

Wintry weather killing fruit crops

By The Associated Press

Wintry weather that gripped Texas over the weekend set record temperatures and killed peach crops over a wide area of the state, costing growers hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Many producers of other agricultural products were hoping they would not wake up this morning to find their crops destroyed by the late cold snap.

"It (a hard freeze) would do a lot of damage," Uvalde County agricultural extension agent Darrell Smith said Monday. "We're really worried about it."

Smith said crops in the South Texas county apparently survived near freezing temperatures so far.

but some — particularly wheat, oats, corn and onions — could be severely damaged if temperature forecasts proved accurate.

"It's almost a total loss," said Parker County peach grower Hugh Murphy, estimating his loss at $30,000 to $40,000.

The National Weather Service said record low temperatures were set today at Brownsville, with 39 degrees; Corpus Christi, 30; Houston, 33; Port Arthur, 29; Austin, 30; and Dallas-Fort Worth, 30. Easterwood Field's 29 degrees in the Bryan-College Station area dropped to 29 degrees, equaling the record set in 1937.

Some growers took last-minute precautions Monday night in an attempt to keep the cold from wiping them out completely. Safety measures included burning stacks of tires in orchards and running water near the base of trees to provide warmth and protection.

The Rio Grande Valley's cotton and melon crops could be devastated if temperatures drop into the 20s and 30s Monday night, said Don Ocker, a forecaster with the National Weather Service in Brownsville.

Forecasters were predicting lows in the mid-20s in Starr County and western sections of Hidalgo County, and in the mid-30s in the eastern half of the Valley.

A hard freeze could severely damage the watermelon and cantaloupe crops in Starr County, and the cold weather could also heavily damage any fledgling cotton plants, Ocker said.

The Valley's citrus crop should not be damaged if the weather reaches anticipated record cold because most of the oranges and grapefruit have already been harvested, he said.

Citrus trees, however, could be damaged by the high winds and low humidity that prevailed in South Texas on Monday, Ocker said.

The Valley's cabbage and onion crops are not expected to be hurt, he said, and new grain plants also should survive.

"It will be a record cold for all of South Texas," he said. "We have no freezing temperatures in the last week in March on our records."

The weather service has been keeping such records in Brownsville for the past 20 to 30 years.

Jerry Parsons, Bexar County

Agriculture Extension Service vegetable specialist, said such a freeze could damage most fruit crops as well as tomatoes, peppers, beans and corn.

"They may have to replant," he said of farmers whose tender, young plants become victims of the rare, springtime freeze in the county for which San Antonio is the seat.

Strawberries in the Poteet area south of San Antonio are particularly susceptible to a hard freeze, Atascosa County agriculture agent Doug Andrews said.

Andrews said farmers had been looking forward to one of the largest crops of strawberries in several years.

"But if it'll get down to 28 (degrees) or so and hold for a few hours it'll nip the blooms and freeze the berries," he said.

Monday morning's record freeze of 23 degrees damaged hundreds of thousands of acres of early wheat in North Texas and Southern Oklahoma, according to Al Alex-

Miss Hereford 1987 Delight Thames, center, poses with second runner-up Deanna Hobbs, left, and first runner-up and winner of the talent competition, Roni Kay Love. These Hereford beauties were three

Reagan says arms deal settled

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, pressing a campaign to get the spotlight off the Iran-Contra affair, says he is concentrating on what his administration will accomplish in the future and not dwelling on the crisis.

The president, addressing hundreds of cheering administration appointees on Monday, said that for four months the White House has "endured a relentless barrage" and "ceaseless attack" that weakened his support in Congress.

"But now we've heard from the Tower board and we have a clear account of what took place instead of a barrage of speculation, assumptions and rumors," Reagan added.

"We can get on with the business that brought us here and institutionalize the improvements that we've made so that someone doesn't take us back down the spend-and-spend, tax-and-tax path we were on for a century or so," he said.

Invoking a football metaphor, the president said that for his remaining two years in office, "We're not about to fall on the ball and wait for the clock to run out. Instead, we're going to have the greatest fourth quarter in presidential history."

And Miss Congeniality Delight Thames named Miss Hereford

A packed audience in the Hereford High School Auditorium cheered their approval Saturday night as Delight Thames was crowned Miss Hereford 1987. Thames is the 19-year-old daughter of John and Sheila Thames. A freshman at West Texas State University, she is majoring in elementary education.

Judges for the pageant were Dr. Robert Kinney, assistant professor of mathematics at West Texas State University, Dan Bancroft of Lubbock, and Helen Kelly Whier who is Director of Development at St. Anthony's Hospital, in Amarillo.

Judges determined the winner of the crown on the basis of interviews conducted earlier in the day and evening gown and talent competition during the pageant.

Miss Thames modeled a black body hugging gown draped off of one shoulder and accented with black lace and sequins. During the talent competition she performed ballet to "Chariots of Fire."

Prior to being crowned as Miss Hereford, she was awarded Miss Congeniality title an honor voted on by all of the contestants at the close of dress rehearsal on the evening prior to the pageant.

Miss Thames was sponsored by the Lemon Tree. She will choose from three scholarship alternatives from West Texas State University, South Plains Junior College and Clarendon Junior College. As the new Miss Hereford, Thames will receive a $600 wardrobe from Betty's Shoes, Little's, EtCetera, Pants Cage, Penney's, The Vogue and Anthony's.

First time entrant Roni Kay Love walked away with the title of first Runner-up and with a win in the talent competition. Love is the 17-year-old daughter of Joan Love. She is a senior at Hereford High School and the winner of a $400 wardrobe. She modeled a light apricot satin gown trimmed in old-fashioned lace during the evening gown competition. During the talent portion of the pageant, Love got the audience clapping to the beat of "How Excellent Is Thy Name." Her sponsor in the competition was the Don Tardy Agency.

Deanna Hobbs, sponsored by Custom Cleaners, placed as second Runner-up in the competition. She is the daughter of Roy and Judy Hobbs. She is a 16-year-old junior at Hereford High School. Hobbs modeled a deep purple gown banded at the hip and featuring a plunging back. Her talent was a comedy routine in the style of Lily Tomlin's "Edith Ann." Hobbs was awarded a $200 wardrobe scholarship.

An exciting "Miami Vice" opening number introduced 18 contestants for the 1987 Miss Hereford crown. Russell Brownlow and Tim Alexander played the parts of "Crockett and Tubbs." Don Johnson and Philip Michael Thomas, for the Miami Vice sequences.

County Judge Tom Simons served as master of ceremonies for the evening and conducted a delightful interview with retiring Miss Hereford 1986, Dallas Ann Phillips.

Special guests recognized during the evening included Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce president Mike Bowles and his wife Juanita, Executive Director, Mike Carr and his wife Janice, and Mayor and Mrs. Wes Fisher.

Donna West of the Women's Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce chaired the steering committee of the pageant. Members of the committee were Cindy Simons, Linda Daniel, Debra Perry, Judy Barrett, Betty Drake and Lashell Vestal. The committee was assisted in staging by Keith Ann Gearn.

Value reassessed

In a telephone interview follow-up on last Thursday's drug bust in the parking lot of a local convenience store, Sgt. Larry Garrett this morning stated that the assessed value of marijuana confiscated during the bust has been revised. Originally Garrett and Bill Weatherholt of the Organized Crime Unit in Amarillo estimated the street value of the drug to be at $192,000.

The value has been reassessed at $19,200. Garrett explains, "We did give you the original figure you reported. In the excitement of the bust and of booking those arrested we calculated the figure twice and came up with the same figure both times. The next day we recalculated and discovered we had our decimal point in the wrong place. The error was a miscalculation on our part."

The blaze was reported at 4:35 p.m. and firemen were at the scene, in the 400 block of Avenue F, for about an hour Sunday afternoon. Spain believes the blaze was set.

Man arrested for robbery attempt with fake bomb on woman

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Formal charges were pending against a 20-year-old following an incident in which a man placed what he said was an explosive device around a woman's body, drove her to a Lubbock bank and told her to demand $50,000 in cash if she didn't want to die.

Joyce Heald, 61, of Lubbock, told police she was confronted at her front door about 11 a.m. Monday by a man armed with a small black gun, police information officer Bill Morgan said.

She said the man told her that her grandson owed him a lot of money, and after searching the house, took $100 from Mrs. Heald's purse, then placed a device on her body.

He confirmed that Mrs. Heald was the grandmother of an associate of the suspect, who was in custody at the Lubbock County Jail, but had not been arraigned late Monday night, a jail official said.

The agent said the device was placed near the woman's left rib cage and was attached with a black belt.

Johnson said the device consisted of a miniature electronic clock, printed circuit board, battery and a 5/8-inch metal pipe with wires going into it.

The man drove Mrs. Heald to Bank of the West in South Plains Mall, where she told a bank officer she needed $50,000 immediately, "or I'm going to die," because she was wired with the device, and that the man outside was waiting.

The bank contacted police and security personnel at the mall, and the area was evacuated. The man in the car left the parking lot, followed by mall security officers.

Police joined in the chase as the car sped away at speeds up to 90 mph. The man was later arrested on foot in a supermarket parking lot.

Federal agents later discovered the device was not a bomb, said Vance Johnson, resident agent in charge of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Lubbock office.

Johnson said ATF agents Frankie Hodges and Richard Inman took the device off Mrs. Heald and took it to a caliche pit northeast of Lubbock, where it was disassembled using clamps and ropes.

"At the moment, there is no federal prosecution being initiated," Johnson said, but added that possible charges would be explored with the U.S. Attorney's office.

Criminal District Attorney Travis Ware said said several types of charges could be considered.

Sample ballots will be in Brand

Sample ballots for Saturday's election will be published in Wednesday's Brand.

Ballots to be included are for the hospital district board, school board, city commission, city mayor and special election for a county sales tax.

Judge to rule on Baby M's future

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP) — The parents of Baby M, after subjecting their personal lives to worldwide debate, awaited a judge's historic decision on who will be allowed to raise the child they created under a surrogate contract.

Superior Court Judge Harvey R. Sorkow today was to issue the nation's first ruling on the validity of a surrogate contract and to decide whether custody of the 1-year-old girl goes to surrogate mother Mary Beth Whitehead or biological father William Stern.

Both sides have promised quick appeals directly to the state Supreme Court.

Mrs. Whitehead's attorneys said last week she would not attend today's hearing. Mrs. Whitehead, reached Monday night by telephone at home, declined to say where she would be.

The baby's court-appointed attorney, Lorraine A. Abraham, recommended to the judge that he give Stern custody and deny Mrs. Whitehead visitation rights for at least five years.

Stern sought to strip the surrogate mother of all parental rights so that his wife, Elizabeth, could adopt the baby.

Roberts ending tower vigil

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — With God's reported threat to his life apparently lifted by a successful $8 million fund-raising effort, evangelist Oral Roberts today was spending a final day in a prayer tower vigil.

Three months ago, Roberts said on national television that God told him he would die by today if he failed to raise the money for medical missionary scholarships.

When the final money arrived in the form of a $1.3 million donation announced 10 days ago, Roberts said the fund-raising would have been futile unless followers continued to contribute to his ministry's ongoing operations.

He began a 10-day vigil March 22 in his 200-foot prayer tower at the center of the Oral Roberts University campus.

"Friend, if you intend to plant your seed, don't wait. We've got today and tomorrow," Roberts said in a live television hookup Monday on his son's "Richard Roberts Live" television program.

Reagan to augment forces

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is assuring French Prime Minister Jacques Chirac that the United States will augment its nuclear forces in Europe to prevent any Soviet advantage in shorter-range missiles.

Reagan and Chirac — meeting today at the White House — also were conferring on ways to reduce two major sources of friction between Western nations: trade imbalances and disagreements on how to combat terrorism.

Chirac arrived at Andrews Air Force Base late Monday for his first visit to the United States since he took office in March 1986 in a power-sharing arrangement with Socialist President Francois Mitterrand.

In interviews before his departure from Paris, Chirac expressed concern about the East-West military balance that will emerge if the United States and the Soviet Union proceed with an agreement — already reached in principle — to eliminate intermediate-range nuclear missiles from Europe.

Thatcher talks about human rights

MOSCOW (AP) — British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher told Kremlin leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev he should release more political prisoners and allow freer emigration if he wants friendly relations with the West.

Gorbachev responded that he was ready to discuss human rights "openly and loudly" if the debate includes unemployment, homelessness and discrimination in the West.

He also accused the United States of putting too many conditions on reaching an agreement to eliminate medium-range nuclear missiles from Europe.

Both leaders spoke Monday night at a state banquet in the Grand Kremlin Palace.

British sources said that to emphasize her concern for human rights, Mrs. Thatcher will have lunch today with Andrei D. Sakharov, who is the Soviet Union's best-known dissident. Sakharov, a physicist who won the 1975 Nobel Peace Prize, was freed from internal exile in the closed city of Gorky just before Christmas.

They said British Foreign Secretary Sir Geoffrey Howe gave the Soviet foreign minister, Eduard Shevardnadze, a list of more than 100 cases of divided families and people refused permission to emigrate. The sources said Soviet officials promised to act favorably on the cases "where possible."

Pope embarks on trip to Chile

ROME (AP) — Pope John Paul II embarked today on one of the most sensitive trips of his papacy, a visit to South America that will include meetings with President Augusto Pinochet of Chile and his church opponents.

The pontiff, making his 33rd foreign pilgrimage since becoming head of the Roman Catholic Church in 1978, left in a special Boeing 747 from Rome's Ciampino Military Airport at about 10 a.m. (3 a.m. EST), airport officials said.

He plans an overnight stop in Uruguay, six days in Chile and six days in Argentina.

His stop in Montevideo, Uruguay, will commemorate the beginning in 1978 of Vatican-sponsored negotiations that led to a peaceful solution of the Beagle Channel dispute, over which Chile and Argentina nearly went to war.

But most attention is focused on the pope's visit to Chile, where local Roman Catholic Church leaders have been the most consistent and outspoken critics of Pinochet's right-wing military government.

Van Gogh brings record price

LONDON (AP) — Spectators gasped and applauded as Vincent van Gogh's "Sunflowers," which the impoverished Dutch artist failed to sell for $125 before his suicide in 1890, was auctioned for $39.85 million.

An anonymous buyer bidding by telephone Monday paid 24.75 million pounds for the famous painting at Christie's auction house, more than tripling the record for a painting sold at auction.

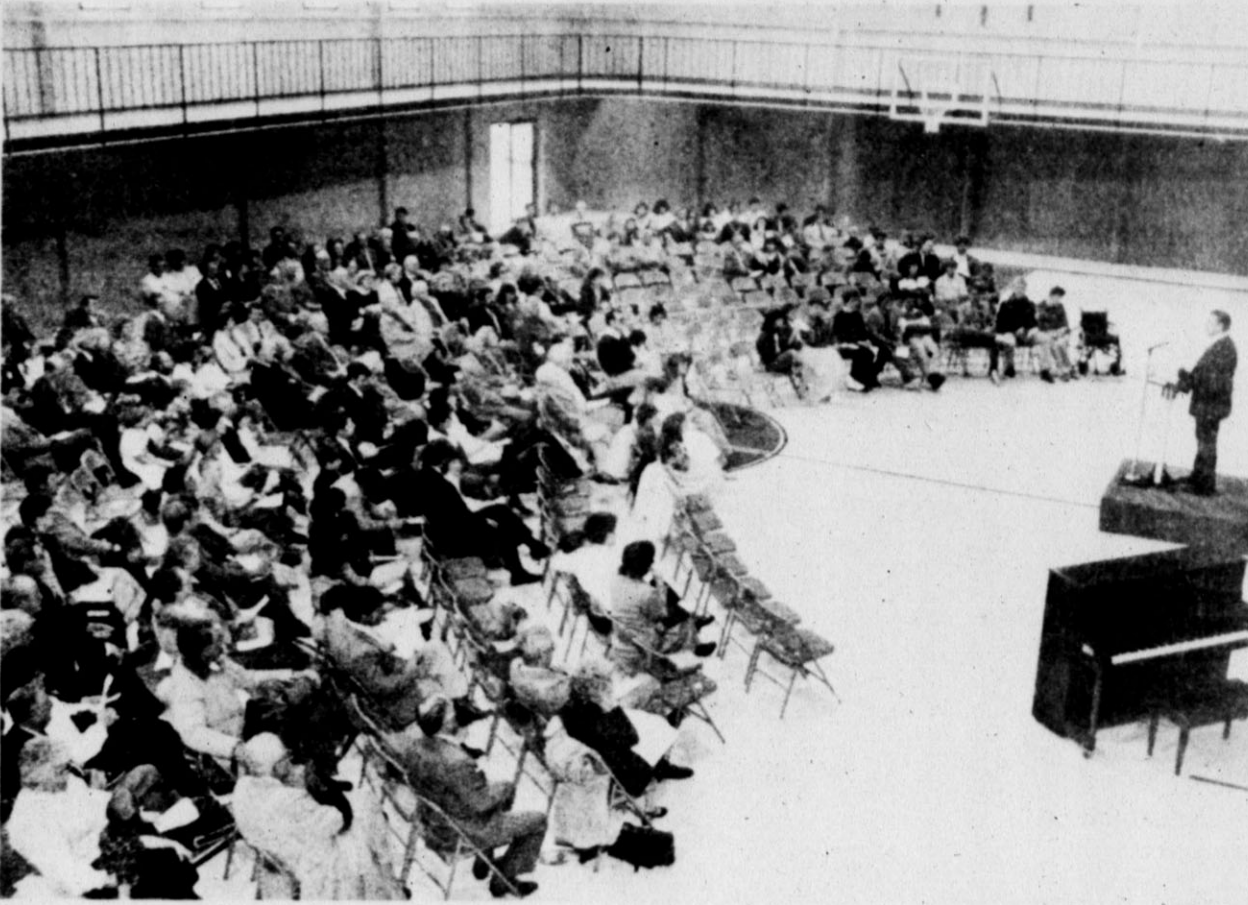

The price stunned the 1,300 art buyers and enthusiasts from around the world who had crowded into the auction room.

Millionaires jumped to their feet and craned their necks for a better view as the bidding started, while a Japanese collector rushed to the middle of the room with his camera.

Gasps of astonishment were heard as the price surged beyond $32.2 million and spontaneous applause broke out as the auctioneer brought his hammer down to conclude the sale. It all took no more than five minutes.

Before the sale, Christie's had said it expected about $16.1 million would be bid for the painting — a burst of gold and ocher measuring 39 inches by 30 inches and showing 15 sunflowers.

Skateboarding ban circumvented

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. (AP) — A teen-ager who led a losing fight against a skateboarding ban has decided to make tracks with a unicycle instead.

Jason Danziger, 16, said his new mode of transportation is nowhere near as exciting as skateboarding.

"But people seem to like it," he said in a recent interview. "It's still kind of a rare thing."

Danziger and his friends circulated a petition last spring that succeeded in stalling a city council effort to ban skateboarding. But the council passed the ordinance last month.

Letters to the editor

Dear editor:

In response to Mr. Garth Thomas' accusation in your paper that a so called "coalition" of "No" leaders are responsible for divisiveness in this community, let me say:

-Any divisiveness that exists started long before any individuals announced their candidacy for public office. Divisiveness started with rumors of closed door meetings with DOE representatives, dinner meetings in Amarillo between so called "neutrals" and the D.O.E. and a trip to Columbus, Ohio. No: three candidates didn't cause divisiveness they are trying to restore the public's faith so it can be cured.

-Any "coalition" that exists was not by design. When I filed for office, I did so at the urging of an individual that, to my knowledge, is not associated with any "coalition." At filing, I did not personally know one of the candidates and barely knew the other. Our shared concern has caused us to support one another but not as a planned "coalition."

-As a so called "NO" leader, I have not advocated nor do I support violence or anarchy. To the contrary, I have advocated common sense and working through the system not around it.

-As a so called "NO" leader, I have not advocated nor do I support violence or anarchy. To the contrary, I have advocated common sense and working through the system not around it.

As for Mr. Thomas' concern that the "No" leaders would thwart a deliberation of the dump issue, let me reply:

-I want to insure that open deliberation of the issue does infact occur. The industry I wish to represent pays hundreds of thousands of dollars in taxes and we need to protect this tax base or be assured that if it is ruined, the D.O.E. will replace it dollar for dollar. I do not intend to tune the D.O.E. out but I do intend to ask them hard, valid questions about the future of our city.

-Government works best when it represents the concerns and needs of all of its citizens. This is true of all levels of government from the national down to our city government. Can you imagine how much progress would be made if all our representatives, national and state, were neutral on the major issues? To insure proper deliberation we need a blend of NO, NEUTRAL, and YES opinions. At this juncture, all I see it our city government are NEUTRAL and YES people.

Mr. Thomas' accusations were ill founded but I, like he, would defend his right to make them as I defend the right to tell him, he is wrong.

Sincerely,
Jerry Walsh

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In 1976 I had a Caesarean section. God blessed me with a beautiful son, who is now 10 years old. I feel very lucky to have this boy but I am secretly depressed about something.

Ever since I had that C-section I have felt a deep sense of inadequacy because I could not make it as a woman in the delivery room. Any female can have an operation, but to give birth to a child the natural way seems to me the real test of womanhood. I also believe that the pain of labor would have made me feel a stronger tie to my son.

Would it be possible for me to go to a hospital and witness a normal delivery? I believe it would help me feel like an honest-to-goodness mother if I could see what it is really like.—Signature Withheld in Oklahoma

DEAR OKE: Where in the world did you get the idea that a woman who has a C-section is less of a mother than one who has a natural delivery? Some women who have had both say the post-operative discomfort is more difficult than labor.

Discuss this matter with your doctor. He will probably suggest that you talk about your feelings of inadequacy with a counselor. He can also give you his views on your witnessing a delivery.

Meanwhile, the adoptive mothers who read this are going to be furious—and justifiably so. They feel every bit as close to their children as mother's whose babies come through the birth canal.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is an open letter to women and men who wear perfume and strong cologne in public places.

Please enjoy your favorite scent at home, or anywhere except small, enclosed rooms or places where seats are assigned. The person who is close to you at a play or a concert cannot move away if he or she doesn't care for your perfume or, worse yet, is allergic to it.

There is no polite way to say, "Your scent is making me sick," yet I am dreading the next play in our season's series because the woman who sits in front of me wears perfume that literally nauseates me.

I am convinced that this person (and others like her) is unaware that she is offending anyone so I am writing in the hope that my neighbor (Row E, Arena Stage, Tuesday night) will see this letter and have mercy on me and others who are seated near her.—Gagging in D.C.

DEAR GAGGING: Here's your letter and we all hope "Row E, Arena Stage" sees it and takes the proper cue.

You are right when you say many people are unaware that they are offending and need to be told. Most folks are grateful for the tip. (P.S. If you're using so much that you can smell it—it's too much.)

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I worked several years for a well-known personality whose public image is that of a warm, generous, honorable person. After a while, his uncontrollable temper and cheap shenanigans got to me so I quit.

A man having a very difficult time finding a job because no one can understand why I left that "charming, adorable man" and I refuse to explain. My friends say I'm nuts to protect him. Am I?—HGS, Chevy Chase, Md.

DEAR CHEVY: No. Keep the dirt to yourself. In time the truth will come out and you will look twice as good for having kept your mouth shut.

Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," explains every aspect of sexual behavior—where to draw the line, how to say no, the various methods of contraception, the dangers of VD, the symptoms and where to get help. In battle of top 10 baseball teams

Whitefaces score 4-2 victory over Canyon

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

A battle of top 10 teams took place in Hereford on Saturday, and the Hereford Whitefaces prevailed over the Canyon Eagles 4-2 in a District 1-4A baseball contest.

Hereford entered the game ranked 10th in the state coaches' poll, and Canyon was ranked fourth.

The Whitefaces' starting pitcher for the day, Bobby Medina, scattered five hits, all singles, in winning his fourth game of the season. Medina did not record any strikeouts on the cold, windy afternoon, but he walked only one Eagle batter.

Both of the runs scored by Canyon were unearned off Medina.

The Whitefaces play Levelland today at 4:30 p.m. in Hereford, and then play at Pampa at 4 p.m. on Saturday. Saturday's game originally had a 1 p.m. starting time, but it was changed because of high school athletes taking college entrance examinations.

Saturday's battle with Canyon saw just one run scored by either team in the first three innings. Hereford gained a 1-0 lead in the first inning when Robby Collier, who had reached base on an error, scored on a single by Kyle Streun.

Hereford left the bases loaded in both the second and third innings without scoring.

In the second inning, Medina had to throw just three pitches to record three outs, all on groundouts. Canyon had a pair of baserunners in the top of the fourth inning but did not score.

Hereford's Paul Maes hit a double in the fourth inning, and was driven home by Collier who singled. Michael Phibbs then hit a double to drive in Collier, giving the Herd a 3-0 lead.

In Hereford's fifth inning, Medina walked and Glenn Parker came in as a courtesy runner for the Whiteface pitcher. Parker stole second and advanced to third base on an error.

Keith Anderson hit an infield grounder and was safe on a fielder's choice, with Parker remaining at third base.

Moments later, a Hereford batter struck out, and Canyon tried to throw out Parker in a rundown between third base and home plate. The Eagles committed a throwing error, allowing Parker to score and give Hereford a 4-0 lead.

Canyon scored a run on an RBI double in the top of the sixth inning. Hereford left two runners on base in the bottom of the sixth, including Streun, who had doubled.

The Eagles again tried to put a rally together in the seventh inning. With one out, a Canyon batter was called out for not trying to get out of the way of a pitched ball.

A walk gave Canyon runners at first and second, and an error committed by a Hereford outfielder allowed the Eagles to load the bases.

The next Canyon batter hit a grounder to pitcher Medina, who threw to home plate for a forceout, the second out of the inning.

Canyon then scored a run on an error, but Medina brought the game to an end by getting an Eagle to hit a grounder for a forceout at second.

The Whitefaces had eight hits in Saturday's game.

Hereford went into today's game with a 3-0 record, tied for first place in the district with Dumas. Canyon and Pampa were one game back with 2-1 records.

Despite Indiana winning NCAA basketball championship

Knight still sees room for improvement

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — There is just no satisfying some people. Bobby Knight's Indiana Hoosiers had just won the national championship, but the coach still saw room for improvement.

"I'm still not sure we're a really good basketball team," he said dryly after Indiana's 74-73 victory delivered the NCAA tournament title Monday night. "We will not go down in history as one of the dominant NCAA champions."

Knight, however, must go down as one of the dominant coaches, winning his third NCAA title. Only UCLA's John Wooden, with 10, and Kentucky's Adolph Rupp, with four, have won more.

If this Indiana team did not enchant its coach, at least he granted that it had made some progress.

"Three years ago, this team had a tough time asserting itself, hanging on to leads," he said. "We were ahead of Louisville in one game and then got outscored 28-7. Then, at South Bend, we were ahead of Notre Dame and got outscored 29-8. That's 21 points in five or six minutes in two games. That's how far this team has come from that."

"I'm pleased for them and with them."

Knight, dressed in what has become his trademark red pullover sweater, spent a quiet night on the sidelines, rarely yelling at his players or the officials. The volatile image he has developed over the years was absent. It was almost as if he had changed with the times.

On one second-half sequence, Syracuse's Rony Seikaly blocked a shot that the Indiana bench thought was goaltending. Every man on the Hoosier sidelines leaped up in protest — except the man in the red sweater.

Another time, when Keith Smart, Indiana's eventual hero, threw the ball away badly on a turnover, Knight yanked him immediately. But when Smart came to the bench, the coach did not yell at him, choosing instead to pat the player on the back. The support may have paid important dividends later when Smart won the game.

When he was exasperated with plays or players, Knight simply leaned back in his chair, sometimes covering his eyes, sometimes holding his head. At halftime, when Steve Alford's 3-point shot just before the buzzer gave Indiana a one-point lead, Knight was the last man off the bench, trailing his team into the locker room.

"I didn't feel really good walking off the floor at the half because we weren't as sharp as we were on Saturday," he said. "Syracuse had us standing around a little bit. We were pressing a little bit more than we should and not really getting the ball where we wanted to."

Alford's 3-pointer was one of seven that the All-America guard hit in the game. Knight saw some irony in that, considering his well-documented opposition to the new rule.

"I got on Ed Steitz (secretary-editor of the rules committee) about the 3-point shot the first time I saw him after the rule was put in," Knight said. "He never hesitates to go back at me. He said, 'We put it in so you could use it with Alford and win the national championship.' I said, 'OK, you come in and draw the offenses.'"

"The thing I like least in basketball is the 3-pointer. Then I look at tonight's statistics and we made three more 3-pointers than Syracuse and that's the difference."

"Thanks, Ed."

Syracuse experienced

highs, lows in one minute

By JIM O'CONNELL
AP Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Syracuse experienced a season full of highs and lows in one final frustrating minute.

The 10th-ranked Orangemen failed to win their first national championship Monday night, falling to No. 3 Indiana 74-73 when Keith Smart hit a side jumper with five seconds to play to give the Hoosiers their fifth national championship and third under Coach Bob Knight.

Syracuse called a timeout with one second to play and the missing four seconds after Smart's shot were just 1-15th of the frantic, controversial final minute.

When the last minute of play began, the game was tied 70-70. Four seconds later, Syracuse had a two-point lead when Howard Triche, who was 1-for-7 from the field in the first half, hit his second straight field goal. Triche grabbed his only rebound of the game 18 seconds later when Smart missed a jumper from the right baseline, and was fouled by Steve Alford.

Triche made the front end of the 1-and-1, but missed the second. Smart grabbed the rebound and drove the length of the court for a driving basket that brought the Hoosiers within one point.

Smart then fouled freshman forward Derrick Coleman, who had 19 rebounds in the game, and sent him to the foul line. Indiana called timeout.

"I felt confident, there wasn't any emotion," Coleman said. "I wasn't nervous, I knew it could be the game."

Coleman was the only Syracuse player on the Orangemen's side of the court as Coach Jim Boeheim decided to have his other four players back for defense.

Coleman missed and Indiana's Daryl Thomas grabbed the rebound.

"When I released it I knew it was off to the right," Coleman said. "Coach didn't want anyone on the foul line so we wouldn't get in any foul trouble."

MAGIC SPEAKS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Magic Johnson, the brilliant guard of the Los Angeles Lakers, was informed that Larry Bird of the Boston Celtics rated him the MVP of the NBA.

Magic was delighted and came up with this unusual quote: "Larry does not lie. He calls it straight or he won't call it at all. We're both like that. I'm not going to say Larry's the MVP if he's not and I'm not going to say I'm the MVP if I'm not."

Local high school student named award winner

Jill Johnson, a student at Hereford High School, was named a United States National Award winner in agriculture recently by the U.S. Achievement Academy.

She is the daughter of Terri Jan Johnson and the late Terry R. Johnson of Hereford. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie M. Townsend of Hereford and Mr. and Mrs. Doc Johnson of Plainview.

Jill was nominated by Kevin Kelley, HHS agriculture teacher, for the prestigious honor that less than 10 percent of all American high school students attain.

She will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, which is published nationally. "Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly United States Achievement Academy award winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the United States Achievement Academy.

The Academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors or other school sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy.

The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability, and recommendation from a teacher or director.

Newcomers club meets

The Newcomers Club of Hereford met recently at the Barn House for a noon luncheon.

A work day was planned for today and the next noon meeting was scheduled for Thursday, April 9 at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame.

Present were: Carol Kelley, Betty Taylor, Linda McClain, Peggie Fox, Robin Roth, June Beach, Mary Jane Anvik, Marcie Ginn, Sue Malamen, Tommie Savage, Mary Stubblefield, Gaye Reilly, Priscilla Ham, and Judi Teichman.

A guest, Naomi Hayes, was also present.

lem is that he won't stop chewing tobacco, which is bad, considering his saliva problem. Is there something we can add to make his tobacco taste bad?

DEAR READER — I am not aware of any substance that could be added to chewing tobacco to make it less palatable. The stuff already tastes so bad that I do not know how its flavor could be made worse.

Tobacco — in any form — appears to increase the stickiness of the blood, making blood clots and stroke more likely in people who use it. Perhaps if your father knew of this added risk, he would willingly give up his plug. On the other hand, maybe he has so few pleasures left that chewing tobacco is a small price to pay for some continuing happiness. Ask his doctor for an opinion.

With time — and physical therapy — your father might be able to regain some independence and control of his mouth. Your doctor might help him to develop a more active rehabilitation program.

Well-known Amarillo artist speaks to local art guild

Mary Selfridge of Amarillo gave a program to members of the Hereford Art Guild when they met recently at the Hereford Community Center.

The noted artist, who paints in oils, acrylics and water color, pointed out the use of triangles in her compositions. Her love of outdoors and animal life is seen in her paintings.

Hostesses, Margaret Young and Jean Reinauer, served refreshments from a table which depicted an Easter motif. Those present included Shirley Brown, Leola Cook, Nell Culpepper, Annie DeLozier, Carrie Mae Doak, Marie Harris, Hilda Haven, Reinauer, Lottie Wertemberger and Young.

Recognized as guests were Jo Coleman, Carman Angel and Marguerite Newell.

Several receive awards at annual awards banquet

Young Homemakers and Young Farmers held their annual awards banquet Saturday night, using "Flying High" as their theme.

The event was held in the banquet room of the Community Center with K-Bob's Steak House catering the affair. There was a large assortment of steak, baked potatoes, salads, and hot rolls.

Following the banquet, awards were given. Troy Waddell from Southwestern Public Service Company presented the Distinguished Rick Auckerman from George Warner Seed Co., awarded the Outstanding Young Farmer Award to Gerald Jesko.

Delegates elected at council meeting

Chairman Johnnie Messer presided over the meeting of the Council of Deaf Smith Extension Homemakers Wednesday in the Heritage Room of Deaf Smith County Library.

Opening exercises were given by members of Westway Extension Club with Grace Covington reading an article from Texas Highways Magazine entitled "Looney Laws."

The Golden Flashes of Kent State University wear blue and gold uniforms and play in the Mid-American Conference.

This is a collection of silly, out-dated and absurd Texas laws.

Plans were discussed for the District meeting to be held April 2 in Stratford. Delegates elected to represent Deaf Smith County were Gayle Carter of Westway Club; Wilma Goettsch, Cultural Club; and Sherrie Blackwell, Draper Club. Alternates elected were Maudette Smith, Ford Club; Carl Odom, Wyche Club; and Edith Higgins, North Hereford Club.

The group decided to cater a meal for one of the class reunions to be held during the annual Town 'n' Country Jubilee celebration in August.

County extension agent, Beverly Harder, reminded council members of the upcoming events, one of which will be "Fun Day", April 28.

A letter writing campaign is urged to regard to proposed cuts to the funding of all county extension offices, 4-H programs and vocational education. Legislators to write are: Bill Clements, Governor of Texas, P.O. Box 12428, Capital Station, Austin, Texas 78711, Gib Lewis, Speaker of the House, P.O. Box 2910, Capital Station, Austin, Texas 78769; and John Smith, State Representative, P.O. Box 2910, Capital Station, Austin, 78769.

There were eight clubs represented with six having 100 percent attendance.

Recognized as special guests were Vicky Higgins, Wilma Goettsch and Helen Brown.

The next council meeting is April 28 at noon in the Bicentennial room of the library. Members of Cultural Club will serve as hostesses.

POLLY'S POINTERS

What will remove glue on a blouse?

DEAR POLLY — Help! I squirted super glue on my favorite cotton blouse and it won't wash out. Do you have any magic solutions? — KAREN

DEAR KAREN — Nail polish remover will dissolve most of the "super" glues. Test some on a hidden spot to make sure it won't change the color of the fabric. Don't, however, use nail polish remover on acetates or acetate blends. It should be fairly safe for cottons.

I'm sending you a copy of my newsletter "Guide to Spots and Stains," which gives first-aid measures for the most common stains on clothing and household furnishings. Others who would like a copy of this issue should send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 93863, Cleveland, OH 44101-5863. Be sure to include the title. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — When using a large paper grocery bag for a trash bag, fold the top edge over about an inch from the top all the way around. This will keep the bag open. — ARTHUR
