Cease-fire initiated

By FAROUK NASSAR Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) -A cease-fire mediated by Saudi Arabia took effect on Lebanon's civil war fronts today, a few hours after a flurry of battles between rival militias, and police reported no immediate violations of the truce.

The cease-fire, aimed at halting the widespread fighting so Lebanon's political disputes can be negotiated, began on schedule at 11 a.m. (4 a.m. EST).

Police said 12 people were killed and 27 wounded in battles with mortars, rocketpropelled grenades and machine guns in Beirut and the Chouf mountains over-

Hereford woman awarded

A Federal District Court jury reportedly deliberated six hours Thursday in Amarillo before awarding $25,200 to Norma Linda Palacios, a Hereford woman seeking damages from the Plains Memorial Hospital in Dimmitt. Palacios had asked for $100,000 from the hospital, its administrator and the board of directors because of an Aug. 6, 1978, incident in which her admission to the hospital was delayed by nearly an hour. The woman was preparing to give birth to her second child and believed a Caesarean delivery would be necessary, thereby creating an emergency situation.

delivery would be necessary, thereby creating an emergency situation.

The four-man, two-woman jury awarded Palacios $1,200 in actual damages for mental anguish suffered along with $8,000 from Jack Newsom, former hospital administrator and $4,000 each from members of the Castro County Hospital District Board of Directors.

The jury ruled Palacios was denied admission because of inability to pay, which is a violation of the Hill-Burton Act, and that the delay was caused by admission policies in effect at the time. However, they found the couple partly responsible because they did not pay the $1,000 deposit asked for in advance, a practice encouraged for patients who expected to enter the hospital.

Polite debate precedes primary push By DAVID ESPO Associated Press Writer

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) - Democratic campaign rivals are beginning their final push for next week's New Hampshire primary after a gentlemanly debate in which the pack left presidential front-runner Walter F. Mondale free to continue a non-stop attack on President Reagan.

"Mr. Reagan, whether its Lebanon or arms control or the budget deficit or whatever, is a president who is not providing ... leadership.

I will do so," Mondale declared Thursday night in the 90-minute televised

"I know what I'm doing ... I would know what I'm doing the first day and I would take charge."

It was the final eight-way candidate confrontation before New Hampshire's voters deliver the first primary verdict next Tues-

There was plenty of goodnatured kidding, and even a self-deprecating remark or two, such as when Sen. John Glenn conceded he was "dull but not boring."

Former South Dakota Sen. George McGovern sparked laughter with his explanation that he would agree to serve as vice president. "I don't have a job now," he said.

"Not only that but my apartment burned down last May. I don't even have a place to live. I need help," he tacks against Mondale that characterized earlier debates in New Hampshire and Iowa.

That left him free to continue his assault against the president, an approach he has taken since his overwhelming victory in Monday's Iowa caucuses.

"That government is out to lunch and we can't tolerate that," he said after the debate, which was sponsored by the League of Women Voters. "I promise to defeat Ronald Reagan and provide presidential leadership," Mondale said.

Mondale is favored to win the New Hampshire primary next Tuesday and even one of his rivals, Sen. Ernest Hollings of South Carolina, says a strong victory for the former vice president would all but wrap up the nomination.

But Hollings and six others in the race used their part of the debate to appeal directly to New Hampshire's voters.

"The idea that what was cast in Iowa is irreversible is nonsense," said Glenn, hoping to end a slide that has challenged his claim to be Mondale's principal opponent. Glenn came in fifth in Iowa with less than 4 percent support.

Sen. Alan Cranston of California, his campaign struggling after a weak fourth-place finish in Iowa, tried to win back the nuclear freeze vote that apparently slipped away on Monday.

Law declared unconstitutional

AUSTIN (AP) - A portion of Texas' work insurance law, called "a badge of shame" by critics, has been declared unconstitutional by State District Judge Harley

After 21/2 days of testimony and arguments, Clark held Thursday that the workers compensation law which excludes farm and ranch hands from on-the-job injury benefits, discriminates against a definite class of workers, mostly Hispanic.

"I have been deeply touched by evidence in this case. and I do believe that section of the law is unconstitutional," Clark said.

He said his ruling will apply to all farm and ranch workers in the state - of which at least 60 percent are Mexican-American - 10 days after he signs the final order next week.

Antibody killed David

HOUSTON (AP) - David, who lived virtually his entire life in a series of germ-free bubbles because he had no antibodies to fight disease, died when one type of antibody proliferated and ran amok through his body, doctors say.

Case headed to courts

AUSTIN (AP) - The $2.75 that Southwestern Bell wants to immediately add to residential phone bills is now in the hands of the state courts.

The Public Utility Commission ruled Thursday that the phone company can't put a $280 million, temporary rate hike into effect until April 22. The company argued it could start the new rates Thursday.

"Ultimately, this issue is going to be decided by the judiciary," Bell lawyer Jon Dee Lawrence told the commission. "The issue is in a courthouse, where it belongs. Let's get on with it and a court what the answer is."

Bell officials hoped to have a state court hearing on the matter within a few days. Dale Johnson, company spokesman, said each day without the higher rates costs Bell $700,000.

Briefing caper mystery lingers

WASHINGTON (AP) - Neither the Justice Department nor congressional investigators can solve the mystery of how President Jimmy Carter's debate briefing papers wound up in Ronald Reagan's campaign in 1980, but the department says no crime was involved in the transfer.

Bombardment of cities resumes

Iran and Iraq resumed artillery and missile attacks on each other's cities today, and both sides claimed successes on the battlefront in southern Iraq where Iran has mounted a major offensive.

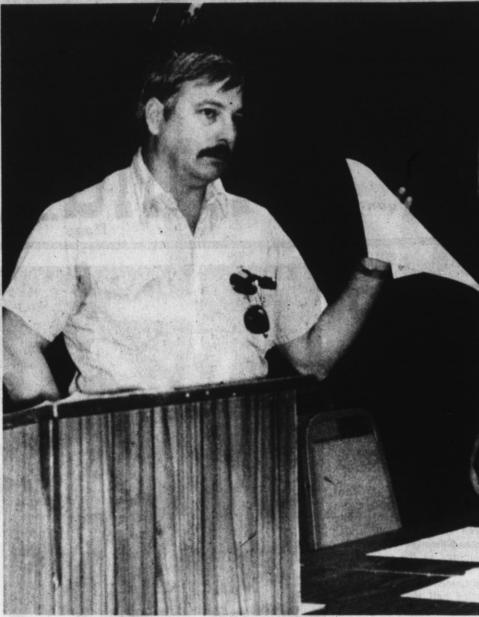

Long-range Iraqi missiles struck the cities of Khorramabad and Borujerd deep inside Iran early today, killing 59 civilians and wounding 350, according to Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency.

Iran began shelling Basra, Iraq's second largest city, in retaliation for the missile attacks, according to an Iranian military statement reported by IRNA.

On the battlefront, IRNA said, Iranian forces pushed deeper into southern Iraq between Basra and al Amarah today, capturing five more villages and an oil field in the Hur-ul Hoveizeh marshes.IRNA claimed 1,000 Iraqi soldiers were killed or wounded during the overnight fighting, raising the total Iraqi casualty toll to 3,500 since Iran launched its latest offensive Thursday night.

There was no immediate Iraqi comment on the latest Iranian claims, but Iraq said Thursday it repelled a major thrust across its border and killed thousands of Iranian soldiers advancing by foot and by boat.

Comment helped

Local teacher elected

By KIM THOGMARTIN Staff Writer

Dominguez Aurora believes classroom teachers must play a critical leadership role in developing support for needed reforms in the education system.

That comment was part of the campaign speech that helped the Hereford teacher become elected vice president of the Texas Classroom Teachers Association.

Dominguez, 35, is an eighth and ninth grade language arts instructor at Stanton Junior High School. A graduate of West Texas State University, she has spent her entire 12-year teaching career in the Hereford Independent School District. She has also been a member of the state and local CTA during those years.

"Nineteen eighty-four is a year of moving forward," Dominguez told delegates during the convention Feb. 11. "Opportunities have never been greater for the classroom teacher than now because at no other time in our history has more attention - from the media, the public, the legislature, and education professionals been focused on the need for reform in our public schools.'

The new vice president will take office June 1, and she said she wanted the position "because TCTA has the opportunity to be the force than that can effect significant changes in our education system."

Dominguez claims professional organizations such as TCTA should lead the way in articulating reforms she feels are critically needed throughout education.

Past service to the organization has included serving as director at large for two years and district director another two years, as well as working on the resolutions, legislative and public relations committees of the TCTA. For the past two years Dominguez has been the curriculum and instruction chairperson.

Biggest surge

Consumer prices rise

WASHINGTON (AP) -The biggest food price surge in five years pushed consumer prices up 0.6 percent last month, their steepest gain since April, the government said today.

Half the gain came from a 1.6 percent jump in food prices, the Labor Department said. Prices rose for virtually all foods, including such staples as meats, eggs, vegetables and fruits.

Today's bad news had been expected by analysts who said last summer's prolonged withering heat and drought, coupled with the severe cold weather earlier this winter, made more expensive food inevitable.

Today's Consumer Price Index recorded the steepestever rise in telephone bills, largely the result of the government-ordered breakup of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. Phone bills, the report said, rose an average of 5.2 percent last Heating oil prices climbed 2.6 percent, the largest onemonth gain in nearly three years, while gasoline prices, tumbling for the fourth straight month, were off 1.1 percent. Natural gas prices were also down 1.1 percent.

In all, January's increase in the CPI was three times the revised 0.2 percent advance of December and the biggest jump since the 0.7 percent of April.

Despite the fresh price pickup, however, analysts didn't foresee a return anytime soon to the torrid inflation pace of just a few years ago.

Forecaster Donald Ratajczak of Georgia State University predicted that most of the weather-related rapid food price increases would slow during the spring. Most analysts look for a 5 percent advance for all of this Consumer prices last year rose 3.8 percent, their best showing since 1972.

Prices had risen 3.9 percent in 1982 after shooting up 12.4 percent in 1980 and 8.9 percent in 1981. Today's report provided these additional details on consumer price activity last month:

-Fresh fruit prices soared 7.8 percent. Vegetable prices jumped 7 percent.

-Egg prices skyrocketed 21.3 percent while poultry prices rose 3.7 percent, both attributed to the avian flu outbreak in the mid-Atlantic states that has devastated chicken flocks.

All the changes are adjusted for normal seasonal variations.

If last-month's 0.6 percent increase held steady for 12 straight months, the yearly advance would be 7.8 percent. The annual rate reported by the department is based on a more precise calculation of monthly prices than the figure made public.

Minority relations severly criticized

DALLAS (AP) - The only black member of President Reagan's Cabinet says that the administration's relationship with minorities is "not good" and it will need to work hard to overcome its mistakes. "They do not have good relationships on the whole with the black community,' U.S. Housing and Urban Development Secretary Samuel R. Pierce Jr. said of some members of the administration. "In a word, that's a fact," Pierce said Thursday.

Political observers say recent public opinion polls tend to support Pierce's view. A Gallup Poll taken last August found that 55 percent of white men surveyed approved of Reagan's performance in office while only 16 percent of black males surveyed gave Reagan positive marks.

Pierce, in Dallas to kick off a nationwide media campaign aimed at reducing housing discrimination, made his comments in a meeting with the editorial board of The Dallas Morning

He said administration's relations with minorities began to deteriorate when Reagan's initial federal budgets called for deep cuts in social spending.

Pierce said those relations were aggravated by the administration's "mishandling of some key problems." One such incident, Pierce said, was Reagan's successful effort to replace several members of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights with his appointees - a move viewed by some former commission members as an atempt to silence their policies. "I think that caused a lot of bad blood to flow," he said.

criticism of Reagan's

Another mistake was the administration's shortlived plan to overturn an Internal Revenue Service provision banning tax exemptions for segregated schools, Pierce said.

"These problems were not handled correctly," Pierce said. "You start off with one problem - we're not going to give as much money to social problems as we used to give. "That makes the black leadership angry," he said. "And you go from there into a lot of these other things which make you look like you're really turning back the clock on civil rights, which you can't afford to do." Pierce said the economy "is a mess" for blacks. "So you're going to have to turn around the economy and give them a more decent piece of the economic pie." Pierce said the economy has begun to improve. "But in the civil rights area, we have a lot more to do, a lot more to do." he said.

Heterosexual group organized on campus

DALLAS (AP) - A students' organization at Southern Methodist University was formed by a conservative group in response to a gay rights movement, the student newspaper quotes officials as saying

The Daily Campus reported in a copyright story Friday that the Heterosexual Students Support Organization has been sponsored by the SMU chapter of Young Americans for Freedom.

The support organization's president, Saad Chehabi, told the newspaper he intends to "educate the SMU campus about heterosexuality," and has placed an advertisement scheduled to run next week seeking members.

The advertisement, purchased for Tuesday's edition, states "membership is open for everyone regardless of race, religion or national origin.

It says the agenda for the group's first meeting will be 'morality, sex education and family planning."

Chehabi, a Syrian who is also president of the YAF chapter, said the group already has a number of members.

"We are serious. We want to educate the campus about heterosexuality," Chehabi

Gay students have applied for official SMU Student Senate recognition since Spring 1983, but have failed in each attempt, officials said. The Gay and Lesbian Student Support Organization lists between 40 and 50

Using the three skills could 'siphon off thousands of cases that otherwise would find their way into the clogged court system," he said.

Pope pointed to the advent of "neighborhood justice centers," which mediate some disputes, as a way to both lessen the courts' load and involve members of the community

"The legal profession deals with problem solving, but we've got to realize that there are multitudes of problems that can be resolved that do not have to have total losers and total winners," he said. "And we don't always need to have a judge made the final decision. Many cases that take up valuable court time easily could be settled elsewhere, he

"Almost a million people turned to the courthouses in Texas last year and the year before to settle their disputes," the justice said. "Studies show that about 65 percent of those cases are ordinary people looking for a third party to make a decision so they can get on with their business.' But too often, Pope said, cases languish in legal red tape and the citizens involved don't always fully understand the complicated proceedings. "We really squeeze some people out of the system and leave them mostly self-help," he said. "I fear that sometimes in our plea bargaining, the victims don't even know the case has been disposed of." Pope, who started as a state district judge in Corpus Christi, said the state district courts decide 98 percent of the lawsuits filed in the nation, leaving only 2 percent for the federal courts. "I think we tend to judge the system by the horror cases, the mega-cases, but most are rather small cases," the justice said. "Take two neighbors and a barking dog. That has no place in the district attorney's office, but that's often the only place they can go," he said. "A case like that shouldn't end up in the district courts.'

For John and Amy Gililland, Grand Cayman and Honduras aren't just faraway places. The words conjure up images of clear, blue water and sandy beaches, scuba diving and snorkling, and "getting away from it all."

The couple discovered these Caribbean vacation spots several years ago, and they have returned more than once to spend time in the sun.

"I think the schedule would be too ordered - we get enough of that when we're not on vacation," she said. "We love the beach and just like to do our own thing."

John had gone diving while in college, but had hardly been involved in it since then. After their first trip to Grand Cayman, he took diving courses in Canyon. Both he and his daughter are now certified divers. Amy has not taken up diving but enjoys snorkling in the clear waters.

John recently purchased an underwater camera and enjoys taking pictures. The camera can also be adapted for use out of the water and Amy has caught some beautiful sunset shots along the beach.

'We've learned to pack light, as far as clothing goes," said Amy, "because we take so much diving gear, camera equipment and John's para-medic bag, which has come in handy in the primitive areas where we've gone." John said that they learned several years ago when traveling to Rumania with the Hereford Chamber Singers (of which Amy is a member) that they sometimes need to completely separate themselves from been active for the last six years or so.

Amy studied speech and the arts at Lubbock Christian College, which she attended for a year. She was also involved in drama at Dimmitt High School, and John was involved in theatre at Hereford High and at West Texas State University, which he attended before going to mortuary school in Dallas.

The couple's two children, Suzie, a freshman at Angelo State University, and Matt, a sophomore at HHS, have also been involved in drama and enjoy theatre.

John and Amy share other interests as well. They both enjoy needlepoint and latch hook rugs; John likes eagles and Amy prefers butterflies.

Amy also does crochet and tole painting, and she is presently taking a calligraphy class at Amarillo College one night a week. John enjoys keeping tropical fish in two large aquariums in the living room.

'Our life has been built pretty much around our home-everybody comes here when we get together with friends," commented Amy. "Especially when we had the ambulance, everything we did had to be at home so we'd be near the phone.

'Our patio, especially in the summer, has always been like grand central station. We love the outdoors and do a lot of our cooking out there, often with friends."

This summer, John plans to build an outdoor kitchen," she added. He enjoys barbecuing and preparing smoked meats. He has also taken up gardening. He grows vegetables and has an apple tree in the backyard. John likes to cook indoors as well as out. He enjoys Tortilla Espana.

in 1968. The Players have not dishes and rarely uses recipes.

When an old friend, Linda West Eckhardt, was working on "The Only Texas Cookbook" several years ago, John and some of his friends roasted a goat in his backyard and tried a number of recipes, some of which eventually ended up in the cookbook, along with a story about the evening in Hereford.

One of John's favorite dishes is Tortilla Espana, which he said is a potato omelet, a staple meal in Spain. His version appears below. Amy shares a recipe for "Meat-za Pie" which she enjoys preparing.

olive oil Saute potatoes and onion in butter or olive oil in a large non-stick surface skillet, covered, about 10 minutes over medium heat or until Break 6 eggs into large bowl. Season to taste with salt, pepper and tobasco sauce. Take potatoes and onion off burner and pour into bowl of eggs. Let set 15 minutes to marinate.

Then pour mixture back in-to the skillet, to which has been added another 2 tablespoons butter. Spread out and let cook about 10 minutes, covered, until eggs on top have congealed. Don't stir.

Put a large platter on top of skillet and invert mixture onto place. Wipe skillet out and add a little more butter. Slide mixture into skillet, uncooked side down; and cook 6 or 7 minutes over medium heat until browned. Slide out onto platter. Garnish with parsley

May also add ham, sausage or other cooked meat. Brown meat while potatoes and onions are marinating with eggs. Then add to mixture and pour into skillet.

MEAT-ZA PIE

1 lb. ground beef 1/2 to 1 tsp. garlic salt, to taste Two-thirds c. evaporated milk (one small can)

2 c. fine dry bread crumbs One-third c. tomato catsup or tomato paste 1 (2 oz.) can sliced mushrooms, drained, or mushroom stems and pieces, drained and chopped

2 to 3 slices processed American cheese, cut in

1/2 tsp. oregano, crumbled finely, or poultry seasoning 2 Tbsp. grated Parmesan

Place beef, garlic salt and bread crumbs in a 9-inch pie pan. Add evaporated milk and mix together with fork. With the fork, spread mixture evenly over bottom of pan, raising a rim about a half inch high around edge.

Spread catsup or tomato paste over meat to the rim. Arrange drained sliced mushrooms on catsup. Place cheese strips casually in criss-cross pattern over top.

Sprinkle with oregano or poultry seasoning. Sprinkle generously with grated Parmesan cheese. Bake in preheated hot oven (400 degrees F.) 20 minutes or until cheese is melted and lightly browned.

Cut in wedges and serve. Makes four servings.

NOTE: One-half cup finely chopped green pepper may be used in place of mushrooms. One cup soft bread crumbs or one-half cup fine cracker crumbs may be used in place of the one-half cup fine dry bread crumbs.

'Last year we beat one team in our district. If we can get in the top four, that would be pretty good. But we would have to play a lot better than we've been playing," he emphasized.

The top two teams in the district will advance to the regionals. The top two individuals in the district also go to the regionals. Field's said, even if his team does not finish first or second in the district, one of his players has a chance at traveling to the regionals.

'Matt (Albracht) has a shot at it. He would have to play as well as he can. And it takes a little luck because quite a few teams have good players," Fields added.

Albracht have proven he is one of the better players in the district. Last year, as a sophomore, he was one of the top 10 players and shot the lowest score in the Hereford District Tournament, according to Fields.

Duke's Mark Alaire sank a pair of free throws 1:51 into the extra session to give the Blue Devils a 70-68 lead, but North Carolina State countered with a Myers basket 15 seconds later.

Jay Bilas' free throw with 1:41 left gave Duke the lead for good and Dan Meagher's charity tosses in the closing seconds gave the Blue Devils their final margin of victory.

Duke improved its record to 22-5, 7-4 in the ACC. North Carolina State dropped to 19-9, 4-7 in the conference.

Alvin Vaughn's 18-foot jumper with 3:26 to play gave Washington a 49-47 lead with 3:26 remaining and the Huskies, 18-5 overall, 12-2 in the Pacific 10 Conference. moved into a four-point advantage on two Clay Damon free throws

Harshman's team couldn't put the game away, though, missing six of nine opportunities from the charity stripe in the final 1:41. Top Twenty

Alvin Roberson and Ricky Norton scored 11 points apiece to lead four Arkansas players in double figures against Texas Tech.

The Razorbacks, headed toward a Southwestern Conference showdown Sunday with third-ranked Houston, hiked their record to 12-1 in league play and 22-4 overall.

Joe Kleine and Leroy Sutton added 10 points each and Arkansas scored its last 11 points from the free throw line to hold off the Red Raiders in the final 4:08.

"Offensively, we displayed good patience. Our field goal percentage outstanding," Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton said.

Crippled Rivera hopes to walk someday

By BOB DVORCHAK Associated Press Writer

HARMARVILLE, Pa. (AP) - Gabe Rivera, his professional football career shattered by a crushed spinal cord, says he has come to grips with an accident four months ago that put him in a wheelchair for life.

"I know there's hope and I hope for a cure in the future and I hope myself of maybe one day walking. But realistically, this is the way I'm going to be from now on, until I die. I can accept that," Rivera said Thursday from his wheelchair at the Harmarville Rehabilitation Center near Pittsburgh. "It was hard trying to accept it," he said in his first public statement since his crippling accident on Oct. 20. "But then all of a sudden you say, 'What am I going to do, lie around and do nothing?"

A mere five weeks after Super Bowl XVIII, professional football has come call-

The United States Football League, showcasing six new teams, launches its second season with eight games Sunday and defending champion Michigan entertaining Chicago in a televised contest

Monday night. New Jersey at Birmingham heads the Sunday slate with Houston, featuring rookie quarterback Jim Kelly, visiting Tampa Bay, site of this year's USFL title game.

The rest of the schedule has Oakland at Arizona; Philadelphia at Memphis; New Orleans at San Antonio; Washington at Jacksonville; enver at Los Angeles and Pittsburgh at Oklahoma, where 1983 Heisman Trophy winner Mike Rozier debuts for the Maulers and ex-Tampa Bay Buccaneer Doug Williams starts at quarterback for the Outlaws. The New Jersey-Birmingham matchup will spotlight former National Football League quarterbacks Brian Sipe and Cliff Stoudt as well as serve as a homecoming of sorts for ex-Buffalo Bill Joe Cribbs, who was a standout ball carrier at

Auburn. ex-NFL Another signalcaller, Chicago's Vince Evans, will play his first game in a USFL uniform as well, while San Antonio will go with Rose Bowl hero Rick Neuheisel out of UCLA.

Sipe, who left the Cleveland Browns for a lucrative deal with New Jersey, joins 1983 Heisman Trophy winner Herschel Walker in the Generals' backfield, while Birmingham is building its offensive attack around Stoudt, a starter for the Pittsburgh Steelers last season, and Cribbs, one of the NFL's best all-purpose running backs the past four years.

Kelly, a record-breaking passer at Miami, Fla., was the Bills' first-round selection in the 1983 NFL draft, but signed instead with the expansion Gamblers.

Against Tampa Bay, he will be facing a defense that ranked second in the USFL overall a year ago, yet up more points than the Bandits' top-ranked passing game could generate during an 11-7 season.

Tampa Bay, which is expecting a crowd of around 50,000, figures to rely heavily on the throwing of John Reaves whose prime targets are Eric Truvillion (66 receptions, 15 touchdowns in 1983) and speedy running back

Gary Anderson. Denver and Los Angeles are coached by a pair of former NFL quarterbacks, Craig Morton and John Hadl, who are trying to turn around losing situations.

In attendance were Mmes. Bookout, Billie Farr, Ursalee Jacobsen, Roberta Caviness, Elizabeth Cesar and Leona Kimball; and Messes. and Mmes. Bill Johnson, Boyd Foster, Raymond White, Ed Coplen, Temple Abney, Wayne Amstutz, Ben Childers, W.D. Dowell and Dan Warrick.

Everyone is talking about the terrible thing that has happened there among you, something so evil that even the heathen don't do it: you have a man in your church who is living in sin with his father's

And are you still so conceited, so "spiritual"? Why aren't you mourning in sorrow and shame, and seeing to it that this man is removed from your

Although I am not there with you, I have been thinking a lot about this, and in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ I have already decided what to do, just as though I were there. You are to call a meeting of the church-and the power of the Lord Jesus will be with you as you meet, and I will be there'in spirit-

And cast out this man from the fellowship of the church and into Satan's hands, to punish him, in the hope that his soul will be saved when our Lord Jesus Christ returns.

What a terrible thing it is that you are boasting about your purity, and yet you let this sort of thing go on. Don't you realize that if even one person is allowed to go on sinning, soon all will be affected? Remove this evil cancer-this wicked person-from among you, so that you can stay pure. Christ, God's Lamb, has been slain for us. So let us feast upon Him and grow strong in the Christian life, leaving entirely behind us the cancerous old life with all its hatreds and wickedness. Let us feast instead upon the pure bread of honor and sincerity and truth. I Corinthians 5:1-8

David's friends still quarding his privacy

SHENANDOAH, Texas (AP) - David's privacy was guarded as fiercely in death as it was in life.

Neighbors kept his secret for a dozen years. The last name of the child forced to live his life in a series of germ-free rooms is still not public knowledge.

David died at Texas Children's Hospital at 8 p.m. Wednesday. Dr. William Shearer said he was apparently killed by complications set off by an operation intended to give him immunity to disease and free him, for the first time, to enter the dirty world outside his bubble.

David's friends banded together Thursday afternoon against reporters and photographers who learned the address of the "bubble boy's" family. They eventually called law officers, who set up barricades around the house in a suburb about 25 miles north of Houston.

"Get out of here!" a woman yelled from her porch as a photographer attempted to take a picture of David's family home, a single-story brick house on a corner lot in a subdivision about 25 miles north of Houston.

Another neighbor, spotting a reporter going house-tohouse, threatened to call police.

The family's only statement came in the form of a news release through Gayle McNutt, a spokesman for Baylor College of Medicine, thanking the hospital workers and others "for the many kindnesses extended us during our son's life."

We are especially grateful to those who responded to the need of blood for David," the statement said. "Last, but not least, we wish to thank all who ever read about David and responded with letters of support and encouragement, especially for the many prayers.'

About a dozen cars surrounded David's home, with a steady stream of friends and relatives coming and going.

Friends removed David's room-size bubble from his home Tuesday night at the family's request.

"They knew he wouldn't make it to come home again," a neighbor who requested anonymity told the Conroe Courier. "It would have been too much to face. Taking it down may make it a little easier." Neighbor Ed Boyd concurred with the Shearer's description of David as an exceptionally bright boy who understood virtually everything about his condi-

"I've known him since he was about like that," Boyd said, holding his hands about a foot apart. "We were not dealing with a child."

"You just can't say anything but good about him," said another neighbor, Harold Brown, a television station engineer.

Both men declined to say anything further without permission from the family.

One of the visitors at the house was the boy's priest, the Rev. Laurence Connelly, who said doctors had no choice but to perform the Oct. 21 transplant of bone marrow designed to rouse David's dormant immune system.

"It was the only thing to do. It was the right thing to do," he said. "And the next person will make it. I just thought he would make it.

"I don't think there are any regrets" about the operation, Connelly said. "Science should not regret it, the family should not regret it, the loved ones should never regret what has happened. This was the right and the proper thing to do.

The cloak of privacy was extended to David's school, where officials of the Conroe Independent School District refused to say anything about David.

Ken Clutsman, community relations director for the district, intercepted visitors to the Wilkerson Intermediate School in The Woodlands, about 3 miles from David's home.

David participated in sixthgrade classes there through the use of a special telephone hookup between his bubble and the school.

The privacy, agreed to long ago by school officials, was "part of helping him grow up as a normal healthy kid and not as a freak," Clutsman said.

No announcement regarding David was made to students Thursday, Clutsman said.

But his classmates knew he was missing.

"Some of the kids who knew him really good were crying," said Jason Winn,

On doctors fees

AMA expected to ask for freeze

CHICAGO (AP) - The American Medical Association's call for doctors to help heal the nation's economy by freezing their fees for a year drew objections from some physicians, but the AMA chairman predicted 85 percent would comply.

Saying doctors have a responsibility to aid in the economic recovery, the AMA's 12-member board of trustees voted unanimously Thursday to mail letters to the nation's 390,000 doctors involved in patient care, urging them to refrain from raising fees for one year.

'Among the major concerns that people have is the cost of medical care," said Dr. Joseph F. Boyle, the AMA's president-elect. "We believe that doctors have the same concerns as their patients and will share in all the sacrifices that are necessary to keep the economy strong."

Doctors will be asked to begin the freeze immediately, said AMA president Dr. Frank J. Jirka Jr. They will also be urged to consider the financial circumstances of their patients - especially the unemployed, the uninsured and those covered by Medicare - and to reduce or waive fees when warranted, he said. About 20 percent of the nation's $325 billion annual health care bill is made up of doctors' fees, with hospital costs accounting for most of the rest. Two decades ago, the doctors' share was about 27 percent, said Dr. John J. Coury Jr., chairman of the AMA board.

Some initial reactions were positive.

"Something like that would be quite appropriate," said Dr. Charles Hatcher Jr., chief of cardiac surgery at Emory University's clinic in suburban Atlanta. "Certainly, if it would help the economy, it would help us all - a short-term sacrifice for a long-term gain."

However, Dr. George Brumley, interim dean of Emory University Medical School, emphasized that physicians' fees are not the only factors responsible for the spiraling cost of health

"I'm sure the physicians would be interested in considering it at the same time that all other health care costs are being considered to carry their share of the responsibility," he said.

"In 1983, for the first time in a period of almost five years, physicians' fees went up faster than the all-items (consumer price) index," said Boyle. Fees rose 6.4 percent last year, compared with the consumer price index rise of 3.8 percent, he said.

The AMA made a similar appeal in 1978, according to Dr. James H. Sammons, AMA executive vice president. Doctors responded widely to that request, with figures indicating that fees increased at a slower rate than the consumer price index for the years 1978-80, he LOUISVILLE, Neb. (AP) Six fathers of pupils at the illegal Faith Christian School, free today after 93 days in jail for refusing to answer a judge's questions, said they would go through the ordeal again "for, freedom of religion." Sarpy County District Judge Ronald Reagan ordered the men released Thursday, three months to the day after they were arrested. At the heart of the matter is a refusal by the church school to use state-certified teachers. The six fathers were released after they promised not to send their children to the school until it complies with state laws. The children have not been attending school, and a lawyer for the six men said they would not attend said in praising the six men.

One of the men, David wavered. But now, we'd be willing to do it again."

Two councilmen receive threats

WEAUBLEAU, Mo. (AP) - Two city councilmen say they got death threats just a day after the mayor was found killed by a highpowered rifle, and one admitted, "I've got butterflies in my stomach right now."

Curtis Bailey and Henry Jerki said Thursday that they received the telephoned threats Wednesday, a day after Bailey found Mayor Ollie Cooper lying face down in a pool of blood at Cooper's

The mayor's death followed a year of violence and threats against the city council that have left some lawmakers in this small southwest Missouri town frightened and angry. The caller Wednesday told each of the men, "You're next.

Cooper, Bailey and Jerki were all up for re-election in April. Two other council members were not threaten-Hickory County Sheriff William V. Kennedy said Thursday that he was not treating the threats as "I think they're cranks," he said. But Bailey, 69, said, "I haven't slept all night. I've got butterflies in my stomach right now. "At night I pull the shades and I don't know whether I'm going to be shot at through the window or what," said Bailey's wife, Irene. "This town is about to scare me to death. Jerki said he was puzzled but not frightened by the threat. "I'm not worried. I've been shot at in World War II - why should this scare me?" he said. "I don't know what it's

"If we have to go back to jail for freedom of religion, we'll do it again," said Ralph Liles, another of the men held in contempt of court since Nov. 23.

"During this time there have been at least seven major accomplishments from the perspective of Faith Baptist Church," the Rev. Edward Roe, acting pastor at Faith Baptist Church and acting director of the school,

The sheriff was investigating tips from residents in the town of about 400 people, located 100 miles southeast of Kansas City. But Hutton said Thursday. Last year, someone threw sticks of dynamite onto the lawns of Jerki, Bailey and another council member. Claude Davenport, Bailey said. Attached were notes warning: "Get out. You're in trouble," he said. The source was never found.

And other violent incidents occurred: Two shots were fired at Cooper's pickup truck last summer, and a horse, two bulls and a calf on his farm were killed.

Bailey, who said he was Cooper's best friend, found the body of the 68-year-old mayor at his 500-acre farm Tuesday afternoon, after Cooper's worried wife called to say he had never come home for lunch. The death initially was believed to be accidental. Cooper was using a hay hook to move bales of hay when he died, and Hickory County Coroner Robert R. Boller initially concluded he had suffered a heart attack and fallen on the sharp tool, causing a wound in his neck. But a funeral director discovered another wound in his back, and the death was reclassified a homicide.

Perot proposes fine for parents

DALLAS (AP) - A Texas industrialist who heads a state education committee says that parents should be held financially responsible for their childrens' progress

H. Ross Perot, chairman of the governor's Select Committee on Public Education, told members of the Texas Association of Middle Schools on Thursday that the state should establish a program requiring strong parental involvement in their childrens' education.

Perot said, under such a program, parents and students would be required to carry out specific objectives.

He said if those objectives were not met, a fine amounting to the cost of educating a child and, possibly, the loss of the right to attend school could be ordered.

But an Austin-based staff member for one of Perot's subcommittees disagreement has arisen among committee members on the chairman's position and alternatives are being considered.

None of the proposals under consideration by the subcommittee have been approved, said Sally Haenelt, chief of staff of the legislative action subcommittee for Perot's

The subcommittee was expected to begin voting on its recommendations as early as March 1. The Select Committee was expected to get the proposals by March 5. Ms. Haenelt said one alternative being considered is a charge, rather than a fine, that would be levied against all parents of school-aged children.

The charges would cover the costs of training workshops the parents would attend to reinforce study skills and inform them of curstudents' teachers, she said.

believes an education should not be a right. He said that if parents and students fail to meet their obligations, "that service is terminated."

Perot said he believes such a system would demand more from the students, as well as their parents, by imposing requirements that would have to be met in order for the students to stay in school.

Perot said after the meeting he also did not believe school attendance should be compulsory.

Sen. Carl Parker of Port Arthur was working on legislation to amend the state education code that currently requires the children to attend school between the ages of 7 and 17, he said.

Ms. Haenelt also said, however, that the subcommittee was looking at alternative recommendations other than a complete change in the compulsory attendance

She said recommendations include an increased emphasis on alternative schools for "incorrigible students and juvenile offenders" who have reached 15 years of age.

Losing weight slowly

DEAR DR. LAMB - I was reading your column about the person who was overweight. I'm 45, 50 pounds overweight and I would love to lose it. I tried working out on an exercise bicycle, but it didn't seem to do any good. Can being overweight bother your nerves? Would it cause back problems? I really would appreciate your health letter on losing weight.

DEAR READER - Some authorities believe that some people are overweight because they are nervous. They eat in response to anxiety and tension. Others evidently eat because of boredom or pressure. Then, of course, the person who really gets concerned about being overweight might develop some anxiety about his health. So it really can work both ways.

Being overweight often contributes to back problems. This is particularly true if being overweight is associated with a large abdomen. The abdominal muscles are weak and the strain on the back muscles is increased. In fact, I had a letter from a lady who said she had back trouble for years until she eliminated her excess body weight, and after that time she had no more trouble.

I'd be happy to send you the Health Letter 4-7, Weight Losing Diet, as you requested. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, selfaddressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper. P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY

Exercise is an important aid in controlling weight loss. It should be combined with controlling your calories. It's a slow process. To illustrate the point, a person who weighs 150 pounds will · only use 60 more calories walking one mile than he would have used sitting during the same period. But if that same individual walks three miles a day for a year. he will have used the amount of calories in almost 20 pounds of body fat. And, of course, that three miles doesn't have to be walked all at one time. It could be a mile-and-a-half twice a day.

But if you follow a sensible diet and exercise - and are patient - in the course of time you will be able to eliminate your excess body fat. It's not safe to try to lose fat too fast. If you are 50 pounds overweight, you should expect it to be at least a year's project, if you want to do it safe and simply

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm 82 and blessed with good health. But I have one small problem. In the past eight months, I have developed dozens of tiny moles on my body, under my breasts and on my stomach. They seem to start with tiny red dots. Can they develop into anything serious? The only medication I take is a daily dose of Brewer's yeast and one vitamin and mineral

DEAR READER - Your "moles" need to be seen by a doctor. They may not be moles at all. Your description of dozens of tiny moles may mean they are small tumors of nerve fibers (neurofibromas). They could be some type of wart, such as "seed

It's unlikely they will ause you any health probbut I would be much happier with you if you would allow someone to see them so a definite diagnosis could be made.

That is good advice for anyone who has any lumps or bumps and doesn't know for sure what they are.

Roach killer works

DEAR POLLY — Could you or any of your readers please tell me a way to eliminate roaches? At one time I had a recipe that contained boric acid, but I have lost the formula.

DEAR GRETA — The "recipe" for a homemade roach powder is simple, inexpensive and effective. You can make this formula with either boric acid or borax. Boric acid is the stronger poison, but borax is less expensive. The addition of sugar attracts the roaches so they are more likely to eat the poisonous borax or boric acid. Caution: Borax and boric acid, while generally considered to be safer to use than many strong commercial poisons, are poisonous if eaten. Keep this mixture out of the reach of small children and pets. Do not store or sprinkle it where children and pets can get into it.

The formula: Mix two tablespoons boric acid or borax with two teaspoons sugar. Sprinkle behind cabinets and appliances, under and in back of the sink and other places where roaches run and congregate. Repeat every two to three weeks ntil roaches are gone; then repeat every month or so to keep them away.

I'm sending you a copy of my newsletter, "Homemade Remedies for Household Pests" which contains this recipe and additional remedies to control roaches, ants flour worms and weevils, mice and other pests. Other readers who would like a copy of this newsletter should send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1216, Cincinnati, Ohio 45201. Be sure to include the title. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - An empty Worcestershire sauce bottle makes a very handy vinegar cruet. You can shake out a dash or several dashes if more is needed. — JEANNE

DEAR POLLY — My husband cannot eat onions without discomfort. We both like the flavor onions give to many dishes, however. When I make something like a chicken salad, I prepare the salad ahead of time and place a 1/4-inch slice of onion on top of the salad. An hour or so in the refrigerator allows the onion flavor to penetrate the mixture and flavor the other ingredients. My husband can enjoy the flavor without eating the troublesome onion. - CHARLOTTE

DEAR POLLY - When airing your clothes on the line outdoors, they'll stay securely on the line if you use this procedure. Place a heavy rubber band over the line and pull one end through the other. Hang the hanger hook through the loop of rubber band. The hanger will never slip off the line. MRS. B.P.

It's dependable

I would stress the dependability. I would point out to consumers being able to rely on your telephone for just about anything: your business. your home life, your social life.

"I'd say they have good service. Their phones work, and you can depend on the calls. If you have any repair work, it gets done.

"I've called to ask questions about rates and bills, and the people I've spoken to have been very polite and willing to answer all my questions.

"The phone company is every day coming up with more efficient ways of doing things, or better ways. "I think the strength of the

THROUGH THE EYES OF FAITH WE SEE LIFE MORE CLEARLY

our eyes are your windows of the world you live in, through which you are able to observe your surroundings, recognize your fellow beings, perform your everyday tasks and follow the pathway of your life. They enable you to concentrate on a single object or person, or scan every detail of the panorama within your field of vision. You can develop your powers of observation so as to enjoy the natural beauty of God's creation whenever you step out of doors, and you can also quickly identify a situation that should be remedied or a person in need of your help. At the Church of your choice you will learn to see all the good things of this world through the eyes of faith

"The light of the body is the eye." -Matthew 6:22

The eye of each man sees but what it has the power of seeing
