VOTING IS ONE OF YOUR precious freedoms, but you have to register to use it. If you don't have your voter registration card, Thursday, April 3, is the deadline for registering to vote in the May 3 primary election. Voter registration is conducted at the county clerk's office at the courthouse.

WITH FEDERAL INCOME TAX time just around the corner we couldn't resist the opportunity to share the following letter.

Dear Sir: I have a dependent relative who has very little fiscal responsibility. He means well, but he keeps buying presents for my parents and me, charging them to our account!

When he sees something that he thinks we might need, he buys it and we have to pay. These things are rarely what we'd have bought ourselves. Because he doesn't work for a living, money doesn't mean much to him. He is generous to the poor and needy with my money but gives to the undeserving too.

We just received a bill for his last spending spree, and it gives me a sick hopeless feeling. How much better things would be if we could spend our money and for the things we want.

He won't listen to me, but he will listen to you. Please use your influence to cut the spending of my Uncle Sam.

Absentee Voting Light in Election

Hereford Independent School District officials are expecting a lighter turnout than last year's record number of voters for Saturday's trustee election.

School Tax Assessor-Collector Fred Fox reported that 83 absentee ballots were cast by Tuesday afternoon's deadline for the election, scheduled from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday at the Community Center.

That compares with 149 absentee votes cast prior to last year's record-setting election.

Fox is baffled at the light turnout since the election falls during Easter weekend.

"Generally speaking, when the election falls during the Easter holidays, we have a heavy voter turnout. I don't know the reason for the light turnout except maybe people aren't going to be traveling during Easter," Fox told The Brand.

There were 20 absentee votes cast Tuesday.

The race is contested, with three candidates battling for two seats. Incumbents James Gentry and Paul Ramirez are opposed by housewife Stephanie Ramirez.

The at-large election will be for two three-year terms.

In what may be a sign of local voter apathy, turnouts were even less impressive for absentee voting in Deaf Smith County Hospital District and City of Hereford elections.

Only one person has voted in the election for three hospital-board directors, while five absentee votes were cast in the election for two city commissioners.

Both elections are unopposed and involve incumbents.

Frank Zinser, Deward Roberson and Jerry Smith are seeking re-election to the hospital board, while Bud Eades and Emory Brownlow are running for city commission seats.

In an election for three Walcott Independent School District trustees, incumbents Gaylen Jack, Ernest Brown and Gene Bradley are opposed by Macey Fuqua, Bobby Hammock and Sandra Martin.

All the elections will be Saturday in the Community Center.

Victim: 'I Wanted Him To Have His Hell'

By KERRIE STEIERT
and LAVON NIEMAN

On the morning of Sept. 2, 1976, Helen Ward awoke in her Hereford home to find a knife-wielding, naked black man standing over her bed. In the ensuing hour, she was raped twice and stabbed 17 times while her baby slept nearby.

The graphic facts surrounding Mrs. Ward's brutal encounter with "The Traveling Rapist" were laid bare by her last night during the quarterly membership meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Women's Division. The candid program, focusing on rape prevention, included Mrs. Ward's role as a victim who helped convict Samuel Hawkins as a rapist and murderer through her testimony at his trial in Houston. Also addressing the crowd of 48 women Tuesday evening was Deaf Smith County Sheriff Travis McPherson, a trained expert in forensic hypnosis, who employed hypnotism of The Traveling Rapist's victims throughout the lengthy investigation. McPherson stated that through the usage of hypnosis "we knew all about him (the rapist) except for his name."

To add chilling authenticity to the program, Sheriff McPherson presented the recorded conversation with a hypnotized Mrs. Ward, taped one year following her rape in 1976. Sheriff McPherson explained that hypnosis is particularly

Rape Program

Sheriff Travis McPherson, a trained authority in forensic hypnosis, and Helen Ward, a victim of The Traveling Rapist [Samuel Hawkins], presented a candid program about rape Tuesday evening during a meeting of the helpful in gleaning information from rape victims, who often have difficulty recalling facts due to the trauma involved.

Through Mrs. Ward's testimony under hypnosis, law enforcement officials were able to formulate sketches of the rapist which were widely publicized through the area media. Following his arrest, Hawkins was identified by Mrs.

Ward in a police line-up of suspects.

Much of last night's program included Mrs. Ward answering questions from the audience. When asked if she regretted her decision to have Hawkins prosecuted, she flatly stated, "I wanted to see him get sentenced. I went through my hell and I wanted him to have his."

listeners when she revealed that, according to Samuel Hawkins, he had entered 30 other Hereford residences before finally selecting her, as his victim on the fateful morning in September 1976. "He was looking for a small-framed white woman," she said. The Traveling Rapist hunted his prey in the early morning hours between 3-10 a.m. He usually gained entry through unlocked doors.

Hawkins is currently imprisoned in Huntsville where he is facing a life sentence and two death penalties. He is a self-confessed rapist and murderer who claims that, as a former Baptist preacher, "it was God's will" that he commit his crimes. He is the convicted slayer of a 12-year-old Amarillo girl (See RAPE, Page 2)

MILWAUKEE (AP) — President Carter crushed Sen. Edward Kennedy's campaign comeback with a double-landslide in Wisconsin and Kansas, gaining the votes that put him more than half-way to renomination in what is now a two-man Democratic contest.

Ronald Reagan strengthened his virtually unbreakable grip on the Republican nomination and stands as the candidate the Democrats almost certainly would have to defeat to hold the White House. He captured Wisconsin's primary election on Tuesday, ran away with Kansas, and said that while he wasn't claiming to have the nomination clinched, "it does make for a substantial lead."

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., a distant third to Carter and Kennedy, said he was through as a candidate. "...This will be the last contest in which I participate in 1980," he said.

Rep. John Anderson's Republican campaign hit the skids in Wisconsin. The Illinois congressman had campaigned diligently through the state and hoped Democratic crossover would fortify his showing. But he placed third, behind George Bush, raising questions about his ability to build a third-party candidacy as some supporters urged.

The midwestern primary victories strengthened Carter and Reagan as they head for a Saturday election in Louisiana. Southern Carter and conservative Reagan are strong there, and virtually certain to add to their towering leads in nominating delegates.

Carter emerged from the Tuesday primaries with a national total of 852 delegates, more than half the 1,666-vote majority he'll need to win at the Democratic National Convention. Kennedy has 427.

Reagan's victories swelled his total to 343 of the 998 it will take to gain the GOP nomination. Bush, the former U.N. ambassador who ran second in Wisconsin and third in Kansas, has 72. Anderson has 57.

Bush and Anderson said they would press their campaigns to overtake Reagan, but that will become ever more difficult as the competition moves to southwestern and western states in which the former California governor looms strong.

Kennedy's next target is the April 22 primary in Pennsylvania; he went campaigning there today (See PRIMARIES, Page 2)

Census Line Available For Questions

Hereford residents who have not completed and returned their 1980 census form because they are having trouble understanding questions may get assistance by calling a toll-free telephone number.

Bill Soule of Amarillo, manager of the district census office, said that calls will be answered by a member of a trained team of workers. Some of the Amarillo workers are bilingual.

Anyone wanting to receive a census questionnaire written in Spanish also may call the number.

The number is 1-800-692-4061. Persons should call no later than April 11. Soule said.

Moisture Puts Damper on Dust

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor

A flurry of sleet, pea-sized hail and driving rain descended on the Deaf Smith County area about 4 a.m. today, settling the dust from a massive windstorm of two days ago and restoring some of the soil moisture that was robbed by recent high winds and blowing dust.

This morning's storm proved relatively general in nature, depositing moisture over most portions of the county and proving a soothing follow-up to the grit which blasted the county's wheat crop on Monday.

Heavy thunderstorms were also reported during the night in southeast Texas and this morning in northeast Texas.

The National Weather Service was prompted to issue several severe thunderstorm warnings, mainly in the southeast and northeast portions of the state.

The hammering of pea-sized hail was evident in Hereford about 4 a.m. as sleet and hail were intermingled with falling raindrops.

Hail and ice covered the ground in many portions of the county at 7 a.m.

The heaviest moisture accumulations from today's storm came to the south of Hereford in neighboring Castro County, where .75 inches of rain was recorded at Easter Grain.

KPAN radio logged .35 inches of moisture for the city of Hereford as of 7 a.m. today while the Holly Sugar Corporation's Hereford plant recorded .29 inches.

The Raymond Schlabs farm five miles north of Hereford reported .20 inches of rain with light rain reported at Pioneer Fertilizer at Milo Center.

Northwest Grain, west of Farmer's Corner reported .10 inches of rainfall at 8:30 with additional moisture falling at that time.

The H.L. Hershey farm 13 miles northeast of Hereford reported .30 inches of rain and soft hail covering the ground.

To the east of Hereford, Farmer's Elevator north of Dawn reported .20 inches of rain, and some sleet was also reported.

Dawn Co-Op at the Dawn community recorded .25 inches of rain with light sprinkles continuing at 8:30. Light hail was also reported.

West of Hereford in the dryland wheat and range country, .25 inches of rainfall was recorded at the Clint Homfeld farm 47 miles northwest and Homfeld indicated that 1/4 to 1/2 inch of hail also covered the ground.

Bill Page at the Bootleg community measured .30 inches of rainfall.

Light drizzle mixed with fog was reportedly causing hazardous driving conditions in south central Texas and in the Hill Country this morning and travelers advisories were issued for the Austin and San Antonio areas.

Thunderstorms also roamed during the night in Central Texas and along the Red (See RAIN, Page 2)

Sarpalius To Speak

State senatorial candidate Bill Sarpalius, D-Hereford, will address the Hereford Young Farmers organization at 8 p.m. Thursday in Hereford State Bank.

Sarpalius is seeking the democratic nomination for the 31st Senatorial District, along with Gerald McCathern, also of Hereford. The nominee will face Sen. Bob Price, R-Pampa, in the November general election.

Sarpalius is the former Legislative district manager for Speaker of the House Bill Clayton. He now works a field marketing analyst for Center Plains Industries.

Bani-Sadr: Carter Hasn't Met Terms

By The Associated Press

President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr said President Carter has not met his terms for removal of the American hostages from the control of the militants holding them, and the Revolutionary Council won't take custody of the captives until he does. A top White House official said the Carter administration is not sure what the Iranian leader wants.

"It is not important to us what opinion President Carter has expressed. What is important is whether or not he takes the measures we have specified," Bani-Sadr said in a statement distributed by Pars, the official Iranian news agency.

"If he does, the Revolutionary Council will undertake responsibility for the hostages until the Majlis (Parliament) gives its opinion on the matter. Otherwise it will not."

On Tuesday night, the White House aide said U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim had spoken by telephone with Bani-Sadr and then advised Secretary of State Cyrus Vance that Iran was waiting for a new statement of U.S. intentions.

The aide, who requested anonymity, said, "We don't know specifically what they're looking for. We would like to be as helpful as we can. Obviously there are limitations beyond which the president cannot go."

Earlier Tuesday, Bani-Sadr told a rally the council had agreed to take control of the hostages until the new Iranian parliament decided their fate if the U.S. government pledged to abstain from all hostile action and propaganda against Iran until their fate was decided by the new Parliament.

In the first round of parliamentary voting, the clergy-dominated Islamic Republican Party won 49 seats, supporters of Bani-Sadr captured 18, and independents won 21, and several minor parties won a total of 13, it was reported today. The other 169 seats will be filled in a second round of parliamentary voting expected to be held in about a month. A government-appointed commission is now investigating claims of vote-rigging in the first round of voting.

Bani-Sadr's apparent determination to end the embassy standoff likely will be made more difficult if the Islamic Republican Party wins a parliamentary majority. Party members, mostly Moslem clergymen, have backed Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and the militants holding the American hostages in their demands for the return of the shah in exchange for release of the hostages.

A short time after Bani-Sadr spoke Tuesday, Carter told White House reporters the offer was a "positive development" and that he would defer imposing further sanctions against Iran. However, Carter repeatedly ignored reporters' questions as to whether he intended to accede to Bani-Sadr's conditions.

Asked whether the silence meant acquiescence, a senior White House aide said, "This government is not aware that it has engaged in any hostile action or provocation....The president's remarks constitute our statement on this matter. I think I have made myself abundantly clear."

Carter told an AFL-CIO meeting Tuesday that no one in his administration apologized to the Iranian regime for any action during the reign of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, contradicting Tehran reports over the weekend that two messages he sent the Iranian government last week contained expressions of regret for American actions.

Carter also warned that American patience is running thin.

Guerrillas Plan Lengthy Siege

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Both the guerrillas holding 27 hostages in the Dominican Republic's Embassy and the Colombian government say they will hold out for months — as long as the students in Tehran, said the guerrilla negotiator.

The leftists and the government scheduled their ninth negotiating session this afternoon, the 30th day of the siege. The guerrillas were to respond to proposals presented by the government Tuesday.

Reliable government sources said the proposals were:

To invite the Inter-American Human Rights Commission to Colombia to attend military trials scheduled for some 300 suspected guerrillas and to investigate allegations of torture and human rights violations. The government said Tuesday night that the invitation has already been sent.

To transfer the trials from military to civilian courts. Removing them from under military law could lead to freedom for some of the suspects who have been in jail more than 180 days without trial.

White House Unsure Of Iranian Demands

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top White House official, acknowledging the Iranian government is dissatisfied with President Carter's latest statement on the hostage crisis, says "we don't know specifically what they're looking for."

The official, who asked that he not be named, said Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr wants a new statement of U.S. intentions toward Iran.

"We would like to be as helpful as we can," the official said.

But questioned on whether that remark signaled increased U.S. flexibility, the official cautioned against that interpretation. "Obviously there are limitations beyond which the president cannot do," he said.

The official said U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim talked by telephone Tuesday with Bani-Sadr and then told Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance the Iranian leader was not satisfied with a statement Carter made to reporters early Tuesday morning.

Court Orders Murder Charge Thrown Out

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals today instructed a San Antonio judge, who erroneously interpreted the Speedy Trials Act, to dismiss a murder indictment against a man charged in a 1978 stabbing.

David Martinez Garcia was charged with killing Larry Gonzales on Feb. 25, 1978. Garcia was indicted on June 7, 1978, and on Aug. 28, 1978, asked State District Judge Preston Dial to throw out the charge because 120 days had passed.

The state Speedy Trial Act, which went into effect July 1, 1978, requires the state to prosecute within 120 days.

After Dial threw the case out, prosecutors claimed he erred because the Court of Criminal Appeals had ruled that time elapsed prior to July 1, 1978, was not to be counted in a speedy trial action. Dial agreed and reinstated the indictment.

But the Court of Criminal Appeals today said Dial had no jurisdiction after dismissing the case.

35 Men Rescued From Burning Tanker

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — All 35 men who jumped into the fog-shrouded Gulf of Mexico from the blazing deck of a tanker following a collision with a freighter were reported safe, the U.S. Coast guard said early today.

Coast Guard Petty Officer Kenneth Harry said the tanker Amoco Cremona was still burning some two hours following the early morning collision with the freighter Mason Lykes.

The injured crewman was taken to a Galveston hospital and the other crewmen plucked from the water were taken to the U.S. Coast Guard station here.

The Coast Guard did not know how many men were aboard the freighter. Fog had reduced visibility to about one-half mile at the time of the collision, Harry said.

Museum To Reopen

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The undaunted curator of a fire-ravaged antique auto museum plans to partially reopen next Monday — only a week after the $400,000 blaze that damaged several rare cars in the "priceless" collection.

Monday afternoon's fire destroyed three rare old cars in the downtown San Antonio Museum of Transportation, but the best of the 55 cars in the collection escaped with only smoke and water damage. Curator Joe Zawatski said Tuesday.

Some of those those $150,000 antique autos were severely damaged, but all can be saved, he added. The cars' paint jobs and tops showed the effects of the gritty smoke and water.

Arson investigators made routine investigations Monday and Tuesday, but Zawatski said Tuesday that officials still think the fire was caused by an electrical short circuit.

Three of the four main exhibit areas had only limited smoke and water damage and should be reopened next Monday, Zawatski said hopefully. Some of the damaged cars will be put back on display, until funds can be raised to repair them, he added.

The museum's collection is considered the 10th largest in the United States, the curator said.

"You'll still be able to tell there was a fire here. But we feel an obligation to the public to reopen," he said. "People can come and see what happened, what we need to rebuild."

"Plus, many tourists come here and go out of their way to see this museum. Damn it, we'll be open for them," Zawatski vowed. "This is a priceless collection. We'll start a fund and rebuild. It will take a lot of time, effort and money."

Volunteers sifting through the rubble Tuesday discovered that the costly fire had done more damage than first believed, Zawatski said.

The initial estimate is at $400,000, but Zawatski said he thinks the final damage figure will be higher.

A reference library of several thousand volumes and expensive new equipment in the museum's workshop were destroyed, as were several pieces of antique furniture, paintings, and lavish Fiesta gowns that dated back 50 years. The furniture, paintings and gowns were being stored at the museum.

The fire destroyed a 1962 Mercedes roadster, a 1940 American Bantam and a 1957 Lotus racer, which Zawatski said were worth a total of about $35,000.

He said damage to a $30,000 1941 Cadillac was very severe and much worse than first expected. It can still be salvaged, he added.

A unique 1926 Rolls Royce with a Murphy custom body, valued at more than $150,000, was in the hard-hit workshop area and miraculously was not destroyed, officials said. The car's paint job was ruined, however.

"We were very lucky. The whole car collection could have burned up," said San Antonio Museum Association Director Helmut Naumer.

The museum had been looking for another building to replace its overcrowded HemisFair Plaza site.

Holy Week Migration To Brownsville Begins

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — The annual trek of Holy Week visitors has begun, and immigration officers say travelers from Mexico are streaming across international bridges in traditional, large numbers.

Brownsville Gateway Bridge.

The Holy Week trip is a vacation for most people, but it started out of necessity when the Mexican Revolution of 1910 curtailed the powers of the Roman Catholic Church. Clergymen to this day cannot wear religious garments outside church buildings.

"During the Mexican Revolution when priests and members of the church were persecuted, there was a great migration to Texas and California during Holy Week," said the Rev. Richard Shirley, chancellor of the Diocese of Corpus Christi.

"Here, they could celebrate the last days of Christ, without fear of persecution. It became a religious tradition and every year there is another, great migration."

Mexican visitors began crossing the Rio Grande on Friday to spend the holiday with friends, relatives or at shopping centers. Most will return the day after Easter.

The Corpus Christi Chamber of Commerce has prepared special signs identifying merchants who will accept pesos this week. Special city tours and information packets also will be available for Mexican visitors.

A Brownsville Chamber of Commerce spokesman said hotels and motels are full. Many Mexican vacationers will spend the week at South Padre Island.

An estimated 3,000 to 5,000 persons will come across at Laredo each day this week, said L.T. Barr, Immigration and Naturalization Service supervisor.

Immigration officials, faced with budget cuts, said they are trying to keep all bridge lanes open. The agency's overtime funds were cut, and the number of Sunday and holiday inspectors reduced.

"Holy Week has been traditionally the heaviest week of the year," said LaVerne Nielsen, assistant supervisor at the Hidalgo-Reynosa bridge, south of McAllen.

Merchants look forward to heavy sales this week. They reacted vigorously against both INS budget cutbacks and a proposed change in border crossing permits.

The INS wanted to do away with a 72-hour permit and instead require Mexican visitors to wait up to three months for a "counterfeit-proof" card.

The agency abandoned plans for new permits and will continue honoring the temporary cards.

"It's big, believe me. I don't know the exact number because we only count by the month. But there's more this year than last," said A.A. Lachowsky, immigration supervisor at the

Census Resistance Continues To Build

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — While millions of Americans were counting bedrooms and bathrooms, self-styled anarchist Jeff Hummel put his flaming lighter to his census form.

Hummel, a 31-year-old graduate history student, says it's none of the government's business who lives with him and how much money he makes.

"It's based on coercion. You're forced to answer," he said, citing the $100 to $500 fines that can be levied for failure to respond to the government's once-a-decade accounting of who lives where.

Hummel, a member of the Libertarian Party, debated an accounting major who decided to defend the federal government and the census.

"If I came into your house and said I was going to fine you $100 if you didn't tell me how many people were living there, you'd throw me out," Hummel told Bill Rallis, 21.

"They are not going to give the information to anybody," said Rallis during the impromptu debate at the University of Texas.

But Hummel disagreed, claiming the government sells lists of names to private companies. The Census Bureau says it does not record names but asks them only to differentiate among several persons in a household.

"A lot of people are putting false information down. One person I know listed his cat as a person," he said of other efforts to resist the census.

Rallis said the government needs the numbers to figure out how to redistribute tax money.

Hummel said "taxation is theft."

"There are 65 questions in the census form and very little of it has anything to do with the population of this country," said Hummel, referring to questions about monthly utility bills and how many bathrooms are in a house.

Hummel was confident his act of civil disobedience would go unpunished. There was no attempt to prevent the burning or to arrest him afterward.

Primaries

after gaining the endorsement of the million-member American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

Carter let the numbers do the talking. Spokesman Jody Powell said the president termed his victories evidence of "very important and very strong support." Wisconsin campaign manager Curtis Wiley said Carter "was elated at the spread" by which he defeated Kennedy.

It was 56 percent to 30 percent in Wisconsin, 57 percent to 32 percent in Kansas.

Brown had concentrated on Wisconsin for a month, but he got only 12 percent of the vote. He needed 20 percent to avoid losing federal subsidies for a campaign that already was running out of money.

So he conceded the election and the campaign. "...The voters have spoken and have given their verdict on my 1980 campaign, and that means that this will be the last contest in which I participate in 1980," he told supporters in Milwaukee.

Carter's midwestern victories undid the short-lived comeback Kennedy gained by capturing the New York and Connecticut primaries one Tuesday earlier. The president now has won nine primaries; Kennedy three.

These were Tuesday's results:

Democrats

Wisconsin, with 99 percent of the precincts counted: Carter 348,518 or 56 percent, for 48 delegates. Kennedy 187,109 or 30 percent, for 26 delegates. Brown 77,246 or 12 percent, for 1 delegate.

The rest was scattered among two minor candidates and the uncommitted line on the ballot.

Kansas, with returns complete: Carter 108,651 or 57 percent for 23 delegates. Kennedy 60,649 or 32 percent for 14 delegates. Brown 9,362 or 5 percent. Six percent of the vote was for "none of the names shown," the rest was scattered among minor candidates.

Republicans

Wisconsin, with 99 percent of the precincts reporting: Reagan 360,314 or 40 percent, for 28 delegates. Bush 274,383 or 31 percent.

Anderson 246,746 or 28 percent, for 6 delegates.

The balance was scattered. The delegates were apportioned on the basis of congressional district showings; since Anderson carried two districts he won delegates. Bush did not win any district and claimed no delegates.

Kansas, with all votes counted:

Reagan 178,068 or 63 percent, for 20 delegates. Anderson 51,504 or 18 percent, for 5 delegates. Bush 35,412 or 13 percent, for 4 delegates.

There also were 3 uncommitted delegates there, with the balance of the vote cast for minor entries. Anderson focused his efforts in Wisconsin, bidding for crossover support from Democrats and independents. Apparently he got his share, but while he was gaining liberal support, Reagan captured the votes of conservative Democrats. He led the GOP field in five of the nine most heavily Democratic counties in Wisconsin.

About 58 percent of the total primary vote was cast in the GOP contest. Four years ago, nearly 56 percent of the primary voters chose Democratic ballots.

The president carried all but one of Wisconsin's 72 counties.

Reagan won 62 of them in the GOP primary. He said in Los Angeles that he was delighted, but wasn't claiming the nomination yet. "I'm not going to decide because maybe I'm ahead in the first half that the game is won," he said.

Carter and Kennedy will battle in Louisiana where 51 Democratic delegates are at stake Saturday.

and Abby Hamilton of Borger, who was nine months pregnant at the time of her murder.

According to Sheriff McPherson, Hawkins "hung himself" when he insisted on serving as his own legal counsel during his trials. McPherson defended capital punishment when he told the crowd "There's no point in society having to deal with him (Hawkins). Rape is a crime that deserves the death penalty—but you don't."

The sheriff spoke of his obsession with nailing The Traveling Rapist. "If I didn't solve another case in my life, I had to solve this one," he said.

Describing her current outlook in the aftermath of rape, Mrs. Ward said "I'm still frightened at times. I've changed my outlook on life. What happened has made me more aware of what's going on. I'm just lucky to be here."

Lows in the Panhandle this morning were in the 30's with today's high expected to reach near 60.

Today's forecast called for a chance of blowing dust on the South Plains, with fair conditions in most sections through tonight.

Windy conditions are expected to prevail in the Panhandle on Thursday with highs in the upper 50's in the northern portion of the area ranging to the upper 70's in the south and near 90 in the Big Bend.

Lows tonight are expected to be in the mid 30's in the northern Panhandle.

Post Office May Drop Saturday Deliveries

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service, choosing to hit customers at the mailbox instead of the pocketbook, now is considering elimination of Saturday deliveries as the only practical way to meet proposed budget cuts.

Postmaster General William F. Bolger told the agency's governing board Tuesday there appears to be no way to maintain six-day mail service, despite President Carter's recommendation for a much milder budget cut than what Congress is considering, unless postage rates are increased sooner than anticipated.

Bolger said he has ordered task forces to study the effects of reducing mail deliveries from six to five days a week and the impact of that on labor relations.

Just a week ago, Bolger told the House Budget Committee that cuts aimed at balancing the federal budget to help tame inflation would mean either elimination of Saturday mail or faster rate increases.

President Carter's proposal to trim just $250 million from the Post Office budget for fiscal 1981 — instead of the $836 million recommended by the House Budget Committee — was widely viewed in Congress as an effort to maintain Saturday deliveries. The Budget Committee suggested ending them.

Harbor Project Emerges As 22nd District Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Freeport, Texas, harbor improvement project is emerging as a key issue in the seesaw battle to represent the state's 22nd Congressional District.

A local delegation seeking funds for the project testified Tuesday before House and Senate appropriations subcommittees, without the presence of Rep. Ron Paul.

The conservative Republican from Lake Jackson said he was not asked to accompany his constituents. The group included the district's former congressman and Paul's potential fourth-time Democratic opponent, Bob Gammage.

"I supported the funding before and I will be supporting it again," Paul said in an interview.

He accused the local interests of "playing politics" with their bid for the project's inclusion in the fiscal year 1981 appropriations bill.

"I think they are more or less guaranteeing that the funds won't be in there by playing politics," Paul added.

His absence was noticed at the House hearing by Rep. John Myers, R-Ind., who repeatedly asked the delegation why its congressman was not there.

Al Wise, chairman of the Brazos River Harbor Navigation District, replied that Paul had the opportunity to attend but did not take it.

"I don't know why he didn't appear," Wise said later. "He knew we were here."

At issue is the congressman's ability to rope a water projects appropriation, an area traditionally accused of pork barreling and mutual back scratching.

The funds for Freeport harbor were included in the Senate 1980 version of the appropriations bill but not in the House bill. The conference committee then did not include them in the final product.

Congressional sources say privately that Paul's frequent calls against government spending prompted the exclusion.

"The fact of the matter is - he don't get along with his colleagues," one said.

At one point Paul distributed photographs of his Chevette compact car and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill's limousine to compare gas mileage.

Paul said he has two theories about why the funds were excluded last year.

One theory suggests that Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, worked against the Freeport project because of the potential competition it posed with Galveston and Beaumont, ports in his district.

The other is that House Majority Leader Jim Wright of Fort Worth lobbied specifically against the project, possibly to make Paul look ineffective in the potential replay of his races against Gammage.

"I truthfully don't know which one is true," Paul said.

Brooks, of Beaumont, declined to comment other than to say, "It's not in my district."

A spokesman for Wright, who asked not to be identified by name, replied that Wright is not on the committee that makes appropriations decisions.

Paul, a doctor, first defeated Gammage in a 1976 special election; Gammage won in that year's general election and Paul reversed the outcome in 1978. All three races were won by tight margins.

This year, Paul is running unopposed in the May Republican primary.

Gammage, a Houston attorney, is one of three candidates in the district's Democratic primary.

His opponents are attorney Mike Andrews and college professor Joe Pentony, both of Houston.

Gammage said local harbor and business interests asked him to come to Tuesday's hearings - "in the absence of an advocate in the House, which is unfortunate."

In an interview, the former congressman said: "It totally lacks an advocate in the House."

Although the project was authorized in 1970, Gammage said preparatory work was not complete until December 1978 so obtaining funds for it was not possible during his term.

The $5 million in federal funds would be used for a project designed to dredge the 36-foot harbor to a depth of 50 feet.

Supporters claim that the apparent failure of the proposed offshore deepwater port near Freeport has raised significantly the harbor project's cost-benefit ratio.

Paul said he basically supports, endorses and encourages the Freeport harbor plans despite his ardent views on preventing government intervention in the economy.

The congressman added that the extent of his support may hinge on the outcome of an upcoming local bond election which he said might be used to measure the project's popular support.

The port is trying to sell a $31 million bond issue, of which $8.5 million would be used for the locally funded portion of the harbor project.

Paul said he believes the whole dispute outlines his belief that special interests and corporate wealth play too great a role in government.

His preferred alternative, if political realities did not discourage it, would be to require the project to be funded by the corporations whose plants would benefit.

"They're going to make $700 million," Paul said. "They ought to pay for it."

"Singles" are a boon to the restaurant business, The Conference Board notes. Americans in their 20s and early 30s who live alone or with another person spend almost 6 percent of their budget on eating out, compared with 4.5 percent by the typical U.S. family. Singles account for nearly 16 percent of all restaurant sales and drink 20 percent of the alcohol sold.

HOUSTON (AP) - Relatives of a Brownwood man who was among seven persons killed in a March 21 plane crash at Hobby Airport have filed a $6.5 million damage suit against Eagle Commuter Airlines Inc.

Dorothy Dean Savoy, wife of Virgil Ray Savoy, 46, filed the state district court suit in behalf of herself, her four children, and her mother-in-law, Anna Savoy.

The suit contends all six plaintiffs were dependant upon Savoy for at least part of their financial support.

One of three survivors from the crash of the Piper Navajo Chieftain filed suit last week seeking unspecified damages.

Air controllers said the pilot of the plane radioed just before the crash his plane had lost an engine on takeoff.

HOUSTON (AP) - A research study report says the 1,000-unit Allen Parkway Village public housing project just west of downtown Houston is structurally and sociologically obsolete.

The report on the study initiated by the City Council said the village is on land that is potentially the most valuable in the city for residential development and could be sold at a price sufficient to retire outstanding bonds and finance construction of new units.

The report was part of a $70,000 study on the old 4th Ward area where 90 percent of the property is owned by absentee landlords.

A final report with specific recommendations is expected in about a month.

HOUSTON (AP) - Rice

University has promoted two scientists to vice presidency positions.

Dr. William E. Gordon, dean of natural sciences, will become provost and vice president, succeeding Dr. Frank E. Vandiver, who has been elected president of North Texas State University.

Dr. John L. Margrove, dean of advanced studies and research, will be vice president for such studies.

HOUSTON (AP) - A University of Houston security guard has entered a plea of guilty to a burglary charge alleging an attempt to break into a campus safe.

State District Judge Allen Stillely received the plea from Richard McKinley Moorehead, 22, and delayed sentencing pending receipt of a probation report.

Ken Sparks, an assistant district attorney, said Moorehead was arrested as he and an undercover policeman posing as a locksmith were trying to open the safe.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements says three House members who criticized his recent announcement of increased imports of Mexican produce don't know what they are talking about.

Clements met with Mexican Gov. Enrique Cardenas Gonzalez of Tamaulipas here last week. After the meeting, Clements said the two governors agreed to increase agricultural exchanges.

Reps. Dan Kubiak, D-Rockdale, Forrest Green, D-Corsicana, and Pete Paterson, D-Brookston, charged the northbound Mexican produce could endanger Texans' health and economically damage Texas farmers.

"Mr. Kubiak and these two other legislators are more concerned with making a few headlines than they are with the facts - or with Texas agriculture," Clements said Tuesday.

"I am interested in trying to help our farmers on a continuing basis, and it is absurd to take the position that we can keep on selling Texas corn, sorghum and wheat to Mexico by the millions of tons, without our buying some melons, strawberries and vegetables in exchange," Clements said.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - GOP presidential contender Ronald Reagan will campaign in Lubbock and Amarillo on April 9, according to Ernest Angelo, Reagan's Texas campaign chief.

"Gov. Reagan considers Texas one of his most important states," Angelo said Tuesday.

The former California governor will appear at afternoon rallies in the two Texas cities.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Texas operators reported 36 gas discoveries and 26 oil discoveries during the final two weeks of March, according to the Texas Railroad Commission oil and gas division.

Through the first three months of 1980, operators have reported 357 gas and 195 oil discoveries, compared to 362 gas and 107 oil discoveries in the same period in 1979.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements announced Tuesday four appointments to the Family Farm Advisory Council.

Selected were Charles Wilson of Quanah, J.T. Garrett of Danbury, Jerry Holton Jones of Lubbock, and Felix Parmley of Nacogdoches.

Clements also announced the selection of Simon Casper Cornelius of Victoria to the Advisory Council on Community Affairs.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - U.S. Rep. Mickey Leland, D-Texas, has endorsed President Carter for reelection, Carter-Mondale headquarters announced Tuesday.

Leland, a black congressman from Houston, said it was clear Carter would be the Democratic nominee "and it's time that we all unite behind the president as he begins the task of defeating (Ronald) Reagan in November."

HOUSTON, Texas (AP) - Texas Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown said officials from Taiwan have signed contracts to buy $90 million worth of Texas cotton in the next few months.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Houston Chamber of Commerce President Louie Welch, Brown and Texas cotton industry leaders met with the Taiwanese officials here Tuesday to complete the deal.

Brown said 325,000 bales of Texas cotton would be shipped to Taiwan. The cotton was part of a $133.9 million Taiwanese purchase of American goods, according to Brown.

Other products purchased included drilling and industrial equipment.

The cotton was sold at 65 cents per pound.

Wayland Announces Record Enrollment

Final totals released this week by the Office of the Registrar show Wayland Baptist College again set an all-time enrollment record this spring.

Some 1,382 persons were enrolled for classes at the beginning of the spring term, according to Audrey Boles, WBC registrar. That figure includes 1,333 credit students and another 49 who are auditing courses at the main campus.

The 1,333 people receiving college credit from Wayland for spring course work includes 848 students on campus—also another all-time high—and 485 at Wayland extension centers in Amarillo, Reese Air Force Base, Sheppard Air Force Base and Honolulu, Hawaii.

The spring totals reflect an increase of 22 students above last fall's record 1,311 credit students and a jump of six above the overall total of 1,376 who attended class in the fall.

However, the spring registration totals do not include another 851 persons auditing Aerobics classes through Wayland at 12 separate locations around the area, and another 145 people enrolled in short-term continuing education courses this spring.

"That brings the total number of people being served academically by Wayland Baptist College this spring to 2,329," said Dr. Dan McLallen, vice-president for academic affairs. "We are very proud to be able to serve that number of people and feel that the spring enrollment figures reflect a significant growth in the academic foundation on which Wayland is based."

Episcopal Church To Observe Maundy Thursday, Communion

Saint Thomas Episcopal Church will observe Maundy Thursday, the traditional day of the Last Supper and the institution by Jesus of the Holy Communion, with a celebration of the Holy Communion beginning at 7:30 p.m. Thursday evening.

The celebration of the Holy Communion will be followed by the stripping of the altar and the church of all ornaments and decorations not directly connected with the trial and crucifixion of Jesus. The crosses in the church will be draped in black, the traditional color of mourning.

A prayer vigil will begin immediately, and will continue until noon on Good Friday, in response to Jesus' request of his disciples "Can You Not Watch For An Hour With Me?" and then continuing in response to his arrest, trial and crucifixion.

At noon on Good Friday, a liturgy will begin which observed Jesus' last three hours on the cross, a period when the gospels, of Matthew, Mark and Luke say that "there was darkness over the land." This liturgy is spaced so that it may be attended during lunch hour only, or after the first hour, in periods of about 15 minutes each.

This last two-hour period concentrates on Jesus' "Seven Words" as he hung on the cross. It ends at 3 p.m., the traditional time (the ninth hour) of Jesus' death.

Beginning at 7:30 p.m., the liturgy of the stations of the cross will be celebrated, in which Christ's journey through the streets of Jerusalem to the Hill called Golgotha, his crucifixion, and death, are recalled with readings and prayers.

The feast of the resurrection, commonly called Easter, will be celebrated with the lighting of the new fire, which recalls the return of the light on the world from the grave; the Easter Vigil, which recalls with Bible readings, hymns, and canticles the Mighty acts of God not only in the creation but in his sending His son for the world's salvation; Holy Baptism, which was in the early church celebrated only on Easter Eve; and the celebration of the Holy Communion, all on Easter Eve, beginning at 9 p.m.

On Easter morning, the Holy Communion will be celebrated once again.

The public is invited to attend the special services.

Coordinate fabric remnants or leftover scraps with other fabrics to create currently popular bicolor or tricolor geometric looks, says Becky Saunders, clothing specialist.

Mrs. Saunders is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Boy Scouts 70 Years Old

For 70 years the Boy Scouts of America has provided a unique educational program for the youth of this nation. The Boy Scouts of America currently serves over 4,000,000 members. The program has been made possible by the millions of Americans who have, through the years, devoted their time and energy to help young people grow toward responsible leadership.

The movement was begun in England by Lord Baden-Powell, a British Army General who became immensely popular for his heroism in the Boer War, (1898-1900). His book, aids to Scouting, was very popular among English boys. Inspired by the great interest in the book, he wrote a handbook, Scouting for Boys, which included advice on camping and hiking as well as pictures of a special uniform to wear and badges to earn. It also presented a code of honor, charging the boys to help other people at all times and to "Do a Good Turn Daily." The movement gained such popularity that Baden-Powell resigned from the Army to devote all his time to Scouting.

The "Good Turn" brought Scouting to the attention of Chicago publisher William D. Boyce, who became lost in a heavy fog in London. He was aided by a boy who refused to take a tip for his services. Learning that the boy was a Scout whose code of honor didn't allow him to take money for doing a good turn, Boyce arranged a meeting with Baden-Powell. So impressed was he with what he learned of the movement that he and a group of other Americans interested in the welfare of boys incorporated the Boys Scouts of America on February 8, 1910, in Washington, D.C. This date has been observed since then as the birthday of the Boy Scouts of America.

Among Scouting's early leaders were two naturalists, Daniel Carter Beard and Ernest Thompson Seton, whose writings and illustrations helped bring the romance of the wilderness, the essence of real scouting, to the early movement. James E. West, a Washington lawyer who became the first Chief Scout Executive, laid the foundation which has been the basis of the organization.

In 1916 the Boy Scouts of America was chartered by Congress to assist community organizations that chose to adopt Scouting as part of their youth programs. Two kinds of charters are issued by the Boy Scouts of America; one for community organizations and the other for local Boy Scouts of America councils. The first charter enables community groups to use the Scouting program under their own leadership as a service to their youth and families. The other empowers local councils to help chartered organizations effectively use the Scouting program by providing support through such areas as leadership training; outdoor facilities, program material and literature, and other program aids.

Cub Scouting is a family and home-centered program for boys ages 7-10 years. They can become Webelos Scouts at age 10 and prepare to become Boy Scouts.

Boy Scouting is a program for boys ages 11 through 17 years, and is designed to achieve Scouting's objectives through a vigorous outdoor program and peer group leadership.

For young men and women ages 14 through 20, Exploring provides realistic opportunities to explore adult roles and vocational opportunities. Explorer posts work in association with business and community groups.

Volunteer adult leaders serve at all levels of Scouting in 416 local councils, 31 areas, six regions, and nationally with a volunteer executive board and committees providing guidance. Downing B. Jenks, a St. Louis corporate leader, is serving his third term as national president. J.L. Tarr, Chief Scout Executive, administers the organization and its professional staff from the new national office in the Dallas/Ft. Worth area.

Glenn Brooke Included On Dean's Honor Roll

SAN MARCOS — Glenn G. Brooke of 240 Centre in Hereford was among the 3,497 students whose fall semester grades earned them places on the Southwest Texas State University dean's Honor Roll and Superior Honor Roll lists.

To make the regular Honor Roll, a student must be enrolled for a minimum of 12 semester hours of coursework, excluding physical education activities, and achieve an overall "B" average.

Making the Superior Honor Roll requires grades of "A" in at least 12 of the required 15 semester hours of coursework, excluding physical education activities, and no lower than a "B" in the other three-hour course. This translates into a 3.8 grade-point average or better on a 4.0 scale.

Undergraduate courses only considered in the tabulated list. Incomplete, or "I", grades earned during the fall semester disqualifies students from the Honor Rolls. Brooke was listed on the regular Honor Roll.

Bridge Club Cancels Play

The Community Duplicate Bridge Club has announced that there will be no bridge play Friday, April 4. Regular play will resume Friday, April 11 in REC Medallion Room.

Children occasionally need a small space for play where they can enjoy their solitude, says Diane Welch, a family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

It can be very demanding on a child to spend all his time in large rooms with other people, she explains.

Ann Landers Pedophilia Plea

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Over the years your column has dealt with countless letters regarding homosexuality, to your everlasting credit. But you have yet to address yourself to another sex-related illness: pedophilia—attraction to young children.

The homosexual can find satisfying (even rewarding) outlets with those of his own kind, but the pedophilic has no such option.

I am a professional man (certified public accountant), 40 years of age and the father of four young boys. (I am attracted to little girls). Please do not recommend that I seek psychiatric care because I have already gone that route with two psychiatrists and a clinical psychologist. "Treatment" has cost me more than $6,000 and I received no help whatsoever.

You cannot respond to my home because my wife might open the letter and it would mean the end of our marriage. Please help me. I am desperate.—No City, No State, Just Dead-End Street, USA

DEAR USA: When people are sick the only advice I can give is "See a doctor, and you are among the sickest. Even though you feel the professionals did not help you, I'm going to recommend that you try still another therapist. Apparently you were "helped" sufficiently so that your activities are kept to a minimum.

The alternative is to keep going along without therapy. Then, one of these days, the father of a little girl to whom you become "attracted" may put a large hole in your head—and no jury would convict him.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If "barfing in Baton Rouge" doesn't like cutesy thank-you notes written by the new baby or the three-year-old birthday girl, she'd just LOVE the "utility" thank-you letter designed for the super-busy person.

Our son received this monstrosity from his teacher as an expression of gratitude for a holiday plate filled with 10 varieties of home-baked cookies.

It's a mimeographed copy, in the teacher's own handwriting, complete with blanks to fill in. The blanks are for the name of the giver, the type of gift, what use the gift would be put to, etc. Crummy, to say the least.

None of my other children has ever had such a busy teacher. All the others found time to write a thank-you note on attractive, personal stationery and mail it to the house. What's your view of this?—Bemused in Illinois

DEAR BEMUSED: Same as yours. Crummy.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A dear friend died of cancer (age 44) and left a 13-year-old son. The grieving husband is having a difficult time. He has a competent housekeeper, but he'll lose her soon if something isn't done.

His sisters, who live in another state, have been sending their children weekends to help "cheer up" the boy.

They are sloppy, sassy, wild and running the poor fellow ragged. He feels he must "entertain" them. The housekeeper resents the extra work and has told me so. Should I phone the mothers and tip them off? Please advise.—Vida

DEAR VIDA: No. Suggest to the father that he phone the mothers and say, "If you really want to be helpful, invite my boy to YOUR homes on alternate weekends for a while."

Going to a wedding? Giving One? Or standing up in one? Even if you're already married Ann Landers' completely new "The Bride's Guide" will answer questions about today's weddings. For a copy, send a dollar, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (15 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Local Artist To Feature Work in Kerrville Fair

The Texas State Arts and Crafts Fair, to be held May 24-25-26, in Kerrville, annually features the work of over 200 carefully juried artists. Local artist, Andrew Wilks, will be returning to the official Texas event, affectionately known as "State" among artists and craftspeople. The sponsoring Texas Arts and Crafts Foundation received almost 800 applications for the 1980 Fair.

Chosen as an "Award of Excellence" winner at the 1979 Fair, Wilks did not have to compete with those 800 applicants. Actively involved in bronze sculpture for three years, he owns and operates his own foundry in Hereford. Wilks received his Master of Art degree in 1978 and has shown his work in Hereford, Snyder, Pampa, Amarillo and Kerrville.

A country fair atmosphere brightens the 16 acre showcase of Texas talent. Two stages on the fairgrounds offer ten musical concerts daily on Saturday and Sunday, free to Fair ticketholders, and feature professional entertainers. Monday brings an afternoon of winners in concert from the Kerrville Music Foundation activities at Quiet Valley Ranch. The Pioneer Village and Children's Petting Zoo add to family enjoyment.

Fair food is varied and the traditional favorites have been featured in several publications. Parking is free on an attended lot, with air conditioned shuttle buses, also free, to take visitors to the gate.

Advance tickets and special group rates are available which will eliminate standing in line. For more information or a free color brochure write: TACF, P.O. Box 1527, Kerrville, Texas 78028.

Jayroe Among Realtors At LE Legislative Meet

Melvin Jayroe of Hereford is among more than 100 Texas Realtors, led by Texas Association of Realtors president, David L. Stirton of Houston, who have joined several thousand others in the nation's capital to demand that their elected representatives in Congress take on the responsibility of halting inflation by slowing federal spending and balancing the budget.

The Realtors are in Washington through today for a legislative conference sponsored by the National Association of Realtors and as President Stirton says "we intend to press our Congressmen, face to face, to take action, not in the distant future, but soon, on the inflation problems laying siege to our country."

"In fact, I am glad to report that NAR is placing ads in both the Dallas News and the Houston Chronicle April 1, carrying the Realtors' recommendations regarding solutions to the situation. It is being called the 2 percent Solution. The message will urge that the federal government cut by 2 percent the growth in spending over the next 18 months, resulting in a slowing in the momentum of inflation. If the government could slow down the growth in taxes by 2 percent, it would encourage savings and investments, and interest rates would decline.

"Our estimation is that the following would come about: (1) reduce inflation by at least 3 percent, (2) lower short term interest rates by at least 3 percent, (3) lower mortgage interest rates to more affordable levels, (4) build 400,000 new homes each year, (5) allow 1 million additional households to move to better housing each year, (6) create 1 million jobs, and (7) increase household incomes by $900."

Stirton also said that "I am counting on my team of officers to make this legislative conference the most effective visit to Washington, D.C., ever."

Every region of Texas is represented in the delegation. Among those planning to be in Washington from the Houston area with Stirton are TAR vice president George Wagner, Houston Board president, Nancy Sartain, and past president of TAR, Julio S. Laguarda.

Jayroe, Hereford real estate leader and civic worker, is also a regional vice-president for 1980. Past presidents of TAR, from Amarillo, Don Mason and Franklin Jeffers, are also expected to represent the West Texas area.

The Newspaper Bible

HOW DID YOU KNOW ALL ABOUT ME?
The next day Jesus decided to go to Galilee. He found Philip and told him, "Come with Me."
(Philip was from Bethsaida, Andrew and Peter's home town.)

Philip now went off to look for Nathanael and told him, "We have found the Messiah!—the very person Moses and the prophets told about! His name is Jesus, the son of Joseph from Nazareth!"

"Nazareth!" exclaimed Nathanael. "Can anything good come from there?"

"Just come and see for yourself," Philip declared. As they approached, Jesus said, "Here comes an honest man—a true son of Israel."

"How do you know what I am like?" Nathanael demanded.

And Jesus replied, "I could see you under the fig tree before Philip found you."

Nathanael replied, "Sir, You are the Son of God—the King of Israel!"

Jesus asked him, "Do you believe all this just because I told you I had seen you under the fig tree? You will see greater proofs than this."

You will even see heaven open and the angels of God coming back and forth to Me, the Man of Glory."

Canning Season Here

COLLEGE STATION -- Canning season is here -- so do it right!

It's not difficult, but it must be done properly to avoid food poisoning, such as botulism, in the words of a foods and nutrition specialist.

Here's most of what you need to know as outlined by Mary K. Sweeten with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System:

Before you start canning, carefully read reliable water bath or pressure-canner instructions for preparing, packaging and processing each food.

You can get this information from your local County Extension Office.

Proper canning procedures ensure that food is kept safe to eat -- since it will be processed with high heat and then kept safe with an airtight seal.

High heat destroys harmful bacteria and other microorganisms that cause food spoilage. Also, it inactivates enzymes that cause undesirable changes in flavor, color and texture.

Plainview's George Jordan (8) comes barreling in to home plate in a race with time and Hereford catcher Don DeLozier in the second game of Tuesday's twinbill between the two teams. The Bulldog won this particular contest after sliding past the catcher's mit for a run, but the Whitefaces took both games 6-2, 8-7 in the squad's first district competition of the season. In Opening District Play

Hereford Baseballers Take 2 from Plainview

By MAURI MONTGOMERY
Brand Sports Editor

April Fool's Day took on a special meaning indeed here Tuesday for the Plainview Bulldogs after they came in on the brunt end of a BAD joke-or at least a joke in very bad taste. They witnessed what some sports prognosticators tab 'An upset in the making' become reality at the hands of the Hereford Whiteface varsity baseball team.

But, the Whitefaces in actuality turned their first district Tom Foolery into just plain old Trick or Treat-out of season-with a stunning 6-2, 8-7 twinbill sweep over the Bulldogs.

And in the process, the team compiled a few change of rules in the history of the squad, as they pushed their sprawling season record to 10-4 (the first time in a five year period that a HHS squad had managed to gain a double figure hold in the win-loss department), and set a new mark by taking a double header sweep in district play.

"We had a lot of class and character out there today because we were hitting, running, causing confusion for Plainview and we made things happen," said head coach David Ashby. "We had some errors in the second game that could have cost us dearly, but we batted our way back into the game in the seventh inning and eventually took the contest away from 'em and you have to be able to do that."

One of those Hereford

errors (six came in first game) set up what would be the Bulldogs only scoring effort in the first affair between the two squads, as centerfielder Ervin Davis took a trip all the way to third base following an error by HHS fielder John Dudding. Plainview's George Jordan then stole to second after being walked and a Gilbert Vera single brought both Jordan and Davis home for a PHS 2-0 lead.

But, the end of that inning came for Plainview as did the first contest after the Hereford defense stiffened and capped a double play off an Ed McAlister chip to second baseman Randy Ellis.

Ellis in turn threw to Matt Collier at first for the third and final out of that frame.

The Whiteface defense capitalized on two more double plays while Ernie Suarez tossed a two hitter and walked two to nail the lid shut on every offensive move Plainview devised.

And as a result of that defensive onslaught, the Whitefaces had bought themselves the time needed to mount a little scoring spree of their own-to a tune of six runs, all coming in the third stanza.

Third bagman Dickie Torres and Edward Domin-quez started the HHS endeavor as they both reeled off back-to-back singles and Randy Ellis clinched a single of his own to load the bases up.

Torres brought in the first Hereford score for the day following a Norman Hill foul ball that PHS catcher Bobby Veral had trouble finding and Hill later walked to lead the bases again. And it was Ernie Suarez that cinched the performance, as he drove in all three bases on a single to bring the HHS tally to 5-2 over the Bulldogs.

And when everything goes wrong it seems to come all at once and Plainview experienced that first hand after Bulldog pitcher Jim Anderson walked John Dudding (his fifth of the day), and then gave Ken Cosper a grounder that slipped threw the hands of his third base teammate Ed McAlister for a score by Suarez.

Catcher Don DeLozier then capped the Whiteface rally as he lashed out a fielder's (See BASEBALL on page 9)

Players Call Two Strikes Against Baseball

DALLAS (AP) — Taking dead aim at management's wallet, the Major League Players Association has called not one, but two strikes against baseball.

And the surprising part is that neither of them is coming on Opening Day, which had seemed to be the logical target. Instead of endangering the start of the regular season, the players chose a two-pronged attack that they hope will do the greatest possible economic damage to the owners.

The owners, however, struck back at the players' pocketbooks, saying they would leave training camps open but refusing to pay meal money, allowances and hotel costs.

The players said Tuesday they would cancel the final 92 games of the spring training exhibition schedule and then they promised that unless a new Basic Agreement is negotiated by midnight on May 22, they not play games starting the following day.

The canceled exhibitions include lucrative intrastate series in California between the Angels and the Los Angeles Dodgers, and in Texas between the Rangers and Houston Astros. And, for their second strike date, the players chose the weekend before Memorial Day, traditionally one of baseball's largest revenue periods.

"We're trying to hurt them in the pocketbook as deeply as we can," said Mike

Marshall, who doubles as player rep for the Minnesota Twins and the American League. "We refuse to allow them to generate any more money before Opening Day."

The players were prepared to stay in training camps and continue working out, even playing intrasquad games to stay in shape if management wants that. But they will not play exhibition games where admissions would be charged.

In return, a spokesman for the owners said camps will remain open to those players who wish to work out for the remainder of the spring training period. But, "since the individual player contract requires that players will appear in scheduled exhibition games and since the players have announced they will not appear in such games, meal money, allowances and hotel costs will not be paid."

Several of the player reps left the impression the players might not stay at the camps if they didn't get their expenses.

"I'll be on strike Wednesday and I'll be off strike on Opening Day," Marshall said.

Many players had expressed a sentiment for striking immediately rather than waiting until the season is under way. In 1972, players walked out three days before the start of the season and remained on strike for 13 days, causing 86 games to be canceled. But the strategy this time was altered.

"I came here with the feeling that doing something early would be in our best interest," said Jon Matlack, player rep of the Texas Rangers. "I was not totally convinced but I was leaning in that direction. After listening to the thoughts in the meeting, though, I think this is the better route to take."

One advantage to delaying any regular season strike action is that the players will receive three paychecks between Opening Day and May 22. That could go a long way to withstanding the economic pressures that a walkout might bring.

Some observers questioned whether the players would be as unified to take a strike action once the season is under way as they might be before Opening Day. Suppose, for example, a player is on a hitting streak when the strike date arrives.

"I don't care if I'm hitting .040 or .840," said Larry Bowa, player rep of the Philadelphia Phillies. "If nothing is worked out by May 22, we're gone."

Ray Grebey, management's chief representative, who has negotiated for 20 weeks with Marvin Miller, executive director of the union, said Tuesday night:

"It is encouraging to note that the championship season will start as scheduled. It is the continued objective of major league baseball to achieve a negotiated settlement without interruption of the championship season."

But Miller said: "It has been the owners' strategy throughout the talks to provoke a strike and portray themselves as the wounded parties."

"Owner demands, not player proposals, have bogged down the meetings so far. We are taking this action in one last good faith effort to try and reach an agreement. The players have decided they are willing to open the season and will continue to negotiate in good faith to reach an agreement."

Ken Moffett, the federal mediator who joined the talks Sunday, summoned both sides to a negotiating session in New York Thursday.

The vote by the union's 26-member executive board was unanimous, although it was clear that some representatives had come to the meeting favoring an immediate strike that would include Opening Day.

"I think it shows how unified we really are, when we can go on strike now, come back Opening Day, and then go out again," said Marshall.

Then the Twins' pitcher was asked if he believed the players could hang together once the season is six weeks old.

"We are so together," he said, "that if after the second strike in the third inning of a game, the player reps got up and said, 'Let's go,' everybody would leave."

Celtics Earn First Choice In Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — Talk about the luck of the Irish. The Boston Celtics don't wear shamrocks on their sleeves for nothing.

The Celtics, the team with the best record in the National Basketball Association this season, have the first selection in the league's draft June 10 because of a series of exceptionally lucky — and crafty — occurrences.

With the No. 1 pick, won in a coin flip with the Utah Jazz Tuesday, the Celtics are in a position to take any senior or hardship entry they want.

The team with the best record normally picks last, when All-American centers like Purdue's Joe Barry Carroll are rarely around. But the Celtics have Detroit's first-round picks because Red Auerbach, Boston's shrewd president and general manager, pulled a fast one on the Pistons.

Ex-Piston M.L. Carr signed as a free agent with Boston. As compensation, Auerbach unloaded high-scoring Bob McAdoo, a gifted player but a round peg in Boston's square scheme of things. Red additionally demanded Detroit's two first-round draft choices, its own and the one it received from Washington.

Red gets what he wants. "Everyone in the league thought Red pulled a real steal," said an NBA source.

If the Pistons and Celtics hadn't agreed on compensation, NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien would have stepped in. "The normal procedure is for the commissioner to send something from Boston to Detroit but not two draft picks going the other way. There was no likelihood of O'Brien ruling like that," the source said. "Right now, you couldn't trade McAdoo for Carr."

Then the Pistons finished with the worst record in the Eastern Conference, making the Celtics' pick one of the two most valuable in the league.

Just how valuable depended on the coin toss, which annually determines which of the worst two teams gets first crack at the best college players.

The toss was held in O'Brien's midtown office. Frank Layden, general manager of the Jazz, was on a phone hookup and called "heads."

It came up tails, Boston had lucked out again. A smiling Auerbach, a stogie in his mouth, whispered to the commissioner: "I was gonna take heads."

With 6-foot-8 center Dave Cowens nearing 32, Auerbach needs a dominating center. Carroll is 7-1 and Virginia's Ralph Sampson 7-4. Auerbach will speak to Sampson, who has said he plans to return for his sophomore year in Virginia but is willing to listen to any offer.

On Tuesday, Sampson said: "I just don't want to say anything about it right now." But don't bet against Red Auerbach.

"He's a great, great player," said Auerbach, launching his Sampson campaign. "Here's a chance for him to get with a winning club right away."

No. 1 Borg Wins

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — Top-seeded Bjorn Borg of Sweden defeated Australian Peter McNamara 6-2, 6-2 in the first round of the 187,000-dollar Monte Carlo Open tennis championships.

In other first round singles matches, fourth-seeded Gerulaitis beat Stanislav Birner of Czechoslovakia 6-3, 6-2, and No. 5 seed Guillermo Vilas of Argentina topped Italian Adriano Panatta 6-3, 6-3.

In first-round doubles play, John McEnroe and Vitas Gerulaitis of the United States beat the French team of Eric Deblicker and Patrick Proisy 6-3, 6-4.

OLDSMAR, Fla. (AP) — No. 2-seeded Stan Smith advanced to the second round of a $50,000 men's tennis tournament by defeating John Austin 7-6, 6-4.

Also advancing was Jimmy Arias, who defeated Warren Maher 7-6, 6-1 in his first grand prix tournament. In

Regular Showdown Is Between Promoters

By WILL GRIMSLEY
SAP Special Correspondent
 Boxing is coming down to the Big "Gunfight at KO Corral" but — contrary to general impressions — the principle cast won't be the ever-present Muhammad Ali, classy Larry Holmes and Mike "Hercules" Weaver, the ex-Marine with the fastest left-handed gun in the West.

They'll have important roles, for sure. But the real showdown will be between a bookish-looking New York attorney out of Harvard law school named Robert Arum and a hulking one-time numbers runner in Cleveland who spent four years in a Marion, Ohio, slammer for manslaughter, Don King. They're the power brokers. They pull the strings of big-time boxing. As controllers of the split heavyweight champions, they set the tone for the multi-million-dollar spectacles you see on TV. They were one-time partners. They staged perhaps the biggest heavyweight fight of the generation — the Thrilla in Manila between Ali and Smokin' Joe Frazier in 1975

— but they split bitterly in a financial wrangle. At the time, Arum vowed: "I'll never join King in a promotion again." But he has. Big TV bucks can make strange bedfellows and now the two are finding some accommodation in the first boxing shootout of the '80s, the Ali-Weaver fight in New Orleans' Superdome in June or early July, the winner to meet Holmes in September. This is supposed to solidify the confused, fractured heavyweight division with its dual champions. "Don King and I have already agreed," Arum admitted.

Arum has a three-fight lien on the services of Weaver, the game's new sensation because of the manner in which he stopped Big John Tate for the World Boxing Association version of the heavyweight crown on Monday night in Knoxville, Tenn. King reportedly has 25 percent of Holmes, the unbeaten replica of Muhammad Ali who scored an eighth-round TKO over beefy Leroy Jones in Las Vegas, Nev., a few hours later.

Arum, a short, indistinguishable man who could get lost in a crowd, is an expert on tax law. He is a cool, smart businessman. He sprinkles dollar signs over his breakfast corn flakes. King is a giant of a man with hair that stands up like the back of a frightened porcupine. He wears fancy tuxedos and lace-cuffed sleeves at every function. Once he operated from a $25,000-a-month suite atop a New York skyscraper, a far cry from the tiny cell he occupied while serving time for manslaughter. Boxing suffers from dual undisputed king, Alan Minter. You see double in all other divisions — good for TV, good for promoters, good for fighters but an outrage for the fans.

Pickoff at First

HHS first baseman Matt Collier quickly tags out a Plainview opponent who had drifted too far away from the bag in an attempt to steal a base. Defensive plays such as this one highlighted the Herd's performance throughout the twinbill between the two teams, as the Whitefaces mustered four double plays (marking 11 for season play). choice that brought home Dudding for the final score of the contest.

"We really didn't hit the ball very well at times, but it was spread out enough so that it kept them in the mental error bracket all day long," said an elated Ashby. "We made some of those mistakes too, but the thing is we made a lot fewer and that's the key."

"Our pitching staff helped us out tremendously too. Ernie threw one helluva ballgame and Mike Mason came into relieve Hill in the second game and did an outstanding job. We played good in every category of our game," he added.

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Basketball Association announced it has set a regular-season attendance record of nearly 10 million fans this season. According to the league, 9,937,575 fans attended games, breaking the 1976 mark of 9,898,521. The figure represented an increase of 176,198 over 1978-1979.

Cincinnati Stands Pat With Same Old Crew

Associated Press

Nolan Ryan and Joe Morgan are Houston Astros. The Los Angeles Dodgers added Dave Goltz and Don Stanhouse. Rennie Stennett, Milt May and Jim Wohlford now perform for the San Francisco Giants. The San Diego Padres signed pitchers Rick Wise and John Curtis and traded for four regulars. Chris Chambliss and Al Hrabosky are Atlanta Braves.

Only the defending champions, the Cincinnati Reds, as is their custom, stood pat in the National League West. Nevertheless, Manager John McNamara says there is "no doubt in my mind that the Reds will be even."

The main reasons for that statement, McNamara says, are outfielders George Foster and Ken Griffey, who missed 40 and 66 games, respectively, last year. "Too many people," he says, "judge improvement only by the number of free agents that a team signs. That's a mistake."

The Reds have a lot of familiar faces — pitcher Tom Seaver, catcher Johnny Bench, first baseman Dan Driessen, shortstop Dave Concepcion, third baseman Ray Knight (who hit .318 in 1979 as the replacement for departed Pete Rose) and Foster in left field.

Reserve Junior Kennedy is the likely successor to Joe Morgan at second base, while Griffey, Dave Collins and Cesar Geronimo are contesting for the other two outfield spots. Griffey, however, is coming off knee surgery and is engaged in a bitter salary hassle that led the Reds to put his name on the waiver list to see who might be interested in him in a trade.

Much of the Reds' 1979 success was due to the arrival of young pitchers — starters Mike LaCoss and Frank Pastore and reliever Tom Hume. Much of the 1980 outlook depends on how well Bill Bonham recovers from the tender elbow that has plagued him for several years.

The punchless Astros, who took the Reds to the wire before finishing 1½ games out last year, added the fireballing Ryan (for a $1 million a year) to a staff that already boasted flamethrowing J.R. Richard and 21-game-winning knuckleballer Joe Niekro, with Joe Sambito in the bullpen.

The Astros have a surplus of infielders and outfielders and Manager Bill Virdon has countless lineup possibilities. Cesar Cedeno has moved back from first base to center field. That means one of last year's outfielders — Jose Cruz, Terry Puhl or Jeff Leonard — likely will switch to first base ... unless third baseman Enos Cabell moves there.

Catcher Alan Ashby and shortstop Craig Reynolds are fixtures but it remains to be seen how much Houston can get out of 36-year-old second baseman Morgan — if he plays second. If healthy, he could supply some much-needed power to a club that hit only 49 home runs last season and was last in the league in runs scored. They did, however, steal a league-leading 190 bases.

Hereford Farmer Posts Top 79 Sorghum Yield; Tips for Optimum Grain Production are Offered

Rick May of Hereford was among four top farmers who were recently honored by DeKalb Ag Research, Inc. for producing some of the highest corn and grain sorghum yields in the nation last year.

May produced 153.68 bushels of irrigated grain sorghum per acre and placed first in the Yieldmasters Club category of the seed firm's yield contest.

Among other winners were Jerry Andrews of Edmonson, Dean Constable of Blue Rapids, Kansas, and Harold Miner of Wateka, Illinois. Andrews produced the top irrigated corn yield in the 1979 Yieldmasters Club with 299.83 bushels per acre, which was also a new Texas yield record.

Constable had the top dryland grain sorghum yield registered in the U.S. last year with 204.45 bushels per acre, which was also the highest dryland sorghum yield ever submitted to the Yieldmasters Club.

The four farmers also spent two days at DeKalb's corporate headquarters becoming familiar with the firm's seed research program.

They discussed a variety of subjects concerning their operations with personnel of the firm.

All of the top growers emphasized the need for good management, favorable weather and plentiful inputs in raising good crops during these discussions.

"Don't cut back on inputs" was the major emphasis of the comments of the producers.

May told those on hand that in the Hereford area 7,500 pounds of sorghum per acre was "about the breakeven level" in 1979, and that in 1980, that figure will be 8,500 pounds, "because of rising irrigation costs."

He reported he considered his 1979 sorghum yield, "good for our area," but added that it was not the highest sorghum yield he's ever grown.

Using furrow irrigation, he disks stalks after harvest, then moldboards 10-12 inches deep.

Under his cultural system, 10 tons of manure is usually added per acre and plowed under with the stalks.

Before planting he applies 200 pounds per acre of anhydrous ammonia.

He plants six pounds per acre of sorghum on 30-inch rows. May reports land in his area sells for $500 to $1,000 per acre, "depending on what you want."

Andrews, who set a new Texas corn yield record on his farm near Edmonson, is strongly against input reduction.

"Energy is getting high," Andrews told a crowd of over 200 farmers and media members, "but if you start cutting corners, you're going to be taking less corn to the elevator."

Andrews pursued his point via example. "I may be able to cut $4 an acre from my inputs by not going across it.

At the same time, I may cut my yield by 1,000 pounds. If corn is bringing $6 on 100 pounds, that's $60. I'm knocking $56 out of my pocket."

Pete Makin, a state yield record-holder on the other side of the country, explained the thinking he applies on his Delaware farm.

"You've got to go with what has worked for you before. You cut costs, you start cutting yield."

This philosophy ran deep through all of the Yieldmaster participants, as the two sorghum and three corn growers referred to it time after time throughout the meeting.

Makin, who notched that Delaware yield record with a 235.2 bushel-per-acre yield, went to irrigation a few years back. He switched brands of seed corn two years ago, and has set state yield records both of the last two years, most recently with XL-61. The young farmer, who feels strongly that it takes good management to obtain good yields, obviously has put his thoughts to practice.

He chops stalks in the fall, subsoils 10 inches deep, plows in the spring, and plants. He applies 125 pounds of 18-46-0 as a starter, adds 75 pounds as a carrier for herbicide and then, injects 30 pounds of nitrogen into his center pivot seven times during the season. He uses 200 to 300 pounds of potash and uses zinc, manganese and boron as micro-nutrients.

Makin obtains at least two soil samples a year as well as tissue samples in the summer. He places his cost of production at $1.85 to $1.90, and says his breakeven point in 1979 was 175 bushels-per-acre. Land cost in the Delaware area: $2,500 to $3,800 per acre. He runs a 36-inch row width and plants at 36,000 seeds per acre. Andrews, who says don't cut back, will make between

Yieldmaster Panel

Four of the country's top farmers, including a Hereford man, were recently named charter members of an annual Master Farmer's honor bestowed by DeKalb AgResearch, Inc. DeKalb domestic seed division manager Ken Schulze, left, and 12 trips over his field in a single cropping year.

After harvest, he disks twice, chisels 10 inches deep and lists the dirt up in beds. Since he runs furrow irrigation, he says it's important to have no surface trash.

He'll side-dress 225 pounds of nitrogen into the side of the beds in the fall and adds 150 pounds when corn reaches four inches in height.

He pre-waters his corn ground, and plants on top of the beds. He'll cultivate weeds an average of two times a year.

Land cost is between $1,000 to $1,500 an acre. Andrews claims it costs him $181.75 an acre for variables and another $210 for leasing. His average corn yield is well over 10,500 pounds (190 bushels) per acre.

The Texas corn champ plants a 30,000 seed count per acre in 40-inch rows. In 1980, he'll plant at 32,000 seeds per acre.

Dean Constable of Blue Rapids, Kansas grew a 204.45 bushel-per-acre dryland sorghum yield. DeKalb officials are still checking to see if that sets a new U.S. dryland record. Constable chisels in the fall and uses a heavy disk in the spring. He then plants in 30-inch rows, thick enough to have 500 plants in 100 feet of row at harvest.

He uses no starter fertilizer or micro-nutrients although all fertilizer goes on before planting. The northeast Kansas farmer soil tests two-thirds of his acreage every year. Last year, Constable used 100 pounds of nitrogen, 40 of phosphate and no potash.

The potential record yield was made with DeKalb C-42aplus and was taken on a check of 3.3 acres. Land in the Blue Rapids area goes for $300 to $1,100 per acre.

Miner grew a 234.72 bushel-per-acre yield with XL-55a a personal "highest yield" the east-central Illinois farmer has ever raised.

He and son, Mike, operate a corn-soybean farm, and this is the highest yield they have ever obtained, although they consistently raise "200-bushel-plus" corn.

After harvest, a fall application of 250 pounds of potash, 200 pounds of 46 percent phosphate and 125 pounds of sulphate are put on. The ground is chiseled in the fall, and in the spring, 300 pounds of nitrogen goes on before planting. The ground is chiseled again twice and planted at 29,000 seeds per acre in 30-inch rows. The Miners side-dress with 300 pounds of 8-32-16. They also use micro-nutrients, and last fall, applied N-Serve for the first time, on limited acreage. The farm is heavily tilled for runoff.

Land costs in the area are based on cornyield potential, according to Miner.

"If it'll yield 150 bushels, you're talking about $3,000 an acre. If you want something better than that, you're talking about $4,000. I figure if you're using $100 an acre land cost per year, it costs about $2.53 per bushel to grow corn," Miner says.

Swine Production Merits to be Discussed

PLAINVIEW — The economics of different swine production systems is one of the topics to be examined at the annual Texas A&M University Swine Shortcourse here Wednesday, April 9. Leading the discussion will be Dr. Gary Parker, Extension swine specialist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. He is one of a dozen leading animal scientists and producers from Texas and three other states who will conduct the course. Their presentations will focus upon the latest trends and techniques in production and management in the changing swine industry.

The shortcourse at the Hale County Agricultural Center south of the city begins at 8 p.m. and ends at 4:05 p.m. There is a $7 registration fee and lunch will be provided, Dr. Robert S. Cohen, Extension area swine specialist at Lubbock, said. The course is organized and sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Cooperating are the department of animal science at Texas A&M, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Texas Pork Producers Assn., and Texas Pork Producers Board.

In looking at the economics of production, Parker will compare pasture, semi-confinement and confinement systems. He also will talk about nursery decking of pigs.

Parker is headquartered at the UK West Kentucky Substation near Princeton, Ky. This is the area where about 80 percent of the state's hogs are produced. A native of Henderson, Ky., he joined the Kentucky Extension staff in 1975. He holds a Master of Science degree from Iowa State University and a PhD from the University of Kentucky. Both degrees are in swine nutrition.

His doctoral thesis reported effects of dietary phosphorous and copper, exercise, and pen size and surface on the performance and bone characteristics of swine.

In September 1979, farmers paid an average of $57,000 for a new four-wheel-drive tractor in the 170- to 240-horsepower range.

Every day there are 200,000 more people in the world to feed than the day before, according to Sperry New Holland.

Control of Bagworms Important

COLLEGE STATION -- Evergreen owners won't be surprised to hear bagworms are among the most economically important pests of many woody ornamentals in Texas.

Although there are at least 16 species of bagworms in Texas, the most damage is done by the evergreen bagworm. It is probably the most important species of bagworms economically, says Dr. Robert Crocker, researcher with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, and H.A. Turney, entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, based at Dallas.

"Although the evergreen bagworm seems partial to evergreen ornamentals such as arbor vitae and junipers, it will also attack plums, sycamores and a bewildering range of other Texas plants if conditions are right," contend Crocker and Turney.

Control of the pest often receives natural assistance from various native parasites and predators. Of the several hundred bagworms that may complete development on any tree, most or all may be destroyed by parasites in the spring, say the entomologists. Pest management research at Texas A&M Research and Extension Centers has identified two types of wasps as parasites which destroy many bagworm eggs in Texas. Crocker and Turney report. Of those pests escaping parasitism, many fall prey to mammals, birds, and predatory insects.

There are essentially three means of controlling bagworms when parasites and predators are not adequate, say the entomologists. The first is hand-picking bags from the infested plant. Where only a few low-growing plants are involved, hand-picking is best, maintain the entomologists.

The second means of controlling bagworms is through the use of chemical insecticides. Effective insecticides on the market include Sevin and malathion, say Crocker and Turney. Control is usually more complete if the insecticide is applied following egg hatch in the spring and early summer when the bagworms are young. Older and larger bagworms are more difficult to kill.

Bagworms can also be controlled by disease-causing sprays. Dipel and Thuricide are commercially prepared formulations of a bacterium. When a bagworm eats a leaf treated with the bacterium, the worm's gut is immediately paralyzed and feeding ceases, the entomologists explain. Death results after several hours. The bacterium affects only insects (primarily butterflies and moths) and is not disease-causing in many or warm-blooded animals, they add.

All insecticides should be used strictly according to label instructions, advise Turney and Crocker. A given active ingredient may be formulated for sale in several concentrations so the user must pay strict attention to package directions, warn the experts.

"Use pesticides as soon as possible after mixing," advise the entomologists.

"Many sprays should not be stored for more than a few hours in diluted form."

Sale of Texas Rice Possible to West African Nation of Mali

AUSTIN--A recent visit with Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown by a government representative of the Republic of Mali has resulted in the possible sale of Texas rice to the West African nation.

Mali was represented in the United States by Bocar N'diaye, who holds a position in his country equivalent to that of secretary of state in the U. S. The Mali official made his stop in Texas as part of an American tour seeking sources of agricultural imports for his nation's consumers.

"During the February 21 meeting, we were able to help Mr. N'diaye in obtaining bids

REC Lists Mechanics Winners

Approximately 100 students from 25 Panhandle high schools participated in the 1980 Area Farm Mechanics Contest on the TSTI Campus in Amarillo recently. The teams are required to compete in tool identification, electrical wiring, small gas engine repair and welding.

The annual event is co-sponsored by Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative and other area rural RECs.

Judges for the contest were Dr. Eggenburger of Texas Tech University; Bill Bickel, agriculture teacher at Muleshoe High School, and Cal Goulden, agriculture teacher at Silverton High School.

First place teams received $50.00 and second place teams received $25.00, along with trophies for first, second and third places for high point individuals in each skill.

Winners in the Amarillo District included first place team, Texline High School. Keven McClellan, Richard Cochran, Tom McDonald, and Mike Diller, coached by Bob Browning; second place team, Stratford High School. Max Christian, Mike Pool, Michael Carter and Bob J.

Kirkman, coached by Don Carter; and third place, Vega High School. Cliff Souldy, Tommy Orcutt, Rob Groves and Mitch L. Williams, coached by Frank Kennedy.

Cotton Seed Sales Closely Regulated

COLLEGE STATION -- Farmers planning to grow and sell cotton seed for planting purposes should keep in mind the laws created by the U.S. Plant Variety Protection Act of 1970.

This act protects certain cotton varieties with patents, says Dr. Bob Metzger, cotton specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. The seed of these varieties can be produced only by the owner of the patent or another individual or company the owner designates to produce them. The act is an effort to protect investments encountered by seed breeders and seed companies during the development of a new seed variety, explains Metzger.

"The breeder, owner or seed company who has developed the variety should be contacted to determine the plant protection status before offering the seed for sale," recommends Metzger. "Otherwise one can unknowingly violate both state and federal seed laws."

Seed of cotton varieties sold in Texas fall into four categories, says Metzger. These are (1) varieties not protected by law, (2) varieties protected by patents not requiring the variety to be sold only as certified seed, (3) protected varieties specified to be sold only as certified seed, (4) varieties with only Texas protection.

Protected varieties will be identified by a label attached to each bag of seed stating "unauthorized propagation prohibited -- U.S. protected variety", or "unauthorized propagation prohibited -- U.S. variety protection applied for," says Metzger.

Foundation seed which is used to grow registered seed can be obtained from the Foundation Seed Service at College Station by any citizen, Metzger says. The registered seed can in turn be planted to produce certified seed which can be sold to the public.

To produce registered or certified seed, however, the planter must meet certain rules and regulations specified by the Texas Department of Agriculture, says Metzger. These include procedures such as isolation and field inspection during the growing season.

Additional detailed information as well as a list of cotton varieties under the various plant protection categories can be obtained from the seed division, Texas Department of Agriculture in Austin, or the Texas Seed Trade Association, 6501 Sanger Avenue, Waco, Tx. 76710.

With spring just around the corner it's not too early to think about ways to prevent tractor mishaps during the coming planting and harvesting seasons.

Get your lawn and garden in shape with John Deere equipment

New 14- and 17-hp Tractors

Put a smooth-operating hydrostatic-drive tractor to work for you today. Two models -- the 14-hp 314 and the twin-cylinder, 17-hp 317. Both have individual drum-type rear-wheel brakes, built-in headlights, color-coded controls, triple-safety starting, and hydraulic lift (single-function on the 314, dual-function on the 317). Mowers, front blade, rotary tiller, and snow thrower available.

Deluxe 21-inch Mowers

Two models -- push-type and self-propelled. Push-type has 3 1/2-hp engine, self-propelled has 4-hp engine and rear-wheel gear drive. Optional 2 1/2-bushel rear bagger.

Compact Tiller

John Deere 216 Compact has a 2-hp engine, 16-inch tilling width and 7 1/2-inch tilling depth. Unique rear-wheel/depth bar assembly. Loop handle with full-width control bar.

Lawn Edger

Get a John Deere 3-hp Edger for easier lawn care. Blade adjusts to many angles for edging and trimming, and it's semi-enclosed for safety. In addition, the blade stops automatically when raised to its highest position.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I think you wrote a column once about people losing weight even if they were on a well-balanced diet and that you said that the disorder could be caused by the food passing through the body too fast.

I'm concerned about my sister who keeps losing weight. She must have lost 25 pounds without trying and she wasn't overweight to begin with. She has been to her doctor and had a complete examination and nothing was wrong. Yet she's so thin and I notice that when she's with me that she makes frequent trips to the bathroom. Could this be a liver disorder? She's 60 and says she's not in pain.

DEAR READER - Weight loss is a symptom and it can be caused by many things. Any of the diseases of the bowel that cause diarrhea or prevent normal absorption of food can cause it.

Another cause is diabetes with loss of lots of calories through the elimination of glucose sugar in the urine. That, by the way, also sends a person to the bathroom frequently.

A variety of infectious diseases may be associated with weight loss and so may an overactive thyroid. It can even be a sign of cancer. It's very important for someone who has unexplained weight loss to have a complete examination in sufficient detail to find out what the real cause of the weight loss is. I would suggest that your sister should go back to her doctor and see if there are some additional studies that can be done to help solve her dilemma.

CBS Tied For Lead In Ratings

NEW YORK (AP)— With a boost from the premiere of "Flo," CBS won the networks' ratings race for the week ending March 30 and pulled even with ABC for the season.

CBS listed seven of the week's 10 highest-rated programs, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed, including "M-A-S-H," which tied for first with "Flo," and "60 Minutes" in third place.

The rating for "Flo," a spinoff from CBS' popular "Alice," and for "M-A-S-H" was 30.3. Nielsen says that means of all the TV-equipped homes in the country, just over three in 10 saw at least part of the new show starring Polly Holliday.

CBS' rating for the week of 20.3 pushed the network's average rating for the season to 19.5 — the same as ABC's. ABC's rating for the most recent week was 18.5, and NBC was third at 15.8.

The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 20.3 percent of the homes in the country with television were tuned to CBS.

CBS and ABC are tied for first for the year despite the fact ABC broadcast both the World Series and the Winter Olympics, always sure ratings winners. ABC still has the Academy Awards show coming up this month — at 9 p.m. EST instead of 10 as in the past.

ABC's top-rated show for the week was "That's Incredible," in fourth place, while NBC's best, "CHiPs," was 10th. "CHiPs" has scored for NBC twice in the two weeks since its shift to Sunday night.

NBC's broadcast of the NCAA basketball championship game between Louisville and UCLA was something of a ratings disappointment, finishing No. 23 for the week. In addition, NBC had four of the five lowest-rated shows, starting with "From Here to Eternity" in 62nd place and followed by No. 63 "United States," No. 64 "Pink Lady and Jeff," and No. 66 "White Paper: The Hispanics." An "ABC News Closeup," "Cambodia: The Shattered Land," was 65th.

Movies did not fare particularly well during the week. "City in Fear" on ABC was 22nd, "The Ordeal of Dr. Mudd" on CBS was 39th, and the first installment in NBC's repeat of "Jesus of Nazareth" was 45th.

Here are the week's Top 10 shows:

"Flo" and "M-A-S-H," both 30.3 representing 23.1 million homes, and "60 Minutes," 29.1 or 22.2 million, all CBS; "That's Incredible," 28.6 or 21.8 million, ABC; "Dukes of Hazzard," 26.4 or 20.1 million, and "Dallas," 25.8 or 19.7 million, both CBS; "Three's Company," 25.5 or 19.5 million, ABC; "Alice," 25.4 or 19.4 million, and "The Jeffersons," 24.2 or 18.5 million, both CBS, and "CHiPs," 24 or 18.3 million, NBC.

The next 10 shows: "Lou Grant," CBS; "Diff'rent Strokes" and "Real People," both NBC, tie; "Barney Miller," ABC; "Archie Bunker's Place," CBS; "Taxi," "Laverne and Shirley," "Soap" and "Happy Days," all ABC, and "Hagen," CBS.
