Despite White House opposition

Nuclear freeze resolution expected to pass

WASHINGTON (AP) — A nuclear freeze resolution was expected by supporters to pass the House today despite President Reagan's 11th hour lobbying against it.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes acknowledged on Tuesday that it would be "very tough" for the administration to defeat the resolution coming up for House floor action today.

"The way it is presented, it is very difficult for a member of Congress to cast a vote against," said Speakes. "It kind of comes on in an apple-pie fashion."

The measure calls for negotiations between the United States and the Soviet Union to seek a "mutual and verifiable freeze and reductions in nuclear weapons."

Rep. Edward J. Markey, D-Mass., an author of the freeze resolution, said "the mood among freeze supporters is one of confidence that we will prevail on this crucial vote in the House."

The House debated the resolution for 12 hours on March 16 but failed to reach a final vote after freeze opponents offered a series of amendments and used other delaying tactics.

Last summer, a similar freeze measure lost in the House by a slim 204-202 margin.

Reagan, Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger and other national security officials met Tuesday with a group of undecided Democrats, trying to persuade them to support a toned-down GOP substitute for the freeze resolution.

Hours earlier, Weinberger had announced proposals for bolstering "hot line" communications with the Soviet Union as a means for averting nuclear war through accident or miscalculation.

"These are very simple things. They would benefit everybody," Weinberger told a Pentagon news conference.

The proposals include upgrading the existing teleprinter "hot line" between U.S. and Soviet leaders to a high-speed system that could relay photos and charts, creation of separate lines between military commands and also between embassies, and provisions for consultation over possible nuclear terrorist incidents.

Weinberger denied the announcement had been timed to precede House action on the nuclear freeze or a Senate vote Thursday on Reagan's embattled nomination of Kenneth L. Adelman to head the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

Some of the congressmen undecided about the freeze resolution left the White House questioning the administration's arguments.

Rep. Glenn English, D-Okla., told reporters: "One of the most alarming aspects of it was there seemed to be the feeling among some — the secretary of defense and others — that this was a unilateral freeze."

"I certainly would never support a unilateral freeze," English said, adding that such an interpretation "would spell the death of it."

Supporters of the freeze resolution, sponsored by Chairman Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, have stressed that it would involve a mutual U.S.-Soviet halt on weapons rather than unilateral U.S. action.

"The bill is entirely conditioned upon rough equivalence (of U.S.-Soviet forces)," said Rep. William J. Hughes, D-N.J. "The suggestion that we could not modernize our weapons, I think, is ill founded."

English said he asked Reagan what part of the measure he objected to most.

"The president really didn't come up with anything specifically," English said. Instead, he said Reagan argued the resolution would send the wrong message to the Soviet Union, as well as to American allies.

English said he left the meeting still undecided about the resolution. "I would like to see some good, strong clarifying language so that we all understand what we're going to be voting on," he said.

Previously, Reagan has attacked the freeze as a threat to any hope for achieving an arms control agreement, claiming that it would "pull the rug out from under our negotiators in Geneva."

It was expected that House Republicans would again strive for adoption of an amendment by Rep. Mark D.

Police arrest Solidarity leader Lech Walesa

Polish government denies labor leader is in custody

GDANSK, Poland (AP) — Police seized Solidarity leader Lech Walesa at his Gdansk apartment today, and his wife Danuta said she was told he was being interrogated at a police station.

"Tell the whole world they are breaking the law," Walesa yelled to reporters as he was led into a red police van and driven away. Mrs. Walesa said a senior police official told her by phone that her husband was taken to a police station for questioning.

The move came a day after Walesa announced he held a weekend meeting with underground leaders of the outlawed labor movement, and on the 13th of the month, a day sometimes marked by protest over the declaration of martial law on Dec. 13, 1981.

In Warsaw, the spokesman for the Communist government, Jerzy Urban, denied "the false information that Walesa has been arrested." A spokesman for police in Gdansk also denied Walesa was arrested, saying, "I don't know anything and I have no idea who might know. We are not interested in that, anyway."

Western reporters saw the independent labor leader seized.

A spokesman for the Gdansk police said Walesa had not been taken into custody and may have gone for a walk.

A spokesman for Walesa read reporters a communique describing the incident. It said:

"On April 13, Lech Walesa was arrested at his apartment in Gdansk by two uniformed and one plainclothes police officer."

"The officers carried guns and threatened to use force. They refused to present any kind of summons or documents," the communique said.

"They also refused to give any explanation to Walesa's wife or any member of the family," it said.

Walesa was freed from 11 months martial law detention in November and several weeks later was bundled into a police car and driven around for hours to prevent him from speaking at a rally in Gdansk.

There had been speculation

he would be picked up after his weekend meeting with underground Solidarity leaders.

Government spokesman Jerzy Urban told a news conference that Walesa would be considered in violation of the law if something illegal came out of the meeting.

Walesa, interviewed briefly at his apartment Tuesday, declined to give details of his session with the "temporary coordinating commission" of Solidarity, which includes five fugitive leaders.

It was not known where the meeting, which started Saturday and ended Monday, took place.

"We agreed to maintain contacts," Walesa said. "The TKK (the Polish acronym for the commission) agreed to go along with my decisions and I agreed to go along with theirs."

The government has blamed the Solidarity underground for much of the unrest since the December 1981 declaration of martial law, which suspended the

Schools will participate in summer school project

By JERI CURTIS
Staff Writer

Hereford Schools will again participate in a state pilot project by being one of about 14 districts conducting a specially funded summer school.

The board of trustees voted unanimously on Superintendent Harrell Holder's request for the summer session.

As last year's program, the session will be for third through sixth grades and cater to students who were unsuccessful on the Texas Assessment of Basic Skills test. Classes will stress basic objectives and focus on a child's individual needs. Mal Manchee, director of program development, said that in order to compete for the state pilot grant the district had to alter the program. Manchee hopes that students whose learning problems stem from emotional problems may find help.

The session will again use computers for reinforcement of skills. Funding will come from a combination of the grant, migrant program money and Title I money.

The board, at its first business meeting with the new members, reassigned committees for the year as follows with the first member named as chairman.

Budget and Salary: Sallie Strain, Bill Townsend, and Paul Mason.

Personnel and Policy: Townsend, R.C. Hoelscher, and Mrs. Strain.

Curriculum: Hoelscher, Marilyn Culpepper, and Mrs.

Strain. Pupil Services: Mrs. Culpepper, Tom Simons, and Cal Jones.

Insurance: Jones, Mrs. Culpepper, and Townsend.

Community Relations: Simons, Jones, and Mason.

Long Range Planning: Mason, Simons, and Hoelscher.

Three items were adopted for the district policy. One stated that individual board members who travel on school business at the board's expense, must get board approval.

The second ruled that the district shall provide equal expenditures per student

Credit union members hear report on industry

By BOB NIGH
MANAGING EDITOR

A crowd of 350-400 credit union members heard about the possible impacts of changes within the financial services industry Tuesday evening as a Texas Credit Union League And Affiliates executive delivered the keynote address at the annual meeting of the Hereford Texas Federal Credit Union at the community center.

DICK WILLIAMSON

Richard E. "Dick" Williamson, Vice President for Public Relations for the league, told the crowd that financial institutions have seen a great amount of change in the areas of service and costs in the past couple of years, and "they're also the places we'll see the most change in the next couple of years."

Some of the changes Williamson mentioned were the addition of interest earnings on checking accounts "at just about any financial institution," insured savings accounts that earn money-market rates, and income shelters, such as IRA's. "The list of changes is a long one, but it can be summed up simply," Williamson said. "You, as a consumer of financial services, have more options today, and those options all allow you to earn more for your money."

The speaker cautioned the crowd that the one bad aspect of the changes is the speed with which they have been implemented. "The speed with which these changes have come upon us, along with the options and alternatives, has caused a tremendous amount of confusion—not just for the average saver, but even for those who operate credit unions or other financial institutions," he said.

Williamson bemoaned the Tax Equality and Fiscal Responsibility Act, which was passed by the U.S. Congress last summer. The key provision of the act, as far as credit unions are concerned, calls for financial institutions to withhold 10 percent of the interest paid on savings accounts as federal income tax beginning July 1.

"The really innovative idea in this law is one of getting someone else to do the government's job," Williamson said. "By forcing credit unions, banks, savings and loans, corporations, and other payors of interest and dividends to absorb the costs

Soviets to counter new U.S. missile

MOSCOW (AP) — Deploying the MX missile will tilt the strategic balance in favor of the United States and will be countered by new Soviet weaponry, a leading Soviet arms control specialist says.

The latest U.S. plans for an MX system have a "rather sinister" overtone because they intensify the nuclear arms competition, Oleg Bykov said.

Instead of new weapons systems, he said, the United States and Soviet Union should "devise ways of stopping the arms race and then reducing ... strategic levels."

The MX plans are "out of step with what is perceived to be the urgent need for a freeze and reduction."

Bykov, acting director of the Institute of World Economy and International Relations, was interviewed Tuesday by The Associated Press, a day after a special U.S. commission made its recommendations to President Reagan on a basing system for the new missiles.

The Russian academic stressed he was not speaking for the Soviet leadership. But his views generally have reflected those of the Kremlin.

"Of course, it takes two to make an arms race," he said. "And the Soviet leadership has put it in so many words: We will respond."

The interview conducted in Bykov's 17th-floor suite at the institute's office tower in southern Moscow, ranged over various aspects of the arms race, including Reagan's call for an advanced anti-missile defense system, which Bykov described as "highly destabilizing."

The MX, which could be deployed in the mid-1980s, is a highly accurate, powerful new missile that will carry up to 10 nuclear warheads. The Chicago mayor offers 'friendship'

CHICAGO (AP) — Harold Washington, narrowly elected the first black mayor of the nation's second-largest city after a divisive campaign charged with racial tension, today offered his hand "in friendship and fellowship to every living soul in this city."

The two-term congressman, who defeated Republican Bernard Epton in Tuesday's election, will become mayor on a date to be set by the City Council today.

He promised a "new Democratic coalition" in his four years in office, and said his first step would be to meet with Epton at a prayer breakfast — as both candidates had promised, win or lose.

"We must work as one people for our common good and our common goals," Washington said after defeating Epton in an election marred by angry mob scenes, watermelon lapel buttons and "Vote Right, Vote White" T-shirts.

Washington overcame a 1972 misdemeanor tax conviction, suspension of his law license and an array of unpaid bills to dash Epton's hope of becoming Chicago's first GOP mayor in 52 years.

He won on a record 1.3 million turnout with a powerful outpouring of black votes, strong support among Hispanics and unexpectedly strong backing from reform-minded "lakefront liberals" at odds with City Hall for years.

With 2,885 of 2,914 precincts reporting early today, Washington had 656,727 votes, or 51.4 percent, to Epton's 617,159, or 48.3 percent. Socialist Ed Warren got 3,725 votes.

Ninety-seven percent of blacks cast their ballots for Washington, compared to 18 percent of whites, according to an exit poll. That was an improvement over the Democratic primary, when Washington got just 6 percent of the white vote in a three-way race.

"History was made tonight, oh yeah," the beaming victor

Baby boy weighs in at over 16 pounds

TOMS RIVER, N.J. (AP) — The proud father of a baby who weighed 16 pounds, 6 ounces at birth thinks his son will grow up to be a football player, and even the boy's mother admits he's "hard to handle."

Kevin Robert Clark, whose birth at Community Memorial Hospital has attracted attention to match his size, is so big that nurses have placed him in a crib because he doesn't fit the hospital's standard bassinet.

"I teased my wife before she got pregnant that she would have a 15-pound boy," Kevin's father, Robert Clark, said Tuesday. "But I never expected a son this big!"

Nurses joke that "he's going to walk out of the hospital on his own," said the 24-year-old mother, Patricia Clark. Kevin was 2 1/2 weeks overdue and 25 inches tall when he was born Friday by Caesarean section.

"We just put the 9-month clothes on him and they're tight," Clark said. "He's got a tremendous appetite. He's not on a regular feeding schedule like the other babies in the hospital. Whenever he's hungry, he cries and my wife nurses him."

Despite his unusual size, doctors checked the infant and found him to be in perfect health, Mrs. Clark said.

The Clarks said large babies run in the family. Mrs. Clark weighed 9 pounds at birth, and is now 5-foot-8 and 145 pounds. Her husband, a Navy enlistee stationed at nearby Lakehurst Naval Air Engineering Center, was a 10-pound baby who today stands 6-foot-6 and weighs 250 pounds.

But Kevin was born more than twice the size of the Clarks' only other baby, Kristina, now 3, who weighed in at 8 pounds, 1 ounce.

"He's going to be a football player when he grows up," the proud father predicted.

"He's a real bruiser," agreed Mrs. Clark. "He's hard for me to handle, so the nurses help me with him. But he's really cute and we love him just the same as if he were a little guy."

The largest viable baby ever born, according to the Guinness Book of World Records, was a 22-pound, 8-ounce boy born to a woman in Aversa, Italy, in September 1955.

Anti-dog fight bill cleared for debate

AUSTIN (AP) — Stiffer penalties for dog fighting, which caused two weeks of hot testimony in committee, has been cleared for full Senate debate.

The Senate Jurisprudence Committee approved the bill 6-1 Tuesday. "This does not make it against the law to raise bulldogs but it does make it a felony to watch two dogs tear each other apart," said Sen. Bill Sarpalus, D-Hereford.

"If we don't make it a felony in Texas we will just have more dog fights coming here from other states," he said.

Sarpalius was joined as a co-author by Sen. Hugh Parmer, D-Fort Worth, who had a similar separate bill.

It was the second week of a hearing on the bill with supporters of dog fights on one side and dog lovers and members of humane societies on the other.

In the first hearing April 5, many witnesses protested increasing the penalty for attending or sponsoring a dogfight from a misdemeanor, carrying penalties up to a year in jail and a $1,000 fine, to a felony, with up to years in jail and fines up to $5,000.

El Paso Co. sued for old age discrimination

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Three pilots have instigated a federal lawsuit against the El Paso Co. and its two subsidiaries, alleging they were fired because they were termed too old at age 60.

The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, which filed the suit Monday for the pilots, alleges the El Paso Co. and subsidiaries El Paso Natural Gas and El Paso Products use hiring practices that discriminate against the elderly.

The three firms maintain policies that require company pilots to stop flying for the firms at age 60. Former company pilots Don Ice, Delmond McCraw and Lester Easley were unfairly discharged because of those practices, the EEOC charged.

The EEOC suit also alleges the companies, with operations in El Paso, Odessa and Houston, willfully discriminated against pilots for nearly 15 years, and "deprived (the three pilots) of employment opportunities ... because of their age."

An El Paso Co. spokesman declined Tuesday to comment on the charges, saying the firm hadn't read the newly filed suit.

Job council urged to seek cures

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White has urged the State Job Training Council to actively recruit of out-of-state industries as one means of solving the state's unemployment.

In addition, he told the first meeting of the 34-member council Tuesday that Texas must use its state and federal resources "on training for jobs that exist now and more importantly, for jobs that will exist in the future."

White interrupted his prepared speech to announce that Micro Electronics Corp. of Chicago had narrowed its choice for a new manufacturing facility to four areas—Austin, North Carolina, San Diego and Atlanta.

San Antonio and Dallas also had entered a bid for the new plant.

"We've seen right there, I think, one of the hoped-for opportunities for attracting new jobs for our state," White said.

He added that "people are the most important resource we have. We must develop the basic knowledge and skills of our people. Otherwise, we are guilty of squandering our wealth."

Several council members had similar comments.

to provide curriculum materials and instructional supplies, except that more money may be spent for special programs such as special education and bilingual education as necessary to fulfill other legal requirements.

The third said that each school in the district shall budget for equalized teacher-student ratio, administrator-student ratio, and auxiliary personnel-student ratios except that special programs such as special education and bilingual education may have a lower ratio, as necessary to fulfill other legal requirements. Only administrators and auxiliary personnel who are involved in the instructional program shall be considered for the ratios.

Transportation needs for next year were presented by assistant superintendent Larry Wartes. The board granted him approval to sell four busses, two which are bodies only, as part of replacing the fleet. Wartes will seek bids for two new diesel busses which will take eight to 10 months to receive. Two busses are bought each year, except last year two engines were revamped from gasoline to diesel by the Texas Department of Corrections.

Wartes was given permission to sell several other vehicles which the district is no longer using.

The board took a low bid on a pickup from Stagner-Osborn for $7,727.

Bids on razing of a house on school property were extended until next Tuesday at the request of Holder.

Five high school musicians performed solos as part of Johnny Martinez's curriculum report. The band director told the board, "My philosophy of the whole thing is — you reward work, not apathy." He said he has had a battle with apathy this year, but kept encouraging students not to just pass the class, but to be a part of the performance. He said next year's band will have about 35 more students despite loss of seniors and usual attrition. He and drill team sponsor Marilyn Leasure are working on incorporating marching and drill team routines for the fall season in order to make the two groups more cohesive.

Rumaldo Garcia presented a petition by students who had complaints about a teacher. Neither the teacher's name, nor the students' names were disclosed since the matter concerns personnel. Holder said he would check each allegation specifically.

Complaints over the school board election have been turned over to the district attorney. Holder said an election official from the state office will be present at the next election.

The board accepted resignations from Rhonda

Johnson and G.C. Graves.

Enrollment was shown to be at 4,749, 19 ahead of last year's number.

Cafeteria funds are "in better shape than last year" according to Wartes.

Tax collections are at 90 percent with total current collections totalling $2.8 million and delinquent collections at $138,000.

Each board member voted on secret ballot for trustees to the Educational Service Center, District 16.

Mrs. Strain noted several changes in the Panhandle Area Association of School Board constitution.

Margaret Bell gave the Hereford Educators Association report and Teddie Poindexter reported on the Classroom Teachers Association.

Simons brought to the board a suggestion to study the need for sex education in the district.

Paul Mason asked that minutes always include resolutions or action taken on "discussions."

He also asked about plans for crowd control at commencement this May.

union. In an interview last month, Walesa stopped short of declaring support for an underground call for preparations for a nationwide strike at an unspecified date.

Walesa had called for a concerted action, such as a consumer boycott of government-produced alcohol, to protest prosecution of Solidarity activists charged with political crimes.

Walesa is thought to agree with the latest underground statement, on March 30, which urged Poles not to demonstrate before the homecoming of Pope John Paul II June 16-22.

most advanced U.S. land-based missile currently in use, the Minuteman III, carries three warheads.

The commission recommended that the United States build and deploy 100 MXs in existing Minuteman missile silos in the American Midwest.

The commission also called for development of a smaller, single-warhead missile for deployment in the 1990s.

Reagan is expected to endorse the MX report next week. It comes at a time when U.S.-Soviet negotiations on limiting or reducing long- and medium-range missiles appear deadlocked.

The Soviets are known to be testing a new, solid-fueled intercontinental ballistic missile that presumably would replace some of their current liquid-fueled arsenal. Missiles using liquid propellant are considered less reliable.

Bykov refused to discuss technical aspects of the new missile, but he said "weapons deployed on the American side of course will be matched on the Soviet side."

The 57-year-old Bykov spoke softly in fluent English during the 70-minute interview. He returned continually to a single theme: the need to stop adding new weapon systems to the superpower arsenals and to reverse the arms race.

Reagan administration strategists contend new U.S. weapon systems are needed to ensure continued nuclear parity with the Soviets.

"The whole nation is watching, and Chicago has sent a powerful message," he told those who greeted him at Donnelly Hall with nearly three minutes of chants of "Harold, Harold, Harold."

"Out of the crucible of this city's most trying election ... blacks and whites, Hispanics, Jews, Gentiles, Protestants and Catholics of all stripes have joined to form a new Democratic coalition," he declared.

Washington will succeed Mayor Jane M. Byrne, who was defeated in the Feb. 22 Democratic primary, promised a write-in effort, then changed her mind. He promised city reforms, but stressed the need for healing.

"I charge you ... to rededicate your efforts to heal the divisions that have plagued us. Each of us must reach out and open our arms," he said.

Hoarse and weary, Epton left the Palmer House late Tuesday after telling supporters he expected to win in a "neck-and-neck" finish. His supporters weren't told he was giving up for the night, and there was no concession.

Washington's election came nearly 200 years after a black fur trader, Jean Baptiste Point DuSable, established a trading post at the mouth of the Chicago River as the first non-Indian settler here.

At campaign stops, black Washington supporters would sometimes chant: "We discovered it, we should govern it."

Washington had stressed the importance of black support, encouraging a big voter registration drive and telling blacks "It's our turn" to rule Chicago. Prominent Democrats from around the nation came to campaign for him, including former Vice President and presidential candidate Walter Mondale.

In his plea for unity early today, the 60-year-old South Side congressman declared "Chicago is one city."

As in the primary, assistant U.S. attorneys and others monitored for possible vote fraud. Officials reported several hundred complaints, mostly minor. The number was fewer than in the primary, when ballots were impounded amid widespread charges of vote fraud.

A similar amendment by offered Siljander on March 16 lost by a close 215-209 vote.

Siljander said the amendment would "give equal priority to both a negotiated freeze and a negotiated immediate reduction of nuclear weapons from their current frightening levels."

However, Markey said freeze supporters "are optimistic that we can continue to push aside efforts to weaken or gut this important measure."

Paul Harvey News

It beats working

State Employment Service offices can't find workers for all their job openings.

They did place 88,000 workers in January but ended the month with that many additional jobs unfilled.

(Please don't ask me why Employment Service offices are months behind in tabulating these statistics.)

Anyway, there are job going begging; 14 percent more than a year ago; jobs for machine repairers and installers, clerical jobs, sales jobs, hospital and restaurant jobs and a thousand job openings in banks.

In Chicago, cab companies which have advertised for drivers for months are going out of business because they can't hire enough drivers despite a guarantee of $200 a week....

Since potential drivers have discovered they can make more tax-free income on welfare.

Our nation's 10-plus percent unemployed admittedly includes many with specialized skills or factory workers ill-equipped for other work.

Yet, when a Chicago marine biologist could find no work as a marine biologist he advertised himself available for "odd jobs." Within six months he'd hired a helper, within four more months a second helper; "Now we have more work than the three of us can handle."

So with due deference to the unemployed who really can't find work, let's try better to understand the others.

Florida farm workers have learned to demand payment in cash so that they may continue also to accept unemployment pay.

They explain that they "can't afford to work" otherwise.

Here's why:
In Florida, a worker who has been laid off from a $250 a week job is better off laid off. He receives in Monthly unemployment compensation...$57.50.

Food Stamps...$151.75.
Housing and Utilities assistance...$333.15.

School breakfast and lunch (2 children)...$70.40
Low income energy assistance...$50.00.

(Total monthly income...$1,143.00).

It beats working! He's making 106 percent of what he was making while employed.

Walter Kautz of the Florida Farm Bureau concludes that "in our nation's effort to resolve the problems of poverty we provide incentives for idleness."

Most dues-paying Americans cannot comprehend that there could possibly be "professional loafers."

Those who matured where and while work was expected and even enjoyed cannot relate to people who have been three generations expecting government to take care of them. But the government check is as natural and respectable to them as work is to us.

However inadvertently, the workers have been teaching them it's better not to.

Arafat says talks will continue

PLO chief Yasser Arafat says negotiations between the guerrilla movement and Jordan's King Hussein will continue, Swedish radio reported today, while Arab sources in Morocco said President Reagan is drafting a new Middle East peace plan.

In another development, the Israelis said Tuesday they would expand Jewish settlements in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip, a move likely to anger U.S. and Middle East leaders who suggested a freeze on settlements might improve prospects for peace talks.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz, at a Washington news conference, indicated the United States would not make any bold attempt to revive the Reagan plan, and he blamed the PLO for frustrating the American initiative. Reagan's proposal called for an autonomous Palestinian homeland in association with Jordan, but Hussein on Sunday called off talks with the PLO that could have led to his active participation in the plan.

The Swedish radio report said Arafat, who arrived in Stockholm Tuesday night, told Social Democratic leaders he was optimistic about resuming negotiations with Jordan.

The report quoted Arafat's spokesman, Abdul Rahman, as saying the talks will continue in Rabat, Morocco, starting Monday and that Arafat has dispatched PLO emissaries to Hussein and Morocco's King Hassan II in preparation for them.

Rahman reportedly refused comment on Hussein's statement that negotiations were over.

The Bahrain-based Gulf News Agency, quoting Arab sources in Morocco, said Reagan planned to announce a new peace initiative before an Arab summit temporarily set for April 25 in Fez, Morocco.

However, Algeria's official newspaper, El Moujahid, said the breakdown in talks between Jordan and the PLO on Sunday made the summit unlikely.

There was no comment from U.S. officials about the report on a new initiative.

In Washington, Shultz blamed the PLO for the latest setbacks to the Reagan plan, which envisioned limited Palestinian self-rule in the West Bank and Gaza in association with Jordan. The U.S. administration hoped Jordan would negotiate on behalf of the guerrilla organization.

Shultz said the next move was up to the Arab countries and he suggested they should withdraw the mandate they had given the PLO in 1974 to act as the sole legitimate representative of the Palestinian people.

"The PLO clearly has been the party that has, at least temporarily, frustrated what is a most promising opportunity for peace with justice and security in the Middle East," Shultz said.

Ben-Zion Rubin, the Israeli deputy minister for Labor and Social Affairs, announced in Tel Aviv that his government will expand 68 settlements in the West Bank and Gaza Strip over the next 18 months to increase the Jewish population from 30,000 to 50,000.

Both territories, seized by Israel in the 1967 Middle East war, currently are populated by 1.3 million Arabs.

The family suggests that memorials may be made to the First Christian Church.

Graveside services will be conducted at 3:30 p.m. Burial will be in West Park Cemetery, Hereford, under direction of Wheeler Mortuary of Portales.

Mr. Higgins died early Tuesday morning in Roosevelt General Hospital in Portales after a lengthy illness.

The Hereford native was born April 6, 1928, and attended Hereford public schools. He moved to Portales in 1954 and was employed by the Eastern New Mexico University Physical Plant. He married Donna Cervantez Aug. 20, 1960 in Portales.

He was a deacon and elder in the First Presbyterian Church and a member of the Clovis-Portales Elks Lodge.

Survivors include his wife; a daughter, Patty Fotinos of Portales; four brothers, Charles and Ted, both of Hereford, and Bob and Fred N., both of Hobbs, N.M.; and four sisters, Luella Thomas of Hereford, Billie Harris of Pueblo, Colo., Nattie Thomas of Lakin, Kan., and Alberta Bernard of McNeil, Ariz.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Monday at the First Presbyterian Church. Burial will be in the Clovis-Portales Elks Lodge.

Rituals scheduled for BSP members

Beta Sigma Phi Sorority City Council members decided not to have a booth during the Town and Country Jubilee when the group met Monday evening in Southwestern Public Service Reddy Room. With Charla Edwards, presiding, members suggested that individual chapters might be interested in having booths at the jubilee as one of their money making projects. Material was distributed to the chapter presidents regarding the jubilee. It was announced that rituals will be April 21 at the Community Church. Members having their pictures taken will need to be there at 6:30 p.m. before the event begins at 7 p.m. Host chapter will be Alpha Alpha. Founders Day was scheduled at 7 p.m. April 28 at K-Bob's Steak House. Money for the dinner and for Founders Day charms will be collected that evening. The council scheduled its last meeting at 7 p.m. May 9 in the Reddy Room. Election of officers will be held with the present members of the council being in charge of the salad supper for the evening. Members present included Ms. Edwards, Susie White, Ginger Wallace, Ruby Sanders, Lynda Brown, Phyllis Neill, Oleta Tisdale, Jody Blackwell, Toni Jones, Sharon Cramer, Vida Grady and Jo Ann Richberg.

Developing fitness

COLLEGE STATION - With warmer weather and the bathing-suit season drawing near, countless Texans will be joining the rush to trim down and shape up through exercise. "But the exercise program you start today could develop into a lifetime health habit if done sensibly," advises Dr. Mary Ann Shirer, a health education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. To make fitness a habit that is hard to break, start with a physical activity you truly enjoy, says Shirer. That activity might be tennis, swimming, running, dancing, or even walking.

Once you have selected an activity, get a friend to join you. Having commitment to someone else can help provide motivation when you're not as eager to exercise. For the training period, or actual physical activity, plan a reasonable schedule, and always avoid overdoing it, warns Shirer.

'Girl's best friend' topic of club meeting

Vess Barnes III and Price Pomery from Barnes Jewelry in Amarillo presented an enlightening program on diamonds, "a girl's best friend," to members of Veleza Study Club Monday night. Members met in the home of Marjorie Lasiter. The two guests gave a slide presentation with narration, taking the group back to diamond mining in the 1800s and comparing the crude methods used then to the modern procedures used today. They said that literally millions of dollars are spent and tons of earth moved on a 24-hour schedule to mine diamonds. They are graded into about 3000 groups but loosely categorized into two groups; those for pleasure, which can have flaws, yet which are quite beautiful and can be very expensive; and the flawless diamond, which is not worn but kept in a vault for investment purposes. The finer points of grading diamonds were discussed, including tips on buying diamonds. Then they passed around a two carat diamond valued at $10,000 for the women to inspect. During a short business meeting, a nominating committee including Jean Ruther, Marcella Bradley, and Margaret Zinser was appointed. They will bring a slate of officers to be voted on at the next meeting, to be held April 25 at The Deli. Guests present were Lois Lemons, Pat Fisher, Della Hutchins, Sylvia Khuri, Snooks Farr, and Joan Womble. Members in attendance were Norma Walden, Ms. Bradley, Ms. Zinser, Marcella McLain, Joyce Ritter, Frances Crume, Arvella Lauderback, Juanita Brown, and Donna Lindeman.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—The economic bad news got worse at the Capitol last week when State Comptroller Bob Bullock told legislators his revised revenue estimates fell $1 billion short of his earlier prediction, leaving state budget architects with $2.4 billion less from his original figures.

Meanwhile, the figures on last month's unemployment rate reached nine percent, a post-World War II record for Texas.

Capitol watchers who study political maneuvering saw two unusual occurrences last week: Gov. Mark White lost his first big political battle in the Senate—and, amid several state newspaper editorials calling for House Speakership reform, a small group of House members launched a program to dilute Speaker Gib Lewis' powers.

The Senate rejected Gov. Mark White's repeated demands for election of Public Utility Commission members. During debate on Sen. Kent Caperton's PUC reform bill, four amendments calling for election of commissioners were voted down.

Power Dilution
House Majority Leader Bob Bush, D-Sherman, said he is working on rule changes to reduce the power of the speaker by installing a House executive committee.

Bush, who said he does not seek the speakership himself but who is frequently mentioned as a possibility, said Lewis' ineptness and "imperial speakership" was hampering the Legislature.

But even Lewis' nemesis, Rep. Carlyle Smith, D-Dallas, questioned whether a committee was the answer, and other House members suggested another speaker's election was much more likely.

New Speaker?
Several legislators have said privately that Lewis may find himself challenged when the session ends at the end of May.

Three candidates mentioned besides Bush are Bill Messer, D-Belton; Stan Schlueter, D-Killeen; and Gerald Hill, D-Austin.

Lewis met with Bush last week and issued a statement saying Bush's plan would reshape the Texas House along the same lines as the U.S. Congress, which was a bad idea in his opinion.

Bush said if his proposal gains support, he will introduce it as a bill.

Tax Proposals
Although Lewis has met with his share of troubles this session—including failure to disclose business ties with a horse racing lobbyist and with liquor and beer distributors, hiring a chief of staff offensive to the governor and several senators, and a legislative logjam created by his administration—his trump card is his steadfast refusal to allow a tax hike bill out of the House.

While the governor, the Lt. governor, the comptroller and several senators have called for tax hikes to replace dwindling state revenues, Lewis has stalled all tax efforts to the gratification of many House members. Over 40 freshmen representatives won election in November, many of them on a "no new taxes" theme.

representatives won election in November, many of them on a "no new taxes" theme.

Lewis' stance is critical, because tax bills must originate in the House Ways and Means Committee, according to the Texas Constitution.

So far, the House triumvirate, composed of Lewis, Ways and Means chairman Schlueter and Calendars Committee chairman Messer, has shown no signs of weakness on the tax issue except to allow the House to approve a one-time five percent tax on employers. The bill would allow Texas to continue to borrow millions of federal dollars to avoid bankruptcy of the unemployment benefits fund.

Other bills passed last week by the House included: —Establishing a central registry to keep in-state adoption records. The registry would attempt to "match" adopted persons with their biological parents and siblings on the voluntary consent of all parties.

—Overhauling the state textbook selection process under the State Board of Education.

—Giving recreation and wildlife conservation equal status at the Matagorda Island State Park.

House committees also approved a bill prohibiting justices of the peace from refusing to perform interracial marriages, sent to subcommittee a bill raising the legal drinking age to 21, and subpoenaed the telephone records of an anti-horse racing gambling lobbyist.

Last week Senate committees approved a $125 million construction fund for 25 state colleges (minus the severance tax proposed by Lt. Gov. Hobby); approved a 1984 statewide referendum to legalize betting on horse races; and passed a Houston auto inspection program aimed at salvaging about $235 million in federal highway funds to the city. The feds threatened to cut off the funds because of that county's high level of air pollution.

Bullock, Krueger, Hill
Comptroller Bob Bullock made unsavory headlines last week when he was ticketed for driving his new car at 106 mph down an interstate highway. The state trooper who stopped Bullock told reporters the comptroller's breath smelled of alcohol and that he admitted to having consumed two cans of beer.

Bullock, a recovered alcoholic, denied the DWI implication and plans to take a defensive driving course instead of paying the $206 speeding fine.

Former Texas Congressman Bob Krueger said last week he will challenge Republican U.S. Sen. John Tower again in 1984. Krueger narrowly lost to Tower in the 1978 matchup. Meanwhile, State Sen. Lloyd Doggett of Austin, said he may join that contest and accused Krueger of being a "warmed over Republican."

Former Atty. Gen. John Hill filed documents indicating he will run in 1984 for Texas Supreme Court Chief Justice. The incumbent, Jack Pope, has said he will not seek election.

Governor commends hospitals in Texas

AUSTIN—Governor Mark White has designated the week of May 8-14 as Texas Hospital Week in recognition of the efforts of hospitals in effectively promoting the health of the citizens of Texas.

In his statements, White commended hospitals for their "important role in educating Texans in living healthier lifestyles."

"Apart from and through the Texas Hospital Association, hospitals have effectively promoted the health of the people of our state by treating them like family," White said. "In every community, this personalized care reminds Texans that our hospitals are truly concerned for their well-being."

Texas Hospital Week honors the dedicated health professionals responsible for the delivery of care as well as hospital governing boards, auxiliaries, and volunteers who contribute thousands of hours in the service of their local citizenry.

The official memorandum was signed by the governor during ceremonies held at the Capitol last week. Present were THA President O. Ray Hurst, CAE, and Scott D. Evans, FACHA, administrator of Round Rock Community Hospital and chairman of THA's Health Careers Committee.

Ann Landers Group effort

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am worried sick about something and you are my only hope. I am a 17-year-old girl who has been a cheerleader for several months. We must do some very strenuous things, like cartwheels and splits. I also have done a lot of horsebackriding in the last year. As a result of all this activity I have lost my virginity.

continue to accept this rubbish for the rest of my life? — Half-Baked In Bakersfield

DEAR HALF: You plan to be married soon? Hooray! After the knot is tied tell Mr. X you think he is the world's most thoughtful man and you are sure no woman was ever so lavishly "gifted." But you'd rather have one BIG present than lots of little ones, and would he mind taking you along so you can shop together and get exactly the right one?

What should I say to my husband on my wedding night? — Worried Sick Out East

DEAR ANN: Our neighbor refuses to let my husband and me have the privacy that is rightfully ours.

DEAR YALIE: I might have bitten it if I hadn't received three copies of the same letter — all postmarked New Haven. Obviously it was a group effort, but only one letter should have been mailed, Dummy. I'm glad to know you Yale students are still reading the column, but it is obvious that Old Eli is not attracting the innovative students it once did.

She is the most boring person I have ever met in my entire life — and the pushiest. I cannot be in the yard five minutes before I am assaulted by that ear-splitting, "Yoo-hoo!" Then she comes galloping over and her mouth runs nonstop. Trivia, gossip, nonsense. She's repetitive and tedious beyond belief. When I say, "I really must go," she rattles on for another 15 minutes and follows me into the house.

I am a 40-year-old career woman who is in love with a wonderful man. We plan to be married soon.

My husband and I are considering selling. Please advise. — Ambushed In Texas.

He is kind and generous. In fact, his generosity is the problem. Mr. X brings me a gift every time we meet. Unfortunately, the man goes for junk jewelry, fake fur pieces, stuffed animals and T-shirts with trendy sayings.

I suppose I should accept everything graciously, but he is throwing out his money. I cannot wear any of the things he brings, and I am sure he wonders why.

The Consumer Alert
 by Jim Mattox
 Attorney General

AUSTIN—With spring and summer coming up, homeowners are busy working on their lawns themselves, while others will turn to "professionals" on yard care services. There are many reputable professional companies that can do a great service for you. The consumer has to be careful and contract with companies that guarantee their work and provide good service. Consumers who are considering such services can choose those companies that specialize in jobs such as lawn maintenance, tree trimming, lawn and tree spraying, and landscaping among others. Some offer total care services with year-round maintenance or one-time service. Whatever service is selected, consumers should investigate carefully before committing themselves to a contract for work, or paying in advance for a job. Consumers should decide what lawn services they want performed and get at least three estimates from companies or individuals. Try to obtain information from your friends and relatives who have had these services, and check with your local Better Business Bureau and the Attorney General's Office to see what information you can obtain about the businessman. If you are contracting for a particular service, make sure it is stated on your contract exactly what work is to be performed, the cost of the service, whether it is a one-time major job or if it is a maintenance type of agreement performed several times a year and whether the cost is monthly or annually. Consumers should be aware of the solicitor who is looking for large yard jobs that entail large amounts of money with yard care specialists that solicit business door-to-door. The Texas Home Solicitation Act protects you by allowing you to cancel by midnight of the third business day if the contract is signed in the home and the amount of the contract is $25.00 or more. Sometimes these individuals soliciting are itinerants who only perform the one-time service of spraying your lawn. Perhaps by the time you find out the service is unsatisfactory, your check for services rendered has been cashed and that is the last you hear of the door-to-door lawn specialists. If you have a consumer problem, contact the Better Business Bureau or the Attorney General's Office nearest you.

Man jailed after phone booth siege

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A former Arkansas police officer, who allegedly barricaded himself in a telephone booth and threatened to kill his former employer, remained jailed today.

9 p.m., investigators said. A man in the booth "said the police would not take him alive," but surrendered after 2 1/2 hours of negotiations, said communications Sgt. D.C. Malone.

Rusty Hearne, 25, was arrested Monday night for investigation of making a terroristic threat.

The man demanded $500 that he said he was owed by his former employer, who had gone out of business, police said. Malone would not identify the employer, but said the man threatened to kill his former boss at a nearby bar.

About 15 tactical squad officers swarmed around a phone booth outside a liquor store after threats were telephoned to police dispatchers beginning shortly after

Major League baseball ready to pursue cable

NEW YORK (AP) — Major League baseball, which for years has been gazing toward the pot of gold at the end of the cable television rainbow, apparently is ready to pursue it in earnest.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn confirmed Tuesday that baseball is "evaluating" the possibility of setting up its own pay-cable network, probably by funneling games from around the major leagues onto pay-cable outlets already being used by big league teams. The games would be in addition to those carried on ABC and NBC.

Sources at those networks said the cable setup was likely to be in operation before the new contract with the two networks expires at the end of the 1989 season. Only regular season games would be involved, not the real bonanza — the playoffs and the World Series, which the two networks will carry through 1989 on an alternating basis. But some owners have talked about the financial potential — once most of the country is wired for cable — in charging viewers to watch those premier events.

Some 30-35 million of the 83 million homes with television sets now are wired for cable television.

Both ABC and NBC, according to sources, would be involved in the cable project, although they would have to tread softly on a joint project to avoid becoming ensnared in the anti-trust laws. "What you're likely to see, is baseball-ABC and baseball-NBC" said one source, who suggested that the network involvement would be primarily financial.

Several teams already carry games on pay-cable television, notably the Chicago White Sox, whose co-owner, Eddie Einhorn, is a member of baseball's television committee.

The New York Yankees and New York Mets are both on SportsChannel, a New York area outlet that also televises the New York Islanders of the National Hockey League and the New Jersey Nets of the National Basketball Association. Milwaukee, which would share its network with the NBA Bucks; Pittsburgh, Los Angeles and California also have payable setups in the works.

Those outlets and others yet to be established would be the principal vehicles for the baseball network. "We are evaluating various possibilities for the distribution of games to our clubs' pay-TV systems," Kuhn said in a statement issued through a spokesman.

Another less likely possibility would be creation of a separate network, similar to such mostly-cable channels as Home Box Office. Either way, the games would appear on outlets for which cable subscribers pay a charge in addition to the monthly cable fee.

Gives back to the game

Venturi lightens load

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent

Ken Venturi is a golf champion who has lived with misery and disappointment much of his life and now — 51 years old, secure and successful — he is dedicated to lightening the loads of others.

"I always said if I ever made it, I'd give it back," said the silver-haired former U. S. Open king from Palo Alto, Calif.

This he is doing — in spades.

On June 13 a one-day golf tournament will be staged in Mt. Kisco, N. Y. All the competitors will be totally blind. The event, sponsored by the Guiding Eyes for the Blind, carries Ken Venturi's name.

The next day, June 14, Venturi will find himself in Spring Hill, N. J., staging a dinner and conducting a clinic for the retarded. On June 15, a similar clinic will be held for cancer victims at Grand Blanc, Mich.

This is not the stuff you read about on the sports pages. Ministers proclaim it from the pulpits. Instead of medals and prizes, the reward comes from the thanks of the beneficiaries.

"It all started five years ago," Venturi said. "My attorney, Dick Ryan, who also is attorney for the Augusta National Club, asked me would I get involved in the blind program.

"I had met Charlie Boswell, the remarkable blind golfer from Birmingham, Ala., and had admired his great courage. I agreed."

"In the first tournament, only $18,000 was raised for the purpose of providing seeing-eye dogs for the blind. Last year, we raised $240,000. This year we hope to raise even more."

San Francisco-born, he was one of the finest amateur players to come out of the West in the 1950s. Tall and lean, he had a sweet and natural swing and a maturity beyond his years.

Thus, there was little surprise in 1956 when, still an amateur, he led the first three rounds of the Masters with 66-69-75 — 210 and went into the final day with a four-stroke lead.

Cary Middlecoff, who later that year was to win his second U. S. Open crown, followed at 214 with Jack Burke, Jr., third at 218.

Trailing were such notables as Ben Hogan, Sam Snead and a young Arnold Palmer.

On that final Sunday, Augusta turned into a treacherous beast. Venturi skied to an 80 and Middlecoff to a 77, Burke rallying from eight shots back to don the green jacket.

Venturi turned pro that same year. Eight years later he was paradoxically listed first among golf's "Most Memorable Defeats" and "Most Memorable Victories."

The 1964 Open at the Congressional Club in Washington, D. C., was played in sweltering heat — a suffocating cauldron.

It was the last year of a two-round, 36-hole windup in the Open — a strenuous physical test for all.

Down the stretch of the morning round, Venturi almost collapsed from dehydration. Barely hanging on, he three-putted from 12 feet on 17 and missed an easy four-foot putt at 18, still finishing the round with a 66.

He almost had to be carried to the clubhouse. A doctor warned it might be fatal if he tried to play the final round.

Shunning medical advice, Venturi went out and shot a 70, winning by four strokes.

Monterey rips Hereford, 10-0

LUBBOCK — Danny Riddle tossed a one hitter and banged out three straight hits as Monterey stayed in the thick of the District 3-5A baseball race with a six inning, 10-0, victory over Hereford Tuesday afternoon here.

The victory left the Plainsmen 6-1 in the loop race, and a game behind leader Coronado, a 14-10 winner Tuesday over Palo Duro. Coronado and Monterey meet today in Lubbock.

For Hereford, it was the second straight lopsided setback. Plainview belted the Herd, 11-4, last Saturday. The loss dropped Hereford to 3-5 in the district race, and 6-8 overall.

Hereford's only hit was Mike Scott's blooper over second base in the second inning. The Whitefaces loaded the bases in the inning, but Riddle escaped trouble by fanning Mickey Stengel.

Stengel went the distance for Hereford, allowing 11 hits. He walked seven batters and was the victim of eight Herd errors.

Monterey, which pushed its season record to 17-4 (best in the district), scored three runs in each of the first three innings to build a comfortable 9-0 lead. The winners scored their final run in the bottom of the sixth to end the contest.

Tuesday's win was Monterey's second over the Herd in loop play, and the second by a wide margin. Earlier, the Plainsmen had won, 15-2, in five innings in Hereford.

In other games Tuesday, Plainview remained a game and a half back of Coronado by defeating Amarillo High, 6-4. The win left the Bulldogs 6-2 in district play and dropped the Sandies to 4-4.

Coronado leads the way with a 7-0 record, followed by Monterey (6-1) and Plainview (6-2). AHS is fourth with a 4-4 mark, while Hereford and Palo Duro are next at 3-5. Caprock is 2-4, Lubbock High 2-6 and Tascosa 1-7.

Lubbock dropped two games Tuesday in Amarillo, losing to Tascosa, 10-9, and to Caprock 15-9.

Hereford will host Lubbock Friday at 4 p.m., then travel to Amarillo Saturday to meet Palo Duro at 1 p.m.

Watson hoping for first tour victory of 1983

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — His last round bid fell short at Augusta, Ga., but Tom Watson sees some very positive aspects in his performance at the Masters golf tournament.

"Obviously, I was not putting well at all," said Watson, who was the only golfer with a legitimate chance in the last round to overtake eventual Masters winner Seve Ballesteros.

"But," said Watson, who will open defense of his title in the $350,000 Sea Pines Heritage Classic Thursday. "I found a lot of really encouraging things in my game that last round.

"I started hitting the ball better than I have all year.

"Of course I'm disappointed about the way I finished at Augusta, but, at the same time, I'm pleased about the way my game is coming along. There are some encouraging signs coming in here."

Watson, current holder of the U.S. and British Open titles and the Tour's Player of the Year five of the last six seasons, has not won this year. He has been in the top 10 in five of seven starts, however, and has a history of success on the difficult, 6,804-yard, par 71 Harbour Town Golf Links. He also won this title in 1979.

Other two-time Heritage winners in the invitational 120-man field that will be chasing a $63,000 first prize are Hubert Green and Hale Irwin. Johnny Miller, the only other man to take multiple Heritage titles, is not competing.

Possibly posing the largest threat to Watson's title are Ben Crenshaw and Tom Kite, who tied for second Monday at Augusta.

Other major standouts include Australian David Graham, Craig Stadler, Calvin Peete and Bobby Clampett, along with 1983 title-winners Bill Rogers, Lanny Wadkins, Isao Aoki of Japan and Gary Koch.

Also on hand are South African Gary Player and Lee Trevino, who have a combined total of 14 major-tournament victories.

Ballesteros is not competing. He returned to his home in Spain before starting the European tour next week. Australian Greg Norman withdrew from the Heritage field Tuesday.

Portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by CBS.

Texas now No. 1 in college poll

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Texas and Miami of Florida have changed places, with the Longhorns regaining the No. 1 ranking by the newspaper "Collegiate Baseball."

Texas, 39-8, surged ahead of the previously top-ranked Hurricanes with 10 wins in its last 11 games. Seven Longhorns are batting over .300.

Miami, 40-9, the defending national champion, won two in a row after a loss to unrated Stetson ended a 13-game winning streak.

The Hurricanes were picked as the newspaper's preseason favorite while Texas was ranked No. 1 in the first regular-season poll.

With one early-season exception, one of the two teams has been rated first all season.

Wichita State, 30-8, was third, followed by Tulane, 29-6 and fifth-ranked Michigan, 17-2. Others in the top 10 are San Diego State, 30-8; Stanford, 26-8-1; Mississippi State, 23-7; Nebraska, 27-2, and Brigham Young, 23-6.

Oral Roberts, 29-7, was 11th, followed by Fresno State, 28-10, California State-Fullerton, 28-12-2, South Carolina, 22-5, and North Carolina, 30-6. Rounding out the top 20 are Southern California, 22-14; The Citadel, 22-2; Houston, 33-5; Washington State, 18-8-1, and Pan American, 45-12-1.

Kiwanis to host meet

Hereford's Noon Kiwanis Club will sponsor a track meet for handicapped children Thursday, beginning at 1:15 p.m. at Whiteface Stadium.

There will be teams from Perryton, Dimmitt, Childress and Tulia, as well as Hereford competing in the one-day event. The teams will be comprised of youngsters from either public schools or satellite centers.

The public is invited to attend, and there is no admission charge.

Deer's bat paces

Shreveport win, 4-0

By The Associated Press

Rob Deer put on a one-man hitting show for Shreveport, while the big bat figured prominently throughout three Texas League games marked by home runs.

Deer hit two two-run homers Tuesday night and Bengie Biggus tossed a two-hit shutout to lead the Captains to a 4-0 win over Arkansas.

In other Texas League action, El Paso outdueled Midland 11-9, while Beaumont beat San Antonio 12-5.

Deer provided all the offensive punch for the Captains, who took a half-game lead over Jackson and Tulsa in the East Division. Biggus picked up the win, while Walt Pierce took the loss for Arkansas.

Grid clash moved back

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas-Texas A&M football game this fall, originally scheduled for Thanksgiving Day and then moved to Friday for national television, has been pushed back another day to Saturday, Nov. 26.

ABC will televise the game from College Station with an 11:20 a.m. kickoff.

Defeat 76ers, 102-97

Hawks move past two teams in playoff race

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

The game had the intensity of the playoffs, and for Atlanta it was just as important. The Hawks, locked in a tight battle with New York and Washington for the last two Eastern Conference playoff spots, moved into fifth place ahead of both teams Tuesday night with a 102-97 National Basketball Association victory over the Philadelphia 76ers.

Tree Rollins and Tom McMillen fouled out for the Hawks, who also committed four technical fouls. But that was offset by six technicals against Philadelphia, which clinched first place in the East weeks ago.

In other games crucial to the playoff picture, Kansas City beat Chicago 112-102, Utah defeated Denver 125-116 and Seattle tripped Portland 106-101. Elsewhere, Boston stopped New Jersey 99-93, Los Angeles edged Houston 114-113 and Phoenix outscored Golden State 115-108.

Kansas City's triumph and Portland's loss left them tied for fifth in the West, one game ahead of Denver. Two of those three teams will make the playoffs, and they all have three games remaining.

Atlanta, with two games left, is a half-game ahead of the Knicks and a full game in

The 10 technicals in the game included a pair against 76ers Coach Billy Cunningham, who was ejected in the third period, and one against his assistant, Matt Guokas.

Johnny Davis added 20 points and 13 assists for the Hawks. Andrew Toney led the 76ers with 26 points. Kings 112, Bulls 102

Kansas City won an important road game as backup guard Mike Woodson hit 11 of 16 field goals and 12 of 14 free throws for 34 points.

The Kings, who have won four games in a row, also got 27 points from Larry Drew as they handed Chicago its seventh consecutive loss.

Woodson scored 18 points in the second quarter to help the Kings build a 64-33 lead. The Bulls fought back to cut the deficit to 106-102 with 1:22 remaining, but Kansas City scored the final six points. Jazz 125, Nuggets 116

Utah hurt Denver's playoff hopes as Darrell Griffith scored 30 points and Rickey Green added 28 points and 12 assists for the Jazz.

Green hit a three-point shot at the halftime buzzer to give Utah a 72-65 lead, and the Jazz held on in the fourth period after extending the margin to 103-91 after three quarters.

Kiki Vandeweghe scored 34 points, Alex English 27 and Dan Issel 26 for Denver, but no one else on the Nuggets had more than eight.

Sonics 106, Blazers 101
Seattle clinched the homecourt advantage in the first round of the playoffs as Jack Sikma scored 24 points and Gus Williams hit 10 in the fourth period against Portland.

The Sonics, who have won eight straight games and 15 of their last 17, went ahead for good at 96-95 on a basket by Sikma. Then Williams hit two straight baskets to make it 100-95 with 3:39 left.

Jim Paxson led the Trail Blazers with 26 points. Suns 115, Warriors 108

Maurice Lucas scored six of his 22 points during a 12-0

spurt that carried Phoenix past Golden State.

The Warriors, who got 39 points from Joe Barry Carroll, led 100-97 with six minutes remaining, but they didn't score again until the final minute, and by then the Suns led 109-100.

Larry Nance scored 22 points to share team scoring honors with Lucas.

Celtics 99, Nets 93
Kevin McHale had 20 points and 14 rebounds in relief of the injured Larry Bird to lead Boston past New Jersey.

With Bird at home resting a pulled groin muscle, McHale helped the Celtics overcome a season-high 33 turnovers to win their seventh game in eight outings.

McHale had four points in the final 1½ minutes after the Nets cut a 20-point deficit to 91-88.

Lakers 114, Rockets 113

Earvin "Magic" Johnson scored 31 points for Los Angeles, including six in the final two minutes, and fed forward Kurt Rambis for the game-winning layup with six seconds left against Houston.

The Rockets, who have won just 14 of 79 games, led 104-90 with seven minutes left, but Johnson had five points during an 8-0 spurt to get the Lakers close. Three straight layups by Johnson gave Los Angeles a 112-111 lead with 36 seconds left, and after Allen Leavell gave Houston a 113-112 edge at the 22-second mark, Johnson made his decisive pass.

Renko homecoming a success

By BEN WALKER AP Sports Writer

Steve Renko waited a long time to get home. Or, at least, close to home.

Renko fulfilled a long-time goal when he started for Kansas City on Tuesday night and pitched six strong innings in the Royals' 5-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

"It took me 18 years to get here, but I made it," said the 38-year-old Renko, who was born in Kansas City, Kansas, and later played football at the University of Kansas in the same backyard with Gale Sayers. "Everybody wants to play in his hometown. All I want do is help this team get into the World Series."

In other American League games, Detroit trounced New York 13-2, Baltimore outscored Chicago 10-8, Milwaukee edged Toronto 6-5, Texas nipped Cleveland 2-1, Seattle thumped California 8-1, and Oakland squeaked past Minnesota 4-3 in 14 innings.

"Renko did quite a job," said Kansas City Manager Dick Howser. "He is very professional. He kept us in a tough game."

Tigers 13, Yankees 2

Tom Brookens homered, doubled and singled twice as Detroit spoiled Billy Martin's home debut before 55,579 fans, the largest crowd ever at a Yankee Stadium opener.

Martin, starting his third term as manager of the Yankees, watched Ron Guidry suffer through his second straight poor outing as he gave up six runs in 51-3 innings. Guidry, 0-1, now has been raked for 10 runs and 13 hits in eight innings this season.

Brookens and Glenn Wilson drove in three runs apiece as Detroit pounded out 16 hits and took advantage of sloppy New York play. Dan Petry pitched eight innings and yielded eight hits, including a solo homer by Roy Smalley. Rangers 2, Indians 1

Texas ran its record to 6-1 as Dave Hostetler drove in both Ranger runs with a solo homer and a bases-loaded walk.

Rick Honeycutt, 2-0, scattered seven hits in seven innings. Odell Jones pitched the ninth inning for his second save.

Bert Blyleven absorbed his second loss of the season.

Orioles 10, White Sox 8

First, Baltimore shelled Floyd Bannister in racing to an early 7-0 lead. Then the White Sox pounded Mike Flanagan in taking an 8-7 advantage. Finally, Rick Dempsey drilled a two-out, two-run double in a three-run seventh as the Orioles rallied to win.

Brewers 6, Blue Jays 5

Paul Molitor doubled in Jim Gantner, who had doubled, to snap a 5-5 tie in the eighth inning as Milwaukee's Don Sutton evaded his record at 1-1.

Molitor had three hits, including his game-winner off Mike Morgan.

Mariners 8, Angels 1

Right-hander Bob Stoddard pitched a five-hitter and Orlando Mercado's two-run double highlighted a six-run sixth inning.

Ken Phelps' hit his first major-league homer and added a sacrifice fly while Dave Henderson drilled a solo shot, his second homer of the season.

A's 4, Twins 3

Bill Almon lined a two-out single in the bottom of the 14th inning to score Bob Kearney from second base and give Oakland its come-from-behind victory.

The A's tied the game at 3-3 in the eighth when Jeff Burroughs hit reliever Ron Davis' first pitch for a two-run homer.

Pirate home opener a bummer

By BOB GREENE AP Sports Writer

The Pittsburgh Pirates' road show was a huge success. It was their home opener that was a bummer.

Montreal's home debut, on the other hand, was a delight for the Chicago Cubs, while the Atlanta Braves continued one streak while stopping another.

After reeling off five straight victories on the road, the Pirates returned home Tuesday where they fell 4-3 in 10 innings to the St. Louis Cardinals.

In Atlanta, the Braves stretched their winning streak to six games and ended Cincinnati's streak at four with a 4-1 triumph.

Other National League contests Tuesday saw Philadelphia edge the New York Mets 4-3 in 10 innings, San Francisco beat San Diego

6-5 and Los Angeles top Houston 3-1.

Cubs 5, Expos 0

Keith Moreland cracked a three-run homer in the first inning as Chicago posted its first triumph of the season.

The Cubs, winless in their first six starts, jumped out to a 4-0 lead in the first inning, then boosted their margin to 5-0 in the third when Leon Durham hit a solo homer.

Braves 4, Reds 1

Rick Behenna, making his major league debut, hurled a two-hitter for five innings and singled his first two trips to the plate to lead Atlanta over Cincinnati.

Atlanta Manager Joe Torre said he removed the 23-year-old right-hander after the fifth because "he got tired."

Behenna, who jumped from Class AA to the majors, yielded only two singles to Cesar Cedeño and an unearned run in his five innings. Rick Mahler came in to pitch three scoreless innings and Terry Forster finished up in the ninth.

Dale Murphy homered in the eighth for Atlanta.

Phillies 4, Mets 3

A bases-loaded, two-out single by Larry Milbourne in the bottom of the 10th inning gave Philadelphia its come-from-behind victory over New York.

The Mets had taken a 3-2 lead into the bottom of the ninth before Pete Rose's sacrifice fly scored Bob Denner with the tying run. That denied Tom Seaver his first victory since returning to the Mets in a trade with Cincinnati last winter.

Dodgers 3, Astros 1

Pedro Guerrero, Steve Yeager and Greg Brock socked solo homers and Alejandro Pena was strong in his first big-league start as Houston lost its eighth straight game to remain the only winless team in the majors.

Pena, 2-0, scattered six singles in 62-3 innings and Steve Howe gave up one hit the rest of the way. Vern Ruhlé, 0-1, lost his seventh consecutive game to Los Angeles.

Giants 6, Padres 5

Chili Davis homered twice and Fred Breining continued his success over San Diego as the Padres lost their rain-delayed home opener before a crowd of 45,397.

Davis, who now has four homers this season, had a two-run blast in the first and a solo homer in the fourth. Breining, who pitched seven strong innings, is now 5-0 lifetime against San Diego.

Steve Garvey, making his home debut for the Padres, homered and doubled.

Women host guests from Amarillo

The Deaf Smith County Republican Women met at the Hereford State Bank at noon Monday, with President Billie Hopson presiding. Seventeen were in attendance.

Talks were given by Louise Brown, president of the Professional Republican Women's Club of Amarillo, Marie Weaver, president of the Amarillo Republican Women's Club, and Judy Torczon, director of the Texas Federated Republican Women and administrative aide to Chip Staniswalis, State Representative, District 87, also of Amarillo.

A question and answer period followed the talks.

Garth Thomas, chairman of the Republican Party in Deaf Smith County, asked for participation in the Town and Country Jubilee celebration in August and also gave a report on the state meeting in Midland.

The next meeting will be at 12 noon, May 9, at the Hereford State Bank Community Room.

Artist of the Month

Alice Lockmiller of 220 Star has been selected as the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce artist of the month. Her watercolor and wool portraits will be displayed at the Chamber office through this month. She is pictured standing beside a watercolor portrait she did of her 7-year-old daughter, Hayley.

Social Security Forum

(Have you a question about Social Security? Address it to Jim Talbot, Manager of the Amarillo Social Security Office, 205 East 5th Street, Amarillo, Texas, 79101. You will receive an answer in this column or by mail.)

QUESTION: I am 56 years old and I have been working under employment not covered by Social Security. I am now starting a job that will start withholding Social Security taxes. How much will I have to earn before I get a quarter of coverage and what is the maximum wage base for the deduction of Social Security taxes in 1983?

ANSWER: An employee has to earn $370 in 1983 in order to get a quarter of coverage under Social Security. One can earn a maximum of four quarters a year. The wage base for 1983 is $35,700.

QUESTION: I recently discovered my former employer used the wrong Social Security number on my W-2 form for several years. I have my correct number on my Social Security card, and the W-2 forms which are wrong, but he is no longer in business. I don't want to lose credit for working in those years. What can I do?

ANSWER: Contact your local Social Security office for a form 7008, REQUEST FOR CORRECTION OF EARNINGS RECORD. This form enables you to make corrections such as you require. Space on this form is provided to detail the wrong number; the correct one; the time periods involved; the employer who reported incorrectly, and total pay received.

QUESTION: I recently married and I have received a letter offering me assistance in changing my name on my Social Security card. The letter says send my marriage license and $10 and they will help me. When I got my first card there was no charge and I did not have to present any identification. Why do I now?

ANSWER: There is no charge from the Social Security Administration to change a name on a Social Security card, or to obtain an original one. Since November 1971 Social Security regulations require evidence of age, identity and citizenship for foreign born applicants, when applying for an original Social Security card.

Guests at Meeting

From left, Marie Weaver, Judy Torczon, and Louise Brown, all of Amarillo, were special guests of the Deaf Smith County Republican Women at the organization's Monday noon meeting at Hereford State Bank. Ms. Weaver is president of the Amarillo Republican Women's Club; Ms. Torczon is district director of Texas Federated Republican Women and serves as administrative aide to Chip Staniswalis, State Representative, District 87; and Ms. Brown as president of the Professional Republican Women's Club of Amarillo.

The largest painting ever painted was the "Panorama of the Mississippi," completed in by John Banvard in 1846. It took spectators two hours to view all of the 12-foot high, 16,000 foot long picture.

Museum to host fair

In celebration of National History Day on Saturday, the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum in Canyon will host the third annual Regional History Fair for the top 26 counties of Texas.

Projects of all kinds have been created by over 100 Amarillo, Canyon, and Hereford students in grades six through twelve. The projects follow the theme "Turning Points in History."

Projects will be set up Friday and Saturday in the museum, and judging will take place on Saturday. Out-of-town judges will evaluate each entry on the basis of historical quality, quality of presentation, and adherence to theme and rules.

Certificates of achievement will be awarded to all entrants, while first place, second place, third place, and honorable mention trophies and ribbons will go to winners of various categories. A special "Best of Show" award, consisting of a plaque and cash, will be given to the most outstanding project.

"This year a special award is being given to teachers who showed tremendous enthusiasm and motivated their students to learn more about American history," according to Suzanne Hewitt-Knorpp, Museum Director of Education.

The awards consist of plaques, and this year's recipients will be Cooper Henderson of Amarillo High School; Sheryl Dawson of Horace Mann Junior High (Amarillo); and Almeda Boehning of Canyon Junior High.

The 1983 History Fair competition is co-sponsored by the museum and the Texas State Historical Association. Funding for the awards was provided through a grant from the Plains American Heritage Program of Austin.

The public is invited to view the 1983 Regional History Fair entries and winners from Sunday, April 17, through April 28, in the paleontology hall at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum. Hours are 2-6 p.m. Sunday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and Saturday.

Sure sign of spring: The bargain air fares are beginning to melt away.

Soviets boost wheat imports, cut back on grains

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A new Agriculture Department analysis says the Soviet Union is boosting wheat imports to record levels while cutting back on foreign purchases of corn and other coarse grains. Overall, the Soviets still intend to import an estimated 34 million metric tons of grain in 1982-83, the same as indicated a month ago, officials said Tuesday. That would be down 26 percent from the record imports of 46 million metric tons in 1981-82 but still would be the third largest volume on record. Soviet wheat imports in the international marketing year that will end on June 30 are now projected at a record 21 million metric tons, compared to 19.5 million in 1981-82.

"The Soviet Union, the world's largest wheat producer, will account for over a fifth of this year's global wheat trade," the report said. "In contrast, they will account for a much smaller share of coarse grain trade, as imports are currently projected at only 12 million tons, the smallest in four years."

Last year, Soviet coarse grain imports — which include corn, barley, oats and rye — totaled a record 17.3 million metric tons.

Grain sales to the Soviet Union, including contracts for sale of 200,000 tons of U.S. corn, have picked up recently, the report said. In all, an estimated 31 million metric tons — 90 percent of the year's projected total — have been covered.

Reports out of the European Community indicate that France has sold the Soviets around 600,000 metric tons of wheat, pushing the total for the year to an all-time high of about 3.5 million tons, the report said.

Further, Canada reportedly has sold an additional 500,000 tons of barley, raising total grain sales this season to more than nine million tons. Argentina, another prime supplier, recently sold up to 2.5 million tons of coarse grains to the Soviets.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal to 36.7 bushels of wheat or 39.4 bushels of corn.

"Much of this year's slowdown in corn imports is due to their own good 1982 corn crop ... The Soviets may have also chosen to feed more of their domestically produced wheat this year, and thus reduced their dependence on outside coarse grain supplies," the report said.

According to official reports in Moscow, Soviet livestock inventories in the socialized sector for March "continued high, with cattle, hogs and poultry numbers all at record levels for the month" while cow inventories were down slightly from record levels set a year ago. The Soviets have bought about 6.2 million metric tons of U.S. grain — 3.2 million corn and three million wheat — for delivery by Sept. 30, when the final year of a long-term supply agreement expires.

Last year, the Soviets bought about 13.9 million tons under terms of the pact, which specifies that Moscow must buy at least six million tons of wheat and corn annually.

Springtime perfect setting for tragedy with farm implements

COLLEGE STATION -- Spring brings a sharp increase in agricultural activities, and that means more tractor accidents.

Overturns still cause the most tractor-related deaths, says Dr. Gary Nelson, safety specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Soft ground from spring rains combined with irregular terrain can trigger a tractor overturn," says Nelson.

Also, sudden bumps due to ruts and washouts can cause extra riders to fall off and often be run over by the tractor or a trailing implement. Of course, extra riders should not be allowed on tractors in the first place, he cautions. The specialist points out that vegetation can hide a washout or deep rut. And side slopes of hills require extra driving care even under the best of conditions. A sudden drop of just a few inches of the downhill wheel into a hole or rut can flip a tractor before the operator can react to the situation.

"A good defense against sudden tipping is to avoid irregular ground, ruts and holes while operating at reduced speeds," advises Nelson. "Speed can turn a small bump into a real trouble spot. Quick turns even at medium speeds on rough ground also can lead to overturns."

"Slowing down helps you see trouble spots while reducing the motion that can send you into an overturn," he says. "Also, if your tractor has a roll-over protective structure, wear your seat belt to keep you inside the protective device."

Nelson gives these additional reminders for safe tractor operation:

1. Be prepared for a safe day at the wheel. Get enough rest. Take occasional breaks to reduce fatigue. Limit or avoid tractor operation when you are ill or taking medication. Dress appropriately for the weather and work conditions, including safety shoes or boots and a bump cap. If your tractor doesn't have a protective cab, you may need a dust respirator at times and acoustic ear muffs or plugs.
2. Give the tractor a safety "once over" before starting work. Check belts, lights, wipers, steering, tires and hydraulics. See that it's properly serviced.

3. Make sure that all youth and employed tractor operators are trained and competent. Only those with a driver's license should take farm equipment on the highway.

4. Do not allow riders. Keep children and nonworkers safely away. See that everyone is clear before moving.
5. Always hitch drawbar loads to the drawbar, not the axle or an elevated three-point hitch.

6. Match ground speed to operating conditions. Cut your speed on turns, when near ditches and obstacles, on rough, hilly or muddy ground, and when visibility is poor.

7. Always disengage the PTO and turn off the engine before unclogging or working on a power-driven machine. Keep all guards in place.

8. Turn off the engine before refueling. Set the brakes when parking and remove the key to keep children or thieves from starting the tractor. Never jumpstart a tractor without making certain it's out of gear and the brakes are locked.

9. Make certain the tractor is securely blocked so it cannot fall when wheels are removed. Get plenty of help or use mechanical aids when handling big drive wheels as they can pin or even crush someone.

H & R BLOCK GUARANTEES TAX RETURN PREPARATION

"If we make any error in the preparation of your tax return that costs you any interest or penalty on additional taxes due, while we do not assume the liability for the additional taxes, WE WILL PAY THAT INTEREST AND PENALTY. Furthermore, if your return is audited, we will accompany you, at NO EXTRA COST, to the Internal Revenue Service and explain how your return was prepared, even though we will not act as your legal representative."

If everyone was perfect, we would not need to guarantee our tax return preparation. Block has consistently protected its clients from paying more than is rightly owed if a mistake is made by H & R Block on the tax return.

Small donation will ensure tree plantings

WASHINGTON (AP) — A minimum, tax-deductible donation of $10 will permit the planting of as many as 40

Beef awards available again

For the fifth consecutive year, Clayton W. Williams Jr. of Midland, a prominent rancher and oil producer, will sponsor the statewide 4-H beef awards program. The program recognized 4-H members who have excelled with beef projects according to the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The top four beef producers in each county will receive special recognition, and the state winner will receive an expense-paid trip to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago each fall.

trees in a national forest under a new Agriculture Department program.

Contributions may be made by groups and individuals in their own names or in honor of others. Each contributor will get a certificate acknowledging the gift.

Agriculture Secretary John R. Block said Monday that individual trees will not be marked to recognize contributors but "probably will be planted on the national forest nearest the honoree's home."

"The Forest Service will select the species of trees and sites to be planted.

Although the number of seedlings planted for each donation will vary according to costs in different parts of the country, a spokesman said a $10 donation will permit the planting of an average of 20 to 40 trees.

The Newspaper BIBLE

WORTH WAITING A LIFETIME FOR!

That day a man named Simeon, a Jerusalem resident, was in the Temple. He was a good man, very devout, filled with the Holy Spirit and constantly expecting the Messiah to come soon.

For the Holy Spirit had revealed to him that he would not die until he had seen Him—God's anointed King.

The Holy Spirit had impelled him to go to the Temple that day; and so, when Mary and Joseph arrived to present the baby Jesus to the Lord in obedience to the law, Simeon was there and took the child in his arms, praising God.

"Lord," he said, "now I can die content! For I have seen the Savior You have given to the world.

"He is the light that will shine upon the nations, and He will be the glory of Your people Israel!"

Joseph and Mary just stood there, marvelling at what was being said about Jesus.

Simeon blessed them but then said to Mary, "A sword shall pierce your soul, for this child shall be rejected by many in Israel, and this to their undoing. But He will be the greatest joy of many others. And the deepest thoughts of many hearts shall be revealed."

Anna, a prophetess, was also there in the Temple that day. She was the daughter of Phanuel, of the Jewish tribe of Asher, and was very old, for she had been a widow for 84 years following seven years of marriage. She never left the Temple but stayed there night and day, worshiping God by praying and often going without food.

She came along just as Simeon was talking with Mary and Joseph, and she also began thanking God and publicly proclaiming the Messiah's arrival to everyone in Jerusalem who had been awaiting the coming of the Savior.

Soap Beat

Scintillating predictions: what we see for '83

By Connie Passalacqua

One need not be as clairvoyant as Jeane Dixon to predict what's in store for the soap opera world in 1983. A little poking behind the scenes to see what the networks have in development, plus a working knowledge of what was done well on soaps in 1982 should reveal some valid prophecies.

A surefire hit is Agnes Nixon's new soap, as yet unnamed, which will debut in June on ABC in a morning time slot. Considering Mrs. Nixon's track record — she created "All My Children" and "One Life to Live" as well as writing other top soaps for the last 30 years, the new show's success is almost guaranteed.

Working with Mrs. Nixon will be Doug Marland, who won two Best Writing Emmys for "Guiding Light" while he was headwriter of that show. Marland is known for his outstanding rapport with the actors on his shows and works with them in tandem to produce excellent characterizations. It's rumored that two of Marland's proteges from "GL" may jump ship and tap dance their way into new roles on the ABC soap.

Certainly, taping techniques that have been hits with soap audiences will probably be stepped up to produce new successes. Last year soaps went on location to film remote sequences all over the world. Whereas in 1981, almost every soap journeyed to a Caribbean island, 1982 saw such far-flung exotic locales as Hong Kong and Switzerland. This year more unusual locales will undoubtedly be used.

While no actor or actress is likely to zoom to the superstar status of "General Hospital's" Tony Geary, new faces on soaps will continue to generate momentum to become the medium's top stars. Likely candidates are male sex symbol Dack Rambo (Steve Jacobi, "All My Children") teen heartthrob John Stamos (Blackie Parrish, "General Hospital") and vamps Shelly Burch (Delia Ralston, "One Life to Live").

Lawyer plans Nelson shrine

HILLSBORO, Texas (AP) — A Central Texas lawyer says he plans to spend $30 million for a shrine, the Southwest Hall of Fame and Museum, that will honor country music singer Willie Nelson and attract visitors from miles around.

"There are only four great people I've known in my entire life ... my mother, my wife, (Baylor University Chancellor) Abner McCall and Willie Nelson," said Frank McGregor, an attorney and former state representative from McLennan County.

"My definition of 'great' is biblical. Abner McCall and Willie Nelson are completely different in their lifestyles, but they're both kind and will do anything for a friend."

Nelson, who hails from nearby Abbott, began his career with performances at the Nite Owl Club in West, another Hill County town, and on KHBR radio in Hillsboro.

The shrine would be built at Interstate 35 and U.S. Highways 77 and 81, about 30 miles north of Waco. The hall of fame and museum would salute country music stars and honor others whose names have been etched in Texas and Southwest history.

Critical to the project's success is Nelson's vocal and visible support.

"We will depend on local support in proving to Willie Nelson that we love him, are proud of him and will go all-out for him," McGregor said. "It depends on whether the people in this area want to honor Willie Nelson. If not, Willie hasn't lost a thing."

"The reason for the location is Willie Nelson, make no mistake about it," he added. "And whether people will support it is directly based on Willie's interest."

Nelson's promoter, Tom Gresham of Austin, said Nelson read a newspaper account of the commissioners' actions on his behalf and McGregor's vision of the shrine. "He thought it was an interesting deal, but he probably doesn't know that much about the whole thing," Gresham said.

McGregor said he believes the singer, songwriter and actor will give the idea his public blessing because of his past displays of homeland ties.

For Abbott's 1973 high school homecoming, Nelson staged one of his first outdoor concerts. And in 1979, Nelson dropped by the high school for a surprise visit and posed for photographs with students.

"Remember to always be proud of who you are and where you're from," Nelson wrote in the school's yearbook, which was dedicated to him that year.

McGregor said he is prepared to donate up to 80 acres of land for the project, which would "be supported completely from charitable contributions."

McGregor's plans hit a roadblock last week when McLennan County commissioners were forced to rescind a vote naming a stretch of Texas Highway 2 after Nelson. They discovered a day after the vote that the weed-smothered road already was named for a deceased county commissioner.

The attorney said the road-naming snafu would not hamper his plans. But a larger obstacle — finding a prominent Texan to chair the board of directors — still has not been overcome.

McGregor, whose application for incorporation was granted a year ago, said a permanent board must be established before the non-profit corporation can gain tax-exempt status with the Internal Revenue Service.

He said several commitments have been received from board candidates, whom he declined to name, but the chairmanship still is up for grabs.

The job has been declined by Lady Bird Johnson, golfer Ben Hogan of Fort Worth, the late Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski, former University of Texas football coach Darrell Royal and Texas Rangers baseball owner Eddie Chiles. A prime candidate now is Roxanne Pride, whose husband, Charley Pride, cannot be a director because he probably will be inducted into the hall of fame, McGregor said.

End of TV codes, sexier commercials

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The TV commercial for toilet paper begins with a closeup of a peach, filmed in such a way that it resembles a person's buttocks. Then the camera backs off, showing the fruit and making a point about softness by using sandpaper.

Should the commercial wind up in your living room?

Most broadcasters participating in a special clinic Tuesday agreed they probably would have broadcast the ad. But the debate showed that broadcasters aren't always comfortable serving as arbitrators of taste in their communities — a role they are now assuming.

Tuesday's panel was sponsored by the Television Bureau of Advertising in conjunction with the annual convention of the National Association of Broadcasters. It marked the first time that a large group of broadcasters could discuss the demise of the NAB's Codes of Good Practice and the added responsibility they now face.

For decades, the NAB radio and TV codes were used as an internal industry tool for standardizing advertising guidelines. The codes set out rules for such things as how many commercials could be shown in a given hour, and how many products could be advertised in each commercial. The industry also had a code board, which screened commercials for acceptability.

But last year, following a defeat in federal court, the NAB signed a settlement with the Justice Department agreeing to dismantle the codes. The government called them anti-competitive, arguing they allowed broadcasters to artificially control the amount of air time available for commercials.

Now, every TV station or network is on its own in deciding whether to accept a particular ad.

The result, broadcasters agreed Tuesday, is a greater chance that commercials will vary from city to city. And some broadcasters believe that could mean more skin on the screen.

"We all know that sex sells," said Thomas E. Cookerly, president of Albritton Communications. "I think we're going to be bombarded with more sexy commercials in coming years. What the market will bear is a very valid way to approach it."

"With the penetration of pay cable TV, showing more bare breasts and bottoms, there may be more of an appetite for it," said William G. Moll, the broadcast president of Harte-Hanks Communications. "But I still think it's going to be some years."

"We are indeed an influence on and an arbiter of public taste in our communities," said David E. Henderson, president of Outlet Broadcasting Co. "And audiences in Washington or San Francisco may be more willing to view contemporary material than those someplace else."

"A commercial that's acceptable in Washington may not be in Roanoke, Va., 200 miles away where the Rev. Jerry Falwell (of Moral Majority) is based," Cookerly said.

Broadcasters also must remember that community attitudes can change, the panelists said.

Schizophrenic at mother's home days after escape,

HOUSTON (AP) — A mentally ill man was screaming and waving a kitchen knife in front of his mother's home on Easter Sunday, nine days after he was discovered missing from a state hospital, a neighbor says.

Cary Pasternak testified Tuesday that Daniel Adelman, 22, screamed and attacked the shrubs in front of the house with the knife.

Pasternak lives across the street from the house where Mirella Adelman admits she once kept her son, diagnosed as a paranoid schizophrenic, in a cage-like room. Ms. Adelman, a 48-year-old exotic dancer, has said she believes her son was raped at the Austin State Hospital and that she would rather take care of him at home.

Probate Judge Jim Scanlan reinstated a temporary restraining order against Ms. Adelman, warning her again not to harbor him or interfere with the guardianship of attorney David Graves.

The Harris County constable's office has been trying to locate the man.

Builders launch surprise searches, urine tests

DALLAS (AP) — An organization of Dallas builders has declared a war on drugs that includes surprise searches of workers, urine tests and blacklisting, but some union leaders say they may fight back.

Under the campaign, the 500 members of the Dallas chapter of the Associated General Contractors will be taught how to reword company policies so workers can be searched or required to undergo blood or urine tests.

"The workers don't have to submit to a search," the group's safety director, Jim Sprague, told the Dallas Times Herald; "but they become an ex-employee if they don't."

An association press release said local union representatives "completely support the tough new program."

But some union leaders say they object, and the local branch of the American Civil Liberties Union has called a board meeting today to discuss a possible protest.

"This sounds an awful lot like Gestapo tactics," said Willie Chapman, secretary-treasurer of the Dallas County AFL-CIO, which represents about 10,000 workers from 17 building trades unions.

The anti-drug campaign was created after a project supervisor for one of the largest area contractors formed his own program.

John Hancock, 58-year-old supervisor for Austin Commercial Inc., said a private detective discovered a major drug problem while investigating an incident in which large boards were thrown into the street from the 20th floor of a building under construction.

Hancock and his foremen began watching workers and fired anyone who was strongly suspected of using drugs, although some other reason usually was stated for the firing or the employee was shifted to a job that was about to end.

"I've gotten rid of six or eight off that job," he said. "Some I actually could prove it on; others I had enough proof in my mind. Of course in the construction business, you can lay off people for lack of work anytime you want."

"I'm pretty smooth about it," he told the newspaper. "I haven't had any problem or lawsuits. I'd just as soon you not print this, because we're on the edge of violating people's civil rights if we push it."

Accidents decreased dramatically after the crackdown, Hancock added.

ACLU leaders said that while the searches and screening tests are not specifically barred by federal or Texas law, workers can sue if their consent is not obtained or if the test is not accurate.

Two lawsuits have been filed in Southeast Texas challenging blood tests conducted at refineries. A March 24 suit against a Port Arthur plant contends about 500 employees were given blood tests for drug use under the guise of a medical examination. A February suit claims blood tests at a Nederland plant were so unspecific that marijuana use from weeks before would show up in the blood.

Association spokeswoman Guada Lueck said studies in-dicade as many as 42 percent of the construction workers use drugs and as much as $15 billion in accident claims and property damage resulted from drug use on the job in 1980.

Charlie Pendleton, an oilfield attorney who specializes in drug laws, drew up the plan for legal searches, she added. Ms. Lueck said constitutional limits on searches do not apply as long as the company has a "right to search" clause in its policy and conducts the search on company premises.

Chapman said the AFL-CIO particularly objected to the idea of a blacklist, where a drug-related firing will be listed on the employee's record.

"The worker might have had a problem years ago, but he'll be blacklisted forever," Chapman said.

He also expressed concern that the searches could be used to harass workers who were not well-liked by management. "There's room for abuse in those type of things," he said.

"I think it would be illegal for them to search," said Neal Haynes, business manager of the Operating Engineers' local. "I think they're going to end up in trouble."

"I don't think we could stand for this," added Tom Wilcoxon, business manager for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers local. "We're certainly not for drug use, but we are for a little bit of dignity."

ACLU spokesman Henry J. Albach said the program "sounds sort of '1984,' George Orwellian to me. I have a pretty strong feeling we're going to be very much in opposition."

Panel seeks ban on CIA war

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House panel, upset with reported CIA backing for rebels trying to oust the leftist Nicaraguan government, wants to ban all U.S. support for military actions inside or against Nicaragua.

On a party-line voice vote, the Democratic-controlled House Foreign Affairs Western Hemisphere subcommittee approved the ban Tuesday and sent it on for consideration by the full committee.

The subcommittee also voted to require that the government of El Salvador agree to a dialogue with leftist insurgents and dramatically improve its human rights record to qualify for continued U.S. military aid.

And it voted stringent limits on aid to El Salvador and Honduras and a ban on military aid to the military government of Guatemala. In separate actions, the panel also voted to limit U.S. military aid to El Salvador to $50 million in each of the next two years and kill President Reagan's request for $50 million in additional military aid this year.

The vote on Nicaragua came despite new assurances from the Reagan administration that the CIA is not trying to overthrow the Nicaraguan government and thus is complying with existing congressional restrictions on CIA actions against Nicaragua.

But faced with public statements by the rebels that they have received U.S. aid and that their goal is to overthrow the Sandinistas, many members of Congress remain unconvinced.

"What has precipitated this (proposed) amendment is the conviction that the administration is end-running the existing law," said Rep. Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y.

Following stepped-up rebel attacks inside Nicaragua last month, several members of the House and Senate intelligence committees said the CIA might be violating a law passed late last year prohibiting covert U.S. military aid "for the purpose" of toppling the Sandinista government.

The new, more tightly worded proposal is sponsored by the panel's chairman, Rep. Michael Barnes, D-Md., and is reminiscent of the 1976 Clark amendment that prohibited covert CIA actions against the leftist government of Angola. That law is named after its sponsor, former Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa.

The Barnes proposal would prohibit the United States from providing "any assistance of any kind ... for the purpose or which would have the effect of supporting, directly or indirectly, military or paramilitary operations in or against Nicaragua by any nation, group, organization, movement or individuals" unless the president determines that it is in U.S. security interests and Congress agrees.

In a related development Tuesday, CIA Director William J. Casey assured the Senate Intelligence Committee in a closed briefing that the United States is not seeking to overthrow the Nicaraguan government.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., the panel's chairman, said Casey and other top CIA officials had convinced him that the spy agency is living within the letter and spirit of the law.

Hundreds ask to adopt baby

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — A tiny, brown-haired baby found wailing and abandoned has tugged at the heart-strings of hundreds of prospective parents who want to replace the ones who left her in an outhouse.

Mexican social workers said Tuesday that hundreds of people have asked to adopt the five-pound girl rescued Sunday from a dank latrine in a suburb of Ciudad Juarez.

"She's better now. And she appears happy," hospital spokesman Hilda Munoz said about the girl doctors estimate to be about 11 days old.

Juarez police said they have been unsuccessful in their efforts to identify the girl's mother and consider it unlikely they will ever find either of the girl's parents in this city of 900,000 across the Rio Grande from El Paso, Texas.

Police said a teen-aged boy told them he was walking past an outhouse at the Independencia colonia on the edge of the Juarez city limits when he heard a baby's wails. Inquisitive, the youth told officers that when he walked closer, he heard the cries of a baby coming from the outdoor latrine.

He peered inside the outhouse and discovered the infant on the latrine's floor, covered only by a ragged white towel, police said.

The teen called to neighbors for help, and police then rushed the girl to the hospital.

Hospital officials said the baby will be put up for adoption within a few days if they are unable to find the girl's parents. Medical authorities also want to ensure the girl has no infirmities or infections.

So far, the girl has won over the hearts of the hospital workers, Ms. Munoz said.

"Everyone likes her. She also has a good appetite," she said.

Adopt your Chimpanzee today & we will give him a birthday party once a year.
