WASHINGTON

By Ray Tucker

Sunk—

Jim Farley has finally broken down and confessed after two years of pretending that he was the administration's poobah of jobs. The amazing admission came at a recent dinner of Democratic Senators and Representatives who wanted to know why their recommendations had been slighted by the National Chairman.

Jim told them that he had exerted all his political influence in an effort to land jobs for deserving Democrats. He described the card-index system by which the sheep are separated from the goats. He told of his assistants' tramping from office to office in an effort to find vacant jobs, and then to fill them with the "right people." "Nobody," he said, "believes in organization and rewards for party service more than I do."

But there are certain Cabinet members and emergency heads, Jim explained, who don't understand the elements of organization policies. Such men as Secretaries Eike, Wallace and Morgenthau—loud jeers from his audience—and Harry Hopkins. So what's a poor National Chairman to do!

Doubtful—

President Roosevelt's favorite New Deal experiment is the CCC camps. He insists upon detailed statements of their progress, and he has demanded frequent reports of the effect of camp life upon the woody recruits. So far they have not been any too encouraging.

Follow-up surveys of the first three camps showed that 18, 40 and 24 per cent got jobs upon their return home. Since none had work when they went to camp this is regarded as a fairly high average. Families of 40 per cent of the CCC boys went off relief when the youngsters began to send back their pay from camp, and 20 per cent have remained off permanently. This is the bright side of the picture.

But other statistics indicate that the camps may have created a spirit of restlessness. About 18 per cent of the camps' membership never return home. They take to the road and become "wild boys." They develop twinkling tones. New Deal statisticians are trying to figure out how this percentage of wanderers compares with the number who ordinarily leave the parental nest for social economic reasons. Lack of funds to make post-camp surveys handicaps these sociological studies.

Inspired?—

Unexpected opposition to the Wagner Labor Disputes Bill has arisen in the West. It may be reflected in a fairly large negative vote in the House. More important still, it indicates that the heralded political union between farmers and industrial workers is still far distant.

House members have received letters from members of farmer co-operatives urging them to vote against the bill. What the operators of creameries and wheat mills and other agricultural plants fear is that their employees may organize and demand higher wages and shorter hours.

The measure's sponsors are making a check-up of these letters. They suspect that some are inspired by eastern industrial interests and by such groups as the packers and millers. The protests will not defeat the bill if and when it reaches the House floor, but they will furnish many members with a reason for voting against it.

Shot—

The Congressional dispute over NRA extension has had an effect which only Blue Eagle insiders foresaw. Regardless of the outcome on Capitol Hill the legislative battle has smashed the morale of NRA officials from top to bottom and emboldened its enemies. It has demoralized Reichberg's organization.

NRA-ers are looking for safe and secure jobs in view of the doubt over its future. Some key administrators will leave no matter what the result. Many subordinate but important employees have already

CERNOCH GRANTED REPRIEVE UNTIL JULY 12 BY ALLRED

Settlement Reached For Coleman Land

A settlement for right of way through the L. E. Coleman property centering on the eastern extremity of East Third street has been reached.

County commissioner Wednesday were decided to accept the offer of a jury view commission which inspected the property Wednesday morning. The offer was $3,600. Commissioners had previously offered $3,000 damages. The land is needed for right of way on Highway No. 1 east to take out a dangerous blind curve now existing.

Negotiations for the small strip have been underway for a year now. The new road will pass in a direct line through the center of Coleman's residential property. It strikes part of a garage building.

It was indicated that the settlement was satisfactory to the owner.

Condemnation proceedings were filed several weeks ago but some difficulty was encountered in getting a jury view commission. Members of the commission which fixed the figures were Tom Good, R. N. Adams, and C. W. Cunningham.

Execution Scheduled For Tonite

Allred Vetoes Bill Creating San Jacinto River Reclamation District

AUSTIN (AP)—Governor Allred Thursday granted a reprieve until July 12th to Lewis Cernoch, under death sentence for slaying H. J. Lindsey, Granger City marshal, last year.

Cernoch's execution had been set for tonight.

The governor granted a reprieve because neither he nor the board of pardons had time yet to review record of the case.

Allred vetoed the bill creating San Jacinto river conservation and reclamation district.

The governor objected because it created the district without approval of the taxpayers affected, and permitted temporary directors to employ each other out of public funds derived from taxes levied by said directors.

He also vetoed bills creating Palo Duro Canyon State Park board and providing a new salary scale for district attorneys.

MEMORIAL DAY

Under the little crosses where they rise,
The soldier rests. Now round him undisturbed
The common thunders, and at night he lies
At peace beneath the eternal fusillade.

That other generations might possess—
From shame and menace free in years to come—
A richer heritage of happiness.
He marched to that heroic moratorium.

—Alan Seeger.

A color guard and band, under command of Captain F. L. Fenton of the sixth United States marines, marched through the portals down the Avenida del Palacios for the flag raising ceremonies.

On the heels of the blue coated squad rushed the awaiting thousands through the turnstiles to flood the 300 acres of architectural and landscaping beauty for a peek at the story of advancement dating back to 1542 when Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo set foot on land here in the name of Spain.

While the day was given over to a long series of ceremonies, the climax was saved until 8 o'clock Wednesday night when President Roosevelt officially opened the exposition with a short address transmitted to the throngs here over a public address system by direct wire from Washington, D. C.

Memorial Day Observed Here

Parade Shorter Than Usual, Ceremonies More Elaborate

With a shorter parade and more elaborate ceremonies at the cemetery, Big Spring observed Memorial Day Thursday.

The parade, headed by the national and VFW post colors and municipal high school band, wound through the downtown section completing its itinerary in front of the Municipal auditorium at 2:10 p. m. From here, several score car load of citizens went to the New Mount Olive cemetery for appropriate Memorial Day ceremonies.

A vast majority of all stores closed their doors at 1:30 p. m. to reopen again at 4:30 p. m. in order to permit attendance of the rites at the cemetery.

With banks and the post office, and many other offices closed all during the day, business was at its lowest ebb here in months Thursday morning.

Along flag studded Second street between Main and Scoury street where parking space is a rare thing ordinarily, there were gaping vacancies Thursday.

All the downtown section was "dead."

Of all the flags that were flown Thursday morning, only one, that atop the post office, was flown correctly—at half mast until noon and then to full mast.

Activities for the day were arranged and sponsored by the Ray Fuller V.F.W. post.

Mrs. W. R. Ivey left Wednesday evening for Oklahoma City and Norman, Okla., to see her son who is attending the University at Oklahoma.

Governor Seeks Extradition Of Orange Pastor

Jailed In Louisiana After Charge Of Murder Filed

AUSTIN (AP)—Governor Allred said Thursday he would request the Governor of Louisiana for extradition of Rev. Edgar Eskridge, charged with shooting Police Chief Ed J. O'Reilly to death at Orange Wednesday.

Eskridge is in a De Ridder, La., jail.

ORANGE, Tex. (AP)—Police Chief Ed J. O'Reilly was shot and killed Wednesday afternoon as he stood on a downtown street, and the Rev. Edgar Eskridge, Baptist minister and militant crusader against vice, was charged with murder here.

Mr. Eskridge was caught and jailed at De Ridder, La., by officers of that state after he fled from the scene of the shooting.

"I had rather not discuss it," Mr. Eskridge was quoted as saying when asked about the killing.

Were Close Friends.

The preacher, however, said he was on his way to De Ridder to give himself up to Sheriff J. H. Cain when he was arrested.

He added, officers said, that he would return to Texas only in the custody of Sheriff W. W. Richardson of Jefferson county.

Orange county officers asked that Sheriff Cain hold the preacher for them.

Mr. Eskridge, pastor of the First Baptist church here for the last five years, was arrested by Chief O'Reilly, a close friend whom the minister had baptized into his church several months ago, on a charge of impersonating an officer.

A posse armed with machine guns, tear gas and sawed-off shotguns pursued the minister. Deputy Sheriff Jess Brown of Orange and Police Chief Dutch LaCaze of De Ridder who made the arrest said the preacher's automobile was "full of guns."

GRAVES LEADS ANGELS TO VICTORY OVER OILERS

TWIRLER RAPS OUT HOME RUN

Circuit Blow Comes In Fourth With One On Base

By HANK HART

Good Graves, slugging pitcher, stepped up in the fourth inning of Wednesday evening's second game to stem the Couden Oilers and led his Angel mates to a 7-5 win over Henninger's Oilers. The WOW pulled a surprise earlier in the evening when they trounced the Ford Motorists 8-7 to pull out of the cellar.

The Angels slipped in the first inning of the Mellinger-Couden game and allowed the Couden Oilers to tally three, but their big guns soon began to thunder and they tied it up in the third.

"Bucket" Hare started on the mound for the Angels but gave way to Graves after the Oilers had counted all their runs.

The dangerous Graves won his own ball game in the sixth when he belted out a home run in the sixth with Leon Wilson aboard. The circuit smash was into right field and rolled to the cars.

The Angels were clicking in all departments, every man except Hart and Coburn connecting at least once.

The Angel speed merchant, George Neel, divided hitting honors with Graves when he binged twice.

The Oilers found the Angel twirler for a total of eleven hits, but after the first two innings, Graves scattered them in fine fashion.

Fredde Townsend, turning in a sparkling performance on the left side of the infield, added two markers to his record in runs scored and lengthened his lead in that division.

Jimmy Greer and Carl Saunders hit in two of their three attempts to collect nearly half of the Oilers' hits.

Garrett Patton was a puzzle to the Ford sluggers in the first game of the evening and with great support from his mates, pulled through for the season's second victory.

The Woodmen jumped into a lead in the first and second innings and the Johnsons never fully recovered, although they did tie it up in the third.

The Woodmen, after going down in order in the third and fourth, pushed another run across in the fifth to break the deadlock and won the game with a three run rally in the seventh.

A Ford uprising in the last of the sixth fell short one run.

The Johnsons collected 11 hits off Patton but the Woodmen slingers scattered them out-over the route.

One progressive. Twenty-eight democrats voted to sustain President Roosevelt and 22 republicans joined them. Now the war is on again on the part of the bonus leaders headed by Wright Patman. And now: A rider to one of the appropriations bills.

Ezekiel Williams Green of the American Federation of Labor, addressing a large audience in the city of New York, threatened a general strike the country over if all the demands of organized labor and all the bills they favor are not passed over the top and signed by the President. Really, is Green for an American dictator or the rule of democrats. Why not get the oil out of the ditch, meaning national recovery for all the people, before making wild threats or issuing orders to the President and the senators and the representatives of a republic that was founded by free men with a flag to defend and a constitution to be the guide of all those who believe in a free press, freedom of conscience, freedom of nation, freedom of property rights, a free ballot and the right of the majority to rule as expressed at the ballot box.

OWENS SETS THREE WORLD MARKS

Jesse Owens, Ohio State's great Negro athlete, broke three world records and equaled a fourth in the Big Ten track meet at Ann Arbor, Mich. Above he is shown making his single leap to set a broad jump record of 26 feet, 8 1/2 inches. He ran the 220 in 20.3, the 220 low hurdles in 22.6, both new world marks, and again tied the world's record for the 100 in 9.4 seconds. (Associated Press Photo)

SPORT SLANTS

by Pap

Peter L. Waters, coach of Manhattan college has no illusions that his LC4-A indoor track and field champions will assume the role of little David and stop the west coast Goliaths when they invade Cambridge, Mass., in quest of the outdoor intercollegiate title.

"We haven't the manpower to match the teams that they can assemble out on the coast," said Waters. "And I haven't seen the squad in the east that can hope to this year. The best my boys can expect is an individual title or two but right now it looks as though they will be lucky to score points."

"Southern California looks like the winner," the veteran coach went on, "and her margin of victory will depend on just how large a squad the Trojans can afford to send."

Manhattan's hopes of scoring in the flat races suffered two setbacks when Bill Ray and Bill Morrissey were temporarily lost.

Ray, the junior half-miler star who finished six inches behind Bill Bonthron of Princeton in the 800 meters at the title meet last year, was stricken with appendicitis on the eve of the Penn relays and lost for the remainder of the season. Rated the best half-miler in the east, he was given an excellent chance of assuming the championship left undefended this year by Bonthron.

MORRISSEY NOT AT BEST

When Bill Morrissey flashed his 47.4 quarter-mile leg at the Penn relays to put his team out of reach of the other contenders, he was readily nominated as the east's best bet in the 400 meters at Cambridge. Morrissey had the bad luck to be forced out of training when he pulled a tendon in the sprint at the Metropolitan intercollegiate title meet. Even if the injury should heal in a couple of weeks there would hardly be time for him to regain the form he showed late in April.

It now appears that Manhattan's chances of scoring in the middle distance events rest on Jack Wolff, a junior, who has lived up to the promise he showed as a freshman after having been forced to remain idle most of his sophomore year when he, like Bill Ray, had to undergo an operation for appendicitis.

Wolff has well high perfect running form and is a fighter if ever a runner was. He anchored Manhattan's great mile relay in most of its triumphs this year.

Running in fourth position as he did, he generally found himself "on the spot," so to speak. At the indoor intercollegiate he had to match strides with Timothy Ring, Holy Cross' great quarter miler. But Wolff was more than equal to the task of protecting the lead his teammates handed him and won the prized trophy for the New Yorkers.

STOOD OFF HARDIN, TOO

Again, at the Penn relays, he faced Glenn Hardin of Louisiana State, and other star middle distance men, on the last leg of the mile relay championship. Once again his team put him off in front and there he stayed, thanks to a 48-second quarter.

One of the champions who will defend the laurels he won last year is Horace "Hop" O'Dell, javelin thrower. O'Dell has been slow in converting into form but is a great competitor who saves his best throws for the time when most is at stake.

Charlie Pearson, high hurdler who shares the indoor title with Phil Good of Bowdoin, has a fine chance of scoring over the high sticks. Tom Russell, indoor 3,000 meter champion, is Manhattan's best bet in the long runs.

Other possible scorers for Manhattan are Eigel, in the high jump; Carey and Averill in the 400 meters; Leonard in the weights; Thompson in the 1,500 meters; and Acerno in the 3,000 meter run.

Let's have Recovery...

THE one goal toward which we are all striving is RECOVERY! What will bring Recovery? Recovery depends upon the building of bigger payrolls; fewer people on the dole; the creation of more real jobs.

And the only way to build bigger payrolls is through renewed business confidence, confidence of investors in the soundness of the securities of American industries, confidence of business in the fairness of government.

There can never be RECOVERY as long as industry is threatened and harassed, as long as it is throttled by crushing taxes, destroyed by unfair government competition or ruined by governmental red tape, interference and political control.

Before any measure of true RECOVERY can be restored the fog of uncertainty and fear that now engulfs American business must be dispelled!

Passage of the Wheeler-Rayburn utility bill now pending in Congress would instill new and increased fear into all business. Thousands of employees of the electric holding and operating companies, which the bill would arbitrarily hinder and destroy, would be forced to join the millions of jobless.

With a single stroke it would bring tremendous loss to ten million utility investors in this state and the rest of the country. These folks really own the utility industries.

The way to RECOVERY is through the re-establishment of business confidence which will permit private, tax-paying capital to go to work again. If we are to attain RECOVERY in the next few years our country must become a workshop, not a laboratory.

The Wheeler-Rayburn bill would seriously retard RECOVERY!

Texas Electric Service Company

ON DANGEROUS GROUND

The fear of irreparable loss that grips tens of thousands of investors in holding companies has not been quieted by reports from Washington that "modifications" are being made in the Wheeler-Rayburn bill.

The apparent purpose of that anti-holding company bill is to destroy such companies by 1940. No provision is made to compensate helpless investors, or provide for the thousands of employees who would be thrown out of work.

To any reasonable person such a procedure is an unfair and un-American thing to do—to use the power of government to deliberately smash an industry—any industry.

For regulation of industry is one thing, wiping out an industry through mere political power, mucks of authority delegated to public servants by the people.

When citizens awaken to abuse of power they resent it. That is why public interest is growing as to the ultimate disposition of the Wheeler-Rayburn bill. If a branch of the electric industry can be destroyed in this manner, so can any other industry that becomes the focal point of a political attack, as has the electric industry.

A great change in our fundamental form of government affecting all the people and all business, is at stake in this issue.

Our public servants are treading on dangerous ground, when they sanction destruction of private property rights.

CARTER GLASS VOTES TO SUSTAIN ROOSEVELT'S VETO

Sen. Carter Glass of Virginia never dodged an issue. He never straddles the fence. He has been in public life many years. He votes his convictions, regardless of the administration in power. He has no apologies to make. He tells it straight to the democrats of Virginia if they do not like his style or rather his laconic way of expressing himself, it is their American privilege to elect his successor at the next succeeding election.

Political writers talk of Borah as the great independent. There is only one great independent. He guides powerful Virginia newspapers. Borah is an independent every day in the year except on election day. Then he votes the republican ticket straight and then tells to the world that his party and its presidents are false to the interest of the people, and that the common man gets it where the chicken gets the ax.

Carter Glass voted to sustain the presidential veto of the Patman bonus bill. Sen. Peter Norbeck, republican of South Dakota, was the only absentee. Sen. Norbeck is a very sick man. He was paired and would have voted had he been present to override the veto. Incidentally to the point, 41 democrats voted to override the President. They were joined by 11 republicans, one farmer-laborite and assistant manager of the Boston Red Sox, digs into his baseball memories for this one about the rookie outfielder who couldn't hit a curve.

While managing Richmond in the Piedmont league, according to Onslow, he hired an outfielder from the mid-western "hog belt". The rookie could knock a fast ball out of the park most of the time, but a twister made him swing like a turnstile.

"One day he was waiting his turn at bat", Onslow recounted, "when the man before him hit one into the outfield and started around the sacks. Meantime, the rookie had taken his stance at the plate. Then suddenly when the ball was thrown in from the outfield, he ran out toward the pitcher's box and knocked it over the fence."

BOB CASTLE IS A MEANER

THE OLD BIRD GOT TURNED OVER

It was just a good symbol anyway, and big, broad minded business men, in all lines of endeavor, will carry on voluntarily along the lines of fair prices, living wages and decent hours. Intelligent, constructive effort must and will ultimately supplant cheap, illogical setups that have effectively prevented economic recovery to date.

It is not a theory but a fact, when you patronize cheap priced operations you are effectively cheapening the markets for the products of your own labor.

Ours is a planned program of strict adherence to intelligent, constructive effort, which embodies the principle of better serving the community that has given us their confidence and support.

In the future, as in the past, those dollars you spend with us will continue to work for you.

Miss Parr Reports On Activities Of Howard County H.D.C. Women

That the "good old days" are still here was evident at Mrs. J. A. Shaffer's of Vincent, Tuesday when she served her family the following home grown menu: Fried chicken, new potatoes and snap beans, squash, beets and blackberry short-cake.

Mrs. Roy Bennett of the Vincent Home Demonstration club has a one-half acre garden that will feed the family and yield a large surplus for canning. The garden is situated on low ground in the pasture, fenced rabbit proof, and has a windmill for irrigation. Mrs. Bennett has canned 40 cans of rape and mustard besides that used fresh. She has had onions, lettuce, radishes and English peas for three weeks, the tomatoes are as large as marbles, beans and beets are in next week, cantaloupes, cucumbers, squash and water-melons are in bloom.

Homes are being improved also. Mrs. John W. Davis is displaying an all concrete cellar 11 by 14 feet. The interior is as near vermin proof as is possible to make one. At the rear is a wide seat, and on the three sides are extending shelves which are part of the wall structure and one continuous piece of concrete. She has a large assortment of canned goods on display.

Quilt making is an art and a very pleasant pastime stated Mrs. I. B. Caudle of Elbow H. D. club, two of her favorite designs being "Bob Peter to Pay Paul," and the "Rocky Road to Dublin." Mrs. Bob Ashby displayed several quilts of excellent workmanship. One of her hobbies is the tanning of hides, she has tanned coyote, rabbit and goat hides. She washes the finished hide in the washer and the result is an odorless soft hide of an unusual gloss. Mrs. G. W. Overton of the Overton H. D. club has a large collection of quilts. She has a well-planned garden of late vegetables.

Mrs. G. L. James of Overton club chairman of the council is very happy over the addition of a new sleeping porch and a built-in cabinet in the kitchen.

Mrs. W. F. Heckler, yard demonstrator of the R-Bar H. D. club, found that cuttings placed in their permanent locations and protected from the wind did better than those placed in the cutting bed that was difficult to protect from the strong winds and sand.

Mrs. Roy Lockhart of the Luther club saved 35 out of 36 tamarix which she transplanted; she made a hedge at the backyard fence as a wind and sand break. She and her daughter, Mrs. Allen McClinton, are studying native shrubs suitable for yard planting and have found several interesting specimens.

Mrs. H. W. Harlin yard demonstrator for Luther H. D. club has found that Chinese Elms can be grown from cuttings quite easily.

Chapter 12 THE CELLAR

"Look at that!" said the woman. The foreman fingered all the desk drawers in turn, doubtfully.

"Looks as if someone's been at them," he admitted reluctantly, "then with great emphasis, 'Me and my mates can't be responsible for his. We couldn't get into the house.'"

"Oh, I'm not blaming you," agreed the lady carelessly. She left the man there and went on into the pantry, down the passage into the kitchen. In the doorway she stopped, frowning.

On the deal table stood a brown teapot, two dirty cups, two plates which bore the traces of recent eggs and bacon. A brand-new, shining tin kettle sat on the oil-stove.

She picked it up and stared at it a sharp-cut line between her thin, plucked eyebrows. Her tongue slid out and wet her painted lips. She put one pale, well-manicured hand against the side of the kettle but being empty, it was cold.

"Her eyes—dark, round and set rather too near a big nose—grew very thoughtful as she rested on a frying-pan which contained a circle of cold bacon fat and two bright spots of egg. With her thin, crooked mouth compressed hard, she turned away and went quickly down the seven steps leading into the cellar.

She turned the key, went in, walked through it, first turning on the main switch, then all the lights one by one. In the farthest cellar, by the fallen roll of linoleum, she stopped.

For a moment she stood staring into the recess, her face blanched, a picture of surprise and consternation, horror and fear. Twice she bent forward, as if she doubted her own eyes.

Then, slowly, her expression changed. Her eyes grew thoughtful, her long fingers tapped impatiently against her hip. Suddenly, like a person who has made up her mind, she laid down the bag and gloves which she held and got to work.

Four minutes later, pale and panting as if unaccustomed to taking heavy exercise, she stood back and dusted her hands and dress particularly carefully, looking back the while over her shoulder as if afraid that someone might come and find her there. Then, very quietly and swiftly, she ran back on tip-toe through the cellars, switching off the lights and locking the door.

She had gained the drawing room again when the mover, seeing her standing by the desk, touched his forelock and asked, "Nothing else is there but what's in these rooms and upstairs, madam? Anything to clear outside or down below?"

"Nothing," said the lady. "There are one or two things in the outside, I think, but I'm leaving those."

FAMILY STRICKEN BY KIDNAPING

This group portrait shows the children of J. P. Weyerhaeuser, Tacoma, Wash., lumber magnate, victimized in a sensational kidnaping. At the right is George, 8, held by abductors reputedly demanding $200,000 ransom. Philip, Jr., 10, is at the left and in the center is Anne, 15. (Associated Press Photo)

"I was, I tell you, I've been on to Scotland Yard half the night!" He wrinkled up his round and pleasant face in laughter as he turned to Guy. "Only got one daughter and I can't afford to lose her. I thought she must've had some awful accident. I never trust French trains."

Alison smiled at her companion. "This is Mr. Westrum, father, who's been a perfect lamb and helped me through."

Major Rede extended a dry, elderly hand and grasped the young man's, wringing it hard.

"Talking, they were already in the house, Robert Rede leading the way, his dumpy, upright figure agitated, his small grey moustache bristling, his hair ruffled and his face haggard.

If anything could have impressed Alison with her father's anxiety it was the sight of his crumpled trousers, his coat which bagged, the soiled blue collar worn with the awry and his unshaven chin. At all times a dapper little man, he looked now as though he had been put through the mangle in his clothes.

"My dear, I got your wire and've been waiting for you all night, at the Croft House, Warley," she stated, kissing him warmly.

"The Croft which?"

"The Croft House, Warley, Sussex. I'd a wire from you asking me to meet you there at eleven last night. My boat got in at eight, so I had just time to catch the next train to Warley and I hired a car and drove out there."

"But I've never heard of the place!" Major Rede's weathered face grew flushed with indignation. "It's these confounded fools at the telegraph office! Must've muddled up the telegram! Must've got two wires mixed up. I wired to you that I couldn't meet the boat and would be at Victoria at eleven."

"You poor darling!" Alison, in her sympathy, forgot her own distress. "You must've been distractif you'll look after Mr. Westrum." Guy intervened hastily. "Oh, I'll get home, thanks." "Stay and have a drink. Stay and have a glass of sherry," Major Rede nodded at his butler who was hovering in the background. "Get some sherry, Porter. Yes, yes, you must."

He almost drove the young man before him into the library, linking his arm in Alison's and squeezing it as though the mere sight of her safe and sound was too precious to be lost.

Guy's protests were lost in a hand of insistence: Alison's plea at last to be allowed to go and powder her nose was vetoed.

"Powder! What do you want with powder at your age? She doesn't need it, does she? Come on, you must be dead, my dear. A glass of sherry'll do you a world of good!"

The sherry, served in tall Venetian glasses, was very good and very dry; if neither Alison nor Guy Westrum needed it, the elder man did. His color began to return, his wearied eyes to brighten. He listened in horror to Alison's very carefully pruned account of her adventure, which touched only very lightly on her fright in the bathroom, while it emphasized Guy's part and Gaffe's guardianship, and glided diplomatically past the fact that Guy had stayed there all night long.

"Lucky thing you turned up," he judged. "She might've got killed. I shall write to the telegraph office and complain. I shall raise hell until I find out who's responsible. Sending a young girl off like that in the middle of the night!" His final snort was quenched in dry sherry.

IMPORTANT DON'TS

Recent years have brought forth a development, that of complete balanced plant food, which has contributed in no small way to gardening success. This product being so different from the various miscellaneous materials formerly used, attention should be given to the proper methods for using, in order that the full benefit may be derived. Manufacturers of plant food ordinarily supply with each package complete instructions as to how it should be used. The first essential in the use of a complete plant food is to make an even distribution, otherwise, just as in the case of sowing seed, you will have an uneven and spotted growth. Next keep in mind that the excessive use of plant food should be avoided. It is wasteful and may result in at least temporary injury from over-feeding. Many have found their best results come from frequent feeding of small quantities. Here are a few points to keep in mind:

Never apply plant food when grass is wet.

Do not put the product on the leaves or stalks of flowers or vegetables, or in direct contact with seeds or the roots of plants.

Where water is available sprinkle the grass thoroughly after application is made.

If water is not available run the back of a rake, doormat, or something similar over the lawn to knock the plant food off the grass.

This may also be done by sweeping with a broom.

Plant food may be applied by hand, with a kitchen colander or a plant food spreader. There are now on the market for use on the lawn plant food spreaders of various sizes at reasonable prices.

 BERKELEY, Cal. (UP)—A new form of university endowment is being cheered by University of California authorities. The class of 1915, when it graduated, took out 20-year endowment policies, payable to the university on 20 of its youngest members. The matured policies totaled $10,518.

Seek Social Ease
 TACOMA, Wash. (UP)—College of Puget Sound may offer students a course in "social ease." Nearly 100 per cent of high school students responding to a questionnaire of the psychology department suggested such a course.

'Somebody To See You!'

IF EVERYBODY with something to interest you should come and ring your bell, what a nuisance it would be! Think of the swarming, jostling crowd, the stamping of feet on your porch and carpets!

Every day we know of many callers who come to see you. They never jangle the bell—they don't take up your whole day trying to get your attention. Instead, they do it in a way that is most considerate of your privacy and your convenience. They advertise in your newspaper!

In this way you have only to listen to those you know at a glance have something that interests you. They make it short, too, so you can gather quickly just what you want to know. You can receive and hear them all without noise or confusion in a very few minutes.

In fairness to yourself look over all the advertisements. The smallest and the largest—you never can be sure which one will tell something you really want to know.

House leaders are wabbling. Though they favor a two-year extension they are stalling. They prefer to frame new legislation in accord with the Supreme Court's decision. That leaves them only a few weeks in which to enact an NRA measure before its expiration on June 18. In view of senatorial recalcitrancy their delay may prove fatal.

The lines for the 1936 election are tightly drawn already. On their charts they list three powerful groups as certain to throw their support to the President in any kind of contest.

The agricultural program, they contend, has won over the farmers, and therefore most of the West. Mr. Roosevelt's labor record, including portions still to be developed, is counted on to influence the working men in his favor. And the $4,000,000,000 work relief program, they believe, will hold the masses which have not benefited by higher farm prices or increased industrial employment. When they count in the South, which should not desert the Democratic standard barring unforeseen upsets, they paint a pretty picture for themselves.

Republicans don't agree. They see no assurance that the West will stand by Mr. Roosevelt. They expect to capture several large states—Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Indiana—because of general dissatisfaction with the New Deal among all classes. What they fear most is the $4,000,000,000 to be poured out. But even that, they figure, may be converted into a GOP asset unless handled miraculously by the administration.

Pressure
House committee members have told Secretary Wallace and Chester Davis that the AAA amendments will have to be revised if they are to pass. AAA chiefs are making much of the farm vote and hope it will impress Congress. But the new bill has been trimmed in committee once already, and opposition in both House and Senate led by southern Democrats is very formidable.

FDR has been too busy up to this time to get behind AAA as vigorously as Wallace had hoped. Before long it's expected that the White House will take a real hand. The farmers' march and FDR's speech on the back porch do not seem to have changed Congress sentiment. Anti-processors have redoubled their lobbying activities.

Coming
Huey Long's descent from the political stars is one of the phenomena of American politics. His antics have antagonized some of his strongest supporters—American Legionnaires, A. F. of L. followers, Senate liberals and the "plain people." By that time many of Huey's political lieutenants may be in jail. Treasury spokesmen won't discuss these details publicly but they admit that they have Mr. Long's number.

Indeed, some explain Huey's vicious attack on President Roosevelt on the ground that he knows pretty exactly what's almost ready for delivery to him.

cific Coast are discussed in Congress lobbies, especially in the House, where members have been flooded with anti-Communist literature. Several important diplomatic changes are impending. News of passage of the fleet bill was flashed to the fleet pronto. Export-import banks are dependent upon extension of NRA. Jack Garner merely smiled and puffed his cigar when told that Jim Farley had picked him out to be FDR's running mate.

Need
The governors of the New England states have petitioned the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Interstate Commerce Commission to do something quick about the New Haven railroad. Jesse Jones' agency has been asked to come across with another loan to enable the road to meet its bond interest—a loan which would not normally be granted under the stricter banking standards which Mr. Jones has begun to apply recently. The ICC is urged to lay off its anti-trust action against the Pennsylvania railroad under the Clayton Act—which is based on Pennsy's financial interest in the New Haven. The idea is that if this is done the Pennsylvania will be willing to guarantee the New Haven's bonds—thus insuring investors that future commitments will be met regardless of fluctuations in the New Haven's earnings. It may seem odd that the Pennsylvania would care to undertake such an additional obligation—especially as it's practically certain that the gesture would imply a financial as well as a moral commitment. The answer is that Pennsy is glad to spend money to extend its influence in New England—and also wishes to protect the stock interest it has already acquired in the New Haven from the vicissitudes of reorganization.

The governors base their plea on the need to strengthen New England institutions. Informed New Yorkers say their point is well taken. It would be a serious blow to New England in more ways than one if the New Haven went under.

Economy
It begins to look as if Mr. J. J. Pelley's prayer for non-renewal of the Railroad Coordinator Act will be granted. The time element is with him. This law is only one of several with a June 16 deadline—and the date is getting pretty close. NRA extension and the banking bill are racing for the same goal and are almost certain to get priority. Chances for railroad action look mighty slim even if the President asks for it.

If the law dies Coordinator Eastman's job dies with it. Some railroad heads would rejoice in that—others would be sorry. But Eastman himself would be the first to admit that the law as it stands has prevented his accomplishing anything constructive. The ban it contains on decreasing the number of railroad employees has made plans for cooperative economy futile.

Pelley's Association of American Railroads is set to cut deep with the economy plan if the legal barrier is removed. Moreover, with Eastman out of the picture they can claim credit for saving themselves. The brotherhoods will project bitterly but effective opposition would be almost impossible. Anyway they'll have one consolation. The roads won't need to ask

Director
New York got a chuckle out of the election of Walter Chrysler as a director of New York Central. Naming an automobile man to a railroad board—with all the talk in rail circles about unfair truck and bus competition—seems a bit like naming Hitler as a member of the French cabinet.

It isn't generally known that Chrysler started his career as a railroad worker and is pleased to have railroad connections for sentiment's sake. He was once a director of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul but was dropped after a year because he could somehow never find time to attend meetings.

Sidelights
The Cotton Textile Institute called Secretary Wallace harsh names at its recent meeting. Two of the seven French railroads are government owned and it looks as if the other five soon will be if they are to be kept running. One more headache for the French budget-makers.

America's wave of kidnappings, checked for a time, broke out again with the abduction of George Philip Weyerhaeuser, 9 (above right), on his way home from school at Tacoma, Wash. Melvin Eaton—Republican State Chairman for New York—is busy sounding out party leader sentiment about Colonel Frank Knox for President. Mr. Eaton hasn't disclosed whether he's pro or con but his general attitude is friendly. Colonel Knox—formerly Hearst's general manager and now publisher of the Chicago Daily News—has strong private backing from Charles Dawes and other Chicago bankers. This group is something less than intimate with the big Wall Street bankers but it does have a tie-in with the Marine Midland crowd upstate. This is important. Mr. Knox will need hefty financial as well as moral support if his boom is to get anywhere.

By GORDON K. SHEAKER

AUSTIN, (UP)—From time to time, some automobile owner has been heard to suggest timorously that perhaps if there were less restriction on oil production, gasoline for the old bus might be cheaper.

Now the suggestion has official backing. The backer is Col. Ernest O. Thompson, Amarillo. As chairman of the state railroad commission, he is the ranking oil official of Texas.

Col. Thompson gave his views about it to Texas bankers at their recent convention at Galveston, while he was discussing federal control for oil production.

"This whole effort has been on the part of some people," he said, "an attempt to make oil on top of the ground scarcer in order to make gasoline high in price to return bigger profits to a few people."

Educational
The new deal veneer was delicately rubbed off the Stock Exchange's front last week. The makeup of the law committee—the most powerful in the Exchange setup—gave the show away. Seven of its twelve members are definitely Old Guard—including such top rank figures as ex-presidents Richard Whitney and E. H. H. Simons, Frank Altschul, and ex-treasurer Warren Nash.

This may not quite reduce President Charles R. Gay to a figurehead but it certainly leaves him in an unenviable position. The Old Guard takes the reins behind the scenes and leaves him in the spotlight to absorb the blame if anything goes wrong.

About the only real innovation in Stock Exchange policy is that propaganda is hereafter to be officially designated as "educational efforts."

Lively
Municipal bond specialists are all pepped up at the news that a number of cities and states are planning to match appropriations from the Public Works fund dollar for dollar. That means a flock of bond issues. It looks as if what promised to be a very dull summer will turn out to be agreeably lively.

be the easiest way, Governor Allred admits, but he thinks it is also the way most likely to harm seriously some of the State departments and institutions. His cuts will be on individual items.

Legal divisions for the various departments are not in favor with the Governor. He thinks it is the duty of the Attorney General's department to look after the legal affairs of all departments. He refers his own legal problems, as Governor, to his successor in the Attorney General's office. He thinks other branches of the state government should do the same.

The State of State's office remembers a good-sized advertising agency these days. Decks are piled with marked papers checked to show publication of notices of Constitutional amendments to be submitted to popular vote.

Getting out the advertisements was a big job, and a rush job. The constitution requires that any proposed amendments to it must be published once a week for four successive weeks in a weekly paper in every county with such a paper.

Appropriations made by the legislature to pay for publication of the proposed amendments scarcely ever is adequate to meet the publication cost. To be sure it would go 'round this time, the Secretary of State's office struck what it considered an average rate and offered the copy to papers to be published at that rate.
