VOTERS REJECT COUNTY'S $175,000 JAIL PROJECT

Dr. Calliham Has Praise for FFA; Awards Are Given

Dr. M. R. (Nig) Calliham, head of the department of Agriculture, West Texas State College, was principal speaker Thursday evening during the annual Future Farmers steak fry. Presentation of team and individual awards was also a feature of the father-son event at Jaycee Park.

The vocational agriculture program in Hereford and other Texas schools was commended by Dr. Calliham for not only giving farm youth a sound basis of knowledge to be adapted to the practice of farming, but for several less well known attributes.

Little Interest Is Shown by Citizens; Support Was Weak

Deaf Smith County voters stayed away from the polls in droves Saturday as the $175,000 bond issue, proposed for the construction of a new county jail was defeated 219 to 160 with all boxes reported except Sims, a small box that could not affect the outcome.

Barely one in seven of the 2,500 qualified voters in the county made the trip to the polls to vote on the county commissioners proposal to issue bonds and assess taxes for construction of a facility to replace the 17-prisoner jail erected here in 1905. While the commissioners employed an architect and fiscal agent for the project, they had not actively campaigned for their proposal.

THE BOND ISSUE was the second to fail in a county election here during the past six months. On last Dec. 18 county voters defeated a proposal to build a county-city airport by a margin of 631 to 454.

A unique feature of the results of yesterday's voting was the fact that the "yes" and "no" totals were tied in four of the 11 totals from the different polls. Judges at Precinct 2 reported an 81 to 81 tie; a 6 to 6 report came from the Ford community; a 4 to 4 result was recorded at Dawn, and the absentee total was 2 to 2.

Voters at polling places 1 and 11, both located in Hereford, gave the proposal its death blows. While two county precincts reported the results, none voted for the new jail.

THE FIVE members of the county commission in recent sessions had noted that they "will be content to abide by the voters' decision." Although they are on record as favoring construction of a new jail to replace the decaying structure at Fourth and Schley Sts., they did not make a single public appearance to explain their views on the old jail, or to publicly explain their proposal to build a new one.

County Judge Homer Henslee had declared that the $175,000 bond issue could be retired in 10 to 12 years without the necessity for increasing taxes.

BULLETIN
A Department of the Army inspection team will be here Tuesday morning to select a site for a new $130,000 armory to house the Hereford Army Reserve unit. Army officials have rejected the bid of Dinmuth citizens for the new structure, that city's small size as reason for the decision to build the project in Hereford. Major Ronald Kern, U. S. Army Advisor from Amarillo, made the announcement on the Army's decision while visiting here late Saturday.

Around Town

Out at Walkott School, T. L. Collins reports there has been a big change for the better in the moisture situation. "Last year, I caught just about 3 inches for 32 months, and the rain we did get was widely scattered. This year we have already had 5 inches of moisture, and it appears to have been general over the western part of the county," Collins said. Prospects for dryland wheat aren't anything to crow about there, but are definitely the best in several years.

Members of the Church of Christ will gather at their new building site at Knight St. and Plains Ave. at 3 p.m. today for groundbreaking ceremonies. Bob Ware of Canyon, former pastor, will be the principal speaker. The public is invited.

While rainfall totals may be better than normal this year, farmers over the region are fretting about the cool weather. Wheat harvest will be late. Little cotton has been planted because of the cold ground. It sure is a vexing thing, this Pan- (Continued On Page 2)

COMMENDS FUTURE FARMERS—Dr. M. R. Calliham, left, of West Texas State College, praised the several benefits vocational agriculture studies and the Future Farmer program offer to youth during a father-son FFA steak fry in Jaycee Park Thursday night. Later, the agricultural department head chatted with Jeryce Rowland and commended him on achieving recognition as the local chapter's outstanding member. (Staff Photo)

Silverton Fund Is Given Boost Here

Donations poured in Friday afternoon and Saturday morning to shoot Hereford's "Silverton Relief Fund" to a total of $796 at noon Saturday, when the two Hereford banks closed. The Hereford fund started around noon Friday, when interest in helping the neighboring community reached a peak here.

Acting in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce, the two Hereford banks were designated as collection centers, along with the Red Cross, radio station KPAN and The Hereford Brand. Most of the money collected so far came through the banks, as follows: Hereford State Bank, $534.50; First National Bank, $114.50; Red Cross $125; Brand $12 and KPAN $10.

"More donations are expected to come in next week," said A. T. Mims, C-C president, and all contributions will be speeded to the official fund disbursement centers set up in Silverton. These two centers include the American Red Cross and the Silverton Disaster Assn. with headquarters in the Silverton First State Bank. All of the donations, he pointed out, have been strictly voluntary and unsolicited.

"Persons who wish to help can mail their contributions to one of the collection centers, or drop by and leave them in person," Dr. Mims said.

The special Red Cross contributions will, likewise, go direct to the Silverton area for distribution in total and will not be (Continued On Page 2)

Tenant Farmer's Belongings Lost in Fire Friday

A tenant house on the Sam Keague farm, seven miles west of Summerfield, was destroyed by fire about 10 p.m. Friday. No one was injured in the blaze.

The tenant, Ernest Ramos, lost all his belongings. Hereford Fire Marshal Clay Angelo estimated property loss at $3,500. The Hereford Volunteer Fire Department answered the call.

Tornado Smashed Wide Trail When It Struck Town

By ROY CLARK

At Silverton Thursday morning, one was shaken by the scene of utter ruin left when a tornado smashed a 200-yard wide path through the southern part of the small town.

Looking south down Main St., you were conscious that at one point, all that was normal ceased. There, where a house had lost its roof, and on to the end of the street three blocks away, was evidence of the terrific force exerted by the dread "cyclone."

As I walked through the shattered area, evidence of the storm's fury and the freak accidents it accomplishes were all about. One house stood with only a closet left to mark what had existed above the floor. Shattered lumber and debris of all descriptions covered the ground everywhere.

THEN THERE was a clear area, possibly marking the point where the winds had been most fierce—the eye of the tornado. Where two houses had stood there was only the foundation left to mark the point where people had lived. There was no debris within many (Continued on Page 8)

LESLEY IS HONORED—Luther Lesly, left, was honored Wednesday by the Hereford Lions Club who named him the county's outstanding farmer. Lesly is shown above visiting Raymond Higginbotham, honored earlier this year by the Lions as the Tierra Blanca Soil Conservation District's top conservation farmer. Lesly's honor was gained by his outstanding farming achievements and for service to other farmers, particularly as an SCD official on the district and state levels.

AT DIAGNOSTIC CLINIC—Waiting patiently with scores of other children for his examination Saturday morning at the Oasis Shrine Club sponsored diagnostic clinic, Tommy Dean White, 2, brightened up after Shriner Jack Bradley offered him a piece of gum. The youngster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean White, 223 Ave. E, has been undergoing treatment to correct an abnormal condition of his feet, his father said. Local doctors and physicians and a number of visiting specialists donated their time and services for the Shrine Club clinic for the handicapped children of Deaf Smith, Castro and Parmer counties. (Staff Photo)

ADVISORS RECOMMEND HIGH SCHOOL ADDITION

A new survey of Hereford public schools last week added emphasis to recommendations for high school expansion made after similar surveys in recent months by the board of trustees and two citizens groups. The findings of latest survey and recommendations were presented Tuesday night to the school trustees by a trio of University of Texas professors employed by the district as educational consultants.

"Time is of the essence in beginning the work necessary to enlarge the high school plant if classes are to be housed proper-

Moore Is Awarded Scholastic Honor by Eastern School

Ted Moore, 17-year-old Hereford High senior, has been awarded a four-year scholarship to Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass. He received notification of the scholarship Wednesday.

Moore is valedictorian of his class. According to the letter from Harvard, young Moore was one of 50 freshmen to receive four-year scholarships. The Harvard freshman class normally has 1,100 students. "This is the highest honor for freshmen students," the letter said.

Moore took two scholarship tests in Amarillo this year and sent the results to Harvard. He hasn't decided on his major as yet. He will enroll in September. Ted is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Moore, 207 Grand Ave.

ly during future school terms," declared Bill Barron of Austin, director of the office of school surveys and studies for the state university. His estimate of costs of the expansion recommended was $425,000 to $500,000.

Board President Tom Robinson scheduled a special meeting of the board of trustees for the first Tuesday in June with school architect Cantrell & Co. of Pampa and consultant Barron to be present.

BARRON VISITED the Hereford schools for the first time some two weeks before last Tuesday's board meeting. He returned last Monday with two other University of Texas professors, Arthur H. Moehlman, professor of history and philosophy of education, and Glenn Barnett, associate dean of the college of education.

Their work here, under a service program of the college, was to coordinate surveys and make recommendations as skilled and unbiased observers. Barron said that he has been invited to give consultation service to 15 different schools since joining the college staff last September. He is a former Iowa school superintendent.

Tuesday night he told school trustees here that he and his colleagues, after surveying space and anticipated enrollments at the various public schools here, recommended these needs as requiring immediate action:

1. Construction of a new classroom wing at the high school.

2. Construction of a girls gym at the high school.
3. Construction of a cafeteria at the high school.
4. Voting of Senate Bill 116 along with the bond issue to finance the proposed construction as a means of cutting down interest payments.
Barron noted that his estimates of the school's anticipated growth was based on a study of the trend here for the past 10 years and on average daily membership of the school body, rather than maximum enrollment. On the basis of average daily membership or enrollment, the consultant said that Hereford public schools during the current year reached the total predicted for 1960 by the Chamber of Commerce sponsored survey completed in 1955.

HE SAID that in each of the past 10 years, actual enrollment has exceeded estimates based on the school census. "On this basis," Barron declared, "we have built our recommendations. And unless something drastic happens, Hereford can look forward to continued growth of its student population."

He declared that the immediate problem is the need to expand the high school facilities, with the junior high to be the next problem. "You must also continually review the elementary school space problem, although right now the elementary schools are adequate for present and immediate future enrollments," Barron advised the trustees.

As for layout of the high school expansion he proposed, Barron and his colleagues advised building the girls gym and cafeteria at the rear of the present school gym, with the classroom wing to extend from the cafeteria parallel to the present classroom wing. The classroom wing would adjoin the present building at the band hall. It would contain 10 classrooms, including two large rooms especially equipped, one for speech classes and the second for general science. There would also be a small room for the counselling program now being considered by the school administration.

Miss Colline Brown and Mrs. Duane Singletary of Amarillo served and Sandra Frank presided at the guest register. Mrs. Linda Bull of Amarillo provided piano music during the calling hours.

Standing with the honoree and her mother, Mrs. C. F. Davis, to receive the guests were the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. W. C. Meharg and his grandmother, Mrs. W. C. Meharg Sr., of Amarillo. Approximately 75 guests registered in the bride's book of names.

Orange juice is good to add to bottled cranberry juice cocktail. Add a little sugar if you like.

thinking of making money with chickens?...

Fall egg prospects look good

Chick hatch down 21% (Feb. 15 U.S. Government report)... fewer pullets on farms... probably 5-6% fewer chicks will be raised this spring—all point to strong egg prices this fall.

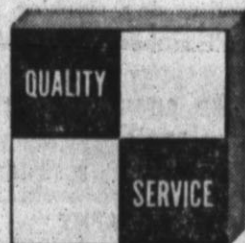

The egg price pendulum is due to swing up again this fall. The substantial drop in chick hatchings, pullets on farms, and flock replacement intentions, should result in better egg prices. This offers real opportunity to the poultry raiser who is ready with sturdy, rugged pullets when prices start up.

HOW TO CUT PULLET-GROWING COSTS

And one way to make more money is to cut costs by cutting feed used in growing pullets. A recent study showed that pullets raised at the Purina Research Farms require 250 pounds less feed per 100 birds than the average in nine leading poultry states. That makes a saving of $8.50 to $12.50 on each 100 pullets raised! You can start right now to make money with Purina's low-cost pullet growing plan. And, right here at the Store with the red-and-white Checkerboard Sign... we can help you start right... and stay right... with the Purina Pullet Program best suited to your particular conditions.

Poultry Health Hint—We recommend that you protect your chicks and young pullets against common disease germs with Purina Disinfectant and Purina Check-R-Tabs. They provide a lot of valuable protection at very little cost.

PEOPLE DO CHANGE, along with times and conditions. The fact was never more evident in Hereford than this week following the Silverton tornado disaster. The tornado struck Wednesday night and sometime around 10:30 a.m. Friday a relief fund got underway in Hereford.

I could not help remembering the Higgins - Glazier disaster a few years back, when the death toll and property damage was far less than that at Silverton. Yet, within a few hours after the news came through, several trucks containing canned milk, food and clothing were headed out of Hereford and on the way to help the unfortunates. Sizeable donations had been collected the following morning — and they grew as time elapsed. It was quite a contrast with the response this week when Hereford, instead of spearheading the drive, barely got in under the wire.

WHY THE DIFFERENCE? Are we more worldly-wise and less charitable? Have we been "taken" too many times? Are we less able financially? Are we just poorer neighbors than we once were? Do we attend church regularly, then shut Christianity out of our lives when we close the doors?

Certainly, Hereford has changed — and drastically — in the past 10 years. There is bound to be a reason. Some say it is the passing of the cattle and wheat dynasties; others attribute it to growth and point out that Amarillo underwent much the same process, which is true. One thing is for sure, though, if such a disaster ever happens here, let's hope there are enough old timers still left in the neighboring communities to remember our good deeds of decades past. Regardless of the changes, there is no substitute for friendship in a time of need.

Folks on Avenue E are lucky. The Ray Cargo family, 343 Ave. E, do have a dugout. It is the only one heard from so far. Maybe there are others. If so, we will be glad to list them.

Mrs. Hall Beavers came up with a good idea. She wants to know how they will blow the siren in case a tornado swoops down on Hereford. The answer is "IT WILL NOT BLOW AT ALL." According to Fireman Clay Angelo, the policy of using the siren only in case of fire was adopted to avoid confusion on the part of firemen and the public. He said that radio and TV stations are carrying the warnings as they appear — and that all stations have permission to stay on the air after 12 o'clock in case of emergencies. He recommended TV and radio as the best way to keep up with warnings and tornado alerts. In no instance, he repeated, will the fire siren be used for tornado warnings.

THE WORM HAS TURNED, so far as Jack Fortenberry is concerned, out in the great northwest part of Deaf Smith County. For several years, now, it has been customary for Jack to miss even the occasional rains we get in town. In 1957, however, Jack reports a rain every time you turn around. Fact is, he doesn't even consider it a light shower these days unless he gets better than two inches.

And speaking of the great northwest, Mrs. C. F. Homfeld, Deaf Smith County's "Home Demonstration Club Woman of the Year" is getting to be a regular TV actress. She appeared on "Double-Trouble" over KGNC in a picture series, also in person, Thursday and turned out to be quite photogenic, along with being an outstanding mother and an excellent cook. H. D. Agent Argen Draper likewise turned in a good performance, prompted by questions from "Cotton John," who M-C's the program.

Since The Brand gives the annual award, I also made my debut as a TV performer. I figured that I would probably steal the show, but it didn't turn out that way. Mr. "Cotton John" said I was "camera shy" and the only other two people who had the heart to mention it were Jim Lipscomb and my wife. Jim's only remark was, "I didn't realize how bald you were until I saw you on TV." My wife already knew how bald I was, but kept complaining because she had to watch me — and missed "Our Miss Brooks," which seems to be the program she usually watches at that hour — and, as we TV folks say, it "appears on another network."

Anyway, it was quite an experience. I had no idea those TV props were so poor. Actually, they look nothing at all like they come out on the 21-inch screen at home. Mrs. E. K. Pinnell was the smartest one in the bunch. She had a good soft chair in the back, and wouldn't go up with the crowd. Mrs. Homfeld told me confidentially that she was "scared to death" — and I think she was telling the truth. I don't know about Argen, but Mrs. Homfeld sure didn't have anything on me. There may be "greener pastures" than the newspaper business but, for me, it sure won't be TV.

THREE-PART INVENTION—This tractor owned by Benny Womble, 121 Centre, was broken into three pieces Tuesday afternoon when the trailer on which it was being carried overturned two miles east of Hereford. year it was the Carrol Whitesides, then more recently went the Raylan Evans, followed closely by the Bob Lawrences. Now I hear that D. C. Kinsey and Frank Watson have bought the Ford place at Portales, effective June 1, subject to the usual red tape in buying an automobile agency. I understand both families expect to move permanently as soon as they have things worked out on a local level. The Kinseys have been here for 16 years, and the Watsons moved here from Vega around 1945.

While everyone else was talking about how these folks will be missed in the community, Old Marlin Gilliland pulled another fast one. He volunteered to help the Lawrences with their moving — and it was several hours after Marlin left with the truck Friday morning before it dawned on his family that the fishing season opened Saturday, May 18, in Colorado.

AMONG OTHER THINGS, the Camp Fire Girls seem to be champion wranglers. A delegation of some 35 or 40 left Friday afternoon for Carlsbad, to tour the caverns. They planned to spend the night in the Camp Fire hut, sleeping in bedrolls on the floor — all of which leads me to wonder if Pat Neel, one of the sponsors, was able to get up — much less make the two-hour hike through the cave.

The world is getting smaller. I see where you can fly round-trip to London for an economical $240 these days under the Flying Tiger plan, which requires a charter of 100 passengers.

Which reminds me. The Liston

Wilsons and the Art Manjeots are about due to return from their European trek. Howard Gault has a lot of color slides he took on the Gault's Africa-Europe tour. Howard says he believes he enjoyed Italy more than any place on the trip.

If you see J. C. McCracken looking like an honest-to-goodness farmer, don't be surprised. I understand he has sold his machinery interests to Bill Davis Jr., and is devoting most of his time to agriculture. The dissolution terminates one of the oldest partnerships in Hereford, one which existed for more than 20 years. Bill Sr. will continue active in the management of the firm.

National Realtors Executive to Visit

A field executive of the National Assn. of Real Estate Boards, Frank Sweeney of Lincoln, Neb., will visit Hereford tomorrow to consult with local realtors and other business leaders, Ernest Kendall, president of the Hereford Board of Realtors, said yesterday.

Sweeney's association has its headquarters in Chicago. During his visit, Sweeney will address a meeting of the Hereford Rotary Club and officers of other civic clubs at noon in the Jim Hill Hotel, Kendall said. He will speak on "Good Business Ahead in Building Better Communities."

"We are looking forward to Mr. Sweeney's visit," Kendall said, "not only for the information that he will bring us about our own business, but for the opportunity we will have to show him our community and discuss with him its future."

Prior to his service with the Realtors' association, Sweeney engaged in the general real estate business. He has headed a mortgage buying department in government service and for several years was associated with the Chicago

Mormon Church Is Represented Here by Two Young Men

Two Mormon missionaries from Salt Lake City, Utah, Elders LaMont Hess and Allan Nelson are in Hereford to hold services and call on townspeople to explain their church doctrine.

Elder Hess said that he and Nelson, who arrived here early this month, plan to remain in Hereford for the next four months. They are residing at 108 W. Fifth.

The two young men are holding services of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints each Sunday morning at 10:30 in the VFW Clubhouse at Veterans Park.

Their work here, Hess explained, is part of a two year ministry for which they have been commissioned by their church. Such ministries are normally accomplished by all young men of the Mormon Church. Unpaid by the Mormon Church, the young elders stated firmly that they do not receive donations of any sort for their work here.

Local FTA Group Installs Officers

Gladys Lee was installed as new president of the Future Teachers of America chapter at the local high school in its final meeting of the year.

Other officers assuming their duties are Martha Bookout, vice president; Glenna Gault, secretary; Dorothy Williams, treasurer; Betty Ferguson, historian; Charlotte Moore, reporter; and Douglas Womble, parliamentarian.

The program for the day was an informal evaluation of the year's work.

Homemaking Group Has Last Meeting

The Homemaking Advisory Committee for the high school held its final meeting for the year in the superintendent's office Wednesday morning.

Miss Esther Sorenson of Plainview and Lubbock, area homemaking supervisor, was a guest at the meeting. She reported that Area 1 this year has broken all previous records in enrollment, with 1,000 girls enrolled in FHA. She said the future homemakers broke their previous record in attendance at the Area 1 meeting, too.

In summarizing the year's findings by the committee, Mrs. Joel McGee said the homemaking department is trying to stay abreast of the needs of the community through such projects as the advisory committee has recommended.

Plans are being considered for a 12-month program.

Mrs. F. L. Alexander, committee member, spoke enthusiastically for such a plan, and Mrs. George Paetzold joined her in pointing out work that could be done by homemaking girls during the summer months when they are not engaged in regular school activities. The teachers reported that the present 10-month plan allows time for some work with adults and special work with the girls on summer projects.

Mrs. J. J. Durham told of the exchange student work, mentioning especially that Hereford will be host to a bus load of approximately 32 foreign exchange students on July 5, 6, 7. The 14 boys and 18 girls will be on their way from the west coast to New York, where they will sail for their homes.

They represent 16 countries, including Austria, Belgium, Brazil, Denmark, France, Germany, Italy, Great Britain, Greece, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Turkey and Sweden.

Mrs. Guy Newsom brought reports from a sub-committee, suggesting instructional needs and listing resource people who may be used to enrich the program. Supt. Fred J. Cunningham brought reports on school progress.

Attending the meeting were Bert Boomer, Miss Sorenson, Bill Lenderman, Susie Loerwald, Donna Sue Guseman, Dolly Paetzold, Mrs. Earl Springer, Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. Newsom, the homemaking teachers and Fred Cunningham.

Choose Your Graduation Dress To Double for Summer Parties

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Every girl wants a graduation dress that can be transformed into a party dress after the diploma is safely in hand. The best way to get exactly the right dress is to sew it yourself, suggest local sewing center experts.

One smart solution is to make a bare-topped party dress of white pique, with a little cover-up cape. This season capes are all the rage, so it's possible to have a halter top party dress, with the cape making it a graceful and appropriate graduation dress.

One of the most flattering styles for any girl is a dress cut on princess lines, high-waisted, with a full-gored skirt, a halter neckline and a low-dipping back. The cape, made from only two major pattern pieces, is a pretty balance for the flared skirt. The cape should fall about three inches above the elbow. The girl who is extra-short or extra-tall will appreciate the inch-rulers printed on the pattern, so alterations can be made accurately and easily.

For the sheath minded, the same pattern contains directions for a slender dress, which might be teamed with a back-buttoning bolero. If you want a more formal look, you might make it in white silk shantung.

After graduation, you may give the dress a new look with a variety of bright cummerbunds, ranging from gay red-and-white checked gingham for a pique dress to turquoise taffeta for the white shantung. And for a really gala look, try a wide sash of organza or shifon, with long streamers clear to the hemline. Just for fun, tip the streamers with artificial flowers.

Bluebird Group Being Organized

A new Bluebird group is being organized. It is for all girls who will be in the second grade next fall.

Any girl who is eligible and wishes to join a Bluebird or Camp Fire group should contact the extension committee. Eligible girls may contact them at either of the following numbers: Mrs. Walter London at 1106-W; Mrs. O. G. Hill Jr., at 1310; Mrs. Bill Hardwick, at 1702 or Mrs. Gerald Hale at 1353-J.

There was a Bluebird meeting at Central on Friday afternoon. Monday there will be a meeting at 2:15 p.m. at Shirley School and at Alkman School at 2:15 p.m. Tuesday.

yards of either foundation.

I asked a resident later, "Were there really houses where there are just those two foundations for houses?" He assured me that there had been. Even the lawn at one of the houses had been ripped up by the winds. No one looked for long at those bare foundations.

Just north of them however, workers and relatives of the persons who had occupied the homes when the tornado swept in at 10:30 p.m. Wednesday were poking about through the debris in search of something to salvage.

With some persons still missing at that time, there was little talk among the workers. When they talked it was in hushed voices. Despite the activity of scores of searchers and workers there was a great quiet over the scene.

Southwestern Public Service trucks and crews moved into the southern part of the area where a sewage lift station had been destroyed in order to put it back into operation. The noise of their engines and chain-equipped wheels broke the silence and gave evidence that life in Silverton was moving back to a semblance of what had been before.

BUT THE tornado, the 20 lives it claimed, the scores it left injured and the $750,000 in damage that it did will remain forever in the memory of residents of little Silverton, and to the hundreds who flocked into the town on Thursday.

The tornado, described as the most vicious to strike this region since Higgins was devastated in 1947, left a trail of ruin for almost 30 miles. It struck five miles east of Silverton, then moved northeast to the edge of the Caprock. Over much of the distance it cut a swath 200-yards wide.

Perhaps the most graphic evidence of its force was a large safe that had been in use — and was locked — at the Tomlin & Fleming gin in southeast Silverton. The safe was literally exploded, the door ripped from its hinges and the box, together with most of its contents hurled for 30 yards.

Residents of the town who had been fortunate to live out of the storm's path seemed little concerned over the hundreds who came from neighboring towns to lend aid or merely to look. But law officers, including some who came from as far away as Hollis and Altus, Okla., and Big Spring, kept most of the curious away from the disaster area.

The residents complained that the incorrect reports aired over radio and television stations that described the tornadoes path as "through the southwest part of town" had caused much anguish among their relatives. "I hope they get that corrected," Bill Tenyson, a retired mail carrier told me.

But the service the radio accomplished in marshalling aid and rescue forces for the shattered town drew praise. "Be sure to mention the work that the Tulsa National Guard did in helping locate the dead and injured. They

Merchants Okay Dues To Back Promotions

Members of the Hereford Merchants Assn. voted Friday to pay dues of 50 cents a month for retail promotions and appointed a committee to study by-laws and a constitution for the group.

Last week the group appointed a committee to see chamber of commerce officials about an annual grant to use as the merchants see fit. The merchants group is an autonomous committee of the chamber.

After learning the chamber allots budget funds to the merchants for use in promotions concerning the entire community, the committee reported back to Friday's meeting and recommended dues be paid so money will be available for promotional purposes.

DUB REEVES, chairman of the committee, said, "To ask the chamber to promote our sales would be opening the gates for every group in the county to legitimately get chamber funds."

Reeves pointed out that the chamber spent more than $600 of its budget last year for events related to the merchants group. None of the money was spent for retail promotion.

After Reeves' report, the 14 merchants present voted unanimously were here right after the storm and are still working," several residents advised me.

to set up a 50 cents per month dues fee. Irving Alexander, Paul Harvey, Clyde Cave and J. P. Jones were named to a committee to draw up a constitution for the Merchants Assn. The group will still be a part of the chamber of commerce.

Members present also adopted a suggestion by Reeves that one-third of the total membership of the association must approve a project before the dues money can be spent.

In other business, the merchants decided to hold their Pioneer Day giveaway at 4 p.m. on the First National Bank's parking lot between Main and Sampson Streets on 3rd Ave. Oliver Streu said 60 merchants will participate in the giveaway June 1.

SUMMER BAND SCHOOL WILL OPEN MAY 27

Summer band school will open at the high school band hall on Monday, May 27, at 8:30 a.m., according to an announcement by Charles Bell, director of bands. The classes will include instruction for instrumental beginners at all levels of school enrollment.

Emphasis in setting up the schedule will be placed on beginners who will be seventh grade students in the fall, but others interested in learning the fundamentals of instrumental music are urged to enroll. No tuition is to be charged for the six weeks of classes.

Thursday and Friday, May 24 and 25, have been set as enrollment days for the school. Bell and representatives of music instrument firms will be at the band hall from 4 until 6:30 p.m. to arrange either purchase or rental of instruments for the summer school.

Students who complete the six weeks of instruction to be taught this summer will be enrolled as members of the Stanton Junior High Band when school opens this fall, Bell stated. He added that rural students who cannot commute to summer school will be started in a fall beginners' class.

Women's Clubs Close Season; Brides-Elect Are Honored

CHARTER MEMBERS of the Music Study Club are shown with the president of Seventh District, TFMC as they were honored Monday at the Music Study Club luncheon. They are Mesdames C. C. Ferguson, left, Glenn Synder, A. O. Thompson, John Fagan of Borger, 7th District president, Mrs. S. O. Wilson and Mrs. Homer Fox.

Charter Members Honored at Music Club Anniversary Fete

CHARTER MEMBERS of the Music Study Club were honored in an observance of 40 years of club activities at a luncheon also observing National Music Week, held at the Wesley Methodist Church on Monday. Tables carried out the 40th anniversary theme with ruby red iris banded around the music staff done in white with notes of red.

Mrs. Bill Brady, acting president, introduced the charter members who were seated at a special table, including Mesdames C. C. Ferguson, Glenn Snyder, A. O. Thompson, S. O. Wilson, Homer Fox, Mrs. John Fagan of Borger, Seventh District, TFMC president, was a special guest.

A reminiscence program revealing the history of the club's beginning was presented. Mrs. Carl Mountz told how the club grew out of a ladies quartet organized by the late Mrs. G. A. F. Parker with Mrs. Mountz, Mrs. Ezra Norton, and the late Mesdames Parker and H. H. Hawkins, composing the group. "They sang at everything for there were no other singers then," she said. Later a Ladies Chorus was organized under the direction of a voice teacher, Emil Meyers of Amarillo who came once each week to direct the group.

IN 1916 the Music Study Club came into being with Mrs. Parker as its first president. The group was federated with the Texas Federation of Music Clubs in 1918 and with the state and national federations in 1920.

Mrs. C. C. Ferguson gave a brief history of the early days of the club tracing its activities in church and civic and school affairs, contributing much to the entertainment as well as the cultural life of the community.

Mrs. Ferguson said the purpose of the club is to stimulate individual effort and to elevate the musical standards of the community, and that at all times this objective has been kept uppermost in the minds of members. "The group has sponsored many worthwhile community programs throughout the years as well as promoting musical activities and study for the youth of the community," she recalled.

SPECIAL TRIBUTE was given to the three first presidents, the late Mesdames Parker and H. L. Broadwell and Mrs. J. P. Slaton. Others telling of the highlights of the club during the 40 years were Mesdames A. O. Thompson, Homer Fox and S. O. Wilson.

The main address was presented by Mrs. John Fagan, 7th district president, who told of achievements of the district and state organizations during the past year. She complimented the club on having furnished two Seventh District presidents, Mrs. A. O. Thompson and Miss Mattie Mae Swisher, both of whom have served as officers of the Texas Federation of Music Clubs.

Pioneer Study Club Closes Year's Program at Luncheon

Pioneer Study Club held its installation luncheon closing activities for the 1956-57 season in the home of Mrs. John Patton Tuesday. Mesdames J. E. Beyer, F. M. Kester and H. E. Miller served as cohostesses.

Arrangements of iris and stock were all about the house and the table featured a May Pole arranged with iris and pansies.

Following the luncheon, Mrs. Ralph McCullough presided over a brief business session and Mrs. O. G. Hill served as installation officer for new officers.

Those taking over official duties were Mrs. Ralph McCullough, president; Mrs. O. H. ### Household Tips

Mend all torn places in clothing before laundering because washing may make small tears larger.

Make a habit of setting your breakfast table attractively if you want your family to welcome and enjoy this meal.

Steeping and dripping are two basic methods of making coffee. In the first method, hot water is held in contact with the ground coffee for several minutes. In the second method, the hot water is poured through the ground coffee one or more times.

Either whole milk or nonfat dry milk solids may be used in the dry state for making breads and other baked goods.

Know your meat: veal is the flesh from immature beef animals or calves.

Dressed poultry is the term usually used for birds that have been killed and bled, have had their feathers removed and have been chilled or frozen.

The ducklings on the market nowadays are from 8 to 12 weeks old and weigh not less than 4 and not more than 7 pounds.

Practically all fish varieties benefit from the addition of butter or margarine or oil during cooking.

Cut vegetables into pieces of equal size so they will cook uniformly in the same length of time.

Nordyke Has Book on Texas Gunman

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After watching John Wesley Hardin shoot down five armed and wildly firing men in about a minute, a cowman on the Chisholm

Trail remarked: "With either hand or both hands at the same time that boy can handle a pistol faster than a frog can lick flies." This is the first sentence of Lewis Nordyke's new book about John Wesley Hardin, Texas' fastest, toughest gunman. For the first time, the full life story has been written of a preacher's boy who had killed 23 men by the time he was 18 and 44 before he himself was slain in El Paso at the age of 42. That was in 1895 and men now alive who knew the most notorious killer of the old West helped Nordyke round out the authentic detail and drama of an outlaw's strangely paradoxical life.

THE AMARILLO writer spent a year in research and visited all the scenes of Hardin's violent years. Hardin's descendants made available trunks of letters, papers and family lore. The book contains the full story of the gunman's wife and his family, his prison years at Huntsville which began with violence and ended in full reformation.

To the gentle girl who married Hardin and stood by him until her death he was beyond reproach. Hardin's later marriage was as strange as old Sam Houston's in Tennessee.

Hardin was the most savage killer Texas or the whole West ever spawned. Yet the circumstances of his youth in the bitter and lawless reconstruction period after the Civil War helped explain him. Descendant of Texas pioneers, he held chivalric ideals of personal honor and the defense of womanhood. He never robbed a man or used a gun for pay.

Federal Bank Burns Money

By WILLIAM BURCH LEE

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Money to burn isn't the slogan of the Federal Reserve sub-branch bank in San Antonio, of course, but it's what they do with old currency that reaches the bank's vaults.

Recently officials at the sub-branch of the bank which is a part of the Dallas branch, destroyed by burning 100 thousand dollars in currency. Uncle Sam's dollars don't last him much longer than they do you—just a few spendings. As member banks send in their deposits and money shipments to the bank, a special crew of currency sorters sifts out the aged currency and those bills which have been defaced.

THE OLD CURRENCY is double-counted and handed to other verifiers who trundle the bundles into another room.

The Federal Reserve sub-branch here burns only U. S. currency which was issued by the Treasury Department. Federal reserve bank currency is burned by the Treasury Department.

But in the case of old federal reserve bank notes the local branch punches holes in them and then slices them in half lengthwise. The top halves are shipped to the Treasury Department in Washington. When Washington sends back a coded telegram that the top halves have been received the lower halves are sent to Washington. The U. S. currency burned here escape called for a borrowed horse Hardin always returned the horse. A killer yes, but never a horse thief. He was a rebel to the last ounce of energy and drop of blood until his reformation in prison.

"My first trouble was with the Yankees and the state police," he once said. The Texas state police, that is; a carpet bagging outfit that Hardin seemed destined to wipe out with his own guns if he hadn't headed up the Chisholm Trail, headed for adventure more killings and Abilene.

The Nordyke book is fully documented, indexed and even maps the Wes Hardin trails through Texas. One small error: Nordyke says Wes Hardin had killed 23 men by the time he was 18, but the New York publisher has to brag on Texas, so he makes it 27 in the blurb on the cover.

(John Wesley Hardin, Texas Gunman, By Lewis Nordyke of Amarillo, author of Cattle Empire, Great Roundup, etc. William Morrow and Co. Inc., New York. $4.00)

is also drilled with the holes and sliced in half. Then it is trundled down into the sub-basement of the new bank building for destruction in a specially constructed furnace.

SAN ANTONIANS recall a few years ago when a big batch of money was taken by the Federal Reserve Bank to the postoffice for destruction. Precautions were taken, but some of the bills floated out on the heat, through an unnoticed flue. Passersby began picking up the bills that rained down.

The furnace in the new building has a system of grills and screens designed to keep all bills in place for complete burning. Burned fragments sifted from the ashes are tossed back into the fire.

Bank officers say there is more old money in the bank during the winter and spring. In autumn and summer more money is in circulation and not so much is destroyed.

IF YOUR OWN money is burned, you can perhaps be repaid by the federal government if any parts of the bills are still intact.

Take the case of the farmer whose calf found the farmer's wallet in the barnyard and ate it. Mr. Farmer cut open the calf and retrieved his purse. Enough was left for the farmer to obtain $25 from the government for the mutilated evidence.

Then there was the case of the wife who baked her husband a cake. She didn't know he had hidden his snap-top purse containing a sizeable amount of currency in the oven. The husband with the baked cake and money managed to establish the amount of money and recovered the sum.

New State Park Open at Monahans

MONAHANS — A late addition to the state park system, Monahans Sandhills, is open for business — a place of moving sand where the wind sometimes uncovers Indian artifacts and occasionally a pioneer's gear.

A caliche-topped road leads from Highway 80 to a parking area about two miles within the park. A picnic shelter has been built and a windmill erected over a newly drilled well. Work on the park's administration building is under way.

The park contains six sections of dune sands — a part of the immense corridor of moving sand that runs from the north part of Crane County into New Mexico.

The shifting dunes — sometimes towering 50 feet above the "blow-outs" at their feet — form a dry and inhospitable picture to the usual traveler along the busy U. S. 80 which bisects the duneland on its way from Dallas to El Paso. But permanent waterholes are hidden in this unlikely place and Indians once found this spot a friendly one.

WATER LIES JUST under the surface in low spots in the sand hills, and small oaks grow.

The acorns supplied food for the Indian and he found that in the early days white men were reluctant to pursue his rading parties into the white sands.

Those white men who did go into the sands generally regretted it, since nature or the Indians generally finished off those who stumbled into their sandy trap. As evidence, remains of a burned wagon, train was found at Willow Springs, a few miles from the new park site.

In pre-historic times, it is believed the site was one of small lakes and tall grasses and that the elephants fed there.

Charley Steen, archeologist for the National Park Service, says "during the late Pleistocene times elephants were hunted here by Indians who made fluted dart points somewhat similar to the Folsom Point of the High Plains."

THE TEXAS Memorial Museum has investigated several reports

ROBERT WOMBLE

Robert W. Womble Makes Solo Flight

PENSACOLA, Fla. (FHTNC) — a first solo flight was made recently by Naval Aviation Cadet Robert W. Womble son of Mrs. Wil-da J. Well of 114 Lake St., Hereford Tex.

In addition to solo flights, he is receiving training in Communications Navigation, Engineering Athletics Aerology and civil air regulations at the Sausley Field Naval Auxiliary Air Station Pensacola, Fla.

After eight weeks at Sausley Field he will advance to the formation flying stage of his flight training at another field in the Pensacola area.

of fossil elephant bones and fluted points among the oaks.

On Sundays, amateur archeologists from throughout the area pour into the park and fan out into the sandhills seeking arrow heads and Indian implements.

In addition, picnickers crowd the parking area and their youngsters climb the sandy hills — where you step forward two feet and slip back one — and slide and roll down the sloping dunes.

In addition to present picnic facilities, plans are under way for concessions to provide soft drinks and picnic supplies. In the future, a historical and archeological museum is to be added and a swimming pool and facilities for serving meals may be added.

Money for the park was voted in the Ward County park board issue which set up $165,000 to create it. One half section of the land was purchased and the rest leased for 99 years from the Sealy-Smith Foundation at Galveston.

The Park Assn. has been set up on a permanent basis to continue work on the project. Tom Meacham is president, Conrad Dunagan vice president and Leo Butler, secretary.

How Big Will Hereford Get?

Building Permits Indicate Continued Hereford Growth

Hereford is still growing. Those who doubt the fact have only to visit the city hall and compare 1957 building permits with those of years past.

Whereas, the town for several years saw a small boom in the construction of new homes; however, this year has brought a large number of new commercial buildings as progressive merchants have sought to keep pace with the overall growth.

Most heartening right now is the fact that both phases of community growth are on something of an even keel—and that the combination of permits is still running in excess of 1956, which was a banner year.

While this comes as a shock to many people, it is well to note that the growth is running almost parallel with the population figures in a survey sponsored two years ago through the Chamber of Commerce. Actual census count in 1950 showed 5,207 population in Hereford, and the estimate was 7,582 for 1955. The survey also projected forecasts, estimating 9,522 residents in 1960, which coincides fairly well with the approximate 8,250 people who live in Hereford today. Further projected forecasts were shown as follows:

1970	14,038
1975	16,281

It is interesting to note that the survey allows approximately 5000 rural residents in 1960, and that the same number holds true as the town population increases with an area population of 23,102 in 1980, when 18,497 of that number will be living in Hereford. In other words, little increase is expected in the rural areas.

Because the survey is holding fairly true at the present time, it is serving as a guide for many business people who plan expansion to meet future needs; likewise, it is being used extensively in the plans of schools, city, county and other general planning which might be affected through future growth.

All in all, Hereford and the Hereford area are growing. They will continue to grow pretty well along the indicated lines. Certainly, it is the best available answer when someone asks: "How big will Hereford get?" The predictions are based on solid, continuous growth which, after all, is the most desirable of all types of expansion for the community and for the people who make this area their home.

Tornado Warnings System Is A Flop

While we do not like to be critical of people who are doing their very best, we cannot help but wonder why the tornado warning system ever picks up anything but the false alarms.

Dallas had a brief warning, it is true, but the warning did not come through the complicated system of alerts. Silverton, where 20 residents of an 800 total lost their lives, is another community which reports no advance notice of the impending tornado disaster. Meanwhile, countless other towns and cities have been alerted and were happy when no tornado materialized.

All of which causes many people to wonder concerning the efficiency and accuracy of any existing warning system now in use in the mid-West. As we said, it appears that the weather bureau is doing its best but, like weather forecasts in this particular area, the best is far from practical or adequate. So far as this particular area is concerned, the tornado warnings have pretty well missed 100 percent, resulting in no little confusion from time to time.

What the area needs is a warning system that really works. Perhaps this is asking too much, but when people hold themselves forth as experts or specialists, it seems that some semblance of accuracy should emerge once in awhile. Flowery speeches are fine but, out in this country, there is no substitute for results. So far, they seem to have made the people "tornado conscious," which is about the most that can be said for the entire complicated system.

Meanwhile, it would appear that the best thing people can do is fall back on the old plan of individual alertness and run for cover every time a cloud appears. This may sound like substituting an old home-remedy like kerosene for modern day penicillin but, after all, it does work—which is more than we can say for the government sponsored weather system upon which many people have come to risk their lives from day to day. Even in a hectic game like "Russian Roulette," you have one chance out of six to win.

AT SILVERTON—The tornado that swept through Silverton Wednesday night, killing 19 persons and leaving scores injured, proved no respecter of property. A $50 bicycle, foreground, was twisted and crumpled, its wheels torn completely away; a $150,000 gin was smashed completely, background. (Staff Photo)

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Opinions Divided on Tornado Alert System

What do you think of the U. S. Weather Bureau's severe weather warning system? Is it adequate in providing sufficient warning for tornadoes or other storms?

W. A. DOBBINS—Yes sir, I think they're doing the very best they can. I don't see where it could be improved. They are doing a good job.

FRANK COGDELL—They're doing a good job. It could be improved by more watchers for the local Ground Observers Corps and the Highway Patrol.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON

Annual Drive for Federal Funds on

By TEX EASLEY
AP Special Washington Service
WASHINGTON (AP)—This is the time of year when congressional committees are going full blast, and folks from all walks of life in Texas and elsewhere parade before the legislators to make sure their side of issues is presented.

Latest group to appear here were backers of flood control and navigation projects in Texas. They came fortified with fresh figures to show that tens of millions of dollars in losses were prevented in connection with the recent floods because of dams already built. Then, having laid a perfect groundwork, they pleaded for funds to build more projects to further reduce the toll in property and lives.

LIKE CITY and state officials from other parts of the country, the Texans took their turn to go before Chairman Cannon (D-Mo) of the House Appropriations Committee.

Hearings are closed to reporters, who wait outside the committee room. When a group from a state come out after testifying for their project, the home-state reporters corner them to get an account of what occurred. So, despite the secrecy, in a matter of minutes the news gatherers usually have all the information they need. If they don't, in most cases they have to wait only a while—sometimes hours and at most days, when the same witnesses appear before a Senate appropriations committee to plead for funds for the same projects. There the sessions are open to reporters.

SIMILAR is the situation when the appropriation bill for each federal agency comes up. A farm group seeking money to build or operate an insect control project or research station, for instance, will take its turn when the Agriculture Department supply bill for fiscal 1958, starting July 1, is considered.

Another group may appear with convincing data to support pleas for more frequent and detailed weather forecasts: warnings may save lives from hurricanes, crops from freezes. If enough of an alert has been sounded to set out the smudge pots. This is the background to be remembered as the Congress debates trimming the President's budget.

Cub Packs Score Wins at Palava

Hereford Cub Scout Pack 52 wound up in a second place tie at the Llano Estacado Palava held Saturday in Amarillo. Pack 50 finished third and Pack 51 failed to place but did score with a third place finish in the pack yell contest.

Pack 52 won two firsts, one in the 70-pound tug of war and Dan McWhorter won the do-this and do-that contest.

Wyn Buck won the 75-yard dash for eight-year-olds and Johnny Poole was third in the soft ball throw for nine-year-olds for Pack 50.

SPECTACULAR BLAST NEAR TULIA

A butane tank explosion and fire on the Reece Witterding farm, three miles south and three east of Tulia, destroyed a barn and its contents and a water storage tank Monday night. Firemen believe the barn first caught fire, causing the explosion. Destroyed with the barn was a 1946 Dodge truck and a trailer loaded with wool, two irrigation motors and a tractor. A nearby water storage tank was blown about 50 yards. Firemen said the butane tank was blown 200 yards. Fragments of the barn were also found over a wide area. Witnesses said the blast quickly mushroomed and described it as something like an atomic blast in miniature.—THE TULIA HERALD

The BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bindweed farm is trying to find a short cut to a farming profit, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor:

Everybody is talking about the budget these days, as though budget troubles were something new, and they may be for some people, but not me—I've been having budget troubles ever since I can remember—and I was especially interested in an article I read in a copy of a newspaper which I picked up in the road near my house yesterday morning. I think somebody had thrown it out the night before with some tin cans wrapped up in it.

According to it, officials in Washington are worried about the size of the budget and worried more about what'll happen to them if they cut out the wrong items, and consequently they've decided to call in a bunch of economists to tell them if the budget is so big it might break the country, and if not, whether the national economy is going to continue up or start down or hold its own.

Now the thing about this move that interests me is that among the economists and leaders invited to the conference is a farmer. They didn't say what farmer, but just added that in addition to leading economists, professors, business advisors, etc., there'd also be included a farmer.

What I want to know is: Who is this farmer who knows what the economy is going to do in the next 12 months?

Furthermore, does he believe in it strong enough to plant by it? And if so, does it work? And if so, how come he's been keeping this information to himself?

That is, you take me. I've been trying to guess what the market 12 months away is going to be on the products from this farm out here for years, and I can count on the fingers on one hand the times I've hit it right. I don't know about this farmer that's going to Washington, but I don't have any more idea at planting time what the market is going to be at harvesting time than what the weather will be like next Tuesday. Moreover, if there are any other farmers that know, they don't live close to me.

If Washington ever identifies this farmer that knows what the national economy is going to do in the next 12 months, I'd like to start a collection to bring him to Hereford and let the rest of us get a close look at him. They are several questions I'd like to ask him about this year's crops, not to mention what the cattle market will be like this fall.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

South Explores Potential Uses of Peaceful Atom

ATLANTA, Ga. — As a Southerner, you are involved in a tremendously broad atomic energy project which touches the people of 16 states and may benefit you directly — whether you farm, or work in a factory, or work in a profession.

Hundreds of specialists through 16 states are busy gathering information on how the South can best benefit from atomic energy through regional action. This information will be presented in a region-wide "Work" Conference on Nuclear Energy to be held in August at the request of the Southern Governors' Conference.

Your governor has appointed official delegates from your state to guide this development, which is assembling facts on a broad scale on atomic energy applications in all phases of the region's economy.

Because nuclear energy has such wide and varied applications in industry, agriculture and health, Governor LeRoy Collins of Florida was moved to say, "atomic energy can mean the economic emancipation of the South," when he presented the idea for the work conference to his colleagues last fall.

THE SOUTHERN Governors'

Conference asked the Southern Regional Education Board to undertake the arrangements for the nuclear conference.

Information is being assembled by a corps of specialists in four major fields: agriculture, industry, health and medicine, and how they affect manpower and education.

What does this mean to you? If you're a farmer, atomic energy products and processes can help kill insects, speed up hybridization, help control livestock and plant diseases, and do a myriad other things important in your operation.

At North Carolina State College, atomic energy was used to produce three revolutionary varieties of peanuts. One yields 30 per cent more to the acre than conventional strains, another has a shape tailor-made for mechanical harvesting machinery, and another resists leaf-spot disease.

What does atomic energy mean to you if you work in a factory?

YOUR JOB can be made easier in a number of ways. In the tobacco industry, radioactive materials are used to insure uniform packing of cigarettes, and in other industries, radioactive products are used to control the thickness of coatings, rolled metals, and other materials. In addition to making the job easier, these uses of atomic energy help improve the product quality and are creating a better supply of jobs all the time.

Human and animal health and the treatment of disease is a third broad field in which atomic energy plays an important role.

By now most people are familiar with some of the benefits that medicine has derived from the atom. But did you know that one hospital in Atlanta alone routinely treats 190 patients a year with radioactive iodine for thyroid disorders? This story is duplicated in hospitals throughout the nation.

Such is the information now being gathered and translated into usable facts on which the governors of the Southern states might base regional and state atomic development efforts.

A REPORT for the Southern Governors' Conference will come out of the August session which will for the first time give a clear, factual picture of atomic energy in the South — now and in the future.

Helping prepare for the work conference are a number of nationally known technical experts from throughout the United States who are presenting data from their special fields.

These experts include research workers in industry, government and colleges; industrialists using atomic energy in one way or an-

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

If they could locate the storms earlier maybe it would help. It's hard to make an adequate suggestion about how to improve it.

MRS. JAMES E. PAVLICEK—From either TV or radio, it seems they have been doing a good job. I began to wonder, though, after Silverton. I heard they had no immediate warning. The weather bureau has kept us informed on TV though. I wish I knew more about how the system operates.

CLAY ANGELO—It might could be improved, but I think it has helped a lot. Until this storm hit Silverton, not many lives had been lost by tornadoes in Texas. At least not as many as before they started putting out alerts. That one at Silverton must have just dropped down on them, and they couldn't see it for the rain and hail. In this area we've got enough watchers, especially on the west side of the county. If people watched their TV and radio and not get excited, they'll have time to get away.

FRANCIS HARDWICK—I feel that a severe weather warning system is necessary and that the present regional setup is adequate. But the local warning system should be improved as 50 per cent of the people are not listening to radio or TV at any given time. Perhaps the overall system could be improved by giving out fewer warnings of severe weather other than the threat of tornadoes. So many warnings apparently detract from the effectiveness of the system.

other in their enterprises; agricultural experts; and officials of the United States Atomic Energy Commission, educational institutions, and organized labor.

The basic group which guides the policies and activities of the planning are the appointed representatives of the governors of the Southern states. In many cases, these representatives are industrial development officials.

These official representatives of the governors have met twice and will convene at Aiken, S. C., for a third planning session, June 14-15. Another participating group in the project is the Regional Industry Advisory Committee, made up of 14 leading Southern business and industrial executives appointed by Governor Collins.

The younger, better educated group know most about food values but also expressed more need for help with problems of planning buying and preparing food. Meal planning was the most common problem reported. Women want help on planning meals that their families will enjoy. They also want the satisfaction of knowing that family meals are properly balanced and provide the nutrients needed for good health.

"Good Meals Everyday" — a new, colorful publication by extension foods and nutrition specialists, gives up-to-date information on planning balanced daily meals, on buying and preparing food. Also included are sections devoted to special needs of certain family members, infants, teen-agers, over-weight and under-weight members.

Dior Stars Dressy Costumes

coat over black and white lily-printed organdie; right is "Vaudeville," with sheer white organdie coat over a short evening dress of white linen threaded with bands of narrow black velvet ribbon.

PARIS — The importance of the coat-and-dress costume gets added impetus this season from no less a personage than Christian Dior, whose 10th anniversary spring collection features a series of fragile and feminine ensembles in sheer, floating fabrics and romantic mood.

The transparent coat of organdie or chiffon over a dress of slightly heavier fabric is a highlight of the collection. One such costume has a white organdie coat over a short evening dress of white linen trimmed with bands of narrow black velvet ribbon run through beading. The opposite combination is seen in an afternoon ensemble with a green silk faille coat over a dress of sheer black lily-printed organdie.

With these costumes Dior shows big-brimmed hats in the garden party manner. It is one more indication of the new mood of elegance and formality evident all through spring and summer fashions on both sides of the Atlantic.

'Happy Pills' May Do Harm

AUSTIN — The Big Three in America today are reserpine, chlorpromazine, and meprobamate. They are tranquilizing drugs, so-called "happy pills." And as more and more people take them for real and imagined tensions, they are fast becoming household words in these modern times.

Americans last year spent well over $150 million for various types. A single drug company reported the sale of 30 billion tablets during the first 10 months of 1956, and indicated that sales were expected to double in 1957. Scientific studies indicate that the drugs have great value in the treatment of some types of mental illness, but when healthy people, for no other reason than that they had a bad day at the office or that the children have been unusually noisy, begin eating them like popcorn, an insidious danger is in the making.

LIKE OTHER valuable drugs, tranquilizers can be harmful physically and mentally. Medical researchers have reported that in some cases there is a tendency toward habit formation. In a few cases unpleasant side reactions have occurred. Some users have been depressed rather than calmed. Calm users have become excited. Some reactions have been severe enough to require hospitalization and extensive treatment. And only time can tell whether prolonged use will permanently damage the nervous system.

Last September, some 700 of the nation's foremost authorities on mental illness met to discuss tranquilizers and some of the problems their wide usage had raised. The conference concluded that the drugs do evidently relieve tensions in mentally disturbed persons, but for every research team reporting positive results, another reported failure in trying to duplicate those results.

Devices Help Keep Farm Costs Lower

COLLEGE STATION — Plan for bigger farm profits by avoiding unnecessary labor costs, advises Extension Farm Management Specialist C. H. Bates. Today's record-high farm wage rates are showing into the spotlight such labor-saving devices as the rotary hoe weeder.

Bates says the rotary hoe is effective under proper conditions for eliminating young grass and weed seedlings in row crops. The machine greatly reduces expensive hand-hoeing labor and gets crops started faster than those competing with weeds for soil moisture and nutrients. Time and tractor fuel can also be conserved by making the first cultivation at high speeds.

The release of a body chemical called serotonin — a hormone found most heavily concentrated in the brain. What the chemical does is not yet fully understood, but present belief is that it acts as a switch to turn moods on and off by sending impulses of good or bad feeling along the pathways of the central nervous system. Enough serotonin in the brain may actually be a factor in sanity. When the role of this hormone is fully known we may have the final answer as to how certain tranquilizers produce their effects.

MORE THAN a dozen tranquilizers are already on the market. Some are used very beneficially in hospitals; others by private physicians in their practice. All are potentially powerful medical tools — but it will take time, perhaps years, to test them thoroughly.

Until that day comes, all of us would do well to remember that a certain amount of tension and anxiety is a part of normal life. Peace of mind and zestful living do not yet come in pills. It comes from facing our problems and also from working to solve them. In any event the so-called tranquilizers should only be taken under the direction of a physician.

The specialist warns farmers to prepare rotary hoes for immediate use! Adequate top moisture in most areas of the state now indicate a high weed infestation hazard. Farmers not owning machines are urged to consider renting them if their acreage and type of farming operation will justify it. Your county agricultural agent or farm equipment dealer can supply additional information concerning possible savings from the rotary hoe and other labor saving devices adaptable to your area.

Electric Living

Modern electric cooking is the answer to quick preparation of snacks for TV time and other occasions.

"T-V meals are a Snap with an ELECTRIC RANGE!" says MRS. R. W. BOWMAN, JR.
1045 WEST DICKENS • SLATON, TEXAS

Mrs. Bowman uses the automatic timer on her range for every meal and this time-saving, work-saving feature is one of the many that you enjoy when you cook the modern way — the electric way.

Mrs. Bowman says, "We chose an electric range, not only because we wanted the convenience, cleanliness and speed, but we also wanted the style and design that only the electric range could offer". A visit to your Reddy Kilowatt dealer store will show that you are in complete agreement with Mrs. Bowman's words.

Using Mother's Day Flowers Again

IT'S: HER POINT OF VIEW

By BETTY BABIONE

There were any number of ladies wearing lovely corsages to parties and club meetings Monday and Tuesday — said corsages being tokens from Mothers' Day. This was one week when there were plenty of places to which Sunday's flowers could be worn; usually when you preserve a pretty floral creation, it has to stay in the refrigerator until it withers. Then there are times when you could kick yourself... like when you go out to a party or such, and after you get there you remember that corsage you could have worn but left at home in the refrig.

An idea which might come in handy is this one we got from Tommy Mathis: preserve your fresh flowers in an apothecary jar (lid on) with a tiny block of styrofoam and a couple of tablespoons of water. This way you could use the corsage as a table or room decoration, slipping it out of the jar if you want to wear it.

MOTHERS' DAY is an occasion which prompts special activities at most colleges and universities. I failed to get a line on the mothers from Hereford who participated in Mothers' Day weekend festivities on campus. As a substitute in the way of column material, Boynston and Carolyn, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Orval Galley, Robert, Janice and Paul, Mrs. Carroll Hagar and Edith, Mrs. Loyd Bridges and LaDonna Marie, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schulz, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Williams and Cheryl, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Rice, Mrs. Ray Neel and Lilith.

After a time of visiting, refreshments were served to the group.

I'm "lifting" a portion from an editorial by a fellow columnist, by the name Campbell, who writes for The Oklahoma Daily, the student newspaper at O.U. Whether you agree with me that young Mr. Campbell is clever, you may enjoy his views on mothers.

"We can truthfully say, without qualification, that mothers are better than ever. Also, mothers better — enjoy them. Somebody said recently that without our mothers we wouldn't be where we are (time out to ponder... where are we?)."

"M" is for the Many things she gave me. "O" is for the Other things she gave me. "T" is for the Times she gave me other things. "H" is for the Hundreds of times she gave me other things. "E" is for Every time she gave me hundreds of other things. "R" is for the things I Really wanted while she was giving me hundreds of other things. Put them all together backwards, they spell "reformation," which doesn't mean anything to anybody.

"There is one thing that hasn't been criticized editorially and that is motherhood. There's a reason for this. We favor it and believe it should be encouraged. Within reason, of course.

"You may ask, 'What is a mother?' Well, that's a good question. Webster, who ought to know, defines it as 'a slimy membrane which develops on the surface of alcoholic liquids undergoing acetous fermentation.'

"If he's right, mothers are probably illegal in Oklahoma. But surely he's wrong. So what is a mother? Well, a mother is a... uh, a... well, anybody knows what a mother is. A mother is the Boy Scout laws personified and controller of the American economy. A mother is love, checkbook and diaper pins in one hand and a bridge hand in the other. A mother is many things to many people and yet one thing to all. Well, whatever they are, we're for them."

WHILE STILL on the subject: you may or may not have heard of her, but Mrs. Hazel Hempel Abel, of Lincoln, Neb., has been named the American Mother of the Year by the American Mothers Committee, Inc. Mrs. Abel was the first woman to serve as a U. S. senator from Nebraska. She has a wonderful sense of humor and very few wrinkles for her 68 years... five children, six grandchildren.

ABOUT TOWN: Idie Gearn, Billy Buck, Kay McWhorter, and Doris Barnett were only a few of the mamas who took groups of cub scouts over to Amarillo for the Palava last Saturday. Forget how many thousands of boys they told me turned out for the picnic and contests. The prize ribbons were coveted as ever, but the main ideas behind Palava are fellowship and fun.

Lorraine Fowlkes, Helen Langley, Mrs. Calvin Edwards and Doris Prowell are among those who have been busy this week with the preparations of getting their Camp Fire daughters off to Carlsbad for the weekend. And getting daughters ready for the trip wasn't all that concerned Clara Gillentine, Virginia Beasley, Lois Gilliland, the Cecil Boyers and the Pat Neills for these adventuresome parents are chaperoning the group. Ah, the thrill of camping out! Know the daddies making the trip are having a grand time managing all the bedrolls and paraphernalia and all those eager girls.
