EDC list for director pared to 3

By ANDREA HOOTEN
Staff Writer

The list of 150 candidates for executive director of the Hereford Area Economic Development Council has been pared to three, with hopes that one will be hired by the end of November, said John Perrin, chairman of the council.

Advertising for the position began in early September after the City of Hereford, Hereford school district and Deaf Smith County voted to fund the council for one year for $120,000.

The director's salary of $35,000 to $45,000 (depending on the person's qualifications) will be taken from this funding.

"Most of the backgrounds of the three men are in economic development work and that's the primary thing we're looking for," said Perrin, who finished interviews two weeks ago. "One of them doesn't have as much experience as the other two in economic development, but he does have other experience that qualifies him. We feel that any of the three will do a fine job."

Perrin said the three men come from Abilene, Oklahoma City and Lubbock, but he wouldn't release their names.

The executive director will be responsible for implementing economic development strategies; managing the EDC office; working with the three taxing entities and the Chamber of Commerce to bring industry to Hereford; and representing Hereford to state and federal agencies to acquire financial aid.

Each applicant was required to have a bachelor's degree in agricultural economics, business or public administration; three year's experience in economic development; and strong managerial and interpersonal skills.

Adopted for smokeout

Laura Kerr and Bridget Baker of the Hereford Keywanettes have adopted Hereford head football coach Don Cumpston for today's Great American Smokeout. The smokeout, being held for the 12th straight year by the American Cancer Society, encourages smokers to give up their habit for a day in hopes they might give it up for good.

Smokeout activities going on over nation

By The Associated Press

Americans hoping to live tobacco-free were determined to butt out of smoking today in the 12th annual Great American Smokeout as celebrities stressed the message: You're a fool if you think smoking is cool.

"I started smoking at 14 because I thought it was chic," said actress Celeste Holm, who with other stars at New York City's Lincoln Center on Wednesday urged participation in the smokeout.

"I didn't know it would kill you. Now we know better."

Anti-smokers around the country prepared for the big snuff-out, which attempts to coax puffers to say, "Enough!" — at least for a day.

In Nebraska, a sheriff said he wanted to "arrest smoking," newborn babies in Seattle and Council Bluffs, Iowa, were adorned with anti-smoking T-shirts and the operator of the trans-Alaska oil pipeline tried to convince people that it's no joke to smoke.

New to the smokeout this year is the "Back a Quitter" program. Backers act as buddies to the smokers for the day. By soliciting pledges from co-workers for every hour they go without a cigarette, the smokers also will raise funds for the American Cancer Society.

The American Cancer Society, which sponsors the event, estimated nearly 40 percent of the nation's 50 million smokers participated last year.

"Here's our answer to a pack-a-day — a pachyderm!" shouted ringmaster Paul Binder in New York as one of two cigarette-smashing elephants stomped a Styrofoam butt to promote the smokeout at New York's "Big Apple Circus."

"I bet if you could show people who don't smoke have a much better sex life, most people would quit today," said Dr. Ruth Westheimer, the sex therapist who managed a smile despite the elephant trunks swinging over her. "So let's pretend that's true."

In Nebraska, Sheriff Ron Tussing, who lost both of his parents to smoking-related illnesses, said he wanted to put the cuffs on smoking, while employees at Gibbon Packing Inc. were signing up as quitters and as backers.

At Swedish Hospital in Seattle, spokeswoman Abbi Kaplan said newborns at the hospital were going to wear "I'm a Born Non-Smoker" T-shirts today.

In Jackson, Miss., a three-day lung testing workshop was under way. On Wednesday, the first day of the testing, several hundred people showed up.

The operator of the trans-Alaska oil pipeline was putting Great American Smokeout materials at the line's pump stations today, urging people to mix nicotine.

Alyeska Pipeline Service Co. also planned to provide a free lunch for people participating in the stop-smoking event.

In Massachusetts, state health officials unveiled a plan Wednesday to counter the appeal of cigarettes to teen-agers and make all state businesses smoke-free, except in designated areas, by 1995.

Public Health Commissioner Deborah Prothrow-Stith said the anti-smoking plan calls for expanded education to inform children about the dangers of tobacco, a mass media campaign to counter more than $50 million spent in Massachusetts each year on cigarette advertising, a ban on free samples of tobacco products and restrictions on smoking in schools, health facilities and businesses.

The Tobacco Institute, meanwhile, officially announced its "Great American Welcome" program in newspaper advertisements Tuesday, but a spokesman said that program was not planned as a rebuttal to the smokeout.

"We're not really doing anything to counter the smokeout," said Gary Miller, assistant to the president of the Tobacco Institute in Washington.

The institute's program is "aimed at businesses that believe that smokers and non-smokers are welcome valuable customers to accommodate and who want make your experience with them enjoyable," he said.

Tuesday's ad invites people to call a toll-free number to find businesses nationwide that are a part of the program.

Hereford still in running for corn mill

Hereford is still in the running for a new corn-flour plant that could be constructed in the Texas Panhandle by Azteca Milling Company.

Azteca, a subsidiary of Gruma, S.A., of Monterrey, Mexico, is looking at Hereford, Plainview and Hale Center, according to Dr. Jaime Rodriguez, vice president of planning for Azteca.

The plant will employ about 160 people to mill corn for use in tortillas, corn chips, taco shells and other products under the "Maseca" brand name.

The proposed plant will use 150 million pounds of corn each year, and the corn will be supplied by farmers who have contracted with the company. Rodriguez said the corn usage could increase to 300 million pounds a year as the national market grows.

Azteca officials are also considering other parts of the United States, but Rodriguez said a final decision would be made before the end of the year.

Meanwhile, Plainview civic leaders are planning a rally at 7:30 tonight to show support for the company.

Plainview leaders have also picked up on Hereford's idea, used in August, of getting farmers to indicate their desire to grow enough corn to meet the plant's needs.

More than 300 farmers in the Hereford area earlier this year indicated they would be willing to increase their corn acreage to meet the plant's needs.

Azteca, and its parent company, is the world's largest producer of tortillas. In the United States, its products are marketed under the name, "Mission Foods." Its tortilla manufacturing equipment division, electra, has machines in Food emporium stores and in other supermarket chains in the area and across the country.

Workers comp rates going up

AUSTIN (AP) — A $700 million increase in premiums for workers' compensation will prompt some businesses to drop the coverage, according to a state consumer representative.

But an insurance industry spokesman described the average 19 percent increase as a "survival increase."

The State Board of Insurance on Wednesday approved the rate increase that will take effect Jan. 1. Businesses have already seen a 109.6 percent increase in premium rates since Jan. 1, 1985.

Board chairman Edwin J. Smith Jr. said workers' compensation insurance is in "a hell of a fix."

Richard Geiger, a Dallas attorney representing the National Council of Compensation Insurance, said, "I believe the best that can be said about it is it will allow the industry to hang on."

CSF applications coming in Applications for assistance from the holiday charity Christmas Stocking Fund are being accepted through Dec. 9 at the county Red Cross office at 224 South Main.

CSF is a non-profit organization not affiliated with any other organization. It is administered by a 15-person committee from a broad cross-section of the community who volunteer their time. CSF works to alleviate some of the hunger and need among the community's less fortunate during the Christmas season.

While not affiliated with CSF, the Deaf Smith County Red Cross office provides office space and accepts applications for the program during regular office hours of 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

All applicants are required to provide proof of Deaf Smith County residence, and must file applications in person. Acceptable

Proof of residence includes a driver's license, tax receipt, utility bills, I.D. card, or some other item which shows a local address, from a source other than the applicant.

A CSF spokesman emphasized application by an individual doesn't guarantee assistance will be forthcoming from CSF. Individuals who have received assistance from CSF for two consecutive years will not be eligible for help this year.

Collection of funds for the 1988 CSF drive will begin immediately after Thanksgiving. The Hereford Brand will serve as the collection point for donations and will publish listings of contributors.

Bush looking at long list

WASHINGTON (AP) — Trying to figure out who's going to be in George Bush's Cabinet is a little like playing musical chairs: Any number can play but there are only a limited number of chairs.

Two seats already have been taken (State and Treasury) by James A. Baker III and Nicholas Brady, leaving the president-elect with a dozen other department heads to name.

The only guy who can stop this music is Bush.

Or, as New Hampshire Gov. John Sununu put it Wednesday at a new conference in Concord where he refused to confirm that Bush has tapped him for White House chief of staff, "A request isn't a formal request until the tall thin guy sings. And the tall thin guy hasn't sung publicly, and therefore I'm not going to comment."

Here's a look at some of the names that have bubbled to the surface of these rumor rivulets. The departments are listed in order of seniority after the oldest, State and Treasury.

DEFENSE
Frank Carlucci is the incumbent. Unlike some of his Cabinet brethren, he has not been lobbying to stay on. Expressing an eagerness to return to the private sector, he is likely to get his wish.

Former Texas Sen. John Tower is at the top of most lists of possible defense secretaries, unless Bush opts for a corporate chieftain to straighten out the Pentagon procurement mess. Then the talk turns to folks such as Paul H. O'Neill, chairman of the Aluminum Co. of America or former defense secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld.

JUSTICE

Attorney Gen. Richard L. Thornburgh was one of the late additions to the Reagan Cabinet, spelling the embattled Edwin Meese III three months ago, and the former Pennsylvania governor is eager to stay on.

Bush insiders have sent mixed signals on Thornburgh's Cabinet life expectancy. Last week they went out of their way to discourage reports that Thornburgh was a shoe-in.

INTERIOR

Secretary Donald Paul Hodel, one of the few Reagan Cabinet members to serve the full second term, is certain to go.

Sen. Dan Evans, R-Wash., who decided not to seek re-election, is a favorite in the rumor mills for Interior.

AGRICULTURE

Secretary Richard E. Lyng will be packing his bags after 2½ years.

U.S. Trade Representative Clayton K. Yeutter is on everybody's list, although he has talked about hankering for the private sector. Yeutter, regarded as an able trade rep, is a former Nebraska feedlot operator and head of the Chicago Mercantile (See CABINET, page two)

Network recalls shooting

...Nov. 22, 1963

NEW YORK (AP) — Tonight on CBS it will suddenly become mid-day on a Friday — Nov. 22, 1963. The black-and-white soap opera "As the World Turns" will be on.

The soap opera is interrupted by Walter Cronkite intoning, "Here is a bulletin from CBS News."

The rarely seen footage is in the CBS' documentary "Four Days in November: The Assassination of John F. Kennedy," marking the 25th anniversary of the death of the president.

The documentary consists of little more than edited footage from the 56 hours that CBS was on the air covering the assassination, the shooting of Lee Harvey Oswald and the Kennedy funeral.

The vintage film has an eloquence of its own that anchor Dan Rather and executive producer Perry Wolff wisely leave alone. The documentary allows viewers their own memories, with a minimum of present-day intrusion.

"We opened a time capsule, that's all we did," said Wolff, who joined Rather and the other producers of the program at a screening for TV critics.

"For once at least, we didn't do too much," said Rather, who only appears on camera to set up the next sequence.

"Our purpose is not to make commentary on the past, but to bring it back."

Keeping present-day commentary to a minimum apparently also allowed the network to avoid another Rather-Cronkite wrangle. Rather gets the spotlight as anchor of the broadcast, but Cronkite is the star of the archival footage.

Cronkite declined to comment on his lack of participation in the documentary, calling it a "judgment" call.

The only footage in the documentary that was not part of CBS' coverage at the time is the famous Zapruder 8mm film of the assassination. CBS did not have rights to the film in 1963. Now, however, the film is rented out by Abraham Zapruder's family.

After the initial bulletin, CBS returned briefly to regular programming — a commercial for Nescafe — then re-interrupted. Cronkite appeared on camera in the newsroom. There were live pictures from the Dallas Trade Mart, the site of a luncheon that was to have been the next stop on Kennedy's agenda.

Eddie Barker of KRLD, CBS' local affiliate, reported from the Trade Mart, passing along unconfirmed reports that Kennedy was dead. An unheralded cameraman zeroed in on a weeping black waiter; later on workers sadly removing the presidential seal from the podium.

Rather later confirmed the report of Kennedy's death, working the story from the station by phone. Barker had gotten confirmation from a doctor on the Parkland Hospital staff. Rather confirmed with a priest and a doctor who were in the emergency room when the president died. Cronkite reported Rather's confirmation, but the official announcement did not come for 17 more minutes.

"It was a very long 17 minutes," Rather recalled.

Cronkite is handed a piece of wire copy. "From Dallas, Texas, the flash, apparently official," he said solemnly. "President Kennedy died at 1 p.m. Central Standard Time. Two o'clock Eastern Standard Time." He takes off his glasses and looks at the clock. "Some 38 minutes ago."

Cronkite's voice cracks, and he has to take a moment to collect himself before continuing.

In the documentary, Rather explains that viewers may see water marks on some of the footage. Television had never covered such an event, and because most news cameras used film instead of videotape, technicians were developing film as fast as they could and putting it on the air still wet.

Also included is rarely seen footage of accused assassin Oswald answering reporters' questions as police escort him through the police station.

Textbook shortages plaguing urban schools

BOSTON (AP) — Severe textbook shortages are undercutting education in urban school districts nationwide because of higher book prices, budgetary constraints and a tendency to cut books before people, educators complain.

"One of the things about textbooks is they don't vote and they don't go out on strike. If you cut personnel, you get screams of anguish," said Harriet Tyson-Bernstein, author of "A Conspiracy of Good Intentions: America's Textbook Fiasco," a new book highly critical of the textbook industry.

A study of 31 schools in five urban districts by the Washington-based Institute for Educational Leadership, released in September, found an across-the-board lack of instructional materials, including textbooks.

"In general, the resource situation is pretty bleak. The lack of supplies in the school systems is pretty obvious," said Lisa Walker, policy resource director for the private, non-profit think tank. "This is often an area of the budget where funding is cut."

But the textbook shortage compromises educational quality, some principals contend. "One of the teachers said it was like building a house without any nails," said Walker.

At Mather elementary school in a working-class Boston neighborhood, the second grade doesn't have enough math textbooks, the fourth grade needs social studies books and the sixth grade lacks language texts. Health books are missing entirely in the school of 550 students.

Forced to pare its budget, the Boston School Department last spring eliminated $1.3 million in funding for instructional supplies, leaving $3.7 million for textbooks, paper, pencils and other materials.

"It's one of the few variable costs you have in the School Department," said Peter Rowe, deputy superintendent for planning and business affairs for the 58,000-student system. Higher book costs also have hurt.

"It was a choice when we came to it between things like textbooks or librarians or nurses or athletic programs or field trips," he said Wednesday.

In the September study of schools in Detroit, Denver, New Orleans, Indianapolis and Rochester, N.Y., 20 of the 31 schools surveyed said they had "serious problems" with instructional materials, and 19 said the level of resources was inadequate.

"We know that every kid can't have every book because that's just not feasible," said James H. Daniels, an assistant superintendent in Denver's 58,000-student district.

"It's always a problem. Resources change, books change and you want to keep up to date and the money is not always there. What a school has to do is some prioritizing."

In Boston, setting priorities has forced some schools to use more photocopied material than usual — 60,000 copies a month at Mather. Many students aren't allowed to take textbooks home for fear they will be lost or damaged. Teachers often spend money out of their own paychecks for materials. Others go without and work at the blackboard more.

School officials also said some of the city's 7,000 bilingual program students only have new reading textbooks in Spanish because the city failed to order enough books in English. Students in the Agassiz elementary school — where textbooks never go home — are sharing readers, Principal Alfredo Nunez said.

The textbook shortage in Boston comes despite a city survey of parents three years ago that found instructional materials were the No. 1 priority among 25 educational issues. Officials increased funding for materials in response to the finding before the budget constraints forced the cutbacks this year.

National education lobbyists said cities should find other areas to cut before slashing resources used directly by students.

"If we see education as an investment, then we will provide those funds and won't have to make those cuts," said Gary Marx, associate executive director of the American Association of School Administrators in Arlington, Va.

Kiwanis to have meeting

Billy T. Smith, Texas-Oklahoma Kiwanis District Governor, will hold an official visit with Division 33 clubs at a special meeting Monday night in the dining facility at West Texas State University.

The meeting will start at 7:30 p.m. Monday and includes the Hereford, Whiteface and Golden K clubs of Hereford. Other clubs in the division are from Amarillo, Canyon, Dimmitt, Muleshoe, Tulla and Wellington. A 20-year member of Kiwanis, Smith first joined the Kiwanis Club of Big Spring Feb. 16, 1968. He has maintained perfect attendance since that date and has served his club as secretary-treasurer for 17 years. He served as lieutenant governor of Division 22 in 1978-79, and his club named him Kiwanian of the Year in 1979 and again in 1985. He had an accounting practice in Big Spring before retiring in 1984.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

We want to thank two young men from Hereford. They are high school students, both are football players and one plays basketball. One is dark haired, one blond.

Unfortunately, we didn't catch their names, but they were in a black Ford Super Cab pickup.

We had car trouble Saturday night, and after being passed by at least 20 vehicles, we waved and they stopped and gave us assistance.

When all you hear about the younger generation is bad, these young men will restore your faith.

Thanks men.

Exchange.

Others with a shot include Rep. Tom Coleman, R-O., former Iowa Rep. Cooper Evans and Seymour Johnson, a Mississippi soybean farmer. Peter Myers, currently holding down the No. 2 job at Agriculture, has been beating his own drum, but it's not known whether the sounds have reached Bush's ears.

COMMERCE

Secretary C. William Verity Jr., a retired steel executive and one of several short-timers in Reagan's Cabinet, has taken himself out of the picture.

Heading the pack for this post is Robert Mossbacher, Houston businessman, GOP fund-raiser and longtime Bush chum.

LABOR

Secretary Ann Dore McLaughlin campaigned hard for Bush, but is unlikely to retain the job she got just 11 months ago.

The leading candidate is Rep. Thomas J. Ridge, R-Pa., a moderate from a blue-collar district in western Pennsylvania who has tried to forge GOP ties to organized labor. He is credited with helping Bush carry the Keystone state.

HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

A Republican member of Congress figures prominently in the handicapping for a successor to Doc Bowen — former Indiana Gov. (and M.D.) Otis R. Bowen — as HHS secretary. But a physician who heads a non-profit hospital chain has also emerged as a front-runner.

HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT

Secretary Samuel R. Pierce Jr. is the only original Reagan Cabinet member left. He'll head back to New York to practice law.

His successor could be Cleveland Mayor George Voinovich, who just lost a bid to unseat Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio. Bush could tap Robert Woodson, a black conservative and advocate of turning public housing projects over to tenants who is president of the National Center for Neighborhood Enterprise.

TRANSPORTATION

Secretary James Horace Burnley, at 40 the youngest member of Reagan's Cabinet, has taken himself out of the running.

Craig Fuller, 37, Bush's chief of staff for the past four years, is a possibility for Transportation secretary, now that Bush has reportedly passed over him and chosen Sununu to run the White House.

ENERGY

Secretary John Stewart Herrington has served nearly a four-year stint and is certain to be replaced.

Sununu, a mechanical engineer by training, was a leading candidate for the Energy job before he reportedly snagged White House chief of staff.

The possibilities include ALCOA chairman Paul O'Neill, who also figures prominently in the Defense rumors; Peter Johnson, director of the Bonneville Power Administration, and former Rep. Thomas Loeffler of Texas, who ran Bush's campaign in his adopted state.

EDUCATION

Secretary Lauro F. Cavazos, the first Hispanic ever to serve in the Cabinet, would like to stay there. But after two months on the job, his fate is in doubt. Conservatives have criticized some of the former Texas Tech University president's pronouncements and said he didn't campaign hard enough for Republicans.

VETERANS AFFAIRS

The 14th and newest Cabinet entity will open for business next March, and the early favorites to be its inaugural secretary include two former Vietnam prisoners of war and a Democratic congressman.

The ex-POWs are Edward Alvarez, who was heavily involved with the Bush campaign, and former Sen. Jeremiah Denton, R-Ala. Rep. Sonny Montgomery, D-Miss., chairman of the Veterans Affairs Committee, is also a contender.

Ridge, the Pennsylvania Republican congressman and Vietnam veteran mentioned as a possible Labor secretary, is also a possibility, as is Rep. John Paul Hamerschmidt, R-Ark., a veteran of World War II and ranking Republican on the Veteran Affairs Committee.

Lion of the month

Buzz Abalos, left, is all smiles as he shakes hands with Boss Lion David Ruland after receiving his Lion of the Month cap at Wednesday's meeting of the Hereford Lions Club. Abalos was recognized for his work on the club's recent garage sale.

Twisters finish season

The Hereford Twisters soccer team has completed a successful 1988 season by dominating its indoor and outdoor season.

The Twisters finished the outdoor season with a 14-2-2 record in the Northwest Soccer League.

Monday, the Twisters finished the indoor season at the Tri-State Fairground Sports Arena with a 10-0 record, scoring 113 goals and allowing 18.

Scoring during the season included Manuel Mendiola, 30; Javier Mendiola, 25; Tomas Vargas, 20; Eloy Marquez, 16; Pedro Ramirez and Jesus Gonzales, seven each; Lupe Ruiz, five; and one each by Joel Gonzales and "Pinqui" Ruiz. The team is coached by Harvey Gutierrez and Javier Gutierrez Jr.

The two teams will be playing for second place in the Southwest Conference. A Tech victory will give it second place outright (Texas A&M is ineligible). For Houston to finish second, it must beat the Raiders Saturday and Rice the following weekend.

Houston is 7-3 on the year and 3-2 in conference, while Tech is 5-4 and 4-2 in conference. Houston has a 14-5-1 advantage in the series which began in 1951. In SWC meetings, the Cougars lead by 9-2-1.

The game will mark the last in Jones Stadium for 25 Tech seniors. Included in the list are Billy Joe Tolliver, the school's most prolific quarterback ever; Tyrone Thurman, the SWC's all-time punt return leader; kicker Scott Segrist, the school's all-time leading scorer, and receiver Eddy Anderson, who is vying to become the school's all-time pass reception leader.

The game will feature the SWC's top two passing teams and both are on win streaks—Tech with four and Houston with three straight. Three of the SWC's top four throwers will be in the game. Tolliver has a league high of 1,885 yards this season, while Houston's Andre Ware is second at 1,666 and David Dacus is fourth with 1,456.

Houston has the top two receivers in the nation in Jason Phillips and James Dixon, and the Raiders' Thurman is the next-ranked receiver in the league. Thurman and Dixon will also battle for the kickoff return average crown.

Tech will finish SWC action Saturday but will tangle with Oklahoma State in the season finale in the Coca-Cola Bowl in Tokyo, Japan on Dec. 4.

SENSIBLE RULES

CLEVELAND, Miss. (AP) — Mike Robbins, the coach of a Little League baseball team here, has some rules for his players that are being held up as a model code for young athletes.

- 1 — Never criticize a teammate. Win or lose together.
- 2 — Do not belittle anyone on the opposing team. Try to treat your opponents as friends.
- 3 — Do not argue with or make derogatory remarks to the umpires. Remember it's your performance that determines the outcome of a game.

'88 team has top offense

By SPEEDY NIEMAN

Hereford's playoff-bound Whitefaces had a good mix of rushing and passing while compiling an 8-1 record this season. School records show the '88 edition was first in total offense for 10 games with 3,235 yards.

The Whitefaces had 2,184 yards rushing and 1,051 passing and the total offense edged the 1981 team by 10 yards. The '81 team went on to compile 4,247 in 14 games. This year's team ranks fourth in passing and seventh in rushing.

The team scored 299 points to rank second in the HHS record books since 1950. The 1955 team scored 325 points. This year's team ranks fourth in season scoring defense, giving up 87 points in 10 games. The 1969 team gave up 73 points and the '81 team yielded 108 points in 14 games, a 7.7 average.

Tailback Keith Brown led the Herd's rushing attack, gaining 964 yards on 142 carries. Brown had only 166 yards in the first four games but, with a change in offensive strategy, chalked up 798 yards in the last six games. Helping make the ground game so productive are the members of the offensive line—including Brian Watts, Anthony Tijerina, Edward Castillo, Eddie Tijerina, Kevin Paetzold, Roger McCracken, and Bud Shirley who has been sidelined with an injury.

Mainstays in helping post one of the better defensive marks in school history have been down-linemen Brad Smith, Roger McCracken, Darren Nikkel, Aaron Savage, and Billy Burnam, now sidelined with an injury. The great linebacking corps includes Joe Medrano, Kirby Kaul, Moses Casas, Jason Lueb and Brian Wagner. Medrano leads the team in tackles, followed by Smith, Kaul, Casas, Nikkel, Burnam, Wagner, and defensive backs Mercer and Brown.

In individual offensive statistics, three players moved into the top 10 all-time list of Hereford gridders. Quarterback Jason Scott became seventh in pass completions and passing yardage, and recorded the best percentage mark while hitting 61.4 percent of his passes.

Scott also put himself in the HHS record book as the top career percentage passer (120 of 218; .551) and third in total yardage with 1,672 in two seasons. Keith Kitchens (71-72) has the most completions and attempts (148 of 394) and the most yards, 2,154. Alan Wartes (80-81) is second in total yards at 1,789.

Keith Brown established himself as the seventh best rusher at HHS with 964 yards. Mack Cansler (61) still holds the regular-season mark of 1,284, while Paul Bell (77-78) has the career-best total of 2,188.

Pat Mercer moved into fifth place on the HHS pass receiving list, making 24 catches for 503 yards and nine touchdowns. He now ranks second in touchdown passes and second in average yards per catch.

WT High-Abernathy here for rematch

A Class 2A football playoff game, matching West Texas High and Abernathy, will be played here at Whiteface Stadium Friday at 8 p.m.

West Texas High (Plemons-Stinnett-Phillips School District) advanced to the area playoffs with a 36-20 win over Canadian last Friday. The Comanches have a 7-3-1 won-lost-tie record for the season.

"We were so well received and well treated in Hereford last year that we are asking our patrons to fast the day of the game and fill up on your good food and hospitality just before the game," said Supt. Hayden Willhite of West Texas High.

Admission for the game will be $4 for adults and $2 for students.

Abernathy reached the area playoff game by taking a 41-20 triumph over Shallowater last week. The Antelopes have a 7-4 won-lost record. Abernathy played five Class 3A foes in non-district, however, and all four losses came at the hands of the 3A opponents.

In the other three Region 1 playoff games in 2A, Quannah plays Idalou, Stanton meets Eastland, and Reagan County battles DeLeon.

The local chamber works in cooperation with the school district and the coaching staff to bring the playoff game to Hereford. Through this joint effort, approximately 2,000 people are expected to come to Hereford Friday evening.

Anyone wishing to help on this game, or any future playoff games, can call the chamber office. (364-3333) or James Self (364-1244).

SWC will feature guards

DALLAS (AP) — In its 75th year, the Southwest Conference could feature the best guard play in the nation, its coaches said on the league's media day.

"The guards in this league are comparable to any on the outside," said Houston coach Pat Foster. "College basketball is becoming a guard game. You will see a lot of teams going to three-guard offenses. There are few great centers and the three-point shot can offset them."

Arkansas coach Nolan Richardson said "the really good guards from the three-point line can offset those inside aircraft carriers. And we could have the best guards of any league in the country in this country. Those guards out there can make you or break you."

Texas' Tom Penders and Southern Methodist's John Shumate, new coaches on the Southwest Conference basketball block, drew a lot of attention on the media day that was held Wednesday.

Penders, who came to the Longhorns from Rhode Island, promised a run-and-gun offense, saying "I think a high-risk offense is too many passes. If you have too many passes you have too many chances to kick the ball out the door."

Rhode Island averaged 90 points per game last year.

"Every team we played tried to hold the ball against us but we still got our points," he said. "I disagree with the conclusion that you can't run and play defense. We will play an aggressive, gambling defense." Penders replaced Bob Weltlich who was fired after producing methodical, mediocre teams that drew an average of less than 4,000 fans to Texas' home games.

Shumate, who was an assistant under Digger Phelps at Notre Dame, inherited a well-stocked SWC champion from Dave Bliss, who went to New Mexico.

"We'll try to be a running team because with the athletes we have in the backcourt (Kato Armstrong and Todd Alexander) it would do an injustice to walk the ball up," Shumate said. "I'm can adjust my style of play to the talent on hand. I'm comfortable doing what it takes to win."

Shumate gets an early test. The Mustangs play Wyoming in Laramie on Friday night in a nationally televised (10 p.m. ESPN) first round game of the Big Apple NIT.

"There's some great talent in the Southwest Conference this year," Shumate said. "I wouldn't be surprised if the league had two teams in the Top 20 and four teams in the NCAA playoffs."

Southwest Conference teams will be playing in one brand new building to play in this year — the Ferrell Center at Baylor. It replaces antiquated Heart O' Texas Stadium.

"It's really nice," said Baylor coach Gene Iba. "It's nice not to go to practice and see a tractor pull going on. It's as good a place to play basketball as there is in our part of the world."

Carter officially in 5A playoffs

AUSTIN (AP) — Dallas Carter football players rejoiced and then began preparing for a Class 5A playoff game while officials from other schools decried the decision that allowed the team to continue its pursuit of a state title.

The Texas Education Agency ruled Wednesday that Dallas Carter is eligible to compete, ending the wrangling over the grades of a Carter player that extended into a second week.

"Finally," Gary Edwards, the player whose grades sparked the controversy, told The Dallas Morning News. "Finally, we can just practice and play football."

The agency also was placed on one-year probation and the University Interscholastic League state executive committee reprimanded the school for failing to report the changed grade of player Ramon Wright to a UIL committee.

Carter, 8-0-1, was ranked No. 6 in the final 5A poll of The Associated Press. The Cowboys will meet Dallas Samuell in the second round of the state playoffs at the Cotton Bowl in Dallas at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

The Cowboys defeated Plano East 21-7 in the first round of the playoffs last Friday.

Officials from the TEA and the UIL earlier had found that star running back Edwards, who scored the final two touchdowns in the victory over Plano East, was ineligible because of what was believed to be a failing grade in an algebra class.

But new evidence presented Tuesday showed that the teacher may have miscalculated the player's grade.

After hearing six hours of testimony Tuesday, UIL officials decided that the matter was not within their jurisdiction and referred the matter to the education agency.

The TEA made its ruling Wednesday. But the Plano Independent School District board then voted to seek an injunction to block Dallas Carter from playing Dallas Samuell in its area playoff game.

Plano school attorneys said the purpose of such an injunction would be to block state Deputy Education Commissioner Tom Anderson's ruling that Edwards and Wright are academically eligible to play.

The Plano board also voted to seek a hearing on the Carter ruling before TEA Commissioner William Kirby.

"The credibility (of the TEA and UIL) has been tainted by this one case," said Plano East principal Archie McAfee. "It has shown some schools can develop a grading system that can help students pass."

Social Security

Have you a question about social security? Address it to Jim Talbot, Social Security Office, Suite 16, 3601 W. 15th, Amarillo, Texas 79102. You will receive an answer in this column or by mail.

QUESTION: I understand that in order to get Social Security disability benefits your disability must be expected to last a year. Does that mean that you have to wait a year after being disabled before you can get benefits?

ANSWER: You're right about the disability being expected to last a year. But a person is also eligible if his or her disability is expected to result in death. In either case, benefits begin after a 5-month waiting period—that is, with the sixth full month of disability.

QUESTION: My two children and I have been getting survivors benefits ever since my wife died. Will the benefits continue if I remarry?

ANSWER: Your remarriage would have no effect on the benefits being paid to your children. If you get benefits only because you are caring for the children, your benefits would end at the time of your remarriage unless you marry someone who is receiving Social Security retirement, disability widow's, mother's, parent's, or childhood disability benefits.

QUESTION: I have heard that if I complete a certain Social Security form I will receive a copy of my lifetime earnings record. Is this true?

ANSWER: Yes, you must complete a SSA Form 7004 entitled, "Request for Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement," add first class postage, and mail it to us. You will receive a statement of your earnings record in about 6 weeks or less. To get the form, call your local Social Security office.

QUESTION: I've been going to the chiropractor for a number of years for a back problem. I just started getting Medicare. Will Medicare pay for my visits to the chiropractor?

ANSWER: The only chiropractic treatment covered by Medicare is manual manipulation of the spine to correct subluxation that can be demonstrated by X-ray. This treatment must be furnished by a licensed and Medicare-certified chiropractor to qualify for Medicare coverage. Medicare does not pay for any other diagnostic or therapeutic service, including X-rays, furnished by a chiropractor.

QUESTION: My family doctor wants me to start getting a pneumococcal vaccine each year. Will my Medicare medical insurance cover the cost?

ANSWER: Yes. Medical insurance will pay for the full approved charges for pneumococcal vaccine and its administration. Medicare will pay these charges regardless of whether you have met the $75 annual medical insurance deductible.

QUESTION: I've worked for the railroad for many years and have just retired. I'm getting Medicare coverage under the railroad retirement system. Where should I send my medical insurance claims?

ANSWER: You should send your medical insurance claims to The Travelers Insurance Company office which serves your region. Regional offices of The Travelers are listed in "Your Medicare Handbook for Railroad Retirement Beneficiaries." If you don't have a copy of the handbook you can get one from any railroad retirement office.

QUESTION: I get SSI payments because I'm disabled. I work part time, and one of my coworkers told me that Social Security may deduct some of my work expenses before determining the amount of my income. What does that mean?

ANSWER: Certain impairment-related work expenses can be deducted from your income when figuring your SSI payment. Each expense must be approved by Social Security. Some examples include medical devices, such as wheelchairs, respirators, or braces; attendant care services; work-related equipment, such as a one-handed typewriter or braille device; and some transportation costs. You should check with your Social Security office if you think you might have an impairment-related work expense. The expense may be deductible even if you need the item or service for daily living.

QUESTION: My father gets SSI and just received an insurance settlement for a fire in his house. Does he have to report it as income to Social Security?

ANSWER: No. As long as the money is used to repair the damage to his house, it does not count as income for SSI purposes.

Bride-elect feted

Bridal shower held for Jennifer Burnitt

A bridal shower honored Jennifer Burnitt, bride-elect of Mike Caudle, Sunday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Wendel Clark, 241 Ranger Drive.

Guests were greeted by the honoree and the prospective bridegroom's mother, Ella Caudle, who were presented floral corsages by the hostesses.

Refreshments of spiced tea, cookies, mints, nuts, strawberry bread and coffee from a silver service were served from a table covered with a rose cloth and a lace overlay. A basket arrangement of rose and navy flowers was used as a centerpiece.

Shower hostesses included Joyce Allred, Pat Clark, Merie Clark, Sara Cook, Frances Crume, Helen Eades, Mary Herring, Vendell Plummer, Susan Robbins, Theda Seiver, Clovis Seago, Marie Stringer and Lolita Vinson.

Missionaries give program

Robert and Bobbie Widner, missionaries who served two years in Samoa, presented the program when members of the Women of St. Thomas Episcopal Church met recently at the church with Sherry Davis serving as hostesses.

Mary Fraser, vice president, opened the business meeting with a devotional taken from Luke 10:38-42 concerning the message "If anyone has ears let him hear."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I received the attached in the mail from a friend in California. It makes so much sense I wish you would run it in your column.

Sorry I don't know who the author is.—H.K., Libertyville, Ill.

DEAR LIB: It's a gem! Thanks for sharing.

This is an excerpt from "All I Really Need to Know I Learned in Kindergarten." Copyright (c) 1988 by Robert Fulgham. Villard Books, a division of Random House Inc.

All I Really Need to Know I Learned In Kindergarten

Most of what I really need to know about how to live, and what to do and how to be, I learned in kindergarten. Wisdom was not at the top of the graduate school mountain, but there in the sandbox at nursery school.

These are the things I learned: Share everything. Play fair. Don't hit people. Put things back where you found them. Clean up your own mess. Don't take things that aren't yours. Say you're sorry when you hurt somebody. Wash your hands before you eat. Warm cookies and cold milk are good for you. Live a balanced life. Learn some and think some and draw and paint and sing and dance and play and work some every day.

When you go out into the world, watch for traffic, hold hands and stick together. Be aware of, wonder. Remember the little seed in the plastic cup. The roots go down and the plant goes up and nobody really knows how or why, but we are all like that.

Goldfish and hamsters and white mice and even the little seed in the plastic cup...they all die. So do we.

And then remember the book about Dick and Jane and the first word you learned, the biggest word of all...LOOK! Everything you need to know is in there somewhere. The Golden Rule and love and basic sanitation. Ecology and politics and sane living.

Think of what a better world it would be if we all...the whole world...had cookies and milk about 3 o'clock every afternoon and then lay down with our blankets for a nap. Or if we had a basic policy in our nation and other nations to always put things back where we found them and cleaned up our own messes. And it is still true, no matter how old you are, when you go out into the world, it is best to hold hands and stick together.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Old girl, you blew the answer to "San Diego," the wife whose sailor husband was coming home after a six-month Persian Gulf cruise. She was upset because the man's parents and brothers wanted to meet the ship, but she wanted her hubby all to herself for the first 48 hours. You say she's on solid ground. I say she's totally selfish.

OK, he's been in a hazardous duty area. She says she was "worried sick the whole time." Were his parents and brothers less worried?

Assume he comes home and is greeted by his whole family, everyone he loves.

When the family celebration is over, who will he be going home to spend not days but years with—assuming her possessiveness doesn't eventually drive him away?—Ex-Navyman in Kansas

DEAR EX-NAVY: Sorry, I'm not backing off. My authority for deciding that the wife takes precedence over the parents is the Bible, no less. Here's the quote:

"Wherefore a man shall leave father and mother and shall cleave to his wife."

Have a good day.

What are the signs of alcoholism? How can you tell if someone you love is an alcoholic? "Alcoholism: How to Recognize It, How to Deal With It, How to Conquer It" will give you the answers. To receive a copy, send $3 and a self-addressed, stamped business-size envelope (45 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago Ill. 60611-0562.

Tortilla making featured

"The Lost Art of Corn Tortilla Making" was the program presented by a Hereford resident on Nov. 7 to a class of Brandenburg Elementary students in Irving.

Mrs. Leonor Lafuente, 74, of 302 Norton, used corn masa harina and demonstrated how to make tortillas before the youngsters. She cooked the tortillas in a skillet and provided fresh samples of the home-made tortillas topped with butter.

Lafuente also talked to the students about her life in the early 1900's, giving the students an opportunity to ask questions about the old days. The study was part of the "Whole Language Approach Experience," which was prepared by Mrs. Nina Vera, a former Hereford resident and former Aikman Elementary School teacher.

Mrs. Lafuente has been invited to return to Irving in the future to make similar presentations.

A summer in England planned

An orientation session concerning West Texas State University's summer international student program is set for Dec. 3 at 11 a.m. in the Classroom Center, Room 403 of the campus.

West Texas State University will offer some of its summer school courses in Harlaxton Manor in Grantham, England, next summer.

WTSU's international student program makes use of a stately Victorian mansion—an amalgamation of Elizabethan, Jacobean and Baroque architecture with a roofscape as fine as any in England—that is now owned and operated by the University of Evansville (Indiana). Students will have the opportunity to study British history and literature, taking advantage of museums, libraries and local cultural and historical sites.

Participating students will leave for England on June 5, 1989, where they will study, tour and experience the English countryside until July 6, 1989.

WTSU faculty members involved are Dr. Darrell Munsell, professor of history and a specialist in Victorian political history, and Dr. Charmazel Dudd, professor of English who has taught Shakespeare for more than 20 years.

Munsell will teach a combination of History 491, Victorian Britain;

History 492, England at the Turn of the Century; and History 5564, Special Topics.

Dudd will teach English 491, British Literature in its Setting; English 492, England at the Turn of the Century; and English 5565, Special Topics.

"Besides three to six hours of undergraduate or graduate credit, students will have the opportunity to study and live in a very nice, very unusual manor," Munsell, who was involved in the 1987 trip to England, said, "It is an opportunity for students to study literature and history first-hand."

Cost for the month in England, including tuition and fees and travel expenses, is $2,800.

For more information, contact the International Student Programs Office, WT Box 745, Canyon, Texas 79016, or call 656-2073.

Thanksgiving dinner shows Texas' agricultural bounty

Thanksgiving may have started in Massachusetts, but the foods that are eaten at this traditional meal have also become important Texas agricultural products.

The star of Thanksgiving dinner is the turkey and about 7.4 million of them are grown in Texas each year.

According to Dr. David Mellor, a poultry marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas is about the 11th largest producer of turkeys in the country.

However, chances are that the whole turkey carved at your Thanksgiving table won't be from Texas.

"Most of the Texas-grown turkey ends up in value-added products such as cooked boneless breasts, luncheon meat and prepared products which are sent to the East and West Coasts," said Mellor.

In the meantime, fresh and frozen whole birds are shipped in from Arkansas, Missouri and other producing states for the Thanksgiving feast.

From the corn meal for cornbread stuffing to the whipped cream for your pumpkin pie, just about every dish served at Thanksgiving is produced in some form in Texas.

For example, if you're making candied or whipped sweet potatoes or sweet potato pie from fresh sweet potatoes bought earlier this fall, they're probably from Texas.

Sweet potatoes are produced in central Texas around Elgin, in the Lubbock area and in east Texas where they're harvested in the early fall.

White potatoes are grown in Texas too, although by Thanksgiving most white potatoes are coming from Idaho and other northern states. The Texas white potatoes are harvested in July and August.

Fresh fall vegetables for your dinner, especially winter squash, cauliflower, broccoli, carrots and spinach come from Texas' Rio Grande Valley and the winter garden area of southwest Texas.

Although many of these vegetables are shipped out of state for processing, they are also offered fresh through stores and farmer's markets.

For dessert, both pumpkin and pecan pies are Thanksgiving favorites. This year Texas produced about 39 million pounds of pumpkin. Many of them wound up as jack o'lanterns, but others will find their way into fresh pumpkin pie.

Pecans are grown commercially in 183 Texas counties. This year's crop is estimated at 45 million pounds. Although the pecans are slightly smaller due to the drought, they're of excellent quality.

It's unlikely that cranberries will ever be grown in Texas because they require a cold, wet climate.

If you make cranberry-orange relish, however, you can add a touch of Texas by using oranges from the Rio Grande Valley. The Texas citrus harvest began in October and will continue through June.

The Thanksgiving meal illustrates the fact that Texas agriculture is increasingly diverse. Although meat animals and cotton are still the major income-producers for the state, Texas produces hundreds of other crops.

Stone Mill Bread

4 1/2 cups whole-wheat flour
1 1/2 packages dry yeast
2 cups water
1/3 cup powdered milk
1/3 cup oil
1/4 cup plus 1 tablespoon honey
1 egg

Mix 1/2 cup warm water and 1 tablespoon honey with dry yeast. Set aside. Mix 1 cup stirred whole-wheat flour with 1 1/2 cups water. Cook until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. (Note: mixture will be lumpy and will stick to pan at first, but will gradually smooth out.) Pour cooked mixture into large bowl and add in the following order: 1/4 cup honey, powdered milk, oil, egg and 1 cup stirred whole-wheat flour. Mix well. Add yeast mixture and 2 1/2 cups stirred whole-wheat flour. Mix well until dough is almost stiff enough to hold its shape. Cover with towel and allow to double in size (about 1 hour). Turn onto floured board and knead 2 to 3 minutes until smooth and elastic. Let stand 15 minutes. Cut into eight equal pieces and let stand another 15 minutes. Press each piece flat, fold several times, then roll into cylinder. Braid 4 cylinders together for each loaf. Pinch ends together and tuck under. Place on greased cookie sheet, cover and let rise until puffy and approximately double in size. Bake at 375 degrees for 30-35 minutes. Makes two large loaves.

ASK DR. LAMB

What Is Hashimoto's Thyroiditis?

BY LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB I have recently been diagnosed as having Hashimoto's thyroiditis. Will you please tell me more about this disease? What causes it? What are the symptoms? How serious is it? Can it be cured? Is it preventable? Is it inherited? Will I have to be on thyroid medication my entire life?

thyroid hormone, thyroxine. This vital hormone affects every cell in your body, and when there is an insufficient amount, all the cell mechanisms slow down. That means the heart is slow; the thinking process may become slow. Metabolism is slowed, resulting in weight gain despite a small calorie intake. I must add that although a low thyroid function can cause weight gain, it is seldom the cause of obesity seen in our society. Changes in hair — it may be more coarse and even thin — skin changes, constipation and many other symptoms occur.

drinking more than an occasional beer or cocktail. I am more concerned about his sports. I like for people to be physically active, but there is an increased danger from contact sports, such as football. A kidney injury could be a major problem for him.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS

WILTON, Conn. (AP) — According to a survey of employees involved in a group move, 59 percent of the moves were the result of company consolidations, closings or merger-acquisition.

The survey, made by PHH Homequity Inc. of 1,000 employees recently involved in a move, also showed that the relocation of headquarters and new office openings accounted for 22 percent of the moves.

A majority of the moves studied involved lateral transfers for employees.

Call 'turkey hotline' for assistance

The Butterball Turkey Talk-Line is a toll-free hotline available to callers nationwide who have questions about cooking their holiday turkeys. Forty-four home economists and nutritionists are available to answer turkey preparation questions, such as how much to buy and what to do with the leftovers.

The Butterball Turkey Talk-Line is celebrating its eighth year in service. The Talk-Line has answered more than 600,000 inquiries since it opened in 1981. During the 1987 season, staffers answered more than 130,000 questions.

Talk-Line Dates and Hours:

- Nov. 1-Nov. 23, Monday-Friday, 8 a.m. - 8 p.m. (CST)
- The weekend prior to Thanksgiving (Nov. 19-20), 8 a.m. - 6 p.m. (CST)
- Thanksgiving Day (Nov. 24), 6 a.m. - 6 p.m. (CST)
- Nov. 25-Dec. 23, Monday-Friday, 8 a.m. - 6 p.m. (CST)

The Butterball Turkey Talk-Line suggests the following oven pan roasting method for preparing your holiday bird:

1. Thaw turkey in refrigerator or cold water. When ready to cook, remove wrapper.
2. Remove neck from body cavity and giblets from neck cavity; refrigerate. Rinse turkey and drain well.
3. Stuff neck and body cavities lightly, if desired. Turn wings back to hold neck skin in place. If unattached, return legs to tucked position. No trussing is necessary.
4. Place turkey, breast side up, on flat rack in open pan, about 2 inches deep.
5. Insert meat thermometer deep into thickest part of thigh next to body, not touching bone.
6. Brush skin with oil to prevent skin from drying. Further basting is unnecessary.
7. Roast at 325 degrees F. When skin is golden brown, shield breast loosely with lightweight foil to prevent overbrowning.
8. Check for doneness. Internal thigh temperature should be 180 to 185 degrees F; center of stuffing, 160 to 165 degrees F. Thigh and drumstick meat should feel soft. When thigh is pierced, juices should be clear, not pink.
9. Let turkey stand 15 to 20 minutes for easier carving.

BERRY BEST WAYS TO USE CRANBERRIES

After spending a day in the Massachusetts cranberry bogs watching the harvest, I came home eager to try the tangy berries in new ways. Here are some tips for enjoying fresh cranberries, sauces and juice.

FRESH CRANBERRIES

— Fresh cranberries may be stored in the refrigerator, just as you bought them, for up to 1 month. For longer storage, double-wrap and store in the freezer for up to 9 months.

— Mix chopped cranberries with softened butter for spreading on biscuits, muffins, pancakes or waffles. Or, use cranberry butter on broiled fish.

— Add one tablespoon of chopped cranberries to tuna salad or deviled ham for sandwich fillings.

— Cook cranberries with red cabbage, raisins and wine; serve with pork or ham.

— To chop cranberries for relish, process 3 cups at a time in a food processor.

WHOLE-BERRY CRANBERRY SAUCE

— Add to your favorite barbecue sauce for poultry.

— Use as a cheesecake topper or drizzle over molded cheese desserts.

— Fold into yogurt or sour cream for dressing on fruit salads. Fold into whipped cream and top Swedish pancakes.

— Add to fruit compotes.

JELLIED CRANBERRY SAUCE

— Use as part of the liquid when making gelatin salads.

— Slice and serve as base for chicken and fruit salads.

— Use as filling in muffins and coffee cake.

— Slice and cut with hors d'oeuvre cutters; use cutouts for garnish on meat platters, salads and pies.

CRANBERRY JUICE COCKTAIL

— Use as liquid for poaching fruit.

— Make cranberry jelly, flavoring with fortified wines, herbs or liqueurs.

— Use as the liquid for fruit soup.

— Cook beans in cranberry juice, rather than water, when making baked beans.

Hashimoto's Thyroiditis

Hashimoto's thyroiditis, the most common cause of low thyroid function, is caused by antibodies attacking the thyroid gland.

© 1988 North America Syndicate, Inc.

Most people don't realize how much the thyroid gland affects their health. I have discussed the many changes that occur in thyroid diseases in Your Thyroid Gland, which I'm sending you. Others who want this issue can send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER 32-04, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

Yes, a person who has low thyroid function because of Hashimoto's thyroiditis usually must take thyroid hormone replacement for life. But there are no complications from taking the right amount, and it is very effective. It can make a tremendous difference in your energy level, personality and most of your body functions.

DEAR DR. LAMB: My son is 19 years old, a very healthy, active young man. He has never had any medical problems, but he was born with only one kidney. He has had X-rays and his one kidney is quite normal, only a little larger than usual according to the doctor. He said that was normal when you only have one kidney as it does all the work two kidneys usually do.

He has been active in sports and still likes to play touch football and basketball. He is in college now.

I am worried because he drinks beer, not a lot but several beers a week. I am afraid this will hurt his kidney.

DEAR READER: Nature endowed most of us with a redundant system, two of many organs when one would do. One kidney is quite adequate. But if you don't have a spare, you do need to take care of it. Alcohol is not good for the kidneys or other organs for that matter, but it doesn't pose any more of a hazard to him than it would to someone with two kidneys. However, he certainly should avoid

DEAR READER: Hashimoto's thyroiditis is now believed to be the most common cause of low thyroid function, other than destruction of the thyroid gland from surgery or radiation to correct an overactive thyroid condition.

It is a chronic inflammation, but the cause of the inflammation is not understood. The most widely accepted theory is that the body creates antibodies that attack the thyroid gland itself. So it is not inherited and it is not known how to prevent it or to even prevent progression of the changes in the thyroid gland.

The symptoms that lead to recognition of the disease are caused by a decrease in the formation of
