County changes chair rules

Deaf Smith County commissioners Monday tabled bids for two new patrol vehicles for the sheriff's office, and discussed real estate and the need for a county septic tank inspector.

The commissioners also revised county policy to not allow anyone to use tables and chairs from the Bull Barn. The county had received a request to use chairs and tables from the facility, and the old policy had been the commissioners could grant permission to use the tables and chairs.

"You open a Pandora's box when you open it up, but sometimes those things can be of use to other persons," said County Judge Tom Simons.

"When you start loaning them out you better have plenty of money to replace them because they'll get torn up," said Precinct 2 Commissioner Austin Rose.

The county had appointed a septic tank inspector, Jim McMorries, earlier this year, but McMorries cited a possible conflict of interest and resigned the post after a short time.

The inspector wouldn't inspect current tanks in the county, but would inspect new septic tanks installed outside the Hereford city limits.

However, the service is provided by the State Department of Health for $150 plus a $20 per trip charge, and the state has performed seven inspections this year in the county.

Commissioners debated the need for having an inspector in the county, and said that only three area counties (Dallam, Hockley and Hutchinson) employ a part-time inspector.

Commissioners opened just one bid, from Stevens Chevrolet-Oldsmobile of Hereford, for two 1991 patrol cars. The commissioners tabled action on the bids at the request of Sheriff Joe Brown, who requested time to check on the possibility of using shorter wheelbase vehicles. The 115-inch wheelbase requirement in the bids precluded any Chevrolet and Ford from bidding on the cars.

Commissioners met in executive session to discuss real estate, and recessed until Wednesday afternoon when they will again pick up the real estate discussion. Entities are permitted to meet in secret to discuss real estate purchases, but any final action must be taken in open court.

Bush hails US-Mexico ties

MONTERREY, Mexico (AP) - President Bush, buoyed by a cheering throng and a fireworks welcome, says Mexico and the United States are embarking on "an era more cooperative and more prosperous" than ever before.

"I've come to Mexico tonight with a message of respect, of admiration and hope for a brighter future shared by our two countries," Bush told tens of thousands packed into Heroes' Plaza outside the Governor's Palace Monday evening.

"Viva Mexico," Bush shouted before he and his wife viewed an elaborate fireworks demonstration from a glassed-in stage on the plaza.

Bush was in Mexico on a two-day trip focused primarily on the two countries' efforts to negotiate a free trade agreement.

Following his one-on-one talks Monday with President Carlos Salinas de Gortari, Bush today was addressing a group of business leaders and holding talks with Cabinet advisers on environmental, anti-drug and economic issues.

Bush heralded the goal of reaching a free trade agreement with Mexico even as Salinas sounded a cautionary note, citing Mexican worries about what they see as U.S. protectionist sentiments.

Both Salinas and Bush say they want the trade agreement to go forward. But Salinas complained in an El Norte newspaper interview published Monday that "American products can enter the Mexican market without restriction. But ours are detained at customs, and there are always many restrictions."

Mexican fruits and vegetables are periodically barred from the United States for not meeting quality standards.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the presidents Monday underscored their commitment to opening up the trading relationship.

They "are interested in pursuing the agreement as fast as possible and attach high priority to its successful conclusion," the spokesman said.

If Congress approves Bush's request to begin formal negotiations early next year, a free trade pact could be concluded some time in early 1992, administration officials have said.

Potential sticking points in negotiations might include Mexico's insistence that its oil industry be kept free of foreign investment.

Salinas wants the free trade pact to make it easier for his countrymen to enter and work in the United States. He contends they eventually will return to live in Mexico.

Bush and Salinas also talked about the war in El Salvador, where Marxist rebels have recently launched a series of attacks on government installations.

They agreed to press for a cease-fire and a negotiated settlement in the war that has raged for more than a decade, said Fitzwater.

In addition, the two leaders touched on their cooperative efforts against drug trafficking and "they emphasized a commitment to do everything possible to end border violence," said Fitzwater.

The Mexicans have voiced concern about violence and racial incidents against Mexican nationals at the border, particularly those crossing into the United States illegally.

Attorney General Dick Thornburgh said the United States plans to host Mexican police and prosecutors next month for joint training and consultations with their U.S. counterparts on the anti-drug front.

Bush began his visit to this industrial center by attending a small rodeo and dancing demonstration in Salinas' hometown of Aqualteguas. The presidents then flew by helicopter to nearby Monterrey.

Their motorcade was showered with a thick rain of confetti thrown from tall buildings. People mobbed Bush when he got out to briefly shake hands, as first lady Barbara Bush stayed in the car.

Bush told the crowd in the plaza that, "Our two peoples are on the eve of an era more cooperative and more prosperous than ever we have known before."

"This relationship is of vital importance to my country. We will never neglect it. We are neighbors and we are friends," Bush said.

Consolation

Hereford quarterback T.J. Head is consoled by Hereford cheerleader Teresa Baker after Hereford's 17-7 area playoff loss to Big Spring on Saturday at Jones Stadium in Lubbock. The loss ended the Herd's season at 5-5-2.

Kalka Jr. wins football contest

Melvin Kalka Jr. of Hereford missed just three games and won $25 in Hereford Bucks in last week's Hereford Brand Football Contest. Finishing second was Keith Kalka of Hereford, who missed four games and was closest to the total score on the Hereford-Big Spring tie-breaker game. Keith Kalka won $15 in Hereford Bucks.

Placing third was Ramon Murillo Jr. of Hereford, who also missed just four games. Murillo will win $10 in Hereford Bucks.

This week's contest is open to all eligible persons, but the contest will also serve as the "grand prize" game for persons who have finished first, second or third in the previous 12 weeks of the season. Entrants in the grand prize game will be eligible for prizes of $100 for first place, $35 for second and $15 for third place. The prize will be doubled if the winner is a Brand subscriber. The regular weekly prizes of $25, $15 and $10 will be offered for all other persons entering the contest. All prizes are paid in Hereford Bucks, which may be spent the same as cash at any Deaf Smith County business.

The contest games are included in today's edition of the Brand.

Perry pushes for processing

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Texas must get more competitive in the processing industry to regain its status as the leading agriculture state, Agriculture Commissioner-elect Rick Perry says.

Perry told the Texas Farm Bureau annual convention Monday he plans to work with Gov.-elect Ann Richards and other state leaders to make that happen.

"No longer can we ship our raw products out of state and receive that less-than-adequate reimbursement for those products," Perry said. "We need to be selling them for a premium price."

Products such as pork and mohair are produced in Texas, Perry said, but are shipped out of state for processing.

"Ann (Richards), very interestingly, was always talking about value-added processing in her bid for the governorship. So that door, and that concept, is already open," Perry said. "I think you'll see some of our first big projects working together with our new governor-elect."

He said if more Texas agricultural products were processed in the state, even citizens who aren't involved in the agriculture business would feel the benefits of more jobs and a better economy.

Perry, a Republican who narrowly defeated Democratic incumbent Jim Hightower, takes office in January. The Waco-based Texas Farm Bureau backed Perry in the Nov. 6 election.

Perry said among his goals as new agriculture commissioner are boosting agriculture to the top industry in the state and making Texas the No. 1 agriculture state, up from its No. 2 spot behind California.

While he said the transition from Hightower's administration to his was moving smoothly, Perry criticized Hightower's running of the office, saying some groups had a "lax working relationship" with the agency.

"It's going to be open to everyone," he said. "I have always believed whether you agree or disagree on the issues, you can always have a good working relationship."

He also said he plans to be present at the agency more so than his predecessor.

"The commissioner of agriculture is going to be at the department on a fairly regular basis - that's going to be a big change," Perry said in a news conference.

As for the environment, Perry said: "I want to be known as a very environmentally sensitive statewide commissioner. I don't think that's going to be a problem. What we've had is an agriculture commissioner who has used the environmental issue against agriculture."

Gray makes Keating charge

WASHINGTON (AP) - Former regulator Edwin Gray says financier Charles H. Keating Jr. waged a campaign to discredit him after he moved to curb risky financial practices at Lincoln Savings and Loan Association.

The former Federal Home Loan Bank Board chief told the Senate Ethics Committee Monday that Keating's campaign followed "years of private threats and public vilification" aimed at easing federal thrift regulation.

Gray was resuming testimony today before the committee, which is investigating charges that five senators improperly pressured regulators to ease scrutiny of Lincoln Savings.

The Irvine, Calif., institution's $2 billion collapse has been the most spectacular in the thrift industry.

Gray read a 13-page opening statement Monday that recalled how the easing of federal controls in the 1980s fueled the savings and loan crisis.

Gray has previously accused Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., of offering him a "quid pro quo" deal on behalf of Keating when senators met with him to discuss Lincoln on April 2, 1987 - a charge DeConcini denies.

Also under investigation are Sen. John McCain of Arizona, the only Republican, and Democrats John Glenn of Ohio, Alan Cranston of California and Donald Riegle of Michigan.

Riegle, chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, did not attend the meeting with Gray. But Gray referred the lawmakers to San Francisco-based regulators investigating Lincoln, and Riegle was on hand for that meeting a week later.

Santa letters accepted

It's time for kids to sharpen those pencils, crayons and whatever else they use to write letters to Santa.

The Brand is again serving as the collection point for Santa letters this year, and the letters will be printed in the Brand just before Christmas in our Christmas Greeting edition. All letters should be brought to the Brand office at 313 N. Lee or mailed to Box 673 in Hereford. Many school children will also be writing letters as part of their school work, and those letters may also be brought to the Brand.

The deadline for letters to be delivered to the Brand is Dec. 12, so we'll have plenty of time to send the letters on to the North Pole for Santa to read.

Nation's largest Baptist church changes guard, keeps message

DALLAS (AP) - There will be a different pastor preaching at the nation's largest Baptist church, but the fundamentalist message will be the same.

The Rev. Joel Gregory, 42, was selected Sunday night to succeed the Rev. W.A. Criswell, the longtime pastor of the First Baptist Church of Dallas and a key architect of the fundamentalist control of the nation's largest Protestant denomination.

The new pastor promised Monday to continue preaching a mistake-free Bible, a concept that has split the Southern Baptist Convention, when he takes over the pulpit of the 27,000-member church.

"I feel that if there is any anomaly in Southern Baptist life, it is any marginal group that do not reflect the conservative theology and the innovative evangelism of this great congregation," Gregory told reporters Monday. "I consider this to be a great conservative Baptist congregation."

"It is nothing new for me to be a defender of the inerrancy of the word of God," he said. "In that regard, I was country before country was cool."

Criswell, 81, has served the downtown church for the past 46 years. He will become senior pastor, a largely honorary position, on Jan. 6.

Prior to his endorsement of the fundamentalist presidential candidate this year, Gregory had avoided taking sides in the battle between fundamentalists, who demand adherence to biblical inerrancy, and moderates, who allow room for individual interpretation.

But on Monday he said friends and colleagues have never doubted where his "quiet sympathy lies." The head of the 19-member search committee cited Gregory's fundamentalism as one reason for his selection.

Although some moderates have begun steps that could lead to a schism within the denomination, Gregory said he doubted there will be a split.

"There's no reason ... that the whole lot of us, except for a few on

Poland's government falls

WARSAW, Poland (AP) - Knocked out of the presidential race by a political upstart, a shocked Prime Minister Tadeusz Mazowiecki has resigned along with the rest of Eastern Europe's first non-communist government.

Solidarity leader Lech Walesa took two-fifths of the vote in Sunday's presidential election and will face a man unknown to the electorate until last month, emigre businessman Stanislaw Tyminski, in a Dec. 9 runoff.

The crushing defeat of Mazowiecki - hailed as a hero when he took office in August 1989, capping Solidarity's 9-year campaign to dump the Communists - showed how deeply many Poles have been hurt by a crash economic reform program.

"Poland's painful but necessary program of getting out of economic catastrophe can only be realized with the understanding of the majority of the nation," Mazowiecki said in announcing his resignation.

Mazowiecki said his government will continue in a caretaker role until a new one is formed by the president elected in the runoff.

Commentators said they had underestimated the depth of public unhappiness with Western-prescribed reforms begun under Mazowiecki. They said they also misread the credulity of the public, which was voting in Poland's first democratic election for president.

A radical economic restructuring plan, backed by both Walesa and Mazowiecki, has caused real wages to plummet 35 percent. Unemployment climbed from almost zero at the start of 1990 to more than 1 million today.

In order to become the First Man, one must master both the political and military arenas which could be difficult and dangerous.

The Witching Hour by Anne Rice begins on the veranda of a great New Orleans house, now faded, where a mute, fragile woman sets rocking...and the witching hour begins. Rowan Mayfair, a beautiful, brilliant practitioner of neurosurgery, is aware of her special powers but unaware that she comes from an ancient line of witches.

Rowan finds the drowned body of a man off the coast of California and brings him to life. Michael Curry, after his brief of death has acquired a sensory power that mystifies and frightens him. As these two are drawn to each other they set out to solve the mystery of her past and his unwelcome gift.

Their tale moves backward and forward in time. With a dreamlike power, the novel draws us through circuitous, twilight paths, to the present and to Rowan's increasingly inspired and risky moves in the mercilese game that binds her to her heritage.

An American Life by Ronald Reagan is a "work of major historical importance". This is the story of his life, both public and private, told in a frank and compellingly readable manner. No president in this century has accomplished more or been so effective in changing the direction of government in both fundamental and lasting ways.

Trump: Surviving at the Top by Donald Trump is an astonishingly candid and intimate account of Trump's triumphs and troubles of realizing dreams and overcoming difficulties. "What separates the winners from the losers is how you react to each new twist of fate," Trump writes. "You have to be confident as you face the world each day, but you can't be too cocky. Anyone who thinks he's going to win them all is going to wind up a big loser."

LONDON (AP)—Salman Rushdie emerged from seclusion briefly to tape a TV interview in which he said he would like to go to a beach, lower the heat against him and try to reason with Moslems about threats on his life.

The author has been in hiding since February 1989, when the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini ordered Moslems to kill him for allegedly blaspheming Islam in his book "The Satanic Verses."

Rushdie went to the BBC studios in West London for an interview on an arts program broadcast Monday night. Why Rushdie went to the studio instead of being interviewed at a "safe house" was not disclosed.

"I want to slowly begin to pinch back bits of my life and to continue to work as hard as I can to bring the temperature down," he said.

"That involves talking to Moslem leaders to try and find a common ground, and it seems to me there is a lot of common ground but the point is to make it more solid."

Asked what he would like to be doing in a few months, Rushdie said, "I would like to spend it on a beach, but I can't see it happening. I am not looking too far ahead."

Big Spring ends Herd's season again

Now this is what I wancha to do

Hereford Whiteface defensive line coach Bill Bridge gives Herd defensive end Mike Daniel (57) instructions on the sideline during Saturday's 17-7 loss to Big Spring in a Class 4A Area playoff at Jones Stadium in Lubbock. Daniel had little time to make use of the advice as he went down with a knee injury late in the second quarter.

By SAM WALLER
Sports Editor

LUBBOCK--The Hereford Whitefaces has their season ended for the second year in a row by the Big Spring, dropping a 17-7 decision to the Steers Saturday in a Class 4A Area playoff before 7,000 fans at Jones Stadium.

Herd coach Don Cumpton said the season had to be considered a success as the team claimed the District 1-4A co-championship and reached the second round of the playoffs despite a break-even record of 5-5-2.

Big Spring (9-1-1) advances to a Regional playoff at 8 p.m. Friday at Shotwell Stadium in Abilene against Burk Burnett.

"The last half of the season we played really well," Cumpton said. "It's just hard to end it like this. Two years in a row we've come out here and we feel like we're as good as the other team. They made the plays and we didn't is basically what it came down to."

"I'm proud of our team. They played their hearts out. Like I said, we had some chances, we just didn't get it done. That's the name of the game."

The Steers almost completely shut down the Herd's ground game, allowing only 88 rushing yards and holding tailback Matt Bromlow to a career-low 47 yards on 20 carries.

Cumpton said despite that, the Herd did have success moving the ball with 147 yards passing as quarterback T.J. Head (11 of 24 with an interception) had his best passing night ever.

"We moved the ball pretty good," he said. "I wasn't unhappy at all. They're a great defensive team. I was real happy with the way we moved the ball. I thought we threw the ball pretty good most of the night and caught it good."

Hereford started out looking like it would put the game away decisively after holding the Steers to one first down after the opening kickoff.

Hereford took over at its own 23 following the punt and marched 77 yards in 14 plays to take the lead on a 1-yard plunge by Matt Bromlow. Quarterback T.J. Head completed a pair of 14-yard passes to Derek Mason and Leo Brown while Bromlow gained 25 yards on the drive.

Big Spring wasted no time in answering the Herd's opening shot as quarterback Gerald Cobos hooked up with Neal Mayfield for a 49-yard gain to the Herd 15 on the first play after the kickoff. Tailback Jermaine Miller did the rest with 13 yards on four carries, including the tying score on a 1-yard run.

Big Spring coach David Thompson said the Herd's quick strike apparently woke his team up.

"It was certainly a slap in the face to me," Thompson said. "I don't know about those kids, but they responded well and that's a sign of

Oilers top Bills to cap wild NFL week

HOUSTON (AP)--Nobody's safe. Houston's 27-24 victory over the Buffalo Bills on Monday night completed a Thanksgiving upset weekend of all six NFL division leaders.

The Oilers victory threw the AFC Central into a three-way tie with Pittsburgh and Cincinnati at 6-5 and plunged the Bills into a 9-2 deadlock with Miami atop the AFC East.

It took a career night rushing and receiving from Lorenzo White to snap Buffalo's eight-game victory streak.

White showed why "run" is listed first in Houston's Run-and-Shoot offense.

He rushed 18 times for 125 yards and caught 5 passes for 89 yards. His previous highs had been 113 and 82, respectively.

"This offense is twice as hard to stop when we run well," White said. "Coach (Jack) Pardee told me I was going to be in the game a lot."

Buffalo played the pass and Houston took advantage.

"White was wired tight tonight," Pardee said. "They (the Bills) were in pass defense most of the night. They had six guys back and five up front. You have to be able to count. We got White going."

Moon, who had his fourth consecutive 300-yard passing game just one short of Joe Montana's NFL record, put Buffalo away with a 3-yard scoring pass to Leonard Harris with 7:21 to go for a 27-17 lead.

A 28-yard pass to White setup the game winner.

"I was able to get into the flow of the offense and catching the ball was just as important for me to establish that flow," White said. "It also felt good to be able to carry the ball like I did in my days at Michigan State."

White had been a flop this year and Allen Pinkett had been edging closer to a starting job.

"White was fantastic," Moon said. "He knew he was going to be called upon the way they were dropping people back."

Buffalo's Thurman Thomas scored on a 2-yard run with 3:29 to trim Houston's margin to a field goal. But Buffalo never got the ball back.

"We knew it would be a matter of who had the ball last because Warren is a great quarterback and has a lot of weapons around him," Kelly said. "It's hard to lose the game but if we play the same way we played in the next five or six games not too many teams will beat us. Actually, this was a step forward."

White took note that he had outrushed Thurman Thomas in his own hometown (Willowridge High School). Thomas, the second leading rusher in the NFL, had 54 yards on 15 carries.

"This is Thomas' town but it's my stadium," White said.

Buffalo cornerback Nate Odoms was critical of the Bills defense. "When we're split out like we were a baby could run through the holes," he said.

Buffalo coach Marv Levy admitted the Bills were caught off guard.

"The running game hurt us," Levy said. "You have to stop the passing game first and the running game second."

Moon and Kelly each threw two touchdown passes. Moon had 300 yards passing on 16 of 22 attempts while Kelly was 23 of 34 for 224 yards.

"Just another old fashioned shootout in the 'Dome,'" said Kelly who had five touchdown passes in a 47-41 overtime victory in the AstroDome last year.

It was Moon's eighth 300 yard passing game this year.

But the run damaged Buffalo more than the pass.

"It was a good time to debut our running game," said Houston center Jay Pennison. "We figured we'd quiet our critics and strut our stuff on national TV at the same time."

Offensive lineman Mike Munchak said he was proud to block for White. "Lorenzo made quick, accurate decisions," Munchak said. "He was making great reads. He's a great back and makes the most of a slight block."

And the Oilers made the most of a wild, wild weekend in the NFL.

"I'm just glad we were able to knock one of those division leaders off," Pardee said.

HERD

character of your football team. There are times when you're going to have to overcome adversity."

Big Spring gained an edge in field position over the next two series as the Herd was forced to punt twice from inside its own 15-yard line.

After a 27-yard kick was downed at the Herd 32, the Steers moved in for what proved to be the winning score.

Hereford appeared to have the Steers stopped after three plays, but on fourth-and-9 from the 31, Cobos connected with Joe Jaure for 25 yards. Miller once again finished the job, gaining five yards on the next two plays to set up another 1-yard score.

Hereford moved to the Big Spring 22 in seven plays following the kickoff, but the drive stalled when Bromlow was thrown for a yard loss and Head misfired on two passes. Jesus Gonzales came on for a 40-yard field goal attempt but missed badly to the left.

Big Spring looked to put the game away following the miss as the Steers marched to the Herd 9-yard line in the final minute of the half. Hereford's defense came up with the play to keep the game close when Cobos was knocked loose from the ball and Stephen Banner came up with the recovery at the Herd 18.

Hereford carried that spark into the third quarter, taking over at its own 40 after a punt and moving to the Big Spring 15 in three plays as Art Allemand hauled in two passes for 44 yards. Head and Bromlow ran the ball to the 6 on the next two plays, but Bromlow was stripped of the ball at the 5 as he appeared headed for the endzone. Pat Chavarria recovered for the Steers to end the threat and Hereford never got close again.

Cumpton said the play was probably the turning point of the game.

"We're fixin' to go on in and tie the game and have all the momentum in the third quarter," he said. "When we turned the ball over right there I thought it really set us back."

But, Cumpton added, that's how things go sometimes.

"It was just one of those things," he said. "He (Bromlow) is a great kid and a great player. I wouldn't trade him for anybody. It was just unfortunate that it happened."

Hereford forced another Big Spring punt on the next series and reached the 38-yard line, but Head was off-line with a fourth-down pass to turn the ball over.

The Steers added some insurance with a 12-play drive that drained more than six minutes off the clock to start the fourth quarter. Big Spring reached the Herd 13 to take a 4-2 edge in penetrations on the drive before Mayfield capped it with a 30-yard field goal.

Coming through

Hereford Whiteface tailback Matt Bromlow (39) leaps through the line during Saturday's 17-7 loss to Big Spring in an Area playoff game as Herd offensive linemen Mark Daniel (50), Andrew Tijerina (63) and Ben Weatherly (71) provide blocking. The Steers limited the Herd's all-time leading rusher to a career-low 47 yards on 20 carries.

Handling cats can pose risks during pregnancy

At all times, it is important to avoid potential sources of infection, but during pregnancy, women need to take special care to avoid contact with disease-causing organisms because these organisms can be passed from the mother to the developing fetus and cause harm.

One infection that can be very serious to an unborn baby but causes only cold-like symptoms or no apparent symptoms in most people is toxoplasmosis. The toxoplasmosis organism is carried by cats and can be passed in their feces. The organism also may be present in raw and undercooked meats.

Exposure to the toxoplasmosis organism prior to pregnancy usually causes no problems for an unborn baby since the woman's body has produced antibodies to fight the infection and protect the fetus. But when a woman contracts the infection during pregnancy, the fetus is exposed to the disease-causing organism before the mother's body can produce protective antibodies. The unborn baby's own immune system is not yet well enough developed to fight the infection on its own.

When an unborn baby becomes infected with toxoplasmosis, it is at risk for birth defects, blindness and prematurity.

To reduce the risk of getting toxoplasmosis if you are pregnant, avoid handling cats and wear gloves when changing the litter box and when gardening. Cats can pick up the toxoplasmosis organism from mice and other rodents, so it is wise to keep the cat indoors. You should also be sure to cook meats, well, and carefully clean utensils and counter tops that you have used in meat preparation.

If you do come in contact with cat feces or if your cat scratches you while you are pregnant, be sure to tell your doctor. He or she will probably want to do special test to determine if you have acquired the infection and if you have passed it to your unborn baby. If you have become infected, your doctor may prescribe certain drugs to help inhibit the growth of the infection and limit birth defects. Unfortunately, drugs cannot completely eliminate the risk of birth defects.

Your chances of developing toxoplasmosis during pregnancy are slim. But to help protect yourself and your unborn baby against any possible risks, ask someone else to change the litter and be especially careful in handling and preparing meats.

Award recipient

Nita Lea was recently honored by National Camp Fire for her 30 years of service to the Camp Fire organization. This honor was bestowed to her at the national convention held this month in Oklahoma City, Okla. She has been the executive director for the Hereford Camp Fire Council for 27 years and prior to this she served as a volunteer executive secretary for three years. She has also served as a Camp Fire volunteer leader.

LONDON (AP) - Mick Jagger and model Jerry Hall got serious about their 12-year romance and married in Bali.

The couple tied the knot Wednesday in an Indonesian ceremony after vacationing in the Far East, Lori Somes, a spokeswoman for the Rolling Stones' lead singer, said Monday. The couple's children, ages 6 and 5, attended.

Jagger, 47, was divorced from first wife, Bianca Jagger, in 1979. This marriage is a first for Miss Hall, 34. As long ago as 1983, Jagger announced they would be tying the knot "any day now."

Hall was reported to have said that in the years they put off marriage, she and Jagger had watched friends marry and divorce.

"We say, 'OK, even though we didn't get married, we've lasted longer than most,'" she said.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last week an old flame called and asked if he could take me out to dinner for my birthday. He said, "Maybe we can rekindle the fire." I like him a lot a few years ago and said, "I'd love to give it a try."

He made dinner reservations at a nice place that also had dancing. When we got there, he ordered expensive wine and proceeded to drink the entire bottle himself.

After several hours of dull conversation, the check arrived. He looked at it and said, "Holy Moses, it's $97.25 without the tip! Do you have your share?" I replied, "You're joking, right?" He said, "No, I'm not joking. I had no idea this place was so expensive." I said, "Look, you made the reservation. I don't know anything about this place."

Thank the good Lord I had enough money on me to pay the bill. When he saw that I was upset, he said, "I'm really sorry about this. Why don't we go to your place and kiss and make up and maybe something magical will happen." Can you believe the nerve of that jerk? First he stiffed me for half the dinner check and then tries to get me into the sack.

Tell your readers that once an old flame has gone out to leave it alone. I didn't have sense enough to do this and I got badly burned. -- Patricia in Utah

DEAR PATRICIA: Sorry about your miserable experience, but "rekindling" has worked will for some couples. Any of you readers want to tell us about it?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 30 years old. The man I have been seeing for four years is in his 40s. After a long friendship, we fell in love.

I had the shock of my life a few weeks ago when I discovered that I was pregnant. "Larry" and I know each other extremely well, care deeply for one another and are educated professionals. We feel that we have a great deal to offer a child and decided to get married immediately.

We are very comfortable with this decision. The only problem now is the talkers. You would not believe the number of people who, in this day and age, still whisper that we "had to get married." They treat us as if we were two teen-agers gone astray.

Why don't they realize that this is the '90s? No one "has to" get married. Alternatives such as abortion do exist, and many women are choosing to raise children alone.

Since science has not yet discovered a foolproof method of birth control, you can bet that many couples are quietly eliminating unplanned pregnancies and they will continue to do so no matter what obstacles are put in the way. Pregnant couples who decide to marry deserve respect and moral support. It is not easy to face busybodies who are counting the months behind your back.

How about a word of praise for those who opted to take the high road? -- Holding My Head Up in Ohio

DEAR HEAD UP: I cannot imagine a decision that is more personal or less the business of onlookers. Why is it so important to you to have their approval?

Entirely too much energy is wasted worrying about what other people think. If we knew how little they cared, we'd be a lot less concerned.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I injured my back about a year ago. Since then I have hesitated to do aerobics. My abdomen is quite flabby. Is there any exercise I can do to strengthen my stomach muscles and not hurt my back again? I'm 57.

DEAR READER: Of course. Most of the exercises people do to flatten their abdomens are also the ones that are good for your back. Why? Because strong abdominal muscles help support your trunk and eliminate some of the pull and strain that would otherwise occur against the spine. The best exercise to flatten your abdomen without straining a bad back is to use a form of isometric exercise. You don't have to move your spine at all. To start with, sit properly in a chair and simply pull your abdominal muscles in as far as you can — sucking it in. Hold your abdominal muscles in, contracted as much as you can, for a few seconds. Relax them and do it again. As you get the feel for this you can learn to relax and tighten your muscles at will.

The muscles you use to pull in your abdomen are the lateral muscles — at the sides of the front of your abdomen. They work like the strings on a corset. You can do this same exercise while lying down, while standing up or while sitting. Sit-ups are of some value, but they work on the long muscles that curl your spine, just as you are curled in the sit-up position. They have NO beltlike action as do the laterals. You may be able to exercise your back muscles, but you need to ask your doctor about this. Overexercising your back muscles could be a problem.

Do avoid leg lifts of any type. Leg lifts DO NOT use the abdominal muscles at all. They pull on muscles attached to the front of your spine. Their purpose is to bend the hips, not to flatten the abdomen. I'm sending you a free copy of my new Special Report, How to Battle the Bulge, which will show you how the muscles work and what exercises are useful to flatten your abdomen. Others who want this report can send $2 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/104, P.O. Box 787, Gibbstown, NJ 08027-9908.

Walking, running and dancing that does not involve twisting and stretching the trunk, are all useful in helping to lose calories of fat. That is essential in keeping a trim waistline.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I walk about a mile a day in spurts. My hips hurt so bad I have to stop and stand awhile before continuing. Will this do me any good? I will be 75 next month, and I am very overweight. I am 4 feet 11 inches and weigh 165 pounds.

DEAR READER: Yes, it helps a little. At your weight you are only using around 70 calories for that mile more than you would have used sitting still. At that rate it is going to take a long time to get rid of all the extra body fat you would like to lose. There are 3,500 calories in a pound of body fat.

You do not need to walk a long distance at one time. The total distance each day is what counts. A person weighing 150 pounds uses about 60 extra calories a mile. A total of two miles a day, even in 10 short walks uses the calories in 12.5 pounds of body fat in a year's time. Through the years, that can make a great deal of difference in a person's body fat.

Why do you have so much pain in your hips? If you have enough arthritis to seriously limit your activity, you may want to consult an orthopedic surgeon about the question of hip joint replacement — which may or may not be indicated in your case.

Astros on sale for big price

HOUSTON (AP) - The president of the group that owns the Houston Astros says the team may be sold to outside investors if no local groups come forward.

"If there are not local buyers and you want to sell the team, there's no magic answer - we'll look elsewhere," said Robert Harter, president of the Houston Sports Association. "I don't run out of fingers counting the number of individuals who can afford to buy the team."

HSA owner John McMullen announced Monday he would consider selling the team. He said he hoped to find local buyers.

Harter said McMullen's age was the reason the team is on the market. "John is getting up in years and I know his feeling is you've got to step back and smell what roses you've earned in life," Harter said.

McMullen said in a prepared statement Monday, "Having been so completely involved over 12 years with HSA and the Astros, the time has come for me to devote more of my time and energies to my family and my many other interests."

"The first and prime objective is to get local interest," said Harter. "There's no particular timetable to get that done."

McMullen bought the HSA in 1979 for about $13 million, but Harter said today's selling price would be "considerably more than" $95 million - the current price tag for a major league expansion team.

HSA also holds the lease on the Astrodome and two other buildings in the same complex, the Astrodome and Astroarena. It also owns properties in Florida and various cable television interests.

Speculation that McMullen has been planning to sell has been circulating for more than a year. McMullen, a shipbuilder with offices in New York and Washington, D.C., controls more than 80 percent of the sports association.

McMullen said he has notified the baseball commissioner's office of HSA's intent to sell the Astros. Major League Baseball must approve any change in ownership.

HSA has been pursuing state licenses to operate thoroughbred and greyhound racing tracks in the Houston area, and the association has said it would sell the team rather than give up a potential racing license.

But Harter said Monday the team wasn't up for sale because of racing interests.

"The team is not being sold because of pari-mutuel interests," Harter said. "It does solve the problem of baseball cross-ownership. But that wasn't the reason particularly."

The Astros won division titles in 1980 and 1986, but have not won a National League pennant.

McMullen drew heat from fans and minority owners after the Astros won the 1980 division championship and he fired club president and general manager Tal Smith, who was awarded National League Executive of the Year for rebuilding the ball club.

McMullen won an ensuing ownership battle, and the structure was changed from a limited partnership to a closely held corporation.

He came under fire again when he refused to match higher offers for Nolan Ryan, who signed as a free agent with the Texas Rangers.

Don't tell Steve Farr and Ken Dayley that the economy is hurting.

Farr, 33, and Dayley, 31, two pitchers who've never been confused with Cy Young, signed similar three-year, $6.3 million contracts on Monday with the New York Yankees and Toronto Blue Jays, respectively.

Farr, who was the Kansas City Royals' 1990 Pitcher of the Year over high-visibility names like Bret Saberhagen, Mark Gubicza and Mark Davis, gives the Yankees some insurance against the possible loss of bullpen ace Dave Righetti, who is seeking a hefty raise and a five-year contract.

Farr was 13-7 last season with a 1.98 ERA. He pitched 51 games in relief and made six starts and opponents batted only .220 against him. Farr, who made $775,000 in 1990, will get a $1.2 million signing bonus, $2 million next season, $2 million in 1992 and $1.1 million in 1993.

Dayley's Toronto deal includes salaries of $1.5 million, $1.65 million and $1.8 million, a $750,000 signing bonus and a $250,000 relocation fee. The Blue Jays have an option for a fourth season at $2.45 million, with a buyout clause for $350,000.

Pat Gillick, the Blue Jays' general manager, said he envisioned Dayley in a set-up role for relief ace Tom Henke.

LSU makes Brown winningest coach in school history as top-ranked teams roll

By The Associated Press

Louisiana State is only No. 20 in the country but coach Dale Brown is No. 1 at LSU.

On a night when six members of the Top 25, including LSU, beat up on outclassed foes, Brown became the winningest coach in school history in a 117-68 rout of Southeastern Louisiana.

But he chose to dwell on his team's performance after an opening-game loss to Villanova last weekend rather than his personal milestone.

"They showed their competitive spirit," Brown said. "They know they've got to come out and play hard every game. Their personality was displayed in that they didn't let up and played the game hard."

Shaquille O'Neal scored 28 points and five other players were in double figures in raising Brown's 18-year record to 341-203.

In other mismatches, it was No. 2 Arizona 90, Western Illinois 51; No. 8 Duke 125, East Carolina 82; No. 13 Pitt 88, Cornell 64; No. 18 Oklahoma 114, St. Joseph's, Ind. 75; No. 24 Villanova 91, Drexel 72.

In the only matchup between two ranked teams, No. 12 UCLA whipped No. 16 Virginia 89-74 to win the Great Alaska Shootout.

LSU scored the first nine points and Southeastern Louisiana, which resumed basketball this season after a year's layoff, never threatened. The Tigers built a 56-30 halftime lead and went on a 12-0 tear to open a 46-point margin midway through the second half.

O'Neal, LSU's 7-foot-1 sophomore center, also had 15 rebounds and six blocked shots. Vernel Singleton added 19 points and 10 rebounds, Harold Boudreaux had 17 points, Mike Hanson 16 and Lenear Burns 11. Duane Donald had 21 points for Southeastern.

"When you get up 30 or 40 points, you've got to maintain that killer instinct," Singleton said. "If we can build up a lead without intentionally embarrassing someone, were going to do that."

No. 12 UCLA 89, No. 16 Virginia 74

Darrick Martin scored 21 points and the Bruins frustrated Virginia with a tight defense for a runaway victory in the finals of the Great Alaska Shootout.

Don MacLean, voted the tournament's outstanding player, added 20 for the Bruins (3-0).

Kenny Turner led Virginia (2-1) with 25 points and Bryant Stith added 22. But Stith was held scoreless through the first 14 minutes of the second half, when UCLA turned the game into a rout.

No. 2 Arizona 90, W. Illinois 51

Arizona celebrated its new No. 2 ranking with a smothering defense and balanced shooting led by reserve Deron Johnson's 14 points.

It took the Wildcats only a few minutes to adjust to Western Illinois' helter-skelter scrambling defense. Brian Williams' dunk, Chris Mills' layup, two Williams free throws and a jam by Sean Rooks put Arizona ahead 8-2 and the rout was on. It was 45-19 at halftime.

No. 8 Duke 125, East Carolina 82

Grant Hill and Christian Laettner each scored 17 points to lead six Duke players in double figures.

The losers were led by Lester Lyons' 23 points.

After East Carolina took a 2-0 lead, Duke reeled off 10 straight points to start a 35-13 run that put the game out of reach.

No. 13 Pitt 88, Cornell 64

Jason Matthews scored 30 points, including 19 in the first half when he hit five 3-point baskets to help Pitt to a 51-36 halftime lead.

Cornell scored the game's first basket but never led after that.

No. 18 Oklahoma 114, St. Joseph's, Ind. 75

Brent Price had 27 points and 14 assists and Oklahoma used a 21-0 second-half run to pull away from Division II St. Joseph's.

Despite nine turnovers, St. Joseph's trailed by only 11 points at halftime before succumbing to the Sooners' defensive pressure.

No. 24 Villanova 92, Drexel 71

Chris Walker scored 22 points and Lance Miller added 17 as Villanova shot 58.3 percent (35-for-60).

Drexel took an early 17-13 lead but Villanova shot in front with a 17-5 run.
