Jail is short 12 employees

By ANDREA HOOTEN
Staff Writer
The Deaf Smith County Commissioners learned Monday that the county jail is short 12 jailers, according to the Texas Commission on Jail Standards, but complying with the jail commission might not be financially possible.
Jail commission inspector Joe Slater visited the jail Nov. 30 on his annual inspection and reported in an unofficial letter Monday that having only 11 jailers manning the jail is inadequate.
"It's not that we have an abundance of inmates (the ratio should be one jailer per 48 inmates and 62 inmates is the monthly average)," said county jail administrator David Castillo. "We just need more jailers for all the different activities we have to do."

Castillo said that two jailers usually man an 8-hour shift in which prisoners must be booked, classified, disciplined and escorted to the courtroom.
"We're in compliance as far as the 1:48 ratio goes, but the prisoners have to have constant supervision and there just aren't enough jailers to do that," Castillo said.
County Judge Tom Simons said the current number of jailers is sufficient and with 12 added, the ratio of jailer to inmate would be 1:2.
"We've had no problems (with the present number of jailers) that have been brought to my attention," said Simons. "Joe (Slater) said we could possibly work out hiring just three or four more jailers, but I don't even think the (county) commissioners will agree to that."

"We don't have the $100,000 to hire (five jailers) and we don't have $10,000 to hire even a (part-time) jailer."
If the county doesn't hire any new jailers, the jail could lose its certification and its ability to house more than 25 prisoners, meaning the county would have to pay a daily rate per inmate to house them in neighboring jails.
"I don't really know how much these places would charge a day--maybe $40--but we would also have to pay for the transportation, jacking the price even higher," said Sheriff Joe Brown. "I really think we can avoid losing our certification, though, because Joe (Slater) said we could get away with hiring four or five jailers and not have our jailers taking prisoners to court, grocery shopping or things like that."

Castillo isn't so understanding about the county's financial straits.
"The county is required to provide the staff we need even though there's no money for it. I stressed the importance of hiring more jailers at a commissioners' court meeting early this year. It's not that I just wanted the help--we needed the help," Castillo said.
Besides a shortage of jailers, Slater mentioned in his report that the air flow was restricted in the jail, the temperature was uneven, audible communication is hindered among jailers and some dispatchers were not certified jailers.
Until the commissioners' court receives a formal notice of non-compliance from the Jail Commission, they will not take action, said Simons.

Vacant halls

The halls in the Deaf Smith County Jail are needing 12 more jailers to occupy them, according to Texas Jail Commission inspector Joe Slater. County commissioners say the county doesn't have the money to hire more but a failure to do so could mean loss of certification for the jail.

County okays help for PCS

By ANDREA HOOTEN
Staff Writer
The Deaf Smith County Commissioners voted to help pay for a Panhandle Community Services van and approved tax abatement for Whiteface Ford at the commission meeting Monday at the county courthouse.
The commissioners voted to give $1,500 toward a new van for the Panhandle Community Services because Deaf Smith County residents constantly use the van for transportation to Amarillo for kidney dialysis.

The dealership, however, will pay $40,000 to $50,000 in other taxes over the two years.
The commissioners voted to award an office supplies bid to First Printing and Office Supply in Dimmitt for $6,475.49. Others bidding were Office Center Inc. for $6,953.16 and Litho-Graphics for $6,494.98.
Awarding bids for printing was tabled until the commission's next meeting Dec. 27 because of a split vote for PIP Printing in Lubbock for $4,714.50 and First Printing in Dimmitt for $5,476.15.

County Judge Tom Simons abstained from voting because Ike Stevens was his campaign manager and he owns part of PIP Printing.
The commissioners voted not to buy new microfilming equipment for the County Clerk's office; voted to advertise for bids for two Sheriff's Office vehicles, and voted to allow the County Clerk to hire a part-time clerk.
The commissioners also:
-Elected to cross a Precinct 2 county road with a water line and a Precinct 1 county road with a gas line;
-Appointed John Stribling to the Friends of the Library Board
-Set the courthouse holidays for 1989.

Report calls for big Congress raise

"I think this is a service we need to support," said Commissioner Johnny Latham. "We've got to get people to Amarillo in these kind of cases because it's a life-and-death situation."
Representatives of Panhandle Community Services said the organization needs $3,000 before the state will match that with $10,000 for a new van.
They also said that seven Deaf Smith County residents use the van three days a week for kidney dialysis and 50 use it for other health reasons.
Whiteface Ford was granted a two-year, 100 percent tax abatement on the car dealership's new building at U.S. Highway 385 and 15th Street.
The school, city and county have agreed to abate the business' taxes which total $12,500 for two years.

WASHINGTON (AP)--Lawmakers who say it's hard to make ends meet on $89,500 a year are hoping 1989 will bring them a substantial boost in pay.
A presidential commission reviewing the government's top pay levels was poised today to recommend hefty salary increases for members of Congress, federal judges and senior executive branch employees.
The recommendations will attach firm dollar amounts to broad principles outlined in a draft report issued by the commission last week, in which the panel said salaries should generally restore top government officials' purchasing power to 1969 levels.
For members of Congress, for example, that would put pay near $135,000, roughly a 50 percent increase. Cabinet members and Supreme Court justices, who now make $115,000, would presumably be recommended for similar boosts.

In its report, the commission on Executive, Legislative and Judicial Salaries also recommended that Congress, if it accepts a pay raise, vote to ban the acceptance by lawmakers of honoraria, or speaking fees paid by special-interest groups.
As congressional salaries have been held down by political forces, honoraria have grown to make up the difference for lawmakers who often must maintain dual homes in their states and in Washington. Members of Congress may accept up to $2,000 per speaking engagement, up to a limit of 40 percent of their salaries for senators and 30 percent for House members.

The process lends itself to abuse. Rather than waiting for speaking invitations, "some of my colleagues have begun to ask people for them," giving the appearance of shaking down special interest groups, said Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass.
"Others have begun to broker them. They'll say, 'I can get you an honorarium, breakfast for $1,000,'" Frank said. "People understand that it looks bad, and that in some cases it is bad. A pattern of abuse has begun to show up. It affects 10 percent of the people, but that's too many."
The commission's formal report is due to be delivered to President Reagan by Thursday. Reagan then can adopt the recommendation or as he did two years ago, modify it before including it in his budget proposal which is sent to Congress on Jan. 9.

Under the law, the increase will take effect a month later, on Feb. 8, unless both the House and Senate vote to scotch it. For 19 of those 30 days Congress will be out of session, leaving only a limited time for opponents to act.
During hearings in recent weeks the panel, which by law meets every four years to review the government's top salary structure, heard testimony that relatively low pay levels were making it difficult to recruit and keep talented people in the executive branch, on the federal bench and in Congress.
The recommendations concern the pay of all 535 members of the House and Senate, about 1,100 judges from the Supreme Court through U.S. district courts, and about 3,000 top executive branch workers, including Cabinet secretaries.

The commission also called on Congress to pass legislation raising the president's salary, which has been fixed at $200,000 for two decades.
On Capitol Hill, supporters of the congressional pay raise were working behind the scenes to dampen potential opposition and allow it to take effect automatically in February. But a fight over the perennially prickly issue appeared almost certain.
"I think we're all going to have a chance to face up to it," said Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan.

Time running out for CSF help; 394 have applied

Time is fast running out for Hereford's Christmas Stocking Fund in its efforts to help the community's less fortunate this holiday season.
A total of 394 individuals and families had filed for assistance from the holiday charity as of the application deadline Dec. 9.
With only nine days now remaining before CSF must make its deliveries of assistance, there's concern among members of the volunteer committee which administers the program that funding may lag this year.
A CSF spokesman said donations have been coming in slowly and considerable momentum will have to be gained if the 1988 drive is to surpass the 1987 mark of more than $13,000. The total had climbed past the $4,500 mark today.
CSF committee members will be working in the week ahead to target assistance to the most needy cases as they sort through the hundreds of applications filed. A spokesman for CSF says the project extends assistance to the limits of its funding, but in a year when donations are slow in coming, the extent of assistance is in doubt.
Donations to CSF may be made in persons at the offices of The Armenian earthquake rescue efforts disorganized, survivors freezing

YEREVAN, U.S.S.R. (AP)--Survivors of the Armenian earthquake are starting to freeze to death at night and just a fraction of the thousands of tents sent to the disaster area have reached the homeless. Pravda said today.

As hopes dimmed for the living who remained trapped under rubble, Premier Nikolai I. Ryzhkov blamed shoddy construction for the huge death toll and acknowledged that rescue efforts had been plagued by disorganization.

Pravda, the Communist Party daily, demanded prosecution of the "scrap-builders" who put up apartments that crumbled into "concrete and metal graves."

The death toll from Wednesday's quake in seismically active northwestern Armenia was estimated at up to 60,000 people. Half a million were homeless and 6,000 were hospitalized, Ryzhkov said.

Hope dwindled for those still trapped in the ruins, and the smell of decaying corpses filled the air by day. Temperatures plummeted below freezing at night.

Shelter and salvage equipment were in short supply and the rescue effort was being carried out mostly by friends and relatives using little more than their bare hands and small tools.

Only two roads and one rail line were open to the quake-stricken region, hindering the delivery of heavy rescue equipment like cranes and bulldozers. Many supplies were arriving by helicopter and parachute.

In hard-hit Leninakan, remaining residents are beginning to suffer from a lack of drinking water, sewage and garbage-hauling facilities, and transport, said the newspaper Sovetskaya Rossiya.

It said it was understandable that officials responsible for such services were in a state of shock, "as practically everyone lost families," but said the lack of action could not continue.

In some towns, no one was organizing relief efforts because all the officials had been killed by the quake, Soviet television reported.

Ten people were pulled alive from the rubble Monday, bringing the total rescued in all areas to 5,398, Ryzhkov said. About 1,000 people were rescued in Spitak, a city of 30,000 that was almost totally destroyed.

The massive influx of aid from around the world overwhelmed the backward, mountainous area hardest hit by the disaster.

"Our nation is so undeveloped we can't even receive help properly," said one air traffic controller on the verge of tears at the airport in Yerevan, the Armenian capital 50 miles to the southeast.

The earthquake destroyed hundreds of recently constructed apartment buildings in the cities of Leninakan, Spitak, and Kirovakan and destroyed 28 villages.

"We believe gross violations were permitted" in planning and building the apartment buildings that collapsed, Ryzhkov told reporters in Yerevan on Monday. "If the homes had been of good quality construction, something like this would not have happened."

In a frank exchange with reporters, he also said rescue efforts lacked organization. But he praised the enthusiasm of the thousands of rescue and medical workers and the 18,000 soldiers deployed to keep order.

Ryzhkov said the ruined cities will be rebuilt within two years. But this time, no buildings will be taller than three or four stories. The estimated cost of rebuilding will probably be at least $ 8 billion he said.

The majority of the structures that collapsed were five- to nine-story apartment complexes, similar to those in many parts of the Soviet Union.

Ryzhkov, who heads a commission of the ruling Politburo overseeing rescue efforts, said a panel was formed to review the construction.

"It is time to answer the question, how many criminal cases were filed against the scrap-builders and what was the outcome?" Pravda said in a scathing article on Monday.

"Geophysicists more than once warned builders of the high seismic activity in northwest Armenia, but stubbornly they continued to raise five- to nine-story buildings," the paper said.

According to Leonid Bitin, deputy chief of Soviet construction, every building more than five stories high collapsed.

Photographs show entire sections of high-rise residential buildings sheared off, with no evidence of steel reinforcing bars at stress points as required in Western countries.

A broken concrete slab with the words "This piece of concrete is not to be used" written on it lay in the rubble in Leninakan, a city of 250,000 where more than three-quarters of the buildings fell.

Old Man Winter puffs his stuff on East Coast, killing three

"After all, Pellston is the icebox of the nation," added meteorologist Randy Bresser, who reported a minus-16 mark Monday.

In Buffalo, N.Y., William Doss' beard was frozen when he reached his downtown office Monday, which set a record of minus 9 degrees.

"It's cold, but winter's just beginning," said Doss. "Take my advice: It's best not to get too worked up about the temperature this early in the season."

The cold brought the plight of the homeless to the forefront as shelters and government officials geared up for winter. But some homeless sought cover in subways, parks or in makeshift structures on city streets.

"The worst people stay in those shelters," said Eli, a 48-year-old homeless man in New York City who wouldn't give his last name. "You're better off to stay in the subway

Juvenile justice group seeking change in no-pass, no-play rule

AUSTIN (AP) — A special Senate committee studying juvenile justice focused on proposals to prevent youngsters from becoming offenders, as well as dealing with those who commit crimes, in approving recommendations to lawmakers.

"Our failure to fund and implement programs that positively affect children in their earliest years demonstrably results in even more expensive 'fall-out' as time passes," said the report approved Monday by the Senate Select Committee on the Juvenile Justice System.

One recommendation is that students be allowed to make up assignments for up to 15 unexcused absences a semester, but be barred from extracurricular activities after more than five such absences.

"Assume you have a kid who has a steer he wants to show at a stock show," state Sen. Bill Sarpalus, a Canyon Democrat who heads the committee, said during a break in the meeting. "He's got an investment in that steer ... and that kid knows that if he doesn't go to school, he's not going to be able to show it. He's not going to be able to sell it in a sale, or whatever."

"So hopefully, we'll encourage the kid to go to school," said Sarpalus, who won a congressional seat in the November election.

The suggestion was among many items the committee recommended to state lawmakers, who meet in regular session beginning in January.

The no-pass, no-play rule now says students must pass to participate in extracurricular activities.

The rule is not triggered specifically by absences, although a student with more than five unexcused absences in a class cannot get credit for that course, said Terri Moore, Texas Education Agency spokeswoman. A student also cannot make up an assignment after an unexcused absence.

Currently it would be difficult for a student to not get credit for a course and still participate in extracurricular activities, but it would be possible for that student to continue participating through the end of the semester, when the sanction would occur, said Ms. Moore.

Of the proposal to allow make-ups after up to 15 unexcused absences, Ms. Moore said some have suggested that a student with five absences lacks incentive to work in a course for which no credit will be earned.

The special committee report stated, "We know ... that 88 percent of inmates in (prison) have not completed high school ... The committee's concern with prevention and early intervention left little choice but to look toward the schools for some impact on the juvenile justice system."

Among other committee recommendations were to:

- Expand eligibility for prenatal and postnatal Medicaid coverage for the poor, and other programs designed to improve the birth and health of infants and young children and to teach parenting skills and nutrition to young families.

- Require school districts to provide "life skills training" in kindergarten through 12th grade.

- Expand the use of restitution and community service for juvenile offenders and parents.

- Enact "habitual delinquent" laws requiring the referral of children to juvenile court after a given number of misdemeanors or felonies, and mandating the Texas Youth Commission establish a minimum institutional period for juveniles identified as "chronic" felony offenders.

- Substantially increase state resources in the "front end" of the juvenile justice system to prevent institutionalization. One example would be increased state aid to juvenile probation departments.

- Create a new organizational structure for juvenile services. The recommendation includes establishing a state Commission on Children, Youth and Family Services, composed of public members and administrators of agencies that deal with young people and their families.

Missile hits Indian ship

HONOLULU (AP) — A 250-foot Indian merchant ship steamed toward port for repairs today after being accidentally hit by a supersonic "Harpoon" missile fired from a U.S. Navy jet, killing one crewman, authorities said.

The body of the merchant seaman was flown by a Navy helicopter to Wilcox Memorial Hospital on the island of Kauai, nursing supervisor

Lillian Teshima.

The Indian vessel Jagvivek, bound for Singapore with an unknown cargo, was in Navy's Pacific Missile Range 200 miles northwest of Honolulu, even though the area was closed to commercial shipping because of military operations, the Navy said.

Navy authorities are investigating the incident.

The FA-18 Hornet attack fighter from the aircraft carrier USS Constellation launched the 12-foot-long, 1,000-pound, unarmed missile during a training mission toward a target hulk ship many miles out to sea, the Navy said.

Toe-tingling arctic air lingered over the East today, but a reprieve was in sight from the season's first big chill that contributed to at least three deaths, stalled cars and burst pipes from the Great Lakes to the South.

The deep freeze taxed utilities, filled shelters for the homeless and gave some students a holiday when furnaces quit or buses froze.

The subzero cold today had already set a record for the date in Albany, N.Y., where a reading of minus 5 exceeded the minus 1 record set in 1960.

On Monday, records for the date were set in 25 cities.

Temperatures were expected to warm into the 30s by Wednesday as a weather system nudges the arctic air east, said meteorologist Brian Smith at the National Weather Service's Severe Storms Center in Kansas City, Mo.

Many people took the cold in stride, pausing to yank on an extra sweater or dig out their winter cap.

"We've always had cold weather here, so it's nothing new to us," said Wilma Kuebler, a receptionist at the Emmet County airport just north of Pellston in northern Michigan. "Other than a door freezing shut, it hasn't stopped us."

Christmas program held

A play commemorating the birth of Christ was held at St. Anthony's Catholic School Sunday afternoon following a teacher appreciation meal. From left, the Biblical Joseph and Mary were portrayed by Trey Bezner and Ashley Fangman; two angels included Jessica Weishaar and Brionne Yosten. All classes at the school participated in the event; these youngsters were among those representing Mrs. Laverne Kearn's kindergarten class.

Bridal shower held for Jenifer Bankston

Jenifer Bankston, January 7, 1989, bride-elect of Shaun Rickman, was honored with a bridal shower Saturday morning in Kinsey Parlor of First Baptist Church.

Greeting guests with the honoree were her mother, Mrs. Bill Bankston; the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Johnny Rickman; and his grandmothers, Mrs. Don Henslee and Mrs. Lee Roy Rickman.

Denise Paetzold invited guests to sign the registry and Kay Bell and Kay Redwine served refreshments of coffee, mulled cider, sausage balls, cheese balls, fresh fruit plate, and assorted breakfast sweet breads.

The serving table, covered with a white lace cloth, was centered with an all silk arrangement of white lilies with emerald green trim. The table was appointed with a silver coffee and tea service and silver punch bowl, crystal cups and plates.

A 12-piece cookware set was given to the bride-elect by the hostesses: Lucy Rogers, Kay Redwine, Oleta Tisdale, Mary Beth White, Merle Clark, Marline Watson, Bonnie Duke, Bonnie Wuerflein, Margaret Lomenick, Carolyn Johnson, Tina Langchenning, Betty Taylor, Kay Bell and Cindy Walker.

Grapefruit yield up 18 percent over '87

The Rio Grande Valley grapefruit harvest is active, with much of the current crop finding its way into aromatic and colorful Yule gift containers across Texas.

Citrus marketing increases annually as Christmas nears, said Dr. Julian Sauls, a horticulturist (citrus) with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. He said grapefruit production in the state is estimated at 4.5 million boxes for the current season, up 18 percent from last year.

Sauls said early fruit quality has been very good.

"Sizes also are good and are expected to increase as the season advances," Sauls said.

"In addition, more Rio Red grapefruit is now available since new plantings of that variety are coming into production," he said. The industry also is marketing a considerable volume of Ruby Sweet and Rio Star fruits.

Sauls said this marks the fifth season since the devastating freeze struck the Valley citrus industry in 1983.

"With replantings, the Valley grapefruit crop is being grown on about half the acreage used before the freeze, and production is about 43 percent of the volume it attained before the freeze. Orange production is about 31 percent of what it was before the 1983 freeze," he said.

Sauls said the U.S. grapefruit production is forecast at about 66.7 million boxes, or five percent above the yield of last season.

Betty Crocker's Cooking Tips

Q. What causes biscuits to be soggy in the middle? N.B., Sunrise Beach, Mo.

A. Too little baking time can leave you with soggy biscuits. Watch baking time and temperature and place biscuits on middle rack centering baking sheet in oven.

A few tips to increase cooking success of other items follow:

—Choose among these decorative ways to flatten molded cookies: a glass with an interesting pattern on the bottom, a fork pressed on the cookie top in two directions or a ceramic or wood cookie stamp. Dip "press" in flour or granulated sugar to prevent sticking.

—Flavor pastry for 8- or 9-inch one crust pie by stirring in one of the following: 1/2 c. shredded Cheddar cheese, 1 tsp. ground cinnamon, 2 Tbsp. finely chopped nuts, 1 Tbsp. toasted sesame seed, 2 Tbsp. of wheat germ.

—Mix cornstarch with a little cold water before adding it to a hot mixture.

FOOD FACTS

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — During a famine, the growth of children may be stunted. But the reverse is also true. Children who eat too much may accelerate their growth, says an authority on child nutrition.

"Obese children tend to be taller than their normal-weight peers," says Dr. Gilbert Forbes of the University of Rochester Medical Center. He adds that if an observer tracks height and weight relationships over time "it appears that the height increase coincides with the weight increase or follows somewhat later. It never seems to occur before."

Therefore, he concludes, the increase in height and surfeit of food are linked.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: God only knows how many people are locked in a life-and-death struggle with compulsive eating. I happen to be one of them. Overeaters Anonymous saved my life.

Please print this letter so your readers who have eating disorders can recognize themselves and do something about it. Thank the good Lord I did. Here's the true test:

1. Do you eat when you're not hungry?
2. Do you go on eating binges for no apparent reason?
3. Do you have feelings of guilt and remorse after overeating?
4. Do you give too much time and thought to food?
5. Do you look forward with pleasure and anticipation to the moment when you can eat by yourself?

6. Do you plan these secret binges ahead of time?

7. Do you eat sensibly in the presence of others and make up for it when you are alone?

8. Is your weight affecting the way you live?

9. Have you tried to diet for a week (or longer) and given up before you reached your goal?

10. Do you resent it when people tell you to "use a little will power" and lose some weight?

11. Despite evidence to the contrary, have you continued to insist that you can diet on your own whenever you wish?

12. Do you crave food at a definite time of day or night other than mealtime?

13. Do you eat to escape from worries or disappointment and reward yourself with something forbidden to cheer yourself up?

14. Has your physician ever treated you for being overweight?

15. Does your obsession with food make you or others unhappy?

If you answered yes to three or more of these questions, you have a potential problem with compulsive overeating. If you answered yes to seven or more of these questions, you have a serious eating problem.

Overeaters Anonymous welcomes everyone who wants to stop eating compulsively. There are no dues or fees for membership. Our primary purpose is to abstain from compulsive overeating and to carry this message of recovery to those who still suffer.

To find out more about OA's 12-step recovery program, write to: Overeaters Anonymous, 4025 Spencer St., No. 203, Torrance, Calif. 90503.

I am--Recovering in Arlington, Va.

DEAR RECOVERING: You and thousands of others.

I've had a tremendous amount of feedback from readers who have succeeded with OA after everything else failed. I recommend this approach wholeheartedly.

To those who are not Christians and therefore have trouble with the aspect of OA that encourages them to put their faith in Jesus Christ, I suggest that they substitute their own central figure of worship and not deny themselves the benefits of this fine program.

What are the signs of alcoholism? How can you tell if someone you love is an alcoholic? "Alcoholism: How to Recognize It, How to Deal With It, How to Conquer It" will give you the answers. Hints from Heloise

SHOULDER PADS

Dear Heloise: Why do so many of the styles of clothing have shoulder pads? Personally, I don't especially like them, but I would like to know their purpose. — A Reader, Bulverde, Texas Shoulder pads were designed to help clothes hang better. They can make your waist look smaller, balance a large bust or make you look taller.

They come in many different colors, fabrics and shapes. Manufacturers are now adding self-gripping tape to the pads so that they can be removed for washing or if you prefer the garment without them.

I think a smaller, thin shoulder pad can help balance the look of an outfit. I do agree that most football-player-size pads should go back to the sports locker! — Heloise

ICE-CREAM CLOWN

Dear Heloise: My son was invited to a friend's birthday party and his mother had some cute little decorations. I thought they were great and want to pass along to other mothers the directions for making them.

On a large chocolate doughnut place a ball of vanilla ice cream. Then on top of that put an inverted ice-cream cone. On the ball of ice cream make a face using chocolate chips for the eyes and the nose, and a piece of a red gumdrop for the mouth.

Surprise! You have a clown! The children really enjoyed them and the party was a hit. — Tammy Bergran, Ansonia, Conn.

Send a money or time-saving hint to Heloise, P.O. Box 795000, San Antonio, TX 78279. I can't answer your letter personally but will use the best hints received in my column.

Whitefaces host Randall

The Hereford Whitefaces boys basketball team returns to District 1-4A action tonight after winning the Denver City Invitational basketball tournament last weekend, while the Lady Whitefaces try for their first district win of the year when the teams host Randall High School tonight at Whiteface Gym.

The Herd defeated Denver City 46-36 and Seminole 58-54 to win the championship in the Denver City Tournament on Saturday.

Hereford came back from a 30-23 halftime deficit in the championship game, cutting the Indians' lead to 43-39 at the end of the third quarter before outscoring Seminole 19-11 in the fourth quarter to take the title.

Clint Cotten led all scorers with 18 points, while Pat Mercer added 15 and Brad Smith hit 10 points.

In Saturday morning's championship semifinal, the Herd defeated the host Mustangs 46-36.

Denver City led at the end of the first quarter, 10-8, before the Whitefaces outscored the Mustangs 18-7 in the second period to take a 26-17 lead at the intermission.

Cotten again led Hereford with 14 points, while Jason Scott added 10 points.

"Every game was close," said Hereford coach Mike Fields. "In the Denver City game, we were tied with two minutes to go, and we were never ahead of Seminole until the last 1:30 of the game.

"It's fun to win a tournament. I don't know when the last time was that Hereford won a boys varsity tournament, but I've been around here for 10 years and I don't remember us winning one."

The Hereford boys are 1-0 in district play after last Tuesday's one-point win over Dumas, while the girls stand 0-3 in district play.

"This district may be like the NFL," said Fields. "If you end up with a winning record, you end up in the playoffs. In the first week, the biggest point spread was three baskets. It's going to be a tough district."

Randall is led by Zac Parker, who was an all-district post player last year at Canyon.

"He scored 40 points against Caprock last Friday," Fields said. "Caprock beat them by four, and Caprock only beat us by one. But Randall beat Amarillo High by 20, and Amarillo High beat us by 34, so I don't know what to think.

"In the last two weeks, six teams have won tournaments and two others were second. Pampa, who was picked to win the district, is the only one who didn't come in first or second in a tournament. It's going to be a tough game every time out in district."

Rozier sparks Oiler win

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Coach Jerry Glanville sat down last week and found something positive about the Oilers' 44-21 loss to Cincinnati on Oct. 23.

It was the performance of Mike Rozier and helped him formulate a game plan for Sunday's 41-6 victory in the Astrodome.

"It went unnoticed but it was a great job of running," Glanville said. "Watching the film we felt real good about being able to do what we did if we didn't get too far behind."

The Oilers didn't fall behind 28-0 in the first quarter as they did Oct. 23 and Rozier responded with 126 yards rushing and three touchdowns.

Rozier chatters easily with teammates and the media but he doesn't like to talk about his skills as a runner.

"I get paid to run, God gave me the gift and I use it," Rozier said. The entertainment of watching Rozier is what happens while he's running and not what he does after he scores.

Cincinnati cornerback Solomon Wilcotts got a close view of Rozier's running style Sunday.

Rozier head-butted Wilcotts at the five-yard line en route to his first touchdown, a 13-yard run straight up the middle.

Oiler offensive linemen consider Rozier one of them.

"Our job is physical abuse and Rozie gets out there with us and is one of the most physical running backs in the NFL," center Jay Pennington said.

"It fires us up when he runs over someone or stiff-arms a guy so hard it knocks them down."

Glanville says Rozier brings a defensive mentality to the offense.

"People talk about linebackers and defensive ends giving a team physical toughness but we get it on both sides of the ball," Glanville said.

Rozier gained 126 yards on 22 carries against Cincinnati and now has 965 yards for the season. He's near his first 1,000-yard rushing season in the NFL.

"Rozier made some beautiful moves, and he also broke some tackles," Cincinnati Coach Sam Wyche said.

Rozier finished fourth in the NFL in rushing in the strike-shortened 1987 season and earned his first Pro Bowl appearance.

Despite a foot injury late in the season, Rozier started playoff games against Seattle and Denver.

Rozier scored on a one-yard touchdown run against Seattle in the wild card playoff game, running to his left and reversing his field to score on the right side.

Rozier repeated the pattern Sunday with a three-yard touchdown run that started to the right and then reversed back to the left side for the touchdown.

"I get paid to run," Rozier explained. "When I get close to the goal, I want to get in. With that run, I wanted to give the team a charge." Offensive linemen don't worry about strict blocks when Rozier carries the ball.

"We only have to make contact with the defensive player and Mike can get by with just a small crack," Pennington said.

UNLV coach loses fight against NCAA order

LAS VEGAS (AP) — After losing in the nation's highest court, Nevada-Las Vegas basketball Coach Jerry Tarkanian now finds the ball firmly in the NCAA's court.

Tarkanian, who lost a U.S. Supreme Court ruling Monday capping his 12-year fight against the NCAA, now must wait and see if the NCAA follows through on its original plan to order UNLV to suspend him from coaching for two years for alleged recruiting violations.

The NCAA isn't saying what it will do, but UNLV officials expressed optimism the organization will settle for a courtroom victory and drop any punitive action against Tarkanian.

"It is obvious that the principle that the NCAA is seeking has been upheld," UNLV President Robert Maxson said. "However, after 12 years, I would expect the NCAA not to pursue any action against Jerry Tarkanian."

"Coach Tarkanian has surely been through enough during this period of time and I have every reason to believe the NCAA will honor our appeal that they not pursue this matter."

Whether Tarkanian can even be suspended remains unclear, because the long-time coach is still protected by a state court injunction against the university suspending him.

Tarkanian's attorney, Mark Solomon, said the decision will not immediately affect Tarkanian because the injunction forces the university to have to provide the coach due process before making any attempt to suspend him.

Dick Shultz, executive director of the NCAA, declined comment on Tarkanian's future, saying the NCAA's infractions committee will meet at a later time to decide what to do in the case.

Sherrill resigns, Slocum new A&M coach

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Texas A&M started a new athletic era today under new head coach R.C. Slocum and new athletic director John David Crow, a former Heisman Trophy winner for the Aggies.

The Jackie Sherrill era ended Monday when Sherrill resigned as head coach and athletic director amid accusations he paid "hush" money to a former player during an NCAA investigation.

Sherrill led the Aggies to three straight Cotton Bowl appearances and compiled a 53-27-1 record in seven seasons.

But the Aggies were placed on probation in September for violating NCAA recruiting guidelines.

Controversy emerged again last month when former A&M running back George Smith claimed he received more than $4,000 from Sherrill to keep him quiet about NCAA infractions.

The Aggies still are investigating the latest charges to the NCAA although Smith has recanted his statements.

"Because of my great love for this school and its people, I am removing myself from my position at Texas A&M," Sherrill said in a prepared statement.

"I have remained in my position because I felt it has been a period that has needed my complete interest and full cooperation due to the continuing national attention that has been paid to this matter.

"Now, it is with all this in mind, and with the best interest of Texas A&M uppermost in my thoughts, it is time for us to come to a mutual parting of the ways in order for everyone concerned to get a fresh start," Sherrill said.

Sherrill resigned with a five-year rollover contract worth $250,000 per year. A source close to the A&M athletic department said Sherrill received a $1.5 million settlement to end his relationship with the school.

A&M president William Mobley launched an in-house investigation of Smith's allegations which, if proved, could have put A&M in jeopardy of the NCAA's death penalty for a violation while under probation.

"I have agreed with Mr. Sherrill that his best interest, and that of the University, will be best served by this action," Mobley said.

Aside from the prepared statement, Sherrill said he would not discuss the Smith case.

"I will refrain from discussing this matter until it is completely resolved and all parties are vindicated, as I strongly believe they will be," Sherrill's statement said.

Sherrill's decision "should not be interpreted as pre-judging the outcome of the ongoing investigation of recent allegations," Mobley said. "I will continue to be guided in this matter, and all other university matters, by the principles of due process, fairness and integrity."

Players heard of the resignation at a meeting with Sherrill on Monday.

"As a whole, Coach Sherrill was the university to me," nose guard O'Neill Gilbert said. "A lot of people had a lot of respect for him. He definitely got a raw deal."

Defensive back Tony Jones hoped the Aggies could unite under Slocum.

"We're all like one big family and Coach Slocum helped us build that family," Jones said.

Crow, a 1966 Texas A&M graduate and the University's only Heisman Trophy winner, has served as associate athletic director for the past five years.

Slocum has served as assistant head coach for the past three years. He has been associated with the Texas A&M football program for 16 years during two terms of employment, returning to the Aggie program in 1982 after two years as defensive coordinator at the University of Southern California.

Mobley said Crow and Slocum "are highly respected on this campus and in their profession. Both have assured me of their commitment to excellence, full compliance with NCAA, SWC and university regulations, and the highest integrity in our athletic programs."

Kentucky gets more time

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The University of Kentucky has a six-week extension from the NCAA to answer charges against the school's basketball program.

Meanwhile, the university also released the full text Monday to 13 of 17 allegations of wrongdoing handed down by the NCAA in October. The charges had been released in the NCAA's letter of Supplemental Official Inquiry dated Oct. 13, but the university at that time did not release names because of possible litigation.

The NCAA extended the deadline for the university's response to the allegations from Dec. 12 to Jan. 30.

"This extension will enable us to take all reasonable steps necessary to complete our discussions with these people and assemble a final report," said James Park Jr., a Lexington attorney hired by UK to conduct the university's internal investigation and prepare the response to the NCAA.

"The investigation and the collection of information gathered has been a voluminous job," Park said.

Park said that, in addition to the allegations, there were some 126 requests for information and six special sections of responses received from the NCAA in its letters of official inquiry to UK.

UK assistant coach Dwane Casey was mentioned in eight of the allegations released Monday after a Fayette Circuit judge ruled the state's open-records law did not permit UK to keep them secret. An earlier allegation was received by the university July 25, and it stated that Casey sent $1,000 to Claud Mills, the father of student-athlete Chris Mills.

The (Louisville) Courier-Journal

reported that Casey also is named in three of four other allegations that were not released pending motions by attorneys to keep those charges secret.

The allegations that were released Monday and that mention Casey range from offering monetary inducements to prospective student-athlete Sean Higgins, now at Michigan; to improper contact with Columbus, Ohio, prep star Lawrence Funderburke; to transporting student-athlete Matt Bullard of Des Moines, Iowa, to the horse farm of Dan Isel, a former UK and professional basketball player.

The newspaper said Casey offered Higgins a monthly allowance of $300 throughout his career at UK, an automobile upon signing and the opportunity to receive a different car after he enrolled.

The NCAA also questioned Casey's ethical conduct in complying with NCAA rules before and during its probe.

The university's decision to release the text of the allegations stemmed from a "friendly" lawsuit filed Oct. 25 by the university and The Courier-Journal.

Fayette Circuit Judge George E. Barker ruled last week that the university had to make available copies of the complete text, saying in a 17-page ruling that the allegations are not protected by the state's Open Records Law.

School attorneys are seeking not to disclose names in an allegation that said a prospective student-athlete and his friend were provided free lodging on a visit to the campus and that the student-athlete attended the school's basketball camp at no cost.

Grading practices at Carter to be reviewed by agency

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Education Agency will review grading practices at Carter High School today to determine whether irregularities that came to light during the football playoffs are widespread.

Two agency officials will visit the Dallas school to ask Carter principal Clarence Russeau and several teachers about the grading program that was at the center of a legal battle between the TEA and the Dallas Independent School District.

Meanwhile, an official with the University Interscholastic League said Monday that the organization will not attempt further legal action this week to keep the Carter Cowboys out of Saturday's Class 5A football championship game.

"We are not going to pursue any immediate court action," said Gina Mazzolini of the UIL. "As far as we are concerned, Carter will play in the championship game against Converse Judson."

The 3rd Court of Appeals on Friday rejected a bid by the UIL to overturn a lower court order that allowed Carter to keep playing football despite objections by the league and the education agency.

David Thompson, general counsel for the TEA, said the agency now is primarily concerned with the grading problems that surfaced at the school when Carter began the playoffs.

The grades of two Carter football players were challenged by a TEA investigating team.

"We want to look at the rest of the campus and find out if there are other grading problems at Carter."

If other problems do exist, Texas Education Commissioner William Kirby could direct Dallas schools

Superintendent Marvin Edwards to take corrective action, Thompson told The Dallas Morning News.

"If our people bring back a good report, that will not disappoint the commissioner," Thompson said.

"But our position is that Carter used an ineligible player, and we want to determine why it happened. There also appears to be a great deal of confusion over their grading procedures," he said.

During hearings, Kirby said he was dismayed by conflicting statements given by Russeau and the algebra teacher for one of the student athletes.

The dispute is scheduled to go to trial in March. If the education agency and the UIL ultimately win their court fight with the Dallas school district, Carter would be stripped of the state crown should it win.

Texans have a taste for pecans

By JUDITH K. MCGINNIS
Wichita Falls Times Record News
WICHITA FALLS (AP) — You may be wild about walnuts, mad for macadamias, or bonkers over Brazil nuts, but nothing can match the passion Texans have for pecans.

From fireside crackers who eat almost as much as they save, to commercial growers who produce tons of nutmeats each year, our love of pecans runs as deep as the roots of this native.

The average annual pecan production in Texas, including native and improved varieties, is about 65 million pounds — worth about $34 million to state's economy. Texas is currently ranked second nationally in pecan production.

Although many folks have their pecans provided naturally, via the backyard orchard, some of us must purchase papershells. When buying inshell pecans, look for smooth, clean shells that are free of splits, cracks stains or holes. The kernel should not rattle when the nut is shaken.

A pound of in-shell pecans will yield about 2½ cups of kernels. About 4 ounces of shelled pecans equal a cup.

When selecting shelled pecans,

The two 1,350 foot towers of the World Trade Center in New York City occupy only two acres, but can accommodate 130,000 people.

look for plump nutmeats which are uniform in color and size. The best have a bright golden color. You may choose to purchase halves for garnishes, but pecan pieces will suit most of your needs. Pieces usually cost less and save on chopping time.

The high polyunsaturated fat content of pecans that makes them taste so good also is what causes them to dry out, shrink or turn rancid if not properly stored. Though whole nuts retain their quality longer than shelled, all pecans keep longer if refrigerated.

Freezing pecans, whole or shelled, is the best way to ensure their flavor and crispness. Frozen pecans do not have to be thawed before they are added to a recipe, and they can be refrozen several times without loss of quality.

Pecans will absorb odors from other products and they should not be stored near onions, apples, oranges or other products which emit an odor. Pack them in sealable polyethylene bags or glass jars with tight-fitting lids.

Here are some ways to use Texas favorite nutmeats:

TEXAS PECAN PIE

- 1 cup white corn syrup
- 1 cup dark brown sugar
- 1-3 teaspoon salt
- 1-3 cup melted butter
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 3 slightly beaten eggs
- 1½ cup pecan halves
- 1 (9-inch) unbaked pie crust
- Mix syrup, sugar, salt and vanilla. Mix in slightly beaten eggs. Add pecans. Pour into pie crust. Bake at 350 degrees about 45 minutes.

PECAN BROCCOLI

- 2 pounds broccoli
- salt
- freshly ground black pepper
- fresh lemon juice
- 1-3 cup pecans
- 4 tablespoons unsalted butter
- 1 finely chopped garlic clove
- Remove and discard large leaves and tough portions of stem from broccoli. Wash broccoli, drain and tie securely into bunches with cotton string. Cook, tightly covered in small amount of water 15-20 minutes or until tender. Drain; remove string.
- Arrange broccoli on warm platter. Season with salt, pepper and sprinkle with lemon juice. Sauté pecans in butter until lightly browned. Add garlic. Sprinkle garlic butter and pecans over broccoli. Serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

ORANGE PECANDY

- 2 cups sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 4 tablespoons corn syrup
- ¾ cup evaporated milk
- juice of 1 orange
- 1 teaspoon grated orange peel
- ¼ cup butter
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup lightly toasted pecans
- Bring sugar, salt, syrup and milk to boil. Add orange peel and cook to 234 degrees on a candy thermometer. Add peel; cook to 350 degrees. Cool. Add butter, vanilla and nuts, beat; drop by teaspoonsful onto greased cookie sheet. Store in airtight container.

Woman's Health

IN-VITRO FERTILIZATION

By Robert C. Park, M.D.
Pres., American College of Obstetricians
and Gynecologists

In just a few short years, in-vitro fertilization (IVF) has gone from being a scientific experiment to a procedure that has allowed thousands of couples to have babies that they might not have had otherwise.

If you wonder if IVF is for you, here are some general guidelines as to who are the best candidates and what the procedure involves.

Who can be helped by IVF? In general, this procedure is recommended when the woman's uterus and ovaries are normal, but her fallopian tubes are either blocked or have been removed. It may also be used in some cases of endometriosis, low sperm count, or unexplained infertility.

To be accepted at most reputable IVF clinics, a couple must have undergone a thorough infertility work-up and have received a recommendation for IVF from their doctor. Some clinics will not accept women over 40 years of age.

Once accepted, the woman's menstrual cycles are carefully monitored, and she is usually given drugs to ensure that she will ovulate or produce eggs. Blood tests and a test that uses sound waves (ultrasound) help pinpoint when the woman ovulates.

At the time of ovulation, the doctors will remove the woman's eggs so they can be fertilized with the husband's sperm. To do this, the doctor will use ultrasound or a surgical procedure called laparoscopy to locate and harvest the eggs.

The eggs are then placed in a dish with the husband's sperm. Within a day or so, the fertilized eggs are replaced in the woman, and she is carefully watched for about two weeks to see if the fertilized eggs, now called embryos, attach to the womb (uterus).

If this happens, pregnancy occurs. If it doesn't, the cycle is repeated. Established IVF clinics report that women have a 20 to 25 percent chance of becoming pregnant during one cycle—the same as for a couple who conceives naturally.

IVF is not without inconveniences. The woman must undergo surgery, the couple must spend days at or near the clinic, each attempt costs several thousand dollars, and the success rates are not high.

Recently there has been concern that some clinics may be attempting IVF without enough experience. You should not hesitate to ask how many successful pregnancies a clinic has had, and what its percentage of success is.

Your doctor can tell you if you are a good medical candidate for IVF. But only you and your partner will know if it is a good choice for the two of you.

Social Security

CHILDREN NEED EVIDENCE FOR NUMBER

Everyone who applies for a Social Security number must provide evidence of age, identity, and U.S. citizenship for lawful alien status, including young children, Amarillo Social Security Manager, said recently.

Parents sometimes have difficulty finding the required evidence of identity.

Proof of age is relatively easy, an official U.S. public birth certificate recorded before age 5 is preferred. This document will also establish citizenship.

Documents which will establish a young child's identity, and which are usually available to most families, include a report card, school identification card, newspaper birth announcement, court order for name change, church membership or confirmation record, doctor or hospital record, vaccination certificate, day care or nursery school record, or child's membership in youth organization, such as scouts.

This list is not an exclusive list.

Talbot said. Any document providing enough identifying data can be used.

Foreign born applicants will also need the appropriate Immigration and Naturalization Service documents.

Only original documents or copies certified by the issuing can be used.

For more information, contact the Amarillo Social Security office, located at 3601 W. 15th. The telephone number is (806)364-2241.

BANKS AT SEA

NEW YORK (AP) — Automatic teller machines (ATMs) are beginning to show up on U.S. Navy ships at sea.

With these shipboard ATMs, made and installed by NCR Corp., sailors no longer have to leave their posts for long periods of time to stand in line to get their paychecks. Also, they now can withdraw the exact amount of money they need, eliminating the all-or-nothing situation they previously faced when cashing their paychecks.

Six Navy vessels now have ATMs on board and the Navy is expected to expand that to a total of 118 ships.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — It's fun to fly the rim of the Grand Canyon, and it's safe, says Air Vegas.

Because of changing winds, varying temperatures and difficult flight patterns, a thorough maintenance program is the key to safe flying, the air taxi company says. It flies tours in and around the canyon over 5,000 times a year.

Another secret for passenger safety, according to Phillips 66, is to change the engine oil every 10 days on the 20 twin and single engine planes. This keeps the engine virtually free of dust and dirt, making it less prone to breakdown.

BEWARE OF ZAPPERS
NEW YORK (AP) — An estimated 25 percent of the independent cabs in New York are equipped with electronic "zappers" that raise meter fares as high as 450 percent, city investigators report.

This past September, city police officers disguised as tourists found 22 of 50 cabs boarded used the zappers and overcharged. One "tourist" officer was charged $200 for a trip from JFK Airport to lower Manhattan, which would on average cost $32. The $200 included $70 as a tariff imposed by the driver.

A CLASS BY ITSELF
BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — As a way to simplify oil classifications for the consumer, the oil industry has created a single "SG" classification.

It will replace the dual classification, "SF-CC" previously used to indicate oils that meet the performance needs of newer model diesel and gasoline engines.

In the past 10 years, the car engine has undergone many changes. As well as operating at higher temperatures, the smaller four, six and eight cylinder engines of the 1980s tend to rev higher. "SG" oils are best equipped to combat the sludge that develops in these engines.
