Parmer makes Gramm-standing' accusation again

AUSTIN (AP) - U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm talks one way in Texas but votes another way in Washington, charges state Sen. Hugh Parmer, a Democrat who wants to unseat him.

But Gramm spokesman Larry Neal said Parmer's accusations of "Grammstanding" constitute a "silly sort of campaign" against the Republican incumbent.

Parmer, of Fort Worth, charged at a Monday news conference that Gramm's claims to support such efforts as fighting drugs are empty. He said Gramm would change the way he votes on drugs and law enforcement because of the campaign against him.

"I think he has noticed that he's not going to get a free run ... voting one way and portraying himself as being on the other side back in Texas," Parmer said.

Neal vehemently disagreed, calling Parmer's campaign "far-fetched and incompetent."

"If change has occurred, it's on the part of Mr. Parmer, who apparently is worried that he will be perceived as just another left-winger from the National Democratic Party," he said. "I think there's little to suggest otherwise."

Among other charges, Parmer said that Gramm mailed at taxpayer expense a special report claiming leadership in the fight against drugs, but that he voted against some of the programs he said he advocated.

Parmer said Gramm was absent when the Anti-Drug Abuse Act of 1988 was passed, but Neal said that is not true.

The Anti-Drug Abuse Act of 1988 was a bill that Senator Gramm was active in creating, that he was an original sponsor of and for which he voted on final passage," Neal said.

Parmer also said Gramm claimed credit for an amendment another senator passed, and that he voted against a bill that included random drug testing for the airline, rail bus and trucking industries.

In addition, Parmer said, Gramm voted against bills that included $250 million for a drug-free schools and communities program for fiscal years 1988 and 1989.

Parmer also charged that Gramm has not voted for annual appropriations for the Drug Enforcement Administration and FBI since he entered the Senate in 1985, although he called such funding important in the report.

Neal said Gramm has voted against legislation to cut funding for the DEA, FBI and federal prosecutors.

"Senator Gramm's position is that he will never support a cut in law enforcement. I gather that Mr. Parmer would," Neal said.

On another matter, Parmer said he thinks Jim Lane, who came in third in the race for the seat vacated by former U.S. House Speaker Jim Wright, should endorse Democratic winner Pete Geren in the runoff against Republican Bob Lanier.

"More than that, he ought to get out and campaign for Pete Geren, because we need to work to try and hold that seat for the Democratic Party," Parmer said.

In other political developments Monday:

- State Rep. Pat Hill, a partner in a Dallas law firm, became the first Republican to enter the race for attorney general. Ms. Hill, 43, heads the House Judicial Affairs Committee.
- In a statement issued by her Dallas campaign office, Ms. Hill said she would formally declare her candidacy for the 1990 GOP nomination on Aug. 31 with a cross-state tour.
- Three Democrats - U.S. Rep. John Bryant, San Antonio state Rep. Dan Morales, and Houston lawyer John Odam - have announced their bids to succeed two-term Attorney General Jim Mattox, who is expected to declare soon his candidacy for governor.

Voyager makes Neptune discoveries

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) - The Voyager 2 spacecraft has discovered a churning, turbulent atmosphere on Neptune, with huge white clouds of frozen natural gas and a string of storms trailing behind an Earth-sized cyclone.

One small collection of clouds called the "scooter" is whirling around the planet's surface once every 16 hours, faster than anything else so far seen on Neptune, said Bradford Smith, head of the Voyager imaging team.

Photographs of the planet's biggest moon, Triton, show it is brighter, cooler and smaller than scientists had thought, Smith said the shots suggest Triton may be partly covered with snow and frozen water.

"It may snow there from time to time," he said Monday.

The pictures also show dark spots near Triton's equator and a pinkish cast that may be from discolored frozen natural gas, or methane. Researchers had speculated that Triton might have oceans of liquid nitrogen, but Smith said any such oceans would have to be frozen over.

"Triton is an especially intriguing object," Smith said. "It's in the wrong orbit. It's going backwards around Neptune. Something truly catastrophic must have happened some time in its past."

Scientists believe Triton could have been a comet that collided with one of Neptune's moons because it rotates in the opposite direction from the planet, unlike most moons in the solar system.

Edward Stone, the Voyager project scientist, said such a collision could have slowed Triton enough to allow it to become trapped in a long, oval orbit around Neptune. As that orbit gradually became more circular, tidal forces would have caused the moon to heat, perhaps turning Triton into a ball of molten rock and water for 1 billion years, he said.

If that were the case, more detailed photographs later this week should show that Triton has fewer meteorite craters than it otherwise would have.

"It's very difficult right now to say anything about what's going on on Triton," Smith said.

Voyager continued to snap pictures of Neptune and Triton today as it moved toward its closest encounter with Neptune at 8:55 p.m. PDT Thursday, when it will pass 3,000 miles from the planet.

It also searched for auroral lights over Neptune's south pole and made further observations of Neptune's weather and variations in brightness on Triton's surface.

The latest pictures showed Triton has a diameter of 1,740 miles, about four-fifths the size of Earth's moon and about half the size scientists previously thought.

Researchers puzzled over the unexpected discovery of the intense weather on Neptune.

"Neptune is an extremely dynamic planet" with weather resembling Jupiter's but "with less than 50 percent of Jupiter's energy," Smith said.

New photographs show that the Great Dark Spot, an Earth-sized cyclone discovered earlier by Voyager, is leaving in its wake a long tail of swirling storms.

Voyager observed winds on Uranus similar to those now being seen on Neptune, but without the turbulence.

Neptune contains more heat than Uranus, and the turbulence could be the result of warmer material bubbling up from deep inside the mostly liquid planet, Smith said.

City makes landfill changes

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Faced with the unexpected closing of the incinerator at the city's landfill operations northeast of Hereford, Hereford city commission voted Monday night to try to convert a large, surplus tractor into a compacting machine to try to extend the life of the city's landfill.

The incinerator will not be used after Aug. 31. It was shut by the Texas Department of Health, following Environmental Protection Agency directives. The incinerator was used to burn non-metal refuse that was brought in by the city's garbage operations. Most metal items were placed in the city's landfill.

With the incinerator's closing, the city will be forced to place all refuse in the landfill, and must find some way to compact the refuse to help extend the life of the landfill and to help prevent trash from blowing away from the site.

Commissioners gave City Manager Darwin McGill approval to convert a large rubber-tired tractor that can be purchased from a Lubbock surplus equipment supplier to a compactor.

"The surplus tractor is a big rubber-tired loader," McGill said. It has six-foot tires on it. We would have steel wheels made for it, and the blade on it could be used to push the refuse in, then use the steel wheels to compact it."

McGill explained that plans are to have five foot high, three foot wide steel wheels fabricated for the tractor, then put lugs on the steel wheels.

The city would be able to use the tractor on a 30-day free trial. If the plan's successful, then the city would buy a similar tractor to use for spare parts. The cost of the two tractors, if the plan works, would be $10,000.

Commissioners also agreed to double the fees for out-of-county users of the landfill, or if the refuse comes from outside of the county. Persons who use the landfill in the future may be required to show proof of residence, like a driver's license or a water bill stub.

Current rates are $3 for a pick up or small trailer of refuse; 50 cents a linear foot for a truck-full of un-compacted garbage; and $1 a cubic yard for compacted refuse.

Commissioners also approved resolutions for grants from the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission for a street improvement project and an urgent need grant for water system improvements.

The street improvement grant, for $209,729, would be for paving, curbs and gutters, and drainage improvement work on a total of 10 blocks on Knight, North, s. Texas and Fifth streets.

That grant was applied for in 1988 but was not funded. John Kiel of the PRPC said some changes had been made in the application that could make the application more attractive to regional and state officials who make decisions on the grants.

The city would be required to provide 25 percent, or $41,946, of the expected cost of the project.

The urgent need grant is for improvements to the water system after city earlier lost one well that was possibly contaminated by some type of fuel.

McGill said engineer Bill McMorris had figured the anticipated flow of water from that well and preliminary work has been done to show where other wells could be safely dug.

The urgent need grant is for $400,000, the maximum that could be applied for. The other $195,000 needed for the project would come from city water and sewer revenues.

Commissioners also approved specifications for bids for a new garbage truck and four new police cars. Those items were included in the budget approved earlier this year.

Commissioner Tom LeGate presided over the meeting in the absence of Mayor Wes Fisher. Also present were commissioners Sylvia Juarez, Paul Hamilton, Irene Cantu, Bud Eades and Terry Langelhennig.

Man hurt in birthday attack

A 26-year-old Hereford man was in critical condition at Deaf Smith General Hospital after suffering stab wounds in an incident early Monday morning.

Fernando Medero, whose 26th birthday was Monday, was stabbed several times by four females in an incident in the alley behind his home at 210 W. Eighth St. at 1:45 a.m. Monday.

Witnesses told police that Medero and the four women had argued on Sunday evening at the Office Club. The women, ages 23, 24, 27 and 28, allegedly later attacked him behind his house, using a knife and a set of booster cables. Medero had three major wounds in the upper torso, two wounds in front and one in back, and other superficial wounds and lacerations.

Medero was taken to Deaf Smith General Hospital, where he was in surgery for almost two hours.

Witnesses identified the alleged attackers to police, and police obtained arrest warrants for the four women. They were seen riding around in a car a short time later and were arrested. Bond for the women, including three Hereford residents and an Amarillo woman, was set at $15,000 each.

Police said the knife and booster cables used in the attack were found in the car.

Sales tax rebates increase

Hereford will receive a sales tax rebate check this month for $71,579, more than $6,000 more than the check received in August 1988.

For the year, Hereford has received $404,280. That's up from the $395,002 received through the first eight months of 1988.

Deaf Smith County is receiving a check for $37,083 for August, up 19 percent from the August 1988 check. For the year, the county has received $205,175, up from the $130,483 for the same time in 1988.

The city's one percent sales tax can be used for almost any purpose. The county's .5 percent sales tax can be used for almost any purpose, but those are used to offset funds normally generated through ad valorem taxes.

Most other cities in the area recorded increases similar to Hereford's.

Other cities' rebates include: Dimmitt, $30,420, up 11.4 percent for the month, and $179,574, up 26 percent for the year; Canyon, $36,325, down 6.1 percent for the month, $259,220 for the year, up 4.3 percent; Amarillo, $1.38 percent for August, down 1.3 percent, $8.53 million for the year, up 2.7 percent; Lubbock, $1.66 million, up 3.4 percent, $10.26 million for the year, up 9.1 percent; and Plainview, $235,531, up from $199, 178 for August 1988, and $1.3 million for the year, up 21 percent.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock paid out 9.8 percent more in sales tax rebates this month than was paid out a year ago.

"We've predicted that the steady growth trend will continue, although it remains spotty in some areas of the state," Bullock said.

The August checks represent taxes collected by monthly filers in June and by quarterly filers in April May and June and reported to the comptroller's office by July 20.

Columbia says no US troops

KENNEBUNKPORT, Maine (AP) - President Bush is offering to help Colombia battle cocaine cartels, but that country's president says U.S. troops are not needed to restore peace to his violence-torn nation, the White House says.

Colombian President Virgilio Barco Vargas' statement, during a Monday evening phone conversation with the vacationing Bush, reinforced earlier statements by Bush aides that U.S. troops would not be dispatched to Colombia except in extreme cases.

A White House statement said Bush called Barco to express condolences over the assassination last week of the leading Colombian presidential candidate, Luis Carlos Galan.

"The president assured President Barco of his strong support, and expressed his admiration for the steps he has taken to restore law and order," the statement said.

And, while the statement said the Bush administration would "render appropriate assistance as rapidly as possible," it added:

"President Barco indicated he had read press speculation about the use of U.S. troops in Colombia. He affirmed to the president that U.S. troops would not be necessary."

Earlier, White House Chief of Staff John Sununu voiced a similar view.

"I think the tradition in the Western Hemisphere has been a reluctance on the part of anybody to ask for troops and I think there's a reluctance on the part of the president to commit troops unless the situations are extreme," Sununu told reporters.

Sununu, whose Monday meeting with Bush included a discussion of the president's upcoming anti-drug plan, said the United States has no plans to use U.S. troops to combat drug trafficking in Colombia or anywhere else in South America.

His comments seemed an effort to soften Attorney General Dick Thornburgh's suggestion Sunday that the United States should consider sending military troops to Colombia if requested by the government of that violence-torn nation.

Bush today again had no public events on his schedule as he enjoys a vacation marked by morning jogs, tennis, boating and golf.

First lady Barbara Bush, however, was returning to Washington for an eye examination at Walter Reed Army Hospital for a lingering condition stemming from Graves disease, a thyroid imbalance.

Despite treatment earlier this year with radioactive iodine, Mrs. Bush continues to be troubled by eye irritation and some double vision, aides said.

Sununu said Bush's anti-drug package, which the president will unveil in a televised speech to the nation Sept. 5 from the Oval Office, is largely complete.

The aide put the final price tag at from $7.5 billion to $8 billion. To a large extent, the program will involve shuffling funds from existing anti-drug programs into expanded new ones.

The program also will call for $1 billion to $2 billion in new annual federal spending.

Sununu said the plan's focus is on the domestic side.

"It involves dealing with the issues associated with law enforcement within our country, with rehabilitation assistance to those who are addicted to drugs."

"It deals with programs on education, and that's the primary thrust. But there is a component of additional assistance for countries around the world that may ask for some economic aid ... to allow them to fight the problem," Sununu said.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm one of the thousands (maybe millions) of wives whose husbands asked, "Did you read Ann Landers today?" the letter he wanted me to see was signed, "Your Loving Husband--But Not Enough." We both laughed and thought it was very clever.

How about equal time for a wife's rebuttal?

Dear Loving Husband: During the last year I approached you to make love to me 365 times, but you had 329 excuses. You said "Yes" 36 times. Here's my tally on the excuses:

Hard day at the office--40 times.
Argument with the boss too tense--35 times.

Important meeting tomorrow, have to get a good night's sleep--30 times.
It's too cold in here--5 times.

It's too hot in here--20 times.
I'm beat--30 times.

My back is acting up again--30 times.
I drank too much, couldn't hack it--15 times.

I can't tear myself away from this article (during which you fell asleep)--35 times.

I was sleeping, what did you say?--30 times.

We aren't newlyweds anymore. What are you trying to prove?--10 times.

Why don't you go bowling with the girls or take a cold shower?--9 times.

Signed--Your Loving Wife, But Not Forever. P.S. Ann, dear girl, will you please rush the name of "Loving Husband" to my new address, which will be Siberia if my husband finds out I wrote this letter?--Rockford, Ill.

DEAR ROCK: My lips are sealed. I'll never, never tell. Incidentally, I received dozens of tallies from other wives who had a similar tale of woe, but you told yours best.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I will get right to the point. My mother and dad are getting a divorce. Frankly, it's a relief for us kids. They have been fighting for five years.

There are three kids in the family, and we are allowed to choose whether we want to live with Mom or Dad. My sister chose Mom. My brother chose Dad. I chose Dad, also. When I told them of my decision, Mom hit the roof. She said girls belong with their mothers. I told her I would visit her once a week, but that did not satisfy her.

I love Mom, but I am not at ease with her. Whenever I had a problem, I always went to Dad. He is more calm, more understanding, and he treats me like a person who has some brains. Mom has been putting so much pressure on me to change my mind that I'm freaked out. Dad says nothing, but I'm sure he is pleased that I chose him.

Please, Ann, if you can help me decide what to do I'd appreciate it.--Kid in the Middle in Middleton

DEAR MIDDY: Since you were told the decision was yours to make, and you made it, I feel it is unfair of your mother to pressure you. Follow your original inclination. After you settle in with your dad, try a few weekends with your mom and see how it goes. If you want to change your plans later, do so.

Is life passing you by? Want to improve your social skills? Write for Ann Landers' new booklet, "How to Make Friends and Stop Being Lonely." ## Salinas takes ninth city golf title James Salinas continued his strangle hold Saturday on the Hereford Mens Golf Championship, winning the city tourney for the ninth time in 11 years when he shot 75 to win the rain-delayed event by five strokes.

Salinas had a two-round total of even par 142 for the two rounds to edge Paul Lovan, who carded a 147, in the championship flight.

Miles Goforth was awarded second in the flight with a gross score of 150 when Lovan won the net scoring title, posting a 135 after his handicap was factored in. Ron Weishaar finished third in the gross with a 155.

Paul Hubbard edged Jeff O'Rand by a stroke in the net standings with a 138.

In the first flight, Lewis McDaniel and George Ochs carded identical rounds of 79-82 to tie for first at 161. McDaniel was awarded the top spot on the basis of a scorecard playoff.

Bill Allen was a stroke back at 162 but was awarded second place in the net standings, leaving third in the gross to Mike Butler at 170.

Steve Sanders was a stroke better than Allen in the net with his 135, and after McDaniel, Ochs and Butler were placed in the gross standings, Jimmy Bell was third in the net at 146.

Carlos Mendez ran away with the second flight, scoring an eight-stroke advantage over Dave Workman with a 164. Larry Watts, Gary Ruckman and Mike O'Rand had the next three best gross scores but took places in the net standings. Scott Holbert was awarded third in the gross with a 185.

Payoff for the tourney was $110 in merchandise for first place in each flight for both low gross and low net, $66 for second and $44 for third.

Other prizes awarded for the tournament were for closest to the pin on No. 3 and longest drive on No. 15. Jimmy Thomas claimed a Daiwa putter for being closest in the first round and Sanders earned an Otey Crisman putter for his shot on the third hole Saturday. Long drive winners from the first round were John Sherrod and Goforth while Rick Hopping was farthest off the tee Saturday. One dozen Hogan balls was the prize in each round for long drive.

Valdez team birdies eight straight to win Stevens Oldsmobile Scramble

The team of Robert Valdez, Arthur Valdez, Beto Valdez and Carlos Mendez, all of Hereford, shot 58 Sunday to win the Stevens Oldsmobile Scramble and advance to the next round of the national Oldsmobile Scramble competition.

Three other teams carded a 58 in the 18-hole event at Pitman Municipal Golf Course, but the Valdez team carded birdies on the first eight holes to win a scorecard playoff.

The team of Dave Workman and Mark Rice of Hereford and Bo Cornett and John Williamson of Lubbock was awarded second place. Third place went to the Amarillo team of Ed Dudley, Bill Slaughter, Tom James and Dave Rodriguez.

The other team shooting 58 was Cathy Lindley, Cary Jackson, Terry Widick and Bob Towler.

Six teams carded scores of 61 and another half dozen were one back at 62 for the scramble.

While none of the golfers made a hole-in-one on No. 3 to win a 1989 Oldsmobile, Lindley had the longest drive at No. 7 and Jackson was closest to the pin at No. 14 to win a set of Oldsmobile head covers. Jerry Hodges won head covers with the straightest drive on No. 16 and Bobby Baker received a dozen Hogan balls for being closest to the pin on No. 6.

Ryan ready for 5,000

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Texas Rangers pitcher Nolan Ryan feels sorry for the player who gains notoriety as his 5,000th strikeout victim.

"I don't envy the person but somebody has to be it," Ryan said.

Ryan was expected to put himself into the history books and a member of the Oakland A's into the trivia books with his sixth strikeout of the game.

He said he will react like he has for 4,994 of his victims who've had to face his gunslinger's glare and 95 mph fastball.

"I'll do nothing," Ryan said Monday. "My idea is we have a game to win and I don't want it to be a distraction. I'll just take the ball home and put it with the rest of 'em."

Ryan, who left Houston for the Rangers last December when the Astros tried to cut his salary, has kept all the baseballs from his five no-hitters and strikeouts in increments of 500.

"I just give them to Ruth (his wife) and she marks on them what happened," Ryan said. "I keep them in a case behind my kids' trophies."

None of Ryan's milestone baseballs is the sport's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y.

"I give them my hats, shoes and gloves but not my baseballs," Ryan said.

Ryan, 42, needs six strikeouts against the power-hitting A's to reach a career plateau many, including Ryan, at one time believed unreachable.

"With modern technology like it is, we might just be seeing the start of 40-year-olds pitching in the majors," Ryan said. "When I got my 4,000th strikeout somebody asked me about 5,000, and I said, 'Lord help me, there's no chance for 5,000.'"

What about 6,000? Ryan quipped: "Maybe by then they'll have a 35-year-old and older league I can pitch in."

Ryan said he would be a little nervous going into the game because many friends are coming 200 miles from his hometown of Alvin to watch.

"I feel a little uneasy about it with all my relatives coming to the game and a sellout crowd assured," he said. "The anticipation is like waiting for a playoff game to start. I just want to get it over with."

Ryan said he never expected to pitch 23 years in the major leagues.

"I've exceeded all my expectations by 10 years," he said. "Most power pitchers usually lose their stuff and are out of the game by now."

Ryan tore a tendon in his right arm that threatened his career in 1986 with the Astros.

"Surgery was recommended but I decided to let nature take its course and I guess it healed with a lot of scar tissue around it," he said. "I don't know the reason it healed but my career could have ended right there."

Orioles clinging to AL East lead

By The Associated Press

How important is the Milwaukee-Baltimore series? If you have the answer, managers Frank Robinson and Tom Trebelhorn would like to know.

"It's important, but no more important than any other series," Robinson said following the Orioles' 5-0 victory Monday night, the second straight game Baltimore had to win to remain in first place in the American League East. "We have to win ballgames because if we win we don't have to rely on anybody else.

"I'm not going to sit here and say, 'God, it's important that we're still in first place.' We're still there, but I don't know how important it is."

The victory, keyed by Jeff Ballard's seven-hit pitching and home runs from Stan Jefferson and Cal Ripken, stretched Baltimore's lead to 1 1/2 games over Milwaukee and two over the idle Toronto Blue Jays, whom the Orioles beat 7-2 on Sunday. The Brewers had won nine of their previous 10 games.

"It's important, it would be silly to say its not," Trebelhorn said of the three-game series.

In other AL games, it was Oakland 6, Detroit 1; Kansas City 4, California 2, and New York 6, Boston 4.

The Brewers had at least one runner on base in eight innings against Ballard, 13-6, but only two advanced beyond first base. Ballard did not issue a walk or strike out a batter, the first such shutout in Baltimore history.

Milwaukee starter Jerry Reuss faced only five batters before leaving with a sore left hamstring.

Jefferson, who started the game batting only .170, hit a solo home run in the fourth inning off Mark Knudson.

Ripken's 17th homer in the fifth followed a bloop single by Phil Bradley and an infield hit by Mike Devereaux.

Athletics 6, Tigers 1

Mark McGwire hit a two-run homer during Oakland's four-run first inning.

Winner Curt Young allowed a run and four hits in six innings.

Rickey Henderson led off the game with a walk, Carney Lansford singled and they moved up on a double steal. Jose Canseco and Terry Steinbach hit run-scoring groundouts for a 2-0 lead before Dave Henderson singled and McGwire hit his 23rd home run.

Oakland added two runs in the fourth on Rickey Henderson's RBI double and Lansford's RBI ground-

Yankees 6, Red Sox 4

Jesse Barfield hit a tie-breaking, two-run double off Roger Clemens in the sixth inning and New York won for the first time in four games under Manager Bucky Dent.

Winner Walt Terrell gave up all the Boston runs and five hits in six innings plus two batters in the seventh. The Yankees used three relievers, including newly acquired Rich Gossage, who struck out Ellis Burks with runners at first and third for his first save in a New York uniform since Sept. 23, 1983.

Burks' two-run single in the top of the sixth tied the score 2-2.

Royals 4, Angels 2

George Brett drove in two runs and Bret Saberhagen won his sixth straight decision.

Saberhagen, 15-5, yielded two runs and six hits in eight innings. Rick Lueken pitched the ninth for his first major-league save.

Brian Downing hit his 10th home run leading off the Angels' seventh.

Reds stop Walton, Cubs, 6-5, in 10

By DICK BRINSTER

AP Sports Writer

When it comes to hitting streaks and pennant races, Pete Rose must be considered an expert witness. So, he knew what Chicago's Jerome Walton was going through and why the end wasn't all that important.

"He didn't have to worry about the hitting streak that much," Rose said of Walton. "... The team is in the pennant race and they've been winning."

Rose, the Cincinnati manager whose Reds stopped both Walton's 30-game hitting streak and the Cubs with a 6-5, 10-inning victory Monday night, set the modern National League record by hitting in 44 consecutive games in 1978.

He wound up 12 games short of Joe DiMaggio's all-time record of 56 in 1941.

"I'm glad it's over. Now I can concentrate on playing baseball," Walton said after the Reds extended the Cubs' losing streak to four games.

Chicago's lead in the NL East was cut to 1 1/2 games over New York, which beat San Francisco 4-1. Elsewhere, Los Angeles topped Montreal 6-1 and San Diego beat Philadelphia 8-2.

Walton fell short even though he got an extra chance when the game went into extra innings.

He walked in the first inning, flied out in the second, grounded into a double play in the fifth, struck out in the seventh and bounced to the pitcher in the 10th.

Trailing 5-1, Cincinnati rallied for three runs in the seventh, tied the game on Joel Youngblood's pinch homer in the eighth and won it in the 10th when Todd Benzinger doubled and scored on third baseman Domingo Ramos' throwing error.

Mets 4, Giants 1

Ron Darling boosted the Mets to their 11th victory in 14 games by striking out a season-high 10 batters for his fourth straight win.

Darling, who has struck out as many as 12 batters on two occasions, pitched 8 1-3 innings and allowed seven hits. Randy Myers retired the last two Giants for his 22nd save.

Pat Sheridan accounted for the only San Francisco run when he homered in the eighth.

The Mets took a 1-0 lead in the fourth off Mike LaCoss, 7-8, when Howard Johnson led off with his 34th double, Darryl Strawberry singled him to third and Kevin McReynolds hit a sacrifice fly.

Dodgers 6, Expos 1

Tim Belcher, mired in a three-game losing streak, decided most of his problem was mental and did something about it.

"I was less high-strung, more relaxed than I have been recently," Belcher said after allowing five hits over eight innings.

Belcher, 9-12, walked five and struck out six. The only run he allowed was on a second-inning homer by Spike Owen.

Padres 8, Phillies 2

Control was the name of the game for Dennis Rasmussen, who walked none in pitching a six-hitter for his first complete game this season.

"He was out in front of the hitters most of the game," Padres manager Jack McKeon said.

Hot-hitting Bip Roberts had a two-run homer for San Diego.

Rasmussen, 6-9, struck out four in going the route for the first time since Oct. 2, 1988, against Houston.

The only Philadelphia run came on pinch-hitter Dwayne Murphy's two-run homer in the third inning.

4-H Around the County

BY BOBBIE JENSCHKE
4-H Summer Assistant

The Panhandle 4-H Council sponsored a "Profile For Tomorrow" leadership training July 19. This was a program held for youth ages 11-13 at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center in Amarillo.

Military Muster

Navy Airman Recruit George P. Castillo, a resident of 207 Ave. B, has completed the Aviation Support Equipment Technician's Hydraulic Course.

During the nine-week course at the Naval Air Technical Training Center, Millington, Tenn., Castillo received instruction on the inspection, maintenance and repair of basic hydraulic systems. He also studied metal working, corrosion control and oxyacetylene welding.

A 1986 graduate of Hereford High School, he joined the Navy Reserves in October 1988.

PIANISTS CHOSEN

NEW YORK (AP) — Three pianists — Samuel Chang, Edith Chen and Dan-Wen Wei — have been awarded $32,000 in special prizes in the 1989 Gina Bachauer International Scholarship Competition at the Juilliard School here.

4-H opportunities on district, state and national levels, along with preparing youth for leadership roles in local and county positions.

Special training in spectacular tradition, "Spectra '89" camp, was held Aug. 6-11 for 4-H'ers ages 13-19 at the Texas 4-H Center in Brownwood. Wendy Peabody, Kinann Campbell and 4-H summer assistant with the extension service, Bobbie Jenschke, attended from DSC.

Last year's Spectra program involved 79 4-H'ers from all over Texas. This year there was over 200 4-H'ers, leaders, agents and Texas 4-H Center summer staff. All 12 project areas offered made enrollment and there were only three that didn't reach maximum capacity. These project areas included agricultural enterprises, tennis, canoeing and sailing, photography, swimming and diving, meat identification, recreation, public speaking, entomology, advanced computers, archery and image and attire.

The final night activity was "The Gala". It was a coat and tie affair for the gentlemen and most of the ladies wore party dresses. It included a formal dinner, presentation of project certificates, a harpist and later that evening, a DJ. was featured. Homing pigeons were released Friday morning at the closing assembly symbolizing our farewell home. "Spectra '89" was a huge success and "one moment in time" for Texas 4-H'ers.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Water hardness, impurities cause of laundry problems

Minerals, organic matter and other impurities can be the cause of dingy, stiff, or even stained laundry. Solving the problem, however, must start with diagnosis.

"Some laundry problems have similar symptoms and more than one possible cause, so to determine if water quality is the culprit, consider your equipment, water, products and procedures," said Dr. Ann Vanderpoorten Beard, a clothing and textiles specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

For example, the symptoms of hard water problems include dinginess or yellowing, a general soil build-up, a stiff, harsh feel and white or gray streaks on colored fabrics.

In hard water, much of the detergent added to the washer must go to softening the water, so little is left to clean the clothes, Beard said. Simply adding more detergent is expensive and phosphate detergents contribute to water pollution.

One way to prevent the problem is to use an adequate amount of low-sudsing phosphate detergent or heavy duty liquid detergent in as high a water temperature as is safe for the fabrics, the specialist said.

Another solution is softening the water with either nonprecipitating water conditioners or installing a water softening system in your home.

To undo damage already done, fill the washer with the hottest water the fabric will tolerate, add four times the normal amount of phosphate detergent and one cup of the water conditioner, Beard said.

Agitate just long enough to wet the clothes and soak the load overnight or for about 12 hours. Drain and spin without agitating further and then launder the clothes, using the regular cycle with no detergent, but with one cup of the conditioner.

Repeat the process as needed until no suds appear in the rinse cycle. It may be necessary to launder the clothes with one cup of the water conditioner and bleach that is safe for the fabrics.

Other water problems that cause discolored clothing are rust or red water, turbid water or acid water. For information on the causes and solutions for these water problems, as well as for hard water, ask for publication L-2278, "Water Quality and Laundry Problems," from your local County Agricultural Extension Service office.

CHOLESTEROL PRIMER

Concern about heart disease, cholesterol, and fat has become a national preoccupation. To help sort out fact from fiction, here's a simple listing of important terms and their meanings.

Cholesterol: Cholesterol is a fat-like substance which serves many functions, such as to manufacture cell membranes, make vitamin D, and produce hormones. Cholesterol is produced naturally in the body.

The cholesterol in your blood, called serum or blood cholesterol, comes from two different sources. Your liver makes about 80% of your blood cholesterol while about 20% is influenced by dietary factors, including excess calories, excess fat, saturated fat, and in some people, excess dietary cholesterol.

Cholesterol is found in all animal tissues (meat, poultry, fish), in milk and milk products, and egg yolks. Cholesterol is not found in foods of plant origin, such as fruits, vegetables, grains, dry beans, and peas.

Lipoprotein: Since cholesterol is not soluble, it must attach itself to a soluble protein. Called a lipoprotein, this package carries cholesterol through the body. Excess cholesterol in the lipoprotein can be deposited along artery walls, where it can harden and narrow the arteries, reducing blood flow.

Low-density lipoprotein (LDL-Cholesterol): This protein package contains the greatest percentage of cholesterol and is considered the most dangerous. LDL-cholesterol carries cholesterol to the arteries, where an excess amount of cholesterol can clog them.

High-density lipoprotein (HDL-cholesterol): This protein package contains the smallest amount of cholesterol and is considered "heart protective". HDL-cholesterol carries cholesterol away from the body cells to the liver, where cholesterol is removed from the body.

Fat: Fat is the most concentrated source of food energy (calories), containing 9 calories per gram. Both protein and carbohydrate contain 4 calories per gram; alcohol has 7 calories per gram. Fats are needed to provide energy and aid in absorption of certain vitamins. Butter, margarine, shortening, and oils are visible sources of fat. Hidden sources of fat include well-marbled meats, poultry skin, whole milk, cheese, ice cream, nuts, salad dressings, fast foods, many convenience items, and some baked products.

Fatty acids: Fatty acids are the basic chemical units of fat. They may be either "saturated", "monounsaturated", or "polyunsaturated". All dietary fats are made up of mixtures of these three fatty acid types.

Saturated fatty acids: These fatty acids are found in the largest proportions in fats of animal origin, including the fats in whole milk, cream, cheese, butter, meat, and poultry. Saturated fatty acids are also found in large quantities in some vegetable oils, including coconut, palm, and palm kernel oil. Saturated fats are known to raise blood cholesterol levels.

Monounsaturated fatty acids: Monounsaturated fatty acids are found in fats of both plant and animal origin. Olive oil and peanut oil are examples of fats with mostly monounsaturated fats. Monounsaturated fats tend to decrease blood cholesterol levels, and may decrease LDL-cholesterol levels when substituted for saturated fats in the diet.

Polyunsaturated fatty acids: These fatty acids are found in largest proportions, in fats of plant origin. Sunflower, corn, soybean, cottonseed, safflower, and canola (rapeseed) oils are vegetable fats that generally contain a high proportion of polyunsaturated fatty acids.
