

No Need To Be Pin-Up Girl; Learn To Sew 'em

By Dorothy Roe
Associate Press Women's Editor

Here are some suggestions from experts as to how to use your sewing machine to repair girdles and bras.

Are you a pin-up girl?

If you use pins to hold together broken bra straps or worn-out girdles, you need a few tips on mending. Zigzag stitching is useful for mending, for it makes a very strong stitching line and has enough elasticity to hold firmly at points of strain. You can use the life of a foundation garment completely automatic swing-needle be considerably applied by apply-machine if you have one. If not, ing the stitch in time formula, and the automatic zigzagger attaching they are careful to make repairs as they are necessary. machines, either straight or slantneedle style.

One of the most common repairs is shortening, lengthening or replacing hose supporters on a girdle. To shorten the garters when webbing is double, release one side of webbing and stitch in place higher up. A shortcut is to take a tuck in the elastic, pushing it up and zig-zagging the fold to the tape at the bottom of the girdle. Set your zig-zag at 2 bight, about 20 stitches to the inch. A multiple stitch zigzag is stronger than a single stitch zigzag, but either will hold better than straight stitching.

To lengthen garters, release one webbing and stitch it to the attached webbing below the edge of the girdle. If added length is desired on a single-web garter, it is better to replace it with a longer piece of elastic.

When replacing a garter, carefully slit the stitches holding the elastic to the tape at the bottom of the girdle. Cut new elastic to proper length, attach garter grips, slip elastic under the tape and zigzag stitch at upper and lower edges.

If the zipper has broken on a fairly new foundation garment, you may wish to replace it. Be sure to get a zipper exactly the same length and weight as the original. A good idea is to take the original with you when you go shopping. Insert zipper according to directions on the package and reinforce with a double line of straight stitching.

Broken bra straps often require an emergency pin, but be sure to repair the damage as soon as possible. Trim off frayed section of strap fold under and zigzag stitch the strap to the bra. If you cannot lengthen the strap, stitch a strip of elastic to the end of it and stitch elastic to the bra.

Often the elastic back of a bra will wear out before the rest of the garment. To replace this, use a zig-zag stitch to attach to the bra. To attach hooks, make a facing for the free end of the elastic, using inch-wide woven tape. Stitch facing to wrong side of elastic, trim seam allowance and turn. Sew hooks through facing and elastic at seam line. Turn facing back so it covers the stitched-down end of the hooks and stitch in place.

If bra cups are a little too large, the seams may be opened and surplus fabric trimmed away. Reseam and press. Don't fold over and seam the excess material as it will be uncomfortable and add unnecessary bulk.

When purchasing foundation garments, be sure to try them on. Excessive alterations are impractical and unnecessary. With proper care a good foundation garment can last for years.

Wash garments as soon as possible after wearing them, for perspiration damages elastic. Make repairs promptly, for pin-up tactics will tear the fabric.

Twenty-Six Men Are Registered

Twenty-six registered with the Selective Service Board during the month of July, Mrs. A. Petersen, clerk, announced Saturday.

New registrants were: Roy D. Messenger, William Grant Jr., Raymon W. Elliston, Ken E. Kuykendall, Charles C. Tims, Henry D. Martin, Jimmie L. Burkett, David E. Miller, Don E. Owens, Donald D. HOW to establish YOUR CREDIT

Establishing credit is neither difficult nor embarrassing for trustworthy people.

You can establish credit at your favorite store, for instance, by calling on the credit manager and discussing the matter. You will find that the credit manager is not concerned merely with protecting the store against credit losses, but is interested in helping people to use their credit soundly because it increases the customer's buying power and boosts sales.

This is also true of the physician, dentist, fuel dealer and other credit granters. They gladly extend credit to people who can and will pay their bills when due.

If, at some time in the past, your credit record has been marred by unexpected and unavoidable financial reserves, it can often be reinstated. The procedure here again is to discuss the matter frankly with those from whom you would like to receive the credit privilege or ask the advice of your local Credit Bureau.

Even if you are able to pay cash for everything, it is desirable to establish your credit as a matter of convenience and prestige.

YARD OF MONTH—The Wm. F. Hardwick premises was selected as the "August Yard of the Month," and these two pictures give ample proof that the selection was a wise one. In the picture above, young Ray Hardwick, the Hardwick's grandson, inspects a flower in Mrs. Hardwick's cutting garden -- finding it to his liking. And in the other picture, Ray rests with his grandmother on the lawn outside the shelter house. (Staff Photos)

Hardwick Home Selected 'August Yard Of Month'

In keeping with the emphasis placed on landscaping by national state, and district Garden Clubs the past year, members of the Hereford Garden Club chose the Wm. F. Hardwick home premises as the "August Yard of the Month."

The slogan or theme of the new state president, Mrs. D. A. Puryear of Donna, is "Contemporary Landscaping" with an objective to "Plant Texas" to make the state more beautiful.

The selection this month was not an easy task, according to Mrs. A. L. Manjeot who heads the selection committee, because of so many beautifully landscaped premises in Hereford and the wonderful array of flowers all about the town. The appreciation of beauty and the desire to create beauty, is one of the paramount requisites of a good garden club member.

All selections are made according to certain landscape fundamentals and emphasis has been placed on the areas which are considered needful for landscape design, such as the entrance or public area, the work or service area, and the livable garden spot. In addition to these, many extra areas fit into the picture which express the hobbies or recreational ideas of the family.

Hardwick Home

In the selection of the Wm. F. Hardwick home grounds for the August "Yard of the Month," especial attention has been called to the development of the various areas as related to the landscape design. First, the overall picture is lovely with its wide expanse of green carpeted lawn, the entrance area, the service area, and its living area in the back planned for privacy and informality with plenty of sunlight to complete it. In the days of the horse-drawn carriage, the front porch was the important place for social contacts. Today the outdoor living area is geared to meet the demand for hurried living, its only yardstick is livability and almost any place can be transformed into a wonderful place for family, friends and fun, shelter and shade and a chance at every breeze.

Such is the Hardwick living area in design. There you'll find the shelter house, quiet and peaceful and a favorite spot for the crowd. Of special interest are the hobby areas: the cutting garden and the rose garden, the pride and joy of Mrs. Hardwick, and the area given over to Mr. Hardwick's hobby, raising and caring for his pets, Boxer Dogs.

In the rose garden the newest introductions are found, Chrysler, Imperial, Vogue, Peace, Fashion, and many of the old favorites. In the spring a profusion of bloom and color form a large planting of bulbs, tulips, hyacinths and jonquils and others. In fact there is continuous bloom with the bulbs on through to fall when the chrysanthemums take over. This month the dahlias have created a riot of color and beauty.

Circling the back are the tall Lombardy poplars and the flowering plums. The beautiful Mimosa trees growing near the shelter house, are in full view of the large picture window in the den.

Right now the whole area is touched with gold as autumn takes over with its gorgeous array of colors of red, orange red, gold and green.

Bud To Blossom Club Sets Annual Flower Show Date

Mrs. R. A. Daniel Jr., served as hostess for the initial session of the Bud To Blossom Club Friday afternoon.

Mrs. W. Glenn Williams, president, presided and plans were outlined for the club's annual flower show which will be held on Oct. 21 in the home of Mrs. Ray Godwin.

The longer I live, the more I appreciate Alex Thompson's golden rule about office desks. Alex says: "Never clean off a desk—under any circumstances." He practices what he preaches, too.

A month or so ago, I foolishly let the girls around The Brand office talk me into cleaning off my desk and, needless to say, things have been in a turmoil ever since. Well, Sir, when I do clean off a desk, I really get to the bottom of things. The only way I can possibly clean a desk is to grit my teeth, shut my eyes and operate on the theory of "I've been getting along without this for a year, so I can manage in the future." Anyway, the waste baskets overflowed, and it was in such a mood that I came across some 150 or so index cards. I was sure they weren't important—and out they went.

Monday I got a nice letter from Senator Lyndon Johnson wanting to know when I would get his Deaf Smith mailing list corrected and returned, so he could put the cards back in his files. What does one do in a case like this? It is downright embarrassing. You can't just tell the Senator that you cleaned off your desk and threw them away. Honest, I am open for suggestions. I also ran across one of those "Wilkie" buttons close to the bottom of the pile. I started to send him this "Special Delivery" and tell him that all of the people of his file were Republican precinct chairmen.

One bright spot in the desk cleaning deal, though, I ran across one of those Texas Centennial (1936) half-dollars, tucked away for posterity—and we have been drinking coffee all week. However, I'll go along with Alex. No more desk cleaning for me. Not ever.

About coffee. Everyone marvels at the low prices of coffee as sold across the counter in Hereford. The restaurant and drug store people are giving the town some real advertising. I am sure that they lose money on "Nickel Coffee," and they sure deserve a pat on the back. Elsewhere, nickel coffee seems to be a thing of the past. Folks mention it only when they are talking about "The Good Old Days."

Most people are pretty unhappy with the barbers, however. These boys recently jumped haircuts to $1.25—and it ain't popular. The way I see things, $1.25 haircuts were inevitable. Remember back there when the barbers started closing early Saturdays and on Tuesday afternoons? I predicted a future price raise at that time. Now they have started closing all day Mondays. Many, many people figure that the raise is OK, but that the barbers should stay on the job and try to give service. This is sort of the way I feel. I think they should make a fair profit—but if they are making enough money to take a whole day off, maybe they are getting a little bit high. At least, no other business seems to be in such "high cotton."

If the deal keeps on they will probably drive people to cut their own hair. Back East a lot of people are already doing this. My dad can remember when everybody and his dog used to get shaves at the barber shop. Now everybody shaves himself. Way back down the line the barbers used to drain blood from their customers as a regular tonorial service. Looks as if they are reviving the custom.

Also hear a lot of folks hollering that the banks have jumped their overdraft charge from 25 cents to 50 cents. Brother, I hope this is a rumor. I sure do.

About electricians! These boys really have it made. You can't find one anywhere and, if you do, he will fail to show up when the time comes. We are installing a typesetting machine at The Brand office this week and it took a flat 31 hours to get an electrician to make a 30-minute hook-up. He only did it then as a favor, and after working hours. They all seem capable, efficient and thorough—but there just aren't enough to go around.

Maybe we could trade off a few idle barbers for some more electricians and the community would be in good shape. Anyway, it looks as if there is a big, wide opening here for some more electricians. I didn't realize how drastic the situation was until this week.

Weather! I told you so. Jim Lipscomb has filed a minority report. The long-range government weather reports are predicting good moisture here in September. I went along with them on the prediction, but Jim apparently does not. All he will say is that he is filing a minority report on the three-way forecast. However, it may not be too serious. Even if Jim thought it was going to rain barrels full, he wouldn't agree with anything the government did under a Republican administration. He may be filing this minority report just so he won't go on record as agreeing with the Weather Bureau so long as the GOP's are in office.

Another thing that bothers me

Hiram F. Jones Dies At Home Friday Afternoon

Services for Hiram Ford Jones, Ford Jones, who died at his home Friday at the age of 80, who died at his home Friday at the age of 80, will be conducted at 2 p.m., today in the Church of Christ.

Mr. Jones was born in Mississippi Aug. 20, 1875. He moved to Deaf Smith County in 1930 from Ada, Okla. In 1943 he married Maud Hardin at Lubbock. He was a member of the Church of Christ. Mr. Jones was a farmer here.

Survivors are his wife, Maud Jones, five sons, Orvel of Hereford, Noll and George, both of Norman, Okla., and Hiram Jr., of Stanford. Three daughters Audre Shultz of Stratford, Okla., Ethel Parks of Phoenix, Ariz., and Ruth Towler of Tulsa; a brother, Furman Jones of Brownwood, two sisters Susie Gann of Ada, Okla., Effie Davis of Okemah, Okla., 29 grandchildren and 39 great grandchildren.

Gilliland Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

is the coming airport bond election. Every week we have one or two letters in The Brand favoring the airport—and never have we had a single protest. Ain't nobody agin the thing? Maybe not, but it sure sounds like there's a nigger in the woodpile somewhere.

Some people are lucky. Take Ira Scott, for instance. Some of his kindfols started teaching and he got off the school board. I always thought Ira was a good, substantial board member who looked at all sides of every question. Dub Hair, his successor, gives every indication of being the same conscientious type fellow. Dub announced for the office in the 1955 elections, but withdrew when the slate of candidates got crowded. He is progressive, believes in good schools and will go all of the way for what he thinks is right.

Like I have said before, this school trustee business is the toughest public office a fellow can get into. The schools spend more money, operate on the biggest budget, employ more people and have more headaches than any other business or governmental body in Deaf Smith County. It's a real tough job. All of the board members are due any help, suggestions or assistance their friends can offer. What's more, our schools concern our most precious heritage—our children.

Textbook List Is Available

A list of the 368 textbooks offered by publishers for adoption in Texas schools is available at the Deaf Smith County school superintendent's office at the courthouse now for any interested person to check over, it was announced Saturday.

The 15 members of the State Textbook Committee will be available to hear petitions or suggestions regarding any of the books until Oct. 1, J. W. Edgar, state commissioner of education, has announced.

The Textbook Committee will make its selections from the list during the week of Oct. 3-8. Maximum number of books that may be recommended by the Committee is 120, which represents the maximum of five books for each subject that may be placed on the multiple adoption list.

Textbooks adopted from the list will become available for distribution to Texas school children for the school year beginning Sept. 1, 1956.

How Can I?

By Anne Ashley

By Anne Ashley

Q. How can I drain food that is fried in deep fat?

A. When frying anything in deep fat, keep a piece of brown wrapping paper close to the stove. When fried to the desired brown, lift the food out and place on the brown paper to drain. The paper will absorb every bit of the fat.

Q. How can I make a mahogany stain?

A. Mix 1 quart boiled linseed oil, 1 quart turpentine, 1 pint whiting, 1 tablespoon burnt sienna, 1/2 tablespoon yellow ochre, 1/2 tablespoon Bismarck brown.

Q. How can I remove varnish?

A. Varnish can be removed from furniture by using ammonia and water in equal quantities.

Q. How can I make a cork fit if it has shrunk and is too loose to keep in the bottle?

A. Place the cork in a pan of boiling water and allow it to remain until the water cools. This will make the cork expand to its regular size and it will fit the bottle snugly.

Q. How can I remove part of the egg yolk from the white when separating them?

A. If a part of the yolk is dropped into the white, moisten a cloth with cold water, touch to the yolk and it will adhere to it.

Q. How can I smooth a rough iron?

A. If the iron is a little rough, or perhaps soiled, try sprinkling a little salt on a newspaper, then rubbing the hot iron over it.

Q. How can I make a moth paper?

A. Melt together 4 ounces of naphthalene and 8 ounces of paraffin wax. Get some unsized paper and while the solution is still warm, paint the paper. Then pack paper away with the goods to be stored.

Q. How can I make candied carrots?

A. Scrape new carrots, cut in 1/2-inch slices, boil in salt water until tender, drain, place in a pan, cover with brown sugar and butter, then brown.

Q. How can I sharpen orange sticks?

A. The points can be renewed on blunted orange sticks by holding them in the pencil sharpener.

Q. How can I avoid sticking of starch?

A. Starch will not stick if a drop or two of kerosene, or a little lard, is added to a small basin of starch and then allowed to come to a boil.

Thanks folks for the wonderful reception you have given Our Opening!

We sincerely appreciated the many nice comments concerning our studio. We hope you'll come back often.

Consider Ant As Project For This Summer Vacation

Do you have children around the house needing something new to interest them?

During these long summer days with no school, youngsters need some continuing project that not only keeps them busy but gives them something to think about.

Ever think of studying ants? Lend a hand and some interest yourself and you'll be amazed at how fascinating ants can be.

Ants are everywhere. Maybe you've thought that they were a bit too plentiful! But put them to good use. You'll find the little, red ones on city pavements and in the backyard. (I hope not in the bread box). The big black ones like the woods, and gardens and make their nests in trees and fence posts.

Just watching them is fun. Scatter a few crumbs and watch an ant pull and tug at a delectable morsel many times bigger than his own body. You will find that a crumb will attract several ants and if you watch you soon realize that some of the newcomers are helping the first ant pull the food toward home and the others are fighting to pull it a different way. There are friends and enemies among them!

As your children become interested in the complicated way of life of ants they will want to learn more about them. You can make an ant nest out of glass so you can watch what happens in the below-ground life of ants.

The equipment is quite simple. You need two pieces of window glass about a foot square. Glue one-quarter inch strips of wood around the edges of one piece of glass. Leave two small holes, so that you can put in food and water. Just below the water hole put a piece of sponge which can be kept wet by putting water through the hole with a medicine dropper.

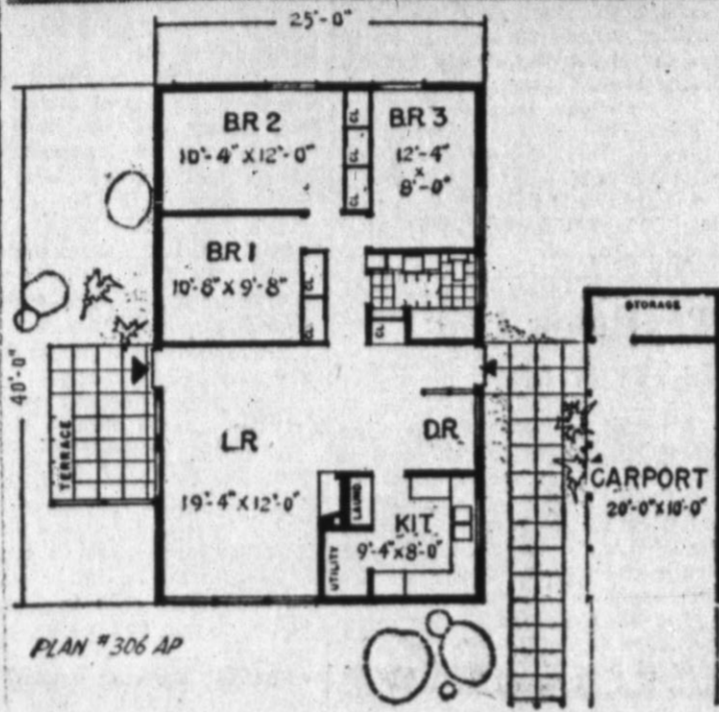

Now find an ant nest. Dig up ants and dirt and spread over the glass. Quickly glue down the top piece of glass and seal the edges with adhesive tape, all except the two holes for food and water. These holes can be plugged up either with cotton or with corks so the ants cannot escape.

Ant nests in nature are dark, so keep a piece of cardboard over the nest when you are not watching the ants and don't expose the ant nest to the sun.

You will be amazed at what the ants do. They build tunnels through the dirt, have nurseries for their babies, storage space for food, special rooms for sleeping.

Be sure to keep the sponge moistened with water. For food, poke in bits of bread crumbs, tiny pieces of meat or fruit, a few drops of honey or any dead insects you can collect. Watching the ants will likely in-

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

CAREFUL PLANNING can pack three bedrooms and bath, large living-dining room and efficient kitchen in 1,000 square feet of space. This plan shows one way to do it for an economical no-basement house. Plenty of closets, a utility room and a storage shed in the carport eliminate need for a basement. The economical rectangular construction of the house is disguised by carport on one side and covered terrace on the other. This is plan 306AP by Walter T. Anicka, architect, 647 Forest St., Ann Arbor, Mich. The architect suggests mineral wool insulation and asphalt shingles for the roof.

inspire the youngsters to get books about ants at the library. Think what a wonderful subject for compositions the ant colony will be next year at school. Building such an ant colony is far more than just occupation for the children. It provides the kind of family interest and learning experience that are so important for building a camaraderie between child and parent. This in turn does much to develop security and growth.

Highlights and Sidelights
From Your State Capital

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN, Tex. — Whether Texas school laws have been nullified is under a statewide advisory committee's study.

Gov. Allan Shivers outlined major desegregation problems at the committee's initial meeting last week. Although he denounced the US Supreme Court decree, he said the answer was not in defiance. He recommended adjustment in the best interest of Texas school children.

Shivers said an El Paso district court decision ordering desegregation at Texas Western College may necessitate rewriting the Gilmer-Aiken laws. School money now is allocated on the basis of separate, but equal, facilities for white and colored.

Bi-racial, the group includes 34 community leaders appointed by the governor and eight legislators named by the house speaker and lieutenant governor.

Will Morris Crews, San Antonio lawyer and contractor, was named to head a 12-member executive committee. A legal subcommittee will study legislative needs.

Areas of study suggested by the governor:

1. What to do about present compulsory attendance and compulsory segregation laws.
2. Whether either white or colored children can be forced to attend a certain school, or integrate, against their will.
3. Ways and means of giving maximum authority to local school districts.

Polio Vaccine Allocated
Children under 10 and expectant mothers have won priority recognition for Texas' supply of commercial Salk vaccine.

Such preference was recommended by the State Polio Vaccine Committee. Dr. Henry Hollie, state health commissioner, called the group to decide how the 36,540 vaccine doses released to Texas should be used.

Recommended use was split, 83 percent commercially, 17 percent by public agencies.

Nationally, it had been suggested preference be given children 5 to 9. Basis for the change in Texas was records showing 44 percent of paralytic polio last year hit children under 5.

Though the state vaccine committee has no official authority, it anticipated no difficulty in getting cooperation. Its nine members represent top officials and leaders in the medical, pharmaceutical and osteopathic profession.

Senterfitt Chooses Chairman
Reuben Senterfitt last week announced that a fellow San Saban, Kelly Owen, will direct his campaign for governor.

Owen will have his first political experience when Senterfitt's 22-member steering committee meets in Austin Aug. 17.

Leasing Program Clean
Multi-million dollar public school land leasing operations apparently are not involved in Texas' land scandal.

State Land Commissioner J. Earl Rudder testified last week he had found no evidence of school land irregularities.

Rudder's testimony was in the wind-up of a court of inquiry. Begun in April, it was conducted by the Attorney General's Department.

Emphasis has been on land of office activities other than the veteran's program. Multiple investigations in the latter area resulted in 319 indictments and conviction of Former Land Commissioner Bascom Giles.

Rudder said he still is sending files of questionable veterans land transactions to district attorneys.

Other witnesses told of land in Mexico traded under the veteran's program, and of questionable block deals in Maverick County.

Investigation of these stories was begun immediately by the Attorney General's Department.

Giles Jury Cost Extra
As a postscript to the Bascom Giles theft trial, Travis County has a bill for $542.20.

This was the cost of putting jurymen in air-conditioned hotel rooms. One juror had become ill from stifling courthouse dormitory heat, threatening a mis-trial.

Plans for courthouse air conditioning have since been initiated.

They count heavily on voluntary cooperation but have a limited field force to make checks, particularly where complaints have been received.

The author of the new provisions of the law is Rep. Miller (R-Neb.), a physician.

Water Mobilization Urged
Mobilization in a "battle for survival" against water shortage is urged by State Senator Dorsey B. Hardeman of San Angelo.

Hardeman heads the Texas Water Resources Committee which met last week to review water conservation action by the recent legislature.

He recommended farm and business interests and local leaders organize to make Texans water conscious.

Recommendations for future government action will be in the committee's biannual report Sept. 1.

Construction Record Set
Estimated value of construction in Texas hit an all-time peak the first half of 1953. It prompted prediction for a new overall business record this year from the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. Only a severe decline, said bureau experts, could bring down the average—11 percent higher than 1954.

When you are making a one-crust pie, make sure you prick the bottom and sides of the pastry shell thoroughly before you bake it. Pricking the dough will let the steam escape and help the shell to keep its shape. Be sure to cook the shell before adding the filling.

Household Tips

A steak should be at least an inch thick if it is to be broiled. If it is a thinner cut, try pan-broiling it. To pan-broil well, you will need a heavy lightly greased skillet. As the steak cooks, pour off any fat that accumulates in the pan. Turn the meat occasionally so it will brown and cook evenly. Never add fat or water when you are pan-broiling!

Wipe greasy pots and pans with a paper towel before putting in sink or dishpan to wash. Saves grease from going down the drain!

Ever serve orange or grapefruit sections with stewed raisins? This combination tastes good as a fruit for breakfast or as dessert at lunch or dinner.

Add a bit of rosemary to snap beans when you are cooking them for extra flavor.

Baking biscuits? Place them on a cookie sheet without sides, and they'll brown better than they would in a deeper pan.

Don't discard the wing tips, gib-lets or neck of a chicken. Use them to make chicken broth for use as a soup or in a sauce. Cover the chicken parts with a couple of cups of water and add a small onion, a few celery leaves and parsley sprigs, a small carrot, a bay leaf, salt and peppercorns.

It is not necessary to turn fish filets when you are broiling them. If the skin is still on the filets, place the fish skin-side-down on the broiling pan.

Ever try prune juice and milk? Or orange juice and ginger ale? These combinations make delightful beverages for midmorning or midafternoon pickups. They taste good and are nutritious, too.

Want a different vegetable soup to serve for lunch with a sandwich or a salad? Cook carrots and cauliflower together, then puree and add to a thin white sauce.

A dash of allspice is delicious in a tomato sauce. And some cooks like to add a suspicion of cinnamon, too. Or if you want to add herbs, rather than spice, to the sauce try dill, parsley or basil. If you use parsley be sure to add enough to give real flavor. A tomato sauce usually also benefits from a dash of sugar: the amount of sugar needed will depend on the acidity of the tomatoes.

Broiling hamburgers? Top each patty with a thin slice of yellow cheese for a good taste change. Sprinkle the cheese with a little paprika.

If you are buying meat with bone, you'll need one pound for two servings. A pound of lean meat without bone will make four servings.

When you are planning a company dinner, try to have one course or one dish a little out of the ordinary.

After a gelatin salad is partially set, you'll need to allow about four more hours of chilling before it will be firm enough to unmold.

When a clove of garlic is added to French dressing, the garlic should be removed after the dressing has stood for several hours.

WHICH RECENTLY TOOK EFFECT

Deaf Smith County Is Greatly Affected By New Pesticide Laws
By ASSOCIATED PRESS

As a major vegetable producing county, Deaf Smith County is much affected by a federal pesticide law which went into effect recently.

It tightens, but at the same time simplifies, regulations governing the amount of pesticide chemicals which may remain in or on raw agricultural commodities shipped across state lines.

The legislation was passed during the 83rd Congress and signed by President Eisenhower on July 22, 1954, but its effective date was this year.

The primary purpose of the law is greater protection for consumers against harm from insecticides, fungicides and weedkillers used in the production, storage and transportation of foodstuffs.

Since 1938 there has been a federal law concerning the use of pesticide chemicals, but it was a loosely drawn measure which made it the duty of the government to prove that the amount of such chemicals left on foodstuffs was harmful.

Under the new law pesticide chemicals must be approved by two federal agencies.

The Agriculture Department must determine that application of a chemical is useful in producing increased quantities or improved qualities of agricultural commodities. It must certify also the amount of that chemical which will remain on commodities when they reach the consumer.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare, which administers the new law, then must determine whether this residue is safe—that a person will suffer no harm by eating produce with such a residue, over a period of time. The amount of residue considered safe is described as the "tolerance" factor. The Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare may set a "zero tolerance" on use of a certain pesticide if it is determined this is required for the public safety.

Before a pesticide is approved, government chemists conduct tests and review data submitted by the manufacturers.

In one case, a rubber company developed a chemical to combat mites. Government laboratory tests, in which doses of the chemical were fed animals, showed cancer results.

Although the amounts used were far in excess of that which would remain on foodstuffs reaching the consumers, HEW clamped down a "zero tolerance" on the pesticide and suggested the manufacturer do some research. The company protested and the case still is unsettled. Meanwhile, HEW is sticking by its "zero tolerance."

If foodstuffs bear a residue of pesticide chemicals in excess of the "tolerance" allowed under regulations, they may be seized by agents of the government as contaminated and unfit for human consumption.

Some months ago a number of vegetable growers in Maryland used on Broccoli a pesticide which would have been all right for shrubbery, but not for edible plants. Much of the crop was left unharvested and a frozen foods plant which had processed a large quantity voluntarily destroyed all it had on hand.

HEW officials urge all farmers to read carefully and follow directions on pesticide chemical labels for the kind of plants for which the product is intended, the correct amounts to be applied and the time and conditions for application.

Vagabonding Trip By Car With All Of Family Can Be Fun When Careful

By Dorothy V. Whiple, M.D.

Now that the children are old enough you think it's time to take that long dreamed of trip.

A vagabonding trip by car with the whole family can be a heap of fun—it can be a ghastly nightmare too, if you're not careful.

First, are the children old enough?

I'd say that, if your youngest child is at least 8, you've waited long enough. Ten years old would be better for many children. Don't try a long car trip for fun with children much younger than this.

Plan your trip—but don't plan every last detail. One of the joys of a long car trip is being able to do the unexpected when an unusual opportunity develops.

The Wentworths went west with their three youngsters (ages 10, 12 and 16). One evening after supper they took a walk down into a small town in the Dakota wheat-lands. The boys wanted to see a wheat elevator. There the 16-year-old daughter struck up a conversation with a young farmer. Pretty soon the whole family was in on the new friendship. The upshot was an invitation to come out to the farm next day. Would the boys like to ride the combine? The Wentworth's plans were flexible enough to be able to accept this invitation. The day was a great success and one of the highlights of the trip.

Don't be too ambitious in the amount of territory you are planning to cover. There will be other summers coming — and more trips if this one is a success. Two hundred fifty miles or at most three hundred is as much as you should ever plan for one day. And there should be plenty of days in between the long pulls when you hardly make any miles at all.

The big trucking companies never allow their men more than 250 to 300 miles a day. This is one of the reasons they have such excellent safety records. Fatigue makes unsafe drivers. Fatigue also makes tight nerves, edgy tempers and family squabbles. The trip is for fun. You'll have much more fun if you take it easy.

If you have some sleeping bags you'll probably enjoy some nights under the stars. But plan an occasional night in a motel where hot baths can be had by all.

There will be long hours in the car. Here's where the real family spirit gets its workout. So seldom in our hectic lives do families have hours to spend together. You'll talk and play games. Get some information about the places you are going to see. The Wentworths took in Boulder Dam on their trip. Dad was just bursting with knowledge about dams and water and the effect on people of having power and water.

After they got home one of Dad Wentworth's favorite stories was how it took the kids three hours and a terrific amount of arithmetic to figure out the number of years it would take for the silt in the Colorado River to fill up the lake behind the dam, and make a new dam necessary!

In the future, the Hereford Brand Scholarship will be awarded annually to the outstanding graduating journalism student in that city. The scholarship is sponsored by James Gillentine, Hereford Brand publisher and veteran Texas newspaperman.

Local Students Go Far And Near To Attend School Of Their Choice

When the calendar points to mid-September, a call to the youth of the world sounds unmistakably clear as school bells start ringing again and colleges and universities beckon.

Some are going away to school for the first time, while others are returning to continue studies already begun; and there may be a bit of sadness in the leave-taking, but it's a happy, wonderful time as everybody looks forward to back-to-school days. Highways will be crowded as departing students take advantage of every means of transportation to reach their destinations and the school of their choice. A large crowd from Hereford will be included in that annual trek.

Miss Virginia Sigle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Sigle, will return to the University of Colorado at Boulder for her junior year, and J. B. Wills, son of Dr. R. R. Wills, will be enrolling at the University of Colorado as a freshman. Tom Woodford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lisle Woodford, will leave early for Boulder to be on hand for rush week at the University. Miss Dorothy Veigel and her brother, Don Veigel, are both transferring from West Texas State College to Texas Christian University this year. They are the daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Veigel.

Sue Barnard will attend the University of Arizona at Tucson, and has moved to Arizona last week with her family, the Dennis Barnards.

Sharon Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Moore, is transferring to Denver University, Denver, Colo., this year. She has attended Texas Tech for the past two years.

Joan and Gene Moore, daughter and son of Mrs. Bess Moore, will be returning to Eastern New Mexico University at Portales to continue their college work already begun.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Forbus will return to Dallas where he will continue his study at the Baylor School of Dentistry.

Irene Witherspoon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Witherspoon, and Janey Womble, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Womble, will enter Hockaday School in Dallas this fall as members of the Fourth Form. This will be their second year at Hockaday.

John Benson, son of Henry Benson, will enter Trinity University at San Antonio for his first year of college.

The Sheriff Reports

Here it is Thursday again and I don't know where the time has gone. Time always went by so slowly when I was a youngster but it is making up for lost time now. I always thought when a couple celebrated their twenty-fifth anniversary they were surely getting old, but since ours is getting close I guess those people were not so old after all.

September 4 and 5 are the days of the eleventh annual Boys Ranch Rodeo. If you have never been to the Ranch, you owe it to yourself and your family to see the place. The rodeo is made up of boys from the Ranch and is something to see. There are about 25 boys at the Ranch now and if space were available that figure could be doubled and there would still be a waiting list.

I'm sure there is some criticism of the Ranch but if those who criticize would spend some time over there they would have a different feeling. Have made several trips over there and I really enjoy going back. Since there has to be a place to keep unfortunate boys, it is a shame they don't have facilities to care for 50 or more. I have heard that most of the boys take the way of criminals when they leave the Ranch so I inquired about it. Most of the boys go into service when they leave and it is hard to keep up with them many of them are employed in places of business in the Amarillo area. A good way to find out about this is to ask some of the sheriffs that have been in office for a long time or former sheriffs. Even though some do go bad consider the number that are helped. Set aside Sept. 4 or 5 as the day to visit Boys' Ranch and see their rodeo. You won't be sorry if you do.

We have been fairly busy this week and the jail is gradually filling back up again. We are back up to eight now. We have three for DWI (one for the City Police), one for possession of liquor for sale in dry (?) area, one for child desertion, being held for Mena, Ark., one for violation of probation, one for drunk and one for investigation. Some have been picked up and released since last Thursday and are not counted above.

Be sure to attend the Boys' Ranch Rodeo Sunday or Monday. LRS.

MR. AND MRS. WALKER FREEMAN united in church wedding.

June Smith And Walker Freeman Wed Thursday

Miss June Marian Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Smith, became the bride of Mr. Walker B. Freeman, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Freeman of Follett at 10 o'clock Thursday morning in the First Baptist Church.

Rev. Russell Pogue, pastor of the Temple Baptist Church, read the double ring ceremony before the altar, arranged with baskets of white gladioli, Shasta daisies and lemon leaves, with flanking candles entwined with fern and holding pyramiding wedding tapers. Candle lighters were Jerry Keith Smith and Sallie Graves of Canyon.

Wedding music was provided by Dixie Young, organist, and Patsy Jackson, vocalist. Offerings for the prelude were Schubert's Serenade, and Rubenstein's "Romance." Miss Jackson sang "Because," "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer." Clair de Lune was played softly as the vows were spoken and the traditional wedding marches were used.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Karan Sue Smith, who wore orchid net and lace over taffeta fashioned with fitted waist and waltz length skirt. She carried an arm bouquet of orchid chrysanthemums. Sallie Graves carried the rings on a white satin pillow.

Jerry Freeman was best man and ushers were Carroll Willoughby and Tommy Freeman of Follett.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a waltz length gown of chantilly lace fashioned over white bridal satin. The fitted bodice was completed with Peter Pan collar sprinkled with seed pearls, and long tapering sleeves and buttoned down the back with tiny self-covered buttons. The full waltz length skirt fell in folds from the elongated waist line. Her tiered veil of illusion fell from a pill box covered with seed pearls and the bridal bouquet was of fringed white carnations with cascading satin streamers with love-knots.

She wore a gold bracelet worn by her grandmother and her mother at their weddings and her only other ornament was a single string of pearls.

The bride's mother wore a two-piece charcoal suit with pink accessories and corsage of pink gladioli. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige suit featuring avocado accessories and a corsage of white chrysanthemums.

Following the wedding a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. The bride's table was laid with an Irish linen draw work cloth and the floral piece was the maid of honor's bouquet. Dennis Taylor of Ruston, La., and Bobby Willis of Lubbock poured and Leona Miller of Canyon and Marilyn Legg served the wedding cake.

When the couple left on a short honeymoon trip to points in New Mexico, the bride was wearing a two piece dressmakers suit of brown tweed with darker brown trim and brown accessories. After Sept. 4 they will be at home at 109-A Union Ave.

The bride is a graduate of Hereford High School and attended West Texas State College one year. There she was a member of Phi Gamma Nu Sorority and on the dormitory council at Randall Hall.

Mr. Freeman is a graduate of Follett High School and attended West Texas State College one year. He served four years in the U. S. Navy. He is presently employed at Cooper's Market.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Freeman of Follett, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Graves of Canyon, Mrs. M. A. Ward of Eldorado, Ark., Mr. and Mrs. Robert Taylor of Ruston, La., James Ward of Eldorado, Ark., Miss Emma Freeman of Amarillo, Mrs. W. C. Walker of Follett, Bonnie Henson of Lubbock, Mrs. D. C. Graves of Amarillo and Mrs. Lou Nunley of Elk City, Okla.

S. S. Group Entertained

Members of the Intermediate Boys Group of the Temple Baptist Church were entertained recently by teachers in the department who include Kenneth Harrison and Charley Calloway.

The entertainment was in the form of a backyard picnic and party.

Boys attending were Pat Newman, Gene Meacham, Donnie Lovett, Fred Wakefield, Donnie Wakefield and Johnny Messenger.

Golden Circle Class Session

Golden Circle Class of the First Baptist Church met in the home of Mrs. Jeff Roberson Thursday evening for a business and social meeting. The devotional lesson was in the form of favorite verses of Scripture and comments given by members. Mrs. Coy Phillips acted as president.

Refreshments were served to Mesdames Coy Phillips, Glenn Boardman, Roy Thompson, C. E. Beauford, Leonard Davis, J. E. Young, R. E. Caddell, Sank Ramsey and the hostesses. Mrs. G. P. Owen, co-hostess, gave the concluding prayer.

L'Allegra Club Holds Initial Session Of Year

New year books were distributed and plans for the coming year's activities were discussed at the initial session of the season held by L'Allegra Study Club members Thursday afternoon.

The social and business session was held in the home of Mrs. Bill Dameron. After the short business period a delightful social hour was featured and announcement was made of the next meeting on Sept. 15 in the home of Mrs. Gerald Hale.

Members attending were Mesdames J. W. Barnett, Darrell Blanton, Jack Brown, H. A. Cavness, John Estes, Gerald Hgle, Bill Hardwick, Hilton Higgins, James Ellis Higgins, Charles Hill, Francis Hill, V. C. Hopsion, Richard Ireland, Bill Lawrence, Joe Lyons, J. W. Robinson Jr., Wayne Thomas and the hostess.

Al Fresco Party Honors Couple

Mr. and Mrs. John Moss of Amarillo, newly weds, were honored at an al fresco party Friday night when Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Higgins and Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Hopsion entertained at the Higgins home. Mrs. Moss is the former Miss Elizabeth Benson of Hereford.

After the picnic spread gifts were presented to the honorees. Those attending were Messrs. and Mesdames L. H. Lookingbill Jr., Hicks Roberson, James Edmonson, Johnny Dowell of Amarillo, Jim Freeman of White Deer, the honor couple, and the hosts.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hinds and son Dale, accompanied by John Benson are spending the labor-day weekend in Albuquerque, N. M. John will visit former residents of Hereford Rev. and Mrs. Roy Ford and family, and the Hinds will visit a brother, G. A. Hinds, and family.

Beauty At Home

Q. Which is better for taking off weight, exercise or diet control?

A. Diet or caloric control, definitely. Exercise is wonderful for changing your figure, but it's difficult to exercise enough to decrease your weight. Consider—to take off just one pound, you must walk about 36 miles, or wash on a wasboard for 28 hours. It's much easier to eat with regard for your figure, and get all the benefits to health and looks besides.

Q. How can I prepare my own toilet powder?

A. Two parts boric acid mixed with eight parts starch makes a fine toilet powder.

Q. How can I insure ridding my hair of all soap after shampooing?

A. After rinsing at least six times in clear water, so that your hair "squeaks" when you rub it together, add the strained juice of one lemon or six tablespoons of vinegar, to a last rinse water. This cuts the soap and adds a gleam to your tresses.

Q. What can I do about brow wrinkles?

A. First, you should stop the habits that cause them. Don't frown; don't raise your eyebrows incessantly. Try hard to keep a serene brow at all times. When you cream your face, massage across these lines.

Q. Is there something I can do about ugly facial hair?

A. You can bleach dark fuzz with a mixture of five teaspoons of hydrogen peroxide to one of ammonia water. Make an appointment with an expert to have bristly or coarse growths removed permanently by electrolysis.

Q. What is a good way to shampoo sticky or oily hair?

A. Apply with a toothbrush the beaten whites of two eggs, and let this dry on the scalp. Then brush it all out with a sterilized stiff-bristled brush. Your hair should be clean, fluffy and glossy.

Q. How can I mix a good, effective, simple and quick facial mask?

A. The beaten white of a fresh egg, spread over the freshly-washed face, left on 20 minutes, then rinse off with warm and chilled water.

Q. How can I impart an appearance of greater size to my eyes?

A. Try deepening your eyelashes in the center of your eyelids, blending it out to the outer ends of your eyes.

Walterscheid Spins KC's Past Piggly Wiggly With One-Hitter

The Knights of Columbus chalked up one strike against the Piggly Wiggly Pigs as they easily and soundly trounced the Pigs 13-2 to take a one-game lead in the league playoffs.

Piggly Wiggly knotted the count with a hard 5-3 victory Thursday, but the game was protested on a questionable decision in the seventh inning. The KC's won the protest and the game will be played again from the beginning.

In the original fracas, won easily by the KC's, the two teams continued the battle, which was stopped by wind and dust in the third inning with the Knights out front 6-1. Their mastery over the Pigs also continued.

Karl Hutcheson started for the Pigs. Crippled by the absence of Don Morgan, Piggly Wiggly never did look like the team which won 22 and lost only two over the regular season. Morgan came in in the third after the game was taken up, but the KC's had no mercy. Six more runs dented home plate, while Kenny Walterscheid gave up only three tallies in the whole game.

Walterscheid pitched one of his better games, turning in a sterling one-hitter. The KC's pounded Morgan and Hutch at will, banging out 14 base hits. They collected at least one base hit in every inning, and the Pigs went six straight innings without a bingle after getting their lone hit in the first.

The Knights first started their winning with four big tallies in the first. Terry Peters walked as a lead-off man and Duane Albracht lashed a double to score Peters. Billy Albracht went all the way to second on Kenny Brock's error and Duane Albracht came in. Bud Stengel walked to put runners on first and second and Urbanczyk drew life on Dement's error to load the sacks. Koelzer popped up before Bill Stengel doubled in two more. But Urbanczyk was thrown out at home trying to score the fifth run all the way from first. Kenny Walterscheid popped up to end the inning.

The Pigs only hit, a single by Ray Dement came in the first along with one of their two runs. With one out Dement singled in Don McNeese from second. McNeese had reached first on Fangan's error and second when Pickens walked.

But the KC's continued to score at will, sending in two more in the second. Peters singled with one

Your Congressman Reports

On the morning of August 1, the President's office was the scene of quite a gathering—one that almost ended in a verbal free-for-all. All of us Members who are interested in cotton production and manufacturing went to the White House to request the President to do something about the continuing loss of our foreign cotton markets. The President was standing behind his desk flanked by his Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Benson and an Assistant Secretary, Mr. James McConnell. We Members of the House and Members of the Senate were gathered in a semicircle around the desk. The problem was presented to the President on the basis that several countries had devalued their own currency on the basis that several countries some of our cotton customers with out interfering with the world price. There has been a running fight between the Department of Agriculture and several Members of Congress because Mr. Benson refused to put any of our surpluses on the world market. Many argue that this country cannot dump surpluses on the world price. However, the Department of Agriculture recently undertook to move some of the surpluses into the world market. The State Department vigorously protested and the out, but Albracht flied out. Then Billy Albracht and Bud Stengel blasted successive base hits for the runs.

After that they didn't score again until the fourth when five big runs scored. Three came in on Bill Stengel's home run, while the other two scored on Duane Albracht's triple and an error on centerfielder Buddy Pickens. Their final runs came in the seventh when Terry Peters singled and Duane Albracht drove him in with a double. Albracht scored on Kenny Walterscheid's hit.

Piggly Wiggly's last run came in the fourth on four walks by the sometimes erratic Walterscheid. Piggly Wiggly must win the next game to stay in the playoffs.

cotton surplus problem was again at a standstill. This is not the first time the State Department has interfered in efforts to disposing of our surplus cotton from the some of our surpluses. Some people contend that the withhold world market is like holding a golden umbrella over that market while we continue to build up surpluses and cut down acreage.

The President seemed to be deeply interested in the problem as presented and was making some very appropriate remarks. The general conversation had been along the lines of protecting our own foreign customers and trying to gradually reduce our surpluses. The meeting was about to close when one Member of Congress spoke up and told the President that he did not agree with anything that had been said about putting part of our surpluses on the world market. He contended that all of the Senators and Members of the House who were supporting such a program were wrong, including the former Secretary of Agriculture, Senator Clint Anderson. This looked like the beginning of the verbal free-for-all, but the President immediately observed that the office was not a debate forum and that he felt he had a pretty good picture of the problem. Everyone left quietly.

It is a tough problem and one that is going to have to be settled at White House level. Many of the countries who are benefiting from the firm world market price are also receiving foreign aid from this country. This means that they are getting both direct and indirect foreign aid, because the surplus cotton in his country is withheld from the world market and must be purchased by Uncle Sam and held in storage. This costs money and brings criticism on the farmers which is not justified.

Congress Finally Adjourned
The hectic final weeks of Congress which had turned into the ed into hectic final hours turned into hectic final minutes. A 11:36 p.m., Aug. 2, Speaker Sam Rayburn, on the motion of the Honorable Charles Boyle, Democrat of Illinois, declared the House of Representatives of the United States of America adjourned sine die. The last few hours were a wait and see process. What the Senate would do with the several bills that had been stamped essential was not known. If they turned down the conference reports it would mean another day and, perhaps, another week. However, agreements were finally reached and the business of the Session was wound up. As the Session closed the rumor became wide spread that a special session was in the very near future. The President was not pleased with the action of the Congress on the road bill for was he pleased by the housing bill that passed. The big issue, as pointed out before, was public housing. The House did not want public housing. The President, and he Senate were both for public housing. The compromise was in the nature of an authority to construct 45 thousand units in one year. The resident had indicated ed that the least he would take would be 70 thousand for two years the Senate had voted 135 thousand. However, it is my prediction that there will be no special session. The President can have the housing issue thoroughly argued in the early days of the next session and can have whatever action is necessary debated on a road bill. There is much to be done concerning a road bill, and the several months during this fall should be devoted to working out kinks in this particular.

The Spirit Still Lives
On the site of the Old Court House of Appomattox County, Va., which was destroyed by fire in 1892, the Daughters of the Confederacy erected a bronze plaque which reads as follows:
Appomattox
"Here on Sunday, April 9, 1865, after four years of heroic struggle in defense of principles believed fundamental to the existence of our government, Lee surrendered 9,000 men remnants of an army still unconquered in spirit to 118,000 men under Grant."

Coming Home
The Rogers family will be headed for the Panhandle of Texas by the time you get this letter and, needless to say, very happy about the whole thing.

FANCY and PLAIN
By KENT SNARE

From the way one's neck is wont to empurple at midday, now, it's too early for football, but the calendar schedule depicts otherwise. In fact, Sept. 16-17 weekend presents a fairly full pigskin type slate, including, among others: Texas A&S at UCLA; Texas Tech at Texas; Kansas at TCU; Hardin-Simmons at Baylor; Corpus Christi at WSTC; Miami at Georgia Tech; Ole Miss at Georgia; Mississippi State at Florida; Kentucky at LSU; Maryland at Missouri and California at Pitt. There could be some large size periods put in the National football story at that early date. UCLA, Miami, Georgia Tech, Ole Miss, Pitt and Maryland are all highly rated and an initial blot on their season's es-cutcheon would show all the way through. A doff of the skimmer is in order to the many cooperative athletic publicity departments who graciously provided me with their brochures. The surrounding blats have finger-boned some of the excellent material, near and there, and while I haven't perused all of them, I've encountered some features that caught my eye and fanfare. Wisconsin has the most comprehensive booklet I have seen. It's an all sports edition and must have cost a pretty G plus, what with slick paper, multitudinous pictures and stacks of facts. South Carolina's (The Army fell over them last lap, thuddingly) Little Red Book of Gamecock Football is a "Gooder," embracing two unusuals. One is a section, tritely entitled, "Men of Letters," which is just what it is. The other is the inside of the rear cover, which displays four female type cheerleaders in proper skimpy array, a twain of them, of such stately stature to enable same to sub at tackle, iften the gender was different. In the Texas Aggie brochure, they list one of their many promising backs as being 10 years old, which may put the Welfare Society in pursuit of the Kaydets, as already are, the balance of the Southwest Conference. Factually the Aggie book is filled with a listing of potential future greats and their future shadow, even enough to bogey some of the opposition. Otis Wile, of the Oklahoma Aggies, continues to grab the duke for the cleverest and most humorous of the early tabs, and this lap, theirs is not the only mimed one, both Purdue and Princeton have the less costly types but all three are complete in their info, lacking only the pics that the slick type catalogs lean to. Chinamen have traditionally feared the loss of face, but with footballers the loss of backs is more poignant and the press has brought to light some back losses that may bring wailing, no little. Texas Tech has lost Carl Tripeer who might have been able to replace Jack Kirkpatrick, if the brittle showed again in that fine quarterback; Tulsa, already thin, lost Warren, also a quarterback and to books, Illinois forfeited its captain and Ohio State, their most potent blocker and fullback, Hubert Bobo. Even the Rose Bowl champs don't have too many blockers of his caliber, and none at all to spare. North Carolina, with a so-so ball club, has little to anticipate among her 10 opponents, there being in the 10, Notre Dame, Maryland, Duke and an opener with Oklahoma. Miami of Florida, with a red hot rating and a yen for the big time, has ambition intertwined in her 1955 schedule, since she opens with Georgia Tech, entertains Notre Dame on October Seven in the

IS NOW A

Going Concern...

Since April 1, 1955, the Hereford Credit Association, representing a total of 150 local business and professional men, has been working toward the present goal of Complete Credit Service.

Maintained by the merchants, the Hereford Credit Association is in reality a means of helping YOU, the average citizen in making purchases in Hereford -- and other communities -- on the basis of fair and equitable credit.

1. The man who PAYS HIS BILLS PROMPTLY, as Agreed, will be so recognized, and will be able to say "Charge It" anywhere he goes.
2. Building Homes in the Hereford Community has been frequently delayed due to the lack of this service. As you know, a person must clear through the association before most Home Loans are available.
3. BUYING AUTOMOBILES . . . here, again, your Hereford Credit Association speeds up the process and makes credit more easily available, where it is justified.

There are many, many more points where the Credit Association will come to your personal aid in the transaction of business in Hereford -- and in other towns and communities over the state and nation.

WATCH THIS SPACE FOR INFORMATIVE ADS EACH SUNDAY

The following Professional and Business men are members of the Hereford Credit Association in providing a service to the people of Hereford and Surrounding community.

In Tribute to A Great Educator

Nomina of Hereford's new grade school for Ela Aikman, beloved pioneer teacher, is a posthumous honor well deserved.

Miss Aikman spent a total of 27 years as a classroom teacher in the Hereford Schools -- all in the Central School plant. Needless to say, she became an institution in the school life of the community as she performed a public service in the days when remuneration was small in comparison to that of 1955.

Miss Aikman in many ways was symbolic of a past generation in the history of education. Her love for her profession was paramount and, despite the trials and tribulations, she was first and foremost a school teacher. Through tender care and devotion, she was able to overcome the handicap from lack of present-day equipment and methods.

It was a fitting tribute which the School Board paid Miss Aikman; a tribute well deserved. In addition, it stands as a tribute to the teaching profession of the community and the nation.

Greatest tribute of all, though, was the fact that the School Board member who made the motion to adopt the name of "Ela Aikman School" was a former student of Miss Aikman, a successful citizen who, despite the long span of years since he was a small boy, still remembered and appreciate the effort, the ability and the love expended by a capable teacher in his behalf.

Could any greater tribute be possible?

GUEST EDITORIAL

Johnny Can't Read? Parents Can't Spell

Dear Johnny:

Maybe you've noticed that recently there's been quite a lot in the paper about whether you can—or can't—read.

Between your baseball, and your swimming, and your fishing, and all your other important vacation business, I doubt that you've read very much about, or lost too much sleep over, the argument between Dr. Flesch, who on his side wants you to have pure systematic phonics, and Dr. Swenson (who answered Flesch) who, on her side, thinks you do all right with the look and say method of learning to read.

But whether or not you can read as folks say you should, and whether or not you have been much, or not at all, annoyed by all the fuss and feathers Dr. Flesch stirred up, I want you to know, Johnny, that I'm on your side. And because that's true, I think I ought to tell you—just between the two of us—something I've found out. It's this:

A lot of grownups dipped into the argument between Dr. Flesch and Dr. Swenson. They've written me quite a lot of letters to be put in the paper. In editing those letters, I've found that a considerable number of both parents and teachers—on both sides of the argument—aren't any hotter with their spelling than some of them think you are, Johnny, with your reading.

Can you imagine one teacher (27 years experience, she wrote) spelling "differentiate" with one "t"? And another (first grade, she said) wrote "seperately" for "separately."

One Johnny's Mom puts two "l's" in personality, and another Johnny's Dad left out the second "n" in "beginning." Quite a number wrote "alright" for "all right," and, of all things, Johnny, one Pop wrote "Forth Grade." Another spelled "uncertain" wrong. He wrote "uncerten."

"Recommendation" tripped up several: "They put two "C's" and only one "m". "Apparent" tricked one teacher. "Apparant," she wrote. And one Johnny's Mama wrote "incidentally" for "incidentally."

There also was one very nice letter in which a mother referred to back streets not as "alleys," but as "allies," meaning something wholly different from what she intended to say. Of all of them, however, the worst tangled of the bad spellers was a teacher who in two places in her letter wrote "independently" where obviously she meant "independently."

Probably there were other misspellings I've overlooked in writing to you, Johnny, but I think what I've written you will be enough to serve the purpose I have in mind:

Just remember that words can be tricky for most anybody. Nobody knows that better than an editor. So don't you be too much bothered about the mistakes you make, Johnny. And if grownups get to riding you too hard about your reading, fellow, just show them this letter, smile sweetly, and ask them how they're getting along and ask them how they're getting along with their spelling.

Understandingly yours

The Editor

Lake Accidents

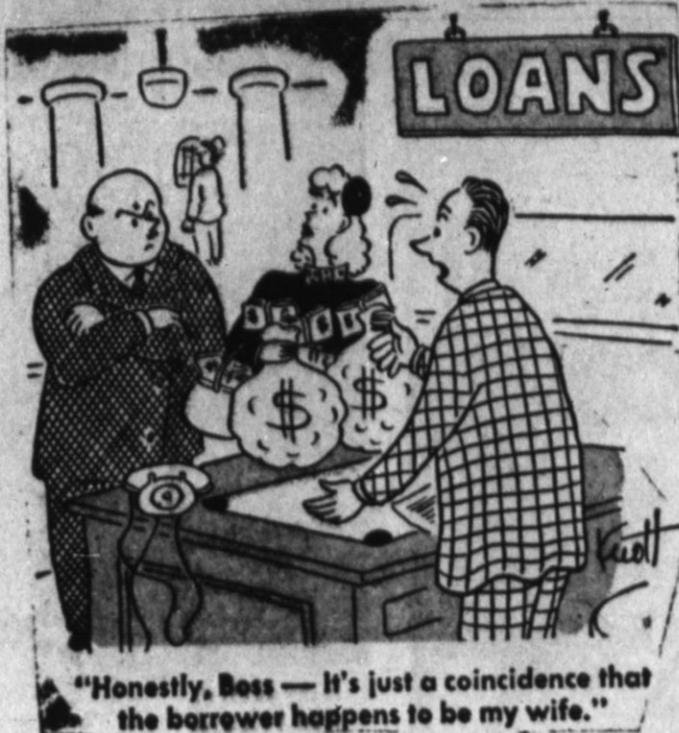

Death of another small lad at Buffalo Lake this week focuses attention on a situation which merits more than passing attention.

We do not know the total but, time after time, the recreation spot has claimed the lives of adults and children. Swimming, we understand, has been restricted in the lake, but the restriction is often ignored.

The answer to this problem -- like that of traffic casualties -- appears to rest first and foremost with the public. The death record at Buffalo Lake definitely establishes the fact that it deserves full respect from the people who use the waters as a recreation point.

Since Hereford is one of the communities which uses the lake often and consistently, it appears only logical that the people who visit the lake should familiarize themselves with rules and regulations, and that every precaution should be exercised in connection with boating, fishing, water skiing or other water sports.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Citizens Rank New School As Top Improvement Here

Hereford has grown considerably so far this year and there have been many important improvements. What do you consider the biggest step forward?

LEON J. BELL

I believe the people themselves; being of a progressive mind have made improvements throughout the town.

MINNIE WINNETT ZUMWALT

The new high school seems to be one of the important improvements. It shows growth and progress.

MRS. C. H. WEST

I believe the new High School was the biggest improvement because it was needed so badly in a town of this size.

MRS. A. H. DAVES

There have been quite a few improvements. I think the airport is most outstanding. It will help the town grow.

PAUL SCHROETER

The new High School is a great improvement. It helps with the education of the people which is one of the most important things.

MARIAN LOMENICK

The new recreation grounds on Park Avenue are an improvement. This gives the children something to do.

MRS. TONY HOFFMAN

The new schools, park improvements, and the newly paved streets are all improvements. All improvements attract new people to town.

W. H. KNOX

Considering education, the improvements in the school buildings and ground improvements are most important.

'Tater Peelin's

by Roberta Campbell

Well, we started to school again Friday but we are not likely to have as much work to do as we did last year because each term our young hopeful seems to rely more on his own ability in getting his assignments. It's a good thing for us because by the time he gets to high school algebra we would be in a complete fog. We are still wondering how we ever managed to pass college algebra, he teacher must have felt sorry for us.

—tp—

One of the nicest things about enrolling this year is that for the first time in several years Buster will probably get to stay in the same building for the whole term. He certainly has been widely traveled trying to get an education and has only been away from Hereford one year at that.

—tp—

We are pleased with the idea of naming the new grade school for Miss Aikman. But it is too bad honors like that can't come to people while they are still alive to appreciate them.

—tp—

Folks, we are sorry if you missed the first and second picking of blackeyed peas out at our place. We have another patch beginning to bear so we should have peas again in a few days. Looks as if it's practically impossible for us to catch up with the demand, but we will keep trying each year until we do, we hope. We have had the nicest peas this year that we have had since we first grew them five years ago. That was probably a record when we took out over twelve tons off of six acres.

BEETLES BEAT WORRIES

SHELBY, N. C. (AP)—A little black beetle has volunteered on the side of farmers of this section who've been fighting a plague of grain-eating army worms.

Ray Wilson, a farm manager, says the beetles pounce on the army worms, shake them vigorously, and devour them.

The question that's worrying the farmers now is: What occupation will the beetles turn to after they have won the war with the army worms?

There were 20 1/2 million trees planted in Texas in 1954, says the Texas forest service.

Community Builders

By CAROLYN INMAN

Children, all ages and sizes, are certainly nothing new to Mrs. Jack Winget. She has been working at the Day Center at the Labor Camp with the Latin-American children for the past three years.

This summer she was chairman of activities in charge of the Camp, with Miss Shirley Root assisting her with the 200 children who were associated with the Day Center. Some of the highlighted activities at the camp this summer were a Silver Tea, the arriving of swings and sand boxes for the children, kindergarten classes for small children and boys, girls, and mothers' classes.

Mrs. Winget is also very active in her church work at the First Christian Church, of which she is a member. In the past three years she has held the offices of secretary and worship chairman of the Women's Council Group. At present, she is secretary of the Young Matrons' Study Club.

She is district secretary of the United Council of Church Women who will be meeting in Hereford the latter part of October.

Mrs. Winget moved to Hereford in 1952 when she married Jack Winget in June of that year. Born in Tulsa, Okla., Jan. 2, 1931, she graduated from Will Rogers High School in Tulsa and attended Phillips University in Enid Okla., for one year.

After working in the County Library for a few months after moving to Hereford, Mrs. Winget then took charge of a Campfire group and she is also a member of the Shadow Players.

Writing short stories and square-dancing are Mrs. Winget's hobbies. She is learning to do copperwork and makes very enchanting little Christmas tree angels in her spare time.

Along with many other people, Mrs. Winget's hope and ambition is to have a center with well-equipped recreational facilities for the young people to meet together. However, she feels that the only way to do this is to get the citizens of Hereford to settle the problem together instead of everyone holding out for his own way and not coming to any solution as she feels they are doing at present.

She also believes that Hereford needs better and larger equipped library facilities.

Mrs. Winget thinks that Hereford is growing enough so that it needs a branch library service which will take the books to the people because of the simple fact that the public won't bother to go out after the books while they have radio and TV right on hand.

As a closing thought, Mrs. Winget believes that Hereford is a progressive little town with very well educated and forward looking people.

Present System Of State Boards Termed Vexing

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of four articles written by Texas' Attorney General on the problem of the present State board system in Texas. The Brand feels the problem important enough to warrant the articles.)

By JOHN BEN SHEPPERD

One of the most vexing problems of modern Texas government is the present system of state boards.

These boards are like the story of Topsy, who just grew and grew. At the present time some state officials serve on so many boards that proper administration is almost impossible.

This problem is so important to the citizens and taxpayers of this State that I have done a great deal of research to determine possible answers to it.

You might say that I am one who speaks from bitter experience for as your Attorney General I have served on 25 of these boards, and I have had a first-hand view of the inefficiency of the system.

Those men who will be elected Attorney General in the future should not be harassed and hamstrung with this impossible number of sideline duties.

In The Old Days When the State Constitution was written in 1875, a state official was not busy by today's standards. He could take care of his duties, attend a couple of board meetings a week, and still have ample time to go fishing on the Colorado. So the Legislature put the State's constitutional officers on various boards as "ex-officio" members.

One of the most important reasons for making the state officials members of Boards was the fact that they lived in Austin. In those days of slow transportation a man could not leave his farm or his store for weeks and travel down here to serve on a board.

The only railroad coming into Austin was from Hempstead, 50 miles north of Houston. Almost all of the 1566 miles of track in the state were running north and south in East Texas. In order to get to Brownsville, you had to take the

PAVING UNDERWAY AT OLTON

In Olton, work is continuing on curb and gutter projects which will ultimately add from 15 to 20 blocks of new blacktopped street to the city. The improved streets will be near the school and out to the new residential addition to the city and in other parts of town. Some paving and curbing work is being done down town on the street in front of the fire station also. The new city water well is completed, and is expected to be tied into city lines sometime within the next few days. It is a big well, and city officials said they had it "choked down" to produce only about 1200 to 1300 gallons per minute.

HUMAN BODY FOUND

Texas Tech authorities still were excavating Thursday the grave-like resting place of a human being--thought by them to be either a U. S. cavalryman or an Indian. This museum "find" was made Wednesday about 7 miles east of Denver City by a Caterpillar operator grubbing land owned by Money Price of Brownfield. Thus far, the Tech professors have dug up a skull with the hair still on it, 25 to 30 bracelets, a number of coins, a cavalry soldiers' jacket, three cavalry bugles and many small beads, although the real story of the mixed Indian relics and U. S. cavalry equipment may never be known.

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher discusses work this week, a matter he has only a theoretical knowledge of.

Dear Editor:

A bunch of farmers was sitting around out here the other day and the topic of discussion was this:

For more than a month now a group of Russian farmers or at least that's what they're called, I think they're mostly experts who have dodged the necessity of farming, have been touring the United States to study agriculture, and at the same time a group of American farmers have been touring Russia for the same purpose.

Now what this group out here wanted to know is: who's been looking after these visiting farmers' farms while they've been away over a month? Who's been feeding the cows?

Who's been looking after the harvesting? Who fed the dog? Who cut the grass around the house?

They contended they didn't see how a bonafide farmer could leave his farm for a month at his time of the year. Maybe in the winter time, but now, they couldn't see it.

Well, I'll tell you. It's impossible. I never have left my farm out here for a month at a time, have no desire to, but that hasn't kept me from letting the grass around the house go un-cut for that long. Lots of winters I've gone a month without feeding my cows, on account of there wasn't any feed on the place.

A man doesn't have to go all the way to Russia to escape a month's work. I've stayed right here at home and done it lots of times.

Moreover, one of the American farmers visiting Russia got back last week after traveling 10,000 miles and reported he hadn't learned a thing worth using on his farm. It seems to me that's a lot of traveling just to get out of a month's work on your farm.

And ass for the Russians visiting over here, I don't know what they learned, but whatever it was, all it will amount to is more work for the Russian farmers, not for the visiting experts.

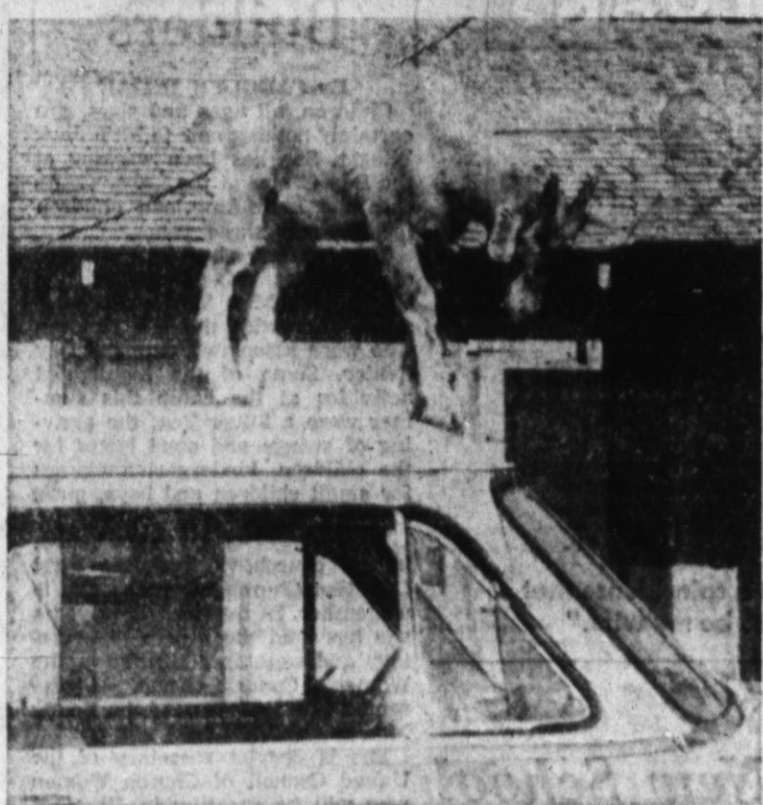

Travel is a fine thing if you like it, but I've never found it necessary to travel 10,000 miles to learn nothing and neglect my own farm. It's easier and more fun to stay at home and do it in the shade.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

News By Wire

Now a citizen can fly from his home town, attend a board meeting, and be back home for supper. In 1875 Austin had telegraph communication only with New Orleans and Galveston, and not a permanent newspaper correspondent in town. Now we have 40 correspondents in the capitol to cover all the activities of state government and almost instant communication with any part of the United States. We don't have to look any further to see why the Legislature started putting these same officials on boards. They have continued to use them to man new boards through the years, thus avoiding possible criticism for adding new 'bureaucrats' to the payroll.

During the past 50 years the rate of addition of these extra board duties has speeded up to twice what it was in the 54 years from 1875 to 1930. The seven constitutional officers—Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, Secretary of State, Comptroller, Treasurer, and Land Commissioner—are now required by law to fill 38 seats on 27 separate boards and commissions of the state government, not including about two dozen inactive boards that still exist in theory.

Few Men—Many Boards

The Governor serves on 9 boards—the Land Commissioner, eight; the Comptroller, seven; State Treasurer, five; and the Lieutenant Governor, four.

The Attorney General carries the heaviest load. He serves on 24 boards, many of which are active enough to require considerable time. He often feels the need of 24 hands and two dozen eyes to keep up with them. He was placed on most of them for no better reason than to provide the boards with handy legal advice, which is fundamentally a bad idea.

Board membership places the Attorney General in the unseemly position of a man witnessing his own contract. He is often called upon for an official opinion on the legality of a policy which he as a board member helped to establish. Other states have recognized this conflict and refused to place their Attorney General in such a dual role. In fact, in recent years almost all the states have shown a tendency to stop placing their legal officer on state boards. Texas is unmatched in the number of ex-officio responsibilities placed on the Attorney General. He has more than any other state, 6 times as many as the average.

One hundred and seventy-seven boards and commissions of Texas government determine state policies and secure the Attorney General's legal opinions (which are purely advisory) without his presence on the Board, so his service as an ex-officio board member hardly seems necessary and is in most cases unwise.

Office Duties Expand
The primary duties of constitutional officers have been so expanded with the development of state government through the years that none of them now have the time which should be devoted to State Boards.

The constitutional and statutory duties of the Attorney General, outside of board membership, fill hundreds of pages in the law books. He is charged with the approval of all bonds issued by the state or any lesser unit of government and these have run to over 375 million already this year. He must examine the characters of the thousands of corporations in the State and inquire into anti-trust violations.

He must advise the Governor and all other state officials, agencies, boards or commissions on their legal problems. With 2000 lawsuits a year to prosecute or defend in the state or federal courts and the preparation of over 1500 opinions a year, his job can hardly be called part-time employment.

Thirteen Heads

All of the constitutional officers make a giant effort to squeeze attendance at 38 boards into their busy schedules. But this is defeating the real purpose of having a board. Boards should be composed of men able to give time, calm consideration and expert advice to the administrators of the program. Show me the man who can qualify as an expert in banking, investment, taxes, leasing, elections and vote frauds, retirement programs, rehabilitation of the blind, cancer and pellagra control, county financing and taxation, interstate cooperation, land purchasing for game conservation, collection of unpaid judgments, legislative redistricting, election law revision, and building construction, and I will show you a man who will have not only 24

Letter To The Editor

The Hereford Brand Dear Mr. Editor: I am writing this letter with regards to the proposed airport situation.

It is my opinion that Hereford and Deaf Smith County are definitely behind the times without an airport. We have had in the past and will continue to have in the future, some embarrassing situations, without an airport.

When people have planned to fly into Hereford for a visit, either personal or business, they have had to land in a neighboring town and be driven to Hereford. That is not right for a town the size of ours. In order for Hereford to continue its present progress it needs an airport. Why not build it now? We have half of the funds available to us. Let's take advantage of it. Whether we realize it or not, an airport is fast becoming a very essential necessity for our community.

GOOD CROPS THIS YEAR—Lola Blankenship holds the peach that she picked this year from the tree she planted years ago. While she was picking the crop recently, she found many small peaches that were just beginning to get blooming on the same tree as the ripe ones. Last year a small peach was found on the tree which ripened in time and was very good, but she thinks that this year she will have two good crops of peaches. (Staff Photo)

Your Congressman Reports

The Texas Panhandle has always been a sort of garden spot when we had a little rain. That is exactly what it looks like today in the several sections which I have had the good fortune to visit. The time element enters into the picture and prevents me from getting every plane as quickly as I would like, but we have seen quite a bit of it and hope to get over the rest of it before long. Irrigation is cropping up all over the Panhandle and it can certainly change the picture. I was down in Hall County the other day and things looked mighty good, both the irrigated and the dry land. Wheeler County is another place I had a chance to visit and it looks equally good. However, we do need a good rain, and I have filed application for a four-inch "soaker," to be delivered over a period of about 10 days. If this application is approved, we will hope that there will be no red tape in the delivery of the rain.

I have talked to people from every section of the Panhandle and get good reports on the prospects for all quarters. Of course, there are some exceptions, but we hope these will straighten out in the next 30 to 60 days. It is too bad that the heavy rains that occurred in the eastern part of our country could not have been divided up over the whole country. Instead of billions of dollars worth of damage, there would have been billions of dollars worth of benefits. Worrying about getting some rain may not be as bad as getting too much, like those poor folks did. One of my friends here said that if those rains had come out here during the drought, the land would have soaked up the water so fast that it would have seemed like a mere sprinkle. Most of the towns are looking fine. There are some vacancies in some of the cities that are dependent primarily upon agriculture. We hope that this situation will be changed so that these cities can continue to prosper as they have in the past. Many of the larger towns seem to be growing by leaps and bounds. We have plenty of room for industry in this section of the country and hope that we can make it inviting to them. It does you good to see the country expanding like this Panhandle section. Nothing is better medicine against communism than an expanding economy of a free people. We concern ourselves with many worries, but everything is going to work out fine and I think the picture will grow better as we move along.

back in school and also have to get set for the committee work that has to be done this fall preparatory to the next session of Congress. One of the committees on which I serve is the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, which has jurisdiction over transportation in this country. The President has appointed a committee of Cabinet level to make a report on the transportation situation. The committee on which I serve will work in cooperation with that Cabinet committee in trying to work out the many difficulties that will plague the transportation industry in our country. This will require extensive hearings for which there is not sufficient time during a session of Congress. There is also a problem incidental to this concerned with air transportation, which is also within the jurisdiction of this particular committee. The requirements for information concerning these problems are great and we must get it together so that proper legislation can be enacted to insure a continued expansion of our economy under the free enterprise system. As soon as possible after these investigations are concluded, I will, of course, be back in the district and can be reached at 4-5631 in Pampa, Tex. The children certainly had a wonderful time and are headed back for Washington most reluctantly. Their many good friends were very kind to them and they are deeply appreciative. Mrs. Rogers and I are most humble in our deep appreciation for the many courtesies extended, and we hope that the opportunity will occur at an early date for us to reciprocate.

ON THE TRAIL
AMERICAN FALLS, Idaho — Don Benson and Boyd White spotted what looked like cougar tracks. The footprints were huge—five inches across. They summoned John Luck, a government trapper, and started tracking the beast. Six miles down the road the trio came upon their quarry—a St. Bernard dog belonging to E. G. Commons.

REAL SASSAFRAS
CARBONDALE, Ill. — Sassafras, used by pioneers as a spring tonic, has been shipped to V. L. Webb of Sacramento, Calif., who requested a batch of the real stuff from genuine Carbondale Sassafras trees. He said he had been buying sassafras in California drug stores, but their product was weak and tasteless. The Chamber of Commerce dispatched the makings promptly.

AUSTIN — Main impact of the 54th Legislature will be felt next week when most of the bills it passed will become state law. Taking effect Sept. 6 will be laws designed to eliminate insurance abuses, overhaul the scandal-racked veterans land program and restrict some labor union activities. Tax increases are most likely to be noticed first. To augment state revenue by $50 million per year, new levies were placed on beer, cigarettes, gasoline and corporate franchises.

Ultimate payment will fall to the consumer.

Nine major insurance bills are aimed at strengthening the industry and providing better protection for the buying public. Capitalization and surplus requirements will be raised, and sale of insurance securities and stock regulated.

Individual insurance commissions will be empowered to act together as a board. Insurance counselors will be licensed, and agents will have to pass an examination.

Veterans land program legislation will tighten regulations and impose more stringent controls on both buyers and sellers. Both are made liable to jail terms up to 10 years and fines up to $10,000 for fraud or misrepresentation.

Major labor legislation includes the "Port Arthur bill." It will enable employees to enjoin strikes by a union which cannot show it represents a majority of workers. Already effective is the "Ford Motor bill" denying unemployment payments to union workers by a strike in another plant of their company. Other new laws will provide $7 million more for public assistance and bring 30,000 more state employees and college professors under federal Social Security. Corruptive comic books will be banned and incorporation requirements will be broadened to include "any lawful purpose."

Integration Upheld

Big Spring's test case on the legality of Texas public school integration headed toward the Supreme Court.

A suit to enjoin the Texas Education Agency and comptroller from making payments to desegregated schools was denied in district court. Judge Charlie N. Sullivan ruled invalid that part of the Gilmer-Aikin law which applies to segregation.

Notice of appeal was given at once by the attorney for the pro-segregation Texas Citizens Council who brought the suit. If the district court opinion is upheld, there apparently would be no need for an immediate special session of the legislature to revise school law.

Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd has warned that school integration should not precede legislative action. He, like the Citizens Council, has insisted that the law is presently set up to make state payments only to segregated schools.

Thirty Deaths Predicted

Thirty traffic deaths are predicted by the Department of Public Safety for the upcoming Labor Day weekend.

Last year 29 Texans were traffic fatalities during the three-day holiday.

Only once recently has the department's forecast missed by any sizable margin. For July 4 it predicted 29 fatalities. Only 18 occurred.

Col. Homer Garrison, department director, expressed hope for a similar error for the Sept. 3-5 holiday.

Politics is Budding

Texas' governorship campaign seems to be shaping up, considerably ahead of schedule. Former Supreme Court Justice and University of Texas Chancellor James P. Hart addressed an East Texas meeting at Henderson, sponsored by the liberal Democrats. Liberals have been courting his entry in the race, and he is "thinking about it."

Former Speaker Reuben Senterfitt of San Saba, only announced candidate for governor, has held a meeting of his statewide campaign steering committee in Austin. He said he will name county and precinct campaign chairmen by January.

State Senator Jimmy Phillips of Angleton is an intended candidate. He was present in Henderson when Hart spoke. A statewide rally in Galveston on Sept. 1 was planned by his friends as the end-off for his campaign.

Mrs. Wayne W. Wagonseller of Bowie, widow of the senator, killed in a car accident two weeks ago, also has been mentioned as a possible candidate. She was the only other speaker at the Henderson rally which her husband was to have addressed. Hers was not a political speech.

Senator Price Daniel, currently abroad, is holding up disclosure of his decision whether to run for governor next year, two years before expiration of his first Senate term.

Governor Shivers hasn't announced his plans. "Anything can happen; at this time I am not a candidate for anything," he told newsmen.

Walcott News

By MRS. T. L. COLLINS
Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Sessums and son, Bobby, are living on the Williams place. They moved here from near Oklahoma City. We hope they like Walcott community.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Collins and Bruce went to Perryton Friday and returned home Saturday night. They visited in the home of Mrs. Collins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Collins and his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Townsend. This was the time of Perryton's annual birthday celebration. Enjoyed by all present were the fair, parade and old-settler's reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Perkins and Bob, Mrs. Tom Oliver and Connie returned with Walcott's new school bus Tuesday night from the factory in Fort Valley, Ga., where it was made. They reported a wonderful time, but found no peaches.

Elizabeth and Kathryn went to Tulla Wednesday with Mrs. Glen Burrus to visit in the home of Mrs. Glen Settle. The girls met their parents in Canyon Sunday and returned home.

A Walcott 4-H picnic to honor their parents and teachers, was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fruit Thursday, Aug. 25. A long table out on the lawn was filled with delicious food and enjoyed by all present. Later visiting was found most relaxing by the adults and games by the children. On hand for the evening fellowship were: Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Burrus, Kathryn, Elizabeth, Mary Ann Vandergriff, Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Burrus, Margaret, Cecelia, Mary Alice and James, Mary Dufur, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Collins, Bruce, and a guest, Norma Dell Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fruit, Merry Kay and Royce Lee.

Mrs. Phillip Miller was one of the hostesses at a bridal shower honoring Betty Hamilton, in the home of Mrs. Roy Thompson, in Hereford Friday, Aug. 26.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Collins, Bruce and Raymond, enjoyed a fine supper in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Lumpkins and family Tuesday evening. The young people in the two families drove to Hereford for a movie afterward.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Burrus and girls have an old time friend visiting them this week, Mary Ann Vandergriff of Amarillo. Kathryn and Elizabeth will accompany her home by train for a visit.

A high school trail "bus run" was made on Tuesday afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. Collins and Bruce. Several hellos were made. It is the hope and plan of Walcott's School Board and principal that our high school students will not have to miss the first hour classes in Hereford this year.

Royce Lee and Merry Kay visited Sandra Hoover in Hereford on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of this week.

Walcott's 4-H girls met with the Commissioner's Court Monday and gave a report of all summer's activities. In this group were Cecelia and Margaret Burrus, Mary Dufur, Royce Lee and Merry Kay Fruit and their leader, Mrs. Roy Fruit.

Walcott School will open Monday Sept. 5. Thomas L. Collins is the principal and Seventh and eighth grade teacher. A. L. Shelton will teach fifth and sixth grades, Mrs. T. L. Collins, the third and fourth and Mrs. A. L. Shelton, the first and second grades.

Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Woods will serve the school as custodian and cook for the cafeteria this year.

A "first day of school" community and school picnic will be enjoyed at noon Sept. 5 in Veteran's Park. The P-TA will furnish the drinks, paper plates, forks and spoons.

Everyone come with a well-filled picnic basket lunch. Our P-TA president, Mrs. J. V. Perrin, urges all Walcott people to attend.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:
A town goes along growing bit by bit, as Hereford has these recent years. Then suddenly we find ourselves at a point where we must make major decisions as a community for the continued healthy growth of our city.

The decision of whether or not there is to be an airport in Hereford will be brought up soon. I personally am for progress and the airport. They both go hand in hand. This is the air age, just as certainly the early 1900's was the Railroad Age. The towns that did not fight for a railway right-of-way soon became insignificant. This could happen again.

We would be selling the future of Hereford short if we did not accept this wonderful opportunity that the Federal government has offered us. They will match dollar for dollar to help us to build a good airport. This would be another accomplishment that we could point out with pride to any visitor. More important, it would be an added inducement for industries, related to our farm products, to settle here.

Hereford is growing. I am going to do my part to keep it growing by voting for the airport. If there are enough people who feel that way then the day that we will not have to make that long trip to Amarillo or Lubbock to catch a plane, will not be too far off.

Very truly yours,
Irving J. Alexander

No Material Change Planned In US Export Policy For Upland Cotton

No material change is planned in United States export policy for upland cotton for the 1955-56 marketing year, but the Commodity Credit Corp., may offer to sell for export during the year on a gradual basis not more than a million bales of its lower quality short staple stocks on an open competitive bid basis, Faust Collier of the local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office said Wednesday. Collier said Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson recently made the following statement: "Sales of cotton from the bulk of stocks in CCC inventory will be continued on the same basis as during the past marketing year. This cotton will be offered for sale for export on a competitive bid basis, but at not less than the higher of the domestic market price or 10.5 percent of the current cotton price support level plus reasonable carrying charges. "Later in the marketing year, not more than a million bales of CCC stocks of lower qualities may be offered for sale for export on an open competitive bid basis. The limited sales of these special qualities might be made at prices somewhat below the minimum price limitations which control most CCC sales. Short staple stocks are in over-abundant supply in relation to market requirements and they are rapidly increasing at present price levels. "However, no such special sales will be made before Jan. 1, 1956, after the major part of 1955 production has been harvested. After that date, sales will be made only at times and in quantities which would avoid material interference with regular marketing programs. "This program is in line with the President's statement of Sept. 9, 1954, which said in part, "The United States cannot be satisfied with the position of holding its own surplus and Jo Harold and Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Parsons, Lloyd, Don, and Nancy and Doris of Hereford.

competitive cotton exports on our domestic textile industry, through increased competition if foreign mills can get United States cotton at lower prices. The limited export program for special qualities will not result in a material change in the overall situation for domestic mills. Foreign textile manufacturers can now get lower priced cotton anywhere in the world. We do not believe that the moderate broadening of United States export plans makes it necessary or advisable to impose special quotas on the import of cotton textiles. "Faced with the growing cotton problem, we have been making ever effort to find ways of keeping up our shipments and maintaining a fair share of world markets, through programs which have been available. The Department of Agriculture has issued authorizations for the shipment of more than 600,000 bales of cotton between August 1 and December 31 this year, under the provisions of Title I of the Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954 (Public Law 480). In addition, the International Cooperation Administration (formerly F O A) has authorized shipment by December 31 of over a half million bales under its programs.

At The Movies

"STRATEGIC AIR COMMAND"
The U. S. Air Force's "Strategic Air Command" has made our nation a safe place from the target of the enemy. For the first time the training and methods of this operation will be brought to the eyes of the public. This is not a war story but a peace story starring James Stewart and June Allyson. Paramount's Technicolor "Strategic Air Command" is our atomic striking force, brought to the Star Sept. 4-6. Co-starring are Frank Lovejoy, Barry Sullivan, Alex Nicol and Bruce Bennett.

"THE BIG COMBO"
Carmel Wilde stars as the detective out to track "The Big Combo." This "mature exciting, dramatic and suspenseful story will be at the Star Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 7-8. Co-starring are Richard Conte, Brian Donlevy and Jean Wallace, the girl trying to break away from the syndicate leader.

"VALLEY OF THE KINGS"
"Valley of the Kings" is a story of suspense and adventure laid against Egypt's fabulous monuments of antiquity. This new MGM drama, filmed in color, is the first Hollywood produced picture to have been made on location in Egypt. It brings Robert Taylor, Eleanor Parker and Carlos Thompson to the tower Sunday only with fireworks.

CROCKETT, OR FOX?

GEENEVILLE, Tenn. — Irene Bewley, a resident of Davy Crockett's native Greene County, has done some boning up on Crockett lore and come up with this shattering conclusion: "The cap the frontiersman habitually wore probably wasn't coonskin at all—it was fox skin.

You don't need a "BUNDLE" to wrap up this BONUS-BARGAIN

SOMETIMES, a bargain is measured by how little you pay. Sometimes, it's measured by how much you get. But here's one that's a whopping bargain by both measures. Because right now—for the leastest money of the year—you can buy the mostest Buick in history. That, Mister, is because we're adding a profit-sharing bonus allowance on top of the long trade-in allowances we've been making all year. And when we say the "mostest" Buick, we mean the most-wanted Buick ever built—the one that has broken every record in the book—outselling by far all other cars except the two most widely known smaller ones. We mean the Buick that brings you the most for your money in terms of mighty V8 Power—of real family-size room—of bold fresh styling. The one that gives you the most buoyant ride ever born of all-coil springing. And we mean the only car blessed by the smooth magic of Variable Pitch Dynaflow*—world's first transmission built on the switch-pitch principle of the modern plane's propeller. Come on in. We're ready and waiting to make you the deal of your life on the most thrilling Buick ever.

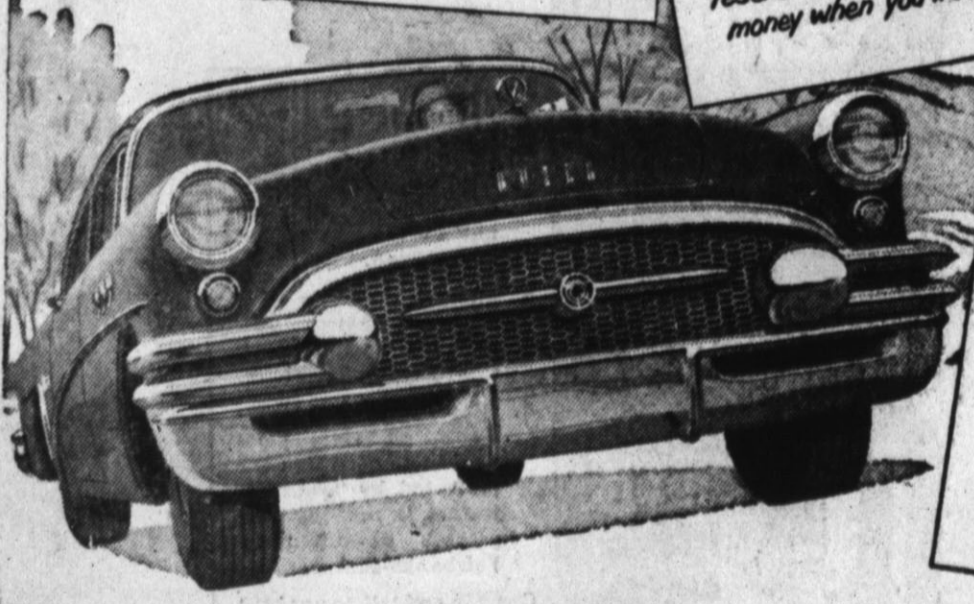

*Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick built today. It is standard on Roadmaster, optional at modest extra cost on other Series.

1. Bonus Trade-in Allowance
-biggest in our history

2. Bonus Buy
-because Buick is the thrill of the year in style, power, performance, value

3. Bonus Resale
-because a Buick always resells high—brings you more money when you trade it in
