City hires Kaesheimer as new golf pro

A golf professional with 11 years of experience in golf course operation will assume duties Monday at John Pitman Municipal Golf Course in Hereford.

David Kaesheimer of Albuquerque, N.M., has been employed as golf pro and manager of the city-owned facility at a salary of $40,000 per year, City Manager Chester Nolen announced Wednesday.

In addition to the salary, Kaesheimer will operate the pro shop in a business arrangement with the City of Hereford and provide golf lessons, when asked, to supplement his income. Nolen said the arrangement with Kaesheimer includes a rental fee for the pro shop facilities.

Golf course greens fees and cart rentals will be revenue to the city, said Nolen.

The city manager had interviewed a number of applicants for the position since announcing last fall that Brent Warner would be relieved of duties at the golf course, effective Jan. 1.

The city purchased equipment owned by Warner and assumed a lease agreement for golf carts. A city employee has been assigned to the course to keep it open for players since Warner left.

In announcing the employment of Kaesheimer, Nolen said at least three other golf pros were in the running for the position. "They were all quality people," said Nolen.

Kaesheimer comes to Hereford with extensive experience in golf course management. He also holds a Class A membership in the PGA.

His last position was as operations manager and head professional at the Cochiti Lake Golf Course, located between Albuquerque and Santa Fe, N.M.

When Kaesheimer took the Cochiti job in April 1986, the operation was in financial difficulty. After the first year, a small profit was turned and the facility's financial condition continued to improve over the next four years.

During that time, major renovations were undertaken and the course gained state and national recognition as the No. 1 course in New Mexico and ranking by "Golf Digest" in the top 25 public courses in the U.S.

Prior to taking the Cochiti position, Kaesheimer spent a year as head professional at the Angel Fire Country Club and Resort in New Mexico and worked five years as first assistant at the Tijeras Arroyo Golf Course at Kirtland Air Force Base at Albuquerque.

In each position, Kaesheimer was responsible for a wide variety of activities, including tournaments, junior programs, budgeting and grounds.

Kaesheimer, 33, has attended PGA workshops on business, computers, rules and tournaments. Educationally, he has attended Albuquerque Technical Vocational Institute, University of New Mexico and National Business College of Albuquerque.

Kaesheimer will be responsible for operations at the Hereford course, reporting to the city manager. His regular work week will be Tuesday through Saturday, unless special events are scheduled on weekends, Nolen said.

The new golf pro will begin work Monday. A moving date for his family, including his wife, Barbara, and two children, will be decided later.

Congratulations to Mildred Fuhrmann on being selected as the C of C Women's Division "Woman of the Year." She has been a dedicated volunteer for the blood bank drive here, which is one of most successful campaigns in the Panhandle.

Her husband, Ronald, asked a lady at the banquet Tuesday night if she could sew some buttons on some of his shirts. The surprised lady replied that she'd be happy to do so. "Well, I sure wouldn't want to ask the Woman of the Year to do such a menial task," quipped Ronald.

Congratulations are also in order for Ruth Nesom, the Women's Division president for 1991. She is a great organizer and planner and has served the organization with distinction. Those who know my wife, Lavon, might realize that I am an expert observer on women who organize and plan everything in great detail! (Just so no one gets the wrong idea, I mean that as a compliment to both ladies!)

As we reported recently, an informal survey of employees at the Snyder prison might give us an insight on what to expect concerning employment and housing should a prison facility be located in Deaf Smith County.

Snyder's Price Daniel unit is a 1,000-bed facility and employs about 310 persons. The warden there ran a survey and reported the results listed from 172 respondents.

Ninety-five of the respondents originally lived in Snyder and 58 transferred there. The article did not clarify where the other 19 came from, but we assume they were new employees from outside the area.

Of the 172 respondents, 71 already owned homes in the community, while 34 purchased homes there. Of the 34 who bought homes, 10 were priced in the $20,000-30,000 range, 8 were in the $30M-40M range, 4 were in the $40M-50M range, and 12 were over $50,000.

If these totals were projected as percentages to all 310 employees, the numbers might look something like this:

Of the 310 total, 171 would live in the community; 105 would transfer in, and 34 would be employed from outside the community. A total of 127 would already own homes here, while 62 of the 310 employees would purchase homes. Another 62 would probably rent homes, and about 65 would drive in from around the area.

Of course, the survey figures from Snyder might not apply in the same proportion here, but it does provide an insight as to what could take place.

Bush 'feeling good' after flu

TOKYO (AP) - A tired and weakened President Bush said, "I feel pretty good" as he recovered from a bout with stomach flu, and wrapped up his visit to Japan while predicting he will win re-election.

"All signals are still go," said the president, who collapsed to the floor from his chair at a state dinner Wednesday night.

Bush canceled some of his appearances today but resumed talks with Prime Minister Kiichi Miyazawa. He also scrapped a speech on Friday before his scheduled departure for Washington and another at the Commerce Department shortly after his arrival.

In his first public appearance since being stricken, Bush said he was "close to back to normal - not as strong as I'd like to be."

Seeking to allay concerns raised by the grim TV video of him slumping behind the dinner table, he said his doctors had "totally ruled out anything other than the 24-hour flu."

By evening, he said he was feeling almost back to normal.

Appearing a bit wan, but relaxed and comfortable, Bush told a news conference he's ready to run for a second term.

White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said Bush's electrocardiogram test to check his heart checked out "totally normal."

Bush sought to allay any notion that his health or age might become a subtle campaign issue for a crop of much younger Democratic candidates.

"Do you think only old people get the flu?" the 67-year-old president quipped at his news conference. "I think Democrats get the flu from time to time. So I wouldn't worry about that."

When he met with Miyazawa at midday - the first time reporters had seen him since the illness Wednesday night - Bush appeared tired and drawn but smiled and joked about the illness that caused him to faint and vomit at the dinner. He said he had not seen the television pictures of his collapse, which presented a grim and scary scene, but he said he "heard it was pretty dramatic."

The concern over Bush's health overshadowed the climatic outcome of the trade talks that had been the centerpiece of Bush's 12-day, 26,000-mile trip through Australia and Asia. The talks centered on U.S. pressure for targeted sales of U.S. autos and autoparts, as well as glass, paper and computer chips.

Bush and Miyazawa announced the Japan would increase its purchases of auto parts to about $19 billion by fiscal 1994, up from about $9 billion last year.

The two sides also announced the Japanese government would increase its purchase of foreign computers, a market that is now totally dominated by domestic manufacturers.

Bush spent his morning resting and talking on the telephone with Vice President Dan Quayle and others, instead of going to a scheduled breakfast meeting with U.S. businessmen, a luncheon speech, and a helicopter trip to a Kodak plant.

Bush's wife Barbara remained at the state dinner and spoke in her husband's stead after determining that he was not seriously ill.

"He made a very funny joke on the floor. He said to Miyazawa, 'Why don't you roll me under the table, and I'll sleep it off until you finish dinner.' That's when I knew he was okay," Mrs. Bush said.

Bush's physician, Dr. Burton Lee, pronounced the president "in overall excellent health" and said he was expected to recover from the flu "in a normal period of time."

Bush had said last summer, when he began clearly indicating he would run for a second term, that the only thing that might prevent a re-election bid would be any potential health problems.

Reps finish redistricting work

AUSTIN (AP) - State lawmakers wrapped up their special session on legislative redistricting, but whether those measures will stand up remains to be seen.

"I'm hoping that we can move on, and that what we passed here in the last few days will certainly be satisfactory to the Justice Department and we can hold elections on the 10th of March," House Speaker Gib Lewis said Wednesday after the Legislature adjourned.

The state House and Senate redistricting plans must be submitted to the Justice Department for approval, and action there could spawn more lawsuits on an issue that has and is being contested in several courts.

The March 10 primaries also remain in doubt. Under a bill passed by the Legislature, if the redistricting plans don't win court approval by Jan. 17, then the primaries will be postponed until April 11.

The primary election bill and redistricting measures were sent to Gov. Ann Richards for her consideration.

Richards called lawmakers into their third special session after federal and state courts had rejected earlier attempts by the Legislature to re-draw boundaries for the 150-member House and 31-member Senate.

The Legislature is required to draw House and Senate district lines after each 10-year federal census.

Democrats said the Senate plan would increase the chance of minorities to get elected in proportion to their population, but Republicans said the district lines were drawn in a way to protect Democratic incumbents.

The GOP also claimed the plan was illegal because it represented a settlement between a group of Democrats and minority plaintiffs who successfully sued the state to re-draw districts to increase minority representation.

Democrats, however, saw the plan as a way to supplant a federal three-judge panel's decision to impose its own district maps. The judge's district maps would hurt minorities and protect Republicans, the Democrats contended.

Under the House plan, districts agreed to by minority plaintiffs and a majority of the representatives would go into effect in 1994. For 1992, the House plan would reflect the districts drawn by the three judges, all of whom are Republican appointees.

In the waning moments of debate Wednesday, the bitterness of the session came to a head between Republicans and Democrats on the Senate floor.

Two Democrats brought up the fact that a paid consultant of Sen. David Sibley, R-Waco, is the brother of one of the federal judges who voted to impose the redistricting plan,

Boys Ranch will launch new program for families

A new program will be started this spring by Cal Farley's Boys Ranch and its affiliate, Girlstown, USA, to meet needs of families who may be facing insurmountable stresses.

Called "Cal Farley's Family Program," it is designed to provide early intervention into family problems that may eliminate future teenage difficulties.

Carl McMillen, public relations director for Boys Ranch and Girlstown, announced the program Wednesday at the meeting of the Hereford Lions Club.

McMillen said the project will be located at the Boys Ranch/Girlstown campus east of Borger. That campus has been used for several years as a residential setting for girls with drug or other problems. That program will be phased out later this year.

The new program is designed for boys and girls in the sixth grade or younger whose families are facing difficult circumstances, McMillen said. Children entering the program will be given a home-like setting and education for a minimum of one year.

"One of the problems we have with children whose parents might refer them to Boys Ranch or Girlstown is that the parents don't feel their problems are permanent," McMillen said Wednesday. "They are reluctant to enter their children in our current programs because of the extended length of stay. This will give them and excellent alternative to our other programs and allow them to work out their difficulties at home."

McMillen said the program will offer counseling and other needs for the entire family to ease the transition of the child back into the home.

"Many parents frequently encounter medical, financial or social difficulties and need a home for their children while they recover," said Ted Lokey, president of Boys Ranch and Girlstown. "Cal Farley's Family Program offers young people a wholesome environment, avoiding circumstances that often lead to juvenile delinquency." Lokey again stressed that family counseling and reunification are important goals of the new program.

Youngsters at the Borger center will attend the nearby Spring Creek School.

The new program will add to the growing family at Boys Ranch, about 60 miles north of Hereford, and Girlstown, at Whiteface. There are about 360 boys presently living at Boys Ranch. McMillen said after remodeling work is finished at homes at Boys Ranch, there will be about 400 boys living there. Remodeling work has been completed at Whiteface, with 68 girls living at the facility. Girlstown can accommodate 75 girls.

McMillen praised the work of the Hereford Lions Club in helping with various programs at Boys Ranch and Whiteface. He singled out the many years of work by Nolan Grady and Dr. Milton Adams with Girlstown.

News Digest

World/National

TOKYO - Japanese officials say they've reached a final trade agreement with U.S. negotiators that resolves a dispute over autos. The pact would give President Bush a package of concessions but will probably do little to redress the nations' trade imbalance.

TOKYO - President Bush was weak and nauseated but recovering in good spirits from a frightening bout with stomach flu that forced him to cancel a half day of meetings and speeches.

ACROSS THE USA - Offering opposite solutions to the biggest deficits state governments have ever faced, New York Gov. Mario Cuomo asked for $800 million in borrowing, while California's Pete Wilson urged deep cuts in welfare.

JACKSON, Mich. - Mark Wilson thinks the 45-minute commute to Lansing is well worth it, considering he gets to come home each evening to Jackson. "My house is probably half what it would cost me up here (in Lansing)," he said after learning his hometown was ranked the most affordable housing market among the nation's metropolitan areas.

WASHINGTON - Virginia Gov. L. Douglas Wilder's withdrawal from the Democratic presidential campaign ends a historic but struggling candidacy and leaves the remaining contenders scrambling for the crucial black vote.

DALLAS - In Dallas, it's not enough for Hollywood to declare a particular movie OK for youngsters. The city applies its own, stricter ratings and backs them up with fines.

TBILISI, Georgia - Both sides in the bloody Georgian power struggle appealed to the Red Army for help, the local commanding general says, but the guns of his troops remained neutral, and silent.

CALCUTTA, India - While Mother Teresa convalesces from pneumonia and heart trouble in the United States, her work quietly goes on in 160 institutions in India and about 280 other missions around the world.

Texas

MOUNT PLEASANT - A fire in a chicken processing plant Wednesday sent 21 people to the hospital with burns and injuries from being trampled as people tried to escape. One person was seriously injured, officials said.

WASHINGTON - U.S. debate over the future of the controversial super collider has been reignited because of high-level talks half a world away. Typically, the issue picks up steam when the $8.25 billion atom smasher comes up each year before Congress for federal funding, as it will this spring.

AUSTIN - State lawmakers wrapped up their special session on legislative redistricting, but whether those measures will stand up remains to be seen.

EL PASO - The lights stayed on but the future looked dark for investors of El Paso Electric Co., which ended weeks of bartering with lenders by filing for Chapter 11 protection from creditors.

DALLAS - In Dallas, a city made famous by a sleazy, sexy TV soap opera, it's not enough for Hollywood types to declare a movie OK for children and teen-agers.

DALLAS - The jet engine that fell from a 737 is being taken to a Delta hangar in Atlanta for examination as officials prepare to review "black box" tapes from the plane.

LAKE JACKSON - While flood waters continued their surge in southern Brazoria County, thunderstorms dumped two inches or more of rain on some areas already struggling to cope with the deluge.

HOUSTON - Officials of AppleTree Markets Inc. have praised a federal bankruptcy judge's approval of a $25 million loan, saying it will allow the grocery store chain to stock its shelves and stay alive.

AUSTIN - State lawmakers approved a resolution urging Congress to either make public files on the assassination of President Kennedy or explain why it refuses to do so.

HUNTSVILLE - While death row inmates viewed Gov. Ann Richards' decision to halt an execution earlier this week as purely political, they were gratified by Pope John Paul II's role in stopping the execution.

Lewis cites no specifics for decision

AUSTIN (AP) - Gib Lewis says the decision, to retire after an unprecedented tenure as House speaker was his - and his alone.

It had nothing to do with legal, personal, business or political pressures, he said.

It even came over opposition from some quarters, he said.

"I think I'm the only one that wanted to quit," said Lewis, D-Fort Worth, after announcing his decision Wednesday.

"People that disagree with me would come up to me and say, 'We disagree ... I want you to stay.' I had a lot of encouragement back home. I feel very confident that if I wanted to be speaker for another term or two, I could."

But a record five terms were enough.

"I will not seek another term," Lewis told a hushed chamber in a rare speech delivered not from the speaker's podium but the House floor. "I will leave proud of what we have accomplished together."

Lewis, 55, first entered the House in 1971 and was chosen by colleagues as speaker in 1983. He was re-elected to the third most powerful job in state government four times.

But in December 1990, he was indicted on two misdemeanor ethics charges by a Travis County grand jury. Having pleaded innocent, Lewis is scheduled to stand trial Jan. 27.

Prosecutors allege that Lewis accepted a gift from a powerful San Antonio law firm and failed to report it on his public finance disclosure statements.

During his approximately eight-minute speech, Lewis never mentioned those legal problems. In a news conference later, he said the ethics charges hadn't entered into his decision.

"That has no bearing. That's something we'll address when the time comes," he said.

He also shrugged off questions on whether business or family pressures had played a part.

"I don't have any business difficulties, no more than anyone else. My wife kinda wanted me to stay."

Rather, he said, "I think it's time for new leadership in the House, and it's time for me to go on to other endeavors. And that's exactly what I've done."

In his speech to colleagues, Lewis recalled achievements the Legislature had made during his nine years as speaker.

His list included the school-reforming House Bill 72 of 1984, creation of the first indigent health care program in state history, legalization of parimutuel racing, expansion of the prison system and last year's approval of a constitutional amendment for a state lottery.

"You all know that it is not my style to claim credit for the accomplishments that are the result of the dedicated efforts of so many people working together," Lewis said.

His announcement capped a week of rumors which saw lawmakers and lobbyists guessing whether Lewis would run again.

The speaker spent much of Wednesday morning meeting privately with aides, and with Gov. Ann Richards.

"He is one of the most hard working and conscientious public officials. I will miss him a great deal next year," Richards said.

Added Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock: "I doubt anyone in state government in the last decade has devoted so much of themselves to Texas and received so little in return."

Lewis' announcement triggered a political battle over who might succeed him.

"It went up from simmer to high heat in a matter of hours" as word spread of Lewis' planned announcement, said Rep. Rene Oliveira, D-Brownsville.

Lewis named no favorites. He said only that, "There is an abundance of talent and experience in this House" to fill the job.

Speaker hopefuls may form long line

AUSTIN (AP) - The race is on among House members who want to be the next speaker.

"Oh Lord, the list is endless, and I think they're just beginning to surface," Speaker Pro Tem Wilhelmina Delco, D-Austin, said shortly after Gib Lewis announced plans to retire after a record five terms as House leader.

Lewis, D-Fort Worth, said he would remain neutral in the 1993 battle.

"The candidates that are running have demonstrated time and time again they know the process and know how the process works," he said.

"I hate to say this, but I assure you there will not be a big void when I leave. These people will do as good of a job as I've done," he said.

Among those who said they will run or were cited as possible candidates were Reps. Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield, who chairs the budget-writing House Appropriations Committee; Pete Laney, D-Hale Center, State Affairs Committee chairman; Tom Uher, D-Bay City, head of the Redistricting Committee; and Bruce Gibson, D-Godley, Government Organization Committee chairman.

Also, James Hury, D-Galveston, head of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee; David Cain, D-Dallas, who heads the Transportation Committee; and Billy Clemons, D-Pollock, the only announced challenger against Lewis before the speaker made his announcement. Clemons serves on the Calendars Committee, which schedules bills for House debate, and the Appropriations Committee.

Uher predicted a front-runner probably would emerge by the end of November, after the general election. Lawmakers next meet in regular session in January 1993.

Ms. Delco said she wasn't ruling out a speaker's race herself, although she said she has "no idea" whether the House would be ready to elect a black woman as its leader.

Hasie to run for new term

Monte Hasie, State Board of Education member for District 15, has announced his candidacy for reelection, subject to the Republican primary.

Hasie, a former chairman of the SBOE, is seeking his second term on the panel. He said his experience is a key issue in the election.

"There are many new challenges facing education in Texas, and I have the expertise and experience necessary to provide effective leadership for the citizens in District 15," he said. He pointed to his strong commitment for local control and vocational education.

The huge district includes 47 counties in the Texas Panhandle and West Texas.

Low-income Texans can get heat assistance

Some low-income Texans may be eligible for help in paying heating bills this winter through the Home Energy Assistance Program, according to Texas Department of Human Services Interim Commissioner Burton F. Raiford.

Raiford said the one-time payment is available to many low-income households. Applications for energy assistance were mailed to households that received food stamps, Aid to Families with Dependent Children, or Supplemental Security Income in December.

Other low-income individuals may request an application by calling the toll-free number 1-800-252-8060 during the enrollment period of Jan. 15 through Feb. 28.

Eligibility is determined by gross income and resources. Aid is available for a one-person household having less than $662.49 gross income per month. The gross income limits are $876.49 for households of two persons, $1,090.49 for three, $1,304.49 for four, $1,518.49 for five, and $1,732.49 for six.

Households are eligible if the cost for heating is included in the rent payment or if the household pays part of its home energy costs.

Energy assistance checks are sent directly to the people who are eligible for assistance. However, the checks are made payable to the energy provider.

Someone receiving an energy assistance check should mail it or take it in person to the energy provider business office with their regular energy bill.

The check can be cashed only by the energy provider. If the check is more than the energy bill, the additional amount will be credited to the person's account for the next month's bill. If the energy bill is higher than the check, the person is responsible for paying the difference.

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Katherine Dunham, who won the National Medal of Arts for her innovative work in African and Caribbean dance, donated costumes and other memorabilia to the Missouri Historical Society.

"After touring for about 50 of my 83 years, I have found that it's no good keeping things shut up in trunks and baskets and that sort of thing," she said Tuesday.

Society president Robert R. Archibald said the gift includes about 300 costumes and 400 boxes of documents and other artifacts.

Lady Whitefaces set to open district play

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

The Hereford High School girls' basketball team starts district play at 8 p.m. Friday in Dumas. With a 7-15 record, the Lady Whitefaces aren't going to challenge for a state title, but they can compete with several of the teams in District 1-4A.

"We're not in the bottom (of the district) by any stretch of the imagination," Coach Dickie Faught said. "We've won seven--some big games--and we feel pretty good."

At the beginning of the season, Faught said the team would try to make up for its lack of height by using its quickness and pressing. That strategy is coming along, he said. "Probably our biggest improvement has been in our pressing game and defense," he said. "I feel like we've come a long way in changing from a team that didn't press very much."

It would be difficult for Hereford to make the playoffs, with Randall and Pampa clearly the class of the district. Randall's record is 16-2, and Pampa's is 10-6. Borger is a step or two behind those two. Borger's record is unknown, but Faught said it is something like 15-6.

The other three teams in the district--Dumas, Caprock and Hereford--are pretty even, Faught said. Dumas is 7-10 and Caprock's record is unknown, but Faught thinks they have fewer wins than the Lady Whitefaces, he said.

"I hope we can upset a couple folks," he said. "I think if we'd start hitting our shots better, our press would cause trouble for some of the teams."

One unstable element in the district formula is Melinda White, the Borger star whose name Faught said he hasn't seen in a linescore in several weeks, leading him to suspect she may be injured.

"Without her, Borger is not nearly the team it is with her," Faught said. "Borger without Melinda White may be more in the area with us. "Of course, they may just be holding her out until district," he said.

Hereford's star, Jennifer Bullard, appears to be recovering nicely from injury. Bullard, a senior wing, has averaged 14.6 points a game despite playing some of those games on two bad ankles. Faught said she's just about back to full strength.

"I think it's bothering her mentally just a little bit--she may be thinking about it when she comes down after shooting," he said, "but she's not really affected by it. She's just about 100 percent. It won't be long before she's cuttin' it loose."

NCAA ups academic requirements

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) - Tougher academic requirements will ensure that more athletes leave college with a degree, say educators who successfully backed measures to raise the requirements.

NCAA schools voted Wednesday to stiffen entrance requirements and also approved a proposal to keep athletes on track to graduation throughout their college careers.

"For the first time, we have an accurate statement to kids about what it takes to have as a minimum foundation to have a chance to graduate from our universities," said Gerald Turner, the president of the University of Mississippi and the chairman of the NCAA Presidents Commission.

"I am comfortable with the 13 core courses and the 2.5 grade point average as giving a good minimum foundation for a good chance of getting a good college degree.

"You're not ready for college work with 11 core courses and a 2.0 GPA."

Beginning in 1995, the entrance requirements will jump from 11 core courses - subjects such as English, math and science - to 13. The necessary grade average for core courses will go from 2.0 (a C) to 2.5.

The grade average is tied to scores on college entrance exams. Beginning in 1995, freshmen will need a 2.5 if they have a test score of 700 on the SAT and 17 on the ACT. The scale descends to where a freshman with a 2.0 grade point will need a 900 SAT and a 21 ACT to be eligible.

Those measures for incoming students, and another requiring athletes to keep pace as they advance in school, were passed overwhelmingly by delegates from Division I schools, the nation's top athletic powers, at the NCAA convention.

The Presidents Commission, wielding increasing power in college athletics, championed the academic propositions.

While the proposal to raise the grade requirement was passed by a 249-72 vote, it was passed over strong objections from some black educators. They were joined by several white colleagues in claiming that the new requirements were racially and culturally discriminatory.

That continued a controversy that began when Proposition 48, the freshman eligibility rule, was first adopted in 1983.

"This is clearly a discriminatory proposal," William DeLauder, president of predominantly black Delaware State, said prior to the vote on the grade point requirement.

"And it's not just a problem for black kids. A lot of white kids from the inner city and from poor rural areas will also be discriminated against by this proposal."

The other part of the academic package pushed by the Presidents Commission and passed by the delegates will begin to go into effect this year.

Beginning with next fall's freshmen, athletes will have to complete at least 25 percent of the requirements in a specific degree program entering their third year, 50 percent entering their fourth year and 75 percent entering their fifth year.

Bullard's back strong

Jennifer Bullard, the Lady Whitefaces' leading scorer at 14.6 points per game, is getting over two ankle injuries in time for Hereford's district opener Friday in Dumas.

Hereford boxers going to state

The Hereford Boxing Club will be sending three boxers--Jamie Ruiz, Javier Buentello and Ismael Arroyos--to the Texas State Championships Friday, Saturday and Sunday in El Paso.

The winners go on to the national tournament Feb. 24-March 2 in Colorado Springs, Colo., where they'll fight for Olympic berths, said Lou Serrano, a sponsor of the club.

"My dream is getting an Olympic berth out of all this," Buentello said.

Ruiz knows a little of what to expect in El Paso. He expects to face a fighter from Fort Worth named Chris Hamilton, whom he lost to in a close decision in a previous tournament. Ruiz has reason to think it'll be different this time.

"He's a little bit better than me, but I think I can take him because I've got a coach this year," he said.

Three coaches have been helping the fighters: Joe Gonzales, Esteban Ramirez and Robert Suarez.

"They've been giving 105 percent of their time and not getting paid," Buentello said. "They're out here to take a team to show what West Texas is all about."

Orlando needed magic to stop loss streak

By The Associated Press
Count the ways that the Orlando Magic snapped a 17-game losing streak.
- Missing their leading scorer and No. 1 point guard and having only eight players in uniform because of injuries, the Magic got a career-high 35 points from Sam Vincent and 30 from Cattedge in Wednesday night's 104-103 victory at Seattle.
- Ranked 24th in the NBA in free-throw shooting, Orlando went 32-for-33 from the line, including 17-for-18 by Vincent.

- Ranked 25th in rebounding, the Magic fought the SuperSonics, the top rebounding team, to a 37-37 draw on the boards.
- Trailing 101-94, Orlando outscored Seattle 10-2 in the last 3:02, with Vincent scoring six points on free throws and Nick Anderson hitting two baskets to finish with 22 points.
The Magic's losing streak stopped three losses short of the NBA single-season record of 20 by the 1973 Philadelphia 76ers.

"Nobody else in this building thought we could win but us," Anderson said.
Vincent hit six free throws and Anderson scored four points in a 10-2 run in the final 3:02, overcoming a 101-94 deficit.
Benoit Benjamin led the Sonics with 24 points and Ricky Pierce had 20.

Celtics 99, Knicks 95
Boston won its 23rd consecutive regular-season home game against New York behind Reggie Lewis' 33 points.
Patrick Ewing scored 28 points for the Knicks.
The Knicks hit their first nine shots and led by as many as 15 points in the first half. But they were 4-for-18 and were outscored 25-13 in the fourth quarter.

the Bulls' basket. He landed awkwardly and was helped off the court, but returned to the game before play resumed.
Scottie Pippen scored 24 points for Chicago. Glen Rice had 33 points for Miami.
Bucks 99, Jazz 98
At Milwaukee, Moses Malone scored 22 points and Dale Ellis hit the go-ahead layup with 28 seconds left. Ellis' layup broke a 93-93 tie, and Alvin Robertson and Jay Humphries hit two free throws each in the final 10 seconds to preserve the lead.
Karl Malone scored 28 points for Utah.

Suns 135, Nuggets 114
Jeff Hornacek scored 24 points and Tom Chambers and Kevin Johnson had 14 each in the first quarter as Phoenix rolled to a 37-18 lead.
Chambers finished with 23 points and Johnson 22 for the Suns.
Dikembe Mutombo scored 24 points for the Nuggets.
Clippers 104, Pacers 102
Ron Harper's basket with 5.4 seconds left gave Los Angeles the victory.
A 16-3 spurt gave Indiana a 91-79 lead with eight minutes remaining, but the Clippers tied the game 95-95 on a three-point play by James Edwards, who scored 10 of his 12 points in the final quarter.
Danny Manning led the Clippers with 22 points.

Pitt hands Syracuse 1st loss

By The Associated Press
For four straight seasons, Syracuse has started out with at least 10 straight victories. And for the second time, the streak has been stopped by Pittsburgh.
Sean Miller scored all 11 of his points in the last 4:08 and the Panthers stung the No. 20 Orangemen 83-74 Wednesday night.
Syracuse (10-1, 2-1 Big East) led by seven points in the second half before Pitt (10-4, 2-0) came back to win at home. Darren Morningstar added 21 points for the Panthers.
"Pitt is very strong inside with steady leadership," Syracuse coach Jim Boheim said.
Pitt also got in the way in the 1988-89 season, when it saddled Syracuse with its first loss after 13 straight victories.
David Johnson scored 24 points and made four of Syracuse's eight 3-pointers.

Memphis State 89, No. 12 Missouri 78
Missouri's streak of 17 straight regular-season victories ended when Anfernee Hardaway scored 26 points.
Missouri (11-1) was within 69-66 with 7:50 left. But in the battle of teams named the Tigers, the hosts scored the next nine points to break it open.
Hardaway shot 8 of 15 from the field and was 9 of 11 from the foul line. Kelvin Allen added 14 points for Memphis State (7-3). Anthony Peeler scored 25 points for Missouri.

and led 42-28 at the break.
Tom Gugliotta scored 21 points for North Carolina State (6-5).
Virginia 58, No. 19 Wake Forest 53
Bryant Stith scored 24 points, including seven of Virginia's last nine.
Wake Forest (8-2, 1-1 ACC) trailed by 12 at halftime before rallying for a 45-43 lead with 10:32 left. But Virginia (6-5, 2-1) went ahead 49-47 and Stith made sure it stayed that way.
Rodney Rogers scored 20 points for the Demon Deacons.

76ers 114, Rockets 104
Jeff Ruland's return after a five-year retirement gave Philadelphia a lift at home against Houston.
After knee surgery last summer, he returned for the first time against the Rockets and scored nine points, playing short spurts in each quarter.
Hersey Hawkins scored 24 points for the 76ers.
Hakeem Olajuwon scored 28 points for the Rockets.

Spurs 103, Lakers 87
David Robinson had 22 points, 11 rebounds and seven blocked shots.
The Spurs used an 8-2 third-quarter run to turn a 63-55 lead into a 14-point advantage with 3:04 left in the period.
Sedale Threatt scored 17 points for Los Angeles.

Pistons 114, Kings 95
Orlando Woolridge scored 23 points on 9-for-11 shooting and Dennis Rodman had 23 rebounds.
Joe Dumars scored 22 points for Detroit.

No. 16 Alabama 65, No. 13 Arkansas 63
Latrell Sprewell made two key defensive plays in the last seven seconds and Alabama held on.
Alabama (13-1) led 64-63 when Todd Day, who led all scorers with 21 points, made a layup that apparently put Arkansas ahead with seven seconds left. But Day was called for charging into Sprewell and the basket was disallowed.
After Sprewell made one foul shot, he stole the ball from Lee Mayberry at midcourt in the closing moments.
James Robinson scored 20 points for the Crimson Tide. Arkansas (12-3) lost in its first SEC road game since joining the league this season.

No. 22 N. Carolina-Charlotte 62, Virginia Tech 53
Henry Williams scored 22 points and North Carolina-Charlotte rallied to win for the second time in three days.
Williams made two 3-pointers as the 49ers overcame a 45-44 deficit in the final nine minutes.
UNCC (10-1) beat North Carolina-Wilmington in overtime Monday night. The 49ers led 26-24 at halftime this time and again had trouble breaking away. John Rivers scored 13 points for visiting Virginia Tech (5-6).

West Virginia 76, No. 25 Mass 75
West Virginia held off a last-minute rally.
The Minutemen trailed 76-70 with 21 seconds left. Tony Barbee's 3-pointer with two seconds remaining left Massachusetts just short.
Pervires Greene scored 15 points for the Mountaineers (7-5, 1-1 Atlantic 10). Harper Williams had 23 points for Massachusetts (11-3, 0-2).

Bulls 108, Heat 106
Michael Jordan scored 40 points and escaped injury despite a frightening out-of-bounds tumble.
Chasing a loose ball with four minutes left, Jordan went flying over a row of cheerleaders seated under

Nets 103, Timberwolves 97
Drazen Petrovic and Sam Bowie scored 24 points each.
The Nets led 85-71 early in the fourth quarter before the Timberwolves used an 11-1 spurt to get within five with 6:41 remaining. But Minnesota didn't get closer than that until two free throws by Scott Brooks made it 101-97 with 5.9 seconds to play.
Tony Campbell scored 22 points for Minnesota.

Angels give Harvey big bucks

NEW YORK (AP) - For 25 months, Mark Davis held a baseball salary record, an eternity in these days of leapfrogging deals.
On Wednesday, he lost his spot as the highest-paid reliever in baseball when Bryan Harvey, a pitcher with just four years of major league experience, agreed to a $15.5 million, four-year contract with the California Angels.

Harvey, who led the American League last season with 46 saves, will average $3,875,000, tied for seventh among all pitchers and tied for 14th among all players. He easily topped Davis' average of $3.25 million in his $13 million, four-year contract with Kansas City.
Just last month, Chuck Finley and California agreed to an $18.5 million, four-year deal.

"They didn't have to do anything right now, but they thought enough of myself and Chuck Finley to sign us now," said Harvey, who made $1,115,000 last season. "I think it shows something on the California Angels' part."
Harvey, 28, gets a $1.5 million signing bonus, $2.75 million this season, $3.75 million in 1993, $3 million in 1994 and $4.5 million in 1995.

Cook-off deadline March 1

Changes in consumer lifestyles have generated changes in the 1992 Texas Beef Cook-Off-including more opportunities to win more prize money than ever before.

Entries are now being accepted up to March 1 for this annual event that will be held April 23-24 at the Ramada Inn in Wichita Falls. All persons entering the contest will also receive a coupon good for $3 off any beef purchase.

"The Texas Beef Cook-Off has traditionally sought out the best beef dish in Texas from amateur cooks," Leigh Kimbell, chairman of the 1992 Texas Beef Cook-Off, said. "Yet the daily lifestyle of consumers doesn't always allow them to prepare the best dish. They want good nutrition for their children, they want less calories, they want convenience, they want tasty dishes for parties, and they want to stretch their food dollars. The 1992 Texas Beef Cook-Off will reflect all these consumer needs."

This year, 15 contestants will compete for a total of $10,000 in prize money. First place overall will win $3,000, second place overall will win $2,000, and the winner of each of the five categories will win $1,000.

The five categories will be: Best Meals Kids Like; Best Under 300 Calories Per Serving of Beef Recipe; Most Convenient Beef Recipe; Beef Recipes for Entertaining; and Budget Beef Meals.

"One recipe can fit several categories," Kimbell said. "The more categories a recipe fits, the more opportunities a contestant has to win the overall prize."

Entries may include oven or range prepared recipes, microwave recipes and outdoor barbecue recipes in the five categories.

Only the highest ranking open or range prepared recipe will advance to the National Beef Cook-Off for a chance at the top prize of $15,000. However, all microwave and outdoor barbecue recipes will advance the national competition for a chance to win the Southwest Region. All recipes should include suggestions for a complete meal featuring the beef dish.

Anyone 18 years of age or older who resides in Texas and is not a food professional or a beef producer may enter the 1992 contest. Each contestant must have an original, innovative beef recipe.

The entries will be judged by a five-member panel of national food experts. Dishes are rated on taste, appeal, ease of preparation and appearance.

Contestant entries must be postmarked by March 1. For an entry form and information, contact the Texas Beef Cook-Off, 8310 Capital of Texas Hwy. N., Ste. 440, Austin, TX 78731-1081; (512) 345-3531.

The Texas Beef Cook-Off is sponsored by Texas Cattle Women in cooperation with the Texas Beef Industry Council.

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) - George McFarland can still call himself "Spanky" but does not hold the rights to the image of the chubby, beanie-clad smart aleck he played in the "Little Rascals" and "Our Gang" series, a judge ruled.

U.S. District Judge Clarkson Fisher tossed out McFarland's lawsuit against Joseph Miller, an Ocean Township, N.J., businessman whose tavern, Spanky McFarland's, was lined with "Little Rascals" photographs.

Fisher ruled Monday that the 64-year-old McFarland relinquished rights to the Spanky name and image in a contract his parents signed with Hal Roach Studios in 1936.

McFarland "retained merely the right to use the nickname 'Spanky,' not the right to license the name and image of 'Spanky' to others," Fisher wrote. "Hal Roach Studios Inc. retained those rights."

McFarland did not immediately return calls to his Fort Worth, Texas, home Wednesday.

Fisher's decision runs counter to that of a federal judge in Minnesota, who ruled that a bar using a Spanky logo had violated McFarland's right to publicity.

Other businesses, including the Justin Boot Co., pay McFarland for the right to use his name and childhood face.

Spanish-language books target Hispanic children

NEW YORK (AP) - A publisher wants Hispanic children to learn to read and has introduced a new line of Spanish-language books aimed at them.

Farrar, Straus & Giroux is bringing out Mirasol; Libros Juveniles. The publisher says at least 2 million children in the United States have limited proficiency in English; 73 percent of these children are Hispanic, according to U.S. Department of Education estimates.

The Spanish-language books will range from picture books to novels, the publisher says. The premier list features:

- "Irene, la valiente" ("Brave Irene") by William Steig, translated by Teresa Mlawer ($14.95);

- "Tontimundo y el barco volador" ("The Fool of the World and the Flying Ship"), written by Arthur Ransome, illustrated by Uri Shulevitz and translated by Maria Negroni ($15.95);

- "El Gato con Botas" ("Puss in Boots"), Charles Perrault's classic tale, illustrated by Fred Marcellino, translated from French by Aida Marcuse ($14.95);

- "Alfa y el bebe sucio" ("Alpha and the Dirty Baby") a new picture book by Brock Cole, translated by T. Gottlieb ($14.95);

- "Tuck para siempre" ("Tuck Everlasting") by Natalie Babbitt, a contemporary novel, translated by Narcis Fradera ($13.95).

Ninos is a new mail-order catalog that offers children's educational products for teaching the Spanish language and the Hispanic culture.

"My goal is to help parents celebrate the rich traditions of our Hispanic culture with their children and help educators find resources to enhance their multicultural and foreign language programs for children," says Teresa Iglesias-Solomon, founder and president of Ninos (which means "children" in Spanish).

The catalog includes listings for bilingual English-Spanish and Spanish-only books, read-along books with cassettes, videos, music cassettes, board games and toys. The products are designed for children from preschool to 12 years of age.

Among the books available: "The Little Prince" by Antoine de Saint Exupery (in Spanish), "The Cat in the Hat" by Dr. Seuss (in English and Spanish), "Cuentos picarescos para ninos de America Latina," ("Children's Picaresque Stories," in Spanish), "Arroz Con Leche" ("Popular Songs and Rhymes from Latin America," in Spanish and English) and "Tortillitas Para Mama" ("Precious Nursery Rhymes," in Spanish and English).

DEAR ANN LANDERS: As a mother of sons, I have always felt a need to discuss issues from a woman's viewpoint. I have tried to point out to my boys that men must speak up to change the abuse done to women.

Your recent column about date rape appeared during a time of heartbreak for our family. The young man who wrote to you said women should be careful about giving mixed signals, that heavy petting gives a guy the wrong idea and makes it difficult for him to know what the woman really wants. He is absolutely correct and I hope your readers will listen to him.

My son is a very sensitive, caring person. We were stunned when he was awakened by the police at 6:30 a.m., read his rights, put in a police car, taken to the station and questioned for four hours. He had been with a girl the night before but was not guilty of date rape. Although the police told him he would be informed within a week whether or not charges would be filed, our family was forced to live in agony for two and a half months. A lot of praying was the only thing that helped us face each day.

Because our son plays a college sport, he lived in fear of seeing his picture in the paper along with the accusation. Unfortunately, people in the public eye receive a disproportionate amount of press coverage even when there is no legal charge, merely an accusation. Once an accusation is made, people don't remember later on that the charges were dropped. In my son's case, the girl did not press charges, but I cannot describe the sleepless nights and the hell we went through until the matter was resolved.

Because so many men have been getting away with date rape, women's groups have correctly made this an important issue. Unfortunately, I feel it is going to produce a backlash against men. If my son could be unjustly accused it must be happening to many other men as well.

Women have a responsibility to communicate in clear and unmistakable language what they want and what they do NOT want. This is why dating couples need to watch alcohol consumption. Liquor breaks down resistance and can distort or block out memory. Too often, a inappropriately when she failed to communicate explicitly what behavior was appropriate and what was not.

The message must be clearly understood with no doubt about the intent. I am not talking about out-and-out date rape, which happens far too frequently. As mothers, we must accept the obligation to discuss this subject with our daughters and sons in order to prevent what happened in our family.

woman wakes up the next morning and blames the male for acting

I hope women's groups everywhere will include this subject in their programs to educate. Both sexes need to accept responsibility for their behavior and they must let one another know where they want the lines of intimacy drawn. Sign me--Any Family, Anywhere

DEAR ANYWHERE: Thanks for writing. I have heard from a great many mothers of daughters but very few mothers of sons have responded.

If a woman sends mixed messages, it is best that the man err on the side of caution. Unfortunately, too many women aren't sure themselves exactly how far they want to go and change their minds (from yes to no) too far down the road.

Gem of the Day (Credit Franklin Jones): A bargain is something you will never use purchased at a price you were unable to resist.

What You Can't See Can Hurt You. What WE Can See Could Save Your Life.

Breast Cancer often stays hidden for several years before it can be revealed through a conventional physical exam. A mammogram is the only way to discover breast cancer in its earliest stages. The test, conducted by a trained specialist, takes just a few minutes — a few minutes that could have life-saving results. One out of nine women will develop breast cancer. This year, 38,000 will die. Those who discover the disease early have a better chance of recovery. Call today: 364-2141, ext. 248.

Secretaries have more headaches than teachers or construction workers.
HAILEY, Idaho (AP) -- A conservation group accused Bruce Willis of stealing river water to fill ponds on his property. So the "Die Hard" actor obtained a permit that will allow him year-round access to water from the Big Wood River, said his lawyer, Ed Simon. Officials had shut down Willis' river water supply after protests from Friends of the Big Wood. "We're concerned about keeping water in the river for the fish," said group spokesman Nick Cox. But Simon said the water is being used to maintain existing ponds. "They were originally created by beaver dams," he said.
