Bible Words for Today

I CORINTHIANS 2:16 - "But we have the mind of Christ." (RSV)

Who can say that he knows the mind of Christ? The mind of Christ is both illusive and obvious, discursive and fixed, profound and simple. On occasions Jesus revealed the intuitive responsiveness of the poet - "Consider the lilies of the field." At other times he betrayed the full-souled wonder of the mystic. One of the recorded requests of the disciples was their eager desire to know how to pray the way Jesus prayed. In other places we see that the mind of Christ was that of a radical and impatient prophet, exposing injustice, destroying old traditions grown meaningless with age, thrusting the lance of the spoken word into the quick of man's prejudice. And everywhere in the gospels you see that His mind was that of the sensitive humanitarian, whose largest concern was with men, women and children, the sons and daughters of God.

No one can say that he knows fully this mind of Christ. Yet, what discipline can do other than strive to understand it?

Hereford Edges Olton, 8-6

By a margin of about six inches, Hereford won its first football game of the season, defeating Olton 8-6 in a rugged contest. The loss spoiled Homecoming for Olton High School exes who crowded Mustang Field Friday night. Hereford now has won one and lost four, while Olton has won two of its five games. It was late in the third period when the Whitefaces finally managed to get their scoring drive. They rolled 55 yards in nine plays. Halfback Durwood Jacobs, a 150-pound senior, climaxed the drive with a nine-yard jaunt around right end that started with quarterback Billy Dirks using the option and then pitching back.

Jacobs also tallied the important points after touchdown with a dive over right tackle. Some 4 minutes, 20 seconds remained in the third quarter when Hereford scored. Late in the fourth quarter Olton finally managed to erase the goose egg with a 50-yard offensive that took 13 plays. With 3:43 remaining in the game, little John Wayne Hair, a 125-pound halfback pounded the line from the two. He was hit, fumbled and dived into the end zone to recover the ball and score.

For a moment it looked like Olton would make their two extra points when they used a "sucker shift" from T formation to single wing that penalized the Herd from the three to the one. But Hair was short on his sweep of the right end when he was tackled by Jacobs just short of the goal line.

There was something different when Hereford's entire team lined up to take the final kick-off. The "safety" men were bunched with the rest of the team no further back than their own 39-yard line. Olton wisely kicked over their heads, but Billy Dirks managed a five-yard return. Dirks, with orders to keep the ball, ran seven plays, carrying on six to end the game.

There were two magnificent goal-line stands during the first half, one by each team. Hereford got a break on the opening kick-off when Terry Hodges' line-drive boot hit an Olton lineman and tackle Jeff Gomez recovered for the Herd. But a 15-yard penalty cost Hereford the balls on downs and Olton started a drive from their own 20. They moved to Hereford's eight, where they had first and goal. Royce Bodkin lost four yards, Arno Hall passed for eight yards to Randee Buchenau, Hereford was penalized to their own one for off-sides, Hall recovered his own fumble but lost two yards and Hair made two yards on a wide sweep around right end, but was stopped by guard Pete Plank a yard shy of scoring territory.

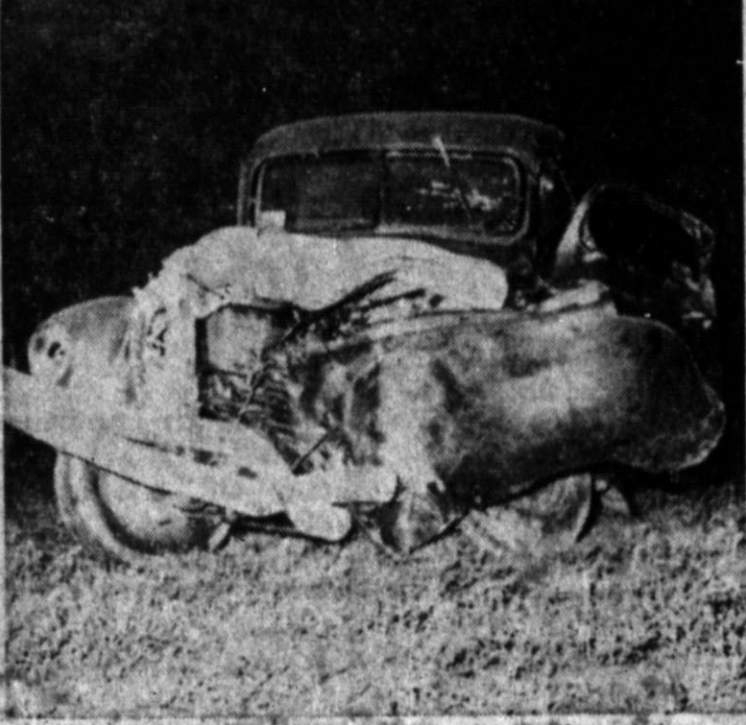

From this point, Hereford started a potent drive, aided by a 32-yard pass play from

Smithers was injured after his pickup truck, at right, struck the side of the semi-trailer. ### 'Kidnapping' To Auto Theft For Ft. Worth Lads

Two Fort Worth youngsters, 13 and 14 years old, changed their story of a "kidnapping" to the confession of an automobile theft to Hereford Police Tuesday, when they were stopped here for a traffic violation.

Sergeant Leon Atchley, arresting officer, said he stopped the two youngsters at the intersection of Highway 51-60 late Tuesday night, when he saw that the car they were driving had a headlight out of operation. Atchley said the boys told him that they had been kidnapped by a Fort Worth man, and that the man "got drunk and passed out" in an abandoned house near Hereford. He said the boys told him that they were looking for a police officer to report the kidnapping at the time they were stopped.

When Atchley questioned the truth of their story, the youngsters said they stole the car from the suburbs of Fort Worth to "take a ride," and that they had not been kidnapped.

The youths were taken to juvenile quarters in Canyon and were released to their parents Wednesday afternoon. They have been returned to Fort Worth.

Atchley said the owner of the car had reported the theft to Fort Worth police, and that the car has been returned to the owner.

If you didn't go to Olton Friday night to see the football game, you missed a dandy. Although there were few long gains and not much scoring, it was really a crowd-pleaser. This has been a good week for Hereford football teams. They won four out of five contests, from the junior level up through the varsity.

Football, as usual, has almost been shoved out of sight by the World Series (as they used to say when Brooklyn was the home of Dem Bums). Seems like 'most everyone is pulling for the Braves, calling them the underdogs. But they have looked like champions so far.

Gleaming Fire Truck Arrives

It looked like Christmas around the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department headquarters this weekend. Everyone stood around and admired the shiny new fire engine, and with good cause.

The department's huge new pumper, a Howe Defender model which sells for about $20,000, finally arrived, gleaming and powerful looking. Tomorrow the truck will be taken to Amarillo for pumping tests and rating by a representative of the Texas Fire Insurance Division.

United Fund Sets $21,000 Budget; One-Day Drive Slated For Nov. 6

A budget of $21,000 was adopted Friday for the 1958-59 Deaf Smith County United Fund. The figure, which is $700 lower than last year, represents the goal for the 1958 combined charity drive for the county.

Budget requests for ten organizations were considered and adopted in a one-hour session at the Hereford State Bank by the United Fund finance and budget committee, which is headed by Townsend Douglas.

Immediately following adoption of the budget, general campaign chairman Bill Decker announced that he planned on an intensive one-day solicitation, which has been set for Thursday, Nov. 6.

Decker said that preparations were being made to contact every business and individual in Deaf Smith County in one day in order that the drive can be concluded in the shortest possible time. An advance gifts drive will be held approximately 10 days before the campaign kick-off.

Of the ten organizations which applied for participation in the local one-day fund group, only one was allocated less than it had requested. This was the United Service Organization.

In the order their representatives appeared before the budget committee, the following amounts were approved: Hereford Athletic Association asked for and received $600 budget approval. Last year the group was allocated $1,200. They said a decrease was possible because they had purchased all of the major items for youth recreation last year.

Boy Scouts of America asked for and received $4,500. Boy Scouts last year were allocated $3,900, with an additional $600 allotted later.

Pony Baseball League asked for and received $1,050. This is $50 more than was allocated in 1957.

Little League and Pee Wee Baseball asked for $1,000 total, $300 for Little League and $100 for Pee Wee baseball. This was the same as the allocation last year. The committee voted to give $1,050, which is the same as the Pony League.

Heart Fund asked for and received an allocation of $700, the same as the 1957 budget. Of this amount, 40 per cent goes to the state and national organizations, and 60 per cent remains in the county. The request was approved.

Savings Deposits Continue To Rise

Assets and deposits jumped past the $14,000,000 mark during the third quarter of 1958, which ended Sept. 24, in the combined financial reports of the two Hereford banks, the Hereford Credit Union and the Hi-Plains Savings and Loan Association.

According to conditions reports of the banks, the Credit Union and Hi-Plains, the combined total of deposits and assets at the end of the quarter was $14,117,785.78. That amount is an increase of $1,773,988.03 over the June 23 total of $12,343,817.76.

Virgil Hennen, executive vice president of the First National Bank of Hereford, said the increase was due "strictly to the wheat crop this year."

Hennen said that the vegetable crop in this area did little to increase the amount of deposits, due to the poor market of vegetables this year. He added that he expected the grain, sugar beet and cotton crops to increase deposits even more during the next three months. The two banks reported $13,030,127 in deposits, an increase of $2,870,506 since June 23. The total recorded at the end of the second quarter was $12,343,817. Hi-Plains Savings and Loan, established in the latter part of August last year, reported $939,594, an increase of $158,003 over the previous year.

Hereford Credit Union assets were $1,488,064, an increase of $85,460.

Total loans and discounts of the banks is $6,311,743, an increase of $2,418 during the third quarter. The total loans at the first of the year was $5,893,000.

Dirks to halfback Danny Martin. With first and goal on Olton's seven, Duane Cassels lost two, Martin made four, James Brogdon made four and Cassels made one, but the Herd ended up about six inches short.

On both goal-line stands there were huge cheers from partisan rooters and then sudden silence. The confusion was caused by an official who continually signalled the down with two hands in the air, which is the regulation sign for a score.

Hereford end Steve Slagle had an outstanding night as he moved back to do the punting. He booted three times for an average of 40.3 and none of them was returned by Olton. Slagle also was singled out for his defensive play in containing the wide sweeps that Olton alternated with its line smashers.

Dirks completed two of three passes, both of them to Danny Martin, for 32 and 12 yards. The first aerial was also the longest gain of the night for either team as they slugged it out through the line. Olton completed nine of 15 passes and had two real oddities. On successive downs late in the third quarter, Hall completed two passes, and each of them lost four yards as alert Hereford defenders pounded into the receivers.

The Whitefaces had a net gain of 164 yards on the ground and 44 in the air for a total offense of 208 yards. Olton had 138 on the ground and 28 through the air for 176 net yards. Hereford's edge in this department was more than offset, however, by the 98 yards they were set back on penalties. Olton was penalized 15 yards.

In other action, Phillips beat Perryton 15-6. Dumas was edged at Artesia, N. M., 7-6. Leveland upset Snyder 14-8, and Clovis blasted Jefferson of El Paso, 42-0.

accident happened at about 6:15 p.m.

The semi-trailer flipped over on its top and the cab was turned on its side after the crash. Smithers' pickup came to a stop in a ditch next to the street.

The Hereford Volunteer Fire Department arrived at the scene of the accident, as gasoline was spilled on the street at the point of impact. No fire resulted, however.

Autrey was hauling caliche for a road job in Dimmitt. An estimate of damages to the semi-trailer was not available, but Smithers' pickup was reported to be a total loss.

The truck has five forward and two reverse speeds, powered by a 250-horsepower Continental engine. It will carry 400 gallons of water and can pump while moving if necessary. Present plans call for the truck to be equipped with 1,200 feet of two and one-half inch hose and 400 feet of one and one-half inch line. In addition, it will carry 300 feet of booster line.

The truck's two pumps may be used individually or in series, as the need arises. A 35-foot extension ladder, plus axes and pike poles complete the equipment. All storage compartments on the truck

This was one of the greatest comebacks ever witnessed in sports. The experts said he would never play golf again after the crippling accident just outside Fort Worth, when his legs were badly damaged. But he was a fighter... and he fought back to prove them wrong. Bantam Ben Hogan's stiffest test of his career came at the U. S. Open Championship held at Merion, just outside Philadelphia... his first Open after the accident. The course was a tough one... and the field was even tougher. But Hogan played brilliant golf. In the final round he was near collapse on the 14th hole, and he barely finished. Then his score was tied by Lloyd Mangrum and George Faxio... forcing a playoff.

That night his wife Valerie and his doctor worked on Hogan's legs until four in the morning when day came. Hogan hobbled out to the course... and went on to win. Remember the year? That was a year when the auto business was returning to normal. New cars were more plentiful... and a buyer was able to shop and bargain for a good deal. The year was 1950. Today is a real "buyer's market." You'll see what we mean when you check our new 1958 FORD. It's the highest priced car ever... but it's a budget terms that make it easier than ever to drive a new 1958 FORD. Stop in now, at CHARLIE SEEDS MOTOR CO., INC. 146 E. Second. Phone EM 4-2727.

County and the remainder will go to the national organization. Red Cross last year received $7,000. The request was approved.

Salvation Army requested $2,600, which is $400 less than was allocated last year. This amount was approved as requested.

Campfire Girls was approved for $500 allocation from the 1958 budget. This will be added to the $1,000 which were allotted last year but did not draw.

Texas Association For Mental Health mailed in a request for $60.12, which was approved.

United Service Organization requested $1,061, which is more than double the $500 allotted last year. The committee approved a budget allocation of $250 for USO.

After all budget allocations are paid, the committee was told, the Deaf Smith County United Fund will have a reserve of $3,728.50. The group voted to keep this in a contingency fund, along with a small excess which is planned in the 1958-59 budget.

In announcing his plans for an intensive one-day campaign, Decker asked that firms decide in advance whether managers and employees will give as a firm or as individuals. All firms and individuals missed during the first day will be contacted the following day, Decker emphasized. The campaign chairman also pointed out that residents may designate which organization their funds should be allocated for.

COLORFUL JAIL

RICHMOND, Va. — The temporary jail here may not have all the comforts of home but it is at least colorful. There is a yellow tint called bamboo for the main structure, a silver smoke-gray for the trim and a delicate beige for the terracotta bull head ornaments.

The city jail was demolished to make way for an expressway and an old meat market is serving as the temporary Bastille.

BATTLEFRONT ARTIST

MADISON, Wis. — A Madison garage has yielded a collection of original battlefield sketches and field note books of a once widely-known Civil War artist. Raymond Simplot, whose grandfather, Alexander Simplot, sketched war scenes for Harpers Weekly magazine, found the material and turned it over to the Wisconsin Historical Society.

The sketches were made between April, 1861, and Jan. 10, 1863, of events in the war along the Mississippi River.

I have been looking at the new model automobiles already out, along with reading about those due to show soon, and it seems to me that the manufacturers have made a serious mistake. The cars are lower and more compact, while the American people are getting wider and fatter. It just doesn't add up. Another model change or two — and something will have to give.

The new cars are real pretty, though, and reports indicate that folks are stepping in and buying the 1959 models. Many people figure that the next 12 months will see the automobile industry wheeling and dealing, a lot like 1955. Could be right, too. A tremendous lot of people are thinking about trading cars.

Tom McFarland, former Hereford C.C. manager, is now associated with High Plains Water District but, in his spare time, has been writing a book which deals with his experiences in Japanese Prisoner of War Camps. Tom was visiting here the other day and, somewhat reluctantly, admits that he may be getting somewhere with the book. He has had a lot of encouragement from one of the large New York publishing firms, and is now doing a rewrite job on his script. A lot of Hereford people will recall some of the interesting talks he made on the same subject at various times while he was in Hereford. Tom says even if he doesn't do any good with the book, he sure has learned a lot of interesting things about the publishing business.

Someone is always taking the pleasure out of life. I used to walk into the drug store and ask if they had any samples, which they seldom did. The other day Ansel McDowell and his No. 1 henchman, Bob Benton, came up with a sample bottle of "Super Potent Hair Restorer". In addition to finding myself speechless, it also ruined a pleasant little gaze.

Charley Sowell has also become a tricky sort of fellow since he got to be commissioner. He is now the grandfather of twin girls, but instead of passing out cigars like most people, I wound up buying Charley a cup of coffee. Lloyd Sharp is the paternal grandfather, but after my experience with Charley, I hope I don't run across him. You never can tell what these bankers might dream up. The twins not named as of Friday, are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Sharp, El Paso.

Carl Lovelady, the Muleshoe man who ran unsuccessfully for the Texas senate nomination in this district, was reported this week to have gone to Alaska, where he figures they'll be peeding a few more lawyers, now that they have joined the Union. Might be right, too; anyhow that's the way it turned out down in Arkansas.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: To provide parents of school children with information in advance on meals to be served in Hereford Public Schools, The Brand, as a public service, prints the school menu weekly so that parents may avoid duplication of meals at home.)

MONDAY, Oct. 6 — Swiss Steak, baked potatoes and carrot sticks, bread and butter, milk and ice cream sticks.

TUESDAY, Oct. 7 — Baked spiced ham, sweet potato souffle and English peas, hot rolls and butter, milk and cherry cobbler.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 8 — Baked beans, fried okra and hot cabbage slaw, peaches in syrup, corn bread and butter and milk.

THURSDAY, Oct. 9 — Fried chicken and gravy, mashed potatoes and lettuce and tomato wedges with French dressing, biscuits and butter, milk and jello with fruit cookies.

FRIDAY, Oct. 10 — Beef patties or fish sticks, hash brown potatoes and tossed green salad, hot rolls and butter, milk and white cake with pineapple sauce.

He goes ahead to point out that Reading, Penna. has the distinction of being the only place where a 6 oz. glass of beer can be had for 5 cents in the whole U. S. A.

Mr. Chmelek's letter was to encourage the carrot juice plant I suggested a week or so back. And when you consider the rising cost of beer and coffee, it sounds all the better.

Around five years ago, there were six or eight people in the chinchilla business in this area. Today, however, W. A. Helton is the only one I know who is still in the business — and his barber competitors say this is due to the industry of Mrs. Helton, rather than Bill. Anyway, the Heltons have a real nice

If you are one of those folks who is still waiting for the return of "nickel" coffee, you had probably better alter your plans. A recent survey showed only 4 per cent of the U. S. restaurants still serve nickel coffee, while eight years ago 55 per cent of the eateries served a 5-cent cup. Today, 83 per cent charge 10 cents; others vary from 5 cents, 7 cents and 12 cents up to 25 cents in a few remote spots.

Joseph F. Chmelek, who owns some land out here, writes from Winter Haven, Fla., to report that he has been up in the Pennsylvania Dutch Country, where they are having the same trouble — only different.

"What the folks want up in that country," reports Mr. Chmelek, "is nickel beer."

Hereford Visited By Ford Group

The Ford Home Demonstration Club met Wednesday in the community room of the First National Bank.

Newly elected club officers are Mrs. Bill Gililand, president; Mrs. L. J. Straffus, vice president; Mrs. Leroy Williamson, secretary - treasurer; Mrs. S. T. Wiseman, reporter; Mrs. Hardy Benson, council delegate; and Mrs. Dwaine Walker, alternate council delegate.

After the business meeting, the group toured the First National Bank building, the telephone office, the Deaf Smith County Jail, and the Vahising Packing Plant.

Attending the meeting were Mesdames Hardy Benson, Bill Gililand, Leroy Williamson, Wills Williamson, L. J. Straffus, J. L. Fite and S. T. Wiseman. The next meeting on "Man Made Fibers and Synthetics" will be held Oct. 15 in the home of Mrs. Bill Gililand.

"herd", or whatever you call them, and know a lot more about Chincillas than they used to know.

Someone was asking the other day why the "pink" fad — shirts, pants, hats, etc. — went out of style after such a short run. And, for once, I knew the answer. I used to think that pink was a warm, friendly, congenial color until they started using it for tax notices. Every time I saw one of those pink shirts, it reminded me of my unpaid taxes — and it probably affected everyone else the same way. That, my friends, is why the fad was of such short duration. And, if you don't know what I mean, you probably haven't been to the post office in the past few days.

"It's a miserable feeling," says Josephine, "to have on your sittin' down shoes and your standin' up girdle."

Just to show you how the Hereford boys were battling Friday night, Olton caught two consecutive forward passes — and lost four yards on the two plays. The Hereford defense was really in their scrapping. The wise guys tell me that we also have a good chance to topple off the El Paso team. The rest of our schedule is pretty tough, but our boys are improving right along. You can see the effects of hard work and good coaching sticking out on them in every game.

"It's OK, lady," the little one replied, "I've got the measles."

Bees Tumble Canyon, 12-6; Herd Frosh Take 30-12 Win

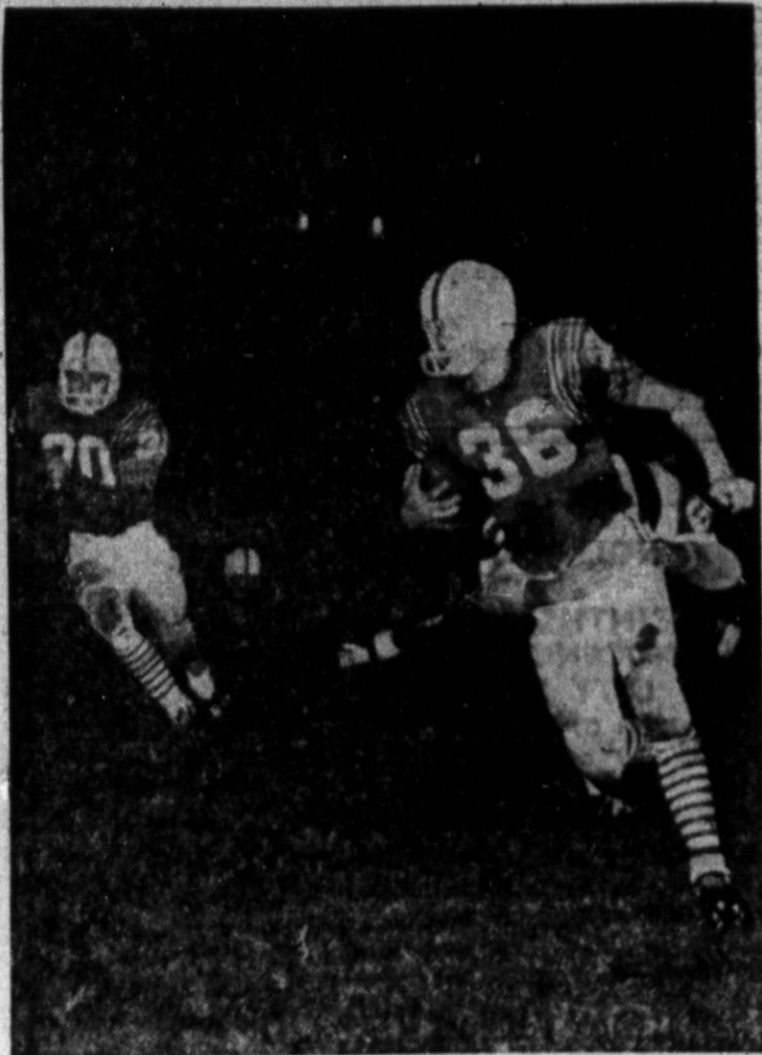

By RICHARD LEGGITT After a shaky first quarter, the Hereford High "B" team showed a strong determination in defeating the Canyon Bees 12 to 6 at Whiteface Field Thursday night.

Canyon needed just four plays from scrimmage to tally their single touchdown. The short drive was climaxed by a 25-yard scamper by a speedy halfback for the six-pointer. The try for extra points failed.

Held in check by the weight advantage of the big Canyon Bees, it was near the end of the second quarter before the Hereford Bees began to move. They talked on a keeper run by quarterback Walker Paris. Attempt for two extra points was no good and the half ended in a 6-6 tie.

Hereford Bees came back strong after the rest, showing an improved defense and a more potent offense. Halfback Clyde Whitaker provided the final margin when he blasted over from the five. Again the extra points try was no good. From then on, it was a matter of defenses.

The Hereford bees now have a 1-1 record

STOPPED on Hereford's 25 yard line with 5:10 minutes left in the last quarter Friday night was Arno Hall (36), senior Olton fullback. He was brought down by Whiteface guard Pete Plank. Leading interference for Hall is Coy Carlisle (30). The Mustangs lost, 8-6. (Staff Photo).

Nitrogen Helps Oat Pastures

The application of nitrogen fertilizer at seeding time in the fall will increase the grazing value of small grains and step up their forage production during the fall and winter months. Too, says W. F. Bennett, extension soil chemist, the quality of their forage will be improved.

Nitrogen needs will vary, points out the chemist. Some soils will require no additional nitrogen while others will need from 20 to 40 pounds an acre.

Phosphorus is another plant food that often is needed by fall sown small grain. The amount may vary from none to 40 pounds an acre. On sandy, light textured soils, potash also may be needed, says Bennett.

If fall-seeded small grains are to be used for grain production and not grazed, Bennett says nitrogen should not be applied at seeding time in the areas north of Waco because of the possibility of winter killing. An early spring application of nitrogen is recommended for these areas.

In order to determine the exact fertilizer needs for a particular field, Bennett recommends soil testing. Complete details on how to take soil samples and prepare them for mailing to a soil testing laboratory may be obtained from local county agents, he says.

Congressional Offices Issue LAND Volume

By TEX EASLEY
Washington (AP)—Congressional offices have been busy the past few days mailing out the 1958 Agriculture Department year book—an attractive 506-page illustrated volume entitled LAND.

The book deals with the history and development of the good earth in this country since colonial times, including means by which the United States acquired each territory and area. It devotes considerable space to Texas alone.

The works of dozens of government specialists and cooperating universities, the volume points out in words and pictures the damage done by careless exploitation of farm and timber lands. It suggests programs through which society may reap the maximum benefit of the land.

which deals especially with the Lone Star state:
"Secretary of State Marvyn Van Buren in 1829 instructed the United States Minister to Mexico to offer to buy the part of Texas east of the Nueces River. Mexico refused. The Republic of Texas was proclaimed in 1836 and was recognized by the United States in 1845.
"Admission of Texas to the United States was soon urged. It became a political issue. A joint resolution for annexation was adopted by the Congress and was signed by President John Tyler in 1845.

"The State of Texas succeeded to the ownership of all lands of the former Republic east of the Rio Grande that were included in a region bounded on the east by the Spanish-American boundary as established under the Florida treaty of 1819.

(Here a page map shows how the original 13 colonies expanded with purchase of the Louisiana Territory in 1803, and by other means, including cession of the southwestern part of the nation by the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo in 1848. The map shows how the admission of Texas into the Union brought in a vast area in addition to the land which comprised Texas' present boundaries. This additional portion included half of New Mexico and parts of Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado and Wyoming.)

"By the act of Sept. 9, 1850, the United States proposed the purchase from the State of Texas of its claim to lands north of latitude 36 degrees and west of the 103rd meridian. The State accepted and the purchased property became public domain of the United States.
"The lands added by this purchase consisted of 78,926,720 acres of land and water surface, costing $15,496,448, or approximately 20 cents an acre.
"Except for the lands in the Thirteen Original Colonies and what is now the State of Texas, almost all land in the United States has been in Federal ownership at some time."

Each year the Agriculture Department's year book is devoted to some particular subject, such as climate, livestock or timber resource. Each congressman gets 200 free volumes and sends them out to farm leaders, schools or various interested individuals in his district. Anyone may purchase a book at the Government Printing Office here for $2.25.

Central Texas Congressman W. R. (Bob) Poage of Waco stopped here briefly en route to South Africa as chairman of a House Agriculture subcommittee specializing in foreign farm production.
"The United States is directly affected by the agricultural economy of other lands," he commented.

"We have surpluses of cotton which we must dispose of abroad, for example. If a particular country greatly expands its production of cotton, it may take away some of our market. We are vitally interested."
"South Africa has become a tremendous factor in the agriculture picture in the past few years. Rhodesia has become one of the biggest tobacco producers in the world. Mohair is an increasingly important export commodity from the Union of South Africa."

The American Automobile Assn. asked state highway patrolmen over the nation to submit traffic safety slogans for use during holidays. Among the better ones the AAA received and made public were these from Texans:
Lieut. C. H. Cheshire, Dallas: "An accident-free holiday can be assured IF every driver will operate only mechanically safe vehicles, obey the traffic laws, extend courtesy and drive defensively."
R. V. Goodrum, Corpus Christi: "Courtesy is a key factor. It is absolutely necessary that

Most Changes Are Ol' Ordinary Ones

IT'S: HER POINT OF VIEW

By BETTY BABIONE

Last time I left town for an appreciable length of time all sorts of exciting things happened in my absence.

Two neighbor families moved away and two new ones moved in. The wind blew the roof off Johnsons' garage. Two of my friends divorced their husbands. Three had babies. The downtown business area grew by way of three new commercial endings. They started tearing up the old Highway 51 and pulling out the beloved old trees along the way. The school administration changed hands. And the old Bull Barn burned down. Oh yes, it seems as if there was a fire at one of the elevators, too.

Usually when I'm away from Hereford (and it grows more dear with each trip away and I become even more of a firm believer that there's no place like home), well, back to the subject: usually when I'm away it isn't for a long enough time for very many extraordinary occurrences to take place. But the tenor of my most recent absence was long enough. At least it seemed so to me. So, judging from past experience, I expected more drastic — or at least, more interesting, things to have come to pass.

Honestly though. Despite the fact that it helps things get a bit dull in the news-and-views department, I'm really gratified to find that most everything rocked along at a normal pace and changes have been plain, ole ordinary ones. (Hey if anyone knows sompthin' I've missed out on, please clue me in!).

AND BEFORE Leo Forrest and the others out at the REA begin to think that I don't read the papers, I'll hasten to add that one big exception to the placid scene was the damaging and near-tragic explosion at the REA building. To be sure, that furnished enough excitement — particularly to those present at the time, to last a good long while.

Another item of note which I feel prone to mention — this one not so dramatic but no less interesting: the past couple of weeks in time, and more than that in energy on somebody's part, have produced the birth of a new organization in town. Not only new, different!

The organization is the Cotillion. And it is divided into two groups, Senior Cotillion and Junior Cotillion.

Its aim is to help young people, ages 12 through 15, who are desirous of learning and enjoying ballroom dancing. And its purpose is to provide supervised ballroom dancing and dance instruction, under ideal conditions and in an ideal environment, for boys and girls in the seventh and eighth (Junior) and ninth and tenth grades (Senior).

Neal Hess, who teaches at Stephen F. Austin Junior High in Amarillo and who is well-known in the Amarillo area for his successful work with young people, will instruct the classes and will assist with his wife, in the supervision of the dancing in general.

OTHER SUPERVISORS will be from a list of 32 parents who have already accepted the responsibilities of sponsoring the organization, and probably quite a few more who will sign up as sponsors after the program gets under way.

Registration for the Cotillion membership was Saturday evening, Oct. 4, at the Veterans' Club House, with regular meetings of the groups scheduled twice monthly at the Club House.

Adult officers in the organization are, for the Senior group, Mrs. Troy Moore, chairman; Mrs. Richard Jowell, secretary; and Mrs. Earnest Langley, treasurer. For the Junior Cotillion, Mrs. Jay Boston, chairman; Mrs. Tom Robinson, secretary; and Mrs. Walter Seed, treasurer.

He thinks these people have a "going" thing with this idea, and there should be lots of interest in it. The next step should be something on the same order which would appeal to, and include, boys and girls in the 9th and 10th grades.

HEARD OF ANOTHER rather unusual teenage birthday party. This being the recent one given by Leone and Wayne Edwards to help son Larry celebrate his 17th year. Six young couples of guests, innumerable hamburgers and french fries, and immeasurable vitality and enthusiasm went into the making of a memorable occasion for all who had part in it — but especially for Larry, Leone and Wayne.

That reminds me. Happy birthday today, George Jones! Your view of the occasion may not be quite the exuberant one it was for young Larry E., but everyone deserves to be extra cheerful on his birthday, so look at it this way, George: you're a whole year younger than you'll be this time next year!

Well, I gotta run down and

Former Resident In Clovis Little Theatre Plays

Mrs. Leslie Bailey, the former Miss Thelma Shelton of Hereford, now serving as president of the Clovis Community Theatre, will appear in the little theatre groups current production, "Only an Orphan Girl", when the old-time melodrama takes to the road for two out-of-town performances.

The play will be presented in San Jon, N. M., and in Grady. Also in the cast will be Mrs. Bailey's son, Mike, who plays the part of her son, young Dick Perkins.

Mrs. Bailey is a graduate of Hereford High School and is now residing in Clovis with her husband and two children. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Shelton.

Club Schedules Rummage Sale

A rummage sale was planned at the meeting of the Child Study Club held in the home of Mrs. Tommy Braddy Thursday evening. The rummage sale will be held Oct. 24, and the place will be announced later.

In keeping with yearbook plans for the year calling for game activity at each meeting, members learned to twirl hula-hoops, with the prize for the best performance going to Mrs. Don Steele.

The program on "Teen-Age Entertainment" was presented by Mrs. Maurice Tannahill, who described games suitable for teen-agers and named books that can be had on the subject. She discussed briefly the needs of young people and concluded by a discussion of the proposed youth center. Members completed the program with a round table discussion on how they could help and what they would like to see in the youth center.

Those attending the meeting were Morris Easley, Frank Farmer, Earl Huckabee, Merlin Kaul, Marvin Knox, Gordon Solomon, George Springer, Don Steele, Art Stoy, Maurice Tannahill, J. W. Witherspoon and the hostess.

DeLozier-Payne Wedding Vows Repeated In Seminole Ceremony

Miss LaRae Payne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil N. Payne of Seagraves, and Willie Lance DeLozier, son of Mr. and Mrs. George DeLozier of Summerfield, exchanged wedding vows in a formal ceremony held in the First Baptist Church of Seminole Saturday evening at 8 p.m.

The Rev. Hubert D. Christian read the double-ring ceremony as the couple and their attendants stood before the altar, which was banked with baskets of white chrysanthemums and sprays of palm leaves. Wedding tapers burned in flanking candelabra.

Miss Shirley Earl of Seminole, organist, and Gene Streun of Summerfield provided the wedding music. Streun sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer".

Mrs. Dillah Tupin of Seagraves, cousin of the bride, was matron-of-honor, and Miss Allie Mae Keel of Seminole served as bridesmaid. They wore blue crystalline taffeta dresses, fashioned with fitted bodices with scoop necklines, and bouffant skirts attached to the bodices by cummerbunds. They carried lace fans topped with white chrysanthemums.

Lee DeLozier of Lubbock was his brother's best man, and Wayne DeLozier, also of Lubbock, served his brother as groomsmen. Ushers were Barnett Corday and Pete Wright of Seminole.

The bride, escorted and given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of white satin and chantilly lace fashioned with pointed lace bodice designed with low neckline and long petal point sleeves. The bouffant skirt of tulle was accented with wide bands of lace and fell into a graceful chapel train in the back.

Her fingertip veil of illusion was caught to a bandeau of lace and satin, and she carried a white orchid cascaded with white chrysanthemums.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Seminole Community building. The three-tiered bridal cake and punch were served from a table laid with a white lace cloth.

Refreshments, bought by the guests, were served and the guests were shown the new home. A large silver tray was presented by the group to the honored couple.

Making up the group were Messrs. and Mesdames Joel Hodges, Lee Benefield, Leroy Aven, Lee Kent, Norman Gray, Earnest Langley, Kenneth Coker, J. R. Allison, Robert Veigel, Orpha Click, Bert Boomer, Dr. and Mrs. A. T. Mims, Dr. and Mrs. M. W. Nobles, and Dr. and Mrs. L. B. Barnett.

Jacqueline Lisenbe, Robert Crozier Are Wed In Church Of Christ Rites

The marriage of Jacqueline Wright Lisenbe and Robert Harrell Crozier was solemnized at 6 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 27, in Central Church of Christ by Russell Ingalls, minister.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. (Jack) Wright, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Crozier of San Antonio.

Appropriate decorations marked the church, with the background for the ceremony formed of center candelabra, entwined with greenery, holding lighted tapers flanked by tall baskets of mauve-pink gladioli.

Wedding music was provided by the wedding choir, which sang the traditional wedding marches and nuptial selections, "Through the Years" and "Walk Hand in Hand".

The bride's only attendant was Hilda Havens, who wore a pastel-blue brocaded sheath, short sleeves with matching hat and shoes. She carried a nosegay of pink rosebuds.

Walton Crozier of San Antonio served his brother as best man. Ushers were Al Lee and Herb Bruns.

The bride chose a gown of mauve pink Chantilly lace over taffeta. The square-necked fitted bodice and the straight street-length skirt was fashioned of rows of lace with scallops of the lace enhancing the neck and sleeves. A band of matching satin at the waistline was caught at the side with a matching satin rose. Her small satin hat and shoes matched the dress in color, and she carried a lace-covered Bible, topped with a ribboned corsage of pink sweetheart rosebuds. Her "something borrowed" was a pearl necklace belonging to a friend, and the traditional custom of "wearing something old" was carried out with her maternal grandmother's silk handkerchief.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents for out-of-town guests and members of the wedding party.

Assisting with the hospitalities were Mrs. Ulys Davis of Dimmitt and Mrs. E. F. Harman of Lubbock, aunts of the bride, and Mrs. Al Lee and Mrs. Leon Atchley.

Cindy Wilson and Deborah Lee secured names in the bride's book.

When the couple left for a wedding trip to points in New Mexico and San Antonio, the bride wore a powder-blue woolen suit, with black accessories and the corsage of rosebuds de-

County Federation Women's Clubs Set 1958-59 Program

Organization of Deaf Smith County Federation of Women's Clubs' departments for the 1958-59 season has been completed, Mrs. M. T. Rutter president, stated Wednesday.

The first business meeting of the new board was held recently when program outlines for the coming season were submitted and adopted.

in vital issues of the day," Mrs. Rutter said in her announcement of plans for the coming year's activities.

Schedule for the coming year will be:

Red Fish Bay Is Flexing Muscles

By ED OVERHOLSTER
Port Mansfield, (S) — Down here where this tiny South Texas port hooks into Laguna Madre, folks claim if you can sight a sea gull you can catch fish. And their boast isn't a fisherman's fable.

The pint-sized harbor is just beginning to flex its muscles, and its citizens believe one day soon it will rival any fishing spot on the Texas coast.

They also think big business in water transportation is near at hand if improvement of the pass into the Gulf of Mexico gets a final blessing from the federal government.

Last October, a 2½ million dollar initial pass was completed solely with local funds poured into the Willacy County Navigation District.

The gull, a symbol of hope to ancient mariners, served as a diving rod for trout fishermen in the wide Red Fish Bay. Spotting a swarm of gulls dipping into the water is an angler's assurance of sacking a full stringer.

Catches of more than 100 speckled trout a day are not unusual, particularly if the fisherman is up and at 'em early when the bay waters are still quiet.

Air-conditioned accommodations, cafes, piers, boat docks and an 80 x 3,200 foot air strip for light planes already are among the facilities available. Barges are constantly at work up and down Laguna Madre from Port Isabel to Corpus Christi.

But what the people here yearn for is a permanent, navigable pass into the Gulf. A recommendation for federal maintenance and deepening of the port and channel has been approved by the Rivers and Harbors Board in Washington, the chief of the U. S. Corps of Engineers, the Texas Board of Water Engineers and the governor. Congress has not yet voted funds for the project, however.

Shortly after the channel was completed a year ago, a hurricane ripped in and destroyed the jetties protecting the pass. Sand has partially silted the channel. The cut originally was 12 feet deep with a width of 250 feet at the top and 100 feet at the bottom.

The state Highway Commission has been asked to push plans for a highway down pencil-sharp Padre Island which separates Laguna Madre from the Gulf and to construct a causeway over the eight miles to Port Mansfield. Recently the State Parks Board announced a park will be established along 20 acres of waterfront on the north side of the port. Next year the board will recommend an outlay of $10,000 with other improvements to be made year to year.

"We just want the people of Texas to look our way once and we know that Red Fish Bay is going to take its place among the more fabulous Texas fishing spots," said Lee Harris, harbor-master.

He Carries Scooter; Scooter Carries Him

Corpus Christi, (S) — If Frank Whaley runs out of gas he simply folds his vehicle into a 54-pound package and walks to the nearest service station.

That doesn't happen often because he gets 100 miles to a gallon. Of course he doesn't ever take on a full gallon. The tank on his midget scooter holds only a quart.

Whaley is a Corpus Christi school teacher, a color photographer, a tennis coach, a former Texas High School tennis champion, and a man who attracts a lot of attention in South Texas.

He flies a four-seat Bellanca airplane over much of South Texas taking color pictures. He has a contract to supply the photos for advertising post cards, business cards, match covers and similar purposes.

After landing at an airport he simply unfolds his scooter, swings his photography gear on his shoulder, and takes off on the highways and streets.

"I always travel, facing the traffic so I can head for the ditch quickly," he explains. "Motorists don't expect to see anyone riding along so close to the ground."

His Argyle Cub Scooter is made by a Missouri firm, has a top speed of 35 miles an hour, weighs 54 pounds, and measures 15 x 19 x 24 inches when folded. It has a 2½ horsepower engine.

Whaley teaches business arithmetic, commercial geography, typing and tennis at Ray High School in Corpus Christi. He was on the team that won the state high school doubles title in 1939, 1940 and 1941. Winning the trophy three consecutive years permanently retires the trophy. It was the first time since 1917 it had been accomplished.

Whaley got his Master of Business Administration Degree from the University of Texas in 1953. His thesis was on advertising photography for the small businessman, with emphasis on color. Now he travels the byways putting his studies into practice.

A big 175-pounder with a burned complexion but blond hair, Whaley travels in slacks, sports shirt and a baseball cap.

People are always trying to buy his scooter and youngsters especially crowd around it.

"Do you, a grown man ride that thing?" they ask. "Where did you get it? Did you make it?"

Whaley, who didn't study business administration for nothing, recently dropped a letter to the Missouri firm which makes the scooter.

Now he's got the franchise for the scooter, too.

Fall Brings Colds To Community Residents

By MRS. R. L. PINNELL

Fall seems to have definitely arrived here, with geese traveling south, cold nights and lots of colds being suffered by many people in this community. Rain fell Tuesday and Friday nights, and seem to have given this area a boost.

Mrs. Dola Hawn celebrated her 80th birthday Saturday, Sept. 27. A birthday cake was baked for her by Mrs. Earl Brown, and many friends sent cards or dropped by to visit. Mrs. Hawn is the widow of Dr. C. E. Hawn, a pioneer of Oldham County.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Chapman of Arlington are visiting friends in Adrian this week. They, accompanied by the Ed Jacobsons, visited in the Cord Hanemock home in Friona and the Bill Hampton home in Hereford on Monday. The Chapmans lived many years in Adrian and still have business interests here.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Speed returned home Saturday from Roswell, N. M., where they visited with his mother, Mrs. W. L. Speed.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Leslie and Pegi returned from a 29-day, 8,000 mile vacation trip in the northwest Pacific country Thursday night. They traveled first to Pamona, Calif., where they visited with relatives. Mr. Leslie's sister, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Love, joined them at San Francisco. They then took the Oregon — Washington coastal route through the Redwood forest to Seattle, rode the boat to Vancouver, B. C., and stopped off at Banff, Alberta, in Canada to the "vacation spot for Canadians". The Country has been made into a game reserve and is a national park.

The group visited Lake Louise and the Jasper ice fields, of which there are 250 square miles and the glaciers. In places, the ice is reported to be 85 feet deep. They watched skiing in Calgary and the surrounding area.

The return trip was by way of Montana and Salt Lake City, where they attended a musical recital in the Masonic Temple. Mrs. Leslie reports this to probably be the outstanding highlight of her trip. They saw Reno as a spectator "mostly", she reports.

Mrs. Nell Morgan visited in the home of her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Estes, the past weekend. While there the family visited a brother-in-law, Claude Morris of Vega, who is ill in Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Perry of Gage, Okla., are visiting their sons, Ralph and Fred, and granddaughter, Mrs. W. B. Betts, this week. Mrs. Ralph Perry and Mrs. Betts went to Childress Tuesday where the elder Perrys had been visiting a daughter.

It has been announced that plans should be made now to join the newly organized Lions Club.

Bessie Spande and her family last week were Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Spande of Mabel, Minn. The couple celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary and then at Adrian School. Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brown spent the weekend at Albuquerque, N. M. The Floyd Browns were visiting their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Don Brown. ### Hereford's Growth Is Recorded In A Healthy, Normal Pattern

About this time every year, the people of this community suddenly realize that Hereford is still growing. The year 1958, although lagging behind 1957, has been no exception.

Shortly after World War II, Hereford's growth started in the residential area. The situation was due in a large measure to the fact that people could find no place to live. During the past three years, however, the growth factor has shifted into the business section of the community and has resulted in dozens of new commercial buildings.

Once again, the housing situation is becoming acute. Today rental property is as "scarce as hen's teeth" and about the only way one can get a house in Hereford is to either buy or build. As a result, much residential construction is already in progress—and the number of homes under construction is bound to increase during the next 12 months.

Public buildings, generally speaking, have been confined to the schools. School expansion has been enormous. Water facilities, sewerage and similar projects have, of course, been required to keep pace with the consistent growth.

Looking back on Hereford's growth, we would say that it has been healthy and normal. Some towns in past years have faced the ill of having "over-built"—and the result is near disastrous. Still others have recorded "booms" in which building skyrocketed to a peak, then tapered off sharply—and the result is near disastrous. These things, needless to say, exert a tremendous effect upon the people and the community, chiefly because they actually reflect the financial economy of the area in question.

Hereford officials have from time to time checked and investigated federal housing projects, but have usually passed them up. Whether a project of this type would help is controversial, and some leaders believe that its lack contributes to the general, practical manner in which this community has progressed. Others feel that it would relieve seasonal "pinches" in housing, thus making the community a still better place to live.

Meanwhile, Hereford's continued, consistent growth indicates that those who chose to make their homes here were wise indeed. Growth of the community is above the average growth of the nation, a fact which indicates that additional expansion in all lines can be expected in the years to come. Under 2,500 in 1940, the population of Hereford jumped to 5,200 in 1950, and is today estimated at 8,500. Little doubt is held but that it will, by 1960, once again double the 1950 figure, jumping into a bracket above 10,000.

When I Got Up To Say A Word

Installation of new officers in the Hereford Toastmasters Club this week marks the beginning of approximately 10 years of service to the community by the organization.

Since Toastmasters frankly state that their organization differs from service clubs in that it is designed to benefit the individual, rather than the community, our opening paragraph may sound paradoxical. When you analyze the results of the Toastmasters Club in Hereford, however, we believe that you are bound to agree that our community does benefit.

Today many people express themselves forcefully and effectively in meetings, whereas 10 years ago their thoughts and ideas would have gone unheard. This has happened in civic club meetings, Chamber of Commerce meetings, PTA meetings and scores of other places. Furthermore, a portion of those ideas have been valuable, some have been adopted, and a few have made our community a better place to live. Toastmasters, in addition, has provided a meeting place for many people who are not active in other fields. It has broadened personalities, resulted in better husbands, wives and neighbors.

All of this pretty well fits in with the Toastmaster idea of benefitting the individual for, as the individual improves, so will the community in which he lives, along with the state and nation. The idea is the basis for our program of public education, so important in a democratic form of government.

Toastmasters, The Brand feels, has contributed much to our community. We hope the organization will be just as active and just as beneficial when another decade has passed.

What A Contrast

The whole idea of communism, the communist leaders say, is to serve and benefit the masses of the people and make their lives fuller and happier. The whole idea of capitalism, these same communist leaders say, is to permit exploitation and oppression of the masses by a rich and powerful law.

An interesting sidelight on these ancient arguments is found in a chart issued by the National Industrial Conference Board. It shows the working time typical workers must put in to buy commodities in New York as against Moscow. It is revealing.

The New York worker earns enough money in half an hour to buy a pair of nylons for his wife—it takes the Moscow worker 7.2 hours. The New York worker can earn a pair of shoes in just under 5 hours—in Moscow almost 50 hours are necessary. A suit costs the New York worker 3.3 days of working time—in Moscow the figure is a staggering 36.7 days, more than a solid month.

The same is true of food. A pound of sugar costs the American 3.1 minutes—the Russian worker 65.6 minutes. A pound of beef is earned in 22.1 minutes here, as against 91 minutes in the Soviet wonderland. The figures for a pound of butter are 21.9 minutes and 193 minutes respectively. So it goes, down the list.

It would be well for us to remember this enormous contrast. And a good time to reflect on it is when we go shopping. For our retail stores are the show windows of the American system of making and distributing things on a competitive, not a state-controlled price basis.—Littlefield Leader.

W. A. Hunter Says He Was Kidnapped By Wife

By MRS. R. L. CRISWELL
Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hunter of 108 W. 5th St. have been married for 35 years. They were married Dec. 6, 1893, in a home wedding, with a Presbyterian minister reading the ceremony. This was almost 66 years ago.

They came to Texas in a covered wagon in 1896 and settled near Hillsboro, in Hill County. They then moved to Childress County, and over the years to a number of other places, ending in Deaf Smith County in 1923.

"I got stuck more than one time on Main St.," said Mr. Hunter. "I was very glad when the streets were paved. If I remember right, there were only 38 houses in Hereford at that time. I do not remember how many business houses there were."

"I farmed in this county for a number of years and also bought and sold cattle. The Plains is a nice place to live, even though we have had some very severe winters and dust storms which have taken their toll of crops, livestock, and in some instances the lives of people."

"I'll never forget the trouble I had getting a marriage license. The clerk knew me and also knew that my parents and guardian had all passed on to the other side. He told me it was a penitentiary offense if I told a lie about my age, and that I could be sent up for three to five years."

"My future wife's uncle told him he had known me all my life, and that I was 21. I was really only 20. I have served my time (as a married man) but not in the penitentiary."

"You know something? I'll never marry another woman older than I am. Why? I am 85 years old—I think of it. Why I just would not want to marry a woman so near 90," he chuckled.

"We were both born in Sharp County, Ark.," said Mrs. Hunter. "When we left for Texas, all the neighbors came to see us off and thought we were very brave, going to the wilds of Texas. The trip was a lot of fun and there was nothing unusual about it—just the usual amount of work and the long hours of riding in the wagon. We really enjoyed it, as the country was all new to us and we were seeing something new every day."

"We were in somewhat of a hurry to get here, but it took us twenty days and we were glad to stop and rest a while when we got to the farm in Hill County."

"Our life has been very ordinary. We reared nine children, eight boys and one girl. They kept us busy, but never overcame Mr. Hunter's sense of humor. He has always been a great tease.

"His favorite joke on me is that I kidnapped and married him before he became of age. He has told it more times than I can remember, but it always embarrasses me. If I did kidnap him, he was a very willing captive. He got my uncle to say he was 21 to get the marriage license."

"My wedding dress was of lavender cashmere, trimmed with a darker lavender silk. It had muttonleg sleeves, a silk—paneled blouse with a gored skirt, fitted at the waist flared at the hem and was full length. I thought it was the most beautiful dress I had ever owned. My sister, who was a very good seamstress, made it for me for such an important occasion as my wedding. I really appreciated her work."

"Sixty-five years is a long time, and we have had our ups and downs. But life has never been dull. The children were my chief hobby, and keeping them clean and well-dressed was a full-time job."

"Now I just keep house and putter around with a few houseplants. I celebrated my 86th birthday Sept. 22, and I got 45 or more birthday cards and many gifts, for which I am very appreciative," she concluded.

National Survey Shows Hereford Growing Faster Than Most Cities

NEW YORK — Hereford's population growth to date has been a dramatic one.

In 1946 it was a community of 675 households. By 1950, when the last census was taken it had expanded to 1,359 households. Last year, according to unofficial estimates, it reached a total of 1,800, an increase of 441 household units since the 1950 count.

Most of this increase has been due to natural population gains—the excess of births over deaths. Local families have become larger in size as well as in number, with the proportion of second children nearly a third greater than in 1940. There are also a larger proportion of third and fourth births than there were before.

Nationally, reports the Census Bureau, women of child-bearing age bore 22 per cent more children last year, on the average, than did women of the same age range in 1950.

These have been the basic factors in determining the size of the population. Next in importance has been the reduction in the death rate, principally due to great progress made in cutting down infant mortality and the hazards of children's diseases.

In Hereford, the growth in the number of households since the last census amounted to 32.4 per cent.

This was a bigger gain than was achieved in most parts of the United States, where it averaged 17.5 per cent. The West South Central States rise was 13.3 per cent.

Allowing for an increase in the next few years of the same proportion as that just experienced, the local population will reach 2,385 households by 1965.

Growth of this sort brings with it a variety of municipal and county headaches, such as the need for more schools, roads, police, water and sewers.

But with it, also, come good things. Because it calls for an enormous increase in demand for all kinds of goods and services, business and industry must expand to meet it. New factories and houses must be built. More retail stores must be set up to provide the mushrooming population with the necessities and the luxuries of modern living.

Planes, official publication of the Aircraft Industries Assn., says a ceramic has been developed that will maintain its properties in 5,000 degree heat. Called Galceram, its strength persists through both rapid and gradual temperature changes.

CONVERSION BY WATER
EDGE HILL, Va. — The Rev. Max A. Greene of Hanover Baptist Church asked a prospect for his church if he thought it would be easier for him to come to church than for the minister to swim the Potomac River. When the prospect answered "I guess so," the minister swam the 3.8 mile round trip.

"I hope he will come to church," the minister said.

BONUS
CORDELL, Okla. — Tom Scoggin got more than lumber when he tore down an old house. Inside one wall he found an old large size $20 bill.

CASH ROLL
SAN DIEGO, Calif. — A civil damage suit in Superior Court was titled, as customary, by names of the litigants: Cash vs. Roll.

CROOKED TYPE
HAZARD, Ky. — Report of a burglary at the police station was written by Police Chief Bob Heath in long-hand.

The burglar stole the typewriter.

GENTLE HINT
MARCH, England. — The council of this Cambridgeshire community plans to use publicity to make tenants of municipally-owned houses pay their rent promptly. A list of defaulters will be posted outside the town hall at regular intervals.

WRONG COLOR
PHOENIX, Ariz. — Ted Wong was fined $25 because the meat he sold in his Phoenix market always looked nice and red.

Wong pleaded guilty in city court to sprinkling the meat with sulphite.

FROM THE FILES
ANADARKO, Okla. — The School Board says it did a "beer case worth of business last year." The board's secretary was hunting a place to put old records and found they fit just right in an empty beer case.

CIVIL DEFENSE CALL
WASHINGTON, D. C. — It's a Christian duty to take an active role in civil defense, says the Rev. Dr. H. Conrad Hoyer, head of the National Lutheran Council's division of American missions.

"Religion," he adds, "is of primary concern in event of disaster."

DEDICATION PLANNED
NASHVILLE, Tenn. — A new million-dollar building to house the Disciples of Christ Historical Society will be dedicated here next fall.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Split Opinion Given On Federal Education Aid

Do you favor federal aid to education? If so, to what extent?

MRS. J. K. BAKER—I really think that my opinion is that it is going to take too much initiative from the individual—for the simple reason that being given too much help effort. This giving so much would cause the individual to expect too much. I think it is a better practice to work a little for something you want. I feel that many people would take advantage of the federal aid who are really not interested in a college education as a means of furthering a career.

SPICER GRIPP—Yes, I favor federal aid to education. MRS. J. M. DAWSON—Well, yes. I would think that it would help more people and be better for most people in general.

BOB BENTON—Yes, I think it is all right. I favor it more for the colleges than anything else. I think there should be more scholarships for higher scholastics and students working for professional degrees.

MRS. J. D. BURGESS—Well, yes. I favor it. I think it would be a good idea. I think education needs all the help it can get.

LARRY PASCHEL—Yes, I think they ought to aid them; but I think the local organizations should still be able to control most operations in the educational field.

MRS. HOWARD M. ALLEN—No. I believe in the state being in charge of education—kind of a states' rights question again.

E. D. COOK—Yes, I am definitely in favor of federal aid. Education is the basis of all civilizations and we must, for the sake of our civilization, keep the level of education on a high plane. In fact, education is becoming more and more important in our every-day life and something as important and necessary to us as education should, and must be supported in every way. It has reached the point where it isn't a privilege to go to college, but almost a necessity.

Panhandle Paragraphs

ADULT CLASSES SET UP

So great has been adult interest in a bookkeeping and accounting course here that two complete classes have been organized by the Adult Education Committee of the Dumas Chamber of Commerce. A total of 43 adults already have signed up for the course, which will run for 18 weeks on a compact class schedule. One class will be held on Tuesday evening, the other will meet on Thursday evening. Both class periods will run from 7 to 9:30 p.m., and will meet in the Dumas High School Cafeteria. One instructor will be Carl Sharp. The other is yet unknown; however, both will be from West Texas State College. Cost of the course is $30.—MOORE COUNTY NEWS (Dumas)

PAVING NEARS FINISH

Ten blocks had been topped last Monday night when a shower brought the city paving project to a temporary standstill. Blocks completed were on Railroad Ave. in West Tulsa and several blocks north of North 5th. The overall project will give Tulsa 87 blocks of new curbing, gutter and pavement, plus all the streets in Highland Park except Norfleet Drive and Houston Road, 15 blocks of seal coating on existing curb to curb paving, and the centers of four blocks on West Broadway. About 10 days will be required to complete the topping.—THE TULSA HERALD

LETTUCE CROP GOOD

Harvest began this week on one of the best lettuce crops grown in this area, according to vegetable men. Two car loads were cut Monday from the Trautmann Bros. field on the Leslie Ferguson farm, five miles north of Lockney. The rain Monday night stopped the harvest, but some 50 workers were in the field again Wednesday morning and harvest was in full swing. Bill Young and Boyd Marfin, field foremen for Trautmann, estimated that they were cutting 250 crates per acre and getting about half the crop. They said that probably two cuttings would clean the field. They estimated a yield of some 500 to 600 crates per acre when harvest is completed. They said that harvesting of the 100 acres on the Ferguson farm would require about three weeks. The men said that the Lockney lettuce was excellent in quality, "better than anything we have seen at Hereford this year." The Trautmann Bros. lettuce is trucked to Hereford, where it is cooled and packed.—THE LOCKNEY BEACON

ASC COMMITTEE IS NAMED

The Castro County ASC Committee was elected Wednesday morning at a meeting in the office in the Courthouse. The Committee will remain with the same members of last year although Jim Elder was made a regular member instead of chairman and his old post was taken over by former member Clyde Hancock. Vice-chairman is Willis A. Hawkins Sr. First alternate is Vern Dust and second alternate is Owen Andrews. Those men were elected by delegates to the county convention who had been chosen in the community elections earlier this month. The new county committee takes office Oct. 1. Purpose of the county committee is to administer the rules of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in this county. They set farm acreage allotments and handle general ASC county business also.—THE CASTRO COUNTY NEWS (Dimmitt)

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bindweed farm seems a little riled up this week. He'll get over it.

Dear editor:

There are some days when I'd just as soon not have seen a newspaper.

Yesterday I was reading along fairly contentedly—some people get excited over world events but they've been going on so long I've gotten used to them—when I ran into a statement that flabbergasted me.

A famous scientist was leaning back in his chair recalling his early days and he said a school teacher was responsible for his being a scientist.

"If it hadn't been for her, why I probably would be farming now," he said, with considerable self-satisfaction, as though he'd escaped ditch-digging or the penitentiary.

As I understand this, the better the teacher you have, the less likely you are to become a farmer, and I'll admit that at first this made me mad. One of the loudest arguments I ever heard for improving the teaching profession. Then I began to ease up a little.

Maybe some farmers had rather be scientists than farmers, and maybe some teachers measure their failure by the number of their pupils who fall into farming, but I don't believe I'd be willing to swap. I haven't won any gold medals for scientific achievement, but on the other hand you can't pin the hydrogen bomb on me. I haven't sailed a submarine under the ice at the North Pole, but on the other hand I've spent some mighty comfortable times under a tree in the shade on this bindweed farm.

Every man to his own taste, and if every teacher had been as good as that scientist's teacher, and there weren't any farmers left, a lot of scientists would be getting mighty hungry.

On the other hand, I don't mind if this scientist figures he escaped a terrible fate because he had a good teacher. After all, if I'd had a different set of teachers when I was in grammar school, maybe I wouldn't be farming now. No telling what I might be doing. Might be a banker, a lawyer, a store keeper, an insurance salesman, why I might even be editing a newspaper or even teaching school. I'll tell you, a man never knows what a debt of gratitude he owes his teachers.

Yours faithfully,
A.

Soviet Fashions Have 'Tired Look'

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Beverly Deepe, 23, a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of Nebraska, has just returned from a visit to Russia as an exchange student. Here, written expressly for the Associated Press, is her report on women's fashions behind the Iron Curtain.)

By BEVERLY DEEPE
AP Newsfeatures
In Western eyes, the fashion world of the Soviet woman is just about fashionless.

It's one of shapeless dresses best described as having the "Tired Look."

One Soviet woman standing in a small group outside a puppet theatre was dressed in a blue-gray suit. The jacket had heavily padded shoulders and harsh straight lines. Essentially, it belonged in a man's wardrobe.

She wore green and white striped anklets with thick-heeled beige shoes. She wore no lipstick and no noticeable make-up, like most other Soviet women.

Next to her in the group was an elderly woman wearing a black and white voile dress reaching to the ankles and a black straw bonnet with floral trimmings.

A woman in a yellow and orange dress walked by. Despite its belted waistline, the dress appeared limp, only partly because of the rubber-tire waistline of the woman.

An evening performance of the "Swan Lake" ballet at one of Moscow's most prominent theatres brought out only two persons dressed in the style of American theater-goers. They turned out to be American tourists.

Hats, gloves and hose are seldom seen for day time wear, but black or natural bonnets and black or white mesh gloves are occasionally worn for evening events.

Moscow's large department store, G.U.M., sells hose in lavender, chartreuse, gold, black and light beige for $3.50 to $4.20 a pair but few Soviet women budget for them.

At church services in Moscow only two hats were seen. Older women wore white cotton bandannas, resembling dish towels, or headscarves of bright floral prints.

Large brown or black purses often are carried by Russian women. They also serve as shopping bags.

Some women are seen frequently wearing suits resembling those of their husbands —

'TIRED LOOK'—Russian women shoppers stride grimly down a street in Leningrad. Fashionwise, Leningrad is the most Western of the Soviet cities but the shapeless design of Russian fashions is still apparent.

immensely padded shoulders, and styleless skirts. long, double-breasted jackets. Older women often wear patterned dresses of lifeless navies, browns and dreary blacks. Hemlines reach the ankles.

In Alma-Ata in Central Asia, the traditional dress of Kazakh women resembles the original trapeze — with flared skirts dropping from yokes at the shoulderlines. In Leningrad, the most cosmopolitan and Western of the Soviet cities, women's dress more closely resembles that of the Western fashion parade.

Footwear of Soviet women is confined to three varieties — the wedge type with wide, thick heels; the higher shoes with heels much thicker than the American spikes; and the bedroom slipper type frequently seen on older women.

The modesty and simplicity of dress on the streets and boulevards is shed at Soviet beaches, where red, yellow and green bare-midriff bikini. But even so, nothing resembles visitor's eyes.

From Moscow to southern Tashkent, female sunbathers parade with bronzed shoulders, backs and legs. Men often roll the short legs of their bathing suits even higher.

The shapeless attire of the Soviet woman is complemented by her escort's doleful dress — bouffant pantlegs playing hide-and-seek with his shoes; heavily padded shoulders to add to his stockiness. Some men have taken to the sewing machine to narrow their pantlegs to Western style.

But even so, nothing resembling Ivy League suits and the Paris version of the sack dress prevails in the Soviet fashion world.

Judge Uses Both Wisdom and Wit

By CLAUDE WOLFF HAMILTON, Ohio

"Now comes the case before a grim old judge; who is kept awake by his bailiff's nudge." That's a sample of what you can expect when Judge Peter Paul Boli of Butler County gives his poetic bent free rein while handing down a decision.

The jurist lets himself go prettily often. His opinions sparkle with wit; they show a deep sympathy for the folly of man and beast, and — at times — they poke fun at Common Pleas Judge Boli.

Once, when determining a suit and counter-suit for divorce by parties to a marriage, Judge Boli had performed himself, he opened his opinion with the statement that "The question now presents itself which of the three of us is most to blame."

The 73-year-old judge's opinion in a case where a red short-horn bull allegedly broke into a neighbor farmer's herd is a classic. He humorously described events leading up to the birth of three red short-horn calves by three young black and white Holstein heifers who lived on the farm adjacent to property of the bull. Then he brought out that the defendant, the bull owner, had tried to shift fatherhood on the plaintiff's own black and white Holstein bull or another neighbor's Black Angus bull.

"It was Mr. Defendant's bad fortune," the judge concluded, "not to have tried this case before a color blind judge who couldn't see those three little red short-horn calves. . . We find that Ferdinand's little fun has hurt Mr. Plaintiff to the extent of $855 for which amount we render judgment."

Then there was a divorce case involving people named Toomb. Judge Boli wrote "his entire opinion in verse, detailing charges and counter-charges by husband and wife. The opinion ended:

"From all of which it is easy

'Body Bank' Display At Texas State Fair

A "Body Bank" — the scientific display of the human body's replaceable parts — will be publicly exhibited for the first time at the Dallas Museum of Health and Science during the 1958 State Fair of Texas, which started yesterday.

The display was assembled by the Museum staff in cooperation with the Texas Academy of Science as one of a number of exhibits which go to make up the Higher Education in Texas project of the 1958 State Fair.

Included in the exhibit will be an artificial heart-lung apparatus, which enables a surgeon to perform "open heart" surgery. The machine allows the surgeon to by-pass the heart and lungs during the time heart surgery is being performed and furnishes oxygen and blood to the body in the steady rhythm of the original heart. It will appear in the exhibit through the cooperation of the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School in Dallas.

Additional portions of the exhibit include a skin bank, an eye bank, a bone bank, a blood bank and an artery made from surgical mesh which can be transplanted to replace or repair a damaged artery.

"This is a panorama of scientific advancements — presented in colorful shadow-boxes and cut-outs, transparencies, vacuum glass vials, paneled cross-sections and cut-aways," says Dr. Arch J. McNeill, chairman of the exhibits committee for the Health and Science Museum.

Members of the Texas Academy of Science committee who cooperated in arranging the 1958 State Fair exhibit are Dr. Robert Sherman, North Texas State College in Denton; Dr. D. Bailey Calvin, University Division of Texas Medical Branch, Galveston.

Additional higher education exhibits during the Fair will be located in the Higher Education Center (arena theater building), Dallas Garden Center, Museum of Fine Arts and in many commercial displays. Entertainment programs are scheduled in the Higher Education Center, Dallas Garden Center Auditorium, the Hall of State Plaza and the Magnolia Stage.

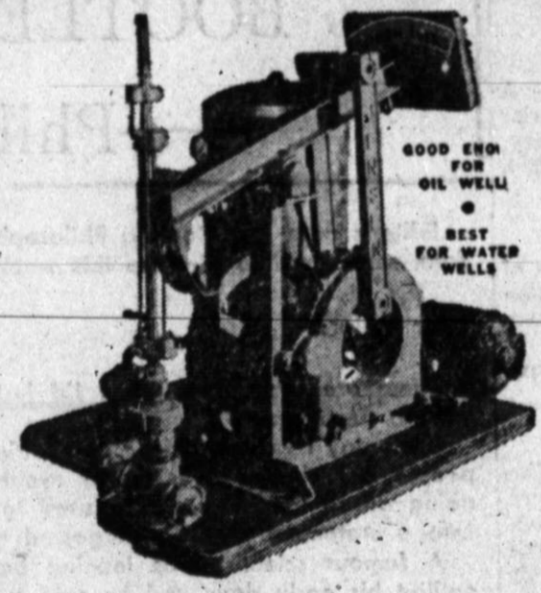

The Dallas Health and Science Museum is a permanent institution, open the year around. Its 40 or more permanent health exhibits are open to the public seven days a week, free of charge.

what does a discounter discount?

★ SERVICE ★ GUARANTEE

When you buy an item of merchandise, you buy two things: (1) you buy the item itself and (2) you buy the services which the seller offers with the sale. Before you buy from a firm which advertises discounts on everything all the time, get the answers to these questions:

- 1 Is the "discounter" willing to sell you the advertised items or does he try to switch you to others?
- 2 Is the "discounter" an established dealer for the item you are buying? If not, the manufacturer's warranty may be void.
- 3 Does the "discounter" back up the sale with his personal guarantee?
- 4 Will the "discounter" service the item if necessary, and at what costs?

Paris To U. S., Fashions Move With Jet-Age Speed

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Life is getting faster all the time.

Latest evidence of the jet-age tempo of current fashion is the appearance of Paris fall fashion adaptations in shops throughout the country a bare fortnight after the release of photographs of the new French clothes.

"Want to know how it's done?" asks Andrew Arkin, a second-generation fashion mogul of Seventh Avenue, New York. "Well, we will have a full collection of our adaptations of the latest Paris fashions in 101 cities all over America almost before the originals get off the boat."

"Dad (that's Leonard Arkin) and I didn't see why women had to wait a full season to get the new French trends in dress. So we decided to put the good old American know-how into action. I went to cover all the major Paris fall collections with two of our design staff. A third stayed in New York."

"The two girls with me started making their sketches right in Paris. We kept the long-distance telephone busy. By the time we got back home, a dozen of the top styles already were in the works."

"Then we went on a 24-hour production schedule — three shifts — to turn out and deliver a half million dollars' worth of dresses in three weeks. We produced 17,000 dresses the first two weeks. And they will be ready for women all over America to buy the second week in September."

Do Paris couturiers object to this mass distribution?

"Hardly," says Andy. "We buy all the models from which we work, at about $1,000 each. Usually we spend about $2,500 in each Paris house — lots more in some. It's good for the French, good for us, and good for American women who are able to buy Paris adaptations hot off the griddle for from $40 to $90."

Arkin has no patience with American manufacturers who deny the Paris influence on style. "Anybody who says Paris is dead is wacky," says he. "France is the world laboratory of fashion. Its designers work on an entirely different basis. They are artists and creators."

"They have the genius, we have the know-how. And that combination is hard to beat."

Girl Producer Hits Gold

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Living proof that a talented, determined girl still can come to New York and make good in the theater is an exuberant young Midwesterner named Patricia Newhall, one of the big town's few women theatrical director-producers.

Pat, who arrived in New York by way of Michigan, California and Europe, has produced three plays in the last two years — and all of them have been successful.

"I know it's supposed to be impossible for a girl from some little town to break into the big time of Broadway without the proverbial heartbreak and garret-starving," says the confident and attractive Miss Newhall, "but I've always believed that if you want to do something bad enough, you'll do it."

Pat wanted to be a producer. She started directing amateur productions at the Cranbrook Academy Art Center, near Detroit, during her high school days there.

"Then I fell in love with a boy who thought I ought to go to college," says Pat. "So I went out to UCLA and enrolled for a course in political science, of all things. But before I knew it I was up to my neck in dramas again, working with the Circle Players in Los Angeles."

"I kept trying the education bit, and went back to the University of Michigan to study ethics, but then I got bemused by the theater again and started the Arts Theater in Ann Arbor, doing both acting and directing."

Pat then went to Europe for two years, and while there acted in two American movies that were made over there — "Prince of Foxes" and "Quo Vadis."

She finally came to New York and last year rented a small theater in the basement of a new apartment building on the upper East Side.

"I had a chance to rent the theater, so I grabbed it," says Pat. "Then I had to look around for a play. I first did a play called 'No Exit,' by Jean Paul Sartre — a French Existentialist piece with only four characters. I made enough money to pay the cast, the rent and show a small profit."

"Next I put on three one-act Irish plays with the Synge Players, and they were successful, too. The theater only had 129 seats, so it wasn't hard to fill."

This year Miss Newhall is producer and director of another off-Broadway success, "Blood Wedding," a Spanish play, in the Actors Playhouse in Greenwich Village.

"I'm having a wonderful time, doing what I like best, and making money," says Pat happily. "And you can't ask much more than that."

YOUR RED CROSS ON THE JOB

By CORINNE J. NEELY

After taking the summer off from this column, we are back with news of your chapter. During this time activities are slack and it is used for a planning time — this is true of all services except the Water Safety Program.

The past summer was the biggest the chapter had had for the past six years. But we had such good news coverage in our swim program that it was not necessary for us to write a column about it.

Lloyd Sharp, chapter chairman, called a meeting of the board of directors the 27th of September to begin the year's work in earnest. Reports were made by members who had received assignments at a previous meeting. All chairmen are urged to complete their committees. Water Safety and Jr. Red Cross reported their groups lined up. Two staff-aides, Betty Lady and Delores Loerwald received their certificates at this meeting to bring the chapters number of staff-aides to four.

The tempo of area or Panhandle Red Cross meetings has increased, with one set at Pampa the 30th of September and one at Childress the 7th of October. Each with different themes, and delegates from our chapter expecting to attend.

Representatives from the chapter will take part in the United Fund Meetings, to help with the coming drive for funds. Dr. M. C. Adams heads the chapter finance committee and Dennis Lomas has been appointed chapter fund chairman. Bill Decker is campaign chairman for the United Fund Group as a whole, however.

October 13th, marks the date of the class in First Aid. It has been set up for a special group of Aired Oil employees and will be taught by instructors Marlin Gilliland and Henry W. Aycock, at the City Hall.

Gilliland is chairman of this service and has an aim of increasing his reserve of 17 who are now ready for instructor class work. Since this county has only four available First Aid instructors we have not been able to comply with requests for all class work needed. He plans for more instructors — so lighten the load for present volunteers.

The same can be said for the Water Safety program, and Bill Hardwick, chairman of that program is working hard to accomplish this before next summer's program time. As too few gave many hours in volunteer work this summer. After five years of service as disaster chairman, George Jowell, has recently resigned because his farm work takes him out of town much of the time and he is not available often when needed. At this time he has not been replaced. Though his committee of first, second and third vice chairmen is still intact.

Jr. Red Cross has its High School Council of 20 lined up. Teacher - sponsor, Billye Buck and the two trained workers, Erin Wertemberger and Gary Tannahill along with the chairman, Mrs. H. A. Cavness have the enrollment and Talent Show date set for late October. These two activities will be combined this year.

Mrs. Cavness and her adult committee for Junior work have begun the year's work with two rural schools, Dawn and Walcott already at work on their projects.

Bradley Rollins, Just 16, Prefers One Horsepower--Alive and Running

By DAN TEDRICK
DENVER — In a day when teen-agers would rather race with 300 horses in a car, Bradley Rollins, 16, is content with one nag at a time.

Few hotrodders, in fact, could keep up with him.

The baby-faced apprentice jockey from Utah and Phoenix, Ariz., has been a whirlwind since July 4, the day he rode his first thoroughbred at a recognized track. He soon became a big attraction at Centennial Track south of Denver.

In less than two months Rollins won roughly $2,000. He put every cent of it in a bank. The winners have been frequent, but Bradley Rollins would ride anyway.

"I love horses," he says. "And this is decent work and a lot of fun." A clear-eyed and friendly youngster, Rollins is a straight-A student at Washington High School in Phoenix, where he has won letters in football and wrestling. He finished fourth in the Arizona wrestling championship 95-pound division last year.

With Centennial's season still unfinished, Bradley is going back to Phoenix for his last year of school. If possible later, he wants to go to college.

His decision to be a jockey pleased his father, horse trainer Lyman Rollins, but Brad says his dad didn't influence him. The boy's pretty mother, Lois, who "once told me she wished I wouldn't," is faithfully in the winners circle to kiss her son in victory.

Bradley was born in Murray, Utah, and was riding his dad's horses by the time he was 4. "I was bucked off my first horse," he grins. "But that wasn't as bad as what happened today."

That was a reference to the sixth race at Centennial in mid-August, which Rollins won in a terrific burst of speed at the finish line. As he rode slowly by the stands, with his rooting sectin of teen-aged girls whooping it up, the embarrassed Rollins fell off his horse.

Two years ago he started riding in earnest, mainly at county fairs and other unrecognized tracks. He made only $100 last year.

Brad gets up at 4:30 a.m. daily and helps with his dad's horses until 9:30 a.m. He usually works again in the evenings. With the money he has earned young Rollins has bought all his own racing gear.

Several Methods Of Soil Treatment Are Adequate

What methods of soil treatment show the best results in improving or maintaining a high level of productivity? Many methods for doing this job have been developed locally. The treatments appear to involve the use of legumes on one hand and the tillage practice of chopping and disking crop residues into the soil on the other. In many cases they have been used together.

Both methods have proved satisfactory. Especially so where nitrogen fertilizers have been used to hasten the decomposition of residues chopped into the soil surface. This kind of soil treatment improves soil condition by distributing the organic matter throughout the plow zone. The fertilizer will assure a quick breakdown of residues and a supply of nitrogen for the next crop.

The use of legumes to maintain and improve soil condition and fertility as a standard over most of the agricultural areas. Many methods have been developed which meet the different needs of farmers.

The interplanting of grain sorghums with cowpeas has been widely used in many neighboring areas and has seen limited use locally. The cowpeas are either planted in the same row as the grain sorghum or often planted in alternate rows or strips fitting the equipment used.

This has shown itself to be an excellent practice where it is used each year in the rotation. The results from each year's growth become more noticeable. Because it is not able to develop fully and only a part of the regular seeding rate of cowpeas is used, it cannot do the job of soil conditioning desired in only one year. It will do its job best when used for several years.

Planting wheat or rye with vetch also has shown good results in soil conditioning. Many have planted vetch and wheat as a grazing crop. The vetch is allowed to develop fully in late spring.

Another interplanting program that is now gaining popularity is the interplanting of clover with wheat. In this case the clover is planted in the wheat during February or March. The clover is held pretty much in check until the wheat matures. It can then fully develop.

Said one veteran race official: "This is a high-class boy who is proud to be a jockey. He's the reason why horse racing is good."

All these methods have been used successfully. Each of them also has its limitations in respect to soil conditioning. The disking and fertilizing residues is that of depth. This is of greatest importance to the irrigation farmer, whose land suffers from compaction. All soils under irrigation locally compact easily and form a layer commonly called plowpan.

This is one of the serious problems of irrigation. It slows up the intake of both rainfall and irrigation water, making it difficult to get the moisture into the ground in a needed length of time and causing needless loss of moisture.

The proper use of crop residues is an essential part of soil management. It doesn't, however, keep the soil open to the needed depth.

It provides good surface storage of moisture, but does little to keep the soil open beyond the depth of equipment.

Vetch, even though a legume, does not have the tap root necessary to penetrate deeply. Cowpeas will do a fair job, but still are not as effective as clover or alfalfa.

Both of these legumes will do a good job of opening up the soil deep down. For use in an annual rotation, clover is most desirable. It not only improves soil condition, but also will do much toward leaving nitrogen in the soil.

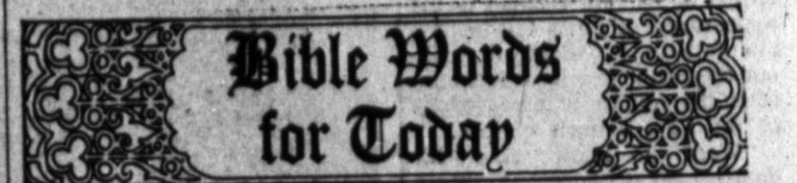

Soybeans are another legume that appears to be gaining local favor. It is capable of opening up the soil to a limited extent and of manufacturing nitrogen for succeeding crops.

If you are giving thought to planting a legume, give one of our clovers consideration. Also ulant before planting. It will not produce the desired nitrogen without it.

1 CORINTHIANS 15:10 — "But by the grace of God I am what I am, and his grace toward me was not in vain." (RSV)

It is impossible for us to be Christian unless we honestly feel deep in our hearts and souls that, but for God, we are hopeless. One basic conviction of our Christian life is that apart from God we are helpless; if we are to be a child of God in the true sense of the word, we must be convinced that we constantly fall into sin. In fact, it is impossible to be a Christian without a constant sense of sin and wrongdoing always knowing at the same time that we have been forgiven and redeemed by God. As we look upon an individual whose life and personality have been destroyed by sin or broken with evil, we must say that, "There but for the grace of God, we stand."

It is only by God's grace that we qualify as sons of God, heirs of God and joint-heirs with Jesus Christ.

New Blocking May Cause More Shoulder Injuries

By BOB VOGES
EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — There's the story about the fellow who asked why there are so many leg injuries in football.

"All that praying before the games is hard on the knees," he was told.

Dr. James S. Feurig, physician for the highly-rated Michigan State football forces, agrees that knee injuries are the most common football complaint. But he has a more scientific explanation.

"The knee is the most vulnerable point for a football player — his Achilles' heel," says the doctor and former pro gridder. "There's so much that can go wrong in there."

KNEE INJURIES have been the bane of football coaches but with the new blocking rule, shoulders may be getting the most attention this fall. Above Dr. James S. Feurig of Michigan State looks at the knee of tackle Tom Saidock, now with the Philadelphia Eagles.

During the regular Spartan season he can expect an average of six significant knee injuries removing players from competition.

Arm and leg fractures, ankle sprains, head concussions, mashed noses, facial cuts and dental damage are the other run of the mill injuries.

Feurig is afraid there will be more shoulder separations and dislocations in the college ranks this fall.

The burly ex-end believes the pro and college games are just as rough and tough now as they were 25 years ago. But he credits better equipment and improved medical techniques with helping to cut the extent of injuries.

He also thinks the pro platoon system has made the game safer.

"Football padding, for instance, is much improved," he says. "Formerly they just had spile leather and saddle felt. Now they use various rubber compounds and synthetics."

"Before, putting on shoulder pads was like strapping on a harness. Now the pads fit like a mould. The old football helmet was nothing more than a leather cap. The current suspension helmet absorbs a much greater shock."

Dr. Feurig praises improved techniques for treating football injuries.

"In the old days, for instance, they'd treat a knee injury with just heat or ice and leave the recovery up to nature. There was often a permanent weakness — rightly called a 'football knee'. Now we operate within four or six hours if the injury can be corrected surgically. And our rehabilitation programs are much better."

If nothing more than for the protection of the players, he would like to see the colleges go back to the platoon system.

"You rarely see a player who has equal physical ability on both offense and defense," he declares. "He gets hurt at what he isn't good at. Also, they tire more going both ways. That's when they get hurt."

"How many pro quarterbacks," he asks, "would last out the season if they also had to play linebacker on defense?"

Woman Sculptor Completes Mammoth New Work at 82

By ANN V. MASTERS
BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — One of America's foremost sculptors, Anna Hyatt Huntington, has just completed another major work at the age of 82. Her statue of Cuban liberator Jose Marti will be erected in New York's Central Park.

In an interview at her studio, situated on her thousand-acre estate at Redding, Conn., Mrs. Huntington stood beside the 18-foot statue, sheathed in plaster and ready for casting, and said:

"Jose Marti was a Cuban hero who lived in exile here for a while and was shot from ambush on his return, about 1895. As he was killed on horseback, I could do him."

Mrs. Huntington is known for her horse statues, and insists that practically every work include a horse. She smiled as she recalled:

"Somebody wanted me to do a statue of Columbus. I asked, 'Can I put him on horseback?' That ended that!"

The work of this noted sculptor is on display in some 200 museums in the United States alone. France made her a member of the Legion of Honor for a statue of Joan of Arc at Blois, and King Alfonso of Spain decorated her for her El Cid, in Seville.

Mrs. Huntington worked on the Marti project for three years. The Cuban government contributed $100,000 toward the statue, which defrays the cost of the pedestal alone. The rest of the cost was underwritten by the sculptor's husband, Collis P. Huntington, Spanish scholar, patron of the arts and founder of the Hispanic Museum in New York.

The sculptor dismisses her outstanding achievements lightly.

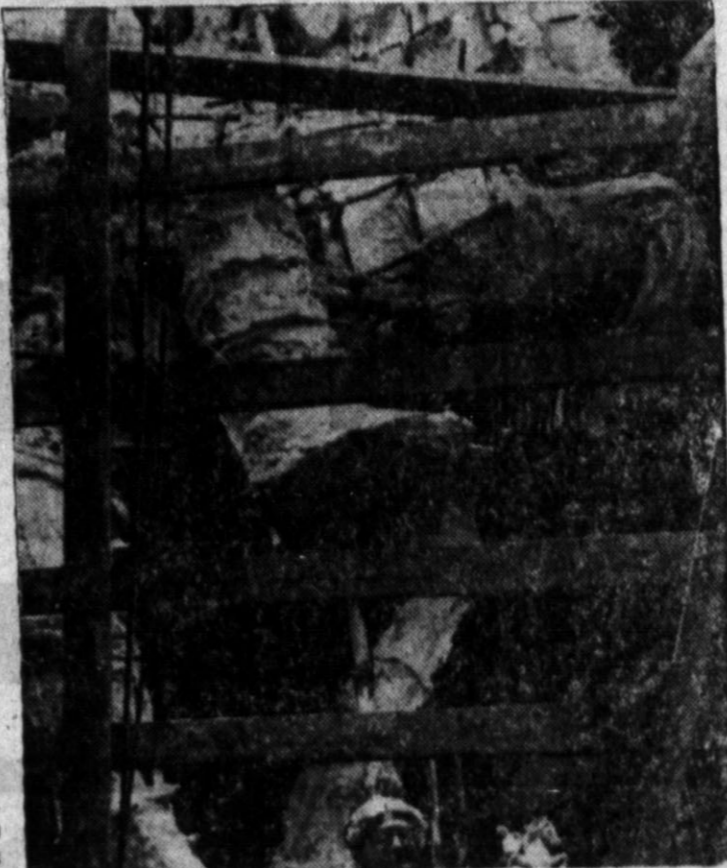

"Good heavens," she exclaimed. "I've been working for 60 years. I ought to have accomplished something."

She rises at 5 a.m. as she has done all of her life. By 6 she is feeding the birds who flock to her and has let her enormous deerhounds out. At one time she bred these "young ponies" and the kennel buildings housed about 40. She now has eight.

She has no intention of stopping her work and despite operations for cataracts on her eyes, works on step ladders, scaffolding and at the dizzying height of her studio.

"I'm fond of my work," said Mrs. Huntington. "I'd rather work than play. It's no virtue on my part. Society as such never interested me."

"The trouble is I never seem

Is there a central theme to her work? "Horses," she said, with a smile.

It began when she was 2-years-old. She was born in Cambridge, Mass., where her father, Alpheus Hyatt, was a paleontologist at Harvard university and director of the Boston Museum of Natural History.

"If there was a horse in the neighborhood, I was there," she declared, adding, "Once you love a horse you always love them."

THE FANTASTIC STORY of MUSA-SHIYA THE SHIRTMAKER

(Also Sometimes Drygoods Selling)

If the shipping department of a factory had not made an error, the world would never have known of Musa-shiya, the shirtmaker, and the most astounding advertising campaign in history would never have been launched.

Following World War I an English textile factory was getting back on a peacetime basis. In error it sent a full five year backorder of shirting material to Musa-shiya, a Japanese shirtmaker who operated a small shop in Honolulu. Business was poor and Musa-shiya was near bankruptcy, when the customs office informed him that certain bales of cloth and a fat bill for duties awaited his pleasure at the port of Honolulu.

When the little shirtmaker realized what had descended upon him, he asked for time and went into the silence for purpose of mental refreshment. Remembering a friend in a big mercantile establishment, he hid himself there and sought counsel. How in the name of the horned prophet of evil was he ever to get rid of all that English shirting? And in the meantime where was he to put it? His little box of a shop wouldn't hold one bale.

"You'll have to advertise," advised his friend. "Leave it to me. I'll have our advertising agents help you out."

This merely compounded the little Japanese shirtmaker's troubles. Advertising to him was an uncharted sea. The advertising agent called on Musa-shiya and suggested $300 as a modest starter. "Too-o-o much. Maybe I think thirty dollar plenty," said the shirtmaker. He was told that wouldn't even get him in print. The agent explained the costs of various advertisements, and finally Musa-shiya agreed to try the plan and what was destined to be the most astounding and far reaching campaign in the history of advertising was launched.

Two column by five inch ads then started appearing regularly in the Saturday Honolulu Star-Bulletin. The ads were written just the way Musa-shiya talked—in colorful pidgen English which is used throughout the Orient. Here is an example of one of Musa-shiya's ads:

"Well here come storek again—but Musa-shiya, the shirtmaker, is able prepare. Wonderful accumulation of baby things in dry goods selling corner of Muse shop. Everything for the baby—especially diaper. Exclusive of storek, which find most easily, many persons not finding little shop of Musa-shiya the shirtmaker in King Street, Makai side, between fish market and river."

Tourists started sending copies of Musa-shiya's ads to their friends in many countries. Soon Musa-shiya was receiving orders from all over the world as well as doing a thriving business in Hawaii.

And that is the story of how a well planned, small advertising campaign made an unknown Japanese shirtmaker not only wealthy but world famous.

Your local newspaper doesn't promise to duplicate this story for its advertisers, but it does take your sales message into the homes of your customers where full and careful consideration is given your suggestions. Who knows, perhaps you too can be a Musa-shiya.

The area officers and their sponsors discussed the program of the year, set up objectives and made plans for their Area I meeting to be held in Amarillo on March 7. (Staff Photo)

The Hereford FHA Chapter was host Saturday, Sept. 27, to the Area I Executive Council in the homemaking department of Hereford High School.

Area officers and sponsors gathered to discuss the program of the year, to set up objectives and to plan their Area I meeting to be held in Amarillo March 7, 1959.

Margaret Boomer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Boomer and Area I parliamentarian, and her sponsors, Mrs. J. J. Durham, Mrs. Frank Prowell and Miss Carolyn Reynolds, were in charge of the breakfast served before the meeting began in the homemaking department and the lunch, which was served at the First Methodist Church.

Other area officers who were present were Jerry Gregory of Petersburg, president; June Johnson of Slaton, first vice president; Patricia Michell of Hale Center, third vice president; Shirley Cox of Sudan, fourth vice president; Lenell Claunch of Enoch, assistant fourth vice president; Deanne Britain of Lubbock, fifth vice president; Marilyn Murphy of Dalhart, corresponding secretary; Nancy Ainsworth of Lubbock, recording secretary; Norma Peters of Amarillo, treasurer; Margaret Boomer of Hereford, parliamentarian; Elaine Cooper of Lockney, historian; Shirley Kitten of Slaton, state fifth vice president; and Miss Esther Sorensen, Area I sponsor.

Leg Room Problem For Tall Beauty

By PETER BREWER
CINCINNATI — Miss Tall America is a poised, willowy beauty whose pet peeve is bus seats.

"Height is no problem in cars but buses just don't allow enough leg room to be comfortable," says Shirley Thaxton, height: 5 feet 11.

Otherwise, says the soft-spoken tall gal with the warm smile, she doesn't have any problems not shared with her shorter sisters.

"Clothing was a problem before they started the tall shops," she says, "but now it's easy. I can get shoes almost anywhere and I like big hats anyway."

Shirley won her Miss Tall America title recently at the Cleveland convention of the American Affiliation of Tall Clubs — groups for women over 5 feet 10 and men over 6 feet 2.

For the statistically minded, her age is 25, her measurements are 34-23-34, and her pleasures include swimming, dancing and singing.

Shirley says the extra height was only a minor problem when she was growing up.

"I was 5 feet 9 in the eighth grade, but I never stooped," she explains. "Anyway, my mother was always after me to keep my head up."

"In high school, it seemed practically a requirement for the boy to be taller than the girl and that did limit my dating."

"I felt a bit shy about it, but I never felt outcast. And I've never felt self-conscious with shorter men. I wear heels anyway — with their permission. Somehow, I don't feel well-dressed in flatheeled shoes."

Shirley says Cincinnati's Tall Club looms large in her life right now, not because she is tall, but because she found most of its 90 or so members quickly became her good friends.

The club started as a social group, but members now want to expand it. With increasing numbers of youngsters sprouting taller than their parents, the club figures a junior branch (for ages 16-20) would prosper.

Shirley says of the senior group: "I think some people may join because they're self-conscious of their height. The club helps, but overcoming self-consciousness is only a by-product."

"I'm proud of my height and I think many of the members take pride in belonging to a somewhat exclusive organization."

Winning the beauty contest changed things a little for Shirley. For one thing, the telephone is ringing a lot more — sometimes calls from other tall people curious about the club; sometimes calls from agents who would like to represent her.

She is employed as a legal secretary but she has prospects for television work or modeling.

She's taking a vacation right now, mulling over what she wants to do next.

"You know, the word 'king-size' has become a kind of national catch-word," says Shirley. "I wonder if 'queen-sized' doesn't belong with it."

"Some manufacturers are beginning to realize that Americans are getting taller and they are meeting the trend — like making bigger beds."

Beauty At Paris Fashion Envoy Has Girls' Dream Job

By NADEANE WALKER
PARIS — An attractive 37-year-old Frenchwoman has just been given every girl's dream job — ambassador of Paris fashion in America.

In her official capacity, it will be her duty to wear the most fashionable creations of the top French dressmakers.

She is Monique de Nervo, a divorcee who has taken back her maiden name, but who prefers not to use the title she inherited from her steel magnate father, "Baroness de Nervo."

This fall she will open, for the first time in fashion history, an official "lobby" for the Paris dressmakers in New York.

Her object will be, basically, to sell more French high fashion creations to the American market, through publicizing the world's style capital, earning goodwill for the French designers and making trips to the Paris collections easier and more profitable for American buyers.

"Of course I have to be careful," says Monique with a cheerful grin. "Our French houses are jealous of each other, and my wardrobe has to be made up of models from every major house."

She may also encounter jealousy from the American dress industry, but it will be her diplomatic job to convince everybody that she works as much for the good of the American manufacturers as for the French designers.

Dark-haired, brown-eyed Monique served with the Red Cross in France during the war and occupation. In 1945 she got a job with Piquet perfumes which kept her in America for two years. She was married in 1947 and got a divorce five years later. (Her ex-husband is now dead.)

After her divorce, Monique went back to work as press attaché for the fashion house of Jean Dessès, where she remained until borrowed for an American tour to publicize French glove-makers last year. She had just finished an exhausting round of lectures in 10 universities, countless radio and television appearances, and visits to 16 U. S. cities, when she met Raymond Barbas, then president of the French High Fashion Syndicate.

Barbas was setting up plans for the French fashion office in America, and he tapped Monique to run it. Besides French and English — which she speaks with a charming and slightly husky French accent — she also speaks Spanish, Italian, and some German.

The first French fashion ambassador was born, appropriately, in Paris, on Feb. 17, 1921. She loves hearty sports, chiefly skiing and swimming, is usually tanned to a deep toast tint, and talks gaily, volubly, and with wit.

Monique expects to spend about seven months of the year in America. She will try to put over the viewpoint that Paris designers do not get enough recognition for their creative role of pioneering and piloting new style trends. All in the friendliest manner, of course.

UNWED MOTHERS A PROBLEM
CHICAGO — The Problem of young girls who conceive children out of wedlock "has become truly national in scope" and involves about 176,000 girls annually, says the official Methodist magazine, Together.

"Unwed mothers come largely from the ranks of normal girls from good homes," the report says. But it adds that of 4,000 of them cared for at the Methodist Home Hospital, of New Orleans, few ever "became involved in similar difficulties again."

HISTORY OF REVIVALS
DETROIT — Historian Bernard Weisberger of Wayne University, says the beginning of American revival meetings, of which Billy Graham is the leading contemporary exponent, goes back 158 years.

In a new book, "They Gathered at the River," Weisberger says the first such meeting in this country was in the summer of 1800 on the banks of the Gasper River, Ky.

PRIESTHOOD REPORT
TOKYO — Reports indicate that proportionately, more Japanese Roman Catholics enter training for the priesthood than in any other country.

For every 100,000 Catholics in Japan, there were 93 major seminarians. Ireland was second with 75.

CHRISTIANITY IN BUSINESS
NEW YORK — Roman Catholics, who have long had groups emphasizing Christian principles in the labor movements, have set up a new organization promoting such principles among businessmen. It's called the "Catholic Employers' Study Group."

RETURNS TO MINISTRY
ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. — The Rev. John H. Gerberding, who resigned his Menomonee Falls, Wis., pastorate after being acquitted of heresy charges by the United Lutheran Church in 1955, has returned to the ministry — at the Epiphany Lutheran Church in Denver, Colo. He has been working as a weekly newspaper editor.

WASP THE TROUBLE
HELENA, Mont. — Beeman Charles Williams arrived home after one more successful day on the job which he's pursued for years — and was stung by a wasp. Twice. The wasp flew up his trouser leg. Williams spat, "You can depend on bees. But you can't trust wasps!"

MONIQUE DE NERVO—New ambassador of fashion.

Film Sleuths Pursue Microscopic Villains

By RICHARD F. WHALEN

Rochester, N. Y. — Villains who leave clues... deductions worthy of Sherlock Holmes... it's all part of the day's work for investigators at the Eastman Kodak Co.

The villains are microscopic substances that stow away on workers, sneak into the plants and ruin sensitive film.

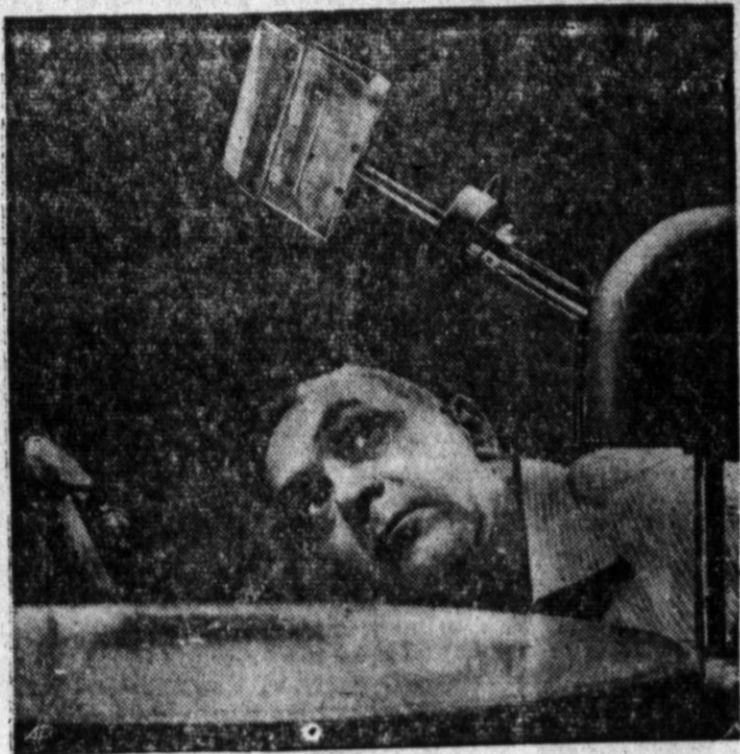

The detectives are scientists assigned to find out what's spoiling the film, how it gets into the plant and where it comes from in the first place.

Some of the sleuthing has the makings of a good-mystery story. Take the Case of the Poison Hand.

Tiny blank spots began appearing on film in the emulsion coating department. Contamination was suspected.

The investigation narrowed down to one man who was unwittingly carrying the villain into the plant. But who was the villain? A detective went home with the man and began asking questions.

A hairdresser who lived in the same building was immediately suspect since many hair lotions contain a derivative of mercury, a major enemy of film makers.

CLOSE SHAVE—John Maltby of Kodak's micro service laboratory operates a knife sharp enough to split a hair 70 times. But John doesn't split hairs. He shaves film into slices less than one ten thousandths of an inch so it can be examined for imperfections.

The detective learned that the Kodak employe, carried the garbage down the back stairs every morning. The hairdresser used the same stairs. He guessed that both were touching the handrail and that the worker's hands were picking up minute specks of lotion left by the hairdresser.

The worker stopped using the handrail and, presto, the blank spots disappeared from the film.

Kodak has several labs checking to make sure that nothing but perfect film leaves the plant. The scientists also test hundreds of substances to find out which ones might contaminate film.

The Case of the Villainous Diatoms was cracked through knowledge of city water systems.

Investigators had discovered that even the smallest particle of processed film contains a clue to where it was developed. The clue is a microscopic, one-celled plant called a diatom. Each city has different diatoms in its water system.

It was noted that a New York City film processor got only fogged film on hot days. Investigators found an unusually high number of diatoms on the negatives. Why?

It turned out that the city washed its streets on hot days. Water trucks were filled at a hydrant near the darkrooms. The loading stirred water in the mains and dislodged diatoms clinging to the sides. The water found its way into washing tanks in the darkrooms.

Then there was the Case of the Bloody Air.

Something was botching the film at a plant in Australia. The plant sent samples of ruined film to Rochester.

The lab found that the villain was blood — microscopic, dry flakes of blood.

Back in Australia investigators took the clue and went to work. It turned out that one of the employes had bought ox meat to take home for dinner. While at work, he left it in the cool film-coating room. The package leaked and flakes of dry blood floated into the air.

More washing with soap and water is not enough to prevent villains from entering the plants on the workers.

After a complete change of clothes, workers in the film coating department go through a "man cleaner." Rotary brushes dust off their shoes and huge fans buffet them with stiff winds to blow off dust and other stray particles.

Skin is a tough problem. Every human is continually "changing his skin" and the flakes that float into the air sometimes contain a villain that ruins film.

Don't Start A Home-Grown Jungle

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newfeatures Writer

Too much of a good thing in your home decor can ruin the effect. That goes for plants as well as grandfather clocks.

A plant can be a useful joy, serving the home decoratively. But even a well kept plant can become an eyesore if grown without imagination or if not integrated properly into the home atmosphere.

The Japanese achieve charming effects with small plants, and the tiniest bit of flora becomes a conversation piece — an arrangement that is eye-catching or a simple plant that is beautiful enough to stand on its own.

Americans take plants for granted, and there is little effort to dress up a plant that might as well be artificial for all its lack of glamor. Straggly little vines, absurd snake plants or other greenery, identifiable only by the owner's knowledge of horticulture, are examples of bad taste.

A plant should have a purpose in life. A collection of houseplants should be a meaningful asset to a room. Why not give a sweet little plant the dignity of an interesting container, so it may become part of the household? Why relegate it to ignominy flatterer 10 other awful little species of plant life, grouped together in sickly style on a table or tray, living only for the satisfaction of the grower who revels in having made "something" grow. A child can keep an ordinary plant healthy by faithful attendance to the watering can.

Colorful plants such as the begonia offer a challenge to the living room gardener and flattery to the home.

Here are some pointers for making plants an asset to the household:

1. Philodendron, ivy or other small plants grown individually may be put in attractive containers such as a cache pot. A small clay pot may be imbedded into a soil-filled pewter, china or other important looking bowl. (Large sugar bowls whose tops have been broken are ideal for this.)

2. A strikingly beautiful plant may stand on its own, needing nothing more than a large clay or wooden pot that will enhance it by contrast.

3. An inexpensive ceramic container in an unusual shape may graciously offer respite to a few small plants. These should be arranged with an eye-catching pattern in mind.

4. Small plants displayed on a table or plant stand in a bay window or picture window can be extremely effective, looking like a floral portrait. A plant stand of six or eight plants of the same type — geraniums, begonias, African Violets — may be used to decorative advantage, complementing your color

Lawns Need Care In Fall

COLLEGE STATION — Now is the time to start thinking about the fall care of lawns, reminds E. M. Trew, extension pasture specialist.

Fertilization should be emphasized, points out Trew. Properly fertilized lawn grasses will go into the winter in a vigorous condition and will remain green longer in the fall and will grow off earlier next spring.

Fertilizer should be applied about a month before the first expected frost, advises Trew. If summer grass is pushed into lush growth by late fertilization, it may be damaged by a hard freeze. Applying fertilizer too late prevents grass from getting the most out of it before going dormant.

Apply a complete fertilizer with a 2-1-1 or 1-1-1 ratio at a rate to supply two pounds of actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet of lawn, recommends the specialist. This amount of nitrogen would be found in 20 pounds of 10-5-5 or 10-10-10, or in 25 pounds of 8-8-8.

After fertilizer has been spread, Trew advises watering it down. Soak the soil at least six inches deep. Plenty of moisture is necessary, for plants can't use fertilizer until it is dissolved. If the soil is already wet, just wash the fertilizer off the grass and on to the soil.

Ryegrass is sometimes overseeded on Bermuda to give green color during the winter, times harmful to the Bermuda. Ryegrass is usually growing in the spring when Bermuda should start, and unless the ryegrass is kept closely clipped, it often gives Bermuda serious competition for light, moisture and plant food. If ryegrass is seeded on a Bermuda lawn, Italian or annual ryegrass should be used for they die in the spring. Ryegrass should not be overseeded on grasses other than Bermuda.

For additional information, Trew suggests getting B-203, "Home Lawns", from county agents or the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Tex.

scheme.

5. Static effects in plants should be avoided. A philodendron growing up along bark stuck in a flower pot can be dull unless the plant is fully grown, with an abundance of lush leaves, and can be displayed in a place where its height will prove to be an advantage.

6. Most plants may be dressed up with the addition of others. Variegated ivy is charming with geraniums. There are many more that are compatible.
