BIG SPRING COUPLE HAS NARROW ESCAPE IN FLOOD

Dr. and Mrs. Amos R. Wood Tell Of Havoc

Dr. and Mrs. Amos R. Wood, who returned to Big Spring Thursday afternoon from Long Beach, Calif., had a narrow escape with their lives on account of the recent cloudburst in southern California.

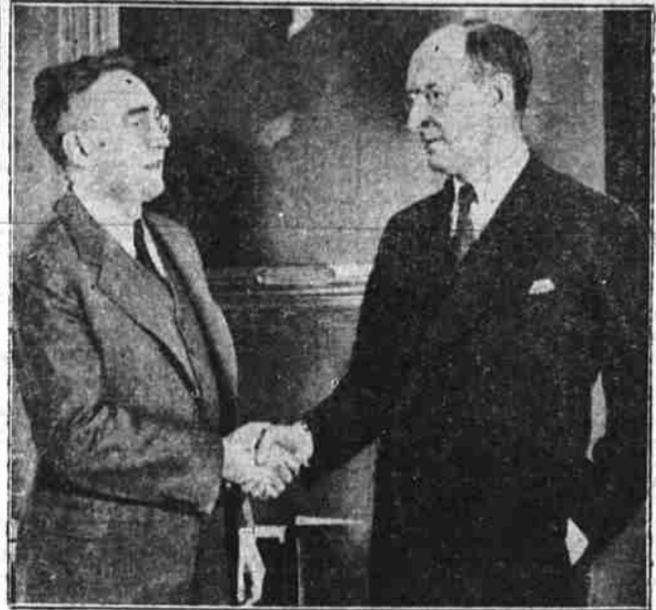

Last Sunday they were on their way to Long Beach from Berkeley and Yosemite hurrying through rain to make a New Year's Eve party at the home of Dr. Wood's sister. A few miles below Bakersfield they stopped at a filling station and were warned that the new cut-off on the ridge route into Los Angeles was dangerous, that boulders were being washed down across the highway by the storm, but they did not realize what was ahead; so they went on. Not long afterward they were met by a state highway patrolman who informed them that the side of the mountain had caved in and covered the highway. By that time they were spending the night out in the flood, if not losing their lives.

The only possible detour into Los Angeles was through Lancaster, which took them 100 miles out of their way, so they decided to spend the night in an auto camp they had recently passed. The rain stopped in the night and the wind came up, unroofing many of the cabins. They were again fortunate in having selected a cabin against a hill protected by trees.

They took the detour the next morning which brought them into Palmdale and Saugus, where 15 trains were stalled waiting for the water and mud to be cleared out of the Newhall tunnel.

Liquor Tax Passes House, Morgenthau To Seek Back Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The president and congress working so far in team play, concern today on developing a program for permanent domestic readjustment, which largely shoved aside international problems.

At the capitol, democratic leaders in the house held hops that that chamber might pass on the senate before nightfall the administration's $470,000,000 liquor tax bill.

The treasury moved Friday for a quick start toward credit borrowings that during the next six months will total ten billion. Secretary Morgenthau also announced an intensive back tax drive will be started soon in an effort to collect part of $800,000,000 owed the government.

Stethoscope

Operating through the new National Emergency Council, the Roosevelt administration has high hopes of laying a stethoscope on the whole country to register every intonation of public opinion. The intonation of public opinion is in process to ascertain whether the necessary organization can be set up and how it will record the mood of the people.

The big problem lies in collaring men and women who are not themselves in politics; and who can be relied upon for unbiased reports—critical or otherwise.

A cross-section of states representative of the various regions is being used for laboratory tests. Men have been button-holed in each of these states after careful investigation of their abilities as observers.

Each has been asked for a report on how the voting masses really view the various elements of the recovery program. Constructive criticism especially was urged.

If such an organization can be widened out to ring in all 48 states administration leaders anticipate invaluable results.

They will be able to gauge constantly how the people are reacting to each angle of the New Deal.

Popular proposals can be pressed to the limit. Those that meet with a cold shoulder can be promptly withdrawn or modified.

Mr. Roosevelt needs accurate information on the public which at this time particularly.

He has spent his first ten months in office preparing the people by gradual education for liberal doses of his particular brand of socialized Democracy.

The President knows he retains a tremendous personal popularity but he wants to find out how his policies are clicking. The present sees (Continued On Page 5)

Suits Filed Against Bank Stockholders

Six suits against stockholders in the defunct Coahoma National bank were filed in 70th district court Thursday by E. C. Brand, banking commissioner of Texas.

Listed as defendants in as many separate suits were A. F. Hough, R. A. Marshall, J. A. Roberts, A. W. Rowe, Jack Collins and J. B. Wheat.

The Coahoma bank, capitalized at $25,000 with 250 shares of $100 par value closed its doors in 1931.

Brand alleges in his petition that he notified the defendants January 6, 1932 of their assessments equal to the par value of the stock which they held.

In addition to the par value of the stock for which he is suing, he asks six per cent interest from the date the assessments were said to have been made.

Total assessments plus accrued interest now amounts to $19,600, as set out in the plaintiff's petition.

Shares of stock among the defendants is divided as follows: Wheat, 99; Collins, 17; Rowe, 21; Roberts, 16 1-2; Marshall, 15; and Hough, 10.

Requirements

An engineer, Pat Landrum, of the United States department of commerce, has been in conference with the local chamber for some time, giving the details of the grant to be made by the federal government, provided the requirements are met. According to the requirements, this grant will be made provided the city owns or has airport properties under lease.

To Benefit City And Airport

Mr. Reagan made it clear to the commission that the committee present represented the Chamber of Commerce aviation body, and was in no manner representative of the Big Spring Airport corporation or the bondholders. He said that the committee was working solely in the interests of actual improvements and the city of Big Spring.

$14,500 Proposed Grant

The federal engineer collaborating with the local chamber of commerce manager, had previously prepared a tentative survey, stipulating the amount of money necessary for improvements of the airport which ran to approximately $14,500. The engineer made it clear that this application must be executed and be in his hands no later than Saturday, January 6th.

Quick Action Necessary

"Action on this matter," said Mr. Reagan, "is immediately necessary in view of the limited time, in order for Big Spring to receive this grant from the government. This committee is appearing here tonight appealing to the commission to take some action whereby the airport could be leased for a period of five years, that Big Spring might participate in the government's grant, which has no airport must be either owned or leased for five years by the city."

Ownership Status Given

Mr. Reagan gave the commission the present status of ownership of the Big Spring airport, that it was under lease at present to the American Airways, which lease expires in July of this year.

Peculiar Situation

"Our neighboring cities, Sweetwater, Abilene and Lubbock, have municipally-owned airports, and they will experience no difficulty in securing the grant. But in our case, where the city does not own the property, a perplexing problem is presented to us, if we intend to secure this grant," said Mr. Reagan. "For this reason, this committee has come here tonight to seek help from the commission in securing this money for improvements at the airport."

Questions Asked

After much discussion by the committee and commissioners regarding the lease, with questions of "how much it is going to cost the city" and "what responsibility will the city be assuming if a lease is made?" were asked, the commission asked for a 45-minute deliberation behind closed doors, to consider the proposition.

No Operation Responsibility

It was brought out that the city, in leasing the airport for a term of (Continued On Page Five)

Try to plan tasty and filling menus for the school children's lunch boxes. For sandwich fillings, you can use peanut butter softened with cream and butter, cream cheese mixed with cream and dates, sliced or diced meat or fowl combined with celery or lettuce and raisins or prunes mixed with broken nuts. These fillings can be used for white or Graham bread, but it is better to have several of each kind. Wrap the sandwiches in waxed paper to preserve their freshness.

PROTECT THE REPUTATION OF YOUR SCHOOL

What is the use of earning a reputation for your school if you do not intend to protect and keep it? A reputation is not of any value unless we can keep it. A school should not be contented merely to stay behind all the time. Every school should try to make a reputation for itself. The students can help in doing this and they can help in losing it, also. If a group of athletes, representing some school, go on a trip to another school and show good behavior and sportsmanship, they are making a reputation for their school. But, on the other hand, if they show poor qualities of sportsmanship and behavior, they are destroying their school's reputation. Most of the time the students are the cause of the losing of their school's reputation. The word "reputation" means a great deal to any school, hence every student should do his part towards protecting it.

The magician. He performed several sleight of hand tricks with cards. Several of the students were quite surprised when he discovered some of his cards hidden in their pockets and sleeves. Francis was accompanied by Forsan by Dr. C. W. Deats. Everyone enjoyed the program and most of the students and teachers are looking forward to some of the performances in Big Spring.

BOOK REVIEW
The Amazing Interlude
By Mary Roberts Rinehart
In her book "The Amazing Interlude," Mary Roberts Rinehart gives the amazing story of a young woman's activities during the World War. This young woman realizes how horrible the war is, and feeling that she must help the poor soldiers, she goes across and opens a small soup kitchen in the midst of the fighting zone. She risks her life for the soldiers and finds romance mixed with her many daring adventures.
"The Amazing Interlude" is probably the best novel ever written by Mary Roberts Rinehart. It furnishes an interesting story for both young and old.
The title of the book, "The Amazing Interlude" suggests its theme.

Bovines Take Lomax, 38-27

Led by goal pooping Ole Cordill, who promises to be as good if not a better center than the Steers have ever had before, the Bovines waltzed through the Lomax cagers Thursday night to the tune of 38 to 27. Cordill started the scoring early, showing the ball through the hoops from in front of the basket three times before Lomax counted, but Lynn, Burnett, Woods and Tolle managed to ring up eight points before the quarter ended, giving the locals only a 12 to 8 lead. The visitors staged a spurt at the opening of the second stanza when Lynn, guard, made a field goal and two free tosses to tie the game up 12 to 12. Cordill and Vaughn, however, each added a goal in the same period to put the Steers out front 16 to 12. The third period proved to be Big Spring's, with Cordill, Wood, Hare, Mills and Driver accounting for seventeen points, while Lomax tabbed only four, a field goal by Burnett and one by Tolle. The situation reversed in the final period with Lomax making good eleven points to Big Spring's five. Cordill made good eight times out of twelve shots at the goal.

AL FORCES BEHIND OUR MONEY POLICY

Strangest thing about the argument over the government's monetary policy is that so many of the arguers seem to be ignorant of the facts. It is an academic discussion of relative values of money which is based on an immutable base and money which is based on an argument for the part, which might just as well have been held in 1928 as in 1933. It is the time of the surging of public unrest which makes the background of all this argument ignored entirely. We get a background of all this argument from the fact that it does before it stops, and of historical analyses of what happened in Germany and in the United States, but very little mention of any in which recent economic movements have put pressure on the social fabric.

Ben Sheffers Have New Year's Eve Party

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Sheffer gave their annual New Year's party this year at their home, east of Lee, honoring a group of their friends. Merriment prevailed throughout the entire evening and every guest had a good time. Arrangements were made for games of 42 and pitch and for dancing, giving guests their choice. The party lasted into the New Year.

ardui Good For Run-Down Condition

I have found Cardui a good medicine to take for a run-down condition," writes Miss Hazel Bennett, of Houma, La. "I had been in my side. This made me nervous, and I felt I should take something for this trouble. I was very tired. She was taking Cardui, so I took it, too, and found it very helpful. I am glad to recommend it to others." Cardui is safe and wholesome for men of all ages. At drug stores.

FINE BUNCH OF BOYS

The administration should be commended for the sound policy of asking for an explosion of the inflationary sentiment in pressing the sentiment of the people back home—would get up on to blow the lid off. The cards are very good that it will do so. Arguments over monetary policy which fail to recognize this are not worth listening to.

FORBIDDEN VALLEY

by William Byron Howells

CHAPTER 38
"Ralph!" Curt yelled at him. "What're you doing? Get in here with us!"

"Don't have any gun" Ralph called over his shoulder. "Got to get gun."

"Let it go. They'll cut you off!"

But Ralph courageously went on, flinging himself behind the rock shelter, the two of them turned their rifles toward the canoes of the south.

Curt dropped a handful of clips into Paul's pocket. "Aim low, Paul. Bounce your slugs off the water. We can't hope to hit the men, but we can tear holes through those canoes and sink 'em."

They emptied their magazines at the six craft. The range was too long for dark shooting, and the moon reflection was wrong. The canoes came straight on and skimmed into the shallows. Retreating, Curt and Paul blasted into them again, frantically trying to knock them back. One canoe turned broadside and sank, but the two occupants leaped out and splashed ashore, and the other five canoes drove on unchecked.

Jumping to shelter on the island, the Klosoehes began sizzling arrows at the rifle flashes, to cover the other parties.

"Fire, bait-gun and three cartridges in his hands."

"I don't know. Maybe they're pulling themselves together for the rush."

Curt bent down beside Nichols again and tried to rouse some sign of life. Ralph still lay motionless, limp and stricken. It was all Curt could do. "I've straightened up to help Paul watch."

"Seen anything of 'em?"

"Not a glimpse. I heard a noise down near the tents but saw nothing."

Curt sprang over the barricade, secured Ralph's two guns and the cartridges, came back, waited.

When the deadlock did break, it broke suddenly. Down at the lower tip, the canoes which had reached shore all at once went darting out. Launched on the run, they were out upon the open lake and disappearing at top speed before Curt and Paul could realize what was taking place.

They stared at each other in amazement.

"They're gone!" Paul gasped.

"Curt was more skeptical. He simply could not believe it. "Maybe they're gone. This thing has got the earmarks of a trap, to me."

"But we saw them go."

A suspicion of the truth struck Curt.

"How many canoes did you see?"

"Six."

That's what I counted. Only five boats reached shore. Where'd they get that extra canoe?"

They left the barricade and hurried down to the camp site. Curt's heart sank as he glanced about. All their supplies had been destroyed. With Paul at his heels he turned and ran to where they had abandoned their canoe. It was not there.

It was the loss of their canoe that really frightened them. Food, supplies, tents—those were not matters of life or death. But with a mile of water all around them and no craft to get away in, they were helpless prisoners on that bare strip of sand and boulders.

In front of the tents Paul hunted around and found one of the pine knots which they had used for starting fires quickly. Over in the barricade Curt lit it with a double match, wedged the taper between two rocks, and bent over Ralph's crumpled form.

Curt's hand shook and his eyes grew misty as he worked with his stricken friend. He decided to cut like the glare from a furnace door. There was not a square inch of shade on the island, not a breath of air stirring. Their only relief was to immerse themselves repeatedly in the shallows and sprinkle water around the shelter where Ralph lay. To Be Continued)

Sweden Has Sweet Tooth
STOCKHOLM (UP) — Sweden's sweet tooth has doubled its consumption since 1918, an inquiry by the Finance Department has shown. A proposed tax on candy would bring in ten million kronor, but so far the authorities hesitate. In 1931 the 6,000,000 Swedes consumed 12,408 tons of candy, mostly chocolates, worth 22,382,000 kronor. Over 80 per cent of the candy makers are women.

off the shaft of the arrow and let the rest remain, for he could never extract the dart without starting an internal bleeding that would speedily be fatal. When he had done that, he brought water — a bathed Ralph's face and loosened his clothes to make him more comfortable. That was all they could do for him.

The remainder of the short night passed quietly. Several times Curt heard signal calls drifting across the lake, but he did not even bother to keep a lookout, for he knew they would not be molested. The Klosoehes would sit around on those neighboring islands and wait and wait till starvation and exposure had done the work for them.

His thoughts of Sonya were bitter thoughts, not so much because of the suffering she had brought him as what she had done to herself. With no thought of self he had accompanied her on her trip, helping her all he could; and then, without scruple or hesitation, she had abandoned him when it suited her convenience.

To sit there in terrible helplessness and watch his life ebb away when he might have a chance to live was the most maddening experience that Curt had ever undergone.

At a creek mouth on the mainland shore a wisp of smoke stood up above the trees from the central camp. Canoes came and went freely across the water. Once, when one of them came dancing past six hundred yards away, Paul seized his rifle in a fury, screw up the sight on the long-range Savage, sank the craft with his ricocheting bullets, and seek its three occupants swimming for the nearest land. After that the canoes kept a respectful distance.

The noonday sun was a torture. It beat down on the rocks and sand five years, would not have the responsibility of operation since through subleasing to other concerns, the operation of properties would revert to the lessee.

It was stated the committee was not in position to state the individual attitude of each bondholder toward effecting a lease of the airport property, that each would have to be consulted regarding the action taken at the meeting, and their sanction obtained. The purpose tonight was to get the city to lease the property on some kind of proposition to enable expediting of the application for the federal grant.

Proposal Offered In reporting later to the committee, the commission, through its chairman, made the statement: "The commission, upon motion of Commissioner Nall and seconded by Commissioner Jones unanimously decided to make the following proposal for leasing of the airport: "For a consideration of $1 per year for five years plus net revenues."

Committee Accepts The chamber of commerce committee then retired to consider the city's offer and reported within fifteen minutes the following: "On motion of Clyde Thomas and seconded by Joe Kuykendall, The aviation committee of the chamber of commerce accepts the proposition of the CITY of Big Spring for a five-year lease of the Big Spring Airport for a consideration of $1 plus net revenues per year, provided the city agrees to sign the application for federal grant and subject to sanction of the Big Spring Airport bondholders."

The motion was carried, with the following vote: Aye, Clyde Thomas, Carl Blomshild, Joe Kuykendall, Nave, T. S. Currie, B. Reagan. City To Make Application The city manager was instructed to go ahead and make out application to the government for the grant and to have same ready in the hands of the federal engineer by Saturday morning, January 6.

Legal Phases Discussed Legal phases of a lease between the city and the airport corporation were discussed at length. It was advanced that in order for a lease to be promulgated eliminating any chance of a foreclosure by the bondholders on the airport corporation that the bondholders would have to sign a waiver for five years to prevent this possibility. The airport bonds are three year documents and matured, July 1, 1933. There was $1800 interest due on this maturity date.

The airport at present is under lease to the American Airways, expiring on July 1, 1934. The lease on this date will have run two years for a consideration of $900 per year.

Improvements Listed The application provides the following improvements to be made: Construction of two hard-surfaced runways, 100x3000 feet. Fencing of the entire aviation field. Levelling and filling the field.

COUNTY'S RELIEF BOARD GROWS FROM SMALL START TO IMPORTANT CIVIC ASSET

From a small beginning in the Wander Inn, the Howard County Board of Relief and Employment has grown from a staff composed of two men, R. Homer McNew and J. T. Johnson to an administrative staff of nine with 25 more workers on a thirty-hour-week basis. The location was changed from the Wander Inn to its present site, the old Fisher building.

People who do think charity work in small towns can be carried on sufficiently by the goodwill of women's societies should pay a visit to the headquarters of the Howard County Board of Relief and Employment and see what a lot of systematized planning is required to help get people back on their feet, in such a way as to stay there.

To show the work being accomplished, Director McNew said that last week 573 people were put to work, mainly through the CWA with a payroll of approximately $3000; and that 150 more would be added to that number this week. About 20 work projects are being operated, including work on the highways.

In addition to this, the headquarters are the distributors for 14 West Texas counties for surplus governmental commodities, such as corn, wheat, pork, beans, butter, etc. Last week, for instance, they unloaded two carloads of wheat and one of corn.

The Federal Transient Bureau is also operated here, which includes feeding and housing of state and federal transients not eligible for state or CWA relief.

This FTB is planned to take care of all needy cases, and housing is urged to discontinue giving to transients.

In addition to Mr. McNew and Mr. Johnson, those on the regular staff as Miss Gladys Smith in charge of the accounting; Miss Florence Henderson, stenography and secretary; Tom Rossen, relief officer; Bobby Malone, case worker; Mrs. J. B. Delbridge, dietitian; Mrs. Ruby Scott social service welfare; C. T. Tucker, assistant manager National Re-employment Bureau.

The other 25 are employed in the filing department, bookkeeping, accounting, home visiting. Thorough investigation of all cases is made, and the family history is kept, showing the eligibility to relief and what form of relief. These files are open for inspection and auditing by the state.

So far, the board has operated on money allotted the county by the federal government with not one nickel from the state. State money is being held up until bonds are sold and the funds made ready for distribution. The board operates not under governmental authority, as some seem to think, but under the Texas Relief Commission and Texas Civil Works Commission.

Lunches for needy school children aggregating 274 children are also being held up, pending the arrival of state aid. Mrs. Delbridge, dietitian, said that all cards were made, menus prepared and everything was ready to start as soon as the money came in.

This FTB is planned to take care of all needy cases, and housing is urged to discontinue giving to transients.

House Of David Basketball Five Play Steers Saturday Night

The House of David sends its flashy basketball team to Big Spring Saturday night to meet the Steers at the high school gymnasium. The game will start at 7:45 p. m., and the crowd has been set at the nominal price for such a game of 25 and 50 cents.

Few teams in the country offer as varied an interesting combination as the bearded basketballers from the House of David. Their eccentricities are always accompanied by real ability, to offer a combination of entertainment that is well worth seeing.

Spectators at the game may expect to see clever ball handling, trick shooting and passing, as well as all-round good play.

Coach Brown has a staunch case combination and will offer plenty of opposition to keep the game close and interesting, he believes.

Fans may attend the game without fear of disappointment and the stands should be well filled when the whistle sounds at 7:45.

Pity The Man Who Cannot Play

By JOHN CAILLYLE The other day a man I have known for forty years died. I think he wanted to die. His old age was a burden to him. Accustomed since he was 15 years old to going at a definite time to a definite amount of work, he at last was forced to retire because of a slight eye trouble. His retirement was a horror to him; he had never learned how to play. He seemed absolutely unable to mingle with other men in their hours of recreation.

He regarded golf, tennis, fishing, swimming, living outdoors as pastime too foolish and frivolous for anyone to indulge in. He could not amuse himself by talking to other men out of working hours.

Always since he had been a boy, he had been a failure with what he thought of as his work. He was just a failure in the way he believed for done. He was just a failure in the way he believed for done. He was just a failure in the way he believed for done.

but he was horrified if one day he was half an hour late to a job, or if somebody else, suddenly thinking of a funny story, would drop his work and run over to tell it to a man at a neighboring desk before he forgot it.

Now and then this unhappy man would be told by his doctor that he ought to take some recreation in order to avoid a breakdown. Twice he went away, once to the seashore, once to the mountains. At both places he spent most of his time sending telegrams or letters to his office force, giving them directions about what they were doing or criticizing work they had done in his absence. His wife and his family did all they could to persuade him to take a few months off and go to Europe. He could well afford it, but he could not bear to think of what would happen in the office if he left it for even a day. All the men under him admired his ability, and admitted his fairness with them. Not one of them really liked him or understood him. Here was a man who, one would think, would have been dear to the heart of the author of Poor Richard's Almanac.

But Benjamin Franklin had abundance of fun in his character, and industrious as he was when he was on the job, he knew how to relax and amuse himself.

Work is necessary to man's happiness. So is play. If you do not love both of them, be careful.

When your working days are over, if you are unable to turn to play, your declining years will be soured and you will lose a great deal of happiness that should be yours by rights.

Rundown, Nervous?

Mrs. Martha McLasky of 1012 Spring St., Shreveport, La., said: "Some years ago I was rundown and in need of a tonic and nerve. I can still vividly remember the wonderful benefit I received from Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I do not care to go into details about my symptoms, suffice it to say, I can cheerfully recommend the 'Prescription' to any ailing woman."

GUSHER—

Sara Lee, the heroine, has been reared in a home where the conventions are observed as a matter of course. After she goes to France her work and associations reveal to her a different kind of life. Conventionalities are brushed aside; one lives a much faster and a much fuller life. She becomes a part of that life, but after the war is over, feeling a certain amount of loyalty to her sweetheart there, she returns home. She is unable to adjust herself to her former way of living and returns to France to take up the life that has brought her an amazing amount of happiness and contentment.

THE POET'S CORNER

We have some students in Forsan school who are very apt at writing poetry, so we have dedicated a section of our Gusher to this group. The section will be known as the "Poet's Corner." We hope that the students who are interested in this type of literary art will submit their poems to the literary editor—Marie Womack.

THE PRESIDENT'S CHAIR
By Mildred Mangel, Senior

There are people we know who have never been sent to sit in the chair of the president; So they think that all he has to do is to hand out money and his day's work is through.

If you think the care of the nation is fun, Just look at Mr. Roosevelt and see what it's done; There are lines in his face that were never there Until he went to the president's chair.

If you, his measures only will heed He'll do his best all this work to speed, He may make mistakes, but so have you, too; So fasten your colors to the EAGLE OF BLUE.

GRANDDAD
By Bernice Whetzel, Senior

The sun shone through the vines on the porch. On granddad as he dozed in his chair. To me 'tis a marvel, why the rays did not scorch His head, that was nude, without hair.

His wrinkled old face, so sweet and serene, Was not one of beauty to declare. Though in his youth, his profile, in a dream Came to many a maiden fair.

His experience of wars, politics and romance, He could tell by the hour or two; Many were so thrilling they held one in a trance, And some were hard to believe as true.

The remainder of his days are but few, For he has lost a battle with old man age; But some day we'll be just like him, I and you.

So let's seek the reward that becomes a sage.

GOOFY GOSSIP

Grace Tension, is telling around that Cynical Sid fixed up that letter of hers to Santa Claus, but don't let her fool you, folks. She really wrote that letter herself. Besides Sid wasn't even here then. He was going around on Santa's sleigh driving his reindeers. He went down into Old Mexico with him, but he won't tell her what all he saw. Nova Holloway and Kathryn Cowley doing while they were at Juarez; it might undermine the good reputation they have at Forsan. They went to a bull fight and Kathryn got put in jail for killing the bull before the fight began. She went around to take a look at the bull that was going to be killed. Well, sir, that bull caught a glimpse of her comical mug and keeled over, dead as a door knob from fright. Johnnie Bruton is plum crazy about Jodie Dittler's curly hair. LaVoice Scud-day says he wants to go to Puddeburg (you know that's where Popeye is now) where they only bathe during the summer time. He says then it would be illegal for his ma to make him take baths out of season. Vivian Fern Caldwell came up to the library desk the other day and asked Mr. Malechek for a book called "The Disappearing Native of North America." Mr. Mal, she finally figured out that she wanted "The Vanishing American." Mr. Malechek asked Ray Thompson in science class last week to explain the law of the lever. Ray said it was a course of action that certain men took when dealing with a certain type of woman. He said he got his idea from a boast a man made in the movies when he said "Tim going to love'er and leave'er." Miss Wingo went home the other morning after the magician had been out and tried to pull some cards tricks on her roommate, Miss Nelson. She decided it wasn't as easy as it looked. She said it didn't lessen her ambition to be a magician one bit, because of the fact she couldn't do them. She'll be having somebody lock her in her trunk next so she can try to escape. Miss Moe lost her car in a poker game Christmas while she was in Lubbock. She's "afrood" now so if you see her out on the highway, give her a lift she'll appreciate it. Charline Bruton told Ollie Ruth Reed that Muscle Shoals is a wrestler, but up pops Dorothy Wang and told her she was all wrong, that he is not a wrestler at all but is a boxer. A certain grade school kid that other day thought that the study hall was on fire, but it was just the light reflecting off James Thompson's and Ella Rhe Harmon's red heads. Arnold Bradham and Henry Wilmoos each got a pair of cowboy boots for Christmas. They are so tough now that when their dads go to give them a lickin' they have to soak those two guys in alcohol for three days before they can feel it. Lorene Clements and Garrett Griesom are two new students. They look like suspicious characters to me so I'm keeping my eye on them.

Yours,
Cynical Sid.
WORD OF APPRECIATION

fellows organization wish to take this opportunity to thank their membership, their wives and friends for their hearty cooperation and untiring work in making it possible for each family and child to be remembered during Christmas.

The usefulness of the organization does not intend to stop with the New Year, but when and where any deserving assistance is given.

Any one knowing of an individual or family in need of any assistance, please notify one of the committeemen, who are Mr. Dan Yarbro, Paul Pierson, Carl Peterson, Jack Arnold and Oscar Bradham.

Signed by T. D. Smylie, Chairman.

SPORTS
Offers Win Over Buffs

The Cosden Oilers trounced the Forsan Buffalos in a ball game Wednesday night at Big Spring high school gymnasium with a score of 41 to 25. The Buffs got a good start in the first quarter, but were unable to hold the lead.

The Lomax Hornets are to visit the Buffalo corral on Friday night, January 5th for two games. The Hornets and Buffs have already clashed once this season. In these games the Forsan boys won, but the local girls lost to Lomax.

The sports editor of the Gusher was glad to receive a clipping from the San Angelo paper giving the game between the San Angelo Junior College and the Christoval Bats. We were glad to see that Dick LeFevre, a former student of Forsan, came through with such a nice game.

Nova Holloway and Kathryn Cowley went to El Paso and Warsaw for the holidays.

Doris Sadder went to her home in Gatesville for the Christmas vacation.

In the last issue of the Gusher we omitted Mr. Watkins plans for the holidays, we wish to assure Mr. Watkins this was unintentional. He spent the holidays with home-folks at Meadow, Tex. Hope you had a nice time, Ira.

The fourth grade pupils were well satisfied with Old Saint Nick's visit on Friday, December 22. Many of their mothers visited the room that day.

Gayle Greene spent Christmas with her grandparents at Odessa.

Kenneth Cowley visited in El Paso during the holidays.

Winona Edwards made the highest average made in the fifth grade this month, making all As.

Evidently the sixth grade students don't believe there is a Santa Claus for they have a much lower percentage of honor roll students for December.

Many of our mothers were present at the Christmas tree given by the fifth, sixth and seventh grades. Each mother received a gift from the tree. The gifts which the mothers received were made by the children at school.

Mrs. R. M. Brown accompanied by her daughters, Mary Louise and Ruth and Marshall Scudday, visited Mrs. Brown's parents in Kansas during the holidays.

Boyce Hale spent the holidays in Thurber, Tex.

Wesley Butler spent the Christmas vacation in Dublin, Tex.

For Hard Coughs or Colds That Worry You

Creomulsion is made to give supreme help for coughs or colds. It combines seven helps in one—the best helps known to science. It is for quick relief, for safety.

But careful people, ignore and more, use it for every cough that starts. No one knows where a cough may lead. No one can tell which factor will do most. That depends on the type of cold.

Creomulsion costs a little more than lesser helps. But it means the utmost help. And it costs you nothing if it fails to bring the quick relief you seek. Your druggist guarantees it. Use it for safety's sake.
