Around Town

Things are really in a spin around town. If you don't believe it, just take a drive through the residential sections and watch the youngsters with their Hula Hoops. And what is more fun is to see the young matrons, fathers, grandmothers — everyone except the family pooch — trying to synchronize their movements with those of a large plastic circle. It has been reliably reported that any child can learn to manipulate the gadgets in five minutes... and that it takes an adult considerably longer. In fact, most everyone we've heard has given up in disgust long before mastering the elusive technique for the silly things.

Reports Saturday gave Linda Barker, nine-month-old granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lenderman hemoglobin blood reading of 12.5, which Mrs. Lenderman says was reported as normal. The child, visiting here from New Orleans with her mother, underwent emergency transfusions two weeks ago, when New Orleans physicians called to report a blood content of four per cent hemoglobin, cited as dangerous. Following lab tests here, she was given transfusions and this week was reported in normal condition. Mrs. Lenderman was also saying some mighty nice things about the new, modern laboratory which serves the community. (Continued on page 2)

OPEN HOUSE, and the first public viewing, of the new First National Bank building at Third and Main will be today from 1 until 6 p.m. Bank officials and employees will be on hand for the occasion. There also will be displays of rare and unusual currency and coins and background music during the formal opening. (Staff Photo)

First National Opens Building Today

Thousands of area residents are expected to tour the new facilities of the First National Bank of Hereford today between 1 and 6 p.m. Public open house this afternoon will be the first general viewing of the large new banking quarters at Third and Main.

A preview showing of the bank was held last night for area bankers. Following the tour, guests were honored at a dinner in the Jim Hill Hotel. Just one year under construction, the modernistic brick and glass structure is estimated to have cost about a quarter of a million dollars.

All bank officers and personnel will be on hand this afternoon to escort the public through the gleaming lobby, offices and other innovations. Two displays concerning money have been arranged for the public's viewing during the afternoon. There will be a display of old currency from the collection of the Federal Reserve system, often called "The Romance of Money". Another display will be exhibited by the 33 members of the Hereford Coin Club. Local coin enthusiasts will show their collections of old, rare and unusual coins.

Two KGNC-TV personalities, Bill McEachern and Weldon Bright, will provide organ and piano background music during the open house. Together, they have contrived one of the smoothest local programs in the area, "Artistry on Ivory", a combination of good music and occasional chatter. Among the features which will be shown are the automatic drive-in facilities, beautiful directors' room, spacious lobby and executive area, a sparkling and colorful room divider of aluminum and plexiglass, an employees' coffee room and a... ### Total School Enrollment Breaks All Records At First Week's End

A new record high in first week enrollment was recorded in Hereford Public Schools Friday. School officials reported that a total of 2,519 students had enrolled during the first week of the 1958-59 term, an increase of 29 over the former all-time record of 2,481 set in 1956. The 1956 record was approached last year, but it fell short by 44 students when only 2,437 enrolled for the 1957-58 term during the first week of classes. Since the enrollment peak usually isn't reached before the middle of October, earlier estimates by officials may be reached next month. They had estimated that between 2,600 and 2,650 students would enroll for this year's school term. The figures include all pupils registered in Central, Shirley, Alkman, Parkview and Dawn elementary schools, Stanton Junior High and Hereford High School. School officials did not have current enrollment figures for Parkview Negro Elementary school. At last check by The Brand, there were 15 students enrolled at Parkview, compared with 43 who were enrolled there last September. The decline is attributed to the school's parents, who claimed they would not register their children until some alleged deficiencies in the physical plant and approach road have been corrected.

First week enrollment of 239 pupils has also set a new high at St. Anthony's parochial school. Only 217 students had enrolled there during the first week last year, and that figure had topped the 1956 peak of 210.

At Walcott School, 67 students were reported to have enrolled. Only grades one through eight are taught at St. Anthony's and Walcott. The pupils at Walcott and St. Anthony's swell the total enrollment in Deaf Smith County schools to 2,794, an increase of 81 over last year's total of 2,713. In Shirley and Central elementary schools, two extra sections (Continued on Page 2)

Grain Sorghum Raisers Hear Of Research, Developments

By DAN MUDD
 Brand Staff Reporter
 The Deaf Smith County Grain Sorghum Producers Association voted Thursday to give two pounds out of every 1000 pounds of grain produced to support the association's research, market development and service program. The second program of this type presented in Hereford this year, approximately 40 growers attended the meeting which was held in the Jim Hill Hotel at 2 p.m. Thursday. Featured speakers on the program were Jack King, assistant sorghum agronomist of Texas Agriculture Experiment Station No. 8 in Lubbock, and D. G. "Bill" Nelson of Amarillo, executive vice president of the Grain Sorghum Producers Association.

Jack King

D. G. Nelson

King, in considering what could take place in the future of grain sorghum, said the crop would continue to increase in acreage and importance and will be our second most important feed grain. "In 10 years the present sorghum varieties will be replaced almost completely by hybrids," he said. "This change will occur much faster in sorghum than it did in corn because of our experience with corn and because educational and informational procedures are more effective now than they were when corn hybrids first became available."

He said charcoal rot and head smut were the worst enemies of grain sorghum. He added that if the "Midge Bug" should ever invade the area, "a sorghum crop could be completely wiped out." He said that central Texas sorghum producers were now troubled with the bug. King said that as sorghum acreage increases, problems from diseases and insects may also be expected to increase. "It is possible that some of these could become serious problems before they are controlled by breeding or by management techniques," he said. He commented that changes in the characteristics of sorghum grain will better adapt it to specific uses and will increase its value relative to other feed and industrial crops. (Continued on Page 2)

Survivors include four daughters, Mrs. F. E. Findley of Amarillo, Mrs. Jess Wilson of Dove Creek, Colo., Mrs. L. V. Mays of Blum, and Mrs. John McDonald of Portales, N. ## C-C Hits Supply Selling by School

Hereford businessmen Friday took steps to curtail what they termed "unfair competition" from the public school system in selling school supplies and physical education clothing. Meeting Friday, the Chamber of Commerce Merchants' Committee voted to name representatives to discuss the situation with the Hereford school administration at a future date. Committee chairman Gene Moore was empowered to name the delegates from the chamber after a lengthy discussion of the situation.

Two Hereford school trustees attending the C-C meeting, upon invitation, but recommended that matter be presented to all school officials concerned at some future time. Committee members contended that the school is in unfair competition with local merchants by selling tablets, pencils and gym clothes to students at retail prices. They also claimed that the school often requires that these items be purchased from the school. Members of the committee claimed they were unable to find out what types and brands of materials would be required for classroom use until school actually started last week. They advanced the idea that all merchants handling school supplies should be furnished with a list of items no later than the closing of school. This, they said, would enable them to order and receive supplies prior to the opening of school. They pointed out that this system is used successfully in other towns in Texas.

hand for the convenience of bus students who, otherwise, would have to miss classes in order to buy needed items. Committee members said they had discussed the matter among themselves for the past few years, but felt that it would be better to bring the matter into the open and attempt to get it settled permanently. Board members who attended the meeting said they understood the profits from sale of school supplies at the school were placed into "activity" funds. The committee countered. (Continued on Page 2)

Get New Hope On Phone Directories

The door remained open this weekend on an integrated telephone directory for Hereford and Deaf Smith County. The action came after a negative answer had been given to the local Chamber of Commerce on a plea to leave the 1959 directory in its present form, rather than separating Hereford and the rural exchanges. R. C. Goodson of Dallas, vice president and general manager of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company in Texas, called Bill Lenderman, C-C manager, Friday afternoon to discuss the matter. Goodson asked for a detailed briefing on the local request. At the close of the call, Goodson said he would consider the matter and would give an answer to the request Monday or Tuesday. Goodson said he knew only vaguely of the problem and, after it was explained, promised to give an answer within the next two days after consulting with his associates. The unexpected opening changed pessimism into optimism in a matter of minutes. On Thursday, the C-C had received a letter from Ray A. Acker, general commercial manager for Bell Telephone, explaining why the company could not consider the request to keep all county phone numbers listed together, rather than segregated into exchanges. When the current situation was outlined during the C-C Merchants' Committee meeting Friday morning, the group passed a resolution re-affirming. (Continued on Page 2)

Farm Tour Set Friday

Annual Deaf Smith County farm tour has been set for Friday, Sept. 12, according to J. W. "Lefty" Thomas, county agent. The tour, which is designed to acquaint farmers and those interested in agriculture, with the latest types of crops and farm developments, will leave from the Courthouse at 1 p.m. Friday. First stop will be at the Lester English farm, where the group will view 14 varieties of grain sorghum, including Fister, DeKalb and eight Texas hybrids. Next stop will be at the Ed Bzuik farm, to see sesame, soy beans, cotton, alfalfa and grain to be served during this tour, courtesy of Gifford - Hill Western and the Hereford State Bank. Final stop will be at the George Warner farm. There the group will be shown sorghum hybrid crossing blocks, pearl millet, Coronado side oats, Tucson side oats, an old stand of tall blue stem and a new stand of the same grass. Thomas said he expected to have an experiment station agronomist along on the tour to give details on some of the new agricultural developments and their uses in the Deaf Smith County area.

Hereford Grain Corp. Buys Sears Elevators

Announcement of the purchase of Sears Elevator in Hereford by Hereford Grain Corporation Saturday afternoon highlighted the fifth annual meeting of the cooperative. Amount of the transaction was not released, but it was believed to be of considerable magnitude, due to nature of the sale. Approved 30 days ago by directors of the Hereford Grain Corporation, the announcement did not come as a surprise to those active in the organization. The purchase will almost double the capacity of the cooperative elevators, including 930,000 bushels in the old location east of town, and 750,000 bushels gained through the Sears purchase. Total capacity was reported at 1,680,000 bushels. "All business, bookkeeping, seed sales and similar transactions will still be made at the headquarters east of town," said Curtis Roach, Manager and treasurer of the corporation. "However, we will weigh and take grain at the new location, working interchangeably with our customers at either of the elevators." He said that James C. Russell will serve as manager of the old Sears unit, which the corporation designated as "Section F", and that Howard R. Godwin will be assistant manager. He said that other employees of the Sears firm will be retained. Roach came to Hereford Aug. 15, 1953, from Perryton to become manager of the Hereford Grain Corporation, then of 650,000 - bushel capacity. Since that time the firm has enlarged with many improvements, including new scales, offices and warehouse expansion to feature 300,000 bushels of steel storage, 350,000 bushels on concrete storage and 280,000 bushels of flat storage. The new purchase (Continued on page 2)

Henry Sears Will Stay In Hereford

"We plan to stay right here in Hereford! Nowhere else would seem like home," said Henry Sears, when contacted at his home, 145 N. Texas, following the announcement of sale of his elevators to Hereford Grain Corporation Saturday afternoon. Sears said he had some plans which are still indefinite; meanwhile, he still has an elevator in Dimmitt, along with extensive oil drilling activities in West Texas. He purchased the property, then a small elevator, from Kimbell Milling Company in 1941, operated it until 1944, when he became associated with Bill Teter in Sears-Teter Grain Company. "One of the big changes will be the development of types with yellow endosperm, a development which will do much to improve the market and acceptance for sorghum relative to that for corn," he said.

He commented that he foresees a larger seed size in the future. Also, changes in grain colors will greatly improve the appearance of sorghum.

In concluding his discussion, he said that perhaps one of the greatest changes of all would be a change in the thinking of the people of this country.

"For many years," he said, "they have thought of sorghum as a relatively unimportant, low-value crop; but by 1968, they will be thinking of sorghum as one of our most important crops, one that is absolutely essential in the feed and food production of the nation."

Nelson spoke on the changing picture for grain sorghums, and said there have been 300 commercial grain dryers added to the area since last year.

Nelson announced that a new packing plant is being added in Lubbock, and that its effects will be felt in this area as an additional outlet for sorghum to feed livestock.

"Producers should strive to open new markets for grain sorghums, and try to find new uses through organized effort," he stated.

He said that, in the past, people have thought of sorghum as a "catch crop," but the introduction of new hybrids and improved varieties make it a permanent part of area agriculture.

"Sorghum is the fifth ranking crop in the nation, yet little effort has been put forth to discover new commercial uses of sorghums. In our organization, we hope to expand these efforts," he said.

In reference to the passing of the Farm Bill, he said that not later than Dec. 15, 1958, the Secretary of Agriculture will conduct a referendum of producers of corn in the commercial corn area to determine if they favor continuing their present program or the program of the new bill.

"It would be impossible to estimate what the 1959 price support for sorghums will be," Nelson said, "until the Secretary announces what he considers to be fair and reasonable."

He said the programs of the Grain Sorghum Producers Association have to do with research, market development and service.

Under research, he said, plans are being made to strengthen breeding and testing programs for sorghums with unique qualities for specific uses, expand feeding trials with grain sorghum rations and methods of feeding to the various grades and classes of livestock and poultry, encourage nutrition investigations which may point to specific superior qualities of meats as a result of grain sorghum feed utilization, and intensify analysis of grain sorghum components for qualities that may be of industrial or commercial significance.

Under market development, he listed providing technical service to livestock and poultry feeders, mills, and industrial plants to encourage increased use of grain sorghum, cooperating with area groups in promotion and location of industries which may use grain sorghum or its by-product as a source of raw material, and representing grain sorghum interest in government and public matters which may affect price, stocks or market demand.

Under service, he discussed the releasing of periodic press stories about events affecting grain sorghum producers and sponsoring both adult and youth marketing conferences and programs.

their earlier stand that local merchants should withhold advertising from the Bell Telephone directory until a favorable decision had been made on an integrated directory for Deaf Smith County.

It was announced during the meeting that advertising salesmen for the Bell directory had been in Hereford for the past few days.

The advertising ban was started shortly after it was announced that Bell planned to segregate Hereford and the rural exchanges. The decision to divide the exchanges was continued during a meeting with area Bell representatives last week. At that point, the group decided to continue the fight at a higher level, and, if necessary, publish its own integrated directory.

At Friday's meeting, the group again agreed that they would carry the fight to the very top, if necessary.

A copy of the letter from Acker to Lenderman follows: Mr. W. M. Lenderman, Manager Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Hereford, Texas. Dear Mr. Lenderman: I certainly appreciate your recent telephone call and was indeed sorry to learn that our forthcoming plans for the Hereford telephone directory have caused concern among the businessmen of your area. Please be assured that the reasons for changing the arrangement of this directory are not based on an arbitrary position, but on business necessity.

Our business, like all others, makes changes and constantly seeks improved methods. We are now mechanizing certain phases of our directory operations to improve the accuracy and speed of issuance of our directories. We have revised a number of our internal forms to adapt them to this program, and have eliminated a number of transcription operations. Under this program, it becomes difficult for us to handle certain operations as we have in the past, such as other telephone company listing material.

When other company listings are intermingled with ours, we must do the necessary compilation work annually. When they are in separate sections, the material furnished by the other company is sent directly to the printer, and does not effect our compilation routines.

their earlier stand that local merchants should withhold advertising from the Bell Telephone directory until a favorable decision had been made on an integrated directory for Deaf Smith County.

It was announced during the meeting that advertising salesmen for the Bell directory had been in Hereford for the past few days.

The advertising ban was started shortly after it was announced that Bell planned to segregate Hereford and the rural exchanges. The decision to divide the exchanges was continued during a meeting with area Bell representatives last week. At that point, the group decided to continue the fight at a higher level, and, if necessary, publish its own integrated directory.

At Friday's meeting, the group again agreed that they would carry the fight to the very top, if necessary.

A copy of the letter from Acker to Lenderman follows: Mr. W. M. Lenderman, Manager Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Hereford, Texas. Dear Mr. Lenderman: I certainly appreciate your recent telephone call and was indeed sorry to learn that our forthcoming plans for the Hereford telephone directory have caused concern among the businessmen of your area. Please be assured that the reasons for changing the arrangement of this directory are not based on an arbitrary position, but on business necessity.

Our business, like all others, makes changes and constantly seeks improved methods. We are now mechanizing certain phases of our directory operations to improve the accuracy and speed of issuance of our directories. We have revised a number of our internal forms to adapt them to this program, and have eliminated a number of transcription operations. Under this program, it becomes difficult for us to handle certain operations as we have in the past, such as other telephone company listing material.

When other company listings are intermingled with ours, we must do the necessary compilation work annually. When they are in separate sections, the material furnished by the other company is sent directly to the printer, and does not effect our compilation routines.

Cotton John's film "Seven Lean Years" was well attended at a community showing at the Frio Community building last Friday night. Home-made ice cream and cake was served by the ladies, after the picture.

Several young people went to the George Zetsche home northwest of Hereford Thursday evening for a volleyball game. Home-made ice cream and cookies were served by the hostess. Several people from the community have been in the hospital in the last few days. Glen Andrews underwent an appendectomy on Tuesday of last week and was released from the Hereford hospital on Saturday. On Thursday, Mrs. J. H. Dobbs was placed in traction at the hospital for a back ailment. The last of this week she was better and out of the traction device but still in the hospital. Bobbie Jones was injured Thursday when an anhydrous ammonia hose on an attachment to a tractor burst, causing injury to his eyes. He lost control of the tractor and was run over causing a long cut down his side. He was able to see again but the side injury and other bruises were not well enough for him to come home by Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Glenn were in Lubbock one day last week to visit their son-in-law, Don Ed Robison, who had undergone an appendectomy earlier in the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Andrews, Rocky and Kirk spent Saturday night visiting Mrs. Andrews' uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Berryman, at Matador. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Richard Berryman, another uncle. On Sunday they went to Childress to attend a family reunion of Clark's relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Owen Andrews, Veradelle Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Sparkman Jr., Tommie, Bonnie and Darlene went to Childress Sunday to attend the family gathering.

The reunion was the Nichols family, which is T. L. Sparkman's mother's family.

Mrs. Clark Andrews and Mrs. Ernest Harder attended a meeting of W. M. U. officers, association-wide held at Dimmitt on Thursday. They are president and secretary of the local W. M. U. for the coming year.

The Rev. and Mrs. B. H. Baldwin took Godfrey to Austin Thursday for him to enter the University of Texas. Godfrey was awarded a scholarship last spring, being salutatorian of the Hereford graduating class.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Andrews and family visited Mrs. Andrews' aunt and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Messer, at Wellington Sunday, on their way home from the Childress gathering.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Sparkman Sr. spent Tuesday night at Kress in the home of her brother, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Springer, and also visited another brother, Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Springer of Kress.

Andrews, Miss Alma Andrews, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles King of Amarillo went to the Conchas resort and they all came home on Sunday. The Kings spent Sunday night here with the J. E. Andrews family and went home on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Andrews visited Mrs. Andrews' aunt, Mrs. W. J. Anderson, in Amarillo, Wednesday and came back to near Canyon to spend the night with her father, B. A. Burrus. ## REMEMBER WHEN?

By CHARLIE SEEDS

She was nineteen years old, the daughter of an Amsterdam Avenue butcher in New York. Her name was Gertrude Ederle. And she was the first woman ever to swim the English Channel.

She battled against the tricky tides in the cold waters of the Channel for more than fourteen hours - and she made it. Her time of 14 hours, 31 minutes, was better than any man who had crossed before her; and overnight she became America's hero. When she returned to New York she was met by an official yacht, airplanes and Fire Department band. She paraded through a gigantic ticker tape welcome; and was greeted by Mayor Walker in New York.

Gertrude Ederle never capitalized on her sudden fame. She retired to a quiet life. For her the quiet life had a special meaning; for Gertrude's hearing had been permanently damaged by the terrible battering of the waves.

Remember the year? Enduring performance over the long pull wasn't reserved for swimmers in those days. A man buying a car wanted to get a lot of service out of it... and he bought from a dealer who could give him that service.

The year was 1926.

We're auto service specialists, with the finest mechanics and the most up-to-date equipment to give you expert service. # Area School Children Attend Shrine Circus

By MRS. CARL WIMBERLEY

The community was almost depopulated Wednesday afternoon as all the school boys and girls and their mothers attended the circus in Hereford. Only a few children from the Dawn school failed to attend the show.

The first meeting of the Dawn Music Club will be held Tuesday, Sept. 9, in the home of Mrs. J. B. Caraway. The members will continue the study of John Tasker Howard's book, "Our American Music," which was begun last year.

Mr. and Mrs. Dee Buttrill and son, Randy, attended a family reunion of the Buttrills last Saturday and Sunday in Stamford.

All the Buttrill family attended the rodeo at Boys Ranch Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Russell are the parents of a baby son, born Wednesday in the hospital in Canyon. The baby weighed eight pounds and 12 ounces.

Mrs. L. B. Washington and daughter, Linda, recently attended graduation exercises at Texas Tech in Lubbock. Her brother, Wesley Cagle of Plainview, received the B. S. degree in Agricultural Engineering.

Last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Washington and daughter attended the wedding of her brother, Wesley, and Sammie Pittman, also of Plainview. The vows were read in the home of the bride's brother, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Pittman, who live in Abernathy. Mrs. Washington served during the reception which followed the ceremony.

Denton May of California visited overnight last week with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred May. The men are cousins. Denton May had been visiting relatives in Coleman county and was on his way home.

Miss Bertha Frye was in Amarillo from Sunday until Thursday visiting with Mrs. Paul Frye Sr. Mrs. Frye recently fell and broke her arm. She was in the hospital a week.

Mrs. C. A. Wimberley and daughters, Kathleen of Amarillo and Mrs. Don Bauer and son, visited Mrs. W. W. Wimberley Sr. and other relatives here Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Bauer, who have been at Ft. Benning, Ga., are now stationed at San Marcos, Tex.

Mr. and Mrs. Royce Underwood and son, Jimmie and Joe, of Anaheim, Calif., visited friends in this area last Friday. They called in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Caraway here and visited Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Caraway and Mr. and Mrs. Obed Caraway in Hereford. Underwood's father was a section foreman here a number of years ago.

The Rev. and Mrs. C. P. Heape left Wednesday for their home in Detroit after a visit here with their niece, Mr. and Mrs. Orval Galley and family. While here the Heapes and Galleys visited Buffalo Lake and Palo Duro Canyon.

The Diwn P-TA will meet Monday evening, Sept. 15, at the school house. Officers for this year are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Polan, president, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Higgins, first vice president, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Miller, second vice president, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Richardson, third vice president, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Sartor, secretary, and Mr. and Mrs. Orval Galley, treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Alhart have received a letter from their daughter and family, T/ Sgt. and Mrs. John Brechtel and daughter, Frieda, reporting on their trip to the World's Fair at Brussels, Belgium. The Brechtels are living in France. They reported the United States Building to be very beautiful and the only one having hot water and free facilities. A fashion show each afternoon is so popular there is no standing room left. The Brechtels spent several days at the fair.

N. R. Miller and Bobby Miller left Monday for a trip to visit the campus of East Texas Baptist College at Marshall.

Pat Miller went on a fishing trip to Platora, Colo., Saturday with David Miles and Wendell Burdine of Hereford. They returned home Tuesday. Pat reported that they nearly froze at night.

Birthstone of August is Sardonyx.

West Texas State Sets Opening Session Sept. 15

West Texas State College will open its 49th session here Sept. 15, and like most colleges throughout the nation, will expect a new record enrollment. More than 2,000 students are expected to enroll for the fall semester.

Activity around the campus will get underway Sept. 12, when the Student Senate will open conferences to plan student affairs for the year. The 12 class senators and representatives of campus organizations will meet with Dewayne Neel of Friona, student body president, to set a social calendar and to arrange activities for the first, or "get acquainted" week.

Student conferences will be held at 2 p.m. Friday and Saturday in the student union building.

A faculty breakfast and business session will be held at 8 a.m. Sept. 13, and dormitories will be opened for students to move in Sunday, Sept. 14.

Students will come back to WT's campus again this year, as they have for the past few years, to see continued construction on major buildings: A new fine arts building, a capacity-doubling addition to the science building, and a new stadium are under construction and are expected to be completed in the fall of 1959.

WT's freshmen will start orientation at 8:30 a.m. Sept. 15, continuing through the day with freshman tests, and will be given counseling Sept. 16, before beginning registration, along with sophomores that afternoon.

Freshmen and sophomores continue registering in the morning of Sept. 17, while juniors, seniors and graduates register in the afternoon. Classes start after upperclassmen complete registration Sept. 18.

This is a good question, but I don't know about gym suits, but last year I did ask about the sales of school supplies. Two of the principals said that they are selling only pencils, theme paper and tablets. They said that students who ride the buses do not have a chance to shop between school hours — and that the lack of these supplies resulted in confusion and disorderly classes.

Neil Cooper also got a bit miffed at the circus people this week. He made a contract and paid them $150 to show three elephants at his store for two hours, but they stayed only one hour. I understand that he finally got back his $75, then donated it to the Shrine Club. However, for some reason, most of his friends these days address him as "Sabu".

Clint Formby, KPAN manager also had a bad week. Clint developed one of those early head colds and woke up Thursday night with a sore throat and a bad taste in his mouth. He groped his way to the refrigerator for a bottle of fruit juice he remembered seeing there — and downed about half of it. The juice was ice cold and tasted swell, but by the time he got back to the bedroom things were happening. Clint was making such loud and funny sounds that his wife was also aroused, so he asked: "Margaret, what kind of juice was that in the refrigerator?"

It developed that Clint had swigged down around one pint of liquid starch, which the fair lady had stored away with the intent of ironing the girls dresses Friday.

Things like this shouldn't happen to anybody, not even a radio man. However, if you see the Formby girls in limp dresses, don't blame Margaret. Clint is the culprit this time.

ORDINANCE NO. 523
AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF HEREFORD, TEXAS, AMENDING ORDINANCE NO. 472, THE COMPREHENSIVE CITY ORDINANCE GOVERNING THE COLLECTION AND DISPOSAL OF GARBAGE, REFUSE AND DEBRIS, BY MAKING IT UNLAWFUL FOR ANY PERSON ENGAGED IN HAULING, PROCESSING, SHIPPING OR STORING OF FARM PRODUCTS TO DISPOSE OF THE PUTRESCIBLE AND UNSALABLE CULLS, WASTE PRODUCTS AND BY PRODUCTS OF SUCH BUSINESSES IN THE CITY DUMP GROUND

WHEREAS, from time to time, the businesses and individuals engaged in the various phases of harvesting, processing, and selling of farm products in and around the City of Hereford, accumulate large quantities of cull, damaged, rejected, decayed, or otherwise unsalable products, and large quantities of putrescible waste products and by-products from such farm products; and, WHEREAS, the practice of certain of such businesses and individuals of hauling such commercial refuse above described to the City Dump Ground for disposal, has created an emergency and a sanitary and health hazard by reason of the lack of sufficient space and the lack of sufficient operating personnel and equipment to properly dispose of the said refuse in the large quantities resulting from the operation of such businesses, by the use of the sanitary land fill system in use in the City Dump Ground; and, WHEREAS, the disposal of such large quantities of said putrescible refuse by dumping, without burying the same in sanitary land fill, would create a hazardous situation from the standpoint of public health and sanitation; and,

WHEREAS, the City Commission of the City of Hereford, Texas, has found, and does hereby find, as a fact that it is necessary, in the public interest and for the proper safeguarding of the public health and welfare, to prohibit the further use of the City Dump Ground for such large-scale disposal of putrescible commercial waste and refuse;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COMMISSION OF THE CITY OF HEREFORD, TEXAS: I. That SECTION V collection and disposal practices, of Ordinance No. 472, is hereby amended by adding a new subsection Numbered (5), which shall read as follows: (5) It should be unlawful for any person, as that term is herein defined, engaged in the harvesting, hauling, processing, shipping or storing of farm products, (including fruit, vegetables, grain, cotton or other farm products subject to decay, decomposition, or putrefaction) to dump, discard, throw or otherwise dispose of the culls, discarded, or rejects of such putrescible farm products, or the putrescible waste materials or by-products of such farm products, or any decayed, damaged, or putrefied quantities of such farm products, in the City Dump Ground, except insofar as small quantities of any of the above may be incidentally included in the usual and normal waste and trash from any business or individual of the City disposing of his customary garbage, refuse and debris through the normal disposal practices prescribed in this Ordinance.

II. This Ordinance shall be effective as an amendment to Ordinance No. 472 upon its passage and publication, as required by the City Charter.

The above and foregoing ordinance was duly introduced on the motion of Commissioner Moore, seconded by Commissioner Cooper, and was unanimously adopted by the City Commission of the City of Hereford at a special meeting, with the Mayor and all members of the Commission present, on September 2, 1958.

The West Texas Pro-Amateur matches will be held Thursday, using the low ball system. Also slated for Thursday are qualifying rounds for Medalist honors and the championship flight. The latter will be team matches, with one professional and three ladies using total aggregate scores.

Jack Williams of Plainview is the defending champion, having won the tourney for the past two years. In 1956 he defeated Bud Abbott of Borger one-up and last year downed Jack Newby of Amarillo by the same score. All three of these linkers are expected to be back this year.

Other top-notch golfers expected to attend are Roland Adams of Subbock, winner of the Plainview and Muleshoe tournaments this year; Russell Haber of Muleshoe; Rex Brown of Floydada; Cecil Holland, Orval Reynolds, Bob Geise, Jim Owen and Sam Cobb of Amarillo; C. F. McGinnis and John Foreman of Pampa; plus some of the local favorites: Max Dreyer, Bob Lindsey, Charles Seed, John Renner, John Ethridge and Wimpy Walker.

A field of more than 100 golfers is expected for the four-day meet.

By JIMMIE GILLENTE

If it hasn't rained by the time you get this paper, I will be surprised. We are due for some moisture — and soon. What's more, don't plan any picnics for the next two or three days. Clouds and humidity, usually our most needed factors for rain, are abundant. All we need is something to touch them off.

Johnny Pool is quiet upset about the proposed Civic Center, on which the Hill Estate has offered to contribute $60,000. Johnny says we should take this money and start another Mexican Labor Camp. He adds that if the city doesn't keep the center open any longer each day, then they kept the swimming pool open, it wouldn't be worthwhile anyway. In fact, I got the impression that Johnny wasn't in the best possible humor Friday, especially concerning the City of Hereford.

I guess it's the humidity, but everyone I run across these days seems to have at least one chip on his shoulder. Jim Lipscomb is the only really happy guy I have encountered during the past week. And Jim has a good reason to be happy; he finally beat his wife, Suzie, in the fishing business. For three years now, Suzie has been catching more and bigger fish than Jim, but he found a school of those three-pound pike at Conchas and really set her a pattern. This, of course, is Jim's side of the story; Suzie's may be entirely different. I wouldn't be surprised if she didn't let him get ahead, just to bolster his sagging ego. Jim said he retired from the postmaster job to do some farming and, so far, most of it has been around Lake Conchas.

Nevertheless, he does have something on the need for Labor Camp improvements. However, I can't see any reason for passing up $60,000 just to spite ourselves.

I also notice where the Merchant's Committee is upset over what they term as "competition from the schools". They are protesting the sale of school supplies and gym suits. Several merchants complained about this point last year, but this is the first official protest on record. Some of them are wanting to know how they can pay taxes on the $1 1/2 million dollar school budget, when the schools are making the sales.

Leon Coffin, the cabbage grower, is on the ball. He was in Friday and left a big sack of cabbage. It really is good. Unlike growers in other lines, Mr. Coffin always remembers us, regardless of whether the price is low or high. He is undoubtedly the most thoughtful and the most consistent grower in the area, so far as the Brand is concerned. I think he must figure it brings him good luck — and I hope it does — because we always enjoy the cabbage. This Hereford cabbage makes the best slaw you ever saw.

The Amarillo paper says the new First National Bank building cost $4 million. Honest, they wouldn't tell us. Personally, I figure that the Amarillo paper was around $30,000 low, but that's just my personal guess. Newspapers always like those "big money" headlines but, invariably, the people involved don't like to release the figures. We ran into the same thing on the purchase of Sears elevators by the Hereford Grain Corporation.

Information in the bank program says that Hereford is composed of 8,500 people with an average 1957 per capita income of $1,876. This means, if you have a family of four, you should be making $7,504 — or you aren't keeping up with the Jones. Consequently, with a family of 10, you should be pouring $18,760 down the rat hole. On the other hand, the single man is going to have a hard time getting by on $1,876, which is another way of proving that figures — although correct — do lie.

I also notice that the bank estimates an income of $25 million of crops harvested in 1957.

Anyway, the new structure is a far cry from accommodations in the old ways. Palmer Norton is a director in the bank, and his grandfather, T. M. Palmer was one of the organizers and original founders of the bank. Palmer is the only grandson on the board; anyway, the only one I recognized as such.

I don't guess they lost anything while moving Saturday. If they did, I hope it was the overdraft list.

Every year around Aug. 1, there is a church in Arizona which puts the following sign on its bulletin board: "And you think it's hot here."

Grocer: "Yes, I'll give you a job. Sweep out the store first."
Job Seeker: "But, Sir, I'm a college graduate."
Grocer: "Okay! Okay! I'll show you how."

Summer Is Gone . . .
Passed . . . Used Up

IT'S: HER POINT OF VIEW

By BETTY BABIONE

About this time every year comes the question: where did the summer go?

For some folks, summer is a time to merely enjoy a relaxed routine and not take on any major projects except, perhaps, a vacation trip. For others it's the time for which we planned to get done those certain things around the house or yard which we never could get around to doing in the fall, winter or spring (how many, like me, never get around to doing them in the summer either?)

It's a time of extreme change from the rest of the year. Clothing habits are different. Eating habits are different. The family routine is different. And social, civic and recreational activities are different.

Some folks work more and play less. Some folks play more and work less. But for most of us, summer is not different from the other three seasons so far as staying busy is concerned!

Though we have a few more weeks of warm weather in store, the opening of school was, for all practical purposes, considered the end of summer. Too soon to suit some. Too late for others. Wherever it's gone, it went. And how ever we spent it, it is spent. What ever it meant to us, it is now a complete chapter for the memory book.

Among other things: Teddy Alexander may remember it as the summer when the yard man wrecked havoc with her beautiful flowers and shrubs by spraying them with weed killer, thinking it was bug spray. . . or she may have the more pleasant memory of a wonderful trip to New York with her hubby, Irving.

The Joe Wagons will certainly remember it as the summer when daughter Gayle was elected queen of the Deaf Smith County Rural Electric beauty-talent contest. . . Temple Hill won't forget the toe operations which necessitated her wearing barefoot sandals for so long, even to church! . . . and Rose Ann Fraser will remember the Lewis-Bradley wedding, thanks to the last-minute baby-sitting service by Laura and Nick Milburn. . .

Many will recall, with a chuckle, special parties such as the one where Joyce Lyons won the bubble-blowing championship. . . and Charlie Seeds turned out to be a second Charles Atlas as he successfully maneuvered in a water game with J. W. Robinson riding on his shoulders. . . and Fred Cunningham was declared the best sport in the game of charades. . . and Margaret London was a winner in the balloon-bursting contest, with her prize being one I can describe here only as being truly funny and unbelievably tremendous. . .

The Bill Waldraps are among those who will recall the first experience of sending one of their offspring off to summer camp. . . the Clint Formbys are among those who welcomed new additions to their families. . . the Lee Conklins are among those whose summer plans became indirectly affected by the Iraq-Lebanon situation. . .

The Paul Harveys will remember it as the summer they moved into their new home on Ave. I and the wonderful surprise of an old-fashioned "housewarming". . . the Gilbert Davises were another family who settled in a pretty, new home — I wonder if Hilda will remember the day of moving any more vividly than she will the day of her embarrassing predicament when she accidentally locked herself out of this pretty, new house. . .

Idie Gearn and her boys will remember the swell miniature beach that Kenny built for them in the country. . . Harriet Dreyer won't forget joining the ranks of mamas with college-bound sons and daughters — Harriet, by the way, has a newly-acquired pet skunk for which she has been seeking an appropriate name — perhaps somebody will have a scent-sible suggestion for her.

And Jim Gillentine won't forget — because they won't let him forget, that this was the summer, that he called the 6 a.m. swimming class "old folks". . . In fact he may NEVER hear the end of it!

Well, the recollections of the summer of '58 could go on and on and on. For everyone it was a variety of experiences — some were frivolous, some were nonsensical, some were serious. . . some were happy. . . some were sad. As a whole it was eventful. And it's gone. . . passed. . . used up. . . But in nine more months we'll have a brand new one. In the meantime, have a happy autumn, winter and spring everybody!

ALL'S WELL THAT ENDS WELL

DENTON, Tex. (AP) — Roy M. Smith has an old-fashioned well at his home, but it pumps nothing but hot water. Neither Smith or city water officials can explain the phenomenon. Wells in the same area give cool water.

Miss Yvonne Axe Is Wed To Re Wright August 31

Miss Yvonne Axe became the bride of Re Wright of Abilene Sunday, Aug. 31, at 2 p.m. in the Central Church of Christ. Minister Russell Ingalls performed the double-ring ceremony. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn Axe, Rt. 5, and Mr. and Mrs. Royal Wright, 401 Tonhawa St., Norman, Okla. The couple and their attendants stood before the baptistry window, arched with white chrysanthemums and greenery, tied with white wedding bells at the center top. White trellises, entwined with fern and white chrysanthemums, were backed by emerald palms at the sides, and double-branched candelabra alternated with fan-shaped arrangements of white gladioli to flank the arch. A white aisle cloth, fenced with white satin ropes, marked the center aisle.

Assisting with the hospitalities were Miss Wynne Freeman of Lockney, Mozell Telchik, Cieta Betzen and Mesdames H. H. Caraway, Chester Wiggins, Elmer Patterson, Russell Ingalls, D.C. Martin, Raymond Dement, C. C. Ellis and Wayne Lady. Miss Carolyn Brooks registered the guests.

Her veil of French illusion was caught to a petal point lace bandeau, and she carried a cascade of Rome Glory roses over a lace-covered Bible.

The bride's mother wore navy chiffon over taffeta with pink accessories and a pink rosabud corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy two-piece dress of Capioni with pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

At the reception in the home of the bride's parents, the bride's table featured a white net floor-length cloth over a feta and centering candelabra entwined with pink and white rosebuds. ## Hill Estate Will Make Good Citizens of Us... Yet!

Opportunity Knocks In Civic Center Proposal

"It is a wonderful opportunity for the community!"

That is what one member of the City Commission this week welcomed the announcement that the Jim Hill Estate had made available a sum of money "up to $60,000" to be used for construction of a Youth and Civic Center to serve the community.

This is the second time that the Hill Estate had come into the community with timely and welcome assistance, having spearheaded recent hospital expansion which saved the taxpayers of the area literally thousands of dollars. Like the hospital project, the Civic Center project also specifies that no bond issue be voted or warrants issued for construction of the building. Any additional funds will be raised through donations, which can be estimated in the neighborhood of $25,000.

Foresight on the part of Jim Hill, plus able administration, honestly seem to be contributing more toward putting the people of this community on a solid footing than any other factors in recent years. If the people truly want a community center—and one is definitely needed—they should be able to underwrite the project without much trouble. With a good location, across from the swimming pool, already owned by the City, plus the $60,000 contribution, we might even add: "You just can't beat that."

Meanwhile, take a look at what happened to Deaf Smith County and their hospital improvements. Back in 1947, the county issued $150,000 in bonds for the first expansion, along with additional warrants. The more recent addition, thanks to the Hill contribution, will never become a burden to this generation, to their children or grandchildren—because it was paid for when completed. Without the Hill grant and the local donations, property owners would most likely face today a tax increase which, over a long period, would almost double actual cost of the construction through interest payments.

Given the same opportunity in his private affairs, there is not a single person in Hereford who would not jump at the chance to move into a debt-free home on an offer similar to that proposed through the Hill Estate on the community building. To us, it appears that the same logic should apply to community improvements. Certainly, it is an opportunity which very few communities are able to enjoy.

Old timers recall Jim Hill as a straight thinking man and, certainly, through his foresight in plowing back into the community part of what he made here, it looks as if Mr. Hill is going to make substantial citizens, and good business people of us all—despite ourselves.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

G. H. Whitaker Recalls Coyote Hunting Trips

By MRS. R. L. CRISWELL

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Whitaker live at 223 N. 25 Mile Ave., and have lived there for some 20 years. They have been married for 54 years and celebrated their fiftieth anniversary four years ago. They reared four boys and four girls to adults, and one boy lost his life for his country in World War II.

"I was born in Tennessee on April 27, 1896," said Mr. Whitaker. "I well remember crawling under a log house to get a nest of eggs. One of mother's hens had stolen its nest out, and mother sent me under the house to get the eggs. I was caught between the floor joist and the ground."

"I was really scared for a few minutes, but I managed to wiggle my way out. I have never liked going into a tight place and would not go unless it was necessary."

"My parents moved to Texas in 1875. We were on our way to board a train when I lost my mother. I was running around looking for her, when something drew my attention to the train door. There was my mother and the other children boarding the train."

"You can bet I did not lose any time getting to that door and entering it. It did not occur to me that my mother would not have gone without me; I was happy knowing I was there with the rest of the family. "It seemed we had been on the train for days when we came to the Mississippi River. It looked like the ocean to me, and you can imagine my fright when the train just kept going. It crossed on a boat or barge, which had rails laid on the top of the boat, and we were safely across before I got over my fright of the wide river."

"My father bought a half section of land near Newport, Tex. We lived there until we kids were all grown, then we began to scatter. After our marriage, we moved to Clay County and I went into the cattle business."

"I leased 2,400 acres of grass land near Henrietta and bought and fattened steers and sold them. Some times I made a good profit, and others I did not do so well."

"On one occasion I bought 100 steers, fed and sold them for $3.90 per cwt. I was broke for sure this time, and I began farming and raising cotton as a money crop. We made one crop of 65 bales and it brought me out of debt. At that time, I could pick four or five hundred pounds of cotton in a day without trying."

"I would not go to the field if I could not get 400 pounds before sundown. I always pulled from 900 to 1,000 pounds of bolls in a day. Our family picked and pulled the whole crop of 65 bales that fall."

"My hobby has been hunting, and I have been hunting since I was 12 years old. I would still enjoy going hunting if I were physically able. I hunted wolves and coyotes with four other men for years. I have killed—all kinds of game, but my first love is wolf or coyote hunting with hounds."

"My father kept hounds, and I practically grew up with them. At one time I had 13 registered hounds. I kept them in the barn, as I did not want them to be prowling around the country and making nuisances of themselves."

"They were quiet dogs and never made a sound while trailing the wolf, but upon throwing him, they made enough noise for a dozen packs. At night, when the wolves would howl, the hounds would howl to be let out for a chase. I would go to the door, open it and say 'Listen, listen!' and they would be as quiet as mice. After they got the direction of the sound, they would take off. They have run as far as 20 miles after one wolf, but they would be home before daybreak."

"On one hunt, we had followed them for several miles before they threw a coyote. We came to them, but could not find the coyote. We looked about, but with no luck. There just did not seem to be a wild animal anywhere. We did see a large hole in the ground, and we decided the dogs had chased a mother coyote to her den."

"Suddenly we heard a great growling and saw a dog's tail emerging from the hole. It was Dina. She was a small dog and had gone into the hole after the coyote. When the coyote turned to defend her home, Dina caught her by the throat and pulled her out of the hole."

"I went hunting one afternoon and killed seven coyotes. There was a bounty of $2 on each one killed, and I made $14 for my afternoon of fun."

"I knew my wife when she was a little girl. I love to tease her and tell her that I used to pat her on the head. I am 20 years older than she. I did not see her for several years during which she had grown into a lovely young lady. She was so small and cute that it wasn't hard for me to fall in love with her. She only weighed 100 pounds when we were married, on that rainy day so many years ago, and I am still in love with her," he concluded.

"We were married May 7, 1905," said Mrs. Whitaker. "The ceremony was read in the home of my parents by a Presbyterian pastor. It was really a stormy day and quite a few houses had the roofs damaged by the wind and many small houses were overturned."

"My wedding dress was made by my mother. It was of white Cashmere, trimmed with Rose-point lace. It had long, shirred sleeves with wide cuffs. The waist was cut full in the blouse style of today, with an underlining to make it stand out. The skirt was shirred to fit the waist and was floor-length with tucks above the hem. It too was very full. I wore white gloves and a white ribbon in my hair."

"Rearing eight children is a full time job, and I enjoyed it very much. Children are to be loved, fed, and taught. Their development each day is a never-ending joy to the true parent. Also, they are an unending source of entertainment and amusement."

"I overheard two of my boys in conversation one day. One was very serious and given to thinking; the other loved a good time and was always getting into mischief. He said to his brother, 'Bud, do you want to go to Heaven? No? Well, gee! do you want to go to Hell?' 'No, sir,' the other replied. 'I just want to stay here.'"

"How we got through the depression years we will never know, as it was really a task to keep them fed, clothed and in school. We now enjoy our grandchildren when they visit us and love watching them develop as much or more than our own, as we aren't so busy trying to make a living for so many."

"I love living in Hereford, and my reason for moving here was to get rid of the dogs and feeding them. I know Mr. Whitaker enjoyed them so much, but to me they were just another task to attend. I was happy to be rid of the task."

"I love Hereford, as the people are friendly and are good neighbors."

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Whitaker

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Citizens Here Favor Statehood For Hawaii

Now that Alaska has been admitted into the United States, do you favor statehood for Hawaii? Why? MRS. P. A. WEST—Yes, I think they should be admitted. They are already a part of our economy. Anyhow, we might as well have an even number of states.

GLENN WILLIAMS—Yes, I think they should be admitted. Their loyalty is unquestionable and they have supported our country for years through taxes.

PHYLLIS GOETSCH—Well, I favor it. I think they deserve it as much as the Alaskans did; maybe even more. I think Hawaiians make just as good citizens as Alaskans, or as the other states, too.

PACK BROGDON—We might as well admit them. The more the merrier, I always say.

MRS. LYNN KESTER—Well, it looks to me like we had better get used to Alaska first—to determine what complications will or will not come up. I'm not against it at all, but I think we should wait a while. Time will tell how things turn out.

KENNETH COKER—Is Hawaii bigger than Texas? If not, then I'm all for it.

MRS. JOE LOCKE—Yes, I'm in favor of it. I think they deserve it as much as Alaska did. It also might help eliminate some arguments and unrest.

JERRY JONES—Yes, I'm in favor of it because we have military installations there and it is a hopping point to the Far East.

MRS. E. D. COOK—Yes, I guess I'm in favor of it. I believe in expanding and I'd like to see them become a part of the U. S. There are other reasons, too, such as the economic situation, the military position and other reasons like that.

DWAYNE WALLACE—Yes, it might mean greater power for the United States, and it might make us friendlier with the Hawaiians. In case of war, it would have strategic military importance.

with other schools; they can go ahead and meet demands of the 34 Negro petitioners, or they can leave things go and allow the strike to continue. Certainly the latter method appears impractical.

Total integration would leave the board with two contracts with Negro teachers, who would have to be paid and released—or placed on duty in the white schools. Neither of these situations, we feel, would be popular with the school patrons, including the Negro group which has already petitioned for continuation of the colored school.

On the other hand, if the roads leading to Parkview are truly bad or impassable; they probably should be improved or graveled. Just as the teacher-janitor situation was compared with the all white Dawn school, so should the grounds and roads favorably compare. The decision as to their condition, naturally, rests 100% with the board of trustees.

Up to now, the Hereford trustees have unquestionably handled the integration problem in a manner pleasing to all concerned. We do not feel that the Negroes should dictate school policies; however, they are entitled to equal conditions, according to all Texas and federal statutes.

If the situation were not so serious, it might even be humorous in comparison with the Little Rock, Ark., situation where they are trying to keep Negroes "out of school" while, in Hereford, we cannot get them to attend.

At least, it's a horse of a different color.

Everyone Wins On Dump Ground

An apparently serious community problem took a practical turn Tuesday night, when Cattleman O. G. Hill interrupted a City-Packer meeting to inform the group that he would be glad to have all of the cull potatoes, carrots and similar produce which has created a difficult situation in recent months at the City dump grounds.

The culls, unusually heavy this season, will be used to feed cattle and, in turn, will contribute to rather than penalize local economy. At the same time, the process has the advantage of saving an extra haul for the produce handler, since Mr. Hill offered to call for the culls at the warehouse docks.

The solution appears to be ideal. The City of Hereford will save an alleged $900-per-month cost of burying the produce; growers will save on hauling and will eliminate any probable return of culls into market channels, while Mr. Hill gets some cheap cattle feed.

With the immediate problem out of the way, city officials passed a measure to close the dump grounds to wholesale and commercial dumping; they also took steps toward halting removal of produce which might reach the dump grounds through fresh or garbage channels.

Seldom is a weighty problem so easily and effectively solved, especially through such practical and simple means. Certainly, it comes as a relief to members of the commission and produce handlers will, no doubt, welcome the solution.

Panhandle Paragraphs

WESTERN UNION PROPOSAL PROTESTED

Dumas Chamber of Commerce officials this week are continuing to prepare for whatever protest action may become necessary in order to halt the closing of the Dumas Western Union Telegraph office. Announcement of the proposed closing was first made public by Dumas C. of C. President Jack Elliott, who told members of the local chamber, during their regular monthly luncheon Friday, that such a possibility has been indicated by Western Union officials. In reporting to the membership, Elliott said an application from Western Union officials has been made to the Federal Communications Commission in Washington, which asks permission to close the Dumas telegraph office and convert the local operation to an agency-type function. The NEWS Saturday discussed the matter with a district Western Union official from Albuquerque, in order to determine what procedures are necessary for closing the Dumas office. The telegraph spokesman, while speaking unofficially, said only an initial application has been submitted before the FCC to date. There is no indication that action will be taken immediately.—MOORE COUNTY NEWS (Dumas)

FIRST COTTON BROUGHT IN

The first two bales of a predicted 175,000-bale cotton crop for Lamb County came out of the presses this week, making the 1958 crop one of the earliest in history. The county's first bale rolled into the Olton Co-op Gin Wednesday at 3:50 p.m., compliments of Drexel Lawson, who lives 5 1/2 miles southwest of Olton. A Littlefield farmer, R. D. Ridings, brought in the county's second bale and Littlefield's first at 4:25 p.m. Thursday. He delivered it to the Irvin Gin. The Aug. 27 date of the county's first bale this year whipped the 1957 first bale for earliness by eight days. Lawson qualified for the Olton gin's premium and a donated prize from the Olton Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture. His bale weighed 455 pounds and brought $400.50 in cash and $125 in merchandise certificates. The gin also donated the price of bagging and ties and ginning.—COUNTY WIDE NEWS (Littlefield)

CANYON SCHOOL BOND ELECTION

Polls will open at 8 a.m. Saturday in the Canyon City Hall for the $1 million school bond issue planned to build a new high school here. A community meeting will be held Thursday night in the high school auditorium to explain the issue to the citizens of the community. A period for questions and answers will be provided. The ballot will have two propositions—one for the bond issue and one for the adoption of the provisions of Senate Bill 116. A "For" vote is required on both propositions in order to pass the issue. In a study conducted by the growth trends committee this winter, an enrollment of 1800 is expected in the Canyon schools by 1963. The enrollment as of Tuesday afternoon was 1224, and is expected to grow higher as more students return to school this term. The school board is planning to locate the new school between 8th and 11th Streets and south of Ninth Ave. on a 32-acre tract. It is expected it will take $1 million to build and equip the new high school.—THE CANYON NEWS

The BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bindweed farm has found out what time of the year it is, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor:

I noticed by my calendar, which a puff of wind coming through the window flipped over from July which I hadn't gotten around to tearing off yet, along with August—why tear off calendar sheets twelve times a year when three or four will do just as well—that here it is September and summer is over.

Now this suits me all right, I don't sit around one day waiting for another or one season waiting for the next, as far as I'm concerned, one time is as good as another to sit around in, but a friend of mine was sighing and complaining over the fact and saying it seemed like he hadn't accomplished a thing in the past three months, the summer just rushed by without a thing being done.

I don't take such an attitude, I accomplished as much this past summer as I set out to.

People have an odd notion about what they're supposed to do. You take Secretary Dulles. He's traveled all over the world this summer, worked night and day on the problems of the world, gone to bed late and gotten up early, but I can't tell from reading the newspapers that the world is any safer now than it was in the spring. This isn't to say he shouldn't have done what he did, it's just to say that there are two ways of handling a summer, one is to rush through it, the other is to let it do the rushing. I've always contended you get the same pleasure sitting in a stream and letting the water rush by you as you do thrashing through the water, and it's a lot less energetic.

The difference between me and a lot of people is that they try to accomplish what they set out to do, whereas I set out to do only what I accomplish. And the end of the summer comes to both of us, regardless.

As for as I'm concerned, it was a pretty good summer, and anybody who's waiting for the world to settle down before he starts enjoying the seasons might as well throw his calendar away entirely.

As for the fall, I'm looking forward to that too. I know fall is supposed to be the time when a man renews his efforts, when his energy surges forward, but with me, and a lot of people I think, it's only a time of renewing thoughts about work, not doing anything about it. I intend to work this farm all right, but I don't intend to let it work me.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Bank Progress Reflects Growth

Formal opening of the new First National Bank building today commemorates an occasion of Panhandle-wide interest. Still more important, it leaves Hereford with two of the most modern bank buildings of any town in West Texas.

Banks, once separated from the public with "bars," have probably undergone more change in recent years than any other business. Certainly, this is true in Hereford; much of the growth and progress of the community can be attributed to the forward look reflected through its banks.

The new building, in addition to the accommodations it provides, is more important for the attitude which it reflects. There is a tremendous difference from growing "in" a community to growing "with" a community. The First National Bank, organized in 1900 as the Hereford National, has a long history of service. The new structure displays honest faith in the community and its future; it reflects a spirit of continued service, and a determination to grow with the people it serves.

Citizenship of this type is the principal factor which made our United States of America the standard of civilization around the world.

Household Scrapbook

Mildew
Sometimes the leather bag or suitcase that isn't used so often becomes mildewed. Remove this by rubbing thoroughly with petroleum ointment. Allow it to remain on the leather for a few moments and then dry. This treatment may have to be repeated.
The Double Boiler
Always add boiling water, and never cold, when the water in the bottom of the double boiler boils away. By doing this the temperature will not be lowered and the cooking will not take any longer.
Hosiery
Add a teaspoonful of vinegar to the bowl of water, when rinsing hosiery, and it will help restore the luster of the silk.
Dimity
As a stiffener for dimity, use two ounces of gum arabic dissolved in a pint of hot water. Use in the proportion of two tablespoonsfuls in two quarts of water. It will give a body to the material without making it look starchy.
Varnished Floors
Hot water should not be used on varnished floors. Wash up with a cloth wrung out of lukewarm water. Each section should be rubbed with a dry cloth as it is washed.
Brown Gravy
If your gravy always seems to be several shades too pale, try adding a few drops of kitchen bouquet to it. You will have a nice rich brown, without changing the flavor of the gravy in the least.
Terraced Lawns
If the home is to have a terraced lawn that needs to be fairly steep, it is better to plan than just one high one. These two lower terraces, rather than the grass will grow more luxuriantly.
Linoleum
The surface of linoleum will become lusterless if you continue to use a too-stiff brush when washing it. The best way to preserve the shiny effect is to sponge very lightly with soap and water. Ironed Clothes

Clothing that is freshly ironed should be hung up until thoroughly dry before folding. Otherwise, they are liable to have an unpleasant odor. When Shampooing
Use petroleum jelly or cold cream and grease the area around the eyes before the shampoo, and soap will be prevented from entering the eyes. PLANE UMBRELLA
NEW YORK (AP)—The world's largest steel-ribbed umbrella will serve as a terminal for Pan American World Airways at New York International Airport. Thirty-two rib girders will radiate from the center core of the umbrella-like structure, said Thomas E. Mullen, whose Lehigh Structural Steel Company of Allentown, Pa., will fabricate and erect the eight million dollar structure. The roof will be four acres in area. Mullen said the largest of the girders will be 224 feet long and weigh 75 tons.

New First National Bank Building Opens

Public Invited To Open House Today

A new landmark comes into existence today with the opening of the huge new facilities of the First National Bank of Hereford on the corner of Third and Main.

The public is invited to attend an open house, which will mark an historic milestone for the First National Bank. Beginning Monday, the First National will handle all of its banking services from the gleaming new structure, which is located across the street north of its location for many years.

It was just one year ago that the First National's board of directors announced the letting of a contract to the M. B. Allen Construction Company of Amarillo for construction of new banking facilities in Hereford.

Shining stainless steel letters proclaim "The First National Bank of Hereford" on the west and black steel letters carry the same legend on south facade of the building, which is dominated by a huge "1st" towering above the main entrance on Main Street. The tower also carries the words "The First National Bank of Hereford".

Large expanses of plate glass dominate the west exterior, which is the main entrance. The theme of glass and stainless steel is repeated on the south, although this wall has more brick.

The rear of the building is dominated by complete drive-in banking facilities and parking lot. A canopy effect is given by the second-story wing which juts outward over the drive-way.

Banking lobby has a terrazzo floor, while officers conference facilities have a twist-weave carpet. Vinyl asbestos, in a terrazzo pattern, completes the floor pattern in the main lobby. Wall bases are black Formica, with the walls paneled in walnut. The same walnut patterns are carried into the doors which lead off the main lobby. Exterior face brick is repeated in the lobby, which gives the effect of bringing the outside into the building.

All of the plaster is painted in soft blue and pumpkin shades for an atmosphere of pleasing quiet. The ceiling is covered with acoustical plaster which helps deaden sounds. Recessed, plastic-covered lights dot the ceiling. Also incorporated in the ceiling are air diffusers and a music system, from which soft, melodious sounds flow into every corner. All these ceiling units are in designs that harmonize with the walls.

An accent in the main lobby is provided by an aluminum divider screen, which features vari-sized, colored plexiglass panels for spots of brightness and exciting color. Banking fixtures in the main lobby are smoothly blended black, grey and white Formica for long-lasting beauty. Furniture is in a frosted walnut tone, finished with Formica tops. Executive chairs are in the same frosted walnut finish to match the desks and are covered in top grain leather upholstery. In blue, pumpkin or white shades.

A central accent feature of the lobby is a sunken planter, which will lend color and beauty to the interior. This planter also will be visible from the sidewalk.

Directors meetings will be conducted in a setting of quiet dignity. The large directors' room is carpeted in a neutral shade. Walls and doors carry out a recurring theme of walnut, with matching panels lending a repetition of pattern. Furniture in the directors' room also is walnut. The room is dominated by a 14-foot conference table, which is covered with a frosted walnut Formica top. Its huge shape is modified by the slightly curving sides.

Chairs are finished in the same type walnut and upholstered in top grain white leather. Large brass-colored ashtrays, corner tables and modern-design table lamps complete the decor. The ceiling is finished in acoustical plaster, with recessed lighting.

A favorite with visitors to the First National Bank will be the comfortable Community Room, which overhangs the rear parking lot and drive-in window. The exterior is a clean, modern design of large window areas and tan brick, with occasional off-set bricks providing a symmetrical pattern. Flooring is vinyl asbestos tile for long-wearing beauty and easy cleaning. Early American furniture, with colorful upholstery, immediately sets the tone of informal ease and relaxation.

A delightful combination of wood panelling and small-patterned wallpaper lends the final touch to the feeling of conviviality.

The Community Room will be available without charge for all types of civic, business, church and community groups, as a public service of the First National Bank. A compact, modern kitchen

Many Features At Open House

"We cordially invite and urge the public to visit our complete new banking facilities," said V. O. Hennen, executive vice president, in announcing the open house of the First National Bank of Hereford building.

Open House for the public will be from 1 until 5 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 7. All facilities of the gleaming new building will be on display during that time and all bank personnel of the bank will be on hand to answer questions and point out the many innovations.

Weldon Bright and Bill McEachern, who co-star on KGNC-TV's "Artistry on Ivory", will provide background music during the afternoon.

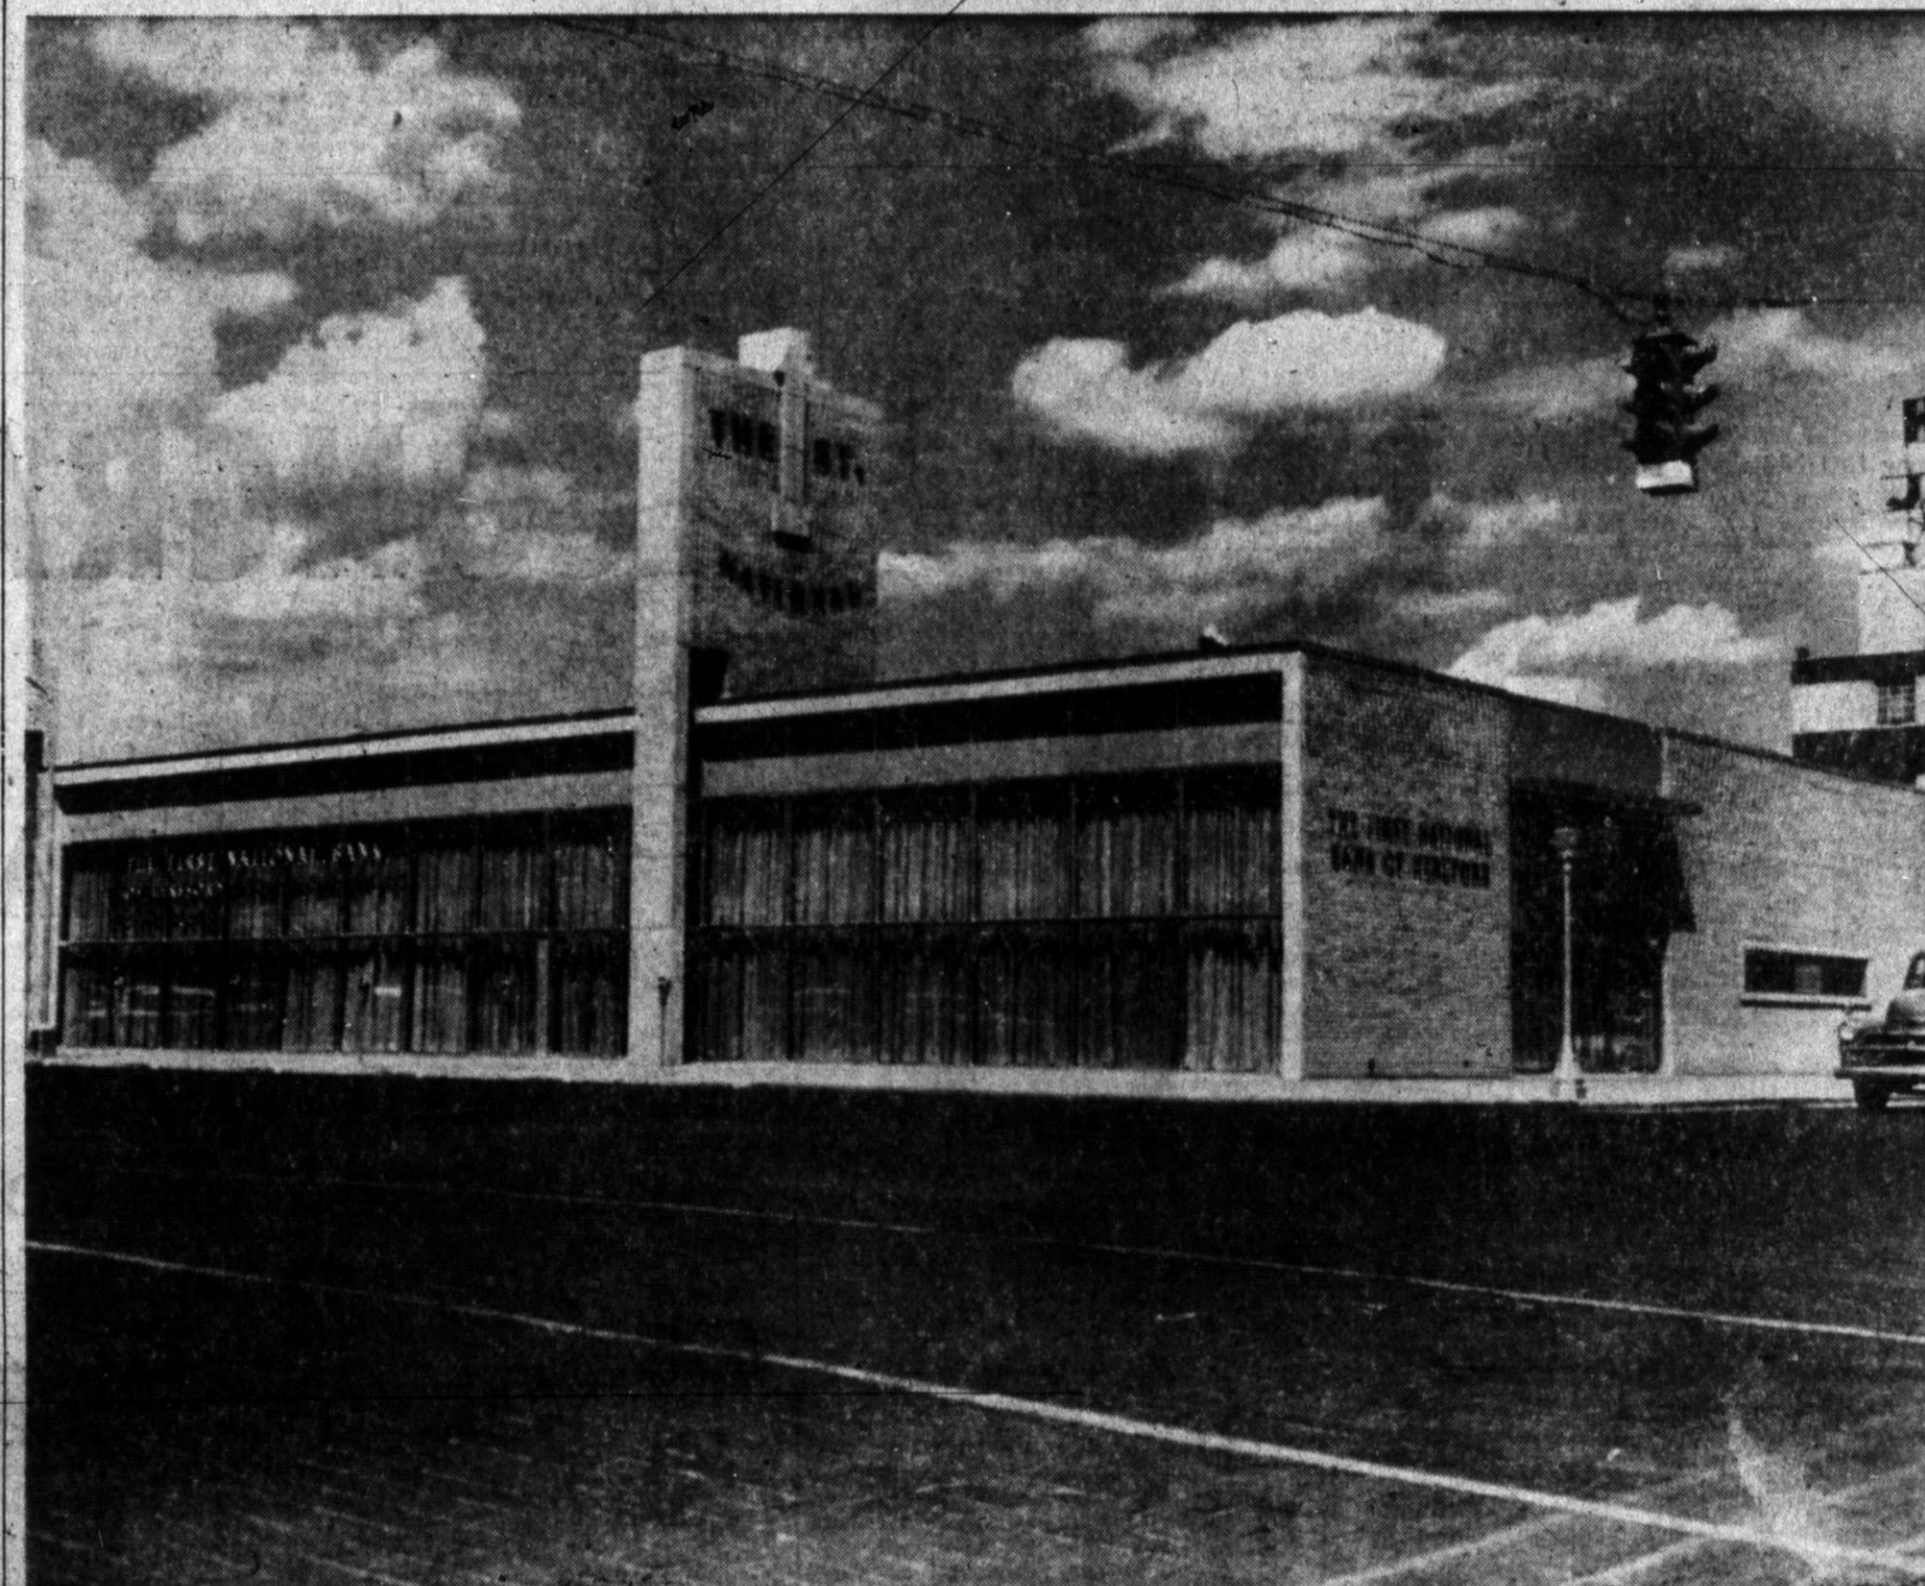

Special features of the open house will be a unique display of old currency from the collection of the Federal Reserve System along with ancient and unusual coins shown by the Hereford Coin Club.

adjoins the Community Room and the coffee room. It will be used to prepare meals for small groups at various occasions.

The coffee room at the First National Bank has a wonderfully informal atmosphere of relaxation and fellowship. It is finished in vinyl asbestos tile, with painted plaster walls and ceilings finished in acoustical plaster. The Swedish modern furniture, with its clean, uncluttered lines, invites immediate comfort.

Another feature of the new building is the space devoted to community displays. There are four large display cases throughout the building which will be available to any group for displays of awards, trophies, crafts, and other items which deserve public notice.

King Haakon was 33 years old when he was placed on the Norwegian throne in 1905. He demanded an election to see if the public approved his enthronement, and he has been reigning ever since.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF HEREFORD today is inviting area residents to attend an open house of its new building and facilities at the corner of Third and Main. The huge structure will be on public display from 1 until 6 p.m. today. Bank employees will be on hand to point out the many new innovations and facilities. There also will be displays of old, rare and unusual currency and coins and background music during the afternoon. (Staff Photo)

Architect Is Specialist On Public Buildings

Plans and supervision for the new First National Bank building were handled through the office of George E. Christensen, Dallas architect. His supervisor on the job was Russell Morris.

Christensen, who is a native Dallasite, received his degree from Texas A&M in 1926. He has been in continuous practice since 1932, specializing in schools, churches, offices and banks.

Most of his operations have been in Texas, although he has handled some projects in New Mexico.

He has more than ample experience. (Continued on page 2)

Chance Job Offer Led V. P. Patterson Into Career, 1st National Presidency

Virgil P. Patterson, president of the First National Bank in Hereford, got his start when the father of a high school friend offered him a job in a bank. The job? "We call them runners now; then I was just a plain flunky," Patterson recalls with a grin.

That was in 1920 when the United States had just weathered a war and was settling down to change its attitude about a lot of things — one of them, banking.

"I think the architecture of our new First National Bank of Hereford reflects exactly the change that has taken place in the 'personality' of banking. The old bank across the street had iron grills on its teller windows, just as did all banks of its day. But just look at the new building — glass clear across the front. You're practically in it while you're still outside. . . and everything about it is warm, friendly, inviting! Not a piece of iron grill work anywhere! That's not only the way banks look, that's the way they operate nowadays," Patterson says.

After breaking in as a bank flunky in his hometown of Taylor, Tex., Patterson went to Southern Methodist University where he took a degree in finance. His banking career included seven years as a National Bank Examiner, after which he became a vice president of the American National Bank in Austin. In 1943 he was made president of the First National Bank in Amarillo. In 1956 he broadened his interests to include the First National Bank of Hereford, becoming its president also, after purchasing the interest of E. B. Hedrick.

Patterson insists that he didn't exactly "choose" banking as a career, it was more or less thrust upon him with that first job offer. But he's found it satisfying enough to inspire his son, Tom, to make the choice deliberately. Tom, who's worked at the bank since his early high school days, is now studying finance at the University of Michigan. The Patterson daughter, on the other hand, has only a typical feminine interest in money — that concerned with spending it. Her name is Emily, and she's a senior this year at Hockaday School in Dallas.

Mr. and Mrs. Patterson make their home at 3006 Hughes in Amarillo, where he is active in civic as well as banking circles. He is a past president of the Chamber of Commerce, and serves as a director for the Y. M. C. A., the Red Cross, the Community Chest, Boys Ranch, and the Amarillo Area Foundation.

In nearly 40 years of banking Mr. Patterson has been associated with large banks and small, and he's not sure but what a small bank is much easier on a bank president's ego. This fact occurred to him not long ago when a young bookkeeper at the First National Bank in Amarillo inquired of a co-worker:

"Who is this fellow Patterson that keeps calling up here asking questions. Is it all right to give him the balances?"

The Great Empress Dowager Tseu-Hi ruled more than 500 million subjects in China in the late 1800's. She was only 26 years old when she assumed the throne in the name of her young son.

Virgil P. Patterson President of the First National Bank of Hereford

First National's History Parallels Growth of Area

On the afternoon of Sept. 29, 1900 — almost 58 years ago — a group of 12 pioneer settlers gathered in the courthouse in Hereford to organize the Hereford National Bank. Some of the men were merchants, others were farmers and stockmen; all believed sincerely that Hereford was going to make a "right good little town", and that the bank had a good future.

Minutes of that first meeting are recorded in a frayed minute book with imitation leather cover and a red binding. The book is now kept under lock and key within the huge fireproof vault in the new, modern home of the First National Bank. Needless to say, the old minute book is one of the prized possessions of the organization.

The 12 organizers chose the name, "Hereford National Bank", and took steps to meet state and federal requirements in securing their charter. The bank was created with a capital stock of $25,000, and land for its location was purchased from the old Western Union Land Company, which did much toward early settlement of this (Continued on page 2)

COMPLETELY AUTOMATIC, the modern drive-in facilities at the rear of the new First National Bank building provide fast, efficient service for the busy businessman or the housewife with small children. Almost every banking service can be handled from this completely automatic window. Also easily accessible from the same area is a theft-proof depository for night or day use. The drive-in banking area is covered, to protect the customers from inclement weather. (Staff Photo) area after the Santa Fe tracks were snaked across the prairie. The men who attended the organizational meeting were John E. Ferguson, F. J. Clinkenbeard, F. M. Avis, E. Carter, F. B. Fuller, W. S. Higgins, T. M. Palmer, L. B.

perience in building banks. Among those which he has designed and supervised during construction are: Texas Bank and Trust Company, Dallas; Lewisville State Bank, Lewisville; Irving State Bank, both the original building and addition; Citizens State Bank and Trust Company, Kilgore; Citizens National Bank, Gonzales;

Alice Bank and Trust Company, Alice; First National Bank, Stanton; First National Bank, Stamford; Brownfield State Bank and Trust Company, both the original building and a Motor Bank which is now under construction, Brownfield; Levelland State Bank, both original building and Motor Bank which is being built now, Levelland; Lovington National Bank, Lovington, N. M.; Security State Bank and Trust Company, Tannahill, Ira Aten, R. J. Kibbe, A. J. Lipscomb, and C. R. Moreman. In the same meeting John E. Ferguson was named president of the bank, F. M. Avis, vice president, and F. J. Clinkenbeard, cashier.

In a meeting on May 15, 1901, the directors met and approved $5,000 insurance against "daylight, holdups and night robberies"; they also placed the president and cashier under $10,000 bonds. The records further indicate that need for the bank existed, because on June 26, 1901, the directors met and voted "8 per cent" dividends to stockholders, also placing $500 in surplus. This $500 surplus was the first recorded by the bank, which now boasts $200,000 capital and $200,000 surplus.

Salaries back in the early days, like bank housing, were not so expansive as in 1938. The minute book shows a transaction Jan. 15, 1903, where the directors "fixed the Rails; and Citizens State Bank, Stanton.

Still under construction is a building designed for the East Dallas Bank and Trust Company, Dallas, by Christensen.

salary of the president at $125 per month; cashier $100 per month" and the going salary for bookkeepers was $60 per month.

Things apparently rocked a long well for the institution until Jan. 9, 1906, when six directors, voting 225 shares of stock, gathered at the bank and voted to change the name of the institution to the "First National Bank" of Hereford. No reason for making the change was given in the minutes, which did note that the change would go into effect "after 30 days notice". Those attending this meeting were: W. H. Fuqua, C. W. Dodson, L. Gough, R. J. Kibbe, John E. Ferguson and W. S. Higgins.

Removal of the First National Bank today records another "first" in its long annals of service. The old Hereford National was located on the same lot the bank stood before moving and, although, the name of the firm was changed in 1906 and a new building later constructed, the "Third and Main Location" remained the same. The new location will, of course, be across the street north, but will still be on the intersection of "Third and Main".

It has often been noted that banks have personalities and such has been the history of the First National Bank in Hereford. During the 58-year period, it has been guided under the reins of six presidents, all of whom have devoted their lives, principles and theories to development of the bank and the community. The six men piloted the bank through good times and bad, wet years and droughts; they have altered the services of the bank to fit ever-changing economies and have seen the country break up from early day cattle ranches and range lands into a vast empire of wheat, followed by a boom in irrigation into the present semi-industrial produce production which supplements other crops.

Hereford has always been basically an agricultural area, however, with a strong emphasis on cattle, wheat and grain sorghums — although the bank has, down through the years, had applications for loans on everything from flax to strawberry crops.

Serving the bank as president down through the years have been: John E. Ferguson, 1900-1905; J. L. Fuqua, 1905-1910; W. S. Higgins, 1910-1918; George L. Muse, 1918-1942; E. B. Hedrick, 1942-1956; V. P. Patterson, 1956 and currently serving as president. The First National Bank of Hereford today stands as one of the outstanding banks in the Texas Panhandle. That the officers and directors are still striving to keep pace with the growth of the community in service and accommodations is attested by their new quarters, occupied yesterday.

Present officers are: V. P. Patterson, president; V. O. Hennen, executive vice president; C. C. Acker, vice president; Roy Phillips, vice president; Mark Woodall, vice president; Miles Roberson, vice president; J. T. Carroll, cashier; Harry E. Caylor, assistant vice president, and Myron E. Morgan, assistant cashier. The bank now has 14 directors, including: C. C. Acker, Gene Edwards, V. O. Hennen, Earnest Langley, Taft McGee, Palmer Norton, V. P. Patterson, J. A. Pitman, John D. Pitman, Owen Seamands, Dr. R. R. Wills, James W. Witherspoon, Mark Woodall and Bill R. Waldrep.

It is also interesting to note that one of the directors, Palmer Norton, is a grandson of T. M. Palmer, one of the 13 men who sat in the courthouse 58 years ago with a dream which led to founding of the bank, and who served as one of its original directors.

J. A. Pitman Is Bank Director

J. A. Pitman has been a director in the First National Bank since 1945, but has been associated with the banking business in this area since 1916. He came to Hereford in 1906 with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Pitman from Amarillo, where the family resided for only one year after leaving Missouri. J. H. Pitman was a pioneer in the area, and one of the early real estate men.

ford schools and graduated from Hereford High School in 1915, shortly afterward entering the banking business with the First State Bank in Hereford. In 1925, he joined Henry Wilkerson in organizing the Security State Bank at Farwell, and still serves as director in the Farwell Bank. He also continued as a director on the First State Bank in Hereford.

In 1927, he became associated in the former Harrison Elevator with Bobo McLean, operating under the firm name of McLean-Pitman. In 1934, Mr. Pitman purchased the McLean interest in the elevator which, since that time has been operated as Pitman Grain Company and today is considered one of the largest non-terminal elevators in the nation.

When the First National Bank purchased assets of the First State Bank in 1945, Mr. Pitman became associated with the First National and has, since that time, been an active director.

He married Douglas Wilson in 1924, and the couple has a son, J. D., also a director in the bank, and a daughter, Mrs. J. A. McWhorter of Dallas. The Pitmans live north of Hereford on Highway 51.

Mr. Pitman is a member of the first Baptist Church in Hereford and has belonged to the Shrine since he was 22 years of age.

SHORT LIFE
ELM GROVE, Wis. (AP) — The test run of the Elm Grove, Police Department's new Squad car was its last.

The new station wagon was delivered to the department in the afternoon. In the evening, a patrolman tried it out on a new highway under construction. The vehicle hit a 12-inch drop, the tires blew out and the dragging gas tank burst into flames.

The officer escaped serious injury but the squad car was destroyed by fire.

Coin Collecting Newcomer Often Buys Coins With Altered Dates

By LONNIE HUDKINS
Many neophyte coin collectors have been the victims of buying coins with altered dates. And, unfortunately, under present federal and state laws, there isn't much that can be done about it.

For example, a newcomer to coin collecting recently paid $17.50 for a 1914 Lincoln cent minted in Denver. The neophyte thought he was getting a fair exchange because the coin appeared in good condition and he knew that only 1,193,000 of them were minted. Later, when he showed his "find" to H. D. Lawrence of Dallas, a noted authority and Southwestern coin dealer, the young collector learned the truth. Lawrence, because of his years of experience in handling coins, immediately spotted that the coin was a 1944-D Lincoln cent that had part of the first "4" altered to make the date read "1914".

Did this altering of the date violate any federal laws? A spokesman for the Secret Service said it didn't. Although the date had been altered, the value of the coin had not been altered from the government's viewpoint. The coin in question was still a cent and as such was good for making change, buying a stick of gum or finding out how much it's owner weighed.

The victim then took the matter to the county and state authorities, who pointed out that proof would have to be established that the seller knew the date was altered. But because the transaction was for less than $50, even if guilt could be shown, the case did not constitute a felony. Had the transaction involved more than $50, it would have been a felony and the authorities would have been happy to prosecute.

So, the best practice to follow when in doubt is to show the coin in question to a dealer or experienced collector. And just as in buying stocks and bonds, it is also wise to know the seller personally or that he is a member of the American Numismatic Assn. or your local coin collectors club.

But altered dates are not the only pitfalls for new collectors. Some have paid as high as $30 for the famous Spade Guinea, a famous British gold coin from the days of King George III, only to find out it was just a brass imitation worth only about $3 as a collector's item of a counterfeit.

MEMO TO ADVERTISERS

There are standards for advertising, too!

What a fix we'd all be in without those standards of measurement for the goods you buy and sell. Imagine the confusion, waste and doubt in business transactions if we didn't have accepted standards of weights and measures—known values.

We believe it is just as necessary for us to tell you what you get for your advertising dollars, in terms of known circulation value, as it is for you to do business with your customers on the basis of recognized standards. That's why this newspaper is a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

WHAT IS THE A.B.C.? The Bureau is a cooperative and nonprofit association of 3450 publishers, advertising agencies and advertisers in the United States and Canada. Organized in 1914, A.B.C. brought order out of advertising chaos by establishing a definition for paid circulation, rules and standards for measuring, auditing and reporting the circulations of newspapers and periodicals.

WHAT A.B.C. DOES FOR YOU. At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced circulation auditors comes to our office and makes a thorough audit of our circulation records. He has access to all of our books and records to obtain the FACTS that tell you what you get for your money when you advertise in this newspaper.

WHAT A.B.C. REPORTS TELL YOU. The circulation FACTS obtained by the A.B.C. auditor are condensed in easy to read A.B.C. reports which tell you: How much circulation we have; where the circulation goes; how it was sold and many other FACTS about the audience we provide for your sales messages. Make your advertising investments on the basis of this audited information. Ask for a copy of our A.B.C. report.

Together, the two have built a sparkling musical program, "Artistry on Ivory", that is one of the favorites on KGNC-TV.

McEachern got into the act because of a pair of wisdom

Bill, who was essentially the sales service representative for KGNC, had appeared as Linn's guest several times as a pianist and when Johnnie was forced into temporary retirement, he said, "It's all yours for a couple of weeks, Bill."

Before the period ended, Bill invited the station's musical director, Weldon Bright, to sit in a few times and they featured organ and piano duets. They re-

Attorney Is Bank Director

James Witherspoon has been a member of the board of directors at the First National Bank of Hereford longer than any other director currently on the board. He has been a director since 1936.

Witherspoon was born at Indianola, Okla., to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Witherspoon. When he was six months old the family moved to New Mexico, where Witherspoon spent most of his early life. His father was a farmer.

After attending college in New Mexico, Witherspoon studied law at the University of Texas and the University of Oklahoma. He moved to Hereford in 1929 and set up his office and has been practicing law here ever since. He was District Attorney eight years at one time and District Judge from 1940 through 1944.

Witherspoon lives at 410 N. Lawton St. in Hereford and has one daughter, Irene, who is a student at Mary Baldwin College at Staughton, Virginia. His wife, Margaret, is deceased.

Witherspoon is a member of the First Baptist Church of Hereford and the Rotary Club.

Director Has Law Background

Owen Seamands has been on the board of directors at the First National Bank of Hereford about one year. He is in the ranching and investment business here.

He was born at Maquoketa, Iowa, to Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Seamands in 1914. His father was a rancher at Friona, Tex. Seamands graduated from high school in Iowa in 1932. Following high school he attended Maquoketa Junior College two years and then went to the University of Iowa. In 1934 he received his B. A. degree in Political Science and in 1938, his Ph. D. in Law.

He practiced law four years at Maquoketa after college. He enlisted in the Air Force in 1942 but received a special discharge in 1943 because of his father's death.

He then came to Friona and took over his father's ranching business and remained in Friona until 1951. Seamands then moved to Clovis and was there

Amarillo Banker Director Here

Gene Edwards, a director of the First National Bank of Hereford, also is a vice president and a director of the First National Bank in Amarillo. Edwards thought he wanted to be a lawyer — but finally decided this wasn't meant to be. His undergraduate work at the University of Oklahoma Law School was divided by a three-year stint in the Navy. Then, when he won his degree and came to Amarillo to practice, an opportunity to enter banking seemed too inviting to turn down.

He's been a banker ever since, serving first as a teller, then in the personal loan department, then in the commercial loan department of the First National Bank of Amarillo. Five years ago he was made a vice president of the bank, and this year was elected a director. He became associated with the First National Bank of Hereford late in 1956.

He was born in Billings, Mont., but calls Oklahoma City his home town. He was educated in the Oklahoma schools, and at one time was National Debating Champion. In 1946 he won the Intramural Golf Championship at the University of Oklahoma. Only recently he won the Amarillo Country Club Golf Championship.

At O. U. Edwards met his future wife, Elaine Johnson of Amarillo. They have three children, Carl Jr., 10, Evelyn, 7, and Edward, 2½.

Edwards has served five years as a member of the Amarillo School Board, and this

Money Show Slated During Open House

The science of numismatics will reach a new high in Hereford this weekend when 33 members of the Hereford Coin Club join the Federal Reserve Bank in an outstanding display of old coins, bills and allied collections to be shown during the formal opening of the new First National Bank building in Hereford this afternoon from 1 to 6 p.m.

Included in the Federal Reserve display will be money that was in use when the White House was burned in the War of 1812, along with money used to buy and release slaves, Texas' own Treasury Notes and money used on both sides while the battle of Gettysburg raged.

"History is replete with deeds of daring, valor, intrigue and in nearly all of these, somewhere or other, the money of those periods entered into each picture to play its vital and important part," said V. O. Hennen, executive vice president. "Some people have entitled this display as 'The Romance of Money' and we are happy to present it to the public in connection with our opening."

In addition, special tables have been erected to accommodate the collections of Hereford's own 33 coin enthusiasts, according to Ed Skypala, club president.

Cayler was born in Le Mars, Iowa, in 1900 to Mr. and Mrs. John Cayler. His father was in the meat packing business and also was in real estate and farming. When Cayler was three, his family moved to the midwest and later to Texas in 1919.

Cayler attended Northwest Teachers College at Alva, Okla. He served in World War I from October of 1918 until Armistice Day.

He entered the banking business in Booker, Tex. He went on to work at banks in various towns, including Liberal, Kan.; Lockney; Plainview; Marlin; Lott; and Perryton, Tex.

He became division accountant for the Panhandle Division, Community Public Service Company in Fort Worth in 1936. Before coming to Hereford in September of 1947, he was with the Citizen's Bank and Trust Company at Pampa.

He and his wife, Kathleen, make their home at 306 Ave. J. They have one daughter, Donna, who is now married.

Cayler is a member of the Lions Club and the First Baptist Church.

Taft McGee is another farmer-stockman who serves on the First National Bank's board of directors, he has held the post since 1957.

McGee moved to Hereford in 1945 and, in 1947, answered the challenge for a gin in the community by building one east of town on Highway 60; he later built another gin south of town, but has since sold both.

Primarily, he is a farmer-stockman, having grown grain sorghum, cotton, wheat, cabbage, potatoes, carrots and other crops successfully. He operates both dry land and irrigated farms, and has always been interested in livestock to balance out his farming program.

Member: Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

In this interesting presentation is paper money from early Colonial days that in our imagination we might see as having passed through the hands of George Washington or Alexander Hamilton or Thomas Jefferson.

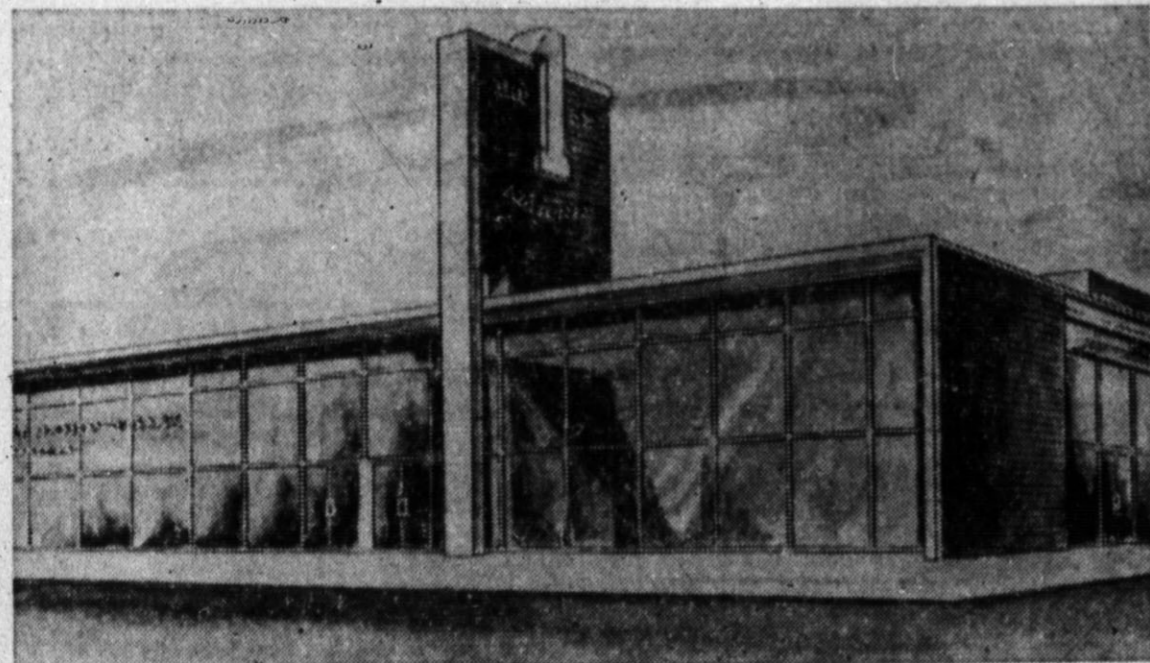

There is money that was in use when the White House was burned in the War of 1812 . . . money that could have been used to buy or release slaves . . . Texas' own Treasury Notes from the stirring period when this was a Republic . . . money used on both sides while the battle of Gettysburg raged. Practically all phases of history are represented by the money currently in use in each period.

In addition to the above currency showing, the Hereford Coin Club will have a display of coins dating back to early history. Don't miss it.

M. B. Allen Was General Contractor For Building

M. B. Allen Construction Company of Amarillo was responsible for the actual construction of the new First National Bank of Hereford building. Just about one year ago, Allen was notified that he was the successful bidder for the bank's proposed new facilities. In less than 12 months, the M. B. Allen company completed the job. The company's namesake, M. B. Allen, proudly describes himself as the sole owner and operator of the company. He has had a long career in the building field. Born in Lockney, Tex., on Sept. 17, 1915, he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Allen. His father was a farmer . . . and a building contractor who instilled a knowledge and admiration for the construction business in his son.

M. B. Allen came to Amarillo when he was 23 years old and starting working for the Panhandle Sash and Door Company. A year later, in 1937, he became an apprenticed carpenter. He spent many years as general superintendent for construction jobs before going into business for himself in 1946. For the past 12 years he has been one of the area's busiest builders. No novice in the bank building field, he was the general contractor on the First State Bank building in Amarillo.

Allen has been married for the past 20 years. He and his wife have two children, Ronald Gene, 18, and Michael Wayne, 15.

Allen pointed out the many construction features which went into the First National Bank of Hereford, most of which are not seen by the casual observer. For example, the foundation consists of 45 concrete piers and footings which were sunk to an average depth of six feet, six inches below the first floor level.

The first floor is five inches of reinforced concrete poured on five inches of sand fill. The mezzanine is built on 12 inches of reinforced concrete over the vaults and bar joists, and two and one-half inches thick elsewhere. This is increased to 13 inches over the drive-in window.

Designed with enough strength to support a future second floor, the roof is constructed of structural steel with a poured gypsum deck.

Large and roomy, the new First National Bank building will be comfortable all year-round. The summer-winter air conditioning system is designed to operate on a fully-automatic basis. This system is divided into several zones or areas, is of which is thermostatically controlled. For example, the bookkeeping department can operate with 100 per cent outside air during days when it is cool outside and the balance of the building needs heating while the bookkeeping department needs cooling.

Source of cooling is derived from chilled water cooled by a central water chilling unit, which is then pumped through coils in each individual unit. Source of heat will be a hot water cast iron boiler.

The water chiller has a 50-horsepower electrical motor and is capable of delivering 45 tons of air conditioning.

Installment Loan Business Booms

One of the most rapidly growing departments in the First National Bank is the comparatively new Installment Loan Department, headed by Mark Woodall, vice president, and Alma Scott.

The department was opened Oct. 1, 1956, with approximately 80 loans transferred out of regular loan channels; today, it has more than 800 loans, and is expected to expand even more in the new location.

While the department handles FHA Title 1 loans, it also has a vast number of loans on consumer items, including automobiles, boats, television sets, appliances and similar items. The department also makes personal installment loans to individuals.

"Much of this type of business once went out of town and into other finance channels," Woodall said. "However, it is becoming much more popular on a banking level and provides a service to the customer which many finance companies do not parallel."

The Installment Loan Department in the new building is located in the southwest corner of the lobby to provide convenience for customers in securing loans, handling payments and securing detailed information.

Venezuela, on the northern coast of South America, is second only to the United States in world production of crude oil, says the National Geographic Society.

The morning coffee break remains the more popular of the two usual periods — 51 per cent of the breakers participate in the morning session. Sixteen per cent go for an afternoon cup, and 39 per cent sip on both occasions. This activity adds up to about three cups a day — a cup and one-half on an average, morning and afternoon.

Apparently, there is still considerable organization work to be done in the break field: 30 per cent of the drinkers are still running out to restaurants and eating places. However, 43 per cent are buying beverages from carts and 17 per cent in company cafeterias.

And why does the coffee business love the coffee break? This year it accounts for almost 20 per cent of all the cups of coffee consumed in the nation.

Director

Director Busy In Four Fields

Dr. R. R. Wills became a director of the First National Bank in 1956, and has been active on the board since that time.

Dr. Wills was born Feb. 6, 1902, at Bruceville, Tex., where he attended elementary school and high school. He attended Texas University two years, and Baylor University two years, completing his medical training at Baylor Medical College, then located in Dallas. He did his hospital work at Robert B. Green hospital in San Antonio. In 1949-50, at New York City, and in 1953-54, he did residency work in Urology at Oklahoma City and at Memphis, Tenn.

A great portion of Dr. Wills' life has been spent in this area. He came to Hereford and started practicing on June 1, 1929, continuing until Jan. 26, 1930 when he moved to Friona and opened his office. On Sept. 14, 1935, he returned to Hereford, however, and has been here since. During the past 23 years, he has seen many changes in the practice of medicine; his own office shifted from an upstairs location to the modern Hereford Clinic, and the Deaf Smith County hospital enlarged several times.

Dr. Wills married Miss Nona Darsey in Friona in 1933, and the couple lived here in Hereford until her death in 1944. In 1949, he married Imogene Whitehead, and they reside at 309 Lawton Street. Dr. Wills has one son, J. B. Wills, who is now attending Texas University.

An ardent football fan, Dr. Wills has always been interested in high school football, and the community in general. He is a member of the Methodist Church, and has belonged to the Chamber of Commerce since he first arrived in Hereford, having held scores of positions in the organization. He also served as president of the Hereford Lions Club in 1943, and has been on the City Commission of Hereford since 1956, currently designated as Mayor-pro-tem.

In addition to his extensive medical practice, the City Commission and directorship in the bank, Dr. Wills is also interested in farming.

Coffee Break Firmly Entrenched; Problem Now Is Time For Work

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The president of a large firm unexpectedly walked into one of the company offices recently and found, although it was shortly after 10 A.M., the place empty except for one stenographer. The staff happily wandered in a few minutes later — a few of the 28 million Americans who had enjoyed a new work-day custom, the coffee break.

Some employers take a dim view of morning and afternoon refresher periods for obvious reasons, but the custom is so popular that most of them have, perforce, given in. To avoid a sometimes empty office, many firms have installed coffee vending machines or permit a coffee and snack vendor to roll a cart through the premises twice a day.

One Eastern printer has been doing a brisk business selling cards which have been popping up in offices in the area. They say, in bold, black letters:

NEW POLICY

"To All Employees:
"Due to increased competition and the keen desire to remain in business, we find it necessary to institute a new policy.

"Effective immediately we are asking that somewhere between starting and quitting time and without infringing too much on the time devoted to lunch period, coffee breaks, rest periods, story telling, ticket-selling, golfing, auto racing, horse selections, window-gazing, vacation-planning and rehashing of yesterday's TV programs, that each employe try to find some time that can be set aside and be known hereafter as The Work Break."

There may be some employers who wish the morning and afternoon coffee break (it's called a coffee break even if you're a tea or soft drink imbibor) were outlawed, and there certainly are numbers of coffee-breakers who find that a couple of extra snack periods add to weight problems. But the custom has growing acceptance — particularly where it is organized — among some employers who find that refreshment picks up flagging workers and actually pays off in more work.

Regardless of its merits or demerits, the coffee break seems here to stay — and it is making such people as snack manufacturers and, above all, the coffee industry very, very happy.

A recent survey indicated that currently 70 million cups of coffee are being consumed daily in coffee breaks. Drinkers include 42 per cent of all men with jobs, 44 per cent of women with jobs and 27 per cent of all housewives (who used to call their mid-morning coffee a kaffeeklatch, but no more).

New Styles Have Vital Inside Story

By DOROTHY ROE

The two-piece trapeze is one of the gayest, youngest silhouettes of the season, especially when it's done in a soft, fleecy wool. A popular variation is the versatile sleeveless suit. This may be worn as is for a movie date, or with a sweater for street or campus wear.

Local sewing center experts point out that though the silhouette is simple, construction of a two-piece trapeze takes a little sewing know-how. Underlinings are essential to preserve the flaring line, and pattern companies are placing extra emphasis on the undercover story.

The simplest way to make such a suit is to cut out both lining and fabric at once, making the same alterations on each. The underlining then is basted to the fabric and both pieces are worked together. Inch-rulers printed on the pattern pieces make it easy to achieve accurate alterations.

When a heavy woolen is used for the suit, the underlining must be firm enough to support the fabric, yet flexible enough

TRAPEZE SUIT—Lining is important to preserve lines of new silhouette. To hold the rounded, soft lines of the design. Siri, a woven acetate, is one of the linings recommended for crease resistance and permanent body. This unique fabric takes colors as beautifully as silk, so linings may match or contrast with the garment.

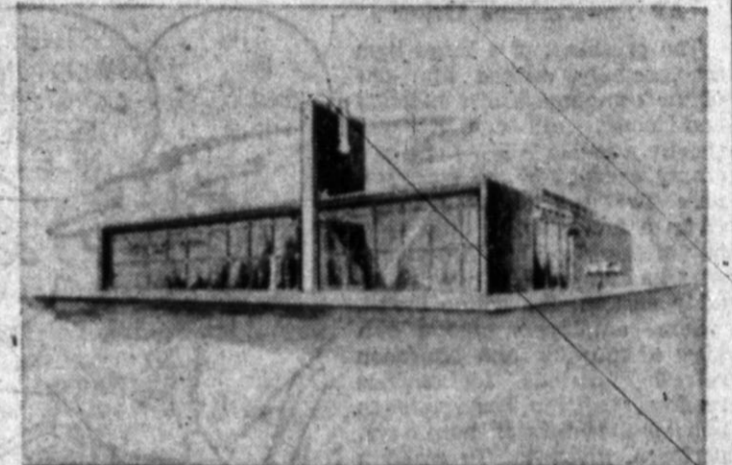

Correct linings are important for other new fashions, also. The back-pleated sheath should have light-weight lining from the yoke to hold its slim line. The knee-flounce version of the sheath also needs an underlining to maintain the crispness of the flounce.

Bank's 'Community Room' Offers Place For Public, Club Meetings

People generally associate banks with money, but a far cry from the subject will be the new Community Room, located on the second floor of the new First National Bank building. Adjoining the Community Room is a coffee room for employees and customers, finished in Swedish Modern style and, separating the two, is a kitchen so complete as to rival the most modern home in Hereford.

"The Community Room was built with the idea of serving all types of public meetings," V. O. Hennen, executive vice president points out. "This will include women's clubs, civic clubs, bridge clubs, and almost any other group which may desire to hold a meeting. It is separated from the remainder of the bank and may be reached after banking hours with a special key which will be arranged through our receptionist."

Handling the Community Room reservations will be Mrs. Gulletta Arnold, who will clear all dates for interested persons wishing to use the room.

The Community Room, featuring limed walnut paneling, gay wall paper, and an expanse of windows on the south and north walls, is located on the second floor of the new building, and is complete with attractive draperies.

In addition to general furnishings of lounges, chairs and occasional tables, the Community Room (approximately 25 by 35 feet) also has special storage space for 42 folding chairs and six folding tables. The kitchen, available to those who book the Community Room, includes a full-size stove, refrigerator, coffee urns and a dishwasher. The room, like the rest of the building, is centrally air conditioned and heated, and carries continuous music, which may be turned on or off, depending on the desire of the users.

credit for having the confidence to let him pitch regularly, says the 200-pound right hander.

When Portocarrero came to the Orioles April 18 from Kansas City in a swap for Bud Dalry, it was viewed as a "nothing for nothing trade."

Not yet 27 years old, Portocarrero was considered washed up.

He admits he was wondering himself.

"When the bosses get the idea you're washed up, I guess they're scared to use you and you begin to feel the same way," philosophized Portocarrero.

However, Richards gave the 6-foot-3 native New Yorker a regular starting role with the Orioles. By Aug. 1, Portocarrero had rewarded him with 10 victories.

That was one more than his previous high of nine for the Athletics when they still were in Philadelphia in 1954.

"I felt I was pitching just as good at the end of last season as now," said Portocarrero. "But I didn't get a chance to start regularly. This spring at Kansas City, I hardly pitched and then I was traded."

One thing in particular in which Portocarrero says Richards has helped him is control. "He doesn't like walks, so you have to concentrate on getting the ball over for him. He's also great in talking to you. I guess when you see him showing confidence, you get it."

Portocarrero, in his little more than four seasons with the Athletics, always had been a fast ball thrower. It was his control and lack of a curve that caused concern.

Now, says pitching coach Harry Brecheen, Portocarrero has "two different speed curves and they help out his fast ball."

Among the pitching victories they provided were two straight shutouts and a 13-inning triumph in which he gave up only seven hits and two walks.

By Dorothy V. Whipple, M. D.
Foot troubles are pretty common. Most of them are unnecessary. Good care throughout babyhood and childhood can prevent about three quarters of all the aching feet of grown-up life.

The human foot is a pretty complicated structure. It contains 33 joints and 26 different bones. The feet contain one fourth of all the bones in the body. Like any delicate piece of machinery, the feet need good care to keep them in smooth running order for 70-odd years.

When a baby is born, many of the bones of the feet are not really bone at all; they are composed of a rubbery material known as cartilage. This pliable substance will mold and take on new shapes if the feet are subjected to constant pressure. For this reason a baby should not lie in the same position all the time. When a baby lies on his tummy his feet are spread out so that the inner side of each foot is stretched and the outer side is pushed together. If he lies this way all the time some tendons stretch, some contract and the bones mould to fit the position — a position not too good for later weight bearing. See to it that your baby lies sometimes on his back, sometimes on his tummy, sometimes on one side or the other. In this way you equalize the pressure and the foot maintains its original shape.

Sometimes a baby's foot is so cramped while he is lying in his mother's womb that when he is born it's not properly shaped. Many such feet will straighten out as soon as the baby is able to kick them about freely. However, occasionally such a foot needs special treatment. Casts or a brace put on a newborn's feet for the first six weeks of life can accomplish more than years and years of corrective shoes later in life.

Throughout babyhood feet need freedom. Let your baby kick and wiggle his feet unhampered with socks, shoes or tight bedclothes. The more he wiggles, the better his feet will grow. A normal healthy baby foot needs no covering any more than hands need mittens. When your baby finally begins to walk he will need shoes — for protection, not for support. The important thing about shoes is the fit. Take a look at the natural shape of your child's foot. It is straight along the inner border. It is almost square along the toes; the widest part is from the big toe joint to the little toe, the heel is much narrower than the front of the foot. Looking at the back of the foot the big tendons come down straight and vertical, the arch of the foot is up off the floor. If your child's foot doesn't look like this, take him to your doctor. He may need special shoes, which should be prescribed by a doctor, not a shoe salesman.

Buy your child's shoes in some store where there are trained shoe salesmen who know how to fit children's shoes — not some "sweet young thing" who sells brassieres one day and shoes the next. A good shoe salesman will measure both feet and the longest and widest measurements will be fitted. The child's big toe joint should be fitted to the widest part of the shoe. This is usually the easiest place in a shoe to test the fit. There should be a half-inch from the end of the big toe to the end of the shoe — often hard to feel if the toe of the shoe is stiff.

The best shoes for growing feet are low-heeled oxfords. Children outgrow shoes quickly. Under six a child will need new shoes in four to eight weeks, between six and 12, shoes will last eight to 12 weeks, between 12 and 15 about 18 weeks. From 15 to 20 shoe sizes are likely to change about every six months. Watch the fit of your child's shoes and discard shoes before they cramp those growing feet.

Just Like Her American Cousin, British Housewife Loves a Sale

By CHARLES STAFFORD
NEW YORK — Retail selling in Britain has to be cricket, you know. Bit of dignity and all that.
"No huckstering like here in the States. Definitely not."
"For one thing, the British are

Started Banking Career In 1918

MILES ROBESON
Vice-President

Miles Roberson, vice president, first started working for the First National Bank of Hereford back in 1918. He was there only a few months before entering World War I.
He was born in Johnson County, Tex., Feb. 9, 1895 to Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Roberson. His father made his living farming. The Robersons moved to this part of the country in 1901, settling at Summerfield.
They moved to Hereford when Miles started at Hereford High School in 1914. He is a 1916 graduate.
Roberson entered the Army in 1919 and served until 1920. When he returned home he began working for the old First State Bank and Trust Company of Hereford. He remained there until the bank was dissolved. He then came back to the First National Bank in 1946 and has been there since that time.
He lives at 201 Higgins St., and likes to trade horses and livestock in his spare time. Roberson is a member of the First Baptist Church in Hereford.

inclined to insist that price is not the most important consideration.
"For another, they prefer the Old Reliable to the Modern Innovation."
And lastly, the British retailer keeps the customer's well being in mind.
"We like to encourage our people to buy only what they can afford," said a neatly groomed visitor to the American field of retail battle. Part of the encouragement to thriftiness is a whopping 10 per cent interest on installment buying.
But, added Mrs. Patricia Adams of Wimbledon, there is at least one basic similarity between female shoppers on both shores of the Atlantic.
The British housewife is the same predatory huntress as her American cousin. Her nostrils flare and she bares her fangs at the most subtle scent of a sale.
"I remember an incident at Fortnum and Mason, a very nice shop in Piccadilly," said Mrs. Adams. "To give you an idea of the type shop it is, all the shop assistants (clerks) on the first floor wear frock coats and, on occasion, carnations in their lapels.
"They were holding their very first sale. They simply placed a small sign in the window saying 'reductions' — that was all."
"Well! There was a mob scene. One woman had her in 1944.

Hennen and his wife, Francis, make their home at 703 Lee St. in Hereford. They have two boys, Jack, who is 26 and lives in California, and Virgil, 28, who lives in Arizona.

Display Cases For Public Use In New Building

Money is important, but so are trophies, awards, personal collections and heirlooms.
This fact was recognized by directors of the First National Bank when they specified four glass display show cases specifically for use of persons who have interesting material to display.
"Anything of general public interest will be welcome and accepted in the display units," said V. O. Hennen, executive vice president of the bank. He said that the Chamber of Commerce will use one of the display units during the formal opening, and that other items will be displayed in the units from time to time.

FAMILY JOKE
NEW BRITAIN, Conn. — Grandfather and grandson met recently in a jolting way.
Andrew Wysocki was about to make a right turn in his automobile when his car was struck by another. Inside this one was his 9-year-old grandson, Michael Wysocki.
Mike's father said the boy probably had accidentally released the brakes on the parked car.

Jog Memory In New Bank

The banks are taking care of almost everything these days, including poor memories and careless habits.
Such, at least, is the aim of directors of the First National who, in the new building, have installed special glass tables and two sets of lights in order that persons who delve into lock boxes will not accidentally leave papers on tables or on the floor. Neon lights below the glass table tops shine continuously, eliminating any stoop, squat or squint on the part of patrons who might suspect that they have dropped an important paper or failed to return a clipped coupon to their box.
Two special booths with this equipment are provided adjacent to the lock box section, and will be maintained strictly for persons who wish privacy in looking through the contents of their boxes.
Louis Braille, who invented the Braille system which enables the blind to read books by means of raised indentations on the paper, was born—with good eyesight. He became blind at the age of three.
