Local Pair Charged in Murder

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Murder charges were filed Tuesday against two Hereford men following investigation by the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office into the fatal stabbing of an Amarillo man Saturday night.

Eleazar Guzman, 21, and Bobby Castillo, 23, both of Hereford were charged with the murder of Brian Marcus Dodson of Amarillo, who was stabbed four times and hit on the head with an iron pipe around 11:30 a.m. Saturday in the parking lot of a South Amarillo discotheque.

Deaf Smith County Justice of the Peace O.K. Neal set a $25,000 bond on Guzman and a $15,000 bond on Castillo. The two men, who were being held in Amarillo city jail Wednesday night, were scheduled to be arraigned again at 11 a.m. today in Randall County.

The stabbing occurred about 11:30 p.m. Saturday in the parking lot of Scotland Yard Lounge, 4541 Canyon Drive. The lounge is located in Randall County.

Randall County District Attorney Randall Sherrod said Dodson and the two men began fighting following an argument over Dodson's wife and a girl who had apparently had accompanied Guzman and Castillo to the lounge.

"According to the affidavits we've got, the confrontation started when one of the subjects began pinching the breasts of the two girls," Sherrod said.

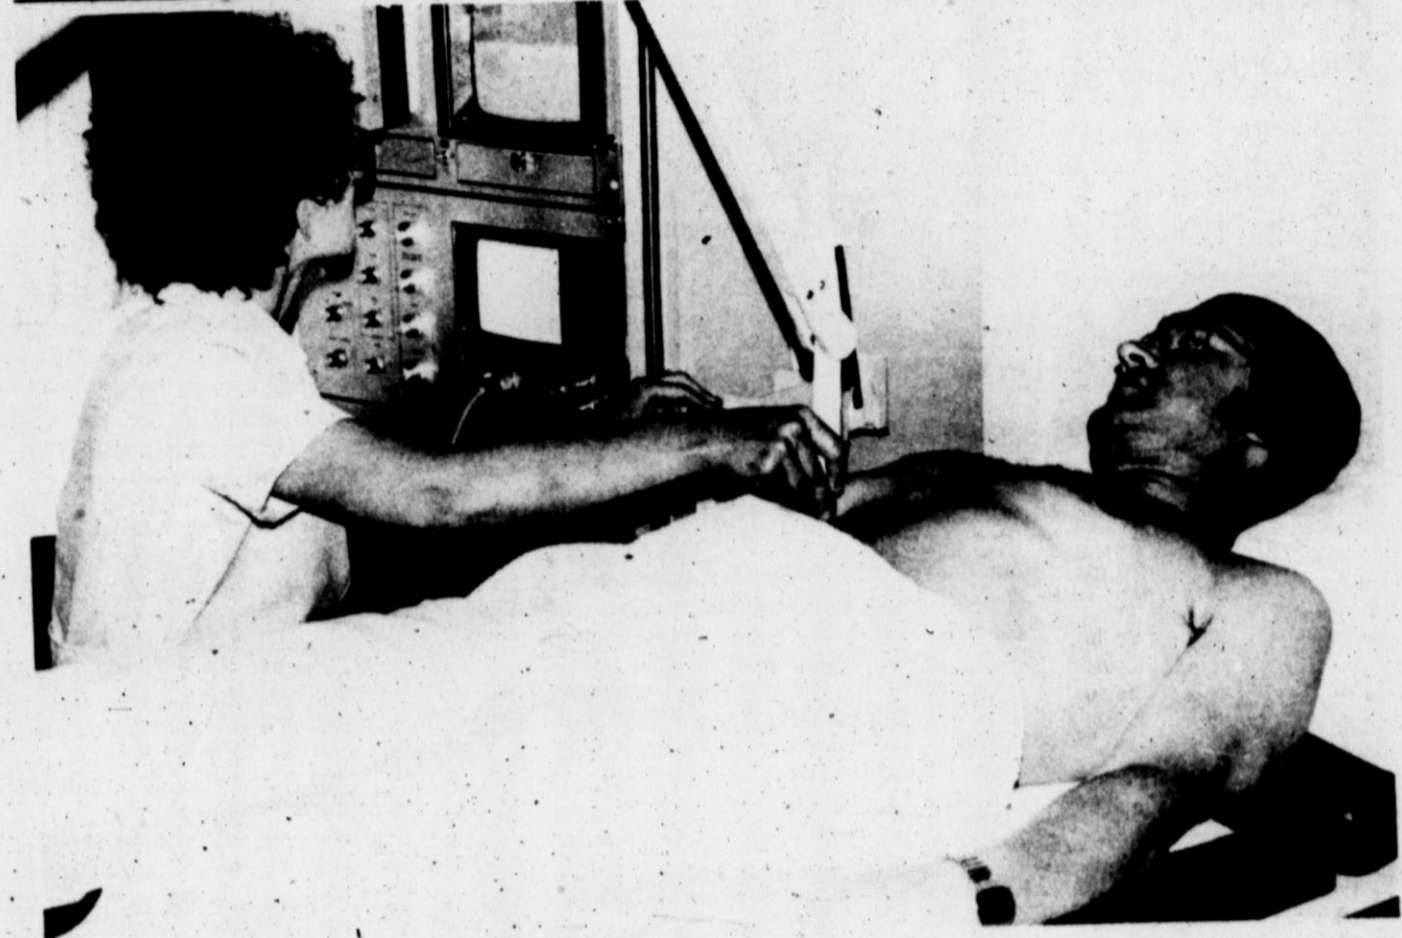

Deaf Smith County Sheriff Travis McPherson, whose office along with the Amarillo Police Department headed up the investigation into the murder, said that the entire confrontation took place in the parking lot.

Dodson was stabbed in the left lung, left kidney, right side and in his leg, McPherson said. He also was struck on the head with a pipe, but McPherson said that investigation has not revealed who swung the object.

Dodson died about 7 a.m. Sunday in the intensive care unit of Northwest Texas Hospital. Death was attributed to excessive loss of blood and shock, according to Potter County Justice of the Peace L.B. Bartlett.

McPherson said the arrests were the result of a telephoned tip to the Amarillo Police Department. A $2,500 reward had been posted through Crime Stoppers, Inc., of Amarillo for information leading to indictments in connection with the stabbing.

McPherson and Amarillo police detective Jim Lafavers hypnotized several witnesses of the stabbing, including two Amarillo professional wrestlers who apparently had tried to

Breaking in New Machine

Deaf Smith General Hospital Administrator Jim Bullard was one of the first persons to try out the hospital's new ultrasound unit, received last week. Dr. Evangeline Archer, Amarillo radiologist, and Dr. Millard Nobles of Hereford have been using the machine, which utilizes sound waves to observe structures inside the body. Bullard and Dr. Archer, above, said the equipment is the finest of its kind in the entire Panhandle area. [Brand photo by Paul Sims]

The month of July bowed out on a wet note in the local area last night as thundershowers visited the Panhandle for the second straight day, depositing widely varied moisture accumulations over a scattered area.

As has been the standard pattern this summer, Tuesday's storm formed up in the Adrian area in neighboring Oldham County, and grew in intensity for a time.

Word was received by The Brand today of major hail damage that occurred on approximately 1,000 acres of cropland in the area west of Milo Center during a severe hailstorm one week ago today.

John Fuston, Deaf Smith County ASCS executive director pointed out that up to 1,000 acres of corn and grain sorghum was virtually ruined on the C.L. Hudson, Richard Kuper and Joe West farms in a region ranging westward from approximately four miles west of Milo Center.

Corn as tall as 8 ft. was stripped back, some left at half its original height, and those farmers who saw their corn damaged in that manner will probably be forced to attempt salvaging what they can by green chopping the crop.

Fuston pointed out that grain sorghum in the damaged area will possibly recover, but will probably make only a fraction of its normal yield.

Fuston also indicated that the heaviest hail in the storm here Monday fell in isolated range country near the Bridwell ranch in the far northwestern portion of the county.

Showers also edged in from the west, toward Clovis, where upwards of .90 inches of rain fell.

The heaviest local rainfall was concentrated to the east of Hereford, near the Dawn community.

A report of 2.80 inches of rainfall was received from south of Dawn, while Dawn Co-Op reported 2.50 inches of precipitation.

Farther to the east 1.50 inches of rain was recorded at Canyon.

In Hereford, KPAN radio logged rainfall of .80 inches.

Moisture accumulations varied widely over farmland in the Hereford area.

In the far northwestern portion of the county in the dryland country, the Clint Homfeld farm reported .40 inches of rainfall, while J.F. Martin at Walcott reported .25 inches.

Westway Fertilizer recorded .50 inches of rainfall.

A spokesman at that location reported that some hail fell west and south of Simms Monday night.

Pioneer Fertilizer at Milo Center north of Hereford reported only .20 inches of moisture, and Northwest Grain, west of Farmer's Corner reported .25 inches.

To the south of Hereford, Easter Grain recorded .70 inches of rainfall.

Heavy weather comes at a precarious time for local producers concerned over the possibility of hail damage to their crops.

Hail west of Friona and near the Rhea community on the Texas-New Mexico border Monday afternoon and evening inflicted severe damage on corn, cotton and Milo crops in that area, and many farmers may find it too late to plant a catch crop now.

Farmers lucky enough to miss out on any hail are garnering real benefits from the current rains, however.

The moisture is coming at a crucial time for the area corn crop, as pollination and grain filling take place. Water requirements are at a peak for the crop now, and any rain will help cut down on

House Votes To Raise Thermostats

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House is ready to give President Carter the gas-rationing authority he wants, but only at a price he may be unwilling to pay — repeal of part of his month-old mandatory thermostat-setting program.

The House was meeting today to complete action on the rationing legislation after giving the president the latest in a long string of unwelcome energy surprises late Tuesday.

The rationing bill's floor manager, Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., says adoption of the thermostat-law rollback has added new controversy to the legislation and again put its passage in jeopardy.

And leaders are no longer as optimistic that the legislation can be placed on the president's desk by the end of the week — the start of the month-long congressional summer recess.

The apparent rationing victory the House gave the president Tuesday night was short-lived. It was followed up by a 267-152 vote to repeal the law championed by Carter requiring commercial buildings to set their thermostats at no less than 78 degrees in the summer and no more than 65 degrees in winter.

That law has been in force only since July 1, but member after member took to the floor of the House — itself held at an energy-saving 78 degrees — to complain about how uncomfortable Americans have been under the law.

Under the amendment by Rep. Chalmers P. Wylie, R-Ohio, buildings could be exempt from the temperature control law if utility bills — or other documentary evidence — could be produced to show that an equivalent amount of energy had been saved through other means.

Dingell said there's no question about the White House position on the amendment — it's opposed.

"We tried to stop it but there was nothing we could do," Dingell said. "It's just another example of the House approving something it didn't understand."

Democratic leaders claimed the same thing last Wednesday after the House unexpectedly approved a Republican

Kissinger Endorses SALT II

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry Kissinger says attempts to rewrite the SALT II treaty would trigger "a tremendous blowup, a crisis atmosphere" between the United States and the Soviet Union.

It would be two or three years before arms negotiations could resume, he added.

The former secretary of state gave the treaty a conditional endorsement Tuesday but expressed alarm that the military balance is "beginning to tilt ominously" against the United States.

He tied his support to an administration commitment for higher defense spending and a Senate declaration linking acceptance of future arms agreements to Soviet behavior throughout the world.

Kissinger recommended delaying ratification until the next Congress if it takes the administration that long to offer new military programs.

If the only choice were to vote for or against the treaty without any improvements in weapon programs, he said, he would recommend rejection of the pact.

He also suggested that several areas of the agreement be clarified with unilateral reservations and understandings. Such clarifications would be "achievable without renegotiation" of the actual terms of the treaty, he said.

Kissinger offered his views to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in the first of two appearances on Capitol Hill this week. He testifies Thursday on the treaty before the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Li. Gen. Edward Rowny, a treaty critic and former representative of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to the SALT talks, was called to appear before the Armed Services panel today.

Kissinger's proposals were described as "positive" by Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, who noted Kissinger opposes amendments "which would kill the treaty."

Kissinger said Senate amendments sending the treaty back to negotiators "would probably end any negotiations until the (November 1980) elections. There would be a tremendous blowup, a crisis atmosphere."

President Carter probably would keep U.S. weapons systems within the ceilings of the treaty, and the United States probably would not make necessary improvements in weapons programs, he said.

But Texas Governor Says Pact 'Destabilizing'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The proposed Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty accommodates the Soviet Union and should not be ratified without amendments, Texas Gov. Bill Clements told a Senate committee Tuesday.

"We are indeed the world's strongest nation with military capability only a part of the matrix," the former deputy secretary of defense testified. "But it is our military capability that is falling behind and that is what is fundamentally wrong with this SALT treaty."

Clements said he supported nuclear arms limitation treaties, but the SALT agreement as written would place the nation squarely in an underdog's role.

"We will lose credibility," he said. "This treaty will be destabilizing because our allies will question our basic strengths."

The governor said the United States' military capability has declined in the past two and a half years.

Clements held his position in the Department of Defense under Republican leadership from 1973 to 1977 and participated in the early stages of U.S.-Soviet negotiations for the SALT II treaty.

"I assure you that I do not appear before you today in a partisan role," Clements told the Senate Armed Services Committee. "I speak to you as an interested American who feels deeply that this SALT treaty is not in the best interest of our nation."

Clements said he could support the treaty if several changes were incorporated and the Senate endorsed spending about $25 billion during each of the next few years to reinstate "necessary strategic programs."

The governor included on site inspection for both parties as one of his qualifications. The treaty's critics have said verification of the Soviet Union's compliance would be impossible without

In Midst of Rate Discussion

Insurance Spokesman Urges Break for Carpooling Motorists

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Motorists who regularly leave their cars at home to ride in carpools should get a break on their auto insurance, an insurance industry spokesman said today.

The State Insurance Board should study creation of a separate rating classification for people who carpool at least half their work week, said David B. Irons, attorney for the Texas Automobile Insurance Service Office.

"Whether or not participating in carpools actually reduces the insured exposure, we believe such a program would be worthwhile if it served only to inspire a conscious participation by a broad segment of the work force in the program of national energy conservation," Irons said in testimony prepared for a two-day insurance board hearing on car insurance rates.

The industry has asked for an average statewide rate hike of 21.7 percent. The insurance board's experts have recommended an 8.9 percent average increase.

Last year, the board raised rates an average of 3.2 percent after the companies requested an 8.9 percent increase.

Irons said the average motorist who drives his car to work pays 26 percent more in collision rates than the car owner who uses his car for pleasure and recreation.

If a motorist leaves his car at home at least 50 percent of his work week, he should pay less for collision coverage, Irons said. The industry tentatively recommends lowering collision coverage so that it is only 13 percent more than paid by motorists who do not drive to work.

The new classification would help drivers who choose to carpool some days but take their own cars to work at other times.

Under the industry recommendation, the average Harris County driver would save $22 by leaving his car in the driveway at least half his work week.

The average policy holder is described as being a male over 25 or a female over 21 with a new medium-priced Chevrolet, Ford or Plymouth driven to work but not used for business. Coverage consists of minimum liability, $5,000 personal injury protection, $50-deductible comprehensive and $200 deductible collision.

Regardless of whether the insurance board decides to take carpooling into account when setting future rates, the industry needs higher rates beginning Nov. 1, Irons added.

It is hard to document whether carpooling actually reduces liability and physical injury risks, he said.

"For example, carpoolers may reduce the number of separate vehicles on the street, but a single accident involving four or five carpoolers can produce four or five times the amount of bodily injuries," Irons told the board.

Wheat, Corn Prices Show Big Jump in July

WASHINGTON (AP) — Average prices for wheat in July reached their highest level in 45 months while June corn prices were the highest recorded in three full years. Agriculture Department statistics show.

The Crop Reporting Board said Tuesday in its monthly report that higher prices for corn, wheat, lemons, potatoes and grain sorghum contributed most to the 0.75 percent increase from June to July in prices farmers receive for raw food products.

The price jumps for potatoes, from $1.22 a hundredweight to $4.57 as a new crop went to market, and for lemons, from $8.63 to $17.60 a box, were more dramatic.

But the volume of grain in the farm economy apparently made the difference, since lower prices were reported for cattle, hogs, broiler chickens, oranges, eggs and tomatoes.

The boom in prices for key food and feed grains began in early June after reports of problems with the Russian crop.

A Soviet harvest below its goals would keep the Russians as strong buyers next year in the U.S. market, where stocks are plentiful. They have purchased more than 14.8 million metric tons of grain for delivery by October and substantial purchases are expected in the next year as well.

Prices at the farm for all types of wheat averaged $3.95 a bushel last month as a result. That's 23 cents above June's mark, a 94-cent gain since April and the highest average since the $4.02 of October 1975.

Corn, the major feedgrain for animals that produce consumer meat and dairy products, rose 24 cents to $2.73 a bushel nationally, the top return since $2.82 in July 1976.

Soybeans, at their highest level since the spring 1977 peak, averaged $7.38 a bushel, compared to $7.36 in June and $6.40 a year ago.

Average farm prices have dropped only twice since a steady upward swing began last December — in April and June by about 1 percent each month.

The decline in live cattle prices in July from $66.90 per hundredweight to $65.50 was the third straight drop after five months of record levels.

They still averaged about 30 percent higher than a year ago. Combined prices for all meat animals were 19 percent above July 1978. Hogs dropped from $39.70 a hundredweight to $37.90.

July farm prices were 14 percent above a year ago, the board said. The report said prices paid by farmers to meet expenses, including living costs, also rose 0.75 percent in July to a level 14 percent above July 1978.

Farm prices in June averaged 146 percent higher than a 1967 benchmark. The index was 144 percent higher in June.

The July parity ratio for farm commodities was 73 percent, down from 74 in

Prospective Jurors Undergo Questioning

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Prosecutors were prepared today to resume questioning of 65 prospective jurors that remain in the murder conspiracy trial of millionaire Cullen Davis.

The panel of 65 was seated Tuesday after State District Judge Gordon Gray dismissed 10 more prospects who said they had formed an opinion in the case. Monday, he dismissed 30 persons who said their feelings as to Davis' guilt or innocence would influence their verdict.

Gray said he hoped 32 "qualified" jurors could be found among the remaining 65 prospects, but conceded it would take at least a week to do so.

Prosecutors completed individual examinations of six prospects on Tuesday. Three were excused for cause.

After the state ends its questioning, the defense, led by Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, will conduct its interrogation.

Once the 32 are agreed upon, prosecutors and defense attorneys will "strike" 10 each. The surviving 12 will form the jury for a trial some say could extend until Christmas.

Gas Availability

Up in Texas

HOUSTON (AP) — Drivers are hearing the best news about gasoline since Memorial Day in this week's American Automobile Association report on 41 Texas service stations.

Gasoline availability is up, and prices are up, but by only half a cent.

The price of diesel fuel, however, jumped more than 2 cents to an average 92.9 cents a gallon.

The AAA said the brighter availability outlook for the weekend results largely from an increase in the number of stations to be operating Sunday, especially in metropolitan areas.

Across the state, 33 percent of the reporting stations will be open Sunday, the highest level since a 36 percent report for the Memorial Day weekend.

But in small cities and towns, many of which are on Interstate highways, the number of Sunday operators fell from 33 percent to 25 percent.

A 4 percent increase was reported in stations out of at least one grade of gasoline, up to 11 percent, but the AAA said most operators indicated they would begin receiving their August allocations before the weekend.

Availability on Sunday is expected to increase significantly in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, where 32 percent of the stations plan to be open, compared with 12 percent last week.

Mexican Oil Spill

Moves Toward State

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Runaway Mexican oil that is threatening Texas coastal industries and recreation continued inching toward U.S. waters today.

A Coast Guard spokesman said late Tuesday that the northernmost evidence of the massive oil spill was a thin sheen spotted 60 miles south of U.S. waters and about 35 miles offshore.

Richard Griggs said the surface sheen "doesn't represent too much oil."

Griggs said the northernmost patch of oil was 100 miles south of U.S. waters and some 20 miles offshore.

The oil is still spewing from a blown-out Mexican well from the Bay of Campeche. The well has been gushing up to a million barrels of oil a day since the June 3 blowout.

The latest projection by experts gathered here to track the oil indicated traces if the spill may cross into U.S. waters by the weekend.

The oil posed a threat to a 41-year-old fishing tournament that in the past has only been canceled by war.

Mary Lou Campbell of South Padre Island said 700 fishermen are expected to compete in the 3-day event that begins Thursday. She said some of the fishermen will be competing as far as 100 miles offshore.

Bundy Receives

Death Sentence

MIAMI (AP) — Condemned by a judge as "a total waste of humanity," Theodore Bundy has been ordered to pay with his life for the beating and strangulation murders of two sleeping women. But it may be a long time before the people of Florida collect.

"In a way, this is my opening statement," the articulate former law student said in an emotion-choked monologue Tuesday shortly before he was ordered to die in Florida's electric chair.

"This is just the first...early round of a long battle," Bundy vowed between snuffles. "I haven't given up by any means." It was the first time in his five-week trial he had shown any emotion.

He refused to plead for mercy. "Absurd," said Bundy, "to ask for mercy for something I did not do."

"It's a tragedy for this court to see such a total waste of humanity," said the judge. "You're a bright young man. You'd have made a good lawyer. I'd have loved to have you practice before me. But you went another way, partner."

Weather

West Texas — Scattered thunderstorms most sections through tonight continuing southeast Thursday. Locally very heavy thunderstorms southern portions tonight. Not as hot southwest. Warmer north Thursday. Highs mid 80s north and mountains to upper 90s southwest. Lows near 60 north to lower 70s south. Highs Thursday near 90 north to near 100 southwest except for mid 80s mountains.

Ribbon Cutting

The Chandelier Gift Shop is under new management in Sugarland Mall, and the C of C Hustlers held a ribbon-cutting ceremony for new owner Peggy Furr here Tuesday morning. Mrs. Furr and members of the Chandelier staff are pictured with a portion of the Hustler organization at the ribbon cutting. Carrell Ann Simmons is chairman of the Hustlers, a goodwill ambassador arm of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. Mike Carr, C of C executive vice president, extended a formal welcome to the new business operator.

Carter Back To Grassroots

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter says his return to the grassroots, featuring hard lobbying for his proposed tax on windfall oil revenues, has given him "a much clearer sense of what this nation is, what its problems are."

The president's nine-hour trip Tuesday to the lush green hills of Kentucky also brought him campaign-like acclaim in the small, whiskey-making city of Bardonia, where he held his first U.S. "town meeting" in four months.

And before heading back to Washington, the president made a surprise trip to a tiny Indiana town struck by severe floods last week. He had declared the area a disaster area before departing Washington.

The stop at English, Ind. — which took him 65 miles out of the way on a helicopter trip from Bardonia back to Air Force One at Louisville — drew favorable reviews from some of the town's 600 residents. "You've restored our faith in government," said one woman. "It shows he's concerned," said Harvey Dearborn.

The questions put to him by citizens at Bardonia, with one exception, dealt with topics and concerns Carter often is asked about in Washington: prospects for gasoline rationing and a resumption of the military draft, the new Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty, the plight of Vietnamese refugees and environmental concerns.

The exception was one woman's complaint about her local telephone service, which Carter promised to look into within 24 hours.

One topic that surely would have been broached in Washington, however, was not mentioned in Bardonia — the president's purge of his Cabinet.

Carter made energy the No. 1 topic for the trip by stopping first at a coal-fired power plant near Louisville, where he met for an hour with coal industry leaders and talked to 200 hardhat workers about the need to place greater reliance on American-mined coal.

Stepping onto a flower-bordered, red-carpeted platform in the steamy gymnasium at Bardonia High School, the president again talked about coal and the energy problem, saying: "America is the Saudi Arabia of coal, blessed with enormous reserves. ... I would rather burn a ton of Kentucky coal than see our nation become dependent by buying another barrel of OPEC oil."

On other topics, Carter said: "Gasoline rationing would come only if a severe shortage occurred."

"The United States is 'big enough, strong enough and generous enough' to welcome 220,000 Indochinese refugees, but it should not normalize relations with Vietnam when that country's troops have invaded Cambodia and its government is pushing refugees out to sea."

—He has nothing to apologize about in defending the Panama Canal treaty and the SALT II agreement, although he knows it was not politically popular. "I would rather be right even if it costs me some political support," he declared.

—Combating federal red tape "is one of the most difficult things I've tried to do as president." He claimed progress has been made, but said much remains to be done.

Storm

irrigation costs.

The showers are also helping to store up soil moisture for the sowing of the wheat crop, which should get underway within the next two or three weeks. Land preparation for winter wheat planting is already underway on many farms.

Very heavy thunderstorms were reported early today along a weak cool front extending along a line from Texarkana to San Angelo to Marfa.

Most of the heavy activity was located along the front between Texarkana and San Angelo.

Other early morning thunderstorms were reported from the Panhandle and South Plains in northwest sections of the Permian Basin and southwestward into the El Paso area.

Heavy thunderstorms were reported during the night in Southwest Texas. El Paso had large hail and Brownwood had high winds.

Forecasts called for clear to partly cloudy skies over most of the state with scattered mainly afternoon and evening thunderstorms in Northeast, North Central and West Texas.

Highs today were to be mostly in the 90s. Extremes were to range from the 80s in higher elevations in Southwest Texas to near 100 in the lowland along the Rio Grande in Southwest Texas.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 70s. Extremes ranged from 63 at Amarillo to 83 at Del Rio.

Stabbing

break up the fight. "As a result of the hypnosis, we got good composite drawings of two subjects," McPherson said. "But the real clincher was the tip."

Castillo was arrested at his residence at 405 E. 3rd Tuesday afternoon, and Guzman was charged at the Deaf Smith County Jail, where he was serving a 10-month sentence for driving while intoxicated after pleading guilty to that charge Monday.

Sherrad told The Brand that files in his office pertaining to the case were still inconclusive. "All we have are the affidavits, so you can't really tell who the aggressors were. We won't have much more information until McPherson's boys wrap up their investigation and get the facts to our office," Sherrad said.

Prices

June but the same as a year ago. At 100 percent, the indicator would mean, theoretically, that farmers have the same buying power they had in 1910-14.

For example, the $3.95 a bushel price for wheat was 66 percent of the July parity price for wheat of $5.98 a bushel.

Growers of lemons, grapefruit, oranges, calves, sheep, beef cattle and sweet potatoes, however, recorded prices above or close to parity.

Overall feedgrain and hay prices were 7 percent higher than in June and 26 percent above a year ago. Food grain prices together increased 5 percent to a point 32 percent above July 1978 averages.

The index for poultry and eggs declined 4 percent during the month, 7 percent below July 1978 averages.

Rationing

sponsored amendment giving Congress two chances to block a gas-rationing plan proposed by the president.

The House reversed that vote Tuesday after a heavy lobbying campaign by the White House and the Democratic leadership. The vote was 234-189 to give the president a free hand in preparing a standby rationing plan. The bill stipulates rationing would be used only in a severe fuel shortage, of at least 20 percent.

And the House decided to retain Congress' right to reject a rationing plan by having either house veto it once the president actually moved to implement it.

But this was a condition the president said he could live with.

The House rejected the first Carter rationing plan entirely last December.

Thus it seemed things were going well for the president Tuesday night until adoption of the Wylie amendment.

Clements

The United States' dependence on foreign oil should be studied before making any conclusions about the treaty's strategic implications, Clements said. "Our foreign policy and our national security, which are two peas in the pod, cannot tolerate for long the energy policies that we now have in this country," he said.

The armed services committee began its hearings on the treaty's military implications July 23, and the schedule calls for them to continue after the month-long congressional recess in August.

The committee's approval, however, is not necessary for SALT II to reach the Senate floor. That vote will come in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Sen. John Tower of Texas is the ranking Republican member on the armed services committee.

Smothers Optimistic about Home

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Politics and poor record keeping brought troubles and publicity to Rep. Clay Smothers' black child care home at Malakoff, the Dallas legislator told a Capitol news conference.

However, Smothers said Tuesday, he feels sure the state Department of Human Resources will let him continue to operate as long as he attempts to make corrections.

The state department, which found more than 40 violations of state standards at the home June 21, said later Tuesday it has not received reports of a recheck made Friday and Monday.

"There's dozens and dozens of lily white child care homes out there that have not been attacked," Smothers said. "Mine is the only black child care home. Doesn't that tell you something?"

"There's no doubt about it," Smothers said. "There is a clear implication that my appearing with (Evangelist Lester) Roloff in Corpus Christi had something to do with it."

Smothers was shown with Roloff on television when the evangelist and a large group of preachers defied the Department of Human Resources attempt to close Roloff's homes in Corpus Christi on court orders.

Smothers said he also was a supporter of an unsuccessful bill in the recent legislative session that would have let Roloff's child care homes operate without a license. He said the bill would not have affected St. Paul Industrial Training School which is operated by Smothers and other members of his family as a state-licensed institution. The so-called Roloff bill applied only to church-operated homes.

"We are not dodging being licensed and I don't think the Department of Human Resources will ever try to close St. Paul's as long as we try to correct the violations," Smothers blamed himself for "poor record keeping." "We are not in compliance in some things and we have a long way to go. Some of DHR complaints are valid and some are ridiculous ... I think we can be in compliance by the last part of August. If we are not, I will ask the DHR to send a representative to live on our campus until we are."

He admitted he spanked inmates for punishment "and I am not going to give it up. I did one the other day while the DHR inspector was in the next room ... I spank with a paddle from one to four licks. That's a last resort."

HOUSTON (AP) — "The dog saw it and started barking," said Nancy Wood, 44.

Blue, her beagle puppy, announced one of Houston's largest residential fires, a wind-whipped blaze that gutted 800-1,000 fashionable apartments and left hundreds homeless Tuesday night.

The blaze started about 2:30 p.m., fanned by strong northerly winds, jumping from building to building.

At the height of the fire, more than 35 buildings were involved.

Fire Chief V.E. Rogers said it was the worst fire he'd seen in 24 years on the force.

No damage estimates were available, but even at $30,000 per unit, damages could hit $30 million for the structure alone, not counting personal losses.

Arson investigators were also involved.

"We're questioning a couple of people right now," officer Danny Holmes of the arson division said late Tuesday night. The two people were picked up earlier, he said.

Rogers blamed the quick spread of the fire on wood shingles on the huge complex in the city's affluent near-west side.

Ironically, just a few hours earlier Houston City Council had tabled an ordinance to strengthen safety requirements for wood-shingle roofs.

Houston Mayor Jim McConn said he thought the measure would be considered sooner than the two-week date put on it Tuesday afternoon.

"We're lucky nobody was killed," McConn said after a helicopter tour of the area.

Probably because the fire started during the day, only a few were injured.

Three persons were admitted to Houston hospitals.

Frank W. Tyler, 20, was reported in stable condition in Hermann Hospital with second-degree burns over 50 percent of his body. Another resident was admitted for cuts on the arm, a fireman was admitted for smoke inhalation and 10 others, including some firemen, were treated and released from Houston hospitals.

The blaze fought more than 300 firemen from Houston and neighboring volunteer units for three hours before it yielded to control.

Even as the sun was setting, six hours after Blue barked at the red flames, the gutted buildings radiated a glow. Firemen still shot water to the structures. And residents tried to sort out their lives.

The Red Cross and others quickly set up shelters for the homeless, and two bulletin boards in the apartment clubhouse were filled with offers of help: homes for the night, free meals, animal shelters, storage areas.

For some, though, the tragedy was too great.

"Go away, please," said a young man with soot-stained clothes.

His roommate, 25-year-old Rod Hainey, explained they had lost everything in the seven-alarm fire.

"There was nothing to save," said Hainey, his face reddened by the flames. "Everything was burned."

"We just moved from Canada," added Hainey. He said they just moved three months ago and work for themselves in the construction business.

Behind him, on the tennis courts, people arranged plush velvet sofas and oak china cabinets, preparing for the night.

Police Chief Harry Caldwell said the area would be well guarded, and issued passes to residents to let them back in. All others would be kept out of the fired area, littered Tuesday night by on-lookers with expensive cameras.

For Caldwell and others, the fire was the second disaster in a week.

Tropical Storm Claudette chased 5,000 out of their homes last Wednesday and Thursday, dumping up to 30 inches of rain on the northeast Texas coast.

More than 12,000 homes were damaged in the flood.

"Thank God nobody was killed," said Jim Privette, the designer for planned renovation of the Woodway Square apartment clubhouse.

"We're getting lots of help from a lot of people," he said. "I'm impressed with the people offering help."

Privette saw the fire as he flew into Houston from Denver Tuesday afternoon.

Mary Jane Carpenter, who drove past the blaze on her way home, said, "It was a huge column of billowing black smoke — just a mass of flames."

"I've never seen anything like it in my life."

Privette doesn't know if the clubhouse will be remodeled now.

Assault Trial Postponed

Until September

The aggravated assault trial of Inez Galan was postponed until September Tuesday after one of the prosecution's witnesses was unable to testify because of illness.

Dr. C.E. Rush, a witness for the state, notified 222nd District Court that he would be unable to testify, forcing the postponement.

Galan was indicted for the Feb. 18 stabbing of Johnny Sierra.

Recognized at Westway

Leo and Dorothy Ohlig and their five sons were cited as "Family of the Year" Sunday during the annual reunion of Westway community. The Ohlgs are longtime residents of this area and have the distinction of raising all five of their sons to the coveted rank of Eagle Scout in the Boy Scout program. The Ohlig sons are, from left, Bill, John, Ronnie, Wade and Tony.

MD Telethon Date Slated Sept. 2-3

The 14th annual Jerry Labor Day Telethon Against Muscular Dystrophy will be broadcast in the Panhandle by KFDD-TV, Channel 10, September 2-3.

The local telethon pledge center and other activities are being coordinated by Hereford Elks Lodge. Jerry Johnson is local chairman and is at this time securing volunteers for the door-to-door campaign. Any organization or individual that may be interested in working on this years drive can contact him at his answering service 364-2951 or 364-0817 after 5 p.m.

The Elks Lodge will also be holding their annual Elks against Dystrophy carnival Sunday September 2. Last year's carnival netted over $5,000 for the fight against Dystrophy. Originating from Las Vegas, the TV spectacular is held to benefit the medical service and research programs of the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA). The 2 1/2-hour entertainment marathon will be carried by a "Love Network" of more than 200 TV stations in the continental U.S., Hawaii, Alaska, and Puerto Rico. Ed McMahon will again serve as Jerry Lewis' anchorman.

Last year the Telethon produced a record $29 million for the national health agency's work, and was seen by an estimated 88 million persons--indicating that nearly 50 percent of the households with TV sets in the U.S. turned on the show.

Joel Rogosin, the show's producer promises that this year's Telethon will be bigger and better than ever before. Mr. Rogosin said, "Jerry's worked most of the year on some great ideas and we're so excited that we've decided to call it the All-New Jerry Lewis Telethon. The enthusiasm and interest in this production is contagious. Knowing that the lives of thousands of people with muscular dystrophy and related neuromuscular diseases may be saved by what we're doing inspires us to push as hard as we can to make this the finest spectacular television viewers have ever seen."

KFDA will "cut away" from the network show approximately 15 minutes every hour to present firsthand reports of MDA activities in the Panhandle area supported by proceeds from the Telethon and other of the agency's fund-raising events. MDA maintains a clinic at Northwest Texas Out-Patient Clinic, operates a summer/winter camp for children with muscular dystrophy and related neuromuscular diseases at the Episcopal Church Conference Center.

Nazarene Teens To Give Concert

Returning home from their 13-day Canadian Missions Trip, the Crossroads Ministry Teams will be performing this Friday night, 7:30 p.m., at Hereford Church of the Nazarene. The Hereford teens will be completing their trip with a home concert.

The Canadian trip took them through Colorado, Wyoming and Montana. The teens toured Yellowstone National Park and several sites in Calgary.

In Calgary, Canada, where they spent four days, the Crossroad Critters puppet team performed in parks and shopping centers. The other teams spent time canvassing and ministering to teens in the Calgary area. Nightly the Salt Miners Union-youth choir, Crossroad Critters and Act on drama performed in a revival for Midnapore Church of the Nazarene.

Pastor Bob Huffaker and Ted Taylor, Crossroads Ministry Teams Director, invite the public to join them for their home concert Friday night at 7:30, Hereford Church of the Nazarene.

Simms Sale Scheduled Saturday

Simms Study-Craft Club will conduct a "garage sale" Saturday from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. in Simms Community Building located 15 miles north and 15 miles west of Hereford.

Items for the sale have been donated by the entire Simms community so a wide variety of merchandise is expected.

Proceeds of the event will go into the club treasury for community projects.

Ann Landers

Too Much Man

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Fat is killing our marriage. When D and I walked down the aisle he was only a few pounds overweight. I pledged to quit smoking if he would promise to slim down. I have not touched a cigaret since our wedding day. D has gained 50 pounds.

He is such a great guy. We enjoy each other. We enjoy our children. We enjoy our lives. But those mounds of fat are coming between us. He doesn't understand why our sex isn't what it used to be. I try, but he looks so unappealing. Worse yet, he feels awful--rolls of fat around the middle, a big belly protruding. Even his kisses are a turn-off because his jowls are so flabby.

I decided a long time ago not to nag him about his weight. To come out and tell him exactly how I feel would be cruel--and I don't want to hurt him. So, what should I do? Does he realize how huge he's gotten? Or, does he still see himself as the handsome youth he once was?

I fix proper meals at home and keep no fattening snacks around the house, but I can't padlock his mouth when he walks out this door. Please help me, Ann. --Lovely Man But Too Much of Him

DEAR LOVE: You are wise not to nag. It won't help. Your husband knows he needs to lose weight--and he probably hates what he has done to himself, but the man has a problem.

Your best bet is his doctor. When did your husband last have a check-up? THIS you can nag him about. It won't hurt his vanity. Make an appointment for him and enlist the doctor's help--you'll get it. Fat can kill. Obesity is hard on the heart and is one of the major contributing factors to high blood pressure.

Tip the doctor off to suggest Weight Watchers, Tops, Overeaters Anonymous or The Diet Workshop. They are all excellent--and they're in the phone book. Good luck to you and all your "sorority sisters."

Your name is Legion, girls. DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your voice is heard throughout the land. Will you please start a crusade to get people out of the habit of saying "you know" between and in the middle of sentences?

Listening to TV interviews is a nightmare. Last night I counted the "you knows" of a famous singer in a talk show and there were 23 in a very short span of time. Let me put it this way... "You know, I think if people were aware you know of how many times they said you know in a sentence they would cut it out, you know?"

I have become addicted to counting the number of "you knows" when people speak--in fact, it's become an obsession with me. I hope you will print this. --No, I DON'T Know!

DEAR NO: Here's the letter but I'll bet the guilty ones will not see themselves. My pet gripe is people who ask at the end of every other sentence, "Right?" Lord-give me patience to keep quiet--especially when they are wrong.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What is a "pathological liar?" I think my girlfriend is one. How does one tell?--No Name, No Town

DEAR N.N.N.T.: A pathological liar does not know the difference between a lie and the truth. He gets facts and fiction mixed up. It's more than a personality defect. It's a form of mental illness.

Women's Forum Plans Upcoming Program

Members of Deaf Smith County Women's Forum met recently to outline program plans for the coming club season.

The 1979-80 season will begin for the Forum with a quarterly covered dish luncheon on Oct. 29 in the Community Center ballroom. The program will be focused on the International Students program at West Texas State University. Hostess clubs will be Summerfield Study Club, Bud To Blossom Garden Club and Pioneer Study Club. The second quarterly meeting is scheduled Jan. 28, 1980 with hostess clubs being Hereford Study Club, La Aflatus Estudio Club and Hereford Garden Club.

A fund-raising luncheon is planned April 28, 1980 with Newcomers Club, Garden Beautiful Club, Long Star Study Club and Music Study Club members being hostesses.

Elizabeth Wilson presided at the recent Forum meeting, attended by Louise Axe, Ruby Carmichael, Jan Walsler, Gladys Miller, Billie Johnson, Doris Bryant, Jane White and Brenda Campbell.

NEW SCULPTURE MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) -- A sculpture by Robert Murray has been dedicated at Honeywell Plaza.

The work is called "Taku." It consists of a large curved sheet of steel suspended and supported by three similar curved plates. It is over 10 feet high and 27 feet long and is painted deep red.

Murray says, "I try in my sculpture to achieve for the viewer a sense of effortless grace. 'Taku' conveys the impression that it is very delicately perched on the ground, even though it weighs seven tons."

CHEMICAL ENGINEERS NEW YORK (AP) -- During the next few years record numbers of new chemical engineers are expected to be seeking jobs in chemical process industries, according to Chemical Engineering magazine.

Luring students to enroll at U.S. chemical engineering schools are high starting salaries and plentiful job opportunities, says the publication.

It says the survey found that demand for chemical engineers will continue strong for the next three years but will not keep pace with the "onslaught of graduates."

A constitutional lesson

What with the politically traumatic reshuffling of administration personnel and policy priorities of recent weeks, a once-hot issue seems to have gotten lost in the Washington shuffle.

That is the states-initiated proposal for a constitutional amendment requiring the federal government to balance its budget every fiscal year. No more debt-increasing, inflation-feeding deficits.

Remember that one? Around the turn of the year it loomed as one of the larger features on the political horizon, a cloud as big as a budget-cutter's fist that had both White House and Congress in a bit of a sweat.

That was, of course, before the realization that there really is an energy crisis (whether of supply or distribution) got all of us into a much heavier sweat. The gasoline line began to look suspiciously like a permanent new feature of the national lifestyle, congressional hoppers overflowed with proposals for crash development of synthetic fuels and Jimmy Carter descended from the mount with a sermon and the financial equivalent of war, a $142 billion energy plan to deliver us from OPEC bondage by 1990.

It is pure coincidence but curiously appropriate that these should be the developments to divert attention from the budget balancing campaign.

What has the constitutional amendment proposal got to do with the energy crisis? Plenty, if under present circumstances only in an academic sense, since the latter provides a good illustration of the flaws of the former.

A Congress with many minds of its own on the subject has still to act on the Carter plan. But even if the administration should get roughly what it wants in the way of legislation, that is no guarantee that the attack on the energy shortage will work out as planned.

The cost of achieving energy independence is supposed to be met by the proposed windfall profit tax on the oil companies. The yield from such a recycling of corporate dollars, however, can be only a guess at this point. And skeptical analysts, supported by the nation's previous experience with crash federal problem-solving efforts, foresee cost overruns that could raise the price tag to $200 billion or more.

It should surprise no one, least of all the budget planners, if in the end a considerable-to-major portion of the funding of an energy program had to be come directly from the Treasury. And that, short of slashing such big spenders as defense to the bone or resorting to confiscatory taxation, could only mean continuing and increasing budget deficits.

And that would be impossible under the proposed amendment. There is a strong case for a tighter rein on federal spending in general and on deficits in particular. Spending, absorbing an increasing share of the national product, can retard economic growth. Deficits too easily become standard budgeting procedure, fueling — an appropriate word in the present context — inflation. But a constitutionally binding requirement to balance the budget would raise more problems than it would solve, depriving the government of the fiscal flexibility necessary to meet emergency situations such as we presently face with energy.

The framers of the Constitution, not noted as spendthrifts, chose not to limit the federal authority in this area. Of course, they could not foresee in detail how the nation they founded would develop, what its budget practices and energy demands would be two centuries later. What they could not foresee, they did not provide for.

That they did not attempt to do so testifies not to any lack of imagination or willingness to address a problem, but to their wisdom.

QUOTE/UNQUOTE
What people are saying...

"No issues of our time are more important than those involving the way in which a rich, democratic society deals with the young, the poor, the handicapped, the infirm and the aged."

— Patricia Harris, named by President Carter to become U.S. secretary of health, education and welfare. She was serving as secretary of housing.

"It's un-African." — A member of Kenya's national assembly, commenting on a proposal to give legal rights to women in polygamous marriages, to penalize adulterers, and to halt wife beating.

"I think so. It looks pretty convenient. I could walk to work." — Jerry Brown, governor of California, when asked if he would live in the White House if elected president. He has refused to live in the governor's mansion in Sacramento.

"It's not an ego trip. People always ask me, 'How does a fat s.o.b. like you get all them women?'" — Meat Loaf, the 260-pound singer, claiming to be rock's biggest sex symbol. (Us magazine)

"It's like a football team or baseball team that won the championship last time but has lost some of its charisma, some of its unbeatable image."

— Milton J. White, chairman of the Georgia Black Republican Council, claiming President Carter has lost popularity in the black community.

Census To Change Disticts

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rep. Bill Archer, R-Texas, says he has had a longrunning mock argument with a California colleague about whose district is the fastest growing in the nation.

A Census Bureau study released Tuesday shows Archer is losing - but not by much.

Estimates of the staggering growth of the west Houston district from 1970 to 1978 clocked in at 62.8 percent, 1.1 percent behind the San Diego district held by Rep. Clair Burgener.

Archer said he was not giving in because he thought the Census Bureau's estimate of 759,000 was too low. He put the figure closer to 900,000.

Whatever the outcome of their private "fastest growing" dispute might be after the 1980 census, some predictions are possible.

Texas stands to gain in congressional reapportionment by two seats if the census bureau's estimates hold true.

Even without the new districts, the study indicates lines of most districts would have to be redrawn at least partly to take into account population changes that put most districts too far from the average.

The state Legislature has the authority to redistrict after the 1980 census.

The average population in the 24 Texas congressional districts is now 542,000, the study said. When the state Legislature completed its redistricting task after the 1970 census, the average population was about 466,000.

Some courts have held that the redistricting procedure should end with each district varying not more than one percent from the average.

No districts now fall within that boundary.

The one that comes closest is the fourth, held by Rep. Ray Roberts of McKinney. The study estimated the North Texas district to be 1.5 percent below the average.

The census bureau stipulates, however, its margin of error in the study is 3 percent.

Following Archer's district in population growth are the 3rd district based in North Dallas, held by Rep. Jim Collins, 33.1 percent; the vast 21st District from San Antonio to San Angelo to the Big Bend, held by Rep. Tom Loeffler, 27.8 percent; and the 22nd District from Houston to the Brazosport area, held by Rep. Ron Paul, 27.7 percent.

The four fastest growing districts are held by the delegation's only four Republican members.

Following in population growth are the 2nd District in East Texas, held by Rep. Charles Wilson of Lufkin, and the 10th District in Central Texas, held by Rep. J.J. Pickle of Austin. The study said both districts grew at a 26.9 percent clip.

The 18th District in Houston's inner city showed the most population loss, 7.3 percent. Rep. Mickey Leland, the district's freshman Democrat, said he was concerned about the population loss but it was too early to be seriously working on redistricting.

"We are gearing up to work with the said. There are some things that can be done with redistricting to preserve the integrity of the 18th district."

Leland is the state's only black congressman and his district is heavily black and Mexican-American.

The census bureau's study showed the only other Texas congressional district that lost population since 1970 was the 20th, held by Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez in San Antonio.

The core city district's population declined by 3.6 percent.

In the state House preparations are being made for the redistricting chore, which includes redistricting of the Legislature.

House Speaker Bill Clayton appointed an ally, Rep. Tim Von Dohlen of Goliad, to chair the committee which will supervise the House's share of the work.

Both rural Democrats said during the past legislative session they wanted to get a head start on the 1981 session's redistricting work.

Von Dohlen said between sessions he would be monitoring census statistics and other demographic data.

"The first premise we operate from is we're going to be fair in what we do," Von Dohlen said.

TCGA Keeping Pressure on for Gasohol Plant

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor
DIMMITT — Government agency opposition aside, the Texas Corn Growers Association, headquartered here, is still pushing ahead vigorously for legislation that could lead to the establishment of a gasohol plant in the High Plains area. Carl King, TCGA president, has been a key figure in recent months in a drive to allow the conversion of corn and other whole grains into alcohol, to be used in a mixture with gasoline for the extended fuel known as gasohol.

The aim of the TCGA executive is to secure a gasohol plant for this city, which already is home to a corn wet milling plant operated by Amstar Corp. Federal Energy and Agriculture Department officials recently stated that no more laws or programs to encourage gasohol production are needed. These statements were made in testimony to the U.S. Senate agriculture subcommittee.

"The TCGA is still vigorously opposed to the use of products other than whole grain to manufacture gasohol, as long as that use is feasible,--as long as grain prices remain low enough to make it practical for producing the alcohol," King stated. Administration officials at the subcommittee session maintained that materials including food processing wastes, spoiled or substandard corn or grain sorghum should be used in any alcohol production, rather than whole grain.

King claims that plant equipment required to convert wastes into alcohol have not been determined yet, nor have projected costs.

King emphasized that the use of whole grains in the alcohol conversion process would create another important market for area grain production.

King lashed out at opposition to a bill designed to encourage farmers to produce grain, with 10 percent of the crop earmarked for gasohol, and including a loan program to build and operate gasohol plants.

Alvin L. Alm of the U.S. Energy Dept. and Weldon Barton of the USDA claimed such a bill is "unnecessary."

"They are saying the same thing the ignorant administration spokesmen have been saying," King charged in a blast at the opponents.

"It's only repeating the Carter-Bergland insistence on a cheap food policy, with the farmer expected to produce the food at a loss," he continued.

King is planning to attend a session of the Texas Energy Advisory Board in mid-August to urge that group's action in making funds available for a gasohol program.

He emphasizes that Texas farmers will continue their push for gasohol plants.

"The TCGA isn't opposing the use of any farm products for the manufacture of alcohol, although our major interest is in the area of corn," King emphasized.

Gasohol is already in use in some states, and in certain areas of Texas.

A blend of 90 percent gasoline and 10 percent alcohol, researchers point out that gasohol provides 10 percent better mileage and is a cleaner burning fuel than regular gasoline.

Although its cost has prevented it from being competitive with gasoline in the past, huge hikes in the cost of petroleum now make the cost of gasohol comparable to gasoline, and the product is finding wide acceptance with motorists.

County Agents Will Gather Sunday

Members of the Texas County Agricultural Agents Association will gather in Amarillo some 400 strong Sunday for their annual meeting, which continues through August 8.

Registration will be held from 1-5 p.m. Sunday at the Hilton Inn, and the opening session of the meeting will be held at 9 a.m. Monday.

Highlighting the annual meeting will be the presentation of the "Man of the Year in Texas Agriculture Award" at a special banquet Tuesday at 7 p.m.

Outstanding agricultural leaders will also be honored, and Texas Speaker of the House Bill Clayton will address the gathering.

A distinguished service awards luncheon is scheduled for Monday, and a special awards luncheon is also set for Tuesday during which awards in various professional programs including information and mass media activities will be presented.

At a business session next Wednesday morning, new officers and directors of the state association will be elected.

Use Correct Accounting For Farm Income Taxes

COLLEGE STATION — Correct income tax accounting requires separation of farm business deductions from non-business ones. This means keeping good records of all expenses throughout the year.

"Since much of the 1979 work and labor expenses lie ahead, Texas farmers and ranchers should give particular attention to proper accounting procedures," says Dr. Ashley Lovell, economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

For instance, if there is a true employer-employee relationship, a farmer's children may be paid reasonable wages or other competition which is a business expense and therefore tax deductible.

"Wages paid for construction of buildings should not be deducted as ordinary business expenses but should be capitalized as part of the building cost. Treating such wages as ordinary expenses would violate IRS instructions and would distort taxable income," notes Lovell.

The economist explains that any loss from a closed hedging futures transaction is deductible as a necessary business expense. In addition, the broker's commission and interest paid on funds to meet margin requirements would be deductible.

"Costs of items purchased for resale, such as stocker calves, are deductible only in the year they are resold," says Lovell. "In case of a death loss, costs would be deducted the year the loss is discovered."

He emphasizes the need to keep track of miscellaneous expenses during the year, such as farm organization dues, farm magazine subscriptions, office supplies, advertising, account books and services, small hand tools and farm business travel.

Farmers may deduct the actual cost of pickup use or can choose the standard mileage rate for calculating deductible expenses. If the standard rate is used, adequate records must be maintained to establish the mileage, including the time, place and purpose of travel.

Lovell notes that these suggestions illustrate the necessity of properly accounting for expenses throughout the year. He encourages obtaining the services of a tax accountant or attorney regarding particular business details.

Water District to Consider Providing Depletion Data

During their next regular meeting at 10 a.m. August 6 in Lubbock, the board of directors of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District will consider the possibility of providing support data on the depletion that occurs of underground water used in agriculture operations, either to landowners or tax assessors for use in appraising agricultural land.

Texas House Bill 1060, which passed during the last session of the Legislature, provides guidelines for appraising agricultural land. The bill includes a provision for deducting, as a fixed expense, the depletion of underground water used in agricultural operations. The bill also stipulates how the cost associated with underground water depletion of irrigated lands should be calculated.

The High Plains Water District has been providing the necessary figures to support Federal Cost-In-Water Income Tax Depletion claims as a service to the District's area landowners since 1965. The District has an extensive system of record keeping and data retrieval. The Board is anticipating requests from the soon to be established county-wide appraisal districts for data on which to calculate these depletion allowances for appraising the value of agricultural land. Board members will discuss possible contractual stipulations or other options versus costs in providing this information to assessment offices. They will examine procedures and expenses involved in preparing the additional needed data which must be available next year when taxing entities will begin appraising agricultural land on its productivity rather than its market value.

In other business the Board will consider adopting a resolution to all District Counties to participate in each county's appraisal district, and they will consider testimony on the possible need for a rule requiring the installation of check valves on certain water distribution systems.

Pork Producers Will Meet Thursday

Pork producers from a 10-county area of the Panhandle will gather at the Randall County Extension office in the Randall County Courthouse in Canyon tomorrow at 8 p.m. to reorganize the Panhandle Pork Producers Association.

The association represents swine producers in Bailey, Briscoe, Castro, Deaf Smith, Floyd, Hale, Lamb, Parmer, Randall and Swisher counties. Producers will develop a program of activities and schedule of meetings for the association for the next year at the session.

Joe Nalley, manager of the Plainview plant of Jimmy Dean Meat Co. will discuss the status of that firm's area swine slaughter facility.

The status of state swine health regulations dealing with PRV will be discussed by Ken Horton, executive vice president of the Texas Pork Producers Association, and Dr. Robert S. Cohen, area swine specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service will discuss the role of Extension in the support of swine producers.

Producers attending the meeting are asked to enter the Randall County courthouse through the south doors.

Tri-State Lists Entertainers

The 1979 Tri State Fair gets under way September 17, with one of the most impressive arrays of talent in the event's history. The Fair Committee has booked an outstanding entertainer for each day of the week-long fair, and some shows feature two headliners.

All shows this year will be enhanced by sound and lighting from a professional firm and the arena stage has been enlarged and relocated at the north end of the coliseum. All tickets will be priced at $6, $7, and $8, and there will be two daily shows, at 5:30 and 8:30 p.m.

On opening day, Monday, September 17, the ever popular Charley Pride will headline both shows.

On Tuesday, September 18, the record-breaking duo of Kenny Rogers and Dottie West will perform in another double-header.

On Wednesday, September 19, Ronnie Milsap returns with the great show that impressed fair-goers in 1978 and has earned him many awards by his peers and fans.

Thursday, September 20, will feature the solid, entertaining show of the Statler Brothers and Barbara Mandrell, who set records at the 1978 fair.

Friday, September 21, will see the impressive shows of the "man in black," Johnny Cash.

Closing out the week, on Saturday, September 22, Marty Robbins and Stella Parton will claim the spotlight for the last two shows.

Advance tickets are available by mail, and orders should indicate day and time tickets are desired, and addressed to P.O. Box 31087, Amarillo, Texas 79120.

If soft custard curdles because of overcooking, remove the pan from the heat, set in a dish of cold water and beat rapidly until it smooths out.

Cut flowers will last and look fresh longer if they are picked in the morning or evening, never when the sun is brightest.

Walnuts, pecans and almonds can be boiled for three to five minutes, cooled and then cracked to remove the meat whole.

Stengel Provides Winning RBI

Stars Nip Okies, 10-9 In Nine Innings

By MARC HERRING
Brand Sports Editor

NEW ORLEANS — A game winning blast by Mickey Stengel in the ninth inning gave the Hereford 13 year-old All-Stars a 10-9 victory over the Oklahoma State champs in the second round of the Southwest Regional Babe Ruth Tournament yesterday here at Southern University's baseball diamond.

Along with the game saving hot, Stengel also picked up the save from the mound after coming to pitch in the eighth inning to insure the win chalked up by Dale Holigan.

In an unusual move, Stengel started on the mound for the Herd, pitching the first two innings. After falling behind 5-0, he was replaced by Holigan who pitched until the sixth frame and Hereford had jumped to a 8-7 lead.

Holigan was then relieved by Joe Villerral who lasted 1 1/2 innings when he was then replaced by Stengel. The use of Stengel on the mound twice in one game is legal in Babe Ruth baseball as long as the individual does not leave the game.

Oklahoma jumped to an early 5-0 lead thanks to the miscues from the Hereford infield. Manager Gene Combs said that the infielders looked bad in the first two frames but the rest of the game played like they were capable of playing.

"In that first inning or so, everyone except Jeff Streun (Hereford catcher) committed at least one error," Combs said. "We were letting balls go through that should have been outs."

In the bottom half of the third, the Herd offensive attack started rolling as they pushed five tallies across the plate to tie the score. Three more runs in the fifth gave Hereford an 8-7 lead.

With a one run lead going into the final inning of regulation play Hereford fell behind as Oklahoma scored twice to take a 9-8 advantage.

A must run in the last of the seventh by Hereford sent the game into extra innings, with both teams tiring due to the oppressive heat and humidity.

"It's so hot down here, that just standing around causes a guy to sweat," Combs said. "This weather is really affecting the way the boys play and we don't figure it to get any better for us."

Neither team scored in the first extra inning and Oklahoma failed to push a tally across in the top half of the ninth. Hereford came to bat and promptly put two men on, via solidly hit singles.

Streun started the inning off with a sharp single to the outfield for the first hit and then Robbie Snyder duplicated the feat with a single of his own.

The next two batters for Hereford, Villerral and Mike LaFuentes, failed to reach first as Villerral struck out and LaFuentes flied out came to the plate.

Stengel had already hit one double in the game as he led the team in the batting category. In his final trip up he did not disappoint the expectations of the team as he lashed a double over the leftfielder's head to win the game as Streun crossed the plate with the 10th run.

With the win, Hereford will play the Arkansas State Champions tonight at 6 p.m. They moved to the third round with a 2-1 win last night against Belin of New Mexico.

Belin and Oklahoma have both been eliminated from the double elimination affair with the host team Nord-Lakeshore and the Louisiana champions both undefeated.

Hitting A Winner!

Mickey Stengel has helped the 13 year-old Babe Ruth All-Stars throughout post-season play with clutch hits. In the game against the Oklahoma State champions, yesterday Stengel picked up the game-winning RBI with a double over the leftfielder's head in the bottom of the ninth inning. Hereford continues post-season play tonight as they face the Arkansas State champs in third round action in Louisiana. [Brand photo]

Rangers Club Tigers, 11-3

By CHARLES RICHARDS
Associated Press Writer

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The Texas Rangers routed the Detroit Tigers 11-3 Tuesday night, but the game might end up in the Detroit win column yet.

Sparky Anderson, manager of the Tigers, says there was a Yankee in Ranger garb on the field and he's considering asking for a Ranger forfeit of the game.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn voided a Monday trade that sent Rivers to the Rangers for four minor league players, but Rivers played for Texas against Detroit both Monday and Tuesday. He had two singles in the Rangers' 16-hit attack against four Detroit pitchers Tuesday.

"They should never have put that player on the field. If you know about it before the game, how do you play him," an angry Anderson said.

A substitute 1-for-1 trade of Rivers for Ranger outfielder Oscar Gamble was approved Tuesday afternoon. Although Gamble was scratched from the lineup just before the game and held out of the contest, Ranger officials negotiated during the game trying to work some other alternative.

"Since nothing had been settled, neither Rivers or Gamble should have played," said Anderson, who went onto the field in the eighth inning to complain

Indians Sweep Red Sox

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Things have been perfect for Dave Garcia in the past week or so. For Don Zimmer, they've been perfectly awful. And Tuesday night took the cake.

"I want to cry," said the manager of the Boston Red Sox. It wasn't only that Zimmer's team lost a double-header to the Cleveland Indians, 11-10 in 11 innings and 3-0. It was how the Sox were dropped.

They held a 10-5 lead going into the ninth inning of the first game, but poor relief pitching allowed the Indians to tie the game and send it into extra innings. Then Toby Harrah won it for Cleveland with a run-scoring double with two out in the 11th.

Len Barker combined with Sid Monge on a two-hitter as the Indians won the second game. In other American League action, Baltimore defeated Milwaukee 9-5; Kansas City edged Toronto 6-5; Texas routed Detroit 11-3; New York whipped Chicago 7-3; California turned back Seattle 8-1 and Oakland beat Minnesota 2-1.

to plate umpire Greg Kosc the Rangers were playing an illegal player.

Al Oliver got a double and two singles to account for three of the Rangers' hits. Nelson Norman got a double and a single, John Ellis two singles, Buddy Bell a single and a double and Richie Zisk two doubles, extending his hitting streak to 13 games.

Norman, Ellis, Dave Roberts and Pat Putnam had two RBI's apiece.

But the Rangers were slow in putting away Tuesday's game for Doc Medich, 5-4. Norman singled in the third, moved to third on Rivers' second single and scored on Bell's sacrifice fly. That made it 1-0.

In the fourth, the dam burst for Dan Petry, 3-2. Zisk doubled, Putnam singled him home, John Grubb doubled, Jim Sundberg was walked intentionally to load the bases and Roberts smashed a double that scored Putnam and Grubb and made it 4-0.

The Rangers then sent nine men to the plate in the fifth, padding the lead to 9-0 on five hits. They tacked on their final two runs in the sixth, when the Tigers' third pitcher, Steve Baker, gave up a double, two singles and two walks before finally getting the third out with the bases loaded.

Medich went the route, striking out three, walking two and scattering eight hits. The only damage was in the eighth. Steve Kemp singled, scored on John Summers' triple and Ed Putnam followed with his first major league home run.

He said he was a little surprised to win the high bar, but added, "After seeing Kurt's routine, I should have won."

Conner estimated Thomas' landing cost him up to .4 on scorecards.

Conner also won gold medals

Rivers Trade Illegal?

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Texas Ranger outfielder Oscar Gamble was headed for the New York Yankees today to satisfy Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's rejection of a swap announced Monday of four Ranger minor league players for outfielder Mickey Rivers.

"I'm disappointed it happened in the middle of the season. I had just bought a house here," said the 29-year-old Gamble, who had hit eight home runs and six doubles for Texas this season, mostly in the role of a designated hitter.

Gamble, the Rangers' leading hitter with a .335 average, was scratched from the starting lineup shortly before Tuesday night's Texas-Detroit game. Manager Pat Corrales told him he'd been traded to the Yankees for Rivers.

Ranger officials said Monday's trade would have stood if they had kept secret the names of the minor leaguers, who were to stay in the Texas farm system until the end of the season.

"We were directed to find an alternate way to complete the deal," said Eddie Robinson, executive vice president of the Rangers.

"It was unacceptable to allow the minor league players involved in the deal to be named without moving them to the Yankee roster immediately. We could not do that because we didn't have waivers on them," Robinson said.

The Rangers and Yankees had announced that first basemen-outfielders Gary Gray and Mike Hart, shortstop Domingo Ramos "and a player to be named later" would join New York at the end of the season.

The commissioner's office gave approval Tuesday afternoon to a trade of Rivers for Gamble, the only Ranger who had cleared waivers who was acceptable to the Yankees.

In an 11th-hour bid to keep from giving up Gamble, the Rangers got the Yankees to agree on four other minor league players and cash to complete the Rivers trade. But Ranger officials were pessimistic Kuhn would accept the proposal.

Kuhn's office was to give its answer today.

After the trade was announced Monday, Rivers promptly caught a plane from Chicago, where the Yankees were playing, and arrived in Texas in time to make an appearance in the seventh inning of Monday night's game.

Rivers singled in his only at-bat during Monday's 6-4 loss to Detroit. He started Tuesday night and contributed a pair of singles to Texas' 16-hit attack that buried the Detroit Tigers, 11-3.

Detroit manager Sparky Anderson said he may protest the loss, on grounds Rivers was still a Yankee.

"They should never have put that player on the field. If you know it, how do you play him?" said Anderson, who said he would call Tiger General Manager Jim Campbell about whether to seek a Ranger forfeit of Tuesday night's game.

Kenon Wants Trade If Salary Not Met

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Larry Kenon, seeking an $800,000 per year contract, says it's very unlikely he'll be back with the San Antonio Spurs next season and is believed to be headed for the Los Angeles Lakers.

If he leaves, it'll mean the National Basketball Association Central Division champion Spurs have lost all four of their players who became free agents.

Forward Allan Bristow has already signed with Utah, veteran guard Louie Dampier says he won't be back with the team and veteran 6-foot-11 forward-center Coby Dietrick said Tuesday he's signing with Chicago.

"The Spurs and I are a long ways apart," Kenon, 26, told the San Antonio Express. "At this point, I would say there is a small chance that I would be a part of the Spurs this year."

"I feel I am the best all-around forward in the game and I expect to be paid so," added Kenon, who averaged more than 22 points and nearly 10 rebounds per game last season.

The Express quoted Los Angeles sources as indicating that the 6-foot-9 Kenon, a two-time NBA all-star, had worked out a deal with the Lakers, but that Lakers and Spurs officials could not agree on pre-arranged compensation.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Laxative habit

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like to know what effect constant and prolonged use of laxatives can have on one's body.
DEAR READER — It depends a lot on what you mean by laxatives, but the chemical laxatives that stimulate bowel movements should not be used regularly. If you do, they disturb the natural rhythm of the colon and can be a significant factor in causing spastic or irritable colon. That, in turn, results in pain and constant difficulties in developing a normal bowel habit.
There is no evidence that chronic laxative use causes cancer or other problems of that sort but anyone who has had severe spastic colon and constipation problems will tell you it's bad enough without having any other difficulties.
To give you a better appreciation of the laxative problem, I'm sending you The Health Letter number 12-8, Laxatives, Enemas and Suppositories. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents by check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What is scabies and what causes it? My son and I have scabies, our doctor told us. She said it was caused from filth but no one is cleaner than we are. We have cleaned some awfully dirty apartments as we have several apartment houses. The medicine our doctor prescribed for us hasn't done much good. What can be done and how long does scabies last? We're going out of our minds. It causes such mental depression and embarrassment.

DEAR READER — I'd like to have gotten an answer to you sooner than I can through the paper but your letter didn't have your address on it and I don't always see the envelope from the mail that comes to me. So other readers who want an early reply should remember to put their address on the letter itself — not just the envelope.
Scabies is caused by a parasite. It's a tiny mite that burrows underneath the skin, commonly between the fingers. The skin reaction sometimes produces reddened streaks or burrows. The diagnosis is confirmed by looking at the mite under the microscope. It is a frequent cause for a maddening itch.

Now I can't vouch for what your doctor said to you but I would like to point out that a person can have very good personal hygiene and still develop scabies. In fact, in recent times, there's been an epidemic of scabies in all strata of society.
You can get scabies from contact with anyone who has them or from bed linen or towels that have been contaminated. Even the family pets may pass the mites along.

That's why it's so important if there is someone in the family who has scabies to clean all of the linen, all the towels and all the clothing. Any clothing that can't be washed should be dry cleaned or at least put into the dryer at high temperature for 45 minutes.

At the same time all these measures are taken to kill any of the mites that might be on any substance that has contact with the body, you make an effort to treat the skin itself. A common treatment is K-well. After all the medicine has been applied as prescribed, then you can put on the clean noninfested clothing.
It's entirely possible that you could have picked up the mite from bed clothing or other materials around an apartment house if someone lived there who was infested with scabies.

I know it's embarrassing but it's a fairly common problem these days. Perhaps when you realize that it's not caused by lack of cleanliness and can be easily transmitted from bedding, linens, towels and close contact with anybody who has it, you will feel less depressed about the whole situation. I suspect you'll be still less depressed if you can get rid of the problem.
THERE IS A lot you can something for everyone in the want ads

Niekro Wins 15th As Astros Beat Giants

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — The pitching brothers Joe Niekro of Houston and Phil Niekro of Atlanta are winning games on the family plan.

Both went after their 15th victories of the season Tuesday night but only Joe succeeded, shutting out San Francisco for six innings and eventually becoming the first 15-game winner in the major leagues this season in a 6-4 victory over the Giants.

Phil, also a 14-game winner, was less fortunate, losing to San Diego 10-3.

"I was watching to see how he (Phil) pitched," said Joe Niekro, who needed relief help in the seventh inning to get his milestone victory. "I want to see him pitch well. We both want to win 20 games this year and make Mom and Dad proud."

The Astros, rebounding from a seven-error 8-0 loss on Monday night, staked Niekro to a 6-0 lead after two innings and the knuckleball ace held the Giants to three hits until he tired in the seventh and departed in the midst of a three-run rally.

"I contribute my good start this season to the ball club," said Niekro, who never has won more than 14 games in a single season. "They have played great baseball behind me."

"I also went into the season not trying to do more than I am capable of doing. Last year I had a good spring and when the season started, I tried too hard."

Niekro felt his knuckle ball was near its peak Tuesday night but he had problems finding the plate, walking five batters.

"My knuckleball was about the best of the year," he said.

"And when it is working good, you sometimes have trouble getting it over the plate."

Houston took a 3-0 lead in the first innings when Craig Reynolds hit the first of four Astros doubles and scored on Terry Puhl's double. Singles by Enos Cabell and Jeff Leonard produced two more runs. The Astros chased starter Ed Whitson, 4-6, in the second when Reynolds clubbed a two-run triple after Whitson had walked Alan Ashby and Cesar Cedeno. Puhl drove home Reynolds with a grounder. Niekro, who is 7-2 in the Astrodomo this year, left in the seventh after yielding a grounder by pinchhitter Larry Herndon and a single by Jack Clark scored two runs. Reliever Joe Sambito came on and gave up a run-scoring single to Willie McCovey. San Francisco got its final run in the ninth when Joe Strain doubled, went to second on Jack Clark's single and scored on McCovey's single. It marked the first earned run Sambito had yielded in 23 innings. The victory boosted Houston's lead to 3½ games in the National League West

Nicklaus Turnaround Due To Son's Advice

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer
BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — A lesson from a 17-year-old kid, a little tip given in private by a teen-ager to his father, may change the complexion of the 61st PGA National Championship.

It could be the tip that turns the season around for Jack Nicklaus.

"I was going to go see Jack Grout (his life-time teacher), but I called him and said, 'Jack, who needs you?'" Nicklaus said.

A tip from son Jackie may have solved his problems, Nicklaus indicated.

And he has had his problems this year. For the first time in his unmatched career, Nicklaus has failed to win. He ranks a distant 50th on the season's money-winning list. He failed to make the Ryder Cup team. He isn't eligible for the World Series of Golf.

It has been, without question, the most frustrating season of his golfing life.

But things are turning around for the man who owns a record 15 major professional titles, who generally is regarded as the finest player the game has ever seen. The hints are there. The game is coming together. The tip from Jackie could be the nudge that makes him a winner again.

And should he win in this event that starts Thursday on the famed Oakland Hills Country Club course; it would turn around the entire season for Nicklaus, who places such great store in the game's major events.

"It's hard to say you've had a successful season if you don't win one of the majors. It's hard to say you've had a bad season if you do win one of them," he said.

He has played his best in the Big Four. He missed a playoff for the Masters title by a single shot. He had a very good — but too late — last round in the U.S. Open. He tied for second in the British Open.

"I'm making some putts now," he said. "That's the difference. I'm probably not playing all that much better than I was. But I'm making some putts and that can make a world of difference."

"I got the ball close several times last week (at Philadelphia). I still missed some putts, but I made some. And that helps."

And a little session, early this week, with son Jackie could have straightened that out. "I was hitting balls and he said, 'Dad, where did you tell me to put the weight when you want to hook it?'" Nicklaus said.

"I said, 'Back in the stance.'"

"He said, 'And if you want to fade it?'"

"'Up in the stance.'"

"He said, 'Then why have you got the ball so far back in your stance?'"

He paused, significantly. Then he added:

"I've tried to teach him to analyze swings, problems in others. It's nice to have a little feedback."

NORTH CONWAY, N.H. (AP) — Jimmy Connors defeated Eliot Teltscher 6-2, 6-4, in the first round of an international tournament.

In other action, Roscoe Tanner defeated Lloyd Bourne 6-2, 7-5; Guillermo Vilas of Argentina downed Juan Nunez of Chile 6-1, 6-1; Harold Solomon bested John Bartlett of Australia, 6-3, 6-1; and Brian Gottfried beat Chile's Jaime Fillol, 7-5, 6-1.

TRACK AND FIELD

MALMOE, Sweden (AP) — Led by Clancy Edwards, who swept the 100 and 200 meters, Americans won all but one men's event and 12 of 16 competitions overall in an international track and field meet.

Edwards won the 100 in 10.45, and the 200 in 20.63. Other winners in the meet were Henry Marsh, a gold medalist in the Spartacade 3,000-meter steeplechase, who took his specialty here in a stadium record 8:24.56, and Pan Am Games 800 champion James Robinson, who took the event in 1:48.22.

SPARTACADE

MOSCOW (AP) — The U.S. men's basketball team beat Estonia 73-65 and the American women's team lost to the Russian women's national team 112-88 at the Spartacade Games.

In boxing, middleweight Andre McCoy, the last remaining American in the event, took a big step toward a medal when he took a close decision over Eduard Mkrtchayn of Soviet Armenia.

McCoy boxes in the group finals Thursday, and a victory would insure him a spot in the gold medal bout Saturday against the Soviet national champion from the other group.
