Local Option Election Called

Legalization Of 3.2 Beer To Be Issue

Commissioners Court Complies With Petition Request

Howard county commissioners and County Judge H. E. Debenport Thursday 2 p. m. affixed their signatures to the instrument which ordered the fourth local option election in the history of the county, to be held August 26.

Acting on a petition presented by W. M. Taylor and signed by more than 300 qualified voters, the commissioners signed the order for an election to be held with the state and national prohibition balloting.

Commissioner George White moved that the election be called. Commissioner Pete Johnson furnished a second and the motion carried unanimously.

Voting, according to the order, will be held in the regular voting places for the fifteen boxes in the county. Election judges already appointed by the commissioners court will preside.

Copies of the order will be posted at every voting box in the county. Four thousand ballots, almost twice as many as will be used, are ready to be distributed.

The order was signed by T. F. Hodnett, Johnson, White, W. M. Fletcher, and Judge Debenport. The county has voted dry in three previous local option elections. However, the issue then was all intoxicating liquors.

Homemakers Class Enjoy All-Day Meeting At Home Of Mrs. Harding

Mrs. Faye Harding was hostess to the members of the Homemakers class of the First Baptist church Wednesday for an all-day session at the Harding ranch. Many of the members took bathing suits and enjoyed a delightful swim in the Harding tank. Most of the day was devoted to hemming and working on tea towels. A covered dish luncheon was served at noon with ice cream served by the hostess for dessert. The members present in addition to the teacher, Mrs. R. C. Hatch, were: Meses. Roy Pearce, Sidney Woods, L. C. Taylor, C. F. Penny, Lad Cauble, S. M. Smith, Ray Millon, W. D. Cornelson, T. A. Roberts, H. P. Wood and Roy Green. Mrs. Roberts will entertain the class next week.

Jolly Time Members Play With Visitors

The members of the Jolly Times Bridge club enjoyed a pretty pink and blue party at the home of Mrs. Guy Tammitt Wednesday afternoon at its regular meeting time. Pink and blue verbenas were used for floral decorations and the two colors were attractively carried out in other party accessories. Mrs. Crocker made high score for the club, receiving two silhouette pictures. Mrs. Boatler was the highest scorer among the visitors. She received a silhouette picture.

The six visitors playing with the members were: Meses E. C. Boatler, Cecil Mitchell, Lillian Kent, Earl Haley; Miss Edith Bowtus and Miss Ruth Bennett. The members present were: Meses H. V. Crocker, Cecil West, Grant Bowtus Jr., R. L. Pritchett and Tom McGinnis. Mrs. West will be the next hostess.

Refineries Win Plea Against Filing Reports With State Authorities

TYLER (UP).—East Texas oil refineries operated Wednesday without threatened surveillance of a state statute requiring refineries and pipe lines to make reports. A three-judge federal court ruling, handed down Tuesday after a hearing last winter, held that refineries in complying with the railroad commission order would be subjected to burdensome and unnecessary requirements and that the commission in going to premises, examining books and gauging tanks had exceeded its authority. The opinion was on the case of the Overton Refining Company vs. C. V. Terrell et al and consolidated cases. Common carrier pipelines, however, are subject to the order and must make the reports, the ruling held. The court further held the regulation was constitutional in considering the case of the Atlas Pipe Line company vs. C. V. Terrell et al.

No Getting Out Of Crop Estimate Office When Report Is Due

WASHINGTON (UP).—A good place to keep out of is the Department of Agriculture's crop reporting offices on a day when a report is to be issued. Intruders get mired in the elaborate device used to prevent premature "leaks" and Tuesday's cotton consumption report was held up two minutes because three persons inadvertently find themselves imprisoned. The first two were newspapermen, new to the department. They found hall doors locked behind them and guards adamant against their pleas to get out. "But we've got to get out," one of them said. "Well you can't," was the reply. Acting Secretary Tugwell is in here too and he can't get out either. Promptly at 10:58 a. m., the crop reporting board filed out of the section of the building to the room where the consumption estimates were to be released at 11 o'clock. Two minutes later the intruders were allowed to follow.

The entire section of the south building of the department, containing more than 100 offices including that of the crop reporters, is cut off from the outside world on the report days from opening time until a report is issued.

All telephones to the offices are discontinued, window shades are drawn, and then the statisticians go to work.

Once a girl employs faints about two hours before a report was due. By frantic wig-wagging from a window, a doctor was obtained.

After the physician revived her he wanted to hurry out because of a "rush call." No, officials said, he must stay until the crop report was out. And he did.

Mrs. C. W. Culp and Mrs. J. A. Kianer of Slaton left for their homes Tuesday after a brief visit with Mrs. W. W. Crenshaw.

Cars Bearing Arizona Dealers License Stopped By Officers Near Midland

Texas Ranger John R. Williams, Captain W. W. Legge and C. L. Schuck of the Texas State Highway Patrol stopped twenty-five cars bearing Arizona dealers' licenses and being driven from Detroit Wednesday afternoon in the east part of Midland County. The Arizona dealers licenses are not legal in Texas. The cars are being held in Midland. The state will receive about $300 in fines which will go into the Midland County highway fund.

Chairman Hands Down El Paso Case Ruling

AUSTIN (UP).—Director Lawrence Westbrook of the state rehabilitation and relief commission announced state approval of the action of the El Paso relief board against whose action protest had been made. Westbrook said:

"Responsibility for character of relief granted whether in cash or groceries is vested in county boards of welfare and employment, subject to the approval of the state commission. The state commission approves the action of the El Paso county board of welfare in this instance, and this approval will not be withdrawn unless dependable evidence is furnished that abuses are being practiced.

"The El Paso board has full authority to deal with other matters referred to in dispatches from there and the state will not interfere beyond investigating any charge made by responsible parties. Mitchell is not concerned in this matter."

Reach for a Lucky -for always Luckies Please! A woman's reason for liking a man's cigarette Maybe you'll think I'm a bit inconsistent. Most things I'm fond of are really quite feminine... dainty, frilly frocks—delicate desserts—yes, and delicate compliments, too. To me my cigarette is a personal thing—it touches my lips—so give me one with real character. For some reason or other, I find that whenever I reach for a Lucky, always "Luckies Please". They're as mild and pure as can be—I wonder if "Toasting" isn't the reason after all because "It's toasted"

With Colorado and Midland both dropping from Class A football, it behooves district officials to recruit another school or two. Bloddy Cross is of the opinion that Brownwood should be libbed from the Oil Belt and placed in the circuit. Not a bad idea but a long way to travel.

If it wasn't for the distance, a nice eight-team circuit could be formed with El Paso on the western end, but Pat Murphy expressed the opinion that the distance between Sweetwater and the border city is too great for the drawing power of the teams.

Colorado is said to have taken the Class B trail after a request by officials at Austin to do so. McCamey seems to be in a quandry about the situation and may be the next to pull a "fade out."

Ed Honnig and his Sweetwater Mustangs have jumped the gun on the rest of the clubs. Honnig himself hasn't been stilled, but his assistant is said to be working the boys overtime. A large piece of canvas has been hung up on the field with a hole in the center. The Ponies are aiming at a passing attack.

When asked if "jumping-the-gun" might not result in trouble, only silence greeted the query. The Mustangs might have done better last season if not for too heavy a schedule.

Miller Harris lost some of his popularity with the San Angelo Sheep Herders Sunday when a twin bill was split with the Texon Oilers. Texon took the first decision 5 to 3 in 11 innings but dropped the second 5 to 4.

Miller's card:
ABRHP OAE
First game . . . 4 0 2 0 0 0
Second game 3 0 0 1 0 0
Harris played center field both games.

The Foran Oilers gave the Giants something to remember them by yesterday afternoon. The Giants ran out of numbers and failed to tab the last few runs, but the count was said to be astounding. Jodie Pickle played the role of hero for the losers.

W. B. Buchanan Jr., Postal Telegraph operator, chalked up a new record for a bicycle dash to Coahoma and back. Buchanan snorted back into town in two hours flat.

Several deserving boys who are up against it and desire to finish their High School education so they might have a better chance in life, are attempting to find some one who will help them secure financial aid to do so. Anyone who can give some youth a part time job during the school months should get in touch with school officials.

FEDERAL POLICE FORCE
 Observers in Washington are saying that a federal police force to combat the wave of kidnaping and racketeering activities is almost a certainty unless there is a change for the better in the situation.

Such a plan of dealing with major crimes has much to commend it. Heretofore Uncle Sam has left law enforcement to the several states, except for certain defined crimes such as violation of the liquor and pure food laws.

SIMPLY WORN OUT?
 Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Can anything be more wearing for women than the constant round of household duties? You have no time to be sick... you are tired... ailing... you cannot stop. There comes a time when something must be done for yourself simply worn out.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you. Its tonic action will give you renewed strength, and will make your daily tasks seem easier to you.

Get out of every 100 women who report in no way that they are benefited by this medicine. Buy a bottle from your druggist today... and watch the results.

more than any other. Uncle Sam never quits. Arraignment is fairly certain, conviction is pretty sure, and pardons and paroles are hard to get. A rap in one of Uncle Sam's prisons means a rap.

Unless and until the states and cities show ability to deal with the growing racket of kidnaping and similar crimes of violence, the idea of a federal police force will find support among all classes of citizens.

 One of the winning heroes of science died the other day in Bullmore, as much a victim of battle as if he had fallen in actual combat. His was a battle for science.

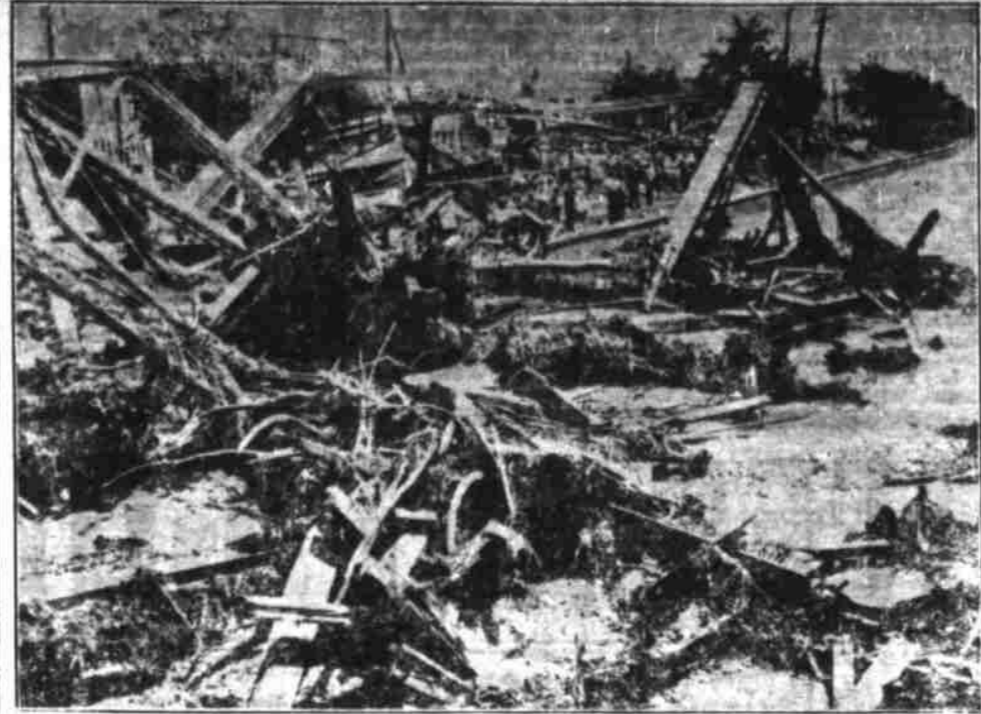

A TANK ELECTION
 Of course things may tear loose before the election closes, but up to this stage of the battle, over adoption of the 21st amendment in Texas both sides have shown commendable restraint and an encouraging tolerance of the other's viewpoint.

AD VALOREM LEVY
 It is difficult to follow the logic of Moore Lynn, state auditor, who because the state ad valorem tax law is inequitably administered, advocates abolition of the entire code.

Johnson Tells How To Obtain NRA Insignia

Three Ways To Qualify For Blue Eagle Are Listed

WASHINGTON (UP).—For the benefit of employers who still are uncertain as to exactly what they must do to qualify for the NRA blue eagle, General Thomas S. Hammond, executive director of the re-employment campaign, herewith explains the three methods by which the emblem may be obtained:

1. Sign the president's re-employment agreement without change or modification. Mail it to the district office of the Department of Commerce. Put its provisions into operation. Sign the certificate of compliance. Hand it to your local postmaster, who will post your name on the honor roll and hand you your blue eagle.

2. If your line of business has temporarily approved hours and wages to be in effect until the code itself is approved by the president.

3. Sign the president's re-employment agreement and mail it to the district office of the Department of Commerce. Comply with its provisions as far as possible. Now, if a specific industry has been submitted by your industry and its wage and hour provisions accepted by NRA, submit a certificate and sign the certificate of compliance with this endorsement.

Chicago Cubs Beat Grimes

Former Mate Of Winners Unable To Get Them Out

CHICAGO.—The Chicago Cubs battered their erstwhile teammate, Burleigh Grimes out of action in less than an inning Wednesday and continued their assault against Sylvester Johnson and Tex Carleton to defeat St. Louis 10-7, in the first of a two game series.

Grimes got only one man out in the first inning. The Cubs lashed him for four hits and five runs, the climax of the attack being Babe Herman's fourteenth home run of the season with two men on.

Johnson came next and yielded two more runs before being removed for a pinch batsman in the seventh. Carleton arrived in time to become the victim of a three run spurge in the seventh.

Lowell, Mass., Business Absorbs Nourishment From 40 Per Cent Higher Textile Mills Pay Roll

EDITOR'S NOTE—Following is the second in a series of reports by Sidney B. Whipple of the United Press who went to New England to see what the Roosevelt code is doing for the textile towns.

BY SIDNEY B. WHIPPLE United Press Staff Correspondent (Copyright, 1933, By United Press) LOWELL, Mass. (UP)—Thirty miles south of Manchester, N. H., and at the heart of the industrial Merrimack valley, 15,000 weavers, spinners, dyers, carders and Bobbin boys are at work. In June, 1932, 11,250 were at work.

Among the 15,000 operating under the code of President Roosevelt's industrial revolution is one Peter Papadokas, who received a pay check for $13 today as against the $12.11 he drew three weeks ago from the Eboot cotton mills. His voucher read:

"For piece work $12.11. Contribution 89." "Geewiz," said Peter Papadokas when he cashed his voucher in the Greek colony of Lowell's Market street. "Lookit dis! I get 89 cents for nothin'."

In Merrimack street, which gets a big proportion of the 15,000 mill workers' checks, the Hon. Marche Dry Goods store sold 42 washing machines on installments during the month of June. It had sold only one or two during the entire previous year.

Doctors are collecting long overdue accounts. Butchers are being paid up. Clothiers are selling overalls work suits, Sunday suits and new suspenders.

These incidents are not unrelated. Lowell business is absorbing nourishment from a general payroll 40 per cent higher than it was in January of this year.

In part, the rise including the 89 cents "contribution" to the Eboot mills to Peter Papadokas (weekly envelope) is due to the new textile code.

This payroll compiled from 100 industries, the bulk being cotton factories or allied industries, demonstrate an increasing purchasing power since the first of the year they ran.

January $1,255,761; February $1,496,137; March $1,288,767; April (when a shoe strike was in progress) $1,169,964; May $1,293,917; June $1,758,258.

The manufacturers view indications of general business improvement.

Under The Dome At Austin

By GORDON K. SHEPARD

AUSTIN (UP)—Friends of D. E. Coly, San Antonio business man who serves without pay on the State Park board, are not going to see him shelved as board chairman without a fight.

Recently the board members were called together at Austin. Coly could not attend. Whereupon Pat M. Nell, former governor of Texas and now president of Baylor University, flatly refused to proceed with the board's business without Coly's presence.

Report has it that Coly is not entirely in harmony with members of the State Relief Commission. They are not seeing eye-to-eye. Members of the relief commission, it is understood, want to turn the state park work over entirely to the federal forces. This faction would have the reforestation employees now working in Texas transferred to the parks. They have gone so far as to suggest the federal reforestation armies in northern parts of the state be moved to parks as soon as weather hinders their work at present locations.

James E. Ferguson has the boys fussing about his candidacy for the United States senate. It is pretty definitely decided he will run, but which of the two senators he will oppose is not publicly known.

Prohibition may be the keynote of the former-governor's campaign. Senator Tom Connally is taking no active part in the August 26 election campaign. With Senator Morris Sheppard, tight lipped author of the 18th amendment, tramping Texas pleading for defeat of the beer legislation amendment and defeat of the repeal of have not stood for ridiculing of a man who stands up for his convictions.

W. A. Keeling, former attorney-general of Texas, who was chairman of the dry convention in June, says whatever the results of the August 26 election on ratification of repeal the sentiment in Texas will be dry. He says people may cast their ballots at the election for the wets because they feel it is the best thing to do at the present time. Others want to "keep in line" with President Roosevelt, Keeling said. But at the next opportunity they will vote dry.

If Ferguson recognizes this he may run against Connally. Connally may capitalize on the way Ferguson forced his way to the chairmanship of the wet convention. The two may have competition from Joseph Weldon Bailey, Jr., congressman-at-large who is reportedly a potential candidate.

Judge George Calhoun has changed from the bench to court reporter.

He has no ordinary assignment. He will prepare the official reports of the state court of criminal appeals. Judge Calhoun has been one of the commissioners assisting the court.

Judge C. G. Kreuger of Bellville, was recently named by Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson to succeed Judge Calhoun. The new court reporter was judge of the 54th district court at Austin for a number of years.

Governor Ferguson continues to give indications she will call a special session of the legislature after the August 2 election. Latest indication: a successor to the late Rep. Frank Haag from the Midland district will be named at the August 26 election.

True enough, it isn't news any more to say that Chevrolet leads the world in automobile sales. People have come to take that for granted. But this year there is an important difference. In the face of the keenest "show-me" market the industry has ever known, Chevrolet has increased its margin of leadership. In fact, according to the latest available figures, Chevrolet alone has sold almost as many cars this year as all the rest of the low-price field combined!

"FRAZIER called at the office for Mary that evening. When they went out together, Foster looked at her queerly, she thought. What a world! Only a few weeks ago she had gone to dinner with Frazier, at her employer's insistence; now she was almost voluntarily accepting his attentions, and Foster resented it. But how everything had changed with the passing of a few weeks! It was almost unbelievable. The "smaller car" that Frazier had purchased for driving her about, gave Mary a thrill of pride. It gleamed like a jewel and seemed as big and powerful as a locomotive, but accommodated just two passengers. It seemed almost incredible to her to be flashing along the highway in the serene winter dusk, in a car that had cost more than she could earn in five years.

A light snow had draped the world in shining white gossamer, orange spots of light pricked out and winked through the trees in the distance, or from farmhouses along the broad, sweeping highway. Mary relaxed and watched the flashing panorama in silence, grateful for Martin's response to her desire for a quiet hour after the busy day at the office. That Martin Frazier could be so understanding and considerate was almost as strange to her as her presence there beside him in the foreign-built motor car with its handsome fittings and upholstery.

The black of clustered pine trees made sudden blots against the white-shrouded hills, the road rolled along, bounced up and down and darted around curves. Mary's thoughts behaved in a similar manner.

Martin puzzled her. She did not want to be too credulous about what he had said when they were last together. She rather suspected that he had planned the whole scheme to his own advantage, and it was accomplishing for him just what he had anticipated. He had thrown her off her guard and had replaced her fear and distrust with pity and faith. It had not quite reached that point for her, but Mary knew that the inclination was in that direction.

She had exclaimed over the magnificence of the new car when she first saw it. "But, Martin, what extravagance to buy a car like that just for driving with me! You can't expect me to believe that!" with a deprecating laugh.

"It is true, nevertheless," he declared. "I am glad that you like it, dear. I hope you will let me buy one for you, soon—for your very own. Shouldn't you like to have a car of your own, dear?"

"Can you ask that, seriously?" Of course, I should, if I could afford one. Where are we going?"

"Oh, way up on the Hendrik Hudson, for a duck dinner and a nice quiet evening. Doesn't that sound restful? You're tired, dear. I can see that."

She thought, "Yes, more than tired. Weary—with thinking and longing for what I never can have."

Finally, when they had left the city, crossed the river and were following the Fallades, he asked, "Don't you like driving with me, Mary?"

"Oh, yes," she admitted. "Why shouldn't I?"

"Then you do like me a little. You couldn't enjoy driving with someone you disliked. That makes me happy." He was so optimistic that his mood affected Mary, somewhat. "How would you like some music?" He reached over and turned a radio dial on the dashboard, and orchestra music from New York instantly floated from the little loud speaker over the motor and the rushing of air through which the speeding car cut its way in a direct swath, seemed to be but a more intense part of the music's accompaniment. There was something hypnotically magic about it all.

The charming old Colonial Inn at which they stopped, finally, was replete with history. Every piece of antique furniture revealed a story of its own. An army of red coats, or George Washington and his own weary soldiers might be stopping at any moment to refresh themselves in that very room at one of the Colonial tables. Mary thought, looking about the spacious beamed room with her domestic appreciative eyes. Fowl were roasting on a turning spit over the great log fire in an old stone fireplace, hung with rows of pots and pans. The flames leaped and subsided and played hide-and-seek with their reflections in the pewter and old silver ranged on the dresser, opposite.

The table service was of pewter. The food was served by a pleasant-faced woman who patted hurriedly about among her few guests. There were one party of four and two other couples there, when Mary and Martin arrived. Mary surmised that the cover charge was such that even a few guests each night paid the busy little woman well.

A good radio relayed to them the music which they had just left behind them in New York. They danced while they awaited dinner. "You should have cultivated dancing as a career," Martin told her.

"Oh, I love to dance. That is not work. And I shouldn't fancy being on the stage at all."

"No, that is decidedly not your

Field Notes On Highway 1 Are Finished

Western Sector Plans To Be Submitted Commissioners Court

Field notes on Highway No. 1 west were to be submitted to County Judge H. R. Debenport Wednesday afternoon, more than a year after Howard county accepted the offer of the state to procure right of way in return for surfaced state highways through the county.

Several changes have been necessitated in the original survey west, it was stated.

Judge Debenport declared the commissioners court would begin at once to purchase right of way on No. 1 west.

The court, he said, would buy right of way so long as it did not jeopardize the obtaining of right of way on No. 9 north. No. 9 north, he stated, is to be preferred over No. 1 west at the present time.

However, the court has money on hand, possibly in sufficient quantity to purchase right of way on both the west and north project. Judge Debenport intimated the court was anxious to get the right of way as soon as possible for two reasons. Enable highways to be constructed, and to get the money into circulation.

Field notes on No. 19 north have been promised the court sometime between September 15 and October 1. Engineer Savage and his crew are devoting their entire time to completion of the survey and field notes on the north project.

Speakers Continue Urging Passage Of Relief Bond Issue

Speakers favoring adoption of the constitutional amendment authorizing issuance of $20,000,000 in relief bonds continued their drive Tuesday evening. They were preparing to carry the drive to practically every voting box in the county.

Thus far speakers met with little marked interest. For the most part only men have attended the speakings. Crowds have been rather small in all instances.

PRINCE LOSES TO AMERICAN GIRL

Beatrice Gottlieb of Yonkers, N. Y., has earned the proud distinction of being the first woman to beat the Prince of Wales at golf. They played in a private match in London. After the match she gave one of her clubs to the Prince and in return received a box of golf balls. (Associated Press Photos)

IOWA HAMLET 'DOES ITS PART' IN A LARGE WAY

A nameless cluster of nine houses and a general store at an intersection of two dirt roads in Washington county, Iowa, betoken relief the name "Nira" in recognition of the National Industrial Recovery act and is waiting for the boom its residents believe will come their way. (Associated Press Photo)

Washington takes a look at it.
Just now utility companies are playing host to any number of federal and state investigators. One company alone has thirty such "guests" representing six different commissions. Some of them have been around so long the company forgets they are outsiders.

Muscle Shoals—
It isn't generally known that nearly three-fourths of the $160,000,000 Muscle Shoals experiment is for nitrate plants and provision for navigation locks. The actual power investment is only $45,000,000. Experts say the year-round capacity of Wilson Dam is 50,000 kilowatts, so installation costs run to $900 a kilo. But the outside cost of installation by the private power concerns is only $150 a kilo. New York thinks the discrepancy is worth looking into.

Rails—
According to confidential figures the Delaware & Hudson had $3,783 left after payment of fixed charges in 1931. If taxes on wages had been the same as in 1932, the balance left would have paid a dividend of 22 per cent on its fifty-one million of stock.

Steel—
Don't get the idea that the steel industry has abandoned the open shop just because that clause was taken out of its code. Insiders say they have just begun to fight on that issue. Withdrawal of the clause was simply a strategic maneuver to avoid a showdown in public with labor holding the popular edge.

Oil—
The Rockefeller had better get busy with the dove of peace before their Standard companies, of New Jersey and California climb down each other's throats. Teagle of New Jersey doesn't want federal price control. Kingsbury of California thinks it imperative. It is worth noting that Teagle is siding with the independents against most of the big producers.

Whalen—
Local insiders would not be surprised if Grover Whalen bobbed up with the Tammany mayoralty nomination. He is getting a big play through his NRA and anti-sales tax activities and he would love to have the job. O'Brien's nomination is supposed to be cut and dried but he has been getting the raspberry in public too often for Tammany's comfort.

By HENRY McLEMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—We do not know what the United States Lawn Tennis association profited from the recent Wightman Cup matches with England, but whatever it was it was just exactly that much too much. What we mean is that after the fine run-around they gave the press, and thereby the public, in regard to Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, they deserved to wind-up directly behind the financial eight ball.

were scheduled to start on Friday. It was dragged out of the august tennis body that Mrs. Moody was suffering from "sub-acute fifth lumbar vertebrae symptoms," and would not be able to compete on the opening day. Now, we know little about medicine, our meager knowledge of the subject being confined to occasional studies of the patent medicine almanacs while visiting grandma in the summer. But nobody will ever be able to convince us that "sub-acute fifth lumbar vertebrae symptoms" sneaks up on a person like, say, a sprained ankle. If there's something wrong with your vertebrae, you know it a couple of days in advance.

Why, then, did the U.S.L.T.A., knowing that Mrs. Moody was in poor condition and unlikely to play, keep the information so secret? The answer is so obvious that even little Nettle back there on the last row who has been in the second grade eleven years could answer it. The U.S.L.T.A. knew that Mrs. Moody was the greatest box office attraction in the world, and that it would be wise, in a financial way, to save the announcement for her withdrawal until the last possible moment.

This they did, and it was not until Mrs. Moody's withdrawal was bawled through the loudspeaker at the stadium that most of the customers realized they were not going to see the great one play. And it didn't matter then, for by that time their tickets had been reduced to stubs.

At the close of Friday's play the tennis writers, knowing that Mrs. Moody was confined to her bed under the care of a physician, asked the U.S.L.T.A. officials if it would be all right to say definitely that Mrs. Moody would not play on Saturday.

"No," they said, in effect. "We won't be able to make an announcement until Saturday noon."

It was exactly 11:45 Saturday morning when an official communique was issued, telling a waiting world that Mrs. Moody would not play in singles and that decisions as to her participation in doubles would be "reached just prior to her scheduled match."

Washington Widens League Lead To Three Games; Yanks Lose 4-1

NEW YORK—Behind the effective pitching of Monte Weaver, the Washington Senators Wednesday again increased their lead over the New York Yankees to three full games as they defeated the champions 4 to 1 to get an even break in the four-game series, which started Monday with Babe Ruth and his mates winning a double-header.

Weaver, out of the game since early in June with a lame arm until his return against Boston Saturday, allowed only seven hits and did not issue a base on balls.

New Set Of Laws, Passed By Last Legislature, Effective August 30

BY GORDON K. SHEARER
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN (UP)—A new set of laws will be added to Texas statutes August 30 with the expiration of the 90-day enacting period for acts passed by the 43rd legislature.

Greater liberty is provided by most of the new laws but some will restrict citizens. For instance, wild flower pickers who have loaded their cars with shrubbery, wild flowers, moss and branches taken from countryside must beware. No longer may they invade the enclosed land of another without permission nor property set aside by the state as a park or animal preserve. Unfenced private property still may be invaded. Violations are punishable by fine ranging from $1 to $10. Children under 17 may pick wild flowers at will.

After four years restriction lovers get a break. The "gin marriage law" will be repealed in part. No longer will it be necessary to file "intentions to wed" three days in advance of issuance of a marriage license.

Prize fighting, banned in the state since 1886, becomes legal under regulations. Parimutuel wagering at licensed race tracks, without posting of odds, will be permitted September 1. If the vote is favorable on revision of state prohibition, 32 beer sales will be legal after September 15.

Oil regulation violations are made punishable under a law becoming effective August 30 and after that date tapping of a tank or pipe line containing oil will be punishable by a penalty of one to five years imprisonment. Oil tax.

voiced in one transaction is curbed by partition of estates of minors with court consent; companies operating in the state in permits are required to designate an agent upon whom legal service may be made; salaries of court reporters are set at from $2,400 to $2,700 to be determined by the judge.

A physical restoration service for crippled children is made the duty of a division of the state department of education. The state tax board and state tax commission are given additional duties in collection of inheritance taxes and intangible taxes on oil pipe lines.

The state prison board is authorized to set up machinery in the prisons to manufacture automobile number plates and to take out workmen's insurance for prison truck injuries. The highway commission is authorized to erect bridges over the Texas and Louisiana intracoastal canal, and to exchange land for road purposes.

Title insurance companies are given increased power to invest in title abstract plants. Ginners are freed from the bonds heretofore required.

Use of second hand materials in batteries sold without being marked "rebuilt" is made punishable by fine or jail sentence. Requirement of medical examinations for the issuance of mutual insurance policies for over $500 is abolished.

The narcotics law is corrected to make enforcement of the prohibition against marijuana enforceable. Licensing of game breeders by the state game department is authorized.

A coin fixing dimensions of the state flag and methods of its display becomes effective. Appropriations become effective September 1. Acts reducing salaries of county commissioners and limiting fees of other county officers become effective January 1. An act combining the offices of county tax assessor and county tax collector becomes effective January 1, 1935.
