World of Silence Made Growing Up Hard

EDITOR'S NOTE: An additional story on Rev. and Mrs. Champion is included on page 1-B. By PAUL SIMS

Managing Editor Jerry Champion had only been talking for two years when he started the first grade and, because his parents were deaf mutes, found himself having to do a lot of catching up and downright "hustling" to make it in education's noisy world of discussion, laughing children and teacher instruction.

'The most obvious problem was in the world of fairy tales," said Champion, First Baptist Church's 31-year-old associate pastor. "When I got to the first grade, I had no idea who Mother Goose was. We just weren't told bedtime stories at home. I had to do a lot of hustling to keep up with the other kids."

Champion's father was born deaf, and his mother caught scarlet fever at age 5, leaving her almost totally without the ability to hear. Neither parent could speak, and Champion, his two brothers and sister had to learn sign language at a very early age.

"Learning sign language was as easy with me as you learning to speak with your voice. I started at age 1. If I wanted water, my mother would shape my hand to make the letter W, and shake my hand toward my mouth," Champion said.

He didn't learn to speak until he was 4. "In school, I had to work hard. You don't realize how much you learn through hearing your parents talk. But, once I could see the correlation between signs and verbal communication, I didn't have any problem. I learned to speak from just hearing neighbors and relatives, who would come over and spend some time with us, teaching us words.

"My real education, though, was in elementary school. I read a lot and made good grades. It was a new world."

Classmates "treated me fine," Champion said. "The biggest problem I had as a kid is I was embarrassed because my parents were handicapped. I guess I was embarrassed all the way through about the 10th grade. I really struggled with that."

Champion's two worlds--the one at home and the other at school--were as different as night and day, he said. Quiet, naturally, was the way of life around their poor Tulsa, Okla., home.

"I never could communicate with my parents unless I was looking at them. I never called them, yelled at them. If I was out, I never could call and get permission to go somewhere. So, I'd just take a chance and go, then explain myself later in order to stay out of trouble," Champion said.

His education was further handicapped because his parents were unable to teach him much. "I didn't learn much from them. Their concepts were quite limited because my dad didn't have an education, and my mom had the equivalent of a ninth-grade education. So, I found myself looking up to other parents a lot more than mine, at least

Judge Rules Taiwan Treaty Hinges on Congress Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter will fight a federal judge's order that he must ask Congress' permission before going through with plans to single-handedly end this country's mutual defense treaty with Taiwan, according to administration officials.

The scheduled Jan. 1 termination of the treaty cannot come about, U.S. District Judge Oliver Gasch ruled Wednesday, unless the action is approved by two-thirds of the Senate or by a simple majority of both houses of Congress.

Carter's surprise announcement last December that he was terminating the 25-year-old treaty came as the United States recognized the People's Republic of China and ended formal ties with

"We are recognizing simple reality," Carter told a national television audience.

The administration maintained after Gasch's ruling that Carter was well within his constitutional powers when he decided to end the treaty.

"We feel that the president was acting entirely properly," said Mark T. Sheehan, a Justice Department spokesman.

He said the ruling would be appealed "as promptly as we can" in the U.S.

Court of Appeals for the District of

In Taipei, both civilian and military officials declined immediate comment on the ruling. Gasch's decision came on a suit filed by Sen. Barry Goldwater and 24 other present or former members of Congress. Goldwater immediately praised the judge's decision, saying it "means that no American, not even the president, can break the law of the land.' Goldwater of Arizona, a one-time Republican presidential nominee, said he hoped "the president will now submit proper request for legislative approval of his policy on its merits, rather than continue to battle Congress over an issue of constitutional power." The treaty provides for the United States to aid the island nation if it is attacked from the mainland. The pact contains an option that allows either party to end it on a year's notice.

Sheehan noted the one-year termination provision. "We gave our notice on Dec. 23, 1978, to go into effect on Jan. 1, 1980. . .. We are confident the matter can be resolved before the termination

Nor would Gasch's ruling have "any immediate affect on our relations with the People's Republic of China," said a State Department official who asked not to be

Carter's decision came as a blow to the Nationalist Chinese, who have maintained a bastion on the island of Taiwan for three decades.

At the time, U.S. military experts said they believed mainland China had neither the intention nor the ability to invade Taiwan successfully.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The construction of new houses and the sale of existing homes have remained strong into the fall, but housing experts see a precipitous drop on the horizon.

Chairman Promotes 1-Day Drive

Explaining the United Way's goal of a one-day campaign drive to the Hereford Lions Club Wednesday at the Community Center, drive chairman Doug Manning promised an "exciting day of activities" and added that "I may be one of the few who believes we can reach our goal, but I really think we can get together and do

The United Way has set Thursday, Oct. 25, as the day for all pledges to be turned in to the UW during an all-day celebration at Sugarland Mall. Many of the agencies will have booths at the Mall, including a "bucking horse" event by the YMCA and a "Pie-in-the-Face". booth by Big Brothers/Big Sisters.

Manning explained that much preliminary work is being done by volunteers prior to the Oct. 25 campaign climax. "We believe there are big keys to victory--first, we need to contact everyone for a fair share pledge and, secondly, we need at least 20 percent more participation by our citizens.

"In the past we tried to get enough workers to personally distribute all the cards. The problem was that all workers did not make their contacts, or did not return to pick up pledge cards," said Manning. This year everyone will receive a letter and a follow-up phone call. Manning pointed out this was not as personal as UW leaders would like, but at least no one will be missed.

As an important part of the added participation, Manning said more emphasis would be placed on reaching farmers. "The only years we have reached our goal are those when we had a good response from the farming community. They are the major business in our community, and they must be reached," he added.

Manning pointed out that it was imperative that more people be reached. "Last year we had a very high goal of almost $200,000 and many people gave an extra large gift. We think our goal of $148,110 is more realistic this year, but (See UNITED, Page 2) new housing construction rose 4.2 percent last month to an annual rate of 1.88 million units. Much of the strength was attributed to a 25 percent jump in starts on new apartment units, many of them federally subsidized.

-And Jack Carlson, chief economist for the National Association of Realtors, said sales of existing homes rose nearly 3 percent in September to an annual rate of 3.95 million units. "This could be our second best sales year ever; second only to 1978," Carlson said.

Meantime, Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul A. Volcker warned that Americans will have to accept a lower standard of living if inflation is to be controled.

Volcker told the congressional Joint Economic Committee that if people "try to catch up with the existing standard of living or try to increase their standard of living,...up goes the price level some

The September housing figures came as a surprise to many analysts.

Housing experts had expected both starts and sales to fall off sharply by now because of the economic downturn that began in the year's second quarter.

But demand has remained strong despite record high mortgage rates, now in excess of 11 percent nationwide.

Carlson attributed the continued housing demand to the maturing of the "baby boom" generation, which is in the age range for many first-home purchases, and to inflation, which has driven people to buy real estate as tax shelters.

What could dampen the demand is the Federal Reserve's Oct. 6 announcement that it was raising a key interest rate and changing the way it controls monetary growth.

The board's policy change comes as savings and loan associations are reporting a decline in deposits and, thus, a loss of money they could lend as mortgages.

The National Association of Home Builders is so concerned about the Federal Reserve's action that it announced Wednesday it is calling a "summit conference," probably next month, to discuss the situation.

"This policy could lead to a deeper and more prolonged national recession," the industry group said in a statement. It also predicted "a catastrophic drop in new home construction, as much as 1 million units lower than 1978.

New construction last year totaled 2 million units, slightly below the level experts say is needed to meet demand and replace worn-out housing.

Treasury Secretary G. William Miller. who testified with Volcker, said "hou is nervous" because of uncertainty in the money markets resulting from the Federal Reserve credit-tightening

Senate Passes Credits To Offset Heating Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) - From the poorest of the poor to middle income America, the Senate Finance Committee wants to make sure the government lends. a helping hand when it comes time to pay the winter fuel bill.

And it wants to give everyone regardless of wealth - a break on household investments designed to reduce future consumption of oil.

The Senate's tax-writing committee, nearing the end of a marathon debate on a "windfall profits" tax bill, voted Wednesday to permit tax credits of up to $200 a year for millions of low and middle income Americans who heat their homes with oil, propane and Canadian natural

Experts estimate that as many as 9 million American households will qualify for some break under the proposal, designed to help offset sharply higher prices for the three fuels: A tax credit is subtracted directly from taxes owed to the government.

The committee's vote was the latest indication that Congress is getting ready to place billions of dollars into the hands of needy consumers who face sharply higher energy costs this winter and in the next several years. The money would come from the "windfall profits" tax that President Carter wants Congress to levy on the increased revenues industry will receive from the gradual removal of price controls on oil.

As a further indication of Congress' determination to help consumers, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., arranged to testify today before a House subcommittee considering an additional $1.1 million to help poor people pay their energy bills this winter.

It will be O'Neill's first time before a committee since he became the House's top Democrat three years ago and is symbolic-of the importance he and other top Democrats attach to energy assistance programs.

The Senate already has voted to spend $1.2 billion on special assistance this winter, and its Senate Finance Committee has agreed to commit $30 billion through 1990 to help consumers offset the increased costs of energy.

Included is about $20 billion that would go out in the form of government checks to recipients of welfare and food stamps.

In its decisions on Wednesday, the committee agreed to make up to $200 available in income tax credits to households with income of $20,000 or below. Smaller credits would be available to households with incomes between $20,000 and $22,000. The median national income is $16,000.

Kennedy Favors Speedup in Immigration

WASHINGTON (AP) - A higher ceiling on legal Mexican immigration to the U.S. would whittle down the eight-year wait that is keeping some families apart, says Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass. . .

There is a "serious and unfortunate backlog" of immediate relatives of permanent resident aliens waiting for entrance visas, he said Wednesday at a Senate Judiciary Committee hearing.

Kennedy, the committee's chairman, is the sponsor of a bill that would authorize an increase in the 40,000 visas that can be issued each year for Mexico and Canada to be evenly split.

The bill would allow any part of the new quota not used by one border nation to be shifted for the other to use the next

Since immigration from Canada is well below its current quota, at least 60,000 of the proposed 70,000 total could be expected to go to Mexico. Kennedy said the proposal also

David Crosland, acting commissioner of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, said raising the limit on immiwration from 40,000 to 70,000 for the border nations would be acceptable to the administration.

President Carter mentioned a 50,000 total in his 1977 message to Congress. Sen. Walter Huddleston, D-Ky., said the measure would set a precedent for other nations to be treated the same way. He said nations such as Taiwan and the Philippines also have substantial backlogs of family applicants.

"The piecemeal addition of a few tens of thousands of people in the category of refugees, a few dens of thousands of people from one particular country of emigration, and then a few tens of thousands of people who originate from the next point of pressure, is not the way to build a coherent and logical immigration system," Huddleston said.

Al Perez of the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund said increasing the quota would improve U.S.-Mexican relations, help families to be reunited and protect the rights of illegal immigrants.

"I believe that the futures of the United States and Mexico are inextricably linked," Perez said in a prepared statement. "These relations compel a favored nation status for Mexico."

White To Announce Action Against SEDCO

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Attorney General Mark White will announce today what legal attempts he will try against SEDCO Inc., the Dallas-based drilling company founded by Gov. Bill Clements. because of the Mexican oil spill.

White scheduled a news conference for 10 a.m.

SEDCO owned the $20 million drilling rig used by a Mexican contractor when the well blew out June 3 in the Bay of Campeche.

White has said previously that he would sue Pemex, the Mexican national oil monoply; SEDCO, which is now headed by Clements' son, Gill; and Permargo, a private drilling contractor for Pemex.

Three spill-related damage suits totaling more than $355 million have already been filed against the three organizations by Texas fishermen, shrimpers, and businessmen who claim their livelihoods have been affected by the remnants of the oil spill washing ashore along the Texas coast.

SEDCO filed a federal court suit in Houston seeking to limit its liability from oil spill damages to $300,000. The Houston judge set an Oct. 23 deadline for any suits against SEDCO.

Chicago Ed Board Refuses Guidelines

CHICAGO (AP) - The Chicago Board of Education has set the stage for a showdown in the federal courts over desegregating public schools in the nation's second-largest city.

The board voted 7-2 Wednesday night to refuse to accept guidelines set down by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare for preparing a desegrega-

"We do not want to go to court, but if we must we are prepared to argue our case before the judiciary," Superintendent Joseph Hannon said.

The key feature of the HEW guidelines was that no student body in the system consist of more than 50 percent whites. About 17 percent of the system's 475,000 students are white.

HEW officials, including Secretary Patricia Roberts Harris, have said that if the board refused to accept the guidelines, HEW would refer the case to the Justice Department and recommend a lawsuit.

In Washington, HEW spokesman Bill Wise declined to comment Wednesday night, saying: "First, we want a full report from our people in Chicago."

HEW's Office of Civil Rights, which concluded a two-year investigation of the school system in April, has charged that the city's schools have been deliberately segregated for 40 years.

Stafford Gets Death Sentence for Murders

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - A long round of appeals and separate triple-murder charges await Roger Dale Stafford, who stoically heard a jury recommend that he be sentenced to die for killing six restaurant workers.

"The verdict was what they felt they should do and I can't hold it against nobody," he said as he was led to his cell in the Oklahoma County Jail. "They gave me a fair shake, I can't complain.'

"Unless someone comes forward and tells the truth," he added, "I'll die an innocent man." He claimed he was in Tulsa, drunk, at the time of the deaths.

The 27-year-old Alabama drifter and father of three young children was convicted Wednesday of gunning down four teenagers and two men in the meat locker of a Sirloin Stockade steakhouse during a $1,300 robbery on July 16, 1978.

The jury deliberated 27 minutes before finding him guilty, and then deliberated for 55 minutes before returning the death

One juror, Ira Mitchell, said "there wasn't really that much" question among jurors of Stafford's guilt. He said the jurors voted for conviction the first time they were polled.

Officers Ill after Hunt

BOWIE, Texas (AP) — David Allen Bowman and Jeffrey Christopher Lamb are back in jail, but the cost of recapturing them was a little steep.

"I'm back in my hospital bed now," said Montague County Sheriff W.F. Conway, after he made the arrests.

"Our chief is at the clinic. He's come down sick, too," said Bowie police dispatcher Lynetta Boudreaux.

Doctors had hospitalized Conway Monday, for exhaustion and the flu, after he hunted the fugitives all day Sunday.

But when he got his tip, he and his wife took a county patrol car to the Bowie city limits to make the arrests.

After filing a sex discrimination suit against the Rushton Mining Co., Mrs. McCusker received a job and retroactive benefits through an out-of-court settlement two years ago.

United Way Responds . . . to Your Comments

Early this eyear a Survey was conducted to attempt to determine the general public's feeling about the concept of the United Way. In this survey, we asked for comments. Your United Way board feels that an attempt should be made to respond to these comments. You may not find your exact comment but there_probably is one similar that we have attempted to answer.

COMMENT: The goals set are too high. It is unrealistic to expect to collect $100,000 plus for United Way with today's economic conditions. People are still asked to give to many other charities in addition to United Way.

ANSWER: Within the past few years agencies have been admitted to the United Way that have pushed our goal over the $100,000 mark. Two of these are YMCA and Senior Citizens. In 1974, a survey of this community was taken in our Goals for Progress campaign. One of the leading needs expressed in that survey was for a YMCA type organization. The "Y" has many youth activities each year. In the absence of this type of activity, how would our youth spend this time? Most would find other activities, some good and some not so good. How do-you measure the good that a "Y" does in this area? Would you say that if it kept 100 young people out of trouble, it would be worth it? How about 10? How about one--if that one was yours?

It is difficult to understand how anyone could object to our support of Senior Citizens. All of us are heading in that direction and if any group is deserving of the support of the community as a whole, it is this group.

You say our goal is too high? Divide $148,100 by 17,000(approximate population) and the per capita support of all these agencies is $8.71 per year. Now, is that really too high?

Notre Dame Picked Over USC

3y Major Amos B. Hoople Pigskin Prophet

Egad, friends, one of the genuine collegiate classics is in the spotlight this Saturday as the Southern California Trojans invade South Bend, Ind., to meet the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame.

The Trojans and the Irish will be butting heads for the 51st time in this fiercely contested series, which was inaugurated in 1926 by the legendry coaches Howard Jones of Southern Cal and Knute Rockne of Notre Dame. Jove! The series is a monument kaff-kaff — to two of football's immortals!

Notre Dame holds a commanding lead with 27 victo-ries, 19 defeats and four ties. In recent years the Trojans have held the upper hand, winning six of the eight games played since 1971 — but what games they were!

Who will ever forget the Irish comeback last year to take the lead with a minute to play only to lose by a field goal with just seconds on the clock — um-kumph! You can be sure the Irish haven't forgotten. They will have add-ed incentive in Saturday's clash as they seek to avenge

And the Hoople Hunch is they will do just that in the friendly confines of Notre Dame Stadium. We give it to Notre Dame, 27-24. Har-

On these teams, loaded with talent, there are two superaccounting for the Heisman Trophy — Charles White of the Trojans, averaging 130 yards rushing per game; and the explosive Vegas Ferguson of Notre Dame, who has been free-wheeling — heh-heh — at a 136-yard per game clip. Egad! Their duel will be worth the price of admission. Elsewhere there are such treats on the schedule as Alabama vs. Tennessee in the Southeastern Conference; the North Carolina-North Caroli-

Atlantic Coast Conference at Raleigh; the Texas-Arkansas battle at Litle Rock, Ark., their 61st in the Southwestern loop; and the Purdue-Michigan State donnybrook at East Lansing, Mich., which will help determine the Big 10

Here is how the Hoople System views these contests: Alabama will have a tussle on its hands with Tennessee before subduing the Vols, 32-21; North Carolina will win

The Stargell-Tekulve act capped one of baseball's great comebacks as the Pirates became the fourth team in history to make up a 3-1 deficit in a seven-game Series. The others were the 1958 New York Yankees, 1968 Detroit Tigers and the 1925 Pirates.

After Rich Dauer's home run gave Baltimore a 1-0 lead in the third inning, Stargell sent Pittsburgh ahead 2-1. The Pirates added two runs in the eighth to wrap up their fifth World Series triumph in seven appearances.

"I feel bad," said Baltimore It was Stargell, a mountain of Manager Earl Weaver. "We a man, who provided the muscle, and reliever Kent Tewon 102 ball games in the regular season. We won 108 the kulve - the thin man of basewhole year. We needed 109. We fell one short."

It was the first Pirates' Series triumph since 1971, when Roberto Clemente led them to a victory over the Orioles in seven games. Clemente later perished when his private plane crashed on a mercy mission to hurricane-stricken Nicaragua.

The late Danny Murtaugh was the manager of that 1971 champion.

Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner, who succeeded Murtaugh after the little Irishman died, observed, "Danny Murtaugh and Clemente must be having a ball up there right

Her passing may have spurred the Pirates' comeback. As an emotional Stargell noted after this triumph: "There has been a closeness on this team that there are no words I can think to describe."

"We scratched and clawed our way to this day," said the 225-pound first baseman, his voice broken and tears running down his cheeks. "We are family and that's not being sassy or fancy. It typified this ball club."

Baltimore's Scott McGregor, the losing pitcher, was asked what he thought of Stargell, who was 12-for-30 in the Series, hit .400, tied Reggie Jackson's record for total bases with 25 and set a record with seven extra-base hits on three homers and four doubles).

He also became the 40th player in Series history - the fourth this series - to collect four hits in a game.

"Our hitting stopped," said Weaver, famous for his lineup switches and righty-lefty percentage plays. "We went stale one game too soon.

"We had just about every move we wanted to make, but when the ball players don't come through, your moves don't look quite as good."

It remained for Phil Garner, who hit .500 in the Series to lead the Pirates' batters, to sum up the team's feeling: "Willie Stargell gets younger every year. If he ever retires, we'll all go with him."

Garner finished the season with a 24-game hitting streak: the last 14 games of the regular season, three playoff games and seven Series games. He was the only player to hit in all seven Murtaugh, the late Pirate manager, and Roberto Clemente, the late Pirate right fielder, helped Pittsburgh to a string of division titles.

Tanner, Murtaugh's succes-

"I've had a lot of big thrills, but I'd have to call this my most statisfying," said Tanner, who was born on the Fourth of July and smacked a home run in his first major league at-bat with the Milwaukee Braves in 1955.

"We were down three games to one, and it took a total effort to come back and win...There wasn't one guy who didn't contribute. It was tremendous."

Rev. Champion, the new associate pastor at First Baptist Church, is a native of Tulsa. Okla. He is the second child of four, and the son of deaf-mute parents. As a child, his first means of communication was sign language used by the deaf.

"I would like someday to teach sign language in Hercford." stated the associate pastor.

Mrs. Champion was raised in Richmond, Virginia and graduated from Richmond High School in 1968. She attended Oklahoma Baptist University in Shawnee, Okla. She graduated in 1972 with her degree in Elementary education.

Celebrating her 21st birthday, the coed received an uninvited guest, Champion, whom she was to marry on Jan. 27, 1973 in the Stubb! efield Chapel on the OBU campus.

The newly-married couple moved to Fort Worth where he entered Southwestern Baptist University in the spring of 1974. While working on his masters degree in Religious Education, Mrs. Champion was employed by the Department of Public Welfare as a social worker.

In January of 1977, the Champions moved to Greenville, South Carolina. Rev. Champion began his associate ministry work in the youth and activities department with the Vietnam as food service First Baptist Church there. Mrs. Champion found employment with the County in Aug. of 1970 with an Library as Administrative Assistant of Personnel.

His work with the local church includes guiding youth workers and programs, preaching every Sunday night and involvement in worship.

In his spare time, Champion plays racquetball, tennis, softball, and jogs. He faithfully lifts weights, plays golf, goes fishing, hunting, snowskiing, and enjoys a good game with his wife in backgammon.

His main hobby interest involves his 1968 Ranchero.

"I like tinkering with cars and selling them. I drive a different car every year. It's so much fun and something out of the ordinary," he stated.

Mrs. Champion fills her spare time with needlework, reading novels, sewing, and cooking. She tends to their two pets, Waldo, a cat, and Sidney, their dog. She competetively plays backgammon with her husband and challenges him to a game of tennis on occasion.

She is also an avid fan of football and snowskiing: Mrs. Champion is presently looking for a part-time job.

winter was excellent preparation for this spring's growing season. The fact that Texas had a low crop in 1978 means the trees were not in a stressed condition when growth began this past spring. Cool weather and frequent rain in April and May encouraged a large crop. By the middle of May, horticulturists throughout the state had recognized that 1979 was going to be a good year. Rains have been way above average in most sections of the state and have come on a three-week interval which is almost perfect for setting a good crop of pecans. The low spring temperatures also suppressed pecan scab which is a major disease in many seasons. An insect known as the pecan nut casebearer can frequently reduce the crop 30 to 90 percent. however, in 1979 this pest was essentially non-existant in many ares of the state. # At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

A lot of us go through life thinking we have a marriage based on trust, faith, and affection.

Well, I'm here to tell you you have to be on your toes every minute. Everyone knows how I've lusted after Ultra-Suede. The first time I heard Ultra-Suede in motion was in an auditorium in Columbus, Ohio. I'll never forget the sound of those 800 women rustling into their seats if I live to be a thousand. It sounded like 1500 corduroy knees rubbing together.

What is that?" I asked the chairman.

"Ultra-Suede," she said. "Everyone's wearing it." I made my decision that day to go right out and finance a skirt. When I told my husband of my decision he was shocked. 'You'd never live with yourself if you knew how many Ultrasuedes gave their lives just to hang on your back."

"What are you talking about?"

"Ultrasuedes. Haven't you seen them? They're little wrinkle-free, drip-dry animals about 15 inches long who used to be indigenous to Beverly Hills. Lord, I remember how they used to roam in herds...their Hunter Green. Tawny Beige, Electric Blue, and Fire Island Red coats glistening in the sunlight. Then people began to kill indiscriminately and make suits and tailored dresses out of them. Now they're in the process of being protected under federal law.'

I hesitated. "How come I never heard of Ultrasuedes

"I don't wonder," he sighed. "They're almost extinct. In a few years we'll have grown children growing up never knowing that an Ultrasuede once roamed this earth....free." "I've never seen a bumper sticker saying. 'SAVE THE ULTRASUEDES!"

'That's because whales, seals and whooping cranes have higher-paid lobbyists."

'And I've never seen PBS do a documentary on them...or Animal Kingdom, for that matter."

"I hope Marlin Perkins never hears you say that. Of course, if you insist on feeding your vanity with poor defenseless animals, that's your business."

The case of the endangered Ultrasuedes would have been closed had it not been for a visit with Mayva. She talked one of her kid into believing an overbite made him look like John Travolta and bought an Ultra-Suede suit for herself instead. I made the mistake of asking her when she was getting it out of

Real Estate Tips by Tommy Bowling

Which costs less, renting or owning a home?

Say you now spend $200 monthly for rent and your only other expenses are utilities and insurance. Suppose you buy a home, payments on which are $200 monthly, including taxes, interest and principal payments. Your only other expenses are utilities, insurance and maintenance. At first glance, it appears renting is less costly than ownership. But, you have made no allowance for the adjustment on your taxable income that results from payment of real estate taxes and interest on your mortgage. Nor have you figured the increased equity you receive in making payments against the mortgage principal. With land values rising, along with demand for housing and increasing costs for labor and materials, owning a home is almost always less

Stanton freshmen won 13-7 over Plainview last week. The game was really exciting for the Dogie Fans. Stanton's first possession was successful. On Stanton's second possession, they drove the ball up the field for 53 yards and were at the ten when Hodge went up the middle and in for six points. The extra point, kicked by Rod Simon, was good which gave Stanton a 13-0 lead at halftime.

In the third quarter, Plainview ran around for six, their extra point was good. #### The successful failure

The German Democratic Republic - or East Germany, as it still sticks in most Western minds - is observing its 30th anniversary as a state, and by most measures it must be rated a considerable success.

what originated as the Soviet occupation zone of a shrunken, devastated and divided post-World War II Germany has developed into one of the world's top dozen industrial economies, second in the Soviet bloc only to the USSR itself.

It actually has the bloc's highest gross national product figured on a per capita basis — $4,834 per year for each of its 17 million inhabitants. The comparable Soviet figure is $4,080.

The Soviet Union and East Germany are each other's leading trade partners, with the former dependent on East Germany trade partners.

ing trade partners, with the former dependent on East German industry for some precision items that would be attainable otherwise only in the West. East Germany also has acquired a certain stature outside the bloc. No longer shunned as Cold War pariah by the West, it has diplomatic relations with the major powers and is a member of the United Nations. Most signficantly for its own needs, it is not only recognized but virtually courted by the other Germany. In return for giving West Germans visitation access to their relatives in the East, it has been the beneficiary of favorable economic agreements that in some respects amount to virtual subsidies by East Germany, clearly a going concern and the pride of the Soviet satellite system, has reason to celebrate the achievements since the enactment of a constitution - an act that sealed the division of Germany in our time. (A year earlier, the merger of the Western occupation zones initiated the politon of the West German Federal Republic.) Yet all is not well in the GDR. For all the accomplishments of the past 30 years, it has failed to impress one important group - the people. There is, according to reports of most outside observers, an indifference among the mass of East Germans toward what is supposed to be their state. They do not identify with it or its goals. That may be in great part because all the superficial trappings of sovereignty and achievement cannot hide the reality

- that East Germany remains a creature of the Soviet Union. The clearest evidence of that being the 400,000 Soviet troops still stationed on GDR territory.

The regime goes to considerable lengths to counter the pervasive apathy. The propaganda machine works overtime, and morale-raising military parades are weekly features in East Berlin, to somewhat chilling effect. East Germany inherited much of the territory that had been historic Prussia, and it also appears to have absorbed some of the traditions. Its goose-stepping troops clothed in the steel-gray of the . Wehrmacht bring to mind less a new Germany than an old and

For those who go beyond apathy to dissidence, there is the usual response of the Communist state — suppression. The GDR differs from the Soviets' other East European satellites, however, in that next door is a democratically governed people of the same blood and language. With West German television reaching throughout the East and West German publications circulating widely, thought control is a problem.

The regime has resorted to strict laws on contact with outsiders. Jail terms of up to 12 years await an East German divulging information "of disadvantage" to the GDR, and almost any conversation with a Westerner could be construed

The information that is most sensitively of disadvantage concerns the economy, which for all of its pride of place in the bloc is lagging. The East German per capita GNP of $4,834 may be tops in the East, but it falls woefully short of West Germany's $10,416.

The damning lesson of East Germany is that this is one place where communism took over not a backward society but one in the European mainstream. The East had not been Germany's industrial heartland - that fell to the Western Allies with the Ruffr. But it was part of a developed economy with a skilled population.

What has been accomplished there has made it less the pride of the bloc than the shame of communism in practice. After 30 successful years by Communist standards, it is, in

Attitude of Parents Factor In Youngster's Skills

CHICAGO (AP) - It's no coincidence that musically talented children often have parents who actively encourage them in music-making, believes piano educator Patricia Taylor

"Musicians and music educators agree that parents' attitudes can make an enormous difference in their children's achievements," says Dr. Lee, 42, who is a member of the piano faculty at West Chester, Pa., State College and an advisor to the National Piano Foun-

'But good intentions alone aren't enough," she adds: "Parents can also take specific steps to ensure the best experience at the piano for their children.' Before deciding if your child is old enough to study piano, observe his or her interest in music, attention span and eagerness to learn, Mrs. Lee ad-

A parent's expectation of good results is a powerful incentive for children to learn, says Mrs. Lee. "Don't let young children decide whether they want to study piano. If you leave the choice to them they'll probably say no, because they don't have enough information to make a deci-

Instead, parents should cheerfully state that music lessons will begin soon, and that they will be interesting for the youngster. She also cautions against telling a child that you are simply trying lessons, or says, that they might not work out.

"Be positive, expect good progress, and it's likely to result," she says.

Choosing a piano teacher will take some digging on the parent's part, says Mrs. Lee.

Allow yourself time to interview prospective teachers, and ask to audit a lesson or to hear students in recital or workshop," she advises. "Don't hesitate to ask about a teacher's educational background, or whether he or she is a member of any professional organizations for music educators.

Does the teacher attend seminars on piano teaching and materials? Can he or she give you a clear description of the goals for your child's first few months of study? If it's not clear to you, it won't be clear to the student," Mrs. Lee cau-

Especially significant is the teacher's personality and whether it is compatible with your child, she says.

"The best teachers are usually those who make music lessons exciting and fun," she points out. "They establish a warm personal relationship with their piano students, they convey their own love and understanding of music, and they select pieces that are interesting and varied for the child

'It's up to the parent to provide the right environment for learning," says Mrs. Lee. "A child needs a well-tuned piano, a chair or bench of the right height, and a quiet room for ference from family TV watching, radio or other distractions."

Establishing a regular routine of daily practice is also the parent's responsibility.

'Ask the teacher how much practice is expected, and remember that quality and regularity are just as important as duration," says Mrs. Lee, who thinks that several short daily practice periods can be more effective than one longer ses-

Mrs. Lee cautions against expecting your child to turn into a performing genius. Much more important is that children learn to be creative at the piano - to improvise, to compose, to experiment with new sounds and that they have the satisfaction of mastering material that is challenging, yet within their

U.S. District Judge Adrian Spears denied attempts Wednesday by defense attorney Charles Butts to suppress key evidence. Butts claimed there wasn't enough legal reason for Leonard to issue the warrant.

Kerr had undergone hypnosis in an attempt to enhance his memory of the attack.

Kerr positively identified Barbour, a convicted murderer. as the driver of the van, the document says, and selected Ricks and Larson as those who looked like the gunman.

Ricks, Kerr's primary choice in the lineup as the gunman, is one of several Bandidos subpoenaed to appear this week before the federal grand jury here.

In another hearing, Van de Loo called Larson "a prime suspect" in the Kerr attack.

Larson, 34, who says he is no longer a Bandido, was recently sentenced to three years in prison on a federal firearms violation. He has denied any involvement in the Kerr attack.

Van de Loo also said in the document, "... Confidential in- dead end."

Van de Loo acknowledged in testimony Wednesday that it was the first time the informant had been used. The informant, however, did submit a signed statement, federal officials noted.

Butts claimed the informant's information could not be considered reliable since he had no established credibility. The informant's information, he maintained, was anot enough reason for the warrant.

In a statement read in court. Leonard said U.S. Attorney Jamie Boyd urgently requested the search warrant because the investigation had reached "a

Convicted Killer Called to Testify

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) tive Alan Berg. - A convicted contract killer has been ordered to appear before a grand jury investigating the May 29 assassination of a federal judge, despite objections from the man's attorney that the panel is on a "fishing expedition.

Charles Voyde Harrelson, 41. sentenced to a 15-year prison term in 1973 for a 1968 murderfor-hire, and his wife, Joan Starr Harrelson, are among 36 witnesses subpoenaed to appear this week before the grand jury.

The panel is investigating the There have been no arrests in either case.

Also subpoenaed were members of the Bandidos motorcycle club, reputed New England crime leader Salvatore Michael Caruana and Peter Lynn Krutschewski, a close associate of fugitive drug smuggler Jimmy Chagra.

The subpoenas do not mean the witnesses were involved in the two attacks, only that the grand jury feels they can shed light on the cases.

U.S. Attorney Jamie Boyd denied Wednesday that this week's session is a fishing trip, calling Wednesday's session 'worthwhile."

"It absolutely is not a fishing expedition. We have specific directions and specific goals," he said. Boyd then added, "But you can't catch a shark if you don't go fishing.'

Dallas attorney Charles W. Tessmer, representing the Harrelsons, attempted Wednesday to have the Harrelsons' subpoenas quashed. He claimed the subpoenas were "a fishing" expedition," "uncertain, indefinite and overbroad" and "unreasonable and pressive."

But U.S. District Judge Adrian Spears denied the motions, saying, "You're complaining that this is a fishing expedition. It might very well be. Under my impression of the law, unless a fishing expedition becomes overly oppressive, they can do a little fishing."

Tessmer and federal officials said the Harrelsons would return Friday, but Tessmer added that he hasn't decided whether his clients should testify.

"They want to know where my client (Harrelson) was at the time of the (Wood) shooting.' said Tessmer. "We have records to show where he was."

Wood, known as "Maximum John" for his stiff sentences in drug cases, was cut down outside his townhouse the morning of May 29 by a sniper firing a single .243-caliber bullet.

Harrelson was convicted in 1973 in the 1968 contract slaying of Hearne businessman Sam Degelia Jr. after a mistrial in 1971. He was discharged from parole in 1978. Harrelson was also acquitted of murder charges in the 1968 slaying of Houston carpet company execu-

Famed defense attorney Percy Foreman represented Harrelson in all three trials.

Approached by reporters outside the grand jury room Wednesday, Harrelson coldly said, "Why don't you leave me alone?"

Caruana, according to the FBI, answers directly to the head of the New England crime syndicate. He was reportedly a close friend of slain El Paso defense attorney Lee Chagra, Jimmy Chagra's brother.

Krutschewski, who also uses May 29 assassination of U.S. the name "Peter Blake," re-District Judge John H. > During his trial this summer, Jimmy Chagra testified that Krutschewski was his "very good friend."

Chagra had also listed Peter Blake as the owner of a plane another witness testified was used on a trip to Mexico to establish a marijuana smuggling operation.

Wood was scheduled to preside over Chagra's trial and defense attorneys had tried in bitter courtroom battles to have the judge remove himself from the case. Chagra has denied any involvement in the slaying.

Kerr escaped with only minor injuries when his car was riddled by bullets in an earlymorning ambush as he drove to work only a few blocks from Wood's townhouse.

FBI Special Agent Gregg Van de Loo has testified that a former Bandido is "a prime suspect" in the attack, although there have been no arrests.

In a document released in court Wednesday, Van de Loo said an informant claimed Bandidos had asked the informant to take part in the Kerr attack.

Van de Loo also said in the document that Kerr identified three Bandidos in a police lineup as his assailants.

He said a man identifying himself as agent Jim Acree telephoned him 10 days before his Aug 20. arrest and told him to "play along" with McCrory to expose an extortion plot.

However, Strickland hammered at Davis' story, bringing out the fact that Davis never demanded to see Acree after the arrest, nor did he tell his close friend, attorney Hershel Page, of the telephone call, when Page Strickland: If what you say about having received a phone call from Jim Acree was true ... Hershel Payne could have been crucial to this whole matter. couldn't he?

Davis: I knew at the time he was going to be a witness, but I didn't talk to him about it.

Strickland: You mean here you are in the Tarrant County Jail, charged with solicitation of killing a judge ... here's a crucial witness, and it was business as usual? You-all wanted to talk about business?

He was, in my mind, going to end up as a witness but as far as talking to him about the case. at that time I didn't want to do

When Strickland suggested the reason Davis did not tell Payne was because he "hadn't thought of it yet," the defendant declared:

As Strickland wound up his cross-examination, he questioned Davis again about a conversation with McCrory on the day of the arrest, a talk secretlyrecorded by hidden FBI experts.

Accompanied by his owners. Carl and Betsy Bodie of Lockport. N.Y., and their two children, Benjamin, 4, and Nathaniel, 8. Thumper was flown to Chicago by Ken-L Ration to receive its "Dog Hero of the Year" award. Thumper rode in a special traveling cage in the baggage compartment.

He drew stares as he made the rounds with his huge head sticking out of the limousine window before being honored at an evening banquet at another swank hotel, the Ritz-Carlton.

Thumper, not quite 2 years old, beat out other courageous canines to get the 26th annual award - a gold medal, a $1,000 U.S. savings bond, a goldplated leash and collar and a year's supply of dog food.

Last year. Thumper stayed by Benjamin's side when the youngster wandered from home and was lost 12 hours in an area dotted with farm ponds. Thumper kept Benjamin away from harm until rescuers were attracted by the dog's barking.

The 10 congressmen talked to President Carter's top energy policy adviser. Stuart Eizenstat. hoping for assurances the administration is making plans to meet their problems.

After the meeting, Rep. Joe Wyatt, D-Texas, told reporters. 'It was a discussion of where

Rep. Jerry Patterson, D-Calif., asked for the meeting because the refugees are putting a strain on local services in his Orange County district.

The Indochinese population there now includes about 20.000 refugees and is expected to double by the end of 1981. Ms. Sandoval said.

"The administration has made the commitment to allow these people to come into the country but there is no ... legislation to provide the services once they get here." she said.

Say Yes...to Kids, Inc.

Chuck Cosper and John Bunch-eight years ago after they realized the need of an expanded sports program which would include girls' competition. Last spring, there were just under 1,100 youngsters between the apes of 7 and 13 involved in the local Kids, Inc. program, an increase of about 25 percent from the year before. The fast growing youth organization is just one of the agencies funded through contributions to Deaf Smith United Way.

Kids. Inc. started as an idea of two Hereford men-

Boys between the ages of 7 and 15 participate in Pee Wee. Minor. Major and Babe Ruth Leagues, while girls up to 18 years of age are eligible for the program. Volunteer workers in the community serve as umpires, coaches or in other necessary aspects of the program. Last spring, there were around 100 volunteers helping Hereford vounsters compete in America's No. 1

With the amazing growth of Kids, Inc., which formed from the old Hereford Boys Baseball organization, officials have found it necesary to expand facilities. So, two years ago, the $140,000 Deaf Smith County Sports Complex was constructed just outside northeast Hereford. Kids, Inc. still owes $30,000 on the complex--an amount it hopes to raise through community contributions separate from United Way gifts, which are used only for operating expenses.
