Schools, utilities give help to CSF

Hereford's schools and a group of local utilities and other business firms have given the 1988 Christmas Stocking Fund a major boost with their just-completed food drives.

Volunteers from the Hereford Key Club began making the rounds of local schools late last week and ran into a major workload due to the enthusiastic response Hereford students made to the call for donations of non-perishable items.

Key Clubbers gathered almost 1,000 cans of food at Aikman Elementary, alone, and their pickup trucks were fairly brimming with items shared by local students by the time they were ready to unload at CSF's work area. Both public and private schools in Hereford joined in the CSF food drive.

Local utility companies and other businesses also added to the bumper crop of foods and dry goods with outstanding drives of their own. Paul Hamilton of West Texas Rural Telephone and Tommie Weemes of Deaf Smith Electric Co-op helped spearhead a project of "friendly competition" between the two cooperatives, along with Southwestern Public Service Co., Energas Co., Whiteface Ford and Deaf Smith General Hospital. KPAN Radio and Creamettes Pasta also teamed up to make a large quantity of foodstuffs available to CSF.

"Rumor has it that a certain local utility that drives white trucks with blue markings and paints its meters gray might have won the contest between the business firms and utilities to see who could gather the most non-perishables," reported a CSF committee member.

"However, the only official winner we're prepared to announce is CSF, and those who will benefit from these gifts," he added.

Donated foods and dry goods will help CSF extend its assistance to a greater number of individuals in need this year. The hugely successful food drive is particularly timely this year, since CSF has received the greatest number of applications for help in the program's history.

CSF volunteers will be preparing food packages later this week for delivery on Friday. Vouchers for the purchase of clothing, medicine and utility assistance will also be prepared and delivered.

There's still time to lend a hand to the CSF effort with a donation, which can be left at the offices of The Hereford Brand, 313 Lee, or mailed to CSF, c/o Box 673, Hereford.

Bush making more Cabinet picks

WASHINGTON (AP)—President-elect Bush was poised today to name Chicago mass transit official Samuel Skinner as his transportation secretary, and sources said an additional Cabinet appointment would likely add the first black to the new Cabinet.

Two blacks are in line for Cabinet posts, according to sources who spoke only on the condition of anonymity: retired three-star Army Gen. Louis W. Becton as secretary of veterans affairs, and medical educator Louis Sullivan as secretary of health and human services.

The sources suggested at least one of these appointments would be announced today along with that of Skinner. The appointment of Jack Kemp to head the Housing and Urban Development Department was announced Monday, cheering conservatives who have long viewed the New York congressman as a champion of their causes. But Kemp said he does not plan to be conservative in approach when it comes to fighting for housing programs "that work."

"I want to wage war on poverty. I don't want to wage war on Congress," the nine-term congressman said. "I want it known that you cannot balance the budget off the backs of the poor." Bush called Kemp, a former rival for the republican presidential nomination, a "man-of-ideas" who will lead his administration's war on poverty.

Asked if he had assurances that the former professional football quarterback would shed his critic's role, Bush said: "I hope he hasn't shed it...I want the objectivity of his judgment, and knowing jack, I'll get it."

Kemp long has been an advocate of urban enterprise zones to spur investment in inner cities and has called for selling public housing units to tenants at low cost, he said he would be an activist HUD secretary. As of Monday, the vice president had filled eight Cabinet posts and had six to go. His prospective choice for transportation secretary, Skinner, is chairman of the Regional Transportation Authority of Northeastern Illinois, the nation's second largest mass transportation system. A former U.S. attorney in Chicago and a pilot, Skinner, 50, was Bush's campaign director for Illinois.

It WAS a Mercedes . . .

It was a Mercedes alright, but it wasn't exactly what Wichita Falls lawyer Dean Sanders had in mind when he told a client he wanted a red Mercedes for Christmas.

Jo Ann Hawkins says Sanders is a good lawyer, so when he said he wanted a red Mercedes for Christmas, she was obliged to make sure his holiday wish came true.

She delivered the gift personally Monday afternoon. Hawkins burst through the doors of the law offices of Schenk & Sanders, located on the fourth floor of the Hamilton Building, riding on what she said was a mule named Mercedes, complete with a red ribbon.

"That's his name," the Bowie woman said, explaining the economical gift. "Those Mercedes cost $70,000. That's a $30 mule."

After riding in, Hawkins escorted the animal to the back room where Schenk was meeting with a client, and knocked on the door.

"What is this?" was the lawyer's initial reaction upon being handed the reins.

While staff members who were in on the gift broke into uncontrollable laughter, the bewildered attorney had more questions.

"What is it? Is it a real mule? What's its name? Where am I going to keep it?" he asked.

The gift left the lawyer feeling like he wasn't quite sure how to express his thanks.

"It's a great donkey, what can I say? Merry Christmas, thanks very much," he said.

Hawkins said she bought the animal at the Henrietta Horse Sale and brought it to downtown Wichita Falls in a horse trailer.

A friend, Jennifer Johnson, also of Bowie, helped her sneak the mule into the building.

"We just ran him down the hall and brought him up the elevator," Hawkins said.

The mule was cooperative during the incident, but managed to leave its mark on the fourth floor hallway carpet.

Sanders isn't sure what he will do with the mule, which was being taken care of Monday night by a friend.

"I could take him over to the courthouse, stake him to the courthouse lawn, and he could run for judge next year," Sanders said.

Judge's gay remarks drawing protests

DALLAS (AP) — A national women's group and gay-rights groups united Monday to protest a judge's remarks that he gave a convicted killer a lighter sentence because the victims were homosexual.

Scores of sign-carrying, chanting protesters marched outside the Dallas County Courthouse calling for the ouster of state District Judge Jack Hampton.

The Dallas Gay Alliance plans another rally at 7 tonight at the Dallas City Hall Plaza to call attention to discrimination against gays and victims of Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome.

About 200 people participated in Monday's rally against Hampton organized by the National Organization for Women, Lesbian and Gay Political Coalition.

The Dallas Times Herald reported last week that Hampton admitted he sentenced 18-year-old Richard Lee Bednarski to 30 years in prison instead of a maximum life sentence partly because the two men he was convicted of killing were "queers."

"These two guys that got killed wouldn't have been killed if they hadn't been cruising the streets picking up teen-age boys," Hampton told the newspaper. "I don't much care for queers cruising the streets picking up teen-age boys. I've got a teen-age boy."

Bednarski says he does not agree with Hampton's assessment. "I think it's the judge's remarks that fueled all this (controversy),

I don't think it was anything from my trial," Bednarski told WFAA-TV Monday. "Everybody's life is worth the same amount, no matter what they are."

During the trial, testimony revealed Bednarski and a group of friends last May went to Oak Lawn, an area of Dallas frequented by gays, to "pester the homosexuals."

After some name-calling from a street corner, Bednarski and another teen-ager accepted a ride from Tommy Lee Trimble, 34, and John Lloyd Griffin, 27, who were later found shot to death execution-style in Reverchon Park.

Protesters at the Monday rally chanted "One, two, three, four, Judge Hampton out the door" and "Shame, shame." They also carried placards saying, "Resign Hampton, Now" and "Get The Bigot Off The Bench" and "No More Nazi Judges."

Demonstrators marched and shouted for about an hour during the noon lunch hour as curious onlookers observed from across the street and inside the courthouse.

To the cheers of protesters, Kay Vinson, a rally organizer, said demonstrations will not end until Hampton is removed from office.

Janie Bush, president of Dallas County NOW, which claims about 500 members, said Hampton's remarks show he is prejudice against other groups as well.

"To discriminate against any one is to discriminate against all of us," she said. "As appalled as I am about this, I can't say it surprises me."

Bill Hunt, vice president of the Dallas Gay Alliance, told the group its civil rights were being violated by having someone like Hampton as judge.

Those sentiments were echoed by others throughout Texas. Homosexual and legal rights groups at a news conference Monday in Austin bitterly denounced Hampton for his remarks, saying the judge had essentially condoned violence against homosexuals.

"The effect of his remarks is to declare open season on the gay residents of Dallas County," said Tom Doyal, legal director of the Texas Human Rights Foundation.

Doyal's group has filed a complaint with the State Commission on Judicial Conduct asking that Hampton be removed from the bench. The Dallas Gay Alliance also has filed a complaint with the commission.

Virginia Raymond, director of the Central Texas Civil Liberties Union, said Hampton has betrayed the public trust that a judge will put aside personal bias and prejudice.

"Instead of fairness, we find a process poisoned with bigotry, hatred and ignorance," Ms. Raymond said.

Inmate offers deal for execution

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — Death Row inmate Noble D. Mays Jr. says he will stop his legal appeals and allow the state to execute him if the state agrees to send $10,000 to his wife and stepdaughter.

Mays, 35, who says he is innocent in the 1979 fatal stabbing of Jerry Lamb, manager of the dining facility at Sheppard Air Force Base, said his offer is the only way the state will lethally inject him.

"They know that they'll never execute me unless I let them," Mays said Monday from the Wichita County Jail. "They'll keep me here as long as they can before the higher courts release me."

Mays told the Wichita Falls Times that he is willing to face the death penalty as the only way he can help his family.

"It's going to hurt them, at first. But it'll ease over the years," Mays said.

He said he mailed the letter with his offer, without notifying his attorneys, to 89th District Judge Temple Driver.

Driver cited judicial ethics in declining comment on the case.

Wichita County Criminal District Attorney Barry Macha said he is not aware of the letter and thus could not speculate on the legality of the proposition. Macha did say he had never heard of a similar bargain proposal in his experience.

Dallas attorney Steve Grimmer, who is handling Mays' appeal, said he was unaware of the letter.

"No, I've never heard of that," Grimmer said. "I understand that she's hurting for money."

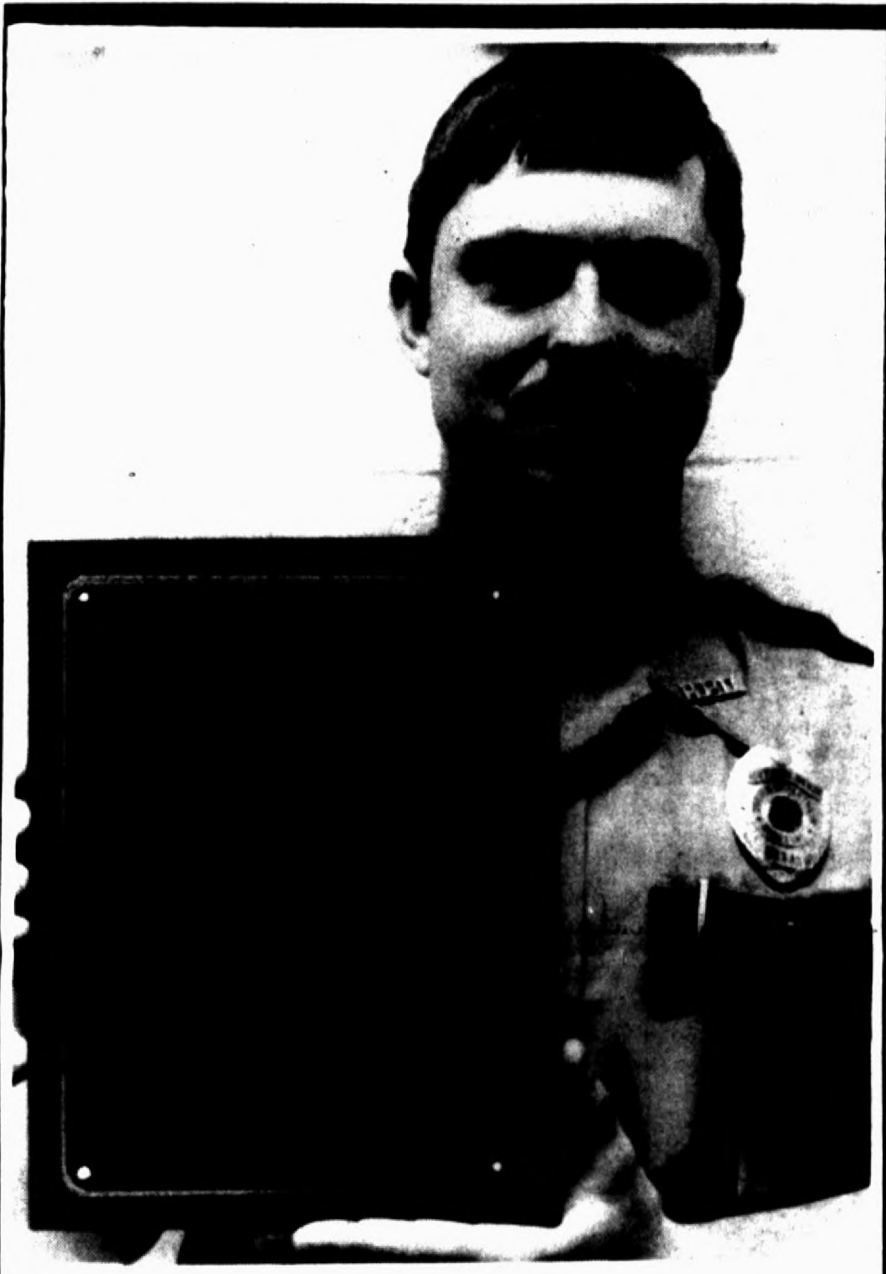

The death row inmate told the newspaper his wife, a former waitress and secretary in Graham, Texas, has been unable to work because of a back injury.

The deal would also reduce the load for taxpayers since the $10,000 will be a small portion of the expenses to come, Mays said.

Mays claimed that it costs the state as much as $2.5 million to handle an appeal from a death row inmate if the case goes all the way through the court system to the U.S. Supreme Court.

County officials said there was no way to accurately compile such costs and state officials were not available for comment Monday night.

It cost Wichita County about $150,000 for Mays' first three trials, county officials said.

Policeman of the Year

Patrolman Bruce Lee was awarded the Policeman of the Year Award recently based on his "hard work, devotion to the community and service," said Capt. Ted Langgood who started the award in 1983. Lee has been with the Hereford Police Department for two years, serves on the Strategic Reaction Team, is a firearms instructor, background investigator and a field training officer.

New commissioner to direct state insurance agency

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Board of Insurance named a new commissioner to direct its beleaguered agency, and the chief investigator into the agency's handling of a Dallas insurance company's failure said the inquiry has turned up no criminal wrongdoing.

A.W. "Woody" Pogue was appointed commissioner by the board on Monday after the three-member panel accepted the resignation of Doyce Lee. Both actions were unanimous.

Lee had been at the center of controversy over the handling of the insolvency of National County Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

Lee submitted his resignation, saying he had become a symbol of problems besetting the agency. Also James Odiorne, a senior deputy commissioner who had been reassigned nearly three weeks ago, submitted his resignation.

Pogue, a senior deputy commissioner, had been placed in-charge of the agency last month at the time of Lee's absence.

After his appointment as commissioner, Pogue, 50, and a 19-year employee at the agency, said many of the problems within the agency "boils down to communications."

Last month, the Insurance Board hired former Texas Department of Public Safety director, Col. James Adams, to investigate allegations that the agency regulating the insurance industry mishandled the National County Mutual case.

Adams, who expects to complete his report to the board in about two weeks, said he has yet to uncover evidence showing any insurance

Many problems within the agency "boils down to communications."

A.W. "Woody" Pogue, new commissioner to the State Board of Insurance agency employees were involved in criminal acts in the National County Mutual proceedings.

"There just hasn't been any indication at this point of any criminal activity or wrongdoing on the part of any State Board of Insurance employee," Adams said.

"No one has brought any allegations of such to my attention and there's just been nothing during the inquiry that's indicated that."

National County Mutual was declared insolvent in October, but several state lawmakers and consumer advocates said the board should have acted sooner to protect the company's 125,000 automobile insurance policyholders.

The failure of National County Mutual was the largest insolvency of a property and casualty company in Texas history. The company was $4 million in the red when the state agency took control, and staff members knew of the firm's problems as early as 1986.

A Legislative Budget Board study showed that the agency was taking more than one year to act on financially troubled insurance companies.

Despite the failure of National County Mutual, Pogue described the Texas insurance industry as being in excellent health. "If you look at the volume of business we have in Texas ... in relation to the number of failures we've had in Texas, I think it's minimum as compared with other states."

He also said morale at the agency — which has about 1,000 employees and an annual budget of $87 million — was good, despite the pending investigation and the inexperience of many staff members. Because of increased funding, the agency has grown by nearly 50 percent in the last two years.

"Given everything that the staff has had to face at this point in time, I think (morale) is very good," said Pogue, who will take his new position Jan. 4 at an annual salary of $62,000.

Board member David Thornberry voted for Pogue, but indicated later he would have liked more time to consider other applications. But he and the rest of the board conceded they faced a quick deadline since Lee's resignation was effective Jan. 3.

"There isn't any time," Board Chairman Jack Smith said. "Look at your calendar. How many working days are there between now and then?"

Texas Electoral College members vote for Bush

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas members of the Electoral College cast all 29 of their ballots for fellow Texan George Bush in what their chairwoman said was the best vote they could register.

"I think everybody's conscience in here tells us that we have the very best ticket we've ever had, even with my dear and abiding love for Ronald Reagan," said Nancy Palm of Houston, who headed Monday's electors' meeting.

Ms. Palm and the 28 other electors also unanimously voted for Indiana Sen. Dan Quayle as vice president, although one voiced reluctance over that decision.

William F. Spivey Jr. of Lexington said his vote for Quayle was "out of respect for our future president" and later explained that he wasn't convinced Quayle was the best choice.

The two votes formally awarded Texas to the GOP ticket.

"It's a done deed," announced Ms. Palm, in whose congressional district Bush claims residence. Wearing Republican campaign buttons dating to 1962, her voice had cracked with emotion as she voted.

"George and I have known each other, we've gone through hard times and good times together. I think this man will be absolutely the greatest president this country has had. He lives in my precinct, as do several of the fine men he has appointed (to his cabinet). I am the happiest person alive," she said.

According to the final general election results, the Bush-Quayle ticket received 3,036,829 votes to 2,352,748 for the Democratic ticket of Michael Dukakis and Lloyd Bentsen.

Because the GOP won the popular vote, Republicans chose the electors to cast the state's official vote — one elector for each congressman and U.S. senator.

Texas law didn't require the electors to vote for the general election winners, said Jim Warren, spokesman for the secretary of state's office.

But with Bush calling Texas home, casting ballots for him was especially meaningful to Texas Republicans, said state GOP Chairman Fred Meyer of Dallas.

Many of the electors "have been supporters of George Bush for years. This event has special significance for these electors ... They are casting their ballots for a fellow Texan and a long-time friend," Meyer said.

Not a dissenting word was heard during the balloting for Bush.

Kris Ann Vogelphol of Galveston said she was casting her vote for "the best-qualified individual that has ever been sent to the White House — my friend for over 25 years, George Bush."

In voting 29-0 for Quayle, several of the Texas electors criticized those who had criticized the Indiana senator.

Bruce Glenn McDougal of Duncanville, described himself as "a former Pfc. (private first class) in the U.S. Army" who served alongside Guardsmen in Korea and said, "I'm proud to vote for Dan Quayle, a brilliant National Guardsman."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When my husband died suddenly, we told the funeral director that it was his wish to be cremated but that the family wanted to view the body in private first.

The funeral director proceeded to tell us what part of the body was water, and what was bone, tissue, etc. We really did not want to know all that so I interrupted him and changed the subject. At the private viewing, the funeral director said to me, "His feet were so swollen I could hardly get his shoes on," and "the reason he feels so hard is because we had to pump a lot of oxygen into him."

A few months later, my sister died and when we were viewing the body before visitation, the funeral director (a different one in another city) said, "I had a terrible time with her mouth, getting it to stay together properly due to the tube being in so long." Also, "Don't touch her hands—they were so swollen and discolored I had to put a lot of powder on them."

I am wondering if these individuals receive training of any kind. I was appalled by these comments. They caused us a great deal of distress at a time when we already had more than we could handle.

Your opinion is wanted.—B.D. in Chicago

DEAR B.D.: I spoke with Robert E. Harden, executive director of the National Funeral Directors Association.

He said all funeral directors must be licensed. There are 40 mortuary schools in the country. The one- to two-year programs include courses in psychology, bereavement and how to deal with the family.

In my opinion, unless a family member asks specific questions or the funeral director feels that certain explanations are necessary, relatives should be spared the gruesome details. The directors you dealt with are clods, airheads, or both.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What is your opinion about gynecologists telling their patients to leave their shoes on when being examined?

I know two women, both in their mid-20s, who visited doctors in different cities, and both were asked to keep their shoes on. One woman was referred to the gynecologist by her mother (who was never told to keep her shoes on). This woman was wearing high heels and the nurse told her to take everything off but to keep her shoes on. The other was also instructed to take off everything but her shoes (which happened to be high-heeled boots).

One thing I know for certain is that if my gynecologist or his nurse told me to keep my shoes on I would ask, "What on earth for?"

Ann, do you know of any reason why a woman should keep her shoes on in the stirrups, or should these doctors be reported? Just sign me—Barefoot in Illinois

DEAR BAREFOOT: I checked with three gynecologists and they all said that they don't ask their patients to keep their shoes on during a pelvic examination.

The following reasons were suggested for doctors who do: (a) If the stirrups aren't padded, they can be very cold. (b) Foot odors can be a problem, especially in the winter when women are wearing boots. (c) Sometimes a patient must get up and walk to another part of the office. (d) There may be hygienic reasons, such as a patient who has a fungal infection of the foot.

Award presented to Flippo by TBSWCD

Mary F. "Toddie" Flippo was recognized recently by Tierra Blanca Soil and Water Conservation District for her "outstanding performance and exceptional service" to the district.

The certificate of appreciation was presented to Flippo during the District's board meeting following their annual Christmas dinner held Dec. 14 at Hereford Country Club. Carl Kleuskens, chairman of the board of TBSWCD, made the presentation.

Flippo, who is employed in the Hereford field office of the Soil Conservation Service, has served as district technician since Aug. 1986. She is responsible for the district's annual windbreak tree sale, district correspondence and record keeping, and file management of Food and Security Plans on Highly Erodible Land.

She also developed a file management system that was adopted over much of the Northern Panhandle by other Conservation Districts.

The TBSWCD is assisted by the Soil Conservation Service, which is located at 315 W. 3rd Street in Hereford.

Ruga gives program Thursday to DAR chapter

Members of Los Ciboleros Chapter, DAR, met Thursday afternoon at Hereford Senior Citizens Center. Serving as hostesses were Pat Smart, Ruth Newsom, and Violet Reinauer.

Regent Reinauer conducted the opening ritual with the assistance of Chaplain Lois Gililland. Helen Rose led the group in the Pledge of Allegiance and the Preamble of the Constitution. The members sang the National Anthem led by Reinauer followed by the group reciting the American's Creed.

Nell Norvell read the President General's Christmas message and Reinauer reviewed for the membership Newsom's report to the State and National DAR Committees on the local chapter's activities for Constitution Week held Sept. 17-23, 1988. Patricia Robinson's registrar report has been mailed and filed for the state and national organizations.

Minutes of the November meeting were read and approved as read. Rose gave the National Defense report on "Dumbing Down", a review of basic education in the elementary grade school level text books and methods of teaching today's young students. The article encourages all adults—parents, grandparents or interested individuals—to contact administrators, text book authors and text selection committees to review carefully the basic education literature and supply students the tools to enhance learning skills not just materials to allow students to "get by."

Kathryn Ruga presented the program entitled "Christmas in Another Land", in which she gave detailed information on the traditional customs for Christmas celebrations in Iceland.

Those present included Gililland, Juanita Brown, Rose, Ruth Fish, Ruth Knox, Nell Norvell, Pat Faulkner, Leta Kaul, Pat Smart, Ruth Newsom, Charlotte Clark, Kathryn Ruga and Violet Reinauer.

UNSAFE TOYS

Toys are part of the thrill of Christmas for children around the world, and nowhere but in the U.S. is there such variety. This time of year, stores display thousands of toys made for every age group.

But the Texas Department of Health (TDH), in conjunction with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), works hard to see that children will not get some toys—the ones found to be dangerous or even life-threatening.

Throughout the year, CPSC and TDH must inspect and test thousands of kinds of toys made in this country as well as overseas. And each year, they find some toys that contain hazardous materials such as lead paint.

Other toys are poorly designed, with small parts that can be detached or broken from the larger toy and swallowed by young children. Brittle plastic and sharp metal in other toys, and inappropriate labeling for the intended age group, add to the possibility that a child may be hurt or killed.

In 1987, some 647,000 children less than 15 years old were injured by hazardous or defective toys in the U.S. And 30 of them died. This year, with some reports not yet complete, another seven fatalities occurred between January and September.

So far in 1988, nearly 150 different toys have been found to be unsafe, and their manufacturers were ordered to recall them.

Forrest Burnham, chief of the TDH Hazardous Substances Branch, said, "The majority of toys recalled as safety hazards each year are imported. American manufacturers adhere more closely to safety regulations than some overseas toy makers. Some foreign manufacturers are known for making toys that have had to be recalled, and the U.S. Customs Service has begun altering CPSC to the arrival of those products.

Burnham said, "CPSC used to release a yearly list of all toys that had been recalled, but that led parents to believe that all toys not on the list were safe. The truth is that there is only so much the regulatory agencies can do to ensure that toys are safe for the kids who get them. The bulk of the responsibility will always lie with the adults who buy the toys."

Burnham stressed that adults should check any toy for defective material, detachable parts, and age appropriateness. "Plain common sense on the part of a parent often can prevent tragedy," he said.

Burnham urged parents who find toys to be defective, dangerous, or mislabeled to notify him at (512) 458-7519, or call the Consumer Product Safety Commission toll-free at 1-800-638-CPSC.

PREVENT FRAUD

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — The best opportunity the average person has to prevent health insurance fraud comes after a claim is submitted and the insurance company provides an explanation of benefits, or payments, says James L. Garcia.

Garcia, director of fraud investigations for Aetna Life & Casualty, says at the minimum individuals should check these three items:

— Does the right date appear in the area marked "Service Dates?" Is this when you visited the doctor or dentist?

— Did you receive all the medical or dental services noted on the form?

— Does the fee charged for those services match your understanding of what they would cost?

Ask Dr. Lamb

BY LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB: My father is in his mid 80s and has stopped eating regularly and is very confused. This confusion started a few months ago with dizzy spells, nausea and weakness. He has been tested with electrical brain waves, a CAT scan, heart examinations and for his sugar level. His blood pressure is normal, except when he is dizzy and nauseated, then it goes up. His reasoning ability is fine, but he can't remember if he's eaten, taken his medicine or where he put things. No medication is taken except for circulation and a daily aspirin.

I read your article on memory lapse and wanted to help my father in any way I can. He lives alone by his own choice, and I try to provide well-balanced meals, a journal for daily reminders and daily phone calls. However, I often find the meals uneaten and he avoids walks due to bad weather and his dizzy spells, so I don't make much progress.

DEAR READER: Similar stories are all too common. The dizzy spells and nausea sound like more than just senility, and I'm glad he has had such a complete examination. The fact that he has had a brain wave (EEG) suggests he has seen a neurologist, which is appropriate.

I wonder about his medicines. What is he taking for circulation? Too much digitalis, or one of the digitalis medicines, such as Lanoxin, can cause mental confusion, depression, loss of appetite, nausea and dizziness. If he is taking one of these medicines, don't stop it without his doctor's consent, but the question needs to be raised. Depression from any cause will affect a person's memory.

There are many causes for such changes that are usually attributed to aging or Alzheimer's disease or strokes. Some, but not all, are reversible. That includes problems caused by medicines, abnormalities in thyroid function, disturbed salt and water balance and others.

Still other symptoms, such as simple forgetfulness occur because of lack of concentration, and when that is all that is the problem, memory training helps.

Please read Special Report 47, The Mind: Aging or Illness? I'm sending you a free copy. Others who want this report can send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/47, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Should a person with arthritis be on any special diet? I know it is important to follow good nutrition, but a friend told me anyone with arthritis should not eat citrus, sugar, dairy products or caffeine. Is this true?

DEAR READER: Totally false! Arthritis need that vitamin C in citrus fruits. And they are no different from other people in terms of needing calcium found chiefly in dairy products. They also need the complete protein. I am afraid that a woman near or after the menopause who has arthritis and doesn't use dairy products will also be more likely to develop osteoporosis as well because of her calcium deficiency.

Neither sugar nor caffeine are different for arthritics than for other people.

You can't have a healthy balanced diet and leave out either citrus fruits or the dairy products. An arthritic is wise to avoid being overweight, as that is hard on their joints. Now the condition of gouty arthritis caused by gout is different, and these people often benefit some from a gout diet, but that is different from the more common osteoarthritis that most people develop.

Lady Whitefaces win, 63-60

The Hereford Lady Whitefaces picked up their second-straight District 1-4A win on Monday with a

63-60 overtime win at Pampa. In the nightcap, the Whitefaces weren't so fortunate as Pampa outscored the Herd 22-15 in the second quarter and 17-13 in the third quarter to pave the way to a 70-54 win.

The Lady Whitefaces are now 2-4 in district, 3 1/2 games behind district-leader Levelland. Hereford is now 8-9 on the year and enters the Christmas break with a two-game winning streak.

Pampa, now 2-3 in district and 7-5 overall, led 20-17 at the end of the first period and 36-35 at halftime. Hereford came back to lead 43-41 at the end of the third quarter, and the score was tied at 56-all at the end of regulation.

Hereford outscored Pampa 7-4 in the three-minute overtime to claim the win.

Carmen Brockman led Hereford with 19 points, and Stacy White added 17. Yolanda Brown led Pampa with 33 points.

In the boys game, Pampa took an 18-13 lead at the end of the first quarter before the Harvesters, now 3-0 in district and 9-4 overall, took the 12-point halftime lead.

Pampa extended its lead to 16, 57-41, at the end of the third quarter and held that lead through the fourth quarter.

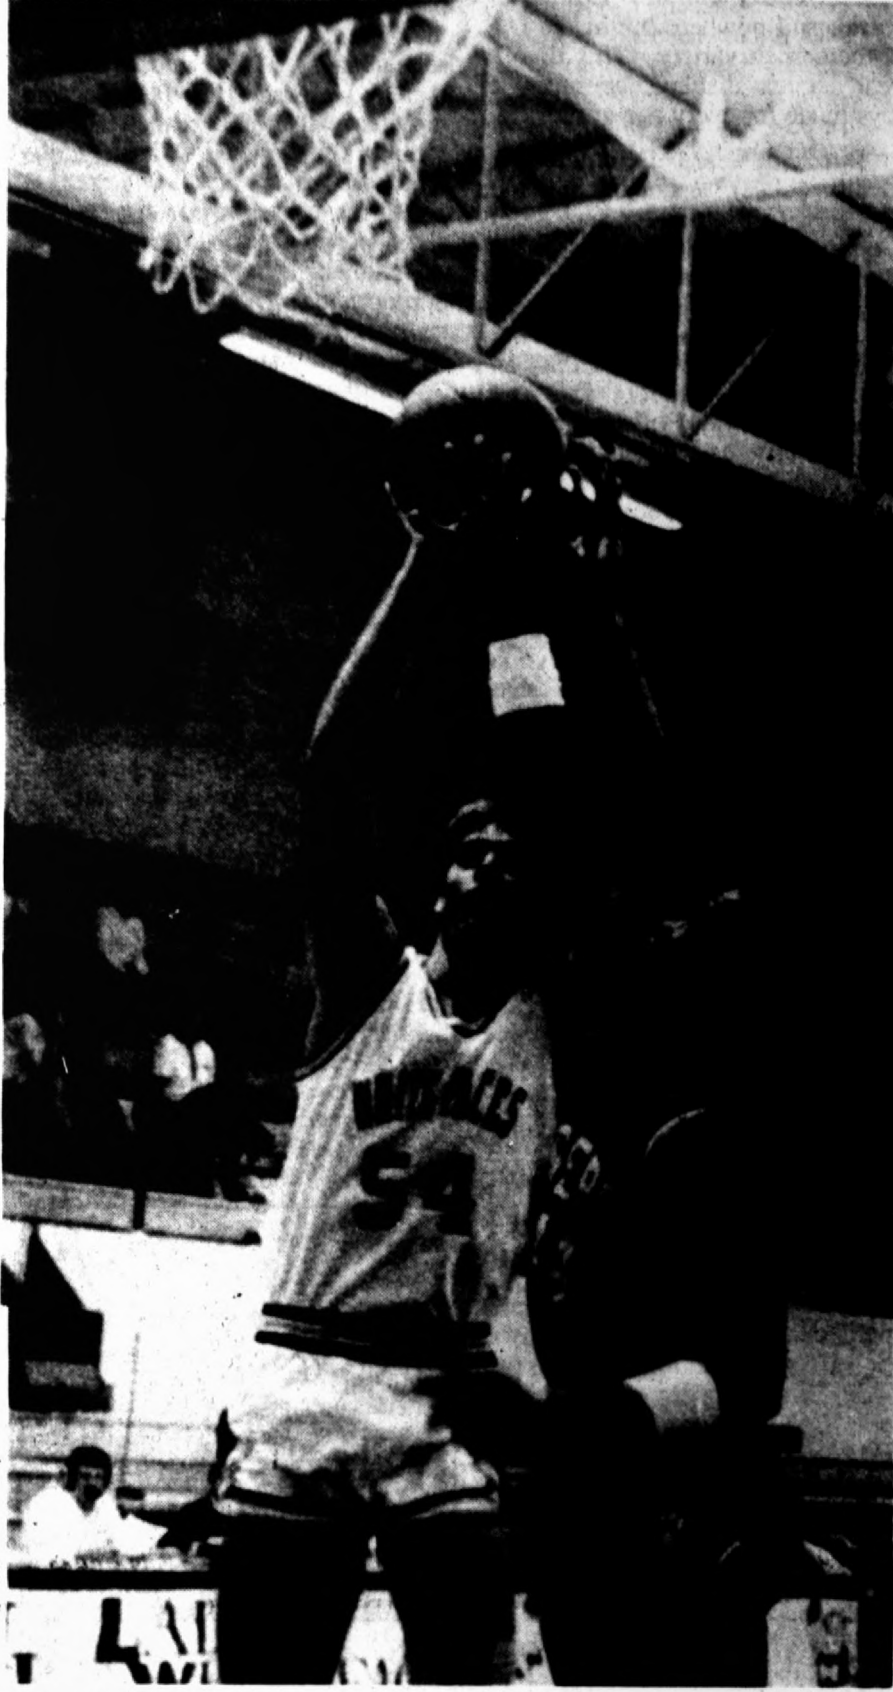

Brad Smith led Hereford with 18 points, while Pat Mercer recovered from a two-game slump to hit 14 points.

The Lady Whitefaces have a 10-day break before they host Clovis, N.M., on Dec. 29 at 7:45 p.m. at Whiteface Gym.

The Herd has a week-long break before entering the Clovis Tournament on Dec. 27.

'Boom Boom,' 'Macho' begin long war of word

NEW YORK (AP) — Ray "Boom Boom" Mancini looked across the dais. At the other end sat Hector Camacho, his short pony tail wagging madly behind him, his trademark "Macho" gold name chain swinging from side to side.

"The kid's a cartoon character," said Mancini, who meets Camacho on March 6 in a 12-round match of former lightweight champions.

Suddenly, Camacho turned on Mancini. "How come you keep calling me, 'Kid?'" he asked.

Then without waiting for an answer, the Macho Man continued his stream of consciousness speech. "He's jealous," Camacho said. "I'm better looking. I never lost in my life."

Mancini just shook his head. "We'll see how macho he is. He runs like a dog and holds like a woman. He's no rocket scientist. He's always tap dancing."

Camacho glared at Mancini. "I'll tap dance on your face," he said spitting out the sentence.

Their war of words could get uglier before they reach the ring at Reno, Nev., for a pay-per-view, closed circuit fight that was a hot commodity five years ago but is more of a curiosity now.

Mancini, 29-3, has not fought in almost four years, since losing his title and the ensuing rematch to Livingstone Bramble. Camacho, 34-0, has had just five fights in the last three years. They seemed on a collision course in 1984 when Mancini was WBA lightweight champion and Camacho was WBC super featherweight champ and on the way to the lightweight crown. But then Bramble upset the plans and it has taken almost five years to put the pieces back together.

"I lost my passion for fighting," Mancini said, explaining his retirement following the second Bramble bout. "It just wasn't there any more. But I said from the beginning this was the one fight I wanted. This tapped my emotion and hunger. I feel real good about it."

Oklahoma's not okay: three years probation

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — The three-year probation and accompanying sanctions were bad enough. How the Oklahoma football program got the news made it even worse, Coach Barry Switzer says.

"The people affected more than anyone else is the players on that football team, and we didn't have the opportunity to talk to 'em first," Switzer said Monday after being officially informed that his team had been handed three years of probation.

Included in the penalty is a two-year ban on bowl appearances, no live TV telecasts in 1989 and a reduction of scholarships from 25 to 18 in each of the next two seasons.

Oklahoma officials said they received a copy of the NCAA's sanctions on Friday, and had planned to announce them on Monday. But an Oklahoma City television station received a copy of the sanctions via express mail on Saturday and broke the story that night.

The Oklahoma players were "in shock and dismayed, and they've got reporters over there Sunday morning knocking on doors," Switzer said. "They didn't even know what had happened ... I'm damn sure not gonna tell you (reporters) what I'll talk to them about."

Many Oklahoma players are out of town, taking a break between exams and final preparations for Citrus Bowl. The Sooners will leave Christmas Day for Orlando, Fla., where they will play Clemson on Jan. 2.

"We're a family here, and the players and coaches learned about it through the media," offensive coordinator Jim Donnan said. "We could at least have explained to our players what was going on. To have it come through these channels was tough."

"The players, all they want to do is play football, and most of them want to get a degree, too," All-America guard Anthony Phillips said. "It's not their fault, and they're the ones who get penalized."

The NCAA also ordered that two assistant coaches — identified Monday as Mike Jones and Scott Hill — be disciplined along with former recruiting coordinator Shirley Vaughn.

Duncan said all three had been disciplined, but that none would be fired.

Many of those who commented about the penalties Monday used the same word to describe their feelings — shock.

Switzer said that when he saw the allegations against the program several months ago, he was encouraged because "the NCAA spent two years investigating us and found 20 allegations, and two isolated incidents of inducements."

Saunders isn't bitter

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Chargers coach Al Saunders isn't bitter about being fired after a rebuilding season, but several players say his dismissal was unfair.

"My regret is that we weren't able to finish what we started. We hope that we laid the groundwork ... for a strong future for the San Diego Chargers," Saunders said after being informed of his dismissal during a meeting Monday with club owner Alex Spanos.

"I know that this team, in the future, will be an outstanding one," Saunders said. "The young talent is here, and I'm sure that with a few select additions in a few critical areas, this football team will be a successful one in the future."

Saunders, who was publicly critical earlier this year of the players he was supplied by team management, posted a 17-22 record in 2½ years. Though the Chargers won four of their final six games this season, they finished fourth in the AFC West with a 6-10 record.

"This is a tough business ... it's just one of those things. I'm not bitter at all," said Saunders, the club's seventh head coach.

Binder looks to pass

Glanville ready for return match

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Coach Jerry Glanville found Cleveland's Municipal Stadium in much better condition than he expected.

Prior to Sunday's 28-23 loss to the Browns, Glanville called the playing surface "painted dirt" and said he brought his own hammer to put a nail in the wall to hold his clothes.

But Glanville had tongue-in-cheek praise Monday for the stadium.

"They had three nails and a hammer waiting for me," Glanville said. "I thought they were very cordial."

Glanville and the Oilers were pelted with snowballs and dog biscuits during pre-game warmups.

"They did make an announcement about throwing things and they also had two officers down there to control the about 10,000 fans at that end," Glanville said.

Houston's loss means the Oilers must return to Cleveland Saturday for the AFC wild card playoff game.

Glanville said he's just glad to still be in the playoffs regardless of the location.

"We weren't as good in the stretch as we wanted to be but the bottom line is 18 other teams would like to change places with us," Glanville said.

"If you make it to the playoffs, you should enjoy the moment."

The Oilers, who haven't won a non-strike game in Cleveland since 1981, have chosen a frigid road to the playoffs.

They would play at Buffalo if they beat Cleveland and the AFC title game would be against the winner of the Seattle-Cincinnati game.

The Oilers lost three of their final six games and all three losses came after they blew leads.

Despite Cleveland's comeback, the Oilers still had their chances to win in the fourth quarter, Glanville said.

"You just can't let all that (Cleveland) skill stay on the field," Glanville said. "At the start of the game, we made some very big plays."

Don Strock, subbing for Bernie Kosar, picked the Oilers' zone defense apart in the second half, driving the Browns on three consecutive scoring drives to victory.

The Oilers, who normally play man-to-man defense, played more zone because of the slippery field conditions, Glanville said.

"If you can't stand up on the outside, you've got to drop off and play some zone and then come back up and smack them," Glanville said.

Glanville said the Oilers blitzed more than at any time this season, trying to get more pressure on Strock.

"If you wanted to get pressure on the quarterback, you had to send more people," Glanville said. Glanville said he doesn't anticipate any major adjustments before Saturday's wild card game.

"You'd like to get into the playoffs coming off of a good win," Glanville said. "The best thing for us to do is look ahead to the next season because that's what the playoffs are."

Medicare changes effective Jan. 1

Medicare supplement policyholders do not need to buy new policies because of the changes in Medicare that take effect on Jan. 1, 1989.

State Board of Insurance rules require insurers to revise each policy automatically to avoid duplicating the new benefits provided by Medicare after that date.

The Medicare Catastrophic Coverage Act of 1988 eliminated requirements that patients with long-term hospitalizations pay part of their daily Medicare-eligible expenses from their own pockets or with supplemental insurance.

Starting Jan. 1, 1989, Medicare will pay for as many as 365 days a year of Medicare-eligible hospitalization after the patient has paid a one-time deductible of $564.

Before the new law, Medicare required patients to pay substantial daily "co-payments" when they were hospitalized longer than 60 days.

These co-payments are among the major "gaps" in Medicare that--until Jan. 1, 1988--are covered by Medicare supplement insurance policies.

Since co-payments for hospital care will not be required after Jan. 1, Medicare supplement insurance policies no longer may provide benefits to fill those gaps.

Insurance companies are required by State Board of Insurance rules to notify each Medicare supplement policyholder in December of changes made in their policies to conform to the new law.

The notice also must tell policyholders when premium adjustments resulting from the change in Medicare benefits will be made.

Because policies will be adjusted automatically, it is not necessary to buy a new Medicare supplement policy because of the change in the law.

Policies providing Medicare Part B benefits will continue to cover a patient's 20 percent share of Medicare-eligible expenses for physicians' services, home health care and out-patient hospital treatment.

Dropping an existing policy to buy a new one could be particularly harmful. This is because a newly purchased policy usually does not cover the policyholder's pre-existing medical problems for six months after its effective date.

An agent who tells a senior citizen that he or she needs a new Medicare supplement policy because of the changes in Medicare could be subject to disciplinary action by the State Board of Insurance.

Seniors should always exercise caution in purchasing Medicare supplement policies either from agents or in response to advertisements received in the mail.

The State Board of Insurance has a toll-free telephone line which consumers may call for information. The number is 1-800-252-3439.

In addition, the Board has published a brochure, "Medicare Supplement Insurance: A Guide for Texas Consumers," which may be ordered over the toll-free line or by writing to: State Board of Insurance, ATTN: Information Services, 1110 San Jacinto, Austin, TX 78701-1998.

The Board's Market Conduct Division also has prepared an 8-1/2 minute videotape on the changes in Medicare. Copies of the videotape may be borrowed by writing the Division at the above address.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Recently my husband was in the hospital recovering from a heart attack. He had trouble with his pajama tops because he had an I.V. in one arm which made it impossible to remove the top and put a fresh one on without pulling out the needle.

I opened up the sleeve and side seam of two of his pajama tops and stitched the open edges so they would not fray. I then sewed three to four pieces of self-gripping fabric tape down both open sides of the pajama tops. This enabled him to put his pajama top on by simply pulling apart the self-gripping fabric tape on the one side and slipping the top on before reclosing it. No more worry about pulling out or bothering the I.V. needle.

I hope this idea will help someone who may run into a similar problem. — Mrs. Kathy Woodley, Old Bridge, N.J.

This is a helpful idea for anyone who has to struggle with tubes, etc. when trying to dress and undress. There are so many ways to use fabric self-gripping tape. I am glad you wrote to share your idea with us. — Heloise

DOG DISHES

Dear Heloise: I have two dogs and their feeding time always turns into a mess. When I put their bowls of food down for them, they would end up sliding them across the room while trying to get the last morsels.

I tried putting their bowls on a rubber mat, but that didn't do the trick. Then I decided I would try gluing a rubber ring from a canning jar to the bottom of both dishes.

Now when they eat, the bowls stay put. I'm happy, they're happy and my kitchen floor is happy too! — John Bradley, Richmond, Va.

GIFT FOR COLLEGE

Dear Heloise: My daughter left for her first year in college this past fall. She received some beautiful gifts, but one in particular came in real handy. I must say, it was something I would have never thought of giving her.

One of her friends gave her a small toolbox with a hammer, two screwdrivers and other gadgets necessary to do small things around her new apartment. She even included nails, screws and hooks.

After leaving for college, my daughter called to say that she had used her toolbox so many times, she doesn't know what she would have done without it. I think this was a great gift idea — useful, too. — Mrs. J. Lundstrom, Boston, Mass.

The little things we don't always think of seem to become the most useful! Everyone should have a "gadget box" handy. — Heloise

Nominations must be made by Wednesday

Wednesday is the deadline to submit nominations for the Women's Division's Woman of the Year Award. The nominations may be taken to the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce office, 701 N. Main St.

The award will be given to a Division member who has been active during the past year. The winner will be announced at the Division's quarterly meeting in January of 1989.

Anyone may submit a nomination as the submitor does not have to be a member of the Women's Division. Nominations should be in writing, giving qualifications and reasons why the person named should be considered. The letter does not have to be signed.

Nominees will be judged on accomplishments done for and on behalf of the Women's Division and/or the Chamber of Commerce. Other outside activities will then be considered, such as community work, charitable work, church activities, youth work, etc.

Oven cooking brisket can be timesaver

By NANCY BYAL, Better Homes and Gardens Food Editor

Oven cooking is easy cooking. You'll need about 15 minutes to measure the ingredients and prepare the vegetables for this robust beef main dish. Then you're free for other activities while it cooks in the oven for 3 hours. The sauce is a cinch, too. Just remove the vegetables from the broth and puree in the blender or food processor until smooth, adding enough broth to make the sauce the consistency you want.

SOUTHWESTERN-STYLE BRISKET

- One 3½-pound fresh beef brisket
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons cooking oil
- 1 and 1-3rd cups water
- One 8-ounce can tomato sauce
- 2 tablespoons instant minced onion
- 2 tablespoons red wine vinegar
- 1 tablespoon chili powder
- 1 teaspoon dried oregano, crushed

- ¾ teaspoon ground cumin
- ½ teaspoon garlic powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ to ½ teaspoon ground red pepper
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- Three medium sweet red peppers, cut into strips
- 1½ cups carrots cut into 1-inch pieces

Season beef with 1 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Brown meat in hot oil in oven-proof Dutch oven. Meanwhile, in a medium bowl combine water, tomato sauce, onion, vinegar, chili powder, oregano, cumin, garlic powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, ground red pepper and ½ teaspoon pepper. Pour over meat; add sweet red peppers and carrots. Bake, covered, in 325-degree oven about 3 hours or until tender. Remove from pan; let stand 15 minutes before slicing.

Using a slotted spoon, remove vegetables from liquid; reserve liquid. Place vegetables in blender container or food processor bowl. Blend or process until smooth. Add enough reserved broth (about ½ cup) to make sauce of desired consistency. Thinly slice beef across the grain; serve with sauce. Makes 8 servings.

Carefully check all mail-order foods for safety

There's nothing like coming home from work and finding a package on your front porch to help you get in the Christmas spirit.

But if that package contains food and is marked "perishable", you may have to be a grinch and throw it away for safety's sake.

Whether the food is safe will depend on what it is, how cold it is, and how it was packaged, according to Dr. Al Wagner, a food technologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Texas A & M University.

"Mail-order food companies typically freeze perishable food solid so that overnight delivery in cold weather guarantees that it will arrive still cold. But what can't be guaranteed is having someone at home to receive the food and refrigerate it," he said.

"In Texas, you can't count on cold weather either and perishables that sit in a delivery truck, mail box or on the front porch on a warm December afternoon may quickly thaw and become hazardous," said Wagner.

A tabulation of calls received by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's National Meat and Poultry Hotline during the 1987 holiday season showed that the greatest number of calls about mail-order foods concerned smoked or smoked and vacuum-packed hams and turkeys.

Wagner said that response does not surprise him.

"Many consumers don't understand that just because meat has been smoked, doesn't automatically mean it's cooked. In addition, all meat-cooked or uncooked-should be shipped with an ice source to keep it at or below 40 degrees Fahrenheit, just like a refrigerator," he said.

Consumers should also check the label to see if the product contains preservatives, said Wagner. When a product is cured, such as a cured ham, the preservatives will aid in protection against spoilage if it is left out for a short length of time.

"Thorough re-heating before serving is an added safeguard, but no guarantee against the bacteria that cause food-borne illness. If you have any doubt about a fresh or a cured food, discard it," he said.

The extension specialist said consumers should look for the following before eating mail-order food products:

-Fresh or cooked meat, poultry or fish should arrive frozen or still hard in the middle. If never frozen, it should be cold to the touch.

-With the exception of dry-cured hams, baked hams and most canned hams need refrigeration and should arrive cold.

-Hard, dry sausages, such as pepperoni and hard salamis don't require refrigeration. Thuringer, summer sausage and others do. If the label says "keep refrigerated," the sausage should be cold.

-Cheese should not contain mold, unless the mold is part of the product, such as blue cheese.

-Cheesecake should be frozen solid.

-If the food product requires refrigeration and isn't frozen or cold, don't serve it. The food could give your family the unwanted "gift" of the flu-like symptoms that come from a food-borne illness.

According to U.S. Department of Agriculture figures, the mail-order food business is a $1 billion a year industry.

The USDA Meat and Poultry Hotline (1-800-535-4555) or your local county extension home economist can answer questions about mail-order meat and poultry.

But for consumer problems and complaints, contact the nearest office of the Food and Drug Administration.

If you think that you, or the person who sent you the food gift deserve a refund, call or write the mail-order house directly.

Remember, however, that the shipper's responsibility is to deliver on time; the customer's responsibility is to have someone at home to receive the goods so they can be properly refrigerated.
