Harrison Highway Opening Is A Tremendous Success

Harrison Highway was officially opened Thursday afternoon, with Mrs. E. J. Harrison crossing the line as the first passenger after the ribbon was cut. State Highway Commission chairman Fred Wimple of Midland cut the ribbon with W. W. Nichols, Chairman of the New Mexico Public Service commission assisting. Chamber of Commerce President O. L. Bybee acted as master of ceremonies at the opening ceremony. He briefly related high points in the history of the highway since Mr. Harrison first dreamed of it, and then introduced Mrs. Harrison. She said, among other things, "I am sorry Mr. Harrison couldn't have lived to see this day, the road was the pride and joy of his life and only second to his home and church. He realized good roads were one of the greatest assets to any good community."

Start Building Shopping Center

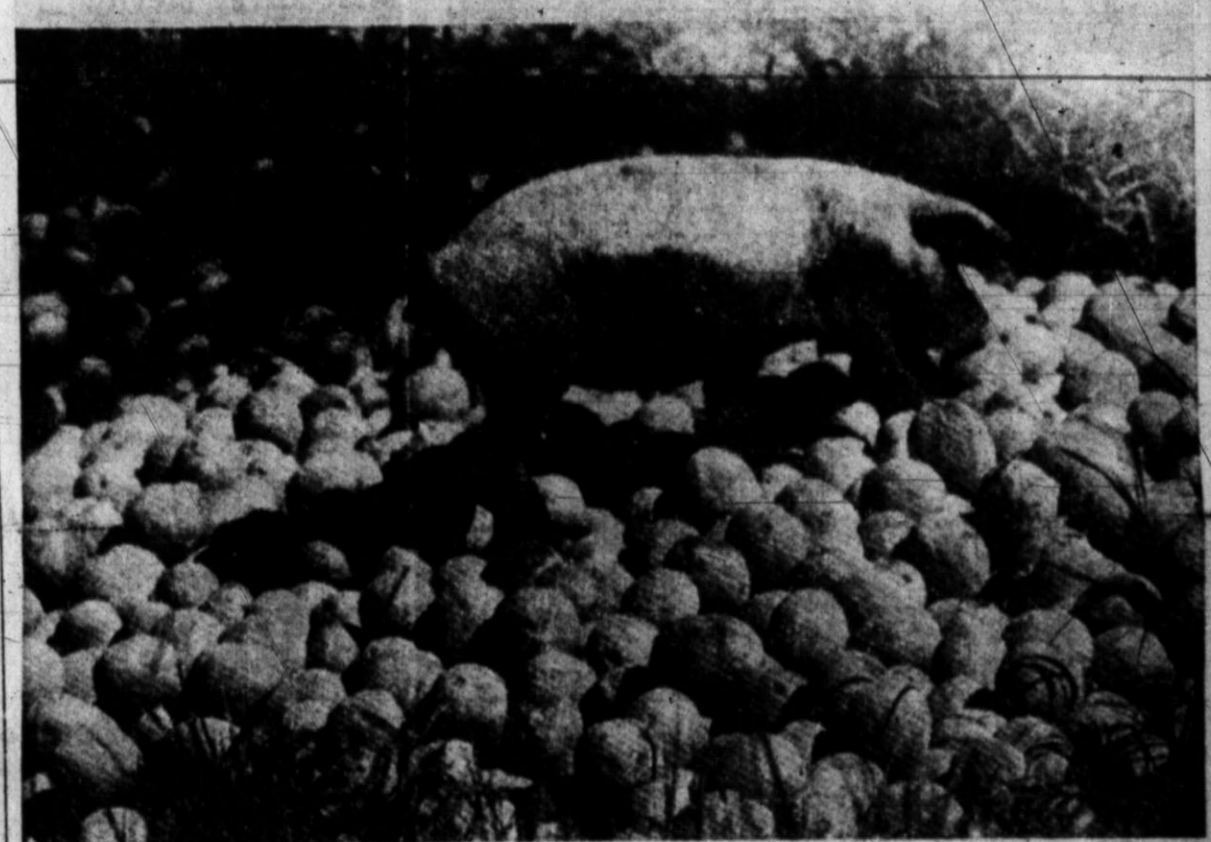

Construction started Monday on a 200 foot by 50 foot building in the Parkway Shopping Center, across from the swimming pool and east of the Cooke Clinic. The unit will be divided into six stores, all facing Park Avenue and extending to the corner of E Street. The project will be the property of Ernest Witherspoon, father of Jas. W. Witherspoon, and W. L. Stark, Amarillo contractor, has the construction contract. "Various types of business are planned in each of the six buildings," Mr. Witherspoon said, and he predicted that the shopping center would afford complete shopping variety for the public, including a food store. Plans call for a modern type building featuring large amounts of glass and attractive store fronts. Mr. Witherspoon said that no rental contracts had been made as yet, but said that several firms were negotiating for the spaces. The six new stores will be in addition to Wonderland Shop and the clinic, which are already located on the same block on Park Avenue.

Up County Taxes To Retire Road Bonds

Property owners of Deaf Smith County will pay 37 cents more in county taxes per 100 dollars assessed valuation this year than they paid last year. This is due to a 37 cent levy to pay interest on the $500,000 county road bonds issued after the September voting, and to pay off the bonds as they become due. Those living in the Walcott common school district will also pay 30 cents more school tax than last year because of the $85,000 bond issued in the district to build a new school house. However, their total levy only now equals that of the Hereford Independent school district, where school taxes are levied by the school board. The total of county and school taxes for all the county is $3.07 per 100 dollars assessed valuation. This compares with $2.70 last year for those in the Hereford school district and $2.40 for those in the Walcott district. Of the $3.07 total, $1.50 will go again to schools; 67 cents to roads, and 21 cents to the county hospital. The remaining 69 cents is widely distributed. All the levies, according to records in the office of the county clerk of meetings of the commissioners' court, is as follows: Per $100 of assessed valuation: Jury fund $.03, Road and bridge fund .15, Road and bridge special fund .15, General fund .36, General sinking fund .01, Hospital maintenance fund .06, Hospital interest and sinking fund .15, Permanent improvement warrant fund .04, Poll Tax (to be levied at time of payment) .25, County road bonds .37, For the Walcott district—C.S.D. No. 6 maintenance 1.20, Interest and sinking .30. TOTAL $3.07. For Hereford Independent School District—Maintenance 1.35, Interest & sinking .15. TOTAL $3.07.

Underground Water Reservoir Hearing Slated August 29

Deaf Smith County may be designated a part of an underground water reservoir which includes twenty other Panhandle-South Plains counties at a hearing in Plainview, Tuesday, August 29, according to a notice from the State Board of Water Engineers of Texas. The notice states three petitions, each signed by more than 50 persons of three counties: Hockley, Lamb and Hale, asked for the designation and establishment of an underground water reservoir in each of such counties and such additional territory as the State Board finds to be a part of the reservoir. Any person whose land is included, or would be affected by designation of any or all of the counties as an underground water reservoir may appear and offer testimony. They can show that any areas concerned would or would not, be a part of the reservoir.

HE HIT THE CEILING—State Sanitation Engineer Hamlin found the hog feeding grounds just east of the City Sewage Disposal plant the most distasteful point in his inspection of Hereford and vicinity this week, according to County Health Officer Dr. L. B. Barnett, Dr. Barnett said. "We expect a full report from the State Sanitation Department this week, and the county will try to follow it," Hamlin worked up a preliminary survey from his visit here during which he inspected the labor camp; tent camps within the city limits, by the packing sheds and along the creek. DEMPSTER NO. 21 LISTER TYPE FURROW-SEEDING MACHINE

You can produce healthy, profit-making plants with the newly improved No. 21 Dempster Deep Furrow-Seeding Machine, because it plants your seed deep down in the moist fertile subsoil. The 6 in. wide furrows protect the seed from winter-kill, soil-blowing and drought so it can germinate early into strong, sturdy plants.

Plant Your Small Grain, Row Crop or Beans with the IMPROVED DEEP FURROW-SEEDING MACHINE

You'll find it pays to investigate the lister type No. 21 Dempster Deep Furrow-Seeding Machine before you buy. Let us show you how the new adjustable run feed and redesigned feed box and packer wheels sow your seed for more successful plant growth, especially if you need to penetrate a tough, heavy stubble mulch in the seed bed.

The Dempster No. 21 Deep Furrow-Seeding Machine is an eight-hole drill with furrow openers spaced at 14" apart. It is equipped with new adjustable internal run seed cup which combines the even flowing qualities of the double run feed and the adjustability of the fluted feed. This makes the machine a very satisfactory means for planting small grains such as wheat, oats, barley, rye and all types of sorghum, beans and peas. Rows may be spaced 14", 28" or 42", as desired. When adjusted and operated properly this machine will give satisfactory service for many years.

Delicate white blossoms completely covered the top of the umbrella and extended over the edges with ruffles of blue lace.

Letters To The Editor
Hereford, Texas, August 18, 1950
Editor The Brand,
Dear Editor:
Being one of the fortunates to attend the final opening of Harrison Hi-way at Rosedale, N. M. yesterday, it was my pleasure to be present and to partake of the fine eats—the barbecued meat being the finest I ever tasted; in fact it was so well cooked and tender that a knife and fork were not needed. I did not know it was possible for anyone to prepare such delicious meat, and the ones responsible for it deserve a pat on the back.
When Esca Harrison took over this project of a highway to the state line, only a six mile lane, 60 feet wide, extended to just a few hundred feet east of the deep lake just west of a gate which was in existence, and to go on west from this point it was necessary to open this gate. In extending the road on west it was necessary to go across this deep lake. $1500.00 was paid John L. Fuqua to build a grade across this lake, the lake being dry at the time, so Mr. Fuqua with teams and scrapers succeeded in building up this grade, and after being used a few times, heavy rains set in and washed out this grade. So then it was decided to go around this lake to the north of this grade and this U-shaped road was in use up to the time of building the present roadway.
A man then and now living in Hereford, spent weeks and months, on and off, free gratis, who worked hand in hand with Esca Harrison, in procuring permits from the different farm and ranch owners for the privilege of extending this road across their land on west to the state line, only 60 feet in width and then being required—the present right of way being 120 feet wide. Some 25 years or more ago a big picnic, with several hundred present, was held at Bellview, and at this gathering which was in celebration of the final procurement of this right of way to the state line, Esca Harrison was present and delivered the principal speech. This celebration was a great success, and compared somewhat—only on a smaller scale—with the one held in Rosedale yesterday. The Hereford man, as above stated, who did practically all the clerical work, was present yesterday at this celebration, but his name was never mentioned, and he was also present at the Bellview celebration. In procuring permission to cross farms and ranches, all went well until the Prestridge Survey was reached some 11 miles west of Hereford, and after some delay and much correspondence was had, Mr. Prestridge agreed to give the right of way gratis, provided the road was built at a slight angle from southeast to northwest through his land. This was agreed to and accounts for this angle in the pavement, which is hardly noticeable as we drive over it. Things went smoothly until the John H. Wagner ranch was reached some 17 miles west of Hereford.
Mr. Wagner was then one of our county commissioners, a splendid man and well liked by all; in order to go on straight west it was necessary to go across his ranch, thus cutting off considerable land from the main part of his land. After weeks of negotiation with him, however, it seemed necessary to form the one-eighth mile jog and not disturb his ranch, so this accounted for this jog in the road that has been in use throughout all the years up to the time of building the present road. To recount the many drawbacks and complications in connection with all this work would require much time and space, so this short outline of just what Mr. Harrison was up against in procuring this fine highway might prove interesting.
Yours truly,

Business Leader With Great War Record Tells How Hadacol Has Rebuilt Him Physically

Was run-down, weak, after service in South Pacific due to deficiencies of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron and Niacin

Mr. Donald Hedburg, who resides at 1812 Parker in the fashionable Riverside District of Wichita, Kansas, has been an up-and-coming executive member of the staff of the great Wichita Eagle newspaper for over four years.
Mr. Hedburg has an enviable record of combat with the U. S. Army in the South Pacific in World War II. He is very active in civic affairs. And just as he was anxious to pitch in and do a job during the war—he now wants to help his fellow citizens who (like he was once), are physically run-down and weak due to lack of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron, and Niacin in their systems.

Here is Donald W. Hedburg's witnessed statement: "When I returned from service, I faced the problem of rebuilding myself physically. I was in a general run-down condition.
"In my present capacity of advertising salesman for Kansas' greatest newspaper, The Wichita Eagle, it's absolutely necessary that I have plenty of vitality—'get up and go.' I had real cause to worry. Nothing seemed to rebuild me constitutionally. Then a friend of mine on the national staff told me about HADACOL—he asked me to try at least five bottles. I'm on my fourth bottle and already I feel like my old self. I look forward to a day's work and go home—play with the children—work in the yard—fish until midnight! Thanks again to HADACOL, energy and vitality once again course through every fiber of my body. You bet, I too, am now a missionary for this great new HADACOL."
Get That Wonderful HADACOL Feeling Everyone is Talking About
HADACOL gives such wonderful results because it not only supplies deficient, weak run-down systems with more than their daily needs of important Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron, and Niacin—but also helpful amounts of precious Calcium, Phosphorus and Manganese—elements so vital to help maintain good health and physical fitness.

If you are a victim of neuritis pains, certain stomach and nervous disturbances, constipation, insomnia, a weak, run-down condition due to such deficiencies, HADACOL will start you on the road to feeling better often within a few days. Thousands upon thousands of records of grateful men, women and children proved this to be so.

Many Doctors Recommend It
HADACOL is recommended by many doctors not only to their patients but to members of their own families who have such deficiencies. Before giving up hope—you owe it to yourself to at least give HADACOL a chance to help you. Why keep dragging yourself around feeling "half-alive" when it's so easy to have that wonderful HADACOL feeling that everyone is talking about! Trial-size bottle, only $1.25. Large family or hospital size, $3.50. Refuse substitutes.

All Steel Moline-Monitor DRILLS

Famous Features

Sowing of seed has been one of the most important phases of living since the beginning of civilization. For centuries man has known covering of seed at uniform depth with even distribution of seed has assured better yields and uniform ripening. Even so it was not until the latter part of the 19th century that the first commercially successful grain drills were developed and these were Monitors. You therefore find that many of the world's finest features were pioneered and patented on Monitor Drills. For many years about 9 out of 10 beet growers used Moline Monitor drills for their expensive and delicate beet seed. Many growers of spinach, radish, onion and other crops where the seeds are very tiny, delicate and expensive, also prefer the Moline Monitor drills because they must be sure of careful seed handling, accuracy and uniform depth of drilling. They know they will get this performance in a Moline Monitor. Fine flax seed, too, is accurately handled by Moline-Monitor Drills without use of any extra attachments.

all working parts in alignment. For the largest sized MM Drills extra bracing from the frame to hitch are used. This is shown on page 6-7.

HITCHES:

Are easily bolted to the frame. Tractor hitches are built entirely of high carbon steel angles. Extra braces are furnished on the largest sized drills.

LEVERS:

Front raising levers are used to regulate pressure. On tractor drawn drills levers are placed so that they can be reached from tractor seat. On horse drawn drills the levers remain in front, or seat, whichever is used, so with a Moline-Monitor you never have to walk around levers when filling the hopper.

PRESSURE SPRINGS:

High quality pressure springs are used. Pressure rods are made of tubular steel—light in weight yet strong and durable. Levers are used for depth and pressure control, but further adjustment is possible by changing position of cotter pin in lower part of pressure rods. Hole No. 4 is always used except in extra hard soil.

AXLES:

The full floating stub axles made of heavy duty, high carbon steel are 1 3/8" in diameter. They are set to give pitch and gather to wheels. Inner bearings are fastened to frame and SPECIAL TRUSS RODS prevent end play.

AXLE BEARINGS:

The outer ends of the axles, where the load is carried, are supported by extra large roller bearings. The bearings are completely enclosed in self-aligning, dust-proof housings. The inner ends of the axles revolve in durable, replaceable bearings which are also self-aligning. These bearings assure light draft and long life.

WHEELS:

Famous MM wheels with spokes forged into the hub and rim while hot, forming a shoulder on the inside and a head on the outside—similar to a boiler rivet fastening. Wheels are 46 inches in diameter. The heavy steel concave tires are just the right width for the weight of the drill and vary somewhat with size of drill. The concave tires do not carry the soil up on the inside. Another reason for using the concave tire is to prevent side slipping on hillsides. They also assure light draft and leave a track that is easy to see with a minimum of soil packing. Rubber tires also available as extra equipment. Size 6.50 x 16 implement type tires.

For Careful Seed Handling, Accurate Drilling and Uniform Depth Insist on A Moline Monitor Drill.

Doris Hastings Becomes Bride Of Wayne Hill

The First Presbyterian Church was the scene of a pretty informal wedding Thursday afternoon when Doris Hastings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hastings became the bride of Wesley Wayne Hill, son of Mrs. Ada Hill of Vernon.

Tall baskets holding white gladiolus tied with white satin ribbon flanked the altar garlanded with white florists roping. Pews for the families were marked by white satin ribbon bows.

Miss Thelma McMinn, organist, gave a prelude of nuptial music including "Clair De Lune," "De Bussy," "Because," "D'Hardelet," and "Indian Love Call" by Fremli. She played "The Rosary" by Nevin while the mothers were being seated and immediately preceding the ceremony "Youman's 'Through the Years'" was played as a solo. During the ceremony Miss McMinn played "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte.

At the first strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin, the pastor, Rev. Russell Wingert officiated for the double-ring ceremony, entered at the side of the church followed by the bridegroom and his groomsmen. Bill Cross of Canyon and Clinton Russell of Vernon, who served as best man. Ushers were Pete Brumley, Clarendon, and Clinton Williams, Phillips.

The bridesmaids entered together. They were Miss Joe Board and Miss Martha Bailey, both of Amarillo. They wore forest green and navy suits respectively, with navy accessories and corsages of yellow chrysanthemums.

The bride entered with her father who gave her in marriage. She wore a gray-blue suit of Mil-ateen gabardine featuring button-tabs on the jacket and slim skirt. Her blouse was in navy and her small navy velvet hat was accented with pearl trim. She wore pearl ear-rings, and a pearl necklace, and her something old was a lapel watch, an heirloom belonging to her mother. She carried a white satin Bible topped with an orchid surrounded by tiny button mums from which cascaded a shower of white-satin streamers.

The bride's mother wore a black crepe dress with white trim and a dusty rose felt hat. The bridegroom's mother wore a black crepe dress with small black velvet hat. Both wore white button - chrysanthemum corsages.

Reception in Bride's Home
Following the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Hastings were hosts at a reception honoring the couple with the wedding party and members of the immediate families attending.

The serving table was laid with a hand-made cloth and centered with a massed bouquet of white phlox. The three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bridal couple, was made by the bride's mother. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Bill Knox, Alma Faye Knox, Mrs. C-Ora Cockrell, J a c k i e Wright, Mrs. J. T. Gilbreath, Jr., Mrs. Charles Hill and Mrs. Ralph Hastings.

For the wedding trip to Ruidosa, N. M. the bride donned a navy suit-dress worn with navy accessories. The orchid from her wedding bouquet formed her corsage. The couple will return to Canyon this week where she will complete final work at WTSC and he will receive his B.S. degree. They will make their home in Ropesville where he will be athletic coach in the Ropesville public schools.

Mrs. Hill was reared in Hereford. She is a graduate of Hereford high school. She is classed as a senior at West Texas State College where she has been a member of the student senate member of Delta Zeta Chi and a member of the Buffalo Band.

Mr. Hill is a graduate of Vernon high school and was a member of the Buffalo football team at West Texas State College Canyon, for four years. He was a member of the "T" Club there and served two years in the Navy during the war.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included: Mrs. Ada Hill the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Roy Webb, Mrs. James Davis, and Mrs. Buddy Rogers, sisters of Vernon; Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Russell, Vernon; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Tomlinson and Jimmie of Tulla, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hastings Dimmitt; Nancy McClellan, W. L. Henry-Williams Rites Are Read In Baptist Church At Rule Aug. 4

The First Baptist Church of Rule was the scene for a nuptial service that united in marriage, Miss Nell Henry of Stamford and Delmo Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Williams of Hereford. Rev. Houston Walker officiated at the double-ring ceremony on August 4, at four o'clock in the afternoon in the presence of close friends and relatives.

The sanctuary of the church was decorated with basket bouquets of white gladiolus and greenery and the wedding music was presented by Mrs. Ed Cloud who gave pre-nuptial selections and the traditional wedding marches.

Mrs. Joe Bill Barnes, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor and Duane Williams, twin brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Mrs. Barnes wore an aqua frock featuring white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Henry of Stamford, was given in marriage by her father. She wore a ballerina length dress of white eyelet organdy made with low neck and short sleeves. Her bridal bouquet was of white tube roses centered with an orchid and carried with a white Bible. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother wore a rust and white floral voile with brown accessories and the bridegroom's mother wore a green crepe dress with white accessories. Both wore white carnation corsages.

Following the ceremony a small reception was held in the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. M. O. Daughtry, Mrs. B. A. R. n e's and Carol Coleman presided at the refreshment table.

When the couple left on a short wedding trip the bride was wearing a navy and white two-piece dress with white accessories and the orchid from the wedding bouquet.

Tall, Cool Drinks As Seasonable As Picnics And Watermelon Feasts

As long as the thermometer continues to rise above 80 degrees F, housewives will be kept busy whisking ice-cube trays in and out of the refrigerator. But when temperatures are above ginger ale with fruit juices—tinted pale yellow, pink or green with jello in whatever hue you prefer. We obtained this recipe from Mrs. E. S. Ireland who has used it recently.

Fruit Punch with Ginger Ale

- 2 qt. cans orange juice
- 1 qt. can pineapple juice
- 3 bottles real lemon juice
- 5 cups sugar
- 2 large bottles ginger ale
- 4 packages jello—flavor suit color desired.

Pour all the juices into a stone jar. Dissolve the sugar in one cup of hot water and let come to a boil. Make the jello as directed on package using double amount of water. Add the sugar and jello and two quarts of water to the juices and about two hours before serving place a ten pound chunk of ice in the jar with the mixture. This will add enough water as it melts. Just before serving add the ginger ale a little at a time, and blend all ingredients well. Add a small chunk of ice to the punch bowl when ready to serve. Serves 100.

Let's Cook Something

or below normal, cold drinks are as much a part of the seasonal scene as picnics and watermelon feasts.

One particularly good recipe for the tall, cool drink, that has been used frequently this summer for parties and picnics and just for the family, is to combine

Birthday Party Feature "Let's Go Western" Theme

Invitations to Bruce Benson's birthday party Tuesday afternoon read "Let's Go Western" August 15, and when guests arrived at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Benson, at 5 o'clock, they completed the western scene for all were in costume with hats, boots and spurs.

Upon arrival the little guests were given cowboy pictures to color and then they went to the downstairs play room where all the un-opened packages waited.

The refreshment table was arranged in the back yard and featured Hop-Along Cassidy cloth, plates and cups. In the center of the table was an up-turned cowboy hat filled with toy pop-blisters, favors for the group. Other western suggestions for the table were cowboy boots and miniature cowboys and lariat ropes. Cakes and ice cream were served and the cakes were green topped with tiny brown sugar horse shoes. Western games were played and when the children left they were presented with pink and green stick horses with brown leather reins, presumably for the journey home.

Mrs. Benson was assisted by Mrs. B. F. Cain and Mrs. Wayne Evans.

Helen Sears Celebrates 6th Birthday

Six-year-old Helen Sears was honored with a birthday party given at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sears, Tuesday afternoon. Birthday games were played and gifts were opened. At refreshment time the group gathered around the birthday table to sing "Happy Birthday" and Helen cut the first piece of the birthday cake.

Mothers attending were Mesdames: Carl McCaslin, Jack Bradley, Kellar Muse, Troy Moore and Louis Woodford.

Mrs. Glen Campbell and son, Douglas, Mrs. John Hamby and daughters, Elma Rae and Norma, and grandson, Ronald Anderson were guests of Mrs. Hamby's brother, W. E. Wren in Crosbyton Wednesday.

North Hereford Club Enjoys Luncheon Meet

Mrs. J. C. McCracken was hostess to members and guests of the Wednesday Luncheon Club at a bridge-luncheon held in her home on August 9. A line arrangement of asters in shades of pink and orchid formed an attractive centerpiece for the table from which the luncheon was served.

After the luncheon contract was enjoyed with Mrs. E. B. Hedrick playing high for the score award; Mrs. C. C. Acker, second high and Mrs. W. L. Davis, Sr., low.

Special guests for the day were Mrs. Hedrick, and Mrs. H. A. Close.

Members present were Mesdames: H. K. Fox, Oscar Eastley, Alton Fraser, Jimmie Gillelentine, C. C. Acker, W. L. Davis, Sr., and the hostess.

Bob Carnahan is a candidate for a Bachelor of Arts degree at Texas Technological College and will receive his diploma August 23 with the midsummer graduating class. Bob has majored in English and has maintained a high scholastic record at the Lubbock College, being awarded the Wranglers Club (social fraternity) honor plaque for the highest average among club members. MRS. BILL BRADLEY

Wilson Is Dallas Candidate For Texas Supreme Court

By TIM PARKER
The Associated Press
(EDITOR'S NOTE: One of a series of biographical sketches on major candidates in the August 26 second Democratic primary election.)
Will Wilson of Dallas has come a long way in his 37 years. Now he wants to sit on the Texas Supreme Court bench.
In brief, here is the record of this youthful candidate for place 1 on the court in the August 26 primary.
1. Served as assistant district attorney under attorney's general Gerald C. Mann and Grover Sellers.
2. Won two consecutive terms as district attorney for Dallas County. Gained considerable reputation as a "racket smasher."
3. Topped the three-man field in the July 22 first primary for the supreme court post, place 1. Now faces Fagan Dickson of San Antonio and Austin in the runoff.
- Squeeze in action-filled service with the 32nd Division in the Pacific during World War II and you can see that Will Wilson has been a busy man.
Wilson's grandparents combined the military and religious aspects of early-day southern life. His parental grandfather was a surgeon in Robert E. Lee's army during the Civil War. He made his home in Texas in 1855. Wilson's maternal grandfather was a Methodist circuit-riding minister in frontier Tennessee. The candidate's father is a business man, his mother a former teacher.
After working as an oil field roughneck and surveyor in both

East and West Texas, Wilson got his law degree from Southern Methodist University in Dallas. Later he taught evening law classes at SMU.

He interrupted his career as a civil lawyer to go to war. He was commanding officer of the 465th Field Artillery Battalion of the 32nd Division. As such he held American lines on Northern Luzon when the rest of the division headed for Japan. At one time he took custody of five three-star Japanese generals.

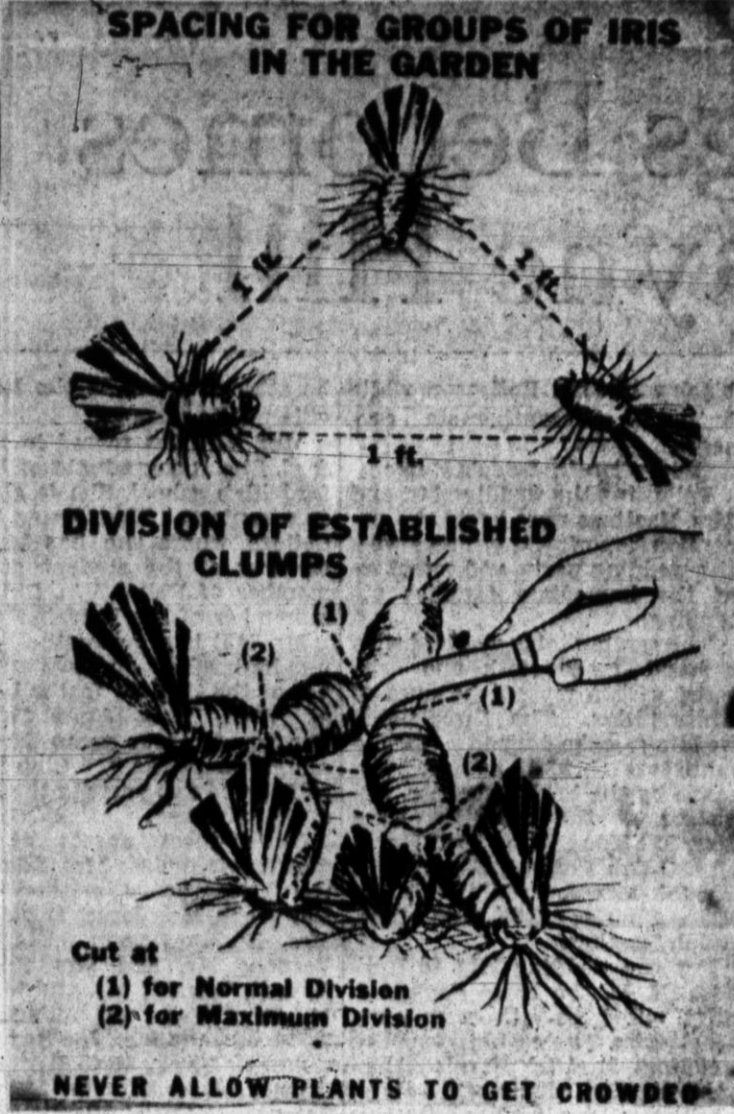

Back from the war, Wilson won a five-man race for district attorney in Dallas. He was re-elected. He became an adviser to the National Crime Conference in Washington, chairman of the Texas Bar Association's steering committee on modernizing the penal code. He is past president of the District and County Attorneys Association of Texas.

When he announced his candidacy early in May, Wilson said:

"There is nothing a candidate for the Texas Supreme Court can promise the voters except justice."

Michael Gene Kelly, son of Mrs. Bonnie Kelly has returned from a month's visit with his grandmother, Mrs. J. D. Hadley, in Waco.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Whisenand, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. F. T. Roison, are spending a two weeks' vacation with relatives in California.

DUDLEY GREEN HEREFORD, TEXAS ARCHIE SCOTT

Ben Guill Reports

During the last few weeks I have received literally hundreds of letters from the Panhandle asking why the United States Government persists in coddling Communists at home at the same time it is sending American boys overseas to fight Communists abroad. This letter is typical: Dear Congressman Guill:

"While our boys are over in Korea fighting the Communists we are over here coddling them. I am sick and tired of their insults and slander. Send them to their beloved Russia. Get rid of them any way you want, but get rid of them."

"My two just boys have gone into the United States Navy and I'm proud of them. But I can't stand by and see the very thing they are fighting stand up in our country and mock us and plot our downfall. I insist that something be done right now"

The letter was signed by a mother in Amarillo. I agree with this mother entirely. It's disgusting and bewildering that this government should give aid and comfort right here in Washington to those who wish to destroy us. We have been far too delicate about interfering with the so-called "civil rights" of those who would annihilate all civil rights if they had their way.

The most likely instrument of thwarting Communist infiltration into our Government is that Mundt-Nixon Bill. This Bill would make it obligatory for every Communist in the country to register and would set severe penalties if this regulation were not complied with. It would also make a serious criminal offense for a communist to accept or retain a position in Federal Government or for a Government official to employ a communist in a Federal position. The Bill would also make it obligatory for communist front organizations to register and for the members of such organizations to make themselves known to the authorities. The Mundt-Nixon Bill makes good sense. You would think it would be passed into law by acclamation. But it has had a very peculiar history in Congress. In 1948 the House passed the Bill by a huge majority. However, the Bill never was reported out by the Senate Committee on the Judiciary. Oddly enough the Republicans dominated the Committee at that time but they held up the Bill because there was some doubt about its constitutionality.

The objectionable parts of the Bill were amended and the Bill was re-introduced during the present Congress. The Senate Committee reported it out favorably, by a vote of 12 to 1 seven months ago. That left it squarely up to Democratic Senator Scott Lucas of Illinois, the Senate Majority leader, to bring it up for a vote. Senator Lucas, acting on Administration orders, has refused to bring the Bill up for a vote. In the meanwhile, the Mundt-Nixon Bill has been locked up in the House Committee for seven months. The hearings were completed seven months ago but there has been no committee action.

The committees are dominated by administration committee chairmen who are almost dictators when it comes to reporting legislation out for action on the floor. Why has the Mundt-Nixon Bill been kicked around? Because of pressure from special interest groups with bloc votes to deliver. The Political Action Committee of the CIO has been particularly active in defaming the Bill. The argument has been that the Bill would violate "civil rights" and would create a Star Chamber which would be able to persecute anyone who disagreed with it.

Of course, the Bill would do nothing of the sort. It requires that hearings be held on every disputed case. Under the present procedure, the Attorney General, on his own responsibility, issues a list of organizations from time to time which he labels "Communist Front." This is done without any hearings at all.

That is Star Chamber procedure, if you will. Despite the threat of a fifth column within our own government, the powers that be have been playing politics in the face of national disaster. It is my opinion that once the Mundt-Nixon Bill became law you would see hundreds of Reds and fellow-travelers scurrying out of government employment.

Certainly, anyone who plays politics with important legislation such as this is being a bad American. Consider this: The Department of Justice now believes that Russia would not have the atom bomb today if traitors within our own government had not given the Communists our secrets.

Democratic Senator Pat McCarran, of Nevada, is at this moment trying to lift the provisions of the Mundt-Nixon Bill and put them into a Bill of his own. A quick check on the Senate revealed that only 12 Senators will oppose the Bill.

However, it doesn't matter if the legislation is introduced as a Republican or a Democratic Bill. Politics is of small importance, if any, when the fate of the nation is at stake. The important thing is to get the Bill passed as soon as possible.

Some of our most left-wing Congressmen who have opposed the Bill bitterly are now beating their breasts and shouting "Me Too" in favor of the Bill. They've been hearing from the folks back home. The folks back home are angry and they have every right to be. I've said this before, but one cannot repeat it too often. This country is in danger. Its danger is worse than at any time in its history. Anybody who can't put the safety and future of this country above politics should be kicked off Cap'to' Hill. This is no time for partisan politics or bi-partisan politics. This is a time for non-partisan Americanism. Period.

A TOWN CAN'T ADVANCE VERY FAR

Without Men Like These

Seldom does a community enter as wholeheartedly into an endeavor as Hereford did into the Harrison Highway opening.

But, perhaps the most impressive feature of the celebration was the fact that practically every business in Hereford was represented through some manner in extending a friendly hand to the people on the other end, and along the newly paved highway.

Local merchants cooperated with the Retail Merchants committee in giving money to defray expenses and giving gifts for the bingo game, with few exceptions. This is the spirit that makes a town prosperous and a better place to live.

Sure there were complaints, "why wasn't the celebration held in Hereford?" "it won't mean anything to my business," and "I'm against going out that far" were just a few. But they were in the minority, in fact almost the exception that proves the rule.

It is all over now, even the shouting, but every person who had a hand in putting the celebration over can always look back and say to himself, "I did my part in putting over a successful campaign to make Hereford a better place in which to live."

What more can you ask for?

the rights of the capital. The careless use of the epithets "socialism" and "communism" may be soothing to orators but the habit does not change facts nor the drift of affairs.

A Free Press

There is a vast difference between the right to a free press and the existence of a free press, as will be discovered if the people of the world accept the idea that constitutional of treaty provisions can insure a free press.

It is necessary, of course, that the peoples of all countries get the news of the world. This means that their governments must permit uncensored news dispatches to be freely sent to all lands. It requires the freedom to print news dispatches, uncensored, from other countries.

The naked right to send dispatches and to print them, however, does not establish a free press, upon which the future peace of the world largely depends. There must be capable and courageous journals, ready and willing to print the news, as fully and impartially as possible.

It may be presumed that in international affairs the newspapers of every country will naturally gravitate to the support of their government. It is difficult to imagine these newspapers giving much space to the arguments advanced in other nations against our policies. Some of them will print some news items from the foreign nation but not much space will be given to matters that undermine the American conviction.

Upon the editors and owners of the newspapers of the world (and the magazines and radio stations) will devolve a tremendous duty if we are to develop that understanding of other peoples which makes us sympathize with their difficulties and anxiously desirous of obtaining settlements just to all.

Welfare Decides

Practically everybody in the United States agrees that the dominant clash in the world of today is the contest between Communism, as espoused by the Soviet Union, and capitalism, as it exists in the United States.

It is well for American citizens to understand that the decision between these conflicting economic theories does not hinge upon wide issues in the realms of international politics and that the victor will be determined by what the respective economic systems do for the average man and woman in their respective areas.

It is comforting, perhaps for Americans to get the idea that the people of Russia are God-less and that the Soviet Government dominates its millions by force. This contrasts strangely with the freedoms that our political system accords Americans but, regardless of our idolatry of individualism, the ultimate test is certain to devolve upon the welfare of the masses of men, women and children, who make up the populations of the conflicting areas.

In practically every country of the world there exists a cleavage between conflicting political views, generally referred to as the right and the left. The current course of history indicates very clearly that the drift of mankind is to the left. This, interpreted most favorably to its protagonists, is a concern for the welfare and growth of individuals and offers amazing opportunities in the propaganda field. It is not a question whether governments will swing to the left, or not, but how far they will swing.

It is somewhat foolish for those who oppose the drift toward the left to denounce it as socialism or communism. The facts of history demonstrate beyond dispute that the trend of modern government is distinctly toward the left. With universal suffrage it is absolutely inevitable that measures devised to benefit the masses will receive the votes of more people than those intended to preserve

Practical Courses

When the fall term of Hereford High School opens next month one new course and another two-year old course will be offered that should prove as practical as anything ever offered by the local school.

After a lot of work the school's administration has been successful in securing approval of a course in distributive education, which will give classroom instruction as well as on-the-job experience for junior and senior students in the wholesale, retail, and service trades of the community.

After taking aptitude tests and consultation with the distributive education teacher and the counselor on vocational guidance, each junior or senior student enrolled in the course can choose what type of business or trade he would like to learn.

Experience has been in other towns in which the course has been inaugurated that local business men have been enthusiastic in co-operating with the school, and in some towns at the present time the business men are on the waiting list because the number of students is far short of the demand of the merchants and business men.

There is a large percentage of both young men and young women graduates of Hereford High that do not go to college. Two years of training in a business in which they are interested and for which they are temperamentally adopted will be more valuable to the students than any other course that they might have studied during their school years. Such training would be valuable also for those who go to college since it will give a better sense of direction in their college work and professional training.

The other course offered for the third time this fall will be that of driver education.

Working closely with the Texas Department of Public Safety, of which the Texas Highway Patrol is a part, the local instructor will have enrolled in his classes freshmen or sophomore high school students.

Not only will the students be given the fundamentals of the proper operation of an automobile but they will be taught the principles of highway safety at the same time.

Both of these courses should build better citizenship for our community and our state and after all that is one of the primary purposes of education.

Secret ECA Session

AS CONGRESSIONAL leaders gathered in his office to discuss the President's request for an additional $4-billion to arm our allies, Mr. Truman opened the meeting by urging everyone to "speak freely and give me your opinions." He got his wish.

There were two verbal explosions at the secret session, one from Democratic Sen. Tom Connally of Texas, who demanded that some of the $4-billion be diverted from ECA spending; another from GOP congressman Dewey Short of Missouri, who objected to bypassing congressional committees.

"Are all these millions for economic (ECA) aid necessary at a time like this?" demanded Connally, pointing out that if the U.S.A. must tighten its belt economically for war, our European friends should expect less economic help from us. "Why can't some of it be used for military aid?" the Texas senator asked.

"We can't cut off food to those unfortunate people," explained Secretary of State Acheson, who attended the meeting. He added that this was more important than sending arms—certainly more important in keeping the friendship of western Europe.

"Yes, but we don't have to feed them for five years," boomed the acid-tongued Texan. "Some of our own people need feeding. Besides, not all this ECA money goes for food. Some of it is spent for such things as hydroelectric projects in Europe."

Acheson agreed, but reminded Connally that western Europeans need electric power not only for peace, but to manufacture arms for use against aggressors.

"It takes two or three years to build a dam and the other facilities needed to produce electric power," shot back Texas Tom, in no mood to be argued down. "We are dealing with a current emergency—the problem of providing military aid now. If an amendment is offered to use some of this ECA money for arms, I'll vote for it."

Missourians Differ

Congressman Short, the only house Republican from Truman's home state—therefore an object of special disdain at the White House—complained about the strategy of bypassing the foreign affairs and armed services committees by sending the $4-billion measure directly to the senate and house appropriations committees.

The time you will save will not be worth the bad feeling you will create in congress," protested Short. "If you went through the regular procedure of getting authorizations from the foreign affairs and armed services committees, you could still get this bill to the floor in a day."

"A lot of my colleagues will want to know what type of weapons we are sending to Europe—what countries are getting how much—and if the shipments can be made without weakening ourselves. But this information will be denied us."

"As one humble and insignificant member of congress," the Missourian continued, "I can't say that we should give unanimous approval to this unconstitutional procedure."

"Oh, you're trying to make an issue out of nothing," snapped the President.

"No, I'm not," retorted his fellow Missourian. "There's a proper and an improper way to handle these matters."

Finally, house GOP leader Joe Martin intervened in favor of the president.

Wiretapping Probe

Betting odds on Capitol Hill are that the federal grand jury now probing police-state methods and the wiretapping inspired by Senator Brewster of Maine will end in a whitewash.

Despite the efforts of conscientious James Molnery, chief of the justice department's criminal division, alibis are arranged to get Senator Brewster and his friends, Pan American Airways, off the hot spot.

In the first place, the justice department held the wiretapping report for almost a year and only fished it out of the files after the facts had been exposed in the press. As a result, the statute of limitations is about to expire, and but one scant week remains—seven days from today—in which the grand jury can act.

Fared for His Life

Meanwhile Senator Brewster's story is that his life was in danger and he called in the Washington police. While they may have tapped some wires in protecting him, he had no knowledge of what they were doing and received no information from them.

Significantly, other policemen who tapped Howard Hughes' wire under Lieutenant Shimon's direction had instructions to listen especially for conversations pertaining to the airplane industry.

The Elmer Reynolds family returned Thursday from a trip to the Texas Gulf and Texas points of interest.

The Bear Finds Summer Unbearable

Louisa's Letter

Dear Louisa:

I have been married ten years and have two precious little girls but I am distressed because I feel that we are teaching them to be very selfish and self-centered. My husband's mother lives with us and both she and my husband seem to think that the children should do and have everything they wish for.

Of course I want the children to be happy but I think they should be taught to give as well as receive. If we have a dessert that one of the girls likes, Mother or Bill will say that they don't care for theirs and see that the child gets a double portion. If I insist that they keep their room in order, Mother will slip in and do most of the cleaning. If they go over their allowance, Bill will slip them what they need. It has really reached the point that if our plans interfere with theirs, they take it as a matter of course that we will give up ours.

I feel that this is bad training for them and will cause them unhappiness in the long run but when I protest I am accused of being selfish and not liking to have my plans interfered with. The children hear this and of course use it as a stick to get everything they want. I really feel quite helpless and do not know how to meet this situation. If you can give me any advice I would appreciate it very much.

MOTHER-WIS.

Answer:

If you could get your husband and mother-in-law to sit down and discuss your problem, you might possibly reach a compromise plan. It is certainly a pity that you and your husband, at least, cannot work out a system for the children. When parents are divided on the rearing of children, the children quickly sense it and as you say, it gives them a stick to get everything they want by playing one parent against the other.

Your husband and his mother are so blinded by their devotion to the girls that they think they are being good to them but they are in truth storing up trouble for them as well as for the rest of you.

If it is going hard with them when they get out in the world and find out that other people resent their taking the best of everything, it will be hard for them to get along with their husbands unless they marry human doormats. And don't think they will appreciate what their parents have done for them. They will take all that for granted and keep on expecting them to give up necessities so that they may enjoy luxuries. And after getting all they can they will no doubt wonder why father was such a poor manager and couldn't save something for his old age.

Keep on trying. See that they contribute something to the family if it is no more than sweeping the porch or setting the table. See that they stay within their allowances. Teach them consideration for other people and don't give up too many of your plans for theirs.

And above everything try to get your husband to agree on what you do even if you have to meet him more than half way. In unity there is strength and you need plenty of strength, patience and love in the rearing of children.

About Your Home

WASHINGTON—Few homes do not include a household pet such as a cat or dog. Much has been written about both animals but a good deal of false information has been circulated concerning cats.

It is true, however, that no other animal do we find a wider range of virtues—cleanliness, courage, grace and beauty, independence and understanding for those he loves. Only recently has the cat begun to take his rightful place in the average mind.

There are five main breeds of cats; the domestic short hair, the Persian, the Manx, the Abyssinian and Siamese. Each breed has its distinctive body shape, fur quality, coloring and temperament.

The domestic short-hair is the most popular. The fur is short, soft and lustrous. The chest is broad, the legs sturdy. The face

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

EDITORS NOTE: The Bootleg Philosopher won't get anywhere with his plan this week, and we hope he doesn't.

Don't listen to the radio very much as it's too long between news casts and besides when I'm learning the news I like to pick out the parts I'm interested in; while on the radio you have to take it all in or risk dozing off right when something you want to hear may come in. It's like havin' to listen to your wife, while with a newspaper you can skip over the news you ain't interested in or dodge the editorials on matters you already got your mind made up about, but I was listenin' to the radio the other night and heard a program about more of this scare buying.

As I understand it, the buyers is not the only ones guilty, some stores is sort of promotin' the idea too, urgin their customers to buy this or that, especially the things they ain't havin' much success in movin' or things they can get plenty of, and I decided to try it out on one of my neighbors.

I run into him in his field yesterday and we got to talkin' about the war and shortages and I casually mentioned that I understood there was gonna be a shortage of tow-sacks, looked like tow-sacks was gonna be on the critical list, might be years before we had enough to go around but it just happened that I had a whole stack of em in my barn and while I probably could get twenty-five cents apiece for em if I tried, I'd let him have em for 'twenty cents on account of him bein' my neighbor, provided he wouldn't mention it to anybody.

But he apparently hadn't been keepin' up with the news, said he didn't have no need for any tow-sacks and if he did and they wasn't available when he needed em he'd do without and figured he'd keep on livin' about as well. You could see he wasn't keepin' up with the news and was out of touch with the times, that's the trouble with some people, they don't keep up with things.

If you know of anybody short on tow-sacks, let me know. There ought to be somebody around here I can unload on. Look what they've been doin' with pillow slips and sheets.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

SUNDAY'S CURRENT QUESTION:

Everyone Agrees College Education Is An Asset

What advantage (if any) do you consider a college education?

Ike Crosthwait, grocer: An advantage in every way. A college graduate is more alert and better trained than the man without college training.

A. J. Green, farmer: I wish I had one. If a man can learn from books, he is learning the easy way. Besides, if he can learn from books he can learn in other ways, too.

Francis Gaetz, trucker: It gives a man a chance of better jobs in the army, it gives him a chance at a commission.

Mrs. Henry Howell, farm home-maker: It should enable a man to make a better living and to enjoy life more.

Mrs. H. L. Crum, farm home-maker: It prepares a man to make a better living.

J. D. Brock, ex-farmer: A man is better off with it. He can get better jobs, for one thing.

Francis Walker, beauty operator: It is an advantage even to a house-wife. She never knows when she might have to make a living.

June Reynolds, home maker: It is a big help to the man who goes on and finishes. I don't see how it would make a woman a better housewife.

is broad and full. In temperament the domestic short-hair is a rabbit. It's nature is mild and exceedingly independent and self-reliant. On the whole this type is good-tempered, affectionate and home loving.

The Persian cat has a long, silky coat, wide ruff and fluffy tail. It gets its name from the fact that it is believed to have originated in the vicinity of Persia. The body and legs are short and stocky. The Persian lacks the lithe and agile grace of movement belonging to the domestic short-hair but walks with grace, is fastidious in his ways, and takes noticeable pride in his beautiful coat.

The Manx cat whose ancestors are said to have come from the Isle of Man, is tailless. The back is short and the hind legs long giving the Manx a hopping gait. The coat is short and is marked similar to that of the widely known Tabby but is in two lengths. The shorter undercoat causes the top coat to stand out in an effect like the fur of a rabbit. It's nature is mild and trusting and it is easy to manage and to train. The Abyssinian has a long slender body and tall. Its coat is short and ticked. It is considered the closest modern example of the ancient sacred cat of Egypt. The Abyssinian has a quite, soft manner—even its voice is mellow.

The Siamese cat was first imported from England and has become quite popular. It is a beautiful medium-sized cat with a long tapering body. The fur is short and sleek. The peculiar colorations of hair and eyes make the breed outstanding. The body is usually pale fawn or cream with the face, ears, legs and tail one of three colors, depending on the type. The eyes are almond-shaped with an oriental slant. The eye coloring is deep sapphire blue. The three main types of Siamese are blue point seal point and chocolate.

Highways should be happy ways and we are glad for the all-weather road to the New Mexico line but a rather gruesome thought came to mind as we wonder who will be the first person killed on the new highway.

Mrs. Merlin Kaul must have spent a lot of time gettin' together her history of Harrison highway and her write up of our neighbors to the west but we should like to add a postscript for Mrs. Kaul who doesn't live directly on the right-of-way but as a housewife, mother of two sons, teacher, one of the Westway Singers, news correspondent, and actively interested in every community project she is one of Westway's most versatile and worthwhile residents.

We were pretty surprised when some folks from Dumas drove up to our place for what they said were the nicest black-eyed peas they had seen.

Such a patch of them must offer some sort of a challenge as nearly everybody who comes along wants to pick their own and since they are so generous we are going to change our price but you'll have to hurry to get in on the first pickin'.

Well the weather finally got out of a rut and settled down to normal so that we could start hollerin' for rain again.

Supreme Court Candidate Claimed Texas By Choice

By DAVE CHEAVENS

Associated Press Staff
(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another of a series of biographical sketches on major candidates in the Aug. 26 Democratic primary election.)

Supreme Court candidate Fagan Dickson is a Texan by choice, NOT by chance.

He came to San Antonio in 1929 to visit relatives soon after he had been licensed to practice law in Kentucky. He liked Texas so well he decided to stay.

Now after 21 years of practice and of service in key spots as assistant attorney general, Dickson is asking Texans to give him the Democratic nomination for associate justice of the State Supreme Court, place 1, in the Aug. 26 primary. His opponent in the run-off is Will Wilson of Dallas.

Dickson is bearing down hard on his experience. He says qualifications for office are the "only real issues of the campaign."

Dickson is 46, of medium height and solidly stocky. He gets his outdoor exercise hunting and fishing, or chopping cedar near his cabin on Lake Travis. He likes to read law books for pleasure and another hobby is collecting items relating to the life of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Dickson was born in Kentucky where his father was a country storekeeper and livestock farmer. One of his first jobs was delivering ice with a mule and wagon.

He was graduated from Georgetown College, a Baptist institution, and took his law degree from Harvard in 1929.

Dickson began his legal career in San Antonio with the firm of Hicks, Hicks, Dickson and Bobbitt, which also had offices in Laredo.

One member of the firm was

Robert Lee Bobbitt, who was then Attorney General of Texas. With Bobbitt away and the senior partner ill, the young attorney shouldered much of the firm's legal work. He handled all types of cases in the trial courts and both in the state and U. S. supreme court.

He served one term in the Texas House of Representatives, where his record shows he voted against placing a ceiling on old age pensions and against placing a sales tax in the constitution.

Dickson became an assistant attorney general under Gerald C. Mann, then under Grover Sellers. He was head of the land division, and then the important oil and gas division. He had a leading role in many cases involving proration, including the famous flare gas suits which established the Railroad Commission's right to issue orders halting waste of this natural resource.

Dickson practiced law in San Antonio and Austin after he resigned as first assistant attorney general and prior to his announcement that he would seek election to the supreme court.

Dickson married Mrs. Robert Purvis Reed of Austin. They have three children, James Fagan, Jr., Roberta, and Lucy.

'A Texas Cowboy' Was First Of Now Famous Westerns

By CORINNE JENNINGS

Without knowing its place in western literature "A Texas Cowboy" by Charles A. Siringo can be read and enjoyed by those who are interested in history of the early cowboy or by those who read westerns for the fun of it.

Highly entertaining, it can be read with "glow and glee" says J. Frank Doble, who has prefaced this newest edition with several pages about the author and his works and Tom Lea has illustrated it in fine style.

Perhaps more than a million copies have been printed, reprinted and reprinted again since it first came out in 1885 and is now considered one of the first of the classics of the old West. Copies of some of the plates, in the original edition have been reproduced in this edition. So rare and so valuable today is a first edition as a collector's item that it is accessible only to the wealthy bibliophiles.

Born in Texas on the Peninsula of Matagorda of an Italian father and an Irish mother Charles Siringo inherited something that sent him questing restlessly through life. His darling began early in childhood and so did his trouble. In his younger days he seemed to always be in fights or some kind of scrape.

He learned first to be a good fist fighter and progressed through stages to be an expert with guns. This enabled him to come out alive from the many tight spots he got into because of his fearlessness as a cowboy and later as a range detective for the Pinkerton Detective Agency.

First as an adventurer and later as a cowboy he covered a lot of country from Texas to Missouri and Kansas and sailing down the Mississippi where he saw the beginning of the famous boat race between the "Robert E. Lee" and the "Natchez". He was in New Orleans a number of times.

He always returned to the Lone Star State, and in early manhood went into the cattle business, finally making a trip up the Chisholm Trail to find many adventures while still a very young fellow.

On his return he bought a boat and became a sailor but it turned out rather unsuccessful and he gladly returned to being a cowboy and to put in some more of the 15 years "on the hurricane deck of a Spanish pony" as he put it.

During the course of his travels as a cowboy he made the trip alone down the Cimeron (The new edition keeps most of the spelling of name, and his original expressions and cowboy slang.) He tells something of the Staked Plains where he once got lost; on being in Canyon Palo Duro several times, of being at Old Tascosa a number of times and on the Canadian and Red Rivers; another time he took a trip down the Rio Pecos; "of wrestling with a dose of small pox in a snow storm on the Llano Estacado;" of chasing cattle thieves which included Billy the Kid into New Mexico in the Seven Rivers County with headquarters at White Oaks in its wildest days. He managed to get mixed up with Billy the Kid and devotes one whole chapter to this affair. He worked for the L. X. Ranch at one time and even mentions the Tierra Blanca, our own little creek.

The closing chapter tells how he sprang from cowboy to merchant and it was after that he spent two decades with the J. Pinkerton Agency, but that is another story.

If you are a lover of western historical literature this is one book you will not want to miss, according to the librarian, Mrs. Boydston, and it is now available at the library.

Red River Attracts Five Families From This Area

By MRS. R. C. CHILDERS

Brand Correspondent

Red River seems to be a very popular spot for vacationers as the Roger Corbetts and the G. W. Witherspoons having been going there almost every year for the past 12 years.

The Corbetts and the Witherspoons left Sunday morning for a week's stay. Mr. and Mrs. N. D. Bartlett and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Springer will join them Monday.

The J. C. Reese family may also join the group if Mr. Reese can arrange his business so as to leave. Mr. Reese and Mr. Corbett have orders from the doctor for a two weeks' rest and relaxation.

Visitors in the Earl DeHart home Sunday were her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Robinson from Claud.

Clarence Caywood, Sue Cooke and Kenneth DeHart left Saturday for band camp at Lueders.

Three from this vicinity and 12 from Hereford went. Mr. Purris Williams accompanied the group. They left by bus.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Barelay, who have been living in Prickett, Colorado for the past year, have moved to the S. J. Barclay farm west of town. Tom Barclay is Mr. Barclay's nephew.

Mrs. Dora Smith, mother of Mrs. S. J. Barclay has come to live with her daughter for a while. Mrs. Smith fell and broke her hip a year ago. She was confined to the hospital here for seven months.

On leaving there she went to live with her son at Sayre, Okla. Mrs. Smith is still unable to walk, but uses a wheel chair.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Speer and sons, Bobbie and Gordon, were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Childers this week. The Speers are from Baytown, Texas and Mrs. Speer is Mr. Childers' sister. Mr. Speer is an employee of the Humble Refinery. He has been with the company 14 years. They were quite impressed with our country, especially the advantages of irrigation and the many types of crops that can be grown here.

Lula Mae Harris from Tipton Orphan Home is visiting in Hereford. She has visited in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wear, Mr. and Mrs. Earnest McGee and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Patterson. Friday she came to visit in the R. C. Childers home and will probably spend four or five days there.

Mr. Joe Watson, who will be a resident in this vicinity, arrived this week from Oklahoma City. He will be in charge of a 100-cow dairy that Mr. Jack Renfro is purchasing. They will start construction of the dairy barn this week. They already have their cows, 110 of them.

The showers in this vicinity were very spotted, and irrigation is still going full swing. So far there is very little feed beginning to burn yet.

Mrs. Raymond Palmer has a lovely field garden and is selling beans, peas and cucumbers from it by the bushels.

W. T. Haines left Friday morning for Boise, Idaho. He has been visiting his daughter, Mrs. E. L. Adams, for the past three weeks.

Mrs. Paul Corbett and sons, Ronald and James, spent five days in McLean visiting Mrs. Corbett's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Greer.

School Time Means Checkups For Kids

AUSTIN — Parents, has your child had a physical examination this summer? Next month he will be starting to school, and if he is in good health he will have a happier, more profitable year. It's up to YOU to give HIM a healthful send-off, says Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

After he has his check-up by the family doctor, be sure to take him to the family dentist. Teeth are mighty important, and decayed ones often cause a heap of trouble. They may start infection in other parts of the body. Strong, healthy teeth add attractiveness to appearance and personality. Help your child to grow up with good teeth — see that he has a dental examination twice a year.

Sometimes children don't realize that he has a dental examination twice a year.

Get your child an appointment for a check-up today — the first day of school is not far away!

It is an examination by an eye specialist is important. A child who needs glasses, if taken to an eye physician now, will have time to get used to them before school starts.

When children are grouped together in a classroom, they expose each other to communicable diseases. Has your child been immunized against diphtheria and smallpox? Does he know he should avoid boys and girls who are victims of colds? Do you keep your child at home when he shows signs of a cold?

Plenty of exercise and recreation, the right kinds of foods, daily, and 12 hours of sleep a night are necessary for a child of elementary school age.

Get your child an appointment for a check-up today — the first day of school is not far away!

What a wonderful bargain!

For five days Mrs. J. E. Brasac kept an accurate record of all her telephone conversations — and here's just a sample. Altogether, she carried on 44 telephone conversations, figures they cost her less than 2¢ each and covered a total of 183 miles.

"I don't know where you'd get a bigger 2¢ worth," she comments. "My telephone keeps me in touch with my family and friends, helps me run my household, and it's always there to call for help in an emergency. And thanks for a wonderful bargain!" Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

Long Time Ago

45 Years Ago

Two days of the week August 4-20, 1905 were splendid days for Hereford as she had the honor of entertaining the boys of the Northwest Texas Press. While the attendance the first day was not so large as had been expected, the most of those whose names appeared on the program were present and an interesting session was held in the district court room the first day.

The address of welcome was delivered by Judge Gough and response by Editor Johnson of the Memphis Herald. Interesting papers were read by Tom Marks of Jackboro, W. A. Johnson of Memphis and George L. Rhea of Graham. An informal reception was held in honor of the editors that night at the home of Judge and Mrs. L. Gough.

The next day a larger crowd attended the meeting and both the forenoon and afternoon sessions proved important ones. Officers for the coming year were elected and it was decided by a unanimous vote to have the annual meeting of the Northwest Texas Press the next year at Mineral Wells.

For sometime our little city had been held in suspense pending the outcome of a number of courtships which had been in progress. This suspense was partially relieved by the announcement that W. B. Park and Miss Orpha Meyers would enter the next Sunday into the state of conjugal bliss. Miss Meyers was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Meyers who lived ten miles north of Hereford. Mr. Park was employed by the Hereford National Bank as a stand-by in the bookkeeping department.

A big crowd of people of Hereford turned out to attend the celebration and annual picnic at Dimmitt, which had made that town famous throughout the four quarters of the Panhandle owing to the hospitality of her people. When the crowds from Hereford arrived, every nook and corner of the little city was filled with sturdy farmers and ranchmen and gay young people. The program consisted of talking, laughing, speaking, foot-racing, ball games and every other pleasure usually indulged in at a West Texas picnic. The orators of the day were James Bell of Dimmitt and A. J. Lipscomb of Hereford. The day was greatly enjoyed by all.

On Monday a jolly crowd of

young people left the noise and heat of town for the cool and shady retreats of Mr. Jowel's ranch. They arrived late and after partaking of the excellent supper which the young ladies had prepared, the old fashioned games of wolve, base and even "wing the dish rag" crowded themselves into prominence, and were indulged in by all the young folks. For the next two days the recreations of fishing, rowing, horseback riding and foot racing were enjoyed by all. They returned to Hereford Wednesday. Those of the party were the Misses Dameron, Stewart, Martin, Clark, Tygett, Jowell, and Owen; Messrs. and Mesdames Clark and Chandler, Mr. Garrison and Mrs. Lipscomb and a group of young men went out one night.

Quoting from the Aug. 18, 1905 edition of Hereford Brand: "It is said that laughing is catching, but it would seem that marrying is the present prevailing contagion in Hereford, and the coming of R. A. Tynes several months ago into our infected atmosphere resulted in his leaving last Wednesday for his home in Robertson County after 'the girl he'd left behind him'. Miss Callie Avera, to whom he was wedded for life on Friday, at the sun-rise hour of 5:00 a. m." Mr. and Mrs.

Tynes were to make their home in Hereford and they would reside in the Troy Womble house in West Hereford. He was to continue his prescription work at O. F. Smith's drug store.

The United States Geological Survey party, which had been conducting investigations on the geology and the water supply of the Panhandle, stopped over in Hereford Sunday and then went east toward Canyon City, where they were to spend some days investigating the conditions along the Palo Duro Canyon.

Prof. Gould, who was in charge of the party, expressed surprise that the water at Hereford was so shallow. He was favorably struck with the numerous windmills in our city.

Regarding the water resources of the Panhandle, Prof. Gould said: "Your underground water supply is inexhaustible for all ordinary purposes. The depth to water in the various parts of the Panhandle varies from 50 to 500 feet and is less at Hereford than at any place we have found. In a few years I expect to see a number of small irrigation plants in operation in this part of the country. The sheet water supply of the Plains is derived wholly from local rainfall, and, not, as is generally supposed, from the Rocky Mountains. This of itself would preclude the possibility of a supply of artesian water."

Citrus Molasses Feeding Value Is Tested At A&M

Citrus molasses and corn molasses were compared with ground Milo to determine their feeding value in a recent test conducted at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, College Station. The feeding trial was directed by J. K. Riggs, O. D. Butler, and J. A. Gaines; associate professor, assistant professor, and graduate student, respectively, of the department of animal husbandry of Texas A. & M. College System.

Three lots of Hereford, Aberdeen-Angus, and crossbred calves were used in the experiment. The calves in two lots were fed a ration in which four pounds of citrus molasses and corn molasses had been substituted for an equal amount of ground Milo. The third lot received a ration which contained only Milo as the carbonaceous concentrate.

They report that the calves fed molasses consumed about the same amounts of feed as those fed only Milo, but might have consumed slightly more since they nearly always cleaned up their feed about 30 minutes sooner than the check group and refused feed less frequently.

Comparing the results of the feeding trial on the basis of productive energy, they show that citrus molasses was worth about 92 per cent and corn molasses about 94 per cent as much as Milo under conditions prevailing in this test.

When they compared the results on the basis of feed, required per 100 pounds of gain, the two types of molasses were worth the same, $44 per ton, or about 92 per cent as much as Milo at $48 per ton.

The selling price received for the check lot was slightly higher; with an average of $27.65 per hundred compared with $27.12 for the corn molasses lot and $27.12 for the citrus molasses lot. All carcasses graded good, but the average dressing percentage was slightly higher for the Milo-fed lot.

Figuring the costs on the basis of feed prices prevailing during the test, Milo grain at $48 per ton and both types of molasses at $12 per ton, they found that the rations which included molasses gave a higher profit than the ration containing only Milo. Animals of the check lot showed a profit of $34.55 per head compared with $39.94 for the corn molasses lot and $39.66 for the citrus molasses lot.

They point out that, although the number of animals used in the trial was small and the differences in gain, feed consumption, and carcass weight were not significant, the results of the trial are very much in line with previous trials where citrus molasses was fed at the four-pound level to replace four pounds of ground Milo.

They conclude from the results of this experiment that at current prices of molasses and Milo, it is an economical practice to substitute four pounds of citrus molasses or corn molasses for an equal amount of ground Milo in a beef fattening ration.

Towel Buyers Can Look For Features That Mean Quality

COLLEGE STATION — A good towel is usually one that is fairly heavy and can absorb water quickly and in volume. The loops that are woven into the towel determine its absorbency, says Mrs. Bernice Claytor, extension home management specialist of Texas A&M College, and she suggests that when you are buying towels you check this item.

The loops should be reasonably close together and fairly long. The longer loops make a towel soft and fluffy but they don't wear so well since they are not to catch and pull out, says the specialist. The heavy towels are more absorbent because there is more yarn to absorb water. The tag or label attached to the towel usually contains information on the weight and absorbency of the product.

Mrs. Claytor says you can judge the durability of towels by checking the weave of the background cloth, the hems and the finish of the edges. For good wear, the foundation cloth should have a firm close weave that holds the loops firmly in place.

She suggests two tests that can be quickly made for checking towels. Hold some of the loops between your thumb and finger and see if they are firmly attached. The other test is also simple; hold the towel between yourself and the light and check to see whether or not the light comes through evenly in all points. That is the way it should be, says Mrs. Claytor.

The hems should have the raw edge turned at least a quarter of an inch and the stitching should be even with backstitched hems at the corners. A good close woven selvage edge, she says means durability.

Attend Scout Camp

Thirty-one Boy Scouts from Troops 50, 51, and 52, accompanied by Bill Phillips, neighborhood commissioner, and Gerald Wilson, scoutmaster of Troop 50, left Hereford Sunday afternoon about two o'clock on their way to Camp Don Harrington to attend a Council Camp. This camp is located about eight miles northeast of Canyon. Phillips went along as scoutmaster for the group. Boy Scouts from all over this district will attend. The boys were to return sometime yesterday.

HELLO, CORKY?...THIS IS TAFFY ALLERDYCE... LISTEN CAREFULLY, BECAUSE I CAN'T TALK LONG, AND I DON'T WANT TO BE OVERHEARD...MILES IS GOING TO SHIP BIG BLAZE TO CEDAR POINT TRACK IN THE MORNING! WHAT DO YOU WANT ME TO DO?

NOBODY'S WATCHING HIM RIGHT NOW.. THERE'S A HUNT CLUB PARTY GOING ON HERE, AND TEX PURDY HAS THE NIGHT OFF...

I GOTCHA..WE'LL HAVE TO ACT QUICK! THERE'S TOO MUCH MONEY INVOLVED TO QUIT NOW...GET THE KEY TO THE HORSE VAN IF YOU CAN..I'LL BE THERE IN TWENTY MINUTES!

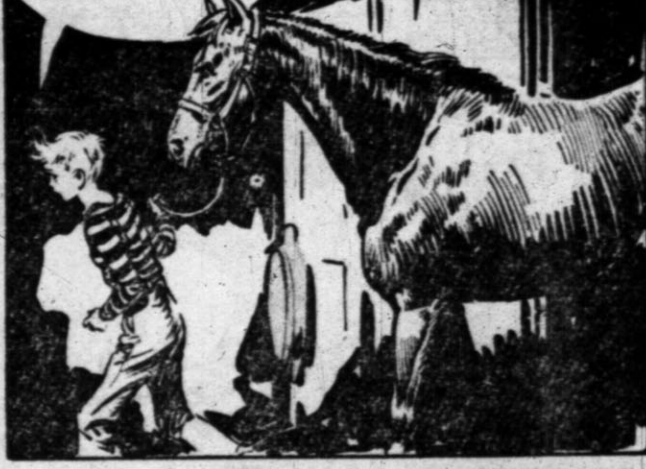

MEANWHILE GOLLY! WHAT AM I GOING TO DO?... TEX IS AWAY AND MR. MILES WON'T BELIEVE ME...I GOTTA PROTECT BLAZE SOMEHOW!

GEE WHILLIKENS! I JUST REMEMBERED!... THAT OLD CAVE THAT USED TO BE A MUSHROOM CELLAR!...I'LL PUT BLAZE IN THERE!

COME ON, BOY... SORRY TO DISTURB YOU, BIG FELLA, BUT WE GOTTA GET YOU OUT OF SIGHT!

THIS WON'T BE QUITE AS RITZY AS YOUR OWN STALL, BLAZE, BUT BELIEVE ME, BOY, RIGHT NOW IT'S A LOT SAFER!

OH, GREAT GUNS!...I JUST THOUGHT OF SOMETHING! THOSE MEN THINK HILLBILLY IS BIG BLAZE... HE'S IN BLAZE'S STALL... OH, GOLLY! MAYBE THEY'LL DO SOMETHING TO HIM, THINKIN' HE'S BLAZE!

MEANWHILE, AT THE BIG BARN.

I DON'T LIKE THIS, CORKY! STEALING BLAZE IS TOO RISKY... HADN'T WE BETTER CALL THE WHOLE THING OFF?

SHUT UP AND GET BUSY! THIS IS MADE TO ORDER. BRING THAT NAG OUT AND GET HIM INTO THE VAN.

AND.. AT THE HOUSE

I HATE TO TROUBLE YOU WITH THIS, QUENTIN, BUT I WONDER IF ANYONE FOUND A WALLET..MINE MUST'VE DROPPED OUT OF MY TOPCOAT... IT HAD MY DRIVER'S LICENSE IN IT.

GOOD HEAVENS, JUDGE ADAMS! YOUR WALLET! OH, IT MUST BE ON THE FLOOR IN THE ROOM WHERE THE COATS WERE...LET'S HAVE A LOOK!
