After a wreck

Emergency personnel prepare to load Roni Kay Love into an ambulance after she was involved in a traffic accident in the 1200 block of West Park Ave. Wednesday afternoon.

Reports indicate that the accident victim was admitted to Deaf Smith General Hospital overnight for observation. The mishap occurred near Gibsons Discount Center.

Three suffer minor injuries

Injuries were miraculously minor in two major traffic accidents on Wednesday afternoon and early this morning. Roni Kay Love was admitted overnight for observation to Deaf Smith General Hospital following an accident Wednesday afternoon, according to the investigating officer. That two-car collision took place on West Park Ave. near Gibson's Discount Center. Reports indicate that the 1984 Mazda GLC which Love was driving was southbound off Greenwood St. when it apparently pulled into the path of a 1985 Jeep Cherokee driven by Billy Gene Shore. Shore was westbound on Park Avenue. Shore received minor injuries in the accident and was treated by his private physician. Extensive damage was incurred by both vehicles in that accident. Chad Straufess, 22, was treated and released following another two-vehicle accident which occurred 15 miles north of town on U.S. Highway 385, according to the Texas Department of Public Safety. That accident took place at approximately 2:30 a.m. today.

Straufess was northbound when his pickup apparently ran into the back of a semi-truck with trailer driven by George Criswell of Muleshoe. Reports indicate that the truck had slowed in order to make a left-hand turn just prior to the accident. The pickup was totaled in that accident. Only minor damage was inflicted to the back of the truck's trailer.

Bush: hit drug sources

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush's national drug strategy will budget up to $260 million in economic and military aid to Colombia, Bolivia and Peru in an attempt to stem the flow of cocaine at the source, an administration source said. The final version of the president's plan, which he will unveil in a nationally televised speech Tuesday night, will be much like the draft proposed by drug czar William J. Bennett, according to another source. It will be tough on users, heavy on law enforcement and call for a new emphasis on treatment, the source said. But it won't threaten states with a loss of federal highway funds if they don't impose strict anti-drug laws, as Bennett's draft had proposed, and it won't include the $25 million National Drug Intelligence Center, said the source, who spoke on condition of anonymity. The other administration source, also speaking on condition of anonymity, said Wednesday that Bush's strategy will call for $250 million to $260 million in economic and military aid for the three main cocaine producing countries - Colombia, Bolivia and Peru. Also Wednesday, Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., unveiled "debt-for-drugs" legislation intended to offer debt-relief incentives to Latin American nations to subsidize the withdrawal of farm land from producing coca crops, which are refined to produce cocaine.

Sources who had seen the classified section of the draft containing information about proposed aid to the three Latin American countries had said the figure could reach $300 million, and National Security Adviser Brent Scowcroft indicated Tuesday that it would be even higher. Scowcroft had included the $65 million in military equipment that Bush announced on Friday for Colombia. That money comes from a discretionary fund available for fiscal 1989, which ends Sept. 30. The strategy covers fiscal 1990. Although Bush met with his top lieutenants in the drug war Tuesday at his vacation home in Kennebunkport, Maine, to discuss the strategy, the focus of the meeting was Colombia, sources said Wednesday. "The fundamental issues of the strategy ... did not change," a third source said, noting that the final strategy had gone to the printer before the meeting occurred. Colombia has been wracked with violence since President Virgilio Barco imposed emergency regulations allowing the immediate resumption of extraditions of alleged drug traffickers to the United States. The move came after the Aug. 18 assassination of a leading presidential candidate who was an outspoken foe of drug traffickers. Colombian Justice Minister Monica de Greiff met for about 40 minutes Wednesday with Bennett, said Bennett spokesman Don Hamilton, who declined to say what Bush's final drug strategy provides for Colombia. Mrs. de Greiff asked on Tuesday for $19 million in aid for judicial protection. The United States has so far pledged $2.5 million. The crackdown on drug users called for in the strategy will start early, with a program allowing judges to strip student loans and other federal benefits from drug offenders expected to begin Friday. The program, required by the Anti-Drug Abuse Act of 1988, won't affect welfare, disability or Social Security benefits. The decision to drop the plan for the National Drug Intelligence Center stemmed from Justice Department objections after the Treasury Department proposed combining it with a new money-laundering intelligence center, a source said.

Farmer's Market expands schedule

This summer's Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Farmer's Market has been so successful that the market will expand to two days a week beginning this week. The market will be open as usual beginning at 5 p.m. today at 131 W. Park Ave., and will be open again at the same location on Saturday from 9 a.m. until noon. The two-days-a-week schedule will be maintained through the remainder of the summer. A variety of home-grown produce is available at the market, which is sponsored by the chamber's ag committee. Lewis Block is the farmer's market chairman, and persons wishing to sell produce at the market should contact the chamber at 364-3333.

Lobbyists to testify

AUSTIN (AP) - Some of the lobbyists who spent more than $1.8 million entertaining members of the Legislature this year may be testifying before a committee that is looking into campaign finance and lobbying laws, the panel's chairman says. "If we don't get any lobbyists who want to testify, we'll ask some if they will come and testify," said Rep. Pete Laney, D-Hale Center.

Laney's House State Affairs Committee on Wednesday began looking at campaign finance and lobbying. A Senate committee is scheduled to do likewise. The investigations follow months of news reports about lobbyists who spent some $1.86 million on entertainment and gifts for members of the Legislature during the 1989 regular session. That money - an average of more than $12,000 per day during the 140-day session - was used for food, drinks, hunting and fishing outings, golf games at exclusive private clubs, ski trips, vacations to Mexico, and even a trip to a championship boxing match in Las Vegas. In addition, recent news reports showed that some powerful legislative committee chairmen used contributions to their political funds.

Israelis, arms dealers enjoy cozy relations

An AP Extra
By NICOLAS B. TATRO
Associated Press Writer

JERUSALEM (AP) - The cozy relationship between private arms sellers and the Defense Ministry is at the heart of a debate over the need for controls on arms merchants and Israeli officers who reportedly trained hitmen for Colombian drug lords. "Israel is a small country. Everybody who was a colonel or brigadier general in the army has very intimate contacts with the defense establishment," said Ehud Olmert, minister of Arab affairs in the Cabinet and a right-wing Likud bloc member. "The question is what is the involvement of the defense ministry? It is one of the questions that will be investigated," Olmert said. The left-leaning daily Davar newspaper in an editorial said it was "inconceivable that the security establishment didn't know what was going on in Colombia." Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin, however, told reporters the ministry did not learn of the training until April when it issued a written warning to the company involved.

personal profit without any control." However, Eli Landau, mayor of the Tel Aviv suburb Herzlia, defended the reservists accused of helping drug kingpins. "With a wave of their hands, they forgot the 20 years in which you and your friends risked your lives for us all," he wrote in an ad in Israeli newspapers. Industry Minister Ariel Sharon, former defense minister and general, criticized the debate over the Colombian affair. "We are talking about our army officers. We are talking about people who risked their lives for years, who served the army's best units. What has been proven about them to this day is that they are first-rate fighters. Nothing else," Sharon said. The close-knit nature of the relationship between officialdom and private arms merchants shows up in the "Israel Defense Sales Directory." The ministry's annual catalogue lists government arms makers side-by-side with private companies that arrange sales of weapons or services. Among the companies is Hod HaHanit (Spearhead), which describes itself as "specializing in fighting terrorism by establishing and training anti-terror units, internal security and intelligence forces ... presidential guard units and VIP security." The company is headed by reserve Lt. Col. Yair Klein, who associates says was once an instructor in a parachute course headed by Dan Shomron, now Israel's chief of staff. Former commander of an elite anti-terror unit, Klein is the focus of a police probe of the Colombia affair in which six former officers have been questioned so far. At one point, Klein threatened to blow the whistle on other high-ranking officers and at least one member of parliament who he suggested were involved in unauthorized arms dealings in Latin America. Two right-wing members of parliament, Yehoshua Saguy and Rehavam Zeevi, said they had been in Colombia on arms-related business but only with government authorization.

"There are those who are not obeying the law. But I believe the number of people who have not obeyed the law ... is very, very limited. Israeli mercenaries are basically non-existent," Rabin said. Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir, once a senior official in the Mossad intelligence service, promised a thorough investigation but expressed skepticism about whether Israelis knowingly helped drug gangs. "I know our officers, and I cannot believe that they would have been involved in such crimes," Shamir said. Conservatives in Parliament's Law Committee blocked a move by liberals to tighten existing controls that make it a crime punishable by six months in jail for a reservist to sell weapons or give training without authorization. Urging more control, Labor Party lawmaker David Libai said on Israel radio: "It cannot be that we train people to kill in the army for the sake of our country, and that later people use it for their own

Pickens won't run for office

DALLAS (AP) - Three Republican gubernatorial candidates expressed relief when oilman and corporate raider T. Boone Pickens said he would not run for governor in 1990. "I'd be less than candid if I failed to state that my candidacy is strengthened by his withdrawal," Houston oilman Jack Rains said Wednesday. "He would have been formidable opposition. We share many friends and a common base of support in the business community." Pickens, 61, ended weeks of speculation that culminated only as he announced his intentions. Pickens said he had prepared two versions of a speech for the Dallas Rotary luncheon - one announcing his candidacy and the one he delivered - just in case. Pickens said the crush of his business would not allow him to commit totally to the needs of the state. "Boone and I have been business associates and friends for many years," said Midland oilman Clayton Williams. "I am glad, however, that he is not in the race. He would have been a very formidable challenger." Kent Hance, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, said, "Boone Pickens and I have been friends for many years. I certainly respect his decision not to run. He would have been a formidable opponent." While the three gubernatorial candidates were lavish in their praise, Pickens handed out no endorsements. "I really hadn't focused on that at all," he said. "We just reached this decision." Pickens and his wife, Beatrice, decided against the GOP gubernatorial bid late Tuesday night at their hotel room in Dallas and were still discussing it Wednesday morning, Pickens said.

"We wanted to run," Pickens said later. Mrs. Pickens said she was "disappointed for Boone, because it's something that he really did want to do. But our time just wasn't this time. Perhaps the next time." Pickens did not rule out a run in 1994.

Hotel queen convicted of cheating

NEW YORK (AP) - Leona Helmsley, the queen of a $5 billion empire who stood accused of even billing $8 worth of underwear as a business expense, showed no emotion upon her conviction of evading $1.2 million in federal income taxes.

After Wednesday's verdict, juror Michael Clark said the jury decided to acquit Mrs. Helmsley of the most serious charge, conspiracy to commit extortion, because they were unclear on what constituted extortion.

"A lot of the people thought that you had to get your legs broken to get extorted and this sounded mild," Clark said. "There were a number of jurors who felt very uncomfortable with the definition."

The charge, which carried a 20-year sentence, alleged that the 69-year-old Mrs. Helmsley and her aide, Frank Turco, conspired to extort payoffs and goods from vendors doing business with the Helmsley organization - which has far-flung real estate holdings, including some of New York's most luxurious hotels.

After a two-month trial and five days of deliberation, the jurors convicted Mrs. Helmsley of 33 of 41 counts, including conspiracy to defraud the Internal Revenue Service, tax evasion and other tax fraud charges.

Her co-defendants, former aides Turco and Joseph Licari, were convicted of assisting in the tax-evasion scheme. Turco also was acquitted of extortion conspiracy. All three were acquitted on mail fraud charges.

Each of the 33 counts against Mrs. Helmsley carry a maximum prison term of three or five years. She also could be fined nearly $8 million. Sentencing before U.S. District Judge John Walker Jr. was scheduled for Nov. 14.

Interviews of 15 prominent lawyers by Manhattan Lawyer magazine about Walker's sentencing reputation indicated that Mrs. Helmsley was unlikely to avoid prison.

Mrs. Helmsley, described as a persnickety "queen" in Helmsley hotel ads, was depicted at the trial as arrogant, penny-pinching and mean-spirited.

After listening to the litany of guilty verdicts, Mrs. Helmsley - a one-time Chesterfield cigarette girl and successful model - sat in the courtroom and conferred with lawyers and family for an hour.

She then left the courthouse by the front steps, where she was surrounded by hundreds of photographers, camera crews, reporters and bystanders. She got into a limousine and departed without comment.

Mrs. Helmsley's lawyer, Gerald Feffer, said the conviction would be appealed.

U.S. Attorney Benito Romano said the convictions were a deterrent to anyone considering cheating on their taxes.

"It's an opportunity to remind the public, and we need reminding every now and then, that the law applies equally to everyone," he said.

Mrs. Helmsley and her husband, Harry, still face prosecution on a state indictment alleging evasion of state taxes. No trial date has been set.

Helmsley, 80, was charged in the April 1988 federal indictment but was not tried because the judge found him mentally incompetent.

In finding Mrs. Helmsley guilty, the jury decided she had evaded $1.2 million in taxes, most of it by billing $3.1 million in expenses for the Helmsleys' Greenwich, Conn., mansion to the Helmsley business.

Prosecutors also charged that $320,172 in Mrs. Helmsley's personal purchases - including thousands of dollars in designer clothing and $8 for underwear - were charged to the Park Lane Hotel, one of several Helmsley hotels in Manhattan.

Her former housekeeper testified that Mrs. Helmsley once told her: "We don't pay taxes. Only the little people pay taxes."

Feffer sought to discredit the witnesses as disgruntled ex-employees. He argued that the Helmsleys did nothing wrong in billing their companies for part of their mansion expenses because they used the estate for business.

Pledge to Senior Center

Lester Wagner, left, a member of the board of directors of the Hereford Senior Center, accepts a $1,000 pledge from Boss Lion Mark Andrews of the Hereford Lions Club at Wednesday's meeting. The Senior Center is planning a large expansion program and is in the midst of a fund-raising drive.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, August 31, the 243rd day of 1989. There are 122 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On August 31st, 1886, the first recorded major earthquake in U.S. history rocked Charleston, S.C., killing up to 110 people.

On this date:

In 1688, preacher and novelist John Bunyan, author of "The Pilgrim's Progress," died in London.

In 1881, the first U.S. tennis championships were played, in Newport, R.I.

In 1887, inventor Thomas A. Edison received a patent for his Kinetoscope, a device which produced moving pictures.

In 1888, Mary Ann Nicholls was found murdered in London's East End in what is generally regarded as the first slaying committed by "Jack the Ripper."

In 1895, the first professional football game (one quarterback was paid) took place in Latrobe, Pa. (John Brallier, who received $10, led a YMCA-sponsored team to a 12-0 victory over a team from the town of Jeanette.)

In 1935, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed an act prohibiting the export of U.S. arms to belligerents.

In 1941, "The Great Gildersleeve," a spin-off of "Fibber McGee and Molly," made its debut on NBC radio with Harold Peary in the title role.

In 1954, Hurricane Carol hit the northeastern United States, causing nearly 70 deaths and millions of dollars in damage.

In 1962, the Caribbean nation of Trinidad and Tobago became independent within the British Commonwealth.

In 1965, the U.S. House of Representatives joined the Senate in voting to establish the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

In 1969, boxer Rocky Marciano died in the crash of a small airplane in Iowa, one day short of his 46th birthday.

In 1980, Poland's Solidarity labor movement was born as Deputy Prime Minister Mieczyslaw Jagielski and labor leader Lech Walesa signed an agreement in Gdansk, ending a 17-day-old strike.

In 1985, a suspect in the "Night Stalker" killings that terrorized Southern California was captured in East Los Angeles.

In 1986, 82 people were killed when an Aeromexico jetliner and a small private plane collided over Cerritos, California.

In 1986, the Soviet passenger ship Admiral Nakhimov collided with a merchant vessel in the Black Sea, causing both vessels to sink. According to Soviet accounts, up to 448 people died.

Ten years ago: President Jimmy Carter tapped Donald F. McHenry, deputy U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, to fill the top spot being vacated by Andrew Young, who resigned over his unauthorized meeting with a PLO representative.

Five years ago: The crew of the space shuttle Discovery launched the second of three communications satellites from the spacecraft's cargo bay.

One year ago: Fourteen people were killed when a Delta Boeing 727 crashed during takeoff from Dallas-Fort Worth Airport in an accident the airline later blamed on the crew's failure to set the wing flaps into proper position.

Today's Birthdays: Broadcast journalist Daniel Schorr is 73. Comedian Buddy Hackett is 65. Actor James Coburn is 61. Baseball Hall-of-Famer Frank Robinson is 54. Violinist Itzhak Perlman is 44. Singer Van Morrison is 44. Actor Richard Gere is 40.

Thought for Today: "There's no such thing as old age; there is only sorrow." - Edith Wharton, American author (1862-1937).

Princess Anne leaves husband

LONDON (AP) - Princess Anne, the only daughter of Queen Elizabeth II, is separating from her husband Mark Phillips after 15 years of marriage, Buckingham Palace announced today.

The 39-year-old princess and her 40-year-old husband do not plan to divorce, the announcement said.

The queen, on holiday at Balmoral, Scotland, was described by royal sources to be "obviously saddened" but to understand the couple's decision, which was taken in principle earlier this year, according to Press Association, Britain's domestic news agency.

"Her Royal Highness, the Princess Royal, and Capt. Mark Phillips have decided to separate on terms agreed between them," the announcement said. "There are no plans for divorce proceedings."

The terms of the separation were not disclosed but Anne will continue to live at the couple's home, Gatcombe Park in Gloucestershire, about 80 miles west of London. Phillips will move to another house nearby, the palace said.

The palace press office could not say whether this would be Aston

Farm on the Gatcombe estate.

The couple's children, Peter, 11, and Zara, 8, will live with their mother at Gatcombe and Phillips will have full access to them, the palace said.

The separation had been disclosed Wednesday night by Phillips' father, Maj. Peter Phillips.

Rumors of trouble in the marriage date back to 1981. In recent years, Anne and Phillips have spent periods of up to six months apart.

Speculation that their marriage was on the rocks arose most recently in April, after personal letters written to Anne by a handsome 35-year-old aide to the queen, naval Cmdr. Timothy Laurence, were stolen and sent to the tabloid The Sun.

Phillips' name has been linked romantically with several women in British tabloid reports in recent years.

Princess Margaret, 59, the queen's only sister, was divorced in 1978 from photographer Lord Snowdon. He has remarried. She has not.

Anne, a former member of Britain's Olympic equestrian team, and Phillips, an ex-Army captain and Olympic equestrian gold medalist, met through their love of horses.

They married in London's Westminster Abbey Nov. 14, 1973, in a televised ceremony viewed by an estimated worldwide audience of 500 million.

Women with AIDS tell all

EDITOR'S NOTE - Since they represent only about 9 percent of the adult AIDS cases reported in the United States, women have been largely ignored in most of the books and documentaries about the disease. That prompted a small publisher of feminist works to let women affected by AIDS have their say in a new book on the subject.

By CATHERINE DRESSLER
Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Tema Luft, a 36-year-old telephone company employee, took pride in never missing a day of work. She exercised five days a week, watched her diet and didn't drink or smoke.

Then her doctor told her she was infected with the AIDS virus.

"I kept saying, 'This is all a mistake,'" she recalls. "It's not supposed to get people like me. I'm not gay. I'm not a man. I don't do drugs."

It was no mistake. Ms. Luft, of Baltimore, now believes she was infected during a two-year sexual relationship with a former state trooper.

"My doctor said the man could have used drugs or he could be bisexual and that never occurred to me," she says. "You can't judge a book by its cover."

Ms. Luft is one of 41 women who tell their stories in "AIDS: The Women," an anthology from Cleis Press, a small publisher of feminist works in Pittsburgh and San Francisco.

Like Ms. Luft, some of the women in the book have been infected by acquired immune deficiency syndrome. Some have watched a husband, son or other loved one die of AIDS, and others are working to stop the disease from spreading.

All of the stories challenge the myth that women are largely unaffected by the disease because they comprise just 9 percent of the 99,000 adult AIDS cases reported in this country.

"AIDS is not just a disease affecting white gay men," says Ines Rieder, co-editor of the book. "It's something that concerns all of us, including women, and not just some particular risk group. Women really share in this disease."

In New York City, AIDS is the leading cause of death among women aged 25 to 39, according to the city's health department. Besides killing these women, the disease is infecting their newborn children, who often die following a painful, short life.

AIDS is caused by a virus that damages the body's immune system, leaving victims susceptible to infections and cancer.

It is spread most often through sexual contact, needles or syringes shared by drug abusers, infected blood or blood products and from pregnant women to their offspring.

Ms. Luft's ordeal began more than two years ago when a co-worker noticed a lump on her neck. Three doctors were unable to determine why her lymph nodes were swollen. A fourth doctor finally tested her for the AIDS virus in February 1987.

Since then, she has continued to work as a technician at C&P Telephone Co. despite chronic diarrhea, fevers and fatigue. The job helps her forget.

Despite the opposition of her mother and other relatives, she went public with her story to help other women.

"I wish more women like me would come forward," she says. "I'm not going to say it's easy. I took a lot of heat from my family, my friends and some business establishments."

Ms. Luft has been thrown out of two beauty shops where she had her nails manicured and "got nicely uninvited" from a baby shower when the father-to-be learned she carried the AIDS virus.

Still, she continues to speak at schools and anywhere else she is invited.

"Women are just not aware that their partners could be IV (intravenous) drug users or could be bisexual," she says. "Let's face it, the average man is not going to come home and say to his partner, 'By the way honey, I was with this guy last night.'"

Lynn Hampton, a 39-year-old former prostitute, writes in the book about her experiences tracking down prostitutes in Atlanta to hand out condoms and test for the AIDS virus as part of a federal study.

One 23-year-old prostitute told Ms. Hampton she bought used, bent needles to shoot cocaine into her veins and laughed at the suggestion she should be concerned about the threat of AIDS.

"Honey, I'm amazed I'm alive right now," the woman told Ms. Hampton. "I've got to come up with $400 each and every day, just to put in my arm...That's what I have to worry about, not some disease that may kill me in five years. Get real!"

Another woman, Judi Stone of San Francisco, watched her homosexual 19-year-old son, Michael, die of AIDS in 1984. He had told her that after he died and was cremated he wanted her to be creative with his ashes.

"I used them as fertilizer and I planted three bottlebrush (bushes)," she wrote. "I believe in recycling. Life goes on in different forms."

Ms. Rieder says she agreed to work on the book after research convinced her that men have been the focus of most books, television documentaries and news stories concerning AIDS.

"Women cannot afford to say we're not going to deal with the question of AIDS because it does not concern us," she said. "That doesn't correspond to reality anymore."

CattleWomen meet for backyard cookout

Members of Hereford CattleWomen met recently in the home of Jim and Nance Perrin for a backyard cookout. Serving as cooks were Jackie Murphey and Vicki Wilson, who tied for first place honors with the team of Larry Walterscheid and Joe Lambert in the recent CattleWomen sponsored Fajita Cook-Off held in conjunction with the annual Town 'n' Country Jubilee celebration. Due to scheduling conflicts, Walterscheid and Lambert were unable to share chef's duties.

Serving as hostesses for the beef fajita meal were members of the membership committee: Nance Perrin, Kay Hall, Leisa Lewis, Beverley Lambert, Pat Graham and Linda Gilbert.

Guests included Mrs. Earnie Murphey, Mrs. John Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. Z.A. McCasland.

Members and their spouses present were Messrs. and Mmes. Rodney Barrett (and Hunter), Bob Beville, Melvin Cordray, Don Graham, Chip Guseman, Elma Hall, Scott Hall, Randy Heflin, Scott Keeling, Hollis Klett, Steve Lewis, James McDowell, Darwin McGill, Jim Perrin, A.K. Roark, Johnny Trotter, and N.E. Tyler. Also, present were Mrs. David Wagner, Roberta Caviness and Linda Gilbert.

Lodge plans bake sale

Plans were discussed for a bake sale when members of Hereford Rebekah Lodge #228 met Tuesday evening with Noble Grand Stella Hershey presiding. The sale has been scheduled for Sept. 9 at Thriftway Supermarket.

Also, during the business meeting, 39 visits to the sick, 45 cheer cards and 12 dishes of food delivered were reported.

Susie Curtisinger served as hostess to Hershey, Dora Lea Howell, Rosalie Northcutt, Marie Harris, Erma Loving, Jim Loving, Sadie Shaw, Verna Sowell, Lydia Hopson, Leona Sowell, Anna Conklin, Ben Conklin, Shirley Brown, Faye Brownlow, Ursalee Jacobsen, Peggy Lemons, Jo Irlbeck, Tony Irlbeck and Dorothy Lundry.

The first record featured inventor Thomas Edison singing "Mary Had a Little Lamb."

Herd getting serious for Sandies

For the Hereford Whitefaces, it's time to get serious, according to Coach Don Cumpston.

Heading into the final pre-season scrimmage against Amarillo High, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday at Whiteface Stadium, Cumpston will be looking to fine tune the 60 varsity players in preparation for the season opener against the Tascosa Rebels.

"We treated the Monterey scrimmage as more of a workout," Cumpston said, "But we'll take Amarillo High more seriously."

The varsity scrimmage will be preceded by the junior varsity, who will play at 5:30 p.m. on the South Field.

The sophomore and freshman teams were to travel to Amarillo today for their scrimmages. The sophomores will go against their Amarillo High counterparts at 5 p.m. at AHS. The freshman will scrimmage at Bonham Middle School at the same time.

Both varsity and JV scrimmages will consist of 65 offensive plays for the Herd and 65 for the Sandies. Each team will also have eight plays in a goal line situation and a quarter will be played under game conditions.

"We'll go full speed," Cumpston said. "Everybody will be on the sideline except for the players on the field and officials, the clock will be running, the whole bit."

Cumpston said the only deviation from the rules will be the absence of kickoffs.

"We'll flip a coin and start about the 35-yard line," he said.

Amarillo High, led by former Herd coach Larry Dippel, is expected to compete for a playoff spot in District 3-5A with Palo Duro and Plainview.

Even though the Sandies lost their entire starting offense to graduation, Dippel expects the 1989 attack to be better than last year's 5-5 team. Seniors Robert Cavin at quarterback, running back T.W. McClenton and wingback Brent Baker are tabbed to lead the charge. The line will be anchored by 230-pound tackle Roman Simpson.

On the other side of the ball, AHS returns the senior trio of tackle Brandon Lobaugh, end Matt Breckbill, a potential all-stater, and linebacker Scott Dome from a defense that allowed only 17 points per game in 1988.

All wrapped up

Herd quarterback T.J. Head tries to break a tackle and turn upfield during Wednesday's practice. Head and the rest of the Herd will meet the Amarillo High Sandies in a scrimmage at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Whiteface Stadium.

Herd spikers looking to make splash at Cantaloupe Classic

The Hereford Whiteface volleyball team will jump into the pool Friday at the Fourth Annual Cantaloupe Classic tournament in Pecos.

Coach Brenda Reeh said the two-day, 16-team tourney will be divided into four pools for Friday's competition with the top two teams from each pool advancing to Saturday's championship bracket. Hereford will play in Pool II with Monahans, Alpine and Ysleta Del Valle.

Teams will play two games to 11 points against the rest of their pool (six games total) with the best win-loss records advancing. Ties will be broken by points scored-points allowed ratio.

The Herd will open play against Del Valle at 10 a.m. Friday and will meet Monahans at noon and Alpine at 6 p.m.

Hereford, 7-1, comes into the tournament off a two-match sweep of Dalhart on Tuesday. The Herd had no trouble in their second meeting with the Golden Wolves, taking the first match, 15-2, 15-2, and the second, 15-2, 15-0.

Poppy Richardson served for 14 points with three aces in the first match. Libby Kosub had four aces and Nikki Self added three.

Kosub and Shantel Cornelius led the Herd with four Kills each with Richardson, Cande Robbins and Jessica Dearing each adding a pair.

Richardson was the leading server in the second match as well, scoring eight points with three more aces and also led with six kills. Kosub and Self contributed two aces and two kill each. Dearing had three kills and Cornelius and Jill West both had two.

Reeh said the easy wins over Dalhart, who has scored 19 points in four matches with the Herd, may come back to haunt the Whitefaces later in the season.

"I think it may have hurt us as much as it helped," she said. "We need to play as many matches as we can against the top teams if we're going to get where we want to be."

The junior varsity, which defeated Dalhart JV 15-4, 15-3, Tuesday, will get a taste of varsity competition Saturday at Canyon.

Junior varsity coach Lynn Gilbreath said the squad will be split with one group meeting the Eagle JV at 2 p.m. while the other will take on the varsity at 3 p.m.

In the match with Dalhart, Teresa Baker led with six points on serve and two aces and also had a pair of kills. Lori Sanders added five service points and Cassie Brooks had four.

Grijalva team's 30 wins last scramble

A team headed by Jessie Grijalva captured the final Wednesday Scramble of the season at Pitman Municipal Golf Course yesterday. Joining Grijalva in shooting a

'Pokes cut Newsome

IRVING (AP) - Dallas Cowboys coach Jimmy Johnson could not give 10-year fullback Timmy Newsome a starting job. So he gave the veteran player the next best thing - his walking papers.

In a meeting Wednesday morning with Coach Jimmy Johnson, Newsome requested his release if he could not be a starter.

Cowboys officials tried to trade Newsome but found no interest. So they released him along with rookie Tyrone Thurman, a 5-3, 145-pound wide receiver-punt returner formerly of Texas Tech.

Newsome, who played in the same backfield with Tony Dorsett and later with Herschel Walker, is ranked ninth overall and third among running backs on the Cowboys' career receiving list with 212 catches. His best rushing season came in 1984 when he carried 66 times for 268 yards.

The development of free agent Broderick Sargent and rookie Daryl Johnston made Newsome expendable.

"They were performing better so we felt it was in Timmy's best interests to give it a shot with another club," Johnson said. "We're set at the fullback position. Timmy would have been 50-50 as far as making the team (if he hadn't requested his release)."

When asked if Newsome could still play in the NFL, Johnson said, "There weren't a lot of people jumping up and down wanting to get a 10-year veteran who was talking about retiring. I think Timmy's got talent and I'll leave it at that."

Newsome's best season came in 1986 when he caught a career-high 48 passes. With 32 receptions last season through the Cowboys' first nine games, he was on pace to better that mark when he was sidelined.

Sargent said Newsome's departure came as a surprise.

"When you lose a veteran guy like that, it hurts," Sargent said. "He really helped me."

Center Tom Rafferty, a 14-year veteran, said he didn't believe Johnson was trying to rid the team of its long-time veterans in his first season since replacing Tom Landry as coach.

"I really don't read anything like that into it," Rafferty said. Johnson also announced the signing of free agent wide receiver

Jamie Dixon, formerly of the Detroit Lions and the University of Houston.

NEW YORK (AP) - The National Football Conference is gaining swiftly on the American Conference in Super Bowl victories.

The AFC still has a 12-11 advantage in games played since the inaugural in 1967. However, the NFC has won seven of the past eight Super Bowls.

The latest victory was the 20-16 win for the San Francisco 49ers over the Cincinnati Bengals on Jan. 22 of this year at Joe Robbie Stadium in Miami.

Twins blast Rangers, Russell, 7-3

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - Texas relief ace Jeff Russell has learned how fast fortunes can change.

The right-hander said he was pitching better than ever Tuesday night, when he set down six straight Minnesota Twins to earn his club-record 30th save and extend his scoreless streak to nine innings.

On Wednesday night, Russell confidently entered in the eighth inning, with the Rangers leading 3-1, runners on first and second and nobody out.

This time he did little right, as the Twins scored six runs en route to a 7-3 victory.

"I didn't have it tonight," Russell said after blowing only his sixth save of the season. "For some reason I didn't feel good today, I don't know why. It wasn't in the horoscope. I came to the ballpark and forgot my wallet. It was just one of those days."

Rookie Chip Hale started the inning with a double off starter Mike Jeffcoat, and Al Newman followed with a single.

In came Russell.

Hale and Newman advanced on a Dan Gladden sacrifice, and Kirby Puckett then singled to tie the score 3-3.

Brian Harper followed with a single to score Puckett with the go-ahead run. Russell then intentionally walked Kent Hrbek and got the next batter on a groundout. But John Moses, hitting for Carmelo Castillo, doubled to the right-center field gap to score Harper and Hrbek.

Greg Gagne followed with an infield single, his third hit of the game, to score Moses and chase Russell.

"Innings like that don't happen very often against a guy like Russell," said Puckett, who missed the last two games with a sore left knee. "Every night can't be your night. He'll probably come out tomorrow night and be his old self."

Texas manager Bobby Valentine had no qualms about pitching to Puckett with first base open.

"We felt Russ would get them," Valentine said. "We had to get Puckett out. You want Russell to pitch to him, but he gets a ground ball through. It's got a great hitter and a great pitcher, and you just let them go at each other."

The Twins got another strong performance from rookie Mike Dyer, who was a last-minute starter, replacing Allan Anderson, who became ill before the game.

Dyer, who allowed eight hits and struck out six in eight innings, didn't find out until two hours before the game that he would be pitching.

"I was a little sluggish in the first four innings," said Dyer, who gave up all three Texas runs in the fourth. "When I went out for the fifth inning, I felt like I got a big second wind."

"I was told in advance I'd probably pitch in relief. It's different when you're the starter. When you start, your thinking process starts when you go to sleep the night before. It would be a lot nicer if you knew in advance. But I'm here to pitch when the manager tells me to pitch."

Scott stops Cubs, 8-4, for 18th win

CHICAGO (AP) - Art Howe feels like his team is jumping out of the frying pan into the fire. Following a three-game series with the first-place Cubs, his Houston Astros begin a weekend set Friday at St. Louis.

"This was a win we needed. We're going to St. Louis and they're hot," said Howe after Mike Scott notched his 18th win, tying the major-league high, as the Astros beat Chicago, 8-4 Wednesday night.

The win, only Houston's second in nine games, ended the first-place Cubs' three-game winning streak.

After the game, the Cubs acquired outfielder Marvell Wynne, a Chicago native, and infielder Luis Salazar in a trade with San Diego for pitcher Calvin Schiraldi and outfielder Darrin Jackson and a minor leaguer to be named later.

Despite leads of 5-1 and 8-2, Scott said he couldn't help but fear a repeat of the game Tuesday when the Astros blew a 9-0 lead and lost 10-9 to the Cubs in 10 innings.

"I didn't feel safe until the last out. It was hard to forget yesterday," said Scott, 18-7.

"Balls were flying out of here," said Scott, who gave up a two-run homer to Mark Grace in the ninth and solo shots to Dwight Smith and Ryne Sandberg earlier. "This was a strange series, I'm glad it's over."

Jerome Walton's bunt single in the ninth was the only other hit off Scott.

Gerald Young - with 4 hits, 3 RBI and 1 run - and Rafael Ramirez - with 3 hits and 2 runs - paced a 13-hit offense for the Astros, who remained in second place, 4 games back of San Francisco in the NL West race. Ramirez had a club record 7 RBIs on Tuesday.

"Yesterday was a living nightmare," said Young, who couldn't explain his .372 career batting average against Chicago. "Some guys hit better against certain clubs and I just hit better against the Cubs."

"I see the ball well at Wrigley Field, especially at night," he said.

Loser Rick Sutcliffe, 13-11, said he knew Chicago's amazing comeback win the previous day would mean nothing when he took the mound Wednesday.

"Yesterday doesn't mean anything. We didn't expect them to lay down and they didn't," he said.

Scott had failed in four previous attempts to match his career high of 18 wins. Oakland's Dave Stewart and St. Louis' Joe Magrane also have won 18.

Scott - who ended up with nine strikeouts and one walk in his eighth complete game, also a career high - said he had no goals for this season.

"It would be nice to win 45 games, but the season isn't that long," he joked.

Glenn Wilson's sacrifice fly brought Young home with the first run in the opening frame.

Smith tied it with his eighth home run, a towering blow to right in the bottom of the inning.

Houston went ahead 2-1 in the third on Bill Doran's double and Kevin Bass' RBI single.

Consecutive RBI singles by Alex Trevino, Scott and Young in the fourth put the Astros ahead 5-1.

Sandberg hit Scott's first pitch in the bottom of the inning for a homer to left. It was Sandberg's 26th roundtripper, matching his career high in 1985.

In the fifth, Young singled home two runs to put Houston in front 7-2.

The Astros added a run in the ninth on Harry Spilman's RBI double.

Abbott puts end to Boston streak

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

After his teammates gave up 30 hits and 21 runs to the Boston Red Sox in a doubleheader the night before, California's Jim Abbott gave them nothing but grief.

"There's not too much you can do about that one," Boston manager Joe Morgan said after Abbott pitched a four-hitter to key the Angels' 4-0 victory Wednesday night. "We were hogtied all the way."

The rookie left-hander, born without a right hand, was given a standing ovation by Fenway Park fans after his third complete game and second shutout in 24 major league starts. The triumph stopped the Red Sox' nine-game winning streak.

"I've been struggling, but the team has been patient with me," said Abbott, 11-9 overall but only 2-3 in the month of August. "The main key for me is to throw strikes. When I do that, I'm confident I can win."

With the victory, California moved to within two games of Oakland in the American League West. The division-leading Athletics lost an 8-5 decision to the New York Yankees.

In other AL action, it was Baltimore 7, Cleveland 4; Toronto 2, Chicago 1; Minnesota 7, Texas 3; Kansas City 6, Detroit 1, and Seattle 7, Milwaukee 3.

The Angels, whipped 8-4 and 13-5 in a doubleheader Tuesday night, nailed down the victory with three runs off Boston starter John Dopson, 9-6, in the fourth inning.

Kent Anderson had a two-run double in the decisive rally. Yankees 8, Athletics 5

Steve Balboni homered and drove in four runs and Eric Plunk beat the team that traded him earlier this summer.

Jose Canseco homered and drove in four runs for Oakland, which had a three-game winning string stopped.

Orioles 7, Indians 4

Phil Bradley doubled twice during a seven-run first inning and Jeff Ballard won his fourth straight as the Orioles spoiled the return of Greg Swindell from the disabled list.

Ballard, 15-6, gave up six hits in seven innings, including a pair of two-run homers by rookie Joey Belle. Gregg Olson pitched the final two innings for his 22nd save.

Swindell had not pitched since July 25 because of a sore left elbow. Blue Jays 2, White Sox 1

Nelson Liriano's two-out, run-scoring single in the sixth lifted the Blue Jays to their eighth win in nine games.

Jimmy Key, 10-13, allowed one run on four hits, and Duane Ward pitched the final two innings for his 14th save.

Dave Gallagher drove in Ron Karkovice from third with a double to give the White Sox a 1-0 lead in the top of the third. Mookie Wilson homered in the bottom of the inning to tie the game for Toronto.

Royals 6, Tigers 1

Jim Eisenreich doubled twice and had three hits and Mark Gubicza pitched a four-hitter over seven innings.

Gubicza, 13-10, had a streak of 17 scoreless innings snapped when Detroit scored in the first. He then stopped the Tigers until Terry Leach came on to finish up.

Tigers starter Doyle Alexander, 5-16, lost his sixth in a row and is 2-16 with six no-decisions in his last 24 games.

Mariners 7, Brewers 3

Ken Griffey Jr. drove in three runs with a homer and a single and Randy Johnson and Mike Jackson combined on a six-hitter.

Griffey hit his 15th homer leading off the second inning against Brewers' starter Jeff Peterak, 0-2, to tie the score 1-1. He later singled home two runs to give the Mariners a 4-2 lead in the top of the third.

Johnson, 6-5, allowed the Brewers only three baserunners after the second inning. Jackson came on in the seventh, giving up a run-scoring pinch single to Greg Brock in the seventh before recording the final seven outs.

Cards blank Reds, 2-0, in 12 innings

By The Associated Press

It didn't take any of Whitey Herzog's managerial genius to figure out why the St. Louis Cardinals didn't beat the Cincinnati Reds.

"You can't win if you don't get a run," Herzog said.

Cincinnati, held to one hit over 12 innings, snapped a scoreless tie in the 13th on pinch-hitter Dave Collins' RBI single, and the Reds beat the Cardinals 2-0 despite a brilliant pitching performance by Jose DeLeon.

Over 11 innings, DeLeon faced the minimum 33 batters, allowing one hit, striking out eight and walking none.

"DeLeon and Rick Mahler were amazing, and DeLeon can't pitch any better than that," Herzog said.

DeLeon retired Cincinnati's first 10 batters before Luis Quinones' one-out, line-drive single in the fourth. A double play erased Quinones, and DeLeon set down the next 22 batters.

"It was really sad we couldn't pull that one out," St. Louis rookie catcher Todd Zeile said. "DeLeon just put the ball where I had my glove all night. He had great control of his pitches."

Elsewhere in the NL it was San Francisco 3, Philadelphia 2; Houston 8, Chicago 4; Montreal 5, San Diego 1; New York 9, Los Angeles 3, and Pittsburgh 7, Atlanta 5.

After Quinones' single in the fourth, The Reds did not get another hit until he doubled with one out in the 13th off Todd Worrell, 2-5.

Eric Davis, who was intentionally walked, stopped at second on Collins' RBI single and scored the Reds' second run when Zeile threw wildly on Davis' steal of third.

Rob Dibble, 8-4, pitched two innings and struck out five for the victory. John Franco pitched the 13th for his 29th save.

Expos 5, Padres 1

Dennis Martinez pitched a six-hitter for his 15th victory.

Martinez, 15-4, struck out eight and walked one for his fourth complete game. Ed Whitson, 15-10, allowed seven hits and three runs in five innings.

Dave Martinez had two hits and drove in two runs for the Expos.

Mets 9, Dodgers 3

Kevin McReynolds hit New

York's first grand slam of the season and Sid Fernandez won for the sixth time in his last seven decisions.

Fernandez, 10-3, pitched 7 2-3 innings and allowed five hits. Jeff Hamilton hit his 12th homer in the seventh to end the shutout and Mike Marshall added a two-run shot in the eighth, his 11th. Don Aase finished, allowing three hits.

McReynolds had nine homers and 23 RBIs in August.

Rookie Ramon Martinez, 3-3, pitched five innings and allowed three runs.

Giants 3, Phillies 2

Kelly Downs won for the first time since April 11.

Downs, 3-5, pitched six strong innings to win for the first time in four starts since coming off the disabled list following a shoulder problem.

Jeff Brantley, Craig Lefferts and Steve Bedrosian each pitched a scoreless inning, with Bedrosian getting the last three outs for his 18th save.

Pirates 7, Braves 5

Billy Hatcher's run-scoring pinch single snapped an eighth-inning tie.

With the score tied 5-5, Mike LaValliere led off with a single off reliever Joe Boever, 4-6. Pinch-runner Gary Redus moved to second on Jose Lind's sacrifice and scored on Hatcher's single. Hatcher moved to third on an infield out and scored on a wild pitch.

Randy Kramer, 5-7, won despite allowing the Braves to tie the score with two runs in the eighth.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The problem concerns my husband. He is a food inspector. This is not his profession--it's his neurosis.

He examines every slice of bread for mold, even when he unwraps the loaf himself and takes the first piece. He stirs his coffee for several minutes, eyeing the surface for flies, gnats or what-have-you. He sniffs every morsel of food placed before him. More often than not he refuses to eat the fish because "it doesn't smell right." I tell him all fish smells like fish, and he says "some fish smells more like fish than other fish."

If this happened only at home it wouldn't be so bad, but he also behaves this way out in company. I'm afraid one day he may begin to use a magnifying glass. Can you help?--Agonized.

DEAR AG: Bread inspectors, fish sniffers--and, yes, even spoon-wipers--are in incurable breed. They will be with us as long as man has two eyes and a nose.

Ask your husband to please be less obvious when he's out in company. It's unnerving to a hostess to see such antics. She has no way of knowing if the guest has found something or if he's only looking.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm worried about my 18-year-old brother Nick. He's been dating a girl who said she was 16. When he learned she was only in the eighth grade she admitted she was 14.

This girl can go out every night in the week and stay as late as she wants to. Last Friday Nick didn't come home to sleep. He phoned Mom and said he was spending the night with a buddy. He told me the next day he slept on the couch at the girl's house. Her folks didn't say a word.

These people aren't trash. Her father is a professional man and her mother is a social-register. Their theory is that either a girl of 14 can be trusted or she can't, and putting restrictions on her are useless. What are your ideas on this?--Concerned Sister

DEAR SISTER: My sympathies are with the girl. Her spineless parents have abdicated their responsibility because it's easier than exercising discipline.

Your 18-year-old brother should not be going with an eighth grader--especially this one. Her unlimited freedom could mean a sudden end to his.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I moved here and left our three children with my mother because a good job offer came up.

Three months have passed and I'm dying of loneliness for the kids. Whenever I mention sending for them he says, "We can't afford it." Last night he announced he'd like to buy a new car. I asked how he could afford a new car when he can't afford to send for his children. He replied, "The kids are OK where they are. We'll send for them later."

I don't think this is very fatherly. He needs my signature before he can buy anything. Please advise.--Mae

DEAR MAE: This is not very fatherly, and if you go for it, you're not very motherly. Since you seem to be the one with the full set of brains in the family insist he put the kids before the car. Sign nothing.

August activities reviewed

Members of Nouvelle Ami Study Club were involved in several activities in August.

The club was responsible for several booths in Jubilee Junction held during the recent Town 'n' Country Jubilee celebration. Members manned a candy bars booth as well as a cafe roping booth. Jerri Satterfield won a certificate to K-Bob's Steak House when he competed in a roping contest.

Also, a social was held at the home of Laurie Paetzold with refreshments provided by the hostess, Kim Wilcox, Jodi Meyer and Lauri Paetzold. Those attending with their families included Lynette Butler, Nicolynn Cook, Meyer, Lauri Paetzold and Laurie Paetzold. Kim Wilcox and Missy Wilcox.

Jones says 'People' is light comedy

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Jeffrey Jones calls his first television series, "The People Next Door," a "light, romantic comedy with a subversive twist."

In the CBS show, Jones plays a successful cartoonist named Walter Kellogg who has a new wife, two kids and a powerful imagination. The latter figures heavily in the stories because everything he imagines springs to life.

"I became a cartoonist because things in my imagination suggest cartoons to me," Jones says. "But it's not cartoons coming to life. It's live, not animated. I have an answering machine and inside is a little man who answers the calls. And he's as irascible as answering machines usually are."

"When I hug my future wife a lascivious thought pops into my head. Steve Allen suddenly shows up in the living room playing the piano."

It sounds reminiscent of "My World and Welcome To It," a comedy based on the works of James Thurber that went on to win an Emmy in 1970 after it was axed by NBC. The cartoonist in that show frequently entered a private world of the imagination that was animated.

Unlike "My World," however, Jones' fantasies are shared by everyone around him. His wife, Abigail, a psychologist played by Mary Gross, has to cope with it. His sister-in-law, played by Christina Pickles, was not thrilled with her sister marrying Walter even before she knew about his fantasies. His teen-age son finds it an embarrassment and his 11-year-old daughter is fascinated by the characters that jump to life and interact with the family.

The show frequently relies on special effects and "blue screen" photography.

In the show, Walter marries Abigail after a whirlwind courtship and moves her to his new home in Coventown, Ohio.

It's the first series for Jones, although he was involved in two pilots several years ago. "One wasn't picked up by the network," he says. "On the other, I didn't like what they wanted to do with the show and the character and we parted amiably."

"Another time Hugh Wilson came up with an idea for a comedy about the Revolutionary War. He couldn't quite make it work. It would have been fun to see an entertaining look at our history."

Wilson is the creator of "WKRP in Cincinnati," "Frank's Place" and the upcoming "The Famous Teddy Z."

Jones is best known for roles in such movies as "Amadeus," "Ferris Bueller's Day Off," "Beetlejuice" and "Without a Clue." He recently completed a role in the movie "Hunt for Red October." He was Thomas Jefferson in the miniseries "George Washington," Buffalo Bill in "The Gambler III" and had roles in two other miniseries, "Fresno" and "If Tomorrow Comes." He has also appeared in more than 125 stage productions.

"I've always wanted to do good work, whether it's for films or for television," he says. "I hope this is one of those things you try and it turns out good. It's a growing thing. You start out with an idea, and my experience in plays and movies is that they take on a life of their own. We'll see what develops."

"The title of the show refers to a lot of things. 'The People Next Door' is the name of the comic strip my character draws. It also refers to the fact that everyone has his daydreams. People don't always express them the way Walter does. This is a non-linear comedy. It doesn't go from one end to another. It'll start in one direction and suddenly go in another. I hope it isn't hard to follow."

Jones was born in Buffalo, N.Y., and attended a boarding school in Vermont, where he first became interested in acting. He entered Lawrence University as a pre-med student but soon switched to drama.

He spent his sophomore year at the Guthrie Theatre in Minneapolis in a work-study program. He also studied at the London Academy of Music and Dramatic Arts.

After that, he always worked as an actor. "I was determined that if I couldn't make it as an actor I'd get into something else," he says. "I didn't want to support my acting career working as a waiter."

He has worked in the theater with such performers as John Lithgow, Mandy Patinkin, David Bowie, Jill Eikenberry and Sigourney Weaver. He appeared with Meryl Streep, early in her career, in New York in "Trelawny of the Wells."

His first film work was a small role in an episode of "Kojak" while he was working in regional theater.

Besides "Hunt for Red October," Jones has also completed work on two other upcoming movies, "Valmont," which is director Milos Forman's version of "Les Liaisons Dangereuses," and "Enid Is Sleeping," a black comedy set in the American Southwest.

EXCELLENT GOOD FAIR POOR DON'T WASTE MONEY

Tony Danza fans are going to love...

"SHE'S OUT OF CONTROL": Starring Danza and Catherine Hicks. She's Out Of Control is really just an extension of Danza's top-rated TV sitcom, Who's The Boss? Danza plays a businessman who returns home from a trip to discover that his sweet, tomboyish daughter has blossomed into a beautiful young woman - now pursued by teenage boys dealing with their own biological changes - primarily over-active glands. True to the predictable script, Danza makes exaggerated attempts to protect his daughter. His well-meaning endeavors backfire as he, a supposedly hip father, suddenly sprouts "old fashioned" attitudes as Victorian as that of his parents. She's Out Of Control has lots of slapstick comedy as well as a large measure of warm, sweet humor - the kind that comes from life; the kind that's born from the irony of sixties rebels who have matured into conservative parents. The acting is good, the pacing right, on target and the script does a creditable job with an old theme. You'll enjoy this one; you might even take your children - you know what they say about the family that laughs together. Rated PG. Three Boxes.

"SAY ANYTHING": Starring John Cusack, Ione Skye and John Mahoney. John Cusack is Lloyd Dobler, a young non-conformist who falls in love with beautiful, brilliant Diane Court (Ione Skye). Lloyd's friends think he's out of his league, and so does Diane's father (John Mahoney). But Diane thinks there's something special about Lloyd, a pure spirit who chooses to view everything in the most optimistic way. As Ione Skye discovers her love for Cusack, she painfully comes to learn that things are not always the way they seem and people not always what she thinks they are. The movie is an "almost" fresh examination of the pleasures and pain found in the simple development of a growing relationship between a young man and a young woman. What seems unassuming and lighthearted, in this story, quite unexpectedly becomes convincing and beguiling. Lili Taylor (the reluctant bride in Mystic Pizza) has some wonderful moments as John Cusack's best pal who wishes something more. (This is an actress who continually surprises her audiences with more than they are led to expect.) All-in-all, Say Anything is an unlikely, yet delightful, romantic comedy, born from a good script with lots of believable dialogue. The movie also has a terrific music score featuring some of today's top talent: Nancy Wilson, Living Colour, and others. If you like wit and warmth with your romance, this one's for you. Rated PG-13. Three Boxes.

"WINTER PEOPLE": Starring Kurt Russell and Kelly McGillis. This movie is Hollywood's version of what happens when Lil' Abner and Daisy Mae meet the Hatfields and the McCoys. Kelly McGillis is an unwed mother supposedly living in isolation with her baby boy and guarding a dangerous secret: the identity of her son's father. She falls in love with a stranger (Kurt Russell) and is forced to make a decision that nearly destroys her. Sounds like a plot for a good movie doesn't it? But it's not. The script does not render one iota of believability or any real dialogue; while the director, Ted Kotcheff, manages to wrench hammy overacting from every member of the cast except (to his credit) Kurt Russell. Kotcheff further irritates by constantly pushing the camera into the faces of every actor. He never allows the camera to pull back so that the audience can watch the action, the reactions and the development of the characters; nor to examine the minimal plot.

"DISTANT THUNDER": Starring John Lithgow and Ralph Macchio. Rated R.

"COMING TO AMERICA": Starring Eddie Murphy. Rated R.

"EVERYBODY'S ALL-AMERICAN": Starring Jessica Lange and Dennis Quaid. Rated R.

"WITHOUT A CLUE": Starring Michael Caine and Ben Kingsley. Rated PG.

Tim, Daphne Reid like new show

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Tim Reid is back with his wife, Daphne Maxwell Reid, in a new CBS television show that for the first time he can say is really his own.

He and his wife not only star in the stylish romantic mystery, "Snoops," but he helped create it. As co-executive producer, he also controls every aspect of the show.

One thing he wanted was a racially mixed crew.

"Rarely in this town do people have an opportunity to work in an integrated environment," Reid says. "When I did 'Frank's Place,' 45 percent of the people behind the camera were black. This will probably be more than that."

"We have blacks at every level. We have black writers and black directors and I especially made it a point to find a black woman writer with experience. People keep telling me you can't find experienced blacks. I found them. My job is to find qualified people in areas of production closed to women and minorities."

Reid says it's necessary to find enthusiastic people to make a show a success.

"In the pilot I remember there was no way we could get one shot," he says. "But I saw people pull together and go the extra mile. In television, you have to give 150 percent to get a show on the air and keep it on the air. It has to have a special spark."

In "Snoops," Reid and his wife play Chance and Micki Dennis, an offbeat professional couple in Washington that always seems to stumble upon a murder. He's a criminology professor at Georgetown University. She's chief of protocol at the State Department.

The sophisticated, crime-solving couple and their clever repartee are in the mold of "The Thin Man," "Mr. and Mrs. North," "McMillan and Wife" and "Hart to Hart."

Reid, when he is asked about the comparison to "The Thin Man," says, "I hope so."

His wife and co-star adds, "We talked about that concept. We loved Nick and Nora Charles and the fact that these things happened within their lives. They didn't go out looking for things. We loved their repartee. It will be stylish. I think it's in tune with the times. Families and romance are back."

Daphne Reid, a former fashion model who was the first black woman on the cover of Glamour magazine, will be attired in the latest fashions for her job and for the many diplomatic parties they will attend. Reid's character is described as an "eccentric conservative" who will wear vests.

"Snoops" will be the first time a black woman has starred in a one-hour drama since Teresa Graves was in ABC's "Get Christie Love" in 1974-75. If the series goes past 22 episodes, it will be the first time a drama with a predominantly black cast has been renewed.

Reid was on several television shows in the 1970s, including the short-lived "Richard Pryor Show," but it was his role as disc jockey Venus Flytrap on "WKRP in Cincinnati" that made him famous. After that, he was detective Downtown Brown on "Simon & Simon," then in "Frank's Place."

"Frank's Place" was one of the best shows of the 1987-88 season, but it was moved frequently on the schedule by CBS and never caught on with the audience. In that show, Reid was a New England college professor who inherited his father's Creole restaurant in New Orleans. The show was called a "dramady," a mixture of drama and comedy.

"Hugh Wilson, who created 'Frank's Place,' is doing a more commercial show this season with "The Famous Teddy Z." Reid says, "I'm doing a more commercial show with 'Snoops.' It'll have more mass appeal and the stories will be lighthearted. You have to entertain. I think 'Frank's Place' forgot that."

Ray Reddinger to serve as local chairman of telethon

Ray Reddinger has been named the Hereford chairperson of the 1989 Jerry Lewis Telethon to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA), announced Chip Rodgers, district director of the National Voluntary Health Agency's Panhandle chapter.

"We're proud to have caring individuals like Ray Reddinger working closely with MDA and its supporters," said Rodgers. "Our telethon team is dedicated to making this year's show another record-breaker." Telethon '88 was the most successful in the show's history, raising over $41 million in pledges.

The 24th Annual Labor Day Telethon will be broadcast by KFDA-TV starting at 8 p.m. Sunday and continuing to 6 p.m. Monday. The 2 1/2 hour extravaganza will originate live from the Cashman Field Center in Las Vegas and will be carried through the country by some 200 "love network" stations.

Wesley Garcia, 1989 poster child for the Panhandle chapter of MDA, will be just one of the many special guests who will be attending the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon. At this year's telethon, Wesley will be assisting hosts Kari King, John Hagerty and Jon Hart, emcee. The show is being broadcast live from the Fifth Season Inn West in Amarillo.

Children wishing to collect door-to-door for "Jerry's kids" are asked to come by the pledge center location no later than noon on Labor Day to pick up an official badge and canister. Other activities planned for the Hereford area include a bake sale at the Elks Lodge on Monday.

A special phone number 364-4771 has been assigned for the use by the people of Hereford to phone in their pledges. Anyone wishing to volunteer to answer phones or help at the pledge center in any other way should call Ray or Celia as soon as possible at 364-4771.

Money raised through the efforts of telethon "love network" affiliates helps fund the important work being done by MDA-sponsored researchers to find treatments and cures for muscle disease. One of the most promising experimental techniques now under investigation is myoblast transfer therapy. This technique involves the injection of healthy immature muscle cells, called myoblasts, into diseased muscle in an effort to produce hybrid muscle cells that display healthy characteristics. The procedure has shown positive results in laboratory mice.

"The people of Hereford can take great pride in their contribution to this major research undertaking," said Reddinger.

"Scientists are closer than ever to developing a treatment or cure if increased public support of MDA's work can be achieved," he continued.

The association currently sponsors some 500 individual research projects worldwide. It also supports some 230 outpatient clinics nationwide, where people with any of the 40 muscle disorders covered by MDA programs receive medical care, orthopedic aids and related services.

TALK TO YOUR CHILD

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) - Parents who talk with young children about daily routines are helping them exercise basic cognitive and conversational skills, says Lucia French.

French, a University of Rochester professor, says, "Invite children to talk about what happens at bath time or at dinner, or which animals they want to visit on a trip to the zoo."

"By talking about daily routines, you help a child recount events and translate experience into language, and see the correspondence between what is said and what happens."

Thinking thin? Try Thai

If you're health conscious, give today's ham another look. You'll find it surprisingly low in calories and high in nutrition. Thanks to advances on the farm, some varieties of ham are as much as 57 percent leaner than ham was 20 years ago. And as always, ham is rich in vitamins and minerals, such as niacin, thiamin, vitamin B-12 and iron.

Ham is even showing up in today's trendiest ethnic meals. Hot peanut dressing, blending the flavors of peanut butter, soy sauce and lime juice with ginger and garlic seasonings, can be poured over a ham salad for an authentic Thai dish.

This exotic meal can be prepared easily in just minutes.

HAM SALAD WITH HOT PEANUT DRESSING

- 3/4 lb. lean boneless ham
- 2 Tbsp. salad oil
- 1/4 cup peanut butter
- 3 Tbsp. fresh lime juice
- 1 Tbsp. reduced-sodium soy sauce
- 1 tsp. dry ginger
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 Tbsp. sugar
- 1 medium cucumber, seeded and thinly sliced
- 1/2 red onion, thinly sliced
- 6 cups Romaine or curly endive, torn
- 1 head radicchio or Boston lettuce

Thinly slice ham and heat briefly in microwave or in skillet over medium heat. Set aside and keep warm.

Combine salad oil, peanut butter, lime juice, soy sauce, ginger, garlic and sugar in a blender or food processor; blend well. Heat dressing in a microwave in glass measuring cup or on stovetop in a small saucepan.

Toss cucumber, red onion and Romaine or endive together. Arrange salads on individual plates as follows: Line plates with radicchio or Boston lettuce, top with tossed vegetables, arrange ham slices atop and spoon hot dressing over all.

Abundant Life

Managing Well
BY BOB WEAR

Managing well is the judicious use of means to accomplish an end. It does not, however, mean that the end justifies the means. Managing well may pertain to personal finances, to one's self, to a household, to a business, to the wise use of time, and to most everything involving human choice and action. In this writing, we are concerned about managing one's life well.

The best managed life means a maximum of accomplishment with a minimum of friction." -Roy L. Smith. It means this and more in one's personal life.

Self-control, which includes wholesome self-restraint and wise positive actions, is essential to the art of managing well. This life quality enables us to make the best use of knowledge and skill. It means that we can handle ourselves, and what we do and say, in the very best way. We will avoid harmful excesses, and apply the personal discipline which will make judicious choices and actions realities.

For want of self-restraint, many people are engaged, all of their lives, fighting with difficulties of their own making, and rendering success impossible by their cross-grained ungentleness; while others, who may be much less gifted, make their way and achieve success by simple patience, equanimity, and self-control." -Smiles.

The opposite of managing well is, of course, mismanagement, and there will be some mismanagement. We will make some mistakes. These mistakes can and must be kept to a minimum and must be learning experiences. We must be very alert against mismanagement, because too much of it causes a distressful sense of failure and discouragement. We can, by diligent effort, guard ourselves against most of this.

In managing well one's self we will be able to manage well the other aspects of our personal living experiences.
