Game Meeting Scheduled Here

A meeting important to hunters, fishermen and landowners will be held in the district court room in Hereford at 8 o'clock June 8. Representative of the Texas Game and Fish Commission will hold a public hearing on proposed regulations to be recommended to the Commission for adoption at its July meeting. Biologists will review their findings and explain the current status of game species.

Public discussion will be invited, and resolution from the floor will be transmitted to the commission for consideration.

A motion picture on wildlife will be a special attraction.

The general public, including children is invited to attend the meeting, according to Cal Lovelace, game warden, who will conduct the meeting with Game and Fish Commission biologist E. G. Carney.

Lovelace is stationed at Vega.

Big Parade Thrills Crowd

One of the biggest and best parades ever to make its way down Main Street thrilled thousands along the line of march Thursday afternoon.

Hundreds of horses brought by riding clubs and sheriff's posses were spread out through the parade, along with the floats and bands which went up to approximately 70 different units which thrilled the spectators.

Judges from Clovis, N. M., thought the Business and Professional Women's Club float the best, Beta Sigma Phi float second, the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary float won third place.

Because there were no individual floats, fourth and fifth prizes were awarded to club floats. Future Homemakers of Hereford High School won fourth place, and the La Plata Club School, a small covered wagon, placed fifth.

Commercial floats which were considered especially good were those of the 20th Century Beauty Salon, the Beauty Mart and C&R Cleaners.

Those doing the judging were Fred Phelps, Rufus Moore and Pete Murphy.

Around Town

Only casualty at the rodeo Thursday night was Mal Stewart, Hereford Riders Club member, who had his right leg broken between the knee and ankle when a horse kicked him during the grand entry. Stewart has been released from the hospital and has been taken to his home at Vega. Though the break was not extremely bad, he will not be able to use his leg for walking for at least six weeks, the doctor said.

Summerfield softball team will meet Rutherford in the first game of a double header at 8 o'clock Tuesday night in Veterans Park. Dawn and Piggy Wiggly will play in the second game.

Just a reminder that applications for transfer of students must be filed in the office of the county superintendent by Tuesday, June 1, ex-officio county superintendent, and County Judge Horace L. Schloss.

June 6 is the day of the Annual Cook County reunion which will be held at MacKenzie State Park Barbecue Pit at Lubbock. It will start at 10 o'clock that morning and continue until 6 o'clock that afternoon.

All offices in the courthouse will be closed Monday along with the post office and both banks. Occasion for the holiday is "Memorial Day."

Mr. and Mrs. S. Sullivan announce the opening of the Vogue Cleaners located at 121 West First Street. They have pickup and delivery service on cleaning, pressing and alterations and will clean and block hats. The Sullivans have had years of experience in the cleaning business.

OLD SETTLERS BARBECUE was quite a get-together for old timers of this area. The barbecue was held Thursday afternoon, the first day of the Pioneer celebration. Shown from the left are: Hugh Witherspoon, Mrs. Witherspoon, Mrs. Fred Brown of Floydada, Mrs.

Mrs. W. I. Valentine's Funeral Set For Monday

Funeral services for Mrs. W. I. Valentine, 73, will be held at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon at the First Baptist Church with Rev. Abbe Posey and Rev. Russell Wiggert officiating.

Mrs. Valentine died early Saturday morning at the Deaf Smith County Hospital of a heart ailment.

She was born March 1, 1881 at Littleton, Ill. In 1897 she married W.I. Valentine and they moved to Hereford from Illinois in 1901.

A long-time member of the First Baptist Church, Mrs. Valentine is remembered as one of the people who worked hardest to help raise money for the present church building. She attended Sunday School and church each Sunday as long as she was able to.

Her church work also included active participation in the Women's Missionary Union.

Many Places Will Be Closed Monday

Memorial Day Monday will see many Hereford business houses closed, along with the banks and public offices.

The courthouse will be closed up entirely.

Furniture stores and jewelry stores had all made their plans to remain closed Monday, and a last-minute get-together of the hardware store owners resulted in a decision to remain closed also.

There were no plans by the drug stores or most of the other business houses to remain closed Monday, however, according to information gathered by The Brand staff Saturday afternoon.

Record Number Attend Old Settlers Meeting

Nostalgic memories of cow chip fires, dirt-floored dugouts, early school days and the hard and often bitter years, which were often tinged with some sort of frontier-type humor, were the main topics of conversation Thursday as the old-timers got together.

Opening of the Pioneer Days celebration saw the early settlers, many of whom have lived here for most of their lives, signing the guest register of the Mid-Plains Pioneer Association Thursday morning until there were 418 on the registers, 47 of them having lived here at least 60 years ago. Three times as many — 149 in all — signed the 50-years-and-over register, while the remainder were on the 40-year or under roster.

Bill Harris, "the mayor of Goat-head Prairie," was elected new president of the pioneer organization, and Matt Gilliland is the new vice president. The old settlers also elected Vern Witherspoon as wagon boss (corresponding secretary), and Mrs. L. R. Bradley and Mrs. Cal Walker as honorary vice presidents.

Mrs. Corinne Jennings is the new secretary treasurer. Claude Witherspoon and Edgar Ireland were named members of the steering committee.

Mrs. W. B. Beach, 93, was the oldest woman registering, but Mrs. Minnie Walker was honored as being the person who has lived on the High Plains the longest time.

Honor of being the oldest man resident of the area was split between Alvin C. (Abb) Thompson of Hereford and Claude Elins of Ende, N. M.

Included on the Thursday morning program were a welcome to the early settlers by Mayor Henry Sears, and a talk by Congressman Walter Rogers.

This was followed by a short talk by W. G. Harris, the report of the nominating committee, as given by Mrs. Reed Williams, and the election of officers.

At noon the old timers gathered under the shade of the trees on the courthouse lawn to talk and eat barbecue. Most of them stayed on during the afternoon, with many attending the fiddlers' contest and the badger fight, while some were content to continue visiting with old friends.

All, of course, tried to stay long enough to see the big parade. Some of the floats were reminiscent of things which the old timers could remember as being present in this area when they first arrived, or which were put up not too long afterwards.

Old settlers who registered were:

Hobby Of Helping

Her hobby, if she had one, seemed to be the helping of others, regardless of their social status or financial resources. She was particularly happy when she could do things for her close friends who were ill or were having other troubles, but was just as likely to be found visiting some quite humble abode, her friends say.

After her children grew up and married, Mrs. Valentine often had one of her grandchildren staying with her, as she liked having the youngsters near her.

Last year was the last Pioneer Day celebration she was able to attend, for she had been too ill to get out for more than a week. Survivors include: five daughters, Mrs. Ray Thompson, Mrs.

Pioneer Days have come and gone. All in all, it was a pretty nice event this year. The parade was especially good. I thought the Jaycee float was away beyond the outstanding idea in any parade I ever saw. It sure did add a finishing touch.

I also hear quite a bit of talk about Mrs. Nona Jowell's suggestion to hold a great big killer-killer of a Pioneer Day about every five years — with smaller Pioneer Days in between. Quite a few people seem to like the idea, including several of the old timers who say that they would rather sit around and "talk more and walk less." This has always been one of the 364 questions. They tried it once — and Pioneer Day fell flat on its face for a year or two, then was revived by the B. and P. W. girls. Despite the fact that Pioneer Day has been commercialized pretty sharply, most of the merchants report that little business is transacted during the big event. Restaurants and drug stores do pretty well, of course — but most businesses report a sharp decline.

There is a lot of work involved in putting on Pioneer Days and, like most other things, the load is carried by a handful of people. The Chamber of Commerce crew deserves a big hand. They did a swell job.

I got a picture and a brief note from Albert Herbst of San Antonio. It arrived Friday morning — after the pioneer paper was already out, but Mr. Herbst said he was thinking about all of his old friends and wished that they could have been here. Old timers will recall him as one of the area's pioneer bankers. He was with the First National bank around 1908, then was later associated with the old First State Bank. He is now assistant vice president of the National Bank of Commerce, San Antonio.

Cliff Acker, who is no youngster in the banking business in Hereford, tells about the time Albert went out to see Ed East, who lived east of here on Tierra Blanca. Albert stopped at the house and greeted Mrs. East, who was doing the weekly wash. He asked if Ed was at home and Mrs. East replied:

"Sure. He's down there fixing the hog pen. You can find him easy. He's the one wearing a hat."

Thanks to all of the folks who wrote in about Mrs. Eubanks' articles. Apparently they are in demand. A lot of other people dropped in to voice additional approval. I thought they were pretty good — but you never can tell what people are thinking. It's one of the vexing things about the newspaper business. Public opinion is indeed fickle. It is swell to hear from the readers once in a while — even if they are mad.

We are still getting repercussions from that blue section a few issues back. In referring to it, I always use the most refined version and say that it "smelled," but I notice most other people prefer the uncouth expression "It stinks!" Anyway, it almost got O. D. Lowry, Shirley School principal, into a real jam. Dee got his paper as he went to school and, upon arriving, rolled up the car windows and left the paper in the car. When school was out, he went by to pick up his wife and, before he had a chance to explain the unusual aroma, Mrs. Lowry jumped to a bunch of logical conclusions. It took quite a few hours before things got back on an even keel around the Lowry domicile.

It may or may not have any connection with the way the odor lingers on, but Dee has contracted to run the swimming pool here this summer.

Meanwhile, this Hugh Bookout is the guy I am after. He really embarrassed me the other day. I went to the Rotary Club last Monday and when Hugh introduced the guests, he skipped me. I was being quiet about the deal, but someone pointed out the oversight and Hugh introduced me. The worst part, though, was his apology and Hugh introduced me. He leaned over my shoulder and said: "I'm sorry, but your head is getting so bald that I mistook you for one of the regular members."

Another introduction which brought down the house recently occurred at the Methodist Church. They were showing a film on the Life of John Wesley and had quite a few guests from various other churches. Pastor Hap Dunnham called for a showing of hands from the Presbyterians, then the Christians, and so on, commenting appreciation for attendance. Finally, he asked for the Baptists and when quite a few hands shot into the air, Hap said:

"We are sure glad to see this SPRINKLING of Baptists here tonight."

The Camera Club is getting underway again. This is a good project. I understand that quite a few youngsters are going into the club to study photography and some of the old heads are going to give them a helping hand. Like most things, however, people are inclined to get the horse before the cart. Two often camera fans become engulfed in the mechanical aspect of picture taking and overlook the important phase of composition. Thousands of pictures are taken each year and the majority of them are mechanically good, but only a few pictures are outstanding. The outstanding few can always be traced to unusual composition. Learning the mechanics of picture making takes weeks or months, whereas learning composition takes a lifetime.

Sam Nunnally was just in and says to please, please explain again about the perfume we put in the blue section. A few people, it seems, are inclined to attribute the odor to Sam's cartoons. When he explains that the cartoons appear on Sunday only, he says they invariably remark, "Well, I guess it must have been the Bull Column."

PFC. JOE MAX WOOLERY, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Woolery, 241 Avenue I, who is stationed at Camp Pendleton, Calif., will be home around June 1 for a visit with his parents. Woolery, a graduate of Hereford High School in 1952, entered the service in January of this year. He attended Chillicothe Business School until he joined the service.

I knew it was one or the other.

Actually, Sam is doing a good job on those cartoons. At least, we hear quite a few comments about them — and that's what cartoons are for in the first place. The Brand is one of the few small papers in the country which is fortunate enough to have access to cartoons. They are tied in each week with the "Question of the Week" and, we think, add quite a bit to the editorial page. Such, at least, is the theory involved. Statistics indicate that 52 percent readership of an editorial page is phenomenal, while 12 percent is something around average. Sometimes, I wonder if anyone ever reads any of them.

People are still talking somewhat about the McCarthy-Army hearings. Lester Galley brought by a paper from his hometown of Traer, Iowa. This paper carried quite a defense for McCarthy, featuring a radio script by George Sokolsky, widely known columnist. Among other things, Sokolsky points out that all Committee Leaders who undertake to investigate Communism are, but to shame. He cites Martin Dies, J. Parnell Thomas, Dr. J. B. Matthews and others who have travelled the road. He says that "they" have Dave Schine in the army and that "they" are now after Roy Cohn, whom he cites as one of the top investigators in the country.

This may be true, but I just cannot appreciate Senator McCarthy in his present stand against the Army. Maybe it is his attitude. Maybe it is his approach or the shifty way he faces the audience — but I always find myself pulling for the other side. This Part of the U. S. is probably more anti-Communist than any other area, especially the big cities. We just don't have any use for them. These hearings, on the other hand, are just what the Communists most want in the United States. McCarthy, I fear, has contributed greatly to the circumstance. Whether it resulted from arrogance, from ignorance or for self-exploitation makes little difference. It did occur. It is bad, very bad — and McCarthy seems to be pushing the minor points and technicalities toward making it worse.

If the military loses out in these hearings, a whole lot of people are going to be saying that it is the second time in history that an army was defeated by the jawbone of an ass.

Illinois Couple Is Chosen For Tourist Of Month

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Harding of East Peoria, Ill., were chosen as the second couple in the Tourist of the Month program when they were stopped Friday about a mile east of Hereford on Highway 60.

They were greeted by G. E. J. Clay, official host and hostess for this month's program; Chief of Police Leo Box and A. J. (Major) Schroeter, manager of the Elm Courts.

The Hardings were on their way to San Diego on a month's vacation.

Gifts were presented by Rutherford and Co., Streu Hardware, Helen's Youth Shop, Harman's, Little Fashion Shop and the Western Flower Shop. The Chamber of Commerce presented them with a head scarf and a necktie.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Clay were hosts to dinner at the Tastee Drive-In and later the Hardings were given complimentary tickets to the rodeo. Following the rodeo they were escorted by the Clays to the Hotel Jim Hill for the Jaycee dance.

Mr. and Mrs. Harding spent Friday night in the Elm Courts and, before leaving Saturday morning, had breakfast at the Western Wheel Inn.

The attractive table from which the breakfast was served was appointed in brass and copper. In the center of the table individual corsages of tinted daisies tied with yellow ribbon, spilled from a horn of plenty. Ruddy-toned fruit was served from a large brass tray and a pineapple tree held wedges of sausage and ham. Miniature French pastries were stuffed with scrambled eggs and miniature doughnuts and toast diamonds completed the menu. Mrs. Ellen Carter poured, assisted by Gayle Biggers. Mrs. Bradley and Mrs. Frances Houston greeted the guests. Mrs. Bill Waldrep was in charge of decorations.

Incomparable Italy Is Found Rather Short On Hotel Space

By Cecile B. Eubanks

Ah! Italy! Italy of Shelly; of Keats; of Byron. Italy of incomparable blue skies and golden sun! The blue skies and golden sun which I have glimpsed just now and then. Without this rain the flowers could not be so enchanting and it is raining violets or other lovely things and not rain.

But it is still wet. And I have been caught in it at some time day or night each day since I came here from France 12 or 13 days ago. Although I have tried to catch up with a bit of sun and warmth, I haven't.

And do I have a cold? If I were in Hereford I probably would be in bed. Here? Well, I came here from Rome, arriving about 1:30 o'clock. At 2:30 o'clock I was on my way up the side of Mount Vesuvius. Went by bus as far as there was a road. By funicular until the tracks ran out. Then by what looked like a ski-lift and probably is.

As is the case in all the tours on which I have enrolled over here about eight or 10 to one. Some actually were frightened at the ski-lift and refused to go further. Some squealed rather coyly, others were tightlipped and big-eyed with unadmitted fear and a few kept me company in being excited over a new experience as we swung up and out into space.

When we left the ski-lift thing-a-ma-jig we walked. And walked. And walked. Up and up, until at last we stood on the rim an looked down into Dante's Inferno. Jets of steam as thick as smoke puffed up and out of thousands of cracks in the rock. I put my hand in one hole about level with my shoulder and it definitely was steam. Hot, wet steam. Not smoke.

I think everyone half expected to look down into boiling, red-hot lava or burning gasses. If so, there was a lot of disappointment. You couldn't see anything beyond a few feet unless you looked across the crater instead of down. Then it looked like Alaska's Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes.

American's misuse the word awful a lot. But this was really awful. I'm glad I went. Even if it did rain while I was there. The guides told us that it would be time next year for Vesuvius to blow her top again. They explained the cycle throughout past years and it sounded plausible. They say that the crater gradually fills with lava and when it crusts over near the top it is due to erupt.

All up the side of the mountain to within a few hundred yards of where we took the ski-lift were terraced plots planted to olives, fruit trees or vegetables. And of course wine grapes. The little trees looked as if planted within a few months or a year at the most. It would seem that these farmers don't think much of the prophecy of an eruption next year.

Any tiny place not covered by the lava-rock from past eruptions has been claimed by some optimistic soul. The astounding thing to me is how vegetation has taken hold in the small cracks between the folds of lava. And the soil is black. In Mexico near Paracutin, the volcanic ash is gray. Here the earth or rock is fine like gravel in the edge of the crater and is brick red. Down on the sides of the mountain, where time has healed the scars, the soil is fine and black and seems to grow anything that can put a root down.

Speaking of growing things, today I saw lettuce being harvested. There must have been all of 200 heads in the field and all the family was working. Each head was carefully cut, tenderly stripped of the outer leaves and washed individually. The discarded leaves were dropped into a box, to be eaten by the family, or if they were very well to do, fed to the goat. One is indeed fortunate to be wealthy enough to own a goat which furnishes milk for the bambinos.

Of course, as in every country, there is much wealth here. But the tourist doesn't see either the wealthy or society class. Nor do we see the very poor, many of whom live in holes up into the mountain sides, with maybe a rag hung in front for a door. But more often not, as the rags are needed desperately for clothing.

Metal is very scarce here. I have yet to sleep on an inner-spring mattress in either Italy or France. At better hotels the mattress is thicker but is made of what I suppose is cotton. In the cheaper hotels it is just a thin pad.

The springs in better hotels are similar to our box springs but not so good. In the second class hotels they are like nothing I have seen since I was a child. A sort of fine wire that looks like spit-curls interlocked. Mostly the pillows too are of cotton. I'm glad I brought my down one along. Also glad of the knit woolen robe that has doubled for a nighty most of the time, as the nights are so cold.

Still hopeful I will need the summer clothing I am lugging around over the world in what once was expectation of hot weather. If I don't need them soon, I think I shall ship them home and have only one case to carry instead of two. And shoes! I've worn "sensible" Health Spot shoes for years without an ache or pain. But now! I've walked so much I am at least an inch shorter (worn off the soles of my feet) and the said feet are about six inches wider. And I get blisters. On top of toes, on bottom of toes and even between them. So you who come to Europe do what the army does. Get shoes at least two sizes wider and longer than you ordinarily wear. These marble stairs!

To the tourist who buys a "packaged, prepaid tour," all the things I write will be useless. It is to the hardy soul who wants to see and do things not on the regular tourist's agenda that I am telling my experiences with the idea of giving him a lift before he starts over here.

When I first reached Paris the tourists had not yet moved in and taken over. They have now. And are coming in larger droves than at any time in history. I was reading that more than 10,000 had booked passage and this is on ships only, no planes, for one week only.

I mean that many from America have already started this past week or will do so next week. And that is only one week. The English say "We are seeing Westminster and at the same time keeping it in England." How right they are.

Unless you have booked rooms at hotels in advance you probably will arrive as I did in Florence and have no place to stay.

I arrived in a CIT bus so they felt responsible for me and found me a pension. Nice, clean and good food. But so far from tourist center of things that was just as expensive as a downtown hotel if one adds the taxi fares necessary to get around.

When I reached Rome, at night, of course, as I travel by train or bus in order to see things during day time, I thought I had a place to stay. Father Bartholomew of the Catholic Rectory at Hereford had written, some friends of his in Rome to look out for me. So they recommended Hotel Columbus. It is within blocks of St. Peter's, the show place of Rome, as well as the largest and most beautiful church in the world.

As I stayed at Avignon, France, longer than I intended and wrote the hotel telling them of my delayed arrival when I got in they had no room for me. I had taken a taxi and dashed around Rome looking at the lighted fountains, Mussolini's palace and a lot of other places that the driver pointed out but which I couldn't recognize as my Italian is nil. And I almost gasped when I reached the hotel. It was at the end of the Colonnade of St. Peters which also was lighted.

Too beautiful for words. But I found plenty when I found I didn't have a place to lay my weary head. And it was cold. Probably raining. I forget, but it usually is.

I was sent to a nearby hotel that was clean but had nothing else to recommend it, but that it was cheap. Next day the Columbus took in their wandering child but only for four days! But I had learned a lot in Florence. As I arrived on a CIT bus I asked them to find me a place. They did. A really nice first class hotel down town. In Rome, not Florence!

Then I bought a four day tour down here to Sorrento, Amalfi, ruins of Pompeii and Isle of Capri. On condition they provided room for me until I left on tour and for two nights after I returned to Rome.

I saw the Eternal City on each of its seven hills with special escort. Two of Father Bartholomew's friends took turns taking me around. I have seen about everything a tourist sees and a great deal more. All but the Catacombs and am slated to see them Thursday morning, special escort, when I get back to Rome.

This hotel is, I think I mentioned before, about a block or less from the sea. When I went down there this afternoon, what was riding the water? A United States aircraft carrier and some other ships. Part of the fleet I saw at Cannes. Now, who do you suppose told them I was coming to Naples so they could come to take care of me here in case I lost my passport or got in some international trouble?

Atoms Measure Power

CHICAGO (AP)—Atomic radiation is being used to measure the power potential of oil and gasoline. A new instrument developed by Dr. Robert B. Jacobs and Dr. Lloyd G. Lewis engineers for a major oil company determines the percentage of hydrogen by a process that utilizes the absorption of beta rays.

The meter does in five minutes what previously took four hours. Used mainly in the petroleum industries, it also can be used to control the processing of pharmaceuticals, chemicals, plastics, foods and in hydrogenation processes.

To use the meter, a tiny container is filled with a sample of the hydrocarbon to be tested. It then is subjected to radiation in the meter and the amount of radiation the sample absorbs is measured.

Segregation Rule Touches Off Decade Of Troubles For Negro Students In South

Despite the furor which it created, we have not heard the last of the Supreme Court's anti-segregation ruling. Many places in the South will, without question, attempt to continue segregation. Colored students will go to schools within areas according to their residence, thus for all practical purposes segregation will continue. Such action will naturally lead to "test" cases, court trials and even more widespread dissention. Also probable in the next few years will be an attempt to force a certain percentage of negro teachers into public schools over the nation, along the pattern followed by F. E. P. C. in industry. This situation, if it comes, will create even greater controversy.

Regardless of how the State of Texas, Hereford or any other area may accept the anti-segregation ruling, you can rely upon the fact that it will not receive general acceptance and cooperation over the entire South. It is also well to remember that, despite considerable centralization through state control of public schools in recent years, they are still comparatively free from strings of any federal government agency or group. This fact makes rigid enforcement of federal policy difficult - - and sets the scene for what may be one of the most bitter struggles since the Civil War.

Hereford carefully reviewed this situation before the school term opened last September. Several trustees indicated acceptance of the negroes in Hereford Schools at that time, but gave up the idea when it was cited as contrary to State of Texas regulations.

Apparently receiving little consideration in this matter are the negro children. Whereas, they might be readily accepted under normal conditions, what will be their fate following general controversy, widespread dissention and individual animosity on the part of the whites who favor segregation? We are certainly in no position to say that the Supreme Court made an unfair or an unjust decision. The anti-segregation decision was, in fact, definitely in keeping with political and regressive creeds advanced in the Constitution of our nation. It will, on the other hand, provide a definite handicap to the negro children of this generation - - and possibly for several more to follow.

No One To Fear Save Ourselves

"We have no one to fear but ourselves." This was the common-sense conclusion of Congressman Walter Rogers when he addressed members and guests of the Kiwanis Club here last Thursday. Rogers based his statement upon natural geographic location of the United States, heavily backed with every probability that any sort of attack by Russia would be tantamount to "suicide by the Communist nation." He substantiated the thought with information that any attack on the United States from Russia would, within hours, result in practical annihilation of Russia's leading cities by American planes loaded with atomic and hydrogen bombs. He further predicted that warfare with Russia would likely not be carried on by foot-soldiers.

If you agree with Congressman Rogers on this score, you are bound to agree with his conclusion that the United States, therefore, has more to fear within than without its boundaries. Even those who do not agree on either count must, if they are honest, admit that the United States has much to fear within. The spread of Communism within this country has been along near-alarming proportions and, we feel sure, this was the Congressman's chief reference. The situation, on the other hand, might be a mere by-product of America's greatest threat.

America is today living in the most prosperous era of its entire history, and is easily the most prosperous nation in the world. It's people are better fed, better clothed and better housed than any other people in the world's history. They are, at the same time, more discontented than ever before. Unlike the pioneers of the past generation, there is doubt in what direction many people want to travel; changing of course in the middle of life's journey has come to be more the rule than the exception. The public is better informed regarding candidates for office than ever before, yet finds more difficult each electoral decision.

Such general unrest naturally leaves people more susceptible to "isms" and to Fifth Columnists. It is based upon the welfare-state theory that the government owes people a living. These situations represent the very essence of Adolph Hitler's oft-proclaimed threat that "the decadent democracies" would crumble and fall.

Americans, on the other hand, are a study people. When the time comes, they invariably rally, shoulder their individual portion of the load and work together for the common good. This was the inherent characteristic which Hitler overlooked. It has brought America a long way since 1776. The extent to which it can survive present day prosperity and easy living will be parallel with the future of the United States.

When Young People Leave, Towns Die

A few weeks ago The Brand published an editorial regarding the loss of the county's most important crop: Our Young people. We were definitely interested, therefore, in recent release of a speech made by Attorney General John Ben Shepperd concerning this same trend over the entire State of Texas. Shepperd entitled his talk, "The Dying Towns of Texas," and quotes some interesting figures. The overall picture is, in fact, much more alarming than that seen on the local level in the Hereford area.

"One hundred and forty-six counties in Texas - - more than half of the 254 - - lost population between 1940 and 1950," says Shepperd. One out of four counties pulled up in population count. Deaf Smith, we are proud to say, was in the population increase group. Many small towns in North Central Texas, he cites as having two persons over 65 years of age for each person under that figure. Counties showing a decrease in population definitely run to higher ages for the remaining inhabitants. Three-fourths of all of the people who live in towns over 2,500, live in one of the 15 large cities in Texas, according to Shepperd's figures - - and these 15 cities house 47 out of each 100 residents of the State of Texas. In other words, the younger people are migrating to industrial centers.

Shepperd cites several reasons, but holds industry and jobs as one of the major causes of such migration. He cited Jacksboro as one community which had taken steps to halt the trek when 100 people dug into their pockets for $40,000 to start a new shoe factory. He further points out: "Recent surveys show that 50 people working in a basic industry create work for 78 people in service industries which support an additional non-working population of 225. Every job you create is really two jobs, and supports four or five people."

As partial answer to the problem, he suggests "job-ships", a local promotion similar to scholarships along the following line:

"Why not set up a foundation to determine what a town needs in the way of professional or business people, then send youngsters away to be trained to fill the gap? If you need a veterinarian, train one. If you need a mechanic or lawyer, train him. Train nurses. Train doctors. Train architects. We need to do less getting and more creating."

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Disaster Relief Program Should Give Everyone Some Training

Do you think that a defense and disaster plan for Hereford should include some practices for almost everyone or just for key groups?

HUBERT MONROE

"I think that to get the benefit from the program that we should get, that each and every individual should have some part in the defense and disaster program.

RUTH SMITH

"I believe it would be a good idea for everyone to have some training in a defense and disaster plan. Then in case a disaster should strike everyone would know what to do."

MRS. C. R. LADY

"I do believe that certain groups should have special training in order to take over and lead in case of an emergency. However, I do think that the general public should have some training so they will know something of what to do and to follow instructions."

GWEEN LOYD

"I think that everyone should participate in the defense and disaster plan for Hereford. I can't think of too many reasons right off but I believe that if everyone participated we would have better protection and know more about what to do."

MRS. H. C. PARVIN

"Everyone should have a part in the defense and disaster program. If a disaster should strike then everyone would know just what to do."

BILL SHORE

"I think that the plan should include everyone. If we just have certain groups participating and a disaster should strike in Hereford these groups would not be able to reach every individual. On the other hand if everyone knew what to do in case of an emergency they wouldn't have to depend on the groups."

MRS. J. P. SLATON

"I think that everyone should be trained in a defense and disaster plan for Hereford instead of just training certain groups. If a disaster should come then I believe those that weren't trained would hinder those that were and the groups would not be able to help very much."

With the Pioneer celebrian just passed we missed Jim Robinson. He came with his father to improve the place where we now live early in 1900 and when we needed to know anything about the place he was able to help us out. Just last week we realized that we needed to know something about the fencing machine they used to make wire netting that is still on the east fence where it was put to hold sheep about 50 years ago.

Mr. Robinson had a nice sense of humor and always referred to the date he was born as the time when he Discovered America!

Gatherin' pioneer recipes for our page in Thursday's paper was more fun than we had anticipated. Fate played right into our hand when we went to Mrs. Andy Godwn's on the way day that she was makin' fried apple pies.

Two of the other women were making sure memory hadn't played a trick on them so we had Vinegar pie at Mrs. Bourn's and Cream Pie at Mrs. owell's: And another nice thing about it was that we met Miss Jessie Morris for the first time. All week we've been thinking what a pleasant occasion it was.

It's a great life if you don't weaken but when we look at all the goatheads pushing ahead of our garden we're not sure we are not beginning to give up the struggle.

Texas Press Association AUSTIN — Texas' fast-flying governor returned from a vacation in Alabama, spent a few days in the state, and planned off to Korea, where he and other state executives will make an inspection tour at the invitation of President Eisenhower.

While in the capital, Governor Shivers was very busy doing these things:

Answering charges of disloyalty to the Democratic Party by saying that when he supported Mr. Eisenhower for president in 1952 he was really fighting to preserve the principles of the party of Jefferson and Jackson because he wants the Texas party and the national party to return to those principles in unity.

Announcing that the campaign manager in his race for re-election will be State Senator Otis Lock of Lufkin, and that campaign headquarters in Austin would be opened right away.

Answering Stephen A. Mitchell, Democratic National chairman, who said that he would deal with the Texas Democratic Advisory council, rather than the state democratic executive committee. Shivers told Mitchell: "I strongly suspect that your statement is announcement of your entry into the Texas-governor's race. I welcome that challenge."

Saying that Texas and other states would need years to work out compliance with the non-segregation rule.

Promising that as long as he is governor, there will be no state sales tax or income tax.

Naming Weldon Hart, chairman of the Texas Employment Commission, as chairman of the newly-created Governor's Economic Advisory Commission.

Announcing that John VanCronkhite, his former aide under attack in an insurance court case, is not in his present re-election campaign.

Lloyd's Closed After a nine-day hearing in 98th District Court here, Judge Charles O. Betts granted a temporary injunction, asked by the attorney general's department, forbidding the Lloyd's of North America Insurance Co., from doing business in Texas.

At one time, VanCronkhite was employed as public relations counsel for the company, he testified during the hearing.

Insurance Muddle There was comment from several sources on the insurance situation.

Garland A. Smith, chairman of the state insurance commission, pledged the greatest possible protection to holders of policies issued by companies doing business in Texas.

Smith emphasized that state insurance laws are sound, fundamentally, but that some changes are necessary. He said some new laws will have to be passed, and that

PROBLEM NEEDS TIME

Area school officials feel, in regard to the non-segregation ruling handed down this week by the U. S. Supreme Court that the problem, given time and careful consideration, can be worked out. DRYER GROUND NEEDED

Floyd County cotton farmers this week are getting anxious to get into their fields and became rather restive Tuesday when rain clouds dumped another two inches of rainfall over about half of the county's area.

Feed can wait and the wheat is booming, what with cool, dewy morning and overcast skies.

But cotton ground is fouling up on irrigation farms and fire is running out. Cotton ought to be in the ground. That's the report we get. The Floyd County Hesperian.

BOND ISSUE FAILS

A special session of the Commissioners Court was held May 17 at the Court House for the purpose of canvassing the returns of the election last week on the $750,000 right-of-way bond issue.

It was found that the returns were correct with 2,113 voting for the bond issue and 1,663 votes being cast against the bond issue. The bond issue failed by 403 votes of the two-thirds majority needed to carry the bond issue. The Canyon News.

PART OF ELEVATOR RUINED

The winds May 15 blew down one section of the Warrick elevators that was under construction. The structure hit the east end of the depot, flattening itself into a worthless mass of metal. It took workmen all Sunday to remove the wreckage. Velman Warrick said that a new unit had been ordered since it would cost more to try to repair the old elevator. Wellington Leader.

— O —

Dear editor:

I read the other day where some sarcastic columnist was ridiculing Navy officers for resuming the wearing of swords when they put on their formal dress uniforms for official occasions. According to him, in this atomic age wearing an old-fashioned sword is as out of place as puttin buggie whips on automobiles.

I do not look at it that way. In fact, where the world made its big mistake was in abandoning sword-fighting in the first place to settle its arguments.

When the world beat its swords into plowshares, it made its first major error along the road to survival. All advancement isn't progress, and probably the most progressive step mankind could take right now would be to beat its atom bombs into broad swords and resume old-fashioned warfare.

Think what it would mean to the United States budget if the defense department issued a call for 20 million swords instead of 15 thousand bombers. You ever estimate the difference in cost between over-hauling a bomber and re-sharpening a sword? Also, virtually every piece of motorized equipment we got on hand now is wearing out, that's the very nature of machinery, and in ten years practically everything we spend this year for defense will have to be spent again, as newer models of airplanes come out, more slaughterous bombs are perfected, etc., but a first-class sword made from good tempered steel 150 years ago is just as useful now as it was then.

Now I'll admit you can't kill as many people with swords as you can with bombs, but big numbers never did mean anything in themselves as far as I'm concerned, and if a man is killed thoroughly with a sword he's just as killed as if he was hit by a hydrogen bomb. Looks to me like scaling down the number of casualties you could report in the newspapers would be off-set by a corresponding scaling down in the U. S. debt.

It's an odd thing, but people are always talking about the high cost of things, yet they never talk much about the high cost of killing. Back in the sword-fighting days it probably didn't cost more than fifteen or twenty dollars to kill a man, but nowadays the figure is astronomical. As I say, all advancement ain't progress.

If the world's statesmen can't figure out a way to end war, and up to now they haven't made much showin in that direction, I'd like to see 'em agitate for a return to sword-fighting as an instrument of international argument-settlement.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Attorney General John Ben Shepperd said he would appear before an El Paso County grand jury June 4 with evidence of possible criminal violations of Texas insurance laws.

At El Paso and other Texas cities, Shepperd has filed suits against insurance companies, forcing them into receivership. Charges have been that the companies were created through fraud and were insolvent.

Financial Reports

Attorney General Shepperd advocates a law requiring publication of all financial reports on all government levels.

Shepperd also opposed secret sessions of governmental bodies, saying, "There is no place on an open door for a sign saying closed meeting or executive session."

What has happened in Duval County, Shepperd declared, "can happen anywhere, and will, unless the lesson is told and retold."

TV In Education

J. W. Edgar, state commissioner of education, has appointed television in education. S. Mortimer Brown, El Paso school superintendent, is chairman of the body.

Allowables Up

Texas oil allowables for June will be 3,010,51 barrels, the Railroad Commission decided. That is an increase from the May figure.

Resort Lodges

Progress was being made in plans to construct four resort lodges, each to cost about $1 million, at Inks Lake near Burnet, Eisenhower Park on Texoma, Lake Whitney, and Texarkana Reservoir in Cass County.

This is a project of the State Parks Board. The money for building the lodges would come from revenue bonds. Private operators would lease the lodges and run them.

Refunds Coming

Employers of Texas are going to get refunds amounting to several million dollars from the Texas Employment Commission.

A decision of the Supreme Court in a case concerning Todd Shipyard Corporation is responsible for the refunds. Todd maintained that its unemployment tax rate was too high and would have been lower if the corporation had been notified by TEC of all claims made by former Todd workers.

In and Out

About as many Texans went into the armed services as came out in April, says Brigadier General Paul L. Wakefield, state selective service director.

Reserves to Meet

Texas Department of the Reserve Officers Association will hold an annual convention and service conference here May 28-29, when high ranking officers of all branches of the services from Washington will attend, along with an expected 200 state reserve officers.

New Building

Dedicated here was a new South Texas district headquarters building for the Internal Revenue Department.

Present for the ceremony was T. Coleman Andrews, commissioner of internal revenue.

Most of the five-story building will be occupied by the Austin district of the internal revenue department.

More Vegetables

There will be a 20 percent increase in acreage planted to commercial vegetables planted in Texas this year, according to a forecast of the Crop Reporting Board of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Panther Warnings Issued

Sheriff T. O. Lang of Austin has issued frequent warnings to Capitol City residents that a panther large enough to leave a print like a man is roaming the rugged Bee Cave area west of the city.

One housewife in the hill section reported hearing two panthers screaming, one on each side of her home, about a mile west of the Bee Cave road. Several citizens in the area report seeing the animal.

Burglar Trap

Austin police will be able to get the jump on burglars here, very soon now, thanks to a new piece of equipment devised by a local detective agency.

The secret is a quiet alarm that tips off the police via a panel in the Police and Courts Building. It replaces the jangling alarm bell so often found inside of buildings. The new silent alarm has no bells, switches or wires that are visible.

L. G. Phares, organizer and first director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, invented the new device. He has operated his own detective agency here since 1951.

Shivers Names Advisors

Dr. Henry A. Holle, state health officer, and Earl Cabell of Dallas, president of the Texas Manufacturing Association, have been added to the Governor's Advisory Commission, a recently appointed commission composed of some 25 members.

John M. Griffith, Taylor banker and president of the Texas Bankers Association, has been appointed to replace T. Neill Groer, past president.

Herschel E. Nix, San Antonio, replaces E. L. Powell, president of the South Texas Chamber of Commerce, on the same committee.
