Stage set for military fund confrontation

WASHINGTON (AP) —

The House, by narrowly approving President Reagan's request for military aid to Central America, is setting the stage for confrontation next week over emergency funding for El Salvador's military forces.

Following a raucous day of debate that saw House Majority Leader Jim Wright break with his own party, the lawmakers voted 212-208 Thursday in favor of a Republican-backed amendment that authorized $120 million in immediate military aid for El Salvador and other Central American nations.

"It is a great victory for President Reagan," said Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., after the vote. "I was quite pleased."

Kemp said the tally was an example of "bipartisan" support for the president's program, which he predicted will carry over when House-Senate conferees meet Wednesday to consider a $61.7 million emergency appropriation sought by Reagan for the Salvadoran military.

But Rep. Michael Barnes, D-Md., who made the final Democratic appeal against adoption of the Republican plan, said he thought the vote "was not exactly a mandate" in favor of Reagan's requests.

Barnes pointed out that the vote was on an authorization bill, and that the battle over the aid to El Salvador will reappear in the House when a measure to appropriate the funds is considered.

The vote came one day after the president went on national television to press Congress for the aid, which Reagan argued was necessary to halt a Cuban-inspired takeover in El Salvador.

The GOP amendment authorizes enough military aid for Central America in the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 to meet the president's request for $132.5 million for El Salvador.

It places relatively few restrictions on the aid, making the first half available after the president tells Congress that the Salvadorans are making progress in human rights and other reforms. The rest would require a second presidential report and be subject to congressional disapproval within 30 days.

By adopting the Republican proposal, the House in effect rejected a proposal backed by Democrats on the House

Wholesale prices plateau

By SALLY JACOBSEN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

Wholesale prices held flat in April, ending four months of increases, the government said today. The sharpest food price decline since June offset the only gasoline price gain in nine months.

Today's report showed that, for the first four months of 1984, inflation at the wholesale level is running at an annual rate of 4.4 percent, in line with analysts' predictions that, for the full year, the rate will be 4.5 percent to 5 percent.

The 2.9 percent boost in gasoline prices had been expected by industry analysts who point to increased consumption but diminished refinery capacity.

Not since the summer has the Labor Department's Producer Price Index for finished goods recorded an increase in gasoline prices.

Offsetting that, however, was the good news on food prices.

Wholesale vegetable costs plummeted a sharp 26.1 percent. Fresh fruit prices tumbled 8.2 percent while beef and veal prices were off 2.8 percent.

Food prices decline sharply

Fish prices fell 3.4 percent after soaring 30.2 percent in March as fishing off the Northeast coast was slowed sharply by bad weather.

In a separate report, the Commerce Department said retail sales rebounded sharply in April, rising 2.9 percent to wipe out a March decline that had been one of the biggest in recent years.

As for wholesale prices, natural gas costs recorded their steepest increase, 1.7 percent, since March 1983. But fuel oil prices, reflecting the end of the winter heating

Capital murder fugitive caught

By JULIA MARTINEZ
Associated Press Writer

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas (AP) — A fugitive wanted on a capital murder warrant was captured after three of his hostages bolted a bank's vault door shut, allowing a SWAT team to overpower the gunman as he tried to pick up food, authorities said.

Richard Donald Foster, a 31-year-old ex-convict, was being held today at the Parker County Jail in Weatherford in lieu of a $1 million bond on a capital murder charge, said Assistant District Attorney Dan Carney.

Foster, an Oklahoma native also known as "Stoney Armadillo," also was being held in lieu of $600,000 bond on an aggravated kidnapping charge in Stephens County, Carney said.

Three hostages help SWAT team

The siege began shortly before noon Thursday when a gunman stormed the Citizens National Bank and took seven people hostage, authorities said. The gunman was captured about 11:50 p.m. with no shots being fired, said Haskell County Deputy Sheriff Monte Hise.

Hise said six to 12 SWAT team members and FBI agents approached the bank vault to bring food to Foster and the hostages. As the suspect reached down to pick up the food, the hostages pulled the bank's vault door shut and the officers pinned Foster to the ground, Hise said.

Police said the tense hostage situation began when

Foster, who allegedly stole a 1983 maroon Cadillac from a rancher near Throckmorton, was being chased by Stephens County officials into the city.

Stephens County Sheriff Louie Hall said that after storming the building, the gunman took seven people hostage. Hall said that before barging into the bank, the suspect had critically wounded a motorist who had picked him up while hitchhiking outside of Elbert, about 50 miles north of Breckenridge.

"I'm just glad it's over and we're ready to go home," said Scott Harris, a bank vice president who was one of the hostages.

Authorities said none of the hostages were harmed.

The gunman released three women hostages about 2:20 p.m. Thursday after a minister talked to him, but continued to hold four men until one of them outsmarted him, asking Foster if he could go to the bathroom.

Bank loan officer Kevin Simmons, 23, never returned to his captor.

Harris said the opportunity for freedom presented itself when FBI agents wouldn't bring food into the vault as Foster had asked. In exasperation, the man put his gun down on top of cabinet and agents "immediately jumped him," Harris said.

"And we just shut the vault door behind," he said.

A series of negotiations were apparently fruitless. The pastor of the Faith Baptist Church, the Rev. John Kennedy, scurried back and forth as a liaison between the suspect and authorities. Kennedy's efforts resulted in Foster releasing the three women, but the gunman refused to let go of the men.

Police said the women included bank secretaries Micky Morris and Marina Cofresi and bank customer Susanne Malcut. The three men, Harris, bank vice president Randy Jordan and customer Lonny Barberee, remained with Foster in the bank vault.

Many bullets to fly Saturday

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor

Many area law enforcement officials - perhaps more than 50 - are expected to fire their guns several times Saturday.

No, crime is not supposed to run rampant. Rather, the involved officers, deputies and security guards will be participating in the Hereford Police Department's annual pistol shoot competition.

Everyone is allowed to be a spectator of the event, which is to blast off at 10 a.m. A firing range on city property is to host the event. It is located a few miles east of town, north of Highway 60.

During competition, which police Lt. Vernon Hope said could last well into the afternoon, a concessions stand will be operated by the women's auxiliary of the department. A lunch of ham, potato salad and other items is to be offered for only $2.

In 1983, there were 52 or 53 entrants in the "PPC match," according to Hope. Among them were deputies from area sheriff's departments, security guards and policemen from various cities.

"It's a good way for the of-

Police sponsoring pistol shoot

ficers to get together, make new friends and see some old ones," Hope said. There have been three previous pistol shoots, he thought.

Previously, entrants have been required to use their service revolvers. Now, Hope explained, competition is open to any weapon above .38 caliber.

Powerful guns may come in handy for one of the three competition categories: the "bowling pin shoot." Contestants are timed in their efforts to completely knock off a table - from 25 yards away - five regulation-size bowling pins. Last year, Gerald Parker of the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's department reserves completed the task in 15.9 seconds.

There are also categories for single and two-man ("team") firing. The latter combines the partners' scores.

Sixty total rounds are fired from 7, 25 and 50 yards, Hope explained, with human silhouettes serving as targets. Hits can range from 7 points to an "X," which counts for 10.

Trophies are awarded for first-through-third places in five divisions of each category. In one division, scores of 300-399. Hope himself finished first last year. Joe Brown, then a police lieutenant and now county sheriff, was a close second.

The highest individual score was achieved by Jess Lopez, who lives outside of Deaf Smith County. His 574 total barely bested Parker, who recorded a 573. The Deaf Smith reserve won the overall title and trophy, however, with a combined single-team score of 1,321 and 46 "Xs."

Aside from Hope and Brown, other Hereford policemen who collected trophies were Patrolman Cecil Guthrie (first in the 0-299 single competition) and Lt. Ted Langgood (second in the team category).

The best team score in 1983 was accomplished by two out-of-county residents, James Bartlett and James Vernon. They shot their way to 1,082 points, a mark which included 49 "Xs."

Pistol Shoot Trophy

Hereford police have scheduled their annual pistol shoot competition for 10 a.m. Saturday at the firing range. Above is one of the trophies to be awarded.

Rudy Salinas was indicted on a charge of an unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Pollution charge examined

The Texas Department of Water Resources said it will take about two weeks to determine if Tierra Blanca Creek and land adjacent to it has been polluted with herbicides or other chemicals.

The City of Hereford on April 30 filed a complaint at the District 1 office in Amarillo, after empty herbicide containers were found in the creek near the golf course. Don Manning, district representative with the DWR office, said soil samples from the creek bed are now being evaluated.

"It looks like this has been going on for some time," City Manager Dudley Bayne said this morning. "We've had several big trees along the creek die in past years, and we've never been able to figure out why."

Manning said the case would be turned over to the DWR's enforcement division if testing reveals the presence of chemicals in the soil.

Newspaper gets hearing halted

BRYAN, Texas (AP) — A judge who expelled reporters from his courtroom while an open inquiry into prostitution was in progress has been ordered to halt that proceeding until the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals can consider a newspaper's protest.

The state's highest criminal court Thursday ordered state District Judge John Delaney to stay "any further proceedings" in an open inquiry until it can hear the complaint of The Bryan-College Station Eagle, deputy court clerk Troy Bennett said.

He said the court also ordered Delaney to respond to the paper's complaint by 10 a.m. Tuesday. The Eagle is asking the higher court to overturn Delaney's decision.

"It's appropriate that the court stayed the hearing," said John Williams, the paper's publisher. "We just intend to pursue it to a conclusion. In our judgment, it's a black and white case."

Digging fails to yield victims

ANAHUAC, Texas (AP) — Several hours of digging at sites where confessed mass killer Henry Lee Lucas said he buried three bodies have turned up no remains, a sheriff's spokeswoman says.

Susan Hollomon, an administrative assistant with the Chambers County sheriff's office, said Thursday searches had no luck in finding the man and two women Lucas told officers he buried near High Island.

"Lucas said he strangled one woman, repeatedly stabbed the other one and killed the man," said Fred Dodd, chief deputy for Chambers County. "The women were killed in 1979 and 1980 while the man was killed in 1981."

Dodd said Lucas told investigators all the killings occurred during the summer. He said the three victims were all between 18 and 25 years old.

Committee cool to tax plan

AUSTIN (AP) — House members want to see education reforms before they vote to raise taxes, according to the chairman of the Ways and Means Committee.

Rep. Stan Schlueter, D-Killeen, did not say he would fight Gov. Mark White's program, but he set a tough agenda:

"We want to see the reform. If there's no reform package there will be no tax bill. I want to see the governor sign that reform package first before the tax bill moves out of our committee."

Schlueter also told his committee Thursday that White's plans to spend $1.3 billion more a year on school reform could leave Texans "looking at a cold stare at a personal income tax."

White said he understood House members reluctance to vote before they understand the reforms planned for public schools.

National

Cancer victims win suit

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — In the first ruling to hold the U.S. government responsible for fallout damage from atomic testing, a judge condemned the failure to give simple advice — like "wash everything" — to people who later suffered cancer.

The decision, arising from above-ground nuclear blasts at the Nevada Test Site from 1951 to 1962, ordered the government to pay $2.1 million in nine cancer cases. Damages in a 10th are to be decided later.

The ruling also is expected to set a precedent for settling hundreds of other claims of radiation-induced cancer.

U.S. District Judge Bruce Jenkins found the government negligent, rejecting arguments that monitoring was sufficient and that all precautions known by the early 1950s to be necessary were taken.

Education reforms celebrated

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan and his education advisers, who warned a year ago about the "rising tide of mediocrity" in American schools, today celebrated the steps taken in virtually every state to reverse that tide.

Reagan was meeting with members of the National Commission on Excellence in Education today and then speaking in the Rose Garden before 60 high school winners of his new "Presidential Academic Fitness Awards" — honors for B-plus students akin to the kudos for physical fitness.

Education Secretary T.H. Bell released a 229-page report, "The Nation Responds," listing efforts by states, local schools, colleges and businesses over the past 12 months to raise school standards.

Pope visits refugee camp

PHANAT NIKHOM, Thailand (AP) — A 63-year-old Laotian at an Indochinese refugee camp here asked Pope John Paul II today to help the thousands of refugees find permanent homes.

"My heart goes out to you," said the pope, his voice cracking with emotion. "Never forget your identity as free people who have a rightful place in the world."

His speech, delivered in English, was translated into Vietnamese, Cambodian and Laotian. The pope also presented a $50,000 check to be used for the camp hospital, which is run by a Thai Catholic relief organization.

The Laotian man, representing the camp's 18,000 residents, appealed to the pope for help so the refugees could leave for permanent homes.

Libyans supporting Khadafy

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — Libyans rallied in cities throughout the country, shouting slogans in support of Col. Moammar Khadafy and against "terrorists and reactionaries" responsible for a failed attack on the Libyan leader, the government said.

"Tens of thousands of people," most of them students, took part in Thursday's government-sponsored demonstrations, said an official spokesman who declined to be identified. He did not give a precise figure or name the cities.

In Tripoli, about 500 people attended a pro-Khadafy rally in the capital's main square.

Details about Tuesday's unsuccessful attack remained unclear.

The version most accepted in diplomatic circles is that the attackers were discovered just before they launched their assault from an apartment building near the barracks where Khadafy lives, said a Western diplomat.

Worker called good samaritan

Jurors deciding illegal alien case

By SYDNEY RUBIN
Associated Press Writer

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Jurors deliberating the fate of Stacey Lynn Merkt may be divided between those who believe the woman violated the law and those who feel she was a good samaritan in transporting three undocumented Salvadorans to San Antonio, defense attorneys say.

Ms. Merkt, a volunteer at the Casa Oscar Romero refugee halfway house near Brownsville and a member of a religious community in Colorado Springs, Colo., faces a maximum sentence of 15 years and a $6,000 fine if convicted on three counts of transporting and conspiring to transport illegal aliens.

The federal court jury was expected to resume deliberations today.

"I don't think there is anybody on that jury to whom Stacey doesn't represent the modern day embodiment of the good samaritan," said defense attorney Daniel Sheehan after the jury recessed Thursday. "I think all the jurors know that and they will all come around."

The eight-man, four-woman panel deliberated the case before calling it quits for the day at 5 p.m.

About 3 p.m., the all-Hispanic panel requested and was given copies of the statutes Ms. Merkt is accused of violating.

Sheehan has said the Merkt case pits the federal government against a growing segment of the nation's religious community organized to oppose U.S. policy in Central America and immigration regarding Salvadorans.

Among the 40 nuns, priests, sanctuary supporters and reporters waiting for a verdict at the federal courthouse yesterday was John J. Fitzpatrick, the Bishop of Brownsville.

Ms. Merkt said the length of jury deliberations was a "sign of hope."

Assistant U.S. Attorney John Smith said Ms. Merkt's case had received more publicity than it deserved.

"This case doesn't mean any more or less than any other case we win or lose, despite the publicity," he said.

"We don't seek out church people transporting aliens, but if we catch them during routine patrol, we prosecute them the same as anyone else. This won't change," he said.

Ms. Merkt was arrested on a rural South Texas highway Feb. 17 with a nun, newspaper reporter and three Salvadorans, including an 18-month-old child.

Sister Dianne Muhlenkamp of Fort Wayne, Ind., was to stand trial with Ms. Merkt, but agreed to cooperate with the government in exchange for a year's probation.

Charges against Dallas Times Herald reporter Jack Fischer, who was working on a story at the time of his arrest, were never presented to the federal grand jury.

Supporters of the sanctuary movement maintain Salvadorans are not illegal aliens as the government contends, but are political refugees fleeing violence in their homeland. They say assisting the refugees is one way of expressing opposition to "U.S. intervention in El Salvador."

Defense attorneys for Ms. Merkt argued that the Salvadorans she was transporting are entitled to asylum under the Refugee Act of 1980, authored by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.

A staff advisor on immigration policy to Kennedy compared the sanctuary movement and the trial of Ms. Merkt to the Civil Rights movement 30 years ago.

"It is a violation of the law to transport illegal aliens and we can't countenance that," said Jerry Tinker, minority council to the Senate Subcommittee on Immigration and Refugee policy. "If they (sanctuary workers) violate the law they take the risk."

"But they may make a moral statement and, God knows, that's terribly important. That's what the Civil Rights movement was based on," Tinker said.

Ms. Merkt and Sister Dianne had been working at the Casa Oscar Romero, sponsored by the Catholic Diocese of Brownsville and considered to be the first stop for Salvadoran aliens on the nation's underground railroad.

Casa Romero director Jack Elder is scheduled to stand trial in July on charges of transporting three Salvadoran illegal aliens.

In Agent Orange case

Houston lawyer hero

HOUSTON (AP) — Attorney C. Benton Musslewhite says he almost didn't take the Agent Orange defoliant case that most lawyers considered unwinnable.

But in challenging the federal government and seven large chemical companies, Musslewhite helped negotiate what may be the largest settlement in a products liability case in U.S. history.

The $750 million settlement reached Sunday in federal court in New York could affect as many as 100,000 veterans.

Musslewhite represented 1,500 Vietnam veterans who sued the companies, claiming the defoliant sprayed in Vietnamese jungles made them ill and caused sickness and birth defects among their children.

He said the most difficult part in reaching the settlement was deciding what would benefit the veterans the most.

"It was the most horrendous feeling, sitting there and you didn't know which way to go. There were some out there with families, some who were dying and need some contribution now and there were those who wanted their day in court, even if it meant they might not get anything," he said. "I believe it was best to let the veterans decide if the settlement was right."

Already $22 million in debt when he became involved in the suit in 1980, Musslewhite estimates he contributed almost $250,000 to the case, not counting his time.

But, he said, he almost didn't take the case.

"At first I didn't want to get involved," he said. "Nine out of 10 competent trial lawyers wouldn't have touched this case with a 10-foot pole."

What finally convinced him to take the case was a memo about a 1965 meeting among representatives of seven chemical companies who acknowledged that Agent Orange contained dioxin, a chemical highly toxic to humans, he said.

But Musslewhite said the company representatives did not tell the Pentagon of the defoliant's hazards, and that use of the chemical in Vietnamese jungles wasn't stopped until 1972.

"I just said, 'I can't believe it. I can't believe anyone would do this, would allow that to continue knowing what they did,' and I just couldn't say no once I knew that," he recalled.

He then contacted the attorney for a veterans group, Citizen Soldier, in New York and offered to take calls from veterans who thought Agent Orange had made them ill, he said.

"Musslewhite has definitely been one of the most active and most involved in the case," said Houston lawyer John O'Quinn, another of the seven lawyers working on the suit. O'Quinn estimated that Musslewhite spent 5,000 to 6,000 hours working on the case during the past four years.

season, plunged 9.2 percent.

The energy price increases lag a month behind the other wholesale price calculations as energy companies make their reports too late for inclusion in the current tabulation.

Wholesale prices overall had risen 0.5 percent in March, 0.4 percent in February and 0.6 percent in January. Prices rose a tiny 0.6 percent in 1983, their best showing in two decades, after advancing 3.7 percent in 1982.

The wholesale price index measures month-to-month changes in the prices paid to producers for food, energy products and other items. The prices American consumers actually pay — usually to retailers — are measured by the Consumer Price Index

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

I was privileged to listen to H. Ross Perot's speeches that he delivered in the Panhandle recently. Admittedly, I was skeptical of some of the changes he and the other members of the Select Committee on Education had come up with. After hearing his basis for these decisions, it became clear to me that changes are needed.

Some of his reasons for these changes relate to a consistent decline in achievement test scores during the last 20 years while State spending for education has increased by 10 fold (twice the rate of inflation). Texas ranks in the bottom 20 percent of the states in test scores. The United States is at the bottom of the industrial world in test scores.

The Select Committee's solutions include: 1) replacing the current elected State Board of Education with an appointed board, 2) recapturing the school day for learning by dropping many of the non-essential classes, 3) strengthening the elementary school program, 4) a head start for disadvantaged children, 5) develop an equalization plan before the Federal courts do it for us.

I realize that I have not done justice to the Committee's plan so I urge everyone to investigate it and not to rely on the electronic news media. Most of what I have heard on T.V. has been slanted against Mr. Perot.

We must remember that the school's primary purpose is to educate our children to their fullest potential' (quote H. Ross Perot).

Dear editor:

I do not know about you but I have had it with politics, both Local and National. Upon reading Wednesday's Hereford Bull column, I became very angry about Jim Lassiter losing his job over something he inserted in the Amarillo paper. I'll grant you, Jim wasn't thinking when he did that, but does anyone know or care that Jim Lassiter is the best Amarillo Distributor we have ever had? Does anyone know or even care that your Amarillo morning paper is in your yard by 4:00 o'clock A.M. every morning? GIVE ME A BREAK!!

Whatever was put in the paper, I did not even notice, much less make me vote one way or the other. What has happened to common decency, when a man loses his job because of the outcome of a local Sheriff's race???

Contrary to popular belief, we the American people still do have brains and hopefully we will use them constructively, not destructively.

I hope that Jim Lassiter's "Superior" and whoever called the Amarillo Globe has many sleepless nights with nightmares. Jim made a mistake but as Jesus said, "he that is without sin cast the first stone." Does anyone count except those running in the elections???

What's happening to everyone and their sense of decency??

Sincerely,

CLEP is a way of earning college credit for what one has learned by way of an examination. Wherever or however it is learned, one can take CLEP tests, and if results are acceptable, he or she can receive college credit.

Mary Storrs, Amarillo College counselor, said that CLEP tests will be offered in the following areas: accounting, American government, American history I and II, biology, business law, business management, college algebra, computers and data processing, freshman composition, french, calculus with analytical geometry, sociology, Spanish and trigonometry.

There is a $28 fee for each test taken and registration should be made before June 7. Register by coming by the Counseling Center in Ordway Hall or by phoning for additional information.

Through CLEP, one can be placed in courses that are challenging and that foster intellectual growth. The examinations are fair, but demanding. Many of the subject examinations are designed to correspond to one-semester courses.

Each subject examination is 90 minutes long and is composed of multiple-choice questions to be answered in two separately timed sections. In addition, some subject examinations have an essay section.

CLEP tests can be taken by the traditional college-aged student and the adult student. CLEP helps one gain recognition for knowledge acquired, and if successfully passed provides college credit for the corresponding college course.

AL roundup

Murray kills Jays

By HERSCHEL NISSENON
AP Sports Writer

Baltimore's Eddie Murray won the battle but Toronto's Willie Upshaw won the war.

Upshaw, who was out-homered 6-1 by Murray in a pregame long-ball contest, connected at a much more opportune time Thursday night. His eighth home run of the season with two out in the top of the 10th inning gave Toronto a 4-3 victory over the Orioles and averted another impending disaster in Baltimore's Memorial Stadium, where the Blue Jays have won only 10 of 48 games.

"That kind of makes up for the pregame," said Upshaw, who got a chance when the Orioles rallied for three runs in the eighth to tie the game. "I lost the contest, but we won the game. I did it when it counted."

In the only other American League games, the New York Yankees nipped the Cleveland Indians 7-6 one minute before a 1 a.m. curfew would have stopped play and the Chicago White Sox downed the Texas Rangers 8-6.

Toronto, which dropped a double-header to the Orioles Wednesday night and has made a habit recently of blowing late-inning leads in Baltimore, sailed into the eighth with a 3-0 lead - Alfredo Griffin hit a two-run homer off Mike Flanagan - and Dave Stieb hurling a two-hitter.

But the Orioles tied it in on Cal Ripken Jr.'s two-run single off Dennis Lamp and another single by Murray, who is batting .538 with runners in scoring position.

"That's why they're the world champions - they're able to come back," said Toronto Manager Bobby Cox. "But we don't get demoralized."

Upshaw, whose homer went to left-center, said, "I knew it was in the gap. It was a fastball away and I went with the pitch."

White Sox 8, Rangers 6

Pinch-hitter Jerry Hairston's two-run homer capped a three-run counterally with two out in the bottom of the ninth. The White Sox tied the game on two-out doubles by Harold Baines and Tom Paciorek off Odell Jones

Reds stage comeback try

By JOHN NELSON AP Sports Writer

It was only two games, yet Dan Driessen sees a glint of hope for the young Cincinnati Reds.

With a 2-1 victory Thursday over the Montreal Expos, the Reds have won 11 of their past 12 games.

"I can't ever remember this club sweeping the Expos, even if this was only a two-game series," said Driessen, whose leadoff homer in the seventh inning broke a 1-1 tie to back Frank Pastore's two-hitter. "It's a good sign."

Pastore, 2-2, gave up only a pair of singles after coming into the game with a 2-5 career mark against the Expos.

Gary Redus led off the game for the Reds with his first homer of the season. Driessen's homer was No. 3.

In the rest of the National League, Houston turned back Philadelphia 4-2, Los Angeles defeated Chicago 5-1, St. Louis blanked San Diego 7-0, Pittsburgh beat San Francisco 4-2 and Atlanta downed New York 7-3. With the victory, the Dodgers moved back into first place in the NL West, a game ahead of the Padres. The Cubs remained a half-game ahead of the Mets in the NL East.

The only run off Pastore, who retired the first nine Expos in order, came in the fourth. Pastore walked Pete Rose, and Bryan Little singled, sending Rose to third. Rose scored on a slow roller to second by Tim Lincecum, who had the other Montreal hit in the seventh.

The complete game by Pastore was only the third this season for the Reds.

Mario Soto pitched the other two.

Astros 4, Phillies 2

Mike Scott pitched six perfect innings and Phil Garner rapped a two-run double as the Astros extended Philadelphia's losing streak to five games. Scott, who came into the game with a 6.11 earned run average, retired 18 straight batters and took a 4-0 lead into the seventh when Juan Samuel led off with a ground-rule double. One out later, Mike Schmidt belted his ninth home run of the season and Glenn Wilson's two-out single chased Scott.

Houston picked up an unearned run in the third inning off Jerry Kosman on a single by Kevin Bass, who went to second on a grounder, took third on an error by third baseman Schmidt and scored on Jerry Mumphrey's grounder. The Astros made it 4-0 in the on singles by Mumphrey and Enos Cabell, Garner's double and Bill Doran's suicide squeeze bunt.

Dodgers 5, Cubs 1

Bob Welch scattered seven hits, and Candy Maldonado drove in three runs with a double and a sacrifice fly as Los Angeles ended Chicago's three-game winning streak. Welch, 3-3, gave up the lone Cubs run in the fifth when Larry Bowa doubled and Henry Cotto followed with a bloop single. Maldonado doubled in two runs in the fourth and hit his sac fly in the eighth. Chicago's Ryne Sandberg doubled in the first inning to extend his hitting streak to 13 games, longest in the league this season.

Cardinals 7, Padres

Joaquin Andujar pitched a five-hitter, striking out four, for his third shutout of the season as St. Louis ended a 2-5 homestand. The Cardinals scored five of their runs in the eighth inning. Tito Landrum and Tom Nieto drove in two runs apiece with doubles, and the Cards stole three bases — by Ozzie Smith, Lonnie Smith and David Green — to keep the inning going.

Speaking of Sports

By STAN GODEK Sports Editor

It all started back in December of 1979. The world was informed that the Soviet Union had invaded Afghanistan. Appalled by the move, then President Jimmy Carter announced the U.S. would boycott the 1980 Moscow Olympics. Thousands of hours of training by U.S. athletes was wasted as the Olympics were caught up in a political web. Moscow held the games anyway, won most of the medals along with the East Germans, and remain in Afghanistan today.

Now, it's the Soviets turn. Monday the Russians said that the USSR was not "boycotting," but, was implementing a "mass pullout" of Los Angeles.

That was a ridiculous announcement in the sense the Soviets were not in L.A. to begin with. But the political rhetoric is all beside the point.

It was expected. Why should the Russians attend our Games when we chickened out of theirs?

The Olympics are becoming a farce and should be done away with if not conducted properly. The past three Olympics have been tainted.

Palestine Liberation Organization terrorists slaughtered several members of the Israeli squad in Munich in 1972. Forty teams boycotted the 1976 Montreal Games to protest a New Zealand rugby team's tour of South Africa and Carter's 1980 policy.

"You cannot have an event where there has been an attempt to damage it, as was done in 1980, and assume all of that was forgotten. Memories are not that short," Juan Antonio Samaranch, president of the International Olympic Committee was recently quoted.

The future of the Games is bleak. If I didn't know better, I'd ask, "Why don't the super-powers just bomb each other and get it over with?"

Since the Olympics have become entirely political, it seems fitting that the Rev. Jesse (Action) Jackson has paid a visit to the Soviet Embassy to try to persuade the Communists to attend.

Credit has to be given to Jackson at least for the effort. President Reagan, whose dialogue with the USSR has been nil, has already given up. "We are not going to beg them," said one senior State Department official.

The account is typical of the Reagan Administration. "We have done everything humanly possible to indicate to the Soviets what we desire as far as world peace is concerned," said Larry Speakes, the chief White House spokesman, when asked what impact the Soviet decision will have on the overall state of U.S.-Soviet realtions.

Then Speakes said, "The president has gone to great lengths in order to be accommodating to the Soviets."

If so, why hasn't Reagan made at least a token visit to Moscow as a gesture of peace? And why did the president blow off attending the funeral of late Soviet Head Leonid Brezhnev?

In 1972, American Indian activists seized the Bureau of Indian Affairs building in Washington and demanded reforms of the bureau.

Olympic Games

Political rhetoric hurts

AUSTIN (AP) — The Soviet Union's decision to withdraw from the summer Olympics is a reflection of that country's bitterness over deteriorating relations with the United States, says a University of Texas professor who wrote a new book entitled "The Olympic Crisis."

Dr. John Hoberman said Thursday that while the Soviets may have planned the pullout in revenge for President Carter's boycott of the 1980 Moscow games, the chief reason for their withdrawal is "the sorry state of relations" between the two countries.

He said the Soviets want to minimize President Reagan's chances for re-election. They believe boycotting the Los Angeles games is a way to accomplish that.

Hoberman said the Soviet Union "doesn't want to do anything to acknowledge Reagan in a positive way such as would be suggested by the inclusion of the Soviet athletes in the parade on opening day in front of the leader of the host nation."

"This is apparently emotionally unacceptable to them," he said.

However, since the Olympics are a showcase at which the nations can demonstrate to the world what they have achieved, Hoberman said he is surprised the Soviets decided to pull out.

"I expected that they would continue to harass the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee about the conditions in which the games would be held. I expected a longer campaign of complaining," he said.

Hoberman's book says the Olympic movement has been in a state of "permanent crisis" since 1968, and in some ways since the beginning of the modern games. He described the Olympic movement as amoral, noting that Olympic officials have shown themselves "willing to collaborate with notorious political regimes." He cited the 1936 games in Nazi Germany and the 1980 games in Moscow as examples.

"It would really serve the cause of stability in the Olympic movement if the games took place in small, neutral countries such as Austria, Switzerland or Finland," he said.

More trouble could be in store for 1988, Hoberman said, noting that the summer games are scheduled for Seoul, South Korea.

In 1988, the Korean military government is scheduled to turn over power to an elected civilian government.

Faith in God can conquer fear.

"Thou shalt not be afraid for the terror by night; nor for the arrow that flieth by day; Nor for the pestilence that walketh in darkness: nor for the destruction that wasteth at noonday; A thousand shall fall at thy side, and ten thousand at thy right hand; but it shall not come near thee." — Psalms 91:5-7
