WASHINGTON

By Kay Tucker

Practical

Relations between Washington—the political capital—and New York—the financial capital—may become more platonic as a result of the election of Charles R. Gay as head of the New York Stock Exchange. Unlike his predecessor, Mr. Gay is on friendly terms with many New Deal lights, especially Joe Kennedy.

Mr. Kennedy's Securities and Exchange Commission is still wrestling with the New York 'change over reform and some of its trading rules. He prefers that they "accept" them instead of "enforcing" them. Adoption by the Board and Wall Street crowd would mean that it will be easier to "persuade" the twenty other registered exchanges to follow suit.

Slowly but surely the impression gains at Washington that one of the New Deal's sweetest salesmen is Joe Kennedy. Next to him comes Jesse Jones, despite his bonus statement. As the tumultuous and idealistic supporters of the President disappear or lose their influence, the practical boys like Kennedy and Jones dominate the stage. There is no conflict there, however. The practical men are needed to modify and make the professors' plans work.

Safety

Feeling over the New Deal has become so bitter in spots that even old friends must meet by stealth. The following incident may seem humorous, but it reflects a division of classes which results directly from the administration's economic program.

Robert H. Jackson, prosecutor in the Mellon tax case and a delightful companion, had arranged with an old home-town friend to motor through the South. His friend happens to be a public utility magnate. In writing his friend about plans for the trip, Mr. Jackson said: "Please meet me in Cincinnati and we will motor across Kentucky. Cannot afford to be seen in Washington in company with a public utility man."

The friend replied: "Cannot meet you in Cincinnati. Dare not travel through Kentucky with an Internal Revenue agent." They have not yet agreed upon a meeting place, but wherever it is they will probably wear whiskers.

Strife

The two leading industrial organizations at Washington are the Chamber of Commerce of the United States—you've heard about that—and the National Association of Manufacturers. Although their aims are about the same, the Chamber largely represents Little Business—including many jobs—and the Association speaks for Big Business—enlisting chiefly makers—cr claims to rivalry has always marked their activities.

Even in their onslaught on the New Deal their jealousies intervene. The Association insists that its members forced the Chamber to attack President Roosevelt as severely as it did. It claims that its members were the ones who sharpened the resolutions originally presented. And the man supposed to have dominated the resolutions committee represents a locomotive manufacturing concern which was openly spanked by a New Deal agency.

Human nature appears to be the same whether it operates in business or politics. This division of sentiment has not escaped the White House, which seems to hear all and know all, and you may look for a clever move to accentuate the strife within the ranks of the White House opponents.

Mortgages

President Roosevelt had inside information when he delivered that surprising, fighting speech to the farmers in his own backyard. Just before he ascended the balcony his aides furnished him information on farm commodity and land gains which made him mad and happy. He did not quote the statistics wisely—but without them his speech might have been a dud.

Farm credit advisers told him that values of farm lands have jumped by 10 per cent within the last two years. Repayments on federal farm mortgages have averaged 83 per cent, despite the drought. In certain areas there is a shortage of farms for purchasers who want to put real money into real estate, perhaps as a precaution against inflation.

But the best news was that insurance companies are returning to the farm mortgage field. And on favorable terms for the farmers. They are offering 10-year mort-

Report Japanese Troops Cross Great Wall In China

Troops Chase Residents In South Jehol

Troops Travel In Motor Trucks In Demilitarized Zone In China

TIENTSIN, (AP)—Chinese press Tuesday reported 200 Japanese troops traveling in motor trucks across the Great Wall and reached Tsunhua in the demilitarized zone, in North China.

Reports said the troops were "chasing a group of Chinese residents who opposed the Japanese in Southern Jehol."

"A large number of Japanese airplanes are assembled at Malan-yu great wall pass," reports said, "and one had been flying over Peking, Tientsin."

The Japanese legation at Shanghai declared the Japanese expedition into North China would halt as soon as Chinese volunteers dispersed. Japanese claimed volunteers had been harassing Manchukuan garrisons in Jehol last month.

HOWARD - GLASSCOCK ALLOWABLE INCREASED

Lyle Talbot Lauds Shirley

Nearly 3,000 - Barrel Increase Is Ordered

Daily allowable for the Howard-Glasscock field has been increased by 2,978 barrels effective 7 a. m. May 17, H. C. Stipp, railway commission engineer, said here Tuesday.

Instead of 17,022 barrels per day, the field now has an allowable of 30,000 barrels, the largest it has been since September 1, 1933.

At times the allowable has been cut as low as 13,000 barrels.

Iatan-East Howard field allowable was plugged at 2,500 barrels with no change. However, it was indicated that added development in that area would probably necessitate a substantial increase within a month.

Fox Actor Spends Night In Big Spring, En Route To East On Vacation

"It's not Shirley Temple, but the grown-ups who become embarrassed and self-conscious when they first work with her," said Lyle Talbot half humorously and half seriously, in an interview with a Herald reporter at the Settles hotel Tuesday morning.

When told that he had just missed the showing of Shirley Temple in "Our Little Girl" which drew some of the biggest crowds Big Spring ever sent to the movies, he said he was sorry because he had not yet seen the picture and wanted to do so. He is on his vacation, driving to his home in Omaha.

Speaking of Shirley, he said that everybody in Hollywood loved her and enjoyed acting with her, because she was so natural and sincere. She did not have the little affectations that made many child actresses repulsive to their movie associates. In fact she was such an actress that it was seldom necessary to take her scenes more than once.

In the scene in which Talbot met her at the gate and tried to take her in his arms and she refused—which was the first scene shot—Talbot had a touch of stage fright that surprised him, he said, but the tramp in the play had the same experience during his first scene.

"This was off, when we became accustomed to her," continued Talbot "and we perceived how sweet and natural she really was."

Behind the Scenes

There was originally scheduled a song and dance for Shirley, stated Talbot, giving a glimpse behind the scenes. Jack Donohue, famous Fox dancer, appeared in the dance with her, but after thinking it over the company decided that Shirley's reputation ought to be developed along the lines of acting—not a show performer.

"She is a real actress," continued Talbot, "and she is the man trying for her mother's love. "She understands what it is all about. Therefore the song and dance number was cut out, leaving only the doll lullaby."

Talbot has been in Hollywood for three and a half years and is taking a vacation here.

Early House Action Is Expected

Bill Would Set Up Tribunal To Adjust Controversies

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The house labor committee Tuesday cleared the way for early house action by approving unanimously, with one amendment, the Wagner labor disputes bill that would set up a permanent tribunal to adjust controversies arising from labor elections.

The measure has already passed the senate.

An amendment would place the national labor relations board in the labor department.

The bill, as it came from the senate, called for an agency independent of any government department.

The measure would give labor permanent legal right to bargain collectively with employers through representatives of its own.

Report School Securities Worthless

Special Committee Makes Report On Permanent School Funds

AUSTIN, (AP)—A special committee of the house of representatives Tuesday reported $1,318,000 in securities held by permanent school funds were "absolutely worthless" and estimated the actual market value of all bonds at 70 per cent of par.

The report quoted a member of the board of education and state superintendent of public instruction as stating the school fund lost hundreds of millions of dollars because no provision was made for accurately surveying school lands or to require oil companies to make an exact mineral accounting.

The report said unless investment policies of the board of education changed, "it is reasonable to assume it will not be long before the permanent school funds will be completely invested in bonds which either are worthless or at least of questionable value."

The inquiry concerned chiefly investments in refunding bonds, recommended the board of education be asked to cease purchase of refunding bonds.

Book value of bonds were listed at $40,094,000 or a grand total of investments of $41,412,000.

Two Senators Refuse Vote On Resolution

Speeches Denounce It As A Stage Setting To Give Veto More Influence

JOINT SESSION IS TEMPORARILY HELD

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Plans for a joint congressional session Wednesday to receive the president's veto message of the Patman bonus bill were blocked temporarily Tuesday by Senators Steiwer, Oregon, and Long, Louisiana.

Steiwer held up action for an hour on a resolution to authorize the joint session with a speech denouncing it as a "stage setting" designed to give the veto more influence than it was designed to have. Long refused to permit an immediate vote on the resolution.

Meanwhile, the capitol heard the president would reject any proposal for full and immediate payment of the bonus.

Choral Club Gives Annual Spring Recital

Mothers and fathers and friends of the members of the High School Choral club turned out Monday evening to hear the Choral Club give its spring recital, which has become one of the commencement activities.

Due to an attack of bronchitis Alta Mary Stealep could not sing, but J. C. Douglas showed vocal development in his rendering of "Gunga Din" as a baritone soloist. The program included many classical numbers and several popular airs and was well varied. The boys and girls appeared in choruses that were greatly enjoyed and applauded.

This is the first year that the Choral club has received credit for its work and it is therefore to be commended for giving as creditable a performance as it did.

Senior Play To Be Given Friday Evening At Municipal Auditorium

Starting in two of the important roles in the Senior play, "Apple Blossom Time," to be given on May 24, Mary Pond and Margaret Smith, of last year's junior play, "The Spanish Onion," will be in the parts of Polly Middle and Malvina Kurtz.

Polly Middle is a matronly and rather sharp-tongued lady who is in charge of Tad Forrester's house until the executor is able to turn it over to the proper heirs. While she is constantly harassing poor Ed Pickton, the village constable, she is still at heart a warm-hearted and likable Irish woman. Her abuse of the long-suffering Cal provides some of the biggest laughs available in this unusual production.

Mary Pond is quite capable in this role and those who remember she enjoyed her in last year's play will be eager to have the privilege of seeing her again this year.

As the funniest and most amusing young country dame whose greatest desire is to catch a beau, the role of Malvina Kurtz is among the best characterizations in this play. She is a rather coarse mannered, and unrefined young lady of nineteen who is constantly on the lookout for a boy friend, and when she gets a real beau, she hangs on to him. Everyone will be certain to enjoy this character to the fullest extent for she is ludicrous in her various attempts to "have and hold." Playing opposite her are two other good comedians, Spud McCloskey and Mickey Maguire, and among these three characters are distributed some of the best laughs to be found anywhere.

Margaret Smith is also a member of last year's junior play and almost an identical role she did so well as to warrant an assurance of continued success in this year's senior play. This play will be given at the city auditorium on this coming Friday, and the cast will include the best amateur talent in all the high school. Tickets are now on sale at the high school and will soon be placed down town for better distribution.

Miss Dorothy Jordan who has capably directed the senior play for years is directing again this year. Those who have seen what she can do with amateur talent know that a treat is in store for them next Friday.

Learn To Swim If You Plan To Be Near The Water

AURIN—The call of the open spaces is with us again, the old swimming hole, lake, river, and shore all have their devotees, but in the contemplation of the good times we are going to have on the water let us pause a moment to realize that we will not be one of the unfortunate victims that each year is added to the toll of those drowned.

If you expect to spend some time near the water, learn to swim. It isn't difficult; you will soon learn to keep afloat, and better still, lose that dreadful fear and panic into which a person is thrown when he finds himself beyond his depth. Just the ability to keep afloat a few minutes may mean life. And, those of you who can swim! Remember, it is not always the non-swimmer who is drowned. Don't let the knowledge that you are a good swimmer make you foolhardy; you can have as much fun swimming parallel to the shore as trying to make the other side, and it is much safer. It is much more fun to swim with a companion than alone.

and now are busy raising each other's offspring.

Don't Dive Unless You Know Where You Are Heading

Have you ever stood helplessly by and seen a bungling attempt to resuscitate a drowning person, minutes lost when seconds are precious? The prone pressure method should be started at once. You can learn the proper method in a few minutes yourself.

Swimming is one of the best of sports from a health standpoint, but needs to be indulged in with a proper respect for the possible hazards involved. Incidentally, middle aged and older persons should be physically checked up before engaging too strenuously in this form of activity.

WEBBER CONFIDENT HE CAN BEAT LA BELLE

ARGUMENT MAY NOT BE ONE-SIDED

Of all the wrestling bouts sponsored here by the Big Spring Athletic club, tonight's fray looms as the best yet. Vic Webber, blond headed German pender, will meet the stubborn Gene La Belle in the main event. Dutchmen, according to Vic, have never had much love for Frenchmen, so all the more reason for a wild time. Webber is anxious to find out just how tough La Belle really is.

Vic Looks Good As to physical, make-up, the Dutchman has the unruly Frenchman in the shade. Vic is a perfect physical specimen, and should be able to give a good account of himself.

Last year Vic wrestled Gus Kallio at Lubbock for the world's middleweight title. The argument lasted for more than two hours before Kallio subdued Webber by tossing him against a post.

Webber, a likable, cocksure sort of fellow, offered to meet the Frenchman on a winner-take-all basis. "I'm absolutely confident I can win," Vic said. "I have yet to see a Frenchman capable of taking a Dutchman. They're good enough when everything is in their favor, but they can't take it in the pinches."

Webber may get a big surprise when he steps into the ring to do battle with Gene, one of the toughest men ever to appear here. La Belle can take the roughest sort of punishment without so much as blink. He can also dish it out in large quantities.

When Webber learned of Gene's rough tactics he said he could slug with the best of them, so the brutal 'play' may not be all on one side.

Semi-Windup Mean The semi-windup in salted to be as mean as any of them, with Cliff Chambers and Gorilla Pogi doing a good job of choking and rousing Pogi, who claims the middleweight title of South America, is tougher than a lot of the fans figure. Cliff is tough enough, and probably just a little bit meaner than Pogi. The match will be on-fall with a thirty minute time limit.

Bob Castle, the Kansas Cyclone, takes on Red Nichols of Pampa in the special event. Both boys are new to Big Spring fans. Nichols is said to be one of the speedy type while Castle, is a lot like La Belle and Chambers.

The special event match gets under way at 8:30—outdoor arena of the Big Spring Athletic club.

Flew Sets Pace Softball Loop

By HANK HART The Flewellen Stationmen again took the top spot of the Big Spring Softball league Monday when they eked out a 4-3 win over WOW, cellars, and the Mellinger Angels moved a notch higher in the standings, turning aside the Howard County Refiners, 11-6.

The Taylormen had trouble in coping with an improved Woodmen attack and did not shove the winning run across the plate until the fourth stanza.

The W.O.W. took a first inning lead when Hicks and Hull tallied, but the Operators pulled up even in their part of the same inning when Woodrow Coots and Elmer Dyer counted.

J. W. Coots scored after two were out in the second to send Flewellen into a one run lead only to have the Woodmen score on hits by Greenwood and Rogers.

Malone won his own ball game in the fourth when he counted on an outfield fly by J. W. Coots.

The Woodmen had the bases loaded the following frame but could not take advantage of the luck.

The Angels jumped into a first inning four run lead in the second game and were never headed.

They relaxed a bit during the fourth to allow the Refiners to score three runs—but their lead was never threatened.

Freddie Townsend, the league's leading batter, led the attack of the Haremen with three bingles. Townsend also counted three times.

The Lemmen duplicated the Angels' feat in hitting, garnering a total of 10, but Graves and Hare scattered them over the route.

Graves' shutout mastery over the opposition was stopped in the first inning when the Refiners tallied twice.

STRATEGY-AND NO SIXES-SARAZEN'S IDEA OF WHAT IT'LL TAKE TO WIN OPEN

By PAUL MICKELSON (Associated Press Sports Writer)

Strategy—and no sixes—will win the National open golf championship at Oakmont, says Gene Sarazen, the mighty little man who unquestionably will stride to the starting tee rated as "the man to beat."

"Give me a car with the six on it," says Gene, "and I'll win it myself."

A consensus of the experts, most of whom have played historic Oakmont and its narrow fairways many times, shows that few of them expect 200 to be broken in the big show next month, but Sarazen figures the winner's score will be between 206 and 208.

"Oakmont has them all scared stiff," Sarazen chuckled. "Sure, it's a tough course. It's the only layout where 300 hasn't been broken in National open championship play, in 1927 Tommy Armour and Harry Cooper tied for first at 301 and the weather was perfect."

"But I don't see any sense in approaching it like an unarmed man would a flock of wildcats. Nothing in golf can be that bad."

"Know When to Miss" "Strategy—and no sixes—will win at Oakmont. By strategy, I mean that you have to know when to miss and when not to miss. There are five holes at Oakmont where you don't dare miss, where the slightest error is liable to blow you right out of contention. They are the third, fifth, ninth, 12th and 15th. I like to gamble on shots occasionally when I'm in a jam, but when I get to any of those five holes, I plan to behave, and I hope my head and sticks do, too."

As far as picking the players most likely to be up there, Gene Redding, m-rf 1 2 was unexpectedly eager and reticent. He didn't say it, but you could see confidence oozing out of the Connecticut farmer.

Frankly, he expects Sarazen to win, as most of the golfers and experts do. But for sentimental reasons, he'd like to see Macdonald Smith or Lee Diegel turn the trick after all these years of trying.

"It would be like a fairy story if either Mac or Leo won," he reflected. "The whole world of golf would rejoice. Either would make one of the game's most popular champions. But I'm afraid they won't."

His confidence restored since his great victory in the Atlanta masters meet, Sarazen will try for another slam this year. After Oakmont, he will rush to a waiting boat that will carry him to England for the British open. For world wide prestige, he says, the British title is more important and valuable than the American title.

Only One Golf 'Empire' He finished with a story about "reputations."

Sign-posts

IMAGINE YOURSELF on an unfamiliar highway at night in the country. You want to go to Allison. You come to a forked road. No signs! Which way? You turn left and come to a cross-road. No signs. You turn right. You come to a town. It proves to be Liberty. You go back to the fork and turn left. A mile or so farther on you come to another cross-road. A sign pointing right says "Allison three miles."

But for that sign-post you might have traveled miles—spent hours, and come short of your destination.

Imagine yourself in need of hosiery, clothing, breakfast foods or anything else, and this newspaper without advertisements!

Advertisements are sign-post. They are information. They save you from wandering aimlessly from store to store. They keep you advised of the newest products; of the latest values. They save you time, and put greater buying power in your dollars. They assure you of quality and service in merchandise, for only honest goods honestly advertised can stand the spotlight of publicity.

But his advisers are hard put to it to discover what he should do or say. It's no cinch to walk a political tight-rope these days, especially when so much depends upon the success of the balancing act.

Funny—
"John," said a high-up New Dealer to a purveyor of liquor in the days when official thirst was quenched by bootleggers like John. "Why don't you get a job?" When John bewailed that a man with his reputation had no chance for a federal appointment he was advised to see so-and-so. So-and-so was not accessible, but his aides were.

John had to see half a dozen aides before he could present his plea—that's an old Washington custom—but he was fortunate. Each aide had been a good liquor customer in the old days. When he met the big boss, he discovered that he was another old customer—and one who still owed him some money. The Big Boss paid his bill and put John on the payroll.

Prohibition was a funny thing. But so is the New Deal, according to John.

Few people have noted that Harry Hopkins is directed to promote "small useful projects" which will assure maximum employment in all sections of the country. This implies that the old Civil Works Administration idea is due for large-scale revival under another name. Presumably Mr. Hopkins will profit by experience and organize the layout more efficiently this time. Even New Deal critics concede that C.W.A. created more jobs in a shorter space of time than anything else Washington has tried.

A second feature that hasn't been stressed is the part the Treasury will play. Mr. Morgenthau's department is to set up an accounting and disbursing system to assure centralized control of expenditures. Observers prophesy this system will minimize the waste of money which New Deal opponents expect to pounce on. By the same token, however, the watchdog staff is likely to slow up the rate of spending. Insiders take this as an added reason to doubt that the program will get into full stride before next winter.

Over—
Real estate men see a better prospect of help from the banking bill than from all the other measures the government has tried for lifting their stricken business out of the swamp. The mortgage mess is still just that because the banks have consistently failed to entice about the various plans to make property loans more attractive. The burned child complex is very strong. But the banking bill goes right to the root of the trouble. By liberalizing the terms on which banks can deal in mortgages and removing the fear that such investments will freeze on their hands the pressure is lifted which has led the banks to dump the mortgages they owe at every opportunity. This alone should ease things a lot. Moreover as soon as it sinks in on the banks that mortgages are safe to handle there will probably be a rush to buy them. The urge to invest idle funds in assets that earn is getting more potent all the time—and mortgages offer a better yield than most anything else available.

Experts figure that increasing demand will gradually cut down mortgage interest to about a 4 per cent level. When that point is reached real estate woes will be just about over.

Surplus—
Companies mining non-ferrous metals are popular with traders but experts see shoal water ahead for them unless the craving to dip up gold and silver dies down. Silver prospects especially make all copper, lead and zinc properties look like potential bonanzas to their stockholders.

The trouble is that the silver and gold by-product in American mines is comparatively small. There are signs that the silver rush is resulting in overproduction of the more plebeian ores which have to be extracted at the same time.

It's estimated that there's enough zinc above ground for three months, enough lead for six months and enough copper for nine months at the current rate of consumption. If accumulation continues as at present only a marked stimulus of industrial demand can prevent a damaging surplus of these products that can't be sold. You can't plow metals under.

Life-Saver—
The holding company bill was reported out by the Senate Committee in just about the form the utilities expected. It sounds as rough as ever—but the wording is so hedged as to give the Securities Commission broad powers to rescind the death sentence in worthy cases.

Responsible power leaders privately feel it represents the maximum they can hope for now in the way of concessions. The substitute bill offered by the Committee of Public Utility Executives—based on Wendell Willkie's suggestion (he's the head of Commonwealth and Southern)—was purely a smoke screen. The Committee wanted to be on record with a plan of its own so it couldn't be accused of non-cooperation.

Everything probably will be O. K. as long as the Securities Commission remains as reasonable as it has so far. But suppose Joe Kennedy were to retire and an ardent left winger were named in his place? The Commission's discretionary authority might not be the life-saver it seems now.

New—
The recent wave of corporate financing, has so far been confined to the refunding of outstanding obligations. But investment circles figure that the tapable evidence of cheap and easy money should encourage companies to start raising new capital pretty soon. It's no more expensive or difficult to register a new issue than an offering for refunding purposes. Development on this line would please both Washington and New York.

Sidelights—
If silver goes over a dollar it will be more valuable as bullion than as coin in India. That would mean a huge headache for Britain.

Labor unrest is now mentioned as the chief obstacle to recovery momentum.

Sarver, 29, of the Lees community, who succumbed to injuries received at the hands of his wife early Sunday morning, as he slept in the family home, scheduled for this afternoon at 5 o'clock, have been postponed until Wednesday afternoon at 5 from Eberly Funeral Home chapel.

Reva Ferguson and McCleod will conduct the services. Interment will be in New Mount Olive cemetery.

City Manager To Speak To Civic Groups

Meeting Scheduled At Settles Hotel Thursday Afternoon At 4

Definite steps toward procurement of an adequate garbage disposal system in the city will be taken at a meeting of social, civic, service organizations Thursday 4 p. m. at the Settles Hotel.

Citizens, P. T. A. groups, study units will each be represented in the meeting.

It is understood that petitions will be circulated asking the city to provide for the service in the budget which will come up for a hearing Friday evening in the city court room.

Some leaders in the move to have the disposal system installed expressed themselves in favor of a cheap service, made optional with residents.

Since the meeting was first announced, many persons have inquired about it, it was learned Tuesday.

City Manager E. V. Spence suggested a garbage disposal system for the city in his letter accompanying the proposed budget, but he advised commissioners it would not be undertaken until sufficient interest or demand was made by the people to warrant its installation. He will address the meeting Thursday.

Vealmoor Students Return From Caverns

Led by Miss Nova Lynn Graves, school principal, students of Vealmoor school returned Sunday from a three days trip to Carlsbad Caverns. The party went through the caverns Saturday with other schools from New Mexico, California, Arizona, and Texas. El Paso and Odessa were the other Texas schools represented.

The Vealmoor students were able to make the trip due to funds realized from concerts, plays and a box supper. Making the trip were: Bill Owens, Goring Caldwell, Apple Owens, Natlian Stalcut, Elmer Euckelene, Arthur Kuenz, Roy Brummitt, Gala Rhea Bonner, Juanita Gill, Lucille Evelyn Sink, Emma Jo Richardson, Junior Watkins, Vera Lové Watkins, Myrtle Harris, Joe Pascal Zant, Cordia Harris, Jeanne Mae Shank, Herbert Moore, Ellis iden of Soash.

Assisting Miss Graves were Miss Lou Ellen Weaver, teacher, Rev. Horace Watkins and Porter Hank, Elizabeth and Jack Graves of Big Spring accompanied the group.

"Today it forms the major portion of my breakfast. I cannot say enough for its effect, as I am a man 58 years of age, at the time in life when one needs just what ALL-BRAN does for you."—Mr. Robt. A. Huyghe, 810 Union St., New Orleans, La.

Keep on the Sunny Side of Life

Notes—
Western Senators interested in Bonneville, Grand Coulee, Casper-Alcove and other power projects eagerly supported the TVA expansion bill. Senate investigation of railroad financing hangs over certain roads and may delay RFC work of reorganizing others.

Capper of Kansas is slated by stalwart Republicans for replacement in 1936 because he's backed the President pretty consistently. He's credited with smelling out the farmers' vote with uncanny accuracy.

Storms—
New Yorkers heaved a deep sigh of relief at settlement of the Toledo Chevrolet strike. The auto people could talk all they pleased about not being hurt by the walk-out—but there were factors in the situation that had industrial and financial leaders badly worried. If the radical element had succeeded in blocking the peace terms approved by the Federation of Labor the fat would have been in a very hot fire. Insiders get word that leftist groups in many other unions were only awaiting victory at Toledo to get militant in a big way.

But the war isn't over yet. Private reports indicate that the right and left wings of the Toledo union are much more bitter towards each other than they are towards General Motors. Francis Dillon of the Federation carried the day with a threat of excommunication for disobedience. This strong arm stuff may not work next time. The radicals are determined either to overthrow Bill Green's leadership or to force wholesale secessions of charted unions. In the latter case the seceders would logically tie up with Communist labor groups.

Insiders rate the Wagner bill the last hope for Green and Co. to recapture their waning prestige. If they can't regain full control of their legions, look out for the worst storms yet!

Slowed—
New York sharps have discovered a couple of intriguing angles to the work relief plan which have been generally overlooked.

OIL NOTES

Testing of the Gulf Production Co. No. 1 Goldsmith an important northwest Ector county discovery well apparently opening a new pool, may take place today. Storage construction has been underway for the past few days. Pay was topped at 4,170 feet where it flowed for 25 barrels per hour. Of all things, high water has thrown a crimp on efforts to rush storage.

Amerada Petroleum Corp. No. 1 P State, section 26-19-36, a north offset to the company's No. 1-D State, discovery well of the Monument area, put 1,061 barrels of oil into tanks on open test for two hours. Total depth is 3,903 feet in lime.

The John I. Moore No. 1 D. H. Snyder, section 28, block 30 T-1-S, T&P survey, run 15 1/2 inch casing with total depth of 100 feet. It is a wildcat on a trend between the Chalk and Dodge-Denman pool.

O. F. Dickinson, trustee No. 1 H. C. Frost, 330 feet from the east and 368 feet from the south line of the southwest corner of section 4, block H, E.L.R.R. survey, and in section 48, block C-41, PSL survey, is drilling 255 feet in blue shale. Contract depth for the well, which is another Dawson county wildcat, is 4500 feet.

The R. F. Lyons wildcat test in Coleman county is down past the 400 foot depth, reports received here Tuesday said.

Bruce Frazier No. 1 fee, wildcat in the center of New Mexico, is at 1200 feet.

Gulf Deep Test To Be Deepened

Gulf No. 103 McElroy in Upton county, since 11,570 feet the world's deepest test, pulled tubing as the week opened preparatory to deepening from 12,720 feet in further search of Ordovician production.

Salt and sulphur water could not be swabbed below 3,100 feet from the top, indicating that water was coming in at or near the bottom. Showing of oil stains and some saturation by cores taken between 12,690 and 12,720 feet caused the test to be made.

No. 103 McElroy is in the Ordovician but whether in the Ellenburger, lower Ordovician, is not determined definitely. It is the Ellenburger that produces in West Texas as only in the Big Lake field in Reagan county. The holder of the world's depth record is in section 197, block F.C.C.S.D.&R.G.N.G. Ry. Co. survey.

Life-Saver—
The holding company bill was reported out by the Senate Committee in just about the form the utilities expected. It sounds as rough as ever—but the wording is so hedged as to give the Securities Commission broad powers to rescind the death sentence in worthy cases.

Responsible power leaders privately feel it represents the maximum they can hope for now in the way of concessions. The substitute bill offered by the Committee of Public Utility Executives—based on Wendell Willkie's suggestion (he's the head of Commonwealth and Southern)—was purely a smoke screen. The Committee wanted to be on record with a plan of its own so it couldn't be accused of non-cooperation.

Everything probably will be O. K. as long as the Securities Commission remains as reasonable as it has so far. But suppose Joe Kennedy were to retire and an ardent left winger were named in his place? The Commission's discretionary authority might not be the life-saver it seems now.

New—
The recent wave of corporate financing, has so far been confined to the refunding of outstanding obligations. But investment circles figure that the tapable evidence of cheap and easy money should encourage companies to start raising new capital pretty soon. It's no more expensive or difficult to register a new issue than an offering for refunding purposes. Development on this line would please both Washington and New York.
