The Valley View Energy Corporation is still planning to start construction of a power plant east of Hereford later this spring, according to Mike Carr, executive vice president of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. Carr and County Judge Tom Simons had meetings in Dallas last month with Valley View and Swift Independent Packing Co. officials.

Carr reports that he and Simons met with Don Lieb, president of Valley View, and he stated that construction of the electrical plant, using manure to fire the boilers, was still projected this spring. If construction gets underway, the project will employ about 250 to 300 people. An official of Swift Independent Packing said it might be two years before anything is done with the packing plant west of town.

In other business news, the opening of the Sirloin Stockade restaurant on North Hwy. 385 is scheduled this week. The Hereford Hustlers will hold a ribbon-cutting ceremony for the restaurant Thursday morning.

Chuck Gill, governor and chief executive officer of the CFC, was the featured speaker Saturday night at the annual REC banquet. A record 1,261 members attended the meeting at the Bull Barn.

Gill, involved in rural electrification since 1961, said members need to look at the local REC as a community asset and support its management as it would a business.

As most areas of the economy, electric energy costs are hard to predict, even though it goes in cycles. Gill reviewed the impact the oil embargo of the 1970s had on the nation's energy needs. At that time there was an 8-10 percent growth rate of power plants, but a simultaneous awareness of environmental concerns, an increase ininflation, higher interest rates and, government regulations. Regulations alone cause construction time for a power plant in the U.S. to be nearly double what it is in other countries-10 to 12 years, compared to about five years. Now, electricity has a different

Acker, Brown re-elected to Deaf Smith REC board Saturday

Two incumbents on the Deaf Smith County Rural Electric Co-op board were re-elected Saturday at the annual member meeting. Anthony Acker, serving in Position

1, and Eldred Brown, in Position 2, will remain on the board.

Allen Dobmeier and Josef. Grotegut were also on the ballot.

Brown has served as a Deaf Smith County rep on the board for 20 years. His family has a farm-ranch operation 28 miles west of Hereford.

He is chairman of the Deaf Smith County Program Building Committee and has held offices of Texas Rural Friends, ACRE. He was a candidate for Outstanding Area Agribusinessman.

He and his wife Maxine are members of the Rosedale Baptist Church where Eldred serves as a deacon.

Acker will again represent the Castro County members.

He and his wife Angela live in the home where he was born and the couple has raised 12 children.

On his farm near Nazareth, Acker raises wheat, milo, cotton, and cattle. He is a member of the Holy Family Catholic Church in Nazareth. He has served on boards of Plains Memorial Hospital in Dimmitt, FmHa, Agri-Industries Jr. Board and the High Plains Underground Water District.

Truckers donate for reward

ODESSA, Texas (AP) - Truckers around the country are aiding in the search for a trucker who kidnapped and shot an El paso woman and her daughter by cntributing reward money and distributing composite sketches of the suspect.

Donations over the weekend from truckers who live in Georgia, Florida, Tennessee, New York and Arkansas increased the reward to nearly $2,500 by Monday, Kloss said.

Besides contributing reward money, many truckers grabbed a handful of composite sketches of the kidnapper and promised to pin the drawings to bulletin boards in truck stops nationwide.

"They want this cleared in the worst way," Sheriff's Capt. Gene Kloss told the Odessa American.

Meanwhile, Maricopa County Sheriff's deputies in Gila Bend, Ariz., detained for four hours Sunday one trucker who partially fit the kidnapper's description before allowing him to drive on to California, Detention Officer Dan Birchfield said.

Truckers who remembered hearing a description of the abductor and his tractor-trailer rig besieged lawmen with calls concerning the Californian, who was stopped by Maricopa County Sheriff's deputies about 10:30 a.m. at an Interstate 8 truck stop, Birchfield said.

Investigators questioned the man, fingerprinted him and photographed him before he was released, Birchfield said.

Birchfield said deputies express-mailed the photograph, fingerprints and interview transcripts to Ector County Sheriff's investigators Monday.

The 35-year-old El Paso woman, a postal worker, remained in stable condition Monday at Medical Center Hospital and her daughter was listed in critical condition, officials said.

Kloss said the woman told lawmen that her abductor forced her to perform oral sex before kicking her out of his truck and shooting her in the neck and her daughter behind the ear.

AIDS testing recommended

WASHINGTON (AP) - Federal health officials are urging doctors to recommend AIDS testing for patients who received blood transfusions before 1985 and moving ahead with a nationwide education plan to fight AIDS in schools and elsewhere.

Federal officials are concerned that up to 12,000 of the people who received transfusions between 1977 and 1985 could be infected with the AIDS virus without knowing it. American Medical Association officials estimate there were 34 million transfusions in this country during the period.

The decision to call for voluntary testing of people who received transfusions before the blood supply was screened for AIDS came Monday at about the same time the administration unveiled a 42-page AIDS education plan.

Although one of the four major sections of that plan envisions specific appeals to physicians and other health care workers, the recommendation that will go out this week on transfusion testing is a separate initiative.

The long-awaited education plan, to be distributed after it is printed in about 10 days, calls for specific information on AIDS and its prevention - including use of condoms for sexually active people to be made available to all Americans.

But it skirts the politically touchy issue of how to accomplish that among school children and people of college age.

Robert E. Windom, assistant secretary for health at the Department of Health and Human Services, released the plan late Monday

DOE proposes tax incentives

WASHINGTON (AP) Lawmakers have disclosed that Energy Secretary. John Herrington later by Herrington. Bentsen said he plans to recommend the Reagan administration adopt a series of tax in- predicted imports would reach 50 centives rather than an oil import fee to spur domestic oil exploration and check imports.

The recommendations were drawn from the Energy Department's longawaited study of options to counter the national security threat posed by increasing oil imports, which reached 40 percent of U.S. demand late last year.

Herrington briefed a group of key lawmakers Monday, one day before the report is scheduled to be made public.

"The study analyzes all proposals available to try to reduce foreign imports in terms of a benefit-to-cost analysis," said Sen. Phil Gramm of the 800-page DOE report. "It looks at the costs and the impact on our economy.

'The secretary said the study indicated an oil import fee was not a cost effective way of dealing with the problem. It would generate increased exploration but would hurt the general economy very heavily," Gramm said.

A report released last month by the Citizen-Labor Energy Coalition, an advocacy group, said that a $10 a barrel oil tariff would probably cost the American economy $100 billion a year. There is currently am 11.7 cents per barrel tariff on imported oil.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen was one of three Democratic senators briefed was astonished that the study percent of U.S. demand by the early to mid-1990s.

'Virtually every report I see say it's going to be 1988, 1989 or 1990,' Bentsen said. "And I think their study on the oil import fee was using a worst case senario, where they stacked the deck by saying there would be no exemptions."

Bentsen said an oil import fee would serve as insurance to avoid another major oil crisis like that of 1973, which he said cost the country $1 trillion. He said paying for such a fee is a small price in the long run.

'That's the insurance you pay at this point to avoid what could be a very serious economic dislocation and national security threat."

Democratic Sens. J. Bennett Johnston of Louisiana and Jeff Bingaman of New Mexico were also present for the briefing.

Under Gramm's proposal, which was co-authored and introduced in the House last year by Rep. Beau Boulter, oil producers would get a 27.5 percent oil depletion allowance, which is a deduction based on the value of the oil produced, for new wells or those that use enhanced recovery methods.

Currently, independent producers get a 15 percent depletion allowance while major producers get none, Gramm said.

"I think the message will be delivered, maybe, in 6,000 different ways," Windom said in an interview. "There are a lot of people with innovative ideas on how to do something."

Part of the plan calls for educators from around the country to meet with officials of the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta to discuss the possibility of developing model AIDS prevention courses for schools.

But Windom said if local school officials are opposed to a particular approach, "we're not going to force it upon them at all."

President to host ship crew

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan, in a gesture of goodwill toward the Kremlin, agreed to meet with Soviet sailors who were plucked from their sinking ship last weekend by U.S. Coast Guard helicopters.

Reagan was to honor the Coast Guard for heroism at a Rose Garden ceremony today, and the 37 Soviet crewmembers were invited to attend, meet the president and tour the White House before their scheduled flight to Moscow, according to a senior administration official who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The event was listed as an 11:15 a.m. photo opportunity on a White House schedule released Monday evening, and Soviet sources confirmed the Russian sailors would accept the invitation.

The unexpected White House session was disclosed as prospects appeared to be brighening for an agreement on the removal of U.S. and Soviet medium-range nuclear missiles from Europe. The arms control proposal is under negotiation in Geneva, and Michael Armacost, the U.S. undersecretary of state, was in Moscow discussing a range of bilateral and regional issues.

Reagan's invitation to the sailors from the sunken Komsomolets Kirgizii followed formal thanks delivered Monday by Soviet charge d'affaires Oleg Sokolov to Assistant Secretary of State Rozanne Ridgway.

The Soviet note expressed "thanks ... for the expeditious and effective help rendered, as well as for the care and the friendly treatment accorded to the Soviet seamen," said Boris Malakhov, an embassy spokesman.

International Bomb explodes in west Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - A bomb exploded today near an American-affiliated university in Moslem west Beirut, wounding one person and setting three cars on fire, police said.

The bomb, hidden under a green Mercedes-Benz, went off at 1:25 p.m. about 120 yards from the main gate to Beirut University College in west Beirut's Qraitem district, witnesses reported.

No casualties were reported among the school's 3,000 students, police said. Four teachers at the school, including three Americans and an Indian, were kidnapped from the campus Jan. 24 by a group calling itself Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine.

Ambulances and fire engines, their sirens wailing, rushed to the scene of the bomb blast, the fifth in Beirut this year and the first in the western sector since 7,500 Syrian soldiers moved in Feb. 22 to contain bloody militia feuding. No group claimed responsibility.

Dozens of helmeted Syrian soldiers from the elite special forces, armed with Soviet-made Kalashnikov assault rifles, also rushed to the blast scene moments after the explosion echoed across west Beirut, the witnesses said.

The Syrians set up several checkpoints throughout the sector and were seen frisking pedestrians and motorists. The last bomb that exploded in Beirut went off Feb. 25 near a mosque in the Shiite Moslem slums of south Beirut near the airport, killng at least two people and wounding 17 passersby.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

In a letter published in the Sunday Brand the writer called on the city officials to follow the example set by the county commissioners in matters pertaining to the D.O.E. City officials have been involved for five years in gathering information concerning the impact of site characterization of this community. We have had the mayor and commissioners present at every meeting with D.O.E. officials, the most recent being on Feb. 26th when we were given a briefing and where we asked some of the "hard questions". We have a member on the Waste Deposit Impact Committee whose responsibility it is to identify the economic effects that the site characterization will have on this area in so far as taxing entities are concerned and to see that these entities are reimbursed by the D.O.E. for any economic impact. The city officials will continue to be involved in every aspect of the activities of D.O.E. as they effect the City of Hereford.

Dear Editor:

I want to know what's wrong with the Chamber of Commerce. Why aren't they representing the best interests of the Hereford community? Is it in Hereford's benefit to lose Holly Sugar, Frito Lay and Arrowhead Mills? Not only will this cripple the area farmers but the stigma of radiatin-grown crops and cattle will ruin all other markets.

And if there is contamination of our aquifer, it will be untouchable for thousands of years. Where will Hereford be then? It is morally wrong to act irresponsible toward the land and water that should be the birthright of future generations.

The Department of Energy promises they don't make mistakes and that the repository will be built with the best of technology-the same technology that sent up the Challenger. They also promise to compensate for any damages made due to the repository. How much

Book review presented at Calliopian club meeting

Members of the Calliopian Club met Thursday evening in the home of Cherry McWhorter with Virginia Holmes as co-hostess.

Kathryn Ruga, president, presided over the business meeting.

An invitation from the La Madre Mia Club was read inviting the Calliopian Club to its 35th anniversary tea in the E.B. Black House on March 29 from 2-4 p.m.

Kay McWhorter reviewed the book "One More Time" by Carol Burnett. With all the humor she puts into her acting, Carol Burnett tells of her growing pains amid the turbulence of alcoholic parents and her ever-loving manipulative, hypochondriac grandmother. Living on relief, Carol managed to put herself through UCLA and reach stardom as an actress and singer.

Members present were Cherry McWhorter, Holmes, Ruga, Kay McWhorter, Audine Dettmann, Irene Coneway, Marye Fraserl, Jan Furr, Linda Gilbert, Faye Holt, Mary Sue Hull, Sue James, Marjorie Mims and Kathlee Palmer.

HISTORIC ISLAND

NEW YORK (AP) - Ward's Island in New York's East River originally belonged to the Manhattan Indians, who sold it to the Dutch in 1637. It was later seized by the British before becoming part of New York City after the American Revolution. The island is named for a family who farmed the land in the late 1700s. It later was used as an immigration center, a sanatorium for tubercular patients and a prison camp. The city's first hospital to treat the mentally ill was built on it after the Civil War.

Gout medication DR. GOTT is usually safe

DEAR READER - Allopurinol. like any medicine, does have side effects, including rash, nausea, vomiting. bone-marrow abnormalities and drug allergy. However, these reactions are rare. Allopurinol reduces the formation of uric acid in the body, and thus is a good gout preventative. As with other medicines, you and your doctor will want to weigh the risk / benefit ratio of allopurinol. Although it's generally a safe drug, it may not be appropriate for you to use.

To give you more information on gout in general, I'm sending you a free copy of my Health Report, ABOUT GOUT. Others who want this information should send $1 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

Program trains disabled adults

By TOM BOONE Dallas Times Herald

DALLAS (AP) - With the precision of a machine, Wayne Blumley takes another computer flow chart a sequence of key strokes and commands - and puts it away in his special file, where it remains until he needs it again.

When he is ready to write a computer program, the flow chart will be there, readily available, but not exactly at his fingertips. Blumley is blind, and the special file where he stores an orderly arrangement of untold numbers and commands is his mind.

"He's fantastic, brilliant," says Leslie Skibell, the El Centro Community College program director who oversees a class set up a year ago to train severely handicapped adults to be computer programmers. "Most blind people wouldn't begin to try to understand flow charts," she says. "Wayne understands them."

Blumley, 42, is the first blind student in the program. And though he is more modest about his achievements, he is nonetheless pleased with how far he has progressed since the class began in September. "I think the program is extremely stimulating," he says.

The El Centro class is an outgrowth of recommendations by the Mayor's Business Advisory Committee. IBM provided personal computers and furniture, and a number of other companies donated other technical equipment.

The Texas Commission for the Blind has provided the single piece of equipment that has made Blumley's education possible - a voice synthesizer for his personal computer. With each keystroke it tells him where the cursor is on his monitor, or it sounds out letters or entire words.

COMMAREA," he says. "I'll have to sound that out a letter at a time to make sure I know what it is, because I'll need to use it later in a program." He has a mental image of the monitor and everything he writes on it, just as he has images of people and places, he says. Such visual thinking is possible because he was not always blind. "I had congenital cataracts," he says. "I was very near-sighted." With thick glasses he was able to function in an almost normal manner through high school in New London. in East Texas. "I was able to see to do everything but drive a car.

"Then one day I was playing pingpong. I bent down to pick up the ball. and when I stood up I couldn't see the table."

An operation brought some sight back, but then it was gone again. Other operations produced similar results, but finally darkness came upon him permanently 24 years ago.

This did not stop him from getting a degree in psychology from the University of Texas at Austin, however. And it didn't prevent him from getting a job, as a rehabilitation counselor for the Commission for the Blind. In his 13 years with the agency, he traveled extensively, taught and worked with mentally ill and retarded blind people.

"I have had a natural interest in technical things," he says. "I'm an avid science fiction writer. I'm a ham radio operator, and I built my first transmitter when I was about 11.

"I reached a point in my work where I didn't think I was growing. Then one day my wife found a computer on sale. It had a voice synthesizer on it. That was probably the most expensive sale my wife and I have ever been to, because six months later I quit my job."

He began his computer programming course on Sept. 29, along with 15 other students. Fourteen are still in the class, which will conclude with student internships in May and June at companies to be determined later. Last year, Skibell said, 15 of 16 graduates in the class were placed in jobs. "The 16th was not placed because of physical reasons," she said. "He was a victim of MS (multiple sclerosis), and his condition

The new programmers earned starting salaries ranging from $18,000 to $24,000 a year, she said. For the next class in the fall, she said, she is trying to attract more women and more minorities. The 14 current students are all white men.

Although Skibell said Blumley should have no difficulty finding work after graduation, Blumley himself finds job hunting unsettling.

His long-term goal is to "progress into managing a project or-into program development," but the short term is of more immediate importance. He has interviewed with several companies, but so far there have been no offers of work.

He grins and says, "I'm anxious to get back into the labor market."

TRAVELING

PAINTINGS NEW YORK (AP) — "Impressionist and Post-Impressionist Masterpieces: The Courtauld Collection," a selection of 48 paintings, will travel to five major museums in the United States over the next 16 months.

The paintings, which have not been seen before in this country, are from the Courtauld Institute of Art in London. They include what is widely regarded as Manet's last great canvas, A Bar at the Folies-Bergere," and Gauguin's "Nevermore.

The exhibition opened at the Cleveland Museum of Art. After it closes there March 8, it will be seen at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York, April 4-June 21; the Kimbell Art Museum, Fort Worth, July 11-Sept. 27; the Art Institute of Chicago, Oct. 17-Jan. 3, 1988, and the Nelson-Atkins Museum of Art, Kansas City, Jan. 30-April 3, 1988.

DEAR READER - Not to my knowledge. However, many sugarfree foods contain the inert sugar sorbitol, which can cause diarrhea. Eat fewer soft cookies or switch brands.

DEAR DR. GOTT - In 1971 I had a complete hysterectomy, but every year I go for a Pap smear. My gynecologist doesn't tell me why this is necessary

DEAR READER - During a complete hysterectomy, the mouth of the womb (cervix) usually is removed. A Pap test is a smear for cervical cancer. Since you no longer have a cervia. you shouldn't need a Pap test.

However, your gynecologist may wish to check you regularly for other reasons. For example, if you had a hysterectomy for uterine cancer, you should be examined periodically to make sure that there is no recurrence of the tumor. Ask your gynecologist why he or she chooses to perform Pap tests at yearly intervals. DEAR DR. GOTT - What happens to people who don't have a total hipreplacement operation when they are told they need one? Is there any other treatment available?

DEAR READER - Certain forms of arthritis cause degeneration of the hip joint. With time, this degeneration may worsen and cause symptoms that can't be relieved by pain medication or anti-arthritis drugs. People may become quite immobilized or crippled with pain - if so, hip replacement (with a metal/plastic prosthesis) enables patients to enjoy far greater mobility and independence.

Although no operation has a guaranteed perfect result, hip replacement - when needed - can be a real boon to the person who suffers chronic pain, stiffness and weakness. Until the time that surgery is needed, patients often can be helped by anti-arthritis medicine, physical therapy and a modification of physical activity as pain permits.

DEAR READER - The elasticity TODAY'S MOON: Between of skin is unpredictable. After pregnancy or weight loss, skin usually shrinks back to its normal size. However, skin in some parts of the body will not shrihk after it has been stretched. Plastic surgeons are often quite adept at removing unwanted skin bulges. I am not aware of any creams or activities that can tighten up stretched skin. Ask your doctor to refer you to a plastic surgeon for another opinion.

Herd wins Dumas baseball tournament

A pitching masterpiece by Bobby Medina helped lead the Hereford Whiteface varsity baseball team to a 3-0 championship game victory over Borger Saturday night in the Dumas Tournament.

Medina pitched a complete game, allowing just three hits and walking no batters. Borger could get only four runners on base, one of them on an error - and no Borger baserunners reached second base.

Medina, who also struck out seven runs with a single

Earlier in the tournament, Hereford beat the Tascosa varsity 6-2 on Friday and defeated the Dumas junior varsity 12-3 on Saturday morning.

The Whitefaces had 11 hits in the championship game Saturday, Rodney McCracken went three-forthree, Kyle Streun was two-for-four, and Keith Herrera went two-for-four. Hereford scored two runs in the fourth inning. Streun singled, and Bulldog batters, drove in one of the McCracken doubled. Paul Maes drove home a run with an RBI groundout, and Medina hit his BBI single. In the seventh inning, James Hernandez and Keith Herrera both singled, with Hernandez later scoring on an error.

In the Herd's first tournament game on Friday, pitcher Keith Anderson had a shaky start, falling behind 2-0 in the first inning, but went on to hurl a complete game in Hereford's 6-2 win over Tascosa.

Tascosa scored its first inning runs off a home run, single and triple. But the rest of the game, the Rebels could connect for only four hits off Anderson. Anderson walked no batters in the game, and struck out five.

Hereford tied the game in the second inning. McCracken walked, Maes hit an RBI double, and Medina hit an RBI single.

Hereford then added four runs in the fourth inning. The inning began with Todd Shire and Michael Phibbs both reaching base on walked. Herrera then reached base on a fielder's choice.

Driving in the Herd runs were Robby Collier with a single, Anderson with a two-run double, and Streun with a single.

Other extra-base hits in the game were a double by McCracken in the fourth inning and a double by Streun in the sixth inning.

Hereford scored eight runs in the first inning enroute to its 12-3 victory over the Dumas junior varsity. The Whitefaces loaded the bases with Herrera reached base on an error, followed by Collier and Anderson reaching base on walks.

Streun walked to drive in the first HHS run. McCracken hit an RBI groundout, and the third run was scored when Maes hit a grounder. Dumas committed an error when fielding Maes' ground ball.

The sequence of events the rest of the inning was: Medina, RBI single; Bill Ruckman, RBI on fielder's choice; Phibbs, single; Ross Torres, bases-loaded walk; and Collier, RBI single.

In the third inning, Collier walked and James Hernandez hit a two-run homer

In the fifth inning, Hernandez doubled and scored when Edward Matinez hit a home run. Hereford had eight hits in the

U.S.S.S.A. class "C" rules will be game, compared to one hit for Dumas. Dumas scored its runs in the third inning with a walk, error, double, and RBI groundout.

Hereford used four pitchers in the game. Donnie Rieves pitched the first two innings, recording three strikeouts. Hernandez pitched in the third inning.

Jason Scott, who was the winning pitcher, struck out four batters in the fourth and fifth innings. Collier pitched in the sixth inning.

Office Hours: Monday - Friday The Hot Dog Vendor

There was a man who lived by the side of the road and sold hot dogs. He sold very good hot dogs. He put up signs along the highway and advertised in the newspaper telling how good they were.

He stood on the side of the road and cried:

"Buy a hot dog, Mister?" And people bought.

He increased his meat and bun orders.

He bought a bigger stove to take care of his trade. He finally got his son home from college to help him out. But then something happened. His son said, "Father, haven't you been listening to the radio and watching TV?

There's a big depression. The foreign situation is terrible. The domestic situation is worse."

Whereupon the father thought, "Well, my son's been to college," he listens to the radio and watches TV and he ought to know."

So the father cut down on his meat and bun orders, took down his signs and cancelled his newspaper ads and no longer bothered to stand out on the highway to sell his hot dogs. And his hot dog sales fell almost overnight.

"You're right, son" the father said to the boy.

"We certainly are in the middle of a great depression."

Pinup paved way for Miss Texas 1930

GREENVILLE, Texas (AP) -Mary Lou Laney had no intention of entering the Miss Texas Pageant back in 1930 until a tantalizing pinup picture and a bit of trickery by friends turned her into a contestant - and a winner.

"Some of my friends entered my name without telling me," says Mrs. Laney. "I had finished high school in Oak Cliff and was going to SMU at the time. My brother, who was a photographer for the Dallas Times Herald, had taken some pictures of me on a bearskin rug, but I thought he was just doing it for the fun of it. I never dreamed he was going to give a print to these friends.

"When the pageant official called to tell me where the contestants were to meet, I said, 'What's this all about? You must have the wrong person!' But he said, 'Aren't you Mary Lou Lockridge?' - that was my maiden name.'

Since she was already accepted as an entrant, she decided to go along with it and attend the first meeting of the contestants.

"There were about 29 of us from all over Texas," she said. "Two girls were from Houston, one from Austin and one from Midland and quite a few were from Fort Worth."

The judging was done in June at Kidd Springs in Oak Cliff, she recalls. The bathing suit contest was in the morning, and the contestants modeled suits provided by local merchants.

"I think Neiman's was my sponsor, as I remember, and they gave me the most beautiful yellow bathing suit with matching rubber bathing shoes. The suit had a matching yellow cape on top of it ... you took off the cape and carried it as you walked along.

"Of course the bathing suits then were very discreet, but my father thought even this was terrible," she said, laughing.

"After we paraded around, we dived off the board into the pool. Two of us dived from the high board and the rest went off the low board. Then we had time to go home and get our hair dried and get into street clothes suit, hat and gloves."

The contestants returned midafternoon for a group interview, Mrs. Laney said. "We just sat and talked together with the four judges who were Dallas businessmen.

"In the evening we came back to the dance pavillion in Oak Cliff. We wore long gowns, and we each had an escort - some one of our friends. I married my escort later ... He was so handsome in his tux!

"There was a small orchestra, and as we danced, we were judged on poise and posture," she said.

When the final decision was announced, Mrs. Laney was awarded the Miss Texas title and a check. "I think I got about $750," she said. "That was quite a bit of money in those days.

"The Miss Texas Pageant at that time was not an annual event - just every few years. It was mainly just to advertise these department stores, but it did open some doors for me," she said. "I did some modeling afterwards for film advertisements that were shown in movie theaters." Modeling with her was a young Linda Darnell, who later became a movie star. "She went to Hollywood, and I got married," said Mrs. Laney, chuckling.

"I really wasn't a good model though, because I wasn't tall enough just five feet three. The clothes look better on taller girls."

Mrs. Laney's only child, Luther Jr., had a successful modeling career during his early years, however. "He started at six monthsand did ads for Metzger's milk, cod liver oil and baby shoes," she said. "I think Dr Pepper paid him more than any other company. He would sit there with a little bottle and a straw. He didn't even know how to sip - he just chewed up the straw. He modeled until he was about 12 years old and got into that awkward age. Now he's a banker in St. Louis."

Mrs. Laney still has a copy of the pinup picture that caught the judges eye, and which her brother later sold to a magazine.

"When we moved up here I hid it, but my husband put it up again ... in the bathroom," she said with a grin. "When we have guests, they come out with a puzzled look and say, 'Is that you in the picture, Mary Lou?"" Widowed for seven years, Mrs.

Laney spends much of her spare time playing bridge. And she never misses a pageant on television.

Gerald R. Ford was not the 38th president's original name. He was born Leslie King Jr. on July 14, 1913. His parents were divorced when Ford was 2.

POLLY'S Lift burnt odor POINTERS

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY - How can I get a burnt smell out of a microwave oven? I accidentally let some popcorn burn and now it smells awful. I've washed it out and have baking soda sitting in the oven, but that isn't helping. ANN

DEAR ANN - Removing a burned odor can be tough, but not impossible. Here are a few tricks to try.

First, bring a cup of water with several tablespoons lemon juice in it to a boil in the oven. Let it boil a couple of minutes at least. Repeat if necessary. If the burned odor persists, you might try wiping the oven out with water to which you've added a tablespoon of vanilla extract. For serious odor removal, place a shallow bowl of activated charcoal in the oven for several days. (Activated charcoal can be purchased in pet-supply stores where it is sold for use in aquarium filters.) If the odor persists after a week, change the charcoal with a fresh supply and repeat for another week.

I'm sending you a copy of my newsletter "Eliminating Household Odors," which has more ideas for removing odors in the air, in appliances and furnishings, from your hands and in storage areas. Others who would like a copy of this issue should send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINT-ERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 38-year-old woman with three children. I live in a beautiful home and have a wonderful husband. I consider myself one of the luckiest women in the world. My problem: I bounce checks.

Please don't say, "Oh, it happens to everyone 'now and then."' This has been an ongoing problem of mine for 20 years. I write checks when I know full well there isn't enough money in my account to cover them. When I get into trouble I ask my husband to deposit some money "to help me out." I'm very casual about it. He has no idea I'm dying inside, wondering if this time I'll beat the bank. Is this self-destructive behavior? Is it some form of gambling? By the way, there is no thrill in this game. Gamblers enjoy the excitement of walking a financial tightrope, but I hate it.

Do I need to close my checking account and go on a cash system? I've always preferred checks because you can account for where everything is going. But I may be too irresponsible for that. Please help me.-Rubber Check Artist in Indiana

DEAR ARTIST: In a sense you ARE a gambler. You enjoy the risktaking involved in your little game of "beat the bank." It is exciting to know that you must get the money deposited before the checks come through.

Close your checking account and buy on credit or pay cash. You are right when you say you aren't sufficiently responsible to have a checking account. There is a lot to be said for knowing yourself-and you do.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Do you have any policy about disciplining other people's children? I wish you would discuss this in your column. Here is what happened to me:

My sister asked if I would baby-sit her 4-year-old while she attended a club luncheon. I said yes. The morning of the luncheon she phoned and asked if she could also bring the 4-year-old girl of her next-door neighbor, who was going to the same meeting. I agreed.

My sister's child behaved very nicely but the neighbor child, "Denise," was into everything. She was lightning fast and I had to watch her every minute. When she got up on a chair and helped herself to a mortified. Some thanks I got for bedozen cookies on a high shelf. I scolded her and lightly slapped her little hands. She cried and pouted and refused to eat her lunch.

At 3 o'clock my sister and her neighbor came to get their childrne. Denise ran to her mother and screamed, "That lady hit me!" The woman flew into a rage and shrieked, "Did you strike my child?" When explained what happened, she shouted, "We NEVER use physical violence in our home! I am very angry with you!"

My sister was embarrassed. I was ing a good sport at the last minute. I repeat my question: What is your policy about disciplining other people's children?--Samaritan Gone Wrong In Idaho

DEAR IDA: It is best to ask in advance if it is OK to discipline a child other than your own. In my opinion the woman who left her child in your care should ahve been willing to abide by the rules in your home.
