Around Town has gained another reader! In Thursday's Brand we ran an item on an unsigned $10 check that Mrs. Bill Hutson of Rutherford's was holding.

A blazing skillet of grease caused smoke damage to the interior of a residence at 109 Brevard, but the fire had been extinguished when the Volunteer Fire Department arrived.

Nine Crops In Harvest Stage

Harvest of grain sorghums and vegetables in the Hereford area is progressing steadily, receiving stations report, with the flow of sorghums into the elevators expected to accelerate within the next week.

White Rose is the major variety of potatoes being dug at this time, and the price is said to be medium at about $3 per hundred.

An increase in the amount of milo received at Hereford elevators is noted each day as more and more of the fields ripen.

Bert Boomer at Pitman's No. 1 reports that yields for this year, based on the harvest to date, will be better than those of last year's harvest.

The current price of milo delivered to the elevator is $1.80. Cash price paid for the earlier harvested milo was $1.75. With the government loan price now set at $1.73 a bushel, this is the first time in several years that the open market price has topped that of the government loan at harvest time.

First Death In Encephalitis Outbreak Here; Six Treated

The first fatality resulting from the encephalitis outbreak in this area has been reported by attendants at Deaf Smith County Hospital. Death came to a 79-year-old woman on Thursday night after a week's illness.

Two persons suffering from the disease were reportedly admitted to the hospital Thursday night, bringing the total number of cases admitted for treatment this season to 18. And of this number, six remained patients at the hospital on Saturday.

Dr. R. R. Wills, county health officer, who previously has advised individuals to clean-up all mosquito breeding places had "nothing to say on the matter" on Friday.

Mustangs Win, 19-6, Over Fumbling Herd

Joe Turner's Olton Mustangs expressed their gratitude for a wave of Hereford fumbles by rolling to a 19-6 homecoming victory over the Whitefaces before 2,000 people crowded into Olton Memorial Stadium Friday night.

It was the second loss in three tries for the Herd who lost previously to Canyon, 46-13. Their lone win is a 33-6 decision over the Tulla Hornets.

The Hereford offense didn't fail to click and the defensive unit tightened after a jittery start. But seven Hereford fumbles, five of them recovered by Olton, were the backbreaker.

Miss Oswald was driving toward Hereford when she pulled into the left lane to pass another vehicle. A car driven by Murpho C. Street of Littlefield, was traveling east and both cars swerved to the left to avoid a head-on collision.

Mr. Street was accompanied by his wife and both received only minor injuries in the accident. Damage to the Street vehicle was estimated at $600.

Soil Bank Interest Spurred By Drouth

Spurred by the continued drouth, interest in the soil bank's acreage reserve provisions for wheatland jumped sharply on Thursday and Friday, deadline for entering the 1957 program. The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office in the courthouse was crowded during both days by dryland farmers ready to "sign-up."

Fast Collier, ASC office manager, expects a "run" now on the long-range soil bank program—the three, five and 10 year "layout" contracts provided under the conservation reserve. Deadline for entering this program is Oct. 15.

The conservation reserve provides payments of about $9 per year on an annual basis for dryland wheat farms in Deaf Smith County. An individual can qualify for payments up to a total of $5,000 annually under the conservation reserve plan.

In addition, the Department of Agriculture will pay 80 percent of the cost of putting "back to grass" the land retired from cultivation. Farmers who have land that can qualify for the conservation contracts starting in 1956, will be required to certify that no crop was harvested from the acreage.

It will be possible for farmers who 'bank' land to protect their planting history during the tenure of the 'layout' contract under a new provision of the federal farm laws.

Mrs. Agnes Knox Rites Saturday

Funeral services for Mrs. Agnes Knox, a resident of Alperst, were conducted at the Amherst Church of Christ on Saturday, Oct. 6, at 3 p.m. with Le Roy Sedgwick, pastor, officiating.

Mrs. Knox came to Hereford in September for a visit in the homes of her sons here. She became ill about two weeks ago and death came at Deaf Smith County Hospital on Thursday at 3:45 p.m. She was 79 years of age at the time of her death.

Born on Sept. 7, 1877 in Sevier County, Ark., Mrs. Knox was the daughter of the late Dave and Olie Chambers. She was married to H. N. Knox in Sevier County on Feb. 14, 1897. Her husband preceded her in death in 1949.

Survivors include four sons: Boyd Knox and Eugene (Debbs) Knox, both of Hereford, Hershell Knox of Sesside, Ore., and Jack Knox of McCamey; one daughter, Mrs. Yolanda Roberson of Quitaque; eight grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren.

SORGHUM YIELD SETS RECORD. EZRA BENSON MISSED A BARGAIN

Ezra Taft Benson, secretary of agriculture, missed a good bet when he chose to ignore Jay Boston's offer of his Hereford area farm. Boston made the offer last January while testifying before a Senate agricultural committee.

If Benson could operate the irrigated Boston farm for a period of five years at a profit — under his flexible price support program, "he could have it," Boston declared.

Since then, the support program has been amended to show less discrimination against the crop. Boston was most interested in grain sorghum, and Jay has harvested a four-acre test plot of hybrid sorghum. The yield set a probable all-time record high for the Hereford area.

"I believe this hybrid sorghum is going to help put the profit back in it for the farmer," Boston said on Friday night. "Personally, I'm planning to plant all hybrid on my sorghum land next year. I'll plant half Texas Certified 610, and half DeKalb F-62," he added.

Here's what Boston's test plot of DeKalb F-62 did when it was combined on Thursday: From just four acres — measured and re-measured to insure accuracy to within 1/100th of an acre, a total of 32,220 pounds of grain was threshed and weighed-in at Pitman's elevator. Moisture test was 13 percent, just right, and test weight was 59 pounds per bushel — three pounds above standard.

As a check against a standard-variety's yield, Boston then cut one acre from the Plainsmen milo adjoining his hybrid. The yield was 7,200 pounds, moisture content was 15 percent and weight per bushel was 57 1/2 pounds. "Too wet to cut more there," he said. "I believe the hybrid was two weeks earlier under identical conditions."

Boston's exceptionally high yields resulted from "babying" the two sorghum varieties planted and grown under identical conditions.

On a 25 acre field double-cropped—wheat followed by lettuce—in 1955, he applied a pre-planting irrigation and chiseled-in 75 pounds of anhydrous ammonia per acre before planting the F-62 hybrid — 6 1/2 pounds per acre — and Plainsman grain sorghum about June 1.

Both varieties were side-dressed with 50 more pounds of anhydrous ammonia when they were around six inches tall. "I then watered the field six times," said Boston, adding, "I'm in a better position to irrigate than most of the area's farmers."

Boston said that from observing various Texas and commercial varieties of hybrid sorghum being grown here this season, Texas 610 appears to offer a lot of promise to farmers whose irrigation supply is limited. "I believe it will out-do standard varieties on two less waterings."

Wilburn Axe echoed Boston's belief with this report: "My Texas Certified 610 averaged 4,500 pounds per acre on an eight-acre plot with four waterings and no fertilizer. The old reliable, Martin — grown beside it, had the same treatment, except for a total of six waterings, and it only made 3,600 pounds per acre."

Several farmers here have speculated recently that hybrid grain will draw a premium over standard varieties due to increased stability in livestock rations. "It's a softer grain," they explain. They hope to see this theory put to test in the immediate future.

But premium or not, it appears that many thousands of acres of Hereford area land will be seeded in hybrid sorghum in 1957. While most plantings were restricted to small test-acreage this year, a good supply of hybrid seed is reported available and selling fast for the coming year's crop.

The council has elected Bill Woodford as parliamentary, and Bill Phillips, assistant principal, is the student council sponsor.

"During the year, the council will follow the Student Council Constitution of Hereford High School, which was ratified by a two-thirds majority of the student body during 1955-56."

As they get on the fire truck for the rides, each one will be given a bright red Junior Fire Marshal's hat, courtesy of the Plains Insurance Agency.

In addition, the school children will receive magazines explaining further the importance of fire prevention. Film strips concerned with fire prevention have also been made available to the teachers in each school for use during the week's observance.

Arrangements for the program have been made by a committee composed of Fire Chief Earl Phillips, Marshal Clay Angelo and Bill Paton, representing the Kiwanis Club.

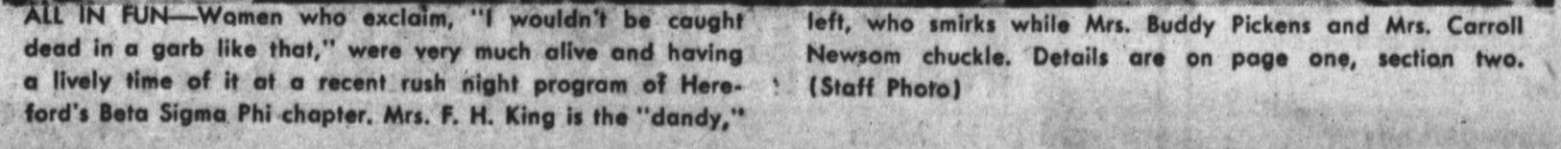

Each child will be given a Junior Fire Marshal badge at school.

Fire Prevention Week Treat Scheduled For Youngsters

Hereford school children in the first and second grades will join nearly 3,000,000 Junior Fire Marshals throughout the country this week in a nation-wide fire prevention and safety education program. The annual observance is sponsored here by the Volunteer Fire Dept. and the Kiwanis Club.

Thanksgiving Is Set Back; Vet's Day Gets Okay

On the recommendation of the Merchants Association, Hereford businessmen will be asked to close their concerns on Monday, Nov. 12, in observance of National Veterans' Day. The association also agreed to change the suggested date for the observance of Thanksgiving to Nov. 29 to coincide with the closing of the Hereford Schools for this national holiday.

ground out 188 yards rushing in only 37 tries for an average of 5.1 yards per carry. Hereford gained 88 yards passing on three completions with one long completion to Danny Elliston nullified. Olton netted 46 yards on two completions. Both teams had a total offense of 276 yards. Olton led in first downs, 14-11.

First Score
The Mustangs first score came with 6:46 left in the first quarter. After Bobby Veigel was forced to punt out on the Olton 39, Teddy Estes and Price drove to the Hereford one where Price plunged over. He also ran the point over.

Just minutes later and still in the first quarter, they scored their second touchdown. After the kick-off Robert Brown fumbled on the Olton 40. The Mustang offense was stopped cold and a punt rolled in to the end zone for a touchback.

The Hereford offense, behind Callaway and Veigel, began to roll, but this drive ended in another fumble which Olton recovered on the Hereford 43. They scored on a 32-yard screen pass from Teddy Estes to David Price. The conversion failed.

Hereford monopolized the remaining portion of the first quarter and the second quarter without scoring. This time it was penalties — and the fumbles — which did it.

Penalties Hurt
After receiving the kickoff Callaway netted short yardage and Jerry Malone raced all the way to the Olton 43. But this was nullified by a Herd clipping infraction which set the Whitefaces back to the 32. Bryant recovered the lost yardage on a scamper to the 50, but the Whitefaces were clipping again. The ball went back to the Hereford 28 as the quarter ended.

Miss Scoring Chance
After taking another Olton punt midway in the second quarter, the Whitefaces began to march. Calla-way and Veigel, a pair of stalwarts in the backfield, led a march from the Hereford 28 to the Olton goal line. This was climaxed when Malone fumbled the ball and Olton recovered in the end zone for a touchback.

After recovering Bobby Veigel's fumble on their own 27, the Mustangs scored their third and last touchdown. Dan Wallace raced to the Hereford 32 to send up the score. Price and Estes carried to the 14 where Estes hit Price for the score. The point failed.

The lone Hereford score came on the first play after the kickoff and was the first play of the fourth quarter.

Callaway Scores
Bill Callaway took Bryant's hand-off on the Hereford 40 and dogged his way into the secondary where he picked up blocking and raced 60 yards for the score. His kick for the point after failed.

The teams battled to a stalemate after this with Bryant taking to the air to give new hope, but three interceptions stymied this brief attempt.

The game ended with the oval in the hands of Olton on their own 56.

Mrs. Carl Perrin Gives Travelogue For Study Group

Calliopean Club was entertained in the home of Mrs. B. F. Cain Thursday evening with Mrs. Carl Perrin who spent several weeks in Europe last summer, giving the program.

Tracing the trip on the map from Idlewild Airport in New York City, Mrs. Perrin gave interesting insights on the countryside and the people and their customs of each country visited. Then she showed colored films she had made of interesting spots, famous buildings and landmarks. As the pictures were shown, she told of many experiences in different countries which would be of special interest to the group.

Mrs. Dudley Bayne was a guest of the club. Others attending were Mesdames Dick Barnard, Alton Fraser, J. T. Gilbreath Jr., Earnest Langley, D. C. McWhorter, W. J. Messick, N. E. Milburn, L. B. Russell, Elizabeth Womble, Carl Perrin and the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hicks have both enrolled at West Texas State College, Canyon, for the fall and winter term of school.

Feelings were pretty bitter out past Grand on Ave. C on Friday. Water was off, during much of the day — without any notice, while construction work proceeded on a new main, residents reported. "Hard to explain to the little children why there is no water to drink, but plenty running down the street," one mother declared.

The new city ordinance affecting loading zones — business operators pay 25 cents a foot per month for the privilege of maintaining a zone in metered-parking areas, has resulted in establishment of just one new zone, according to Chief of Police Leo Box. planned, with a noted out-of-town speaker as the program feature. A dance in the evening will conclude the day's program. McWhorter also expressed appreciation of the merchants' cooperation.

A motion that the business concerns remain open and that consideration be given to employees who are veterans to participate in the day's activities was made and then withdrawn by Irving Alexander in light of the statement by Neil Cooper that such a move would make closing compulsory due to the large number of veterans in his and other merchants' employ.

Recommend Closing
Lenderman entered the discussion to remind the merchants that Veterans' Day is a legal national holiday, but that it was not listed on the suggested holiday card because it falls on Sunday, Nov. 11, this year. Due to the nature of the observance planned here, the veterans groups did not consider it feasible to hold the event on Sunday, he said.

The motion by Oliver Streu that the merchants' Association recommend the closing of Hereford business concerns for the Veterans' Day observance on Nov. 12 carried with few dissenting votes.

Don Zimmerman moved that the group also similarly recommend the closing for business on Thursday, Nov. 29, to coincide with the school holiday. The discussion that followed introduced the point of the nearness of this closing date to the Christmas holiday, but this idea was outweighed by the opin-

Reading Workshop Plans Include Parents, Teachers

Plans for in-service training for all teachers in the Hereford Public Schools were made at a meeting of a committee on the improvement of reading in the high school library Tuesday afternoon. Dr. Ruth Lowes of the education department at West Texas State College served as consultant. Supt. Fred J. Cunningham was moderator.

Serving on the committee were Mesdames J. R. Fowlkes, Ernest McGee, Dick Gholson, and LeRoy Price, representing the local Parent-Teacher Associations; Principals V. C. Overall, W. C. Quatlebaum, L. C. Thomas, Bob Naylor, and D. C. Martin; Miss Della Stagner, elementary coordinator; Miss LaVada Shannon, Mrs. Beth Sumrall, Mrs. Helen Coffman and Mrs. Ova Felton, teachers in the elementary schools; and Bessie C. Patterson, school public relations.

The purpose of the meeting was stated by Cunningham as to outline a series of study meetings designed to help the total instructional program through the improvement of reading.

Dr. Lowes outlined the four general areas of reading instruction as: developing the basic skills; developing permanent reading tastes; and helping pupils learn to read well to others.

Stressing the importance of the use of reading as a tool, Dr. Lowes commented, "No matter how well a child can read, unless he uses the skills he has developed for his own pleasure in a part of his leisure time, we have failed to some extent."

She observed that good teachers are telling children fewer and fewer words but are helping them, through phonics and context, to figure out new words for themselves. They are taking time to set a purpose for children's reading, thus encouraging interest and comprehension. She recommended taking as much as five minutes to make an assignment, allowing time to stimulate interest in what is to be read.

The group decided to hold regular study and workshop sessions on the first and third Tuesdays of ion that parents want the holiday when their children are out of school. The motion by Zimmerman

No Decision On Cards
A request from the women's clubs of Hereford, asking that the merchants donate the money usually given for Christmas cards and other customer favors to the fund for the furnishing of the new children's wing of the county hospital, was read by Lenderman. No action was taken on the request with the suggestion that each merchant act according to his own wishes.

Placards and handbills announcing the new research program to be instituted here by the Grain Sorghum Producers Assn., were distributed to the merchants for display in their business concerns.

Leathercraft Is Studied At Club Autumn Luncheon

Mrs. J. V. Perrin used an autumn theme in table decorations when Farm and Ranch Club met in her home for the regular luncheon - program Thursday. Autumn green and white were combined in the linen cloth and the centerpiece was of white petunias. The place cards were circles of leather which were used by members later in taking part in the program.

Mrs. Perrin, leader of the program, spoke on leathercraft and directed each member in tooling and carving the leather place cards.

During the business session, plans were made for the annual guest-day affair which will be held in the home of Mrs. Waldron Melton on Oct. 13. The floating prize went to Mrs. Waldron Melton.

Those present were Mesdames Waldron Melton, Charles Hoover, Hershel Burrus, T. W. Perrin, and the hostess.

Church Women Entertained With October Luncheon

The Association of Presbyterian Women held its October luncheon program in Fellowship Hall Wednesday. Hostesses were Mesdames Charley Hill and J. T. Gilbreath Jr.

McWhorter, Paul Hoff, Henry Hastings, T.H. Stringer, J. T. Guinn, R. B. Miller, Max Drever, Paul Mathers, O. Z. Golden and Miss Bea Barrett.

Mrs. D. H. Alexander served as leader of the program on "The Whole of Life." Assistants were Mesdames Hugh Witherspoon, P. B. Sowell, C. C. Ferguson, Charley Hill, J. T. Guinn, N. E. Milburn and Fred Axe.

NOTES OUT OF SCHOOL

An Eccentricity Explained; Why Students Carry Bricks

Big Talk around Hereford High School this week has been football, option election, hairdos, band students, senior rings, and the cheerleaders.

AS SOME SENIORS SEE IT Leroy Morrison, Patti Knox, David Rettman, and Pat Elliston will receive their academy award for the skit of "Blackboard Jungle" that they presented in speech class. Leroy, you ought to be in the movies!

Everybody knows we triumphantly beat Tulia last week. And we're sure if everyone just keeps that school spirit and support the team, that HHS will have a winning team every Friday night this year. Don't you all think we're doing fine this year without a pep club? We don't need one if we continue to support our team and care whether we win or not.

Cute Cheerleaders Don't you think the cheerleaders' suits are cute this year? Cheerleaders too! The cheerleaders aren't the only ones who have pretty uniforms this year, however. The football players' uniforms are very nice too. And from some of the girls' viewpoints, so are the football players!

The seniors are studying "Macbeth" this week. Did Macbeth kill Duncan or not?

Ancel Martinez spoke in assembly Wednesday. Isn't he just wonderful? It's not very often that we get to hear such a good evangelist as he.

Seniors measured for their rings Monday. We can hardly wait to get them. The down payment on the rings was due Friday. If you haven't gotten yours paid yet, do that soon.

"Love Me Tender" Say, John David, have you got your Elvis Presley charm bracelet yet? Speaking of E.P., have you heard his latest? It's "Love Me Tender," and another "cool" one he's got out on the disks now is "Love Me."

We were also glad that John David Bryant is player of the week in the Amarillo paper.

Bobby Veigel, some girls were trying to decide if your shirt has a matching pair? Or were they leopard, too? Huh?

JOTS FROM A JUNIOR A subject receiving much controversy among the future seniors has been, "What will the seniors do instead of going on the annual trip?" We wish we knew too.

Passing questions: "Are you for the Yankees or the Dodgers?" "Aren't you going to join F.H.A.?" "Did you help initiate the F.F.A. Greenhands?" "What do you think about activity period?" "Have you met Elisabeth Brummer, our exchange student?"

E. P. Or James Dean? Passing glances of styles in high school... bouffant skirts... can-can (every color, size and shape)... belts of all colors, and those pretty buckles too... lustrous dresses and shirts... western boots... loafers are tops with both the gals and the guys... shoes in every color of the rainbow... notebooks with pictures of Elvis or James Dean stamped on them.

Not Much Choice It is believed that, due to reactions, many Juniors would have been delighted to vote at the option election!

SOPHOMORE SCRIBBLING Have you noticed the girls' bangs lately? We get a bang out of walking down the hall looking at them. Most popular are the bangs with a dip on one side—neek-a-boo-bangs, they're called. Then, too, the pompadour bangs that are curled, twisted, combed back, or just stick down in your face. Natalie Wood has them! We haven't seen any Presley Bangs here yet. Come on cats, get with it!

Broken Heartchains Along with the customary broken heartchains that mean going "steady" this year there are new ones: Girls wear St. Christopher medals for good luck. The replica of small men and arrowheads with turquoise sets are simply for looks and the memory of a vacation trip to Rudoso. It looks like dog tags and name disks are out this year, but of course the footballs and basketballs are still hanging around (necks of course!)

FRESHMEN FINDINGS Wonder why band students have been carrying bricks around? Well, if you haven't heard, those band students that are late to band rehearsals, get out of step while marching, or do anything that isn't in order have to carry a brick everywhere they go for a week. Too bad!

Seems that Charles Bell brought more than his wife and lovely children (too bad, girls) with him from Cisco. He also brought his own discipline method of "carrying the brick." Four students carried one each for a week after the Tri-State Fair parade. There are also a few this week. By the way, remember the only time you can cut the brick down is to eat, study, or sleep!

Shine, Mister! The shoes of the FFA upper classmen have been looking very shiny these last few days. The first year boys were initiated on Tuesday, and they were official "shine boys" for several days. They also have green hands. If you want to know the meaning of that, you'll have to ask an FFA boy.

And FFA initiation isn't all that is going on either! Anyone happening to be in the vicinity of junior

Leaders Explain Campfire Honors To 15 New Girls

The Camp Fire Girls of Mrs. Gilbreath's recently organized group met on Wednesday, Oct. 2. Those present were Ruth Ann Allison, Barbara Barrett, Donna Sue Blythe, Elana Marie Beene, Donna Cole, Carolyn Sue Caraway, Patsy Daniel, Royce Ann Gilliland, Lorene Hutcheson, Janey Noland, Charlene Rodgers, Dieder Thomas, Betty Turner, Belinda Vines, Pam Harle and the leaders, Mrs. J. T. Gilbreath and Dolly Paetzold.

Honors of Camp Fire work were explained by the leaders, and Dolly showed some of the crafts made in Camp Fire to the girls. Refreshments of popsicles were served by the hostess, Royce Ann Gilliland.

Ground Observers Get New Members

Twelve people, including three new members attended the last meeting of the Ground Observer Corps in Hereford on Sept. 30.

New members present were Gary Wertemberger, Eddie May and JoAnn Marie Mayfield. Regular members present were Jim Manning, Carlos Vaughn, Mahel Vaughn, Bess Werner, Delbert Turner, Douglas Womble, Alta Davis, Bessie Saulcy, George Davis.

The group discussed programs for future meetings and had practice on making emergency calls. They scheduled their next meeting for Oct. 15.

They were dressed as instructed by their big sisters. Prizes were given to the tackiest girls—Mildred Wester, first, Jeanette Weaver, second; and Doris Willoughby, third.

Scouting Program Explained; Fund Program Underway

"Operation Greenback" is underway for the Deaf Smith District of the Llano Estacado Council, Boy Scouts of America, in an effort to raise funds to make possible the continued growth of Scouting in this area, according to Fred J. Cunningham, chairman of the fund drive for this district.

In stressing the importance of Boy Scouting to the youngsters of this area, Mr. Cunningham gave the following information concerning the work of the Deaf Smith District: Currently there are 347 boys enrolled in 11 units in Deaf Smith County and in Frio in Pecos County. There are 107 adult volunteer leaders who give their time and talents to make possible this program of character building and citizenship training.

Two distinct outcomes of Scouting for the individual boy are leadership opportunities and personal growth, said Cunningham.

Within the unit the boys themselves name their leaders. Those who advance to greater responsibility often train their successors. In these leadership opportunities the boy faces a widening and deepening of his own thinking, Cunningham added.

"An important factor in a boy's personal growth is the merit badge program. With the helpful assistance of an adult counselor a Scout may explore any of 103 subjects, from agriculture through zoology," he continued, "in countless cases, boys, through the years, have discovered their life's vocation through the merit badge work. This helps the boy discover what he likes to do and what by nature and equipment he is qualified to do especially well and with most satisfaction to himself."

Mrs. F. L. Alexander and daughter, Eugenia, were in Amarillo on Tuesday night to attend the opening concert of the Amarillo Symphony Orchestra.

Club Members On Annual Pilgrimage

The Hereford Garden Club held its annual pilgrimage to gardens of members recently beginning at the W. C. Hromas home where a program on "Planting for Spring Beauty" was featured.

The annual flower chosen by the club for growing this year is the peony and Mrs. John Jacobsen Jr., who grows peonies successfully year after year presented the first study of the chosen flower. She listed among those that will do well in this area, Lecygne, white; Phillippi Rivorre, dark red; Wath-er Faxon, salmon pink; Sea Shell, medium pink; and a Japanese single white the Ismarri. These were the 1955 winners shown in Oklahoma City recently. Members gave orders for individual plantings.

A look at the Hromas garden where roses and chrysanthemums are now predominating, was followed by the second part of the program on "Planting Bulbs For Color in My Garden," given by Mrs. O. H. Herring. She stressed the importance of selecting good stock on good authority, planting by color for effect either in rifts or masses and urged that an attractive background for the flowers be assured for show.

Mrs. Perrin Tells Of Recent Trip Across Europe

One of the highlights of the 1956-57 club year for members of the Bay View Study Club was a trip review given by Mrs. Carl Perrin at the meeting held Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Lee Benefield.

Mr. and Mrs. Perrin spent 48 days abroad on the trip which was sponsored by the Methodist Seminar of Education for the purpose of promoting Christian education and understanding.

Using a map to illustrate the itinerary Mrs. Perrin told of the plane trip to London where they stayed four days and the boat trip to Holland and on to The Hague and Amsterdam where she saw the Peace Palace and the Royal Palace. Then it was over the dykes to Germany and Bremen by bus and on to Copenhagen by ferry. They took the train to Stockholm and then went south to Denmark for a one day stay before returning to Germany and Berlin.

Describing Berlin as one of the high points on the tour, Mrs. Perrin told of the reconstruction in Germany, and also in England, where people acknowledged that only through the aid of the United States could they even have existed.

From Hanover through the Ruhr to Bohn, capital of West Germany, where they took a boat trip down the famous Rhine River, then on to Frankfurt and the United States occupation headquarters. There they saw what is called Little U.S.

They saw Assisi, the home of St. Francis, the great Christian, and Rome. From Florence they went west to Pisa, spending one night in Genoa and several days in Geneva. Their last stop was Paris, France, where after four days of sight seeing they enplaned for home.

Further comments on the journey were made by Mrs. Perrin as she showed colored slides of the trip covering the places mentioned in her map description.

REMEMBERS THE TIP
GREEN RIVER, Wyo. (AP)—A cafe waitress received her tip after all.

The cafe owner received a note, written at Pinedale, Wyo., about 100 miles north of here, enclosing a tip. The writer, an army captain en route to Japan, explained he had been in the cafe a couple days earlier and had forgotten the tip.

HOUSES CUT POLLEN COUNT

DES MOINES (AP)—Extensive housing developments since World War II are cutting down on the airborne pollens that cause Des Moines hay fever sufferers their worst agony each year.

"The count has been going down each year in Des Moines," says Dean Byrl Benton of the Drake University college of pharmacy. "I think part of the reason is that extensive building projects in the city now occupy vacant lots where ragweed and other pollen producing plants grow."

PROBLEM PAINTER

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP)—Police are on the lookout for someone with a green thumb. And they don't mean the gardening type. The fellow they're hunting took it upon himself to paint the curb along a residential street a bilious green.

Mrs. Leroy Aven Reviews Book In Club's Session

Mrs. Leroy Aven was guest speaker at La Madre Mia Study Club session held Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Ted Hardwick. Mrs. Truys Riddle served as cohostess.

In giving the summary of the book "Karen" by Marie Killiee, Mrs. Aven said in part: "This is an account of a little girl who was the victim of cerebral palsy, who weighed only two pounds at birth, and of the growing fear and final realization of the parents that she was not normal. It was two years before the doctors could diagnose the case as cerebral palsy, and then there was little that could be done."

From the time of the child's birth to 1946 the parents worked unceasingly to help and were directly instrumental in organizing the New York State Cerebral Palsy Center, the first in the U. S. When the little girl was 13 years old she was able to remark "I can walk and talk and run, now I'm just like any other girl."

Members in attendance at the meeting were Mesdames Don Fudge, Dean Herring, Glenn Hopson, Cubby Kitchens, Dennis Lomas, Hershel Miller, Bobby Owen, Troys Riddle, Donald Shipley, Eugene Sparks, Arthur Tinsley, Glenn Wilson and the hostess.

A 1,000-mile fence was built all the way across the Australian continent in 1907 to keep rabbits from invading western Australia.

Most of the nation's major insect pests of agricultural crops have entered the country through various trade channels.

By Jimmie Gillentine

Most people have a secret ambition. For a few years they will strive to achieve it but, as the years pass, they generally forget about the whole thing. Once in awhile, though, you will run across an old boy who comes back and realizes that ambition.

I mention this, because N. D. Bartlett Jr. is in the process of building a "Vacation Wagon" which at least half of the men in this territory have visualized and dreamed about in years gone by. I doubt if it is a "lost dream" with N. D., who apparently got the idea and went to work immediately, but to many men it is one of those things they always planned, but never got around to doing.

A few months back, N. D. bought up one of those City of Dallas 34-passenger Mack buses. He was careful to get the type which allowed full head room all of the way back. He drove the bus to Hereford, then gutted it of all fixtures, leaving the hull and the engine. Next, he finished the complete interior with three-quarter inch birch panel, upholstered part of the seats with new foam rubber and new plastic — and started an intricate system of built-in cabinets and storage bins, all in birch. Even now — at the halfway point — the Vacation Wagon is literally a home on wheels. It will comfortably carry 16 passengers, and will provide three complete and separate bedrooms to sleep six people.

The breakfast nook is complete with butane stove, electric refrigerator, sink and running water — and can be used while the bus travels along at 50 or 55 miles per hour. The bus, incidentally, carries a supply of 7,500 gallons of water and has a pressure pump to keep things running under all conditions. It also has a shower, commode and lavatory.

Not installed yet are carpets for all areas except the kitchen and breakfast nook, which will be floored with plastic tile. Air conditioning, of course, is one of the big features; also television, located for all to view except the driver. The bus, in addition to regular 6-volt electric service, is being spotted alternately with 110-volt outlets — and will have its own complete 110-volt power plant to be used when the vehicle stopped, as well as when it is in motion. This plant will operate the three-ton air conditioning system.

Honestly, there is probably nothing else like it in the country. N. D. says he is going to build a rack on the back and carry a motor scooter to be used when the bus is parked and someone wants to drive across town. He has redecorated the bus, inside and out, and hopes to be finished before the first of November.

"The boys sure hate this bus," said N. D., and he pointed out the difficulty of building cabinets on the curved walls. He says, however, that it is easy to drive and that the motor is in excellent shape. It gets around six-miles-to-the-gallon which, with a passenger load of 16, isn't bad at all. It weighs more than 20,000 pounds empty.

HERE AND THERE. . . Mrs. John McLean is one Hereford housewife who will probably be glad when the World Series is over. Husband John and son George got so interested in watching the game at the office Friday that she fixed and brought down their lunch so they wouldn't have to miss a single play. . . Mrs. T. A. Sullens set some sort of record when she cast her ballot in the "Wet-Dry" election last Tuesday. She is 84 years of age, and told friends that this was the first time she had ever voted in her life. . . Angel Martinez, the evangelist who is literally "packing them in" at the First Baptist Church this week, has a flair for bright colored clothes, and often appears in light green suits, pink coat, Ivy League, etc. Martinez says when he was a small boy shining shoes on the streets of San Antonio he yearned and yearned for "beautiful clothes" and, now that he has the chance, he is wearing them.

THE ELECTION IS OVER — and with it came one queer quirk in that a lot of people figured the county might get wet, due to the influx of newcomers into the community.

If you look at the record, though, it is a different story. The election last Tuesday was the only time in history that Hereford and Deaf Smith County ever leveled out and went bone dry! The first liquor election was held on Oct. 19, 1901, and the county went dry by a margin of 19 votes in a final count of 105 to 86. Again, in 1932, the county voted on beer and this time went dry by a count of 917 to 754 — or less than 9 percent. Tuesday, however, the county racked up a near 2½-to-1 dry vote and, for the first time, actually justified the dry reputation this community has always been afforded.

Possibly one of the causes — and certainly the most surprising thing about the election — was the "Sane and Sensible" manner in which it was conducted. Compared to Amarillo, we survived the affair in tip-top shape. The community is still unified and going strong. People hold strong convictions, that's for sure, but those on both sides have held their tempers — and took a civilized view of the whole thing. This is how elections should be. Not everyone can possibly agree, but when one gives his fellowman the same right of opinion which he expects and demands for himself, he has a right to call himself a GOOD AMERICAN. Furthermore, democracy has achieved new heights.

This is the one thing which can hurt the Communists more than any other. It rips their propaganda machine to shreds. The Communists, in addition, just can't understand it at all. Deaf Smith County can well be proud of the manner in which its citizenship has conducted itself.

The grapevine has it that the Stevensons in Canyon are going to put in a Pontiac Agency in Hereford. They have been in the same business there for several years. Understand they plan to remodel the OK Tire location into a modern outlet point.

News of the "sleeping sickness" cases in this area seems to have spread all over the country. Anxious parents, aunts and uncles are writing letters to local people about the condition, and the letters more often reflect a note of genuine alarm. County health officials, along with City health authorities, have a challenge for 1957. There is no question but what the mosquitoes can be wiped out at small cost and with minor effort.

It is also highly probable that the governing bodies will go along with the health officer recommendations.

Several late afternoon dove hunters suspended operations as a result of the encephalitis cases. Invariably, it seems, when you find a bunch of doves, you also encounter droves of mosquitoes. This is especially true in late afternoon periods.

The situation is undoubtedly a by-product of irrigation. Otherwise, it is not logical that the mosquito, a strictly damp weather insect, would appear in such multitudes during the longest and most severe drouth in the history of the area.

The parking meter sacks on Dollar Day seem to have caused quite a bit of discussion, pro and con. In the second block on Main, it appears that several of the merchants are reporting customer complaints by the dozen. Folks had to walk two and three blocks, it seems, to be able to buy the specials. Still a few other merchants report that customers came in and expressed appreciation for the "free parking" last Monday.

What do YOU think? We would be glad to have a post card or a note expressing your views on the subject. If you do not care to have your name printed, just make a notation, "please withhold name."

LOST AND FOUND
PONTIAC, Mich. (AP)—A man is back in jail here serving the rest of a term he started 20 years ago when he just walked out of Oakland County Jail two months before his sentence was finished.

Police picked the man up on a concealed weapons charge, checked their records and sent him back to finish his term.

HUMAN NATURE
SPENCER, W. Va. (AP)—Business had been so bad for the past few years at Roane County's community cannery that School Supt. Alan V. Morford issued a public warning it was to close because of poor patronage.

That did it. Business now is so brisk the cannery is open twice as often as before and Morford says it will soon be paying its own way if the boom continues.

Strange Things Are Happening

IT'S: HER POINT OF VIEW

Don't know if it was my party line or just what line got crossed up, but I was late with my copy for last Sunday's Brand. Consequently, the boss didn't run the column Sunday. I thought he would use the same copy for today's edition and that I'd have a little vacation from my not-so-literary efforts. As is a boss's prerogative, he saw fit to use it in Thursday's Brand; so instead of loafing, I'm having to dig and scratch to meet another deadline.

Guess I can mention a few of the multitude we saw shopping Dollar Day, such as Lula Bosley, Gladys Cavness, and Betty Bablone. Betty was purchasing birthday presents - daughter Charlotte had been invited to a half a dozen birthday parties within a week's BRAND BABIES—"I just think I'm mama's little angel," says Alisa Ann Kirby. She was one year old Friday, and has four teeth. The 21 pound lass has dark blonde hair and brown eyes. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Kirby, 115 Ave. H. Paternal grandparents of Alisa are Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Kirby, and maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. V. O. Hennen.

time. She says that birthdays seem to be like good bridge hands in that they run in cycles.

Dorothy Buck and Anne Combs spent most of the morning in town. Dorothy must have been the serious shopper of the two as she was the one with a load of packages.

Mrs. Charlie Calloway was carrying pots of ivy to the car and talking about football.

I'm not sure that it was on Dollar Day, but Marge Douglas was so busy that she didn't even have time for breakfast. When she went by Bobbie Pool's late in the morning, Bobbie thought she needed the nourishment and insisted on feeding her.

Partying on Thursday, Blanche Latham looked attractive as usual in a wine-colored jumper, and Mary Anne Laing looked good enough to eat in a full-skirted dress in red with white dots. That pretty Margaret Harvey was stunning in a charcoal-colored outfit which she adorned with a huge, rhinestone brooch. Geneva King's shoes got "misplaced" again. I say "again" because it happens to Geneva frequently; it's the price she pays for taking off her shoes at parties. One time they turned up in somebody's deepfreeze, and another time she couldn't find them at all and went home in stocking-feet.

Never in your life did you ever see such a funny-looking gathering of people as were at a certain costume-party the other night. Ruth Newsom knew that she was a frightful sight, she intended it that way; but she decided she had overdone it a bit when everyone thought she was wearing a wig!

Nell Hodges looked ridiculous and was glad she did, when her turn came to take part in the quiz contest. Nell thought if she didn't appear to be smart, she could at least be amusing.

And you should have seen! Marge Scott wearing a mustache, Wynema Brotherton doing the hula, Betty Pickins bopping in cowboy boots, Marian Guinn in a big (and I mean BIG) jockey cap, Lavern Devenport imitating Elvis Presley and so on and so on. The party was hilarious fun, although there will be some who say "Tut tut. What strange things do happen when women congregate away from their husbands!"
Gee, I hope no narrow-minded people read this column.

Fall Fashions Is L'Allegra Club Topic For Study

Mrs. Bill Lawrence was hostess for the L'Allegra Study Club meeting Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Francis Hill president, presided over a short business session.

Mrs. Hilton Higgins presented the program giving an interesting discussion of "Fall Fashions."

She told of the controversial dress lengths, the smartness of this season's furs, mentioning the proper combinations of furs and how to wear them. She told something of Dior and his designing career, and also of what he calls the three magnets of fall fashions. The large round hat, rounded shoulders and full bulky coats, and the rounded neckline which ends in a slim hemline four inches above the ankles.

She also discussed fall's favorite colors in fashions.

The next meeting was announced for Oct. 18 in the home of Mrs. Ed Line.

Members present were Mesdames Charley Hill, Bill Hardwick,

Chas. Seeds, H. A. Cavness, Ed Line, Wayne Thomas, Hilton Higgins, Oliver Streu, Walton London, Joe Lyons, Donald Shipley, Stanley Slagle, Gerald Hale and the hostess.

COLORES FOR CONFIDENCE
NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—The occupational therapy staff at Central State Hospital, a mental institution is trying a new twist to gaining patient confidence. Mrs. JoAnn Padgett, staff director, says it is easier for the staff to "establish rapport with the patients if we aren't associated with the white worn by doctors and nurses."

An estimated 27,000 persons will lose their eyesight in 1956.

Prerequisites consist of basic military training and one year of satisfactory service in an Active Reserve status to include attendance at one annual field training period of two weeks duration.

High school students may enlist in the Army Reserve at the age of 17 and participate in drills and two weeks summer camp training before graduation at age 18 when he will be ready for six months active duty for basic training and will be eligible to enter OCS, having attained the required age of 18½.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

Easing Water Problems

By JIM WIMAN

People are becoming more concerned all the time about water. Water running down the road ditch and into a lake or stream, arouses the ire of many folks to the extent that they immediately say "there ought to be a law against it." Water running off crop and pasture land following a rain is of concern to many.

To the man on the farm it means that much water lost that a crop or pasture could have used. At the same time the man in the city may view it as making possible the impounding of water behind a dam so that he may have water to meet his requirements. Some people would like to see all the water stay where it falls and others would like to see it move down to dams and reservoirs where it might serve cities and industries. Soil Best Reservoir

Actually when we view all the aspects of the problem we find there's a course that can be taken that will best meet the needs of both groups without taking anything from either. The greatest water storage reservoir we have is the soil itself. By using it as such we not only retain water for use by both groups but make possible a more dependable cover of vegetation to eliminate soil erosion with its accompanying siltation of the streams and reservoirs.

In areas where treatment has been given on the watersheds to retain a maximum of water in the soil, the flow of springs, long since gone dry, has been restored. At the same time water supplies for municipalities have become more dependable and clear rather than muddy water moves into the reservoirs when heavy rains come.

Examples of what can be done to get water into the ground with a minimum of run-off are brought to our attention constantly while working with farmers in their soil and water conservation planning. Only a few days ago we were talking with Steve Clements, one of the cooperators of the Tierra Blanca Soil Conservation District, and he was telling us about his vetch.

He Changed Things
Steve now keeps vetch and rye on a piece of sloping ground that has, in the past, been a problem. When he watered the ground at the time the vetch was first planted, it took only one 1-inch tube to the row and then the water went through too fast.

Now he is watering up volunteer vetch on the same land under the same condition with a 2-inch tube to the row and the water doesn't go through fast enough. The conditioning vetch gave the land made the difference.

George Warner related a similar story recently following the planting of grass.

Another Big Help
People who grow cowpeas in their grain sorghums find the same thing to be true after they have followed the practice for three or four years. Soils that take water good can be irrigated with less tall water. When rains come, we can expect benefit from them rather than see all the water run out the lower end of the row.

Silver Polish

To make a silver polish dissolve 1 ounce of powdered borax in 1/2 pint boiling water. Add 4 ounces precipitated chalk when cool, and beat until smooth; then add 1 gill of alcohol. Bottle and shake thoroughly before using.

Cake Icing

Chocolate icing does not harden easily in warm weather. A 10-cent cake of milk chocolate melted over hot water and used as a frosting is a delicious substitute. It is also cheaper than icing.

Wicker Furniture

Clean those dirt-collecting crevices in wicker furniture with a well-lathered brush and water. Rinse thoroughly, and wipe dry.

Iodine Spots

To remove iodine stains from fabric, wet some corn starch in milk and cover the stain. Repeat if necessary, but allow it to remain until the stain is gone. If the stain is on wood, allow it to stand for about a minute, then rub with a cloth until the stain is removed.

Picture Wire

Try using picture wire instead of ordinary twine for hanging up the brooms, mops and brushes. It will wear well, and is easily hung on a hook because of its stiffness.

Dishes

Dishes that are to be washed should be placed on the right side of the sink. When washing them, hold the dish cloth in the right hand, the dish to be washed in the left hand. The dishes should then be placed to drain on the drain board at the left of the sink. Try this system to save time.

Leftover Egg Yolk

To keep leftover egg yolks from developing a crust, store them in a tightly covered container in the refrigerator. In this manner, they may be kept for several days.

Gloves

Washable leather gloves can be kept in good condition if a teaspoon of glycerin is added to the water in which they are washed.

Washing colored goods in bran water prevents the goods from fading. Bran water is made by covering a small bag of bran in a bowl with boiling water.

Car Pioneer Says Drivers Not As Improved As Autos

By EDWARD J. MARSAITY
 GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. — Cars have come a long way — perhaps too far — says Walter S. Austin Sr., since he stopped producing his Highway King auto in 1918.

The trouble is, says the 89-year-old automotive pioneer, drivers haven't improved as much as the cars.

"I just don't approve of cross-country driving any more — too many people killed," says Austin. "Motoring nowadays doesn't appeal to me."

Austin and his father, the late James E. Austin, once produced about 50 cars a year from 1901 to 1918 in their Grand Rapids plant. The late William Randolph Hearst owned two Highway Kings. Mrs. Emma Calve, the opera singer, stopped off on a tour in 1915 and took one back to her native France. Compared with today's streamlined cars, the Highway King was a formidable auto. Models ranged from a two-seat, six-passenger open sedan ($3,750) to a seven-passenger limousine ($5,250).

Austin himself developed his car's four-speed planetary transmission with a steering post shift; a two-speed axle and a double-cantilever spring.

Austin still works 12 hours a day at his engineering board. Only recently he patented a hydraulic transmission. In his spare time he plays chess.

Austin and his father left auto manufacturing in 1918 in favor of real estate development. Austin recalled that his Highway King satisfied customers although there never was an organized advertising campaign.

"We didn't believe much in advertising to promote car sales in those days," he said.

'Rebel Rose' Is Reviewed During LaPlata Session

A review of the book "Rebel Rose" by Isabel Ross, provided an interesting program at LaPlata Study Club session held Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Charles Newell.

Mrs. Elmer Patterson, who reviewed the book, said it was the story of the life of Rose O'Neal Greenhow, a brilliant, determined woman who became one of the most noted spies in United States history.

Continuing Mrs. Patterson said "Rebel Rose" was a beauty, wit and scholar, as well as a temptress. She was a loving wife and mother who in her own words used all her energies to support the Confederate cause. She lived in Washington and knew 10 presidents. She was loyal to the Confederate cause until her death which was caused by drowning while trying to run the blockade with messages to Jefferson Davis."

During the short business session presided over by Mrs. M. C. Adams, members made plans for a hobby show and set the date for the show, Nov. 17, at Hotel Jim Hill.

Those present were Mesdames M. C. Adams, Leroy Aven, Johnny Blocker, S. S. Dodson, Claude McDougal, Ansel McDowell, Elmer Patterson, Frank Prowell, A. J. Schroeter, Uriln Streu, Raymond White, Liston Wilson, Louis Woodford and the hostess.

YEA!!! HERD!!

HIGH IN THE AIR go the cheerleaders of Hereford High School after each yell. This was the first pep rally high school had in the open in several years—they are usually held in the gymnasium. From left to right are Almona Ritche, Mary Lou McCullough, Sue Kirby and Clydene Allred.

THE CLAPPING OF HANDS, stamping of feet, and plenty of loud yells are heard from the student body each Friday morning. About 600 students participate in the rallies.

THE BAND PLAYS ON while the four HHS cheerleaders enter the field to begin the matinee at each rally. There are 76 members of the band,

Here's A Yeaaa! For Those Pep Rallies

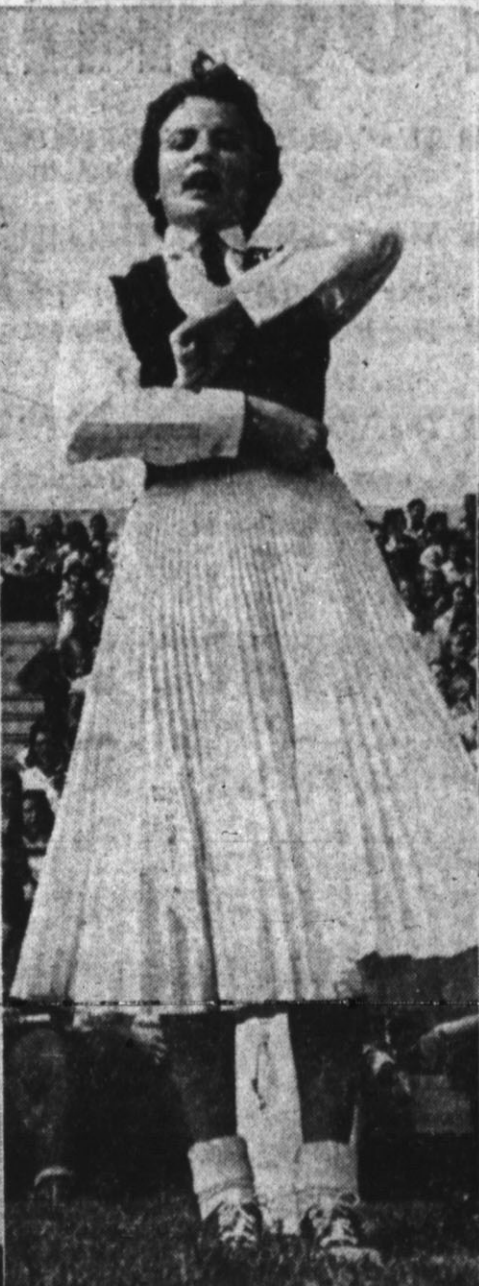

By CAROL INMAN
"Yeaaa, team. Fight!" is the cry we hear each Friday morning from the Hereford High School student body. From 11:40 to 12 noon, the students are free to yell, clap and stamp their feet as loud as they wish. Even cowbells are permissible during this 20 minute period, if a student happens to have one.
The reason for this? No, it's not Elvis Presley. It's Pep Rally time and time for the students to express how much they want their football team to win the game that night.
For the best seat, let's go to the top of the bleachers in the gymnasium, where the rallies are held. All visitors are welcome at the rallies. As the bell sounds, yells and cheers rise from all corners of the school building, and students rush to the gymnasium.

There are the freshmen, still a little amazed and frightened at the pep rallies. By the third pep rally, they are getting "in the swing" of things and yell right along with the upper classmen, instead of just standing and watching with an open mouth and big, round eyes.
The band is in the middle of the gymnasium floor, and they are now playing a snappy march. And here come the cheerleaders!
In maroon vests and white blouses and skirts, four girls — Almona, Sue, Mary Lou, and Clydene — rush out on the floor, with their hands high above their heads and their pom-poms of maroon and white fluttering in the air.

The girls lead the student body in several yells, football boys make short speeches, and the band plays several peppy marches.
Now the HHS students join hands and sing together while the band plays the Alma Mater.
Then the cheer leaders give 13 Raps for the Whitefaces, and students scatter to lunch.
The Pep Rally is over now, and there is quiet throughout the school — until the pep rally next Friday.

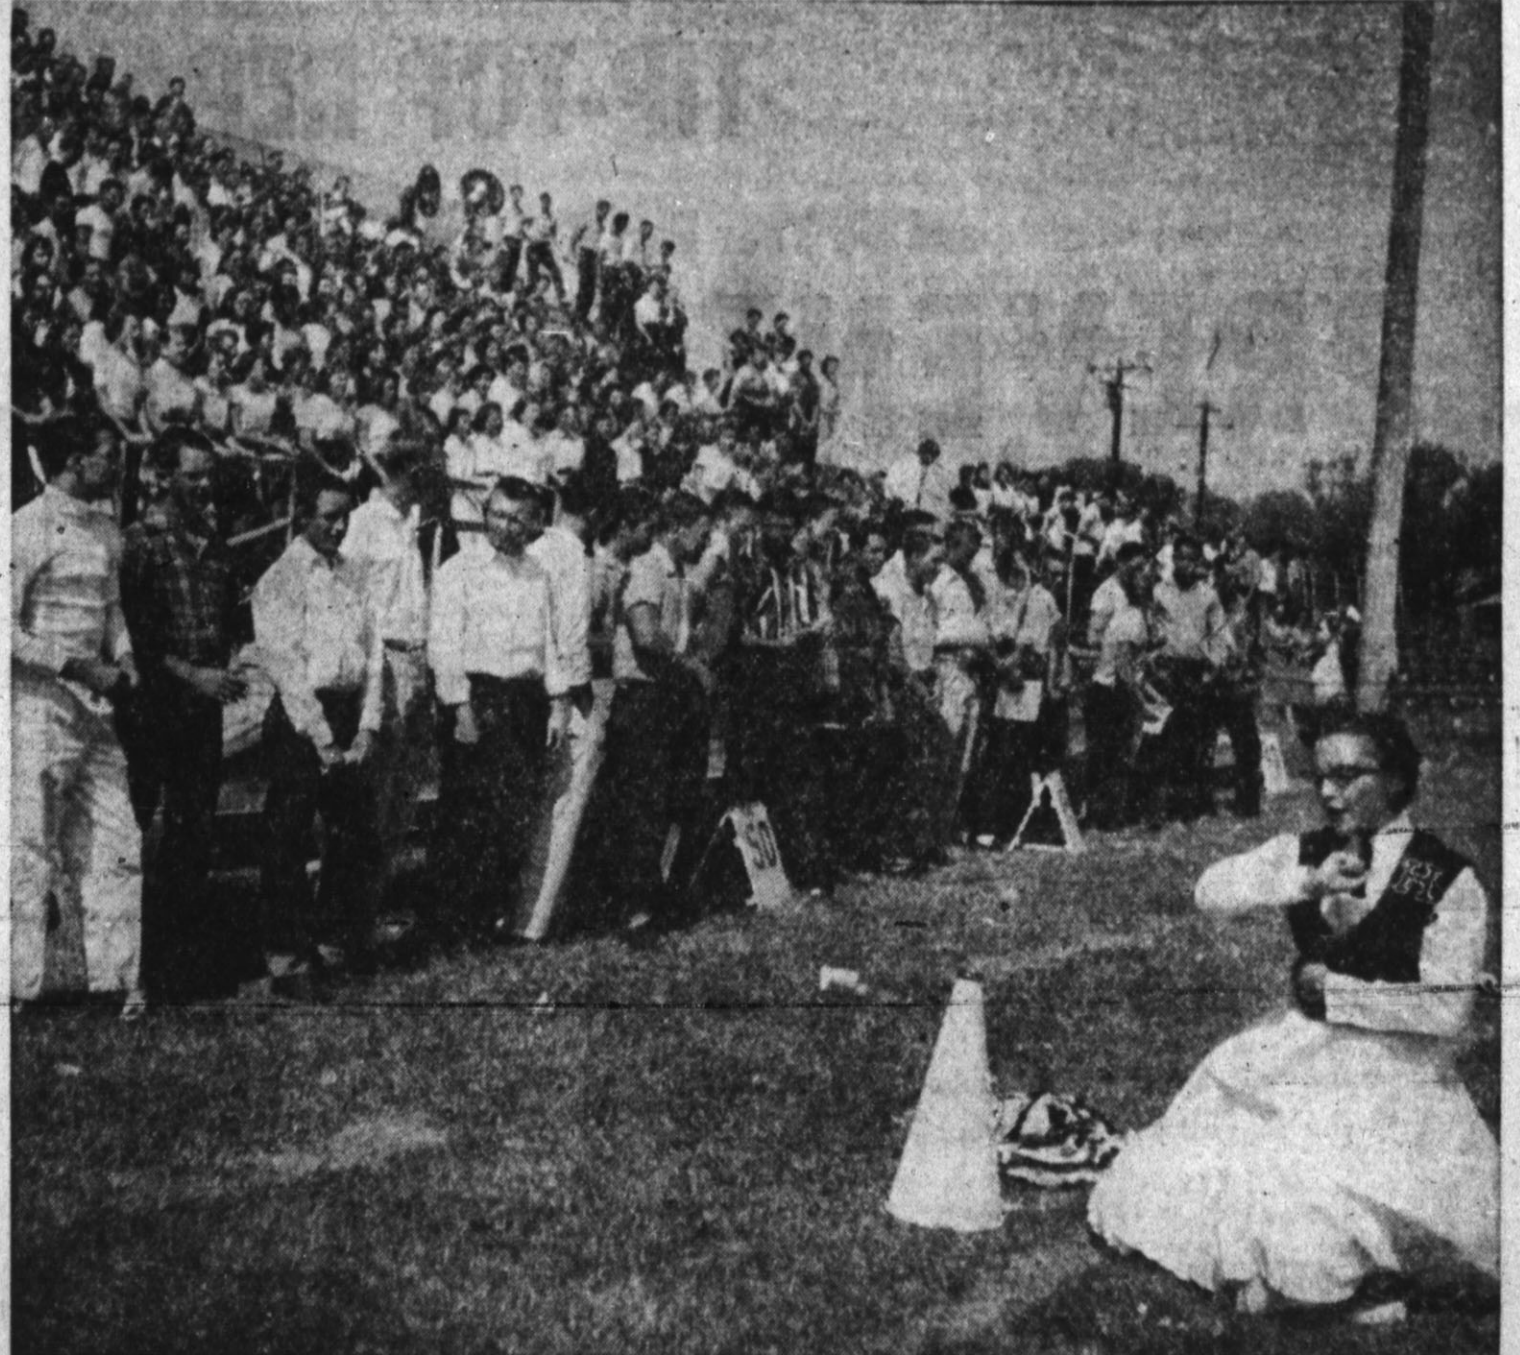

ON THE AIR as a yell ends, head cheerleader Sue Kirby gives a big cheer for the Hereford team.

T-E-A-M yells Mary Lou as the cheerleaders lead the student body in another cheer for the football team.

PLENTY OF ENTHUSIASM goes into the rallies, helped by a new leader, Almona Ritche.

THE LINEUP of football boys are on special benches in front of the grandstand as they listen to the student body cheering them on to victory in the game. Clydene is giving a school yell. (Staff Photos)

Martin And Lewis Frolic In Flicker At The Tower

THREE KING CIRCUS
Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, two rollicking ambassadors of mirth and merry mayhem, are at it again. This time it's "Three Ring Circus," which shows Sunday and Monday at the Tower Drive In. In the fast-paced comedy, Jerry portrays the role of the young ex-soldier whose one ambition in life is to become a clown. Under the GI bill he gets his opportunity to reach this ambition by hiring out as an apprentice lion tamer. His best friend, Dean, follows along for lack of anything else to do and acquires a job as a roustabout. In no time at all, the boys have befriended everyone in the big tent, from the bearded lady and the giant to the midget and the beautiful woman boss lady, Joanne Dru. Dean, true to fashion, manages to get himself entangled romantically with the lovely Miss Dru and also with the high flying trapeze queen played by the stunning charmer Zsa Zsa Gabor. Also on the same program at the Tower will be a Bugs Bunny cartoon.

INSIDE DETROIT
Kiddies will be in for a treat at the Tower Tuesday and Wednesday, because there will be two cartoons, and a true life adventure in color, "African Lion." The feature for the evening will be "Inside Detroit," starring Dennis O'Keefe and Pat O'Brien. O'Keefe plays an auto workers' union leader who heads the city's fight-back against the mob. O'Brien, in his first "heavy" role, plays the mobster, a labor racketeer who emerges from prison and once again tries to impose his lucrative rackets on the plant workers. Miss Tina Carver plays O'Brien's moll, and Margaret Field plays his daughter, linked romantically with O'Keefe.

THE KING AND I
Oldsters and youngsters alike are set for a treat when they go to see "The King and I," showing Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Star Theatre. Deborah Kerr and Yul Brynner are in the title roles in the musical classic. The story of a brash king of Siam and the prim Victorian school teacher, who travels all the way from London to Bangkok to bring Western culture to the King and his 67 wives and children, was taken from Margaret Landon's book, "Anna and the King of Siam," which was a best seller years ago. For Yul Brynner, the role of the king is a familiar one. He played it 1,500 times on the stage. There are 14 musical selections in the screen version of "The King and I," which include "Hello Young Lovers," "We Kiss In A Shadow," "I Whistle a Happy Tune," and "The March of the Siamese Children." On the same program will be Paramount News No. 14 and a Bugs Bunny cartoon.

HOT BLOOD
A gay romance which combines unabashed sentiment-with stormy passion to the rhythms of gypsy music, "Hot Blood," shows Wednesday and Thursday at the Star Theatre, with Jane Russell and Cornel Wilde in the starring roles. Miss Russell, as a Romany maid, and Wilde, as her apparent to a gypsy crown. Jane Russell plays a professional "bride," a gypsy swindler who leaves her grooms, and their wallets, flat at the altar. Also showing will be "Mental Poise," and "I Never Forget A Face," two short features.

Rural Youth Day Will Open 1956 Texas State Fair

All is ready and the 1956 State Fair of Texas will begin with a burst of activity Saturday, Oct. 6, as the nation's largest annual exposition gets off and running for 16 days of fun and excitement.

Over 100,000 boys and girls from all over Texas will roll into the Dallas fairgrounds Saturday for Rural Youth Day, and the Texas A&M-Texas Tech football battle will explode in the Cotton Bowl that night.

A grand total of 4,641 head of beef and dairy cattle, swine, goats, sheep, horses and Shetland ponies have been entered in the Pan-American Livestock Exposition Oct. 6-14 and the Junior Livestock Show Oct. 15-20. There'll be horse shows all three weekends of the fair.

The Women's Department has catalogued over 5,000 individual entries in the categories of traditional homemaking skills and other competitive classifications. Daily free style shows will be featured in the Women's Building.

Two outstanding new permanent features of the fair are the Esplanade of Light, spectacular vista of dazzling illumination and scenic water effects, and the revolutionary Skyway Monorail, "tomorrow's transportation today," only Monorail line in the country.

"Damn Yankees," a Broadway musical comedy hit, will have shows nightly and matinees Saturdays, Sundays and Wednesdays through the fair. "Ice Capades" will have 24 performances. The Jolie Chitwood Thrill Show will present 27 performances.

There'll be a world of new things to see, such as the International Center with exhibits of 16 foreign nations, the sparkling new Automobile Show, the Food Frontier with its "snack bar" of free samples, the Agriculture Show stressing conservation, the Museum of Fine Arts with its exhibition of Portraits of American presidents, the Electric Show, Health Museum, Natural Gas Show, Aquarium, Museum of Natural History and Hall of State.

ENOUGH IS ENOUGH
DICKINSON, N. C. (AP)—A series of shenanigans perpetrated on the Don Conlon family here didn't strike the Conlons as funny. First, someone telephoned an undertaker that there had been a death at the Conlon home. The mortician responded, but found everyone well and reasonably happy, although a bit perturbed. Shortly, a plumber appeared. He had been called to the Conlon residence by telephone. About the time the Conlons had bade the plumber goodbye, a moving van chugged up. It wasn't needed, either. Then a telephone repair man showed up, also in response to a phony summons. The Conlons got tired and put in a bona fide call themselves — to report the monkey business to police, who are investigating.

Use this HOME FIRE SAFETY CHECK LIST to Safeguard Your Home Today

How Fire Safe is Your Home? The best way to find out is to take this check list home and ask the whole family to gather round to study the questions and check for fire hazards. Some questions Dad can answer best — others, Mom knows more about — but together, as a family, you can work out the answers. If any of the questions asked don't apply to your home . . . just cross them out. All the questions listed can be answered "Yes" or "No". Each question answered "NO" points to a fire hazard. Study the "No" answers. There you will have a good picture of the fire hazards in your home. Then your family, working together, can take immediate steps to correct the hazards found.

Grain Association Help Entire Area

Do you belong to the Grain Sorghum Producer's Association?

Fewer than one-half people can answer the question in a hurry, "Yes" or "No." Yet, there is probably not one single man, woman or child in Deaf Smith County who is not benefitting, directly or indirectly, at this very moment from the efforts of the organization.

Figures indicate that Deaf Smith County alone realized $600,000 as a result of the work carried on by the group. This came as a result of the association's battle for an equitable price support on grain sorghums in comparison with minimum wages, subsidies and supports guaranteed to other crops produced in the United States.

The Grain Sorghum Association is not asking for anything special. It is merely asking for a fair deal in comparison with other producers. While grain supports are still far below that of other commodities, it is alarming to think what they might have been had the association not carried its story to officials in Washington. The object, as we see it, is to secure equity—not special advantages. When we pay taxes like other people, it seems only fair that we should share in the advantages on the same basis.

For many years, labor, the dairy industries and other special interests have maintained lobbies in Washington. We have only to review their "benefits" to realize whether the situation is profitable.

Whether we like it or not, we are bound to agree that the United States is now operating on an entirely different economic basis from that of 25 years ago. No person in the present generation will ever live to see the day when farm subsidies have been abolished, nor will he see any appreciable decline in taxation.

Since we are going to live by these rules, it appears only intelligent for us to "plead our case" to the powers that may be in an effort to get a fair share of our own money back. Otherwise, our tax money will be used to subsidize and strengthen other commodities than our own, including competitive products which tend to drive our own prices downward.

Under the present system, the farmer and the farming community must always keep an eye on Washington if they expect to exist or to reach any fair degree of prosperity. Organizations like the grain sorghum group appear to be the most practical, most effective and least costly method accomplishing this purpose. It stands to reason, therefore, that every person in the county should contribute financially by membership in the association—and that they should stand ready to assist in every other possible manner.

Man Who Surveyed Ranges Still Is Looking Ahead

SMITH'S HOME ON THE XIT'S ESCARBADA DIVISION

A man lives in Deaf Smith County today whose recollections about the real estate business in this area should be a true gauge of the land transactions through the years. He is C. R. Smith, who began as a surveyor for the Capitol Syndicate Co. in 1910, and who today is still in the real estate business here.

Going even further back in the story of C. R. Smith and real estate, the first chapter in which his life and the Panhandle of Texas begin to blend opens with his moving to Swisher County in 1890 at the age of nine with his parents. His father filed first on a section of land there which was valued at $1 per acre. The first settlers to file claims were allowed to make a small down payment on their land and were given 40-years to pay the balance.

Pushed Sales At $3

A comparison with present day values of Swisher County land will show what changes have been made. And back in 1897 and 1898 with the coming of the first farmers to the ranch lands of the Panhandle, the value of some of this same land was pushed to $3 and $4 an acre which then seemed almost out of sight.

Young C. R. Smith left his home in 1898 and went to work as a hand for the famous XIT Ranch which has a fabulous real estate history all its own. And C. R. Smith had a very vital part in the final disposal of the vast lands of the great ranch. His story of these transactions lends a note of historical value to the comparison of present-day and early day real estate operations.

Three Million Acres

As the functions of the government of the State of Texas began to grow with the coming of more and more settlers into the state, a larger and more adequate location for the state capitol seemed imperative. The governing body appropriated three million acres of state lands to pay for the building of the finest structure possible. The Capitol Syndicate Co. agreed to build the present capitol at Austin in exchange for the land.

The acreage designated for the exchange lay in the portion of the Texas Panhandle in the counties now known as Dallam, Hartley, Oldham, Deaf Smith, Packer, Castro, Lamb, Bailey, Cochran and Hartley. It began at the Colorado State Line and extended south along the western edge of the Panhandle for 200 miles. According to Smith's estimates, the company conveyed property to the state valued at $3,000,000 which set the value of the land at $1 per acre.

Ranching Operations

As the Capitol Company had no money with which to develop the land and large sums of money were not available for loans for such enterprises, the ranch interests were turned over to the "Freehold Land and Investment Co.," with John V. Farwell as the managing director. With money borrowed in England, the ranch was fenced and stocked with large herds of cattle. The ranch was divided into eight separate divisions for easier management of the widespread operations.

It was in the handling of one of these herds on the Escarbada Division of the XIT that C. R. Smith learned ranch life. And when Ira Aten quit as the division foreman in 1903 to move to California, his job was taken over by young Smith who worked in this capacity until 1906.

Returned As Sales Agent

He returned to the ranch's employ as a surveyor in 1910 to define the boundaries of some of the first acreages of the great ranch which were sold. He also worked as an agent in the final break-up of the ranch's holdings.

When the first rough country ranch lands were sold out in 100,000 to 200,000 acre divisions, the price was about $2 an acre but this particular land was suited only for cattle grazing. The finest land of the XIT, located in what is now Farmer and Bailey Counties, was sold finally for $32 an acre. Today, some of this same land is selling for more than 10 times that amount.

To bring the changing real estate picture closer home, the land which lies west of Hereford which was a part of these Capitol Lands was valued in the first retail transactions at $5 and $6 per acre.

No Early Competition

When asked to compare the competition of yesteryear with that of today, Smith replied that there was no competition when he first began selling land. It was all owned and controlled by the Capitol Co., and he was acting as agent for that group. The commissions paid to these first dealers amounted to about five percent, the standard commission of today, but some deals, such as the Farmer County sales, netted the real estate handler a 10 percent commission.

With a gleam in his eye, Mr. Smith does not think about the "old days" on the Escarbada as much as he does about the ever-expanding opportunities in the field of oil leases and uranium. His son and partner, Roy Smith, returned only last week from a trip to Chicago and visits there with owners of portions of the original Capitol land grants. At the same time, C. R. Smith was himself dealing in uranium leases in northern New Mexico. So the old and the new join to make the real estate business one of lasting interest and appeal.

WET OR DRY

Both Sides Won In This Election

Deaf Smith County citizens went to the polls this week and, in no uncertain terms, expressed their convictions regarding the sale of alcoholic beverages in the community.

The fact that the county voted "dry" by a margin of more than 2-to-1, in our opinion, leaves no doubt concerning the wishes of the people of the community. Add to this the fact that a larger total vote was recorded than in either of the recent primaries, and the thinking of the community is even more pronounced on the subject.

This, after all, is the sole object and excuse for any election.

With these things in mind, it is also practical to assume that the area will be more or less free from local option elections for some time to come. In the face of such an overwhelming dry vote, to say the least, it is logical to believe that calling for another election as soon as the legal time period expires would be sheer folly; also that it would be with an eye toward disunity, rather than toward actual legalized sales in the county.

Surprisingly enough, the county appears to have come through the recent election with few scars in the form of hatred, bitterness and severance of friendships. The outcome, in addition to securing an accurate voice on the thinking of the people on a given subject, has also proved beyond any doubt that democracy can and will work on the grassroots level. People looked at the question from the civilized standpoint of "giving the other man the right to think and vote as he pleases," just as they wanted and demanded the right to disagree with his views.

All people who study the question carefully are bound to admit that Deaf Smith County is stronger and better for having weathered the recent storm. Certainly, we have shown the world that we do believe and practice democratic principles—and that we can achieve these things without disunity and undue strife.

When viewed from this standpoint which, after all, is more important than the original question, it is safe to say that no one lost. The wets, along with the dries, have gained a tremendous moral victory.

Fire Prevention Merits Support

Today marks the opening of Fire Prevention Week!

Fires, like vice, are among those things everyone is against, but which few people trouble themselves to do anything about.

Fire Prevention Week, at best, can only make us conscious of the danger and hazards involved. Fire snuffed out the lives of 11,475 men, women and children last year; 30,000 more were injured. In addition, the property damages from fires ran into millions of dollars.

In this area, we are fortunate in boasting an outstanding volunteer department. We are comparatively careful and, at the present time, have regulated fire loss down to a minimum. It is, indeed, a record of which we may well be proud.

One of the reasons for this record is active participation in a Fire Prevention program. People who are conscious of the perils can do much more toward eliminating fires—before they start—than can the best trained and most efficient fire departments in the world. For this reason, we should continue to emphasize and stress Fire Prevention Week.

Most dangerous of all, possibly, is the "it can't happen to me" attitude. Fire does happen to people just like you many times every day of the year! It behooves each of us, therefore, to take an active part in and to encourage general observation of Fire Prevention Week.

Reading suggestions, checking possible causes at home and in town, and remaining constantly alert takes little time. The result can save personal belongings, equipment—and lives of our loved ones.

Sometimes we wonder if the old adage, "A stitch in time saves nine" would apply to holes in the pavement on Hereford streets as well as to darning socks.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Dollar Day Gifts Bring Merchants Some 'Thanks'

What did you think of the free parking given to customers by the City of Hereford and the Merchants Association on Dollar Day, Oct. 1? Did you like it or was it an inconvenience in finding a place to park?

MRS. JIM BLACK—I found a parking place immediately and thought it was wonderful not to worry about watching the meter.

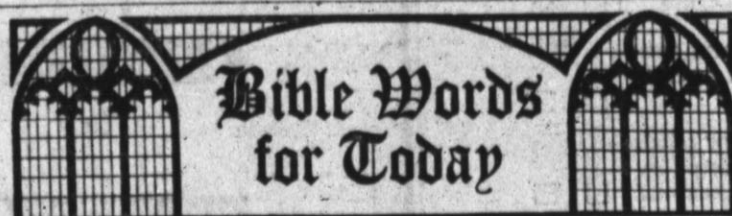

MRS. GERALD McCASKILL—I had no trouble at all in parking and thought it was wonderful. It was a good idea.

MRS. HERSHELL MILLER JR.—I wasn't downtown but it sounds like a good idea. It seems that it would be good for business.

MRS. HILREY AVEN—It was nice to have the merchants pay for the parking although I had to park on a side street when I got to town at 10 a.m.

MRS. DICK BARRETT—I think it was wonderful because the shoppers didn't have to worry about getting parking tickets.

MRS. J. C. McCracken—It was a very nice courtesy and I liked it. I think it helped the parking situation.

Bible Words for Today

JOHN 10:10—"I came that they may have life, and have it abundantly." (RSV)

Too many people think of religion as a straight jacket. They see its fetters, they fall to see its wings. They forget that true release can only come through restraint.

The athlete restrains himself in his eating that he may be free to win races. The musician accepts the drudgery of practice that he may win mastery in his art. The Saint disciplines his body that his soul may soar.

One would hardly say that Jesus of Nazareth lived a narrow life. True, he renounced some things, but what he found through such renunciation far exceeded what he lost. And what he found he wants his disciples to find. He came that they might have life. His ultimate gift is not a straight jacket but a crown.

GRAIN COMPANY OPENING

Frank White Jr., owner and manager of the Clarendon Grain Co., is extending an invitation to the public to visit and inspect the new 300,000 bushel concrete elevator which was completed this past weekend and is now handling grain from the 1956 harvest. The contractors completed the elevator five days before the contract date. The new structure measures 173 feet and six inches from the foundation to the top, plus a 12 ft. pole on top of that to hold the red light which is left burning at night. In addition to this, the elevator extends 39 feet below the surface. The elevator is the most modern being constructed today. Everything is push button operated and it has 17 bins with gravity flow which requires no motor operation to drain.—THE DONLEY COUNTY LEADER.

COMMUNITY TELEVISION SERVICE

Clear television reception for Perryton is only a few days in the offing, according to a spokesman for the Great Plains Community Television Company. He also announced that there would be no connection fee; that subscribers will pay a flat monthly service charge of $7 plus 56 cents tax, making the total monthly cost $7.56. The 500-foot tower erected south of the city a few weeks ago has been repeatedly tested and brings in both Amarillo stations with a clear-cut, snow-free signal.—OCHILTREE COUNTY HERALD.

SEASON HAS GOOD PROSPECTS

Piles of grain around the elevators and gin smoke in the air herald the beginning of what most observers feel will be one of the best harvest seasons in several years. There are about 200,000 acres in grain sorghum, about 35,000 acres in sudan, vegetables and related crops, with about 90,000 acres still in cotton. The original allotment for the county was 97,000 acres, but observers report that almost 7,000 acres was hoiled out or suffered from the drought, to the extent that it will not produce enough cotton to count in the final tabulation. Much dryland cotton will reach the market this fall from areas which have not produced any appreciable amount of fiber in several years. This will add considerably to the total tabulation as well as to the economy of the county. Vegetable growers have had an outstanding year as far as production is concerned, and while potatoes found a ready market at 8 cents for their crop, tomato growers have not been so fortunate.—THE MULESHOE JOURNAL.

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bindweed farm discusses work this week, a subject he's as familiar with as he is high society.

Dear editor:

I visited my neighbor's house one night to return a newspaper I'd borrowed a couple of weeks ago and when I walked in he held his finger up to his lips in a sign to be quiet, he was watching television, and since I didn't have anything else to do, which I understand is the frame of mind you've got to be in to get the most out of your set, I sat down and watched too.

But the program he thought was coming on failed to show up on account of a political broadcast, which I really preferred anyway, and I was interested in what the speaker, who happened to be Vice President Nixon, had to say.

He talked a good while, but the thing that made me sit up was his statement that this country is heading toward a 4-day week. Work four days, take off three. He said though for us not to look to the government to bring this about, it'd have to be up to industry and the people.

Now, while I've never had much use for a man who had to ask the government how many days a week he had to work, I'd like to say too that as far as I'm concerned I don't want to have to ask industry or the people, either. I don't want to ask anybody, I'm in favor of everybody or anybody having the freedom to work four days a week, if he wants to work that much.

I understand there has been some discussion and possibly misunderstanding over a Congressional candidate's visiting Washington and saying the troubles of the small farmer wouldn't be so great if he'd get up and go to work. This seems to be just exactly backwards to me.

The trouble with the farmer, big and little, is that he's been working too much, or how else do you explain the surpluses? As I see it, there are two ways to avoid a surplus: (1) consume more of it, or (2) stop producing so much of it. And up to now, it seems like all the brains have been devoted to producing it, at least the people in-charge of increasing the consuming part don't seem to be holding up their end.

I don't want to be bragging, but it looks like I've been way ahead of the rest of the country. I tried the 4-day week long ago, then the 3-day, the 2-day, the 1-day, and occasionally the no-day week, but my trouble is that when I got my work week down to nothing, it took care of the over-production end, but threw a monkey wrench in the consuming end.

The trouble with this country is it's got to the point where it's a lot easier to put groceries on the store's shelves than it is to take them off. You of Congress one ought to work on that end of the problem.

Yours faithfully, J. A.

It's Modern
It's Clean
if it's Electric!

here's what the J. W. PEARSONS, 510 ANGELO CIRCLE, CARLSBAD, N. M., say:

They point out that a busy home requires husband and wife to share in the household duties. As Mr. Pearson says, "My wife is so busy with the children that I do a lot of the cooking. And I enjoy our electric range because it is quicker and a whole lot cleaner. Our electric range gives us a complete selection of controlled heat for any size pan, which is a big help for any cook." You'll notice the difference, too, when you start cooking electrically.

The Pearsons heat their water electrically, too. Mrs. Pearson says, "With a family of 5, including a baby, which sometimes requires as many as 3 washer loads of clothes a day, our water heater is economical, less than 10 cents a day to operate. It's completely safe, even for small children. In fact, we have put it in an open alcove in the hall." Notice in the picture, Mrs. Pearson fixes her daughter's shoe while daughter and mother obviously feel no wasted heat coming from the electric water heater. And that's because an electric water heater has no flame, and so is insulated on ALL sides.

Start now to live better electrically in your home. See your Reddy Kilowatt dealer and let him show you the wonderful electric appliances that contribute so much to modern electric living.

Virginia Shrimp Specialty

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Ever hear of shrimp norfolk? It's a dish that probably originated along the Virginia seacoast and is now popular in Richmond. A friend told us about it but no Southern cook book in our collection yielded the recipe. Then we heard that the dish was served at an old and respected businessman's club (the Commonwealth) in Richmond and the club's chef kindly obliged with the directions for making this sea food specialty.

SHRIMP NORFOLK . . . as prepared in Richmond, Va.

Most Virginians, we are told, like the shrimp dish with plenty of "Norfolk" — in other words, plenty of its tart sauce. Trying it in our own kitchen, we found Shrimp Norfolk delightful to serve with rice. And although Richmond directions call for using either cider or farragon vinegar, we prefer the former. Here's our version of the dish:

SHRIMP NORFOLK, RICHMOND STYLE

Ingredients: 1 package (8 ounces) shelled and deveined individually frozen shrimp, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons cider vinegar or farragon vinegar, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, 2 to 4 lemon slices 2 to 4 lemon-peel bows, parsley, paprika.

Method: Turn frozen shrimp into 9- or 10-inch skillet. Set over high heat. When glaze starts to melt, turn shrimp gently until all glaze has melted. Remove skillet from heat; with a cover to hold back shrimp, pour off glaze; reserve glaze. Add butter, salt, vinegar and lemon juice to shrimp in skillet; return to moderately low heat. Cook, stirring often, just until the shrimp are opaque through; this will probably take only a few minutes. If desired, add 1 or 2 tablespoons of the reserved shrimp liquid. Serve shrimp and sauce as is; or remove shrimp and reduce small amount of sauce even more by cooking rapidly for a minute or so. Garnish each serving with lemon slices, lemon-peel bows and parsley sprigs; sprinkle with paprika. Extra salt and pepper — preferably fresh-ground — are passed to be added to taste. French-fried potatoes and a salad are often served with the shrimp. Makes 2 main-course servings or 4 first-course servings.

Note: If an iron skillet is used for cooking the shrimp, there will be more melted glaze than if a lighter skillet is used.

SHRIMP NOTES

We find that individually frozen shrimp that come all shelled and deveined in 8-ounce packages a real boon. With a couple of packages in the freezing compartment of your refrigerator, or in your freezer, you can prepare a delicious company main-course in no time at all. As directed in the Shrimp Norfolk recipe, the shrimp can be skillet-cooked, in frozen form, in a matter of minutes. Longer cooking, as a matter of fact, will toughen them.

We like to add two packages of the shrimp to a generous amount of butter or olive oil in our electric skillet right at the dining table. Then we add whatever seasonings we have on hand that we think our guests will enjoy. Crushed garlic and minced fresh dill or minced chives and parsley make wonderful seasoning combinations for the shrimp. We like to serve these skillet-shrimp with French bread for dunking up the good buttery sauce plus baked potatoes and a salad. Add such a homey dessert as apple pie, bring on the coffee, and you have delightful fare.

Glamour Girls Swim And Call It Work-

By GENE HANDSAKER

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A green-eyed blonde and a green-eyed brownette have unusual jobs at a swimsuit factory here.

They test new-model bathing suits in the factory pool. Give 'em, you might say, sort of the opposite of a dry run.

How do you test a bathing suit? Just put it on and jump into the water? Yes, but there's considerably more to it than that.

"I'm told to look for whether it's too long or too short or too tight or too loose or too hard to get into," said Sue Higgins, 19.

She's the blonde. Size: A perfect 12. Former San Bernardino, Calif., Valley Junior College student, "Miss San Bernardino of 1956." Visited her sister's mother-in-law at the factory one day and was offered a job. Real pretty.

A big part of her work is standing around in the boss's office in a bathing suit while the boss experimentally pins new fabrics, proposed pockets and tentative trims here and there on her.

The boss is pert Rose Marie Reid whose name is on the factory.

Sue comes to work in pedal pushers, dons a bathing suit and changes suits "lots" of times during an average working day.

"Twenty times, say?" she was asked.

"Oh, lots more than that," Sue replied.

The girl who does most of the water-testing of new suits is Chris Clark. Excellent swimmer and diver. Learned to swim in an irrigation ditch near her native Orem, Utah. Graduated from Utah State. Taught elementary school in Hawaii; Anchorage, Alaska, and Seattle.

She's married to an ex-GI. Took the suit-testing job, for lack of a teaching credential, when they moved here. Won't tell her age; early twenty-ish; attractive; bright.

"Quality Control," she said, nodding toward a section of the factory, "tests everything from fabric and thread to zippers and sequins. They leave foot-square swatches of material in the sun and in chlorinated water and then in salt water for 40 hours at a time, to see if it fades.

"But strength — and whether there's anything objectionable in the fabric, or the way it's sewn, or the style—can only be tested by a girl in the water."

Some suit models have what Chris called a "standaway bra." Sort of a false front that stands like two shields over the inner, working bra. To the casual observer it gives an illusion of more bosom than may exist. A factory assistant, Miss Hazel Fath, explained: "Unfortunately most women are not as big in the bust as they are in the hips. The double bra gives a more balancing effect."

"On white or light suits we look for transparency after they're wet," Chris continued.

"We test for shrinkage, before and after a suit is wet, with a tape measure. We also test for 'growth' of the fabric—whether it's baggy and unfit to wear after it's wet—and whether colors hold up or fade.

BATHING SUIT TESTERS—Sue Higgins wears a "continental" swim suit of striped wool and lastex as Chris Clark kneels to measure length of suit when dry. Girls test suits all day long.

"One claret-colored suit had denim pants under it. But when the suit was wet, the pants came out red, so that material couldn't be used."

The girls also watch for any rusting tendency on metal clasps. They fill out a mimeographed report form after testing each model. Chris averages a couple of hours a day in the pool, which has a sign, "Testing Laboratory," beside it. It is thrown open for recreation of employees and their friends after working hours.

The testing operations seem-ly gave the company's pattern developer, Manny Rubens, a bad shock one day. Somebody had left two suits floating in the pool to see how the material and colors would stand up in the chlorinated water. Manny, happening by, feigned alarm.

"The suits are holding up just fine," he cried, "but the girls have disintegrated!"

Make-up, Clothes Will See Elegant Ladylike Season

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

This is going to be an elegant year for women.

How elegant it will be for you depends on your selection of wardrobe and makeup and your general attitude toward the idea.

Black is the season's big color. Browns and neutrals, black and white, greens, blues, violets and pinky reds all make a splash also.

Blondes should wear black effectively. It's an ideal color, too, for most redheads. Brunettes wear it if makeup is kept on the fair side. It offers the easiest way to be chic with a minimum wardrobe.

Rosy-hued makeup is considered the best complement to the season's colors. Skin tone is supposed to be pearly-finished, veiling a rosy glow. The Edwardian rose, considered just the right accent for the elegant look, is a lush, vibrant shade that looks as if it has gone straight to the mouth from an old-fashioned rambler.

Use delicate-tinted makeup base in a fair shade for complexion color-control to help tone down a too-sallow or dark skin. But blend in the velvety film across throat as well as face, and bring it up under the eyes to cover up dark circles, not in a heavy mass that might affect this new pearly look, but in a smooth film.

Eyes are still IT. Emphasize their depth, adding luminescence with iridescent eyeshadow stick, available in a range of jewel tones. Mascara and eyebrow pencil are used subtly this season. You're supposed to get the same big-eyed look but without the harsh color lines that were fashionable last year.

The new look of elegance is thought to be especially good for women over 35 who find sophisticated fashions usually more complimentary to their years.

It will put the young married woman in the chic bracket for after-five dates too, because the elegant look is not limited to expensive tastes.

Young moderns who adore sophistication after they get a taste of it will become encouraged by ladylike charm too, and they'll find it in the wardrobe, hairdos and makeup created for their own set.
