

County Joins City, School Districts in Appraisals

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor
 Deaf Smith County commissioners, spurred by the advice of an Amarillo tax attorney, decided Wednesday to put the county in the same tax-appraisal district with the Hereford and Walcott school districts and City of Hereford.

Commissioners made the decision in a continuance of Monday's recessed regular semi-monthly meeting, then joined with representatives of the other local entities in discussing a timetable for local implementation of the tax-appraisal district.

Senate Bill 621, approved as part of the Tax Relief Amendment in the last legislative session, requires all cities and school districts in the state to join single tax-appraisal districts, but makes it optional for counties. Texas counties were not required by the Tax Relief Amendment to participate since they already were constitutional bodies and county tax assessors were constitutional authorities.

Commissioners decided to join since the county already was using the same tax appraisals, set by local appraiser Jim McMorris, as the school district and city.

"We've been running down this alley anyway, so it won't be that big of a change," Commissioner Austin Rose said in presenting a motion in favor of joining. SB 621 requires the election of a board of directors for the district. Each taxing unit is required to submit nominees for the board, and the entities have a number of votes based on the amount of taxes levied.

Hereford Independent School District will have 2,500 votes, or 51 percent. Deaf Smith County will have 1,700 votes (34 percent), the city 600 votes (12 percent) and Walcott ISD 150 votes (three percent).

Tax attorney Jim Blair of Amarillo urged commissioners in their meeting to try to work with the other taxing units to avoid heated races for positions on the board, then repeated the statement in the joint meeting of the various local bodies later Wednesday afternoon.

"Deaf Smith County is in a unique position since there aren't many entities here. It won't be hard to work together," Blair said. "But, say, in Harris County (Houston), you have 61 different entities and you're going to have a lot of disagreements about who is going on the board."

Blair said it is wise for Deaf Smith County to join the district in order to have input in the election of directors, who are required to approve a budget for appraising property by Dec. 1, 1980.

The only requirement for serving on the board is a two-year residency period within the political subdivision. The bill allows a county's subdivisions, through a

Guard Evacuates Low-Lying Regions

By The Associated Press
 Law enforcement agencies and the National Guard evacuated residents of low-lying areas today as wind-blown sheets of rain drenched the heavily populated upper Texas coast.

Water poured into homes and business as remnants from tropical storm Claudette dumped up to 25 inches of rain in the Southeast Texas area.

In Houston, civil defense officials issued appeals for boats and gasoline as hundreds of homes in southeastern sections of the city and Harris County were flooded. The state highway department closed Interstate 45, running north and south, between Houston and Galveston.

Interstate 10, running east-west between Houston and Beaumont, was closed near Channelview, just east of Houston, because of reported washouts. The alternate route, U.S. 90, also had water over it, effectively cutting a link between the two cities.

Sabine Pass, on the southeastern tip of the state, was virtually cut off today as water covered Texas 87 on both sides of the city. It is the only major road running in and out of the town.

Houston police established a command post on Interstate 45 at Sagemont, near Ellington Air Force Base, to dispatch boats to areas where water was reported as deep as six feet.

Entrance roads to the Johnson Space Center, the training base for the nation's astronauts, were flooded.

Rainfall had ranged from 14 to 25 inches in some areas of Galveston, Harris and Brazoria counties since tropical storm Claudette moved ashore to the east Tuesday afternoon.

Rain from Claudette's remnants continued and forecasters indicated it might not end before Friday.

Carter Seeks Public Support for Oil Tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is telling the American people "your voice must be heard" if the Senate is to pass his windfall oil profits tax. Without it, he says, "we cannot reach our energy goals."

At a nationally broadcast prime-time news conference Wednesday night, Carter predicted "a massive struggle to gut the windfall profits tax bill" in the Senate. It already has passed the House.

It was Carter's first news conference in Washington since May 29 and he appeared forceful throughout. His upper lip twitched briefly, however, when he was asked if he had thought about taking himself out of the 1980 presidential race.

"I have considered all the options," he reported, "and my decision will be announced later on this year."

Carter had a snappier comeback when a reporter asked about a prediction by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., that the president's problems will force Carter out of the race and hand the Democratic nomination to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

"Three or four years ago I was running for president against Sen. Jackson," Carter recalled. "At that time he predicted he would be the next president, starting in 1977. His judgment was not very good then. And now I am ready for the next question."

During the half-hour session in the White House East Room, Carter defended last week's Cabinet shake-up, declaring, "I have no apology to make for it."

Saying that some have thought he acted too rapidly, he said he felt a need to "create a new team to work with me" and "I had the choice of dragging it out or getting it over, in effect, in 48 hours."

As for criticism of his decision to name longtime political aide Hamilton Jordan to be White House chief of staff, Carter said Jordan will do a "superb job" in an assignment he indicated will have strict limits.

"He will not be chief of the Cabinet," Carter said pointedly. "I will be chief of the Cabinet. He will not be the chief of the Congress. The Congress is an independent body. ... Hamilton Jordan will be chief of the White House staff."

Carter's appeal for public support for the windfall profits tax came a few hours after a major setback in the House for part of his energy program.

The House abruptly halted debate on legislation giving him standby authority to ration gasoline after unexpected adoption of an amendment sharply limiting his flexibility.

Carter said the House action "illustrates the timidity of the Congress in dealing with a sensitive political issue."

"I need your help," he said. "I need the help of the people of America."

In an opening statement, the president pointed to proposed amendments that

"The triggering mechanism is stationary," said Jerry Boudreaux, a forecaster at the National Weather Service.

"As each group of storms dies out, another group regenerates."

Houston civil defense asked operators of unhooded service stations along Interstate 45 to open and make gasoline available for owners who bring boats in for emergency use.

Farther to the north the rains had forced evacuation of Baytown's flood-prone Brownwood area as rain and tide water poured over a protective levee. Baytown residents on Tuesday rejected a bond issue to buy the Brownwood section and convert it to a park.

Evacuation shelters were opened in Southeast Houston, South Houston, Pasadena, the NASA area, Baytown, La Porte, Dickinson, Alta Loma, Galveston and Clear Lake City.

In Pasadena, police Sgt. K.F. McCright said quite a number of residents had been evacuated and the situation was getting no better.

"Every time the phone rings, somebody wants to be evacuated," he said.

All roads leading to and from Alvin, between Houston and Galveston, were closed due to flooding. The state highway department also said Texas 288 and 35 at Angleton and Texas 3 in the Webster area in Harris County were closed.

One death was reported Wednesday when a man drowned when his automobile went into deep water at an intersection in Beaumont.

The National Guard was mobilized Wednesday by Texas Gov. Bill Clements to help with the evacuations.

There were no indications as to when relief might be in sight from the torrential rain as forecasters said radar indicated that the showers extended well into the

Hispanics Maintain Opposition to Civiletti

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hispanic spokesmen scheduled a meeting today with Deputy Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti, whose nomination as attorney general they are fighting.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., suggested the meeting midway through testimony as the Senate Judiciary Committee began Civiletti's confirmation hearing Wednesday.

"We are strongly opposing Mr. Civiletti's nomination," Paul Sedillo of the Forum of National Hispanic Organizations said. "We feel that we as a minority have been neglected by the Justice Department."

Central to the Hispanic opposition is the contention that the Justice Department, with Civiletti in a top leadership spot, has been reluctant to prosecute for civil rights violations involving alleged police brutality against Hispanics. Nineteen of 57 cases the group outlined to the committee were in Texas.

"The number of cases that the Justice Department has initiated... is absolutely a horrendous record," Sedillo said.

Elisa Sanchez of the Mexican-American Women's National Association said, "Our people are being assaulted, murdered and otherwise brutalized while their cries for help fall on the deaf ears of the Justice Department."

Civiletti is scheduled to respond further to senators' questions Friday after the Hispanic groups complete their testimony today. He denied Wednesday, however, any bias in Justice Department activities.

"I have not, in my view at least, shield away or shirked or neglected to move in these areas, and move positively," he said. "I believe we have made strides in the Justice Department."

The deputy attorney general said the Justice Department decided not to issue any indictments in the death of a Larry Lozano because of insufficient evidence of civil rights violations after an extensive

Blood Mobile Nets 74 Pints

The community of Hereford lived up to its reputation for responding to the area need for blood Wednesday afternoon by donating 74 pints of blood to Coffee Memorial Blood Center.

John Mitchell, public relations director for Coffee Memorial, telephoned drive chairman Joan Bookout this morning to congratulate her committee and extend thanks to the community for answering the call for blood.

Hereford is one of the few communities in the Panhandle to conduct a monthly blood campaign for Coffee Memorial, which meets the blood needs of this area.

Yesterday's blood total was designated to the following accounts:

Three pints for Merle Newell; 4 for Sylvia Soliz; 2 for Carolyn Johnson; 14 for Lavonne Easley; 4 for Don Brockman; 12 for Carlota Valdez (deceased); 3 for Cecilia Vasek; 5 for Larry Bain; 2 for Frances Rape; 7 for Bill Lookingbill; 17 for blood insurance; and 1 for personal credit.

The blood mobile will be collecting blood at the Community Center on Aug. 22 when it makes its next monthly visit.

Inflation Continues Above 13 Percent Rate

By OWEN ULLMANN
AP Labor Writer
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Another big spurt in the cost of energy and housing pushed consumer prices up 1 percent in June as inflation continued to rage above a 13 percent annual rate, the government reported today.

Soaring price increases for gasoline and heating fuel and a slight rise in food prices kept the Labor Department's monthly inflation measure at 1 percent or higher for the fifth consecutive month.

Through the first half of the year, inflation has been running at a 13.2 percent annual rate. If it continues at that pace for the full year, 1979 will register the highest inflation since immediately after World War II.

The inflation rate continued to take its toll on a typical worker's real spendable earnings, after deducting taxes and taking inflation into account, the Labor Department said.

Spendable earnings of a married worker with three dependents declined, 0.8 percent in June, meaning that wages could not quite keep up with the rise in consumer prices during the month. For the 12 months ended in June, a worker's real spendable earnings declined 3.5 percent.

The Labor Department said gasoline prices continued to soar in June, jumping 5.6 percent after a 5 percent rise in May. Those prices have advanced at a 60.8 percent annual rate so far this year.

Similarly, fuel oil prices leaped 8.6 percent in June following a 5.3 percent rise in May. Through the first half of the year, fuel oil prices have been climbing at 70.6 percent annual rate.

The government's index of housing continued to rise steeply for a fifth straight month. Housing prices increased 1.5 percent during the month, home financing costs jumped 2.1 percent and maintenance and repairs rose 0.9 percent.

The good news for consumers was that food prices rose by a modest 0.2 percent during June, the smallest advance in 11 months. Clothing prices declined 0.1 percent and entertainment costs rose by just 0.1 percent, the smallest rise this

House Plans Another Vote on Rationing

WASHINGTON (AP) - After an unexpected setback, House leaders are planning another vote next week to give the president standby authority to ration gasoline.

Debate on the legislation was abruptly halted Wednesday after the House approved, 232 to 187, a Republican-sponsored amendment sharply limiting the president's flexibility to impose rationing.

It was the second blow the House has dealt President Carter's request for standby rationing authority this year. In May, the House turned down a similar rationing plan entirely.

The proposal before the House would allow either the House or the Senate to block rationing any time the president tried to impose it - a safeguard Carter says he can live with.

But the amendment adopted Wednesday would also give Congress "one-house veto" power to reject details of the plan in advance. The amendment was by Rep. Benjamin A. Gilman, R-N.Y.

PLO Says Israel Tried Assassination

CANNES, France (AP) - The Palestine Liberation Organization accused Israel of the attempted assassination of its military operations chief, but Western diplomats in Paris said the shooting on the Riviera may be the start of a new round of warfare between rival PLO factions or leaders. There was no comment from Israel. The condition of the victim, 43-year-old Zuhair Mohsen, was described as "hopeless." He was shot in the head and was reported in a coma in a Nice hospital following an operation to remove the bullet.

Mohsen, who also headed the Saika (Thunderbolt) guerrilla organization controlled by Syria, was shot Tuesday night as he approached the door to the fourth-floor apartment in Cannes he and his wife had been occupying since last weekend. His wife, who was opening the apartment door to admit him, told police the gunman fired from a service stairway six feet away.

A watchman reportedly saw two men, one possibly an Arab and the other a large man in a white suit, apparently European, fleeing in a red-Flat with a local license. But the police gave no information on the progress of their investigation.

Trial Inundated By TV Devices

MIAMI (AP) - During a break in Theodore Bundy's murder trial, Judge Edward Cowart walked into a room filled with wires, screens and television lights five floors above his courtroom. "I thought I was in a space center," he said.

The judge was amid an electronic media center that made Bundy's intensely publicized and widely televised trial a landmark in Florida's cameras-in-the-court program.

The jury, which remains sequestered, returns Saturday to begin considering whether to recommend life in prison or execution for Bundy, a 32-year-old former law student convicted of the murder of two Chi Omega sorority sisters.

Cowart, the chief circuit judge for Dade County, said he had no complaint about cameras in his court.

"I feel pretty strongly that we're conducting the public's business," the judge said. "I don't mind sitting in the hourglass to conduct the public's business."

Defense attorney Margaret Good was less enthusiastic. "I've gotten used to the movie cameras," she said near the trial's end. "But that still camera drives me crazy."

Harrisburg Hit By Another Plague

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) After surviving a nuclear accident and enduring recurring floods, Pennsylvania's capital city must now deal with a new hazard - hand grenades.

The fourth grenade found in the last two months turned up this week at the city's steam generating facility.

"It's developing into some sort of syndrome," said Richard Vajda, captain of city police detectives.

Officials at the 56th Ordinance Detachment at nearby Fort Indiantown Gap determined Wednesday that the latest grenade was not alive. But to of the four found so far were. One exploded May 25, killing Terrence Adams, 4, and seriously injuring his 15-year-old brother Bernard.

Authorities said the boys apparently found the M-67 high explosive fragmentation grenade while they were playing. It went off while they were handling it in front of their house.

Other grenades have been found in a cemetery and near a school.

The grenade found Monday and the one near the school were missing their top portions, including the fusing devices, police said.

Weather

West Texas - Partly cloudy to clear through Friday with widely scattered thunderstorms mainly Panhandle and mountains through tonight and mountains Friday. No important temperature changes. Highs near 90 Panhandle to 105 extreme south. Lows 64 to 76 except upper 50s mountains.

Economy

The overall 1 percent rise in consumer prices last month is down slightly from a 1.1 percent rise during each of the two preceding months.

The Consumer Price Index stood in June at 216.6, meaning that a market-basket of goods and services that cost $100 in the base year of 1967 cost $216.60 last month.

The government said prices of grocery store foods declined 0.1 percent in June, primarily because of a 1.8 percent decline in the cost of meats, poultry, fish and eggs. Beef prices, which had shown sharp increases during the preceding eight months, fell 1.3 percent in June, as had been expected.

All of the price increases are adjusted to reflect seasonal variations in price patterns.

The June consumer price report is the first since the administration raised its inflation forecast for 1979 into the double-digit range, an apparent admission that the fight against inflation would produce no major victories this year.

In a new economic forecast issued July 12, the administration said inflation would be 10.6 percent this year, up from a previous forecast of 7.4 percent.

Since the end of World War II, inflation has topped 10 percent only twice - in 1946, when the removal of price controls sent prices jumping 18.2 percent, and in 1974, when a quadrupling of imported oil prices contributed to a 12.2 percent rate.

Meanwhile, President Carter's appointment Wednesday of Paul A. Volcker as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board was hailed by the nation's financial community and in Washington as a welcome development in the fight against inflation.

Volcker, 51, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York since 1975, would replace G. William Miller, who Carter picked to succeed W. Michael Blumenthal, the ousted secretary of the treasury. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, which has jurisdiction over Volcker's confirmation hearings, said Volcker "is a man of great intellect and proven leadership ability. ... The president has shown outstanding judgement."

In another inflation-related development Wednesday Rep. Jack Kemp of New York and 17 other House Republicans submitted a bill intended to block Carter from denying contracts to firms that violate the president's voluntary 7 percent wage guideline.

The administration has threatened to withhold government business from firms that don't go along with the guideline as a way to enforce its anti-inflation program.

Kemp argued that a 7 percent wage ceiling is "highway robbery" of workers facing an inflation rate that is almost twice as high.

Carter

could slash revenues from his oil excise tax by $55 billion in the next decade, denying him the money to launch a $142 billion energy program centering on a search for alternatives to petroleum.

"This is a democracy," he said. "Your voice can be heard. Your voice must be heard. ... Please speak to the Congress of the United States and especially to the United States Senate, which still has the responsibility to act."

Two Republican members of the Senate Finance Committee, which is now studying the windfall profits bill, were not impressed by Carter's plea.

"We want to work with the president, but we're not going to be intimidated," said Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas. And Sen. William Roth of Delaware, alluding to Carter's meeting Tuesday with the committee, said that then, "he was offering us the olive branch." But the news conference remarks, Roth said, made the president seem "more like a candidate."

three-fourths vote, to elect any number of directors. Terms are for two years.

SB 621 replaces the School Tax Assessment Practices Board with a regulatory body—the State Property Tax Board, which Blair said would be "extremely powerful, more so than the railroad commission or utilities commission." The new state board, which will regulate the various local tax-appraisal districts, will take effect Jan. 1, 1980.

Also on that date, the appraisal district boards of directors will take office. On Oct. 1, 1980, the chief appraiser of the local district is required to submit a budget, which must be approved by the board on Dec. 1, 1980.

The chief appraiser may be anyone selected by the board, including an already-established tax office in the county.

Another responsibility of the board is the establishment of a single board of review, which will replace the various boards of tax equalization in 1982.

The State of Texas will provide financing of the appraisal districts in 1980, but local funds, along with reduced state money, will pay for office operations beginning in 1981.

The law takes total effect on Jan. 1, 1982, when property appraisals begin.

All taxing units in the county, including the hospital district and water districts, are required to pay a portion of running the tax-appraisal district. An entity's cost is based on the amount of taxes it levies; for example, HISD will pay for 51 percent of the total cost.

Even though Deaf Smith County Hospital District will pay a share of the cost, it cannot participate in the election of directors. Still, the entities represented Wednesday decided that a member of the hospital district board should serve a two-year term.

Blair told the entities that instead of each one submitting several candidates for the board, it would be wise to agree mutually on who should serve. Each of the entities then agreed to select a representative of its board, submit the name in a joint meeting and vote for its choice. That would result in a five-member board, comprised of single representatives from each of the five major entities, including the hospital district.

County Judge Glen Nelson set a 2 p.m. Monday, Aug. 20 meeting for the election. The meeting will be held in the school administration board room.

"I will give each one of us time to pick our candidates," Nelson said.

HISD Superintendent Dr. Harrell Holder thanked commissioners for joining the district. "It would be very difficult to make it work without you," Holder said.

Among those attending Wednesday's joint meeting were tax assessors Fred Fox of the school district, Neil Miller of the county and Cliff Arnold of the city, Holder, Walcott Superintendent Eddie Derr, McMurrises, assistant county tax assessor Vance Crume, Nelson, commissioners Rose, James Voyles, Bruce Coleman and J.F. Martin, and Bill Sarpaluis, assistant to House Speaker Bill Clayton.

Flooding

Gulf of Mexico. The overall, slow movement of the system, the remnants of Tropical Depression Claudette, was northward, meaning the activity would continue.

Flooding was reported early today in Harris, Matagorda, Liberty and Brazoria Counties as well as several counties in the Beaumont-Port Arthur area.

Hundreds were housed in temporary shelters in numerous communities along the upper coast area. Exact figures were not available as flooding appeared to be reaching new areas by the hour.

New evacuations started during the night were reported under way at Freeport, Alvin and El Lago, League City, Dickinson and Clear Lake Village. Evacuations had been under way Wednesday at Port Arthur, Bridge City and Lakeview.

More than 20 inches of rain fell at Alvin, the National Weather Service said, adding that it was still raining "extremely heavy" there during the pre-dawn hours.

Street flooding was said to be "severe" at Alvin. "This is a record breaking flood," said a spokesman at the National Weather Service office at Houston.

Forecasters urged motorists to stay off roads and streets because many are flooded and closed because of high water and stalled vehicles.

Strong southerly winds prevented tides from flowing out of Galveston Bay, adding to the problems and causing more flooding problems for residents living along the bayous leading into Galveston Bay.

At Galveston, the National Weather Service said the area very heavy thunderstorms covered most of three counties and is moving little. The thunderstorms covered a vast area of Southeast Texas, extending from near Bay City to West Columbia and Brazoria to Rosharon, Alvin, Friendswood, La Port and Baytown.

It was the second time in three months that floodwaters had plagued the Golden Triangle area bordered by Beaumont, Port Arthur and Orange.

The only flood-related death reported by early today was in Beaumont where Lewis Yokum drowned when his car stalled in the bottom of a flooded underpass.

Yokum's body was recovered from one of three cars pulled from under 10 feet of water in the underpass, according to Deputy Fire Chief Fred Carter.

The other drivers were not immediately located.

"They might have been able to get out their cars or they might have been swept away by the current," Carter said.

Law enforcement officers at Port Arthur reported difficulty keeping streets open during the height of the early morning deluge.

"The pumps have been able to keep some of the water away and off the streets, but the heavy rain made them almost useless at times," Patrolman

David Davis said.

A spokesman for Gulf States Utilities said more than 10,000 homes in the Golden Triangle area were thrown into darkness early Wednesday. Dave Smith said electricity had been restored to all but about 2,000 customers by late Wednesday.

The vast Southeast Texas petrochemical and oil refining industry was not hampered greatly by the storm.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. said about 1,900 homes lost service in Jefferson County and another 1,000 homes lost service in Orange County.

The remainder of Texas had a relatively calm night. Widely scattered showers and thunderstorms were reported in Southwest Texas and along the Rio Grande between Del Rio and Laredo. Some other scattered thunderstorm activity was reported in northwest sections of the Panhandle during the night.

Forecasts are calling for partly cloudy to cloudy skies statewide.

Thunderstorms, including some heavy, were forecast to continue across South and Southeast Texas throughout the day. Isolated thunderstorms were forecast for West Texas.

Highs were to be mostly in the 90s. But in South and Southeast Texas the continued rain was expected to keep highs in the 80s.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 70s. Extremes ranged from 65 at Amarillo to 84 at Brownsville.

Gasoline Supplies To Be Tighter

By The Associated Press Higher gasoline prices and somewhat tighter supplies are expected for Texas motorists this weekend.

A survey of 420 service stations by the American Automobile Association indicates a smaller number of stations will be open at night while awaiting August allocations under federal supply regulations.

As opposed to 3 percent a week ago, 7 percent of the stations reported having already exhausted supplies of at least one grade of the July allocations.

CORPUS CHRISTI - 20 stations, 65 percent closing by 8 p.m. weekdays, 40 percent by 6 p.m. Saturday, and 50 percent Sunday.

Civiletti

investigation. He said the decision in the Lozano case was a unanimous one, refuting reports Washington officials overruled U.S. Attorney Jamie Boyd of San Antonio.

Lozano died in the custody of Ector County, Texas, authorities.

Ruben Sandoval of the League of United Latin American Citizens, who represented Lozano's family in court proceedings, said there were too many inconsistencies in the Justice Department's decision to close the Lozano case.

The San Antonio, Texas, attorney, said, "There has been not only a refusal but an outright ignoring of our rights."

Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., asked if the Hispanic spokesmen still would oppose Civiletti if commitments to more minority representation and involvement in the Justice Department are made.

"The relationship is not beyond repair," Sandoval said, adding he was skeptical because of the lack of progress made after previous meetings.

Sedillo proposed that the next deputy attorney general should be a Hispanic.

"I can already hear what that conversation is going to be like," Kennedy said jokingly of today's Civiletti-Hispanic session.

UT Students Hope To Save Barracks for Housing

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The situation is a familiar one — public officials want to tear down peeling, aged housing units while residents say they couldn't afford to move.

But the scene is not in the inner city or along a proposed freeway route.

The landlord is the University of Texas, one of the nation's richest universities with money from private endowments and proceeds from oil and gas leases.

The upset residents are University of Texas students, many pursuing graduate and professional degrees. They live in World War II wooden barracks that were converted to married student housing in 1946.

The Brackenridge and Deep Eddy Apartments outlived the "temporary" status assigned them more than 30 years ago when returning servicemen crowded college campuses.

University officials expected to replace them after 10 years. Two additional brick complexes were built in the 1960s and 1973 but could not accommodate the 569 families already living in the older units.

The barracks' safety continuously has been questioned, mostly recently by UT Regent Jon Newton.

He told fellow regents in March he was concerned about the buildings' "appalling" appearance and possibly hazardous condition. A study was ordered and discussion of the investigation was on today's agenda for the regents' meeting in San Antonio.

Officials conclude the buildings are firetraps, energy inefficient and increasingly more expensive to maintain.

The study says renovation or replacement would drive rents up too high compared to the $69 to $92 paid monthly for one to four-bedroom unfurnished apartments.

Razing of the barracks is recommended.

"Demolition is certainly a possibility that can't be avoided," university Vice President James Duncan said in June. "Obviously at some point they are going to have to go. The question of when is a whole different question," said Duncan.

Apartment residents organized the Brackenridge Neighborhood Council to fight demolition plans. They obtained independent estimates of modest renovation plans and will present those figures to the regents.

At stake, explains council president Kelly Saenz, is a chance for a degree while raising a family.

"By far the majority would have to drop out," she said if the barracks were gone. The area is a "community" where residents babysit each other's children.

Mary Hitchcock agrees. She is 39, divorced and living with her 15-year-old. Her monthly income is $382, including $100 child support. The rest comes from a parttime job. Rent for her two-bedroom apartment is $86, electricity runs $40 and food about $200 with no meat.

She is studying to be a home economist counselor or extension agent.

"The only way I can return to school is to go to UT with this type of housing," she said. "I don't feel they (apartments) are dangerous. I wouldn't be living here if I did." Newton met with the neighborhood council this month and heard student views. "The issue is just not as easy as I thought it was a few months ago," he said after talking with residents.

AFL-CIO Head Blasts Wage Laws

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Organized labor faces a determined assault by business on prevailing construction wage laws and must get tougher in its political activity, a national AFL-CIO official says.

Thomas R. Donahue, executive assistant to national AFL-CIO president George Meany, addressed the Texas AFL-CIO convention on Wednesday.

He predicted a continued attack by business on prevailing wage laws and said the activity "represents guerrilla warfare against workers and decent working conditions."

Prevailing wage laws prevent contractors on government jobs from paying workers less than the wages normally paid in a community. A bill to repeal the Texas law died in this year's Legislature only after thousands of "hard hats" thronged the Capitol in protest.

Donahue said opponents of the prevailing wage law talk of holding down costs, "but the real goal is not economy but busting unions."

The convention of delegates from 1,000 union locals, representing some 265,000 union members, began Wednesday and runs through Saturday.

Delegates are expected to reelect Harry Hubbard as president and Joe Gunn as secretary-treasurer without opposition.

Donahue recalled that last year's "Labor Reform Act" was killed by a U.S. Senate filibuster after a move to cut off debate failed by a single vote.

"We probably spent $6 million to $8 million on that effort," he said.

Donahue said with irony that labor should have "an honor roll of COPE-endorsed senators" who voted to let the filibuster continue. COPE is the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education, which endorses candidates and funnels labor money into political campaigns.

He named five senators who he said were endorsed by COPE but voted against shutting off the filibuster: Date Bumpers, D-Ark.; Lawton Chiles, D-Fla.; Richard Stone, D-Fla.; Howard Cannon, D-Nev.; and Edward Zorinsky, D-Nebraska.

The labor bill would have made it easier for unions to organize workers in non-union factories.

"We need to be even tougher in giving support to candidates and in supporting the candidates we endorse," Donahue said. "We need to take a harder look than in the past at those who say they are our friends...The lesser of two evils should not be good enough for us any more."

Hubbard urged the 1,500 delegates to donate or pledge $200 apiece toward supporting labor-endorsed candidates in the 1980 Texas elections.

Building trades unions quickly donated or pledged $26,640 toward labor's political kitty.

Rep Has Deadline To Nix Violations

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Rep. Clay Smothers, D-Dallas, has until Friday to clear his child care home near Malakoff of 40 alleged violations of state welfare standards.

State officials said a representative of the licensing division of the Department of Human Resources would visit Smothers' St. Paul Industrial Training School in Henderson County on Friday to check violations reported during a June 21 inspection.

The results will be reported to Margaret May, head of the institutional licensing division at the department.

Smothers was told after the June 21 inspection that failure to correct the alleged violations within 30 days could result in loss of his operating license.

The June 21 report made by welfare investigator Barbara Bounds of Waco accused the home of using unnecessary punishment including name-calling threats and frequent spankings. The report was released Tuesday at the request of several news reporters.

Smothers, who operates the Malakoff home with his mother, Alice, and a younger brother, Ben, denied the accusations in the report.

Ms. Bounds said the children told her that Smothers "frequently spanks the children when he comes in on the weekends as punishment for things the children have done during the week."

"Almost every child we interviewed ... reported they had heard Mrs. Smothers call the children names," the report said.

"Several of the children told us that they had been told that Clay Smothers would spank them if they did not give us favorable reports."

Smothers later told reporters he gave some children spankings to discipline them but denied using abusive language or intimidation tactics referred to in the report.

Ms. Bounds' report said several children told her years is Andrew Young (U.S. pupils a "son of a bitch," but Smothers denied it.

"The only person I've ever called a son of a bitch in 20 years is Andrew Young (U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations)," he said.

Sports Festival Set to Begin

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — National Sports Festival II, dubbed the United States Olympics and aimed at stimulating the development of young talent, begins Thursday night with a tremendous sprinkling of the nation's outstanding competitors in 31 sports.

The festival, launched last year by Robert Kane, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, has caught on quickly. From less than 2,000 athletes in 26 sports in its inaugural, it has mushroomed into a 31-sport program with more than 2,300 competitors.

In his opening remarks to the athletes last year, Kane said, "I just hope all you athletes will some day look to this inaugural festival and think that only the Olympic games preceded it in enormity and prestige."

The festival not only is a conglomeration of sports held in the summer Olympics, but it includes such winter sports as ice hockey and figure skating and non-Olympic sports like softball, baseball, roller skating and tennis.

"This will help the smaller sports," Kane said. "It can be one of the most productive things the U.S. Olympic Committee has ever done."

The new sports added this year are yachting, roller skating, tennis, indoor speed skating and equestrian, but track and field, swimming, gymnastics and figure skating — the backbone of the summer and winter Olympics — are expected to attract the most attention.

In fact, seats for gymnastics and figure skating, two of the three sports with top admission prices of $5 — the other is equestrian — already are sold out. This, despite the withdrawal of world champion Linda Fratianne of Northridge, Calif., from the figure skating competition because of an injury.

However, the world champion pairs duo of Tai Babilonia of Mission Hills, Calif., and Randy Gardner of Los Angeles is competing, and the gymnastics field includes Kurt Thomas of Indiana State University, the gold medalist in floor exercises at the 1978 world championships, and Marcia Frederick of Milford, Conn., the first American woman to win a gold medal in the world championships, taking first in the uneven parallel bars last year.

Heading the list of track and field stars are Renaldo Nehemiah, the world record-holder in the 110-meter hurdles; four-time Olympic discus champion Al Oerter; Olympic relay gold medalists Harvey Gance, Steve Riddick and Herman Frazier; 1972 Olympic marathon champion Frank Shorter; sprinter Steve Williams and the brilliant high school sensation from Dallas, shotputter Michael Carter.

Cynthia Woodhead, winner of five gold medals at the recent Pan American Games, tops the strong swimming field, while Olympic gold medalists Phil Boggs and Greg Louganis give the diving competition world-class entrants.

Two other Olympic champions in the competition are Darrell Pace and LuAnn Ryon in archery.

Colorado Gov. Richard Lamm will officially open the festival at Thursday night's ceremonies, with the actual competition starting Friday and ending next Wednesday.

Grip Size Makes Difference

Grip size, taper and, to some extent, material are important in selection of your golf clubs.

The upper end of the grip should be sized so the last three fingers of the left hand lightly touch the heel of that hand as slight pressure is applied.

The grip tapers down to the point where it's held by the right hand. With overlapping or interlocking golf grip, the club is carried in the fingers of the right hand, and light pressure is applied by the middle and ring fingers. The thumb and index finger form a "V" that points just to the right of the chin. The grip is tapered correctly if your fingers hold the club firmly enough to guide it but not so tightly that they "power" it.

Grip size has a major effect on the golf club's balance.

Smaller-than-standard grips tend to create slightly more clubhead "feel."

Tough Slate Set For Rice

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
FORT WORTH (AP) — Ray Alborn, the strong but not-so-silent type, would dearly love to speak to the person who made out Rice's current football schedule.

The second-year Rice football coach hinted he might even like to get his hands on the guy.

"I can't locate the individual responsible for our schedule," said Alborn Wednesday at the 47th annual Texas High School Coaches Association School. "I'm serious. I can't find the guy. Nobody will own up to it."

Of course, nothing can be done about Rice's Southwest Conference schedule which is tough enough. But the anonymous schedule planner years ago also landed Louisiana State and Oklahoma as intersectional opponents.

"Playing LSU, Oklahoma and Texas on consecutive weekends is a thrill," added Alborn.

The Owls also played LSU and Oklahoma last year en route to a 2-9 season.

The enthusiastic Alborn is looking on the bright side.

"We sure could jump into national prominence if we just win one of those games," said Alborn.

"I told our alumni there are no more weak sisters in college football. I told them we've just got to think we are going to win. I made a mistake when we went to Oklahoma last year. I made an error because not once during the week did I tell our kids we were going to win. That will never happen again."

Alborn continued, "the Baylor game was the turning point for our attitude. We were beaten 58-0 by SMU on homecoming but whipped Baylor the next week. Of course, Baylor beat Texas the next week. We knew we could play after that."

Alborn, a former Rice football player himself, said the private school will still be playing in the SWC "when I'm dead and gone."

"We wouldn't have just spent $1 million on improving our facilities if we were going to check out," said Alborn.

He added "We just put in new AstroTurf. We want to have a program."

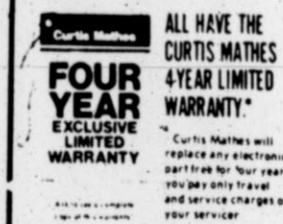

"I can think back to when I was playing and Rice was competitive every year and I think it will be that way again," said Alborn.

"With the 30 scholarship limit, you are going to see some interesting races. It's going to be like it used to be where the winner sometimes had a loss on its record. The upcoming races are going to be great for fans and writers but mighty tough on coaches."

"The reception we (Rice) have been getting is unbelievable," said Alborn. "We've got some 240 parents and kids coming in this weekend and some 200 the next."

"Of course, the academic reputation of Rice is excellent. And we are going to have a football team to match."

The annual North-South All-Star basketball game will be played at Tarrant County Convention Center Friday night and Amon Carter Stadium will be the site of the football game Saturday night.

After Two Losses In Tourney

Plainview Eliminates Hereford, 7-5

By MARC HERRING Brand Sports Editor

The odyssey ended yesterday for the Hereford 15 year old all-star team as they lost their second game of the state tournament to Plainview 7-5.

Hereford's defense, which had carried it through the regional tournament finally deteriorated, as nine errors foiled any chances of victory for the Herd.

Offensively, the locals fared better than the Plainview team, collecting six hits to Plainview's four. Of Plainview's runs, only one was earned.

Steve George, in his first start in post-season play, pitched exceptional ball for 5 1/2 innings as he struck out four, walked two and gave up three hits, all singles.

Hereford jumped to an early lead as two runs in the third frame gave the Herd a short-lived 2-1 lead. In the first three innings, George proved to be more than the bats of Plainview could handle as he did not allow a hit. The problem of errors came in the third as a base on balls put a runner on and a miscue gave Plainview its first tally.

The fourth inning proved to be the turning point for the game, as four errors allowed three runs to score, giving Plainview the lead for the first time and for good.

Hereford came back in the fifth with one run to narrow the deficit to one as Raymond Martinez singled, stole second and third and then scored on a wild throw from the catcher to third.

Along with the errors, the stranded runner syndrome had not forgotten the Hereford team, as 12 men were left on base.

The defense showed a sign of life in the bottom of the fifth as George set the side down in order, using two strikeouts and a good defensive play to stop a possible threat.

A possible threat was mounted by the Herd in the sixth inning as they loaded the bases, but once again left the score unaltered as they failed to push a run across the plate.

Plainview added three more runs in its half of the sixth, again all unearned, to take a 7-3 lead going into the seventh inning.

Seventh inning mini-rally, started by a double down the thirdbase line by Ken Cosper began to raise the Hereford fans' hopes. Two walks to Don DeLozier and Matt Collier loaded the bases, as the possible tying run came to the plate in the personage of Rod Simon.

Simon had come through for the Herd earlier as he had reached base on every attempt.

The jinx that appeared to be on the Herd team stopped Simon's streak as an infield fly was called to give the Herd one out.

Hereford got back on track as an error by the Plainview infield allowed one run to score, but then a force play at home chalked up two outs with Hereford still down by three runs.

Another error kept the hopes alive as it appeared that equality might prevail in the issuing of errors. Down two runs with the bases still loaded, Hereford finally succumbed to defeat as a flyout ended the threat and the game.

Hereford ended post-season play with a 5-3 record, including one loss suffered in the regional tournament.

The team will return home early Friday morning after spending the day at nearby Six Flags Over Texas.

Houston Astros Win Fifth Straight

HOUSTON (AP) — Although J.R. Richard's strikeout total may not show it, the normally slow-starting Houston pitcher has found it harder than usual to get his high-speed attack going this season.

He has mowed down opposing batters a major-league-leading 174 times so far this year, but the giant right-hander only has a record of 8-11 to show for it.

He was 7-11 before Wednesday night, however, when he blew down 12 Chicago batters while his teammates were banging out 12 hits as the Astros won their fifth game in a row, a 6-4 decision over Chicago.

"Finally, everything was working for me tonight...my fastball as well as my slider and change-up," Richard said. "It wasn't just one basic pitch that was good, it was my rhythm and my striding, it all came together."

He was devastating through seven innings, allowing just three Cubs to reach base, while his teammates were hitting with abandon and running wild on the basepaths. The Astros stole five bases, two of them by Jeff Leonard, and upped their hit total to 62 in their last five games.

Houston attacked loser Rick Reuschel, 9-7, immediately, scoring two runs in the first inning. Terry Puhl was hit by Reuschel on the ankle and scored on a double by Jose Cruz, who came home when Enos Cabell blooped a single to right field.

The Astros got another tally in the second. Leonard singled and stole second, then streaked for third when Alan Ashby grounded to second baseman Ted Sizemore. He threw the ball into the dirt trying to get Leonard, and the speedy Astros rightfielder scurried home on the error.

In the third, Cruz walked and moved up one base on Cabell's second single of the night. An attempted double steal drew a wild throw to third from catcher Tim Blackwell, and Cruz scored when the ball rolled into left

Montreal Takes 2-Game Lead

By FRANK BROWN

AP Sports Writer

Tony Perez strode to the plate and surveyed the field. There were two out in the ninth inning, and he represented whatever hopes the Montreal Expos had of beating San Diego.

It wasn't enough that Perez had doubled twice already and helped the Expos pull within 5-4 after trailing 4-0. As Jerry White danced off second base and Rodney Scott stepped off first, Perez looked to the outfield while awaiting a pitch from the Padres' Eric Rasmussen.

"When I come up in these situations, I feel that the pitcher is the one in trouble," said Perez.

He was right. Rasmussen was in trouble because Perez noticed Padres center fielder Gene Richards had shifted way over to right-center, "and I thought if I could hit one into the gap it would score both runners."

Right again. Rasmussen's 3-2 pitch, which could have ended the contest, was decisive in a different way: Perez sent it to the gap in left-center for his third double of the contest, two runs, and a 6-5 Montreal triumph Wednesday night.

"They were looking to me to hit one and it was a big hit for us," said Perez, who has 87 hits this season — 29 for extra bases.

And that's below his average. Of his 2,193 lifetime hits, 885 have been doubles, triples or homers.

"Perez hasn't been stinging the ball lately," observed Expos Manager Dick Williams. "He had only two runs batted in on our road trip (six games) before tonight. But he really came through when we needed him."

The victory eased the pressure somewhat on the National League East leaders, who boosted their margin to two games over Pittsburgh which lost a 6-5, 10-inning decision to the Cincinnati Reds.

In the other NL contests, the Houston Astros trimmed the Chicago Cubs 6-4, the Atlanta Braves blasted the St. Louis Cardinals 13-4, the Los Angeles Dodgers bombed the Philadelphia Phillies 16-8 and the New York Mets blanked the San Francisco Giants 3-0.

Reds 6, Pirates 5

A 10th-inning double by Heity Cruz drove in Dave Collins with the run that gave Cincinnati its rain-delayed victory over Pittsburgh.

Johnny Bench hit two homers and Joe Morgan one to aid the Reds' cause. Morgan's sixth homer of the year snapped a hitless streak of 26 at-bats.

Bench's second homer of the game tied it 5-5 in the eighth after Pittsburgh starter John Candelaria retired 16 consecutive batters.

Braves 13, Cardinals 4

Barry Bonnell's three-run triple keyed an eight-run Atlanta seventh inning and powered the Braves past the Cardinals.

Pepe Frias had three hits and three RBI in the 17-hit Atlanta attack. Joe Nofan also had three hits for the Braves.

Dodgers 16, Phillies 8

Joe Ferguson and Dusty Baker combined to drive in nine runs as Los Angeles overwhelmed Philadelphia and won its sixth game in seven.

Ferguson had five RBI with a two-run single and a three-run homer while Baker — who had a grand slam in the Dodgers' 15-3 victory Tuesday — had a two-run single and two RBI doubles.

Mets 3, Giants 0

Craig Swan's six-hitter, his second shutout of San Francisco this season, carried the Mets past the Giants.

The lowly Mets won the season series 8-4, and Swan observed: "The numbers show we don't play like this against too many teams."

Hall Of Honor Inducts Tubb

The late Gano Tubb, father of Hereford resident Mack Tubb was inducted into the Texas Coach's Hall of Honor this year for his achievements in coaching at Levelland.

Tubb coached for 35 years, all but two in Levelland. As the only coach that Levelland had for the first nine years that he coached, Tubb had a record of 639-248 while coaching basketball and a winning record in football.

In basketball, Tubb won 17 district titles and went to the state tournament three times, winning the Class A title in 1952.

Before retiring in 1973, Tubb had coached the team to district titles in three different divisions. After retirement Tubb was elected Hockley County Judge until his death in Nov. of 1976.

Tubb graduated from Southwestern Oklahoma College in Weatherford and attained the distinction of being tabbed Little All-American while playing football. He also participated in basketball for two years.

A son, Joe of Odessa, is in the coaching profession and Mack is a lawyer in Hereford after playing golf for Texas Tech University.

Grimsley's Sports Analysis

Ladies Jealous of Lopez?

Is it true that those sweet ladies on the LPGA golf tour are getting catty over the attention being lavished on Nancy Lopez?

There have been locker room whispers ever since the dark haired charmer out of Roswell, N. M., hit the scene like an exploding rocket in 1977, finishing second in the U. S. Women's Open at age 20 and going on to take the circuit by the throat in 1978.

Her accomplishments have been phenomenal — both Rookie of the Year and Player of the Year in her first season as a pro; first rookie, male or female, to win as much as $161,235; first woman to earn more than $200,000 in total money in one year; first woman ever to average less than 72 strokes a round; winner of five consecutive tournaments, nine in all; The Associated Press' Female Athlete of the Year.

As honor piled upon honor, as fans by the thousands flocked the courses just to walk in her wake, as the once humdrum female fairway show suddenly burst into a sparkle, reports of resentment among her contemporaries escalated.

Now comes an article in the August issue of Golf Digest by topflight golf journalist Dwayne Netland, who, after a tour of the tour, reports that Nancy is embroiled in a battle with the toughest foe of all — jealousy. "Some of the women feel — really feel in their hearts," Netland writes, "that the LPGA's new star is getting too much star treatment."

He says there was cheering in the locker room April 1 when Nancy missed a putt that would have won her the Women's Kemper Open at Costa, Mesa, Calif., she finally lost in a playoff.

One unidentified rival is quoted as saying, "If Nancy broke a leg, I don't think any of us would care."

Hollis Stacy, two-time U.S. Open champion, says, "We have a lot of fine golfers who aren't given enough credit."

Generally, the beef is that the press has adopted Lopez as their "darling" and that, as a result, Nancy draws the bulk of the gallery while others play in semi-privacy. There are also complaints — denied by Nancy and the LPGA — that Nancy is accorded special VIP treatment from sponsors. Grunts of chagrin were reportedly heard when Lopez was featured on both covers of the 1979 LPGA Player Guide.

"It seems petty, but LPGA commissioner Ray Volpe was concerned enough to call the lady golfers together and urge them to cool it."

"Nancy Lopez earned her dues on the leader board," he said. "She is a rare and gifted athlete with the charisma the galleries love." The bitterness is said to have subsided somewhat.

Let's hope so. Nancy Lopez, who suffered the indignities in silence, has been a rare nugget for the LPGA tour. Her skills and personality have raised women's golf to a status it never before enjoyed.

She has given women's golf the boost Arnold Palmer and his Army triggered in the men's game back in the late 1950s and 1960s. Palmer was never resented by his contemporaries, just as there's never been a gripe over the attention given Jack Nicklaus.

The ladies must adopt the attitude of the men pros, who say, "Resent Arnie? No, man. He's put money in our pockets. We all owe him a cut of every paycheck."

The Chicago Cubs had a pinch-hit batting average of .304 in 1978.

PUT A LEASH ON RABIES VACCINATE ALL CATS AND DOGS

Texas is faced with a new outbreak of Rabies this year. Texas has an abundance of beautiful wildlife — but this wildlife is spreading Rabies to our pets at an alarming rate. Protect your pet, yourself, and your neighbor. Be sure your cat and dog has its yearly vaccination.

Rabies is up 100% in Texas in 1979. Stop the spread of rabies to humans and pets by having your pet vaccinated. Do it today — tomorrow could be too late. Consult your veterinarian about any illness or death of your pet. Protect your pet from contact with wildlife, if possible. Consult your physician or local health department in case of an animal bite to you or your family.

Cowboy Camp High on Rookie

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Rookie tight end Doug Cosbie of Santa Clara is drawing praise in the Dallas Cowboy training camp, some saying he resembles Pro Bowler Billy Joe DuPree.

"I'll take that as a compliment although I know they're not saying I'm as good as Billy Joe," said Cosbie, a second-round draft choice. "I really don't see any similarities myself."

Cosbie caught 120 passes in four varsity seasons at tiny Santa Clara and the Cowboys envisioned thoughts of turning him into an offensive tackle.

"It was a shock to hear that kind of talk," said Cosbie. "I'm glad I'm working out at tight end."

Receiver Coach Mike Ditka said "We were drafting him as a quality person. He had good

The rule of caveat emptor (let the buyer beware) has long been the rule of the market. Are there new developments affecting buyers' rights?

Under the ancient rule of caveat emptor, the burden was upon the buyer to examine a property to determine if it was in fit condition for his purposes. The practice prevails in the usual purchase of land and "old" buildings or homes. However, in cases where the vendor (seller) is also the builder of a house, courts are taking a broader view, more oriented to the consumer. Recent decisions indicate that the purchaser of a newly built home or a house under construction can expect it to be completed in a workmanlike manner and to be free from gross structural defect due to faulty construction.

Texas Rally As Blue Jays Win

TORONTO (AP) — Dave Stieb didn't feel well but the Texas Rangers felt worse when the game was over.

Stieb increased his record to 3-1, with clutch late-inning relief help from Tom Buskey, in pitching the Toronto Blue Jays to an 8-3 victory over Texas on Wednesday night.

The loss for Texas, coupled with California's win over the New York Yankees, dropped the Rangers to 3 1/2 games behind the Angels in the battle for the American League West pennant.

"I didn't feel too good, not at all," said Stieb, a rookie right-hander who was playing the outfield in minor league baseball just a year ago.

The 22-year-old scattered nine hits over 71-3 innings, striking out one and walking three before 24,705 fans. Buskey relieved in the eighth to quell a Texas rally and earn his third save.

"I didn't feel like I had it," Stieb said. "My slider wasn't doing too much of anything. The fastball was decent but I was standing up a lot. It was just chaos tonight."

He had enough, though, to snap a seven-game Toronto losing streak. Stieb also had pitched the last previous Blue Jays' victory and is the lone Toronto starter with a winning record.

Buskey said Stieb has "great aggressive style" but wasn't happy about his own relief stint.

Texas had cut the Toronto lead to 5-3 on Pat Putnam's solo homer, his 13th, to lead off the eighth. One out later, Richie Zisk belted a triple but Buskey took over, walking John Grubb and then striking out Jim Sundberg and Eric Soderholm.

"I was upset at myself for walking Grubb," Buskey said. "I hate to walk people. But since I did walk him, it set up the double play situation. The two strikeouts were a different method of getting out of the inning."

Otto Velez and Rick Bosetti both hit home runs and drove in three runs each to key the Toronto offense.

Velez hit a two-run shot to left field in the first inning and Bosetti smacked a solo shot to left in the second as Toronto jumped to an early 4-1 lead.

For Velez, the home run was his 10th of the year and continued a hot hand at the plate of late. In his last eight games, Velez has hit .444 with three homers. He also had a run-scoring double in the eighth.

He has averaged one home run for every 16 at-bats this season, playing mostly on a part-time basis. He is currently filling in for regular right fielder Bob Bailor, who injured a shoulder last week.

Bosetti's homer was his sixth this year which is a personal best in the majors. He also had a single in the eighth which drove in two runs and gave him 101 hits — the first Toronto player to collect more than 100 hits this year.

Waits Keeps Faith, Throws 2-Hitter

Rick Waits found some old-time religion and, finally, he's found his old-time pitching touch.

The Cleveland Indians left-hander, who'd lost four straight games since he got married in June and five straight overall, pitched a two-hitter in blanking the Minnesota Twins 2-0 Wednesday. Through his non-productive streak, Waits never lost the faith.

"I had lost some confidence but never really lost the will to win," said Waits, Cleveland's top starter for three seasons. "I have a deep relationship with Jesus Christ and he never let me give up. Yet I struggled."

It was the Twins who struggled against Waits, going six innings without a hit before Bombo Rivera led off the seventh with a single. Glenn Borgmann singled in the ninth for the other Minnesota safety.

"It was about the fifth inning when I started thinking about it," said Waits, 10-9, who pitched his fourth shutout and second two-hitter the season. "I just said let's go out and enjoy it."

Jim Norris led off the game with a homer for Cleveland and Andre Thornton doubled in the other run in the seventh off Dave Goltz, 9-7, who threw a seven-hitter.

Elsewhere in the American League, Seattle won for the first time in Baltimore, edging the Orioles 5-4; Boston bombed Oakland 16-4; California outscored the Yankees 9-5; Detroit beat Milwaukee 8-2; Chicago stopped Kansas City 6-2, and Toronto defeated Texas 8-3.

Mariners 5, Orioles 4

Fourteen times in their three-year existence the Mariners took the field at Memorial Stadium. Fourteen times they lost. This time, they found a new way to be beaten by red-hot Baltimore, with a seven-game win streak. Leading 5-3 after scoring three times in the seventh, two on Ruppert Jones' double, the skies opened and a deluge halted the game for about an hour. If it hadn't resumed, the score would have reverted to the last full inning, making it 3-2, Baltimore.

"The longer it rained," said Jones, "the more I thought it would really be something if they pulled another one out. I thought, 'Here we go again.'"

Red Sox 16, A's 4

Jim Rice slugged two mammoth home runs, Carlton Fisk also homered and Boston had 19 hits, its biggest offensive outburst this season. Rice had three hits and five RBI. Dave Revering had three hits and a homer for Oakland.

Angels 9, Yankees 5

Nolan Ryan lasted one inning — and still struck out two men to land fifth on the all-time list with 2,854 — and Tommy John departed in the third as rookie Ralph Botting was the pitching star. Botting, who entered the game with a 21.21 ERA and left with it at 10.80, pitched 51-3 innings of one-run relief for his first major league victory.

Ray "felt something pop" in his arm while pitching to Reggie Jackson in the second and was sent back to California for X-rays.

Joe Rudi knocked in three runs and Dan Ford had three hits for California, which stretched its first-place lead in the AL West to three games over Minnesota.

White Sox 6, Royals 2

Kansas City helped the White Sox' victory by committing five errors and getting just five hits off Rich Wortham, 11-9. Bill Nahorodny knocked in three runs with a bases-loaded double in the four-run eighth.

U.S. Breaks Gold Slump In Moscow

MOWCOW (AP) — Two brief days in Moscow, one good throw out of six, and John Powell was on his way home to the United States today with the gold medal in the discus in the pre-Olympic Spartacade Games.

Powell helped the U.S. track and field team to a triple gold medal day in chilly Lenin Stadium Wednesday night, ending the United States' gold-medal shutout.

The former San Jose, Calif., Policeman descended on Moscow Monday night and had almost no time to get acclimated.

He was hopelessly off form with his first five throws, and the Americans wore glum faces. Then Powell suddenly clicked. He heaved the discus 206 feet, 9 1/2 inches to win.

"I'm glad someone asked me to come," he said as he headed for the U.S. National Sports Festival in Colorado Springs. "I think I'll come again."

Powell was not the only American winner to procrastinate Wednesday. Henry Marsh of Eugene, Ore., ran last for most of the 3,000 meters, was at least four yards behind the leader entering the straightaway, and then produced a tremendous finishing kick to win the steeplechase in 8 minutes, 28.09 seconds.

The third gold medalist was Wardell Gilbreath of Houston, who led all the way to win the 200 meters in 20.84.

Don Coleman of Eugene, Ore., was second behind Gilbreath, and 18-year-old Carl Lewis of Willingboro, N.J., finished third in the long jump. So it was a night of glory for the depleted American squad, which had struggled against adversity and failed to win a single gold medal in the first three days of competition.

Powell, 32, was the United States' No. 1 discus thrower for three years from 1973 to 1975. After the 1977 season he retired.

"I didn't even know my gold was the first for the United States," Powell said. "That makes it a double pleasure. Now I'm on my way back, and maybe I will be America's No. 1 again."

Gilbreath failed to qualify for the AAU Nationals. "Now the gold is starting to come," he said. Meanwhile, the United States track team looked forward to Friday, when it had another excellent chance to resume its quest for gold.

Sub-four-minute miler Craig Mosbach of Princeton, now at school in Europe, and relay man Cliff Wiley of the University of Kansas were expected to run the 1,500 meters. The first round of heats is set for Friday and the final for Sunday.

Spartacade is the Soviet Union's big festival and teams from the 15 republics of the Soviet Union participate. Because of next year's Olympic Games, foreign athletes were invited this year.

The triple American success Wednesday was the first real challenge to Russian supremacy.

Prosecutor Disagrees With Acquittal Ruling

HOUSTON (AP) — A prosecutor says he disagrees with a federal judge's findings that prompted an order for acquittal of two fired policemen charged with violating civil rights in a "throw down" gun case.

U.S. District Judge John V. Singleton Jr. made final arguments and jury deliberations unnecessary Wednesday by abruptly ruling the government had failed to prove the defendants had specific intent to violate the rights of Billy Keith Joyvies, 18.

Joyvies was fatally wounded on July 11, 1975, at the end of a high speed chase that began after a tool box had been stolen from a truck.

The indictment against Walter Plaster 53, and John Stephen White, 28, alleged a conspiracy to place a gun in Joyvies' car to make it appear the Houston youth was armed.

A police internal investigation later showed the gun found in the car had been traced to an officer who had been slain earlier in a gunbattle with escaped convicts.

There was conflicting testimony during the trial whether Joyvies was armed.

Singleton described the actions of Plaster and White as "improper and shocking" but said there was no conspiracy as the officers sought to protect themselves and the police department.

"The government has the duty to produce sufficient evidence to prove beyond a reasonable doubt each of them had the specific intent to violate a right of Billy Keith Joyvies was guaranteed," Singleton said. "The evidence in this case does not support any reasonable inference either officer had this intent."

Calvin Botley, the chief prosecutor, said he differs with such findings.

"His findings were the defendants' conduct was shocking, but their purpose was to cover themselves and the police department, not to violate Joyvies' civil rights," Botley said.

Mary Sinderson, head of the U.S. attorney's civil rights division, said investigations of such cases will continue.

"We are, of course, disappointed to lose a case, but it will not slow down our investigations," she said.

Two members of the jury that never got to deliberate indicated agreement with Singleton.

"My feelings were running about the same as the judge," said F.D. Utsey. "Joyvies was dead or near dead and I don't feel you can violate the rights of a dead man."

Singleton talked with several jurors, including Ralph Sheets, outside the courtroom after announcing his ruling.

"I didn't see any evidence against them," Sheets said. "We were all in agreement. Everyone had the same idea I had."

Joanna Joyvies, mother of the dead youth, did not seem surprised by the outcome but said she thought the trial made it clear "Billy didn't have a gun."

Without elaborating, Mrs.

Joyvies said she had not expected too much "because of what has happened in other cases."

This was an apparent reference to two earlier federal court trials in which five other fired Houston officers were involved in civil rights violation charges.

In a similar "throw down" case, former officers Danny H. Mays, 32, and Norval Wayne Holloway, 28, received five-year suspended sentences on May 14, with U.S. District Judge Finis Cowan saying they already had been punished enough.

The two officers had been found guilty of charges of lying to a federal grand jury while covering up the fact Randall Alan Webster, 17, Shreveport, La., was unarmed when he was shot to death in a 1977 high speed chase that began after a van had been reported stolen.

The gun found in the Webster vehicle was traced to the police property room, where records indicated it had been destroyed after it had been acquired in the investigation of a suicide.

The Justice Department has appealed sentences given by U.S. District Judge Ross N. Sterling in February, 1978, to three officers who were found guilty in the case of Joe Campos Torres, 21, who drowned in Buffalo Bayou while in police custody.

Sterling sentenced Terry Wayne Denson, Stephen Orlando, and Joseph Janish to five-years on probation for civil rights violations and to one-year in prison on charges of beating Torres.

The Justice Department, contending Sterling did not have authority to suspend the probation sentences, has appealed to the full 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Gas Prices Average 1.7% Hike in State

HOUSTON (AP) — The price of gasoline is still climbing toward $1 a gallon, and this week it increased an average of 1.7 cents per gallon in Texas, the American Automobile Association reports. Last week the average increase was 1.3 cents.

In its weekly survey of 420 Texas service stations, AAA also found slightly fewer service stations are open at night and more are limiting purchases or are out of at least one grade of fuel.

Statewide 23 percent of the stations are open after 8 p.m. weekdays, while 39 percent will be open after 6 p.m. Saturday. Last week, 26 percent were open week nights, with 43 percent open Saturday night.

Talking with service station owners, AAA reports the decrease in night availability is partly caused by stations operating longer during the day. Others say they are closing nights to save gas for Saturday and Sunday.

Although the statewide figure for Sunday fuel availability stayed the same this week - 30 percent of the stations expected to be open - several cities, such as Austin, Corpus Christi and Houston show an increase in Sunday availability.

Twenty percent of the stations in Austin, 50 percent in Corpus Christi and 21 percent in Houston say they will be open this Sunday. The corresponding percentages for last week were 14, 45 and 19.

As July fuel allocations begin to run out, 7 percent of the stations surveyed reported that they are out of at least one grade of fuel, compared to 3 percent last week.

Also, 8 percent of the stations say they are limiting purchases (not counting stations under the odd-even sales plan), compared to 2 percent last week.

AAA reports stations along Interstate highways in small towns and rural areas still have good fuel supplies, and travelers should have few problems finding gas, except at night in big cities.

Gasoline prices continued their upward spiral, with self-service premium gas showing the highest increase, up 2.5 cents to 91.4 cents per gallon.

Current average full-service prices (last week's average in parentheses) are: Regular 87.9 cents per gallon (86.2); unleaded 91.8 (89.9); and premium 92.4 (91.7).

Average self-service prices are: Regular 85.5 cents per gallon (83.9); unleaded 89.3 (87.6); and premium 91.4 (88.9).

The average price of diesel fuel rose from 89.7 to 90.8 cents per gallon.

In the United States, some 98 percent of all households have television, more than three-quarters of them color sets. About half the homes have two TV sets.

Though the Americans travel to British tournaments, the teams rarely consist of "all-stars." Rather, says Lockwood, they are made up of "those who can afford to go."

As an airline employee, Lockwood can fly free to tournaments. He has even commuted on weekends to England.

Legislators Attending California Conference

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Almost 50 Texas legislators are attending the National Conference of State Legislatures meeting this week in San Francisco, with the state paying most of the bill.

The Senate secretary said a total of 18 senators made the trip.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby did not attend.

The Speakers office said Speaker Bill Clayton and a delegation of House members attended but was unable to finish a list of representatives.

The Austin American-Statesman said that staff members of the national conference said 49 state legislators and 48 staff members had signed up for the four-day conference. Only 17 legislators and 10 staff members attended a similar Denver conference last year, the newspaper said.

Texas contributes $84,000 annually to the conference as membership dues. There also was a $90 pre-registration fee for each legislator of staff member. Conference staff members said most legislators and staff members pay the individual fees, with the state paying for the hotel rooms, which range from $24 to $65 per day. Senators signed up for the trip, according to the Senate office, were Sens. Roy Blake, Nacogdoches; Chet Brooks, Pasadena; Lloyd Doggett, Austin; Ray Farabee, Wichita Falls; Ike Harris, Dallas; Ed Howard, Texarkana; Gene Jones, Houston; Grant Jones, Abilene; Raul Longoria, Edinburg; Peyton McKnight, Tyler; Walter Mengden, Houston; Bill Moore, Bryan; A.R. Schwartz, Galveston; E.L. Short, Tahoka; Pete Snelson, Midland; John Traeger, Seguin; Carlos Truan, Corpus Christi; and Bob Vale, San Antonio.

Tiddlywinks Isn't Just Child's Play

LA SALLE, Ill. (NEA) — Recognize the terms "squidger," "nurdle," "piddle" and "squoop"?

Then how about "tiddlywinks"?

Ah, yes. That childish game of flipping plastic discs into a cup.

Perhaps at age 5 it was childish.

But 25-year-old David Lockwood, an economic forecaster for a major U.S. airline, is committed to the game. He is one of its estimated 200 devotees in the United States and England.

Last year he won the North American tiddlywinks championship.

Lockwood says tiddlywinks is a way of bringing "the ridiculous" into his life.

"It combines the elements of golf — putting and potting out," Lockwood explains. "It draws elements from chess strategy."

"But at its purest level, tiddlywinks is tougher than chess because of its estimation of probabilities. In chess, you know the possibilities because you know what each piece can do. Tiddlywinks is probabilistic; it depends on your ability."

Far from just flipping six colored plastic discs into a cup, Lockwood plays a 20- to 25-minute game of strategy, covering and maneuvering winks against another player. (There is also team competition in which two pairs of players pit their abilities against one another.)

Lockwood admits the game is "not interesting at the novice level — you can't get into strategy if you can't execute the shots."

The shots, yes, the shots. They include the piddle or freeing of a friendly wink, the squop or covering of an opponent's wink, and the nurdle, when a shot leaves a wink too close to the cup.

Lockwood has five squidgers — large plastic discs used to flip the smaller winks.

As in the children's version of the game, play ends when all the winks are flipped into the cup. Lockwood holds the record for most shots potted without a miss — 72.

Lockwood took up tiddlywinks in earnest in 1972 as an engineering undergraduate at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He has since spent hours a day practicing potting and other shots oddly described in the arcane language of the game.

Last November he was even pictured in People magazine.

"As a result of that, I now have an agent," he laughs.

According to Lockwood, most U.S. tiddlywinks players are from the New York-Boston area. There is a good-natured competition among them, he adds.

Though the Americans travel to British tournaments, the teams rarely consist of "all-stars." Rather, says Lockwood, they are made up of "those who can afford to go."

As an airline employee, Lockwood can fly free to tournaments. He has even commuted on weekends to England.

It was that mobility, he says, that caused his selection as head of the International Federation Tiddlywinks Associations.

There is no money involved in tiddlywinks — yet. Lockwood and other U.S. players are trying to establish tournament prizes of up to $1,000. The British, however, are opposed to prize money and expanding the game, fearing "the element" that might be drawn into it.

In contrast, Lockwood looks forward to the popularization of his favorite pastime. The next step, he says, will be production of a game called "Tournament Tiddlywinks."

He hopes people will then begin to see tiddlywinks as serious adult entertainment much like chess or backgammon.

Hindu Temple Draws Worshipers

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Each week a hundred worshipers climb a winding dirt road to a hilltop outside Pittsburgh and pay homage to the god Vishnu in the nation's largest Hindu temple.

The Sri Venkateswara temple, little more than a year old, grew from a shrine in a store basement built by uprooted Hindus who settled here in the 1960s. It now attracts pilgrims from all over the United States and Canada, according to Rajashri Gopal, a temple trustee and founder.

"On holiday weekends, we may have 600 to 700 visitors daily," Mrs. Gopal said.

The gleaming white structure, with its 50-foot entrance tower, is modeled after a temple in Tirumala, India, in the southern state of Andhra Pradesh. Native craftsmen labored nearly two years with granite and wood from India to build the more than $800,000 monument.

Mrs. Gopal and her husband Raj wanted to plant the Hindu faith among Indians here and preserve it for future generations.

"During the '60s most of the Indians who came here were students. By the end of the '60s they had settled down and wanted to fill the vacuum left by our 5,000-year-old culture," Mrs. Gopal said.

Mrs. Gopal estimates about 1,000 Indian families, 80 percent of them Hindu, live in this area.

The nation's only other Indian Hindu temple is a smaller one in Flushing, N.Y., though others are planned in Houston, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Wappingers Falls, N.Y.

In 1971, with a handful of devotees, the couple, who moved here in 1962 from southern India, dedicated a small temple in a store basement and began working to create an authentic house of worship. It was ready in the spring of 1978.

Help came from both the mother temple and the state of Andhra Pradesh, though about half the needed money was donated by more than 4,000 Indians in the United States.

"The temple is open seven days a week to all who want to enter. In India, people make pilgrimages to temples from a thousand miles away," she said.

The innermost sanctuary holds a life-sized granite figure of Vishnu, one of the three Hindu manifestations of God. The four-armed statue draped in richly colored silks is ceremoniously bathed each week and anointed with sacred perfumes by priest Manaveya Iyengar.

"Hinduism is basically monotheistic. It is a mistaken idea that the Hindus have many gods, although on the surface it looks that way," Mrs. Gopal said.

"We believe in the eternal One, who is revealed in many ways and can be worshipped in many ways."

The Sri Venkateswara is a replica of its model in all ways but one, Mrs. Gopal said. Since a natural setting is important to Hindus, temples in India are open on two sides.

But the western Pennsylvania temple had to be enclosed because of the harsh winters here, she said.

Airplane Cover Flies All Sizes

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP) — The interest Ralph Burnstine developed in model airplanes as a child grew along with him.

As he got bigger, so did the planes. Now he has the best of both worlds, flying planes for real and building models for real.

Burnstine said he started building model airplanes several decades ago when he was 8 or 9 years old in his home town of Springfield, Ill.

Now, when he isn't working as a corporate pilot for an Erie County industrial firm, he is either building model planes in the basement of his Catawba Island home or showing and flying his model planes in competition.

In 1955 he got a commercial pilot's license at the University of Illinois and has since worked at a variety of aviation jobs. When he isn't shuttling passengers in his company's turbo-prop craft, he usually is at home working on the models. His enthusiasm is put to the test when he considers that it might take 2,000 to 3,000 hours to build a model airplane.

So far, he has constructed 15 such models.

"It takes a minimum of a year," he said. "There aren't enough spare hours to do it in less. And first you have to be attracted to a particular kind of airplane. If you're not, you could never spend the tremendous amount of time required to finish it."

He prefers wood models to the plastic variety now on the market.

The Caribbean island of Curacao became a duty-free port in 1829.

THE HOT DOG VENDOR

There was a man who lived by the side of the road and sold hot dogs.

He sold very good hot dogs.

He put up signs along the highway and advertised in the newspaper telling how good they were.

He stood on the side of the road and cried:

"Buy a hot dog, Mister?"

And people bought.

He increased his meat and bun orders.

He bought a bigger stove to take care of his trade.

He finally got his son home from college to help him out.

But then something happened.

His son said, "Father, haven't you been listening to the radio and watching TV?"

There's a big depression.

The foreign situation is terrible.

The domestic situation is worse."

Whereupon the father thought,

"Well, my son's been to college, he listens to the radio and watches TV and he ought to know."

So the father cut down on his meat and bun orders, took down his signs and cancelled his newspaper ads and no longer bothered to stand out oh, the highway to sell his hot dogs.

And his hot dog sales fell almost overnight.

"You're right, son" the father said to the boy.

"We certainly are in the middle of a great depression."

Historical Gift

Brenda Hardisty, left, and Debra Neal of the Genealogy Society admire a set of books on the history of Missouri given anonymously to the County Library. Also shown is main librarian

Clothing the Skeleton in the Closet

By GARTH B. THOMAS

President, Deaf Smith County Genealogy Society

Garage sales can be a godsend to some people especially to the Deaf Smith County Genealogical Society. Nine books were graciously donated to the Deaf Smith County Genealogical Society for the library. These books have already proven to be a great asset as one member found an ancestor within ten minutes of browsing within the pages of the books. There is a five volume set of MISSOURI & MISSOURIANS that gives brief biographical sketches of the pioneers of Missouri. The other books consist of: MISSOURI STATE CAPITAL; HISTORY OF CHARITON & HOWARD COUNTIES! THE OFFICIAL MAN-

UCL-STATE OF MISSOURI; and "I'M FROM MISSOURI." These books were donated anonymously and this is the only way we have of letting the individual know that we are very grateful and that the books are now in the library.

Many times people have in their private libraries a wealth of information for genealogists and not realizing this, they may do away with these treasures. If anyone has such a treasure and would like to share or preserve it, contact the Deaf Smith County Genealogical Society through: Garth Thomas (364-2913); Mrs. Brenda Hardisty (364-0847) or Mrs. Debra Neal (364-4629).

Ann Landers

Camera Bugs

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I think I will scream if I go to one more children's program where some eager parent gets up with his camera and fires off a flashbulb.

These people are morons. First of all, it's downright impolite to the rest of the audience. Secondly, why don't they understand that a flashbulb is only good for five to eight feet on a simple camera? Do they honestly think their flash can light up a whole stage from a distance of 25 feet?

I once saw a nut disturb a Van Cliburn concert at Interlochen by firing off a series of flash pictures with his little Instamatic. I confess I did get a lot of satisfaction at the look of disappointment on his stupid face when he saw the blank pictures and realized his flash didn't make it.

Please, Ann, tell the dummies who go to public affairs to leave the photography to the professionals and save their amateur efforts for family reunions.--Alma, Michigan Reader

DEAR ALMA: Thank you for saying something that needed to be said. I've seen people walk to the front of an auditorium to take flash pictures of the speaker. It's not only rude but can be extremely disconcerting.

I hope the guilty ones get THIS picture.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A while back I read in your column the following words: "It's uphill life for 18-wheeler wife." I'm married to one of those types--only I'm not a trucker's wife, I'm a trucker's husband! Life plays funny tricks but I still can't figure out how my wife ended up driving an 18-wheeler and I turned out to be a hairdresser. (We are both straight, in case you are getting any funny ideas.)

When my "liberated" doll gets home I wish she'd forget about setting a track record for a 33-hour round-trip to Texas. But she loves her work, and there is no way she will consider doing anything else.

I'm ironing curtains today and the trucker in our family is leaving for a week on the road. It's not a bad life because both of us are doing what we really enjoy. And isn't it nice that we aren't considered freaks? Twenty years ago they would have locked us both up! Long live the new lifestyle!--Content in El Paso

DEAR EL PASO: If you and your wife are satisfied, it's nobody's business. Just don't scorch the ruffles, Bub.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I wish you would please stop printing those confidential messages at the end of your column. They have caused me a lot of trouble.

Twice in one month a woman I work with has accused me of humiliating her by writing to you. The first time, the city we live in was mentioned. The second time, you referred to her by initials. I realize it was an unfortunate coincidence, but there is no way I can convince her of that.

I'm sure you don't want to create trouble for innocent people so please stop it.--Not Guilty In Torrance

DEAR TORRANCE: Sorry, but it happens all the time and there's nothing I can do about it. The same goes for letters. Nearly every day I hear from readers who are upset because I printed "their" problem. Actually they are mistaken. Many people have similar problems, and it shall be ever thus.

Coffee Honors Recent Bride

The bride of Ted McWhorter was honored Saturday morning with a postnuptial coffee at the Country Club, where approximately 85 guests called. Mrs. McWhorter is the former Cherry Holt.

Greeting guests with the honoree were her mother, Mrs. Earl Holt and her mother-in-law, Mrs. D.C. McWhorter. Also present was the bride's sister, Virginia McWhorter, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Dan McWhorter.

Refreshments were served from a table centered with a large bouquet of yellow and blue daisies mixed with greenery and lemons.

Hostesses were Mes. Gaylord Newell, Jerry Don George, Troy Moore, Earnest Langley, Bobby Veigel and Ansel McDowell.

The couple, who were married in the Earl Holt home on June 2, are at home at 115 Pecan St.

Consumer Food News Report For August

COLLEGE STATION — Best buys at Texas grocery markets this week include poultry, pork and some fresh fruits and vegetables.

Also, "specials" in frozen food chests and along grocery market aisles offer budget-stretching menu items, according to Gwendolyn Clyatt, a consumer marketing information specialist.

Mrs. Clyatt is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

POULTRY — Special prices appear on fryer chickens—whole, cut-up and split. Also, legs and thighs have low prices, and mixed parts offer a good value.

Eggs have reasonable prices, and turkey is a feature in some markets.

PORK — Best buys are hams, bacon, quarter-loins cut into chops, Boston butts, loin roasts, smoked picnics and liver.

FRESH FRUITS — Attractive prices signal good buys on bananas, cantaloupe and watermelon. Watch prices carefully on soft summer fruits — they have varying price levels.

These include peaches, plums, cherries, nectarines and grapes.

Also, varying prices appear on honeydew melons and avocados.

FRESH VEGETABLES — Budget items are cabbage, cooking greens, cucumbers, peppers, onions and potatoes, along with soft-shell squash and okra.

Moderate prices appear on carrots, snap beans, corn, radishes, and green onions, as well as several varieties of southern peas—including black-eye, purple hull and cream.

FROZEN FOODS — Specials include orange juice, lemonade, vegetables, fried chicken and sherbet.

GROCERY MARKET AISLES — Feature prices appear on canned fruits and vegetables, breakfast cereal, tomato juice, elbow macaroni and sandwich fixings.

DAIRY — Specials are varied with much emphasis on lowfat milk, half and half, sour cream, whipping cream, cheese slices, cottage cheese and mild cheddar cheeses.

CONSUMER WATCHWORDS: Take special care of long white potatoes—newly dug and quick-to-spoil without proper attention.

These potatoes, in good volume with low prices, have thin skins, so buy only enough for a few days and be careful not to bruise them.

Rule Of Thumb Used In Buying Freezer

COLLEGE STATION — Consumers should carefully consider costs and benefits before determining which freezer option best suits their needs, advises Nancy Granovsky, a family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Many consumers probably buy larger freezers than they need, she says.

One rule of thumb suggests that about two and one-half cubic feet of freezer space is adequate per family member. That would mean that a family of four would need only about 10 cubic feet.

The typical 17 cubic foot refrigerator/freezer has approximately four cubic feet, so the remaining household freezer need would be for about seven cubic feet.

Therefore, some of the compact freezers on the market could serve the needs of many four-member households at a lower initial cost and a lower operating cost than the larger freezers, the specialist suggests.

Larger freezers use more than 1000 kilowatts yearly—more than a radio, TV, dishwasher and washing machine combined. If a large freezer is not filled to capacity, extra money is wasted to keep the area cold.

Chest freezers use less energy than upright models because less air escapes when the chest lid is lifted than when the upright door is opened.

Where the freezer is located will influence energy consumption also. A 15-cubic-foot frost-free freezer will consume about 24 percent more energy when the room temperature is 90 degrees F. than when it is 70 degrees F.

When the room temperature is over 90 degrees F., the energy use of the freezer will double, Mrs. Granovsky explains.

Because of space limitations, many larger freezers are located in garages or non-air-conditioned utility areas, whereas compact freezers may fit more conveniently into the air-conditioned areas of the home.

One alternative to home freezers is commercially available freezer space which can be rented on a monthly or annual basis.

The cost would be lower than the investment and operating costs of a home freezer, but the inconvenience and lack of flexibility may not suit every family's needs.

Careful planning is necessary to organize the freezer contents, to maintain an up-to-date inventory, and to minimize the travel between home and freezer locker locations.

New Rates Give Savers a Break

COLLEGE STATION — Small savers are getting a "break," starting July 1, according to Nancy Granovsky, a family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

NEW RATES, CHANGES — Savings accounts now can pay one-fourth of a percent more, and high-interest certificates are easier to obtain — all because of new federal financial regulations.

PASSBOOK SAVINGS ACCOUNTS AT BANKS — Maximum rates on these now can be up to 5 1/4 percent.

PASSBOOK SAVINGS ACCOUNTS AT SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATIONS — Rates now can be up to 5 1/2 percent.

CERTIFICATES OF DEPOSIT — Both banks and savings and loan associations now can issue new four-year certificates that could earn up to 8.56 percent a year at a savings and loan association and 8.28 percent at a commercial bank.

POOLING FOR HIGH-INTEREST CERTIFICATES — Another change permits pooling.

That means several small savers can pool their funds and buy a high-interest certificate of deposit jointly.

STUDY YOUR SAVINGS — This is an excellent time for consumers to re-evaluate their savings accounts, Mrs. Granovsky advises.

Watch the ads and ask your financial institution how these rate increases will affect your savings accounts, she says.

ASK QUESTIONS — Ask the right questions — and comparison shop for savings accounts just as you do for other goods and services.

Ask plenty of questions and understand how earnings will be figured.

You may decide to switch your funds to another institution.

Here are some questions to ask:

1) What is the annual percentage rate? The higher the rate, the greater the interest-earning potential.

2) What is the annual percentage yield? The higher the yield, the more profitable for you, provided other conditions are to your advantage.

3) How often is interest compounded — and what is the rate per compounding period? The more often it's compounded — and the higher the rate per period, the greater the interest.

Be sure you compare daily rates to daily rates — or quarterly rates with quarterly rates — or the effect will be like comparing apples to oranges.

4) What method is used to compute savings? "Day of deposit to day of withdrawal" or "day-in, day-out" is the most advantageous system to consumers.

Some other methods do not result in maximum earnings. They include such methods as "LIFO," "FIFO" or "low-balance" methods.

5) When are earnings posted to the account?

6) When are earnings available to the customer?

7) What happens if the account is closed before the end of an interest-paying period?

Will any interest be lost?

8) Does the account have grace days?

Grace days offer a few days extra interest by paying interest on amounts for a few days before they are actually deposited.

9) How many fee withdrawals are permitted each period — and what is the charge for excess withdrawals?

Some institutions may charge anywhere from 25 cents to $1.50 for excess withdrawals.

10) Does the account have any other features that affect earnings, such as a minimum-deposit or a minimum-balance requirement?

Seafood Requires Special Handling

COLLEGE STATION — Seafood, whether oysters, shrimp or fish, requires extra special care, and any lapses in this special care can be disastrous, says a seafood consumer education specialist, Annette Reddell.

Ms. Reddell is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Once the consumer leaves the store, the investment must be protected, or all the careful handling leading up to the purchase could be for nothing.

Ms. Reddell offers these suggestions to keep consumers satisfied with what they buy:

First, if you buy fresh seafood, serve fresh seafood.

Don't try to freeze it, or the premium price paid to get it fresh will be wasted.

If you want or need frozen seafood, there are many excellent commercial items available. These products were quick-frozen by professionals using equipment much more effective than the average home freezer.

When you do use frozen seafood, proper thawing is important. The best way is under cold, running water—never warm water.

Thaw it just enough for the pieces to separate easily.

Teen Dances Scheduled Two Nights

Two disco dances are planned here this weekend for local teenagers.

On Friday night, Shotgun Kelly will be presenting the disco music for a Catholic Youth Organization dance in the Knights of Columbus Hall. The dance will begin at 8:30 p.m. and end at 12:30 a.m. Admission will cost $3 per single and $5 per couple.

On Saturday, a disco dance will be held at the Community Center from 9 p.m. - 1 a.m. Music will be presented by Dayton Todd. Tickets will be sold at the door for $3 per person and $5 for couples.

We gotta have faith

Maybe he will be able to pull it off. After all, there were those who laughed — and even more who paid no attention whatsoever — when he set out four years ago to become president.

Jimmy Carter has demonstrated that he is capable of accomplishing the unlikely. Maybe he will be able to do it again on a much vaster scale, rallying Americans to his crusade against the energy crisis and in the process leading the nation to a moral and spiritual regeneration.

Maybe Jimmy Carter, who promises leadership, will be able to do this. But promises are one thing, delivery something else entirely. As it is, he is initially raising more questions than he is answering in the serial unfolding of details of his $142 billion master plan.

The president may be able to answer these and many more questions as his road show continues. And he did warn that the struggle would not be easy. To achieve our freedom, he said, we must have faith — miles and miles of faith, it would appear, to paraphrase the ditty from "Damn Yankees."

QUOTE/UNQUOTE

"I'm not running for office so I can also be intelligent." Alfred Kahn, assistant to the president on inflation, who has been known to speak his mind about the U.S. economy despite the consequences.

"Don't you think it would be more appropriate to have something mountainous?" Clifford "Bo" Henry, a state legislator, questioning the effort in Tennessee to name a flat section of U.S. 411 "Dolly Parton Highway." The bosomy country music star lives nearby.

"I'm acknowledging the tape is blank. How and why it's blank I don't know." David Venz, TWA spokesman, discussing a crucial portion of an in-flight recording from a jetliner that plunged five miles before making an emergency landing in Detroit. None of the 80 passengers was injured badly.

"The Secretary of State was riding around in it and he discovered he liked all the leg room so he just decided to keep it." Hodding Carter III.

"I can't help myself. I'll do it again when I feel like it." Janet Dyson, 43, who was convicted as a snoop in Barnsley, England, and fined $150 for peering into her neighbors' doorways and letter slots.

"Did anyone get that storm's number? It wasn't around long enough to get a name." A resident of Boston's Beacon Hill, after a harsh, unexpected squall of sleet, hail, rain and snow whipped through the New England states.

"Every dollar that you take in addition to present taxes is a dollar less for oil." Charles DiBona, president of the American Petroleum Institute, blasting President Carter's proposed "windfall" profits tax on oil company earnings after price controls are lifted.

Florida's Booming Sales Due To Foreign Money

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP) — This is the boom or bust state. Right now, Florida is booming. It is apparent in the rapid sales of the neat, pastel-painted homes in Villages of Homestead which claims to be the southernmost, newest and possibly largest land development in the state.

You can see it driving past the renovated Argosy Motel in Miami Beach, or at the massive One Biscayne Tower office building that dominates Miami's skyline and is helping revitalize the city.

Shoppers are crowding the Grand Union stores at burgeoning shopping centers, factory workers are on overtime at the Northern Telecom and Oki electronics factories.

And in central Florida, with prices exploding upwards for phosphates, the W.R. Grace Co. and Gardiner Inc. plants are busily producing the fertilizer ingredient.

Not only are these businesses contributing to Florida's boom times. They have something else in common: all are completely or partially foreign-owned. They are part of an investment of well over $1 billion by more than 40 nationalities. And they are eagerly courted.

"We're delighted to have everyone here," said L.W. Llewellyn, executive director of the Economic Development Group of the Greater Miami Chamber of Commerce. "We have a real boom going. They've brought about a complete change in our economy."

Florida's quest of foreign monies is a change from the attitude of midwestern states and some congressmen who fear that a foreign buying binge might subvert America's economy and political life.

Iowa has banned foreign buying of land to farm. Oklahoma is considering enforcing a constitutional ban on alien ownership of any land in the state because of suspected economic domination by foreign interests. Congressional hearings have spotlighted critics who believe the $40 billion in direct foreign investment in the United States might hurt the country.

But not Florida. "The more foreign investment the more dynamic we become," said Mira Wilkins, an economist at Florida International University whose book "Foreign Enterprise in Florida" has become the definitive work on the subject.

She said Florida was less hospitable a decade ago when it relied almost entirely on tourist dollars. For instance, the state in 1972 banned foreign corporations from entering banking.

But according to Mrs. Wilkins the mood changed during the recession of 1975 when tourism and real estate sales dried up. "They realized they had to diversify the economy," Mrs. Wilkins said, and a major target was the foreign investor.

Initially competing for business in the Southeast with other sunbelt states such as Alabama and Georgia, Florida businessmen realized that our main markets were more in Central and South America," said Llewellyn.

The efforts paid off in a flood of South American investment that is part of a current building boom of $9.6 billion worth of hotels, condominiums, hospitals, factories and other establishments, each valued at more than $1 million.

Thirteen foreign banks are now located in Miami. Nine-hundred flights a week come into Miami from foreign cities. More than 100 multinational corporations have located in Coral Gables, making that city in its relationship to Latin America the same as Hong Kong is to the Far East and Brussels is to Europe.

A free trade zone, at 860,000 square feet the largest in the world, has opened west of the Miami airport, and it is 100 percent rented.

But the largest single nationality investing in Florida is not a South American country but Canada.

Mrs. Wilkins said Florida is sometimes called "Canada's southern province." Well over $100 million has been spent by Canadians in aluminum manufacturing, newspapers in Key West and Punta Gorda, old people's homes in St. Petersburg, in paper plants, banks and real estate.

The Homestead housing development, which envisages at least 3,000 homes at an ultimate cost of something around $1 billion, is jointly financed by Canadian and West German money.

Much Canadian investment is small, like the Argosy Motel, "the motel with a heart." Mike and Irena Rudan bought the motel, at Miami Beach's Collins Avenue, two years ago because they were tired of the Canadian cold.

"We started coming down here on vacation," said Mrs. Rudan who ran bars and discos at Niagara Falls. They bought the 60-room motel in 1977, attracting French Canada guests in the winter and Latin Americans in the summer.

Complaints about foreign investment are rare in Florida. Mrs. Wilkins recalls one letter sent to the governor complaining that the rent on a Canadian-owned apartment building might be going out of the country. "The general mood in the state is favorable, very favorable," she said.

Little Middle East oil money has been spent in Florida so far, possibly because of its heavy Jewish population. Much of the criticism of the Arabs has come from Jewish groups.

But even petrodollars seem acceptable. The One Biscayne Tower office building was purchased by a Saudi entrepreneur Abdul Lateef Jameel and his sons for $49.1 million. Once a white elephant, the 40-story building is now bursting with clients. "We love Arab money as much as anyone else's," said Llewellyn.

COMMUTING POSES NO energy problem for Friendly and Blackie, a pair of white-handed gibbons living on two islands at New York's Bronx Zoo. A quick tightrope walk across the water or swing through the trees easily gets them from one island to the other.

Court Allows Lower Taxes For Insurance Companies

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court today issued a decision that means lower taxes for many insurance companies and reduced operating income for the State Insurance Board.

Immediate winners were Allstate Insurance Co., which had paid $6 million in gross premiums taxes under protest, American Automobile Insurance Co., $380,000 and Associated Indemnity Corp., $275,000.

The three companies had challenged part of the board's method for calculating the tax.

The Supreme Court did not write a new opinion but said it found "no reversible error" in a 3rd Court of Civil Appeals (Austin) ruling that the board had not followed state law in calculating the tax.

Gross premiums taxes range from 1.1 percent to 3.85 percent, depending on the extent to which insurers have invested their assets in Texas.

The board computes the tax by comparing Texas investments with those in the state where a company has invested the bulk of its funds.

In Allstate's case, the board made its comparison with Delaware, the state where most of the companies in which Allstate owned stock had incorporated. The result was that Allstate was charged the maximum tax of 3.85 percent of its gross premiums.

A similar tax was levied against the other two companies based on the same formula.

But the appeals court said the board could not include corporate stocks and bonds in its comparisons, meaning Allstate's proper tax rate for the years in question, 1972 and 1975, was 1.1 percent.

The court said the test was whether an investment has a direct and beneficial relationship to the Texas economy.

"Investment in the stock of a corporation whose only contact with a state is that it is the state of incorporation does not provide sufficient benefit to the economy of the state," the court said.

During the recent legislative session, the House passed a bill that would have ratified the insurance board taxing formula but it died in the Senate.

Oder Law Upheld By Court

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Stockyard odors are not "natural" if the stockyard happens to be surrounded by homes and businesses, the Texas Supreme Court ruled Wednesday.

The court, without writing a new opinion, upheld lower court decisions that Southwest Livestock and Trucking Co. of Del Rio must comply with a state odor abatement order.

Southwest appealed to the courts after the Texas Air Control Board told it in 1976 to do a better job of controlling the smell of its livestock pens or shut down.

The pens hold as many as 5,000 cattle, sheep and goats at one time. Southwest contended the odor was not air pollution because state law defines air pollution as contaminants "produced by processes other than natural."

All-Star Game Gives NBC Top Show

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An estimated 18 million Americans tuned in to the "50th Annual Baseball All-Star Game" July 17, giving NBC its first top-ranked show this year in the national Nielsen ratings.

But the All-Star game and a CHiPs rerun at the No. 16 slot were NBC's only entries in the top 20 for the week that ended Sunday, and CBS remained top banana with an overall average of 14.7 in the ratings released Tuesday.

CBS has finished or tied for first in four of the last five weeks. ABC, continuing its ongoing game of tagalong, had a 14.5 average for the week while NBC trailed with 13.9.

The last time NBC had a No. 1 show was on Oct. 17, 1978, and it was also a baseball game, the final contest of the Dodgers-Yankees World Series.

Although ABC had five of the top 10 shows — six, if you count the tie between "Mork & Mandy" and "Laverne & Shirley" at the No. 10 position — two CBS telecasts, the "Miss Universe Pageant" and a rerun of "The Jeffersons," took second and third place, respectively.

The A.C. Nielsen Co. bases its ratings on a survey in which each rating point represents about 750,000 homes. The ratings are used by networks to determine advertising rates.

Last week's top 10 shows and their ratings, as announced by Nielsen:

1. "50th Annual Baseball All-Star Game," 24.4 (NBC); 2. "Miss Universe Pageant," 22.7 (CBS); 3. "The Jeffersons," 20.7 (CBS); 4. "Three's Company," 20.7 (ABC); 5. "Fantasy Island," 19.7 (ABC); 6. "Alice," 19.2 (CBS); 7. "Taxi," 18.7 (ABC); 8. "Sunday Night Movie: 'War Games,'" 18.6 (ABC); 9. "Dallas," 18.4 (CBS); 10. "Mork & Mandy," 18.0 (ABC).

At the bottom end of the ratings were three ABC reruns: "Operation Petticoat," with a 6.7 rating; "Hardy Boys Mysteries," 6.3; and "Battlerast Galactica," which finished 60th with a 6.1 rating.

- The rest of the bottom 10:
51. "Friday Night Movie: 'Reincarnation of Peter Proud,'" 10.0 (ABC); 52. "The Lovebirds," 9.3 (CBS); 53. "The Paper Chase," 9.2 (CBS); 54. "Good Times," 9.1 (CBS); 55. "NBC Special Report: The Day They Landed," 9.1 (NBC); 56. "Project UFO," 9.0 (NBC); 57. "Saturday Night Movie: 'Animal Crackers,'" 8.6 (CBS).

Inmate Given Right To Sue

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A state prison inmate who was injured while on a work detail at Huntsville State Park Wednesday won the right to sue the Texas Department of Corrections.

The Texas Supreme Court upheld a 14th Court of Civil Appeals (Houston) ruling that the doctrine of government immunity does not protect the prison system from the suit by Walter Cuddy.

Cuddy was on a work detail cutting trails at the state park when the accident occurred.

He said he was riding on a trailer when the tractor pulling it ran over some tree limbs, which snapped back and twisted around Cuddy's legs, jerking him from the trailer.

A Huntsville judge threw the case out of court, but the court of civil appeals said Cuddy was entitled to trial of his personal injury suit.

Generally, a prisoner can't sue for injuries that are connected with keeping him in custody. But the appeals court said the "methods and procedures used by the TDC to clear paths in the Huntsville State Park were incidental at most to police protection."

Paul Harvey News
Business Can Sell
Anything Except Business

Business, especially big business, complains that it is unduly maligned by the media and misunderstood by the public.

Now that is a paradox. American businessmen have proved themselves to be the world's best when it comes to promoting their products.

They have no trouble at all selling us their respective cars, soap powders and panty hose.

They can even stimulate our appetite for such fripperies as gadgets guaranteed to improve your golf swing...

Why can't business sell business?

I have before me a several page release from the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

With numbers, charts and diagrams — this organization representing American businesses seeks to explain that first-quarter profits which have been called "exorbitant" and "inflationary" are actually down from last year.

There is a lot of good sense in this document. The Chamber's chief economist, Dr. Jack Carlson, has done a good job of explaining the numbers with shirt sleeve English.

And when you add profits and subtract taxes and subtract inventories overvalued by inflation and subtract replacement value of depreciated factory equipment, profits are down the first quarter of this year.

The profits that had appeared to total $2 billion in headlines-actually are reduced to a profit margin of 3.4 cents on what your dollar buys. You pay more sales tax than that!

But who is going to see all these charts and diagrams and fine print explanation?

Possibly some of it will be mentioned in the financial section of your newspaper. Possibly.

But stand on a street corner and watch the faces in the passing parade and remember that those are the people who need to know in order properly to praise or protest, to vote for or against. And this message is not getting to most of them.

First quarter profits are so low—and the inflation rate so high—that it is impossible for many businesses to replace outworn or outdated machinery.

This is reflected in the substantial decline in machine tool orders the first quarter.

Thus per-man productivity is unnecessarily slowed down—and thus each item produced costs more.

Said another way, if profits were up the inflation rate would be down. Your dollars would buy more than they now do—if businesses were making enough profit properly to modernize.

But how are you going to sell logic when cheap-shot politicians are making the word "profit" sound profane?

When Auto Workers union leader Walter Reuther used to demand for his members a "share of the profits" of the car companies, I used to chide him that his members did not need a new contract in order to share the profits. All they needed to do was to purchase car company stock.

That way they would share in the profits with higher dividends when profits went higher.

But if employees own a piece of the business—then they must share in the losses, also. And he was never willing to second that notion.
