Hitler Warns Enemies Of Great Submarine Attack To Come Soon

Il Duce Says German Units Are On Hand

ROME, Feb. 24 (AP)—Disclosing officially that German air and armored units have arrived in Sicily and Libya, Premier Mussolini told the Italian people in an unheralded Sunday broadcast that although the war against Britain might be long, the final outcome surely would be an axis victory.

"That there will be hard fighting is certain," he declared. "That the fighting will be long is very probable. But the final result is an axis victory. Britain cannot win the war, x x Italy, whatever happens, will march to the end side by side with Germany."

Il Duce scoffed at American fears of an axis invasion, arousing his listeners to gales of laughter by identifying these fears with the possibility of an invasion by "inhabitants of the not well-known but very beautiful planet Mars."

He defended the handling of the Libyan campaign, promised a spring offensive against the Greeks, and assailed the "negligible minority of weepers, grumblers and reptiles" left from Masonic lodges "which we will smash without trouble when and as we wish."

"The morale of the axis peoples is infinitely superior to the morale of the English people," he asserted. He ridiculed talk of a separate peace, calling it "a thing for the mentally deficient."

Fuehrer Speaks On Nazi Anniversary

MUNICH, Feb. 24 (AP, Via Radio)—Adolf Hitler warned his enemies today that a joint German-Italian submarine campaign would be loosed upon them next month and almost in the same breath announced that an already expanded U-boat campaign had sunk 90,000 tons of enemy warships within the last two days.

He said the destroyed naval craft had been conveying supply ships which also were sunk, bringing the total destruction of the sortie at sea to 215,000 tons.

The new underwater thrust starting next month will employ "new types" of submarines, Hitler declared, adding: "One thing is sure: where British ships will appear, and where Britain will fight us, we will fight them and destroy them."

The "strongest cooperation" bound Germany and Italy, he said, a combination that should not be ridiculed by the enemy.

"They will know shortly, when our new types of submarines are going to be brought into the expanded warfare," he said. "They will find out in March and April what German-Italian submarine cooperation will mean to them."

Hitler, giving thanks that he was hale and hearty and able to lead the fight, remarked that he felt "that spring is in the air."

He spoke for nearly an hour and a half, progressing from a recital of achievements of the national socialist party to an oratorical outburst capitalizing future war plans.

"Our battles at sea can only begin now. The reason was that we wanted to school the new U-boat crews for the battle to come."

Hitler told the German people on the 21st anniversary of the founding of the national socialist party that the aims of Germany's enemies following the World war were to keep her "small and ineffective."

The party was thereupon provoked to unify the German people, he said. "To us, all Germans had to be Germans, first, last and always."

(The reich leader's address was not available for broadcast in the United States, NBC was informed, but the network's monitors listened to it over short wave channels and broadcast summaries.)

Hit by bit Hitler traced the rise of the party he helped to found and shouted to his partisans a recapitulation of the hardships he said the party had endured in freeing Germany from shackles of the Versailles treaty.

Then he told how political leaders were forced to convert the post-war German government from one for special interests into one for all the people of the reich. In this respect, Hitler said, the Jews had the "greatest responsibility for the maintenance of that ill-fated system."

Hitler touched on American participation in post-war developments when he said that "even the high sounding promises of former President Wilson turned out to be so much talk."

"Promises made to us by other nations were utterly futile and hollow," he said.

Foes Assail Aid Bill As Act Of War

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24 (AP)—Senator La Follette (Prog-Wis) carried on the fight against the aid to Britain bill today with an assertion that it would give the president power "to create a state of war, leaving only to congress the permission to say 'ja' with a formal declaration of war."

La Follette, reading a lengthy address, agreed with Senator Clark (D-Idaho), who preceded him on the senate floor, that Britain was not fighting America's battle and that this country should devote its energies to home defenses.

"This bill means war," La Follette declared. "Whatever fine trappings it is decked with—death on old war battlefields and death on the seven seas."

Asserting that the legislation would give the chief executive "the green light of war," La Follette asserted that "if the president invokes the full scope of the warlike and war-provoking authorizations in this bill, the American people will hold all those who voted for it to strict accountability."

"They will not find much distinction to make between the man who pulled the trigger and the man who handed him a loaded gun and told him to use it as he pleased."

Clark assailed the legislation in an address prepared for senate delivery as the general debate moved into its seventh day.

Britain, he asserted, was fighting for "commercial supremacy," not democracy.

"German Nazism, Italian Fascism, Russian Communism, and British Imperialism; there is little to distinguish them." That was his verdict on European ideologies.

Clark viewed the lease-lend bill as an instrument that would enable "the president to conduct an undeclared war anywhere in the world," and said that it might jeopardize "our precious liberties."

Although declaring that the bill "is war" and that he would vote against it for that reason, the Idahoan conceded that it would receive senate approval.

An Associated Press poll of the chamber showed that the administration could count on at least 52 votes for the measure—four more than now constitutes a majority.

The poll results: For the bill—62 (46 democrats, five republicans, one independent). Against the bill—29 (Eight democrats, 11 republicans, one progressive).

Uncommitted—21 (10 democrats, 11 republicans). Unavailable—3 (one democrat and one republican).

Hitler touched on American participation in post-war developments when he said that "even the high sounding promises of former President Wilson turned out to be so much talk."

Oil Spokesmen Tell Of Need For Lubricants

Commission Asked To Increase Allowable Of This Type Crude

AUSTIN, Feb. 24 (AP)—Spokesmen for the oil industry today urged the Texas railroad commission to permit greater production of crude which yielded heavy volumes of lubricants.

In the early moments of a regular statewide proration hearing to take evidence on which to base an allowable production order, several speakers requested increases in fields which yielded lubricating oil.

The commission announced purchasing company nominations totaled 1,684,694 barrels daily for March, an increase of 78,819 over those of February.

The current order, expiring March 31, permits current actual production of 1,283,583 barrels a day, approximately 30,000 below the U. S. Bureau of Mines forecast for February. The federal bureau's forecast of March demand from Texas was 1,312,900, an increase of 14,500 over this month.

After several oil and pipeline company and operators' representatives filed requests for greater lubricant-producing crude oil yield, Rex Baker, representing the Humble Oil Company, asserted:

"With the wheels and axles of the nation's machinery running faster, we find a heavy demand for lubricating oil has reduced our storage of such crudes considerably. In fact we are now below working levels."

"We need more of this low cost test crude, possibly some 1,500 barrels a day, which would bring our total to 11,700. There is a real, pressing demand and if the commission increases one field's allowable, we hope they increase all of them."

Baker said most of the low cost test crudes was produced from marginal fields whose allowable could not be increased but pointed out there were some flush fields in which, he believed, it could be produced without physical waste.

He mentioned the Amelia, Clear Lake, Magnet, Sugarland and Webster fields.

The hearing started quietly, and was marked by the absence of Commission Chairman Ernest O. Thompson whose mother was reported seriously ill.

Commissioners Jerry Sadler and Olin Culberson indicated the meeting would be as brief as possible.

Raymond Zuck of the Barnsdall Oil company asked the commission to cut the allowable in the Heyser field, a request which provoked objections from other witnesses.

When someone moved the recording of a field hearing two days hence be introduced as part of the statewide hearing, R. E. Hardwick of Fort Worth objected that it might not be legal.

Sadler announced the field hearing testimony would not be included in that of the general hearing but would be taken into consideration if drafting the statewide production order.

Increased allowables were asked for the La Rosa, Wason, Rabbs Ridge, Hardin and Marvel pools by various company and producers representatives.

Schools Here Get $11,043

HOWARD COUNTY common school districts were sharing in state and county funds here Monday to the extent of $11,043.

Biggest item was $6,016.98 in local school taxes delivered to County Superintendent Anne Martin. Of the amount, $7,684.50 was in current taxes and $332.48 in delinquents.

Monday first half of rural aid due nine county schools was received in the amounts of $5,027. Richland did not receive its payment due to an attendance deficiency.

Districts sharing in the rural aid were: R-Bar $22, Morris $181, Gay Hill $329, Center Point $529, Caudle $326, Moore $791, Morgan $396, and Fairview $153.

H. F. Railback, superintendent of Garner schools, said that he had received a check for $2,475 for rural aid on that independent school district. His payment would make the district receive around $400 less than anticipated.

Turkey, Britain Take Stiffer Balkan Stand

GERMAN OFFICER, AMERICAN MINISTER, BRAWL IN SOFIA

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Feb. 24 (AP)—U. S. Minister George H. Earle said a washroom argument over the British World War marching song "Tipperary" preceded a champagne bottle fight in a Sofia cafe early yesterday morning in which he suffered an arm injury and a man whom he identified as a German was knocked unconscious.

"The trouble began," Earle explained at a press conference last night, "when the German cornered me in a washroom and demanded to know why I had given the orchestra ten bucks to play 'Tipperary.'"

"I told him that was my business, and that Bulgaria was a neutral country. He then followed me outside and threw a champagne bottle which just missed my head."

Of the bottle flung at him, the 220-pound Earle, former Pennsylvania governor and World War commander of a submarine chaser, said:

"I warded it off and retaliated by injuring his (the thrower's) features. He said the incident, which occurred in a cafe just around the corner from the American legation, was 'regrettable, but I saw no other course.'"

Later he added: "It was hot while it lasted and I still think 'Tipperary' is a swell tune."

Authoritative diplomatic quarters in London said Britain has served notice on Japan that Japanese expansion southward "enhanced dangers" in the Pacific.

Militarily allied to Britain, Turkey declared through her foreign minister Sukru Saracoglu that she would find it impossible "to remain indifferent to foreign activities which might occur in her security zone."

This was an evident reference to Hitler's reported intention to send Nazi troops through Bulgaria for an attack on Greece. Turkey has long regarded Bulgaria as part of her security zone.

"Turkey will oppose with force any and all aggression which might be directed against her territorial integrity or her independence," Saracoglu warned.

Some observers said they believed the statement was prompted by Bulgaria's seeming inclination to interpret her weak non-aggression accord with Turkey as an indication that Turkey was indifferent to German troop movements across Bulgaria, so long as Turkey's borders were not violated.

German officers already are established in Sofia, Bulgaria's capital, and Bulgarian police halted all automobile traffic yesterday in the Sofia district without explanation as police began a nationwide hunt for Bulgarians spreading anti-German leaflets.

Twelve Men Go To Army Wednesday

Wednesday morning, February 26, 12 more Howard county men will leave for one year's training under the selective service act, bringing to 31 the total number so far called for service since the program went into effect.

Departing from the previous plan of first going to an induction station at Lubbock, then to camps, Wednesday's men will go directly to Fort Bliss and from there will be placed in camps, according to present notices.

The local board has received orders number seven and eight, to be filled in March. On March 7, 13 men are to be called. Call number eight is for colored selectees but Big Spring will not be required to supply men at that time.

Ex-Spanish King's Condition Grave

ROME, Feb. 24 (AP)—Dr. Giovanni Colazza, physician to former King Alfonso XIII of Spain, described the ex-monarch today as still "gravely ill."

He added, however, that a "general examination" of the ex-king's condition disclosed that "some symptoms were relieved and his majesty passed a much quieter night, particularly the latter half."

City To Seek Permian Basin Convention

Chamber of commerce directors Monday went on record favoring efforts to secure the third annual convention of the Permian Basin association for Big Spring.

The conventions committee was instructed to put in this city's bid at an executive committee meeting at Lubbock in advance of the convention there on April 13-14.

Approval of a plan to continue the chamber's good will dinners was granted and invitations from Ackerly, Moore, Richland and Garner were presented.

Authority to represent the chamber was granted to Ben LeFever, now in Austin as a representative of the Permian-Basin association tax executive committee, that unit's county tax committee, and the local legislative and petroleum committee.

LeFever is gathering information on various tax bills pending or likely to come up before the legislature.

Directors requested that this city be given a day at the Southwestern Livestock Exposition in Fort Worth.

A big per centage of the directors indicated they were planning to join Wednesday at 11 a. m. for a motorcade to Garden City for the Glasscock county livestock show. The Lions club is sponsoring the trip and the chamber has a supply of Big Spring hat bands available for the trippers.

Brewer Gets 99-Year Term

FORT WORTH, Feb. 24 (AP)—A 99-year prison sentence was fixed for Earl T. Brewer, 40, by a district court jury which convicted the Fannin county farmer of murder in the stabbing of his son-in-law, H. Glen Cox.

Sobbing after he heard the verdict here yesterday, Brewer turned to his wife and said: "It looks like a man ain't got no rights."

Defense attorney Otis Rogers said the verdict would be appealed.

Cox, 19, was slain at a Fort Worth apartment house four days after his elopement and marriage with Brewer's 14-year old daughter, Virginia Ruth.

The jury received the case late Saturday night and returned a verdict early yesterday.

President Asks More Money For Defense

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24 (AP)—President Roosevelt asked congress today for an additional $3,823,311,197 for national defense purposes for the balance of the current fiscal year.

Of the total, $1,716,225,000 would be a direct appropriation and $2,096,086,197 would be in contractual authority.

These were the specific items: To expedite production of equipment and supplies, including erection of new plants and acquisition of land, $292,000,000, of which $107,000,000 would be for payments under contracts authorized in appropriation acts for this year. In addition, contractual authority up to $576,396,000 would be given the war department.

America's Beaverbrooks—America Seeks Better Planned Airplane Production Program

By ALBOP AND KINTNER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—At present no one can say precisely whose job it is to plan and execute the crucial air production program. The very officials now at work on it are far from certain, so vaguely is the responsibility dispersed between the Office of Production Management, the War and Navy departments and several other agencies. After much travail, however, a rational solution of the problem at last seems to be in prospect.

The solution, like most rational solutions, is pretty simple. Already on the job in the War Department is Robert Lovett, a wartime air ace and New York banker recently brought into the government by his friend Under Secretary of War Robert Patterson. Now at leisure is Thomas G. Corcoran, once the spark plug of the New Deal group, and a friend of Under Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal. If the solution above-mentioned

London Also Tells Japan To Take Care

Senate Takes Up Budget Control Bill

AUSTIN, Feb. 24 (AP)—Soon after Governor W. Lee O'Daniel had urged speedy action, the senate today began considering a bill creating a new state auditor-budget preparation setup in the government.

The senate first voted against taking the bill up out of its regular place on the calendar, going into a discussion of one to tighten narcotic laws, then laid the latter aside.

The auditor-budget bill, by Senator Weaver Moore of Houston, provided the state auditor should be appointed by a joint committee of house and senate and gave the governor power to name an officer to prepare the budget.

The auditor now is appointed by the governor and the budget is prepared by the board of council, whose three members, with overlapping, six-year terms, are also gubernatorial appointees.

Governor O'Daniel told the legislature in a special message that the senate bill on the subject would meet the fundamental need for effective budget and auditing systems.

He advised against merging this bill with another making sweeping reorganizations in the government generally, saying he had been asked for his opinion in this connection.

Any bill to reorganize completely the government would involve long consideration, meet much opposition and in the end might not be enacted, he asserted.

He said he was not opposed to "the most effective reorganization of all of the departments of the state government it is possible to obtain," but the bills should be handled separately.

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE AP Feature Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Some 15,000,000 persons—8,000,000 of them for the first time—are expected to file federal income tax returns this year.

The vast increase in the number of folks reporting their income to Uncle Sam is the result of changes made by Congress in the basis of liability for making a return. Those required to file returns on or before March 15 include:

- 1. Every single person having a GROSS income of $800 or more.
2. Every married person, not living with wife or husband, having a gross income of $800 or more.
3. Every married person, living with wife or husband, having an aggregate gross income of $2,000 or more.

(Previously only those with net incomes of $1,600 and $2,500 or more were required to make returns.)

About 6,000,000 will contribute directly to the cost of governmental upkeep by paying individual income taxes. Some 9,000,000 who make returns, it is figured, will escape paying a tax because allowable exemptions and deduc-

Lookin 'em Over

WITH JACK DOUGLAS

Now that 1941 basketball has, for all practical purposes, become a thing of the past, all eyes, that is athletically inclined ones, are beginning to wander toward the various and sundry institutions of swat throughout the country. Of course, there is still a matter of track endeavors to be dealt with by high schools and colleges, but the main dish on the menu will be brought in when the command "play ball" rings out in baseballs training camps.

This time last year the chief topic of conversation among the more radical addicts of the sport concerned the New York Yankees—not if the Yanks would win or not, but who would they knock sky-high in so doing. That little item was taken care of in a resounding manner, but the New York powerhouse is due to have a few kicks in it this session, despite the rather decisive walloping they took in 1940.

But, all the discussion of who and what in baseball circles now centers on just who will be able to play ball this year on any and all outfits and who will pack nine and a half pounds of rifle instead.

Right now, Hank Greenberg's status in the military training program is attracting the most interest. The powers that be who rule on whether or not Greenberg should confine his activity to a diamond or move over onto a drill field are themselves undecided just

Title Copped, Porkers After New Records

By FELIX H. MCKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mighty Arkansas fondled another Southwest conference basketball title today, leaving only second place crumbs in its sweep of the field.

Relieved of the championship pressure, Arkansas, probably the best team the conference has ever known, has two more games with Southern Methodist at Dallas this week-end to:

1. Smash the team scoring record for a season's play.
2. Give Johnny Adams, flawless forward, the opportunity to break the individual scoring record.
3. Give Adams the opportunity to crack the record for the most field goals and free throws tossed in a single season.

The Porkers need only 46 more points to pass the team record of 607 points set up by Rice's titular team last year. The Porker average, over ten games, has been 55.5 points per game.

Adams, with 176 points in ten games, needs 25 more to break the 210 point mark established by Baylor's Hub Kirkpatrick in 1938. If Adams maintains his present average of 17.6 points per game, he will just make it. But S. M. U. is a worrisome team and there are doubts that he can wrangle that many points out of the tight Methodist defense.

The lean sniper has 66 field goals and 40 free throws to date. Kirkpatrick also holds those records—51 field goals and 48 free throws.

Coach Glen Rose of Arkansas, the quiet chap who has won three titles and tied for another in his seven years of coaching, is one of the multitude who "guesses this is the best Arkansas team in history."

Bird Dogs Enter Biggest Contest

GRAND JUNCTION, Tenn., Feb. 24 (AP)—The world series of bird dogdom—the picturesque national field trials—opened over the rolling acres of the Hobart Ames plantation today with 34 of the nation's best hunting dogs ready to make their bids for the coveted title.

A pre-meet favorite is the Texas Ranger, a fancy-stepping pointer from the kennels of D. B. McDannel of Houston, Tex. The Ranger has won $5,000 in prize money the past year, placing in 19 meets.

MAX SCHMELING, former world heavyweight boxing champion, is still a fighter. But now he fights with guns instead of gloves. "Der Schlager" of the ring is a parachutist in the German army. Here is Max in his new role. At the left he awaits the order to jump. Next he crouches in the doorway of a troop transport. Then, arms upraised, he leaps and begins to descend. His parachute opens, Schmeling sways down through the air in a practice drill. The Teuton's last appearance in this country was in the summer of 1938 when Joe Louis, whom he had beaten before, smashed him in less than a round.

Lubbock Puts Lamesa Out In Semi-Final

LAMESA, Feb. 24 (Sp)—Turning in the surprise performance of the district basketball tournament, Lamesa high school's cagers were nosed out by Lubbock, 21 to 17, in a semi-final match at Lubbock Saturday morning.

Lamesa opened the tournament clashes with a 25 to 17 victory over Dickens City and knocked off Lockney, 32 to 29, in the second round of meet play.

Lamesa was to have met Idalou for a battle for third place in the tournament but forfeited the game rather than have to wait all day for the chance.

One Lamesa Forward Earnest, placed on the all-tournament quintet.

Encountering more difficulty with Dickens City than they had expected, the Lamesa basketballers were tied with their opponents in the third period but a seven-point scoring flurry by Earnest put the Lamesan's on top.

In the quarter-final with Lockney, the count was tied eight times, and in the final stages of the battle Lockney moved ahead to "pull the mark at 25 to 25, only to lose out when Center Blair led his Lamesans on a scoring spree that gave the final tally.

Against Lubbock, Lamesa used a set zone defense, the same that had reaped three field goals against Dawson in the finals of the county tournament here.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By EDDIE BRIEVE

NEW YORK, Feb. 24 (AP)—Week's wash: Added starter for the Boston College coaching job: Earl Walsh of Fordham. George Godfrey, who once drew a $180,000 against Georges Carpentier, was paid $10 for fighting an exhibition night. Frank Leahy's Notre Dame contract must call for him to stay there quite a spell, for he's building a home. When the Washington Senators arrived at Orlando, there was a room reserved for everybody except Manager Bucky Harris, who had to check into the clubhouse until someone checked out of the hotel. Alice Marble would have waited another year before turning pro, if the war hadn't washed up the Wimbledon tournament.

Quick Look Around
Willie Hoppe, the eighth wonder of the world (Bill Tilden is the ninth), was guest star on Bill Stern's "Sports Newsweek of the Air" last night. Box seats at La Tropical Park, where the Dodgers train, are in the rear of the stand. Only a bandolero, or bum, would be seen in the first five rows. Eddie Mead is in Miami trying to buy three Cuban fighters. And if Freddie Steele, ex-middleweight champ, attempts to come back, Pete (The Fox) Reilly will be his manager. Last week's best line was turned in by Mr. Gayle Talbot, our Havana operative, who reported the new Dodger batting cage is large enough for Herman to play right field in.

Today's Guest Star
Tommy Fitzgerald, Louisville Courier-Journal: "Senator Haluska of Pennsylvania, says he ought to know a perfect dive when he sees one because he used to be a fighter himself. From force of habit, no doubt, he can't keep off the floor, even in the senate."

Old Pop Foster is schooling a new fistic protege whom he says is a better boxer and puncher than Jimmy McLarin. Nuts. Jimmy Webb impressed Garden addicts as a pretty good two-handed puncher.

Lew Jenkins will be a hot favorite over Lou Ambers Friday night. Aldo Spoldi and Jackie Wilson go to Los Angeles March 28. Rich sportsmen of New York, Atlanta and New Jersey will back Warren Wilson's Clemson Southern conference heavyweight boxing champ, when he turns pro after graduation. Either Anton Christoforidis or Jimmy Webb will get Bill Conn's old job as light-heavy champion.

Big Spring's NYAers were bowled over by an El Paso NYA basketball crew, 32 to 17, at Pecos Saturday afternoon, in a game that marked up the local lads better than the score would indicate. This was the first cage contest the Big Springers have had after their two weeks training period.

Highlight of the engagement was recorded when Big Spring Center Hughes took an El Paso stab for a field goal off the backboard and shot the ball down the length of the court to tally a couple of points for his quintet's card. Coach Joe Harris took 11 NYA lads to Pecos for the game out of a squad of about 15 boys.

According to Harris, the Big Springers lost out in the basket-hitting department, being inclined to spend more time scrumming than trying to drop one through the hoop.

Fighting Heart Wins Houston Invitation For Howard Creel

HOUSTON, Feb. 24 (AP)—Sport's oldest truism stipulates that champions must have courage, determination and fighting hearts as well as native ability.

Howard Creel has more than his share of all those qualities. Three years ago, Creel, the national left-handed golfing champion, was injured critically in an automobile accident in New Mexico.

His ribs were broken, his head deeply gashed. Additional injuries made doctors despair of saving him.

But the tall, dark-haired Pueblo, Colo., man recovered. "I heard many a conversation between St. Peter and the devil over which one of them would get me," laughed Creel. "Neither one would have me."

Creel lay flat abed for four months, slowly regaining his strength.

After a year's absence he returned to the links. Gradually his great game returned. He won the Colorado championship in 1938, the following year.

Eighteen months ago he moved to Houston and set his eyes on the Houston country club invitation tournament championship. He didn't make the grade last year, but this season, as a district dark horse, he galloped through the toughest field in years to win the title.

Reynolds Smith of Dallas, former Walker cupper; Ed White of Houston, another former Walker cupper and ex-collegiate champion playing on his home course, and Johnny Dawson of Hollywood, currently playing the finest game of any amateur in the nation.

Those were the artists he faced from the quarter-finals on. Each one he upset.

Dawson, who had warmed up for his winter competition by shooting an average of 68 in 34 rounds on various California courses, fell in the rain-beset finals yesterday, 2 and 1.

Creel had to catch Dawson from behind. He was two down to the sporting goods salesman at the end of 27 holes. Dawson was putting magnificently and recovering without difficulty. The outlook was bleak for Creel.

Howard, however, bowed his neck and took five of the next eight holes played, as Dawson's game blew sky-high for the first time in the tournament.

He closed out the match on the 35th hole with a par 5 as Dawson missed a 10-foot putt for a half.

Headline Headliner
The Southeastern conference's new recruiting rule brought this headline in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch: "Conference limits recruiting to this planet." One of the Atlanta papers said: "Southeastern schools lose privileges of giving jobs to athletes' uncles and aunts."

Also saw Mr. and Mrs. T. C. THOMAS who had braved the wet weather to see the picture show.

Mr. and Mrs. BRUTUS HANKS were waiting in the lobby, as were we, in order to get in on the beginning of the show. If we don't start at the beginning then it takes days for us to piece things together unless somebody explains what happened to us.

Our weather forecast for the week is that if the sun doesn't shine pretty soon everybody is going to get in snappy humors. The nicest people are snapping at others this week.

Record Crowds Hear Debates On Lease-Lend

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24 (AP) — The biggest attraction in the nation's capital in years—the senate debate on the British aid bill—was "playing" to record-breaking audiences.

"Biggest crowd in years," says John R. Perry, veteran chief doorkeeper. "For sustained attendance, it's got the court fight, neutrality fight, and arms embargo repeal crowds beat a mile."

"They come from every state. And this crowd seems more determined. They beg to get in and when they get in they stay longer."

Between 1,500 and 2,000 persons filed in and out of the galleries each day—all determined for at least a fleeting glimpse of history-in-the-making in the "greatest deliberative body in the world."

Some take up positions in line as early as 9 a. m.—the senate does not meet until noon—get in the chamber at 9:30, and sit through-out the session until it ends between 5 and 6 p. m.

Others are content with five or ten minutes, and depart to make way for those patiently waiting in the corridors. Even so several hundred have to be turned away nightly after standing in line for hours.

Persons admitted to the galleries for the debate are required to have an admission card signed by a senator.

Beaty's Steam Laundry Has New Operators

Beaty's Steam Laundry is operating now under new management here with Ben Alexander, a veteran laundry operator, in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander have been directing operations of the laundry here for the past month and have effected changes to improve services.

The laundry continues to do all types of first class laundry work, according to Alexander, and patrons can get prompt service by just calling the company which has its plant at 601 Goliad street.

In all some 20 persons are kept on the Beaty Steam Laundry staff here in order to facilitate the handling of a large volume of business in an efficient manner. Stress is still placed on quality work.

Alexander is by no means new to this section, having been reared in San Angelo. Most of his life has been spent in this area of West Texas and once before he worked out of Big Spring. More recently he has been operating a laundry in New Mexico for Beaty, with whom he has been for about two years.

Long experience in the field has made Alexander familiar with laundry problems of all types, for he has been in his chosen line of work for around 20 years.

Honky-Tonk Bill Offered Senate

(Herald Austin Bureau)
AUSTIN, Feb. 24 — The two youngest members of the Texas senate—Marshall Formby of McAdoo, 29, and T. C. Chadick of Mineola, 30—are sponsors of a bill to regulate "honky tonks" and night club dance halls.

Recalling troubles they experienced with "honky tonks" as county officials, the two youthful senators have introduced a bill authorizing the counties to regulate all dance halls outside city limits. Such places would be required to close not later than 1 o'clock at night.

County commissioners' courts would be given the power to license dance halls for periods of ninety days. Licenses would be subject to renewal, but the commissioners' courts would have the power to refuse renewals or to revoke licenses for violation of the law.

Besides Sir Frederick, a major in the Canadian army, the plane carried a crew of three.

Members of the crew were: Capt. Joseph Creighton Mackey, 31, formerly a test pilot with the Civil Aeronautics Administration in Kansas City; Navigator William Bird of Kidderminster, England; and William Sneatham of Bedford, Nova Scotia.

Mackey left Kansas City last September for Canada to enter civilian service ferrying a new bombers to England.

New Breeding Process Speeds Trout's Growth

SEATTLE, Wash.—Trout fishermen who recount their prowess by rule-of-thumb (or arm-length) soon may find themselves telling fact instead of fancy.

Dr. Luren R. Donaldson of the University of Washington school of fisheries announced that he is breeding trout that grow to maturity in just half the time of the ordinary species.

The breeding process already has gone 12 generations, and in that time the scientifically-controlled trout is bigger in every respect.

Miami, Fla., jumped all the way from 78th to 48th rank among the nation's cities between 1930 and 1940.

Lamesa Ex-Service Men Sign Register

LAMESA, Feb. 24 (Sp)—Lamesa's veterans of the first World War are ready to serve their country again if the need arises, local American Legion post officials have declared.

Ex-service men have registered in response to a call which would place them at disposal of the nation in event of emergency. Daniel O. Blackmon, adjutant of the Allen-Houston post here, took only 30 registrations since it was believed this would be a sufficient number here.

Charnel Jobe, who was in charge of registration, said that the 30 blanks obtainable here were "enough to get started." More blanks have been ordered and registration will be completed Tuesday.

Postal Rules Separate Blind Man And Dog

BATTLE CREEK, Mich.—Postal regulations have separated Wayne Bradley, a sightless news dealer, and the dog who has been his constant companion and guide.

Bradley's stand is in the local postoffice. Postal laws say there may be no dogs or similar pets in postoffice buildings. Rep. Paul W. Shafer and M. I. Tynan of the U. S. office of education both vainly attempted to obtain relaxation of the laws.

British Say East African Progress Good

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 24 (AP)—British headquarters said today that the whole area east of the Juba river in Italian Somaliland was "developing successfully."

The British command announced the capture of Margherita and the important Italian port of Gelib, both north of the occupied port of Chisimato on the Juba river. Many prisoners and quantities of war material were said to have been taken.

To the north, in Eritrea, the war bulletin said that British forces advancing from the north "have dispersed Italian troops holding positions about Cubub."

Here, too, many prisoners were reported captured and the southward thrust was described as "progressing."

Advanced elements of British forces moving into Ethiopia from the northwest in the region of Lake Tanahave reached the town of Amanit, the GHQ bulletin announced.

In these steady drives into the three colonies that make up Italy's East African empire, the British were being aided by Senegalese reinforcements who traveled halfway across the continent by truck to get into the fight.

Dodge Trucks Set January Sale Record

U. S. domestic shipments of Dodge job rated trucks during January, 1941, were greater than in any other January in the history of the corporation, according to L. D. Cosart, sales manager, truck division, Dodge Brothers corporation.

Shipments for the month exceeded January, 1940, by 37 per cent and were 24 per cent higher than the biggest previous January, in 1936. "Thus Dodge truck business gets away during the first month of 1941 at the record-breaking pace that prevailed during the closing months of 1940," said Cosart.

"Domestic shipments during October, November and December of last year were the greatest, respectively, for these months in the history of the company and the combined last quarter shipments were also the largest for any last quarter," he said.

Pontiac Built To Measure For Tallest Man

What to do with a customer who stands 8 feet 6 inches tall and wants a business coupe was the problem met and solved recently by a Pontiac dealer in Bakersfield, Calif.

The dealer used a 1941 Pontiac Deluxe Eight two-door sedan and removed the rear seat. Then the front seat was moved back 18 inches leaving enough space between the seat and the instrument panel to accommodate the customer's lengthy legs. An 18-inch section was put in the steering column and gear shift lowering it to give the proper pitch to the steering wheel.

The customary coupe shell then was installed, greatly enlarging the trunk space. Truly a "customer built" car, Jack Earle, the buyer, ordered complete accessories and a gleaming white Duco paint job.

"I guess this makes me a back seat driver, all right," Earle remarked as he approved the job. "At least I'm going to be comfortable in a car for the first time in my life."

He denied allegations that his hand often touches the trolley wires or pushes other cars off the road when he signals for turns. A wine salesman, Earle will use his unique Pontiac in covering a large territory.

New Weather Book Aids Airline Pilots

Everybody talks about the weather and air line meteorologists have to do something about it. What they do and how they do it is told in "Keeping Ahead of the Weather" written by Peter E. Kraght for Associated Aviation Underwriters.

Concise and accurately written by a graduate of California Institute of Technology who specializes in air mass theory and practice, this booklet of 64 pages was developed to instruct weather-minded people in the "How and Why" of forecasting weather trends. Kraght, an American Airlines meteorologist, wastes no space or time in his text and the result is solid, factual material.

Illustrated throughout by sketches and by photographs of weather and cloud formations, the booklet covers every phase of flight control prediction.

Columnist Says Labor Forced To Join Unions

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24 (AP)—Westbrook Pegler, newspaper columnist, told a house committee today that the present labor union policy of the government "is to force unwilling workers to join labor unions which may and do abuse them in many ways."

Pegler testified at a judiciary committee hearing on labor problems raised by the defense program.

He declared that the government had "refused to take any steps to protect" the "unwilling members" of labor unions.

"Elections (in unions) are crooked and farcical," Pegler continued. "Accounts are juggled and known criminals and other crooks who never have been convicted are maintained in office by manipulation and terrorism."

Number Of Farms, Farmers Shows Unhealthy Decrease

In the terrific 10 years just passed, the whole number of farms in the United States declined 31 per cent, from 6,288,648 to 4,236,789. At the same time the average holding increased from 138 acres today.

That is partly due to the fact that the dust bowl which we have been industriously creating in the southwest for many years has at last begun to take its toll of blasted hopes and ruined homesteads.

All this means fewer of the kind of men who are solid proprietors standing with their feet on their own land. Such men are the backbone of any country. To make it worse, experts now believe that with high-powered production methods, half as many farmers as labor today could produce all the food the country needs.

People living on the land have a value to the country far beyond the mere food they produce. They have a stability, a solidness, shown by no other kind of people. Thus every effort to devise new ways of living on the soil, or farm life not merely as a business but as a way of living, is a contribution to national stability, and deserves encouragement.

Man About Manhattan—Jokes Are Just As Old In New York As Anywhere-Or Older

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—When you spend your time kicking around Broadway and sitting in smoky restaurants talking to comedians, prizefighters, and detectives or hanging around theater doors and taxiab stands, you hear a lot of stories.

When these stories seem funny to me, or amusing, or merely interesting, I pass them along. I intend to keep right on passing them along, though let me warn you here and now that most "new" stories are variations of old themes and are seldom literally true.

A few days ago I relayed the story of the girl at a theater who mistakenly offered some fertilizer tablets to another young woman with an annoying cough, thinking they were coughdrops. This story had been passed to me by an advertising man who said it happened to his secretary. He even named the play she went to see.

No one in this office had heard the story. I always test stories like this on my colleagues in the office. But after I had used it there, came a sudden chorus of complaints, and one reader sent me a clipping showing this same story, with minor variations, as it appeared in his newspaper at least four months ago. This time it was a New Orleans woman who had passed the "coughdrops" to a cold victim in a Baton Rouge, La., theatre.

The gist of these complaints was that I had been guilty of passing along "stale" news. So I went over to see my friend Ed Wynn, who, besides being a great comedian, is one of the world's best authorities on jokes and their roots. It was Mark Twain who said that all theories are variations of only seven themes. Ed Wynn personally has broken down 11,000 stories into 124 classifications, and that, he says, is as far as he could go. When I told him the coughdrop story and asked if he had ever heard it before he said:

"Oh, sure. I could find you 300 of 'em if I had the time. As related to comedy, it is an offshoot of the old mistaken identity theme. In vaudeville every comedian at one time or another has used that same story, reduced to a line, as the sign-off to a skit or a scene. For instance, you are talking to a friend, and he goes out. Suddenly, you clamp your hand to your brow and cry, 'Great Scott! I gave him a pickle instead of a piano!' This and the coughdrops belong to the same family of jokes. You can trace this story to Shakespeare, and beyond."

I asked Ed Wynn if he thought a girl in New York, by coincidence, had figured in such an adventure as related in this tale, or for that matter a girl in Baton Rouge.

"Could be," he said. "But just between you and me I don't think it ever happened in Louisiana or New York or anywhere else. This story has hit its cycle and has come up again. They run in cycles like that. In a couple of years from now when a new cold spell comes up and everybody is dodging coughgerms it will come up again."

The comedian, whose show, "Boys and Girls Together," is one of the long range hits on Broadway this season, thinks the coughdrop story is also a variation of that family of jokes about the Lady and the Ship. You can also find it in O. Henry, who used Confederate money instead of coughdrops.

Personally, the next time a panhandler edges up to me and says, "Buddy, can you spare a coughdrop," I am going to turn around and run like hell. He may be an editor in disguise.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds—'Back Street' Will Charm Most Women, Perhaps Some Males

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—"Back Street." Screenplay by Bruce Manning and Felix Jackson from novel by Fannie Hurst. Directed by Robert Stevens. Principals: Charles Boyer, Margaret Sullavan, Richard Carlson, Frank McHugh, Tim Holt, Frank Jenks, Esther Dale, Samuel S. Hinds, Peggy Stuart, Neil O'Day, Kitty O'Neil, Nella Walker, Cecil Cunningham, Marjorie Gateson, Dale Winter.

If the Smith girl hadn't been delayed that day in Cincinnati when Walter Saxel was waiting to marry her, the women of America would have been denied a renewal of the good cry they had over "Back Street" several years ago when Irene Dunne and John Boles played it.

The new version—first production of ex-New Orleans newspaperman Bruce Manning—is no less tough on the collective feminine handkerchief.

Ray Smith (Sullivan) was a free spirit in the Cincinnati of the early 1900's. Working in the family department store, she met and played with the jocular "drummers" who came to town, and she knew how to keep them at a proper distance. She could have married that nice Stanton boy (Carlson), no drummer but a mechanic interested in horseless carriages, any time she said the word. But Ray didn't lose her heart until Walter Saxel (Boyer), the handsome financier, came into her life. When she fell, she fell hard.

One hitch in their idyllic romance was Walter's already-announced engagement. He was ready to chuck that and marry

Ray but Ray missed the boat. Hurt, Walter married the other girl. Five years later, in New York, Walter and Ray met again by chance. Neither had forgotten. With her eyes wide open, Ray took up residence on the "back street" of his life.

Tastefully presented, the immorality involved makes for one of the screen's most moral tales for "back street" life is a heck of a life. Ray suffers and suffers, gives and gives, asks nothing and gets nothing more than the occasional spare time of her charming heel. Her one rebellion, when she is about to marry the nice Stanton boy, is quelled by his frankly selfish ploy. He needs her, ego and there—end—so it is at the end, years later, when both are old and gray.

"Back Street" is a well-made picture, with distinguished performances by the stars—especially appealing is Sullivan—and ingratiating work by Carlson, McHugh, Holt and Jenks. The women should love it, the men should get an extra kick from the itch to punch the charming Mr. Saxel in the nose for treating our Nell that-a-way.

"Meet the Chump." Screenplay by Alex Gottlieb. Directed by Edward Cline. Principals: Hugh Herbert, Lewis Howard, Jeanne Kelly, Anne Nagel, Kathryn Adams, Shemp Howard, Richard Lane, Andrew Tombes.

Very little about this wacky piece, including the title, makes sense—wherein lies its wallop. Herbert plays a philanthropist who has embosomed his nephew's five millions. Faced with a payoff the nephew declared insane insane, changes his mind and has

Daybook—Leon Henderson Puts Zest Into Defense Work

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—If the administration had searched through all its million-odd employees for a man to crack the whip over industry and keep the prices of defense materials down, it is doubtful if it could have found anyone who puts more zest into the job than Leon Henderson.

It isn't that Henderson enjoys belaboring legitimate business. He's too good an economist to feel that way about it. But he does love a scrap. Next, perhaps, what he loves most is a new job. And in the third place he probably has thought, talked and written more memos on the activities of controlled prices than any other government worker in the six years that he has been around Washington.

It was a scrap that led to Henderson's first government job. He was going along his own quiet way as professor of industrial economics at Carnegie Institute of Technology when Gen. Hugh Johnson called him into an NRA conference.

If the general expected any tame pedagogue to show up and expound in cultured tones and professional verbiage, he got the surprise of his life. In phrases almost as salty as the general's, Henderson crossed swords with the NRA boss in a glorious, slam-bang fracas. When the dust of battle had settled, Johnson hired him.

That was just the beginning. That was only one of a long chain of federal jobs Henderson was to hold. He later became economic advisor to WPA. He was made a member of the temporary national economic committee that investigated monopolies. He worked for the Senate monopolies committee. Even now, in addition to his job as price-hawk of the defense commission, he is a member of the Securities and Exchange Commission and only a few weeks ago resigned from the defense priorities board. Through it all, he has been sort of unofficial economic advisor to the administration and a New Deal source of new ideas.

This business of spreading his tremendous energy over the whole landscape is nothing new to Henderson. "The son of a Swedish New Jersey farmer, he worked his way through Swarthmore College by holding down 14 jobs, often several of them at the same time. He went into the ordnance corps in the army as a buck private in 1917 and emerged two years later as a captain. Henderson is a medium-height, roundish fellow with a shock of black hair which he never burdens with a hat. He has a tendency to be careless in appearance. One of his idiosyncrasies is gum-chewing and he must buy his packages of wax by the gross.

Takes His Own Medicine

He practices the economics he preaches and the report is that he has made considerable money in private investments. In 1937, he shocked the government and a good many other economists by predicting a business slump. Things seemed to be sailing along beautifully, but the slump came just as he predicted. It would be his "boom and bust" memo to Harry Hopkins, then secretary of commerce.

As the defense commission's price hawk, he twice has zoomed out to threaten industries unless they pulled prices down. The first time it was the scrap iron and steel industry. Henderson reportedly talked to the industry leaders like a Dutch uncle, told them more about their business than some of them knew themselves, and before the week was out, scrap iron prices were cascading toward the government level. When it came to the lumber industry, Henderson didn't wear kid gloves. In a blistering harangue, he told them "to get in line or else."

ALONG CAME CINDERELLA

By VIVIEN GREY

Chapter One
Picnic

The topless old jalopy creaked to a shivering, uncertain stop. Its narrow tires and high crate-like body, and the gasping sputtering protests of its engine were honest evidence of age. They mocked the eternal spring of its light green enamel.

The girl who jumped out, impatient of old doors with uncertain hardware, was part and parcel of that light vivacious green. The legs she thrust over the door, bare to the knees where navy blue slacks were rolled, were tanned and shapely. She made safe landing on a pair of battered old white pumps with extremely high heels.

"Hurry up! That's her second name. Can't wait for anything." Big, awkward Joe Hulse, wrestling with a huge picnic basket, grinned at her appreciatively. He was proud of the easy symmetry of her lithe body and the blossomy prettiness of her face. She was part and smart in her inexpensive clothes. There was a full-blown, oddly contradictory, note of lushness about her blonde slimmness.

"Can't even wait and give a fellow a chance to be polite," Joe went on, pride running like a bright thread through the pattern of his pliant.

"Wouldn't be knocking yourself out, Joe?" The girl's voice fitted her—smooth, colorful, an unexpectedly rich note in it.

Joe, with another fellow and his girl, were unpacking the picnic things from the old car that gave up its burden with an air of surprise that its small, high square body could have held so much. The girl was looking at the river, her large brown eyes glowing, her lips, that wouldn't have needed the exaggeration of lipstick, parted slightly.

"Oh, it's beautiful," she said unthinkingly of the clutter of practical activity back of her. "Shut up in the city you forget there are such things as grass and trees and rivers and air and flowers and birds!"

"Chow!" called the other girl who was putting a substantial steak in a broiler while the two boys built a fire. "We eat first and dream after!"

"Well said, my hearty!" Bill Stark thoroughly approved everything dark diminutive Katie Connor did or said. And Katie felt the same way about Bill, all except the tattoo on his right arm just below the elbow that had a scroll of flowers entwined with a heart and read: "Mabel, June 20, 1937."

"If you'd only had sense enough to have it put where it wouldn't show so," Katie used to say, her small chin held high, refusing to look at the offensive thing. "Mabel! I bet she had buck teeth and knock knees and softening of the brain!"

"Now, honey," Bill would say when Katie was in one of those moods. "You know I'd cut my right arm off for you. Gosh every guy has a girl or so before he finds the right one!"

"Yeah! But they aren't all saps enough to have their names written in their skin! Why that'll birthmark your kids, see if it doesn't! And a fine window washer you'd make with your right arm gone!"

Bill had turned window washer for a big firm that did most of the high office buildings in New York, after leaving the navy. The Mabel tattoo was a hangover of one of his leaves in a southern port.

Thick steak was sizzling in the broiler Joe's big hands were maneuvering ready to toast, and Bill was attending to the large coffee pot.

The blonde girl in blue slacks was spreading a table cloth, laying out paper plates and napkins, what passed for silver, and putting a gay wild flower at each place. She moved absently about her activities, still intent on the beauty around her. The voices of her companions brought her back to awareness of her surroundings.

"Suppose he's going to chase us?" Joe was asking.

"I don't like the look in his eye," was Katie's comment.

"Want me to change it for you, kid?" Bill asked.

Joe Takes Charge

A young man was walking toward them down the slight slope. He was in sport things, expensive sport things and had an air of assurance authority and well being. It was immediately evident to the four picnickers that he represented a world widely separated from their own—a world of wealth and luxury and privilege.

"Hi! Putting heat to the groceries for an outdoor feed," experimentally from Joe as he grinned up over his steak.

"Yes, I see. He was close enough for them to see his clothes were immaculate, that he was as tanned as they but with a subtle difference. A hand in which he carried a stick, while not soft looking, was exceedingly well kept.

"We wouldn't be trespassing?" Bill ventured and then with inspiration he turned to the girls. "Meet the ladies! The little one there doing a job with the toast is Katie Connor. Watch out for her tongue. She isn't Irish for nothing! And the tall blonde there on vacation

Right In Sheep Country—West Texas' Wool Mill Opens At Eldorado

By TONY SLAUGHTER
Associated Press Staff

At Eldorado on the slopes of Edwards plateau, Schleicher county produces cotton, grain, feed, oil, gas, fine Herefords, goats, thoroughbred horses and sheep.

And now from the latter virgin wool is being manufactured into woollen products from Texas grown fleeces.

On Feb. 27, Thursday, West Texas will join Eldorado in celebrating the opening of the section's first woolen mill, owned and operated by Schleicher county folk, J. B. Christian and his sister, Mrs. E. W. Brooks.

In the past, sheep raisers in this section and especially their wives, have taken care with the tags, that part of the fleece that comes from the legs and tail of the sheep. The ranchman's wife would don her "Levi's" at shearing time in May and June and see that every tag was gathered from around the shearing pen. The tags were tramped into 300 pound capacity sacks, just like the fleeces from the sheep's back, bundled and shipped to Boston and woolen mills in the east to be made into blankets, rugs, saddle blankets and even drapes for the parlor of the ranch house.

Now with the opening of the West Texas woolen mills freight charges to and from the east will be eliminated and the woolen cloth manufactured at the mill should open many retail markets over the state.

A celebration of the opening is typically West Texas. It wouldn't be complete without the usual barbecue, parade, horse show, livestock show and music. Eldorado is planning just that.

Since Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel has urged industrialization of Texas, he has been sent an invitation to attend the one day celebration. It's going to be hard for him to turn down the invitation—if he does—because he is to be presented with one of the first wool blankets made at the mill. The second blanket goes to President Roosevelt. The virgin fleece that will go to make the two blankets has already been scoured at the San Marcos scouring plant.

Everything about the mill is native to this section save the machinery. The rock in the building was quarried from Schleicher county deposits. Even the owners were born here.

As the rest of the city gets ready for the opening, workmen at the plant are weaving blanket material, yarns and batting that will be displayed on opening day.

The Timid Soul

Housewives Curtly Told How To Boil Egg

LEWISTON, Me.—Harold Rotzel, manager of the New England Fresh Egg Institute, says nine out of ten housewives don't know how to boil an egg.

He told the Maine Poultry Association that most women drop eggs in boiling water, leave them there a few minutes and expect A-1 food. Instead the eggs are "practically indigestible" then, Rotzel said.

The proper way, he said, is to place the eggs in luke warm water and let the water come slowly to a boil.

Students May Forego Meal To Help Needy

OBERLIN, O.—A plan for students to raise money for the needy by economizing on one meal a week is under consideration at Oberlin college.

An approximate saving of 10 cents a meal is recommended.

Sophomore Albert Rees, New York City, made the suggestion. He was appointed chairman of a committee by the student council. When definite plans are worked out the idea will be presented to the student body.

Visit Herald Building

The Herald extends the invitation to groups and individuals to visit its plant at 2:30 p. m. on Mondays and Fridays. In the case of large groups, advance notice would be appreciated.

Story

from the movies is Lovely Day, believe it or not! The youth acknowledged Katie briefly and then passed on to the other girl with every appearance of having stopped at a hurdle.

"He means," Lovely straightened from her table setting and turned the full brilliance of her dazzling smile on the young man, "that's my name—Lovely Day."

"I can't believe it," the stranger said, "I'm Roger Cosgrave."

"How-do-you-do, Mr. Cosgrave? And that's Joe Hulise and Bill Stark." Lovely blithely indicated the two young men and though Cosgrave had not taken his eyes from Lovely's livid face. Joe took the conversation in hand.

"Have some chow with us? Know who owns this patch of greensward? Hope they won't object to our moving in on some of their fresh air."

Cosgrave laughed faintly. "Well, we own the land. I had come down to ask you to find some other place to picnic. You see some of the women at the house were alarmed by the fire. It's been so dry this summer. But please stay and have your party out. I'll tell them at the house you're remarkably careful people."

He glanced at Joe momentarily. Then his eyes were back meeting Lovely's, bringing a faint and beautiful flush to her tanned skin.

"Sure!" from Bill, "We'll put out all the fire and leave the place clean. You know us, boy! We're not the average picknicker from New York. No, sir! We're high class and are—look at them dames! Having chow with us?"

"Wish I could," there was no doubt about his sincerity. "But I have guests at the house."

"Sorry!" Joe said easily and as Cosgrave turned his last glance for Lovely, Joe gestured him on speedily. When he was out of hearing, "Leave it to me, brother," he said. "It was that invitation to feed that got him. Politeness sure pays. If I hadn't thought of that pretty little stunt we'd be packing our baskets now and pouring our drinking water on that fire!" He expanded pleasantly and innocently under his own prairie.

Katie glanced at Lovely, her dark eyes bright with amusement. "Some people are so blind they need a tin cup and a cane!" she taunted.

"What'd you mean?" Joe asked indignantly. "I did it, didn't I? Joe's vanity was impregnable because he never recognized it as vanity."

"You, heart of my heart and ten other guys! It was Lovely did it. If I must bruise your vanity. Scored again, tall blonde and beautiful." That last to Lovely.

"Why you waste yourself on that unappreciative Joe!"

"Hey! Lay off, will you?" from Bill. "I always get the jitters when I see a couple-a smart dames gangin' up on some square guy."

"Sweetie pie," Katie soothed him. "Mama's little jitter bug."

"Heat's been put to the groceries, boys and girls, and how!"

Joe was putting thick slabs of perfectly broiled steak that had been buttered and salted the minute it came off the embers, on pieces of toast. He never found it difficult to concentrate on food.

"Here," he said to Katie who still had not subdued the devil in her dark eyes, "sink your ivory in that and shut up." And then turning to Lovely more gently: "You're angel," he said. "Eat it up."

It'll put hair on your chest."

"And after I get it what'll I do with it?" Lovely asked sweetly.

"Look like a mama bear, darling!" from Katie. "Not that it would mean a thing to Joe. You could have horns, a set of ivory eyes and a pair of glass teeth and Joe'd be too blind to see it."

Lovely caught all of Katie's meaning. She knew Katie with that subtle, psychic Irish sense had picked something out of the air while Cosgrave stood looking at her. Not that Katie was trying to make trouble. But she'd always insisted Lovely was too good for Joe.

"With Bill and me," Katie had said time and again, "we're just dead level. I'm pretty but I haven't got much brain. I've got to let Bill do the thinking for us. But you—you're different. You're not just pretty. You're beautiful. You've got the kind of looks that makes every girl that sees you reach for her lipstick. And you've got brain, when you want to use it. But you're not using it when you let a bird like Joe bog you down."

Joe was looking at Lovely, momentarily anxiety in his eyes. But when she smiled at him in the old sweet way he was confident again. Even a little swaggering. Joe was comfortable. He never thought much beyond the moment. You could handle a guy like that. Make a fool of him if you wanted to. Not that Lovely wanted to.

Another World

Up at the big house that looked down across its well kept lawns to the Hudson River, Roger Cosgrave rejoined the group on the terrace with their before dinner cocktails.

"Well, darling, did you start them on their way? There was a pleasant note of cultivation and affection in his mother's voice.

Roger's reply came after a moment's hesitation.

"No, Mother, I didn't. They seemed really quite nice and promised to be careful. I thought it wouldn't hurt to let them finish their party. After all, they can't damage that woodland."

Emily Perry looked up at him and smiled.

"Getting soft, Roger?" she asked.

"No," slowly from Roger, "I wouldn't quite say that. But it

BOSTON, Feb. 24 (AP)—(US Dept Agr)—There was a little interest in spot offerings of greasy combing domestic wools in Boston today. Fine Delaines were quoted at 48 to 44 cents, in the grease, bright medium fleeces were in some demand at 43 to 45 cents, in the grease. Contracting continued in western states. Some dealers were already taking an interest in the early-shorn lambs' wools which should be available in a few weeks in the fleece-wool states.

a big job in the national defense set-up and he is now reportedly being backed by Secretary Henry Morgenthau, Jr., for the position of America's Beaverbrook.

La Guardia's supporters are extremely secretive. It is difficult to discover just whose functions they propose to transfer to the mayor.

But the best guess is that the big new air division of the OPA would be put under him, and that he would be given at least part of the authority for air procurement now lodged in the procurement branches of the War and Navy Departments.

In short, whatever his official rank, he would become the American equivalent of an air production minister.

Secretary Morgenthau has a voice in the matter as the man chosen by the president to be the spokesman of the British in the government. His backing of La Guardia is no doubt traceable to natural impatience with the air production set-up now in operation.

The original scope of preparation was far too small. Recognition of its inadequacy has been far too slow in coming. Men like Lovett trying to improve and enlarge the program, immediately found themselves smothered in the intricacies of Rube Goldbergian administrative machinery. For months naming an air production czar has been one obvious remedy, and La Guardia certainly possesses the toughness, drive and bounce required for efficient command.

La Guardia's Sponsor

The trouble with the La Guardia appointment is, quite simply, that it has been proposed too late. Had the president taken the plunge last June, or even immediately after the election, all would have been well.

But the mayor is a man who suffers no competitors or even coadjutors. If he gets even a part of the air job in his hands, the fur will fly until he has it all. As a good many able men are on the job already, the sudden recruitment of La Guardia would be likely to disorganize the entire defense set-up for a considerable period thereafter.

For this reason Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox and Under Secretary Forrestal strongly resisted an effort to locate La Guardia in the Navy Department. And again for this reason, all the chiefs of the defense services will be sure to fight Morgenthau's plan tooth and nail, making its adoption a poor bet.

The comment on this situation might be, "Better late than never." If the plan proposed by the defense services were not extremely attractive.

In the short time he has been in charge of the air problem at the War Department, Lovett has shown enough good sense, decision and imagination to equip several government officials. Whatever may be thought of his opinions on domestic policy, there can be little question that Corcoran's energy and drive equal La Guardia's, or that he knows better than anyone how to carry a project unscathed through mazes of the governmental labyrinth. The human factor is also weighted in any governmental equation, and if solid authority is confined to Lovett and Corcoran, the fact that the responsibility for air production is still officially dispersed will grow far less important.

There are obstacles to both the La Guardia and the Lovett-Corcoran solutions of the air problem, for neither La Guardia or Corcoran can be brought into the government until jobs are created for them, and Corcoran has a lingering objection to remaining in Washington. There are also obvious points in favor of both solutions. Finally, there is a third possible solution, by which La Guardia would be given the same task as the British Air Production Minister, while Lovett and Corcoran divided the British Air Minister's equally vital duties. The main thing is, however, that the air problem is at last to be squarely tackled in one way or another, unless one of the usual bureaucratic battles intervenes.

Legislators Hear Gov'nor Of Louisiana

AUSTIN, Feb. 24 (AP)—Governor Sam Houston Jones of Louisiana told a cheering Texas legislature today that the days of "dictatorship" in Louisiana were over, and that once again it had been demonstrated "that democracy works."

Jones came here to appear before the house agriculture committee this afternoon in support of a tax on milled rice for rice promotion purposes. In his address to the joint legislative session, he made no mention of the rice tax.

"The name of our state," Jones said, "was dragged into the mire of the worst corruption the United States ever saw. But the example of Louisiana shows that freemen eventually will rise up and throw off bondage."

The Louisiana governor was applauded when he pointed out that the neighboring state, had repealed the general sales tax. Two years ago Governor W. Lee O'Daniel of Texas approved a proposed constitutional amendment containing a sales tax.

Asserting that the south potentially was a section of great wealth, Governor Jones said that Texas, Louisiana and the other states should work together to solve the south's serious problems. Texas, he said, is in the forefront of the progress of the south.

Jones said he had been told that the Texas legislature was "the most independent group of men in the United States."

"If that be true," he said, "keep your independence."

In Louisiana, he continued, "the days of a governor striding down the legislative aisles like a ringmaster at a circus are over."

Jones, who said he had never lived more than 35 miles from the Texas line, was introduced by O'Daniel.

As yet he is without word from Washington headquarters of the REA, but hopes to receive definite approval of his proposed system before too many moons have passed.

House Decides Not To Form General Investigating Body

AUSTIN, Feb. 24 (AP)—After long and loud argument, the house changed its mind today and killed a resolution to create a general investigating committee. The resolution had been adopted a few weeks ago.

The committee would have been empowered to inquire into any and all complaints of misconduct against state governmental agencies. The senate has a similar committee.

Rep. Dewitt Kinard of Port Arthur moved to reconsider the vote by which the resolution was adopted. His motion prevailed, 95 to 52, and some time later, the resolution itself was killed, 71 to 60.
