Greenbug Problem Slight As Farm Activity Gains Speed

Release Acreage, Payments For County's Feed Grains

Official acreage for Deaf Smith County under the new feed grain program is 162,402 acres, it was announced Friday morning by County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office manager Faust Collier of Hereford.

"Regulations allow us to use 105 per cent of that figure, which would be a maximum of 170,522 acres," Collier said in announcing the official acreage.

The figure represents the combined base for both corn and grain sorghum. Farmers may plant either or reduce either crop, or both, for diverted acreage.

County average grain sorghum yield is 3920 pounds per acre, including dryland and crops planted under irrigation. Payment rate for first 20 per cent diverted is $37.10 per acre. On second 20 per cent diverted, payment rate is $44.50. Both amounts are based on farm base of 100 per cent. Corn yield average is 64.5 bushels per acre, and payment rate is $40.09 for first 20 per cent diverted and $49.10 for second 20 per cent.

The 50 per cent payment rate is for the first 20 per cent diverted acres, and the 60 per cent rate is for the second 20 per cent, Collier pointed out.

"As base acreage is combined, a farmer may on his base plant either corn or grain sorghum, within his permitted acreage, if he wishes to comply," Collier said.

While greenbugs are causing only spotted damage in Deaf Smith County, farmers are taking every precaution to assure a bumper wheat crop for 1961.

Since the middle of March, crop dusting planes have been waging a battle against greenbug infestation, mostly on dryland wheat crops in the northeast portion of the county.

Most of the 1961 crops of potatoes and onions in the county have been planted, and some carrot planting has already started.

Beet Growers In Fund Drive For Continued Fight

Deaf Smith County sugar beet growers next week will open a fund raising campaign, which they expect to include every farmer and business in the territory, according to Hank Williams and Jay Boston, directors, who head up an eight-man committee.

Goal for the drive will be to raise $10,000 of an estimated $30,000 required to continue the fight for favorable grower legislation and ultimate establishment of sugar refineries in the territory.

Included on the committee will be Austin Rose, Jr., Ray Higginbotham, Dan Larson, Walter John Paetzold, Virgil Marsh and Hicks Robinson, along with Boston and Williams.

"All of us have heard and know what more acreage will mean to the community," said Williams. "Add to this the tremendous potential possible through location of a sugar refinery, and you will begin to realize the full importance of this drive."

"Things are looking better than they have ever looked before," said Boston. "We have our foot in the door. Hearings will be scheduled, and we are finding new support on every hand. This current drive is tremendously important — and we expect general cooperation from over the entire territory."

Other sugar beet growers associations in Texas and Oklahoma have pledged about $10,000 and probably will add more to the legislative fund later.

Farmers will start planting cotton and grain sorghum within a month.

Texas Employment Agency representative Pat Patterson of Hereford said there are no farm labor problems locally as the supply of workers is meeting demands of farmers.

Greenbug infestation seems to be heaviest in the northeast portion of the county, but damage has been only spotted.

One of the four crop dusting companies in the county estimated that it has sprayed about 15,000 acres of wheat since the third week of March. Greenbugs seem to be migrating from the Amarillo area toward the southwest, and most spraying has been in the Wildorado, Dawn, Ford and Umberger areas.

Heavy winds this week have stopped some of the spraying operations in the area. Greenbug outbreaks usually occur where the wheat or small grains suffer from deficient moisture in mild winters and cool springs, and when greenbug reproduces rapidly at temperatures between 55 degrees and 85 degrees. This is the first time in a number of years that greenbugs have made more than an occasional appearance in county wheat fields.

Generally, both dryland wheat and crops planted under irrigation look good, and farmers plan to keep dusting fields until the white patches caused by greenbug infestation stop spreading.

Wheat harvest will begin about June 20. The United States Department of Agriculture Marketing Service has predicted the second largest wheat crop on record in the state for this year. Winter wheat production in the state this year is expected to exceed 90,000,000 bushels. More than 84,000,000 bushels were produced last year.

Planting of potatoes and onions got a late start this year due to untimely rains in March (Continued on page 2)

Senior Class Rehearsing Play

Rehearsals are in full swing for the 1961 Hereford High School senior play, "Smilin' Through," which will be presented Monday and Tuesday, April 24-25, in the high school auditorium.

Advance ticket sales currently are underway, and tickets may be purchased from any senior. Proceeds from the annual play will be presented to the school as a token of the class's appreciation. "Smilin' Through" is a drama which incorporates laughter as well as tears, blended with love and hatred, to form the theme of action.

Director of the play is Miss Dolores Wall, an instructor at Hereford High. She said the play is somewhat difficult to present in that characterization is of utmost importance.

Cast includes: Karen Sue Daniels as Ellen, Sandra Moore as Kathleen, Edwin Thomas as John Cateret, Franklin Watkins as Kenneth, Clint Conway as Willie and Ken Betzen as Dr. Owens.

In the drama, two sweethearts are separated by hatred which exists on the part of the girl's uncle for the innocent aspirant's father. A mutual friend of the two families tries to enter in and patch things up, but in turn finds himself on the receiving end of his uncle's dislikes.

Events get brighter as the silver lining comes "smilin' through" to climax the production. (Staff Photo)

Marketing Clinic On Vegetables Slated Thursday

Texas Citrus and Vegetable Growers and Shippers will hold a marketing clinic in an all-day session scheduled Thursday, April 20, at Hereford Community Center.

The Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act marketing clinic will be jointly-sponsored in cooperation with the fruit and vegetable division of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The all-day clinic will begin at 10 a.m., according to Howard Gault of Hereford, a director of Growers and Shippers. Of interest to growers and in this area will be a discussion of contracts, advances to the growers and growers' rights and liabilities. That discussion will be held at the beginning of the program.

Gault said there will be no registration fee or any charge for those attending, and all interested persons are invited.

The clinic will be conducted by John J. Gardner, head of the Complaint Section, Regulatory Branch, Washington, D. C., and Joe E. Ward, of the Fort Worth office. Meetings of this type have (Continued on page 5)

Wind Removes Garage, But Leaves Car

Strong winds or a small, gusty whirlwind Thursday afternoon literally lifted a small wooden garage off a car behind Hereford Fruit Market, 218 N. 25 Mile Ave. — leaving the automobile without a scratch.

"I really don't know what did happen," said Johnnie Talley, owner of the market. "Somebody came into the store and said my garage just blew down."

When Talley went out to investigate, he saw that the roof and a side of the wooden frame garage had rocked back to the ground, and that two unsupported sides also had tumbled to the ground. The garage collapsed sometime between 12:30 and 1 p.m. The automobile was not touched as the sides and roof fell to the outside, Talley said. The garage was located adjacent to the east end of the market.

A girl in the neighborhood said it looked like a huge whirlwind, the biggest she had (Continued on page 2)

NEED TWO COACHES

Little Leaguers Start Practice

Hundreds of boys are expected to show up Monday, April 17, for the first day of Little League try-outs. Initial try-outs will be held at Dameron Park, at Main and Park Avenue, starting at 5:30 p.m. each afternoon.

League president J.R. Allison said only boys who would be nine before August 1, and not yet 13 by that date, would be eligible to participate in the workouts for the majors, but may be one year younger to try-out for a minor league team.

The try-outs will continue each afternoon through Thursday, April 20. Major league managers will participate in the play-off auction on Friday and the announcement of team assignments will be made at Little League field at 2 p.m. Saturday, April 22.

There will be one additional day of try-outs, Monday, April 24, for those who don't make the major squads. Minor league auction will be held on April 25 and team assignments will be announced on Wednesday, April 26, at 5:30 p.m. at Little League park.

Elect Barkley JC President

Dale Barkley Wednesday night was elected new president of Hereford Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The Jaycees, who met at 8 p.m. Wednesday, elected a slate of five officers. Bruce Fink was elected vice president, and new directors are Kenneth Brock, Walter Kirkland and Dan Mudd. All were elected to one-year posts, and installation will be held later this month or the first part of May.

A board of directors will name a new secretary and treasurer.

Herd Opens District Season Tuesday After 5-0 Victory

Over the 500 mark for the first time this season, Hereford will open defense of its District 1-AAA baseball title here Tuesday afternoon at 4 p.m.

First of four district games will be against the Dumas Demons.

Hereford won a 5-0 decision over Nazareth there Friday in a wind-abbreviated contest that lasted just five innings. Mickey Stevens posted his second win on a four-hit performance.

The Demons, like all other diamond squads in the Panhandle, have been hampered by bad weather this spring. They have played just six games, with a single win to their credit.

Leading hitter for the Demons is shortstop Larry Tiner, who is hitting .300. He has driven in six runs. First sacker Jerry Robinson is the Demons' pitching workhorse. He has pitched 18 innings, given up 10 walks, 10 runs and 12 hits while striking out 14.

The Demons have scored just 18 runs this year, half as many as their opponents. They have been credited with 32 hits, compared with 40 for their opponents.

Levelland, the third team in the conference, also has played few games this season and has won only two.

Hereford broke open a scoreless game in the fourth and fifth innings Friday with timely hits and daring base-running. The game continued through the start of the sixth inning.

Sister Of Local Woman Dies In Amarillo Blaze

Mrs. Leroy Frazier, sister of Mrs. Otis Hall of Hereford, and Mr. Frazier were killed in a blazing fire of the Amarillo Market Truck Stop in Amarillo Friday night.

Not until after the fire had been brought under control about 1 a.m. Saturday did firefighters learn that the Fraziers, operators of the station, had died in the blaze. They had been seen last about 30 minutes before the fire broke out. They resided in an apartment above the service station building.

The fire was reported at 8:46 p.m. Friday. Fed by petroleum products and fanned by high winds, it was difficult to bring under control.

Joint funeral services of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Glenn Frazier were tentatively scheduled for 2 p.m. Monday at the First Baptist Church in Amarillo.

Mrs. Frazier (Willie Doris) retired last year after many years service with Western Union. She was 49. Born in Memphis, her survivors include her mother, Mrs. Lillie B. Wells, Amarillo; two brothers, N. N. Wells and Horace Wells, both of Amarillo; and two sisters, Mrs. Earl Dunn of Amarillo and Mrs. Otis Hall of Hereford.

Mt. Frazier, 56, was a native of Amarillo. His survivors include his mother, Mrs. Della Frazier of Amarillo; and one son, John Hickman of Wichita, Kan.

Around Town

When Chamber manager Bill Thompson introduced the guest speaker for the annual Distributive Education banquet Friday night, he said he was stealing a joke that Jack Lacy always used. And it wasn't a put-up job, either. Lacy had to detour around that joke, but he had another hundred or so that kept the guests laughing. But Lacy also managed to insert some challenging and thoughtful points between tall stories. He is a polished and forceful speaker, averaging three speeches a week throughout the year.

Hereford will open its conference baseball season Tuesday with a game here against the Dumas Demons. They will play Dumas twice and Levelland twice to determine the district winner. Hereford is the defending champion.

Beginning duties as Hereford police patrolmen last week were Stewart C. Johnson, 26, of Daltart, and Marshall Padgett, 33, of Amarillo. Johnson has had no prior experience, but Padgett has been with the Amarillo Police Department since 1948. He was a detective in the Amarillo department before coming here. Announcements were made by Hereford Police Chief Henry Aycock.

The public is invited to attend the open house and dedication service for the new Sunnyside Baptist Church at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, April 16. The Rev. Murle Rogers, former pastor, will preach the dedicatory address. The Rev. M. D. Durham now is pastor. The new building replaced one blown away during a tornado last year. We drove through Sunnyside Thursday and saw the new building, which is a fine looking brick structure.

Little League try-outs start Monday at 5:30 p.m. in Dameron Park. But if two managers for Minor League teams can't be found, and quickly, 40 boys will not be able to play (Continued on page 2)

Optimists Slate Bike Safety Week

April 17-22 again will mark Bicycle Safety Week in Hereford. Hereford Optimist Club will conduct its annual bicycle safety inspection at each of the grade schools in Hereford during the week.

All bicycles inspected will be checked for the following qualifications: handlebar grips (present and secure), proper seat adjustment, safe tires, fenders and guards present and in proper position, warning advice and reflectors present and workable, good brakes, proper chain adjustment and cleanliness and proper lubrication.

In addition to the bicycle inspection, riders also will be given a "driver's exam." Riders come in a steady, controlled stop under emergency conditions, use of proper hand signals, ability to ride at slow speeds without undue weaving and other skills in safe bicycle riding.

All bicycles which pass the inspection will be given a sticker denoting acceptance. The Optimist Club Bicycle Safety Week will close with a parade at 8:30 a.m. Saturday, April 22. Prizes will be awarded to the best decorated bicycle in three age classes.

Following the parade, there will be a free movie and candy given at the Star Theater by the Optimist Club.

Tickets for the movie will be issued to each student by school principals Friday afternoon.

PATSY FOWLER, a senior at Hereford High School, was honored Friday night as the school's most outstanding Distributive Education student for the 1960-61 year. The award was presented during the annual DE banquet honoring employers. The affair was held in the Hereford High School cafeteria. (Staff Photo)

'Exodus' Pulls Tourist To Israel

By W. G. Rogers
NEW YORK (AP) — "Exodus" really means exodus, they are discovering in Israel.

"More tourists fly in to Tel Aviv with copies of Leon Uris' best-selling novel than with copies of the Bible," says Yohanan Beham, director of the Israel Government Tourist Office.

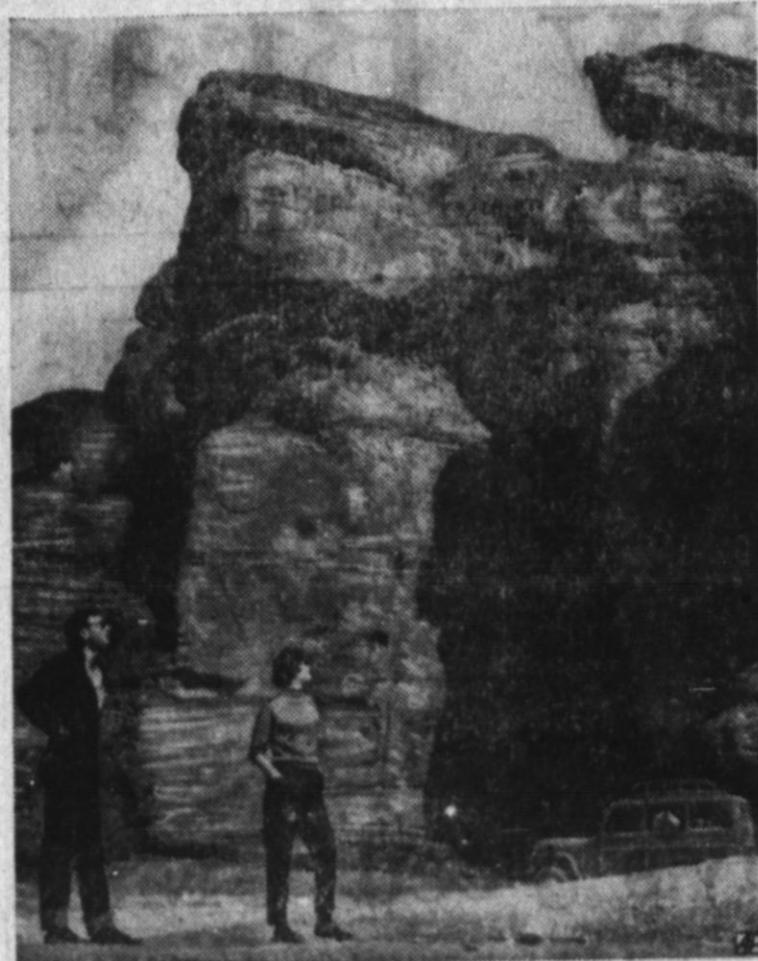

Do you want to see the fabled mines of King Solomon? Or do you want to see where Uris' heroes and heroines battled both the Arabs and the English? Do you want to sightsee in Acre, the Knights Templars stronghold, or Acre where Uris' Ari engineered the prison break? Do you want to see Mt. Canaan for Mt. Canaan's sake or because Uris' Sutherland lived in a villa across the road from your inn?

There is now an "Exodus" tour that you can arrange through your travel agent. There is also, of course, an "Exodus" dance in the repertory of the Israel company called Inbal — due to visit the United States soon. And for "Exodus" itself there are 400,000 hardbound copies in print, plus a paperback edition with a first printing of 2,900,000 called the biggest in paperback history.

Films Influenced Travel

Beham said there was hope, when Uris went to work on the successor to his popular "The Cry," that it might stimulate travel to Israel. He remarked on the influence of some films on the influx of visitors to Italy: "Roman Holiday" and "Three Coins in a Fountain," for Rome, and "Summertime," for Venice. The Italian State Tourist Office confirmed this: a lot more people than usual started tossing coins into the Trevi fountain in Rome, there was a measurable curiosity on the part of many tourists about which hotels the movie stars patronized.

EXODUS TO ISRAEL: Tourists are visiting Israel in record numbers — many of them lured by Leon Uris' best-selling book, "Exodus." Two such tourists view the Pillars of King Solomon's mines.

The tourist increase in Italy could not be stated in percentages but it was called "appreciable." But the Israel official had a percentage figure. Last year, the 10th anniversary of the founding of the modern state in the ancient Holy Land, travel jumped 70 per cent over the year before. This year, a 15 per cent decrease had been expected, there was a 20 per cent increase. Beham attributed it to three factors: General improvement in the political situation in the Eastern Mediterranean, the momentum built up last year, and "Exodus." No one can estimate how many more thousands of travelers will appear after the MGM film begins to show.

It was sort of planned this way. With an advance from Ray Cowser will preside for the first time as Mayor of Hereford at 7:30 p.m. Monday when the City Commission meets in regular session.

Teacher appreciation covered dish dinner, sponsored by the Alkman School PTA, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, April 20, in the school cafeteria.

The wind really blew Thursday and Friday. But, take my word for it, dirt was much worse south of here both days. Cars and trucks had their lights on for visibility on the South Plains and occasionally had to stop completely. The wind, however, caused some damage here in Hereford. At least one picture window gave out and collapsed, some roof tiles were blown off a business building and a garage collapsed. It was quite a blow.

It's easy to tell, however, that it really is spring. People are sporting new cars now, anticipating vacation trips to far-away places with strange sounding names... maybe like Umbarger.

It's Spring and the winds do blow. You say, "There must be some where better to which I can pack up and go." But it probably would be wet and wetter.

which saturated the area, blocking vegetable planting operations.

However, the moisture provided a boost to crops which had been planted and pre-irrigated fields to be planted. Planting of onions and potatoes started in the middle of March, and harvesting operations should begin the first or second week of July.

The surface has already been scratched in planting of carrots this year. Planting will continue through July.

Cotton planting will probably get underway in two or three weeks and get into full swing about the middle of May. Migrant laborers will probably start coming to the county to chop weeds in cotton fields a few weeks after the crop is planted.

Planting of approximately 170,000 acres of grain sorghum will start within a month.

his original publisher Doubleday, and from MGM, Uris went to Israel to investigate the fictional possibilities, and there he decided on a novel to cover the founding of the new state.

The Israeli government did not subsidize him, but took him on a trip to key points. He also visited Cyprus, where he opens his long fact-paced story, and several cities in Europe, including Warsaw, from which Jews fled to their promised land. Beham said his own original idea had been a lighter work more on the level of the entertainment provided by the Italian films. But Uris' somber account now appears to have been the proper, and the effective, approach.

hoped that in the near future all office work relating to the program at the ASC in Hereford will be completed and that notices will be mailed. The notices will show acreage and payment rate for the individual farm, and payment rate will vary.

Collier estimated that there are approximately 900 feed grain farms in Deaf Smith County.

The 1961 feed grain program recently authorized by Congress is a voluntary program designed to stop the building of the feed grain supply that is now at an all-time record high level.

The program offers all producers of corn and grain sorghum an opportunity to work together and in cooperation with the government in the task of improving the feed grain situation, Collier said.

The program provides for the voluntary reduction of corn and grain sorghum acreage from the 1959-60 base for these crops on individual farms. Farmers who make the reductions will receive payments for diverting the former corn or grain sorghum acreage to conservation uses.

For most farms, the payment will be higher than the probable net income from these acres if they were in production. The payment assures a farmer of a reasonable net income from the cropland taken out of corn or grain sorghum production regardless of drought, hail, excessive moisture or other crop damage.

For those who use their feed grain production on their own farms, the payment will be enough to purchase at market prices a quantity of feed grain equal to more than one-half the normal production from the diverted acres.

In addition, producers of corn and grain sorghum who take part in the program will be eligible for price support on 1961-crop corn, grain sorghum, barley, oats and rye.

Producers of grain sorghums and corn who did not cooperate with the program will not be eligible for price support on any of the 1961-crop feed grains they produce.

scoring.

Stevens got credit for the win as he allowed just four singles. He walked four and struck out three.

Francis Backus was the loser. He gave up five runs on six hits, walked two and struck out four. He also hit one batter.

Hereford was charged with one error and Nazareth with four during the game.

Jim Collier hit two singles in three trips to the plate for Hereford. Ronnie Botkin was two-for-two with three bunts. He was safe on two, given a sacrifice on the other and credited with one run batted in.

COCKTAILS ON MOON

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — "Throw a couple rocks in the pot and let's have a drink." This may well be the way lunar-based spacemen of the future will concoct a moon cocktail. Dr. Roy G. Brereton, a space age thinker for Aerojet-General Corp., reports his studies convince him that certain kinds of rock known to contain as high as 5 per cent water, can be found on the moon. "To get the water out of the rock for drinking," Brereton says, "will require a source of great heat. A mirror could be used to focus the sun's heat to the needed temperature, about 1,500 degrees centigrade. "This heat would be directed to a vat, or huge pan, in which the rocks were placed. When the water in the rocks got hot enough, it would rise in the form of steam. A dome would catch the steam and let it condense and drip off as useable water."

REMEMBER WHEN?

BY CHARLIE SEEDS

This was one of the most unusual championship fights in the history of boxing... a battle between the young champion, Floyd Patterson, and a 28-year-old amateur who had never had a professional fight, Pete Rademacher.

Rademacher had won the Olympic Gold Medal the previous year in Australia, knocking out all of his opponents to reach the top and take the heavyweight crown in the games. He was supposed to have a big punch... but all the experts scoffed at the match with Patterson. Pete didn't have a chance, they said. He didn't belong in the same ring with the champion.

The bout was held August 22 in Seattle. In the second round the experts swallowed their cigars when Rademacher caught Patterson with a solid right and knocked him to the canvas. But that was his big moment. After that the champion started cutting the amateur down. By the middle of the sixth round he had been decked six times. Then came the seventh - and - last knockdown... and the amazing amateur was counted out.

Remember the year? When a man bought a car that year he didn't want to put his money on a long shot. He wanted a "favorite"... a car that would keep a high resale value and give top performance!

The year was 1957. For a real "champion" in a new car today, years ahead in styling and guaranteed to give powerful performance you can't beat, see and drive the new 1961 Ford. And for a deal you can't beat, check our price, our trade, our terms, at CHARLIE SEEDS MOTOR Co., Inc. W. Hwy. 60. Phone EM-4-2727.

Squabbles Over Bridge Good For Married Life

By Norma Gauhn
Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK — If you're convinced your husband is the worst idiot who ever sat down to a hand of bridge...

If your wife incites you to mayhem by stupid bidding...

If you get purple faced at your mate over the card table and incline toward remarks as, "Why did you trump my ace, dear?"

You're probably on the way to a long and happy married life.

At least that's the theory of bridge expert Morton Rubinow. He firmly believes that husband and wife arguments over bridge are a fine thing psychologically.

"Hostilities are released at the card table," Rubinow says. "Couples let out pent up tensions and repressions that might crop up later at crucial times in their marriage."

However, a word of warning: when the bridge fight reaches the boiling point, husbands and wives should change partners. Too much bitterness can lead to bloodshed and Rubinow doesn't want to be responsible.

"The competitive elements of bridge," he says, "are similar to real life situations. Playing against your spouse in bridge, you can get in a dig while still playing within the rules.

"You can overbid your husband or double your wife or make an opponent squirm with a squeeze play. Instead of bickering over things that happen each day, many couples get it out of their system at bridge."

Rubinow, a bachelor, views bridge as a highly civilized, socially acceptable form of slaughter. Eyes shining, he says:

"It's not really a polite game. You trap your opponent in a bad play and you're there with a hatchet when he steps out!"

As for himself, Rubinow does not number many bridge players among his girl friends.

"Not to brag," he says, "but there's too big a gap between us. The best way to improve your game is to play with better opponents and that's what I like to do."

Rubinow is a former U. S. National Individual Bridge champion and U. S. Master's Team champion for 1959. He is a member of the Jacoby Team, official United States squad in the World Bridge Olympics to be held in Italy next year.

In his teaching, Rubinow has found that women are better bidders but men play their cards better. A man wants to play the hand and hates to be dummy, especially when playing with a woman.

"However," Rubinow says, "women don't persevere at the game. They don't get in a fight, concentrate, give the effort that's necessary. Women just don't care that much about games or nonpersonal activity."

That, he says, is one reason that among America's 35 million bridge players, only one woman to every 20 men is at the expert level.

Owners, partners, officers and those engaged in the selling and persons employed in the keeping of records as well as the growers of fruits and vegetables should plan to attend, Gault added.

Agenda for the clinic will include discussions of: contracts with growers, interpretation of trade terms and definitions under the Act, sale of produce, selling produce through brokers, shipments in dispute at destinuation and procedure in handling informal and formal complaints under the Act.

Points which will be taken up in discussion of contracts with growers will include importance of contracts in writing, advances to growers, growers' rights and liabilities, shippers' rights and liabilities and accounting to growers.

Under discussion in sale of produce will be advantages and disadvantages of selling by telephone, dealing directly with buyers' representatives, importance of proper use of PACA trade terms, advantages of using Federal-State inspection service at shipping point and importance of prompt written confirmation of contracts.

Play It Real Cool In Summer

By Vivian Brown
Beauty Editor

Keep cool if you'd look pretty this summer.

A game of sports such as tennis or golf needn't put you in the hot, perspiring class when the mercury soars. There are ways of beating the heat, and young people should employ them.

Dress comfortably. If you wear foundation garments, be sure they are light and not restricting. Launder them often as the human body can produce a gallon of perspiration on a single sweltering day. All aesthetic reasons aside, perspiration must be washed from foundation garments so their efficiency will not be weakened.

Wear well-fitting, but not tight-fitting, clothes made of porous fabrics. Cotton and linen or blends of these with some synthetic fibers will serve you best in dress. Young girls look lovely in crisp cottons.

A bath is an effective cooler in summer. Even if you shower right after your swim or game of badminton, climb into a bath for sheer relaxation. A warm bath will cool you off quicker than a cool one. Pat yourself dry. Pat a good quality, witch hazel over your body for a lovely cooling sensation. This is particularly effective if you've been out in the sun. Some people find it helps speed up the tan and allays peeling of the skin.

Use makeup sparingly. A person who is young and healthy can get along with lipstick and perhaps a little powder during the summer months. Heavy makeup — foundation cream or perish the thought, rouge, will bring your glamor stock down as the heat soars.

Sensible diet is important in summer. Combine hot and cold foods — meats, vegetables, light salads, fresh fruit, and plenty of dairy products. Don't limit yourself to cold foods.

If you go riding in a convertible car, wear a hat with a brim, preferably one that ties under your chin. This will help keep your face cool. Wear sunglasses. If the sun is beating down, a light cotton jacket may keep you cooler than a sleeveless dress.

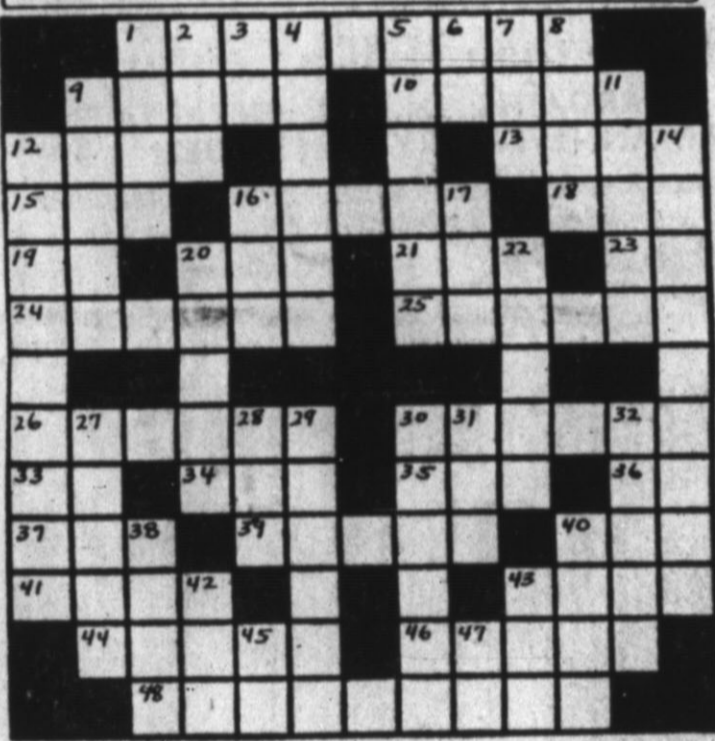

An invitation for a sailboat or power boat ride requires advance preparation. You'll need slacks or a long dress to protect your legs, and a straw bonnet to keep the sun from searching you.

If the program calls for swimming with dancing later, you should find out where you can shower, bathe, shampoo your hair and make up in comfort after the swim. Chances are, without freshening up, you will look like this dream girl when he takes you home.

Young people do not loiter for hours on the beach soaking up the sunshine as their older sisters did. An even tan can be had by careful sunning. The order of the day is the late afternoon swimming party with beach picnic to follow.

Painting Hint

When painting a house white in an industrial or smoky area, use paint with a zinc base, instead of white lead. Zinc combines chemically with sulphur in the smoke to form zinc sulphide, which is white. Thus, the smoke will help to keep your house white.

How To Camp Out In Comfort

BY LYDIA HICKFORD
When Dr. and Mrs. Anson Perina and their four children start on their annual camping holiday, they take a road that leads neatly between the primitive and the civilized life.

They rarely cook over an open fire. They have no tents. But they rough it, heading down in sleeping bags in their station wagon and specially-designed trailer, and are outdoors every moment of the day.

This happy compromise for the Morristown, N. J., family has been worked out after three month-long vacations in the more scenic areas of the United States and Canada.

"Tents are fine if you stay in one place," explains Adele Perina, vivacious and blond haired. "But we're as much sightseers as campers. We're interested in seeing the country, and camping makes it possible."

After the first trip—in tents—to Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, and Cape Breton Island, the Perinas designed plans for their trailer, and had it built according to their specifications.

The trailer's roof, hooked flat while in transit, pushes up at an angle to provide a screened area to accommodate three sleeping bags. The other three are stretched out in the station wagon.

Other units in the trailer are reached from the outside. There is a deep closet to hold the five-gallon gas tank, the ten-gallon water tank, and the family's rough weather gear.

Six built-in drawers, a yard square piece, hold clothing and personal possessions, including the treasures to be taken home. Each child has a key to this section.

The ice chest is housed in a built-in box just behind the coupling, and a drop-leaf shelf at the back of the trailer holds the gasoline stove. Behind it, is a large shelved storage area where groceries are kept, and where the stove is carried when the family is traveling.

The doctor's family has tossed time-honored camping customs to the winds. Mealtime is not a matter of opening a batch of cans, and mixing the contents. "We eat just the way we do at home," Mrs. Perina says. "We start out with a supply of fresh meat and fresh vegetables in the ice chest, and replace them as we travel. After all, we're not in the lush. Fresh supplies are readily available."

The Perinas' trip to Glacier, Banff and Jasper, and their expedition last year which led from Colorado to California, have been taken in company with another family whose views on camping are identical.

Anson Perina and Dr. W. W. (Bill) Howe of Rochester, N. Y., went to medical school together, and the families have been close friends. "We find it more fun to vacation with another family. Our children have companions for ball games and fishing trips."

Spontaneity is the theme of the joint expeditions. Sometimes the entourage travels no more than 40 miles a day, depending on what there is of interest to visit. Reservations aren't necessary, for they can pull up at a roadside picnic area, and park for the night, taking advantage of the picnic table and often an attractive stream. Last summer they spent $2 for sites in parks.

Even when the families hit San Francisco, they camped, spending nights at Big Basin State Park outside the city. It was here, says Mrs. Perina, that they had their only restaurant meal. They couldn't resist Chinatown.

Outside Disneyland, the campers set up in a county park. In Montana, a stranger invited them to park on her land. It turned out she had 6,000 acres.

The older Perina children, Anson, 17, and Barbara, 15, have not lost interest in these annual trips. Their mother thinks it's because they're touring as well as camping. This summer it will be Yellowstone and the Grand Tetons. After that?

"We've enjoyed these trips so much we're thinking about camping through Europe," says Mrs. Perina. "We can rent or buy a camp setup of foreign make over there, and go right on travelling."

With its numerous tributaries, the Congo River drains an African area totaling 1,450,000 sq. miles.

City Readies For Clean Up Week

Plans are almost complete on an intensive effort to clean up Hereford during the week of April 23-29. That will be the city's official Clean Up-Paint-Up-Fix Up Week and the start of a new program to continue throughout the year.

Mrs. Jimmie Gillentins, chairman of the clean up week efforts, announced that all trash would be collected and in containers in the alley by April 26, when city trucks will start making extra rounds.

She also urged that residents wrap all garbage in paper during the year to keep containers cleaner and to cut down on the number of files this summer.

New trash containers, painted and ready for delivery, may be obtained for $2.25 by calling City Hall. The barrels, 55 gallon size, will be delivered if desired. Lids for the barrels may be purchased from the city for $2.50 each.

Hereford this year will be entered in the 1961 Clean Town Contest. It will compete in one of eight population categories with towns of similar size. Last year more than 600 cities, towns and villages entered the nationwide contest.

The degree of improvement and the amount of participation by residents provide principal points for picking the winners. Trophies are given the winning towns.

A permanent plan for city beautification is being made by members of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce beautification committee, headed by Mrs. Irving Alexander.

Plans include planting of red geraniums this spring to carry out a central theme of color in the business and residential areas. Several other programs on beautification of approaches to Hereford, park improvements and business decoration also are being made.

Drama Writer

New York — Lucille Lortel has a favorite expression:

"Maybe something wonderful is going to happen!"

That — plus a tireless talent for tackling obstacles — keeps Miss Lortel up in the vanguard of theatrical reform. Whatever is offbeat, new and unusual lures her like a lamp does the moth.

Her thespic record qualifies this actress-turned-producer as the most persistent and influential sponsor of experiment in this show business capital.

Wave Pusher

Whenever any "new wave" venture comes along, the odds are on Lortel involvement. Tonnesco, Genet, Betti, Dos Passos, O'Casey are among authors she has helped to Gotham here.

Among performers, she gave initial opportunity to Geoffrey Holder, the Irish Playboys, Slobhan McKenna got a chance to do "Hamlet" for her. Other established players who tested untried talents include Eve Marie-Saint, Jo Sullivan, Helen Heckart.

Desperate Authors

"My biggest satisfaction is giving opportunity to performers, directors and — most of all to authors," she says. "Writers are the most frustrated of all — they come to me in desperation."

Miss Lortel began her unorthodox staging 14 years ago at the White Barn theater in Westport, Conn., where invitation audiences examine shows on summer weekends. Currently she is producing the fifth season of matinee performances on behalf of the American National Theatre and Academy at another theater she owns, the de Lys in Greenwich Village.

Wedding Present

Miss Lortel got into production following her marriage to Louis Schweitzer, well-to-do business executive. Her stage career included appearances with Helen Hayes in "Caesar and Cleopatra," with Judith Anderson in "The Dove" and with Florence Reed in "The Shanghai Gesture."

As a 23rd wedding anniversary present, Schweitzer bought her the de Lys theater in 1955 for experimentation — but the playhouse ever since has been an asset since its opening venture, "The Three Penny Opera."

The success of her plays is her answer to people who sometimes wonder why she concentrates exclusively on new oddities.

"What may be avant-garde today isn't necessarily going to be that 10 years from now," says Miss Lortel.

NOTHING SAVED

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) — James Herring decided to save some money by moving his own household goods to another address. He stacked his belongings on the porch and drove off with a load in his truck. When he returned he found someone had taken a refrigerator and a divan valued at $120.

BOOKWORM
ANADARKO, Okla. (AP) — Two TV repairmen thought Bob Dillmore's TV set was heavy when they started carrying it out of the house.

When they got outside, 40 pounds of books fell out of the bottom of the console.

The salt content of Great Salt Lake in Utah is about six times that of the ocean.

DOOR-TO-DOOR canvass for the annual Cancer Crusade will be conducted Monday night, April 17. Mrs. Nelson Rieger and Mrs. Arman Lauderback of the Les Meres Study Club get an early start to determine how the town should be divided. Mrs. Lauderback, chairman of the residential drive, asked that anyone interested in helping on the drive be at the Community Room of the First National Bank at 6:30 p. m. Monday. (Staff Photo)

BY JIMMIE GILLENLINE

An item of more than passing interest to people of this area popped up in Austin this week when Committee Chairman C. W. Pearcy of Temple submitted a proposal to annex Deaf Smith County to the J. W. Buchanan district. This would shift us from our present district represented by Jesse Osborn of Muleshoe. Most people I have seen are definitely opposed to such a change, chiefly because it would rob our area of any practical form of representation in the Texas House of Representatives.

The Buchanan district is composed of counties north of the Canadian River with heaviest population in Dumas, Dalhart and Spearman. Local opposition stems from the fact that the economic background and population in the Buchanan district are primarily oil and union labor, whereas our own area is one of the leading irrigation and farm economies of the Panhandle, and includes practically no union labor. Deaf Smith, in fact, is one of the very few counties in Texas which does not boast a single oil well. This makes little difference in our judicial district, but would certainly leave our area without any form of interested representation in the House.

Worse still, the Buchanan district now has some 35,000 votes which would always overwhelm our meager 4,000 ballots—and our voters would be balloting on issues in which they had absolutely no interest.

Meanwhile, the re-districting program seems to have been tabled for the present session, but this is an item in which all of us should be vitally interested. If you can find the time, write Jesse Osborn, House of Representatives, and Andy Rogers, Texas Senate. Now is a good time to get your preference on record—and it could become most important.

Robert T. Horn, Jr. High driver's ed teacher, probably sits on the biggest keg of dynamite in town, due to the age of his charges and the nature of his work. For sure, he is exposed to every joke and antic which comes along. The other day some of his boys asked:

"Mr. Horn, how do you pronounce the capital of Kentucky: 'Lewis' ville or 'Loeey' ville?" Mr. Horn admitted he wasn't sure, but noted that he usually said "Loeey"ville. "That's funny," responded the naive youngster, "I always called it Frankfort."

My heart honestly goes out to Mr. Horn. Two teenage youngsters keep me behind the eight ball half of the time. I don't know what I would do if I had them coming in droves and shifts. However, they all seem to like the old boy, or they sure wouldn't be heckling him.

Which reminds me, Sup!

day, including Jesse Stanford, Ray Conaway and Jim Robinson. They got to swapping yarns and came up with several startling bits of information, including the fact that the club met in its early days at the "Cattlemen's Cafe," which was located on the first block of Main. Ray says, "About where the Witherpoon law office now stands."

Jack Lacy talked to the DE club Friday night, and pointed out two facts: the DE students group represent the future of the capitalist system probably more than any other group in the world; second, they will begin life with a travel speed of 17,000 miles-per-hour and a 43-cent dollar.

He stressed changes seen in the world during the present generation. There really have been a lot—even since Jesse, Ray and Jim met in the Cattlemen's Cafe in 1929. At that time we traveled at 30-miles an hour; now the space missiles can make it around the earth in an hour and a half. If development during the next 50 years is equally as startling, it will mean ruination for the folks who write those little paperback books. Buck Rogers' episodes are already as old-fashioned as a Model T, and there aren't many people qualified to improve on them.

Despite all of this progress, we still seem to have just as many unreasonable people as ever. The Brand finally broke down and bought a sign after all of these years. Even Mayor Ray Cowser noted and mentioned it, but what got me was when he said: "It sure would be nice if it would light up at night!"

I figured that Emmett Milburn went a bit far when he bought his wife a bird dog for Christmas, but now I hear that Lee Benefield has topped the deal. Lee bought his wife a wee, tiny baby Shetland pony for her birthday. I don't know how these deals are working out, but I imagine the result is somewhat like the time I bought my wife a printing press, when she had her hair set on a new car. Things were tough enough from the start, but the printers heard about the deal and every time she came into the office, they would point to the press and say:

"Your new car sure is running nice this morning!" Then they would carefully point out all of the automatic features, which generally had the same effect as waving a red flag in front of a bull.

Bill Patton took a bunch of Key Club members to a convention in Waco last week-end, and says he never dreamed that youngsters could be so well behaved and well mannered. "I am sure their parents would not believe how well they conducted themselves," declares Bill, "but it really was a pleasure to be with them"

Eula Lee Cave's dog, "Kandy," is also as well-mannered and behaved, but the pooch has developed at least one unusual habit, which Eula Lee swears didn't come from observing her mistress. Kandy always sits on the drug store booth and, while Eula Lee drinks coffee, Kandy filches wads of chewing gum which people have discarded and stuck under the table tops. Doublemint is Kandy's favorite flavor, but she appears to stress quantity above quality—and goes for the bigger wads everytime.

Three charter members of the Lions Club were honored at a special ladies night Thurs-

SPACE PILOTS

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — Space pilots who will fly in the Dyna-Soar — the most advanced weapon system under development today — will be chosen because of their experience and not their age.

Planes, official publication of the Aircraft Industries Ass'n., says the pilots selected for the initial flight on the Dyna-Soar — a manned boost-glide vehicle with orbital flight potential — will be approximately five feet tall, and weigh between 150 and 175 pounds. Their training will include being whirled in huge centrifuges and making simulated space flights with many of the expected conditions duplicated.

The first residents of the White House in November, 1800, were President and Mrs. John Adams.

PRUIT-RITZEL

Vows Are Exchanged In Amarillo Chapel

Miss Royce Lee Pruitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pruitt, of Hereford, became the bride of Robert J. Ritzel of Utica, N. Y., Friday at 5 p.m. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Ritzel, 1310 Seymour, Utica, N. Y.

Scene of the wedding was the Amarillo Air Force Base Chapel Number 2, with Chaplain Rodney N. Wurst, 3320 Retaining Group, performing the ceremony.

Double ring vows were exchanged as the couple stood before an altar surrounded by basket arrangements of yellow roses and fern. The glow of candlelight from tall tapers in candle trees enhanced the setting.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white arnel taffeta, which was designed and made by her mother. The basque bodice, abbreviated portrait neckline and long sleeves terminating in petal points over the hands were set off by the free-swinging bell-shaped skirt, which was deeply scalloped and ended in a chapel trail.

Her stately coronet made of lace and heavily enriched with shimmering pearls held the waist-length veil of misty illusion. She carried out the traditional "something old, something new; something borrowed, something blue" and was wearing a penny minted in the year of her birth in one of her bridal slippers. The bridal bouquet was a large cattleya orchid surrounded by roses, which was carried atop a white Rainbow Bible.

Attired in a yellow arnel taffeta and lace frock, Miss Merry Kay Pruitt, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Her sleeveless dress featured a fitted bodice, simple portrait neckline and bouffant skirt. She wore matching accessories of yellow opera pumps and three-quarter length gloves and on her head was a wide yellow lace bandeau with a pert half veil of yellow tulle. Floral accessories were yellow carnations fashioned into a quaint nosegay.

A-3C Billy Waddell of Cincinnati, Ohio was best man, A-3C Richard Griner and A-3C Michael Monti, 3338th School Squadron in Amarillo, served as ushers.

The bride's mother chose a dress of lilac embroidered linen with matching flower hat for her daughter's wedding. She wore a corsage of white carnations.

The Amarillo Air Force Base Chapel organist provided appropriate nuptial selections during the ceremony.

Reception Follows
Following the ceremony, a reception honoring the newly married couple was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Hoover, uncle and aunt of the bride. The bride's table carried out the chosen colors of yellow and white. The table was laid with a yellow net tablecloth, caught into scallops at intervals with yellow roses. Centering the table was a tiered wedding cake placed on a mirror, which reflected the table appointments of silver and crystal.

Misses Kathy, Sandra and Joyce Hoover, cousins of the bride, assisted at the table service.

How Can I?

Q. What is a good "home-made" mixture to use for removing old wallpaper from the walls?

A. Mix up a quart of flour paste, add it to a pail of piping hot water. Swallow over the wall and let it soak in. Being thick, it won't dry very quickly, which gives you time to scrape the paper off.

Q. How can I repair holes in plastered walls, at the same time eliminating the necessity of repainting the entire room?

A. Try adding some food coloring to your patching plaster, mixing the colors to blend in with the walls as nearly as possible.

Q. How can I facilitate the job of laundering very dirty curtains?

A. A half-cup of salt added to the water in which the curtains are being soaked loosens the dirt more rapidly and aids materially in the laundering process.

Following a short wedding trip, the couple will be at home at 3901 E. 18th St. in Amarillo.

The bride was graduated from Hereford High School, where she was active in National Honor Society, and Order of the Rainbow for Girls and served as president of Future Homemakers of America. She has attended Draughon's Business College in Amarillo since her graduation.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding and subsequent reception were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Nunn, Sandra, Don, John and Top of Frio; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoover, Connie and Debbie of Hereford; Mr. and Mrs. Allen Hoover, Kathy, Joyce and John of Amarillo; Bruce Collins of Walcott; and A-3C and Mrs. Billie Waddell of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Czechoslovakian Dishes Appear On School Menus

(Editor's Note: Each month the Hereford public school cafeterias adds a foreign dish or dishes to its menu. This is done through the cooperative efforts of the Food and Health Committee of the Country Planning Council and the Hereford school system. The following story tells of the new menu additions this month and also gives recipes so they may be prepared at home.)

By Mrs. J. A. McAndrews

The Czechoslovakia mentioned here is not the country which exists today. The people of Czechoslovakia today find their food shipped out of their country and their stores and markets with a very poor supply. Perhaps their hearts are too heavy to enjoy it if it was to be had.

Of all the peoples of Eastern Europe, occupation by Russia was probably the hardest for the proud Czechs to bear. They considered themselves almost a part of the United States; not perhaps, a state such as Ohio but very much a state such as Texas. They admired the ideals of democracy and were bound so closely by ties of blood (almost every household has a son, daughter or cousin in the United States) and by ideals, that the very thought of Communism was just a joke and one not in very good taste at that.

In Hereford we have many people who are proud of their Czechoslovakian ancestry. They also enjoy the fluffy kolaches, the tasty soups, the zesty sausage that enhance the cuisine of the Czech kitchen.

The recipes appearing today are for kolaches, a very light, yeast bun filled with a fruit mixture. Poppy seeds are ground very fine and made into a paste and are used to fill these in many communities in the United States where a great many Czechoslovakian people live. The other recipe is for fried apples. These are a fine accompaniment to any pork entree. The recipe that appears here for kolaches is a very good one. These may also be made with your own light roll recipe, shaping them with a depression in the center and filling with any fruit preserves.

Kolaches
1 pkg. dry yeast in 3/4 cup potato water
1/2 pound of butter margarine or 1/2 cup cream plus 1/4 cup lard
1 egg
1 and 1/2 cups scalded milk
1/3 cup sugar

Beat egg, add yeast mixture, lukewarm milk, melted shortening and sugar. Add enough flour gradually to make a smooth paste. Let rise 15 minutes. Add enough more flour to make a dough that is just a little sticky when tested with a spoon handle. It is important not to get the dough too stiff. Let rise double and scrape the sides and fold to center. When it rises about three-fourths, roll in palm of hand and make small buns. (It is well to butter one's hands or flour them while doing this.) Put about an inch and a half apart on a greased pan. Grease tops and let rise 15 minutes. With both hands shape on a greased pan. Grease tops and let rise 15 minutes. With both hands, shape the dough into a hollow with a thin, round rim all around. Fill center with well cooked, pitted prunes, chopped fine, seasoned to taste with cinnamon, sugar and vanilla. This filling may be topped with a mixture of butter, sugar and flour before baking or with coconut just before the kolaches are taken from the oven so it toasts to a golden brown.

After filling, let rise in a warm place about 15 minutes more, then bake in a hot oven, 425 degrees, until brown. You will notice in this recipe there is no definite amount of flour called for. You are expected to use your own judgement. The reason for this is that flours vary and since this is a very light, fluffy bread the less flour used, the lighter will be the finished product, but remember, you will have to shape it into buns so it is necessary for you to experiment to get the right amount. You may use any fruit preserve for the filling.

Fried Apples
8 large cooking apples (or two cans of unsweetened apples)
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon bacon fryings
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 tablespoons white sugar
1/2 tsp. salt

Wash and slice apples in 1/4 inch rounds; start them in the skillet with the butter and bacon fryings; cover and let cook until they are almost done. Then add the sugar, salt and cinnamon. Finish cooking.

The typical Czechoslovakian is as follows:

Sausage
Fried Apples
Sauerkraut with caraway seeds
Kolaches
Milk

No wedding, no celebration, no festival in Czechoslovakia is complete without sauerkraut with a sprinkling of caraway seed as flavoring. This is often served with roast duck or goose, are very fond of serving on festive occasions and which your own taste will tell you would blend most elegantly with the robust flavor of the sauerkraut.

Let us hope the day will come when the Czechs are once again a free people and can enjoy the delicious products of their own fields and tilling in the form of some of the above mentioned delicacies.

Next month we will sample a German Torte and find out what an American version of Wiener Schnitzel is like.

TEXAS AND FEDERATION DAY was observed Tuesday by the Pioneer Study Club with a luncheon meeting. Members and guests gathered in the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas building, where they heard reports and an interesting program given jointly by Mrs. Ralph McCullough and Mrs. O. G. Hill Sr. (Staff Photo)

Pioneer Club Holds Luncheon

The Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas building was the scene Tuesday for Pioneer Study Club's monthly luncheon meeting.

Quartet tables were laid with bright yellow tablecloths and centered with bouquets of yellow spring flowers. Pale pink china was used to carry out the color scheme of pink and yellow.

Hostesses for the affair were Mesdames C. N. McClure, M. L. Simpson, Sr., W. C. Thomas, Mary Seigler and A. L. Manjeot.

Mrs. Ralph McCullough, Pioneer president, presided over the business meeting, at which a report was heard on the needs of the Migrant Mission. It was announced that the State Federation of Women's Club, convention would be held in Midland May 13.

Tuesday, April 25, was set as the date for a tea to be given in honor of the Golden Age Group. The Flame Room will be the setting for that event.

Club members voted to send a monetary donation to the Indowment fund for the State Federation Club Home in Austin and also to support the Deaf Smith County Beautification campaign, which was explained by Mrs. W. C. Thomas and Mrs. A. L. Manjeot. Both women are active in that campaign and head committees. It was also explained that red geraniums are leading the field of flowers for a Town Flower. Pioneer Study Club will donate geraniums to local organizations to help establish the flower.

Mrs. McCullough also said that Pioneer Study Club will host the Top Of Texas District Workshop here sometime next fall.

Mrs. Ray Johnson presented the program on Texas and Federation Day. Roll call featured "Texas in Review." Reports on the recent district meeting in Pampa were heard from Mrs. O. G. Hill Sr. and Mrs. Ralph McCullough following the program.

Mrs. Hill spoke chiefly on adult education and the importance of this in the national picture.

"Interest and enrollment in this program hit a new high stated. "It was three times larger than in previous years. Some of the avenues for adult education can be traveled through churches, libraries and arts and crafts workshops."

Mrs. McCullough used as her topic "What You Should Know about Men." She stated that women should be continually on the alert to keep their companions happy by sharing interests and a willingness to listen. She went on to say that men were under continual strain and should have the privilege of coming home to a peaceful household.

Attending were Mesdames Fred Barrett, Allen Bell, J. E. Byer, Henry Hastings, J. M. Gilliland, Burl France, O. G. Hill Sr., W. C. Thomas, Ray Johnson, F. M. Kester, L. H. Lookingbill Sr., A. L. WAGGONER-RETTMAN

Couple Repeat Vows In Dimmitt Church

Mr. and Mrs. David William Rettman are at home at 106 W. Seventh St. in Hereford after their recent marriage at the Lee St. Baptist Church in Dimmitt, The Rev. R. C. Guest, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride, formerly Karrol Joyce Waggoner, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Waggoner of Dimmitt. The bridegroom is the son of C. A. Rettman, Route 1, Hereford.

The marriage space was decorated with arrangements of white gladioli and snapdragons in baskets tied with white satin streamers and tulle love-knots. The main aisle was marked at pew corners with white satin bows.

The bride, escorted and given in marriage by her father, was wearing a ball-rin length gown of white chantilly lace over matching taffeta. Styled with fitted bodice, portrait neckline and below-elbow sleeves, a slipper satin cummerbund at the waistline emphasized the bonfant skirt. Her only jewelry was a pair of pearl earrings, gift of the bridegroom.

Her elbow-length veil of illusion was held by a Juliet cap formed of white velveteen tear drops accented with tiny seed pearls. She carried a crescent-shaped bouquet of white gladioli set in tulle puffs and trailing white satin streamers tied in love knots.

Miss Maxine McCormick of Midland was maid of honor. She wore a ballerina length dress of pink chiffon over taffeta, styled with a softly flaring skirt and short bodice jacket with puffed sleeves. Black patent leather accessories and a colonial nosegay of white mums completed her ensemble.

Miss Donna Kay Waggoner of Dimmitt, sister of the bride, was candlelighter. She chose a dress of sky blue dacron, which was fashioned with a pleated bodice inset with matching lace and a skirt with unpressed pleats.

Ivan Bishop of Muleshoe served as best man. Eugene Howard of Muleshoe and Merton Powell of Dimmitt ushered.

Traditional wedding music was provided by Mrs. Howard Bridges of Sunnyside, organist, and Mrs. J. Paul Waggoner, soloist. Included in the nuptial selections were "Always" and "I Love You Truly."

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. The bride's table carried out her chosen colors of blue and white. The table was laid with white lace over blue and centered with a tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bridal couple. Tall blue candles in crystal holders flanked the centerpiece, Miss Joyce Slough of Dimmitt presided at the cake service, while Miss Frances Lane of Dimmitt served punch and coffee.

When the newlyweds left for a short wedding trip to Carlsbad, N. M., the bride was wearing a navy and white checked suit with navy trim and matching accessories. The bride was graduated from Dimmitt High School and attended Draughon's Business College in Lubbock. The bridegroom was graduated from Hereford High School and is employed at Ferry-Morse Seed Co., Hereford.

TV Hero Declares Marriage Is Risky

GARDNER MCKAY . . . Doubts he'll find his dream girl.

By Vivian Brown
Newsfeatures Writer

"Marriage is a risky business, no matter how you look at it," says 27-year-old bachelor Gardner McKay.

"It's not just the 75 per cent tax bite. I can't see myself in the married role right now, because I'm a worshiper of marriage," explains the tall, dark and handsome actor.

The average girl treats marriage as "sweet drudgery and enforced labor," Gardner would have us believe.

A typical wife, he says, takes this attitude:

"Oh, I've got to do those dishes. It'll only take me a couple of hours, then I'll be with you, dear."

Their home is likely to be anything but the romantic setting a man visualizes, he says. But whether Gardner knows it or not, girls, he's getting ripe for marriage, because nostalgia has reached the stomach.

"I'm bored eating in restaurants. I pass seven restaurants on the way to the studio set in the morning. Each day I try to choose a different one. Then I try to vary the menu. One day creamed chipped beef; the next, French toast. It's disgusting. The food at the studio lot is good, so I eat lunch there every day. But it's not a home cooked meal," Gardner says wistfully.

His dream girl must accept marriage and her home as a lovely experience, but he doesn't know that he'll meet her.

"The only girl who comes close to my ideal is my cleaning woman," he says. "She is 55 years old, plays the horses, but takes her work in cheerful stride. I may marry her yet."

Gardner remembers a girl he liked — the cheer leader at Darian, Conn., High School where he played football and basketball. They were 15 at the time. He spent a year at the school, and he has wonderful memories of those fun days.

An outdoor type, he hunts, fishes, skin-dives.

The 6-ft.-5 star of "Adventures in Paradise" is a many-faceted individual. After two years at Cornell he became a copywriter with an advertising agency in New York, but gave it up because his accounts had one thing in common: they were boring. He sculpts free-form designs in metal (two are in museums) and is a big man with the camera, having sold a number of pictures, including some of the Andrea Doria ship collision. He was aboard the Ile de France at the time.

Gardner majored in English. He wanted to be a writer.

"I suddenly realized I didn't have that much to say, although I think I have a good way of saying it," he remarks.

A date with a girl in Los Angeles is likely to be for a film show or a concert.

"I work hard so I don't get involved as much as other fellows. I'm on the set at ABC studios at 7 a.m. for makeup and work through until 8 p.m., then I go home to rehearse the next day's script. I'm in a coma on Saturdays, relax on Sundays."

Once in a while Gardner invites a girl to watch him play basketball on the studio lot, but he doesn't know why "girls don't have proper instincts," he says.

"I started the team, so wouldn't you think the average girl would understand that I'd get depressed if we lost? But, no, they expect me to be the life of the party after the game, win or lose."

He likes feminine women.

"They should wear skirts instead of slacks, and figure out how men like them to dress instead of worrying about what other women think. It's too much trouble for some women to be feminine. Ask a girl why she doesn't wear a skirt, and she's

FOR RECENT BRIDE Knox Home Is Scene For Bridal Courtesy

Mrs. Billy Paul Knox, the former Joan Baker of Amarillo, was honored with a bridal shower Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Reuben Knox, 104 Elm St. Mrs. Marvin Knox, Mrs. Earl Huckabee and Mrs. Elmer Patterson assisted as co-hostesses for the post-nuptial courtesy.

Guests were greeted by the hostesses and introduced to the honoree and her mother, Mrs. O. B. Baker of Amarillo.

The refreshment table was spread with a white cutwork maderia cloth, centered with a bouquet of jonquils and forsythia in an antique cut glass bowl. Dainty tea cakes, iced in yellow and white, were attractively arranged on crystal serving platters. Mrs. P. A. Venzey of Amarillo and Mrs. Troy likely to wine 'Oh, I want to be comfortable.'"

Every girl, says Gardner, should learn the words of the Rodgers and Hammerstein song, "I Enjoy Being a Girl," if she would appeal to men.

Here are a few lines:

"I adore being dressed in something frilly . . ."

"When I have a brand new hairdo with my eyelashes all in curl."

"I drool over dresses made of lace."

Hudson of Borger, sisters of the bride, presided at the silver coffee service and crystal punch-bowl.

The honoree was presented a corsage of hyacinth blossoms tied with white and gold ribbon.

Approximately 25 guests called between the hours of 3 and 5 p.m.

Q. How can I make a good and handy cement for broken dishes?

A. Melt some powdered alum in a spoon over a gas flame. While this is still soft, rub the melted alum over the edges of the two pieces you want to stick together, then press them together, and let dry. It will be all right to wash the dish in hot water.

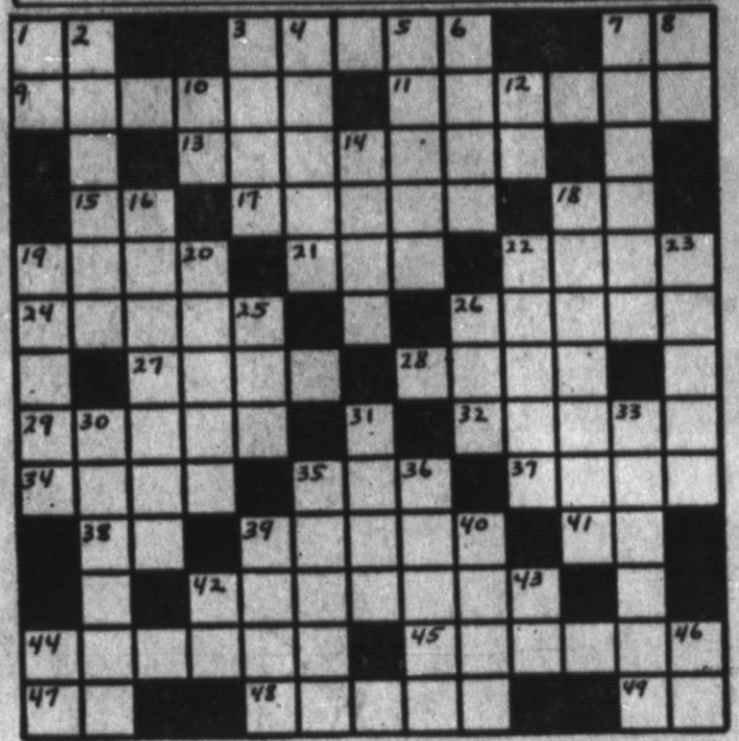

Q. How can I remove scorch marks from fireproof dishes?

A. Soak the dishes in a strong solution of borax water. The marks can then be easily rubbed off.

Q. How can I prevent fish from sticking to the pan while frying?

A. Put a teaspoonful of salt into the pan and rub thoroughly with waxed paper.

'Man In Space' Today; What Comes Tomorrow?

Soviet ejection of a man into outer space this week is being hailed as an accomplishment parallel to the discovery of America, firing of the first atom bomb and discovery of the wheel. People of the United States, it seems, are almost overwhelmed by the news as are the Russians.

Without question, the achievement is newsworthy and meritorious. Most of us have known for several months that the accomplishment was coming, and most of us have felt that it would be the Soviets who made this first flight. The big question now depends entirely upon how the Russians will use this accomplishment. Will they attempt to use it for the benefit or for the enslavement of mankind?

In addition, it should also be realized that the "break through" in the space race is only the beginning of the real battle. The true victory, in this race actually depends on other factors, including application of the knowledge gained and the ability to produce equipment at competitive costs.

When Lindbergh crossed the Atlantic in a solo flight, for instance, the world observed a break-through in accomplishment. As a result, hundreds of air lines now cross the oceans daily. The United States is the leader in this field, not because Lindbergh made the first flight -- but because we harnessed our Yankee ingenuity to produce equipment, train fliers, and organize practical flight operations. The Russian penetration of outer space, it seems to us, will follow pretty much the same pattern. Such, at least, would be the general American outlook. Adapted only for military purposes, it may well follow other lines of thinking.

From the military standpoint, it seems that the next step will be development of a counter-weapon; one, in other words, which will bring these high flying pilots down before they can damage other nations. Russia has already set a precedent along this line in their protest against high flying U. S. planes in 1960, following which one of our pilots was sentenced in Kremlin courts. Such a protective weapon, no doubt, will be developed -- and probably on both sides.

Let us further remember the United States did not develop the first rockets or the first jet engines but, today, we stand supreme in production and operations in both fields.

Regardless of genius and fanfare, the ultimate growth and success of any nation has always been based upon the stability and stick-ability of its people. There is an old saying that England loses all of the battles except the last one, and this small area for many years exerted more influence than any other nation in the world. This is a factor which should ever be foremost in our thinking. Leadership is fine, but without wholehearted national cooperation it can most easily follow the deplorable trend of agricultural production in the Soviet Union.

Fundamentally, our present clash with Russia still carries the aspect of "Christianity vs. Atheism" -- and this provides the greatest division of opinion the two nations are likely to encounter. Some people say that America, too, is drifting away from Christianity and, if this be true, the fundamentals will certainly alter. Mostly, our policies do not indicate such a trend, however, and regardless of the weapons used, the battle lines appear to be formed on this specific issue.

These same accusations of deterioration, "indifference and degradation" were hurled by Hitler and Mussolini -- and the United States still survives. Much the same outcome will occur with the Russians, provided we are willing to roll up our sleeves and battle on all fronts for the basic principles which we teach our children, tell ourselves, and declare daily as our heritage and fundamental beliefs.

Can Hereford Be Panhandle Oasis

Clean-Up time is here again. The annual drive is scheduled to open April 23, and the appeal is to continue it for the next 12 months.

Organization of the plan this year appears more complete than usual. We have a beautification committee, a parks improvement group and several other new additions. The goal is not only to improve the community, but to keep it clean and make it increasingly beautiful for the coming year.

Several other towns and communities have found similar plans most satisfactory, and highly profitable; some have even created tourist meccas with the growth and promotion of specific flowers. Many citizens of Hereford, in recent years, have travelled the "Azalea Trail" on chartered buses. Citizens of these communities say, however, that their greatest reward has been that of personal satisfaction -- and this we can readily believe.

Without general cooperation, the local plan is doomed before it begins. With wide interest and participation, Hereford can become a beauty spot of Highways 60-385, just as it was heralded in previous years as "The Town of Windmills" and the "Town of Beautiful Trees". We have the natural resources, chiefly good soil and ample water, to once again become known as an "Oasis of the Panhandle".

The way to accomplish this measure is to listen, carefully read all plans -- and do your part as a citizen who is proud of his home and of his community. Otherwise, the program will be another burst of enthusiasm, doomed to die a natural death.

Beet Growers On Way To Success

If persistence counts -- and it always has -- the sugar beet expansion program is on its way to becoming a reality.

Instead of taking a long count following passage of the 15-month Sugar Act, county and regional grower associations came out of their corners fighting this week -- and ear marked some $30,000 to keep their cause alive.

Individual growers and association leaders discovered that things were far better than they sounded; they decided that victory was much nearer than any of them realized, and they chose to fight for the right of the American farmer to compete for quotas which have been ineffectively doled out to Cuba and other cane producing areas.

Facing what might be termed "an impossible situation", the Deaf Smith and Panhandle growers have come a long way in a short time. Today, domestic production of sugar is considered by many as practical where, 12 months ago, it was not considered at all. Several producing companies are currently considering refinery locations in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico where, 12 years ago, the same concerns discouraged all delegations approaching them.

Mostly, though, it is the spirit of the growers and leaders which will finally win the victory and shift a major portion of America's sugar production back to the United States. These people are asking for sound, feasible production which can only improve conditions in our nation -- and they do not expect to take "No" for an answer.

The POWER of FAITH by Howard Brodie

"The Lord reigneth . . . let the multitude of isles be glad thereof."

Eleanor Wilson quoted the 97th Psalm, as she took command of the missionary ship, Morning Star VI, four years after World War II. She was the last American woman out of the Marshall and Caroline Islands at the war's start, and the first to return after the end. She studied navigation herself and learned from a Navy airman how to plot a course. Then she sailed dangerous waters, teaching and preaching on atolls. Today at 68, she still sails the Pacific.

"We have seen the enduring evidence of the Morning Star missionaries," wrote Admiral Nimitz, during the war. "They have planted the seed of faith which the cruel strain of enemy conquest could not wither."

Eleanor Wilson is one of the nearly 5000 missionaries who have brought health, knowledge and inspiration to the world during the history of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions of the Congregational Churches, now celebrating its 150th anniversary.

Does Mysterious Plant Hold Secret Of Youth?

BY MRS. K. L. CRISWELL

Did you ever hear the story of the Alo-vera plant which is supposed to be native of Florida? It is rather interesting and if true it should be analyzed and studied by scientists. It could be of great value to mankind. The story goes -- Many years ago there was an Indian tribe that lived in Florida and its women were known for their great beauty of complexion. Their skin was as smooth as the softest silk. The tribe, in general, lived long lives but did not show their age, especially the women. A woman of 80 or 90 looked no older than those of this day and age look at 35 or 40.

An inquiring reporter decided to learn more about them and went to Florida, became acquainted with them and persuaded one of the older women to accompany him to New York to be interviewed over the radio. She was 104 years old. When the time came for her to go on the air, the people who saw her were amazed. Her skin showed very few signs of age, and her general appearance was that of a woman less than half her age. She could not speak English, but through an interpreter told this story:

"Oh yes, she was 104 and many of her tribe lived to be older by a number of years. "But your skin is so soft and wrinkle-free; what have you used over the years to keep it in such good condition?" she was asked.

"It is a secret of our tribe that has been handed down from one generation to another," she replied. "Usually there were only two or three people who knew how to make the solution. It had to be made almost every day in the warm weather of Florida as it would spoil if kept too long before using."

"Would you be willing to give someone the secret so it could be used by others?" she was asked.

"No, it is a tribal secret and must never be revealed to anyone outside the tribe," she said.

"Would you sell it?"

"No. No!"

"Some cosmetic company would pay you a very large amount of money if you would let them know of it," she was told.

"No amount of money would tempt anyone of the tribe who held the secret to tell it," she stated.

"Would you tell us one of the ingredients?"

"Yes, the main ingredient is taken from the Alo plant which grows in Florida," she pointed

CHAMBER SEEKING SQUARE DEVELOPMENT

Olton Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture directors Tuesday wholeheartedly endorsed an effort to see what can be done with the one time hospital now sitting vacant in the middle of Olton's square. A group representing the Chamber met with District Judge E. A. Bills at Littlefield and discussed possibilities of starting movements to rejuvenate the long unused area. No one in the group was certain how any sort of effort to remove the hospital from litigation might be accomplished. Ideas expressed on the project ranged from turning the building back into a hospital or some other type venture, to tearing down the building and turning the square into a business site.

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bindweed farm lets the world problems slide this week and discusses responsibility, about which he wouldn't be classified as an expert.

Dear editor:

A successful business man stopped by this bindweed farm out here the other day and looked the place over and shook his head and propped his foot on an old cultivator wheel grown up in weeds in the corner of a fence and without being asked by me said, "Now I'll tell you, what you need out here is some serious planning. You got to plan your work to get a place like this organized and straightened out."

I thanked him and said I'd see what I could do about it, without adding that I was way ahead of him and what I already saw was that I wasn't going to do anything about it.

I wouldn't say this place suits me exactly like it is, but on the other hand the amount of work I'd take to change it wouldn't suit me either. I figure if I'm going to be dissatisfied a little, I'd rather be dissatisfied comfortable than worn-out.

As a matter of fact, I have done some serious planning about this farm, in fact, I'm years ahead in my planning, but I found out long ago if I did everything I planned to do, I never would have time to do the things I don't plan, and frequently they're more fun.

In this connection, I was reading a criticism of the government the other night and this man was saying the government is trying to do too much for people. "The government," he said, "is making the shirking of responsibility easy."

I'd just like to say this is one more case of unwarranted criticism of our government. I've got more faith in the individual, and anybody who has to rely on the government to help him shirk his responsibilities, just doesn't know the first thing about shirking. He's not half trying.

Why the ability to shirk your responsibility hasn't got anything to do with the government. People were shirking their responsibilities back in the days when the government did practically nothing, when it didn't even build highways and it was every farmer's job to keep the road up in front of his house and people were always getting stuck in front of mine.

This idea that the government can make it easy for you to shirk your responsibilities is just another half-baked dream. Nobody can make it easy for you, it's hard, but if you have the strength of character, you can do it.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Highway Firms Note Progress

Well ahead of schedule, and long before any of us realize it, U. S. Highway 60 will be back in operation through town with a modern, four-lane roadway.

Most firms along the route through town have operated under difficulty but, we are happy to say, many of them have taken advantage of the lull to improve their own facilities with the idea of making up for lost time when the road is reopened.

Removal of the city dump grounds a few years back was the first step along the line of improvement. Modernization of existing structures and addition of many new establishments will tend to make the Deaf Smith County strip one of the most attractive along the transcontinental route of this great highway.

Highway 60 is a transportation artery which has served the community well, and from what we can see it is destined to provide an even greater service for us in years to come.

The Aloe is spoken of in the Bible in several ways. One, that it comes from the wood of a tree which is very fragrant, and the other is spoken of as a perfume and it was also used in embalming.

Today's dictionary says it is either a fragrant wood or is made from a liliaceous plant or plants. The plant is described as a rather small succulent plant with thick fleshy leaves. When the leaves are broken they contain a green jelly like substance and this "jelly" is what is used to make the cream or lotion or what have you.

Here is a more modern story. A secretary had a number of the plants in her office growing with other plants in a large container. An elderly man came in and asked if she would sell several of the larger plants.

She did not care to sell them, but gave him the number he wished and wanted to know why he was interested in buying them. It seems that his little grand daughter had acne and he wanted her to use the "jelly" for it. In two days the change in her skin was amazing. It had almost cleared completely.

Would it prove harmful to some and heal others? I do not know but thought the story was interesting and so I pass it on to you.

to call you, but your little boy... etc., etc." I get a sinking feeling in the pit of my stomach and think to myself "What in this world has he done now."

Modern mothers have many problems with which to cope. My greatest trial is teaching a child to live in a world that is not governed entirely by childhood rules.

I have no delusions as to the behavior of my children. They are just as onery and rambunctious as any other youngster. But I also know their good points. They are honest and affectionate, and, coming from a sports-loving family, they know the basic concepts of fair play. My eldest spent the early years of his life in the toughest environment (as far as I'm concerned) that exists... a housing development for married students at a nearby university.

Talk about problems... that was a mess. Nearly every couple had two or more children, all as energetic and mischievous as monkeys.

In the summertime it was murder. Many of the parents attended classes together, leaving children of all ages, sizes and colors to play in the large playground for the day. Driving by, it looked something like pictures you've seen of a snakepit. You honestly couldn't stir them with a stick.

After living there for two years and one near-drowning four tetanus shots and one broken nose later, I thought my son could hold his own with the best of them.

Most of these children's parents were of the progressive school; that is, they thought to spank a pink little bottom would bruise the kid. I didn't agree. I would pick a bruised kid over a broken antique pitcher any day of the week.

Children are funny little creatures. As long as there are little girls, there will be smeared lipstick, clomping high heels and dolies to be bathed. And as long as there are little boys, there will be footballs, B-B guns and rocks to be thrown. (If I remember correctly, a little boy killed a giant one time with just a rock and a slingshot).

Children have to play together and also have to fight. It's all part of that wonderful process of growing up. You know kids, youngsters may be bitter enemies one day... and bosom buddies the next.

But how many of you readers know mothers that contend their offspring can do no wrong? To hear them tell it, they are never in trouble, always are congenial and wear bright shining halos. (I must be wearing 3-D glasses... I keep seeing a pair of horns sticking up!)

Fortunately, my children are brats. I wouldn't have them any other way... If they behave nicely, I run for the thermometer and a couple of aspirins... because they're bound to be sick.

An incident occurred recently that caused me to take another look at my oldest child. He came galloping into the house, screaming at the top of his lungs and doubled over in what appeared to be advanced stages of an attack of appendicitis. When the truth came out, I discovered one of his little "chums" had taken a pot shot at him with several well-aimed rocks.

(Thank goodness it wasn't the one with the B-B gun.)

This had been going on for about two weeks, and frankly I had just about had it. Taking my wounded son by the hand, we started across the street to see if we couldn't clear the smoke from the air. We got outside the house just in time to see the pint-sized adversary high-tailing it over his back fence at about 75 miles per hour.

We talked to an outraged mama who declared her small son always got along with everybody and had never made trouble.

All the while, two red-faced little boys were yelling at each other, bringing up grievances that I thought had been forgotten months before.

I wasn't mad... just hoping that something could be done, enabling the boys to get along with less friction for the sake of my son's skin and his mother's nervous system.

But the mother of the assailant was adamant... the two boys could not play together anymore... not at anytime. Which was ridiculous, because the minute you tell a child "NO," he is going to break his neck trying to see just how fast he can disobey.

Giving up in disgust, I turned to leave. Suddenly, my son stepped forward with his hand extended in reconciliation, ready to shake and forget all that had happened. Little more than a baby... but never will he be more of a man.

Tears sprang to my eyes as he said, "I'm sorry we had a fight... let's be friends again," shaking hands with the other boy awkwardly.

I looked at him with pride, thinking that here is a boy that will never break his mother's heart and who will walk with pride, knowing he is humble enough to say "I'm sorry."

May he always stand as tall and straight as he did on that day. May he always have an open mind... willing to admit he can be wrong. If he is a big man at 36 as he is at six, I can forget all my worries and renew my conviction that being a mother has rewards.

A Note To Our Non-Catholic Neighbors

Catholics and non-Catholics, as a rule, get along right well together. Our families live amicably next door to each other and often become lifetime friends. Our sons fight side by side on every battlefield. We work together in the same shops and factories and we play together.

But in religion . . . where this close association does not exist . . . there is often a regrettable lack of understanding and a corresponding absence of good-will. Many people, for instance, have all sorts of false ideas about Catholics and the Catholic Church. They actually believe that Catholics worship statues. That many sordid things happen behind convent walls . . . that Catholics do not believe in the Bible or that Catholics practice superstitions.

If you wish to know the truth about the Catholic Church and her teachings, write for a free pamphlet explaining Catholic teachings. Write to: Home Study Center, P. O. Box 5644, Amarillo, Texas.

Beauty At Home

BY LYNN CARTER

Q. Do you suggest always making a test curl before giving oneself a home permanent? A. This is a very good idea. Take a piece of hair on the back of the head where the strand will not show if there is any discoloration, such as sometimes occurs on over-bleached or improperly tinted hair or when there are any systematic conditions such as extreme acidity. This test curl is important, too, for determining whether or not the timing is right for the amount of curl you are seeking.

Q. What exercises do you recommend for slimmer-looking legs?

A. There are none better than extra doses of walking, and of rope-skipping. Also, a stretching kind of exercise is good. Sit on floor, legs apart, back of knees close against floor. Reach forward with hands and grasp toes firmly, pulling them gently toward you.

Q. What can I do about the increasing signs of crepiness in the skin on my throat?

A. Give this skin lots of massage with oil or rich-cream applications. Also very good for this skin is the use of a complexion brush with soapsuds — this stimulating the bloodstream and adding life and health to the skin.

Q. How can I "bring out" a rather small and weak-looking chin with my makeup?

A. By applying a lighter foundation on your chin than on the rest of your face, you will highlight the chin and thus "bring it out." Be sure, of course, to bend these two shades of foundation, leaving no obvious dividing line between them.

Q. How can I bleach the hairs or fuzz on my arms?

A. Use some peroxide with a few drops of ammonia added. Apply this with cotton pads, as much as the arm will hold, then wash off when dry.

Q. What can I do about some crayon stains my young son applied to one of my good dresses. (It is unwashable)?

A. These stains will usually yield to carbon tetrachloride, or other cleaning fluid.

Q. Do you advocate steam baths for losing weight?

A. Steam baths will surely make you lose weight — but this is only temporary loss, since it really consists only of a loss of water in the system. Best of all for trimming off surplus flesh is calorie counting (combined with willpower), and exercise.

"SHOT 'EM UP" Sandra Hill, 16, appears to really be "shooting up" Jerry Dickerson, 19, in true western style against a backdrop of tall trees and sky in Dallas. The pair aren't suspended in air and the picture isn't a composite. Actually they are trampoline artists going through their workout, clad in western garb for the benefit of the photographer. Living With Teens Club Program Topic

Mrs. Helen Coffman presented a program on "Learning To Live With Your Teenagers" at a recent meeting of the Hereford Child Study Club. Members met in the home of Mrs. Reuben Knox, hostess for the day.

Mrs. L. E. Taylor, program leader, introduced Mrs. Helen Coffman to the group. Mrs. Coffman showed how young people follow basic patterns and are conformists rather than rebels.

The responsibility of home, school and church was stressed. "Idleness is the greatest danger," the speaker said in discussing the overemphasis of delinquency. "Only three percent of today's teenagers are headed in the wrong direction," she continued.

Attending were Mesdames Morris Easley, L. E. Taylor, Virginia Wheeler, Frank Farmer, Earl Huckabee, Marvin Knox, Tommy Braddy, Garland Solomon, George Springer, Helen Coffman and the hostess, Mrs. Reuben Knox.

TRIPLET CALVES BORN Johnnie Ray, Jimmie and Bobby Kurten pose with triplet calves, Fay, Kay and Gay born on farm of their uncle, J. H. Kurten, in the Kurten community. Triplets such as these survive only once in about 70 million calvings. The little animals arrived last week and appear to be thriving. The mother is a range cow but the calves show white faces. The Kurten are descendants of G. Henry Kurten I, who founded the community back in the Civil War days. (AP Photo)
