 Kansas 80, Kansas State 58

Eric Pauley scored a career-high 17 points as Kansas surpassed Kansas State in the Big Eight.

The victory was the Jayhawks' 18th in the last 22 games against Kansas State (11-7, 1-4) and gave Kansas (17-1, 5-0) a 50-game lead in their 85-year series.

Wake Forest 69, No. 14 Tulane 66

Hot-shooting Rodney Rogers scored 21 points as Wake Forest overcame 22 turnovers and poor foul shooting.

The Demon Deacons (12-6) held the high-scoring Green Wave (16-2) to its lowest output of the season.

Duke remains No. 1

By The Associated Press
Only two undefeated teams remain in major college basketball. And they're ranked one-two in this week's Associated Press poll.

Duke (17-0) was voted the No. 1 team on Monday for the 12th time in as many polls, the last three as a unanimous choice of the 65-member panel of sportswriters and broadcasters. Oklahoma State (20-0) moved up one place to second and fell four points short of being a unanimous runner-up.

Kansas, now 17-1 after routing Kansas State 80-58 Monday night, moved from fifth to third, ahead of UCLA (15-1), which had been second for six straight weeks until being beaten by Southern Cal at home last Wednesday.

Arkansas, which had been seventh, rounded out the top five and was followed by Indiana, Arizona, Ohio State, North Carolina and Connecticut, an 84-83 loser at Syracuse on Monday.

Michigan State led the Second Ten and was followed by Missouri, Syracuse, Tulane, Michigan, Southern Cal, UNLV, Alabama, Kentucky and North Carolina Charlotte.

The final five were Oklahoma, Louisiana State, Florida State, Georgia Tech and Texas-El Paso.

Amarillo to host walk April 4 to benefit MS

The Panhandle Chapter of the national Multiple Sclerosis Society will sponsor its Super Cities Walk, known locally as "walk Historic Amarillo" on April 4, announced Troy Waddell at a press conference held at the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce today.

The walk will start at the historic Lee Bivins home, now the Chamber offices, and finish at Sanborn Park with a lunch by the Olive garden.

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. with coffee from the Big Texan and donuts. The walk begins at 10 a.m. The Panhandle Chapter will be one of 90 chapters nationwide hosting walks on that weekend. In its third year locally and its fourth year nationally, the Super Cities Walk is becoming the primary fundraiser for the national MS Society.

Organizers conducted the Walk in 235 locations last year, which generated more than $20 million for the Society's research and chapter service programs. Last year, locally more than 1500 people walked in the 15-kilometer, or 9.3 mile event and raised $85,000. This year's event will also include in-line skating for those who wish to sate instead of walk.

Lucie Tyson, co-chairman for Preservation Amarillo is designing this year's Walk route. It will include parts of the downtown, Lemons Oliver Eakle, Bivins, Country Club and Woflin areas. "The MS Society appreciates all the research that goes into planning our historic route," said

Lucie Gray, Panhandle Chapter executive director. "The people of our area are proud of our heritage. This event enables our walkers to learn more about the panhandle history as well as raise funds to combat this mysterious disease."

Walkers will collect pledges based on the distance walked. Organizers will award prizes to all walkers based on the level of funds raised. Prizes range from T-shirts and gift certificates to the grand prize - a six-day trip to Italy courtesy of American Airlines and The Travel Store.

National Home Health Care is a primary sponsor for the walk. A special promotion is being done during the month of March by Roman Meal bread with proceeds going to the Super Cities walk.

"The Panhandle Chapter is so excited by the success of Walk Historic Amarillo," says Troy Waddell, chapter chairman. "Our entire area stands out across the nation because of the high percentage of participation. This success makes possible the educational programs and patient services for families who are touched by multiple sclerosis in the Panhandle area."

Multiple sclerosis is a chronic, often disabling disease that "short circuits" the central nervous system, usually striking adults between the ages of 20 and 40. The disease affects more than 500 persons and their families in the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandles.

The National MS Society funds numerous research projects aimed at developing a treatment and cure for MS. Through its local chapter, the Society provides services such as equipment loans, counseling and referral and public and professional education.

For walk registration and volunteer information, contact the chapter office at 372-4429.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am the grandmother of a 3-year-old boy. His maternal grandmother died of diabetes at a young age, blind and loss of legs. Would it be wise to use artificial sweetener in his diet? If so, what kind is the safest? As his baby sitter, what precautions should I take? What are the signs other than thirst, frequent urination and weight gain?

DEAR READER: No. Treat him like any other normal 3-year-old boy. Diabetes that develops in childhood is called juvenile diabetes and more recently is called type 1 diabetes. It is different from adult onset or type 2 diabetes. Type 1 diabetes is now believed to be caused by an autoimmune reaction. The body destroys the islets of Langerhans that produce insulin in an immune reaction. Other cases are caused by a virus infection that attacks the islets, as can occur in the wake of mumps. Or the virus infection may trigger the autoimmune reaction. There is an inherited susceptibility to such a response, although the disease itself is not inherited.

The adult onset form of diabetes has an inherited characteristic, although the exact genetic pattern has not been worked out. Avoiding obesity and maintaining a good exercise program does have some preventive value. Avoiding obesity would include not using high-calorie foods such as sugar. About the only recommendation that should be made at this time is to keep him active and avoid obesity, which is good advice for everyone. He has a very good chance of never having diabetes at all.

It is a mistake to impose medical restrictions on children unless there is a definite indication. It can affect their personality and self-confidence.

I see in the rest of your letter that you already have Special Report 89, Diabetes: The Sweet Sickness. Read it again and you will see that weight gain is part of adult onset diabetes rather than juvenile diabetes. As you will note in the next letter from a mother of a type 1 diabetic, weight loss was an early indication. Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/89, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077.

DEAR DR. LAMB: We have a 12-year-old who has juvenile diabetes. She started with this sickness a year ago. At first we didn't know what was wrong with her. She started losing so much weight and became so weak we thought she had leukemia.

We took her to the hospital and they checked her sugar right away. It was up to 750 and the nurses soon said she has juvenile diabetes.

Initially, it was very hard for us to accept it. She takes 2 units of regular insulin and 4 units of NPH insulin in the evenings and mornings. Apparently her pancreas is working some since she doesn't need to take more insulin. We are looking and hoping for a cure.

DEAR READER: That is a typical story for type 1 diabetes. At first all the islets of Langerhans may not be destroyed. Some success in arresting the process has been reported by giving patients the same medicines used to prevent rejection of organ transplants. The process of destruction of the islets is basically the same as occurs with rejection of foreign tissue such as a transplant.

However, the cure in many cases may rest in the further development of transplants. Many patients have been successfully treated with pancreas transplants, along with medicine to prevent rejection. Studies are also underway seeding the tiny islet cells into the abdomen.

DEAR DR. LAMB: At least 15 years ago a doctor told me I have "geographic tongue." I have been to several doctors since that time and there appears to be little concern on their part. There are times when I have white blotches or rings on my tongue. This certainly does not seem normal. Could you please tell me more about my tongue condition and what it really means from a health standpoint?

DEAR READER: Your doctors have shown little concern because it is not an indication of a significant medical problem. It is caused by local loss or shedding of the surface cells over the tongue, exposing the red underlying tissue. The more common gray-colored surface—the white blotches or rings—remains intact, causing a spotted or patterned appearance of the tongue. And the areas of shedding will change, causing changing patterns.

Kitchen planning topic of sorority program

Jane Meiwes presented a program entitled "Kitchen Planning and Design" when members of Alpha Iota Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority met recently in the home of Pattie Urbanczyk.

President Glenna Calaway presided over the business meeting. Jaimie Brorman, service chairman, announced that the chapter donated $20 to the International Endowment Fund. The chapter also decided to donate half of the proceeds from the recent candy sales to the Texas Tech Children's Research Foundation on behalf of Kallie Hopping.

Also, during the business session, President Calaway reminded members that February is Good Shepherd Month. Marrie Leverett reported on the January City Council meeting concerning the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority Sweetheart Brunch and its annual Valentine Ball to be held Saturday, Feb. 8.

Hostess, Pattie Urbanczyk, and co-hostess, MaryBeth Messer, served refreshments of strawberry swirl loaf and tea to those present. They included Brorman, Calaway, Patty Frerich, Wanda Huseman, Leverett, Meiwes, Mary Bob Ward, Donna Weaver, Jill Alexander and Carmen Gonzales.

The next meeting will be ladies night out Thursday, Feb. 6, at the Hereford Country Club. Serving as hostesses will be pledges, Carmen Gonzales and Pattie Urbanczyk.

A restaurant once warned: "Customers who consider our waitresses uncivil ought to see the manager."

Fire safety tips for apartments

Fire safety should be as much a part of high-rise apartment living as a panoramic view, elevators and doorman.

Here are some life-saving tips from the Insurance Information Institute that every apartment dweller should know:

1. If a fire occurs, do not panic. Staying calm will increase chances of survival.
2. Remember that smoke rises. It also kills. Even if you can tolerate the smoke while standing, it is safer to crawl to the door.
3. Do not open the door until you are sure there's no fire on the other side. Feel the door knob. If it is hot, the fire may be just outside your door.
4. Brace your shoulder or foot against the door and open with extreme caution. Should you be confronted with a high concentration of super-heated air or smoke, close the door immediately.
5. If the hall is passable, use one of your pre-designated escape routes.
6. Do not waste time gathering personal belongings, but shut the door and take your key.
7. Do not use the elevator. It may stall due to heat or loss of power.
8. If you must, use the inside stairwell, check for smoke before entering.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Classified advertising rates are based on 15 cents a word for first insertion ($3.00 minimum), and 11 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN
1 day per word	.15	3.00
2 days per word	.28	5.20
3 days per word	.37	7.40
4 days per word	.45	9.60
5 days per word	.50	11.80

If you run ads in five consecutive issues with NO changes, you get the same ad in the Reach 4 More free. The regular charge for that ad would be $4.00

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid-word lines-those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing; all capital letters. Rates are $4.15 per column inch; $3.45 an inch for consecutive additional insertions.

LEGALS

Ad rates for legal notices are same as for classified display.

ERRORS

Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

Lewis enjoyed 'every minute' of tenure as speaker

EDITOR'S NOTE: Associated Press correspondent Mike Cochran recently interviewed Texas House Speaker Gib Lewis, who is retiring after a record tenure as the house leader. This is the second in the series on Gibson's trials and triumphs in Austin.

Cochran has won several awards, including prestigious honors from the Headliners Foundation of Texas. Cochran has authored several books. One of his stories will be featured today at 8 p.m. on CBS-TV. "Fugitive Among Us" stars Peter Straus.

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

But most of the challenges he faced as speaker were not of his making.

Ranching, farming, oil and real estate, long the cornerstone of Texas prosperity, headed due south on a fast track. Banks and S&Ls were right behind.

Coping with budget deficits and tax bills would become a way of life.

Federal and state judges would snipe at legislative blueprints for dealing with prison reform, redistricting, education, mental health, colleges and judicial elections.

It was, quite simply, the toughest times in modern Texas history.

In one respect, Lewis' office at Lewis Labels Products is similar to the speaker's quarters in Austin. It is jammed, tastefully, with paintings, photographs, bronze sculptures and other works of art, mostly western, with a mix of landscapes and wildlife.

Trophy animals decorate one room and an anteroom houses memorabilia from his years in public office. Each item, he said, is special, a reminder of good times, places and people.

For four hours over two days last week, he spoke openly, if a bit defensively, of his life in and out of the public eye.

AP: What drew you into politics 22 years ago?

Lewis: I was active in the Jaycees, and you get semi-active in politics if you are civically involved. I was elected to the city council in River Oaks. And some friends persuaded me to run for the legislature.

AP: Did you win your first race?
Lewis: Yes, but I shouldn't have. My opponent was 10 times better qualified. I guess the reason I won was because, after meeting him, I realized I better work my butt off to keep from getting embarrassed.

AP: What would you have done if you hadn't entered politics?

Lewis: Well, I would have taken care of my business better. And I would have made wiser investments. I like the investment part... and that's what got me in trouble. I would have had time to read the contracts and I wouldn't have lost near as much money.

AP: All these articles say you're a millionaire.

Lewis: That's another good example of these (media) inaccuracies. The problem is, all my creditors are getting to believe it.

AP: You're not a millionaire?

Lewis: No, but at one time I was. On paper, before some financial downfalls. I'm like everybody else, just trying to stay above the level surface.

AP: You weren't born wealthy?

Lewis (laughing): You may not believe this, but I was born in a log cabin. I was delivered by an old country doctor in Limestone County. My dad was a farmer. But we moved to Mexia soon after I was born. I grew up there and in Cleveland, Texas. I moved to Cleveland to live with my grandmother after my grandfather died.

AP: You attended Sam Houston State and Texas Christian University. Is that where you met your wife?

Lewis: No. We met in Fort Worth while I was in the Air Force. I was stationed at Carswell.

AP: You and Sandra have two children?

Lewis: Yes, two daughters, Cammie and Cathy, both grown. Another reason to get out of politics is so I can spend more time with the grandkids. I've got a guilt complex because I didn't spend the time with my daughters I should have. I was too wrapped up in politics.

AP: But you had some pretty fine moments in politics?

Lewis: A lot of them. There were some things I made happen that wouldn't have happened, had I not been there. It was great working with the Tarrant County delegation. It was an excellent delegation. Really strong.

AP: Any single accomplishment stand out?

Lewis: The role we played in DFW and Alliance airports, working hand in hand with the city and county. ... We pulled some pretty big rabbits out of some pretty small hats. And there was the Fort Worth State School for the mentally retarded and state funding of the Texas College of Osteopathic Medicine.

AP: Some say the speaker has too much power. Do you disagree?

Lewis: There is a very good check and balance that people don't understand, and I'm glad we've got it. It does not allow one person to be a dominating force. Not the governor, not the lieutenant governor, not the speaker.

AP: Still..?

Lewis: I remember before I was speaker, if the speaker wanted something for his district, he got it. That's the way it's been and that's the way it always will be. What's amazing is that I never lost a legislative battle.

AP: Will you miss that power?

Lewis: No. I never did use my power. Oh, I've used it for a little persuasion here or there when dealing with agencies or something. But as far as dealing with the membership or the issues, I never did.

AP: Why?

Lewis: I always had the philosophy that if you abuse the power, you lose the power. And that's why the membership overwhelmingly re-elected me.

AP: Speakers seem to be targets of sorts?

Lewis: That's exactly what they are. Targets. The public dislikes the congress and the legislature, and the speaker is the focal point of both.

AP: You served with five governors and swore in three of them.

Lewis: Yes. Mark White, Bill Clements and Ann Richards. That's more than any speaker in history.

AP: Any comments on that trio?

Lewis: All three have their own styles. All were good governors and deserve a high place in history.

AP: Aw, come on.

Lewis: You don't get to be governor by falling off a turnip truck in downtown Austin. You have to have qualities to get there. You have to have moral character and ambition to meet that challenge, to rise to the occasion. And they did.

AP: Who's the best legislator you've worked with?

Lewis: The best all-around, although I don't exactly agree with him philosophically, is Carl Parker of Beaumont. He's the best orator, the brightest mind, best wit of anybody in government. Billy Williamson of Tyler was the purest of the pure. There are a lot of bright guys who do hard work and don't get credit.

AP: Why is that?

Lewis: There is a fallacy that the guy who puts out the most press releases is the most effective. Just the opposite. In reality, he can't even pass a motion to adjourn at the end of the day.

AP: What adjectives would you use to describe yourself?

Lewis: Committed, honest, driven, concerned.

AP: No negatives?

Lewis: Naive. Too trusting. Inattentive to details.

AP: Fatally inattentive?

Lewis: Perhaps.

AP: What was your biggest mistake?

Lewis: Running for office.

AP: Seriously?

Lewis: I don't think I've made any big mistakes at all. I guess that's what frustrates me more than anything. The mistakes that caused all the legal problems have been honest mistakes. And in most cases, not even my mistakes.

AP: Still, you are responsible for financial disclosure, even if it is your secretary who misses something.

Lewis: I guarantee you, if the same scrutiny was put to everybody that had to file a financial disclosure form, 95-plus percent of the people in public office would be indicted right now.

AP: What are you suggesting?

Lewis: I make investments, but I'm not the managing partner. I can't be responsible for what they might do. But we are held responsible. And that's sad. What happened to me over the last year has set a bad precedent.

AP: How?

Lewis: People who make investments and speculate in real estate or whatever are not going to be interested in public service anymore. They can't afford to go through the scrutiny and the ridicule that comes with it.

AP: Wasn't the Mexican resort adventure in 1987 a little different?

Lewis: The people on that trip had been friends of mine for years. Dean Cobb and I shared an apartment when he was in the legislature. We've invested in business together. But the way it came out was that I went to Mexico with a bunch of lobbyists and a bunch of single women, which was erroneous. It was scandalous the way they portrayed it.

AP: They?

Lewis: The press. The facts don't sell a lot of newspapers.
