NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS: The National Whirligig

WASHINGTON By George Durso Russia— Much ado is being made about American recognition of Russia.

The $4,000,000 R.F.C. loan for export of American cotton to Russia is no criterion.

Germany and England have been getting a major portion of Russia's trade.

Of late the Reds have been curtailing their orders to these two countries.

When the Russian wheat crop went off, she had to ship gold to meet part of her payments.

Consequently the Reds began placing orders elsewhere for the time being.

With or without recognition our markets are open to them at any time.

If they have the money to put on the line.

Brookhart— Privately, some of our economists say putting Brookhart in charge of Russian trade negotiations was about as sensible as making ex-Governor Bibbo super-newspaper-clipper.

They infer that Brookhart is trying to ballyhoo himself into a job as head of an American Amtorg.

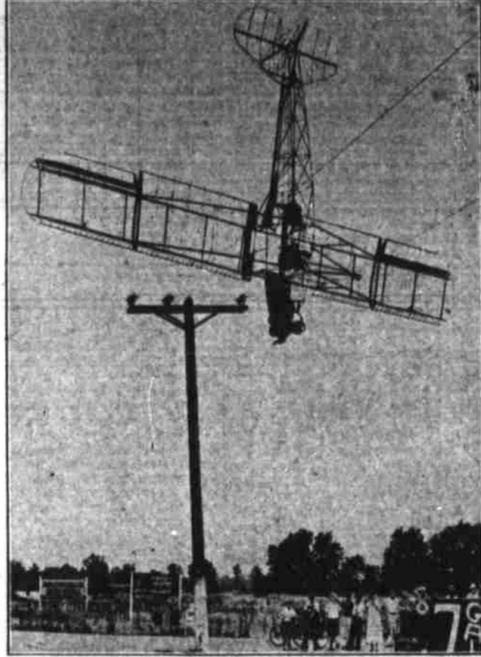

With a trip to Russia thrown in for good measure.

Sugar— Have you noticed, Mrs. Housewife, that sugar futures have been going up? You'll probably feel it at the grocery store soon.

There's a reason back of this. Producers and refiners are at loggerheads over a marketing agreement.

All of the big sugar daddies are in town, reinforced by lobby experts and legal advisers.

Beer Legal In Oklahoma

86,000 Lead Reported For 3.2 Beverage

Governor Withdraws Guard, Trucks Rush For Beer Cars

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP)—Governor William H. Murray proclaimed Wednesday 3.2 beer legal in Oklahoma.

As returns from more than two-thirds of the 3,313 precincts indicated a majority of approximately 100,000 for beer, Governor William H. Murray called national guard troops into action to prevent opening of 50 cars of the brew in the Oklahoma City railroad yards.

He would not say when the proclamation would be issued.

Meanwhile, J. Berry King, attorney general, the governor's political foe, ruled that beer became legal in the state last night.

So far as could be learned, however, dealers in general made no attempt to distribute the brew pending further word from Governor Murray.

He added the prohibition thousands will begin training immediately for the second round—the question of repeal of the 18th amendment.

The governor also took steps to prevent unauthorized movement of beer from the state from Missouri and Colorado, saying he had officers guarding the borders.

At Tulsa, however, Frisco railroad officials said they had obtained the governor's permission to move 43 cars of beer into the state on condition they await word from him before unloading.

Tulsa, Oklahoma City and the northeastern counties, near wet Missouri, voted heavily for beer.

Western Oklahoma gave the strongest dry vote, several counties balloting decisively against beer.

Three Texas border counties—Jackson, Harmon and Jefferson—were anti-beer strongholds.

Harper, Grant, Kingfisher, Payne and Wichita counties were others in the dry column.

Cats Whipped By Buffaloes

Ten Bases On Balls And A Smile Win For Indian Hurler

HOUSTON—Some great relief pitching by Oscar Fuhr, Dallas castoff, assisted by amazing fielding by Manager Carey Selph and Bob Kalbitz, rookie first baseman, enabled the Houston Buffs to take the second game of the series from Fort Worth Tuesday night, 5-4.

Fuhr relieved Al Fisher with the score tied and two on bases in the fifth inning and let the Cats down with one hit the rest of the way. Selph roved from behind the pitcher's box into right field to handle fourteen chances, perfectly, one short of the league record while Kalbitz turned in marvelous plays which kept the Cats from tying the score.

Braves, Phillies And Cubs Take Games Of Tuesday

ST. LOUIS—The New York Giants reached a climax in their exhibitions of poor fielding Tuesday and the Cardinals took advantage of this weakness to defeat the league leaders, 2 to 1, and draw up 2 1-2 games behind first place.

The Giants made four of their five misplays in a row in the seventh inning to give the Cards both their runs without a hit.

Under The Dome At Austin

AUSTIN, (UP)—A sordid picture of conditions in Texas garment factories, mills, and kitchens—the "sweat shops" of Texas—is scattered through the steel filing cabinets that line the walls of the outer office of State Labor Commissioner Jack Flynn.

One filed complaint tells of a "floor boss" who took from three to four girls to the factory's rest room each day and kept them there for 15 to 20 minutes each for an untold purpose.

Another complaint tells of a textile mill manager who took the more comely girls working in his "sweat shop" and used them as bait for prospective buyers of a cheap product.

Other affidavits show in a few instances, girls who work in a few pennies a day in a dimly lighted, unclean garment factory were charged five cents per week for drinking water. Still others were required to pay the federal tax on their meager pay checks.

The Labor Department struck sharply and decisively to end such practices in each instance.

But the Labor Department's weapons are dull.

The 43rd Texas Legislature was asked to sharpen them. Of 12 bills urged for passage by Commissioner Jack Flynn, less than half reached final enactment.

The major bill of the 12, establishing a $12 per week minimum wage for women failed to secure a majority vote from Texas lawmakers.

"Without the vestige of a law to regulate wages for working women, they are forced to take what the 'boss' gives them," Commissioner Flynn told the legislators.

"Their only recourse to quit. Many of them do, but there are plenty of other hungry ones to take their places and go through the same painful experience. Stories of starvation wages being paid to women workers in this state are enough to make every decent American blush with shame."

"Blushing," noted Commissioner Flynn, "will not help the situation."

He now hopes the federal government, under powers granted for the sake of industrial recovery, will dry up the sweat shops in Texas and convert them into places of decent livelihood and legitimate profits.

Judges on the Commission of Appeals of the Supreme Court of Texas are to be paid salaries little higher than those of clerks in normal times.

Justices of the peace, in several instances, have made more money in fees than Supreme Court judges receive in salaries.

Judge C. A. Leddy believes such a system unjust. He resigned from the Commission of Appeals, and will seek greater income with the law firm of Pubright, Crocker & Freeman, of Houston.

"My duty to make provision for my family in the future prevents my completing the remaining two years of my present term of office," wrote Judge Leddy in his letter of resignation.

"The Supreme Court accepted his resignation with regret. 'At no period in the state's history,' the court wrote, 'has it more sorely needed to retain experienced, able and fearless and upright judges.'"

The last legislature cut the salaries of Commission of Appeals judges from $7,500 to $5,500, effective September 1, the misty dawn of a new fiscal year.

The legislature decreed that district clerks and county judges in counties the size of Harris and Dallas might receive as much as $5,000 annually. The county judge may also practice law in the district courts. Judges of the state's highest court must have no engagements with other law practice.

The legislature's same depression-whetted economy ax lopped the salaries of Supreme Court judges from $8,000 to $6,000. Outside audits of a few county governments in Texas have revealed some justices of the peace made as much as $10,000 a year in fees.

Visitors to the governor's office in the capitol on longer are met with a dictatorial "Don't slam the gate."

At the mailing which partitions the governor's outer office into a waiting room, newspapermen stationed in the capitol met one morning.

"As tax-paying citizens of Texas," they began in mock seriousness, "we object to this sign."

Secretary Charlie Guakas obligingly ripped from the swinging little door its cardboard request for silence.

"A blow for liberty," said the newsmen, and quietly trooped out.

Two Baptist Circles Entertain; Membership Contest To Be Staged

The Florence Day and the Mary Willis Circles of the First Baptist W.M.U. were hostesses to the other circles of the W.M.U. Tuesday afternoon for a party at the church parlors, celebrating the close of the membership contest.

Potted ferns furnished attractive decorative notes for the cool church parlors.

A program was given by the various organizations sponsored by the church. Mrs. Douglas opened the meeting with a devotional, after which Miss Lillian Clayton played a piano selection and Mrs. McNew and Mrs. Blount sang a duet.

The Sunbeams gave a number without the help of their leader. The R.A.'s sponsored by Mrs. C. C. Coffee, and the G.A.'s sponsored by Mrs. J. W. Aderholt took part. The Y.W.A.'s sponsored by Mrs. Charles Kelsey gave a number. After each organization was presented members of it gave musical numbers and readings.

An Eleanor Douglas gave a reading. Loy Gulley gave a violin number with Lottie Lee Williams at the piano. Cornelia Frances Douglas gave a reading. Sylvia Pond, Betty Dooley and Lottie Lee Williams sang a hymn. Lillian Hart played a piano selection. Lola Mae Hall sang a solo with Lillian Hurt as accompanist. The program closed with a reading by Miss Elouise Haley.

After the program ice cream and cake were served during the social hour.

Those present were: Mmes. Nat Shick, O. E. Hull, J. D. Stamper, S. C. Bennett, C. C. Coffee, J. C. Smith, Ben R. Sullivan, C. C. Harria, W. W. McCormick, Docia G. Hildreth, J. A. Bode.

Washington Loses 9 To 3

WASHINGTON—Falling to find their vaunted batting for the second time in as many days, the Washington Senators struggled impotently Tuesday to avert a 9-3 defeat by the visiting Chicago White Sox, a loss which allied their lead over the apparently rejuvenated New York Yankees to only two games.

Panther Seen Near Bronte

BRONTE—The residents of Bronte, who sought refuge from the heat during the week-end in the comforts of sleep, found the screams of a drought-stricken panther an alarm clock that sent some after guns and some further under the cover of their beds. His screams lasted for more than an hour and aroused the whole community.

Elmer Allen discovered the animal in the Oscar Brown pasture just across the fence from the ranch of Mrs. Jim Coffee, where there was a tank of water. It was this visitor, the first seen in the section in many years, that gave out intermittent screams like cries of a woman in distress. Allen had nothing more than a pocket knife and when the panther showed a disposition to fight he retreated.

Mrs. Jim Coffee, Miss Maitie Brown, Miss Mary Fetter, Vivian Fay Story and Irene Lloyd, were among those who had their naps disturbed. Mrs. Coffee had only two cartridges in her pistol and thought it unwise to go after the prowler alone.

Soon, however, a posse of about 30 men and women, all armed with guns were after the beast which had disappeared, leaving tracks around some dry tanks that convinced everyone that it is a mountain lion.

Ranchmen have been missing lambs recently and thought possibly that the panther had been taking them.

THE ROMANS had a phrase for it --

"CAVEAT EMPTOR," meaning "Let the buyer beware." This wasn't used as a bit of balm to ease the ancient conscience; nor, yet, was it placarded in the booths and stalls of the market-place. It was a piece of every-day knowledge, born of dear-bought experience.

A shopkeeper knew little about the source of his merchandise. This tunic he bought from a trader, who said it came from Byzantium. So he sold it as the latest Byzantium style. The trader told him the dye was pure Tyrian—it wouldn't fade. So he sold it as Tyrian dyed. But the buyer knew the responsibility was his own. If he guessed wrongly, or his judgment was poor, it was his hard luck.

Today, fortunately, there are safer guides than the blanket-warning to "let your eyes be your market."

These guides are the newspaper advertisements. In this newspaper, they are a daily catalog of the best values in town—signed by responsible firms. If the goods are not all that is claimed for them, their sponsors would need to "beware." For no business can thrive on a one-time sale, or on dissatisfied customers.

A signed advertisement is, in a way, like a promissory note. The advertiser has made a statement, and affixed his signature as a sign of good faith.

So, read the advertisements before you start out on a buying-trip. Make this a daily habit, and see how much you save . . . in time, in temper, in money, in shoe-leather.
