WASHINGTON By RAY TUCKER

Dud—
An influential Progressive friend wants FDR to become the Christopher Columbus of American politics.

This adviser asks the president to open up by placing all postal appointments—the whole cuts of the patronage cow—on a merit basis. The next step in the scheme would be to supplant Mr. Farley with a business man whose indifference to machine politics would be above suspicion.

The proposal has been advanced as the most powerful issue Mr. Roosevelt could pull out of the hat for 1935. Though the president professes to toy with the idea, it won't take Secretary Roper's certainty of succeeding Mr. Farley will drop the P. O. deeper into partisanship. Mr. Roper's whole family is on the federal payroll. Some say that Uncle Dan "invented" politics.

Snooty—

Attorney General Cummings needs more team work in his outer office. It may save him some grief next time.

A house committee recently framed a report which denounced the Federal District Attorney at the capitol—a Cummings appointee—as incompetent and recommended his removal. A smart Democratic member obtained an advance copy, and blocked committee approval while she phoned the A. G. Practical republicans were willing to help out. The idea was that administration fixers would use their influence and kill the document in committee.

But Mr. Cummings' secretaries acted snooty over the telephone. First day said it was impossible to make an appointment. Then they yawned fifteen minutes at an inconvenient hour of the day. The disgusted democrat dropped the matter, and now the A. G. is squirming over the revelations.

Three—

Railroads should not rejoice too soon at the delay in naming a senatorial committee to investigate their financing. The investigation's sponsor—Burt Wheeler of Montana—is pulling his punches deliberately.

Disclosures of fantastic financing mark only the first move in Wheeler's game. What he seeks is propaganda to bulwark his demand for government ownership. He wants to force the issue into the 1936 elections. But he is too old a hand at investigating—he got Henry's purple headlines when newspaper readers are perusing golf and baseball scores. He will do his stuff next fall.

Coordinator Eastman has already marked three roads for this senatorial slaughter. A good guess would include the Frisco, the Missouri Pacific and the Denver, Rio Grande & Western. There will be others.

LaFollette—

Some slick maneuvering in senate cloakrooms revolves around choice of the late Bronson Cutting's successor on the Banking and Currency committee.

Administration won't say so openly but they want the post to fall to "Young Bob" LaFollette of Wisconsin. He favors the extreme Eccles banking bill and this keystone of Roosevelt's future financial program may rock in the balance when the committee votes.

LaFollette also sponsors the inheritance tax increase desired by the White House. But nobody dares to father the appointment of a LaFollette to a body so important to eastern conservatives.

"Joe" Robinson told GOP Leader McNary that Cutting's place ought to go to a Democrat. "But," said the democrat graciously, "if you want the place, Mac, you can have it by appointing LaFollette." Snap the republican, "if you want him so badly, appoint him yourself!"

Clinch—

Secretary Morgenthau may have killed two birds with one stone when he furnished dollars to stem the recent monetary crisis at Paris. Despite profuse French thanks, he acted as a financier rather than a philanthropist.

France needs stabilization of currency, and the United States would agree on certain terms—our terms. But England is not ready just yet. By keeping France on its financial feet this country preserves an ally and makes a friend for the day when the statesmen stretch their feet under a golden table.

Here enters the second problem. The Roosevelt administration insists that our dollar has been stabilized in a practical way. Any world conference, in our view, must accept that as a promise.

Machinist Builds $1,200 Telescope In His Back Yard

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The largest reflecting telescope in Oklahoma stands in the back yard of A. H. Hearn, Oklahoma City machinist—a monument to his life-long ambition to study astronomy, built despite the handicap of earning a living for a family of six.

With materials costing about $25, Hearn himself constructed the telescope, a compound Gregorian type reflector with a 12 1/2 inch primary mirror, accurate to one-quarter of a light fringe. Such an instrument would cost $1,200, he estimated.

"It shows splendid definition of Saturn and its system of rings," said Hearn, "and even Neptune can be seen as a disc."

Hearn is firm in the belief other planets are inhabited.

J. S. Wade, 65, Dies In Abilene Thursday

Funeral for J. S. Wade, 65, who died at his home, 634 Orange street, Abilene at 3 p. m. Thursday, will be held from the Laughter chapel, this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Although he had been in ill health for several years, Mr. Wade succumbed unexpectedly. Death was attributed to a heart attack.

John Sanders Wade was a native of Texas, born near Kaufman, Sept. 2, 1855. He lived there until he was 18 years of age, when he moved to Young county, his home for two years. For eight years, he was in the grocery business in Weatherford, and before moving to Abilene in 1922, he had lived in Fort Worth, Jacksboro, Cleburne and Mineral Wells. In Cleburne and Jacksboro he was in the ice manufacturing business.

Mr. Wade was married Sept. 20, 1910, to Miss Elizabeth Gilliam of Brownwood. Mrs. Wade and a daughter, Miss Elizabeth Wade of Abilene, survive. Other survivors include a brother, Oscar Wade of El Nido, Cal.; a sister Mrs. Ada Royal of Cleburne; six half-brothers, A. E. Wade of Big Spring; Anderson Wade, Keene; Austin Wade, Kilgore; Jerome Wade, Milam; Byron Wade, Graham; Delbert Biggs, Okla.; and two half-sisters, Mrs. Gene Martin and Mrs. Zora Edleman, Graham.

Dr. E. F. Surface, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, will officiate for the rites. Burial will be made in an Abilene cemetery.

SHINE ON CLOTHES MAY BE REMOVED BY SIMPLE MEANS

To get rid of that shine in garments, sponge with water to which a dash of ammonia has been added—about one teaspoonful to a quart of water. Then press on the reverse side.

If you will cover silver that you are putting away with dry flour it will keep it from tarnishing.

Lemon and salt blended will do a good deal toward removing rust from something that has been pressed with too hot an iron. Hold the garment over steam after you have applied the lemon and salt cure.

SUMMER HINTS

If you live where there is a great deal of dampness, near the seashore or where there are early morning and evening fogs and mists, and you have trouble with your open salt cellars, keep them covered with glass when not in use.

You'll probably be washing your hair more often during the summer, and if there is a slight wave to your hair you will protect it by parting the hair while wet, setting it the way your wave goes and covering your head with a damp heavy bath towel for a little while. Then dry in the sun.

If you have bought yourself a lovely new bathing suit this season you will want to protect it. Always wash it out in fresh water after you have been in the salt water. It gives the suit longer life and makes it dry much more quickly.

A Tasty Touch

Currents and raspberries mixed make a nice top for ice cream, looking pretty and tasting well.

Diamond Studs On Gloves

LONDON, (AP)—Long black velvet gloves have line of bright diamond studs swirled 'round the arms like bracelets. A blue leather pair has pintucks to the elbow.

Curtain Chintz Used For Gowns
 PARIS, (AP)—Glazed chintz, once reserved for curtains, is making chic evening gowns this spring. It is always printed and has a high shiny finish. One frock of blue and white flowered glazed chintz is designed on very long slender lines, making the figure almost stemlike in silhouette.

Accessories Add Color

PARIS, (AP)—Colored accessories which extend even to shoes are favored by some Parisians this spring. One young French woman seen walking in the Bois recently wore with a gray wool suit, a straw sailor, large square bag, wide buckled belt and kid shoes of jade green.

Green and Black In Satin Gown
 PARIS, (AP)—Madame Jean Gabriel Demergue, wife of the French painter, included in the frocks which she chose for the Normandie's maiden voyage an evening gown of green and black printed satin cut on slender lines. The gown, designed by Callot Soeurs, was worn with a little coat of green faille.

Synthetic Shimmers

LE HAVRE, France (AP)—A new black velvet woven with shimmering synthetic strips made a striking frock seen at one of the galas.

Worm Combinations Save Corn

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cannibalism among the corn worms is practiced on a big scale and saves a lot of corn for the farmer, says the department of agriculture. Only about one larva out of 20 has a good chance to grow up. Their eggs, seen under a lens, are quite curious.

Bette Davis In New Film Drama Comes To Ritz

Bette Davis, cast at last in a role in which she will be loved instead of hated by her audience, is coming to the Ritz theatre on Saturday in the first National picture "The Girl From 10th Avenue."

Miss Davis' work in "Of Human Bondage" established her as one of the screen's outstanding emotional actresses. Opposite Paul Muni in "Borderline," she added to her prestige. Now she has a part in which there is not only ample opportunity for her to display the dramatic ability for which she is famed but to which she can bring her fine, if seldom recognized, talent as a comedienne.

The Girl From 10th Avenue relates the adventures of a young shop girl who marries a society dandy at a cocktail party and then makes a man of him despite his addiction to drink, wild women and foolish friends.

ENEMY'S KISS

Chapter 31
GUY AGAIN

Daphne droned on about her plans for the honeymoon. "I know the man who runs the place and he told me that there are wonderful climbs, and I thought we'd picnic and Alison and I could exchange them while you played with your plants, Bob."

"I'm not sure that I'll come," Robert winked at his daughter. "You haven't said 'thank you, yet!'"

"I've done something much better," retorted Daphne. "I've made you four whole pounds of those special little nutty chocolates you love!"

"Ah!" Robert was rather overacting his part, rubbing his hands together, smiling at Alison. "I tell you, Daphne's home-made chocolates are something to write home about!"

"You're not going to get one and include her were huge soft ed- ed-downs which was being pushed down on her until she could hardly breathe."

She made an attempt to smile and speak lightly. "It's I who must think of presents. I must think of one to give to you, Mrs. Summers."

"Daphne, please!"

"Sorry, Daphne. What would you like?"

"I'm sure I should love anything you choose." She got up, held out her arm, linked it in the girl's and drew her out of the dining room. "You've your father's taste, my dear, which is wonderful. Look what he gave me today—these lovely pearl earrings!"

"They are awfully pretty!" The girl tried hard to reciprocate the warmth the elder woman showed, but the touch on her arm gave her a physical repulsion that she had never felt with anyone else; "As if throughout the night of the 20th. The owner of this car, or anyone able to give any information, is requested to communicate—

The paper slid from Alison's hands on to the floor.

A dark blue, two-seater, Guy's car—? Parked all through that night, the night that they had met! Then he had lied about it being in Warley! And the grey-faced man whom she had seen was lying dead.

Yet Guy had told her—told her distinctly—that he had seen nothing.

A trickle like icy water ran down Alison's spine.

What had really happened in that lonely house while she lay sleeping upstairs?

Had that grey-faced creature which she had seen, with its skull-like face and nailless hands been a ghost? The spirit of a murdered man looking for justice! For one moment the wild thought assailed her; but ghosts are mere unsubstantial wraiths if they exist at all, and it had taken all her bodily strength to hold the door against the thing outside.

Then he was alive that night; had died, been killed—She had a sense of guilt as she wondered whether after all she had done wrong. Perhaps the man had not meant to threaten her, had come upstairs asking for help! Perhaps he had been running away in fear—if she had let him in, he might be alive now!

But running from what, from whom?

That was the question. There had been no one in that house except themselves—Guy and herself and that grey-faced man.

Slowly Alison sank down on the sofa and picked up the paper again. (To be continued) yet!" Daphne was arch now. "Wait!" She turned to Alison. "One can't get decent chocolates out in Spain, off the beaten track. Do tell me, what kind do you like best? I must make you some. Or do you love nuts, too?"

"She loves creams," put in Robert.

"Then I'll make a whole box of creams, specially for her," declared Daphne affectionately, "as a present."

Alison had an odd sensation of suffocation, as if the too apparent and transparent efforts to placate shape and meaning, driving all the anger from Alison's head, all the color from her cheeks.

"EMPTY HOUSE MURDER," ran the heading.

Murder! For a moment she turned cold. So tragedy had been brewing after all in that old, eerie house! It had not all been fancy! Her eyes ran down, scanning, skipping the print anxiously.

"Mrs. Grey, a pretty woman about thirty said 'I was a dreadful experience. I went down to get the cellar open for the man delivering coal. I didn't see the body at first; the cellars are so dark and it was lying right up at the far end, in the recess under the stairs."

"At first, I thought the last tenant had left some clothes behind and then I saw what it was!"

"I screamed so my husband came running. I don't think I shall ever forget, it was so terrible—the blood and that awful, grey, hairless the French let the cat out of the bag by revealing that the fund has been selling dollars at a great rate. Actually the "support" we gave was far short of sensational. We merely swapped dollars for gold in such quantities as to enable the bank to meet all demands for dollar exchange—and thus provided resources to "save" the gold standard. There was no sacrifice involved one way or the other.

Mr. Tannery's thanks are likely to embarrass the treasury a bit. The headlines implied offstage entanglements of just the sort to get congress excited. It had to be France—of all countries—that was helped. It's a cinch bet that some of the solons will ask Mr. Morgenthau to explain. If he has to defend himself it will probably be on the ground that this was the only way to keep the dollar from kiting through the ceiling in terms of the franc. That would register with the inflation crowd all right—but it's doubtful whether congress in general would be more impressed or annoyed.

Comment runs that Mr. Morgenthau should have told Tannery he would appreciate silence more than the most graceful tribute.

New Idea In Parts Dep't.

Big Spring Motor Has Unique Plan of Distributing Ford Motor Parts

Big Spring Motor company, Ford dealers, have recently remodeled and rearranged their parts department at their place of business, 311 Main street, installing a new system altogether. The new arrangement is known as the "help-yourself" plan, all parts cases being placed conveniently for the purchaser, who is enabled to look at the particular part he is desirous of purchasing. It is similar to the grocery store idea of helping yourself, and then passing to the cashier, who lists each item and totals them for the purchaser.

Buster Johnson, parts manager, says the new idea is working satisfactorily, and is affording the parts purchaser much more convenience and speed in selecting parts. Parts are now displayed in trays on open tables, and all are tagged with prices. The local company carries over $12,000 in parts for Ford automobiles and trucks.

Other words, they must stabilize our terms. Thus the heroic part which 500 dollars played in the Parisian panic helps to clinch that argument. For once we seem to be able to match financial wit with London and Paris.

Breaks—
Senator Norris' proposed constitutional amendment to require a two-thirds vote of the Supreme Court to set aside a law of congress may be the pivot upon which public sentiment will be tested. A similar proposal was made by Senator Dorah some years ago.

Advocates of the World Court kicked vigorously last winter because the two-thirds rule in the senate killed the project. Objections are frequently raised against the two-thirds rule relating to treaty ratifications.

First comment among lawyers in congress is that the Norris proposal may be useful in testing sentiment if it can command the two-thirds vote required in congress to submit it to the states. Again the two-thirds rule rises to plague hair-trigger reformers!

Sound—
The house took first whack at the omnibus banking, social security and AAA bills. Therefore it's up to the senate to perfect these measures. With social security going to conference, the senate will soon take up the banking bill. That measure has been softened down a little, easing up on the percentage required of banks to fill the deposit guarantee fund.

The heart of the bill—placing control of money and credit in the Federal Reserve board—remains intact and White House pressure is expected to push it through.

This is one of the few "must" bills that are not questioned on constitutional grounds. If enacted it will stay on the books.

Notes—
A huge lot of road-building projects has been scrapped on account of the high percentage of machinery and material cost as compared with hand labor. No "super-highways" this year. Trade-union elimination doesn't work out very well, either. State department people say there's not a chance of an American inquiry into Mexican religious persecution.

Passage by the house of the tax bill under a rule forbidding amendments is a sign that another tax bill is coming.

Painful—
The French didn't begin to pay the homage to John Bull they did to Uncle Sam. Yet the fact is that the British did more to save the French situation than we ever thought of doing—and at much greater cost to themselves.

The Bank of England's "request" to British financial sources to discontinue loans on gold—predating similar French action—was scrupulously heeded, even though it hurt. It was a knockout wallop to speculation that was wrecking the franc. Owing to the high collateral value of gold it used to be possible to buy a million dollars' worth of the metal for $50,000 cash—5 per cent—and plenty of profit seekers did. But now you have to put up the full million.

The gold futures market—rich pickings for London financiers—is dead. The British aren't altruists. They paid the price because the alternative of forcing France off gold with pyrating exports of the metal would have been even more painful.

Challenge—
The Securities Exchange commission is running into stiff resistance in its efforts to regulate over-the-counter security dealers. Only about one-seventh of the dollars supposed to register have done so. Many of the remainder intend to stick their tongues out at the commission—and expect to get away with it.

Some of the over-the-counter boys are planning to contest the commission's authority in court. It won't prove much if they win except to their own line of business. The commissions' power to regulate the exchanges is not involved in the challenge.

Bill—
New York is chucking over an odd faux pas. A partner of the stock exchange firm of Whitehouse & Co.—of which exchange president Charles F. Kay is senior partner—recently was host at a sizeable lunch party. The check amounted to a tidy sum and not having the cash handy he asked to have it mailed to him.

It was. But the envelope was addressed to "White House, Washington, D. C." the check was delivered there and had to be forwarded to the proper Whitehouse, Wall Street is now waiting for its Whitehouse to get a billion-dollar bill for work-relief.

Sidelights—
Railroads in the Northwest are talking cheerfully about this year's crop prospects. Chain stores are getting it in the neck—Eighteen states will have special taxes on them by the end of the year. Talk has revived of a trade and debt agreement with Russia.
