

Drought aid announced; not enough - Hightower

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has announced steps it says will make it easier for drought-stricken West Texas ranchers to obtain emergency loans, but Texas' top agriculture official says those steps fall short of what's needed.

Reduced interest rates on the emergency loans were announced Wednesday by Agriculture Secretary John Block, who had been under increasing pressure in Congress to step-up drought relief for West Texas and elsewhere. Agriculture officials also said regulations governing the program would be reinterpreted to make more ranchers eligible for such loans. However, shortly after Block's announcement, Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower, in an "eyeball to eyeball" meeting with Block, told the secretary he had not gone far enough. Hightower, a Democrat and persistent critic of the Reagan administration's drought aid program, told Block that the latest move to assist farmers and ranchers was a "step in the right direction" but that it's "not going to be the ultimate help." Hightower urged Block to provide West Texas ranchers for use as feed millions of bushels of damaged corn being stored by the government in the Panhandle. As the meeting in Block's office opened, Hightower told Block he was pleased to sit down "eyeball to eyeball," and that "we have a unique situation in Texas with that drought." Block responded that "I'm pretty well appraised of the situation" and that he felt the eased loan requirements announced Wednesday "would be helpful."

Earlier, Block had announced that, on instructions from President Reagan, he was reducing emergency loan interest rates for qualifying farmers and ranchers in counties designated eligible for relief under the Natural Disaster Emergency Loan Program. The rates would be reduced by three percentage points, to 5 percent from the current 8 percent, on loans of up to $100,000. On amounts above that, the rate would remain at 8 percent, Block said. Further, farmers and ranchers who are still able to obtain credit elsewhere would continue to pay interest of 13.75 percent under the emergency loan program, he said. However, agriculture officials said that regulations governing the loan program would also be reinterpreted in an effort to make more ranchers eligible for such loans. Under current interpretations, farmers can more easily demonstrate the amount of losses required to qualify for a loan than can ranchers, and that will be changed, said Walt Bunch, an Agriculture Department official. Bunch also said it will become easier for ranchers and farmers to show that they could not obtain credit elsewhere, thus making more of them eligible for the reduced rate loan program.

Twenty-three Texas counties have been declared covered by the program, and Rep. Tom Loeffler, R-Hunt, said he expected three more counties would shortly be added to the list: Crockett, Glasscock and Irion. But he said that so far, because of the restrictive regulations, not one West Texas rancher has been able to obtain such a loan. (See DROUGHT, Page 2A)

Druse threat delays reopening of Beirut's airport

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Plans to reopen Beirut's airport today were thwarted by a threat to shell the facility, but Lebanon's cease-fire held and a reconciliation conference was reported set to start next week in Saudi Arabia.

A threat by the Druse militiamen of leftist opposition leader Walid Jumblatt to bombard the airport forced President Amin Gemayel to call off plans to reopen it this morning. The dispute over the airport, where the 1,600 U.S. Marines of the multinational peacekeeping force are based, was referred to a committee in charge of overseeing the four-day-old cease-fire that has halted Lebanon's civil war except for scattered violations. The committee is composed of representatives of the Lebanese army and the warring Christian, Druse and Shiite Moslem militias. It planned to meet today in a bombed-out bank building in no-man's land southeast of Beirut, a government statement said. The airport, Lebanon's only international airfield and one of the busiest in the Middle East, has been closed for more than a month by civil warfare pitting Druse and Shiites against the army and Christian militiamen. Jumblatt's Progressive Socialist Party, the standard bearer of the 200,000-member Druse community, warned in a statement Wednesday the airport would be shelled if it was reopened before a "comprehensive security agreement" is reached. Public Works Minister Pierre Khoury said he would keep the airport closed until the cease-fire committee "completed discussions on the issue and security arrangements in and around the airport." Jumblatt's party claimed the government turned the airport into a "military position from which the regime used its warplanes which attacked innocent civilians in the mountains." "Orders have been issued to all the forces and military units to respond immediately to such an attempt (to reopen the airport to traffic)," it added. A government spokesman denied the airport was used as an airbase during the civil war. He said the government was asking Saudi Arabia to use its influence with the Druse's Syrian backers to get the threat lifted. Jumblatt, meanwhile, said the Druse would resume fighting if the Moslem-Christian reconciliation conference promised by the cease-fire agreement did not give his sect, Lebanon's

Seven units of the Hereford Volunteer Fire Dept. answered a call at Riverside Chemical at around 1:45 p.m. Wednesday to help stop a leak in a railroad tank car. The car, which contained anhydrous ammonia, sprung the

Continental pilots may strike, Eastern pact knocked

By DANA FIELDS
Associated Press Writer
Pilots voting today on a strike against Continental Airlines will "march together" to roll back 50 percent pay cuts, a spokesman said, as pilots from 46 carriers considered grounding flights nationwide to call attention to an "industry on the ropes." Meanwhile, the head of Eastern Airlines' 12,500 union mechanics branded the company's request for a voluntary pay cut an "insane manic position" and demanded that Chairman Frank Borman resign. Eastern Airlines today sent ballots to 16,000 non-union workers for votes next week on 15 percent pay cuts. Bor-man has said the airline faces bankruptcy unless it wins $318 million in concessions from its 37,000 workers, who have already absorbed some cuts this year. Continental, flying a barebones schedule since filing for protection from creditors Saturday while it reorganizes as a smaller business, has cut the annual pay of pilot captains to $43,000 from $89,400.

The 15-member Master Executive Council — the leaders of Continental's pilots — planned to meet today in Houston to vote on a strike already approved in straw polls by 1,300 pilots. Continental's flight attendants said they expected to issue a joint statement with the pilots today on strike plans. "This is something we want to march into together," Gary Thomas, a spokesman for the Continental pilots in Houston, said Wednesday after a strike at an unspecified date was approved by 200 pilots in Los Angeles, 400 in Denver and 700 in Houston.

Also scheduled today in Houston was a vote by representatives of pilots for 46 airlines to the Air Line Pilots Association on grounding all jetliners nationwide "for a day or two," said spokesman John Mazor. The groundings, which would follow "plenty of advance notice," would send a message "to the government and to the public" that airlines are in deep trouble because of fare wars and falling traffic, Mazor said.

Eastern spokesman Richard McGraw said Wednesday the airline had no response to remarks by mechanics' union leader Charles Bryan that the proposal is "an insane, manic position being taken by management." Bryan charged that Borman, 55, has lost credibility with employees by seeking wage concessions every year since 1975.

In New York, Trans World Corp. suspended trading of its stock Wednesday pending an announcement. The corporation said it was considering selling its money-losing Trans World Airlines subsidiary and concentrating on its profitable $2 billion hotel, food service and real estate business. Two small airlines, AeroMech of Clarksburg, W.Va., and Wright of Cleveland, announced Wednesday they will merge to become a regional airline with a 21-city system based in Cleveland.

Hospital's budget okayed

By REED PARSELL
Staff Writer
With little preliminary discussion, the Deaf Smith General Hospital District Board of Directors Wednesday approved the hospital's 1983-1984 budget. The budget projects $4,116,512 in revenues and $3,979,456 in expenses, leaving a balance of $137,056 in the black. According to James Bullard, hospital administrator, the budget was considered during about four board meetings and at least a couple of finance committee gatherings. Following the board's 5-0 approval, questions were brought up about the ambulance budget. Bullard explained there would be approximately 65 percent collections of all ambulance charges, resulting in a net collections figure of $29,242. There would also be a projected net loss of $43,676. Regarding a 9 percent increase in room charges, Bullard said they would go into effect as soon as approval was granted by Blue Cross. That action should come after Oct. 1, he said, which is the day the new budget year begins. Other assumptions made in the budget were an 11 percent increase for loss on accounts (excluding indigent care), 8 percent raise in salaries and a 10 percent lift for supplies, attributed to inflation. There was also a brief discussion on medical reports required to be completed by doctors. The general conclusion was several doctors were making progress in catching up with their reports while a few were still being delinquent. Bullard suggested the board not invoke its power to suspend a doctor's privileges - due to being behind on his reports - unless lengthy notice is given. The hospital board met in closed session to discuss personnel and consider applicants for performing the district's audit. No action was taken. Phyllis Dawson, Bullard's secretary, reported the board may soon call for another special meeting to consider possible renovation and/or remodeling work for DSGH.

missiles on the continent if the Soviets dismantle some of their SS-20 missile force aimed at Western Europe. The North Atlantic Treaty Organization plans to start deploying the U.S. missiles in December. The State Department said Wednesday the world would be "disappointed" in Andropov's response to Reagan's initiative. It said the response was "a threatening restatement of their long-standing position that the Soviets will maintain their monopoly of intermediate range missiles in Europe. For our part, we will continue to work in Geneva for a negotiated settlement that strengthens international peace and security." (See ANDROPOV, Page 2A)

Soviet attacks Reagan's proposal
MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet leader Yuri V. Andropov says President Reagan's latest proposal to limit nuclear arms in Europe is an attempt to build NATO strength while disarming Moscow, but he did not reject the plan outright. Andropov said the Soviets were committed to "peace on Earth" and termed Reagan's offer a "so-called new move" that did not significantly alter the U.S. stand at Geneva talks on limiting medium-range missiles. The Soviet president and Communist Party chief accused the United States of "unwillingness to conduct serious talks of any kind on arms control." His statement was carried Wednesday by the official Soviet news agency Tass. "In brief, we are proposed to talk on how to help the NATO bloc to upset to its advantage the balance of medium-range nuclear systems in the European zone. And this move is presented brazen-facedly as something new," he said. On Monday, in a speech at the United Nations, Reagan offered to halt deployment of an unspecified number of the 572 Pershing 2 and cruise

Update thursday

Tropical storm nears Atlantic coast

By MARTIN MARRIS Associated Press Writer

Tropical Storm Dean zipped west today toward the Atlantic Coast after crippling a tugboat and hurting two crew members with 60 mph winds that sent heavy surf crashing over beaches on the Outer Banks of North Carolina.

The island of Hawaii, meanwhile, braced for an attack today from Tropical Storm Narda, approaching hurricane strength and expected to pass within 50 miles of the Pacific chain's largest island.

Although Dean was moving west and small craft advisories spanned more than 1,100 miles of the Eastern Seaboard, forecasters said it was too early to advise residents to begin making emergency plans.

Gale force winds from Dean extended about 300 miles outward from the storm. Along the Outer Banks, gales pushed surf over beaches along the narrow, 60-mile long strip of land to produce "some coastal erosion," said meteorologist Mike Matthews of the National Weather Service in Cape Hatteras, N.C.

The tugboat Mars, with two of its six crewmen hurt, was being towed by the Coast Guard Cutter Bibb toward Cape May, N.J., said Lt. John Frost of the Coast Guard in New York.

One of those injured had a broken hand while the other had a possible separated shoulder and broken wrist, officials said.

Police waiting for swallowed ring

CHESAPEAKE, Va. (AP) — A woman accused of swallowing a stolen $8,000 ring was in jail today under watch by officers trying to recover the diamond-studded band, which showed up in an X-ray of her digestive system.

Pamela Jane Perkins, 29, of Norfolk, has been charged with grand larceny of the ring and another $400 ring that was found in her mouth. She is being held on $100,000 bond.

Police said Ms. Perkins admitted swallowing the ring, a sapphire stone flanked by two 1 1/2-carat diamonds owned by her employer, when she was arrested Tuesday night. An X-ray taken at Chesapeake General Hospital showed a ring in her digestive system.

"There's no problem. It's just it hasn't passed," Police Sgt. C.R. Schafer said. He said police probably would request a second X-ray today.

Capt. Claude A. Stafford, assistant chief correctional officer for the Chesapeake Jail, said jail officials questioned the legality of keeping Ms. Perkins in custody with only a bedpan for toilet facilities for an extended period.

Volkswagen has bike for 12

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — From the folks who gave America the Mercedes Benz, the BMW, the Volkswagen, comes — the bicycle built for 12.

Complete with a movable beer rack, the bike weighs 2,300 pounds and needs 12 pairs of strong legs to power it.

Still, that was no obstacle to the members of the Crefeld, West Germany, hockey and tennis club who built it as "a joke," and accompanied it to the United States for the tricentennial of the first organized German settlement in America.

Thirteen of the club's members flew to the United States to participate in festivities this weekend and next marking the arrival in 1683 of 13 German families from Crefeld who settled in the city's Germantown section. The bike, which displays an American flag, went on display outside their hotel Wednesday.

Although the bike only seats 12, club member Fredy Pixken said a 13th club member came along to keep up the tradition.

The front of the bike is conventional, with a front wheel controlled by handlebars. But at the rear there is a covered area, resembling a ricksha with a roof.

Pixken said the space is used to store essentials like beer, which can be passed to thirsty riders on a movable can holder that is attached to the transom and rolls the length of the bike.

Officer among six indicted

BURNET, Texas (AP) — A former Marble Falls police officer was among six people indicted on sexual abuse charges involving five children ages 2 to 11, authorities said.

The alleged acts took place during the last 13 months, Assistant District Attorney Sam Oatman Jr. said Wednesday.

Blood donating problem

"He came through the operation fine—but died of hepatitis."

For 40 years medical science has sought some way to pasteurize blood before transfusing it.

Paid donors are often skid-row bums selling a pint of blood for enough to buy a quart of wine.

These paid donors are much more likely to transmit hepatitis.

Discovery of the hepatitis B virus enabled us to test for that disease.

But now we have new strains of non-B and non-A hepatitis for which we have no tests.

And now much of the blood used for transfusion in American hospitals is "imported," coming from countries where there are few or no regulations limiting donors. They may be prisoners, homosexuals, drug addicts and assorted paid donors — each of which group suffers a high incidence of hepatitis.

The problem of AIDS is complicated by the considerable immigration of Haitians into the United States. Haitian blood frequently carries AIDS and hepatitis.

It is going to cost a lot of lives if we do not discover and enforce some system guaranteeing that the blood you get in the hospital is from volunteers and is not imported.

A tragic side-effect of all this is that unfounded fear is dissuading many volunteer donors. They need to know there is no risk to them.

IN DOCTORS DEFENSE
Much of what you pay the doctor for his services goes to the sue-ers. Or to their lawyers.

A couple has an imperfect baby, they have to blame somebody other than themselves. They blame the OB.

They sue the obstetrician and-or gynecologist, for "malpractice." So doctors order more and more "tests," even unnecessary tests, just to cover themselves. But for these the patient pays.

Even for a case that never goes to court legal fees can exceed $50,000.

So the obstetrician or gynecologist must pay thousands of dollars a year for malpractice insurance.

A third of them pay more than $15,000 a year.

Which they must add to the bills of their other patients. And the premiums for malpractice insurance increased another 12 percent last year.

And the greater price we all pay is this: 43 percent of all obstetricians and gynecologists are backing off, reducing their caseloads, or getting out of obstetrics altogether.

Can't something be done?

President Dr. James Breen of the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology says the least we can do is to establish, state by state, medical review boards which would consider malpractice cases before they can go to court—and throw out those which are conspicuously before they can go to court—and throw out those which are conspicuously without merit.

Nixon calls for massive aid

will achieve democratic stability only through a program even more ambitious

Visitors to county spend $17.4 million

AUSTIN, Texas — Deaf Smith County last year received an estimated $17.4 million in spending by U.S. travelers, a national study commissioner by the Texas Tourist Development Agency has disclosed.

Its rate of growth, 17 percent over 1981 receipts, was eight percent over that for the state as a whole.

The travel study, done by the U.S. Travel Data Center in Washington, D.C., found that the county last year had 281 travel-related jobs, with a payroll estimated at $2.8 million.

It also realized an estimated $118 thousand in local and county taxes paid by travelers.

The study measures the economic impact of all overnight trips and day trips at least 100 miles from home. Thus it includes spending by Texans as well as by out-of-state visitors. Trips for all purposes are in the picture.

For the state as a whole 1982 travel means $13.7 billion to the Texas economy. The nine percent increase over 1981 traveler spending was five times greater than the 1.8 percent growth of the U.S. travel industry.

Travel industry employment last year in Texas rose to 283,917. The figure was up four percent over 1981-six times above national travel industry employment which fell two percent last year.

Texas also received an estimated $316.8 million in State taxes paid by travelers. Another $161.6 was paid in local and county taxes.

The Travel Data Center said that the state figures would have been "substantially higher" had it been able to include estimates of spending by international visitors to Texas.

A separate study for the Tourist Development Agency found that nine percent of last year's 35.4 million visitors, an estimated three million persons, came from outside the United States. Nearly half were from Mexico.

than the $13.3 billion Marshall Plan that helped Europe recover from the devastation of World War II.

Nixon, summing up for reporters his closed-door testimony Wednesday before the National Bipartisan Commission on Central America, also said a massive U.S. economic aid program for the region must be coupled with continued military aid.

"It is not possible to have progress without having security and it is not possible to have security without having progress," Nixon said, with commission chairman Henry A. Kissinger standing at his side.

The scene in the State Department lobby was reminiscent of the 1970s: Nixon and his one-time foreign policy partner standing before microphones talking about a sensitive foreign policy issue. Except for a slight limp, Nixon, 70, seemed in good health.

Kissinger thanked Nixon for a "very comprehensive and extraordinarily thought-provoking presentation."

So impressive was Nixon, Kissinger said, that Nixon would be capable of writing the commission report for President Reagan by himself. The 12-member commission, formed in July, expects to have its policy recommendations completed by February.

In his remarks, Nixon stressed the same anti-communist stance that has been a hallmark of his long public career, warning that a Marxist victory in El Salvador would mean "another Soviet base in the Americas" and endorsing U.S.-backed military operations against Nicaragua's leftist government.

If the leftist guerrillas triumph in El Salvador, "the impact on the surrounding countries and on Mexico eventually could be enormous," he said.

But he said it would be a mistake for the United States to become obsessed with Marxism.

"The communists talk about problems. Too often we just talk about communists," Nixon said.

He suggested the U.S.-sponsored postwar European recovery effort was far simpler than the task required in Central America. "The problem in Latin America is not recovery," he said. "The problem is getting started."

Whereas the United States was able to help 15 Western European countries get back on their feet in four years, a Central America development program would require at least a decade, he said.

Nixon appeared to be recommending a program costing tens of billions of dollars. Because of inflation, the $13.3 billion in Marshall Plan loans and grants would be worth several times that amount in 1983 dollars.

With Nixon's presentation, the commission has now heard recommendations on Central America policy from all three living former presidents.

Resolution near approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — Driven by a strong boost from the Democratic House, a War Powers resolution granting President Reagan broad authority to keep 1,600 U.S. Marines in Lebanon for 18 months appears headed for certain, if narrow approval in the Republican-controlled Senate.

The House voted 270-161 on Wednesday to approve the resolution, but only after an impassioned, personal appeal from Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. to his colleagues.

"No, we are not going to have another Gulf of Tonkin Resolution," said O'Neill after a day of speeches from opponents warning that Lebanon could easily lead to another Vietnam War.

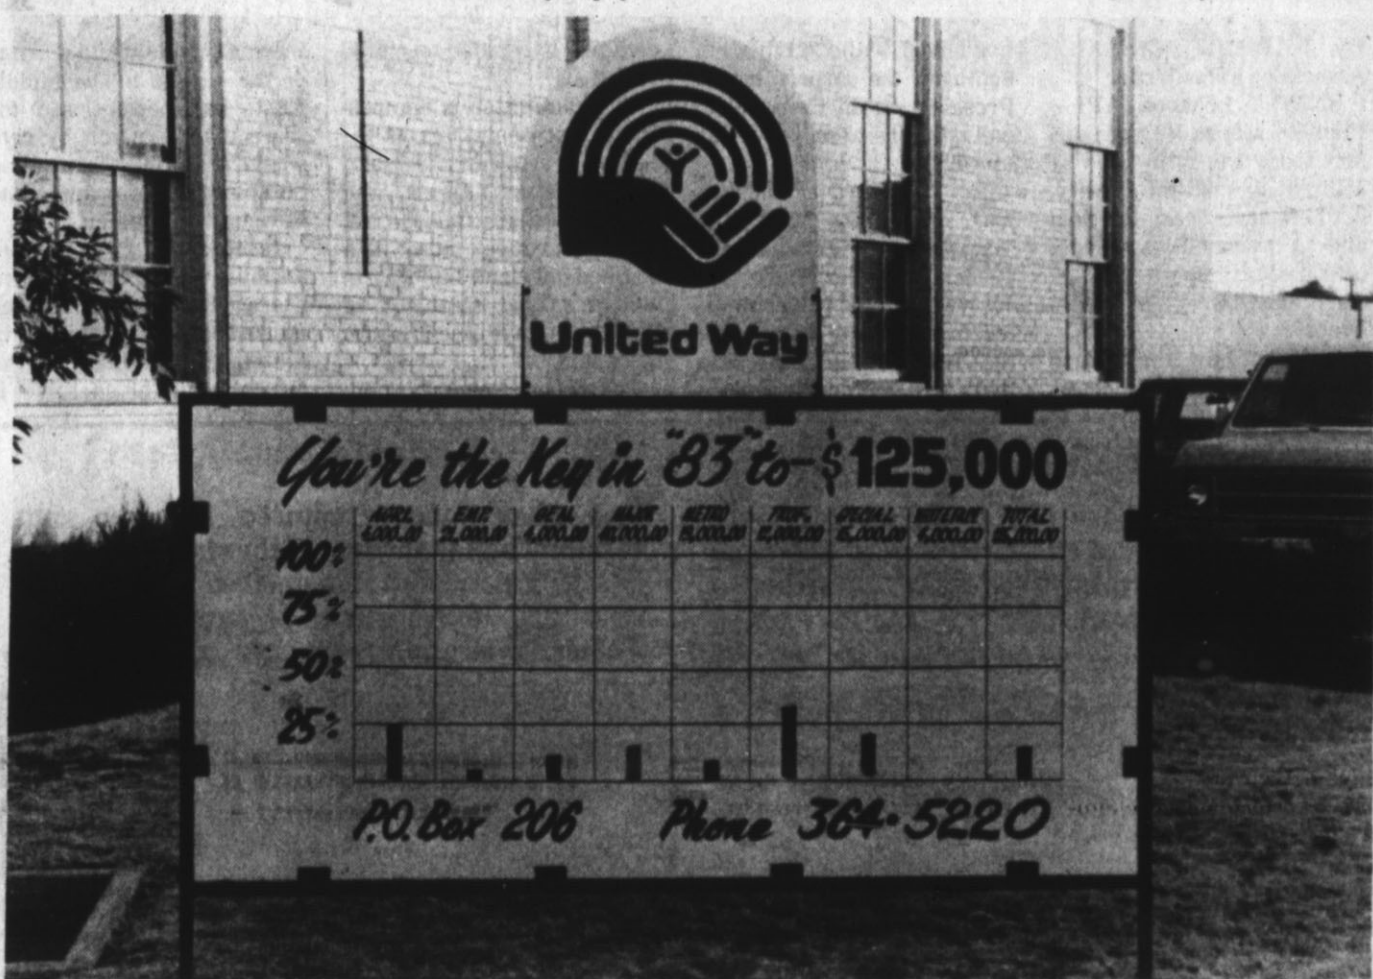

"Lebanon is a trap," said Republican Toby Roth of Wisconsin. "Lebanon is quagmire. For our Marines, Lebanon is a tragedy waiting to happen."

Responding to criticism that Reagan would now have a free hand to wage war in the Middle East, O'Neill said:

"On the contrary, it (the resolution) establishes unprecedented restraints on the deployment and mission of U.S. armed forces overseas. "It clearly limits the scope and role of U.S. forces in Lebanon so that the danger of a Vietnam-type escalation is avoided."

O'Neill, who was allied with Republican Reagan in a tough fight to get the resolution through the House, promised to "personally monitor" the progress of the fighting in Lebanon to be sure that the administration is seeking no wider war.

"The resolution is not a blank check," said O'Neill, shortly before the final vote, which had far more Democratic support than had been predicted by aides to House leaders.

Brutality in Texas prisons is 'rampant', according to report

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A court-appointed monitor has charged that the Texas Department of Corrections has made "no significant effort" to stem brutality in state prisons, despite a federal judge's order for sweeping changes to protect inmates, the Dallas Times Herald reported today.

In a recent report, Paul T. Belazis concluded that widespread brutality by guards continues two years after U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler issued a reform order in a landmark civil rights case filed by Texas prison inmates, the newspaper said.

Belazis said TDC has taken no apparent action to discipline guards who beat prisoners.

"TDC's efforts instead have reflected deliberate indifference to complying with the court's order and, in many cases, deliberate efforts to impede monitoring," Belazis' report said. "In the meantime, illegal use of force continues unabated at TDC institutions."

Belazis' 82-page confidential report was distributed Sept. 13 to Texas prison officials, the Texas Board of Corrections and lawyers for both sides in a civil rights case which prompted Justice's order for widespread prison reforms, the Times Herald reported.

Justice had specifically directed the TDC to adopt standards governing the use of force, to document and investigate complaints of prisoner abuse and to discipline guards who violated those standards.

TDC spokesman Rick Hartley said he was "very disappointed that this is public now because we have not even had a chance to respond to it."

"We're in the process of reviewing the report and will respond accordingly," Hartley said.

Hartley said it would not be proper for officials to comment publicly until they had "ample" time to review the report.

"I don't think it's fair for us to make comments on something that is to be confidential at this time. We are reviewing it and looking into the matters raised by the monitor," he said.

Belazis' report noted that all sides would be allowed to comment on the findings and conclusions, and their comments would be incorporated in the report before it is officially submitted to Justice.

Once the report is filed with the court, the prison system may ask Justice to conduct a hearing before he decides whether to accept or reject it.

Belazis, who was given the task of reporting on prison guard brutality, said most of his observations spanned the period between December 1982 and August 1983. During that time, Belazis said he received 670 complaints of abuse, but conducted thorough investigations of only 14 cases.

"The incidents formally investigated by the monitors must be regarded as only a fraction of those which routinely occur," he wrote. "It is inconceivable that they constitute isolated or aberrant incidents upon which the monitors stumbled by coincidence."

Citing specific examples of what he considered to be violations of Justice's order, Belazis said it was clear that "physical abuse of inmates has continued to occur with alarming force and frequency."

The monitor said the instances of abuse "go beyond overreactions to situations requiring the use of some physical force."

"In a great many instances, brutal, unprovoked beatings were inflicted upon inmates who were guilty of violating institutional rules but who posed no immediate threat to safety or security," the report said.

Belazis cited one alleged instance when two prisoners were beaten severely in a major's office after attempting to organize a work stoppage. Medical records later showed each inmate had numerous bruises and abrasions on the back and legs, the report said.

Another inmate who escaped was severely beaten by four guards who caught him, the monitor concluded. Although the four officers claimed the inmate threw wild pitches at them, the prisoner was bloodied and bruised while the officers remained unscathed.

Of particular concern, Belazis said, was the fact that virtually all the incidents of brutality involved the participation of officers with the rank of sergeant or above.

W.T. Chamber seeks industry

A new tour attendance record of 211 was set by West Coast business leaders as they listened to reasons why they should locate new industry in West Texas during the 1983 Economic Development Tour of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

West Coast industrial representatives indicated a great deal of interest in West Texas for expansion and location purposes during the Sept. 20-22 Economic Development Tour sponsored by the West Texas Chamber.

Company representatives met with West Texas community leaders during luncheons in Los Angeles, Santa Clara and San Francisco. The prospect received materials on individual West Texas communities.

Industries interested in West Texas ranged from knowledge and high technology to metal and aircraft manufacturers.

"The industrial prospects outnumbered the West Texans at each of the three luncheons, and their interest seemed to be quite high" concluded Gary L. Bowling, tour chairman and vice president for Industrial Development of Texas American Bank, Fort Worth.

This year's prospect count was almost double the 1979 WTCC Economic Tour to California.

West Texas communities represented on the tour were Abilene, Amarillo, Arlington, Big Spring, Borger, Burleson, Cleburne, Dalhart, Dumas, El Paso, Fort Worth, Haltom-Richland, Killeen, Lubbock, Midland, Odessa, Perryton, Plainview, San Angelo, Sunray, Tulia and Wichita Falls.

Return of money could double assets

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A return on your money of 28 percent a year is more than enough to double your assets in three years — if you're able to maintain the pace that long.

Wall Streeters will tell you, however, that it isn't that easy, an opinion easily documented by a quick look at the professional investor performance charts, which often show yesterday's leader is today's also-ran.

But a survey of one group shows that its members have been able to maintain the 28 percent rate for nine years, or long enough to turn a $1,000 investment into more than $8,000 — before the tax termites do their job.

That performance is claimed by amateurs — members of clubs that report to the National Association of Investment Clubs. And the 28 percent was just average. Some of the clubs earned considerably more.

"The real beauty of it," says Tom O'Hara, association chairman, "is that it's coming from individuals throughout the nation who have had very little formal training or experience in investing."

According to O'Hara's calculations, the average club in the survey — 240 clubs, or about 5 percent of NAIC membership, were examined — has been able to beat the market soundly in both the long term and short.

In the same nine-year period, for example, the Standard & Poor's 400-stock index rose just 17 percent. And over the period from May 1, 1982 through April 30, 1983, club performance topped the S&P 400 by 44 percent to 36 percent.

The clubs have had their share of disasters too, as you might expect. In violation of the basic principles that should have guided them, many clubs lost heart during the days of depressed prices in the 1970s.

Faced at their monthly meetings with continued losses, hundreds of clubs disbanded, unfortunately at the very time, according to NAIC precepts, they were being presented with investment opportunities.

The NAIC believes in regularity. One rule states that you should invest small amounts regularly over long periods of time in order to take yourself out of the position of having to guess the market.

Dividends are merely something to be reinvested — never to be spent. And the decision should be as automatic as the regular monthly investments, which averaged out in the latest survey to $34.36 a person and $447.17 a club.

Economics bad in El Salvador

OZATLAN, El Salvador (AP) — A short jet hop from Miami, babies die daily from simple, curable ailments. People live lives without work, without clean water, without electricity or latrines. Families who survive on rice, beans and corn are learning to do without the corn.

And the dismal life of Ozatlan, a mud-wall town in the green uplands of eastern El Salvador, is multiplied hundreds and thousands of times in similar "pueblos" across Central America.

"Things are worse now than when I was a boy," Ozatlan's 43-year-old mayor tells a visitor. "At least then people had work."

The leftist uprisings that unsettle Central America are viewed in Washington as an immediate military challenge. But U.S. officials also recognize a long-range challenge — lifting Central America out of its poverty, a misery that seems to deepen each year.

"Killing G's isn't going to win this war," said a senior U.S. military adviser in El Salvador, using the Americans' shorthand for "guerrillas."

"But economic development may do it."

President Reagan has pointed out that 77 cents of every U.S. aid dollar to El Salvador is economic assistance. But most of that assistance — which totals $290 million this year — is funneled into the Salvadoran central bank to keep this country from drowning in its debt, or is spent on repairing war damage. Only about $5 million goes toward health and education development projects.

El Salvador has had to fight a civil war while grappling with a disastrous depression — the gross national product has shrunk by one-third over the past five years, leaving tens of thousands unemployed.

Herd, Horns clash tonight

Hereford's unbeaten Whitefaces travel to Amarillo tonight to take on the upstart Caprock Longhorns in a District 3-5A contest that begins at 7:30 in Dick Bivins Stadium.

Caprock coach Ray Basinger, happy to finally play a team of similar size, said Friday, "Hereford makes things happen, and if they do that against us, they'll win. If we make things happen, we'll win."

The Herd is coming off a big 13-7 upset win over Lubbock Monterey, while the Longhorns showed great improvement in a 17-6 loss to Lubbock Coronado. Caprock had two turnovers that gave Coronado 10 points in the early part of the game.

The contest matches two of the league's top rushers. Caprock's Colin Dunavin leads the district with 448 yards rushing, while Hereford's Ronnie Terry is just 10 steps back. Terry has the best yards-per-carry mark in the district, averaging 6.5 yards every time he totes the ball.

Herd coach Jerry Taylor hopes his players realize they have a battle on their hands. "Caprock will give us everything we can handle." Although the Horns are 1-3 on the way, Taylor says they've been "just inches away from making the big plays on offense and defense."

Taylor said Caprock uses Dunavin from various formations, and it has been difficult to prepare his defensive charges for the game. This will be the only Thursday game for the Whitefaces this season.

In another 3-5A contest tonight, Monterey and Lubbock High clash and the Plainsmen are favored to hand the Westerners their 16th straight defeat. Friday night's action sees Amarillo going to Plainview in a clash where one team will lose its first district game. Coronado travels to Amarillo Friday night to play Tascosa.

Whiteface tennis teams host Ponies, Sandies

Coronado, the seventh-rated 5A tennis team in the state, is slated to join Amarillo as opponents Saturday for Hereford High School at the HHS courts.

Robert Cox, coach of the Whitefaces, seemed optimistic his forces had a decent shot against Amarillo. "This year is probably the year to beat them," he said, "if we're going to do it."

According to Cox, Amarillo mentor Barry Stephens has proved so controversial that several of the Sandies' star players have quit the squad. The local coach placed the number at "about 10." Included among the departees is half of the 1982 state doubles champion pair.

Saturday's play is supposed to get underway at 8:30 a.m. Cox encourages all interested tennis fans to attend.

Following are results from the Saturday and Tuesday contests, with HHS players listed first.

UIL director agrees that school reforms are needed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — After a long night of "soul searching," the director of the University Interscholastic League defused a potential showdown over scholastic sports and other extracurricular activities by proposing a long list of reforms.

Bailey Marshall, head of the body that regulates high school sports and other activities, told the Select Committee on Public Education Wednesday that changes are essential.

"If we can't control them," he said of the competitions, "we won't have them." Marshall's plan appealed committee chairman H. Ross Perot, who says extracurricular activities are "stealing" time from education.

Perot has called for de-emphasis of high school extracurricular activities. He also wants a ban on interscholastic sports below high school.

Perot said he was "surprised and pleased" that Marshall came prepared with a package of reforms, although it did not go as far as Perot wants to go.

"I certainly think it's movement in the proper direction," he said.

Marshall said he came up with the package the night before, when he slept only three hours and jumped out of bed to make notes during the night.

"I'm tired and I'm emotional because I did a lot of soul-searching last night," Marshall told the committee that is looking into all phases of public education in Texas.

Marshall's proposals included:

— Requiring high school athletes to be passing four courses, instead of the current three, to remain eligible.

— Limiting speech competitions to eight per year, with a limit of 10 school days missed.

— Limiting students to miss school only once a year for a music contest.

— Study cutting the number of baseball, basketball, volleyball and soccer games.

— Limiting coaches for UIL rules violations. A school would be able to escape a penalty by replacing the coach.

— A study of eliminating some sports — he did not say which ones — that are offered outside of school.

— Penalize "redshirting," a process in which parents have their children repeat seventh grade so they'll have another year of growth before they begin high school sports.

Marshall said such students should lose one year of high school sports eligibility.

— Ban interschool contests below the seventh grade. The UIL does not regulate activities below the high school level, but Marshall said many districts use UIL rules throughout their system.

Perot has called for a ban on interscholastic sports below the high school level. Marshall proposed a ban on junior high school games on school nights.

— Allow schools to provide only "basic equipment" for sports. Marshall called for the elimination of "towel dryers, hand warmers, names on jerseys... things we do not need to conduct the programs."

— A limit on the number of coaches at a school. "I don't think we need one for every position," he said.

— Move golf and tennis competition, which he said are the most time-consuming sports, to the summer months.

— Allow students to miss school only once a year for a music contest.

— Study cutting the number of baseball, basketball, volleyball and soccer games.

— Limiting speech competitions to eight per year, with a limit of 10 school days missed.

— Limiting students to miss school only once a year for a music contest.

— Study cutting the number of baseball, basketball, volleyball and soccer games.

— Limiting coaches for UIL rules violations. A school would be able to escape a penalty by replacing the coach.

— A study of eliminating some sports — he did not say subject to the penalty.

Committee members plan to pursue the proposal at an Oct. 16 meeting of the UIL rule-making body. Perot said he would be there and would bring "a bunch of college graduate football players who can't do anything but sell dope for a living."

With proper reforms, "the games will still be played, the drill teams still will march. They just won't dominate the schools," said Perot, adding that the bands might hit a few "sour notes," and the drill teams might have some "curves in the line," but both would still perform.

Q: I'm positive I have an automatic transmission fluid leak, but, other than the fluid level slowly but surely dropping, the thing has eluded me. How do I go about finding the culprit before I'm in for big trouble?
A: After the engine has cooled, examine the seams of the transmission pan and torque converter, as well as the transmission pan drain plug (if there is one), the speedometer cable housing, the flywheel housing and inner drive axle boots if yours is a front wheel drive or rear-engine, rear-wheel drive model. If you come up dry, you may be overlooking parts or areas that are dirt covered. In this case, the quick way is to spread out some newspaper under these areas. Allow the car to sit, and the paper to remain for awhile. Red drops (A.T.F.) on the paper should indicate where the leak is hiding.

Phillies clinch division title; Dodgers on brink

By BARRY WILNER AP Sports Writer

The Phillies are in and the Dodgers are on the brink. But a rare rain shower in Southern California kept Los Angeles from securing its division title.

Philadelphia won its fifth East crown in eight years, clinching it in style Wednesday with a 13-6 blitzing of the Chicago Cubs. Philadelphia has won 12 of its last 13 games to shatter the division race.

The Dodgers blew a 3-0 lead and a 4-3 edge in the 10th inning and then saw the rains force a halt to their game in San Diego with the score tied 4-4 in the top of the 14th inning. The teams will play a doubleheader today.

Leading by 4½ games, the Dodgers need only one victory in five remaining games or an Atlanta loss to claim the title.

After Atlanta split with Houston, winning 3-1 and falling 5-1, the Dodgers' magic number dropped to one. But the elements stopped the Dodgers from getting that one Wednesday night.

Elsewhere, it was New York 4, Pittsburgh 2; Montreal 4, St. Louis 0, and Cincinnati 5, San Francisco 4.

The Dodgers built a 3-0 lead through four innings. Then San Diego pecked away to tie it and loaded the bases with none out in the bottom of the ninth inning. But Dodgers starter Jerry Reuss got pinch-hitter Joe Lansford to pop out, and Bobby Brown and Alan Wiggins to ground into force plays to end the threat.

Derrel Thomas homered in the top of the 10th, but San Diego rallied in its half of the inning when rookie Kevin McReynolds walked, moved to second on Doug Gwosdz's sacrifice and came home on Garry Templeton's single up the middle.

"I've been around too long to start popping the cork on the champagne. Strange things happen in this game," said veteran Los Angeles shortstop Bill Russell. "We don't know how to do it any other way. We go out and do it the hard way."

Dodger Manager Tommy Lasorda said, "Let's just put it this way. We didn't win and we didn't lose. But we gained half a game."

Phillies 13, Cubs 6

Bo Diaz and Joe Morgan led Philadelphia's 19-hit attack. Diaz, playing on his first division winner, went 5-for-5, including two home runs, scored four times and had three RBI. Morgan, participating on a seventh division champion, had four hits and drove in three runs. Mike Schmidt contributed his major-league leading 40th homer and a triple.

Schmidt, who had been critical of Manager Paul Owens earlier this month, thought his verbal outburst helped straighten out the team.

"We went 19-3 after that," said Schmidt, "I think that's what turned us around. If we had gone 3-19, I could have hung up my spikes. They would have said I was the reason the team had failed and that I had caused the dissension."

Players react to Jets' moving

NEW YORK (AP) — Tight end Tom Coombs prefers the natural grass of Shea Stadium to the artificial turf of Giants Stadium. Linebacker Bob Crable thinks that playing at the Meadowlands will be just like playing a road game. And running back Scott Dierking simply "doesn't like New Jersey."

Those were some of the players' reactions to an announcement Wednesday by New York Mayor Ed Koch that the New York Jets are moving their National Football League franchise to New

Minnesota captures win over Rangers

By BEN WALKER AP Sports Writer

Last year, the Minnesota Twins lost 102 games in compiling the worst record in baseball.

This season, the Twins still are having their troubles. But things are looking a little brighter, if Wednesday's 3-0 victory over the Texas Rangers is any indication.

In other AL games, Chicago downed Oakland 5-3, Detroit bopped Baltimore 9-5, Boston nipped New York 3-2, Milwaukee rallied past Cleveland 6-4, Toronto beat California 5-3 and Kansas City clubbed Seattle 11-8.

With the victory, the Twins are now 68-90 and in fifth place in the American League West, one-half game ahead of the California Angels.

And, for Minnesota, there were other bright spots, both on the hitting and pitching sides, in evidence Wednesday.

Kent Hrbek doubled twice and gave the Twins 274 two-base hits this year, setting a team record for a season. Tom Brunansky belted his 28th home run, tying three others for the most home runs by a Minnesota hitter since Harmon Killebrew blasted 41 in 1970.

White Sox 5, A's 3

Greg Luzinski drilled his 31st home run — tying the AL record for homers by a designated hitter in a season — and Rich Dotson upped his record to 21-7.

Luzinski's two-run blast snapped a 2-2 tie in the fifth inning in Oakland. The home run tied a record set by Jim Rice in 1977 and matched by Rico Carty in 1978 and Andre Thornton in 1982.

Tigers 9, Orioles 5

Last week, Detroit got 10 consecutive hits in a game against Baltimore and routed the Orioles 14-1.

On Wednesday, the visiting Tigers rapped seven straight hits during an eight-run second inning to again bounce Baltimore.

Larry Herndon's two-run homer, his 20th, and Alan Trammell's two-run double highlighted the big inning.

Brewers 6, Indians 4

Robin Yount's two-run homer with one out in the bottom of the ninth inning tied the score and Ben Oglivie then belted a two-run homer with two outs to lift Milwaukee to victory.

The Brewers trailed 4-2 going into the ninth before Jamie Easterly, 4-3, yielded Yount's 16th homer and Oglivie's 13th.

Jim Slaton, 14-6, who relieved Don Sutton in the ninth, got the victory.

Red Sox 3, Yankees 2
Bob Ojeda won his sixth straight game in September with relief help from Bob Stanley, who got his 33rd save.

Ojeda, 12-7, gave up two runs in 6 1-3 innings. Gary Allenson drove in one run and scored another for Boston.

Shane Rawley, 14-13, took the loss for New York.

Royals 11, Mariners 8

Willie Aikens drove in five runs with two home runs and George Brett knocked in four runs, including a three-run homer.

Aikens belted a three-run homer in the first inning off Gene Nelson, 0-3. His two-run homer in the seventh went into the third deck in right field at Seattle's Kingdome, making him the first player to hit a ball there this season and the 11th all-time.

Aikens now has 22 homers this year. Brett, who also had a sacrifice fly, has 24 home runs.

Seattle's Pat Putnam had four hits, including his 19th homer — a career high, and two doubles.

Blue Jays 5, Angels 3

In California, Dave Collins drove in three runs to help Jim Clancy up his record to 15-10.

Clancy gave up three hits and two runs in the first inning and left in the ninth with the bases loaded and one out.

Roy Lee Jackson allowed Ron Jackson's RBI groundout before getting his seventh save.

Herd heavy favorite in grid rating system

You probably couldn't convince Hereford coach Jerry Taylor of the fact, but the Harris Rating System has established the Whitefaces as a 19-point favorite to defeat Amarillo Caprock in tonight's District 3-5A grid battle at Dick Bivins Stadium.

The Herd, ranked 63rd last week before knocking off Monterey 13-7, vaulted to 38th in Harris' Class 5A rankings this week. Hereford's power rating went up from 159 last week to 165 this week.

The 'Faces, in fact, are tops among loop teams in the Harris poll; their spotless 4-0 record obviously impressing the pollster.

Amarillo High is ranked 47th this week, while Plainview is 51st. Harris rates the collision between those two squads as a toss-up this week.

In other games involving District 3-5A teams, Coronado is a 2-point pick over Tascosa, and Monterey is a 22-point favorite over winless Lubbock High. Palo Duro is open this week.

Top teams according to Harris this week are Odessa Permian in 5A, Willowridge in 4A, Daingerfield in 3A, Hamlin in 2A, and Bremond in Class A.

The Harris game of the week is No. 2 Midland Lee against No. 6 San Angelo Central in Class 5A action. Both of those teams are members of District 4-5A, which also features the Mojo of Permian, who are a 27 point favorite against Abilene High, now coached by former HHS mentor Don Cumpston.

Schmidt takes credit for Phils' turn-around

CHICAGO (AP) — Mike Schmidt refused to call it symbolic, but he had to have a big hand in Philadelphia's clinching of the National League East title Wednesday, despite the fact Bo Diaz went 5-for-5 and Joe Morgan 4-for-4.

Schmidt contributed his major-league leading 40th homer and a triple to the Phillies' 19-hit attack in a 13-6 triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

But all of that was secondary as far as Schmidt was concerned. "Yes, I'll take some credit," said Schmidt, who had a bitter exchange with interim manager Paul Owens early in the month before the Phillies started their title drive. "We went 19-3 after that," said Schmidt. "I think that's what turned us around. If we had gone 3-19, I could have hung up my spikes. They would have said I was the reason the team had failed and that I had caused the dissension."

NBA 'warns' college players about drugs

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Basketball Association's crackdown on involvement with cocaine and heroin is a warning to present and future college players that "there will be no place for them in the NBA" if they use illegal drugs, says Bob Lanier of the Milwaukee Bucks and president of the players union.

Lanier and Commissioner Larry O'Brien signed an agreement at a news conference Wednesday in which it was announced that violators face expulsion from the NBA — the strongest stand taken yet by a sports league. "We felt the stigma of drug use has hurt the sport and we want to eliminate it," said

Larry Fleisher, general counsel of the National Basketball Players Association. O'Brien said, "The message we are sending out today is clear: Drugs and the NBA do not mix. If you want to get involved with drugs, you won't be involved with the NBA."

The agreement between the league and the players union stipulates that "any player who either is convicted of, or pleads guilty to, a crime involving the use or distribution of heroin or cocaine," or is found under a newly-instituted procedure to have illegally used these drugs he "shall immediately be permanently dismissed."

However, any banned player may appeal for reinstatement after two years. The approval of both the commissioner and the players union is needed for reinstatement.

The agreement will be into effect after the "amnesty period," which ends Dec. 31 this year.

The first time a player voluntarily seeks treatment for a drug problem, he will receive "no penalty of any kind." He will be paid and the club will pay for his treatment.

A player, who previously requested and received treatment for a drug problem and volunteers a second time for treatment, will be suspended without pay but receive no other penalty.

"Any subsequent illegal use of drugs, even if voluntarily disclosed, shall result in immediate permanent dismissal from the NBA," said the agreement.

An independent expert in drug abuse detection and enforcement will be appointed by the league. Based on information provided to the league or to the players union, the expert may authorize drug testing for an athlete suspected on using drugs. With NBA permission, the expert may administer tests for drug usage four times during a six-week period without the player having prior knowledge of the testing.

Lanier said, "There is no question that professional basketball players are role models for young people all over the country and particularly in inner cities. By telling the world that we as professional players will not tolerate the use of illegal drugs, we are setting a new standard, something that is absolutely essential in today's environment."

Bird lands big contract

BOSTON (AP) — Larry Bird did at the bargaining table what he does on the basketball court. Things really began rolling once he entered the game.

Boston Celtics General Manager Red Auerbach and attorney Bob Woolf, representing Bird, held six meetings and still had a way to go before they could agree on a contract for the superstar forward, said Woolf.

Then Bird and Auerbach met face-to-face Monday. "I didn't expect any agreement, and we came out of there with one," Woolf said.

Bird signed the reported seven-year, nearly $15 million contract Wednesday. The pact, one of the richest in sports, insures that he will not become a free agent after the 1983-84 National Basketball Association season, the last on his original five-year, $650,000-per-year deal.

"That opened it up," Woolf said of Monday's session. "It was incredible. You could almost feel the love and affection. Larry said, 'Red, I want to be a Celtic the rest of my life,' and that was it."

"Red loves and respects Larry Bird as much as I do. I felt Red Auerbach wanted to do the best he could do for Larry Bird because he felt he deserved it, and it was his reward."

The 6-foot-9 Bird, drafted out of Indiana State, was the NBA's rookie of the year in 1980 and an All-Star Game starter in each of his four seasons in the league. He has averaged 22.2 points and 10.8 rebounds per game in his career.

He said he will spend his entire career with the Celtics. Bird, who will be 27 on Dec. 7, said at a news conference moments after the signing that "there's no doubt" that the contract will be his last in the NBA.

"I feel that Larry Bird is the very best player in basketball, and that's the way he was compensated," Woolf said. He added that the contract contains no incentives and is completely guaranteed in cash.

Woolf had been quoted as saying Bird's contract is better than the six-year, $13.2 million deal of Philadelphia 76ers center Moses Malone. He refused to discuss that description Wednesday.

Bird said he didn't expect his new financial status to change him.

"I'm going to try to do even more now than I did last year or the year before to justify the investment they made," he said. "Just because I have a few more dollars in my pocket doesn't mean I'm better than someone else."

Now You're Cookin'

By LINDA CAUDLE
Family News Editor
It seemed only natural that Betty Martin and her husband, Danny, would purchase a ladies' clothing store in 1981.

After all, Betty's mother, Louise Ferguson, had worked in a local retail business for 30 years prior to that time and Betty had become quite familiar with that type of business as she was growing up.

Betty also worked at Cowan Jewelers and City Drug while she was still in high school, and after graduating, she worked at The Vogue for a year.

Ms. Ferguson was employed for Harman's before the Martins acquired the store in Sugarland Mall and changed the name to Louise's. She now works in the store alongside her daughter, and sometimes, her granddaughters.

Betty and her husband are the parents of four children, Kim, 23, who is finishing a degree in accounting at West Texas State University; Todd, 22, an architecture student at Texas Tech University; Tim, 18, who is studying computer engineering at Trinity University in San Antonio; and Kamille, 13, an eighth grader at La Plata Junior High.

Betty's daughters have been especially interested in the family business. "I took Kamille to work with me when she was small, so she's been around it all of her life. She and Kim went to market for me in August and bought the new junior lines and accessories," noted Betty. "Kamille had been to market with me once before and Kim has been a number of times."

Approximately 11 years ago, Betty and several other women got together and started the Funny Farm, now located in Sugarland Mall. It was in a building on Avenue E at first and the women made much of the merchandise which they sold, from needlework and crafts to woodwork.

"I used to do a lot of handwork, including macrame and tole painting," said Betty, "and Danny used to do various types of woodwork."

"I really liked the gift shop and had lots of fun with it, but I've enjoyed this store, too," she commented. Betty sold her part of the Funny Farm when the family opened Louise's.

"I had to learn different things when going from that type of store to this one," continued Betty. "The apparel market is completely different than the gift market for one thing, it is much more seasonal. It's been interesting, and since Mother has always worked with apparel, she is familiar with the operation."

Betty and Danny both grew up here and graduated from Hereford High School. Danny is engaged in farming near the Easter Community south of town. "We used to stay on the farm in the summers when the kids were small," commented Betty, adding that she enjoyed putting up food from the garden when she was out at the farm.

The Martins have resided here since their marriage except for a couple of years that they lived in Worland and Torrington, Wyo. Danny, who earned a degree in agronomy from Texas Tech University, was employed as a field man for Holly Sugar in Wyoming.

"We enjoyed living there—Danny did a lot of fishing—but it was hard for us to be that far away from home and family," stated Betty.

The two play bridge in a couple's bridge club and Betty enjoys playing tennis with several other women once a week.

She took tole painting one year and used to do quite a bit of sewing. "I like to make curtains, bedspreads, and other things for our home," said Betty. "I took an upholstery class this summer at Amarillo College and really enjoyed it."

Betty served on the United Way board last year. She and her family attend the First Baptist Church, where Kamille is involved with the youth group.

Kamille is a cheerleader and has played basketball and track at school.

"Our first priority is supporting our children in the things they are involved in," noted Betty. "We've participated in the Whiteface Booster Club and we enjoy going to the games. We recently went down to see Tim play football at college."

Since she works all day, Betty likes recipes that are simple to make. One of her favorites is the shrimp pea salad, which can be used as either a salad or main dish. The coconut pound cake is a favorite because it is so moist, and the vanilla wafer recipe is one Betty remembers her mother making when she was growing up.

SHRIMP PEA SALAD

2 small cans shrimp, drained
1 can peas, drained
1 onion, chopped
1 jar stuffed olives, sliced
1 bell pepper, chopped
3 c. 3-minute rice, cooked

Cut up shrimp in large bowl. Mix in peas, onion, olives, pepper and cooked rice. (Use amount of rice you desire). Salt, pepper and mix together. Chill in icebox two hours or more. Pour dressing over mixture before serving. Use as a salad or main dish.

Dressing
½ c. mayonnaise
3 Tbsp. lemon juice
½ c. French dressing
Mix together and pour over salad.

COCONUT POUND CAKE

Sift and set aside:
2 c. flour
½ tsp. salt
Cream together:
2 sticks oleo
2 c. sugar

Add 5 eggs, one at a time; 1 tablespoon almond extract; flour mixture, by spoonfuls; and one can toasted coconut (coconut may be toasted on a cookie sheet in oven for a few minutes). Heat oven to 325 degrees. Bake one hour in ungreased angel food cake pan. Cool in pan five minutes; then remove.

VANILLA WAFERS

2 c. sugar
3 eggs
2 tsp. baking powder
3 c. flour
1 c. shortening
1 tsp. vanilla
½ tsp. salt
½ c. milk

Cream shortening and add sugar gradually. Add well beaten eggs and vanilla. Sift flour once before measuring, then sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Stir into egg mixture; then add milk. Bake 10 minutes in moderate oven. makes three dozen.

The first mill to roll copper in the United States was erected by Paul Revere at Canton, Mass., in 1802. It rolled sheets to sheathe the hull of the U.S.S. Constitution.

New officers elected by Art Guild members

New officers were elected when members of the Hereford Art Guild met Tuesday afternoon at the Community Center. Opal Elliston, vice-president, presided in the absence of the president, Hilda Haven.

Carrie Mae Doak will serve as president this year; Leata Cook, first vice-president; Marguerite Newell, second vice-president; Nell Culpeper, secretary; Ms. Haven, treasurer; and Eunice Petersen, reporter.

Also, during the business session, roll was called with members giving a project they would like to have as a program this coming year.

It was decided to have a tea at the next meeting for new members of the club, with present members serving as hostesses. Members were asked to bring a project they have completed during the summer.

Dues were paid by those present.

Ms. Newell gave a demonstration on how to apply feathers on birds and hair on animals as the program.

Booths for fair available

The 1983 Oldham County Fair is scheduled Oct. 7-8 at the County Barn in Vega. Exhibits for judging will be open to county residents and accepted between 8 a.m. and noon Friday, Oct. 7.

Commercial booths are available free of charge to area businesses and individuals with products or crafts to show or sell. Anyone wishing to set up a booth may call Margaret Walker at 267-2631 or 267-2692 to reserve a spot. These will be set up in the sand area of the County Barn.

The largest library in the world is the Library of Congress, founded April 24, 1800 on Capitol Hill, Washington, D.C. By 1980, it contained 76,945,360 items, including 19,155,165 books and pamphlets.

McNaney family is recognized at WTSU

James and Julia McNaney of Hereford were among five sets of parents recognized as having at least five children attending or who have attended West Texas State University during the sixth annual Parents' Day at WTSU this past weekend.

Currently attending WTSU are Diane, senior nursing major; Curt, junior computer information systems major; and Duane, sophomore accounting major. Kathy McNaney and Mona McNaney Klein are also former WTSU students.

Recognition for the person traveling the farthest distance to Parents' Day was given to P.J. Smith of Landstuhl, Germany, who came 4,300 miles to be with his daughter, Lorena Kay.

More than 600 parents participated in the all-day activities. Besides Texas and Germany, others came from California, Colorado, Kansas, Illinois, Oklahoma, and New Mexico.

The WTSU Band registered 88 parents for the annual Band Parents' Day which is hosted on the same day.

'Dated' egg cartons could help consumers

COLLEGE STATION — An easy-to-understand "date" on egg cartons could be a big help to consumers looking for high quality, fresh eggs.

Present regulations do not require either a "pack" date or "pull" date on egg cartons, says Dr. David B. Mellor, poultry marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. But, many egg cartons are "dated."

A "pack" date on cartons is usually based on the Julian calendar. Under this system, days of the year are numbered consecutively, explains Mellor. For example, Jan. 1 is 001, Jan. 31 is 031, June 25 is 176 and so on. Packers and store personnel use this date for inventory control and proper shelf stocking.

In addition to a "pack" date, many companies use a "pull" or expiration date. This is usually a month followed by the date and preceded by "Exp" or "Sell By." This date is usually from 10 to 30 days following packing, depending on the grade of eggs and the store or company involved, notes the specialist.

Ann Landers Poor use of English

DEAR ANN LANDERS: How much education have you had? Your use of the English language is so poor I can't believe you made it through seventh grade.

At least four times a week you leave a preposition dangling at the end of a sentence. And why do you always call people UP? Who wants to be called UP? Up is not a name. Why not simply call them?

And why don't you correct the terrible grammar of those who write to you? Last week a woman said she reads YOU in the newspaper. She does not read YOU, she reads your column. The poor, illiterate thing went on to say she couldn't button her blouse in front of her husband "without HIM taking a leap at her." She is not concerned about HIM—she is concerned about HIS taking a leap at her.

Repeatedly you say, "She is marrying a man 20 years older than herself." The word you are looking for is SHE (in place of herself). I could go on and on, but I hope you get the idea. And please don't tell me that when some forms of English are read regularly they become acceptable (P.S.: Kids are goats.)—Aching Ears In N.J.

DEAR ACHING: I offer no defense of my poor English except to say I was taught to write like I talk. Some people like it.

As for those dangling prepositions, it was Winston Churchill who said, "A preposition is a terrible word to end a sentence with."

Thanks for the comment. I'll try to do better, although I don't feel like my writing is anything to be ashamed of.

Police hire psychic

KILGORE, Texas (AP) — Saying that "anything is worth a try," sheriff's investigators here have asked a psychic to divine leads in the deaths of five people abducted last week from a fast-food restaurant.

Authorities admitted Wednesday that they had no clues to the slayings, other than the bullets recovered from the bodies of three men and two women found Saturday on a dirt road 15 miles south of here.

"Right now anything is worth a try," investigator Doyle Williams told the Longview News and Journal. "It was the sheriff's idea to try her."

The psychic, identified only as a woman who lives 100 miles north of Henderson, had helped the department turn up leads in a previous case, Williams said.

"We never came up with anything definite, but it gave us something to work on," he said. "I've seen cases where they (psychics) have been lots of help. ... I've seen cases where they didn't turn up anything," he said.

Texas Ranger Stuart Dowell, also investigating the deaths, had opposed the use of a psychic.

"I have no intention of calling in a psychic to help me in this case," he said Tuesday.

Kentucky Fried Chicken officials in Louisville, Ky., announced Sunday they were offering a $25,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the

(Oops, I did it again!)

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is my first marriage, Greg's second. I am 28. Greg is 34. I have been reading your column long enough to know that second marriages have built-in problems. Also, I have seen this one line so often: "The principal cause for trouble in second marriages is children-his or hers, by a previous marriage." How true.

Greg's son Steve is nine years old. He recently moved in with us because his mother "can't handle him." The boy wants to sleep with his father and me every night. I am sorry to say I permitted this when the boy was with us for an occasional weekend. Now he doesn't understand why he can't do it all the time.

The boy cries and throws a fit whenever I tell him he must stay in his own bed. His father says very little, and the boy has been winning every battle. Please give me some help. I feel very much alone and am afraid this problem may wreck our marriage.—Three In A Bed In Rock Island

DEAR ROCK: Run, don't walk to a mental health professional and get help. There must be counseling sessions for the three of you — so Greg and his son will understand the importance of breaking this habit. The boy sounds like a handful and a half. The sooner you get the lines of authority established, the better. And this is an ideal place to begin.

killers. Local business leaders said they would match the amount.

Assistant Police Chief C.R. Headen said Wednesday the reward would not increase — and he urged people with information to come forward now instead of waiting for more money to be offered later.

Headen also said that authorities have run out of leads in the case.

"The status of the investigation is about the same," Headen said. "I'm sounding like a broken record, I realize."

Detectives lifted fingerprints Tuesday from a stolen van found in Cass County Monday and the prints were still being checked by the Department of Public Safety and the Tyler Police Department.

Rusk County officials also were questioning people about a light-colored van seen several times Friday night near the field where the bodies were found, Williams said. So far, it had not been linked directly to the slayings.

Continental seeks to void contracts

HOUSTON (AP) — Continental Airlines, flying again under protection of federal bankruptcy laws, has asked a judge to void four union contracts which attorneys claim could kill the carrier.

The airline said in papers filed Tuesday the pacts are "not merely burdensome, they are fatal."

Continental resumed business at 12:01 a.m. Tuesday, 54 hours after it grounded its planes and asked a federal bankruptcy court in Houston to protect it from creditors while the airline reorganized.

Passengers were scarce on the new airline's early flights Tuesday, but business picked up through the day, spokesman Bruce Hicks said. Continental is offering $49 one-way fares to any of the 25 U.S. cities it now serves.

The offer is good until Friday, when ticket prices will jump to $75. That fare will hold until Oct. 15. Company officials have announced no plans for prices beyond that date.

Continental's first flight from Houston left a fog-shrouded Intercontinental Airport at 7:31 a.m. CDT for Lafayette and Baton Rouge, La. The DC-9, with a 90-person capacity, had six people aboard. A similar flight to Denver left 20 minutes later with 18 passengers.

But Hicks said more than 60 percent of the seats were filled on some later flights.

Union attorneys responded angrily to Continental's effort to shed its contracts.

John B. Clarke Jr., a lawyer for International Association of Machinists, said that union will join with the Union of Flight Attendants to file papers saying "the Continental bankruptcy petition is simply to abrogate union contracts."

He said he expects to file for dismissal of Continental's reorganization petition by Friday.

Jay D. Roth, a lawyer for the flight attendants union, called Continental's motion to reject the union contracts "a bunch of bunk."

Continental lawyer Lenard M. Parkins said Continental's request for court action on the contracts is "simply a cog in the wheel to keep things going."

U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Phil Peden set no date to hear the motion on dropping the union contracts.

Continental argues in its request that contracts with unions representing pilots, flight attendants, transport workers and mechanics are "relics of the pre-deregulated airline industry, which provide for employee compensation and benefits far above market rates."

"Unless the court approves the rejection of the (union) agreements, Continental cannot continue to fly and will be unable to reorganize," the motion said.

The airline asked only 35 percent of its former 12,000 employees to return to their jobs. Those invited back were faced with pay cuts of about 50 percent.

On Saturday, Continental President Frank Lorenzo announced the airline had filed for reorganization and temporarily suspended domestic flights after posting losses of $471.9 million since January 1979. Bankruptcy court papers blamed the reorganization on low-cost competition, reservations systems controlled by two other carriers and labor costs.

Hawaii was formed by the activity of undersea volcanoes.

Rebels attack, burn Nicaraguan border post

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — Costa Rican-based rebels attacked, burned and abandoned Nicaragua's main southern border post and dynamited power lines leading to the north, heating up the two-front war against the leftist Sandinista government.

Elsewhere in Central America Wednesday, Guatemalan leader Gen. Oscar Humberto Mejia Victores marched into the Council of State and told the 60-member body he was dissolving it because of lack of funds. A leading moderate charged right-wing violence has increased since the general seized power earlier this month.

In El Salvador, the Defense Ministry accused guerrillas of "vandalistic occupation" of Tenancingo, saying leftist rebels killed 13 civilians in a rocket and mortar attack when they seized the town for two days earlier this week.

Costa Rican authorities said Nicaraguan rebels launched a heavy attack on Penas Blancas, a Nicaraguan post 90 miles south of Managua, the capital, and just inside the Costa Rican border.

Public Service Minister Angel Solano said civil guards on the Costa Rican side were ordered out of the area to avoid the fighting. He said at least four people were wounded but did not specify who they were.

A Nicaraguan military officer in Sapoa, three miles north, said several wounded soldiers were brought to Sapoa. He said the customs office in Penas Blancas had been partially destroyed in a mortar attack, other buildings were destroyed and phone communications with the rest of the country were cut.

The Revolutionary Democratic Alliance, in a press release from San Jose, said its forces left the border post "burning and abandoned."

It said they also dynamited power lines leading to the cities of Rivas, 20 miles north, and Nanaime, also to the north on the Pan American highway.

Mejia Victores, Guatemala's chief of state, dissolved the Council of State, an advisory board composed of businessmen, politicians and Indian leaders created by his predecessor, Gen. Efraim Rios Montt.

Vinicio Cerezo, head of the Christian Democratic Party, called for Mejia Victores to halt an "alarming increase in the number of kidnappings and murders" since the general overthrew Rios Montt Sept. 8. He said the violence was "not necessarily part of any official policy ..." but "since the fall of Rios Montt, certain groups think they have been given the green light to act with impunity."

Texas doctor sentenced to 15 years for fetus death

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A physician convicted of murdering a near-term fetus after an abortion has been sentenced to 15 years in prison at the conclusion of an emotional trial that included the reprimanding of the doctor's attorney.

Dr. Raymond Showery, 55, cringed as the sentence was read Wednesday night by a 12-member jury that included a pregnant woman. A day earlier, the jury had convicted him of killing a fetus that never was recovered.

The murder conviction without a corpse is a "first" in Texas and may be the nation's first against a physician who had performed an abortion, State District Judge John McKellips said.

But attorney Doris Sipes, who defended the pale Showery, called the conviction the result of "a border witchhunt." El Paso is a city of 480,000 that borders Juarez, Mexico.

Five former Family Hospital of El Paso employees had testified that Showery pulled the fetus from an unidentified woman during a hysterotomy abortion — similar to a Caesarean-section — then drowned the 3- to 6-pound fetus in a bucket of water.

The fetus — believed to be 5-to 7-months old — was dropped into a plastic bag that was thrown away by son Roger Showery and never found, prosecutors said. Records never were recovered of an abortion that Showery claimed never occurred.

The seven-man, five-woman jury took 1½-hours to convict Showery, and one hour to sentence him.

Showery told jurors

Wednesday that "if I'm lying (about my innocence), may I die right now." He then burst into tears. Under Texas law, juries sentence the defendant.

Showery, on appeal bond after being convicted in 1981 of keeping a patient's insurance refund from two 1978 abortions, faced a sentence of up to life in prison.

Ms. Sipes said the conviction would be appealed within 10 days. Showery is being held in El Paso County Jail on $200,000 bond.

At the trial's conclusion, McKellips also blasted Ms. Sipes for "highly unethical and unprofessional conduct." He threatened to jail her for contempt of court and for "embarrassing" the court during the nine-day trial.

Ms. Sipes twice in the trial asked McKellips to remove himself from the case, alleging he was "biased" against the doctor and was "too political" because he was running for reelection to the court next year.

Ms. Sipes defended her conduct, saying in the pursuit of justice and the overturning of her client's conviction, "I would consider it an honor to go to jail."

Jurors were reminded by Ms. Pennock that Showery, in addition to his 1981 conviction for misapplication of about $2,000 in insurance receipts, has been charged with attempted aggravated assault with a motor vehicle.

Showery, who was being investigated by the El Paso Times, was charged with attempting to run a car driven by reporter Edna Gundersen off a city road on March 3, 1981. Charges are pending.

Also pending is a case in which Showery was charged with operating a child placement center without a license, Ms. Pennock said.

Showery deserved to be punished because he murdered "an innocent, defenseless newborn who dared to come into the world healthy and alive," Ms. Pennock said in her closing arguments.

Showery's "only remorse ... is his financial loss. Send him to prison so he cannot perform another murder," she told jurors.

Two of Showery's seven children were so upset with Tuesday's conviction that they howled in pain and punched the walls outside the court.

McKellips warned Roger, 24, and Regan, 19, that any outburst Wednesday in court would result in a contempt charge. Four of the children present in court were moved to the second row before their father's sentence was read.

Regan, disheveled and unshaven, said the sentence was "very depressing. Any day the man spends in jail is a day too many."

In a tender closing scene, Showery hugged and kissed each of the children before being led away in handcuffs.

He also continued to proclaim his innocence to the murder of a fetus who hospital witnesses said was in the third trimester and likely was old enough to survive on its own.

According to Williams Obstetrics, a standard obstetrical textbook, a 6-month-old fetus weighs about 1 pound, 6 ounces, and will attempt to breathe, but practically always dies shortly after birth. In some cases, 22-week-old — or 5½-month-old — fetuses have survived.

The fetus, born to a woman identified only as L. Aguirre but whom witnesses were unable to further identify, could have been as old as 28 weeks, weighed 3- to 6-pounds and was about 12 inches long in a curled position, witnesses testified.

Maria Fernandez, then a 17-year-old aide at the hospital, testified that on July 28, 1979, she watched the abortion that resulted in Showery's murder conviction.

Ms. Fernandez was the only witness to note the fetus' sex, which she estimated at 5 pounds, "very alive" and "fat and white."

In the year 193 A.D., the leadership of Rome and the world was offered at auction. After spirited bidding, the wealthiest of all the Roman senators, Didius Julianus, won the throne with a bid of 300 million sesterces.

The Newspaper BIBLE

CAUGHT IN THE MIDDLE!

Gazing intently at the Council, Paul began: "Brothers, I have always lived before God in all good conscience!" Instantly Ananias the High Priest commanded those close to Paul to slap him on the mouth.

Paul said to him, "God shall slap you, you whitewashed pigpen. What kind of judge are you to break the law yourself by ordering me struck like that?"

Those standing near Paul said to him, "Is that the way to talk to God's High Priest?" "I didn't realize he was the High Priest, brothers," Paul replied, "for the Scriptures say, 'Never speak evil of any of your rulers.'"

Then Paul thought of something! Part of the Council were Sadducees, and part were Pharisees! So he shouted, "Brothers, I am a Pharisee, as were all my ancestors! And I am being tried here today because I believe in the resurrection of the dead!"

This divided the Council right down the middle—the Pharisees, against the Sadducees—for the Sadducees say there is no resurrection or angels or even an eternal spirit within us, but the Pharisees believe in all of these. So a great clamor arose. Some of the Jewish leaders jumped up to argue that Paul was right. "We see nothing wrong with him," they shouted. "Perhaps a spirit or angel spoke to him (there on the Damascus road)." The shouting grew louder and louder, and the men were tugging at Paul from both sides, pulling him this way and that. Finally the commander, fearing they would tear him apart, ordered his soldiers to take him away from them by force and bring him back to the armory.

Bread cleans grinder

DEAR POLLY — Whenever I use my hand-cranked meat grinder, I have a terrible time cleaning it, especially the grinding mechanism. I use brushes, toothpicks and such, but it's such a chore. Do you know how to clean a grinder? — MRS. T.K.

DEAR MRS. T.K. — The easiest way to get the bits of meat and fat out of the grinder is to run a couple of slices of bread through it. Just grind them through after the last of the meat. This does a pretty good job of wiping the grinding mechanism free of grease and it will be quite easy to wash in soapy water to finish the job. Simple, but it helps. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Thought you'd like my formula for child's play modeling clay.

To make the clay, mix one cup cornstarch, two cups baking soda and one and one-quarter cups cold water in a saucepan. Heat slowly, stirring constantly, until the mixture is the consistency of moist mashed potatoes. Turn out onto a plate and cover with a moist cloth. When cool enough to handle, knead like dough to smooth it out. The mixture can then be modeled or shaped as desired. — A.D.

DEAR POLLY — If you use those great pencil-type eye shadows, blushers, lipsticks, etc., sometimes they are hard to sharpen. Before you sharpen them, put them in the freezer a few hours, or keep them in the fridge overnight. They'll then sharpen easily. Do let the family know that they are not snacks, just pretties!

To clean the bottom of your stainless steel electric frypan, cover it with an ammonia-soaked rag. Slip the skillet and rag into a plastic bag, tie it and let it sit overnight. Like magic, the accumulated grease will come off with very little effort. — O.S.

POLLY'S NOTE — Be sure not to get the wet rag in or on the electric connection if the skillet is not immersible. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Here's a foolproof way to get your bread dough to raise. Put the bowl of dough in a plastic foam ice chest. Then fill two zipper-style plastic bags with hot tap water and place them on either side of the bowl. Shut the ice chest lid. Perfect rising every time! — DOROTHY

DEAR POLLY — If you don't have any vases on hand, an empty wine bottle does just as good a job. It only holds a few long-stemmed flowers, but makes a nice vase. — DAWN

Funeral home takes potential customers on tour

MANKATO, Minn. (AP) — A funeral home employee spurning industry tradition may have come up with a sales plan whose time has come — even if the occasion hasn't. He offers freebie limousine trips as part of a "pre-need" funeral sales tour.

Dick Porter, a sales representative for the Vetter Funeral Home at Woodland Hills Cemetery, picks up potential customers for a day trip to the mortuary.

During one recent tour, a shiny black limousine cruised up to the door of the Walnut Towers senior citizens high rise to meet nine elderly women who oohed and aahed and tittered some.

In a flash, Porter bounded through the foyer. There was a let's-get-this-show-on-the-road urgency in his step and good cheer in his voice.

"Well, we got a real lovely bunch this morning," Porter said as he greeted the residents.

With that, the entourage was whisked into the limousine for an outing that netted them a crisp $2-bill, a fresh white carnation and a quick delve into mortuary science.

First stop on the Vetter tour was Sue's Floral for flowers for the women. Then on to the funeral home and cemetery, where the ladies spared no questions.

"Are we going to see where they do the cremating?" one woman asked.

"Absolutely," Vetter representative John Allen said.

The tour included stops in the funeral home's new chapel, mausoleum and "cremation niches" where, the women were told, ashes are placed and left "forever."

There were no overt sales pitches, only informational banter between the women and Vetter staff.

If the women felt any sense of the macabre, they weren't letting on. The mood was anything but grave, and there was laughter among the crypts.

"Listen to them," funeral home manager Howard Fletcher said. "Doesn't sound like there's much fear there, does it?"

The tour reflects aggressive marketing trends in the funeral industry. Fletcher says it is called pre-need sales and it differs from the traditional "we'll be here when you need us" approach.

"I consider it an unprofessional act. Totally unacceptable," Landkammer's Funeral Home manager Edward Fraser said of the tour, which ends with a lunch stop at a restaurant.

Vetter officials are surprised so much interest has been shown in the tours, Fletcher said. About seven groups have been chauffeured to Vetter's since it began offering the tours during the summer.

There's a backlog of tour requests, Fletcher said.

Ina Purdy, a Walnut Towers resident, used words like "wonderful" and "interesting" to describe the glimpse at her own mortality.

Even so, the tour wasn't exactly a day at the beach.

"It was really kind of weird at the end," she said. "They took us downstairs and showed us the caskets and the embalming room and the place where they cremate people."

"I didn't want to go at first, then someone in our group said, 'Let's go for it.'"

NBC's "The A-Team" Trashes opposition, but ABC No. 1 network

LOS ANGELES (AP) — NBC's "The A-Team," back for another season of trashing the bad guys, zapped the opposition for first place in the Nielsen ratings for the week ended Sept. 25, but it appears more teamwork will be needed to dislodge ABC as the No. 1 network.

Not even Mr. T, Hannibal or their hearty band of mercenaries could lift NBC from second place. CBS finished third.

ABC chalked up its third straight victory in the A.C. Nielsen Co. ratings using its strategy of early premieres of its new and returning series. The official start date for the season was Sept. 19. Last week the network was aided by the spectacular debut of "Hardcastle & McCormick" and the week before by the return of Monday Night NFL Football.

ABC's momentum may be hard to stop, although CBS, the top-rated network for the past several years, traditionally has been a slow starter. But ABC has won the past two Fridays and Sundays, normally the strongest nights for CBS.

NBC's lighthearted adventure "The A-Team" headed the Top 10 in its season debut. In second place was the premiere of ABC's glamorous new series "Hotel," where a large number of guest stars will be checking in.

These returning shows also made the Top 10: ABC's "Fall Guy," fifth; NBC's "Remington Steele," sixth; and NBC's "Facts of Life," ninth. ABC's "Hardcastle & McCormick," first last week, was fourth.

The Emmy Awards show, telecast Sunday on NBC, was 13th. Only one other Emmy telecast, the year of the actors' strike in 1980, has had a lower rating in the past five years.

ABC had a network average of 17.5. NBC was in second place with 15.4 and CBS was third with 14.3. The networks say this means that in an average prime-time minute, 17.5 percent of the nation's television homes were tuned to ABC.

The week's 20 top programs:

1. "The A-Team," NBC, a rating of 25.3 or 21.2 million households.
2. "Hotel," ABC, 23.7 or 19.8 million.
3. "The Love Boat," ABC, 21.5 or 18.0 million.
4. "Hardcastle & McCormick," ABC, 20.7 or 17.3 million.
5. "The Fall Guy," ABC, 20.3 or 17.0 million.
6. "Remington Steele," NBC, 20.0 or 16.7 million.
7. Movie—"Thunderball," ABC, 19.9 or 16.6 million.
8. "M-A-S-H," CBS, 19.3 or 16.1 million.
9. "Facts of Life," NBC, 19.0 or 15.9 million.
10. "Magnum, P.I.," CBS, 18.8 or 15.7 million.
11. "60 Minutes," CBS, 18.2 or 15.2 million.
12. Movie—"Saturday Night Fever," ABC, 18.1 or 15.1 million.
13. "Emmy Awards," NBC, 18.0 or 15.08 million.

14. "Simon & Simon," CBS, 17.9 or 15.0 million.

15. "20-20," ABC, 17.5 or 14.6 million.

16. "Fantasy Island," ABC, 17.2 or 14.4 million.

17. "George Burns Celebrates 80 Years in Show Business," NBC, 16.4 or 13.7 million.

18. "Lottery," ABC, 16.2 or 13.5 million.

19. Movie—"Blazing Saddles," CBS, 16.1 or 13.49 million.

20. "We Got It Made," NBC, 16.0 or 13.40 million.

Texas governor disagrees with Louisiana governor

AUSTIN (AP) — Louisiana Gov. David Treen may have wished he had stayed for the last day of the Southern Governors' Association convention.

Treen, a Republican, left the three-day meeting Monday to resume his re-election campaign in Louisiana, where he is behind in the polls. Before he left, he filed two policy resolutions to be acted on by the governors.

They were the only two resolutions out of 19 to spark any disagreement Wednesday, and in both cases, opposition was led by Gov. Mark White of Texas, a Democrat.

Gov. Bob Graham of Florida remarked that he wished Treen had been there to defend his resolutions in person. He wasn't, and the governors tabled one and amended the other before adjourning.

Fourteen governors from 12 states and two territories appeared at the conference. But governors from only six states stayed to act on resolutions, which included a demand for federal aid for drought-stricken farmers.

One of Treen's proposals said electric utilities were suffering economically because of inflation, recession, red tape required in building new plants, "public concerns about environmental quality" and a "decreased demand for electric power" in some areas.

It called on federal and state governments to "investigate methods of streamlining their regulatory processes in order to reduce the length of time required" to build new generating plants. It also asked the government to help utilities improve output and solve "complex problems" in building new plants.

White, who has long complained that utilities in Texas need more close regulation, objected. "The problem in Texas has been not too much regulation — it's too little," he said.

The other five governors at the table at the time, who happened to be fellow Democrats, agreed, and the resolution was tabled.

Treen had also proposed a policy statement on acid rain, which asked Congress not to impose stringent emissions regulations in the South, which depends heavily on coal to generate electricity. Again, White objected.

"It would open the door for a national policy which could be detrimental to the South," the Texas governor said. He said the resolution "was a ploy on the part of the Northeast to generate some sort of national response to a local problem."

He proposed an amendment to Treen's resolution, which was approved, saying "nationwide taxes or costs should not be imposed where the benefits would only accrue to a limited region."

White said Northeastern states were trying "to let us pay for acid rain. It's a problem in the Northeast. In some part of Texas they'd take acid rain over no rain at all."

There was no controversy over a resolution seeking federal aid for farmers suffering because of dry weather.

"We have a real disaster in this country," said North Carolina Gov. James Hunt, one of four governors who proposed the resolution. The others were Bill Clinton of Arkansas, Charles Robb of Virginia and White.

"The losses to our farmers in North Carolina are estimated at $430 million, and the typical income is $900 million, so we've already lost half," Hunt said. "We have a real emergency."

The resolution asked President Reagan for disaster declarations in those states hardest hit and loans and direct grants to farmers.

Johnson presents program on EPCOT

Billie Johnson presented a program on "EPCOT, Experimental Prototype Community of Tomorrow" when members of Pioneer Study Club met for lunch at the Thompson House Tuesday.

The EPCOT Center, located adjacent to Walt Disneyworld in Orlando, Fla., was 10 years and $1 billion in the making. EPCOT encompasses two distinct dimensions: Future World and World Showcase, each unique in theme and style.

In Future World, energy, communication, transportation, invention and agriculture are featured. This year the living sea and horizons will be added.

In World Showcase, the cuisine, crafts and culture of Canada, Mexico, Japan, China, France, the United Kingdom, Italy, and America are highlighted. By 1984, three new pavilions will be open: Israel, Africa and Spain.

Hostess for the luncheon were Lillian Lookingbill and Elizabeth Wilson. The invocation was given by Mary Panciera, Goochie Ball led the Pledge of Allegiance, and Fern Ford led the salute to Texas flag.

Wilhelmina Wimberley gave a memorial service honoring Glenn Walsler, Lora Pickens, and Roberta Campbell, deceased members. Ms. Wimberley also reported on the memorial shelf in the library, in which the club donates books in memory of members who have passed away.

During the business meeting, conducted by President Eunice Petersen, Ms. Lookingbill gave the federation report, reminding members of the Top of Texas District board meeting scheduled Oct. 15 at Sunray.

Gladys Miller reported on the scholarship girl at Girlstown and Bessie Hill gave a report on bulb sales.

One guest, Marge Dull of La Mesa, Calif., was welcomed. Other members present were Leatrus Clark, Mabel Heart, Etelle Manning, Mary Panciera, Fannie Rudd, Mary Sanders and Fern Sigle.

The next meeting will be held at 11:30 a.m. Oct. 11 at K-Bob's Steak House.

How to clean ties

DEAR POLLY — How should men's neckties be cleaned? — NEW BRIDE
DEAR NEW BRIDE — Silk ties — and any expensive tie no matter what the fabric — should certainly be taken to a professional dry cleaner. However, I have successfully washed polyester ties in the washer using cold water, then tumble dried them. They usually need touch-up ironing to finish off. Other washable fabrics could also be gently washed in mild detergent. It's safest to test the back of the tie with a little water and detergent to make sure the fabric and color won't be affected. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — To prevent eggs from cracking when boiling them, tap a small hole at one end of the egg with a pin or needle, using the back of a spoon as a hammer. — DIANE

DEAR POLLY — When I leave my cat by himself over the weekend, I fill his water dish with ice cubes. This leaves him with plenty of extra-cool water, which he especially enjoys during the hot summer months.

For an inexpensive cat toy, place a rock or marble in an empty film canister. The canister rolls quite well and the cats like the sound. Be sure there are no sharp edges on the can.

Keep a loaded squirt gun in a handy location if you have a cat that needs discipline. The water is harmless but will warn a cat when he's getting into trouble (eating a plant or about to knock something over, for example). — MARY JANE

DEAR POLLY — For a pet identification label, take a felt tip marker and write the animal's name and the owner's phone number on the pet's flea collar.

A good storage spot for boxes of laundry detergent is in a clothes closet. The box of detergent just sitting on the shelf or on the floor in the closet (out of reach of children, of course) makes the clothes smell fresh. — LEE

DEAR POLLY — We were given a gallon can of mushroom stems and pieces. My family loves mushrooms, but we'll never eat them that fast. How can I keep the rest from spoiling after I open the can? Hope you have some suggestions. — SANDRA

DEAR SANDRA — The easiest and safest method would be to freeze them in smaller portions. Just pack mushrooms with their liquid or fresh water in freezer containers, seal and freeze. After thawing, use in cooked dishes as you would canned mushrooms. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — My hint is for lunch-packers, picnickers, etc., and will assure that homemade frosted cake can be enjoyed without the frosting sticking to the wrapping paper or plastic. Bake the cake in a sheet or large loaf pan and frost as usual. When cutting and wrapping individual servings, slice the piece of cake in half horizontally, invert the frosted half upside down onto the bottom half and then wrap for the lunch box. You'll have a piece of cake frosted as generously as your family prefers and none will be lost on the wrapper. Do this to each piece as needed for portable desserts and the cake remaining in the pan will still be frosted right side up and be presentable enough to be served at the table. This is also a good alternative to the commercial cream-filled cakes that are favorite lunch-box treats of youngsters. — A WARMINSTER READER

The first machines for making paper bags were invented in the United States during the early 1860's.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

B-12 treats anemia

DEAR DR. LAMB — When I was growing up one of the reasons we were told to eat liver was that it would prevent anemia. It was supposed to provide vitamin B-12 and iron. I have always followed the practice of eating liver once a week because of its beneficial effects. Now I am told I have pernicious anemia and I need B-12 shots. My first question is why would I develop anemia since I have eaten liver regularly? My second question is why can't I just eat more liver and avoid the shots?

DEAR READER — Much of what you have been told is true. In fact, Dr. George Whipple discovered that you could feed raw beef liver to dogs with pernicious anemia and save them. Still later it was discovered that large amounts of liver also helped humans with this problem. Pernicious anemia was a fatal disease until these discoveries were made about 1926.

It is still true that many patients will improve if they are given massive amounts of liver by mouth but the rest of the puzzle was found in the stomach. Your stomach forms a substance called intrinsic factor that facilitates the absorption of B-12. Without it you develop pernicious anemia.

Taking B-12 by mouth, if you don't have enough intrinsic factor, does not guarantee it will be absorbed. But when it is injected that is no problem and your body gets the amount it needs.

A B-12 deficiency causes much more than anemia. You need to read The Health Letter 4-5. Vitamin B-12, Folic Acid, Pernicious Anemia, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 47-year-old female. For the last five years I have had a breaking out on my nose. The doctor said my blood was dirty and gave me tetracycline, 250 milligrams. It clears it up in a couple of days. Then, if I quit taking it, I break out again in about a week. I hate to be dependent on any medicine, although I only take one every other day.

What causes this problem? I hardly drink alcohol. I don't smoke, but I eat anything, which makes me think it has to do with what I eat. I certainly would like to correct this problem without taking a prescription drug for the rest of my life.

DEAR READER — You probably have acne rosacea. It is fairly common and causes the red nose with some acne-like activity. It is not the same thing as acne but it has some features in common.

It can progress to a large bulbous, reddened deformed nose, often attributed to alcohol. But it does occur in people who do not drink alcohol at all.

Tetracycline is often very helpful in controlling the problem. And much larger doses are often used every day until the condition has been controlled for a long period of time. Some require a maintenance dose similar to the amount you take.

The tetracycline probably controls bacteria in the pores of your skin. It is not addicting and you should not worry about using it regularly if that is what it takes to control the problem.

Avoid coffee, alcohol, spices and heat exposure.
