All-around buckle

Susan Barrett shows off the jeweled silver buckle that will be awarded to the all-around cowgirl at the annual Hall of Fame All-Girl Rodeo to be held August 11-13 in Hereford. This year's rodeo will be held at The Barn, which recently reopened west of Hereford. The rodeo is just one of the features of this year's Town and Country Jubilee.

Manor barbecue set for Saturday

The King's Manor Founders Association will hold its annual barbecue Saturday from 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. on the King's Manor campus in Hereford. Saturday's barbecue is one of the facility's major fund-raisers each year. While most residents pay the full cost for the service of King's Manor, 26 percent of the residents received some type of financial assistance. With the Manor's policy that paying residents will never be charged one penny more to help offset costs for those unable to pay the full amount, King's Manor must rely on funds received from donations to make up the difference. Since 1979, contributions from the barbecue have helped to make up the difference. The barbecue will include a full-course barbecue meal and entertainment provided by Jerry Hodges and the Easter Opry. The minimum requested donation for tickets is $10 per person or $25 for a family of four.

Bush rejects Gorby proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush is rejecting Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev's latest proposal for reducing nuclear arsenals in Europe, saying he doesn't "want to get off track" and challenge hard-won NATO unity. Bush says he will stand by a NATO plan, which he orchestrated, that calls for conventional troop reductions first. Talks with the Soviets on cutting short-range nuclear warheads would come later, under the formula endorsed by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in May. As he prepared for next week's trip to Europe, the president told reporters on Thursday he was not concerned with the Soviet leader's popularity in Europe, declaring: "We're not going to get into the international poll business." Meanwhile, The Washington Post reported today that Bush has decided to propose a 25 percent pay increase for top career government employees, with as much as a tripling for a small number of key specialists. He has endorsed a similar raise for federal judges. White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Thursday night the White House expected to announce the president's decisions today, although he could not confirm the figures. Bush on Thursday issued a fresh challenge to Gorbachev to remove Red Army troops from Poland. Bush's initial call, made last week in an interview with Polish reporters, was dismissed by Gorbachev as political propaganda. "It's not political; it's a visceral feeling I have on the question," Bush said. He conceded Gorbachev had voiced "a lack of enthusiasm" toward his troop withdrawal proposal. But he added, "He's just taken troops out of Hungary. And who would have said two years ago that would happen? We salute that... I think it would be nice to aspire to that kind of situation where he wouldn't feel troops were necessary." In his meeting with reporters, Bush also: -Said he was "happy" that former White House aide Oliver North was not sentenced to prison, but declined to comment further on North's sentence Wednesday to a $150,000 fine, a three-year suspended sentence, two years' probation and 1,200 hours of community service for his role in the Iran-Contra affair. -Challenged East Germany and other Soviet bloc countries to follow the lead of Poland and Hungary in moving toward more democracy, saying: "come along with the flow." -Said he would press for a "broad tactical" international effort to clean up the environment at next week's economic summit in Paris, saying efforts should be focused on "preventing pollution at the outset, rather than cleaning it up afterwards."

Checks to senators studied

AUSTIN (AP) - Investigators from the Travis County district attorney's office have questioned several state senators about why a wealthy East Texas businessman handed out blank $10,000 checks on the Senate floor with the name of the payee left blank, according to news reports in Austin and Dallas. The Austin American-Statesman and The Dallas Morning News reported today that Lonnie "Bo" Pilgrim of Pittsburg handed out the checks in the Senate chamber two days before a crucial vote on workers' compensation. Pilgrim admits he distributed the checks and denied any wrongdoing Thursday, saying he gave out the checks as a political contribution and not to influence today's vote on the workers' compensation legislation. Told that Travis County District Attorney Ronnie Earle is investigating the matter, Pilgrim, who appears in television commercials dressed as Pilgrim, said, "If it's bribery, you'd have to say that all political donations are bribes." Earle told the Austin newspaper, "We are still researching the law to see if a statute was violated, but passing out blank checks in the chamber of the Texas Senate is outrageous conduct and ought to be against the law." "This is the first time I ever heard of anything like this," the prosecutor said. "It's not unusual for me to give large contributions, $10,000 to $100,000, to people and causes that advance good politics, religion, education here in Texas," Pilgrim told the Dallas newspaper. State law prohibits political contributions 30 days prior to and after a regular session of the Texas Legislature. The most recent regular session ended May 29. But the ban does not include a special session, and contributions, if properly reported by the politicians, are not considered bribery. "The bribery statute has a loophole big enough to drive a truck through," Earle said. Pilgrim said he talked to eight senators individually Wednesday afternoon about the need to change the state's workers' compensation system.

He said he talked to senators Hugh Parmer, Chet Edwards, Bob Glasgow, Gene Green, Tati Santesteban, Ike Harris, John Whitmire and Chet Brooks because "they were referenced to me as being those people that was broad minded." Parmer, D-Fort Worth, said he returned the check to Pilgrim and later discussed the legality of the checks with other senators and Lt. Gov. BILL Hobby. He said Pilgrim told him that he was interested in getting criminal trials removed from the workers' compensation legislation "because that costs us money." Parmer said he and Hobby decided to discuss the matter with Sen. Craig Washington, D-Houston, because Washington is a criminal defense lawyer. Washington advised Parmer to take the matter to Earle and volunteered to go with him, Parmer told the Austin newspaper. Pilgrim said he gave them the blank checks directly because "I didn't know the name of their campaign file. It's not unusual for me to give large contributions ranging from $10,000 to $100,000 to people." The East Texas millionaire said he also handed out a fact sheet showing how the present workers' compensation system is affecting his business. Because of Texas' workers' compensation system, Pilgrim says it costs him $4 million more to have the same job performed in Texas than it does in Arkansas. His chicken processing plants employ 7,000 people in Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Arizona and Mexico. About 4,300 of those employees work in Texas, Pilgrim said. "I asked the senators to give us a win-win bill," Pilgrim said. "The current law don't work. Those of us who are suffering the consequences are trying to get the senators to work with the House to give us a bill that we can work with and that will maintain jobs." Pilgrim said he did not ask any of the senators who received the checks to support his idea of how the legislation should be written.

School finance debates heating

AUSTIN (AP) - The public school finance lawsuit that is pending before the Texas Supreme Court was the backdrop for a political duel between Gov. Bill Clements and Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox. Clements on Thursday accused Mattox of "half-heartedly" defending the state against a challenge from poor school districts that Texas' system of funding public education is discriminatory. Mattox, who is seeking the Democratic Party nomination for governor, fired back to Clements in a letter, saying, "Governor, you frequently speak without having all the facts, and I'm sure you're aware of that. This is one of those occasions." Clements, a Republican who has said he will not seek another term, criticized Mattox for the attorney general's comments following oral arguments Wednesday before the state Supreme Court in the school lawsuit. Mattox said that based on the comments and questions from the Supreme Court justices, "There's either a majority or close to a majority that would rule it unconstitutional." "I read with somewhat surprise our state lawyer already voting with Mr. (Oscar) Mauzy," Clements said. Clements has earlier accused Mauzy, a Supreme Court justice, of already having written his opinion in favor of the poor school districts. "You know he (Mattox) is in Mauzy's hind pocket. We're fighting this case for any practical purpose with no representation," Clements said. Mattox responded saying Clements owed the state's lead attorney in the case, Kevin O'Hanlon, an apology. "I think if you would take the time to talk with representatives of your office and the Legislature who were present at the oral arguments, you would find that Kevin O'Hanlon gave the finest argument that was given," Mattox said.

Mattox denied he has spoken to Mauzy about the case, saying to Clements, "You demean the Supreme Court and you demean the attorney general's office." Mattox called on Clements to open the agenda of the special legislative session to "remove the inequities from the (public school) system." The poorest school districts have to assess higher tax rates, and even then cannot raise nearly enough money as wealthy districts can with lower tax rates, attorneys for the poor schools argued. School funding in Texas is mostly a combination of state and local funds.

HUD shuts elderly project

WASHINGTON (AP) - Housing Secretary Jack Kemp is suspending a program designed to provide apartments for low- and moderate-income elderly people, the third program canceled or frozen at the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Kemp's decision Thursday follows a highly critical audit of the program by HUD's inspector general that said many of the projects were approved despite warnings by agency analysts that they were unnecessary or too large. The program already has cost the government $119 million in direct payments to cover defaults on HUD-insured mortgages, Kemp said. The cost is likely to grow, he said, because defaults now total $250 million and are expected to continue. Kemp also said the program was not serving those it was created to help, citing a HUD-backed project in Palm Harbor, Fla., that he said charged

$2,100 a month rent for a two-bedroom apartment. He promised to revive the Retirement Service Center Program after rewriting its guidelines to target resources to low-income elderly. "Insured housing programs administered by HUD must by their nature take risks," Kemp said. "With this program costing $120 million to date, I would rather take these risks by targeting resources... to lower-income people." Kemp is reviewing HUD programs as Congress and law enforcement officials investigate allegations of widespread mismanagement during the Reagan administration. The congressional investigation has focused largely on three programs: HUD's acquisition and sale of single-family property, its funding for rehabilitation of rental properties and its co-insuring of mortgages for certain housing developments.

A dozen private closing agents contracted for the single-family program are under investigation for allegedly bilking the agency of $20 million or more. Kemp has suspended the rehabilitation program and canceled another program in which HUD backed loans for such projects as a golf course-residential complex. Both involved lobbying by prominent Republicans. The five-year-old elderly housing venture involved 150 developments. Kemp said he suspended it because 30 percent of the projects whose mortgages were fully backed by HUD and another 12 percent of those in which HUD guaranteed 80 percent of the loan were in default. The second default rate is expected to climb, officials say. The program was designed to provide housing to people over age 70 who can live on their own and afford market rents. The centers offer such services as central dining and recreation.

An audit of 24 retirement centers in the Midwest found six were in default or had their mortgages assigned to HUD, and six were considered financially troubled. In most of those cases, HUD field offices approved the number of apartments sought by developers although agency economists warned the local housing market could not support the full project. In one case, HUD assumed mortgage payments for a Minnesota facility that HUD economists had recommended be rejected. Only 76 of the complex's 208 units were rented as of May 1988, 19 months after it opened. The economist who recommended rejection had noted the development would be in an isolated area overlooking a gravel pit, "clearly remote from major population centers."

Study: 60 million in U.S. suffer from cholesterol

CHICAGO (AP) - About 60 million Americans 20 and older - more than one-third of the nation's adults - face the risk of coronary disease because they have high blood cholesterol levels, a study has found. "What's especially disconcerting is that high cholesterol levels are often seen in association with other risk factors - hypertension, smoking, or being overweight," says Christopher Sempos, one of eight authors of the study published in today's Journal of the American Medical Association. "And for many people, most of the desired changes could be achieved through a change in routines like diet and exercise," Sempos, a nutritionist and epidemiologist with the National Center for Health Statistics in Hyattsville, Md., said in a telephone interview Thursday. "Even though we've made great strides in alerting the public to the dangers of cholesterol and heart disease, there's still too large a segment that is putting itself unnecessarily at risk." The federal center lists coronary disease as the nation's leading killer, claiming 521,000 lives in 1986, the last full year for which statistics are available. In the study, researchers examined data from 11,864 adults 20 to 74 years old who participated in the Second National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey from 1976 to 1980. The average blood cholesterol level for an American adult woman was 215 milligrams per deciliter. For men, it was 211. Cholesterol is a steroidlike compound that is produced both by the body and contained in fats that make up part of the diet. It is circulated in the blood and is important for normal functioning of the cells. But too much cholesterol can cause deposits to build up on the arterial walls, restricting the flow of blood to the heart muscle and contributing substantially to heart disease. Fruits, vegetables, whole grains and beans are known to lower cholesterol, and nutritionists say lean meat, fish and poultry in small portions are acceptable for a healthy diet. Foods cited as high in cholesterol include fatty meats such as spare ribs and highly marbled steak, ice cream and most other dairy products, egg yolks, pies, cakes and cookies. For the study's purposes, participants with a blood cholesterol level of 240 or higher were considered to be in need of medical advice and intervention to lower it. The same was true for any participant whose cholesterol level was 200 or higher if they had at least two other risk factors for coronary heart disease: high blood pressure, diabetes, previous heart disease or stroke, excess weight or smoking 10 cigarettes or more daily. Those two groups constituted 36 percent of the participants in the survey - a percentage researchers used to arrive at the estimated 60 million American adults. Researchers found a substantial increase with age in the proportion of people who are candidates for medical advice and intervention: For those 20 to 39, the rate was 20 percent; for those 40 to 59, almost 50 percent; and for those 60 to 74, almost 60 percent. One doctor found some reason for optimism in the study's findings because the average cholesterol levels have been on the decline. "We've gone from a cholesterol level of 240 for a middle-aged man during the 1950s to around 215 today," said Dr. Jeremiah Stamler, a professor of cardiology at Northwestern University Medical School. "We can do even better."

Allegedly attempting to have sheriff killed

Woman tried to hire hit man

CLARENDON, Texas (AP) - A grand jury has indicted a Clarendon woman on a charge accusing her of attempting to hire a man to kill Donley County Sheriff Jimmy Thompson.

The Donley County grand jury returned the indictment Thursday against Alice Watson, 30, on a charge of solicitation of capital murder.

The indictment alleges Ms. Thompson attempted to hire an undercover officer from Amarillo to kill Thompson for $5,000. Investigators allege she wanted Thompson killed because she blames him for the deaths of two friends in an automobile accident.

Ms. Watson remained in the Carson County Jail at Panhandle in lieu of $50,000 bond.

District Attorney David McCoy said she was transferred to the jail in Panhandle because the Donley County Jail was full and because he advised Thompson to move her to another jurisdiction to eliminate the possibility that she might claim she was mistreated at the hands of authorities in Donley County.

Authorities alleged Ms. Watson originally tried to hire a local man on June 20, but the man informed Hedley Constable Blackie Johnson, who then contacted Thompson.

The sheriff contacted authorities in Amarillo, who sent an undercover officer from the Special Crimes Unit of the Amarillo Police Department.

The local man introduced the officer to Ms. Watson, saying he was a friend who was interested in the assassination job. The officer was wired with a hidden tape recorder as he negotiated with Ms. Watson over the course of a week, authorities said.

Ms. Watson was arrested June 28 at The Oasis, a lounge just north of Clarendon, where she worked.

If convicted, Ms. Watson faces from five to 99 years or life in prison and a fine of up to $10,000.

Systems play havoc with weather

Two large upper-level weather systems have a grip on the nation's weather. A large dome of high pressure is sitting over the Four Corners area. That system is causing the air to "sink" and means layer after layer of heated air is stagnating over the western U.S. In the eastern U.S., temperatures are cooler than normal, and there is above-normal precipitation. That's because an upper-level low pressure is causing the air to rise, cooling the air and adding precipitation to it from both the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic Ocean.

Senator uses filibuster to delay resolution against flag burning

AUSTIN (AP) - A state senator got help from a Senate rule today in staving off passage of a resolution to exempt desecration of the U.S. and Texas flags from the constitutional protection of freedom of speech.

After the clock moved past 12:01 a.m. what under the rules had been a

"House bill day" became a Senate bill day, and the House flag resolution was declared ineligible for further consideration.

The rule was not used, however, until Sen. Craig Washington, D-Houston, had talked until 1:40 a.m., for a filibuster of 12 hours and 20 minutes. It appeared uncertain today how much rest he would get.

Senate dean Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, said the resolution could not be considered until Monday. But Senate sponsor J.E. "Buster" Brown, R-Lake Jackson, said a two-thirds vote could bring up the resolution again today.

"Every hour we can delay it is an opportunity to keep it from passing," Washington said. "I was prepared to go the rest of the night. I don't think I could have gone much longer than noon."

The resolution passed the House last week, when members stood and recited the pledge of allegiance, in response to a 5-4 decision by the U.S. Supreme Court in which it was held that flag burning is protected under the First Amendment.

The case on appeal to the court involved the burning of a flag by Gregory Johnson at the 1984 national Republican convention in Dallas.

Washington said the difference in Johnson and Oliver North - who was fined $150,000 for his crimes in the Iran-contra affair - is that Johnson "hid behind the Constitution and desecrated the flag, and Oliver North hid behind the flag and desecrated the Constitution."

Washington, who said he opposes flag burning, had urged his colleagues in the filibuster to stay clear of the issue of flag burning lest they be burned themselves. He said the other 22 Democrats in the 31-member Senate should vote for the resolution so the vote could not be used against them politically.

His filibuster effort appeared to be a futile one since a test vote went against him 23-2.

Sen. Gonzalo Barrientos, D-Austin, told Washington, "You are a brave man, and may you wave as long as Old Glory."

A few House members supported Washington's effort by standing or sitting near him in the Senate Chamber to keep him company.

At one point, Rep. Senfronia Thompson, D-Houston, got on her knees and massaged Washington's legs.

Rep. Larry Warner, D-Houston, was at Washington's side for hours. "He has a lot of courage. He has taken on physical strain and political heat for this," Warner said. "I would not burn the flag, but I don't think I'd change the First Amendment over one flag burner."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Have I become the last American who is willing to stoop down and pick up a piece of merchandise that has fallen on the floor? Such an item is sure to be soiled, stained, torn, ruined, discarded or sold at a discount.

The manager of a discount house in Charleston, S.C., tells me that he has been in merchandising for more than 20 years and has never seen such a lack of respect by customers. This costs millions of dollars, which in the end is paid by the consumer.

I can't believe that no one sees a dress that has dropped off the hanger, or the $10 toy taken from a shelf by an unwatched kid and left in the aisle, or the package of frozen crab-meat tossed among the crackers when a shopper has changed his or her mind.

Who hasn't seen shoppers kicking merchandise out of the way, rather than bend down to pick it up?

Why am I concerned if a $3.50 package of frozen food is spoiled when nobody else cares? I guess it's because I remember my mother telling me that real pride means being able to stoop to pick something up. I wish more parents had taught their children this concept.--Lt. Col. T.H., Mt. Pleasant, S.C.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 9th grader at Taipei American School. I am a Chinese and was born in Taiwan.

Even though I am an American citizen, I find it annoying when I hear people assume that any product that bears the label "Made in Taiwan" is crummy and will fall to pieces the moment it is taken home. Taiwan products are no longer cheap and poorly made. In fact, they are getting better all the time because Chinese people now take great pride in their work.

Today, Taiwan exports many products that have American brand names. We hardly see anything made in the U.S. anymore. Your designer clothes in our department stores and malls have labels that say, "Made in Hong Kong," "Made in Korea" or "Made in China." This also applies to American electrical appliances. Why is this?

Please, Ann Landers, tell your people to stop knocking products that are made in Taiwan, even as a joke. It is not that we have no humor about us, it is because such remarks are an insult.--Student in Taiwan

DEAR STUDENT: There was a time when merchandise made in Taiwan was junk, and it did fall to pieces, but no longer is this true. Americans are well aware of the improvement and Taiwan products are earnings our respect.

The reason you do not see many products made in America is because wages are much higher in the United States and it is more expensive to manufacture here.

Thank you for writing. We need to have better communication between our countries. The better we get to know one another the more we will come to realize that people of all races, colors and creeds are pretty much the same.

Drugs are everywhere. They're easy to get, easy to use and even easier to get hooked on. If you have questions about drugs, you need Ann Landers' booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Lowdown, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Decision on new NFL commissioner on hold

CHICAGO (AP) - Jim Finks spent one endless day waiting to become NFL commissioner, but now faces what could be an endless summer.

The endless day was Thursday, when Finks spent 12 hours in a hotel near O'Hare Airport waiting for the expected unanimous vote of the owners ratifying the unanimous choice of a six-man screening committee.

Instead, after a 6 hour, 25-minute meeting, a group of 11 dissident owners blocked the election by abstaining in order to get "further information" about Finks and other candidates.

Finks finished with 16 votes, three short of the 19 needed for election. Now he'll have to wait until the owners reconvene sometime later this summer.

The owners will be given seven days' notice of a meeting by outgoing commissioner Pete Rozelle.

"This was not a vote against Jim Finks," said Norman Braman, owner of the Philadelphia Eagles and one of the three men who, according to several sources, led the revolt against the NFL's old guard that made up the selection committee. "We felt we simply did not have the relevant information necessary to make such an important choice."

"I still feel, speaking for the committee, that our candidate is definitely Jim Finks," said Lamar Hunt, co-chairman of the six-member group that unanimously recommended the New Orleans president and general manager for the job Rozelle had held for 30 years.

Finks was not available for comment.

In fact, the move was something of a rebellion of the new guard against the old, represented by the six members of the committee. Each of the six had been in the league for at least 20 years and there was grumbling even when they were appointed on March 23, the day after Rozelle announced his resignation.

The dissidents were mostly newcomers, like Jerry Jones of Dallas, Victor Kiam of New England and Ken Behring of Seattle, all of whom entered the league in the past year, or owners like Georgia Frontiere of the Los Angeles Rams and Robert Irsay of Indianapolis, who rarely have been included in the NFL's inner circle.

According to sources, the group was put together during a meeting Wednesday night by Braman, Mike Lynn, president of the Minnesota Vikings, and Edward DeBartolo Jr., owner of the San Francisco 49ers.

They were joined for a meeting early Thursday by Behring, Kiam, Jones, Irsay, Patrick Bowlen of Denver, Joe Robbie of Miami, John Shaw as representative of Frontiere, and Hugh Culverhouse Jr., son of the Tampa Bay owner. Culverhouse's father, vacationing in Europe, had complained to the other owners about the timing of the meeting so close to July 4.

Another owner, Bud Adams of Houston, was delayed by air traffic control problems and remained home.

The owners talked and talked and talked, voting twice with no change of position.

"I wasn't prepared for what happened," said Tom Benson of the Saints.

Braman said the owners would now reconsider many of the candidates proposed earlier.

The finalists, in addition to Finks, included former Green Bay All-Pro defensive end Willie Davis, now a successful businessman; Robert Mulcahy, executive director of the

New Jersey Meadowlands Authority; Paul Tagliabue, the NFL's Washington lawyer; former Democratic National chairman Paul Kirk, and the chief executive officer of a major corporation who asked to remain anonymous.

Another potential candidate, Jack Kemp, the former quarterback and now Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, took himself out of the running, saying he preferred to stay in the cabinet. Kemp was known to be the candidate favored by Braman and DeBartolo, among others.

Braman said the main objection of the dissidents was to what he said was a lack of information from the screening committee.

Three get saddles at TSHSRA banquet

Hereford High School Rodeo Club members received three trophy saddles at the Tri-State High School Rodeo Association banquet held last month in Dumas.

Regina Lewis, Alison Lookingbill and Burt Noland earned championship saddles by winning the average at the TSHSRA Finals Rodeo or ending the season with the most accumulated points in their respective events.

Lewis was the year-end leader in goat tying and placed second in the average for the finals. She also took second in all-around and was selected first runner up in the Miss Tri-State competition.

Lookingbill won the average in breakaway roping at the finals and finished third in the event in the year-end standings. She was also chosen as alternate for the girls scholarship.

Noland paired with Steve Lookingbill of Dumas to win the average in team roping for his saddle.

Kirby Kaul finished the year tied for second place in steer wrestling with Jim Boy Hash of Canadian.

Bliss ready to further UNM success

EDMOND, Okla. (AP) - Dave Bliss, in his first year as coach at New Mexico, led the Lobos to a 22-11 record and a tie for second place in the Western Athletic Conference. He's hoping to do more this season.

"There are some things I think we can do even better," he said, mentioning his desire to play a more up-tempo style. "But we have the one inherent strength, and that is the people come. We have a captive audience. They show up, and they show up early."

Bliss found that out on opening night. When the Lobos took the floor, they were greeted by 18,000 fans who turned out to watch an exhibition game.

"That's unbelievable," Bliss said Thursday following a round of golf at Oak Tree Golf Club. He was taking part in the second All Sports National College Basketball Coaches Golf Invitational.

"When Oklahoma came to our place, I told Billy (Tubbs) 'Look at all these people. I'm astounded.'"

"I told him 'You've got a good team, but these same people came out to see Spirit Express a few weeks ago.'" cameras could do "crowd" shots that had a crowd.

During his five years at Oklahoma, Bliss and his teams made steady progress in the Big Eight Conference and with the fans. In the 1978-79 season, the Sooners went 21-10, won the conference title and gained a berth in the NCAA Tournament.

Their first-round tournament game, against Texas, was played on the campus of Southern Methodist. A year later, after the Sooners fell to 15-12, Bliss took the job at SMU.

The school, Bliss said Thursday, reminded him of the college he attended, Cornell. Bliss also liked Athletic Director Russ Potts, and liked the talent pool in a city the size of Dallas. But the big sell was the arena.

"I just kind of fell in love with Moody Coliseum," he said. "I thought that was just a neat gym of the old variety, and a neat place to play basketball."

Bliss spent eight successful years with the Mustangs before leaving last year for New Mexico. During his time in Dallas, the NCAA changed its rules regarding recruiting, which "made it almost a non-advantage to being in the city."

When he was coach at Oklahoma, Bliss had to compete with the football Sooners. In his first season in Norman, 1975-76, he couldn't get the cheerleaders to come to games. The first basketball sellout Bliss saw at Oklahoma came when the football team was presented its 1975 national championship trophy.

Only weeks earlier, in a televised home game against Oral Roberts University, the fans were asked to all sit on the same side of the arena so the

Jackson pitches Reds past Mets, 10-2; Cards, Cubs win

By The Associated Press
 Danny Jackson came off the disabled list, moved Pete Rose out of the spotlight for a night and dropped the New York Mets into fourth place in the National League East.

The left-hander looked like the pitcher who won 23 games last season as he threw six shutout innings Thursday night while Cincinnati pounded the Mets 10-2.

"It's always nice to get a lot of runs early, especially after coming back from the DL," said Jackson, 6-9, who was bothered by shoulder and wrist problems and had not pitched since June 17.

The Mets, 3 1/2 games behind division-leading Montreal, lost their third straight and seventh in 10 games and again saw a starter get pounded. This time it was highly touted rookie David West, who gave up seven runs in four innings and lost his first major-league start of the year.

The last three Met starters - Bob Ojeda, Ron Darling and West - have given up 21 runs on 24 hits with seven walks in 9 1-3 innings.

"Three in a row like that puts a strain on the bullpen," Mets manager Dave Johnson said. "They have to turn it around in the second half or it's going to be a long second half."

It may have gotten longer when the Mets announced after the game that ace Dwight Gooden, his right arm ailing, will miss even more than the month originally announced.

In other NL games Thursday night, it was Chicago 7, San Diego 3; San Francisco 2, Pittsburgh 1 in 10 innings; Philadelphia 4, Atlanta 0 and St. Louis 14, Los Angeles 2.

Luis Quinones hit two home runs, Rolando Roomes hit a two-run homer and Marty Brown doubled and drove in three runs for the Reds, who had 14 hits and led 10-0 before the Mets scored twice in the bottom of the ninth off Kent Tekulve, who earned his first save of the season by pitching the last three innings.

Cubs 7, Padres 3

Ryne Sandberg and Andre Dawson homered as Walt Terrell lost his seventh straight decision.

Sandberg hit his 11th homer leading off the seventh and Dawson hit his eighth one out later to give Chicago a 6-3 lead.

Greg Maddux, 8-7, allowed seven hits and three runs in six-plus innings. Terrell, 4-12, who has not won since May 27 against Montreal, allowed five hits and four runs in six innings.

Giants 2, Pirates 1

Brett Butler homered with two out in the top of the 10th to hand John Smiley another tough defeat.

Smiley, 7-4, who lost 1-0 to Los Angeles in his last start, led 1-0 when Robby Thompson homered with two outs in the eighth.

Rick Reuschel allowed a run and seven hits in seven innings before Jeff Brantley, 3-0, pitched two scoreless innings for his third victory in eight days.

Phillies 4, Braves 0

Bruce Ruffin, who had been sent to the minors just after the season started because of wildness, missed a complete game shutout by one out.

Ruffin, who had not thrown a shutout since Sept. 23, 1987, got two quick outs in the bottom of the ninth before giving up singles to John Russell and Oddibe McDowell.

Jeff Parrett came on and struck out pinch-hitter Darrell Evans for his third save.

Dwayne Murphy hit a two-run homer in the sixth inning when the Phillies scored all their runs off Pete Smith, 2-10.

Cardinals 4, Dodgers 2

Terry Pendleton and Vince Coleman each drove in three runs and Dan Quisenberry got his fourth save and first major-league hit.

Ken Hill, 5-4, and Quisenberry combined on a six-hitter. Tim Leary, 6-6, who allowed five runs over the first three innings, was the loser.

The Cardinals put the game away with four runs in the seventh and five in the eighth.

Texas blanks Angels, 3-0, in Ryan's return to Anaheim

By The Associated Press

Nolan Ryan has never pitched a perfect game, but he had a perfect homecoming.

Ryan pitched a three-hitter for his 56th career shutout in his first appearance at Anaheim Stadium in nearly 10 years as Texas beat California 3-0 Thursday night.

A crowd of 37,867 gave Ryan a standing ovation as he left the bullpen following his pregame warmups.

Ryan, 42, pitched for the Angels from 1972 through 1979, leading the American League in strikeouts seven times during that span. Earlier in the day, he was selected for the All-Star team for the seventh time.

"It all turned out pretty well," Ryan said. "These fans have always treated me special. It was a special feeling. I was really pumped up after that reception."

The All-Star Game is scheduled July 11 at Anaheim.

Ryan, 10-4, walked two and struck out 12 in his fourth complete game and first shutout of the season.

Elsewhere in the AL it was Seattle 7, Minnesota 5; New York 6, Detroit 5 in 11 innings; Toronto 4, Baltimore 1; Oakland 3, Kansas City 1, and Boston 5, Milwaukee 4.

"The first couple of innings, I was too pumped up. I was rushing, trying to overthrow. It was only appropriate that I would walk the first guy," Ryan said.

"But then I settled down. I didn't feel as strong in the ninth as I have in other games."

Kirk McCaskill, 9-5, matched Ryan pitch for pitch until, with one out in the seventh, Steve Bucchele hit his fifth homer.

The Rangers added two runs in the ninth on Ruben Sierra's 13th homer and Jeff Kunkel's RBI double.

A's 3, Royals 1

Mike Moore, named a first-time AL All-Star earlier in the day, allowed four hits in seven innings and struck out a season-high 12.

Two other Athletics' All-Stars, starters Mark McGwire and Terry Steinbach, drove in all the runs Moore needed in the first inning against Luis Aquino, 3-4.

Todd Burns pitched the final two innings for his sixth save, allowing no hits.

Yankees 6, Tigers 5

Jesse Barfield tied the score with an 11th-inning homer and Steve Sax hit a sacrifice fly for the game-winning run.

Lou Whitaker's 18th homer, on the first pitch by Eric Plunk, 3-1, in the 11th, gave the Tigers a 5-4 lead, but Barfield homered off All-Star Mike Henneman to tie the score.

Plunk relieved Dave Righetti to start the 11th.

Blue Jays 4, Orioles 1

Fred McGriff, snubbed for the All-Star team, hit his 20th home.

McGriff, who has 51 RBIs, hit a three-run homer in the third off Jeff Ballard, 10-4, to give the Blue Jays a 4-0 lead.

Todd Stottlemyre, 1-4, allowed one run and four hits in six innings as the Blue Jays salvaged one of three games against the first-place Orioles. Duane Ward finished for his sixth save.

Red Sox 5, Brewers 4

Mike Boddicker retired 15 straight batters before needing relief help in the sixth inning.

Reliever Rob Murphy allowed two hits in two innings and Lee Smith got the last out for his 12th save.

Wade Boggs was 3-for-3 and Mike Greenwell and Nick Esasky each had two hits for the Red Sox.

Mariners 7, Twins 5

Darnell Coles hit a two-run single off reliever Jeff Reardon in the eighth inning.

With the Mariners trailing 5-4, Jeffrey Leonard led off the eighth against Gary Wayne, 3-1, with a single and Ken Griffey Jr. reached on a twobase error by shortstop Al Newman with Leonard moving to third. Reardon relieved and Coles singled into center field to put the Mariners ahead.

Mike Jackson, 3-2, pitched 2-3 innings for the victory and Mike Schooler got the last three outs for his 20th save.

Gazpacho

Vegetables with a Spanish accent. Start off a Mexican fiesta with this tangy, thick, cold vegetable soup and say ole.

6 cups	fresh ripe tomatoes, peeled and chopped; or canned plum tomatoes	1	garlic clove, minced
1	onion, roughly chopped	1/4 cup	olive oil
1/2 cup	green pepper chunks	1/4 cup	wine vinegar
1/2 cup	cucumber chunks	1/2 cup	each finely chopped onion, pepper and cucumber
2 cups	tomato juice	1 cup	finely chopped tomato
1/2 tsp.	cumin (optional)		garlic croutons

In a blender, puree tomatoes, onion, green pepper and cucumber. Add tomato juice, cumin, garlic and pepper. Put in a bowl; cover and chill.

Before service add oil and vinegar. Serve accompanied by side dishes of finely chopped tomatoes, onion, green pepper and cucumber. Garnish with croutons.

Yield: About 1 3/4 Quarts

The average 18-month-old little girl will be just about twice as tall and five times as heavy at the age of 18.

The average time lapse between a mosquito bite and mosquito itch is about three minutes.

Microwave BBQ beef tortillas

Beef is easier to slice very thinly when it's partially frozen. That takes about 45 minutes in the freezer. If you're working with frozen meat, let it partially thaw before slicing. Serve the tortillas with tomato slices and shredded lettuce for a one-plate meal.

BARBECUE-STYLE BEEF TORTILLAS

1 pound beef flank steak
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup chopped celery
1 tablespoon water
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon chili powder
1/2 teaspoon dried basil, crushed
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
1 tablespoon cold water
2 teaspoons cornstarch
One 8-ounce can tomato sauce
1 teaspoon brown sugar
Four 7-inch flour tortillas

Partially freeze beef. Very thinly slice across the grain into bite-size strips. In microwave-safe 2-quart casserole stir together onion, celery, 1 tablespoon water, vinegar, dry mustard, chili powder, basil, salt and garlic powder. Stir in beef. Cook, covered, on 100 percent power (high) 6 minutes, stirring once. Cook, covered, on 50 percent power (medium) 20 minutes more or until meat is tender, stirring every 7 minutes.

Stir together 1 tablespoon cold water and cornstarch. Stir into meat mixture along with tomato sauce and brown sugar. Cook, uncovered, on high 3 to 4 minutes or until bubbly, stirring after every minute.

To assemble, spoon about 1-3rd cup meat mixture down center of each tortilla and roll up. Place, seam side down, on microwave-safe serving platter. Spoon remaining meat mixture over tortillas. Cook, uncovered, on high 1 to 2 minutes or until heated through, rotating platter a half-turn once. Makes 4 servings.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR READERS:

Did you know that many times consumers are overcharged for hospital care? The following are some guidelines to make sure that you only pay for services that were actually rendered.

It is a good idea to keep a daily chart of all medications, special equipment, tests and procedures. When you are unsure of exactly what is being done, ask questions. This will help you keep an accurate record of your approximate hospital bill.

When the hospital bill arrives, check it over carefully with your record. Many hospitals will send you a summary bill with totals, and this type of billing statement is hard to understand. It is much better to request an itemized day-to-day bill.

If you find errors in the billing, be sure to immediately notify the hospital billing department. If the bill needs to be sent to your insurance company, be sure to notify them of the discrepancy and warn them not to pay that amount.

Following these simple steps can sure lessen anxiety and frustration. To your health! — Heloise

FABRIC-SOFTENER SHEETS

Dear Heloise: I like to think of myself as a thrifty housewife. One of my favorite money-savers is cutting my fabric softener sheets in half. This stretches one box into two.

They work just as well and, as they say, a penny saved is a penny earned. — Violet Johnson, Spokane, Wash.

REV. DR. JAMES CORY

The Rev. Dr. James W. Cory's sermon for the regular 10:30 a.m. Sunday worship service will be entitled "Safety First or Last?" The scripture lesson is Luke 13:31-35.

Dr. Cory will be installed by Palo Duro Presbytery at 7:30 p.m. Sunday as pastor of First Presbyterian Church. The service of worship and installation will be held at the church and is open to all who would care to attend. A reception will follow.

In 1964, he received his bachelor of business administration degree from Texas Christian University. He was awarded a master of divinity degree by Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary in 1968 and a doctor of ministry degree by Texas Christian University in 1988. The focus of his doctorate was in pastoral care.

DETROIT (AP) - Neighbors are complaining that Aretha Franklin is giving them a case of the blues by neglecting her house on the city's west side.

The two-story brick home, deeded to the singer in 1972 by her then-husband Theodore White, was condemned last year by the city. Now, the yard is overgrown and littered.

"We live in a nice neighborhood, but Aretha Franklin doesn't care about us," said Theodora Stewart, who lives behind the house.

Franklin couldn't be reached for comment. There was no answer Tuesday morning at the office of her attorney, Harvey Tennen.

City records show the house was bought by White and Franklin for $18,500 in 1967, when they were married. The market value of the house and land is about $42,500.

No skills needed for salad making

NEW YORK (AP) - You don't have to be a culinary expert to make a salad that is both appealing to the eye and the palate. A variety of ingredients make salads fun and easy to prepare, any time of the year.

Modern transportation methods have made it possible for growers and suppliers to provide many fresh vegetables year-round. Be sure to choose only the freshest, most crisp and colorful greens and vegetables available at the market.

Blanchard & Blanchard, maker of all-natural salad dressings and other products from Vermont, says it's easy to create your own best-dressed salads - whether it's a pasta salad, chef salad or bean salad.

A salad composed of vegetables from at least two color groups - green, red, yellow and orange - will offer flavor and textural contrast.

Green vegetables include artichokes, asparagus, broccoli, lettuce, peas, peppers, scallions, snow peas, spinach, string beans and watercress.

Red vegetables: beets, cabbage, onion, peppers, radishes and tomatoes.

Yellow vegetables: corn, peppers, squash and string beans.

Orange vegetables: carrots and pimientos.

Unpeeled cucumber and zucchini can provide a "two-toned look" to your salad. Vegetables with pale shades include artichoke hearts, avocado, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, chick peas, endive, mushrooms, onion, potatoes and sprouts.

You can also experiment with different textures and appearances by using different shapes and sizes. Slice vegetables thick or thin, or grate, chop or dice them.

The following tips for creating a best-dressed salad are provided by Blanchard & Blanchard:

- Rinse all greens and vegetables thoroughly. To enjoy full flavor, rinse greens in cold water, wrap in paper towels, and store in the refrigerator until ready to use.

- Vegetables should be rinsed, dried and stored in the coolest part of the refrigerator.

- Always gently tear all salad leaves. Cutting greens with a knife may take less time, but can cause premature brown spotting.

- Don't chop off asparagus ends. Bend each spear gently until it snaps in two. It will break at just the right place to separate the tender tops from the tougher ends.

Marinated vegetables make easy salads when served alone or in combination with others. Take leftover vegetables and put them in a bowl with a light vinaigrette. Cover and refrigerate until you need them. They also make a healthy snack.

Mushrooms absorb a marinade fairly quickly. Try marinating some raw slices of mushroom in your favorite dressing for just a short time while preparing dinner, then toss them into your green salad.

Marinated chick peas make a good addition to a green salad. Take a can of chick peas, rinse with cold water, drain well, marinate in dressing and store covered in the refrigerator. They will keep about 10 days.

Mozzarella cheese is popular on salads, but fresh mozzarella is very different from the packaged variety. Fresh mozzarella is soft and tender and stored in water. You will find it in a gourmet shop or an Italian delicatessen.

For a new twist to an old favorite, serve slices of fresh melon and bunches of crisp, juicy grapes with chicken, tuna and turkey salad sandwiches.

Sunflower seeds and raisins add a wonderfully different texture to any salad.
