Closing the gap

Waste Deposit Impact Committee Chairman Troy Don Moore explains that area residents need to close the gap between them that developed over the nuclear waste project in Deaf Smith County over the past several years. Moore said WDIC is working on a plan that should help Hereford's future, and needs a community-wide effort to carry out the plan.

Board okays shelter

By ANDREA LAMB Staff Writer

A board created to launch a Deaf Smith County juvenile emergency shelter learned Thursday night that the county had to pay $40 daily to rent a bed at a juvenile shelter in Lubbock even if the bed were vacant, and began plans to build a 12-bed shelter here.

"We ended up spending $14,000 last ear just to rent these beds at the Harmony Cottage (emergency shelter) in Lubbock," said Colleen Duffy, juvenile probation officer for Deaf Smith County. "My case load has doubled since I've been here three years, so we've got more kids and nowhere to put them except ship them to Amarillo or Lubbock.' Deaf Smith County and Buckner's Childrens Home plan to build a juvenile emergency shelter in the county, relieving the hassle and expense of shipping juveniles elsewhere.

Transition, development WDIC approves plan

By JOHN BROOKS Managing Editor

The Waste Deposit Impact Committee, still completely uncertain about its future, agreed Thursday night to pursue a $155,000 contract from the Department of Energy to fund a Community Economic Stablization, Transition and Development Plan for Hereford and Deaf Smith County.

Niedzielski-Eichner told the committee that he had received "no additional direction from the state" on when the state's contract with WDIC will be cancelled. That could come at any time, Eichner explained. When the ccancellation notice is given, it will have a 30-day notice.

At that same time, WDIC will give 30-day notice to its contractors.

"There is still ambiguity on how the department will close out the state's contract," Eichner said. "I fice use. still believe there is a chance for assistance."

Eichner, in a cover memorandum with the plan outline, said the budget for the Salt Repository Project Office in Hereford was $121 million in 1987, WDIC Executive Director Phillip and that 317 persons were working with the project here. Of those, 84 resided in Hereford, including 46 transfers and 38 persons who were already residing here.

DOE had made $6 million in procurements and, according to DOE figures, 55 percent of those purchases had been in Hereford. Eichner said 25 homes had been purchased and four new homes built by project personnel, and three large buildings had been renovated for of-

The letter requests the needed funds and time to implement the plan, and points out the funds would be expended from funds currently committed to the state.

In order to develop the plan and to carry out what it finds will require the healing of open splits in the community that have developed between those fighting the project, those who stood in middle ground, and those who welcomed it.

'We've been through something very few communities in the nation have been through," Eichner said. "This needs broad-based community support. We have to reconcile the differences."

"We desperately need to do this as a community effort," Moore said. 'We still have some very positive things that can come from this if we will allow it. We want some positive direction to come from the unwinding of this, and we need a full community effort."

Bruce Burnett, the regional development director of Buckner's in Amarillo, said the children's home would help the county raise the funds required to build such a facility, about $125,000.

In a previous meeting, Buckner's agreed to staff the facility and put up

Bruce wants to raise twice that much ($250,000) and put the other half in a trust fund that can be used for the upkeep of the shelter," said Simons. "Plus, surrounding counties have expressed interest in renting some of our beds when we get it built, and the Texas Youth Commission

Board member Glen Nelson expressed the possibility of renovating a building in Hereford, but Duffy stated that even though there are grant funds available for renovation the cost would skyrocket. He said Lubbock renovated a Bonanza Restaurant for such a facility for $400,000, compared to $125,000 needed to build from scratch.

At its next meeting in February, the board will elect officers and incorporate itself.

Iran-Contra pleas possible

WASHINGTON (AP) - The prosecutor investigating the Iran-Contra affair isn't ruling out plea bargains with central figures in the arms-for-hostages deals as his in-

It's not good to enter the new year with a frown, but news of the last week has brought some frowns to many folks in the business world.

Unemployment taxes are going up, and your record of employment for 20 years makes no difference. The government says the taxes must go up to give us the proper reserve funds.

FICA taxes are going up, from 7.15 to 7.51 percent. That not only hits the employee, the employer must match every cent.

Insurance is going up. Some health plans are slating a 24.8 percent rate increase Feb. 1. If you pay employee insurance, the businessman is going to get whacked from that side, too.

The sales tax is going up. Deaf Smith County now has the one-half percent optional sales tax. That hits the consumer and the businessman, whose record-keeping gets more complicated all the time.

Our newspring supplier, Champion Paper Co., had a 6.7 percent increase last September. The company's new year's greeting was an announcement that another 7.1 percent cost increase will be effective Feb. 1. That one really makes you frown when you buy a 23-ton load each month!

year-long probe would result in criminal charges, saying only, "Theexternal activities that you are familiar with would suggest a maturing investigation."

Criminal indictments are expected in the weeks ahead against targets of the investigation, including fired National Security Council aide Lt. Col. Oliver L. North and retired Navy Rear Adm. John M. Poindexter, who resigned as national security adviser in November 1986 after the diversion of Iran arms-sale profits to the Nicaraguan Contras was publicly disclosed.

Walsh wouldn't comment specifically on his policy about plea bargains.

But in a "more general discussion" of prosecutorial procedures he said "we tend to be flexible rather than rigid" about tactics for advancing the investigation.

"The objective of the investigation remains to get the full story and to get it fairly and thoroughly," the 75-year-old veteran lawyer and former federal judge said.

Traditionally, prosecutors use plea bargains with suspects to get information about other members of a criminal conspiracy.

Last spring, conservative fundraisers Carl R. "Spitz" Channell and Richard Miller pleaded guilty to charges they conspired to illegally use a tax-exempt foundation to raise money for the Contras.

Both men agreed to cooperate with Walsh's investigation and identified North as a co-conspirator.

"If you look at the history of other investigations, rarely do they make just one bite and that's it," Walsh said. "Usually it's a series of acts or reports or indictments. Sometimes the first one is the most important, sometimes it's preliminary."

The GOP presidential candidates gathered today for their first big debate of 1988, with George Bush's campaign lashing out at rival Bob Dole for "drooling at the opportunity" to bring up the Iran-Contra affair.

The Iran-Contra affair is causing Bush to come under fire from the Democratic camp as well. Gary Hart suggested the personal problems that forced him to spend seven months on the sidelines of the Democratic race were trifling compared with the errors of the vice president and the rest of the Reagan administration.

"I would love to run in a race against Vice President Bush on just that issue - whether my personal and human mistake is on the same scale as the mistakes of the last seven years that can saddle this country with debt and wrong-headed policies abroad for the next 10 or 15 years," Hart told students at Dartmouth College.

Hart in turn was attacked by Democratic rival Bruce Babbitt, who faulted him for "arrogance" in his attitude toward the other candidates. Hart said last month one of his reasons for rejoining the field was that his ideas were not being advanced by the other Democratic contenders. The former Colorado senator, who left the race over reports of his relationship with a Miami model, said Thursday, "I think it's time we as Americans kind of grow up, and instead of expecting our leaders to be perfect, we are going to have to expect them to be human."

A poll indicated Hart was running well ahead of the rest of the Democratic field in Iowa, a month before Democrats begin picking national convention delegates at the state's precinct caucuses. But 40 percent of the likely Democratic caucusgoers surveyed had an unfavorable opinion of him, according to the CBS-New York Times survey.

The same poll said Dole led Bush in Iowa by 12 percentage points, 41 percent to 29 percent, with the rest of the field running well behind them.

Kemp, however, warned Bush and Dole not to consider it a two-man race, telling reporters in Iowa City, "That's wishful thinking on their part."

Dole said of Bush: "I think it would be in his interest and in the interest of all Republicans to tell us precisely what he knows (about the Iran-Contra affair)...I think now is the time to lay it out."

The arms-for-hostages deal appeared to cast a lengthening shadow over Bush's campaign. He was peppered with questions abut it while campaigning in Iowa.

"If we erred, the president and I ... it was on the side of human life. It was over-concern about freeing Americans," Bush told reporters Thursday in Iowa.

A Bush spokesman, Peter Teeley, said Dole was "drooling at the opportunity" to bring up the issue at tonight's Republican debate in Des Moines, sponsored by the Des Moines Register.

Dole wasn't exactly wiping his chin, but he made it clear he was indeed eager to raise the topic. "I get a feeling it might even come up in a debate somewhere," the Senate minority leader said.

An effort to bring the Democratic field together for a debate in Birmingham, Ala., ended with only two of them sharing the stage. Four of the Democrats declined the invitation.

That left some Alabama Democrats miffed, and Sens. Paul Simon and Albert Gore politely agreeing that education should be a priority and that small towns and rural areas need federal assistance to develop economically.

Jesse Jackson had accepted an invitation, but was stranded by snow in Minneapolis, said campaign spokeswoman Pam Smith.

Foreign policy troubled

WASHINGTON (AP) - Tanned and relaxed after a year-end vacation, Secretary of State George Shultz looks like anything but a shaky lame duck as he outlines his scenario for 1988 on the foreign policy front.

There are enough trouble spots around to put circles under his eyes. But Shultz, an optimistic plugger who has held the job since July 1982, longer than anyone since Dean Rusk in the 1960s, does not seem fazed.

He told reporters at a State Department news conference Thursday that he was pleased with the political and economic situation in South Korea, calling it a "miracle," and that he was looking forward to early visits from the leaders of Japan, China and Egypt.

He said he was happy that Congress, in squeezing the foreign aid budget, had approved $550 million for African development. And Shultz called the INF treaty with the Soviets to ban intermediate-range nuclear missiles "a triumph" of the U.S. alliance with Western Europe. In an effort to make the next U.S.-Soviet summit a success, Shultz said he and Soviet Foreign Minister

Eduard A. Shevardnadze had agreed to have monthly meetings beginning in February to go over the issues. They will meet alternately in Moscow and in Washington until President Reagan goes to the Soviet capital, probably in June.

and a state of the second state of the second

Would the dispute over the U.S. Strategic Defense Initiative block a deal to sharply reduce long-range nuclear weapons?

Shultz recalled philosophically that "there seemed to be many irreconcilable differences as we went through the INF process, and gradually we managed to work them out."

Reagan was unable to persuade Mikhail Gorbachev at their meeting last month to give him a precise timetable for a withdrawal of the estimated 115,000 Soviet troops that have been stationed in the war-torn country for eight years.

But Shevardnadze on Wednesday said the Soviets hoped to remove the Red Army by the end of the year. More significant was his broad hint that the withdrawal would not depend on creation of a transitional government acceptable to Moscow.

In the Middle East, there is little sign of progress toward peace between Israel and its Arab neighbors. Shultz concentrated on cautioning Israel's enemies not to be lulled into thinking the U.S. vote against Jerusalem this week in the U.N. Security Council on planned Palestinian deportations meant a loosening of ties between the two countries.

"It's important for everyone to understand that the United States regards its friendship and the strength of its relationship with Israel as a key and unshakable relationship," Shultz said.

In a roundabout way, his declaration of support could help maintain the uneasy peace if it stops a potential aggressor. But a settlement is not in sight in 1988.

Court justice to be named

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements is about to name a new Texas Supreme Court justice, his press secretary says.

Clements spokesman Reggie Bashur said the governor wants his appointed replacement for Justice Robert M. Campbell to run for election to complete the term that expires in 1992. Campbell resigned Wednesday.

Bashur said Thursday night that Clements "definitely will make an appointment" in time for the new justice to file before this afternoon's deadline.

The filing deadline for that Supreme Court primary is 5 p.m. today, and Clements said Thursday that finding an appointee willing to run on such short notice was proving difficult.

"We have ample people who are qualified, believe me," the governor said. "It's willingness, on short notice, to turn all their plans around and head in a different direction. And that represents a problem.'

Democrat Jack Hightower, who had been seeking another court seat in this year's elections, switched races Thursday to seek the seat Campbell had held.

Clements said he can't use the list of candidates his staff had prepared for his earlier appointment of a new chief justice because "there's some people that are interested in chief justice that are not interested in only a justice. So I can't use that list

Stock market may see EQU

WASHINGTON (AP) - A presidential commission studying the October stock market plunge recommends creation of a new highlevel regulatory body to oversee the nation's financial markets, administration officials say.

The officials, who spoke Thursday on the condition of anonymity, said the panel headed by former Sen. Nicholas F. Brady, R-N.J., also would propose daily limits on stock price swings and tighter requirements for buying securities on credit.

The five-member commission, named by President Reagan in the aftermath of the Oct. 19 stock market collapse which saw a record 508-point drop in the Dow Jones industrial average, was to release its findings today at a White House news conference.

The commission calls for closer markets, claiming lack of unified Thursday, said the Brady commisoversight authority added to the confusion surrounding the chaos in financial markets on Oct. 19 and Oct. 20, the sources said.

It proposes leaving in place the present Securities and Exchange Commission, which regulates stock transactions, and the Commodity Futures Trading Commission, which oversees the sale of financial futures, the officials said.

The panel reportedly rejected proposals that the two regulatory bodies be merged, or that the SEC be given expanded authority over all markets.

Instead, the sources said the commission is proposing a new umbrella Wall Street representatives, to oversee the operation of all markets.

Fitzwater, while declining to reveal the contents of the Brady report, said the Reagan administration will move slowly on whatever recommendations are offered.

"We'll look at it ... study it in a detailed way ... but we will not be having any immediate response or any immediate course of action," he said.

SEC Chairman David S. Ruder, briefed Thursday morning on the contents of the report, declined to speak on the findings.

"We'll wait for our comments until the Brady commission report has actually been released," he said.

Brady could not be reached for comment. A secretary at his office at the Wall Street firm of Dillon, Read & Co., where he is chairman, referred reporters' calls to Fitzwater.

The SEC, the General Accounting Office and two congressionals panels

Presidential spokesman Marlin - the Senate Banking Committee and a House Energy and Commerce subcommitee on finance - are conducting separate investigations of the market collapse.

One major recommendation of the commission is reportedly a proposal to set higher and more uniform margin - or credit - requirements for the purchase of all securities.

Currently, buyers must put up at least half the value of a stock in cash. Howver, investors in the futures markets can control the equivalent of a block of stocks with a down payment far less than would be required to purchase the underlying securities.

The commission also is reportedly

Milton Fox ready to fight Bentsen

AUSTIN (AP) - U.S. Sen, Llovd Bentsen may be a political powerhouse, but Republican Milton Fox says he's planning to wage a vigorous campaign against the Democrat.

"We're going to do the strongest race that we're capable of doing with whatever resources we have available," said Fox, who is seeking the GOP Senate nomination.

In Bentsen's last campaign, in 1982, the senator and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby were widely credited with helping Democrats oust Republican Bill Clements from the governor's office.

"I don't think there's any question they turned out additional votes," Fox said Thursday. "That did work to the detriment of the whole Republican slate."

U.S. Rep. Beau Boulter of Amarillo, also seeking the GOP Senate nomination, this week criticized Fox for allegedly planning Fox disputed that, saying Boulter appears to be a "strident" candidate.

"I don't know where he got that," Fox said. "It's going to be vigorous. But those of you who've known me for a period of time know I'm a rather low-key person by nature. I don't go around personally insulting people; I don't use flamboyant language.

"Congressman Boulter has already said that I'm a token candidate ... He said that Gov. Clements was cowed by Sen. Bentsen's political power," Fox said. "That's strident. It's intemperate. It's unwise. I think he owes the governor an apology."

Boulter said he wasn't trying to characterize Fox or his campaign as low-key but "that is what he has said. I have not said anything about the governor ... And if the governor

Although Boulter said Monday he expects to receive the endorsement of U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm, Fox said he hopes GOP officeholders would remain neutral. He declined to portray the race as a battle between Gramm and Clements wings of the Republican Party.

'Nobody asked me to run. I took the initiative and inquired (about Clements' opinion)," Fox said. "The response from him was favorable. I am not claiming his endorsement. It would be fine with me if he and Sen. Gramm both say ... 'Let the voters

Also on the GOP Senate primary ballot are Ned Snead, a Georgetown industrialist and inventor, and Wes Gilbreath of Houston.

In other political developments: - Democratic Texas Supreme Court candidate Jack Hightower switched races Thursday, jumping into the primary for the unexpired term of Justice Robert M. Campbell, who resigned on Wednesday.

Hightower initially filed for the seat held by Justice Ted Z. Robertson, who is running for chief justice. That seat also is being sought by former state Sen. Lloyd Doggett of Austin, and Hightower said it "makes no sense for two experienced Democratic candidates to fight a potentially divisive battle" for one job.

- In Amarillo, two business and civic leaders, Jerry Hodge and Jim Simms, announced formation of a "Panhandle Republicans and Independents for Bentsen" committee. "Most of us have been Boulter supporters and would have been delighted to work for his re-election. However, most of us also have voted for Sen. Bentsen, and we think his continued service in the Senate is vital to Texas and the nation."

Texans continued to recover today in Austin from the worst of a winter storm that Law officers in the Panhandle and Big Country urged motorists to stay off the road, while public safety officials said the worst conditions were north and west of Abilene.

Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport, meanwhile, was still packed with stranded travelers today.

The storm's eastward movement Thursday compounded American's problem at DFW by dumping snow on the airline's hubs in Nashville, Tenn. and Raleigh-Durham, N.C. Both airports were closed at midday and the airline canceled almost 900 flights, spokesman Joe Selman said. He said 106 flights had been canceled because of weather today. And with the arctic blast, public health officials had a bit of advice. "Give yourself the luxury of taking care of yourself," said Lynne Sehulster, an epidemiologist with the Texas Health Department.

said roads could remain slick and Sehulster said the influenza season is in full swing in Texas and the frigid weather doesn't help matters.

The severe weather that might have been a holiday for some actually turned into hard work.

"I started to close this morning," said Bob Rotenberry, co-owner of the Pizza Getti restaurant in Dallas. "But it's been busy. More business than a normal day," he said as he prepared another batch of garlic bread.

Meanwhile, customers in the little restaurant entertained themselves by watching drivers try to negotiate the slanted parking lot.

Petitions loaded with questionable signatures qualifying Dole and Haig

DALLAS (AP) - Dozens of questionable signatures are on petitions from the Houston area used by Republican presidential candidates Robert Dole and Alexander Haig to qualify for the Texas primary ballot, Dallas newspapers reported today.

The signatures may endanger the place of Dole and Haig on the ballot. says state GOP chairman George Strake.

"If I were them, I'd be concerned about it. Not panicked, but concerned," Strake told the Dallas Times Herald.

Five others were killed in accidents Wednesday.

More than 50 people randomly selected from the petitions of Haig and Dole told the Dallas Morning News they not only didn't sign the petitions but also were Democrats and had no intention of voting in the Republican presidential primary.

Spokesmen for both Dole and Haig said they were unaware of any forgery by campaign workers who obtained signatures.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I sent for your new booklet, "sex and the teenager," and it really opened my eyes. I thought I knew all there was to know on the subject but I had a lot of things wrong and you straightened me out.

One of the things that hit me the hardest was "Teenage Lament" by Nancy Curtis. My sister could have been the girl in that poem. Will you please run it in your column? I think every teenager (boy as well as girl) ought to see it, Ann. Thanks a lot .-"Jill" in Anchorage, Alaska

DEAR JILL: Here it is. Thanks for asking. It's one of my all-time favorites.

The new morality - and freedom. From classes - what a drag! From homework -- senseless hours.

From disciplines - useless. From church - a bore.

Shannon Gerk feted by bridal shower

A bridal shower was held Sunday for Shannon Gerk, bride-elect of Kevin Charlton, at the E.B. Black House

Refreshments of specialty cookies, candies and finger sandwiches were served from an antique satin draped table decorated with hurricane lamps and red candles flanking a holiday poinsetta arrangement.

Shyla Gerk, sister of the brideelect, served guests coffee and punch, and Nancy Last presided at the registry table.

Serving as hostesses were Betty Martin, Elaine Clarke, Leona Miller, Romilda Friemel, Ann Combs, Judy Detten, Ida Schumacher, Tina Langehennig, Kee Ruland, Opal Walterscheid, Marilyn Kahlich, Roberta Last, Gayle Worthan, Beverly Ward, Merdith Wilcox and Judy Neumeyer.

A Jan. 9 wedding is planned by the couple.

One hour of love and pleasure. Free now to look at my cheerleader sweater hanging in the closet.

My books and baseball schedule resting on the shelf.

My material from a prom formal, never made, as it sits amid the remnants of the fabrics left over from my maternity tops.

I am so old. And I was never young.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: So many people repeat a phrase just as they thought they heard it, and that phrase is wrong. I am sick and tired of hearing people say, "Cut the mustard" when they mean "cut the muster". Will you please set them straight?

To "cut the muster" means to cut the assembly (troops for inspection, drill, and so on).

Have you ever heard anyone call a muster roll (list of persons on board a ship) a mustard roll? Well, then, shape up. - Frances P., Washington, D.C.

DEAR FRANCES: Thanks for teaching me (and millions of others) something today. I am among those who used to say "cut the mustard" but I'll never say it again.

Proper lenses care reduces problems

Recent stories in the news media about problems with contact lenses, especially extended-wear lenses, have caused some wearers to wonder about the safety of their lenses. The Texas Medical Association says caring for your lenses properly can reduce your chance of eye infections and extend the life of your lenses.

Here are some "do's and don'ts" that are true for all types of contact lenses:

-Heed warning signs. Eye problems can develop rapidly, so if you experience eye pain, excessive tearing, vision changes, or redness of the eye, immediately remove your lenses and contact your eye doctor right away.

-Don't wear your lenses longer than prescribed by your eye doctor. -Clean and disinfect your lenses each time they are removed. Dailywear lenses should be cleaned and disinfected not just once a day, but each time they are removed-for swimming or any other reason.

-+Rinse with sterile saline solution. Soft lenses must be rinsed with sterile saline solution, not water. Soft lenses should not be rinsed with homemade saline solution. Use only commercially available sterile saline solution to rinse lenses before

Apology falls on deaf ears in El Paso

Elliott, lead singer for the heavymetal band Def Leppard, says he still suffers "sleepless nights" because of his insult to El Paso residents five years ago, but his apologies have fallen on deaf ears.

Mayor Jonathan Rogers has urged a boycott of Def Leppard since 1983, when Elliott told a concert crowd in Tucson, Ariz., that the band had played the night before in El Paso, "that place with all the greasy Mexicans.

Elliott later broadcast an apology to El Paso residents and Def Leppard offered to donate $10,000 to needy children here.

50-43 over Lubbock Dunbar

Lady Whitefaces score district win

By GARY CHRISTENSEN Sports Editor

The winner of the fourth quarter was the winner of the varsity girls' basketball game Thursday night at the La Plata gym - Hereford, which outscored Lubbock Dunbar 18-6 in that final period in a 50-43 victory.

The win was Hereford's first in District 1-4A competition this season, after six straight defeats. Overall, the Lady Whiteface varsity is now 6-14.

The HHS junior varsity girls scored their third straight victory and fourth in their last six games, walloping Dunbar 67-22. Hereford has a 4-9 season record in junior varsity contests.

On Monday, Hereford hosts Lubbock Estacado in a varsity game at 6:30 p.m. at the La Plata gym and in a junior varsity game at 8 p.m. at the HHS gym.

The Lady Whiteface varsity trailed Dunbar 37-32 after three quarters of play. Hereford had a five-point lead twice in the first half, 13-8 and 17-12, before trailing by one point at halftime, 21-20. That 37-32 lead by Dunbar was its biggest of the game.

Hereford tied up the score at 39-39 with 5:17 left in the game when Tricia Kahlich scored a field goal and free throw. Dunbar quickly gained back the lead, 41-39, on a pair of free throws, but the Lady Panthers could score only two points in the last five minutes of the game.

In a minute and a half, Dunbar missed the first free throw in three one-and-ones until it hit a foul shot with 3:30 left. Only eight combined points were scored by the two teams the rest of the way, but there were opportunities for many more points than that Dunbar missed three more foul shots which were the first in one-andones, and made two of four other free throws. Hereford made five of nine free throws.

Robbins led Hereford with 15 points and 13 rebounds. Stacy White scored 10 points, and Kahlich scored nine points and five assists. Carmen

Brockman had eight rebounds, and and did what they needed to, to win," Hereford Coach Frank Belcher said. 'We played good defensively and we did what we had to do to stop them, to give us a chance. The kids have worked hard all year, and they deserved to win.'

Hereford's Chandra Brown nearly outscored the entire Lubbock Dunbar team in the junior varsity game. Brown totaled 19 points, and Libby Kosub added 14 points, to help lead Hereford over Dunbar 67-22.

Hereford built up a 38-12 halftime lead. Other HHS scorers included Brienna Townsend with eight points and Jessica Dearing with six points. Brown also led Hereford in rebounds with nine, and Dearing and Belinda Britten each grabbed five rebounds. Townsend and Nikki Self each had four assists.

"You've Invited" is the theme for our first evening Women's Meeting on Thursday, Jan. 28 at 7 p.m. at the Conkwright home - 1808 Plains. This will be an organizational meeting. Please bring the memory or actual special invitation you have been given and share it with the other women.

There will be no children's choirs until Wednesday, Jan. 27.

A video presentation, "He Leadeth Me'' will be shown at 138 Liveoak-5:30-7, Sr. Highs meet at the Conkwright's home for supper and "God's Game Plan"-6:30-8. Don't miss these special Sunday events!!

Mission Yearbook: Even as we live in a region where water is not as plentiful as we might like, we still take clean drinking water for granted, as we do having enough to eat and a way to cook it. Such is not the case in Central and Latin America. Today we are asked to pray for missionary volunteers Bob and Julie Dunsmore, who from a Costa Rican base, seek to bring the Gospel through bringing hope to people as they build clean water systems and teach efficient cooking in their ministry to the poor and these lands. Please pray for this outreach of God's love today.

Scripture for lunch bunch will not meet Wednesday.

film Doctor turns to

HURST, Texas (AP) - A cosmetic surgeon is marketing a system that allows doctors to videotape surgical procedures to help cut down on malpractice lawsuits.

Dr. Bart Mazeika, 37, says he hasn't been threatened with a lawsuit since he installed the system in his office 18 months ago.

Mazeika began using a camera after his sixth malpractice lawsuit. He found he couldn't defend himself in court because his written medical records were incomplete.

"With surgical procedures on camera, you can see exactly what the doctors were doing, you can hear exactly what was said in examinations, and it's all accurate," he said. "More and more doctors and hospitals that are paying exorbitant malpractice premiums will want something like this."

Malpractice suits have increased in recent years. In Texas, 1,669 malpractice suits were filed in 1985, compared with 640 seven years he said.

Mazeika said he receives permission from his patients before rolling the tape and that all of them have been enthusiastic.

'The pathway of ideal manhood is in Christ. That moral and supreme idealism was Christ's greatest contribution toward civilizing mankind. He showed us a God of forgiveness and love. He inspires with beauty and strengthens with hope. Life with its sickness, its bereavements and disillusionments would be unbearable without the poetic faith He has shed over the prose of our existence.

"Today we need a hope that is steadfast and sure. We need a power by which we may live and by which we may die. Christ is the guiding star of our hope. He is 'the way, the truth and the life." -----J.W. Boultinghouse, Hereford earlier. The average settlement in 1985 was $84,518.

But the videotaping idea has gained mixed reviews among some doctors and was blasted by a representative of a civil liberties group.

"I think it's reprehensible for doctors to go to that extent to protect themselves. A system like that assumes that a patient might be a problem," Joe Cook, president of the Dallas Civil Liberties Union, said Monday.

One Fort Worth doctor is using the system and said it has allowed him to devote more time to his patients.

"It lightens my load from writing and allows me to spend more time with my patients," said Dr. Bob Terrian, a family practitioner.

ut Al Karbach, an Arlington general practitioner, doesn't like the idea of keeping a video record.

"I wouldn't use such a system because I don't see the need for it if we're nice and informative and giving patients detailed information,"

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) - Singer Smokey Robinson says he might have joined other celebrities boycotting the state of Arizona because of Evan Mecham, but was heartened by the recall campaign against the embattled governor.

"Because this action has been taken and because I do love my fans there, then I want to see them and want them to see me," the singer said before a concert Thursday night in Phoenix.

Many big-name rock groups and singers have either boycotted Arizona or contributed to the recall movement against Mecham, who shortly after taking office last January rescinded the state holiday honoring slain civil rights leader Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

Mecham contended his predecessor had declared the holiday illegally.

Robinson's high-pitched, tremulous voice characterized such 1960s hits as "The Tracks of My Tears," "Shop Around," "Tears of a Clown" and "Ooh Baby, Baby."

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Entertainer Sammy Davis Jr. is resting comfortably after successful surgery to replace his left hip, his publicist said.

Davis, 62, was operated on Thursday, said the publicist, Arnold Lipsman. He injured his hip two years ago while filming a television version of "Alice in Wonderland," and had already undergone reconstructive surgery.

Davis said at a news conference earlier this month that he did not expect the operation and recovery to affect his planned North American tour with fellow show-business legends Dean Martin and Frank Sinatra.

The tour is scheduled to begin on March 13 in Oakland.

BOSTON (AP) - A smiling and apparently healthy Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill left a Boston hospital after successful surgeries for rectal cancer and an enlarged prostate.

The former House speaker was released Thursday, a day after celebrating his 75th birthday. Brigham & Women's Hospital spokeswoman Louise Homer said. O'Neill and his wife, Mildred, went to their home in Harwichport on Cape Cod, Ms. Homer said.

The former speaker was admitted

LONDON (AP) - Princess Anne plans to fly to Uganda, Mozambique and Somalia early next year to inspect health and development projects as president of the Save the Children Fund, an official said.

Nicholas Hinton, director-general of Save the Children, said the princess' tour will include programs run by the charity for the treatment of preventable conditions such as measles and diarrhea.

It will be the first visit to Uganda for Anne, the only daughter of Queen Elizabeth II.

MEXICO CITY (AP) - Mexicans have launched a tribute to the country's best-known living artist, Rufino Tamayo.

The centerpiece of the tribute was an exhibit called, "Tamayo 70" opening Wednesday at the Rufino Tamayo Museum of Contemporary International Art and the Museum of the Palace of Fine Arts.

The exhibit includes murals, paintings, drawings, graphics and sculpture by the artist, who was born in Mexico in 1899 and became famous in the United States and Europe before gaining much recognition at home.

ASK DR. LAMB

Diabetes

3Y LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB: I am 44 years old and have had juvenile diabetes since I was 20. For many years I denied my condition and did not take very good care of myself. Four years ago I suffered an acidosis attack that nearly killed me. Since then, I have taken very good care of myself and follow my doctor's instructions.

Despite my years of neglect, my overall health is not too bad, much to the surprise of my doctors. The worst complication is neuropathy in both legs and to a lesser degree in my arms. For a while after my brush with disaster I walked with a cane and had difficulty performing tasks requiring manual dexterity, such as buttoning my shirt. Now I can dress myself with no problems.

Is there any new treatment on the horizon that may reverse this condition? The neurologist just shakes his head. The neuropathy has curtailed my activities. I can no longer go hiking, play sports or do many things most people take for granted.

DEAR READER: I'm sorry you had to have this complication. It is more often in type I diabetes, also called juvenile diabetes or insulin dependent diabetes. Many individuals with this stamped, self-addressed envelope to THE HEALTH LETTER, Dept. 89, F. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

DEAR DR. LAMB: My husband and I never kissed our children on the lips, nor anyone else's children. Our daughter, who is expecting her first children - twins - has informed us that she will not follow that restriction. As far as she is concerned, anyone can kiss her children on the lips. What is your opinion on this?

DEAR READER: As affectionate as kissing is, it is not a sanitary practice. The Eskimos may have been wise to rub noses instead. Kissing is the main way of transmitting herpes simplex of the lips and that is why as many as 80 percent of the public has been infected with it.

Kissing also transmits the virus for infectious mononucleosis, called the kissing disease. Most people will get this virus disease sooner or later anyway. These diseases are usually milder in children than when they occur for the first time in adults.

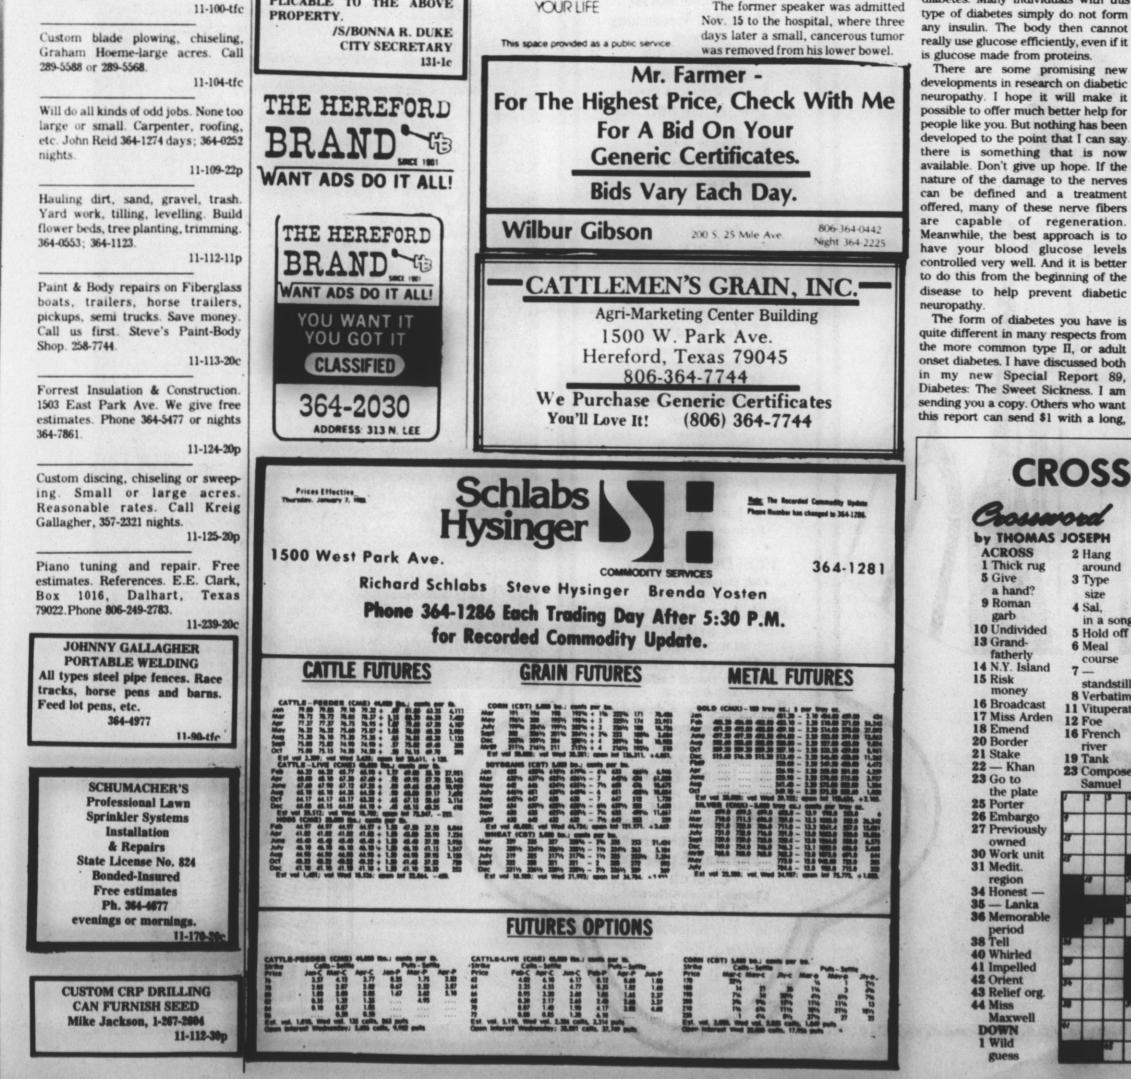

Kissing is an important way of expressing affection. And affection is important to the development of normal emotions and the ability to develop intimate relations with other people. However, lip kissing with just anybody, outside the family and close friends, seems like overdoing it.
