Early on Sunday morning they took the ointments to the tomb--and found that the huge stone covering the entrance has been rolled aside. So they went in, but the Lord Jesus' body was gone. They stood there puzzled, trying to think what could have happened. Suddenly two men appeared before them, clothed in shining robes so bright their eyes were dazzled. The women were terrified and bowed low before them. Then the men asked, Why are you looking in a tomb for someone who is alive? He isn't he He has come back to l again!"--Luke 24.

That's the gospel originally preached by Hereford school counselors and teachers. They involved some parents who were already actively working with their kids. Together, they used a program developed by Dr. Hilery Motsinger of Dallas. Perot backtracks on statements

Ross Perot gets nearer to running for president as an independent, he's reportedly trying to get farther away from statements attributed to him.

During the past week, Perot has denied endorsing a state income tax, house-to-house sweeps for drugs and weapons in South Dallas or increased use of wiretapping in drug cases.

Perot says he never made some of those statements, or they were misreported.

Reporters involved have stood behind stories linking Perot to these positions and have said they never heard complaints from the computing

The newspaper quoted Perot as saying, "We've lived on oil and gas forever. We're running out of oil and gas. It's the real world. We've got to pay our bills."

Perot said he never mentioned a state income tax in his conversation with the Beaumont reporter. "I said we're going to have to pay our bills and I walked away," he said.

Raffle will highlight breakfast

A new vehicle from a Hereford new car dealer will be one of the prizes given away as part of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce's first raffle. The winning tickets, for a vehicle and 16 other prizes, will be drawn at the April 23 fun breakfast.

The breakfast, sponsored by XIT Cellular, will be at 6:30 a.m. at the Community Center. Reservations, and raffle tickets, are available by calling the chamber office at 364-3333. Raffle tickets are also available at K-Bob's and The Atrium.

"Of course, you don't have to be present to win, so we will use our sponsor's cellular phone to call be winner if they're not in attendance. said Mike Carr, executive vice president of the chamber.

Besides the new vehicle and other raffle prizes, Hereford Bucks a d many goodies from XIT Cellular (including a cellular phone) will be given away. The morning will be led by John Stagner and Charlie Bell, and there will be fun, recognition of new chamber members and new residents, and announcements about goings-on in the area.

The sale is the club's major fundraiser each year; most proceeds benefit local and area projects.

Paperwork really piles up around courthouse

Public officials in Texas are charged with management of records

County District Attorney James Eidson became suspicious when he discovered his undercover drug investigator had fingered a man dead for several years.

When Eidson learned the investigator had also implicated two men already in prison, that was it. "I called the Abilene Police Department and said 'What's the deal here? What's going on? How could this happen?" Eidson said. "I acted on it as quickly as I could."

Taylor County is one of several West Texas counties reckoning with the aftermath of William Lonnie Hood, an enigma whose once-proud reputation for fighting drugs is now shaken by allegations of conspiracy.

Seven counties stretching from the Panhandle to the Hill Country have dismissed 164 of 169 drug cases made by Hood, a freelance investigator who lacked any formal training. Only one county has stood by Hood's work.

Many of the cases, which often resulted in prison terms and a couple of life sentences, were dismissed following Hood's indictment last August in Nolan County on charges of tampering with evidence.

SWEETWATER (AP) - Crusty New Mexico police veteran Rex Bogle says William Lonnie Hood was a star soldier in the war on drugs.

Bogle, who retired two years ago as drug investigative supervisor with the Hobbs, N.M., Police Department, helped hire Hood more than 10 years the nearly 70 drug cases turned in by the investigator.

Bogle bristles when told more than in several West Texas counties have been dismissed amidst allegations of tampering with evidence and simply conjuring up cases.

everywhere he worked," Bogle said. "The first time I heard anything differently was in Sweetwater and that really surprised me."

Hood has since been indicted on two counts of tampering with government records and one count of aggravated perjury. He is working in Arkansas, and has not returned telephone messages left with his family. His attorney says Hood will not talk until his trial, scheduled later this year. Hood's trail of undercover drug work in Texas has likely ended in Sweetwater, where he is indicted on two counts of tampering with government records and one count of aggravated perjury.

But Hood's trek through Texas started with Bogle.

It was Bogle who recommended Hood to authorities in Eastland County in 1987 and a year later to Yoakum County. Officials say his recommendations to authorities may have softened a harder look at Hood's background.

"I think we would definitely try to do more checking in the future,"said Melvin Martin, deputy police chief Ms. Guilford's attorney.

Bogle also recommended Hood to ago and beams with pride recalling County, S.D., where court records show Hood was arrested on charges of driving under the influence and possession "He worked for us twice in of a firearm while intoxicated.

Both arrests came while Hood was working an undercover operation in

The charges were "dismissed in the interest of justice," but former 150 of Hood's clandestine drug stings South Dakota attorney general Roger Tellinghuisen says the arrests were only symptoms of larger distress with Hood.

"The DWI was a problem and "Look, he had a real good reputation simply another reason we were not satisfied with his work," said Tellinghuisen, who prosecuted Hood's cases as district attorney in Lawrence County in 1984. "I think he had a low blood-alcohol content and in the interest of just being done with him we dismissed the charges."

Tellinghuisen, who served as South Dakota attorney general from 1987-90, added, "The cases developed by Mr. Hood for which he was paid rather handsomely didn't amount to much."

Court records also show Hood has a $272,000 judgment still pending against him as the result of a libel and slander suit filed by a bar owner in Spearfish, S.D.

In a sworn statement, Hood claimed that Merry Guilford, owner of B&B Bar and Merry's Back Porch. witnessed drug buys in her bar in late 1983. Guilford sued Hood and received the default judgment after Hood did not respond to the litigation.

Hood Victimized my client's business and ultimately forced her to sell it," said Ramone Roubideaux,

When Hood arrived in Eastland, Texas, in 1987, then-defense attorney We were pretty comfortable with Leslie Vance, who represented a handful of suspects charged by Hood, didn't think he would last long.

"I never did believe him. He was an obvious liar from the word jump go," says Vance, who was elected Eastland County district attorney in the sheriff's department in Lawrence 1991. "Basically I got worried when I had four or five clients telling the same story - they have never seen the guy."

> After Vance raised such a fuss about Hood's failure to wear wire surveillance, then-Eastland County district attorney Emory Walton in 1988 dismissed nearly all of Hood's 29 cases, except those of three people who pleaded guilty.

Walton claimed in his court filings Hood lied about several facts in a case. He would not elaborate.

Vance said he never believed Hood's claim that he was an ordained minister. "It's hard for me to believe anything he said," added Vance.

Hood testified he preached at a church in Eastland called the Victory Chapel after being ordained by the New Testament Fellowship in Dallas in 1986. Hood also claimed to have been licensed to preach at the Four Gospel Assembly in Hobbs in 1989.

There are no current phone listings for Victory Chapel, the New Testament Fellowship or the Four Gospel Assembly.

"Reverend Rent-a-Narc," says Denver City defense attorney Richard Clark. "It's the perfect cover. Who would question the integrity of a minister? It was Hood's way of getting around the fact that he was not a certified police officer."

SWEETWATER (AP) - Michael Adames was known around town as a wisecracker who liked to wear gold jewelry, but not a criminal.

So when Adames, 21, the son of a loyal factory worker and a devoted mother, was picked up on drug charges filed by undercover investigator William Lonnie Hood, those who knew Adames were shocked, including the police chief. "I have got five boys and one girl and we are a proud family," said Joe Adames, Michael's father. "We may not be rich, but none of my kids has ever been in trouble.

'When Michael was thrown in jail, we couldn't get him out. It was the worst time of our lives.'

Adames, who is Hispanic, fits the profile of several people who claimed to be wrongly accused by Hood. Adames liked to shoot pool in a conservative town, where locals have little tolerance for those who hang out in bars after dark.

Others testified they became a victim of Hood, who frequently staked out pool halls, after shooting a game or two of eight ball with the investigator.

Hood claimed to have purchased methamphetamine from Adames on Nov. 28 and 29, 1990. Adames, who says he doesn't even know what methamphetamine is, was jailed shortly after during a roundup of Hood's suspects.

Adames' 19-year-old wife, Lisa, was forced to pawn rings, borrow money and use her income tax refund to help pay her husband's $15,000 bond, leaving little to help feed their 3-year-old son.

County in 1989, two of whom were convicted.

Clark uncovered several glaring errors in Hood's testimony, including discrepancies in his military record and expenses Hood charged to taxpayers from a bar that had been shut down.

Hood made a habit of telling his bosses, that he was a proud Army veteran. But Army records show Hood was "dropped from the rolls of the U.S. Army as a deserter after being AWOL" from Fort Campbell in Kentucky in February 1972.

"He lied to me about his record in the military, and that didn't cut water with me," said Hansford County Sheriff R.L. McFarlin, who dismissed 15 cases made by Hood from March through August of 1989.

When Hood was asked in court about his military records, he testified, "I really don't care about it. There's nothing I can do about the past." In a Yoakum County drug trial in the spring of 1989, Hood testified he spent over $100 at Glen's Bar in Hobbs in July 1988 as part of his undercover work. But the bar's owner, Leota Brow, testified the bar had been closed the entire month of July because she could not pay her sales tax. When Clark cross-examined Hood about the contradiction, he testified. "If my records show, I was at the bar,

I was at the bar." · "No, he was not," Ms. Brow testified.

Some of the most damning testimony against Hood came from an Odessa woman named Melissa Auron, who acknowledges a beleaguered past filled with serious drug abuse.

in March 1989, Ms. Auron told Yoakum may be innocent."

Ochiltree County Sheriff Joe Hataway, who paid Hood $3,600 plus expenses for a two-month investigation that netted five indictments, said he terminated Hood's services after catching the investigator at home with a stack of hard-core pornographic magazines.

'Hood told me the porno stuff was part of his act, and I told him it didn't matter, it was time to go on his way,' Hataway said. "And this guy claimed to be a minister."

"We let him go because I didn't think his cases were legitimate," says McFarlin, sheriff in Hansford County who paid Hood $7,200 for a six-month investigation.

McFarlin said he became suspicious after Hood repeatedly turned in methamphetamine cases.

We had never had a problem with meth before," McFarlin said. "And we haven't had a problem with meth since Hood left. We dismissed all 15 cases because we want to commit someone who is guilty. We don't want As a defense witness in a drug trial to take a chance with someone who lack of extensive background checks and the devout recommendations of a few authorities kept his entrepreneurial drug work alive in Texas another four years.

It wasn't until the end of Hood's seven-month undercover operation in Nolan County in March 1991 that the contents of his drug samples were called into scrutiny.

Sweetwater defense attorney Kenny Maxwell, who represented three clients claiming to be wrongly accused by Hood, had some of the investigator's methamphetamine samples tested.

A Department of Public Safety examination found those three cases and nearly all of the 68 other cases made by Hood in Nolan County involved drugs containing aspirin, an uncommon cutting agent.

Believing it nearly impossible that every dope dealer in the county was using aspirin to cut drugs, Nolan County District Attorney Frank Conard dismissed the cases, claiming Hood may have tampered with evidence.

"His credibility is destroyed," Conard said.

Conard and Eidson then announced last August they were throwing out 71 Nolan County drug indictments and 25 Taylor County indictments based on Hood investiga-

Later that month, Hood was indicted on two counts of tampering with government records and one count of aggravated perjury.

His trial was scheduled to begin last week, but has been postponed until later this summer. He faces up to 10 years in prison if convicted, and is currently free on $7,500 bond.

"I think the guy made a lot of legitimate cases," Eidson said. "He was giving us names of people that he could only get from inside the drug rings in Abilene. But he made three impossible cases that raised the red flag. We had documentation to show that he identified a guy in jail, a guy in prison and a guy who was dead.

As soon as any of the cases are tainted, you have to dismiss them can't try a defense of this case in the newspaper.'

Maner said he was unaware of any complaints about Hood's work outside Nolan County. "Everybody I have talked to said he did excellent work with the highest of recommendations," Maner said. "I think he is absolutely innocent." Yoakum County District Attorney

Linda Shoemaker Lowrey stands by Hood's work, boasting of a 74 percent conviction rate for 31 adult offenders arrested from March through September 1988.

When some counties began getting cold feet about Hood, Mrs. Lowrey was often the person they would cali for reassurance. She testified as a character witness for Hood in a drug trial in Sutton County in the fall of

"There have been no sweeping dismissals here, nor will there be,' Mrs. Lowrey said, adding that about five people remain imprisoned on Hood's testimony, including three who pleaded guilty. "I don't know what happened in the other counties, or how they handled their cases. But we are satisfied with the work done in Yoakum County." Mrs. Lowrey concedes her county is now using only certified peace officers to conduct drug investiga-

Others also have vowed never to use a non-commissioned officer in undercover work again.

"There won't be another noncertified investigator doing drug work in this county as long as I'm here," says Hansford County Sheriff R.L. McFarlin. "And that decision is based entirely on the work of Lonnie Hood.'

Water regulators

Is the water under the ground that you own yours? That question will soon be answered by the Texas Water Commission(TWC). The commission's answer is "no."

In formulating regulations for use of water from the Edwards Aquifer near San Antonio, the TWC has essentially said that all the users of water from the aquifer will be regulated. The amount of water used will be determined by need, not ownership.

The problems in the Edwards Aquifer began when the City of San Antonio began to grow. Soon the surrounding communities added population and the demands on the water reserves of the aquifer grew faster than it could recharge.

Farmers, catfish raisers and other non-urban users, operating their own wells, were identified as the reason the water levels were declining. The TWC stepped in to regulate water use in the area.

The preliminary plan, issued April 2, sets population as the prime user of water. Industry is second and agriculture falls in last place. That set of priorities has very dark implications for the future of water use in the Panhandle area of the state.

Could there come a day in the near future when our underground water is shipped down state to a more populated area? The TWC plan sets that precedent. Probably the most disturbing section of the plan has to do with individual landowners use of water. The plan instructs existing groundwater management districts or county governments to develop plans to regulate private wells used for domestic and livestock purposes.

It is disturbing because it expands the government's power over the use of water in our part of the state. The TWC has given itself new powers to order local water districts and counties to comply with their rules. These trends are not good news for agricultural users of water in our part of the state. In the not too distant future, if that trend continues, a cattleman who wants to drill an additional well for a windmill will have to have a permit from the state, which will allow only so much water production. The state would also have to approve the site, depth and method

The best hope for individuals to retain the use of the water located under their land is through the courts. The TWC plan will be challenged in both the Texas and federal court systems. Many agricultural trade organizations will join in that suit.

Bad luck follows boys' track team

By JAY PEDEN Sports Editor

If it weren't for bad luck, the Hereford boys' track team would have no luck at all.

Cody High, the third leg of Hereford's 400-meter relay team, pulled a muscle in his leg during the race at the District 1-4A track meet Friday at Randall.

'We were in definite contention for second," head track coach Ron Young said. "We probably would have gotten second, but he pulled up and we ended up fourth."

This came a day after Leo Brown, the team's top performer, broke a bone in his leg during the finals of the long jump competition.

last the whole year," said Young, who obviously had two very long days.

The result of this luck was a fourth-place finish for the Hereford team. Brown was lost for the triple jump and the 110-meter high hurdles, events he might have won. High was lost for the 400-meter run, in which he probably would have placed.

Brown was replaced in the 400meter relay by Michael Brown. High and Leo Brown both had to be replaced in the 1,600 relay, which finished fourth with Michael Brown and Mark Kuper as emergency replacements.

Borger won the meet with 155 points. Dumas, with 129, was second and Randall, with 111, was third. Hereford had 74 points, and was followed by Caprock with 54 and Pampa with 20. Borger and Dumas will represent the district at the Region I-4A track meet May 1-2 in San Angelo.

The bad luck may have cost the team second place and a trip to regionals. Hereford lost as much as 40 points between the two injuries, and if Hereford would have placed higher in the relays and received the expected points in the individual events, then Dumas would have placed lower and received less points. Hereford almost certainly would have passed Randall for third.

Hereford will send three boys to the regional meet. Petey Colvin finished second in the 100-meter dash with a time of 10.91 seconds, and he finished second in the 200 with a time of 22.09. Borger's Ronald Knighton won both races. His times were 10.67

Stephen Blea and Shawn Fogo earned regional berths on Thursday. Blea took second in the shot with a put of 51 feet, 1 1/4 inches. Randall's Chris Cook put the shot 52-11 3/4 for Fogo will go as the alternate in the long jump, replacing Leo Brown, who earned second. Fogo tied Brown's best jump of 21-1 1/2, but Brown was given second because his next best jump was better than Fogo's next best. Randall's Billy Vivens won with a leap of 21-5 1/4.

Fogo will be the alternate in the 'We've had enough bad luck to 200 dash after finishing third with a time of 22:42.

> A few other Whitefaces placed. Michael Brown was fifth in the triple jump with an effort of 39-9. (Michael Brown of Borger won the event with a 43-9.) Michael Ramirez was sixth with a 38-8. Ramirez was also sixth in the 800 run with a time of 2:06.67.

On Thursday, T.J. Samples put the shot 46-2 1/2. That tied him for third, but he lost out on the next-best-throw tiebreaker to Jeremy Kreig of Randall. Hereford's Craig Hiltbrunner took fifth place with a put of

The 400 relay team's fourth place finish and time of 44.05 on Friday was not bad considering High's injury. Fogo, Colvin and Michael Brown joined High on that team.

The 1,600 relay team's time was 3:36.86. That team was Fogo, Ramirez, Michael Brown and Mark Hereford's junior varsity team came in second with 125 points to the Dumas JV's 169. Hereford was second despite the fact that many of the boys who ran on JV most of the year ran on varsity at the district meet, Young said.

"We're looking forward to next year. We've got all these guys coming back," Young said, referring to the JV team and the varsity feam, which has only five seniors. "We're going to be real strong next year. Real strong."

Borger's good meet beats Hereford girls

Borger had an unexpectedly good performance at the District 1-4A track meet, and the Lady Bulldogs took second place right out of the Hereford

Pampa won the meet with 166 points to Borger's 152 and Hereford's 120. Pampa's and Borger's teams will represent the district at the Region I-4A track meet May 1-2 in San Angelo.

Borger's performance was a little better than Hereford coach Martha Emerson expected. Borger actually led Pampa going into Friday's final event, the 1,600-meter relay, but finished sixth in the event Pampa won. "We thought it would be tough to get second," Emerson said. "We were surprised Borger got so many points. They really gave Pampa a "All the girls' coaches are pleased by the girls' performance. We scored a lot of points in the field events--for us. (In the running events,) we didn't have as much depth as some of the other teams. What we had was quality."

Hereford will send four girls plus a relay team to regionals. Minerva Salazar won the 400-meter run with a time of 60.34, becoming the first Hereford girl in some time to win district in that event.

Salazar was the only girl who won Friday. On Thursday, Shantel Cornelius won the discus with a throw of 119 feet, 11 inches. On Friday, she qualified for regionals with a second-place shot put of 34-9. Borger's Roshanda Ingram's effort of 40-4 won the shot.

Jeannie Barrientez overcame a foot injury which has bothered her for several weeks to finish second in both hurdle events. She ran the 300-meter hurdles in 47.94--a quarter of a second slower than the 47.69 turned in by Dorothy Proctor of Borger. She was also second to Proctor in the 100 hurdles, 16.08 to 16.49.

"Jeannie ran well for being out so long (with the injury)," Emerson said. "That's just about back up to her best times of the year. Jeannie came Brandy Dunn will go to regionals after a second place in the long jump. Her best effort of 16-7 1/2 was bettered only by the 16-9 1/2 turned in by Pampa's Nikki Ryan.

The 1,600 relay team of Salazar, Barrientez, Angie Jowell and Laura Rangel finished second with a time of 4:14.23. Pampa was 10 seconds better at 4:04.22.

"Pampa just smoked it," Emerson said. Several other Lady Whitefaces placed. April Roddy was third in the discus with a throw of 112-3, and she will be an alternate for regionals, as will Cornelius in the high jump after going 4-10. Both of the other relay teams were third. The 400 relay team of Jowell. Salazar, Rangel and Krista West ran in 52.76, which Emerson said was a three-second improvement over their previous best time. The 800 relay team of Rangel, Dunn, West and Robin Chandler finished third in 1:49.38.

Hereford had three place in the 300 hurdles. Besides Barrientez, Racher Alaniz was fourth in 48.7 and Jowell was sixth in 49.5. Jowell was also fourth in the long jump with a leap of 15-10 1/4.

Dunn was fifth in the triple jump at 32-8 and fifth in the 110 hurdles

Roxann Torres was sixth in the discus at 92-11. The teams which trailed Hereford were Randall with 82 points, Caprock with 37 and Dumas with 30. Hereford's junior varsity finished dead last in the JV standings, but it wasn't as bad as that sounds. Hereford only entered two JV events--discus and shot put--and came away with 38 points. In the discus, Beth Haile won with a toss of 94-0, Clarissa Ramirez was second with a 89-10, and Jenny Parker was fifth at 82-8. In the shot, Michelle Brock won with a 32-4 1/2, and Claudia Ramirez was second Pampa also won the JV meet with 131 points to Randall's 115.

Netters get four regional berths

Herd tennis coach Natalie Sims looked around at the matches being played on six tennis courts in Borger late Friday afternoon.

Of the six matches, four were finals of the District 1-4A tennis tournament. There was a Hereford player involved on each court. At the same time, entire teams from a fewother schools were already on their buses and headed out of town.

players and two doubles teams to the Region I-4A tennis tournament April 27-28 in San Angelo. Advancing were Teresa Baker and Greg Coplen in singles, the boys' singles team of Jamie Kapka and Torey Sellers, and the girls' doubles team of Robyn Sublett and Bri Reinauer.

Although all lost their finals and finished second, they put up fights which made for some pretty good matches, Sims said. The best was the boys' singles match between Coplen and the defending district champion, Barry Thrutchley of Borger.

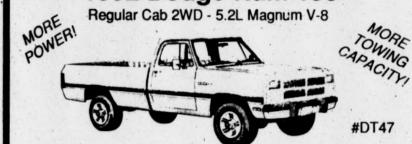

"It gave you chills to watch," Sims said. "(Coplen) played him awesome. They were diving for balls...hurdling the net. You would have paid money to see that match." (Coplen actually did hurdle the net while going for a ball, she said.)

The match went three sets. Thrutchley took the first, 6-3, then Coplen won the second, 2-6. In the third set, Thrutchley "came back like fire," Sims said, and won 6-3.

Masters needs special American exemptions

An AP Sports Analysis By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) - It seemed

Greg Norman was on the putting green getting ready to tee off in the Masters championship and Tom Kite was down in Austin, Texas wishing he were at Augusta National Golf

Norman got a special foreign eligible to do so under the tournament's bylaws although he lives in Florida and mostly plays the American tour.

Kite's a Texan and an American citizen. Augusta National has no "special" exemptions for Americans, or Texans for that matter although nine of them have won the Masters.

Kite didn't loudly complain. He didn't need to because his fellow

Tom Watson said it stronger.

"There is some concern that Tom Kite is not in the tournament," Watson said, "He's playing well. He's our career money winner on tour. But they say he is not qualified.

Kite was 34th on the money list last year. Only the 30 leaders from the final official PGA Tour money list are exempt.

The United States needs players like Kite in the Masters.

Until Couples won, Augusta National was becoming a foreign playground and the future wasn't looking that bright for Americans. Europeans had won four consecutive Masters until Couples' victory.

There were 22 foreigners in the event this year in a field of 85. Someof the American players included aging former champions Doug Ford and Gay Brewer, who didn't break

Going into the tournament, only two Americans who are former champions were below the age of 40, Fuzzy Zoeller, another former Houston player, and Larry Mize, whose chip shot killed off Norman on the second extra playoff hole in 1987. Couples made it three. Special invitations to up-and-- coming players would help America's cause in the Masters.

Look at the impact John Daly made. He drew tremendous galleries and showed he can play by finishing in the top 24. If the 25-year-old Daly hadn't won the PGA last year, he'd still be out there struggling for recognition.

'We officially couldn't invite Tom Kite to the tournament although we would have liked to have him,' Stephens said. "I've always thought Tom would win this tournament and I still think he might. But an official invitation (for 1992) is impossible."

Kite had said he felt like he belonged at Augusta.

There's heavy sentiment for the Masters tournament committee to make a change in 1993 about its special invitation list.

Maybe Texan Tommy won't need a free pass in 1993, but you can bet that some deserving American golfer

PWD to discuss monitoring tournaments

By MIKE LEGGETT

Austin American-Statesman AUSTIN (AP) - Few anglers ever fish in a prize-money tournament, but for the serious and semi-serious, there's a growing number of events that offer the challenge of competition and the lure of big bucks.

The impact of the tournament industry is an unknown, but the number of tournaments continues to grow in Texas and nationally.

Texas Parks and Wildlife will hold a public hearing May 8 in Athens to discuss a proposal for a permit system to monitor tournament activity and gather information about how many there are and how many fish are

The current numbers include such highlights as:

Forty-one reservoirs in Texas will play host to nearly 300 money tournaments in 1992.

A staggering 3,000 to 5,000 local bass club tournaments are held annually on the 200 major Texas

Nationally, there are more than 3,000 tournaments that have financial paybacks of some kind, and another immense but unknown number of local club tournaments held on rivers and lakes in every state with a bass population.

According to the Tournament Angler Directory, a twice-yearly publication based in Marble Falls that lists nearly 3,000 money tournaments. 57 lakes nationwide will host a minimum of 10 bass tournaments during 1992. Those same 57 lakes, 11 of which are in Texas, will host a minimum total of 997 tournaments.

Those tournaments are having an unknown impact on the public water fisheries of Texas and other states. Virtually all major tournaments are catch-and-release affairs and are universally given credit for popularizing the release ethic. Anglers are even penalized for weighing in a dead fish.

Still others, including some large circuit events, carry out "paper tournaments" where fish are measured in the boat and released on the spot. Anglers are given credit for weights based on a predetermined

However, many local club tournament anglers are given an option on releasing their fish.

Texas Parks and Wildlife hopes to find out what's happening by instituting a permit system similar to ones already in place in states such as Missouri and California. Phil Durocher, chief of inland fisheries for TPWD, said tournament operators and participants have access to ready knowledge about individual lakes that would aid the agency in tracking the health of fish populations.

Catch rates and individual catch information would be used to establish a data base for tournament lakes that would help indicate any changes in the health of the fish populations.

"We know that there are so many of these tournaments going on,' Durocher said. "Those people are collecting a tremendous amount of information, but they're keeping it. We want to get it."

TPWD can't match numbers with tournaments and tournament anglers, Durocher said.

We have 200 large lakes in the state, and because of our manpower limitations, we sample just 17 of them every year," he said. "The rest of them we do on a two- to three-year rotation basis. Those people are out there every week.'

They are out there in numbers almost too big to count, according to Alan Allen of Sportsmen Conservationists of Texas, which lobbies on behalf of sportsmen's organizations. Besides the tournaments that attract anglers eager for a cut of a financial pie, there are the local bass clubs.

'There are easily 300 and as many as 500 bass clubs in Texas," Allen said. "Each one of them holds about 10 monthly tournaments every year." Quick math shows that to be about 5,000 club tournaments, which have a varying impact on the lakes fished.

"The problem isn't bass clubs or tournaments," Allen said. "The problem is that we have too many people in this country. There are too many people fishing. We are putting more pressure on the lakes than we

Allen said he could envision a day when states might have to begin putting daily limits on the number of boats that can be fishing on a lake. Similar systems already are in place on certain smaller, heavily fished lakes such as Purtis Creek State Park Lake in East

The numbers of tournaments are huge. They are sponsored by such diverse organizations and companies as McDonald's, Bass Anglers Sportsmen's Society, radio stations and Red Man tobacco products, and kept alive by the manufacturers of fishing tackle and equipment, marine manufacturers and others.

Prizes range from a few hundred dollars to as much as $100,000. Equipment, boats and motors also are routinely awarded to winning anglers and teams. A number of anglers nationwide make their sole living from tournament winnings and endorsements from major manufacturers, in what has become a multimillion-dollar industry.

The business is so large that the 11 Texas lakes with at least 10 tournaments this year will host 174 payback tournaments that have been listed in the Tournament Angler Directory.

Toledo Bend leads the list with 27 tournaments, closely followed by Sam Rayburn with 26. Lake Fork will have 20 and Richland Chambers another 18. Such lakes as Possum Kingdom with 15 and Palestine with 11 also made Nationally, some lakes will be home to an unbelievable number of tournaments. The Ohio River, for instance, has 53 listed in the directory. Eufala in the Southeast has 42 and Kentucky Lake 33. Missouri's Mark Twain lists 33, and there are 39 on Smithville in Missouri.

Those tournaments, though, indicate only a small amount of the fishing that's actually going on. Tournament anglers are only a fraction of the people out there fishing, according to TPWD's own opinion surveys.

'Only 7 percent of all bass fishermen belong to any organized fishing group," Durocher said. "And only 9 percent have fished in any kind

Durocher said those surveys show that 50 percent of the anglers in Texas fish for largemouth bass.

"We sell about 2 million licenses, but that doesn't account for all the fishermen in the state," he said.

Those under 17 and over 65 are exempted, along with those who fish only in private waters.

"I think 3 million might be a better number for the total number of fishermen," Durocher said, "so there could be 1.5 million people fishing for bass in Texas."

Tournament anglers; then, account for a very small number of the total. They are, however, zealous in their pursuit of prizes and cash awards in the 3,000 or so tournaments listed in the Tournament Angler Directory, the largest such publication in the

"They have to be a payback tournament before we list them," said Britt Thompson.

Collecting the information requires a combination of investigative efforts, phone calls, bulletin board snooping and networking to pull off.

"It's a hard job," he said. The list is pretty extensive for every section of the country except the West Coast, Thompson said.

"We have more tournaments listed in Texas because that's where we are," he said. "In the Western states I'm sure they have plenty of tournaments, but we don't get that many of those."

Durocher said the permit system he's proposing would help identify the tournament activity in Texas and put it to use helping biologists track fish populations. There has been some negative response, he said, in the form of rumors that the plan is the beginning of regulations to put tournaments out of business altogether.

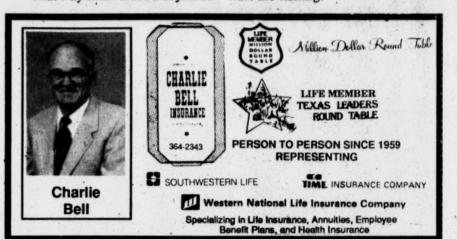

whatsoever on any move to regulate tournaments," he said. "That's not our intention. The permits would just help us know what's going on.'

Durocher said he wasn't concerned with any financial charge for the permit, although a minimum amount probably would be used to cover costs of implementing the program. Minimum numbers probably would be established for number of participants and for prizes, too. "That way small clubs that just do

"There's been no discussion trophies or points for monthly tournaments could get a one-time, annual permit to cover them. Anybody holding a bigger tournament would buy on a tournament by tournament basis," Durocher said.

> "The large majority of people believe tournament fishing is detrimental to the resource," Durocher said. "We don't have any data to back that up. The permit is a chance for the clubs and fishermen to give us the data to show they don't hurt the fishing.'

Combest wants more for disaster

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- "I am not any more satisfied than our farmers are over the half-a-loaf portion of disaster relief now in the mail," said U.S. Representative Larry Combest (R-Texas). While working in the 19th Congressional District this week, Congressman Combest said he will continue to urge the President to release an additional $755 million in emergency funds. The U.S. Department of Agriculture has announced that disaster payments will be reduced to 50-point-04 percent of their eligible losses.

"While the 50 percent payment calculation is more than the predictions of just pennies on the dollar, it is not enough," said Combest. "Patchwork disaster assistance usually fails to provide satisfactory compensation to work with us on a viable crop. insurance program, the Administration has a responsibility now to meet the disaster needs of producers by releasing the remaining funds. Instead of dealing with the unreliability of these disaster payments, farmers need a cop insurance program more suitable farmers hard-hit and haggard by the to their requirements.'

COMBEST

"Immediate action to release the additional $755 million in disaster relief could give farmers additional assistance for crop losses suffered in the year they have not yet claimed for disaster aid," said Combest, Currently, farmers for disaster loss. By failing to producers can qualify for disaster payments in only one year out of 1989, 1990 or 1991.

"The added effect of three straight years of crop disasters compounds producers' financial problems and magnifies the need for a positive, sound approach to the survival of weather," said Combest.

No pre-plant irrigation is needed to bring the five-foot root zone soil profile to field capacity for the 1992 growing season.

"The top three feet of the five-foot soil profile are near field capacity, with small soil moisture deficits occurring at the four and five foot levels. This is the opposite of recent years where the deficits were in the top three feet of the soil," said Wilfred E. "Willie" Crenwelge, USDA-SCS Soil Scientist.

Two to four inches of water will be needed to wet the top five feet of soil to field capacity over most of the portion of Deaf Smith County within Water District boundaries, according to data collected during the annual joint pre-plant soil moisture survey continues in a southwesterly direction They found that additional rainfall had

USDA agrees with Combest, will change designation for peas

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- Seeds of legislation planted by U.S. Representative Larry Combest (R-Texas_ have produced action that will now allow cotton farmers to effectively donate black-eyed peas to food banks. The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has just released new rules that will allow the mechanical harvesting of black-eyed peas on cotton conserving-use and set aside acreage, if the peas are donated to charitable food programs.

Combest had responded to South Plains Food Bank Executive Director Carolyn Lanier's plea for removal of a USDA technical ban that hindered her harvest and donation efforts on behalf of more than 16,000 needy people. Combest's black-eyed pea provisions for the first time allow combines into the fields on set aside acreage for more timely and effective harvesting of black-eyed peas for charitable donation, while satisfying USDA rules governing the use of land in these specified cotton programs.

"Even with all the hardship suffered these past few years, farmers still are eager to spend their own time and money to freely donate a crop that can feed needy people," said Combest. "I am proud of our farmers and I salute the work of Carolyn Lanier and the South Plains Food Bank."

Cotton farmers wishing to donate their black-eyed pea cover crops under new provisions of the conserving-use and set aside acreage programs can find details from their local Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service office and from the South Plains Food Bank in Lubbock at (806)763-3003.

"Michael's a good kid," Kelley said. "In all truthfulness, when Michael's name came up I was surprised. I had never heard of him ever being in trouble. I can only try to understand his feelings.

Joe Adames continues to struggle with the fact that nearly all of the 28 suspects nailed by Hood in Nolan County were Hispanic or black. Records show over 70 percent of the Hood's suspects in Texas were black or Hispanic.

"Looks like racism to me," the elder Adames said. "Looks like this guy was trying to clear the streets of anyone that wasn't white. And I guess if you are a Hispanic or black with nice jewelry, you are automatically a criminal.'

Adames recalls meeting Hood twice in a downtown pool hall in Sweetwater. Introducing himself as Danny Clark, Hood challenged

When Adames sought his job back after the charges were dropped, the position had been filled.

'My life was turned upside down by this guy after essentially just telling him my name," he said.

Residents attend convention

Nine members of the Hereford Retired School Employees Association attended the Texas Retired Teachers Association State Convention recently at the Amarillo Civic Center.

Residents attending were Betty Mercer, local unit president; Margaret Bell, president-elect; and Leona Schilling, Carole and Reuben McGilvary, Mary Dziuk, Louise Witkowski, Sue Inmon and Eleanor Hudspeth.

Rae Ellen McKee, the National Teacher of the Year for 1991, was the keynote speaker for the opening session on Thursday evening. Friday morning was devoted to workshops and discussion groups. A catered barbecue meal was served to the group at noon.

The house of delegates met in the afternoon session and conducted association business.

A banquet was held Friday evening in the Grand Plaza at the Civic Center. The Kivabadi Indian Dancers entertained the group.

Wayne Blevins, executive director of the Teacher Retirement System of Texas, was the speaker for the closing session on Saturday morning.

EASY FIND

Dear Heloise: I found a great way to find the end of the tape (the kind without a dispenser). When I finish with the tape I stick a small plastic bread tab to the end. This has been a great help to me and it's easy to find the end of various spools of tape. Kan.

Now the truth can be told! The verdict wasn't in by press time last week, but now we can say that our "Meet Felicity" party was a success! About thirty-six kids attended and it looked like they had a good time. The film we promoted is not what was sent, so we had to make a hasty last-minute replacement. It didn't appear to seriously alter their cookie intake, however. Thanks to the Friends of the Library for sponsoring the event, and thanks to the DAR for the refresh-

A few weeks ago I was invited to speak at the Rotary Club, and took the opportunity to ask them to list their favorite books. NEW YORK (AP) - Comedian Jackie Mason reconsidered a plan to send a citizens' patrol through a Jewish and black neighborhood during Passover because police assured him they could keep the peace, his publicist says.

Mason had planned to hire an interracial group called the Seekers to drive around Crown Heights in Brooklyn starting Friday, Bobby Zarem said.

But Police Commissioner Lee Brown urged him not to, Zarem said.

Crown Heights exploded in riots last summer after a Jewish motorist killed a black child. A Hasidic Jew was slain in retaliation.

favorite? Remind me not to ask any of these guys to a party!)

Occasionally I have made the comment to a patron that I don't read much fiction, to which the patron's response is often something like: "I don't want that true stuff. I only read for entertainment (or escape)." Well, so do I. And usually I see the fiction folks go home with something about murder, mayhem, moody maidens, or miscellaneous mindless misery. So what's different from the truth? Look at this week's non-fiction:

Murder...Who Killed Martin Luther King? James Earl Ray, accused and convicted of the crime, alleges that the FBI was behind the assassination of the civil rights leader.

Mayhem...Edna Buchanan, police reporter in Miami, relates some of her breathtaking, bizarre, and totally unforgettable experiences in Never Let Them See You Cry.

Moody maidens...Marilyn and Me, Susan Strasberg's account of how the Strasberg family coached and encouraged Marilyn Monroe, and the relationship between the two girls. Also The Vanderbilt Women by Clarice Stasz. The dynasty of wealth, glamour, and tragedy.

If, however, you insist on miscellaneous mindless misery, preferring a make-believe world to the real one. I guess we can manage that, too. Not new, but newly re-released is A Girl of The Limberlost by Gene Stratton Porter. Originally published in the early 1900's, this tale is strikingly relevant to today's environmental emphasis, Elnora Comstock falls in love - first with Indiana's Limberlost Swamp (I didn't even know Indiana had a swamp!), then with a handsome young man from the city. Tough choice, Elnora! (For what it's worth, a couple of self-styled literary critics peeking over my shoulder verify that this is a good book!)

Jean Plaidy offers The Pleasures Of Love to anyone who want sit. (That didn't come out right. My apologies, Jean.) Actually this is Plaidy's fictionalized account of Catherine of Braganza. Catherine is the daughter of King John IV of Portugal and is betrothed to Charles II of England. Wedding plans are put on hold when Charles has to run for his life after his father (Charles I, natch) loses his head and the kingdom. After all, if your daughter was once engaged to the soon-to-be king of England, would you settle for an unemployed tramp?

And for you shade--tree mechanics who have put off mowing, trimming, and tilling because your machine is broken...delay no more! We just received a set of service and repair guides for mowers, string trimmers, rotary tillers, even chain saws (for those real tough mowing jobs). Check out a fix-it-yourself manual so you can fix it yourself, Manuel!

Death is a transition. However, it is only the last in a long chain of transitions. The moment of death is not only related to the concept of afterlife, but also the process of living, aging and producing progeny. Death relates to life, to the recent life of the deceased and to the lives procreated and left behind. There is an eternity of sorts on both sides of the line, that divides the living from the dead. Life continues generation after generation, and it is this continuity, that must be focused upon during the rituals surrounding a death. The continuity of the living is a more agreeable reality, than the continuity of the deceased.

Many coffee drinkers take the last sip of their coffee and throw the cup into the trash can, a routine repeated many times a day by office workers worldwide.

The average office worker in North American goes through around 500 disposable cups a year. All those empty cups and related utensils are easy to toss, but they don't just disappear. In fact, most plastic coffee cups are made from polystyrene foam. In a landfill, they don't break down. Even paper cups don't break down easily. In fact, in a landfill, almost nothing breaks down. It just sits there.

There are solutions:

-Issue each employee a ceramic mug, perhaps with your company logo or an environmental message printed on the side.

-Keep sturdy mugs, not polystyrene or paper cups, near the office

A ten-gallon hat, far from holding ten gallons, actually holds less than one.

coffee pot. -Don't buy plastic stirrers; just keep some spoons on hand.

-Arrange for your cafeteria or coffee shop to give discounts to employees who bring their own mugs for coffee.

-If there is space to wash dishes, make durable plastic dishes available for employee use.

Arrange with owners or nearby carry-outs to give discounts to employees who bring their own mugs. Ask if employees can bring their own dishes or plastic containers for the salad bar.

It's air conditioner time

The calendar says it's spring, and so do the balmy breezes, drifting through the windows. "But," remind home economists, "when springs comes, the hot, humid summer isn't usually far behind."

And spring is the best time to prepare for that summer weather by selecting the new air conditioner volt?). needed for the family room. The major purchase requires some planning and shopping time.

The most important purchase factor is to size the unit to the area to be cooled. An air conditioner not only cools the air, it dehumidifies it.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: After my car was stolen and recovered, I attended the court arraignment and sentencing of the thief. It was an eye-opener to say the least. There were at least 50 juveniles in the courtroom-male and female, black, white and Asian, ranging in age from 12 to 16. The charges included everything from attempted murder and selling drugs to mugging, breaking and entering, shoplifting, arson and possession of firearms (Uzis, AK-47s, you name it). Only two of these kids were first-time offenders.

The judge appeared to be extremely lenient. He treated them like naughty children, telling them to behave themselves and mind their parents.

When these young hoodlums reach 18, their records will be closed, and they will be given a clean slate. Invariably they show up in adult court.

It's time to lower the accountability age to 13. Also, their names, their ages and descriptions of their crimes should be published in the paper. We need to go back to old-fashioned reform schools, where young lawbreakers were taught basic living skills and work ethics, developed good eating habits and learned how to live with others.--Against Coddling Hoodlums

DEAR AGAINST: Most reform schools make kids meaner and teach them how to be better criminals. What we REALLY need are rehabilitation centers where "young hoodlums" are taught a trade and equipped to go out into the world and earn an honest living. This is not easy when they can make 10 times more running drugs.

These children need heroes and role models. How I wish some of our great American success stories would go to these reform schools and talk to the kids. It would be a real service and just might make a difference in somebody's life. I have addressed the inmates at Cook County Jail twice. They behaved like gentlemen, hung on every word and gave-me a standing

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This letters was prompted by the one from "F.C." who is in prison and concerned about re-entering society when he is

In 1990, I signed on as the medical director of a South Carolina prison. My contract was for one year. I resigned after 90 days because I didn't approve of what went on there and anything.

The correctional authorities made it clear that their function is to incarcerate. Period. They make no attempt to rehabilitate their prisoners and prepare them to re-enter society. The inmates are not required to take any training nor are they required to do any work. If a man wants to sit on his rear end and watch color TV all day, he is allowed to do it.

About 30 percent of the inmates I saw appeared to be mentally retarded. The majority of the others were what I would describe as social neanderth-

More than 30 years ago, Dr. Karl Menninger, a giant of a man who set the highest standards for psychiatry, wrote a book called, "The Crime of Punishment." He addressed the very problem you described.

How long is it going to take for us to get smart?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: After 10 years, I am ready to call it quits. I married a woman with two children. One died tragically. The other child and I never got along. He left home recently and now a chasm exists between my wife and me because of

"Meg" has a successful business and leads a fiercely independent life. She always has made more money than I, but it was never a problem. We eat in front of the TV every night, do each other's laundry and rarely go out. Our sex life has all but disappeared. Her desire for me is nil, and I am sick of the rejection. I had a vasectomy, thinking it might help, but it didn't. She wants sex eight or nine times a year in the dark with her clothes on. I long for passion, which I now realize is an empty dream.

I brought home some books on sex from the library, hoping to share them with Meg. She was offended and said I was "perverted." The thought of spending another decade with this woman is depressing.

I have been completely faithful to my wife, but I'm reaching the point where it's difficult to resist an affair. Some of the women who have been coming on to me are pretty tempting.

I have tried to get along with my wife but we seem to be drifting farther apart. I hate to sound corny, Ann, but can this marriage be saved?--Somewhere in God's Country

DEAR SOMEWHERE: It sounds grim but please try joint counseling before you throw in the towel.

I suspect your wife's loss of her child ha da stronger impact than you realize. She may be deeply depressed and unable to express her grief. Suggest counseling.

Do not, repeat NOT, have an affair. You have enough problems to deal with without adding infidelity to the mix. Good luck. I hope things work out for you both. I have a feeling Meg needs you more than you know.

soon realized I could not change to you on Oct. 14, 1964. When I was 16 years old, I had a baby out of wedlock. Several months after the baby was born, I met a wonderful man and I prayed he would ask me to marry him. He did.

It was then that I wrote and asked you if I should tell my husband that my baby was born out of wedlock, or make up a little fib and say I was married very briefly and my husband was killed in an accident.

You said, "Don't lie. Tell your husband the truth. If he really loves you, it will make no difference."

Well, Ann, here it is 27 years later and I am still married to this same wonderful man. We now have five children and five grandchildren. I still keep your letter in the drawer and take it out every now and then to remind myself what a great friend you were, and how happy I am that I took your advice. YOUR EYES

DIABETES AND YOUR EYES

Because diabetics face certain vision risks, they need to take extra care to prevent damage to eyesight. Regular examinations with the optometrist -- the first line of defense -- are key to protection. Your optometrist will recommend an appropriate schedule of regular examinations that may range from once every three months to once a year.

In the examination, your eye doctor will pay special attention to those vision risks most associated with diabetes; for instance, there is a tendency for retinal changes to occur that may permanently affect vision. That's why the optometrist may dilate pupils to view more clearly the retina at the back of the eye. Blood pressure may be checked, too, because hypertension can contribute to diabetic eye

Temporary blurring may be caused by a blood sugar imbalance but usually clears up when blood sugar levels return to normal. However, the patient may need glasses temporarily.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Safety First

arch 15, 1990. The Soviet Parliament elected Mikhail Gorbachev to its presidency. The Allies and two Germanys opened formal talks on reunification and the FSW Feedyard went all day without an accident. Today, Gorbachev is out, the two Germanys are one and the feedyard is still accident free.

More than 5 million cattle are fed every year in feedlots in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas. Cattle feeding can be dangerous. The very nature of the business creates many opportunities for accidents.

The hazards include heavy machinery, trucks, tractors, cantankerous cows, surly steers and some hardheaded horses. Mix in a few cowboys and a little snow and ice, and accidents will happen. Workers compensation insurance carriers view feedlots as high-risk employers. However, one Texas company may be changing that perception.

Cactus Feeders, Inc., of Amarillo, is the world's largest privately owned cattle feeding operation. Deteriorating safety conditions were creating a number of problems. Loss-time accidents were increasing, incidents that required medical treatment were on the rise and the cost of workers compensation insurance had gone through the ceiling.

Above all, company president, Paul Engler was concerned with the safety of the 325 company employees. "The No. 1 objective was to prevent personal injury to employees," said Engler. "We didn't want to see anybody get hurt." The company has always been a leader in the industry, so they took the proverbial steer by the horns.

Engler and his executive committee mandated a new safety program in early 1989. They hire eddy Smith to implement the program in June of that year. The results have been spectacular.

Cactus Feeders has reduced 1991 loss-time accidents by 55 percent compared to 1990. More than $600,000 has been cut from annual workers compensation insurance premiums, and they have created a healthier, happier work place.

The program took commitment from management and every member of the staff. Smith, who is the full-time safety director, is reluctant to take any credit. "We all work hard on safety," he said. "Everybody is a believer. We're having fun now, and creating a safer working environment. We're all working together."

A High Steaks Challenge

The fun began when Engler personally challenged each of the feedyards to eliminate loss-time accidents for 200 consecutive days. He promised to grill steaks for the entire staff of any feedyard that could meet the challenge.

Although it seemed impossible initially, every Cactus feedyard has achieved that goal. Engler returned to grill steaks a second time when some yards extended their accident-free streak to 400 days.

Two Year Streak

The most remarkable streak now spans more that 740 days. This continuing record is being complied by the FSW feedyard in Wildorado, Texas. It began on March 15, 1990, after a disappointing setback.

The FSW feedyard employs 30 people and feeds about 62,000 head annually. On day 197 of the very first challenge, a loss-time injury occurred. The streak stopped just 3 days short of the goal.

Larry Harvey, general manager of the yard recalled the disappointment. "It really hurt," he said. "We were just 3 days away and we could almost taste that steak."

However, Harvey's team didn't quit. From that day, more than 2 years ago, this determined group has conscientiously avoided a loss-time accident. "Every feedyard in this company is a competitor," said Harvey. "This program is working because of the challenge. Everyone in this yard is thinking safety. We want to set a standard that the feedyard industry will have to work hard to beat."

Cactus Feeders' successful safety program required commitment from management, a full-time safety director and cooperation from every employee. Without question, it is a successful formula for improving working conditions and lowering insurance costs. We tip our hat to Cactus Feeders and the crew at the FSW lot and wish them continued accident-free days.

Q: Two years ago, I bought an 18-year-old house with board and batten siding (vertical 1-inch by 3-inch boards with 1-by-3 covering the joints). I think the wood is cedar. It is now very dry and has cracked and warped in many places. I plan to replace the 1-by-3 strips, and hope this will hold the warped boards tight. What kind of finish should I use to protect both the old and the new wood?

A: Based on your description, it sounds as if any attempt to correct the problem would be fruitless. If they are warped as badly as you say, pulling the warped boards down using the new 1-by-3 batten strips may tighten them temporarily, but the wider boards will soon crack. Warping was probably caused by inadequate nailing when the house was built. With vertical siding like yours, backer blocks are normally installed between the studs to provide a good flat nailing base. With a poor or inadequate nailing base, when one vertical board gets wetter than the one next to it, it expands, pulls the nails loose and warps.

Your siding is probably not cedar. The warping and cracking that you describe is not typical of cedar. It is more commonly found with spruce or hemlock. In any event, the badly warped boards and batten as well as the cracked ones should be replaced. If you don't make a good nailing base, the new material may crack and warp within a few years just as the original did. If more than about one-third of the siding needs work, you probably would be better off by replacing all of the siding. One problem with replacing sections is getting the new material to match the weathered appearance of the original siding. You can minimize matching problems by coating all exterior surfaces with a semitransparent penetrating oil-base stain.

There's another reason for seriously considering replacing all siding on your 18-year-old house. It was built before the oil crisis raised fuel prices to the levels where sidewall insulation became really worthwhile. If you replace the siding and build up a solid nailing base with backer blocks between the studs, you could add insulating board at relatively little extra expense beyond the cost of materials. Done this way, fixing the siding would pay off not only in improved appearance, it would also lower energy costs

SCHOOL DISTRICT
THE STATE OF TEXAS

COUNTY OF DEAF SMITH The Board of Trustees of the Hereford Independent School District in Deaf Smith County, Texas, being convened in a regular meeting of the Board in Hereford, Texas, on this the 18th day of February, 1992, with the following members present: John Fuston, Dennis Newton, Raymond Schlabs, Sylvia Flores, Steve Wright, Ron Weishaar, and Mike Veazey, with the following members being absent: none; there came on to be considered the matter of providing for election of trustees to be held on the 2nd day of May, 1992, and on the motion of trustee Raymond Schlabs and seconded by trustee Ron Weishaar duly put and carried with all voting "aye" and none voting "nay," it is ordered that an election be held in this school district on the 2nd day of May, 1992, between the hours of 7:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m. for the election of two trustees to serve on the Board of Trustees as follows:

Single member District IV on the Board of Trustees of the Hereford Independent School District to succeed Mike Veazey, whose term is expiring.

Single Member District V on the Board of Trustees of the Hereford Independent School District to succeed Steven Wright whose term is expiring.

The Hereford Independent School District shall constitute one voting precinct for the purpose of holding the trustee election, and the place of the election shall be at the Community Center, 100 Avenue C, Hereford, Texas. The presiding judge over the election shall be Carolyn Maupin and she shall select clerks to assist her in holding the election.

Voting in the election shall be by paper ballots. No candidate for any position who has not filed his or her name at least forty-five (45) days prior to the date of the election, the date being midnight, March 18, 1992, shall have his or her name printed on the ballot. Such person shall designate in the written notice and request to have his or her name placed on the official ballot for the two single member districts which shall be elected by the majority vote. A person who does not file such notice and request within this time shall not be entitled to have his or her name printed on the official ballot to be used at the election. The order in which the names appear for the two single member district positions shall be determined by lot; that is, a number representing the name of each of the candidates shall be placed on a slip of paper, and such slip shall be drawn from a receptacle after they have been mixed, and the names shall then be printed on the ballot in which their numbers, are drawn. No person shall be elected trustee unless he or she is a qualified voter and a resident of the Hereford Independent School District. No person shall be elected to the position of Single Member District IV Trustee unless he or she resides within the boundaries of the single member district at the time of filing for the position. No person shall be elected to the position of Single Member District V Trustee unless he or she resides within the boundaries of the single member district at the time of filing for the position.

The candidate for Single Member District V receiving a majority of the votes cast for all candidates for the position shall be declared elected. If no candidate receives a majority of the votes cast for Single Member District V, then two candidates receiving the highest number of votes shall run against each other for the position. The runoff election shall be held on Saturday, the 30th day of May, 1992, between 7:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m. Absentee voting for the runoff election shall be conducted as set out below except that absentee voting shall take place between May 11, 1992 and May 26, 1992 with the polls to be open the same hours as during the regular Absentee voting shall be conducted by David Ruland who is hereby appointed clerk for absentee voting in the election. The place of the absentee voting will be the County Clerk's Office, Deaf Smith County Courthouse,

Hereford, Texas. Requests for ballots by mail should be directed in writing to the absentee voting clerk, David Ruland, County Clerk, Deaf Smith County Courthouse, Hereford, Texas, 79045. Absentee voting by personal appearance will begin on the 13th day of April, 1992, and continue through the 28th day of April, 1992, from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on each day which is not a Saturday, Sunday, or official state holiday. This order shall constitute the election order for the call of the election described. The Superintendent of Schools shall post at each of three (3) public places in this District a notice of the election, stating in substance the contents of this election order and the time and place fixed for the election. The Superintendent shall also cause a notice of the election to be published in at least one newspaper not more than thirty nor less than ten days prior to the election. The Superintendent of Schools shall supply to the clerk for absentee voting all necessary ballots, ballot boxes, poll lists, stub box, tally sheets, and other election supplies necessary for holding the election; and shall likewise make provision on the day of the election for the supplies to the polling place for the election judge and her clerks to conduct the election. All election materials including notice of election, ballots, instruction cards, affidavits, and other forms which the voter may be requested to sign, and all absentee voting materials, shall be printed both in English and in Spanish or Spanish translations thereof shall be made available in the circumstances permitted and in the manner required by law. The Board of Trustees shall canvass the returns of the election on the 12th day of May, 1992. Said election shall be held in accordance with the Texas Election Code except as modified by the Texas Education Code.

Adopted and entered in the minutes of the Board on the 18th day of February, 1982.

Have you seen this man? He's Dan Castellaneta, all dressed up and going places. Viewers know him best as the voice of Homer Simpson, but he's a live-action character actor, too. See him this week as a wisecracking gossip columnist in NBC's Monday movie, Lady Against the Odds, and in ABC's Wednesday-night comedy Sibs.

Viewers know the voice; how about the face?

By Suzanne Gill

"I think it's essential that I'm recognized by the people who do the hiring. Other than that, it's gravy." It's a good thing he feels that way, since Dan Castellaneta, who portrays perhaps the best loved family man in prime time, has never been seen in the role. "I don't particularly care if people recognize me doing Homer (Simpson of Fox's The Simpsons)," he says.

Castellaneta, like most actors, is primarily a live-action performer. He has been an ensemble player on Fox's The Tracey Ullman Show and ABC's Sibs, which returned to the air only last week. An alumnus of the Second City comedy troupe, he has appeared in four feature films. Yet he remains a man without a face, a kind of radio star of television and film. Network photo departments routinely forget to include him when publicity shots are mailed out.

Perhaps it is because Castellaneta himself works from the voice out. Lean, blue-eyed, intelligent and, yes, couth, he bears little resemblance to alter-ego Homer. But his voice is his greatest asset.

When I'm doing a character, sometimes I'll fool around with a voice, because you may actually change yourself physically in order to get that voice. And that helps you find the character." Castellaneta once taught his wife to imitate a "punch-drunk Muhammad Ali" to do some verbal sparring with his Howard Cosell on their Chicago radio show, Sundays With Deb and Dan.

With one brief sidestep thto Macbeth, comedy has been the tale of the tape for Castellaneta. "I don't think anything should be straight drama. Anything that's dramatic should have humor in it," he believes.

This week, Castellaneta provides the leaven in Lady Against the Odds, an NBC movie airing Monday, April 20. Crystal Bernard and Annabeth Gish star as gal sleuths on the trail of a murderer in 1943 os Angeles. Castellaneta plays gossip columnist Len Chisholm, a plague who visits himself on the scene of any good crime. While everyone around him frets and fumes, Castellaneta sails through his scenes with a drink, a swagger and a welltwirled fedora.

Two nights later, he plays Marsha Mason's nemesis in Sibs, an ABC comedy that's been missing and pre-sumed canceled since fall. A full 22-episode order was completed, however, and Castellaneta naturally hopes the comedy will do well in the spring and summer.

Then, Thursday on Fox, Spinal Tap pays a visit to The Simpsons. Because the animation for each episode is done after the voice track is recorded, Castellaneta says he's constantly surprised at the show when he sees it.

"The animators put in extra visual wit that's not in the script. They'll do camera angles and things you would never even think about. It's really delightful. You're watching the show like everybody else, enjoying it for the first time."

There's one more place viewers can see Castellaneta: on Lifetime, which still airs repeat episodes of The Tracey Ullman Show. Ironically, this may be where he is most visible.

"Surprisingly," he says, "there are a few people who do recognize me from cable. They say, 'Gee, that was such a great show, why'd they take it off?' Well, were you watching it before? 'Well, no.' There you go."

SOAP TALK

Reader wants 'Days' without Vivian

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: I've been a big fan of Days of Our Lives for a long time. I know all about the families and characters and so on. I just want to say that the character of Vivian Alamain should not be a part of it. The actress who plays Vivian is terrible. I don't understand why she had to come help Lawrence. Could you please explain why she is in Salem and what she is supposed to be doing?

I'd also like to know why, when Carly came to ask Lawrence for help in finding Bo and collapsed, did Vivian want to keep Carly ill? —Jody Young,

Portland, Ore.

Dear Reader: Louise Sorel must be doing a great job as Vivian if you already dislike her so much. Vivian's sole purpose in life is to wreak havoc in other people's lives. In the coming weeks her devious scheming will ruin the lives of some of your favorite Salemites. Stay tuned.

Dear Candace: I've been watching Guiding Light for about 12 years and I love it. I'm so glad Mallet finally showed Harley how he feels about her. I'd also like to see Frank punch out Alan-Michael!

I'd like to know what happened to Mallet's leg. Did he really hurt it? He's been on crutches for a long time now! —Jennifer Compton, Walnut Ridge,

Dear Reader: Mark Derwin (Mallet) really did break his ankle and it required surgery. He is going through physical therapy and will be trading his crutches in for a cane very soon.

Dear Candace: I heard that Santa Barbara may be going off the air. Is this true? I hope not. I really like Jack Wagner, who plays Warren. He is a terrific singer. Could you tell me where I could write to him? —Tammy N., Knoxville, Tenn.

Dear Reader: It looks like Santa Barbara may be headed for soap opera heaven. There are some last ditch efforts going on to save the show, but it doesn't look promising. NBC is already gearing up to bring some new soaps on board.

You can write to Wagner in care of Jack Wagner Fan Club, P.O. Box 1608, St. Louis, Mo., 63188.

Carlin back on HBO for live performance

By Dan Rice

Counterculture comedian George Carlin, who in the 1960s created stand-up characters such as the "Hippy-Dippy Weatherman," says his material is "absolutely not" relaxing into mainstream humor. "If anything has happened," he says, "the mainstream has come to me."

George Carlin Live at the Paramount, which will air live from the Madison Square Garden theater on Saturday, April 25, is Carlin's eighth HBO special since 1977. He reports that among the topics touched on will be "man's psychosexual need to prove his potency by fighting wars, and golf courses for the homeless, which is an attack on the upper class."

The former radio disc jockey began his stand-up career in 1960, developing his style in folk clubs and coffeehouses. The late '60s brought much exposure on TV and the first of many successful comedy albums. His ultimate goal of acting was best realized with his role in Bill & Ted's Excellent Adventure and its sequel, and then a fine turn in Prince of Tides.

Carlin derives his humor largely from the redundancies and oversimplifications of language. The social commentator strikes out against censorship and is amused by politics.

"I look on politics as a blood sport and high theater, and I enjoy it the same way I enjoy watching auto racing," Carlin says. "I'm in it for the acci-

PBS observes Earth Day on Wednesday with a 3-2-1 Contact Extra, Get Busy: How Kids Can Save the Planet. Pictured are Z Wright, Stephanie Yu and a New York City park ranger.

Earth Day given PBS treatment for kids

Specials provide positive examples

By Dan Rice

In ecologically perilous times such as these, it's sad that not every day is Earth Day, but the official observance is on Wednesday, April 22. PBS takes time to give consideration to our ailing world with two 3-2-1 Contact Extras, A Popular Little Planet and Get Busy: How Kids Can Save the Planet, airing back to back.

Teens Z Wright and Stephanie Yu are the hosts of both specials, which are aimed at providing 8- to 12-year-olds with a perspective on environmental issues affecting their own generation and all those to follow. The format uses practical demonstrations, news footage, animation and slogan-filled songs to get its lessons across.

Overpopulation is the focus of A Popular Little Planet, its message summed up in Susan Ring's lyrics: one in five billion. Think, think, think about what you do, what if all five billion do it, too?"

The exponential growth of Earth's population is represented by the continual doubling of pingpong balls until a room is filled in 20 seconds, and by increasing stacks of pennies, ending with a graphic representation of 5 billion pennies, which would stretch over 470 miles high. At the program's conclusion it is mentioned that 4,816 new earthlings were born within the show's 30-minute air time.

The character of Futurekid is introduced in Get Busy: How Kids Can Save the Planet to make a plea for more responsible living by today's children. Insights such as how visits to public parks by the masses cause soil erosion provoke reflection about damage to the environment. While a case is made against the overuse of plastics and

"You're not one in a million, you're paper, it is stressed that there are no easy answers to environmental pro-

> Examples are given of children taking successful action to protect the environment, and there are slogans to be remembered: Think big! Speak out! Change things! Get busy!

Marble's many colors derive from minerals that result from impurities in the stone. The purest colcite marble is white.

Was there romance among the "Brady Bunch"?

By Taylor Michaels

Q: When I was growing up, my brother and I used to rush home from school to watch The Brady Bunch. I recently heard that Florence Henderson, who played Carol Brady, and Barry Williams, who played stepson Greg Brady, were romantically involved either during the series or after it was canceled. Could you clear this up?

—Don Walker, Menominee, Mich.

A: Barry Williams' agent, Artists Group, Ltd., said they have "no knowledge of anything like that," but confirmed that Williams' tell-all book, Growing Up Brady, will be out in May. Perhaps it will reveal a bunch of Brady sour grapes.

Q: I'm a big fan of Alan Autry. I watch In the Heat of the Night every week. I think he makes the show worth watching. I would very much like to write him. Can you give me his address? —Kelly Humphrey, Chanuté, Kan. A: You can write the former Green Bay Packers quarterback in care of the show, NBC, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y., 10112.

Q: I'm a great fan of Judith Light. My family and I watch Who's the Boss? every week. Where can we write her?
—Ann Pellegrino, New Hyde Park, N.Y.

A: You can write her in care of the show, Capitol Cities/ABC, 77 West 66th Street, New York, N.Y., 10023. Who's the Boss? airs its final episode this Saturday, April 25, but Light has a six-episode contract for a new CBS comedy.

Q: My 7-year-old daughter is infatuated with the character Doogie Howser. Could you please send me an address where she can write to Neil Patrick Harris, who plays Doogie? She is inspired by him and wants to be a doctor when she grows up. —Connie and Allison Fellows, St. Cloud, Minn.

A: Write Neil Patrick Harris in care of Doogie Howser, M.D., Capitol Cities/ABC, 77 West 66th Street, New York, N.Y., 10023.

Q: I know the show is off the air, but could you tell me who thought up all the tricks MacGyver used to get out of sticky situations? —Laurie Johnson, Prescott, Ariz.

A: Paramount sources say the resourceful inventions of MacGyver, which airs its last first-run episode on Saturday, April 25, were usually created by the show's writers and occasionally by the producer. Star Richard Dean Anderson contributed ideas as well.

was general Newhart.

Future NBA stars play prep ball on CBS

By Steve Paschal

Over the last decade Michael Jordan has become one of the most publicized athletes ever. So many people thrill to Jordan's NBA exploits and are eager to buy anything he eats, drinks or wears it's hard to imagine a time when practically nobody outside of Wilmington, N.C., had heard of him. That was before his first national exposure, in the McDonald's All-American high school basketball game.

Jordan is just one of many NBA stars to have played in the annual McDonald's classic since its inception in 1977. More than 97 percent have gone on to play major college ball, and 21 percent are playing in the NBA today. Selection committee chairman Morgan Wootten says those facts draw fans.

"From the fan's point of view, one of the biggest thrills they can imagine is being able to say that they saw a Magic Johnson or a Christian Laettner play high-school ball," says Wootten, who coaches DeMatha High School in Hyattsville, Md. "It gives them a chance to see some of the best players in the country compete in a game that raises money for worthy causes like Ronald McDonald House."

No one can say for sure that another Jordan will emerge from this year's game, which airs Saturday, April 25, on CBS' Sports Sunday. But with players like Jason Kidd, Rodrick Rhoades, Corliss Williamson and Othella Harrington on the rosters, it's possible.

Q: I really love the show Designing Women, but I can't stand Julia Duffy. Actually I hate her. She has ruined every show she's been on. Will they ever take her off the show? I hope so.—A Reader, Knoxville, Tenn.

A: Many viewers are unhappy with the recent casting changes on Designing Women. The controversial exit of Delta Burke was not forgotten with the entrance of Duffy as Allison Sugarbaker. Duffy bailed out of ABC's Baby Talk following bad reviews, but that series suffered from a lame premise and poor writing. In all fairness, Duffy was generally enjoyed in her role on Newhart.

'Mirror' reflects Hispanic culture

By Dan Rice

It's been 500 years since Christopher Columbus came to the New World in 1492 and set the fire for the Great Melting Pot. The enormous influence of Spanish culture in the Western hemisphere is chronicled in the fivepart series The Buried Mirror: Reflections on Spain and the New World, beginning Sunday, April 19, on The Discovery Channel.

Offering more than just dates and maps, Buried Mirror, with acclaimed Mexican novelist Carlos Fuentes as host, reveals the cultural undercurrents, such as the eroticism and cruelty of the bullfight. On Sunday, "The Virgin and the Bull" details the history of Spain and examines the Jewish, Moslem and Christian elements of its culture. Monday's edition looks at the ancient American civilizations and the results of their encounters with Europeans. On Tuesday, we see how the European pursuit of treasure and colonization led to native resistance and the evolution of the Latin American identity. The struggle for independence throughout Latin America is a focus on Wednesday, while the final episode, on Thursday, examines the problems and challenges of Hispanics in the 20th century.

New trends in education are the topics of the new series Teacher TV, debuting Sunday, April 19, on The Learning Channel.

Kirk Douglas knows "The Secret" for Easter Sunday

By JERRY BUCK AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Kirk Douglas, figuring 80 movies were enough, had planned to devote his time from now on to his newfound profession of writing. That was before he saw the script for the television movie "The Secret."

He was completing work on his cond novel, "The Gift," when he read the script, the story of a man harboring a secret and his relationship with his son and grandson.

Douglas liked the story and the first thing he knew he was in Nova Scotia for filming. CBS will televise "The Secret" on Sunday.

'The Secret' really hit me because my mother and father were illiterate immigrants from Russia,' Douglas says. "My character in 'The Secret' is hiding that and suffering because of it. I thought my father might have been like that. It's a movie about dyslexia, which is a learning disability. People don't be out in August or September. I'm understand it and are ashamed of it."

Douglas' character is forced to his grandson develops symptoms of dyslexia.

writing," Douglas says. "Maybe I'd done enough movies. I'd written my autobiography, 'The Ragman's Son,'

now into my third novel.'

Douglas says the only movie he's face his secret when he runs for looking forward to making is one public office and, at the same time, with his son, Michael Douglas, who won an Academy Award for "Wall Street." His other sons, Peter, Eric The movie also stars Bruce and Joel, have worked with him in Douglas produced the 1971 movie ree" in which Michael appeared, and he owned the movie rights to "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," which Michael Six months before working on the produced as an Academy Award-winning film.

Douglas was interviewed in the pants and a jacket, a red shirt and red "I wanted to concentrate on my socks. His steel gray hair is combed straight back and his complexion is ruddy. He is in his late 70s, but still has the vigorous look he had in such and my first novel, 'Dance With the movies as "The Champion," "Lust Devil.' My second, 'The Gift,' will For Life," "Cast a Giant Shadow"

and "Spartacus."

Douglas says the helicopter crash in February 1991 made him even more reluctant to be in the crowds that movie-making requires.

The accident occurred while Douglas was working on "The Gift" with his editor at her farm near Fillmore, a small town northwest of Los Angeles. A friend called and asked him to accompany him in his helicopter from an airfield nearby.
"People ask me about the crash,"

he says. "I say what crash? I was looking out the window at the beautiful mountains. The next thing knew I was in a hospital."

Douglas' last movie was a brief appearance with Sylvester Stallone before the titles in "Oscar."

'Bedtime Stories' nothing to snooze at

By Chris Carpenter Shelley Duvall, who's been producing original cable programming for the little person lo these many years, is at it again. In a childlike voice that fluctuates between solemn whispers and squeaky exuberence, she introduces Shelley Duvall's Bedtime Stories, spotlighting two popular children's books per episode. The series premieres on Showtime Tuesday, April Duvall's previous success with Faerie Tale Theatre and Tall Tales and Legends paved the way for this series, which she also produces. But other than the brief observations she delivers from the midst of a pop-up book setting at the beginning and conclusion of the tales, Duvall's presence is secondary.

Primary consideration is wisely given to the delightful animation and narration, both of which brim with professionalism. From Jean Stapleton's New York dialect to Dudley Moore's unmistakably regal English, the voice-over cast Duvall assembles spins the animated tales as entertainingly as any of the actors picked to perform in her previous live-action Duvall's stories are hand-picked from among the most cleverly written children's books available. At the end of the shows, she encourages kids to use their imaginations to draw pictures for stories of their own. In fact, the only thing this show may fail to do is put kids to sleep.

"Looking back on my career," he says, "I never thought of being a leading man or the lover. I was attracted to the role. I've often played SOBs. Virtue can't be photographed. My career started when I played the "Listen, there was a time when I ruthless tough guy in 'The Champisays. "I'm living on borrowed time. certainly wasn't a lover boy. I'm

Networks' series ideas limp along same lines

Network programmers have always tried to keep up with the Joneses, and the prospects for next fall indicate nothing different. For example, NBC recently debuted Man? & Machin., a drama revolving around a female cyborg police officer. Now ABC has produced a fall pilot called Running Delilah, starring Kim Cattrall as a spy who is half-cyborg. Both stories focus on the characters' search for their human identity. Other programming trends are found in the following projects being developed by the networks.

Both NBC and ABC think a TV kids-show host would make a good subject for a sitcom, so you might ree Rise and Shine on the placock network and Griffin Dunne as Graham on ABC.

If you can't think of anything new, go to the past. ABC will produce a pilot for the drama Charing Cross, sort of a medieval Bonanza starring Ione Skye, while Fox goes for laughs in the Middle Ages with Knight of the Realm. CBS may try out two other centuries with the 1800's frontier drama Medicine Woman, starring Jane Seymour and Mel Harris, and Ryan O'Neal as an amusing Philadelphia innkeeper in the year 1775.

Kim Cattrall

Next week, this column looks at more of the silly and serious pilots the networks hope will fly.

EXCELLENT ### GOOD ### FAIR ## POOR POON'T WASTE MONEY

the type of film that Hollywood should make. City of Joy is a compelling story about engaging people in another land, at a time and in a place that few people will ever know.

Max Lowe (Patrick Swayze), a young American doctor adrift in India, and Hasair Pal (Om Puri), a peasant forced from his village by drought and famine, come to Calcutta for a personal search: Hasair, for work to support his family; Max, for a reason to live. In the City of Joy, these two disparate

The story takes place in Calcutta, a human spirit. city of some eleven million people, While Patrick Swayze looks and where at least 100,000 live on the sounds like the All-American boy, streets and 53% of the population and the script has "get-out-themake their homes in slums and hankie" dialogue with scenemakeshift dwellings that multiply gold" oppressed, the acting, by an into villages wherever people can amazing roster of fine Indian artists find space to spare. The City of Joy and Pauline Collins is superb. The is a bustee, where unlike most photography is excellent, and the slums, there is still hope. Here, Max, locale shooting is fascinating. How Pal and Joan Bethel (Pauline often will you get a chance to see Collins) meet and learn lessons of Calcutta, experience a ride in an self-reliance and communal authentic rickshaw, and have your responsibility that will change their spirits lifted with the hope that good lives forever. Joan, an Irish, middle-aged woman struggling to provide basic medical care for some of Calcutta's poor, runs the City of Joy Self-Help School and Dispensary. She's a bit of a hustler, because she never lets Max or Pal say no, she just keeps needling and pushing, and gradually a great friendship and mutual need grow among the three. Together they fight the local Mafia, disease, the weather, and prejudice. City of Joy

BILLY BATHGATE: (1991) Starring Dustin Hoffman and Loren Dean. A young man (Loren Dean) gets a firsthand glimpse of 1930's mob life as a protege of the gangster Dutch Schultz (Dustin Hoffman). With a screenplay by CITY OF JOY: Starring Patrick lives intersect in a story of survival is actually a story about the Tom Stoppard, Robert Benton's Swayze and Pauline Collins. This is and triumph of the human spirit. inordinate power that resides in the film follows the narrative of E.L. Doctorow's novel, but the movie falls short of its literary model. In the book the focus was on Billy, but on screen the attention is on Mr. Hoffman whose role as Dutch dominates the movie. Definitely better as a video movie. Rated R for 1-800-525-0000. $39.95 violence.

Documentary, tells the story of the resistance to the Nazis within Germany. Many of the would-be insurgents hid in the army, where they hoped to be in position to make an impact when the time came. Their efforts are described with eloquent simplicity, and the understatement with which its subjects express themselves gives this film a very special grace. No rating.
