Two School Children Killed By Train Order Part Of Demobilization Of CWA By May 1

Car, Driven By Teacher, Struck At Eagle Ford

DALLAS (AP)—Two school children were killed and their teacher critically injured Friday when the automobile in which they were riding ran into the side of a fast passenger train at a crossing west of Dallas.

Evelyn Wayne Dalton, 8, and her sister, Mary Nell, 7, lost their lives.

Mrs. Pearl Newton, who had picked them up a short distance from the tracks, suffered severe head injuries.

The automobile was demolished. The station agent said Mrs. Newton apparently did not see the train approaching.

The automobile struck the engine at its drive wheels. The Eagle Ford school, nearby, was closed after the accident.

Negro, Wanted For Slaying Of Oklahoma Couple, Taken

820 Howard Farmers Sign Cotton Forms

Howard county farmers rallied beyond expectations to the 1934-35 cotton acreage reduction campaign.

Following a check up Friday morning, County Agent O. P. Griffin announced that 820 contracts, representing 38,500 acres had been signed before the campaign closed February 15.

The acreage reduction campaign originally was to have closed January 31 but time was extended to February 15 and the lint limit per acre was lowered from 100 to 75 pounds.

Griffin had originally expected to sign only 800 contracts. He revised his estimate downward when many landowners turned in all their farms under one contract.

Total acreage affected by the contracts was far in excess of that anticipated by Griffin and his committeemen.

The check up was accomplished at a meeting of county and community committeemen held in the county court room.

CLARKVILLE (AP)—Frank Clark, negro wanted for the double slaying of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Stiles on their farm near Idabel, Oklahoma, last Tuesday, was shot twice, and captured by officers at Adilou, near here, at noon Friday.

The negro, trailed to a brush thicket by bloodhounds, fired on the posse when approached. The posse poured a stream of bullets into the thicket, and finally set fire to the underbrush, causing the negro to surrender.

He was shot in the leg twice. The negro was rushed to an unannounced jail.

The farm couple was slain by the negro Tuesday while three sons watched.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Work Administration will drop 400,000 workers in rural areas throughout the country Friday, February 23.

In announcing new regulations for the next ten weeks, Harry Hopkins, administrator, said hours of labor would remain at twenty-four per week in cities and fifteen in rural areas.

Demobilization, which started Thursday night with the dropping of between 150,000 and 200,000 workers on federal projects will be carried on at a rate of approximately 10 per cent per week through March.

After that, it is scheduled to be accelerated until the force of 4,000,000 men and women have been demobilized by May 1st.

The demobilization effects every state equally. All persons living in households where another member is working, whether public or private employment, will be dropped first.

Peace Seen For Austria; Riots Cease

Rumors Of Attempted Assassinations, Threats Of Sabotage, Still Prevalent

VIENNA (AP)—Except for rumors of attempted assassinations, threat of sabotage, and occasional gunfire, peace had returned to Austria Friday after four days of civil war.

Stubborn battles between socialist and government forces, which took from a thousand to fifteen hundred lives, was ended.

Rumor told of a wholesale assassination plot against Chancellor Dollfus, and two vice chancellors.

Socialist headquarters issued orders calling for a campaign of sabotage against utilities and public services, and for a general guerrilla warfare.

Socialist snipers Friday had taken to underground tunnels of Vienna, but no disorders were reported.

Kiwanis Host To Rotarians At Crawford

Kiwanis and Rotarians of Big Spring, about seventy-five in number, mingled at the Crawford Hotel ballroom Thursday noon, with the latter club in charge of the program, on invitation from the former club. A sumptuous meal was served by the Crawford Coffee Shop in excellent style.

President Tom Davis of the Kiwanis club and President M. H. Bennett of the Rotary club were seated at the head of the banquet tables and on either side of them were the program chairmen for the day from each club, Shine Phillips for the Rotary and Harvey Clay for the Kiwanis.

The joint meeting opened by singing "America."

Invocation was pronounced by Rev. Jack Thorns of the Rotary club. President Davis asked each member of both clubs to introduce himself and give the classification he represented. As there were some seventy-five present, several minutes were required for the introduction.

Power

WASHINGTON By George Durno

Frank Roosevelt will take several gigantic rabbits out of his hat before Congress folds up. Watch it happen.

Federal integration of power under a new Power Commission is about to be consummated. The country is to be divided into three power districts—the territory east of the Alleghenies, the Middle West and the Pacific Coast. The new Power Commission is to have coordination of power systems, storage of water for flood control, and river improvement related to power development.

Lined up with the plan are the St. Lawrence waterway treaty and early construction of power plants along that river. Federal regulation of power concerns will include supervision of rates and profits. Private corporations will be compelled to cooperate with federal plants wherever public interest demands it.

Senator Dill of Washington is shaping the bills necessary to put this across.

Temple Man Gets 99 Years

Querner Sentenced For Slaying Dr. Clifford In November

BELTON (AP)—A district court jury Friday convicted Will Querner of Temple, for the slaying of Dr. A. M. Clifford, November 8th, and sentenced him to ninety-nine years imprisonment.

The jurors had deliberated since Wednesday night.

The foreman of the jury said eleven jurors had been voting for the death penalty, but compromised on a long sentence.

The defense said he would file a motion for a new trial.

Boy Scouts To Collect Articles On Wednesday

If you have any old pots, pans, bed steads, springs, cooking utensils, bed clothing, shoes, discarded personal clothing, start piling them up for the Boy Scouts of Big Spring to collect Wednesday.

All materials gathered by the scouts will be used for relief purposes.

They will make a thorough canvass of the entire city on Wednesday, calling at every home. They will be performing the "good turn" asked of them by President Franklin Roosevelt.

Work of the boys can be facilitated greatly if people will have their contributions already collected when the boys call on Wednesday.

Allred, In Capital, To Talk Relief

Relief Bond Situation In Texas Also To Be Taken Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—Attorney General James Allred of Texas said here Friday he expected to confer soon with the relief administration concerning the general relief situation in Texas, and said he would likely discuss the relief bond situation of Texas.

Allred said he had ordered a vigorous prosecution of violators of the state oil regulations.

Mrs. Durwood Halley of Fabens, is visiting here with her daughter, Mrs. T. L. Lovelace.

Cleansing

A clique of lawyers practicing before the Bureau of International Revenue is slated for dissolution.

When Secretary Morgenthau took over the Treasury one of the first things he discovered was that a certain group of attorneys had held an inside track at the Bureau of Internal Revenue for years.

They call themselves informally "The Washington 'ax Bar.'" Handling income cases through the short cuts their internal connections of long-standing affords, they have lapped up the cream of this lucrative practice.

Henry, Jr., decided to mop up this "Bar."

General Retail Code Authority To Be Effectuated

A meeting will be held here the latter part of next week to form a code authority board to have jurisdiction over businesses operating under the general retail code.

The meeting, which will probably be called on Thursday or Friday, is being convened on request from the state compliance director, Ernest L. Tutt of Houston.

Each line of business affected by the general retail code is supposed to have a representative on the code authority board. Prior to the formation of the board, each business should familiarize itself with hour, wage, and fair practice rulings of its code.

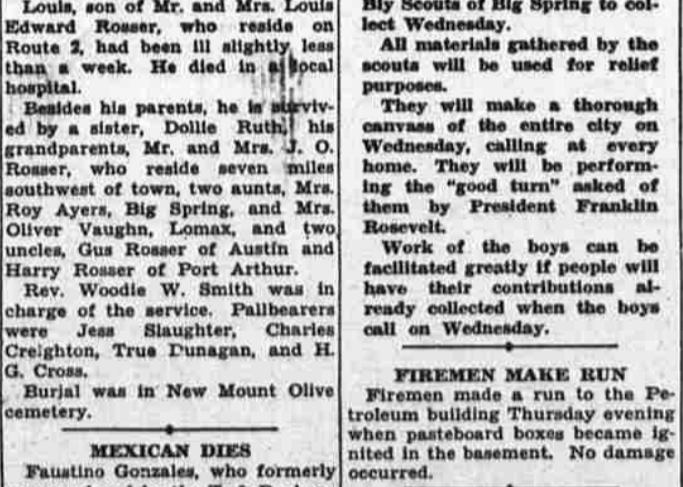

The code authority board will hear complaints of violations and infringements and if it fails to adjust differences, they are referred to state headquarters, from whence there is no appeal.

Among the lines of business to be affected by the code authority board are retail furniture, hardware, clothing and furnishings, dry goods, shoes, variety stores, and music merchants.

Service By Airmail To Be Stopped

No Mail Accepted Unless Delivery Be Made By Monday Night

Temporary discontinuance of airmail service through Big Spring has been confirmed by George Pfeuffer, local terminal manager of American Airways.

Pfeuffer received instructions to receive no mail for transport by airplane that can not be delivered at its destination by midnight Monday.

Discontinuance of the mail service does not affect the American Airways passenger schedule, he said.

Word is expected by Pfeuffer soon about new equipment to be flown on this route. Understanding is that the tri-motored Ford will be replaced by Condors, equipped with 13 Pullman-type berths for night flying and having a cruising speed of 185 miles per hour. They will be flown to Cleveland and will afford sixteen hour connection with New York City.

On other runs, it was indicated, the line will fly single-motored Vultees with cruising speed of 225 miles per hour.

New Signs Warn Against Parking Cars

Ordinance Regulating Parking Of Cars To Be Enforced

New signs went down on downtown streets Friday as a warning against center parking.

Numerous complaints led to the announcement that the ordinance against double center parking will be enforced more rigidly.

Main is the lone downtown street on which center parking will be allowed. On that street it is permitted for unloading purposes and trucks and other vehicles parking in the center must stay within the scribbled lane.

Traffic in the business district has been congested many times each day lately due to center of double parking on narrow streets.

M. Segal, formerly of this city, was in town Friday.

Shooting At Granger Claims Two Officers

GEORGETOWN (AP)—Two murder charges were filed against Louis Cernok, a farm hand, as officers investigated the shooting at Granger Thursday which cost the lives of Henry Lindsey, city marshal, and Sam Moore, constable.

Lindsey was killed instantly. Moore died later at a Taylor hospital following a shooting in the justice of peace court after Cernok had been arrested.

Excitement against the farmer had quieted down Friday.

'Ma' Submits Bill Giving State Right To Condemn Lands

A bill giving the state authority to condemn land for right of way purposes has been submitted by Governor Miriam Ferguson to the legislature, now convened in special session.

Progress of the measure is being keenly watched here since passage of it would make possible the opening of Highway No. 9 through Glascock, thereby connecting Sterling and Howard county segments.

Should action on the proposed bill lag, C. T. Watson, local chamber of commerce manager, will join Culbertson Deal, San Angelo board of development official, in a fight at Austin to have it converted into law before the special session is ended.

Auto License Refund Applications Must Be Made Before March 15

Tax Collector Mabel Robinson reminded motor car owners who paid license fees and penalty after February 1 that they must apply before March 15 if they are to have their penalty returned.

Thus far those who paid the twenty per cent penalty have been slow in calling for their refund.

When the historians sit down to tell about the events of the last few years, it is quite possible that they will write down 1933 and 1934 as the years in which the nation actually began to break the dominance of its big-shot criminals.

There was a time, not many years ago, when it looked as if the gangster and racketeer were beyond the reach of the law. They had money, power, and influence; it looked like an unbeatable combination.

But times haven't been so good for them of late. It's worth while to look back at the ways in which the desperadoes have been tumbled from their high place.

The Kelly-Bailey outfit tried one kidnapping too many and landed in federal prisons. The Dillinger gang, after a long chase, fell into the hands of the law in Arizona.

The western hard guys who broke out of prison got rounded up. The Touhy mobsters had to suffer the indignity of being tried for their lives in Chicago.

In Chicago, too, someone checked back over the famous list of "public enemies" drawn up in 1930. It originally contained 26 names. Today, five of the 26 are in prison, five more are dead, seven are fugitives from justice, and the rest either have disappeared quietly or seem to have retired from organized crime.

All of this, of course, doesn't mean that the nation has solved its crime problem, or that the power of the racketeer has been broken for keeps.

The kidnaping racket, for instance, still is being worked; the big cities still have their troubles trying to keep their underworlds within bounds.

But it does mean that that appalling setup of ruthless criminality which looked, a few years ago, so untouched, so wealthy, and so prominent, has crumbled in a most gratifying way.

These men were not, after all, beyond reach of the law. In one way or another, society finally caught up with them. They were like kings for a while—but it didn't last.

The fight isn't won, to be sure. Society cannot relax. But enough has been done to show that the job of breaking the dominance of gangland is going forward toward

UNTAMED ICEFIELDS
Admiral Byrd's recent difficulties with the disintegrating ice shelves at his projected landing spot in Antarctica's famous Bay of Whales emphasizes one of the peculiar hazards which that spot presents to explorers.

That hazard arises from the fact that no ship actually can get very close to the Antarctic continent itself in that particular region. A ship cannot be moored in an actual harbor; a base camp cannot be established on terra firma.

The mainland must be approached across the vast ice barrier, and while the ice originally is as stable as solid rock it nevertheless is subject to all the changes which a sheet of ice anywhere else might display.

It is partly for this reason that Antarctic exploration still is a dangerous and uncertain pastime, in spite of the modern equipment and elaborate organization of up-to-date expeditions.

"Average" Air Line Stewardess 23 Years Old Five Feet Tall

CHICAGO—Now comes American Airways with news that the "average" air line stewardess is twenty-three years old, weighs 110 pounds and stands 5 feet, 2 inches in height.

Brown hair seems to predominate among the women who make flying their career. A check of stewardesses made recently by the American Airways disclosed the fact that girls whose tresses were some shade of brown outnumbered all others in their profession nearly four to one. There seems to be no definite choice between brown and blue eyes, the division being almost exactly even.

All the girls, of course, are graduate nurses of current registration.

Overton Members Play Quilt Games
The Overton Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. W. E. Dunn in Foran Thursday afternoon.

The finance committee suggested quilt games. Each member made a silk "string" quilt block and for each patch on the block a penny was paid. The member having the most patches on her block got the blocks, which were enough for a silk quilt.

Mrs. Dunn gave the picture talk which concerned the "The Song of the Lark" by Jules Breton, and account of the life of the artist.

Mrs. Jake Patterson demonstrated painting on cloth and told how to mix the paints so they would not wash out.

Mrs. W. H. Irving of Foran was a guest. Members present were: Mmes. Hammer, Lucas, Overton, Patterson, Tate, White, Dunn, Jones and Jesse Overton.

The club meets next with Mrs. Hammer.

Mr. Durigan Finds Relief in Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Here is his enthusiastic letter:
"Am 70 years of age, and for 40 of these years there never was a week but what I had to take a pill or some kind of cathartic."
"I took everything, but gained only temporary relief. Until last spring my daughter, who is a nurse in a hospital, brought me some Kellogg's ALL-BRAN."
"At the end of the week, I knew I had something that was it, and I kept on taking it. I haven't taken a cathartic since. I can eat meat any time, as often as I like, or any other kind of food, and no constipation." Mr. L. M. Durigan, 6811 Buffalo Ave., Jacksonville, Florida.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to help muscle tone. Also iron for the blood.
The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.
How much safer than patent medicines. Two teaspoons daily usually sufficient. With each meal in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.
Sold in the red-and-green packages. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Local Cagers In Poor Shape For Tournament

Hare, Flowers On Sick List

Ten Players To Make Trip To Colorado This Afternoon

Coach George Brown was none too optimistic today over the chances of his team going very far in the sectional basketball tournament at Colorado.

Brown put his boys through a stiff work-out Thursday evening, the last before the opening clash with the Nolan county champs at 8:30 tonight.

Hare Off Form

Leo "Bucket" Hare, spark-plug on the Bovine squad, has been ill with a cold and did not show very good form in the final workout. Bob Flowers, another regular on the sick list, is expected to be in fair shape. However, Brown is afraid that the absence of Flowers from practice may have wrecked his forward combination of Flowers-Driver to some degree.

The starting line-up will probably be the same as that used the greater part of the season, Flowers and Driver at forward, Correll at center, and Wood and Hare at guard.

Ten Players Make Trip

The team will leave for Colorado about 5:30 this evening. The ten players making the trip are: Capt. Vendell Wood, "Bucket" Hare, Olie Correll, Bob Flowers, Pep Driver, Jack Dean, George Neal, McElvain, Good Graves and Jack Wilson.

Should the Steers win tonight they will play their semi-final tilt at 10 o'clock Saturday morning with Wylie. Wylie drew a bye to the semi-finals. Of the six teams to play in the meet, Wylie is probably the strongest.

F is for the friendship that we have here.
O is for obedience that is clear;
R is for the right that we emulate.

The Daily Sport Mill

By Tom Beasley

It's sink or swim tonight for the Steer basketball team. Even in the face of disheartening occurrences that make the Big Spring entry appear as one of the less favored, Brown and his boys are determined to battle right over the odds to a fourth consecutive championship.

The coach plans to have his team use a man-to-man defense in the opening game. Description of the game's two types of defenses boiled down by a major basketball coach are:

The man-to-man defense means that each defensive man is assigned to an opponent and is responsible for covering him. The zone defense is a mass defense in front of the basket and each player is responsible for anyone passing through his zone.

Advantage of the man-to-man system are: greater responsibility; desire to excel; better matching of men; it is more easily taught; less team play to master; best defense against the stall, and defensive men learn more readily the strategy and

FORNAN WINS COUNTY MEET

The Forsan Buffs nosed out the Coahoma Bulldogs Saturday night in a hard fought game for championship for the Class B division of basketball. The Bulldogs could not get started in the first half, but they came back in the second half much stronger. In fact the Forsan fans began to "chew their nails" and shake their heads. For the first time in history of the Buffs took a large lead in the first half. The score at the half was 18 to 5 in favor of the Buffs.

In the second half the Bulldogs outplayed the Buffs by scoring 14 points to the Buffs 13. The score at the end of the game was 31 to 19 for the Buffs.

Rogers, Coahoma's "hot shot" was high point man with 10 points. Schultz of Forsan was second with 8 points. Had the Bulldogs got going in the first half as they were in the second it would have been a much tougher job for the Buffs. Both teams played a nice game the whole time. The box score for this game is as follows:

BULLDOGS FG FT PF TP
Rogers, f..... 4 2 2 10
Strup, f..... 2 0 0 4

weak points of the opposition.

Advantages of the zone defense: It is an energy saver; offers fast break formation, strong against blocking game; stops short shots; less fouling; more interceptions possible; more effective on small floors and does not handicap big, slow men on defense.

If the old story is true, winners can't repeat, the Steers are out of luck. But that doesn't seem to hold any line for the Big Spring boys, they've done it three times. Why not make it four?

Brown was hard hit for forwards this year. He had to start bulldging from the bottom up, and that's hard to do in one year.

Big Spring has an astounding record of victories on the home court. In the past three years under Brown, the Bovines have lost only one game to a high school team here. That's remarkable. But their standing in the cake world on the other fellow's property is another story. That's terrible.

Ben Daniels and his Devil basketball team are about to disband for the season. The Devils didn't make quite as good a mark during the season as they have in the past, but it wasn't bad. Daniels is a fine coach for the youngsters and a regular fellow with them. They all like him.

The Calves, a junior high basketball team, is also about to check in for the year. They may close out with Meadows here in a few days.

TIS SPRING
By Mildred Mangel

Out of the south a soft wind blew
And after the wind had passed
Everyone knew
Twas Spring.

Out of the west a whisper came
All the birds whispered the name
Twas Spring.

Out of the east the sun rose on high
And met in her glory the blue of the sky
Twas Spring.

Into the north the winter has gone,
"Why, it thought, should I linger on"
Tis Spring.

GOOPY GOSSIP

Dorothy Ellen Mangel, Nova Holloway, and Edna Mangel had the wrong idea of the purpose of the detention hall, they evidently thought it was a confectionery as they were eating candy in there one day this week. Ask them now what they think it is, especially Nova. We believe that something ought to be done about the Director General of Intercollegiate League Activities, namely Mr. Norman Cornelius Malechek, as he is giving too much attention to a certain school in the county at the expense of others. Ask him what color her hair is. We wish Rayford Liles would get on one side of the fence. He is with one girl at the ball games, he flirts with Etha in History class and smiles those wicked smiles of his at Lacey Gregory in the study hall. Tommie Holloway and Anita McDonald believe in Santa Claus now since Mr. Martin excluded them from serving about 4 weeks of detention. The basketball boys are very glad that they drew a bye and will not have to go to Colorado until Saturday morning as they are afraid all the bright lights of the city would keep them from getting a good night's rest. We are not too well versed on the history and significance of Valentine's day, but we saw evidences the day after St. Valentine's day that makes it necessary that we do some research work, as Dorothy Ellen Mangel came to class with a pig's face Thursday morning. We thought it was the ONE time of the year that lovers could chant or write their feelings, but maybe it does have power to change us so much, at that.

The other day Mr. Martin made an announcement about the game between the Buffaloes and the Devils, "Don't forget that the boys play the Devils tonight." And Nova spoke up and said, "Tonight? Why they play it every night." If you believe that progress is being made in the automobile field, you will have to prove it. We were told that a new car would be shown in Big Spring that would travel 125 miles an hour, but nine chances out of ten they can never be sold as people above 60 will be afraid to drive them, people 40 years have to spend all their money on the children in college and can't afford them and those 20 or less are not interested, ask J. D. Dempsey if this is not true.

Yours,
Cynical Sid

SPORTS

The Forsan Juniors were defeated again by the Calves last Tuesday night. We feel that the Calves can't boast that they could go to sleep on the job and beat Forsan, for both teams had to be hustling throughout the game. The score was 11 to 8 in favor of the Calves.

The Junior girls were able to bring home the bacon Friday night by defeating Coahoma with a score of 32 to 23. Knott was truly a teddy-bear "Knott" for us on Saturday afternoon, the score being 33 to 9. In Knott's favor, we have, no all-bis, however our newest resolution is to try to grow into big strong girls like the Knott girls.

PERSONALS

Sidney Moody is out of school with an injured foot, as a result of a motorcycle accident.

Mrs. Bob Qualls who underwent a surgical operation in Big Spring last week returned to Forsan Wednesday.

A person is warned that if he breaks a bottle or jug or throws paper on the sidewalk he has to pick it up and take it off. The policemen put up green flags when there is ice on the sidewalk so the children can skate. They put up red flags where you are permitted to skate because often the ice is soft and thin and you can't skate on it.

A New Serial by Herbert Jensen

CHAPTER 23
They started toward Juan's arm was applied to push aside a tree branch. A rifle spat viciously from across the swamp. Grahame glimpsed the flash and saw Juan plunge sideways into the brush. The American dropped to his knees and crawled toward the boy.

"Hurt, son?" he called softly.
For an instant there was silence, then: "I do not think so, señor. The bullet hit my pack and knocked me down."

For a quarter of an hour they lay quiet. Their position was embarrassing. Ahead of them was the open swamp. Behind them the jungle, but there was a space between and it looked impossible for them to cross it unobserved by the hidden rifeman.

They should wait until dark, but again it was impossible to tell when the party that had been to the coast would return. If it were soon, the rifeman could warn them with a shot, and Grahame and the boy would be neatly caught.

It would be better, thought Frank to bolt for cover and chance the marksmanship of the ambushed man. He told his thought to Juan.

"But surely," Juan agreed. "Ready then?"

They rose and plunged toward the screen of jungle behind them. But no shot followed them. They lay panting behind a log and peered through the screen of hanging vines. Grahame thought he heard a call—a cry coming faintly across the swamp.

He saw a flash of white as of clothing from the far side of the muddy causeway. Juan flung his gun to his shoulder but Grahame knocked the muzzle into the air.

A man came into sight, and headed toward them. He lurched between the upflung branches of the felled trees. His chin was sunk to his chest and he dragged a rifle by its muzzle with the butt scraping in the mud.

"It's a white man!" exclaimed Frank. He half rose, but Juan caught his arm.

"Wait." This time it was Juan who spoke the word "It may be a trick. I do not trust this country."

The man came close. It was apparent to Grahame that he was staggering, whether purposely as Juan had suggested, or from some hurt.

The man crossed the causeway; he was now within yards of the two men hidden by the trail's side. He plodded wearily up to former ground.

Without warning, his knees buckled. He was so near that the hidden two heard his breath whistle in his throat. The stranger fell forward on his face.

Grahame leaped to his side and half rolled him over. Mud and blood smeared the face, but the man was white. Sweat trickled through the stubble of several days' growth of beard.

The eyelids twitched and two blue eyes glared into Grahame's. The stranger struggled to speak.

"Talk it easy, old man," cautioned Grahame.
"I'm done for," whispered the fellow. "I know it. I can't breathe any more."

With the help of the boy Grahame lifted the inert white man and carried him away from the trail. He commanded Juan build a fire and heat water. He drew his sheath knife and swiftly cut at the torn and stained clothing of the stranger.

Once he whistled softly beneath his breath. The man was badly wounded; Grahame wondered at the vitality that kept him alive.

There was a bullet hole in the man's abdomen at the right side, not far above the line of the hip bone. The back was a mass of torn flesh where the bullet had passed through. Grahame compressed his lips.

Dum-dums. A brutal wound. There wasn't a ghost of a chance for the fellow. Probably the lung was nicked too, since he had complained of his inability to breathe.

Frank took his first-aid box from his pack. He spread his hypodermic kit before him. The stranger's eyes followed his movements.

"Thanks," he whispered. "But I don't need the shot. Don't waste your morphine. I can't feel anything anyway and I've got something to tell you." He closed his eyes. "Listen!"

Grahame leaned over him. The words came slowly, twisted, as if they were strangled before they passed his lips. Grahame stored the broken sequence of words and made no attempt to prompt or question the man.

His name was McGrath, he said. He was from Hollywood and had come to Yucatan "on location." Other people were to follow him. He hoped they would not, and thought that they could not since Ortega, his guide, no doubt had been captured when they were fired upon from ambush three days before. Without Ortega they would not know where he, McGrath, had gone.

"Who did it? Indians, McGrath thought. He saw one while he lay by the trail's side. He thought Ortega had been captured because he had heard his voice talking with the others. But he couldn't be sure. He'd been nearly unconscious; they had taken him for dead.

"They went through my pockets," whispered McGrath. "Then they threw me into the brush like... like a hunk of meat!"

"My gun had fallen in a swamp. I remembered that and fished it out when I came to. They had gone—"

Juan crashed through the brush and crouched, panting, beside Grahame.

"Senior!" He spoke swiftly. "They come! I went back to watch and heard them. They are just behind me!"

"Good boy," breathed Grahame. Almost with one gesture he emptied the pan of water upon the smoldering fire and heaped dirt over the steaming embers. He glanced toward the trail and was satisfied that they were sufficiently screened from the company of men which would pass within the next few minutes. Already he could hear their vague shuffling trail noises.

It was late afternoon. Grahame blessed the luck that had given them this emergency when shadows were deep. Any tell-tale sign they may have left had good chances of being over-looked in that deceptive haze of pre-dusk.

He saw white moving through the screen of brush and trees; then they were abreast of him. Almost he held his breath. On the other side of the wounded man, Juan lay. Studiously the boy kept his eyes fastened upon the moving feet that padded the trail so few yards away.

Mosquitoes and gnats whined at the sweat on Grahame's face. He grind his palms against the skin that twitched in protest against the punishment it was taking. The column of figures that passed them seemed to be without an end. He saw patches of white drifting by—the ammunition cases upon the backs of men. Once the line halted. His hands tightened over the stock of his rifle. There was a faint call from ahead and the fragments of white moved again.

Then suddenly the last figure passed. Still Grahame and the boy lay immobile. All sound ceased. For minutes the American remained without movement, then slowly he began to draw one leg forward, preparing to rise. He felt Juan's hand grip his ankle. Again he relaxed.

He heard his wrist watch ticking a yard from his ear. Then came a soft sound from the trail—the breathing of men. It sounded as close as if he were locked in a closed room with several sleepers. He saw nothing although his eyes ached from the intensity of his gaze. Then a shadow drifted by between him and the trail's edge, and vanished.

It seemed hours later when somewhere off to the left sounded the call of a brush turkey. A small animal darted into the tangle ahead of him, moving too swiftly to be identified. Again the turkey called, nearer this time. Juan arose. Wings fluttered in the branches about as if his movement had disturbed him.

"It is all right now," said the boy. "It was very curious that no birds moved or called after the main company passed. I knew then that others followed to protect the rear." He drew a breath deeply. "We were very lucky," he concluded.

"That's right," said Grahame simply. He turned and looked at McGrath. "McGrath" he called sharply.

Catholic Priest as being somewhat similar to that of the West Point cadet. In that there were strict rules to be obeyed. He related that the task of receiving confessions some times presented a real problem. Replying to a question often put to him about a Catholic priest marrying, Father Francis said it was a restriction put on every candidate for the priesthood, due to the church rules, which state that a priest can better minister without the added responsibilities of a family.

Whirligig (CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) played upon. Then Morgenthau made his second gesture. He called upon Charles Burlingham former president of the New York Bar association, to lend a hand. Burlingham at the moment is in Washington revising the rules and regulations governing practice and procedure before the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The new rules will be designed to electrify the rail in front of the "Tax Bar."

Air Mail—Terror pressure is being erected on the administration to reconsider its blanket annulment of domestic air mail contracts. The administration isn't giving in—so far. Men close to the President have said privately that if any of the companies can show clean hands Postmaster General Farley might be expected to void his order in their favor. New Dealers forswore the initial public reaction, aided and abetted by carefully directed publicity from the air lines. As you might suppose, the government's hidden ace will be a sensation-creator. Those who should know tell me it will involve a nationally prominent name in no uncertain fashion. The first day after the White House and Col. Lindbergh tangled on the air mail problem response admittedly was about 50-50. Telegrams and letters poured in taking sides. None were made public because the White House didn't want to prolong the controversy. It nevertheless welcomed the wire from Col. Clarence Chamberlin, who has done a little ocean hopping on his own account. Digging—Both dry and wet Senators are because they believe the country has been gyped by a whiskey trust. Fools in alcohol stocks last summer are under investigation. The ramifications of distillers' combines will be probed. The Federal Trade Commission has been at work quietly in the same field since whiskey prices began to rise just before repeal. The suspicion is that of New York brokers will go through the hoops in the Fletcher Committee's attempt to expose pool operations in alcohol stocks. If this digging develops pay dirt it will give strength to the move to regulate stock exchange transactions. Because nothing makes Congress sorer than hoisting the price of booze.

Peekabo—The White House seems to be hazing George N. Peek. He was authorized to draw up a foreign trade plan on a huge scale to get rid of farm surpluses. Now the Export-Import Bank is organized to do this job with the Soviet Union, and Peek is out in the cold. Robert Kelley represents the State Department as a director in this bank, and Chester C. Davis represents the AAA. Secretary Hull kicks against Peek's plan to transfer the consular service to a new foreign trade department. NEW YORK By James McMillin Acc—New York conservatives have played their ace. Now they're waiting to see whether it will be trumped. Colonel Lindbergh's entry into the air mail controversy was sudden but the groundwork behind it was not. For months he has been privately regarded by a select group of local big-timers as their best—and perhaps only—hope of starting a backfire of public opinion against the New Deal. Those who should know say several hints have been delicately conveyed to the Colonel in the past year that his position on matters of national policy would be interesting to the public. Up to now Lindbergh has been deaf to such overtures—quietly but firmly maintaining that aviation was his business and his comments on other topics would be irrelevant. Then came the air mail blow—and it wasn't hard to convince the Long Eagle where his duty lay. This doesn't imply even remotely that Lindbergh "sold out to the bankers." But his closest contacts of recent years have been conservative and naturally he has absorbed their viewpoint. From the Board and Wall Streets angle it was a sweet break that raised an issue on which he was willing to speak. Spearhead—Local anti-administration leaders intend to use Lindbergh—perhaps without his knowledge or consent—as a spearhead for a fresh attempt to mobilize public sentiment against the "Roosevelt revolution." Word will be passed to agents all over the country to start talking about Lindbergh's "keynote" as an appeal for fair play on behalf of established institutions under attack. The air mail contracts are a minor matter to these conservative generals. They wanted a psychological symbol to combat psychology and think they've found it. Some of them are so cocky as to predict that the tide will run steadily from now on. Neutral observers doubt that even Lindbergh's popularity can achieve such a miracle. One thing is certain—the Colonel's name will be used freely from now on whether he likes it or not. Test—Local aviation circles are sitting tight and keeping their fingers crossed. Legal action in defense of their contracts is not their shining hope. They have not hope of getting their subsidies back on any such lavish scale as before. They do expect—if they behave—a sufficient concession of federal aid to enable them to survive. This will probably take the form of a direct federal grant—not a mail subsidy—to enable the transport lines to break-even but not to show a profit unless they improve operating efficiency. Insiders say that any such step will be postponed until the managements of certain offending companies are thoroughly renovated. New York gets word from excellent sources that Postmaster General Farley was opposed to such a sweeping abrogation of the contracts but that his recommendations were brushed aside. The Texas oil decision favoring intra-state producers against the federal authorities confirmed the prediction of this column some weeks ago. The case will be rushed to the Supreme Court and is due to get there within ten days. If the decision is upheld it wrecks the legality of a large group of recovery measures but even staunch New York conservatives anticipate a reversal. It will be a more important New Deal test than the Minnesota mortgage case.

Pool Not To Be Paid For By City Tax

Natorium Loan Can Be Retired Only By Revenues Refusal of a few to sign a petition, asking that a referendum be granted on the natorium application and that it be granted. Friday provoked a reiteration that the swimming pool, if obtained, will not be paid by taxation. The petitions are being circulated by Boy Scouts of the city to show that citizens favor such a project. Only objection encountered by the boys in getting signers was that it would "increase city taxes." Those who drew up the application declare emphatically that such is not the case. They cited the ordinance which gives authority for the application, Repealment Method of repayment of the federal self liquidating loan for which the city is applying, is described thus in the ordinance: "Certificates, notes or bonds shall be issued and delivered to the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works, each of said certificates, notes or bonds to be for principal sum of $500 and due and payable as provided in Section 1 (which provides that they be paid out of a special 'swimming pool fund') of this ordinance and bearing interest at rate of 4 per cent per annum, payable semi-annually." The ordinance continues to say that the certificates, bonds or notes "shall be payable only out of the special fund provided for under this ordinance."

Not By Taxes It continues, "In event of the failure of the net revenues (which comprise the swimming pool fund) from operation of said project to provide sufficient funds for payment of the respective obligations as they mature, the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works, the United States, or its agents, or successors and assigns, shall have no right to demand or enforce payment of said obligations by the City of Big Spring out of funds derived from taxation or from any other sources. The ordinance makes the provision that revenues from the natorium after the date of maturity shall be used to retire the obligation if sufficient revenues have not already been received. Application Revised City Manager E. V. Szanos revised the original application and has been authorized by the city commission to present, or have a representative to present the application in person for a rehearing on February 21 in Washington. The revised application provides for retirement of the $21,000 self liquidating loan in ten instead of fifteen years. An ordinance passed Tuesday evening by commissioners authorized the use of one-half of receipts from the municipal golf course if necessary to retire the obligation within the allotted time. The ordinance reads in part: "One-half of the said receipts by the city of Big Spring from said Municipal Golf course are hereby pledged as further security of the payment of said indebtedness and said one-half of said revenues shall not be paid out or diverted for any other purpose or use until said loan for said construction of said swimming pool is fully paid." Estimated receipts from the natorium, plus the anticipated one-half receipts from the golf course, minus operating expenses for the natorium, would retire the loan within ten years and leave an estimated surplus of $15,000, according to the application. Figures are based upon an anticipated patronage of 150 persons per day for 100 days per year. Rates would be 25 cents per swim for adults, 15 cents for children under 15 years of age. Water used for pool purposes would be utilized again for irrigation of the park, thus obviating any additional expense for water, the application pointed out. Big Spring will be forced to bear its proportion of the $3,300,000,000 public works fund regardless of whether the pool or any other project is obtained, it was pointed out.
