County will consider new proposals Monday

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

Proposals that could lead to a settlement in the lawsuit over Deaf Smith County precinct boundaries will be laid before Commissioners' Court Monday morning.

County Judge Tom Simons said Friday that possible solutions discussed Thursday with the attorney representing the plaintiff in Trini Gamez vs. Deaf Smith County will be reviewed at the regular commission meeting at 9 a.m. Monday.

Judge Simons, Commissioner Johnny Latham of Precinct 4, and County Clerk David Ruland met with the county's attorney, Bob Bass, and Rolando Rios, attorney for Gamez, in Austin.

Although Simons declined to review the proposals until he can discuss them at the commission meeting, he said he has some hope that the matter will be resolved.

Deaf Smith County's proposed precinct lines, prepared by Bass, of the Allison and Associates law firm in Austin, were submitted last winter to the U.S. Justice Department for preclearance, as required by law.

The Justice Department declined to give preclearance, saying that the plan failed to "allow Hispanic voters the opportunity to elect a candidate of their choice" in Precinct 1 because of "fragmentation" of the Hispanic population in that precinct.

Specifically, the Justice Department said the number of Hispanic residents in the precinct should be increased from the 61 percent in the proposal for boundaries.

Immediately after the county learned the precinct lines were not approved by the Justice Department, the lawsuit, Trini Gamez vs. Deaf Smith County, was filed in U.S. District Court in Amarillo.

The suit seeks to have the March primary election voided and calls for new elections for commissioners of precincts one and three.

In the Democratic primary, Commissioner John Stribling defeated Tony Casillas for the nomination in Precinct 1. There is no Republican candidate for the general election in November.

Commissioners may have to call new elections

Commissioner Troy Don Moore won over two opponents for the Democratic nomination in Precinct 3. However, he is opposed by a Republican candidate in the general election.

The Deaf Smith County officials spent four hours in conference Thursday with Rios and with Bass. During the session, the basis for the proposed precinct lines, generated by computer, was reviewed for Rios, Simons said.

He said he believes that Rios has a better understanding of the problems the county faced in drawing boundary lines.

The county has asked for a three-judge panel to hear the lawsuit in federal court. Judge Mary Lou Robinson has set July 20 as the deadline for attorneys on both sides of the issue to file briefs on whether a three-judge panel has jurisdiction in the case.

If the lawsuit is not resolved by agreement or if the court decides a three-judge panel does not have jurisdiction, the county has two options.

One option is to re-work the precinct lines and submit the proposal to the Justice Department for preclearance. The second is to file a lawsuit in a Washington, D.C., federal court in an effort to gain judicial approval of the precinct lines.

Deaf Smith officials and the attorney for the county have contended that the lines cannot be adjusted unless the Justice Department provides information on the objections that were lodged against the plan.

However, the Justice Department has not responded to a request filed under the Freedom of Information Act for the materials. Bass was informed the department's personnel were "too busy" to comply. He has made an administrative appeal for the information but has received no answer.

Grand jury indicts six

A newly-impaneled Deaf Smith County grand jury Thursday issued indictments against six persons. Names of two were withheld pending arrest.

Pedro Casillas, 53, of 204 Western, was indicted for felony driving while intoxicated. He is free after posting bond of $1,000.

Bond of $1,000 was posted by Antonio Sustaita, 27, of 421 Sycamore Lane, indicted for forgery.

Joey Mendoza, 17, of 106 LaVilla, was indicted for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. He is in Deaf Smith County jail in lieu of bond.

Free after posting bond of $25,000, Emilio Reyna, 33, of 910 16th Street, was indicted for indecency with a child.

The grand jury impaneled by 222nd District Judge David Wesley Gulley will serve a six-month term. Next session of the grand jury will be held on Aug. 19.

Phone will help DSGH, Hereford EMS

Phones should help DSGH, EMS communications

Thanks to a donation from CellularONE, the communication capabilities of Deaf Smith General Hospital have been greatly enhanced.

CellularONE has donated eight phones to the hospital for its use. One has been installed in each of the three DSGH Hereford EMS ambulances. The others have been allocated to hospital administration and other emergency needs.

"We're excited about these new phones," said L.V. Watts, Hereford EMS director. "They will allow our emergency personnel to communicate with physicians and other medical personnel."

Administrator Ron Rives also was pleased about the donation. "With the wide coverage now available through CellularOne, the communications network of DSGH will be vastly expanded," he said.

Shirley Blank, a former resident of Hereford and an employee of CellularONE, along with Joe D. Lambert, who owns and operates J-Bar Company, were instrumental in making the arrangements for the donation. Also involved in the project was Danny McWhorter, vice president and general manager of CellularONE.

"The use of cellular telephones is expanding at a phenomenal rate throughout the nation and here in the Panhandle," McWhorter explained. "Continuing improvements in technology enable us to provide our customers with excellent service that keeps them constantly in touch wherever they may be."

"We're interested in this area, and we're happy to be a part of improving the communications system at Deaf Smith General Hospital. This change will allow them to upgrade their responsiveness to emergencies," McWhorter added.

Deaf Smith General Hospital is working hard to improve the accessibility and quality of health care available to residents throughout this area, Rives said. "The generous donation from CellularONE will facilitate that goal."

Cheese plant still viable goal

The proposal to attract a cheese processing plant to Hereford is "alive and well," according to Speedy Nieman, task force chairman, "but it could be as much as a couple of months before a site selection is made," he reported during a talk to the Hereford Kiwanis Club Thursday.

The $35 million facility has been proposed for the area by Associated Milk Producers, Inc. (AMPI). Local task force members met with four company officials Monday and learned that formal approval of the plant construction is expected to be finalized next week.

After an AMPI region board meeting next Tuesday, the local task force should know more about the needs of the company, said Nieman. "One key to the project is helping the company find financing, and we have already been at work on that part of the proposal."

Through the Hereford Industrial Foundation, the group has obtained an option on land for the proposed plant. It is located south of the railway on W. Hwy. 60 near Caviness Packing and Tide Products.

The task force recently named Nieman as chairman and John Hafliger, county dairyman, as vice chairman. Other members of the task force include Judge Tom Simons, Mayor Tom LeGate, Chester Nolen, Mike Carr, Don Graham, Craig Smith, Dr. David Purdy, Mike Hatley, Wayne Winget, Lewis McDaniel, Henry Reid, Margie Daniels, Wes Fisher and Tommie Weemes.

Nieman, who is chairman of the industrial development committee of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, said the chamber is currently in contact with several other industrial prospects.

Ross just wants to be Ross

LANSING, Mich. (AP) - When will Ross Perot launch his campaign advertising? When will he begin outlining his platform? When will he formally announce his candidacy?

Whenever he's good and ready, his campaign and aides say.

The Dallas billionaire, returning to the campaign trail today with a petition rally here, is resisting pressure from his volunteers and advisers to speed up his summertime groundwork and become a more conventional presidential candidate.

Asked this week when he would unveil his television advertising, which aides reportedly have been hankering to get on the air, Perot bluntly replied, "When I decide to."

"Ross Perot makes a lot of independent decisions and always will. It's not a source of conflict in the campaign," campaign chairman Tom Luce said Thursday. "He's just not going to do all you (reporters) expect to be done."

Perot plans to spend next week "finalizing" his issues platform, Luce said, and will continue private meetings with various groups. The positions, promised to be decided by now, will be out "quite soon," Perot said on NBC-TV's "Today" show Thursday.

"Things always take a little longer than you think they will," Luce said. "We're not on any hard and fast schedule. When we're ready, we'll release the program. What we don't want is a program that lacks substance."

Perot and his aides also say they don't plan to stage daily events and briefings like other campaigns. The independent wants to keep it unconventional.

"We are not going to have any dancing bears," Luce quipped.

"I doubt very seriously that Ross is going to have six events in one day," he added. "Airport stops are not going to be featured in a Perot fall calendar."

Luce said he doubted that criticism from Republicans and heightened scrutiny of Perot by the news media have hurt the campaign. A Wall Street Journal-NBC News poll released Wednesday showed Perot slightly leading both President Bush and Democrat Bill Clinton with 33 percent of 1,105 registered voters surveyed, up from 30 percent in late May.

In two other national polls released Thursday, Perot trailed Bush by just a few percentage points and was tied with Clinton.

Gore was 'prudent' choice

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) - Bill Clinton is counting on Albert Gore to strengthen the Democrats' generational appeal while offering a sharp, smart contrast to Republican Dan Quayle.

"Prudent" was the way Clinton pollster Stanley Greenberg described the selection of Gore, like Clinton a youthful Southerner, as his vice presidential choice.

"There was no threshold for Al Gore - people immediately assumed that Al Gore was someone who could be president of the United States," Greenberg said.

The day-old Democratic ticket was conducting its first joint news conference today in Little Rock, where Clinton announced his choice for the governor's mansion on Thursday.

Gore, a two-term Democratic senator from Tennessee, planned to fly home later with his family - wife Tipper and three of their four children.

The selection of Gore defied many conventional goals of past political tickets, offering no balance in age or geography and very little in ideology. Gore, at 44, is a year younger than Clinton, their states are neighbors, and both are moderate Democrats who have defied the party's more liberal orthodoxy.

The selection instead is an attempt to bring balance in other ways.

Gore is well versed in foreign policy, where Clinton as a five-term governor has none.

Gore is the Senate's acknowledged expert on the environment, the weakest area of Clinton's gubernatorial record in Arkansas and one where Republican surrogates for President Bush and Vice President Dan Quayle already launched an attack. As the author of a current best-seller on the subject, Gore may inoculate Clinton on that front.

And with the crucial intangible of values, another certain Republican target, Clinton strategists are welcoming Gore's squeaky-clean record and Mrs. Gore's work on children's issues, particularly her campaign for warning labels on rock-music albums that contain offensive lyrics.

Gore and Clinton said Thursday they stood for strong families, a clean environment and a growing economy with benefits for all - a likely preview of issues to arise in the three-way race with Bush and Ross Perot.

Gore is a Vietnam veteran, while Clinton avoided service. Gore has a picture-book family of four children, three girls and a boy.

Though Gore's record as a campaigner for the presidency four years ago was mixed, Clinton strategists believe he will provide a strong second voice

Board to decide pardons, paroles

Staff relinquishes authority in policy change

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas Pardons and Parole Division staff has relinquished its power to revoke and reinstate the parole of prison inmate partially because of the controversy surrounding the parole of convicted killer Kenneth McDuff.

Such decisions will be reserved for the Board of Pardons and Paroles, whose 18 members are appointed by the governor, Bob Owens, director of the parole agency, said Thursday.

The sudden policy change occurred quietly Thursday morning, while the Texas Senate Criminal Justice Committee held the first of several hearings on parole practices, including McDuff's parole and the influence that parole consultants wield on behalf of prison inmates.

The tightening of parole authority was sparked to some extent by parole officials' handling of the McDuff case, which became public after his arrest in May.

McDuff, 46, was charged with capital murder last month in the deaths of Valencia Kay Joshua of Bryan and Melissa Northrup of Waco. Police say he is a suspect in the disappearances and slayings of other Central Texas women, including Colleen Reed of Austin.

The parole board granted McDuff's release from prison in 1989. The agency staff revoked his parole in September 1990 because of allegations that he threatened a teen-ager. Three months later, the agency staff released him on parole again.

The decision to release him again has brought cries of outrage because of McDuff's criminal history.

McDuff was sentenced to death in connection with the slayings of one of three Fort Worth teenagers in 1966. His sentence was commuted to life when the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that the death penalty was unconstitutional.

The new policy calls for the staff members to investigate complaints against parolees, conduct hearings and make recommendations to a panel of the 18-member appointed parole board.

In addition to removing the parole powers from division staff members, board chairman Jack Kyle said Thursday "we are doing away with the concept of (parole) reinstatement altogether."

"From now on, if an inmate gets his parole revoked, he has to go through the entire process and apply for parole all over again," Kyle said. "We're not even going to use the word 'reinstatement.'"

The policy change, Kyle said, was made upon the advice of an attorney in the governor's office, Karen Gladney. Kyle and Owens described the new policy as a mutual decision by the staff and board members.

"I'd call it a gentlemen's agreement," Owens said. "This is something we had been thinking about doing for a long time. It is not a direct result of McDuff. However, I'd be lying to you if I said McDuff's case didn't give a lot of impetus to this policy."

Raids target parents owing child support

LUBBOCK (AP) - For those who thought police raids were reserved for drugs or weapons, guess again.

Lubbock County sheriff's deputies completed a two-day roundup Thursday of six parents who owe more than $80,000 in back child support.

Authorities are still trying to locate another 50 individuals who are overdue.

"The raids are an extreme part of our ongoing enforcement," said Rita Parson, a spokeswoman for the Child Support Enforcement Division of the state attorney general's office in Austin. "These are people we could locate at this particular time. One of our greatest difficulties is locating the delinquent parents."

Deputies arrested Sammy Byrd Thursday while he was working at a local cattle feed yard.

Byrd owes about $8,000 to his 9- and 10-year-old children.

"I don't make enough money to pay it," Byrd said after his arrest. "But it's my fault and I will take responsibility for it."

More than 710,000 cases of delinquent support for children have been filed with the Texas attorney general's office statewide, officials said.

"It takes voluntary compliance to remedy this problem," said Donna Morris, a local child support field manager with the state attorney general's office in Lubbock.

"That's why we do these type of raids from time to time to encourage people to voluntarily pay their child support so that we don't have to go out under every rock to look for people who might owe support."

In Lubbock County alone parents owe their children more than $20 million in overdue fees dating back to the mid-1970s.

Ms. Morris says parents have an array of reasons for failing to pay. Some don't get enough visitation with their kids, others claim not to have the money, while others withhold payments because they don't like their former spouse.

"By getting back at their ex-spouse they are really taking it out on their kids because they suffer the most," Ms. Morris said.

The parents arrested in the roundup will have their cases heard by a judge who can help determine a method of payment or order them to jail.

U.S. food standards to stay intact

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Bush administration is trying to reassure Congress and environmentalists alike that U.S. food safety and environmental laws won't be watered down by the proposed North American Free Trade Agreement.

Administration officials were sharply questioned Thursday by some members of the House Agriculture Committee who fear the trade pact could open U.S. markets to Mexican produce that doesn't meet U.S. standards.

Environmental Protection Agency, Food and Drug Administration, and Agriculture Department administrators repeatedly assured committee members that their concerns are being addressed.

"We will not agree to any provision in NAFTA that would weaken our ability to protect human health, food safety or the environment," said Linda J. Fisher, an EPA assistant administrator.

The hearing came as negotiators for the United States, Mexico and Canada are putting the final touches on an agreement, though significant differences remain in areas ranging from energy to tariffs and autos. U.S. Trade Representative Carla Hills has said she wants a pact completed by this summer.

Hills this week told reporters that any of the three nations could bar imports that fail to meet health or environmental standards.

But some environmentalists are concerned that the United States might agree to weaken existing environmental and health laws to be consistent with more lax Mexican regulations.

Rep. Kika de la Garza, who chairs the House Agriculture Committee, had a succinct reply to the possibility that U.S. standards would be lowered: "No, and hell no."

De la Garza, D-Mission, has proposed creation of a U.S.-Mexico pesticide committee to investigate and resolve border disputes.

Mexico, which supplies about half of the United States' consumption of winter fruits and vegetables, already has comparable pesticide standards to the U.S., a General Accounting Office official testified.

The problem is that Mexico does little to monitor pesticide usage and has practically no enforcement mechanisms, said Peter F. Guerrero, a GAO associate director.

Currently, Mexico's private sector monitors produce exported to the United States, Guerrero said.

"You are basically allowing the foxes to guard the henhouses," said Rep. Leon Panetta, D-Calif.

Guerrero ran into heavy questioning by Rep. Glenn English, D-Okla., who wanted him to assure the American public that all food supplies would be safe. De la Garza stepped in, telling English: "Someone else in the administration has to guarantee the American public."

The issue was not revisited when EPA, FDA and USDA officials testified.

Guerrero said his agency has identified "weaknesses" in the way the FDA tests produce.

FDA samples less than 1 percent of all food brought into the United States, which Guerrero said is not a representative sampling.

"This small percentage cannot provide the public with absolute protection against exposure to illegal residues in produce," the GAO said in a report prepared for de la Garza.

But FDA Deputy Associate Commissioner Gary Dykstra said his agency conducts "as comprehensive monitoring as possible with available resources."

Approximately 25 to 30 percent of all imported foods sampled by the FDA for pesticide residue are from Mexico. The agency has 12 fulltime inspectors along the U.S.-Mexico border.

"We do believe we have an adequate program on the border right now," Dykstra said.

Administration officials noted that Mexico is setting up a national laboratory system to test for pesticide residue on produce. But Dykstra acknowledged 10 of the 11 labs will be run by private sources.

Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro also testified Thursday, expressing concern that the free trade talks addressed protection of the Gulf of Mexico.

"Free trade can bring us many benefits. It can also bring us headaches if we do not act to anticipate the consequences," Mauro said.

To focus more attention on the gulf's problems, Mauro is creating an international assembly to be held Oct. 4-6 in Galveston. Public officials, industry leaders and academics from the U.S. and Mexico have been invited.

California banks take IOUs on faith

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - California's Depression-era maneuver of paying its bills with millions of dollars worth of IOUs has banks jittery only days after they began cashing the notes on faith.

"They're hot and they're grumpy and they're very concerned about the risks that are inherent here," state Treasurer Kathleen Brown said after a meeting with bankers Thursday. The state began mailing out IOUs - last used in 1936 - after it began the fiscal year July 1 without a budget. The banks said then that they would redeem the "registered warrants" as regular checks for 30 days, in the expectation of reimbursement from the state once a budget is enacted.

But as the budget impasse drags on, the banks are reconsidering. If they stop cashing the IOUs automatically, pressure will mount on the governor and Legislature to reach a budget agreement.

People may have to wait weeks to redeem IOUs if banks stop cashing them automatically. The state will probably revert to the original plan of publishing lists of IOUs that may be cashed as money trickles into state coffers.

In nine days, California has issued $426 million worth of IOUs, nearly 300,000 payments to state employees, vendors, creditors and recipients of tax refunds. On Thursday alone, more than $300 million worth were mailed to doctors, nursing homes, hospitals and other purveyors of government-paid health care.

"It's certainly true that bankers are looking at the situation on a daily basis and some banks may choose not to wait for the 30-day period before they decide they can no longer accept registered warrants," said Nancy Badely, a spokeswoman for the California Bankers Association, which represents about 400 of the state's 427 banks.

"Between July 15 and July 30, every bank will re-examine the whole situation," she said.

Bank of America, which predicted it would handle $1 billion worth of IOUs in July, might stop redeeming them automatically after July 15, said Vice President Tom Opdycke.

Republican Gov. Pete Wilson and Democrats in the Legislature are at odds over how to deal with a $6 billion shortage in his $56 billion spending plan.

Wilson has urged deep across-the-board cuts in state government, including education and welfare, while Democrats advocate more moderate cuts, protections for schools and an end to some tax loopholes. California has begun the fiscal year without a budget before, but in years past it had enough cash on hand to continue operations. Now the state is mired in its worst fiscal crisis since the Depression.

The state, with 750,000 jobs lost since May 1990 and a 9.5 percent unemployment rate, has about 1 million people out of work and the lowest growth in personal income since 1938.

The only woman to receive the Medal of Honor, the highest military award given by the United States government was Mary Edwards Walker, a Union Army surgeon during the Civil War.

Operation Water Watch '92 promotes swimming safety

Making a big splash with pool owners, parents and just about anyone else who plans to get into the swim of things this summer is a pool safety program that may help save lives, prevent injuries and increase recreational enjoyment for many.

Called Operation Water watch 1992, it's a national water safety campaign, created by the National Swimming Pool Safety Committee (NSPSC), that's designed to educate parents of young children and pool and spa owners about aquatic safety. Its goal is to ensure safe use and enjoyment of all bodies of water. The NSPSC wants to reduce children drowning and diving death and injuries in all bodies of water.

"We want everyone to enjoy swimming and diving, but to remember some simple, important safety tips," says Lester Kowalsky, Chairman of the NSPSC Steering Committee. "Exercising safe and responsible diving habits such as checking the depth of the water, steering your body up when entering the water, always checking the water for submerged objects and never drinking and diving can help prevent unnecessary accidents. The basic rule is this: "If you don't know what the conditions are, don't dive."

NSPSC also says that you can lock out trouble by installing barriers that restrict access to your pool or spa. Young children are naturally attracted to water, and effective barriers such as fences, power safety covers, door alarm systems and closing mechanisms help detect and prevent unsupervised access to the pool or spa.

In most child drowning in residential pools and spas, adult supervision had lapsed just momentarily. Almost 50 percent of these children were last seen inside the home before the accident. Constant supervision, effective barriers and knowledge of cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) are god ways to prevent such tragedies from happening.

Helpful tips for air travel

Finding vacation dates that jibe with work schedules, as well as sports, camp and summer school programs, can be daunting for '90s families.

Consequently, it's not uncommon to find busy families opting for four or five-day vacations rather than the traditional week or two. Shorter time away often means traveling by plane rather than by car. Here are some tips for enjoying your family vacation:

-Getting ready for a trip can be exhausting. Once you arrive at your destination, give yourself time to "decompress" before a whirlwind of activity begins. Frayed nerves are not what a getaway vacation is about.

-Let your kids pack their own backpacks to carry with them on the plane. With the limited space on board, they'll have to pick and choose the items they really want to bring along. Double-check to be sure your child's special security blanket or stuffed animal is tucked in.

-Bring along in your tote bag a few surprises for the kids as incentives for good behavior during the flight. For a great "messless" activity, pick up inexpensive "magic paint" watercolor books. Bring along Q-tips or small paintbrushes too. Your kids can dip the Q-tips or brushes in their water cups on the way to the tables and apply the water to the illustrate pages. The color on the pages will magically appear.

-Ask the flight attendant if the airline provides complimentary stationary and envelopes. School-age kids enjoy writing letters to relatives and friends using official airline writing paper.

-If a meal is served during the flight, call the airline at least 24 hours in advance to order special kids' meals. The menu may vary from peanut-butter sandwiches or hamburgers, with fruit and chocolate chip cookies.

-In case flights are delayed and you must spend extra time in the terminal, bring along fruit, juice and favorite snacks for a timely energy booster.

Hereford second baseman Stacey Sanders prepares to put the tag on an Amarillo basestealer. The ball was there after a strong throw from catcher Russ Watts. Hereford played well, but lost 3-2 Thursday at Whiteface Field.

Hereford plays well, falls to Amarillo, 3-2

Hereford's entry in the West Texas Summer Baseball League played perhaps its best game of the summer but lost 3-2 to the Amarillo Dusters. Starting pitcher Andy Kalka faced the minimum through the first three innings with the help of good defense, particularly two double plays which erased leadoff walks. In the second, shortstop Rene Cano caught a line drive and flipped to Stacey Sanders at second to double a runner off. In the third, Kalka got a strikeout and catcher Russ Watts nailed a runner who was trying to steal.

Kalka singled and both moved up on a wild pitch. After two outs, Shama Hernandez poked a double barely inside the first base line, and both runners scored. That was it for Hereford though, as Amarillo got the next four batters in order to finish the game.

Hereford collected six hits; Jerry Rincon, Richard Sanderson and J.J. Rico each had singles. Apart from the big double, Hernandez had a fifth-inning single to go 2-for-3. He also reached on an error that his speed may have forced.

Amarillo broke through for two runs in the fourth inning. Another leadoff walk, a stolen base and a single produced the first run. Later, with runners on first and third, Kalka had the man at first picked off, but he stayed alive in a rundown long enough for the other runner to score from third.

Amarillo's third run came in the sixth when Hereford lapsed into two errors. The errors combined with a seeing-eye single for the Dusters' insurance run.

Hereford finally scored in the bottom of the sixth. Sanders walked,

The two teams are scheduled to meet again Saturday during a tripleheader at Randall High School. Hereford will start with Randall at 12:30, then play Amarillo at 3. Amarillo and Randall will meet at 5:30.

Rangers sack Valentine

ARLINGTON (AP) - Bobby Valentine, who managed more games for one team without winning a title than anyone in baseball history, says the Texas Rangers fired him just when the team was coming together. "I thought we were going to be in first place at the end of the season. That's what we're shooting for," Valentine said Thursday.

Managing general partner George W. Bush said the decision was made because the team was "6 1/2 games back and not playing very well."

Valentine's response? "To say that the season is slipping away, I think that's doomsday reporting," he said.

Texas was 45-41 overall under Valentine, just 22-23 at home. The Rangers had lost six of their last nine before pounding Cleveland 14-4 Thursday night under Toby Harrah, who was promoted from dugout coach to interim manager.

Harrah, who managed the Rangers' top farm club in 1987 and 1988, said he is cautiously excited about taking over for Valentine, whom he said was a good teacher.

General manager Tom Grieve said he hopes to hire a new manager by the end of the All-Star break, but that such a short time frame may be too soon.

He said Harrah would be the only current coach considered for the post, but that other people within the organization, whom he declined to name, also may be candidates.

Valentine became the team's 11th manager in May 1985. He left with a 581-605 record and the club mark for wins, losses and games managed. No other Rangers manager lasted more than three seasons.

Valentine also etched his way into the major league record books by managing 1,186 games without winning so much as a division title. Under Valentine, the Rangers were never in a pennant race after Labor Day.

"I don't think anybody would've done better than I did while I was here," Valentine said. "People are going to look back and say in 1985, this is where the Texas Rangers were and in 1992, this is where they were when he left. I think people are going to say that's one hell of a job," he said.

Valentine said he just needed more time because "this team is going to win the World Series."

He cited many problems, including injuries or slumps to defending AL batting champion Julio Franco, closer Jeff Russell, All-Star catcher Ivan Rodriguez and two-time All-Star first baseman Rafael Palmeiro. A 15-3 streak by the world champion Minnesota Twins didn't help either. But the team could never overcome the question marks it faced in spring training.

The bullpen has had a revolving door and the defense has been spotty. Timely hits have been rare lately, contributing to six losses in the last nine games under Valentine.

Grieve said he will be looking for someone who is aggressive, who communicates well with the media, is community-oriented and has been in the game for a long time - basically the same qualities he used to describe Valentine, his close friend.

Many players - even those who cited Valentine as a mentor - said the firing is part of the game.

"Bobby Valentine was my only manager and pretty well brought me to the big leagues. I have to respect him for that. But it's a business," said pitcher Bobby Witt. "I know it's going to be different the first couple of games, not hearing him around here."

"He was more mellow this year, didn't get on the players, and just let us play - which was good," Palmeiro said. "He wasn't doing a bad job. I hate to see him go."

Though several players were surprised and saddened, most agreed that some kind of a change was needed.

"I feel sorry for him as a person, but what he did is better for the team," outfielder Ruben Sierra said. "He was a good person, but this is a job here, he was the manager, and you got to make a move."

Valentine said he had no immediate plans. He joked about having to get used to watching television in the afternoon and not putting on a uniform in July for the first time in more than 20 years.

"I earned every paycheck. I gave my heart, I gave my soul and I gave every waking hour to the Texas Rangers organization and family," said Valentine, who took a crash course in Spanish over the winter to help him communicate with the team's Latin players.

"If anybody wants anything more than that, I don't have it to give."

Harrah leads Rangers to win

By The Associated Press Bobby Valentine? Toby Harrah? It shouldn't matter.

On Thursday night, it didn't matter for the Texas Rangers.

"I think the guys showed tonight they didn't let it be a distraction," Nolan Ryan said after the Rangers routed Cleveland 14-4 under interim manager Harrah, who replaced the fired Valentine earlier in the day. "We're players, and whoever is our manager, we have to go out and do our jobs."

Ryan did a good enough job for his third consecutive victory after an 0-3 start. He struck out eight and walked two while allowing seven hits in seven innings for his 317th career win, one behind Phil Niekro for 12th on the all-time list.

Ruben Sierra had a three-run homer and both Kevin Reimer and Brian Downing hit solo shots in the first inning off Scott Scudder (6-8). Juan Gonzalez singled home two more runs in the second, and Dean Palmer's second grand slam of the season capped another five-run outburst in the fifth.

Also, it was Detroit 5, California 4 in what seemed like Old Timer's Day on the mound, with 41-year-old Bert Blyleven facing 39-year-old Frank Tanana; New York 7, Seattle 6; Chicago 10, Boston 3; Baltimore 4, Minnesota 2; Toronto 4, Oakland 3; and Kansas City 3, Milwaukee 2.

Tigers 5, Angels 4 At Detroit, the Angels started Blyleven, 41, against Tanana, 39.

Neither veteran was impressive, although Tanana, in his 19th full major-league season, improved to 8-5. He had pitched at least seven innings in five straight starts, but lasted just 5 1-3 innings Thursday, giving up three runs on six hits and two walks.

Blyleven (3-3), in his 22nd season in the majors, had his fourth straight poor start, allowing five runs on nine hits in just four innings.

Detroit slugger Cecil Fielder hit a three-run homer in the first inning

Yankees 7, Mariners 6 - At New York, Seattle jumped ahead on Edgar Martinez's three-run homer off Scott Kamieniecki (2-6). Then the Yankees needed only one hit - a grand slam by Mike Stanley - to put together six runs in the bottom half.

Randy Johnson (5-9) walked Mel Hall with one out in the first and Don Mattingly was safe on Harold Reynolds' error with two outs. Danny Tartabull and Jim Leyritz walked, forcing in the first run, and Johnson hit Charlie Hayes to make it 3-2.

Johnson, who threw 49 pitches in the inning, went to a full count before Stanley hit his third homer of the season and third career grand slam. Danny Tartabull also homered for

New York, while Ken Griffey Jr. had one for the Mariners. Dave Cochrane contributed four hits for Seattle.

White Sox 10, Red Sox 3 At Boston, Jack McDowell (12-4), pitched a seven-hitter for his sixth complete game. Frank Thomas went 4 for 4 with a two-run shot.

Orioles 4, Twins 2 At Baltimore, All-Star Brady Anderson led off with a homer off Scott Erickson (6-6) and Mike Devereaux followed with another.

Fielder, Winfield snubbed in All-Star team selection

NEW YORK (AP) - There are a lot of nice aspects of being a manager in the All-Star game. It means your team won the pennant last season; plus, the job gives you a chance to manage a great team without great pressure to win.

There is one thing, as Tom Kelly and others have learned, that is not so much fun: Picking your players.

On Thursday, Cecil Fielder, Dave Winfield and Dave Fleming were added to the ever-growing list of stars who've been left off All-Star rosters when the American and National Leagues filled out their squads.

"Picking the extra players within the guidelines of the system - at least one from each team - is difficult," said Minnesota's Kelly, the AL manager who joined with league president Bobby Brown to select the pitchers and reserves. "Taking the best player from one team affect the players picked from other teams."

Fielder was batting just .242 for Detroit when Kelly made his selections at 11:45 a.m. EDT on Thursday. But Fielder was leading the majors with 70 RBIs and had hit 16 home runs and on Thursday night, he hit a three-run homer in his first at-bat against California.

"It's nothing to worry about. It's a petty thing compared to the other things I've gone through," Fielder, still smarting from finishing second in the MVP voting in each of the last two years, said before the game.

The AL did not add a full-time first baseman to back up starter Mark McGwire. Instead, Milwaukee designated hitter Paul Molitor can play there, while Travis Fryman (.299, 13 HR, 56 RBIs) was chosen as Detroit's only representative.

Dave Winfield, however, was not as forgiving as Fielder.

Winfield was fifth in the AL in batting at .309 with 14 homers and 47 RBIs, but was left off in place of Toronto teammate Joe Carter, who was hitting .280 with 19 homers and 62 RBIs.

Going into the final week of fan voting, Winfield was third for an AL outfield spot, but he finished fourth behind Oakland's Jose Canseco.

"I don't want to talk about it," Winfield said, visibly disappointed. "I earned a spot and deserved to be there."

The host Padres will feature five players this time, most in the majors. Third baseman Gary Sheffield and shortstop Tony Fernandez were added to the NL roster to join outfielder Tony Gwynn, first baseman Fred McGriff and catcher Benito Santiago, who were elected to start.

Six other players the Padres traded away in recent years also are on All-Star rosters. Outfielder Bip Roberts of Cincinnati, second baseman Carlos Baerga of Cleveland, Carter and John Kruk, the Philadelphia first baseman who leads the majors with a .351 average, were added as reserves. Toronto second baseman Roberto Alomar and his brother, Cleveland catcher Sandy Alomar Jr., are former Padres who were elected as AL starters.

Atlanta, the defending NL champion, and St. Louis are the only teams to have two pitchers selected. Cy Young winner Tom Glavine and John Smoltz will represent the Braves. Bob Tewksbury, leading the major with a 1.82 ERA, and reliever Lee Smith were picked from the Cardinals.

Reserve outfielder Ron Gant and starting third baseman Terry Pendleton, the reigning NL MVP, give the Braves four players.

Other AL starting pitchers are Roger Clemens of Boston, Juan Guzman of Toronto, Kevin Brown of Texas, Mark Langston of California, Jack McDowell of Chicago, Mike Mussina of Baltimore and Charles Nagy of Cleveland. Joining Dennis Eckersley of the Athletics are relievers Rick Aguilera of the Twins and Jeff Montgomery of the Royals.

NL manager Bobby Cox of Atlanta and president Bill White picked starting pitchers Tewksbury, Glavine, Smoltz, David Cone of the New York Mets, Greg Maddux of the Chicago Cubs and Dennis Martinez of Montreal. They picked relievers Smith, Norm Charlton of Cincinnati and Doug Jones of Houston.

Fleming, the top rookie pitcher in the majors, did not make it. Fleming, 10-3 with a 3.27 ERA for Seattle, was squeezed out so Langston (8-7, 4.02 ERA) and Montgomery (0-5, 19 saves in 21 chances) could make it as their team's only players.

Ivan Rodriguez of Texas was picked as the AL's backup catcher, while the AL's reserve infielders are Baerga, Fryman, Molitor, Chuck Knoblauch of the Twins, Edgar Martinez of the Mariners and Robin Ventura of the White Sox.

The AL's reserve outfielders are Carter, Brady Anderson of Baltimore, Roberto Kelly of the New York Yankees and Ruben Sierra of Texas.

Reds keep dominating NL

By The Associated Press

The Cincinnati Reds can make a pretty strong argument for being the best team in the National League right now.

Barry Larkin's two-run double broke an eighth-inning tie Thursday night and enabled the Reds to continue their mastery of Pittsburgh with a 5-2 victory over the slumping Pirates at Riverfront Stadium.

The Reds have won the last five games between the NL's division leaders, including a four-game sweep in Pittsburgh last weekend, to take a 6-3 lead in the season series.

"They have an excellent club with a lot of ways to beat you," manager Jim Leyland said. "They have a lot of versatility."

Jeff Branson doubled to center field off Roger Mason (2-4) to start the go-ahead rally with one out in the eighth. Branson took third on Reggie Sanders' two-out infield single off Bob Walk, and Larkin doubled into the right-field corner for the lead. Larkin continued to third on right fielder Gary Varsho's error and scored on Paul O'Neill's single.

Scott Bankhead (9-2) pitched out of a jam in the eighth to get his team-high ninth win. Norm Charlton pitched the ninth for his 21st save.

Cincinnati's Greg Swindell, disappointed at failing to make the NL All-Star team before the game, had another disappointment when he failed to hold a 2-1 lead in the sixth.

Padres 3, Phillies 1

Padres in time to help end their Deshaies (1-0) had his contract purchased from Triple-A Las Vegas earlier in the day to fill in for injured Dave Eiland. Working 5 2-3 innings in his first big-league start of the year, he allowed three hits, struck out eight and walked five. Randy Myers pitched the final 1 2-3 innings for his 14th save.

Terry Mulholland (9-5) had his four-game winning streak ended.

Astros 4, Mets 0

At the Astrodome, Willie Blair won for the first time in the National League with six strong innings of relief.

Blair (1-4) had a 5-8 record in the American League for Toronto and Cleveland before coming to Houston in an off-season trade. He gave up four hits while striking out a career-high six and walking none in relief of Mark Portugal.

Houston took a 1-0 lead in the first inning off Dwight Gooden (6-8) on Eric Anthony's RBI single.

Braves 2, Cubs 0

At Wrigley Field, Mark Lemke's two-run triple in the 12th inning broke a scoreless tie.

David Justice walked leading off the 12th and Brian Hunter sacrificed him to second. Greg Olson also walked before Lemke lined a triple into the right-field corner off reliever Jim Bullinger (0-2).

Mike Stanton (2-4) pitched two hitless innings for the victory.

The Cubs managed only three hits off four Atlanta pitchers. All three hits came off starter Charlie Liebbrandt, who worked seven innings as Marvin Freeman, Stanton and Alejandro Pena, who earned his fifth save, combined to shut down the Cubs.

Expos 6, Giants 5

At Candlestick Park, Marquis Grissom scored on third baseman Matt Williams' error in the 12th inning.

Grissom blooped a one-out single to center off Dave Righetti (1-6), went to second on a wild pitch, stole third and scored when catcher Kirt Manwaring's throw got past Williams for an error.

John Wetteland (2-2) worked three scoreless innings for the victory, allowing two hits.

Dodgers 2, Cardinals 1

At Dodger Stadium, Ramon Martinez (5-6) blanked St. Louis on three hits over eight innings as Los Angeles beat All-Star pitcher Bob Tewksbury.

Roger McDowell got the last three outs for his 11th save, allowing an unearned run when he balked home Todd Zeile.

The Dodgers broke a scoreless tie in the sixth after Tewksbury (9-3) had retired the first two batters. Brett Butler started the rally with his 23rd bunt single of the season and came around to score on singles by Lenny Harris and Eric Davis. LA scored only one run in the seventh despite getting four straight hits off Tewksbury and benefiting from two errors on one play by Jose in right field.

Astros' sale may be close

HOUSTON (AP) - The proposed sale of the Houston Astros from John McMullen to Drayton McLane Jr. for a reported $90 million is either "virtually a done deal" or "totally up in the air," according to published reports.

In a copyright story today, the Houston Post quoted sources as saying the sale was "virtually a done deal."

But McMullen and McLane told the Houston Chronicle they are still negotiating, but have not reached an agreement.

Accountants from both sides are attempting to iron out major tax ramifications, particularly for McMullen, who purchased the baseball team in 1979 for about $18 million, the Post reported in a copyright story.

McLane was in Houston Thursday, but returned to his home in Temple, prompting speculation that an announcement on the sale could come as soon as today, the Post reported.

But McLane told the Houston Chronicle that a deal is "still totally up in the air."

"We're still negotiating. We've set a target date for next Friday, and I assure you that we have not reached an agreement," McLane told the Chronicle from his home in Temple Thursday night. "We have a number of hurdles to get over."

McLane, who has been negotiating in earnest with McMullen for at least two months, said a target date of one week from today has been set to determine if the sale can be accomplished.

McMullen told the Chronicle from his home in Montclair, N.J., that talks with McLane are still under way.

"We have not reached any sort of agreement," McMullen said Thursday night. "We're talking again, but it's not even at the point where I can report it as a possibility."

"There are still some major differences. It's not an easy situation. I'm no closer than I was a month ago. I wish I could tell you differently."

"What's happening is that they're developing a letter of understanding or an agreement in principle," a source told the Post. "They have the accountants going crazy right now trying to ascertain or confirm all the numbers."

"After the agreement in principle, the next step is for them to have their attorneys reduce the documents to realistic proportions and then present this to the other baseball owners for official approval of the sale."

The sale could be brought up for consideration in St. Louis at the next quarterly meeting of baseball owners to be held Sept. 9-10. Any franchise sale must be approved by 75 percent of National League owners and a majority of American League owners, but would be considered little more than a formality because the Astros would be getting Texas ownership.

The source said, however, that the sale might fall through at the last minute.

"Sure, McMullen might do something goofy at the last minute, like say he wants more cash up front, or something like that," he said. "But, basically, I think they put this deal to bed a month ago. Something might pop (today) or over the weekend or by Monday."

No one could confirm whether McLane, the second-leading stockholder in Wal-Mart, also is buying all or part of the Houston Sports Association, which leases the Astrodome from Harris County.

Most fishermen know that using a black light improves their night fishing. Using a black light will make any fluorescent line glow in the dark and appear to be about 1/8-inch thick. Tying knots in the black of night is a cinch. More importantly, "seeing" the subtle tap of Mr. Bigmouth or Mr. Whiskers is a piece of cake. In short, using a black light will help you catch more fish at night.

Officials with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department report a new use for black light. Just ask a couple of rascals from Broadus, Texas, who were sentenced in federal court to 10 days in jail, a $500 fine and three years probation.

These bad guys were illegally netting catfish using one-inch hoop nets on Lake Sam Rayburn in East Texas.

"We applied detection paste to their nets that day and waited for them to come check the nets that night," Game Warden Jerry McRae. "We stopped them as they were coming in, and under the black light, the paste lit up like Christmas all over them, their boat, their paddles, everything." Big bass and bad guys: black light will catch them both.

Problem--Local lakes are up because of the heavy rains, but anglers report some problems catching fish on the new shoreline. Initially, the inundated grass, brush and trees were alive with baitfish feeding on insects. After just a couple of days, the newly flooded vegetation started to spoil and the oxygen level in the shallow water was greatly reduced, causing the gamefish to temporarily leave that area.

Solution--Try fishing the old shoreline until you see the baitfish move into the new water. Warning: carp will continue to use the oxygen-depleted water while bass, perch and other gamefish continue to avoid the new water.

Congratulations to Don Midget for winning the July 2 Fun Tournament at Lake Meredith. In a field of 29 anglers, Don's shad-colored Bass Assassin caught the only keeper bass, which weighed 1.64 pounds, and he took home first place money of $203. A drawing (yes, a random drawing) was held for second place and third place with Barry Lane and his son Brandon each winning $50.

The next Fun Tournament will be July 16 at Lake Greenbelt. Registration at the south ramp begins at 4:30 p.m., and tournament hours are 6-9. The entry fee is only $20, and kids 16 and younger fish free with an adult consent. Only Pete predicts: "It will take more than just one keeper to win at Greenbelt."

Stockton, Kiefer lead Senior Open

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) - Getting up early paid off for a couple of relative youngsters in the first round of the U.S. Senior Open.

Dave Stockton, who turned 50 last fall, and Jack Kiefer, a 52-year-old driving range owner from New Jersey, took advantage of a softer, smoother Saucon Valley Country Club Thursday morning to shoot 4-under 67s.

Then they sat back to watch later starters struggle with rising winds and drier, spiked-up greens.

Larry Laoretti, a 52-year-old Florida who never played on the PGA Tour, managed a bogey-free 68 in the afternoon. Gibby Gilbert, winner of the last two Senior Tour events, led a group of six at 69. Defending champ Jack Nicklaus managed three birdies in an afternoon round of 70, and was tied with six others.

An inch of rain soaked the course Wednesday night.

"We obviously got the good greens and got the holes in before the wind came up," said Stockton, who teed off at 8:40 a.m.

Stockton met with psychologist Debra Graham for a couple of hours on Wednesday, trying to shake his tendency to get frustrated and dwell on poor shots.

It evidently worked. After putting his tee shot in a bunker on the 394-yard 8th hole, he hit an 8-iron to 16 feet and rolled in the birdie putt.

Chi Chi Rodriguez played the last six holes in 4-over and finished at 73. Lee Trevino, bothered by bursitis in his left thumb, also shot 73.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Approximately 27 years ago, when I was a young teenager, I wrote to you about my father's boss molesting me. I was afraid if I told my parents they would read the riot act to mr. boss and my dad would be fired.

You write back and urged me to talk to a school counselor or minister at once. I didn't take your advice because I was too afraid to confide in anyone.

I repressed the incident until a few years ago when I began to see myself in your column again and again. Iats week I decided it was time to get some help. I had my first counseling session with a psychologist who specializes in treating women who were sexually abused as children.

Now I deeply regret that I didn't go for help long ago. It would have saved me many years of depression and wondering what on earth was wrong with me. I am working hard at recovery because I now have two small children and they need a mom who has her head on straight.

Please, please, please—continue to stress the importance of seeking help immediately after the molestation takes place. Victims of sexual abuse should be made to understand that they are not guilty of any wrongdoing and what happened was not their fault. They did not ask to be treated that way and they don't deserve to be robbed of their innocence.

Please, Ann, keep urging all victims of sexual abuse, regardless of age, to get help.—Birmingham, Ala.

DEAR ALA.: Thanks for your impassioned plea. At the risk of

Discover America's parks
There are over 350 national park sites to choose from all across America.
To help you plan your next trip to one of them, here are some helpful hints:
-Remember to pack a travel bag with some park essentials: National Park System map and guide, camera, picnic blanket, moist towelettes, hat, light jacket, sunglasses and trash bags. Pack a cooler with sandwiches and snacks.
-Don't forget to pick up information at the local park visitors office to learn more about the site you're visiting. Call ahead to find out about entrance, campsite and tour fees, as well as permit and license requirements for activities such as hunting or rock-climbing.
-Wear comfortable shoes and clothing for walking and hiking and know your physical limitations.
LOS ANGELES (AP) - Annette Funicello has had multiple sclerosis for five years but kept it a secret because she felt good.
Now she has gone public because her balance is faltering and she did not want fans - or tabloid reporters - to spot her and think she was drunk, the former Mouseketeer and beach movie veteran said in Thursday's USA Today.
Funicello said she is fighting the disease with steroids, acupuncture and vitamin shots.
"I'm going to lick this," the 49-year-old actress said.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

KING SAUL'S WILLFULNESS!

THE ANCIENT ISRAELITES WERE STRICT ADHERENTS TO GOD'S LAW. ANY DEVIATION BROUGHT TRAGIC CONSEQUENCES. A STERN EXAMPLE LIES IN THE ACCOUNT OF KING SAUL'S DISASTROUS AND FINAL BATTLE WITH THE PHILISTINES. THE PROPHET SAMUEL HAD WARNED SAUL THAT HE COULD NO LONGER COUNT UPON THE STRENGTH OF GOD TO SUPPORT HIM IN HIS WILLFUL MISBEHAVIOR. SAUL HAD DEFIED SAMUEL'S INSTRUCTIONS TO DISPOSE OF AN ENEMY KING, TREATING HIM WITH RESPECT INSTEAD OF PUNISHMENT FOR DEFYING GOD. (1 SAM. 15:19-26) AS A RESULT THE ISRAELITES ARE NOW FACING DEFEAT FROM THEIR TRADITIONAL ENEMIES, THE PHILISTINES.....

... AND SAUL FROM HIS VANTAGE POINT ON GILBOA IS WITNESS TO THE ROUT....
