WILL BEGIN MONDAY

Airport and Golf Course Work Set

Hereford residents this week will be able to see several major signs of progress as construction begins on two new city facilities, service is improved on trash collection, and the first stage of the summer mosquito control project will be started.

City Manager Dudley Bayne said Saturday that construction of a 3,000 foot temporary runway will start at the new 600-acre municipal airport Monday. Delayed previously by bad weather and the need to have electric lines and poles removed from within the boundaries, "everything is set to go now," Bayne said.

At the golf course Monday, contractor Earl Springer is scheduled to start digging ditches for installation of the new fairway sprinkler system by city crews. Work on this project, slated shortly after the city assumed ownership of the nine-hole course in March, has been delayed by slow shipment of fittings needed for the water system installation.

Twice a week garbage and trash collection in the residential area, long sought by homeowners, will become a reality this week, Bayne said. Equipment and personnel formerly used in the business district have been reassigned to the servicing of residential areas following the installation of new trash pickup equipment in the downtown area.

AMERICAN DUSTING CO. planes this week will dust BHC chemical over Tierra Blanca Creek and lakes near the city limits as part of the mosquito control program outlined recently by city officials. Ray Fry of American Dusting volunteered his services for this part of the drive to prevent a sleeping sickness outbreak here.

Bayne said the new ground rig ordered by the city to use in

REA, Phone Co-op Meeting Slated

THE ANNUAL meetings of the Deaf Smith County Electric Co-op and West Texas Rural Telephone Co-op will be held Thursday at the Bull Barn. Members of both the groups are invited to attend a noon barbecue, served by the Walter Jetton catering service, according to Leo Forrest.

The telephone cooperative's business meeting will start at 10 a.m. at the Bull Barn. Three directors are to be elected in addition to regular business and financial reports. Nominees for the elective posts are E. L. Fairchild, incumbent, and A. L. Black to represent the Hub Exchange; Louis Welch, incumbent and Melvin Sachs, to represent the Farmer Exchange; and H. M. Benson, incumbent, and Melvin May to represent the Dawn Exchange.

Harold Carpenter of Farwell, chairman of the telephone cooperative, will preside at the meeting. Door prizes will be awarded at the end of the meeting.

THE ELECTRIC power cooperative's meeting will be called to order by chairman T. E. Seigler at 1 p.m. in the Bull Barn. Following financial and other reports, an "adequate wiring" demonstration will be presented by Peggy Browning and Sharon Bezner, 4-H Club electric contest winners.

Two directors for the REA group are to be selected. Nominees are H. H. Miller the incumbent, and A. T. Fry, for the Dawn district, and Joe Burkenfeld the incumbent, and Frank G. Hoelting for the Nazareth district.

Additional nominations may be made for the directors positions in both elections, Forrest said. The electric group's meeting will end with the awarding of appliances as door prizes.

LIONS SELECT D. C. MARTIN AS NEW BOSS

The third annual Lions Club ladies night and election party attracted 375 persons to the Bull Barn Thursday night, including the hosts and their ladies, Lions from several neighboring cities and a number of guests.

D. C. Martin was elected to the top post in the club, Boss Lion, in balloting that followed a hectic election campaign program which featured a round of stunts ranging from monkeyshines to can can dancing — the monkey and the dance were genuine. But speeches by campaign managers followed tradition, appealing more to the sense of humor than to reason.

BOSS LION Earnest L. Langley presided over the banquet and business session.

Party To Boost Cancer Fund Drive

The American Cancer Society's annual drive for funds here is to receive another boost Friday. A games party will begin at 8 p.m. at the Jim Hill Hotel with Beta Sigma Phi Sorority as the sponsoring group.

Tickets are now available from all members of the sorority and all proceeds will go into the fund for cancer research. Priced at $1 each, the benefit duets may be bought singly, in pairs or in groups for games of pinocle, canasta, bridge and "42." Tickets also will be sold at the door. Valuable traveling prizes are to be awarded, as well as prizes to the high and second high man and woman in each game. These prizes, provided by the cancer society, are now on display in the window of Dub's Man's Shop.

Group reservations for the evening's play may be made by calling Mrs. Jimmy White or Mrs. Pete Guinn before the afternoon of April 24.

The neighbor to neighbor crusade for cancer funds was conducted here during the week of April 8-13 by the sorority group, in cooperation with the American Cancer Society.

General chairman of the group's cancer drive activities is Mrs. Jess Robinson with Mrs. M. G. Duvall and Mrs. Glen Nelson as committee members.

Ed Slightly Hurt When Hit by Truck

Alan Brooks, 3-year-old son of Mrs. Everett Brooks, 404 Ave. J, was slightly injured about 7:30 p.m. Thursday when he was struck by a pickup driven by Eugene Edward Bishop, 43, 505 Ave. J.

The child was running across the street to his home when he was hit. He suffered a cut on his head and bruises and a skinned nose. He was treated and released at Deaf Smith County Hospital.

Around Town

More evidence of oil play in this county came in late this week as 24 oil leases were filed at the county clerk's office. Details of these leases will be found in the courthouse records in this paper.

Rain forced postponement of the police department sponsored Easter egg hunt planned yesterday for children from three to nine years of age. Chief Henry Aycock said "We'll hold the egg hunt at 2 p.m. today, in Veterans Park, provided the weather is bright. More than 1,000 eggs will be hidden.

Employees of the city police department are brightening up their quarters with a coat of light green paint and white trim. The walls were formerly a dull beige. Draw drapes will be installed soon, according to Chief Henry Aycock.

Hereford Jaycees will not hold their regular meeting Tuesday night. Eight of the Jaycee officials and members will be in Corpus Christi for a convention.

Hereford's American Legion Post 192 and Auxiliary will be host next Saturday and Sunday to over 200 delegates to the 18th District American Legion Convention. The Jim Hill Hotel will be headquarters for the meeting, with activities scheduled for both the hotel and at Veterans Park.

The County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee is urging farmers who have not signed to preserve their wheat acreage history in do so by May 1. A new government regulation permits farmers to preserve their planting history, even though the wheat was not seeded. The ASC committee members point out that the county allotment of wheat has been reduced to its present low point largely because such a preservation of history program was not in effect during the past drought years. The forms will be mailed on request — it is not necessary to call at the county ASC office.

GEORGE HEARD REPORTS:

Food and People on Trip to Iraq

(EDITOR'S NOTE: George Heard of Hereford is now in Iraq with the Government Oil Refinery Administration. He left New York April 4 and The Brand received this letter this week. It was postmarked in Baghdad, Iraq and had 88 cents in postage on it. Heard leased his Hereford farm before leaving. He has a three-year contract to work in Iraq. His letters on life in Iraq will be published in The Brand as they arrive.)

April 8, 1957

Dear Folks,

I'll try to cover some parts of the trip over here. You may be interested in some of our eating experiences. In New York we had a good breakfast and had anticipated a delayed lunch but planned to eat at the East Side air terminal. We got in a traffic jam and barely got there at the set time. We had so much baggage and so many kids that it took us longer than expected to get through. Then the bus was too full of people and we had to wait for the next. Some other people going to Baghdad were late and that held us up further. We got to International Airport barely on time but again the extra kids and baggage delayed take off for over 30 minutes. By that time, Leslie was unhappy. Kids are poor at waiting for an overdue meal. The steward gave her a small box of Dutch chocolates. That kept her busy and happy for quite a time opening the box and unwrapping the foil and eating the five or six chocolates. While we were getting a good view over the towns of Mass., and a particularly good view of Cape Cod, they were beginning to serve us various things.

First, we were given gum or hard candy to help adjust our ears to the altitude. Then cigarettes were passed out. Next we had our choice of drinks — milk, orange juice, Cokes, whiskey and soda, Scotch whiskey, Dutch Gin and vermouth, cocktails or one or two varieties or any combination of these. Then came d'ouevres along with as many drinks as wanted. Then was an appetizer with a French name and champagne. I was gratified to notice that our captain drank carbonated water during this part. The main course gave a choice of roast beef or a veal chop with vegetables and a red wine. The glass was filled with you asked that they stop. The CROP DUSTER'S CRASH—Pilot Robert E. Doughman, 36, of 13th and Ave. A, escaped with minor cuts and bruises after this crop dusting Piper airplane stalled and crashed 9 miles southeast of Hereford late Wednesday afternoon. Doughman and two other Val Air of Hereford pilots were dusting BHC chemical on greenbug-infested wheat at the Wilburn Axe farm when a high speed stall and spin occurred as he was turning about 25 feet above the Claude Damron farm. Hollis Schunter of Val Air said the plane will be repaired at a cost of over $3,000. (Staff Photo)

Medical examinations will be given on Friday and Saturday afternoons to children planning to enroll in school for the first time this September. The examinations are sponsored as a "Spring Round-up" by the Health Council of the Hereford Public Schools, assisted by the Parent-Teachers Assn.

Local doctors and dentists have volunteered to give the exams between 12:30 and 3:30 p.m. on the two days at the high school auditorium. There is no charge for the examination.

School Nurse Mrs. Earl Springer and roundup - chairman Mrs. Earnest Langley advise mothers of children eligible for the service to bring the birth certificate, record of diseases the child has had, and record of shots given for protection against communicable diseases. They also ask that parents follow the schedule mailed to individual families for the children's examinations.

Dumpsters in Business

A SIMPLIFIED method of trash collection went into effect in the business section of Hereford last week and twice a week collections will begin in the residential area this week.

Installation of 25 Dempster-Dumpsters was completed Thursday. The Dumpsters are large metal containers to hold trash and garbage. Two were placed in each block of the downtown area.

They will be hauled to the city dump by a special truck, taking only one man for collection and disposal where it formerly took three men.

The other two men who had been working downtown collection will be put to work in the residential section.

In addition to keeping the alleys free of blowing trash, the Dumpsters are wind and rodent proof.

BEFORE AND—AFTER—Above, the alley behind the brand was always floating with papers and trash, making it a difficult job for collectors. At left, pressman L. J. Mueller dumps a barrel of paper into the new Dempster-Dumpster which was installed last Monday. The metal container keeps all the paper secure from being scattered by winds, animals and children. Perhaps the happiest of the FFA girls who are preparing for the trip to the annual state meeting in Dallas this week are Lovilla Finley and Kaye Kershen, who qualified for the trip by earning the highest number of points in their respective chapters.

The girls earn points for club activities throughout the year, and those having the highest number are allowed to make the trip.

The annual meeting will be held in Dallas Thursday through Saturday. It is the highlight of the year's activities for the girls who are privileged to go. Other than the high-point girls, those who qualify to go may be a newly-elected officer who never has attended a state meeting, or those who have completed work on their State Homemaker Degree. The local chapters have six who have qualified on the latter score. Elisabeth Brummer, local exchange student, has been invited to be a platform guest at the meeting.

While attending the meetings, the girls will hear several informative speeches, and through comparison of the work of other groups they will gather material to be used in their local chapters. They gain information and practice in parliamentary procedure, too, according to their reporter, Donna Sue Guseman. One of the highlights of the trip her son. Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Merritt were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boyd in Hereford. The group visited in the afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Taylor. The men drove out to the Kaul home for a practice session with new song books.

Progress marches on. If you don't believe it, take a good look at the Easter hats for 1957. Many times women's hats have left the male population gaping and spell-bound, but this year caps them all.

Sometimes, I think that women turn to crazy hats as a means of escape, just as some men turn to drink to forget their worries. Down Littlefield way they had an article in the paper emphasizing this point. It was about a lady who broke down and burst into tears when the doctor told her that she was about to become a mother. The doctor attempted to console her every way he knew, but to no avail. Finally she looked up timidly and said:

"I'm sorry, doctor. Please don't worry about it. It's just that I can't stand facing another 12 years of P-TA."

And by the same token, when you see a school teacher wearing a crazy hat, don't condemn her too hastily. She likely has a good reason.

Everybody is saying nice things about Jack B. Harris, Hereford's new football coach. He sounds like a swell fellow. He may turn up a little short on material this first season or two, but I'll bet he never found more loyal fans. . . anywhere. Hereford is about due for another topnotch team, and when that happens, folks around here go literally nuts. Anyway, Harris has the school board enthused — and it is gradually seeping out across the community. He has a good record and rates a tip-top welcome.

I never knew I had so many little friends until the Cub Scouts started selling doughnut tickets. I hear that Tim Gearn has personally sold 181 tickets — or a total of 2172 doughnuts in the drive, all of which is a lot of doughnuts.

Something like 100 guests turned up from over the district for the Hereford Lions Club annual election campaign. Personally, I thought the stunts were a little under the average of the past two years, but everyone enjoyed them thoroughly. Ronald Babione and Neil Cooper pooled their resources to produce their own version of Ed Murrow's weekly TV visit. Babione's candidate, Wayne Lawrence, was interviewed in a setting which depicted the Hereford dump ground. Cooper's candidate, Fred Baird, was interviewed inside a jail. The whole thing was cleverly presented, along with good script. Baird got elected, despite the fact that he kept getting in front of and cutting off the view of a gorgeous picture which decorated the inside of the jail wall.

Also clever was Bill Decker's troupe of Can-Can girls who were plugging for director candidates E. T. Brooks and Marlin Gilliland. Jim Wiman had a neat presentation, as did Wayne Edwards and D. C. Kinsey. Everyone missed Ray Cowser's orations of past years, though. I still think this skit would be a big hit on TV.

T. J. Clay and Emmett Sherman got the whole Black community in a dither a few days back. When Fred Sims and brother Bill opened their fertilizer plant out there, they bought a couple of brand new tractors. T. J. and Emmett got up early the next morning and, seeing the tractors setting out, decided to hide them — which they did. The Sims boys figured the tractors had been stolen, all of which resulted in sheriff's posses from Deaf Smith and Parmer Counties in Texas, along with a delegation of lawmen from Clovis. Things got pretty rugged around there for a few hours.

ABOUT TAXES! It was all a mistake last Thursday concerning the airport land. Sank Ramey's tax office made a mistake when they gave out the figures and, although the deal was settled on the basis I had in this column, it will cost the City of Hereford another $50.12 to clean up the 1956 taxes on the land.

Here's the actual tax figure: 278 acres sold for $45,600 and paid a county and state tax of $69.64, while the 321.2 acres sold for $46,400 and paid a county and state tax of $80.72. The difference was $11.08, which is fairly equal on the assessed valuation which the county uses.

Once upon a time, it seems, there were two abstracts on the 278 acre tract and the tax office is still carrying it with 200 acres on one tract and 78 acres on the other. When called to determine the amount of taxes due, the office made a boo-boo and reported only on the 78-acre tract — which was $19.52, as reported. Anyway, it caused quite a bit of conversation, especially around The Brand office all day Thursday.

Personally, I am inclined to go along with one official, who said: "For goodness sake, let's straighten it out. Things are bad enough without making them worse than they really are."

A couple of real flush guys these days are Roy Clark and Travis Caraway, who got their checks from Life Magazine this week. Each netted $40 for his snowstorm picture which recently appeared in the weekly magazine.

Also in the chips is Mrs. A. T. Mimms, who won a $250 weekly prize in the big $20,000 Associated Grocers contest now in progress at Piggly-Wiggly, Coopers and Taylors.

A BRIEF NOTE from Gussen, Germany, says that the Art Manjots are living it up, chiefly visiting with Lloyd and his family and seeing Europe. ## The Patrolman Was Friendly . . . BUT! IT'S: HER POINT OF VIEW

By BETTY BABIONE

Well! I have now suffered the supreme indignity! I got stopped for the first time by a highway patrolman, and it wasn't no social visit.

Of course I must add that I halfway expected it; even as I mosey'd down the highway, just minding my own business, I was conscious that the '56 inspection sticker glowed like a beacon on the windshield of my car. A '57 sticker wouldn't have been nearly so conspicuous.

The only thing that I appreciated about the experience was that the officer didn't blow his siren when he took out after me. Save for our being out in the open and in broad daylight, the whole procedure would have hardly been noticeable.

THE 'DUTY-BOUND' man with the ticket book was very friendly, but then he could afford to be friendly I suppose. Alongside him stood his buddy (saying not one word but looking very official) and the two of them together weighed no less than 450 lbs. Guess they felt pretty sure of themselves even with the chance that I might have a concealed weapon or give them any trouble.

Or maybe they thought I looked like a suspicious character. I might have acted suspiciously at that; I found it difficult to look the fella in the eye while at the same time glancing around to see if anyone I knew was driving by to witness my embarrassment.

And it sorta made me nervous for him to look down his nose at me while I meekly recited my feeble excuses for not having a '57 sticker. To boot, I had the feeling that I could talk all day and not change matters one iota.

WHAT REALLY got me was what the patrolman said to the effect that it hurt him as much as ing here," she adds, "but NO GRAIN elevators."

Also appearing in this issue is the first report from George Heard datelined Baghdad. It was done by special request before the Heards departed and I thought it most interesting. Let us know what you think — and maybe he will do some more.

A NEW STORY making the rounds these days is about a little six-year-old boy who was a holy terror wherever he went. The youngster returned from a two-week holiday on the farm with his grandparents and his dad asked if the young man learned anything:

"Sure," replied the kid. "I learned about kittens and pigs and chickens and how to milk a cow. . . and how to swim."

"How did you learn to swim?" asked his dad, quite interested.

"Oh, granddad just threw me into the middle of the lake — and I had to swim out."

"Weren't you frightened?" asked the father.

"I sure was," replied the little fellow, "especially until I got out of that sack."

it did me. That is a FIBBER on the FORCE!

Oh well, I guess I shouldn't feel too bad. From what I hear, there are numerous drivers who have "joined the club" this week. And all we criminals have this in common: we aren't quite so remorseful over our crime as we are over being caught at it.

So much for the criminal file and on to matters less gruesome — after all, we should be dwelling on things beautiful, joyful, and in other ways appropriate for Easter.

This Sunday is one day when I would just love to be everywhere at once and view the processions of people going to and from.

THOSE ATTENDING social functions this week, Lions Club Ladies Night and the Allred wedding for example, had somewhat of a preview of the finery which will decorate the scene on Easter. I hope to be able to report soon on a few individuals and their choices of spring fashion attire.

I was interested in doing some research on some of the customs observed during the Easter season, such as hunting eggs, etc. . . . Couldn't find much in my own library and didn't make it down to the public library to get my questions answered.

I do know that eggs were originally given as Easter gifts and unless it has something to do with the regeneration idea that I have spoken of, I don't know the significance of the egg. And why did the hiding and finding of some egg become part of the tradition? Anybody know, offhand?

Have heard some discussion as to how the date for Easter is determined. For the benefit of you who may still be wondering about it: Easter is the first Sunday after the first full moon that falls on or next after the vernal equinox — somebody with a mathematically or scientifically inclined mind figures it out for the calendar. Now if you don't know what the vernal equinox is, look it up in your dictionary just like I did!

WOULDN'T YOU know it? The dust blew in gales Thursday, the day that school and Sunday School teachers and mothers took their broods of children for annual Easter outings. Mrs. Sebren Corley, Mrs. Ralph Packard, Mrs. Glenn Edwards, Mrs. L. B. Barnett, Mrs. Dudley Bayne, Mrs. Stan Knox, Mrs. Charles Hill and Mrs. Walter London were only a FEW of the names who endured dirt in their eyes and windblown hair for the cause.

Observations on Lions Ladies Night: Immense crowd. . . superb barbecue. . . first time in a coon's age they didn't call on the lawyers to make campaign speeches. . . guessed wrong the identity of the "lady" who performed on behalf of candidate Ed-Line (it was Mr. Rosy Bates from Dimmitt, and he put on quite a show of his own). . . by mistake, Neil Cooper got left out when the district governor made the five-year attendance awards. . . Buck Overall is a very effective speaker. . . Lynn Boomer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Boomer.

Residents of the Jumbo community south of Hereford on Wednesday will be host to judges in the Texas Rural Neighborhood Progress Contest. The community has placed in four previous contests, but is still trying for first place.

This year, the Jumbo residents, led in their community organization by Dean Barden, president, George Heard, vice president, and Joyce Connell, secretary - treasurer, will report a total of 20 "progressive" accomplishments. The old Jumbo school house, which serves as a community center building, has been landscaped and in part remodeled.

Seven homes have been repainted in the community and all mailboxes repainted during the last contest period.

These and other accomplishments, highlighted by a well-rounded community recreation program will be outlined for the contest judges during a luncheon meeting at the community center. Officers will present a colored slide program to supplement their progress report.

dusting throughout the city at regular intervals during the summer is expected to arrive late this week. "We'll put it to work immediately," he declared.

Work at the airport site this week will not be confined to construction of the temporary airstrip, Bayne added. Six of the seven wells there will be "pulled" by the Big T Pump Co., under a contract awarded last Monday. The pump and other irrigation equipment from the wells will be on display for prospective buyers late in the week at the City Barn, and will be advertised for sale in the immediate future.

"WE EXPECT to receive final approval of the master plan for airport development from the Civil Aeronautics Authority in the immediate future," the city manager said Saturday. Working up paving specifications and other details of the runway, taxi strip and road location is expected to be completed within 60 days and bids are expected to be invited about July 1.

Bayne said "nothing definite" has been decided regarding construction of hanger facilities at the field, but that the commission is now considering building 12 to 15 small T-hangers for rental to aircraft owners who will use the airport. The "best well" of seven on the two farms obtained for the city-owned facility is to be retained in service by the city. "It is located at the most desirable spot possible for servicing the airport administration area," Bayne added. Play at the golf course will be interrupted by the sprinkler system installation for just one day, Monday. The course will be open for play during the rest of the week, although one or two greens may be closed during each day.

Golf pro Bud Posey reported Saturday that play at the course has been heavy during the past several weeks. Cost of the new sprinkler system is expected to total between $14,000 and $15,000, but will be offset by a slight increase in green fees established shortly after the city began operation of the course.

One bit of news received by City Attorney Earnest L. Langley brought rejoicing at City Hall on Friday. Jay & Stapleton Co., of Marble Falls, the firm that had contracted to clean up tin cans at city dump grounds, informed Langley that serious illness of one of the company's owners had caused the work stoppage here.

The salvage work is scheduled to begin anew soon, and a $170 check to cover payment for 170 tons of tin cans removed from the dump accompanied the message from Jay & Stapleton.

Australia is spending a billion dollars to reverse the flow of the Snowy and Eucumbene rivers so that their waters will provide power and irrigation to an arid plain. At present the life-giving waters of the two rivers flow uselessly into the sea at the rate of a half-million gallons per minute.

Household Scrapbook

Wall Paper Cleaner
A wall paper cleaner can be made by making a paste by mixing 3 cupfuls of flour, 3 table-spoonfuls of ammonia and 1½ cupfuls of water. Roll this into balls of convenient size to fit the hand. Rub a ball over the paper and it will clean thoroughly.

Clean Hands
Make a good hand-cleaning paste by dissolving 2½ pounds of white soap in 5½ pints of hot water. As it cools and sets, stir in one pound of fine sand.

The Teakettle
Lime accumulates on the inside of the teakettle. To remove it, boil a strong solution of vinegar in the kettle. Rinse thoroughly before re-filling with water.

Varnished Surfaces
When refinishing varnished surfaces use a polish made by mixing 1 quart of good vinegar, 2 ounces butter of antimony, 2 ounces of alcohol, 1 quart of oil. Always shake thoroughly before using.

Finger Nails
Finger nails that are hard or brittle can be softened if they are immersed in warm olive oil every night. Or, try rubbing a little petroleum jelly on them every night. Enriched Ivy
Ivy growing about the house in water will be nourished considerably if you keep a small chunk of charcoal in the water.

The Coffee Pot
If coffee is to be good, the coffee pot must be kept clean and sweet. Try putting a tablespoon of soda in the pot, fill with water and let it boil for a few minutes. Then rinse with boiling water. Do this about once a week.

Their cooperation and reception of the Dumpster - Dumpster system was outstanding and I genuinely appreciated the assistance of all."

Bill Patton, insurance agent, said "It looks like it will result in a big improvement in the appearance of Hereford's alleys and streets."

"It's causing us more labor and time to break up the boxes for it, but it's helping the city and should keep the alley neater," Gaylord Newell of Piggly Wiggly said.

Total cost of the Dumpsters and special truck to carry them was $24,000.

CURB YOUR CAR

DES MOINES — D. C. Hohnbaum, Des Moines attorney, told the court he was "getting tired" of paying illegal parking tickets.

"I've got a little German Volkswagen," Hohnbaum said. "I always park it legally, but other motorists pick it up and put it on the sidewalk."

The judge dismissed the ticket. He suggested that "maybe the solution is to chain your car to the parking meter."

'All the Women of the Bible' Is Reviewed for Bay View Study Club

In keeping with the Easter season, a sacred program leading to the Crucifixion and Resurrection of Christ, was featured at the Bay View Study Club session held on Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. D. H. Alexander.

Mrs. Ansel McDowell reviewed the book "All the Women of the Bible," by Edith Dean, revealing the historical significance and the great influence of the women of the Bible from the time of Eve. She told of the laws and customs in the time before Christ, of the shining faith of the women and what it accomplished. She described the deceit, the jealousy and the lust for power among the women and the resulting tragedies. Climaxing the review she dealt at length on the life of Mary, the mother of Christ, and the part the other Marys played in His life, leading to the final resurrection and the hopes of the world.

Mrs. Will S. Kerr, president, directed a short business session and gave a report from the Seventh District, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs convention held recently in Amarillo.

Members attending the session were Mesdames Phillip Barkley, Paul Mathers, Lee Benefield, Leo Forrest; Howard Gault, Jack Gilliland, Francis Hardwick, E. W. Harrison, Will S. Kerr, J. W. Kirby, Ansel McDowell, John McLean, R. B. Miller, Eugene Naugle, J.P. Slaton, J. W. Spradley, Earl McElwee, and the hostess.

WHITEHORSE, Y. T. — When five Hungarian refugees arrived in this Yukon Territory outpost, it was 20 below zero.

The Whitehorse weekly editor quipped: "Presumably when they fled from Hungary, they anticipated they were escaping Siberia. I am not so sure."

CASE CLOSED

MONROE, Wis. — Sheriff's deputies went into action when an excited motorist reported seeing a man "force a woman into the trunk of a car, close the lid and drive away."

Officers found the car at a local garage and ordered the owner to open the trunk. Inside was a garage mechanic trying to locate the source of a squeak for the owner.

George.....

pilot had a Coke at this time. During all this time we were passing along the coast of Maine and Nova Scotia. Part of the time there was a good view, other times there was some haze and clouds. The haze, although actual, was also proportional to the alcoholic content of the various passengers blood. There was more to eat. A very good desert of ice cream, whipped cream and an unsweetened cookie. I believe I remember some fruit juice on it, but I can't remember for sure. Next was assorted fruit to choose from, then cheese, a choice of three or four kinds with various odors, all strong. Next to last was coffee. Finally was a choice of brandy or liquor. By this time we were too high and it was too dark for even the milk and tea drinkers to see anything.

The type of service which the Iraqi government arranged for us was first class. If one does not want the luxury which I described about the meal, he may travel tourist class. The plane which we were on over the Atlantic was a Super Constellation made in the US and owned by KLM, a Dutch airline. It carried about 40 passengers, well spaced, had a lounge room, three toilets and space for serving. All food, drinks, cigarettes and service are free. One can eat and drink as much of anything as he likes. Candy, sweets, milk, orange juice, coffee and whiskey are being served all the time. Two stewards and a stewardess are very considerate and are particularly nice to the kids. There were several kids on this flight. The tourist class of service uses the same type of plane and personnel, but they carry about 80 passengers, seated very close together, and no meals or drinks are free. If one is traveling without children, I am not sure the first class is worth the extra amount. For the few hours in an Atlantic crossing one can eat, drink, none, and be crowded for a-bout $200. Some planes carry both first class and tourist. We were in a DC 6 from Amsterdam to Baghdad that had 45 tourist class in the front section and 16 first class in the rear. This service was good but not as nice as the Atlantic crossing. On this we ate dinner at Geneva. It was nice to do this as the view of the Alps was beautiful. I just was reminded that First Class allows 66 lbs. whereas tourist allows 44 lbs. baggage. At Geneva, the tourist class bought their dinner.

We had a poor sleep on our crossing. It was caused by five hours time change in the night.

a baby that would not sleep, vibration of the plane, and the "slight" concern because the plane had one engine go out. It was just after daylight that we ended this tiring night at Pestwick, Scotland. (This was the airfield that was bombed so often during the war.) In this dazed and jaded condition we were not quite prepared for the shock when we were herded into the breakfast room to be greeted by waiters in long tall coats, stiff front shirts and white ties. Imagine a Scotch breakfast with oatmeal.

As we had such a long delay at Pestwick, we got to see more of the country than we expected. One of the kids immediately remarked that the hostesses talked like Jaenle in the television show, Hey Jeannie. The hostesses told us that all the children from the U. S. call them Jeannie.

The district around Pestwick has a high concentration of Ayrshire cattle. One of the counties there is named Ayr and we were told the cattle originated there. For the benefit of you who do not know, this is a dairy cow that is the size and shape of a Holstein and the color is red and white with the coloring varying in arrangement as the Holstein does with black and white. The cattle and sheep looked very good. Their farms are very small and many tractors of the Ford size and type are used. Their farms and fences and roadways are kept very clean and neat. The whole country looks like a well-kept park.

It is easy to see why these people are called a nation of shopkeepers. There are so many "hole in the wall" shops. It is surprising to me that a person can make a living in a shop that has about a 10 or 12 foot front and sells only one item. Imagine a store in Hereford that sold only poultry.

Although the people in Scotland seemed industrious, clean and neat they had a dowdy appearance. This could have been because they wear heavy woollens and the fog and drizzling rain takes the press out of the clothes. We have noticed it before and we noticed again on this trip that the average person, women in particular, are better dressed in Hereford than they were in Chicago and other places in the Mid West. Then in New York their dress was better than in Chicago. In the Netherlands the clothing looked better than that of the people in Scotland. The Netherlands around Amsterdam seemed very prosperous. The farmland in the main is flat and

Merchants Study Idea to Observe U. S. Cotton Week

Members of the Hereford Merchants Assn., were asked Friday to consider observing National Cotton Week, May 20-25. Joel Hodges, a director of Plains Cotton Growers Assn., made the request.

Hodges said the merchants might hold a cotton goods sale and also sponsor a local maid of cotton contest. The winner of the contest would go to Lubbock next fall and if she won there go on to Memphis, Tenn., and compete in the national contest.

A committee was appointed to study the request.

The merchants also heard a report from Oliver Streu on progress of a fund drive for advertising the group's give-away on Pioneer Day. Streu said 46 merchants had agreed so far to participate in the plan.

It is amazing to see the people going around on bicycles in the Netherlands. We were told that there were 400,000 bicycles in Amsterdam. That must be an underestimate as I am sure our driver passed more than that in one morning. It seems inconsistent to see a well dressed middle-aged woman riding one of those things. I got a big bang out of one woman who looked about 40 years, 150 lbs., very trim ankles and legs, riding along one night wearing a rather expensive fur jacket. We saw a lot of furs in the shops and on the streets. We in the U. S. joke a lot about the danger of the one arm driver, and in Amsterdam in the evenings they have the same problem on bikes. The boy puts his arm around the girl and does the peddling while she coasts. Then she may help out on any uphill stretches like going over bridges. A lot of the girls sit "side saddle" on the rear. This arrangement is more maneuverable in traffic but not as cozy for courting. It scares me to see a woman with kids and groceries in front and rear baskets peddling along in heavy traffic. They say there are a lot of accidents but we saw only those between ears. With all the bicycles one can make an extensive survey quickly on the women's legs and knees and I believe I would be safe in saying that in Amsterdam they come in all sizes and shapes just like they do in the U. S.

Decorations and appointments were in blue and white, the chosen colors of the bride-elect, and blue and white flowers were combined with blue candles to center the table. A white lace cloth over blue laid the table.

Hostesses included Mesdames Ed Jesko, Matt Jesko, Leo Hoffman, Ed Loerwald, Roy Boyer, Steve Glenn, Clinton Glenn, Walter Kirkland, and Miss Betty Buse.

MISS DALEINE TINNIN TO BE BRIDE OF CHARLES SPRINGER

Wedding vows will be exchanged at 4 p.m. June 2, in the First Methodist Church and the reception will be given in Fellowship Hall at the church.

More than 100 guests attended the tea where decorative accents carried out the bride-elect's chosen colors of red and white and silver. News of the romance was revealed at the table, covered with a white satin damask cloth, where two large rings, done in silvered styfoam, stood upright in the midst of glittered red carnations. Red satin ribbon streamers told the date of the wedding "June 2," in silver glitter. Appointments were in silver.

KAREN SUE MCGEE and Janelle Benson presided at the table and Bonnie Lewis secured names for the bride's book of signatures. Informal music was provided throughout the afternoon by Carla Sue Crosthwait, Jan Hargis and Nan Story.

The Rev. Howard Scott, pastor, directed the ceremony. Mrs. Scott, organist, played a concert of nuptial selections preceding the ceremony and Liebestraum by Liszt was played softly as vows were spoken. Traditional wedding marches were played and Mrs. Scott also accompanied Wanda Marie Kirksey, vocalist, who sang "I Love You Truly" and "Because."

From the bodice stemmed a voluminous floor length skirt topped by a pointed peplum of lace. Her finger-tip veil of illusion fell from a coronet of pearlized lace, and she carried a white satin covered Bible beneath a single orchid surrounded by white Frenched carnations.

The bride's mother wore blue lace over matching cotton satin with white accessories and pink carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore navy blue silk linen with pink accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

City Helps Main Street Traffic

The new city ordinance aimed to prohibit large trucks on Main Street is a step which might be classed as long overdue.

Main Street, planned and designated back in the early 1900's, is no longer adequate to carry ordinary day to day traffic, due to growth and expansion of the community. Add to this congestion several large trucks and vans, and you have amplified the problem by several dimensions. During a bumper wheat or grain harvest, the situation becomes near to impossible.

Another problem of magnitude concerning Main Street in Hereford is that of traffic during the intervals of fire calls. Fire trucks and firemen answering the call whiz through traffic lights, which is good and proper—but it could also be fatal to some unsuspecting person who might be following the signals with faith and sincerity. While local residents fairly well know the situation, such would not be true of outsiders who are accustomed to finding yellow signals during the flurry of fire traffic.

Several near-accidents have occurred at Third and Main in recent years as a result of the inadequate system. Why can't all lights turn red or yellow during a fire call, thus stopping all traffic except the firemen or fire trucks? This is the system adopted in most larger cities, and it is definitely worth investigating in Hereford.

Blue Sky Selling

Texas, once a haven for sellers of blue-sky securities, has since been made safer for investors. Yet many in the last few years have lost their savings in unwise investments which they might have avoided if more effective regulatory laws had been in force. Their misfortune has brought a movement to strengthen the Texas regulation of securities sales.

In Austin this drive has taken the logical form of combining into a proposed State Securities Board the supervision now divided between the Insurance Commission and a Securities Commissioner under the Secretary of State. The new setup would follow the pattern of the Texas Highway Commission and the Banking Commission.

One other welcome change is to put on those who propose to sell new securities the burden of proof that they comply with the law. Today it is the other way around. Securities have been assumed to comply with the law unless the state proved otherwise. Now the pending measure, if enactment is completed, will enable Texans to invest their money with better assurance against being fleeced.

Congratulate the Texas Senate. Urge similar action by the House—Dallas News.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON

Ex-Postmaster Gives Luncheon for Friends

By TEX EASLEY
AP Special Washington Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Back in town after a long absence, Hillsboro cotton man Burris Jackson gave a luncheon in the Speaker's Dining Room in the Capitol for friends he had been in close contact with during Democratic administrations.

Guests of the one-time Hillsboro postmaster and former president of both the Texas and national associations of postmasters included Speaker Sam Rayburn and several other Texas and southern congressmen, and House Democratic Leader McCormack (Mass.).

Also on hand at the head table was Texas' former Sen. Tom Connally, who demonstrated he still has a quick wit and flowery speech when called on to say a few words. He and Jackson's father were buddies in the same outfit in the Spanish-American War.

JACKSON emphasized he was in town to ask no favors, and arranged the luncheon just to be with old friends.

He got a laugh when he said he had been rated as No. 1 postmaster in the country — that is, he was the first Democratic-appointed postmaster in the nation to be ousted by President Eisenhower's administration when the Republicans took over.

Around the Capital: Friends of former East Texas congressman Brady Gentry, recently appointed to the Texas State Highway Commission by the governor, Price Daniel, recalled that he had voted against the gigantic super-highway bill when it passed the House.

THEY agreed to a man that probably no man in the nation is more thoroughly familiar with provisions of the new highway act, since Gentry had conscientiously attended House committee hearings on the legislation and was a leading figure in committee discussions.

It was recalled that his opposition centered to a large extent on a provision to reimburse private utility companies in connection with relocation of power lines, and right of way acquisitions—not to the principle of building more and better roads.

Rep. Poage (D-Tex) suggested that this attitude by Gentry might mean Texans would get more highways for their tax dollar than otherwise, since state authorities have considerable latitude in allocation of funds relative to relocation of utility systems.

REP. JACK Brooks of the Beaumont-Lufkin district received a letter from a constituent saying he had been urged by a national organization to press for defeat of a pending measure.

"I have not seen any literature in favor of this bill," added the constituent, "but after reading the reasons it should be defeated, I find I am for it."

REP. J. T. Rutherford of Odessa, in his weekly newsletter, wrote the following:

"It is somehow refreshing to occasionally note that a more peaceful and slower schedule is still followed in some parts of the United States. For instance, today there are still 135 horseback mail routes, and 96 carriers deliver mail along routes where only their shallow draft boats can pass. This in the atomic age."

PROBABLY no one who has served such a brief period in the U. S. Senate has received such a fitting send-off as Texas' interim Senator William Blakley of Dallas.

Although he was appointed only on Jan. 15 by former Gov. Allan Shivers to serve until a successor could be elected and sworn in — Ralph Yarborough won out in the April 2 balloting — Blakley won extravagant words of praise from many senators and representatives.

Longest of all tributes was that voiced on the House floor by Rep. Wright Patman of Texas, a friend of Blakley for more than 20 years. Reviewing the life span of the Dallas multi-millionaire, Patman said: "Although Senator Blakley was born poor, like many of us, he has never forgotten poor people. He has always been for the underdog, the person who did not have pull, influence, or privilege."

THE POSTAL service at last made an effort to find the nation's capitol in Texas, when it got hold of an envelope addressed to your correspondent in care of the House Press Gallery, U. S. Capitol, Austin, Tex.

Bearing a poll tax receipt which had been submitted along with an absentee ballot for the recent Texas senatorial election, the envelope identified Melvin (Mel) Faulk, the county clerk of Tarrant County, Fort Worth, as the sender. An Austin postmark shows it headed north from the state capital the following day.

Danger of Rabies Brings Warning from Veterinarian

The rabid dog is a constant threat to all children, asserts Dr. C. M. Patterson, extension veterinarian, especially on warm spring days when large groups of youngsters congregate in play areas. Rabies is currently a serious problem in several sections of the state, he adds, and should be a subject of real concern to pet owners everywhere.

Dr. Patterson says any warm-blooded animal is susceptible to rabies, but that it is most likely to be spread by the predator-type. Symptoms are hard to define, explains the veterinarian, but it's a good practice to suspect any animal if it loses the fear of man.

Keep under observation any suspicious animal should it bite a human, advises Dr. Patterson. If the animal is not available, the person should be placed under competent medical supervision at once.

Texas law now empowers commissioners courts to declare the county a rabies control area, Dr. Patterson says. This should extend more efficient control programs into the state's rural areas. Vaccination of all pets and strict impoundment of every stray dog are essential features of a good control program, he adds.

Wild animals sometimes carry the danger of rabies to farms and ranches, endangering livestock as well as farmers, Dr. Patterson warns rural people to be on the lookout for strange-acting animals, particularly foxes, coyotes, skunks, and civet cats. Pets coming in contact with any suspicious domestic or wild animals should be given a booster shot, he warns, even if already protected by a standard rabies shot.

TRAVELED DUCK — HONOLULU (AP) — A wrong-way duck has wound up here. It's a pin tail, tagged at Suisun, Calif., before going south for the winter. He flew here, instead.

He made it in less than two months, said the fish and wildlife service, which is pretty good time for a duck.

COAL THROUGH WATER — STALINO, Russia (AP) — Soviet engineers are designing new coal mines in the Donbas fields to operate by hydraulic power. Strong water jets will carry coal to the headings from where it will be "piped" to the surface through high pressure water tubes.

Engineers claim one such mine using 650 workers can produce 5,000 tons of coal daily.

REGARDLESS OF WHERE

New Jail Will Be Improvement

These days you hear lots of talk about the proposed county jail, including protests from some people who do not think it should be constructed on the courthouse lawn. There are good arguments on both sides.

From the standpoint of efficient operation, it appears highly practical to attach the new jail to the courthouse. This is, true, chiefly because each prisoner carries with him considerable paper work on the part of county officials; he also appears for hearings in the courthouse. Proximity of the jail to the courthouse, therefore, stands for efficiency and for better handling.

Opponents of the plan point chiefly to appearance created by adding modern architecture to the Georgia marble structure, and the criticism does have possibilities.

Most significant, though, is the fact that you seldom find anyone who does not agree that a new county jail is long overdue. Certainly it is needed, regardless of where it is built. There are even a few who feel that the county should go further, doubling its bond issue to build the jail and, at the same time, completely remodel the courthouse, to afford lower ceilings, adequate lighting, attractive courtrooms, nice offices and, if practical, to install an elevator.

No one in recent years could justly say that Deaf Smith County has operated on a spendthrift basis. Consequently, the exterior of the courthouse is far more modern than the interior, and the jail is next to impossible. While the commissioners are in the mood, let's not come up with "red herrings." Instead, let's encourage them all we can.

After all, regardless of what and where it is located, just about anything will be a definite improvement.

School Planning Is Step Forward

Recent announcement that the Hereford school system has secured the assistance of trained consultant to help plan future classroom expansion is a move which merits wide endorsement.

Our public schools these days unquestionably represent the biggest business in Deaf Smith County, chiefly because they hire more people and pay out more money than any other private or public operation. Faced with consistent growth in the community, it is only logical that our school program will continue to become larger, and more costly as the years pass.

Meeting these needs in a planned manner is far more sensible than going at the problem on a catch-as-catch-can basis. The Chamber of Commerce industrial survey, highly accurate so far, projects the growth and needs of our community and our schools in a systematic manner for several years to come.

The school trustees, armed with this information, can meet with the consultant and accurately plan with economy and efficiency to best handle future needs. The difference, you might say, would be in constructing a large building assisted by an architect, as compared with haphazard construction on a day to day basis where various additions were added without serious thought as to probable needs.

Hereford is not a big city. On the other hand, it is no longer a small village. Proper planning can direct its future growth in such a manner that it will be a much more desirable place to live and, at the same time, can result in tremendous savings to future tax payers. Certainly, the planning program on a long-range basis is a step in the right direction.

Bible Words for Today

PSALMS 46:10; 1 KINGS 19:11, 12 — "Be still, and know that I am God." "Behold, a strong wind — earthquake — fire, but the Lord was not in (these); and after the fire a still small voice." (RSV)

Such strong Bible words calling us to "be still"! And so much that we have felt and learned when we were still — in ways like these:

Silence after farewell when memories of someone disappearing into a train began to steady one's life... silence to prepare us for an act of insight or courage... soundless nights when only the stars spoke... a friend's quietness in controversy or joy...

To these silences readers can add those known only to themselves. And God be thanked for the sacred changes that such silences have brought about in our hidden moods within our unshared thoughts, in our impulses to action. So, in silence we are quiet to hear the still small voice of God. Rev. Percy R. Hayward, Editor Emeritus, International Journal of Religious Education, Palo Alto, Calif.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

More Durable Material for School Expansion Is Favored

The school board recently has been considering types of construction to be used in any expansion of facilities at Hereford High School. Which would you consider more desirable, the present brick and masonry long-life type construction as used in the high school; or a less durable type construction which might require replacement in 20 years? The present material runs about 25 to 30 per cent higher than the other.

MRS. J. E. BEYER—I think they might as well use the best material while they're at it, even if it does cost more at the time. It would be better in the long run.

AL YEAGER—I'd certainly rather spend money on more durable material. Offhand, I think it ought to conform with the existing building, even though it might cost more to begin with.

GUY LAWRENCE—I think with anything your quality comes first. The schools are being built for our grandkids and great-grandkids. I think the best material would be cheaper in the long run.

MRS. PRICE PRATHER—Spend it on the material to match the present building. I'd look better and be better.

TOWNSEND DOUGLAS—Offhand, I'd say I'd get the better material. It would be better in the long run. You usually come out better on maintenance and insurance as well as durability.

DOC KIRBY—Due to the fact it is permanent construction, I think it would be better to use the better material and match building. It would be a better investment in the long run. If it were a temporary building it would be different.

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bindweed farm has heard about the post office controversy, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor:

I have always figured that two of the fundamental rights of every American was to occasionally get mad at the post office and the home town newspaper, and what brings this to mind is not anything that The Brand or Postmaster Jim Lipscomb have done lately, but the controversy brought on by Postmaster General Summerfield over the need for more money to keep the post office department functioning up to standard.

As I understand it, the Postmaster General threatened to close all the post offices on Saturdays, including rural free delivery, and to cut out some other post office functions if Congress didn't give the department 47 million dollars more money.

Mr. Summerfield said the post office was going in the red and the only choice was to get more money from Congress or curtail some of its services.

Now this is a new idea in government, and while I would hate to see the mail carrier fail to show up at my neighbor's mail box on Saturdays, I'd like to say it has great possibilities.

For example, take foreign aid. Everybody knows it's costing us tax payers a lot of money to keep the rest of the world happy, and if Sec. Dulles could come over to Postmaster General Summerfield's way of thinking, he could threaten to cut down on this aid unless Congress gave him more money. This might not make the rest of the world happy, but think what it would do to you and me.

Or take any other department of the government. Any time it got in the red, all it'd have to do is cut down on some of its operations, even to the point of letting some men off. I'll admit this is contrary to our way of life, that any time a country or a family is living beyond its income the thing to do isn't to cut down on spending but to borrow more and drag out the time payments longer, but it's something to toy with.

However, it could be carried too far. Take farming. It wouldn't work there. When a farmer finds he isn't making enough, he doesn't cut down on his services. He plows longer and tries to multiply 'em.

Maybe the post office department can cut down on its services when it's going in the hole, but you apply that to a farmer and the grocery shelves in town would soon be bare.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Schweitzer Gradually Won Over by Dedicated Young Film Makers

By W. G. ROGERS
Associated Press Arts Editor
NEW YORK (AP) — You are not allowed to make a film of me — so declared Albert Schweitzer to a lot of people, in particular Jerome Hill and his photographer associate Erica Anderson.

Well, you may make one provided it is not shown during my lifetime — that was the next position taken by Schweitzer — orator, preacher and doctor, a scholar in Jesus, in Bael and in Goethe, and humanitarian who has given half his 80 years to tending to the sick blacks of Lambarene, Africa.

Finally the picture was finished, by Hill and Anderson, and run off for film. It runs one hour and 20 minutes in the American and the French version, and two hours in the German. It was the two-hour show Schweitzer saw. And what was his response?

"I'd just as soon have it longer."

SO HILL AND Anderson's severest critic was won over before the film was ever shown to the public, which has seen it here and in Boston and is about to see it in other cities across the country.

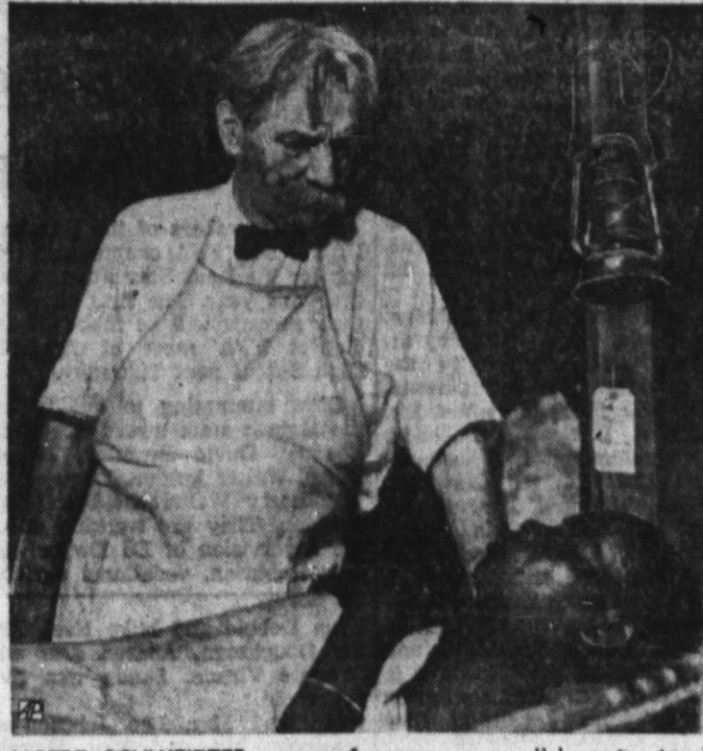

The film has been praised not only for its colorful scenes of the Alsatian hills and tiny tidy villages planted at the foot of them, where Schweitzer grew up, not only for the exotic scenes of Africa, but also for Schweitzer's face: the alive eyes, the mussed hair, the ill-kempt mustache, the ruddy tropical complexion — probably the most photogenic features you can find today in the two fields of the humanities and the arts.

Hill, here in New York for the premiere said Schweitzer's objections were broken down gradually by various events, partly by seeing some other work done by Hill in a straight-forward documentary fashion and by hearing a play-back of some of his, Schweitzer's, performances at the organ in the church of his native Gumbach and nearby Colmar.

It was a statue in Colmar's public square, by Bartholdi of Statue of Liberty fame, which helped at the start to interest Schweitzer in Africa. It commemorated a Colmar native, Admiral Bruat, commander of the French fleet in the Crimea, and on the base was a giant figure of a Negro. For some reason in World War I, when Gumbach was right at the front lines, Germans systematically smashed the entire statue, but a man who ran a little chocolate shop overlooking the site managed to save the Negro's head. Schweitzer, returning after the armistice, had a plaster cast made of it.

HE HAD that black in mind, and also the memory of his preacher father's missionary sermons, when he decided at 30 to become a doctor and go to Africa.

"When we were getting along toward the end of the filming," said Hill, "he really got interested, took over some of the direction, told his neighbors in Alsace where to stand, when to speak and when not to, and ordered the Africans around to ease the task of the cameras as much as possible."

ALBERT SCHWEITZER, man of many accomplishments, tends a sick Negro at his hospital in Africa in a scene from the Hill-Anderson film biography.

Boys attempting to qualify for the highest state award are Lynn Boomer, David Brumley, Robert Diller, Walter Vogler, Eugene Vasek, Larry Walterscheid and Bill Johnson. They are working under the supervision of Ed Dwyer and Jess Robinson, vocational agriculture teachers.

These boys who pass the district committee will have their records submitted to the area and then to the state. Those who qualify for the state award will go to the state meeting in Fort Worth July 17-20 to receive their degrees.

To qualify for Lone Star Farmer, the boys must have had at least 24 months' instruction in vocational agriculture and must be enrolled in an agriculture course if they have not completed all the work offered locally; they must be active in local chapter activities; they must hold the Chapter Farmer degree and be engaged in a worth-while program of supervised farming; they must have earned at least $500 on their FFA projects and have shown qualities of leadership, cooperation and scholarship.

ONE UNCROWDED SCHOOL

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The bumper crop of post-war babies is crowding schools everywhere—except mortuary schools. There could be a shortage of undertakers.

Dr. Otto S. Margolis, dean of the American Academy of Funeral Service, New York, said here that 1,200 will graduate this year from 20 mortuary schools. Prior to World War II the average was 1,800.

Lynn Debbie and Mike Noel, Kathy Doughman, Andrea Axe and Sammie Vinson, Sandy was five years old.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Johnson of Seminole, Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Mobley, Karla, Kent and Kirk and Mrs. H. M. Mobley visited in the Floyd Cole home Saturday evening.

UNFINISHED SENTENCE

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Richard Corbett, 29, Lafayette, pleaded guilty to writing a fraudulent $28 check and stood to hear Circuit Judge Paul D. Ewan pronounce sentence.

"Not less than one year nor more than 10 years in the State Reformatory..."

Corbett fainted.

After he was revived, Corbett learned the judge finished with: "... sentence suspended."

SOUND POLICY

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Inmates at Wisconsin State Prison are rarely "put in solitary" anymore — instead they lose their radio ear-phones or other recreational privileges.

The system, according to Warden John Burke, is very effective. "We had a fellow who actually asked for 'solitary' instead of a 5-day loss of radio privileges," said Burke. "He didn't want to miss the weekend football games."

Casserole Tops Lenten Menu 74 Reclassified by Draft Board

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

It's comforting to have a Lenten Casserole recipe that is delicious enough to serve both family and guests. The following rule — using fish fillets, peas and carrots and a well-seasoned white sauce — is it. Its added feature, a topping of cheese pastry, makes it super. We tried this dish on half a dozen tasters and they all applauded. Plus its popularity, it has another virtue — it's inexpensive.

CRISS-CROSS CHEESE PASTRY tops a delicious Lenten casserole.

LENTEN CASSEROLE
Ingredients: 1 package (1 pound) frozen haddock fillets (defrosted), 1/2 cup water, 1 cup finely chopped onion, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 package (10 ounces) frozen peas and carrots, 2 cups liquefied instant nonfat dry milk, 6 tablespoons flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1 1/2 teaspoons dry mustard, 1 small bay leaf, Lattice Cheese Pastry.

Method: Place unseparated defrosted fillets in a 1 1/2 quart rectangular baking dish. Pour water over fillets. Bake in a hot (400 degrees) oven until opaque through — about 20 minutes. Pour off liquid; drain fish well and flake; return to baking dish. Cook onion slowly in

COMBINATION PUNCHER
NEW YORK (AP) — Every day 10,000 men across the country sign their names with a puncher.

They are the nation's railroad conductors, and each has an iron and steel punch which leaves a hole as distinctive as his handwritten signature.

These designs range from a goat's head to a miniature Scotty dog, and the Cross of St. Andrew to a boxing glove.

Steelways, official publication of American Iron and Steel Institute said the practice of punching signatures was introduced more than a century ago by Pappy Ayers of the Erie Railroad who saved his railroad thousands of dollars annually by felling free riders.

butter in small skillet, stirring often, until transparent. Cook peas and carrots according to package directions; drain. Add onion and peas and carrots to flaked fish. Pour liquefied instant nonfat dry milk into top of double boiler; sprinkle flour, salt, pepper and mustard over surface. Beat with rotary beater.

LATTICE CHEESE PASTRY
Ingredients: 1/2 cup sifted flour, 1 tablespoon instant nonfat dry milk powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons shortening, 1 can (1 1/2 ounces) grated Parmesan and Romano cheese, 1 to 2 tablespoons (about) cold water until smooth. Add bay leaf. Cook over hot (not boiling) water stirring constantly until thickened. Remove bay leaf. Pour sauce over fish and vegetables. Toss gently to mix. Top with Lattice Cheese Pastry. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven 30 minutes. Place under broiler 5 minutes or until most of pastry surface browns. Makes 6 servings.
Method: Sift together flour, instant nonfat dry milk powder and salt. Cut in shortening with two knives or pastry blender until mixture resembles coarse corn meal. Stir in cheese. Sprinkle water over mixture, a little at a time; toss mixture gently with a fork until pastry forms a ball. Chill. Roll out on lightly floured board to a 9 by 10-inch rectangle. Cut into lengthwise strips, about 1-inch wide. Place strips about 1 inch apart on top of seafood, vegetable and the sauce mixture in criss-cross fashion. Trim edges; seal to edge of baking dish. Bake according to directions in Lenten Casserole recipe.

ON THE FENCE
SANTA FE, N. M. (AP) — Former Gov. John F. Simms, defeated in the last general election by Republican Edwin L. Mechem, recently announced he would spend most of his time mending fences.

Not political ones, he said. The cedar post and wire fences on his ranch near here need repair, he pointed out.

Local Selective Service Board 18 this week announced changes in classification for 74 men, including nine standby reservists.

Thirty-two of the men were classified for the first time, most of them in 1-A.

Classifications were changed as follows:

Lawrence J. Schmucker, 1C to 4A; J. S. Winn, 4A to 5A; Odie E. Pruitt, 3A to 1A; Hoyt R. Kenmore, 1C to 4A; Billy J. McCarter, 1D to 1A; Verne E. Powell, 1C to 4A; Robert C. Bruce, 1D to 4A; Jimmy R. Gore, 1C to 4A; Robert L. Mathers, 2S to 1A; Bobby W. Alley, 1C to 4A; Timothy H. Corbett, 2S to 1A; Manuel G. Gonzales, 1A to 4F; Fernando F. Trevino, 1A to 4F; Harold E. Root, 1C to 4A; Willis D. Dufur, 1A to 1A-0; James G. Tidenberg, 1A to 1D; Frank D. Spittler, 1A to 4F; Tom E. Villa, 1A to 4A; R. L. Layman, 1A to 4F; James L. Clark, 1A to 2S; Haskell C. Stewart, 1A to 2S; Elmer R. ## HOPES SOAR AS WILDLIFE MAKES RALLY

AUSTIN — Nature will not regret any of the smiles currently being bestowed on Texas, reports E. A. Walker, director of wildlife restoration for the Game and Fish Commission.

"It begins to look like the old days," he said. "Fat deer, strutting wild turkeys, cooling doves, mating bobwhites — the entire animal kingdom is making spring pop out all over."

"Field men describe almost ideal conditions in almost all parts of the state, as food and cover seems destined to be restored to the pre-drouth status. Of course, the weather could turn dry again. The director, who is a national authority on wild turkey culture, said he was particularly happy over the first genuine prospects for a normal turkey hatch in the last six or seven years.

Texas was noted for having more wild turkeys than all other states put together before the drouth scoured the ranges and decimated the flocks. "Now," said the director, "cover is generally adequate and native food should be plentiful." He said brood stock is "fairly satisfactory" for turkeys as well as for other game animals and birds. "With moisture," he grinned, "we can regain much of our losses in a hurry."

The director explained that the usual negative phases accompany a wet spring. "Turbulent weather dislodges some dove nests, ground nesting birds get rained out, and wet periods are conducive to deadly screw worms in fawn deer," he said. "But those things are comparatively minor compared to the overall benefits." He noted Game Warden Tom Waddell's report from Eagle Lake that Colorado County's exclusive stock of prairie chickens already have moved to higher ground for re-nesting.

Spring Asparagus Is Tasty

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Spring can show no brighter sight to a cook's watchful eye, than asparagus piled high in food-market stalls. What could taste better than those first green stalks, cooked lovingly and sauced appropriately?

Pay no attention to recipes that direct you to tie the asparagus in a bunch and lower it into the bottom of a double boiler or a coffee percolator. The idea behind this advice is to have the bottom of the stalks and the tender tips cook in the same length of time. Unnecessary bother, we say! Arrange the stalks in a deep skillet, add a small amount of boiling water, cover and cook 8 to 12 minutes—depending on the thickness of the asparagus. Lift the cover of the skillet several times to help keep the vegetable green.

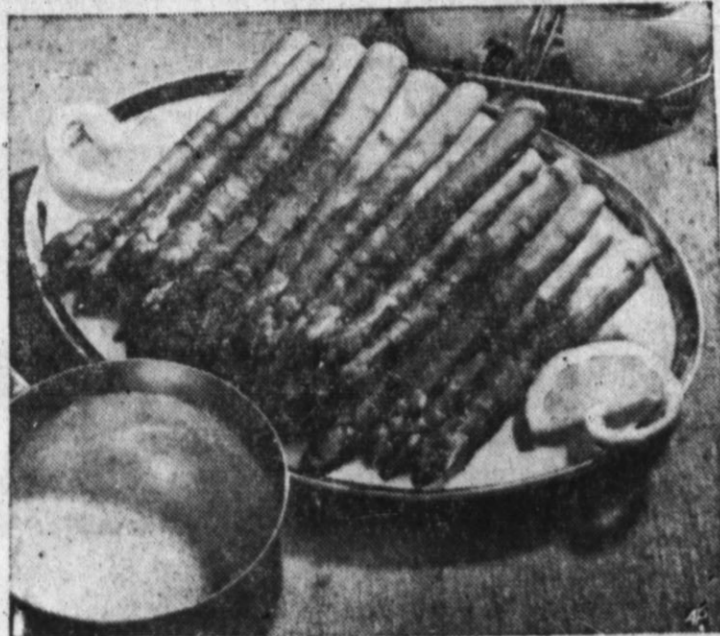

But one caution. This method of cooking is for asparagus stalks that are peeled. Not to remove the outer covering of the lower part of the stalk is barbaric, in our opinion! Use a vegetable peeler for the job and you can do it in no time at all.

Ever since we tasted browned butter with fresh asparagus and artichokes we have known this simple combination was heaven-sent. But recently we came upon a variation of the classic sauce that is a pleasant offshoot. Here's how to concoct it.

BROWN BUTTER SAUCE FOR FRESH ASPARAGUS

Ingredients: 1/4 cup butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 teaspoon lemon juice.

Method: Melt the butter over very low heat in a small saucepan. Just as it begins to take on a pale brown color, stir in the flour. Continue stirring while sauce bubbles and foams and turns to a hazelnut brown color. Remove now from heat and stir in lemon juice. Stir off heat until foaminess subsides and serve at once over 1 1/2 to 2 pounds of freshly-cooked hot drained asparagus. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

GOOD EATING REMINDERS

May we call your attention to some epicurean ways to serve the freshly cooked green asparagus stalks?

1. Brown fine bread or cracker crumbs in butter and sprinkle over the hot drained stalks.
2. Dunk the hot drained stalks in melted butter and sprinkle with bits of crisply cooked bacon and canned pimiento.
3. Cut the drained stalks fine and reheat in a fine cream sauce made with chicken stock. Spoon into flaky pastry tart shells and garnish each with a slice of hard-cooked egg, a sprinkle of paprika and a caper-rolled anchovy.
4. Marinate the drained stalks in a dressing of olive oil, wine vinegar and prepared mustard. Serve with slices of tomato.

5. Melt some butter in a big skillet and add a layer of shredded rice cereal squares; sprinkle with garlic powder and brown very lightly, stirring often. Remove it from heat and stir in a good sprinkling of grated Romano or Parmesan Cheese; the cheese should melt a little and stick to the cereal squares. Serve these tidbits with the hot drained asparagus stalks.

6. Serve the hot drained stalks with a lemon-butter sauce plus silvered browned-in-butter almonds.

NEIGHS HAVE IT

BURLINGTON, Wis. (AP)—The Donald Johnsons have decided not to get rid of their old convertible car now that it has a new top and doesn't look so bad any more. What happened to the old top? Mrs. Dorothy Johnson explained: "The horse ate it, and the insurance company paid for the new one."

PRISON PIPELINE

IONIA, Mich. (AP)—Inmates of the Ionia State Reformatory gave 1,024 pints of blood to the Red Cross in two days to bolster their claim of being "world champion blood donors." The prison has 1,500 inmates.

WIVES WIELD EXPERT GAVEL AT CAPITOL HILL AUCTIONS

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON — They may never become "colonels," as professional auctioneers are called, but a group of congressional wives are getting pretty persuasive at spicing the chant and wielding the gavel.

The group, organized about a year ago by wives who live on Capitol Hill, expects to make pots of money for its pet project, a neighborhood community center, when members take turns knocking off to the highest bidder various and sundry items at an auction to be held in May.

It all began when the members of Congressional Wives Circle, as the group is known, solved the circle's fundsless state by selling each other such things as unappreciated anniversary gifts, shopping "mistakes" and home cookery in mock auctions. Recently, to earn money for postage stamps and a month's operating expenses they auctioned off $13.50 worth of stuff including compact, a lipstick, an atomizer, napkin rings and an apron.

Among the gifted amateurs are many wives who doubtless learned how to address and win audiences in helping their husbands campaign. Expecting to take the auctioneer's stand in May are wives of

"We had such success at our monthly meetings," explained pretty Barbara Bolling, "we decided to hold a real auction for our big annual fund-raising event. We planned a 'School for Auctioneers Party,' invited other congressional wives and took lessons from an expert. We are so glad we ought to do right well at the May sale."

The "colonel" tutoring the ladies is Rep. Kenneth L. Gray (D-Ill.), who before getting into politics owned his own automobile auction agency at West Frankfort, Ill.

Rep. Gray says he does not expect to make professional auctioneers of congressional wives, as it takes years to become a professional, but he's giving them expert advice. To be a success, he tells them, one must possess patience, poise and personality. The second, he says, is the most important, as it takes much practice to be able to call out hundreds of words a minute, and say the right word at the right time.
