Campaigns enter last weekend before vote

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

A hoarse Michael Dukakis is pounding George Bush on two issues, drugs and his running mate, and says "We're coming on strong" in the dash to Election Day. Bush complained about racial charges while promising to help heal any wounds left by the campaign.

With the nation's presidential election just a long weekend away, both campaigns were focusing on a handful of battleground states. Trailing in most of the polls, Dukakis seemed to need every one of them.

Both candidates were making their cases in a series of television interviews, with the Democratic nominee going on NBC's "Today" show today.

Dukakis was campaigning in New York and Kentucky and ending the day with a walk in Chicago's torchlight parade, a traditional show of party unity.

His voice was badly hoarse from the strain of long campaign days.

"I've been giving a lot of speeches lately and my pipes are a little weak," Dukakis told a Thursday night audience.

Bush was campaigning through four states today — Connecticut, in Dukakis' New England, and in the industrial battlegrounds of Ohio, Michigan and New Jersey.

According to sources in both parties, Republican and Democratic tracking polls showed Bush leading nationally by a margin of seven to nine percentage points, within the range of the nationwide surveys released earlier this week. Democrats contended there was still opportunity for Dukakis, with sizable numbers of undecided or weakly committed voters.

By states, private polls pointed to a significant Republican lead in Ohio; Dukakis held a narrow margin in one New York survey and a slight advantage in Washington where he was ahead by 10 points in a statewide poll with a five point margin of error. Both Illinois and California, where Dukakis will wind up his campaigning, were rated close.

Meanwhile, the Bush campaign announced late Thursday that the eighth person connected with the vice president's ethnic council had resigned his post following reports of ties to Nazi or anti-Semitic groups.

In Washington, Bush spokesman Mark Goodin confirmed reports that during World War II Akselis Mangulis had been a member of the Latvian Legion, a group which had connections to the German SS, the quasi-military unit of the Nazi Party. Mangulis had been chairman of Latvians for Bush.

Across the country there was yet another round of new television commercials.

Dukakis was airing a tough new ad that zeroed in on Republican vice presidential candidate Dan Quayle. It shows the most remembered moment of Quayle's debate with his Democratic counterpart, when Lloyd Bentsen said, "Senator, you're no Jack Kennedy." On the screen appear the words, "President Quayle?"

The Republican Party aired a new ad featuring President Reagan and the boast of good times.

"America is at peace, and we are prosperous once more..." the president says. "I hope you will vote Republican — up and down the ticket — to continue the change we began in 1981."

The Justice Department, meanwhile, said it will investigate Democratic complaints that a Republican ad in South Texas is intimidating Spanish-speaking voters. The ad, in Spanish, says "voting officials will be watching closely" and warns of penalties for non-citizens who try to vote.

Through television interviews and campaign appearances Thursday, Bush looked ahead to what he said was national unity after the election.

"I would work my level best if I'm elected to heal any wounds that might be there," he said.

Search on for computer bug

By PAUL A. DRISCOLL
Associated Press Writer

Researchers today tried to trace a "virus" that infected computer systems nationwide, slowing machines in universities, a NASA and nuclear weapons lab and other federal research centers linked by a Defense Department computer network.

By Thursday night, the virus had infected hundreds of computers on what one expert said was the largest scale ever, but authorities said it apparently destroyed no data even though it temporarily halted some research.

Viruses are tiny programs introduced to computers either as a prank or vandalism. They can attach themselves to other programs and spread through shared software or "electronic mail" systems that link computers.

Mild viruses may flash a message on a user's screen, while "deadly" forms can destroy data or cripple a computer. This virus apparently did its damage by rapidly duplicating itself, thereby slowing computers' processing speed and taking up their memory space.

Many research centers shut down their computers Thursday in an effort to purge the rapidly spreading virus, but not all experts were confident they had eliminated the program, which could linger in electronic mailboxes. In the past, "antidote" programs have been developed to seek out and destroy viruses.

"The very scary thing is that this is a very sophisticated computer program, and shutting them down may not be enough," said Richard LeBlanc, associate professor in Georgia Tech's School of Computer Sciences.

At Lawrence laboratory in Berkeley, Calif., computer scientists noticed their computers operating very slowly Wednesday afternoon. They turned off the machines, flipped them back on again and within 30 seconds the virus was spreading again, said Lynn Yarras, a spokesman at the research center.

The computer problem also was discovered late Wednesday at the Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory in Livermore, Calif. The laboratory's work includes design of the nation's nuclear weapons and key work on the Strategic Defense Initiative, or "Star Wars," program.

However, spokesman Jeff Garberson said the virus affected the unclassified, non-secured computer systems and not the classified national defense system.

At Stanford University in Palo Alto, Calif., the virus was "mainly just slowing down systems and slowing data," said Bob Beyers, a school spokesman.

"The developer was clearly a very high order hacker," or computer buff, said John McAfee, chairman of the Computer Virus Industry Association in Santa Clara, Calif.

"He used a flaw in the operating systems of these computers" to enter the electronic mail system of ARPANET, a computer network established by the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency, the research arm of the U.S. Defense Department, McAfee said.

ARPANET links nearly every university in the United States, allowing researchers to "communicate data and text very easily," said Bob Finn, a spokesman for the California Institute of Technology.

The virus also infected a network called Science Internet that serves many scientists and research labs, including NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, Calif., said JPL spokesman Jim Wilson.

Also attacked were computers at Boston University, Purdue University, the University of Wisconsin in Madison, Georgia Tech, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and other major research centers.

The New York Times reported today that an anonymous caller to the paper said his associate was responsible for the attack and had meant it to be harmless. The caller said the hacker was a graduate student who made a programming error in designing the virus, causing the intruder to replicate much faster than expected.

The caller said the student realized his error shortly after letting the program loose and now was terrified of the consequences, the Times said.

The Defense Communications Agency set up an emergency center to deal with the virus, the newspaper said. But no known criminal investigations were under way.

The general election is scheduled Tuesday and many voters will be glad when it's over. It has been a long political season for many of the races—especially the presidential campaigns.

Only one local race has drawn much attention, but the sheriff's race between incumbent Joe Brown and challenger Ted Langgood is being hotly contested and should provide incentive for voters to go to the polls. The only other contested race in the county is between John Stribling (Dem) and W.K. Blackwell (Rep) for county commissioner, Precinct 1.

The Brand published a sample ballot again in Thursday's newspaper. We urge voters to study the issues and the candidates, look over the sample ballot and exercise their right to vote Tuesday. The absentee voting has already reached a record high due to the new liberal rule allowing voters to cast their ballots at the absentee box if desired.

Democrats claim Republicans 'injecting fear'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is investigating Democratic charges that Republican advertising in South Texas is an attempt to lower Election Day turnout among Spanish-speaking voters by "injecting an element of fear."

Rep. Jack Brooks, a Beaumont Democrat, prompted the investigation when he asked Attorney General Richard L. Thornburgh to determine whether the Spanish-language radio advertising campaign in the Rio Grande Valley was intimidating voters with its "Big Brother" tone.

"We certainly will look into this complaint and to the extent that there is any evidence that it might be valid, there will be a harsh response from the federal government," said Justice Department spokesman Loye Miller.

Miller said the U.S. attorney in charge of the heavily Hispanic border area would be contacted today and asked to "take a look at the whole situation."

Brooks, who will become chairman of the House Judiciary Committee in January, complained the advertising by the Hidalgo County Republican Party was a "concerted effort" to "inhibit Texas citizens' exercise of their right to vote in next Tuesday's general election."

The ads warn listeners twice that election officials "will be watching" and cite penalties for illegal voting. Brooks said he was concerned the ads could be a violation of federal voting rights laws, which prohibit intimidation or coercion of voters.

"It should be clear that this advertising campaign, accompanied by the repeated 'Big Brother' warning that 'election officials are watching,'

'...it's an obvious attempt to hold down overall voter turnout among Spanish-speaking citizens by injecting an element of fear into the voting process.'

Rep. Jack Brooks

was not motivated by the benign goal of discouraging illegal voting, but rather is an obvious attempt to hold down overall voter turnout among Spanish-speaking citizens by injecting an element of fear into the voting process," Brooks told Thornburgh.

Republican officials defend the ads as proper and say they are not an attempt at intimidation.

"I would hope that any law enforcement agency spending time in South Texas concentrates on trying to stamp out the voter fraud we have seen in that region for the past 20 years — voter fraud perpetrated by the Democrats," said Mark Sanders, a spokesman for the Texas campaign of Republican presidential nominee George Bush.

Rep. Bill Richardson, Hispanic coordinator for Democratic presidential nominee Michael Dukakis, on Thursday blasted Bush and his campaign for using racist and intimidating tactics.

Bush, appearing on NBC's Today show, denied his campaign had a racist tenor in speeches or commercials.

"I'm fed up with Bush and the Republican Party refusing to own up to these intimidation and racist tactics aimed at Hispanic and black voters," Richardson said, referring to the Hidalgo County campaign and a national Willie Horton furlough ad.

"I challenge Bush to put his 'kinder, gentler nation' rhetoric into practice by taking these clearly intimidating and racist ads off the air," said Richardson, D-N.M.

The Spanish-language ad says: "Voting officials will be watching closely. It is illegal to vote in this election if you are not a U.S. citizen. If you have a green card you cannot vote. If you do you can be subject to up to 10 years in prison, fined up to $5,000 and lose your opportunity to become a U.S. citizen. If you accept money to vote you can get up to five years in jail. Remember, election officials are watching. Paid for by the Republican Party of Hidalgo County, Don Wingate, director."

Marcos says he'll comply with court order in case

HONOLULU (AP) — Former Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos says he feels "betrayed" by the American system but will comply with a judge's order in his federal racketeering case and "take my destiny, whatever that may be."

"I am not afraid to go to jail," Marcos told The Associated Press in an exclusive interview at his home here Thursday. "I would probably be dead by the time the trial is over. I'm feeling in pain every day."

Marcos and his wife, Imelda, were indicted Oct. 21 by a federal grand jury in New York on federal racketeering charges accusing them of plundering more than $100 million from their homeland and funneling it into Swiss and Hong Kong bank accounts, Manhattan real estate and fine art.

Mrs. Marcos pleaded innocent to the charges in New York on Monday, but her husband's arraignment was delayed pending the report of a government physician who examined him Monday.

Defense lawyers contend the 71-year-old Marcos, who remained in a wheelchair during the interview, is too frail to make the 10-hour flight to New York and hinted his poor health may cause his trial to be suspended altogether.

But Marcos, who appeared tired but remained alert, said he would comply with a federal court order requiring him to submit fingerprints, palm prints and handwriting and voice samples to the FBI here by next Wednesday or face contempt charges.

"I'll take my destiny, whatever that may be, but I'm going to fight for my dignity and my honor," Marcos said in his first meeting with the press since being indicted two weeks ago.

Although the grand jury indictments were handed up after nearly two years of investigation, and grand juries in Honolulu and Alexandria, Va., are also investigating him, Marcos said he was confident he would be vindicated.

"I don't think they have any evidence," said Marcos, offering the results of past investigations in the United States, the Philippines and Japan that cleared him of similar charges.

The interview was held at his sprawling hillside home overlooking Honolulu as Marcos prepared to leave for an appointment with an eye doctor.

"I'm tired and in pain, I'm on the way to the doctor right now," he said.

In the past six months, Marcos has complained of chest pains that have sent him to the hospital, and of an eye ailment and of flare-ups of old war injuries of the leg and the knee.

Defense lawyers for Marcos have presented letters from two Honolulu doctors and Marcos' personal physician, saying Marcos suffered from an enlarged heart and a thickening of the heart muscle.

Marcos, a staunch U.S. ally during his 20 years as president of the Philippines, said he held no animosity toward President Reagan, who once hailed him as a valuable ally and helped him resettle here, but said he felt betrayed by the U.S. justice system.

"It's nothing personal...we just feel that the worship of the Statue of Liberty was displaced," Marcos said. "We feel betrayed by an American system that we believed to be fair and just...now it seems that is not true."

Absentee voting sees record turnout

AUSTIN (AP) — Absentee voting for Tuesday's election ends today, but it has been a huge success that may account for 25 percent of ballots cast statewide, election officials say.

"It's been phenomenal," said Jim Warren, spokesman for Secretary of State Jack Rains. "We've been meeting with county clerks and talking to them on the phone, and they're reporting unusually large numbers of people voting absentee."

Rains earlier this week predicted a record turnout of 5.96 million votes, or 73 percent of those registered, for this election.

With as many as 100,000 absentee ballots already having been cast in some of the largest counties, Warren said, "Some county clerks believe as much as a quarter of the vote statewide will be cast through the absentee process."

Final absentee ballot totals should be known by Monday, he said.

Absentee voting began Oct. 19, and

May account for 25% of ballots

Texans have been casting ballots in a nearly three-week-long "election period" rather than on a single Election Day, noted Randy Erben, assistant secretary of state.

The high absentee participation is being attributed to a 1987 change in voting law that is being used in a major election for the first time. That change eliminated the old requirement that people give an excuse before voting absentee.

"No longer must a voter give a reason or excuse to vote absentee. I urge voters to go to their absentee polling places by Friday and vote... It's simpler and convenient," Rains said.

Absentee polling places have been set up in shopping malls, community centers, on the University of Texas campus and other locations much easier to reach than county courthouses.

Another factor is the presence of a Texan on each party's ticket — Republican presidential candidate George Bush and Democratic vice presidential nominee Lloyd Bentsen both call Houston home.

And, both parties have conducted absentee voting campaigns among their loyalists.

Ed Martin, executive director of the Texas Democratic Party, said a strong absentee vote drive was conducted by the party. "Every contact, phone calls, all the mailings have reminded people of it. Our early voter project has targeted specific populations and encouraged them to vote absentee," Martin said.

Mark Sanders, spokesman for Bush's Texas campaign, said that by Thursday night every person who cast a ballot in the Republican primary was to have been called, told about absentee voting and given the absentee polling place nearest their homes. "We've never done anything like this before in the state," Sanders said.

In Bexar County, Elections Administrator Tony Gomez said that by Wednesday 106,000 absentee ballots had been cast. He expected up to 125,000 by today. "A whole lot of those people voting absentee now are those people who would normally vote on Election Day," he said.

In Austin, Travis County Clerk Dana DeBeauvoir said there have been growing numbers of absentee voters daily this week, prompting her to increase an earlier prediction of 40,000 to as many as 50,000.

Anita Rodeheaver, Harris County clerk, said 61,681 people had voted absentee in person through Wednesday. Another 35,102 ballots were mailed, she said. "It's a record," she said.

Letter to the Editor

Dear editor:
The Hereford High School Junior Class Taco Supper was a success! Thanks to all those who made it possible.

First, thank you junior parents for giving of your time, energy and talents to bring all the necessary resources together to make this year's supper a success. You are a wonderful group of parents—it couldn't have been accomplished without you.

A number of local businesses gave graciously to help our cause. They are Arrowhead Mills, Holly Sugar, Moore's Jack & Jill, Pak-a-Sak, Panhandle Milling, Ramirez & Sons, Rivera Produce, SeedTec and Southwestern Public Service. To them we also say thank you.

A task as large as a class supper takes team work. It was the team work and cooperation of the parents, sponsors, students and businesses which made this task much easier to accomplish. The HHS Class of 1990 and its officers and sponsors thank you again.

Sincerely,
Sarah Lawson and Martha Layman
Junior Class Coordinators

Dear editor:

I would like to take this opportunity, on behalf of The Deaf Smith County Crimestoppers organization, to thank everyone who helped make our Halloween Carnival a big success. Business firms that contributed prizes and cash for our free drawings were First National Bank, Hereford Chamber of Commerce, Higginbotham-Bartlett Lumber Co., Villarreal and Sons Bakery & Mexican Products, Otasco and Gibsons.

All the clubs and organizations that participated were able to help themselves financially as well as to render a service to the community by providing a fun-filled evening at the Bull Barn for the young people to have a safe Halloween.

Thanks again to the merchants, clubs and people of Hereford and Deaf Smith for making the Crimestoppers Halloween Carnival a success.

Names in the News

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — Through a haze generated by a smoke machine, Michael Douglas marched down the old marble halls of a government office building in his first film role since winning the Academy Award for best actor.

In "Black Rain," an international thriller that Paramount Pictures began filming here Monday, Douglas plays a tough New York City cop who's supposed to deliver a Japanese killer to police in Japan. But the killer escapes at Osaka Airport, and Douglas must find him.

Douglas, who won his Oscar for his portrayal of a slimy power baron in "Wall Street," told reporters that movies are "an international language."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you printed a glowing letter about the value of teachers and how important it is that we pay them what they are worth and keep them in the classroom.

I agree with everything you said. But, Ann, who is called in when students are pregnant, suicidal, strung out or violent? It's the social worker.

Social workers are on call 24 hours a day the year round. They are expected to settle domestic disputes, feed and clothe the poor, find lodging for the homeless and protect children from violence and abuse. But heaven help social workers if they are wrong about an accusation. They are held accountable if they make a mistake, and the consequences can be horrendous.

Social workers must pinch-hit for doctors, lawyers, teachers, preachers, psychiatrists and accountants. For our efforts we are often lied to, threatened and abused. In my state a social worker was killed last year because some nut decided that she was responsible for "ruining her life."

Our educational requirements are the same as teachers yet one of my colleagues left her job recently to teach at a starting salary of $4,000 a year more than she had been making.

In my opinion, the social worker is the most underpaid, undervalued of all professionals. By printing this letter you could help give these dedicated people a brief place in the sun.—Louisville Reader

DEAR LOUISVILLE: I am grateful for the opportunity to shine the spotlight on these selfless professionals who, for too long, have been undervalued and underpaid.

I have consulted with several social workers over the last few years and found them to be well-informed, dedicated and compassionate. I am delighted to give these professionals their well-deserved place in the sun.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Something has happened that has made me very angry. Will you please tell me if I am wrong to be upset?

Every year we have a family reunion. It is always a huge success. It will be coming up in about three weeks. I got the shock of my life when I opened an envelope yesterday and read the following:

"Pack your picnic baskets and help us celebrate our 50th wedding anniversary at the annual family reunion. There will be many friends as well as family as always, plus plenty of fun and fellowship. You won't want to miss it."

I think this is one heck of a lot of gall and I am — Upset in Pittsburgh

DEAR PITTS: A family reunion is supposed to be just that—a get-together for family members.

Inviting friends to this event in an attempt to piggyback a 50th wedding anniversary celebration is just plain tacky. Your anger is justifiable.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband is a diabetic. My problem is sodium. We argue a lot about which is more difficult to live with.

The Bible refers frequently to salt but not one word is said about sugar, which suggests that the problem has been around for a long time.

Since we now know that a low-sodium diet is much healthier, why don't fast-food restaurants serve unsalted hamburgers, for example, and let people season their own?—San Diego

DEAR S.D.: McDonald's will gladly comply with the request. All you need to do is ask.

Take charge of your life and turn it around! Write for Ann Landers' new booklet, "How to Make Friends and Stop Being Lonely." Send a check or money order for $3.50 and a self-addressed, stamped, business-size envelope (45 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

ALCOHOLISM LINKED WITH SMOKING

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — Researchers are finding that a consistent range of 70 to 80 percent of alcohol abusers also are smokers, reports Internal Medicine News.

If representative of America's general population, the link reported in the studies suggests that up to 20 percent of the smoking population has a drinking problem compared with only about 5 percent of the non-smoking population, notes the medical journal.

The studies — conducted at the University of Vermont and the Addiction Research Foundation in Toronto — are reinforcing the perception that prolonged tobacco use is an addiction rather than a mere bad habit, says Internal Medicine News, adding that the alcohol-smoking correlation may be useful in screening populations for alcohol abuse.

"As we look to the future and the next session of Congress, it's important that we continue working for a stronger and better West Texas.

"As a member of the House Agriculture Committee for the last four years, I have worked with your ideas to provide a farm policy which has put agriculture on the road to a better tomorrow. We have a farm bill which has opened up foreign markets for our producers. As Congress prepares to address the next bill in 1990, I look forward to working with the people of the 19th District to help keep those markets open while providing Americans with the best food supply in the world.

"I have successfully fought against burdensome taxes such as the diesel fuel tax and heifer tax while working against the tax and spend policies of the liberals. In addition, I helped formulate farm credit legislation which helps both lenders and borrowers.

"As your Congressman, I will continue working for a stronger economy without new taxes with a goal of helping West Texans build a better future for our families and future generations to come.

JOE BROWN

"A Good Man Doing A Good Job!"

I am a Sheriff that believes in hard work and am concerned about the welfare of our county and its people; and I am dedicated to my job. Prestige is my least concern. "GETTING THE JOB DONE" is my top priority.

So I find myself asking you to allow me 4 more years as your Sheriff. Again, I sincerely wish to solicit your vote and support.

Respectfully,
Joe C. Brown, Jr.

HHS making debut in volleyball playoff

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

The Hereford High School volleyball team will make its first-ever trip into the playoffs on Saturday when the Whitefaces travel to Seminole to face defending state champion Pecos.

The bi-district match will begin at 5 p.m. at Seminole High School.

Hereford, 19-6, was the second-place team in District 1-4A, losing only to district champion Dumas during conference play. Pecos is 29-2, and went 14-0 in District 4-4A.

The only other occasion a Hereford volleyball team played beyond the regular season was in the 1975-76 school year, when Hereford won the South Zone in District 3-5A. The Whitefaces were defeated by North Zone winner Amarillo High for the district championship.

"Pecos will come in with all of its tradition and experience in big games, and that will probably help them," said Hereford coach Brenda Reeh. "We don't have that tradition, so it will be a little tougher for us."

"We have to be calmly aggressive when we go out. We can't get 5, 6, 7 points behind before we get the jitters out. But our kids had never been in a position like we've been in the last two weeks, playing for the playoffs, and we came through that. Now, we're ready to step on the court."

Hereford will go into the game with a decided height advantage: Hereford has three players as tall as, or taller than, the tallest Pecos player (5-9).

"But they are tremendous leapers," Reeh said. "Their middle hitter can put the ball straight down, and we will have to work on her. We may have to work some more in the middle using two blockers where we are usually using a single blocker. We will test them first and see what Cande (Robbins) and Shantel (Cornelius) can do."

"One of Pecos' strong points is they are a really consistent serving team. We can't rely on any mistakes by them. We have to play everything we get to win, and every point we get will be earned."

The teams are semi-familiar with each other: they met in pool play at the Pecos Tournament at the beginning of the year. Pecos won the short games.

"I really don't think that will affect either team that much. They are much improved, and we are much improved," Reeh said. "We are a totally different different team than we were at the first of the year. Maybe they are expecting the team they saw at the first of the year. That would be to our advantage."

"I think we are ready to play. Our practices have been good, and we have worked as much on our heads as much as we have on our physical skills. It's time to get on the court, quit anticipating what might happen, and get out there."

1988 HHS volleyball team

Runners ready for regionals

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

The Hereford High School boys and girls cross-country teams will run in the Region 1-4A Cross-Country Meet Saturday morning at Mae Simmons Park in Lubbock.

The regionals are old hat for the Hereford girls, who successfully defended their District 1-4A championship last weekend at Lubbock.

For the boys, the only veteran is Benny Carrasco, who qualified for state after a top individual finish in the 1987 regionals.

Three state-ranked teams, including No. 8 Hereford, will fight for one of the three team spots in the State Cross-Country Meet that will be held Nov. 12 at Georgetown.

"The girls will be challenged by Waco Midway and Leander," said Hereford coach Martha Emerson. "For the boys, it will be tougher, because Randall (the district champion team that hasn't been closely challenged all season), Waco Midway and Saginaw Boswell will all be tough."

All four classes (Class A and 2A are combined in cross-country) will run at Lubbock Saturday. The Hereford girls will compete at 9:20 a.m., and the Hereford boys will run at 11 a.m.

Here are the members of the Hereford teams and their times at the District 1-4A meet last weekend.

Hereford girls (two miles): Alina Benitez, 12:47 (best of year); Sally Garza, 13:23 (best of year); Lisa Zepeda, 13:42; Teresa Castillo, 13:51 (best of year); Denise Davila, 14:19; Maria Rodriguez, 14:50; Aracely Nava, 15:42.

Hereford boys (three miles): Benny Carrasco, 16:29; Tim Stagner, 17:23 (best of year); Jimmy Leinen, 17:41; Ricky Montelongo, 17:46; Juan Martinez, 18:11; Armando Garza, 18:53; Brooke Perkins, 19:40.

To The Voters of Deaf Smith County,

I have been approached by many concerned voters asking "Why should I not vote for Joe Brown?" I have come forward, in the open and given the facts about Joe's lack of administration in the Sheriff's office. Unlike my opponent, I do not use my supporters to do my talking for myself.

I asked over and over again to debate Joe in the public, face to face, man to man. He still refuses to do so, and with good reason. Joe has attempted to cover up and mislead the public through his newspaper ads, but if he had to face me in a debate, the truth would come out. Joe Brown said that he would run on his record, and not answer my allegations. I have presented his record to you, the public.

Some say this has been a negative campaign, but all that has been revealed is Joe's negative performance as a sheriff. Joe has attempted to maintain his "good ol' boy" image by allowing his mis-guided supporters to do his dirty work. That won't work either.

It's time to step out from behind your supporter's protection, Joe Brown, and face me like a man! Do you, Joe Brown, want to question my record? Then face me in a debate! Do you, Joe Brown, want the statistics on our response to domestic violence? Then face me in a debate! Do you, Joe Brown, want to know how to handle internal investigations? Then face me in a debate!

I have some questions for you. Would you answer them in an open debate, before you had a chance to make excuses or cover up the truth? Joe Brown said that he doesn't debate because he is "shy" in the public and can't speak well. He addresses civic clubs, and speaks before hundreds of people, so don't swallow that one! Joe said that I, Ted Langgood, am a politician. I have never run for political office in my life. I am good law enforcement officer, and I am a good administrator, but a politician, I am not.

Sincerely, Ted Langgood

Vote November 8th For a TRUE Hard-Working Candidate.

JV defeats Estacado, 46-27

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

The Hereford junior varsity football team ended its season at 5-4 with a 46-27 win over the Lubbock Estacado JV on Thursday at Whiteface Stadium.

Hereford broke open a 13-13 tie in the third period with a 29-yard run by Brad Mason, who landed on top of a pile of defenders, got up and completed the touchdown run, and a three-yard run by Mason set up by a pass interception by Alonzo Ramirez.

Fullback Greg Ubanczyk ran the score to 33-13 on an eight-yard run with 8:28 to play in the game.

On the first play after the ensuing kickoff, Phillip Betzen recovered an Estacado fumble. On the next play, quarterback Jason Walterscheid's pass was tipped by two Matador defenders. The ball fell into the hands of Zane Watta, who was brought down just outside the goal line. Jim Hillwig scored on the next play to give Hereford a 39-13 lead.

Estacado returned the following kickoff 85 yards for a touchdown and added an extra-point run to cut the lead to 39-21, but Hereford marched the ball down the field for an insurance, four-yard touchdown by Ubanczyk, and Joey Malouf's fourth extra-point kick gave Hereford a 46-21 lead with 4:41 to play.

Estacado had taken an early 6-0 lead before quarterback Todd Schroeder hit Aaron Burns with a 55-yard touchdown pass. Malouf's extra-point kick gave Hereford a short-lived 7-6 lead.

Late in the second quarter, Hereford came back to tie the score at 13-13 on an eight-yard run by Stephen Banner.

"I'm really proud of our offensive line," said coach Stan Carter. "Estacado played three different defenses, and we were ready for it. A month ago, I don't think we could have handled it."

"And our defense go after them, too."

Heading up the defense were Phillip Betzen, with a fumble recovery, and Alonzo Ramirez, who stopped an Estacado drive with a pass interception.

Hogs meet Bears; Trap worries Dykes

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP
Sports Writer

The unblemished Arkansas Razorbacks, who clinched a Cotton Bowl berth before Halloween, try to do something about their national ranking on Saturday against the always troublesome Baylor Bears.

The 11th-ranked Razorbacks (7-0) have yet to crack The Associated Press Top 10 and need to keep winning for the sake of Southwest Conference and Cotton Bowl prestige.

Waco isn't an easy place to do that, particularly on homecoming.

The Bears are 3-2-1 against the Hogs in homecoming games.

The last seven Baylor-Arkansas games have been decided in the fourth quarter.

Last year, Arkansas scored with 47 seconds to play to win 10-7 in Fayetteville.

Baylor had an off week to prepare for the Hogs, a team Bears' coach Grant Teaff calls "the best they've had since I've been at Baylor."

"Winning on the road against Texas and Houston like Arkansas has done is impressive," Teaff said. "Arkansas is a highly motivated team."

Quarterback Brad Goebel, tailbacks Anthony Ray and Eldwin Raphael, tight end David Bell and defensive end Eugene Hall used the off week to heal injuries and were probable starters for the Bears.

Odds makers rated the Hogs seven-point favorites for the 1 p.m. game at Baylor Stadium.

"Our next two games (Baylor and Texas A&M) are critical as far as the national rankings are concerned," said Arkansas coach Ken Hatfield. "But I don't worry about what other people think of us. The main poll everybody looks at is where you finish."

Arkansas closes the regular season on Nov. 26 against Miami, which embarrassed the Hogs 51-7 last year.

In other games this week, Texas Christian was a four-point pick over Texas Tech in Fort Worth, Houston was a five-point choice over Texas in Austin, and Texas A&M was a four touchdown favorite over Lolana Tech in a non-conference game at College Station, and No. 1 ranked Notre Dame was a 32-point favorite over Rice at South Bend, Ind.

Texas Tech has won its last three meetings against TCU.

"TCU's going to have a score to settle with us," said Tech coach Spike Dykes. He said the biggest obstacle for the Raiders to overcome in Fort Worth might be the steps at Amon Carter Stadium.

"They've got a trap there," Dykes said. "Boy, it's hard to get up and down out of that dressing room. You lose a player a year on it."

"I've been to that stadium three times, and two of the three times we've lost a player getting in and out of that dressing room. TCU is all-world at home and that's where we have to play them."

Texas' secondary, which has surrendered 248 passing yards per game, will get a severe test from the point-a-minute Houston Cougars.

Houston averages 368 yards per game.

"It's a scary matchup," said Texas coach David McWilliams. "We keep giving up the big play. We just continue to make mistakes."

Betty Crocker's Cooking Tips

Q. Is there a way to remove rancidity from pecans? R.S.L., Frazier Park, CA
A. No. Once pecans or other nuts become rancid, they are spoiled and the condition cannot be reversed. Discard them. Store fresh shelled nut meats in refrigerator or freezer in airtight container for 3 months.
Q. How can I make a light, high, spongy, airy cheesecake? Mrs. H.W., Justice, IL
A. Cheesecakes are typically dense, creamy and custardlike. A cheesecake matching your description would be made from a specially developed recipe and not by altering existing traditional cheesecake recipes.
Q. What will prevent coconut macaroons from sticking to baking sheet? E.K., Camano Island, WA
A. Cover cookie sheet with aluminum foil. Cool several minutes before removing.

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

VOTING A DUTY, NOT JUST A RIGHT

AUSTIN - The next president of the United States will win the support of only one-third of the eligible voters in this country. How can that be?

Simple. No more than two-thirds of our eligible citizens are even registered to vote. All indications are that only 50 to 60 percent of those registered voters actually will go to the polls next Tuesday to cast ballots. The winner, of course, will receive votes from just over half of those who did muster up the energy to cast a ballot.

Now that's a sobering thought.

Somewhere around one-third of our eligible voters will choose the next president. That's not going to be much of a mandate for the winner, is it?

Some wonder why this has happened, why in the freest country on earth more of our citizens don't exercise their right to vote. The most common explanation is apathy.

Polls indicate a majority of the electorate isn't that happy with either presidential candidate, so many of the voters will express their disgust by staying away from the ballot box. Well, we can understand not being overwhelmed by candidates in a close race, but that's really no excuse for staying away on election day.

The bottom line is that one of the two men running for president will win and will govern this country for the next four years. If the winner is someone a voter doesn't like, and that voter chose not to cast a ballot, then said voter has no one to blame but himself.

Another common reason for not voting is that people don't think their individual votes count. That's again an understandable feeling, given that national or even state elections often are decided by millions of votes. But, let's take a closer look at the situation.

The 1978 races in Texas for U.S. senator and governor were close. So close, in fact, that the outcome could have been changed if three votes had shifted in each precinct in the state. Clearly, individual votes can mean something.

One of our former presidents said, "Voting is the first duty of democracy." That's so true. It is only by mass participation in government that we really can preserve our democracy and make our nation stronger.

Again, apathy about the current candidates is no excuse for assuming there is no way to make the process better. By taking part in the process from the earliest caucuses and primaries on, by actively supporting these candidates - from both parties - in whom you believe, a difference can be made. Weak candidates win elections only when too few people are looking for a better candidate.

Indeed, the only thing that undermines this, the greatest democracy in history, is apathy. If our elections cease to mean something to the people, then and only then will this nation be in real trouble. We'll leave you with a thought from another one of our former presidents.

"Where annual elections end," John Adams said, "there slavery begins."

Please vote on November 8.

Economist John Maynard Keynes was an advocate of deficit spending. About 370,481 people live in Cincinnati.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I've been told now that I'm 45 years old that calcium is very important in a diet and at my age I should be on a high-calcium diet.

I know to drink milk and eat dairy products, but don't know what other foods are high in calcium. Can you help? — Paula Brown, Tulsa, Okla.

Calcium is very important at any age. It helps build strong bones and teeth, promote normal blood clotting and calm nerves. In elderly women calcium deficiency, along with estrogen deficiency, contributes to the development of osteoporosis (brittle bones).

Calcium is found in kidney beans, potatoes, green vegetables, beef liver, milk and milk products, whole grains and unrefined cereals.

If you feel you're not getting the amount of calcium you need, check with your doctor for a calcium supplement. To your good health. — Heloise
