Spud Prices Soar During Rain

Around Town

Farmers and mothers aren't the only ones who were affected by the continued rains. Our small, white, mongrel dog is about to have herself a nervous breakdown. She has assumed the role of guardian around our household. . . . you know, the normal doggy thing of barking at the mailman, milkman and members of the family who return after dark. But the rains have brought about a new invasion. She was most proud when she chased a salamander back underground. Princess also learned she could catch and kill most of the tiny frogs which bounded about the yard. But Saturday morning she almost re-

Sentenced For DWI Offense

Raynaldo de la Cruz, 50, Saturday was sentenced to 10 days in county jail and fined $100, plus court costs, for driving while intoxicated, first offense. The man, whose home is in Roma, Tex., was working in Hereford at the time of his arrest.

He was arrested in the 200 block of Avenue K at 5:01 p.m. Friday by Hereford patrolman Bobby Roberts.

Judge Homer E. Henslee presided at the county court hearing Saturday morning.

The year 1960 is full of surprises for Deaf Smith County farmers.

With a strong market to fill, price of Texas potatoes has skyrocketed up to $7 a hundred as result of a very moderate supply.

Rain gauges have been heavy, with moisture this week, some county residents reporting more than 10 inches.

With the wheat harvest about 98 percent complete growers in the county report yields on dryland and irrigated

Four Fined For Prostitution

Four Hereford women received fines in Justice Of The Peace court Thursday and Friday after they entered pleas of guilty to charges of vagrancy by prostitution.

Receiving fines of $200-plus court costs Thursday were: Alida Soliz, 21, 318 Avenue D; Elida Soliz, 23, 318 Avenue D; and Lola, Dolores Trevino, 19, 125 Avenue H.

Fined the same amount after pleading guilty to the charge Friday morning was Daisy Delphine Gonsales, 24, of the Texas Hotel.

Miss Trevino and Elida Soliz were arrested at 8:20 p.m. Wednesday in the 200 block of Main St. Alida Soliz was arrested at 9:38 p.m. Wednesday in the 100 block of Main. The three arrests were made by Hereford police Capt. L. B. Bartlett.

Daisy Gonsales was arrested at 4 p.m. Thursday at Hereford City Hall. The arrest was made by Hereford police Chief Henry Aycock.

The fines and court costs were levied by Justice Of The Peace C. B. Miles.

As a result of recent rains, soil conditions for the crop of maize recently planted are very good. The rains last month and this week have been a pleasant surprise for ranchers in the county as grasslands, will thrive on the unusually heavy amounts of moisture.

A record rainfall fell in Hereford beginning Sunday this week. The 7.72 inches reported at Hereford City Hall has surpassed all previous marks since 1905.

June also marked another record month moisture-wise. Report for that month was 5.79 inches, which shot over the previous high of 4.24 inches reported in 1941.

Another record this year was reported in May — but to the other extreme. A report of .14 of an inch made many dryland wheat farmers give up all hopes of having a crop to harvest.

Although many vegetable growers feel that water which stood in their fields this week did little or no harm to potatoes and onions, others said it may have an effect on effect on yields.

Late last week, market on potatoes was $4.25 a hundred, one of the highest prices for potatoes locally in recent years.

4,082 Acres Chopped From County's Wheat Allotment

By DAN MUDD
BRAND NEWS REPORTER

Deaf Smith County received a 4,082 acre allotment reduction on the 1961 wheat crop, it was announced this week by the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office in Hereford.

Official notices of farm allotments for the 1961 wheat crop were mailed to 1,231 wheat farmers in this county Friday, according to County ASC office manager Faust Collier.

Collier said that all local growers who will produce more than 15 acres of wheat as grain in 1961 will be eligible to cast ballots in the July 21 referendum on marketing quotas for next year's crop.

This county received a reduction of from 200,423 acres in 1960 to 196,341 acres in 1961.

Deaf Smith County absorbed a sizeable percentage (more than 9 per cent) of Texas' 45,118 acre reduction under the allotment for the 1960 crop. Texas received a 1.1 per cent cut, and this county received a reduction of two per cent.

Collier pointed out that the base acreage here was arrived at by using 20 per cent of 1959 history and 80 per cent of the 1960 base. That is in contrast to use of the five-year average base. The result was that base acreage was raised in many instances.

"However," he further explained, "the county reduction is still reflected because of the reduced factor. The factor is a .670, compared with .723 last year."

The five-year, 10-year average, which became the Deaf Smith County base for 1960, is 293,928 acres. The base acreage for 1961 is 292,900 acres, a drop of 1,028 acres.

Postpone Swim Meet One Week

Due to a lack of participants, the junior swimming meet scheduled Saturday morning has been postponed until Saturday, July 16.

Only a small group of swimmers showed up at the Hereford city pool. Wayne Lawrence, coach of the Hereford Athletic Club's aquatic team, reluctantly called off the meet.

"We are still hoping for a good turnout next week. All youngsters, 16 years of age and younger, are urged to come out and enjoy the races," Lawrence said.

Categories of competition will include free style, back stroke, breast stroke, and butterfly stroke. There will not be any entry fee charged. Boys and girls will compete in separate divisions.

Swimmers also will be entered according to ages. Division I will include those 10 years of age and younger; Division II takes in those 11 and 12, while Division III includes those 13 and 14 and Division IV takes in (Continued On Page 2)

LL Mothers' Game Postponed Until July 16

One of Hereford's best-known sporting events, the annual Little League Mothers' softball game, has been postponed until Saturday, July 16. It was scheduled for July 9, but soggy fields prevented the game.

Mrs. Robert E. Thompson, general chairman for the game, said Saturday that practice sessions would be held before the game if possible.

Game time Saturday will be 8 p.m. at the Little League field. The ceremony to name major and minor All-Star teams from the Little League organization was moved inside Saturday. The announcement of All-Star players was held in the High School auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

League president Henry Aycock said the remaining games on the schedule would be played as soon as possible. A number of games have been rained out during the season.

... 'tis a privilege denied to many of us."

This admonition appears on a promotion folder from the Barrett Memorial Home of Pampa and it speaks a volume. Our articles to date have carried much of the problems in the picture so this week we propose to look to the brighter side of placing a home for senior citizens in Hereford.

America moves today on hundreds of fronts with a powerful belief that world conditions do not mean we have no future. Americans like Ross Kettering of General Motors fame are making great plans for the future for "we are going to spend all the rest of our time there."

Since Congress expanded the Welfare Rehabilitation Program in 1954 our land has become "rehabilitation-conscious". There arises a growing and an astonishing willingness on the part of our people to change their attitudes towards the aged or the senior citizens.

Startling reports show that age in many given areas of labor brings compensations for which industry might well pay premiums. Industry begins to plan its own program of reha-

Make Change In Welcome Service

The newcomer welcoming service which has been operating in Hereford was divorced from activities of the merchants committee of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Friday morning.

Financing problems, which have plagued the service from the start, were the primary reason for the separation. However, a group of the merchants attending the morning meeting said they intended to keep the service and operate it on a commercial basis.

Participants had been dropping from the service because they were unable to decide (Continued on Page 3)

Seek Parade, Queen Entries

Six Hereford girls this week were named as candidates for the Harvest Festival queen contest, which will be held July 26 in the Hereford High School auditorium.

Entries were light Saturday for the Festival parade, which will be held Saturday morning, July 30. Hereford Optimist Club member Cliff Galley, chairman of the club's parade committee, has announced prizes of $25, $15 and $10 for first, second and third in each of two divisions, commercial and non-commercial.

There will be a small entry fee for the commercial entries and no charge for non-commercial. Parade float or entries should be directed by Galley by calling EM-4-1122, or his committee members, Charles Sheetz and Bill Phipps.

The queen candidates are: Judy McGee, sponsored by Cooper's Market; Susy Yarbro, sponsored by Vahlsing's; Cherry Holt, sponsored by Pitman Grain Co.; Ruby Brewton, sponsored by the Hereford Brand; Jeanette Rayburn, sponsored by the Ink Spot; and Carol Sneed, sponsored by Robinson's Decker Agency.

Deadline for entering the 1960 queen event is July 18 at 5 p.m., it has been announced by the Hereford Junior Chamber of Commerce. The Hereford Business and Professional Women's Club will furnish judges for the event. Last year's Festival queen, Joanne Fowlkes, will present the trophy to the 1960 queen.

The queen this year will be selected before the annual festival begins in order that she may reign over all activities, according to Gerald Hale, chairman of the queen committee.

To enter the contest, a girl must be between the ages of 16 and 25 and single. Jaycees (Continued on Page 3) to do so even in a dollars - and - cents frame.

Rehabilitation centers, under the growing prodding of Congress through its Hill - Burton grants, are increasing. In 1958 more than 60 million dollars were invested in rehabilitation programs. We are proving that work is more important to our culture than it is to our economy, that it is absolutely necessary to maintain status and importance if persons are to remain alert and to prevent deterioration of the individual.

Those who no longer count, no longer live - they simply vegetate - and soon go to bed to live a long time on miracle drugs. But the change in the average working citizen to become alert to our need to keep every Golden Ager conscious of "counting for something" will do much to bring a future to our people who are more than 80 years of age.

This change in the minds of young and middle age working people will bring its own measure of prevention, by the world of mind and spirit, to much of the residual disabilities or chronic disease and the aging process. Programs of community - wide scope will gather around the retirement years like the bands and pep squads now gather around our youth and people will begin to "live" till they die.

The Jewish Home for the Aged in Detroit, Mich., has a "Sheltered Work Program" that tells a thrilling story. People who had given up to await death now climb out of bed each morning to vow in strong language that they are quite well and up to another day in the work shop when the nurses in charge realize that the oldsters are actually carrying pain in every move.

They go to the breakfast meal to qualify for reporting to the job where, in a simple fashion, they are given easy work. Some are paid only very small weekly checks but they are made to feel needed. The work they do is contracted on a bid basis and no bid is made if the work has a dead-line.

The oldsters can take as long as they need to finish the job and they are never pushed. They can walk a while or sleep a while or sit in the lounge for a time even during the hours of work if they feel like it.

But they do such work as packaging the various pieces of information that come in your instruction kit of your new car. They bid the job in and it is a project of the home-family and all count for the success of it.

Certainly custodian nurses see that nobody does work that is injurious. In this home many of those who work live in the city and ride to the Home for the Aged to get in their hours at the "Sheltered Work Shop" and mix with the home family.

The worship services in the home, the picnics, the sing-fests, the craft hours, the various programs of therapy all offer to persons of gift and experience in the community opportunities to harvest rich returns for hours of giving of themselves.

I walked through the recreation rooms of one of our larger homes, where there were 58 persons more than 90 years of age.

I was attracted by a tall, fine looking man over six feet in height and as straight as a door casing, wearing a tan suit that would look good on a young fellow on a date with his best gift. This old gentleman turned to smile with a twinkle and shake hands in a lively fashion. He was wearing a hearing aid and was playing pool about a table with two or three others.

When I learned that he was 95 and had preached in the Methodist Church for 50 years, I congratulated him.

He smiled again, and holding his billiard cue, he said, "You know, for 50 years I fought the pool balls and I still feel a little guilty holding this cue, but I sure like the game."

If we can keep our senior citizens willing to change, to make adjustments, to accept a new day, to belong to the family in their objectives and goals, we shall have happy days with our responsibility to our elders.

All our days in America, everybody has loved the "happy" old people. It has been the critical, caustic, grumpy oldster who has watched youth turn his back for somebody more interesting. Age can be very, very interesting and the right kind of homes for the seniors will make a generation of happy "old timers" who stay young.

If you ever "tuck into bed" a dear old mother who can't seem to fit in the home of her beloved children and hear her praying, "Oh, Dear God, why can't I go on home where I could fit and be out of the way?" you will realize that these 16 million soon need surroundings that "fit" and that growing old without a feeling of being needed, or with a feeling of being a burden is far worse than death.

Then you will want to do something that really counts to help these "helpless ones, once so proud, strong and devoted" to find returns on the "o they bore to us."

But Monday, the price had jumped to $5, and Tuesday it was upped to $5.50.

On the Chicago market Friday, Texas round reds were selling at from $6.65 to $6.75 per hundred.

A local vegetable shed operator Saturday morning told the Brand that he had sold a carload in Chicago at $7 per hundred, which may be an all-time high for this county.

However, a reduction in acreage and yields of potatoes has been reported this year. One shed operator said there is a 20 per cent reduction in acreage and more than a 20 per cent reduction in yields of the 1960 crop.

"If we come out of these rains with sound potatoes," he said, "we will never be able to fill the demand."

The state of Washington has only 500 cars of potatoes to dig this year, it was reported. Most of those potatoes will be consumed in the north and on the West Coast.

San Mountain, Ala., which affected the market here last year, is nearly through with harvest following a drought. Idaho is late with harvesting its crop, with light yields on reds.

Harvesting of potatoes soon will depend on several factors: weather during the next week, drainage and slope of the land on potato farms.

Prices on onions, if it were possible to harvest the crop at the present time, would range between $1.50 to $2.00 per 50 pound sack.

One vegetable shed operator attributed to reduction in yield of potatoes to cold weather in earlier stages of growth.

Harvest of the potato crop in this county ended temporarily Monday. Yields were generally light, and the crop was feeding a quite hungry market.

The majority of green top onions and potatoes should be able to stand up to the untimely rainfall, another shed operator predicted. He remained indefinite in his prediction as he, like many vegetable growers, was unable to get out in the fields.

Moisture reports for this week included:

George Meiwes of Westway, from nine to 10 inches; W. P. McMinn, 12 miles southwest of Hereford, 7.70;

Mrs. Walter Lemons, 15 miles northwest of Dawn, more than 10 inches; Mrs. W. J. Albracht of Frio, 7.50 inches;

Mrs. Cliff Johnson of Walcott, 10 inches; Mrs. Carl Perrin, 37 miles northwest of Hereford, 10.75 inches.

Moisture reports at City Hall included: .93 Monday, 1.73 inches Tuesday, .23 Wednesday, 1.18 inches Thursday, 2.67 Friday, and another inch through Saturday morning.

From 8 a. m. Thursday to 8 a. m. Friday, a total of 3.75 inches was reported on a rain gauge at the I. O. O. F. Hall in Hereford.

State Employment representative Pat Patterson said about 3,000 migrant laborers had come to Hereford through Friday, and most of them had no work this week due to the rain. When harvesting operations begin again, he anticipates some shortage of workers, but he feels normal migration will solve the situation in a short time.

Deaf Smith County Red Cross Chapter executive secretary Corinne Neely said there seemed to be no hardship among the Latin - American migrant laborers due to the recent rains.

Cotton, a hot weather crop, is in early stages of growth, and standing water in fields should not cause root rot. Weeds in the fields, however, will thrive on the rain; therefore, when the fields dry up, hoeing will begin on the cotton crop.

The rains this week should benefit the approximately 175,000 acres of maize planted in Deaf Smith County. Some of maize stalks are knee - high, and about 98 per cent of the crop has been planted.

While some fields are currently being planted in carrots, other fields are nearing harvest stages.

Planting of lettuce, a quick crop, should begin soon after the soil dries sufficiently.

With the amount of rainfall last month and this week, wheat land should be in excellent condition when planting operations begin in September.

Provided there is no more rain, the moisture should provide more benefits than harm, many farmers and ranchers reported Friday.

The previous moisture record for July was 5.68, in 1958. Other highs for the month included: 3.34 in 1952, 3.04 in 1949, three inches in 1944, 3.82 in 1943, 4.30 in 1941, 3.43 in 1938, 4.25 in 1911 and 3.52 in 1910.

Previous highs in June include: 3.83 in 1959, 3.68 in 1954, 3.03 in 1952, 3.14 in 1951, 3.63 in 1949, 4.24 in 1942, 3.24 in 1938 and 3.71 in 1937.

Texas Highway Patrol Sgt. Roger Sosebee of Hereford has reported that U. S. 385 four miles north of Hereford is still blocked by a temporary lake across the highway. The ground is near the saturation point about 10 miles east of Highway 60 and could be impassable for a short time in event of more rain.

F. M. 1962, from U. S. 385, to Canyon, also has been closed, Sgt. Sosebee said.

pointed out. "This is effective in 1960, and therefore does not affect the drift of base acreage to other states."

The effect of that regulation will be felt in the 1962 program if the present program is continued.

"Missouri, for instance, received an increase of 17,000 acres due to the fact that a great number of its allotments are less than 15 acres," Collier commented. "Yet, it is customary to plant 15 acres and to gain the difference between the allotment and 15 acres as history."

Some states gaining in acreage allotments included: Alabama, Arkansas, Idaho, Illinois, North Dakota, Oregon, Washington and Oklahoma.

Receiving decreases were: Colorado, 14,000; Nebraska, 15,000; Ohio, 17,000; New Mexico, 3,000; and North Carolina, 3,000.

The referendum will be held from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. on July 21, Collier said. Places and judges will be announced at a later date.

Growers who will have smaller wheat acreages in 1961 and those who are taking part in the feed wheat program are not eligible to vote, since the wheat from such farms would not be subject to marketing penalties under a quota program.

Collier reminded farmers that those who vote in the July 21 referendum will be the ones who decide what kind of program will be in effect for the next wheat crop.

At least two - thirds of the total votes cast must be favorable if the 1961 wheat marketing quota is to remain in effect. Marketing penalties will apply to the excess wheat of growers who do not comply with their farm allotments, and price support will be available at not less than 75 per cent of parity, the exact level to be announced at a later date.

If more than one - third of the voters oppose the quotas, there will be no quotas or penalties for the 1961 wheat crop, and price support will be available at 50 per cent of parity, as directed by law. Allotments will remain in effect as a condition of price - support eligibility.

The national acreage allotment will remain at the mil-

ENGLISH SNACKTIME TREAT is both refreshing and hearty; saffron bread with a rich lemon-flavored spread and fresh strawberries.

Snacktime Trio Sure To Please

By CECILY-BROWNSTONE
HALF THE FUN of feeding family and friends lies in offering a surprise. Fortunately the unexpected doesn't have to be elaborate and take hours to prepare. Sometimes a simple way of presenting a food does the trick.

Now a creative cook comes up with one of these easy-to-do ideas—a sweet, cool, refreshing Strawberry Bush from which to pick and enjoy the luscious fruit right at the table!

If you want a delightful snacktime trio, serve the Strawberry Bush with Saffron Bread and Lemon Curd.

In England Cornish cooks pride themselves on their saffron buns. In this country, folk of Cornish ancestry in Michigan and Wisconsin hold tight to this delectable bread. Lemon Curd is also an English favorite and we've bought an excellent imported variety of it in our markets. Handed-down recipes for the curd are particularly cherished, we found, in Pennsylvania's Chester County.

A STRAWBERRY BUSH

Wash large strawberries and drain; do not remove hulls. Insert one end of a toothpick into each berry through the hull. Insert one end of a toothpick into a large lemon or orange set in a small glass or vase. Cover lemon with the berries. Insert sprigs of mint between the berries.

SAFFRON BREAD

Ingredients: 1/2 teaspoon saffron threads, 1 tablespoon hot water, 1/2 cup milk, 1/3 cup sugar, 1/2 cup milk, 1/3 cup warm (105 to 115 degrees) water, 2 packages active dry yeast, 1 egg, 3 to 3 1/2 cups sifted flour, 1/2 cup raisins or currants, 1/4 cup diced candied fruit.

Method: Crumble saffron into 1 tablespoon hot water. Scald milk; stir in sugar, salt and butter; cool to lukewarm. Measure warm water into a large bowl; sprinkle in yeast; stir until dissolved. Stir in lukewarm milk mixtures, saffron mixture, 1 egg and half the flour; beat until smooth. Add raisins, candied fruits and enough of the remaining flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on prepared pastry cloth or lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl, turning once to grease top of dough. Cover with clean towel; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk—about 1 hour. Punch down dough; cover and let rise again 30 minutes or until almost doubled in bulk. Turn out on pastry cloth; shape into loaf. Place loaf in greased pan (about 9 by 5 by 3 inches). Cover and let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk—about 30 minutes. Bake in moderate (375 degrees) oven 40 minutes. Remove from pan; cool on wire rack.

MISS DENNIS STARS

NEW YORK (AP)—Sandy Dennis will have the featured feminine role in the new Broadway drama, "Face of a Hero," which producer Lester Osterman opens at the Eugene O'Neill Theater Oct. 20. The play is based by Robert L. Joseph on a novel by Pierre Boulle. The story concerns a district attorney who becomes personally involved in a murder case which his office is handling.

Miss Dennis made her Broadway debut in the William Inge play, "Dark at the Top of the Stairs," which appeared in 1957.

whether free gifts or cash were necessary for the program. Originally, each participant had agreed to give a $1 gift certificate but this plan didn't suit many of the merchants.

Mrs. Don Steele is hostess for the service and the merchants said they intended to keep her as the contact for their service. All attending agreed the plan was a needed service to make new residents feel more at home.

Plans for the Harvest Festival were briefly outlined and merchants were asked to sponsor parade and festival queen entries.

Finally, plans were outlined for the livestock appreciation dinner, which is scheduled for July 26. County men who are instrumental in the huge livestock business will be guests of Hereford businessmen for a steak dinner and entertainment. Oliver Streu and Gene Moore are contacting businessmen this week to buy tickets for the dinner for themselves and guests.

HEREFORD VISITORS

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Graham Jr. and sons of Farwell, visited in the Vance Crume home Saturday afternoon.

NEW GRANDPARENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Ansel McDowell of Hereford received word recently of a new grandson, James Parsons Jr., born to Mr. and Mrs. Jim McDowell in Clinton, Okla., June 3. He weighed nine pounds and two ounces.

signed from guard duty when a far corner of the family domain was invaded by a terrier seeking higher ground. In spite of her best efforts (barking, tail-chasing and ferocious mock attacks), the foreigner just pulled in his head and tail and stayed put. It looks like we'll have to give her some tranquilizers to tide her over until dryer weather.

The Freeman Curtis family, which lived at 812 Blevins until recently, was among those evacuated because of high water in Plainview Thursday night. They purchased the Sands Motel there on June 1. They told Mrs. J. L. Clark of Hereford Friday that the worst damage from the eight inches of water in the motel would be to the carpeting.

The Hereford chapter of the Future Farmers of America will entertain its members with a swimming party at the city pool at 8 p. m. Monday, July 11. Only hitch is that all members must bring dates.

Things will be buzzing in the courthouse Monday. The County Commission is scheduled to meet at 10 a. m. and a large petit jury panel convenes at 1:30 p. m.

Regular meeting of the Hereford school board is set for 8 p. m. Tuesday. Their big work is expected to be on the budget for the next month or so.

All present and former residents of Progressive Commu-ity are invited to the community reunion, which is scheduled Sunday, July 10, at the Hereford Community Center. Events will include a basket luncheon, singing, visiting and a brief program.

Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce manager Bill Thompson left Saturday for a five-day institute for chamber managers in Denver, Colo.

Tips On Art Of Broiling Shrimp

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
BROILING IS easier than it used to be, that's for sure. Splendid charcoal grills spur on outdoors sportsmen while up-to-date ranges encourage kitchen toilers.

Another big help to indoor chefs are the widely available and inexpensive broiler pans in small and medium sizes that may be substituted, when appropriate, for the large broiling pan that comes with a range.

Aluminum foil's entry on the culinary scene has been still has one more boon. Line a broiler pan with the stuff; after broiling, swoop it up and discard.

Camp Fire Girls Return From Trip

"Simply wonderful" is the way a slightly sun-burned, leg-sore but exhilarated bunch of Camp Fire girls described their three-day outing to Lake Altus, near Lone Wolf, Okla., last week.

In company with their sponsors, seven members of the Natchez Camp Fire group departed early Tuesday morning for the water - country of Oklahoma and spent practically all of the time until their return home Thursday afternoon in swimming, water skiing, and boating offered at the lake resort.

Quarted in three cabins, the girls worked toward their Fire Maker rank in Camp Fire by doing their own shopping and cooking, as well as posting signs along the road and on the cabin directing late-comers to the area.

Wednesday evening was "formal," when the girls wore dressier clothing to enjoy dinner in the glassed-in coffee shop of Quartz Mountain Lodge, which serves as headquarters for the area.

Climaxing their stay, the girls prepared their Fire Makers dinner in the cabins at noon Thursday, at which time the Rev. and Mrs. Bernard Seay and daughter, Dona, of Vernon, sponsors, Mrs. Mary Stapp and Mrs. Able Crume, and Prissy Crume were special guests.

Members of the Natchez group making the trip included Nancy Boyer, Judy Crume, Sharon Tinnin, Linda London, Beverly Roberts, Helen Davis and Susan Stapp. The girls were joined for the outing at Duke, Okla., by Sharon Seay of Vernon, a former Camp Fire girl during her residence in Hereford.

pose of it so there's no pan to scrub. We're against the hoarding instinct that forces cooks to wash foil when it's encrusted with brown drippings after broiling. If you do this, getting lofty self-satisfaction out of your high-minded thrift, don't use foil in the first place. Use the broiler pan, scrub away at it, and see if we care.

Some cooks cover broiler grids. When this is done, slits should be cut in the foil to correspond to those in the grill so, during broiling, fat can run down into the lined broiler pan.

Influenced by the way Italians deal with their special variety of shrimp called sampi, nowadays broiled shrimp are often featured in our country's high-priced restaurants. There should be nothing to keep you from preparing this great dish at home - at comparatively small cost.

To do so, shell and devein large shrimp. Insert on small metal skewers; dip in melted butter seasoned with crushed garlic or garlic salt. Place on pan without grid in preheated broiler several inches from high heat. Turn once, basting with butter mixture, and cook only until shrimp lose their transparent look - 5 minutes or so. Place skewers of shrimp, if you like, on strips of crisply broiled bacon.

WESTWAY NEWS

Moisture Highlights News In Community

By MRS. MERLIN KAUL
Rain! Rain! Rain!
Now that the Fourth is over, rain is the biggest item of news in this community. Showers began falling Sunday night, with only two to four-tenths recorded. Tuesday morning gauges showed one and one-half inches in most areas.

Rain has continued since with perhaps the greatest amount falling on Thursday, when more than two inches was recorded. Total amount at this time of writing is more than five inches (Friday morning and still raining).

Most feed crops had been planted and much of the feed was up and growing nicely when the rains started. Weeds will be a big problem when the fields dry up.

Most of the harvest was over. Buck Green lacked two loads of finishing. Tommy Braddy has most of his crop to harvest yet. However, although the rain has come in downpours, there has been no hail and no strong winds.

Westway is getting ready for a reunion to be held on Sunday, July 24. The president of the Westway Community Organization, Charles Owens, has appointed the following committees to work in preparation for the reunion: Invitations, Mrs. Joe Landers, Mrs. Buren Sowell, Mrs. Paul Rudd, and Mrs. J. C. Morrison; Mrs. C. A. Saulcy and Jack Renfro, in charge of the reunion of former Sunday School students; Mrs. George Turrentine, Registration; Program, Mrs. Merlin Kaul, Mrs. Bess Werner, and Buren Sowell; Tables, Merlin Kaul, Buck Green, Charles Owens, Clarence Morrison, Clarence Saulcy; Decorations, Mrs. Roy Lee Wilson, Mrs. G. C. Merritt and Mrs. Ralph Mitchell; Dinner, Mrs. C. A. Saulcy; Publicity, Kenneth Rudd; and Drinks, Mesdames Charles Owens, Elmer Combs, Buck Green and Cliff Combs.

There were 26 at Sunday School and church services Sunday. Several visitors were present, including Mr. and Mrs. Art Schmidt, Brenda and Marsha of Weatherford, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. Ewald Schmidt and Paulette and D.P. Schmidt of Clinton, Okla., Brent Schmidt of Dawn, J. D. Harder of Dawn, On Sunday the Herb Schmidts and their guests all attended a family reunion at the Ernest Harder home east of Hereford.

Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Symons and Roddie were guests in the home of her aunt, Mrs. F. B. Sowell, Tuesday. They were en route from Fort Benning, Ga. to Fort Hood, where he will be stationed.

Mrs. W. B. Nunley has been helping with the bookkeeping at the Westway Elevator the past few days. Ronnie and Ricky Nunley and R. M. Gunn spent Monday and Monday night in the J. H. Landers home.

Berta Mae Lindsay of Hereford is spending the week with Donna and Anna Johnson. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson, Cecelia, Janey, and Carl Jr. of Hereford spent the Fourth in the home of his brother, Emmett Johnson. The group had a barbecue in the evening.

Jeannie Allen of Hereford was a guest Sunday night of Donna and Anna Johnson. Mrs. J. C. Morrison, Judith and Deborah Thomas spent Friday night in the home of Mrs. Stella Thuet at Bippus.

Mrs. T. B. Thomas, Diedra and Deborah went to Post Wednesday where they are spending the week with relatives. Charles Owens, president of the Westway Community Organization, has turned in the first check for the "10 bushels of wheat" project.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Faetzel of Hereford were visitors in the George Turrentine home Sunday afternoon. Buren Sowell visited a cousin, Mrs. Reba Smith, at Hereford Monday afternoon. She was visiting in the home of her son, Dale Smith, at Hereford.

Jim and Bob Reinauer have joined brother, Joe, with the mumps. The youngest brother, Art, was responsible for the while situation of mumps at the Reinauers.

Mrs. Joe Wagoner and Ann and Mrs. Merlin Kaul attended the wedding shower for Miss Elaine Wagoner at the home of Mrs. Charlie Noland in Hereford Thursday afternoon.

The Rev. and Mrs. Bill Rowland, Kathy and Linda, of Hamilton, Ohio, spent the week end in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Baird. The Rowlands are missionaries for the Baptist Church at Hamilton. He preached at the Summerfield Baptist Church Sunday morning and night.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Baird of Plainview joined his parents and the Rowlands for dinner on Sunday. Lawrence is a Senior at Wayland College. The Rev. Rowland was the officiating minister at his and Mrs. Baird's wedding.

The E. O. Bairds and Charles Owens report three inches of rainfall Monday night. They have had over eight inches in all.

Miss Ann Wagoner started to work at the Jack Renfro offices Monday morning at Hereford.

Protect Valuables While Vacationing

By VIVIAN BROWN
How will you protect your home and furnishings while you are on vacation?

One woman thought she had the answer. She planted rodent traps in drawers and closets of her home on the theory that burglars had tender fingers.

Another woman had a special place in the backyard where she buried her silver each year. But she left a week earlier than her husband on a vacation to attend a wedding. To surprise her, he decided to put a swimming pool in the yard. Fortunately, he had saved the "fill" for another project.

Women have a tendency to hide their valuables. Men use the psychology that if valuables are left in conspicuous places they are likely to be overlooked by trespassers, who would expect that everything be hidden.

There are some things to do before you go on vacation, and these should be considered before you settle on stashing away everything in flower bowls and clothes hampers. Here are some ideas that might be worth consideration:

1. Your vacation shouldn't be a secret. Tell your neighbor so he can keep an eye on the house. Tell your postman so he can hold your mail or if he can't, he could deliver it to your neighbor's mailbox. Discontinue the milk and the newspapers. These items can accumulate, and be a tipoff that you are away.
2. Put your securities in the bank, or leave them with your lawyer or a good friend. Ditto your silver or other valuables.
3. Outdoor equipment such as power mower, tractor, glider, ladders and tools should be put in the cellar or garage. Or better still, lend them to a friend.
4. Porch furniture can stay in place. If you remove it completely, the stark look will call attention to your absence.
5. Lock doors and windows. Do not pull shades or blinds. Some vacationers like to leave an electric light burning in an upstairs section of the house. This does not show in the daytime, but at night makes the house look lived-in.
6. Clothes are attractive items to petty thieves, so store or send to the dry cleaners' expensive coats and furs.
7. It's a good idea not to leave the house looking so neat that an intruder will suspect you have gone off for a holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wagoner, Ann and Joe Bob, were supper guests in the Robert Wagoner home at Hereford Thursday night.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Saulcy, Larry and Mona O'Dell went to Roaring Springs Tuesday where they visited until Thursday in the L. A. Mullins home. They also visited in the Jack Simpson home at Matador. They report lots of water all the way.

Mrs. C. A. Saulcy and Mona O'Dell attended a breakfast at the home of Mrs. Hazel Sparks in Hereford last Friday morning. The occasion was an executive board meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary.

Miss Lynn Barrett of Muleshoe was a guest in the home of her aunt, Mrs. Charles Owens, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wagoner and Joe Bob were Amarillo visitors Tuesday. They were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Van Coltharp.

Frank Barrett returned home Thursday after attending a class reunion at Wendell, Ida. He made the trip by plane.

Fourth of July visitors in the Joe Wagoner home included Mrs. Zona Cochran and Delton for a dinner and Mr. and Mrs. John David Owens and sons of Hereford Monday night.

Dennis and David Owens left by train Wednesday for Whitney, where they will spend several weeks visiting their grandmother, Mrs. Nena Owens, and their uncle, Fred Owens. The boys were thrilled at their first experience of riding on a train.

Harold Rudd accompanied Stan Sigman of Hereford to Amarillo Thursday where they attended a meeting for Insurance Agents.

Mrs. Harold Rudd and children picked cherries at the home of her mother, Mrs. R. A. Wells, in Hereford Monday morning. They had planned to go back Tuesday morning to finish the picking, but more than two inches of rain that night kept them at home.

Seventy Celebrate Fourth Of July At Merlin Kauls

By MRS. MERLIN KAUL.
Intermittent showers Monday night dampened the food somewhat but did not dampen the spirits of seventy people who gathered at the Merlin Kaul home to celebrate the "glorious" Fourth of July.

Those present got their plates full of chicken and other food before they were forced to take the food into the house from the picnic tables.

Several of the young people left the food in favor of Roman candles, firecrackers, sparklers, etc. and as soon as director Charles Owens gave the word, sparks began to fly. Owens said the only near tragedy was when he was nearly surrounded by a group of small children and somehow a "Red Devil" landed close behind him. The group panicked and so did Owens. January Green sustained the only injury, a burned finger, when she held a firecracker too long.

After the fireworks were over, five freezers of homemade ice cream were opened and all had been served when the rain rally started.

Everyone went into the house where Mrs. C. A. Saulcy and Mrs. Herbert Owens were in charge of the contests of the evening.

Prizes went to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rudd for the largest family present, R. M. Gunn for the nicest man, Rhonda Heddings for the youngest. Mrs. Bess Werner as the oldest, Rodney Wilson of Pampa for being present from the farthest distance.

Miss Nancy Green was in charge of the guest book and registered the following present for the celebration: Rodney Wilson of Pampa, Raymond Morrison of Dalhart, Larry Kaul of Plainview, Larry and Mona O'dell of Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. Don Heddings, Donna and Rhonda, Lynn Boomer, Sue Mueck, Gunn, Mrs. Frankie Barrett and children, and Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Glenn and Linda, all of Hereford, and Ricky Nunley, R.M.

Eighth Birthday Noted Saturday

Priscilla Crume, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vance Crume, celebrated an eighth birthday with a swimming party in the local pool the past Saturday afternoon.

Enjoying the affair were the young hostess and the following guests: Judy Yarbro, Darlyn Blanton, David Watts, Terry Lee Smith, and Ronny, Hal and John Dudley Graham, all of Farwell.

Following the swim the youngsters returned to the Crume home where refreshments and favors were served to the children.

Paul Stevens ... speaks to Kiwanians Explains School Finance System

Paul Stevens, superintendent of Hereford Public Schools, spoke to the Kiwanis Club Thursday, July 7, concerning the school finance system.

School finance is based on the number of days the children are in actual attendance, Stevens said.

The total attendance of all children for the year is divided by 26, which is the average number of students in a class. Stevens explained that the result is called a class teaching unit and by these figures the schools are allowed an allotment of teachers.

Under the Gilmer - Aikin Law, the state pays a minimum base salary for the number of class teaching units in the school system. Hereford pays $500 above the state base salary. This amount comes out of the local fund.

The state also pays a base salary for the special teachers which are earned by the number of students enrolled for a certain class.

The Hereford schools are above average and are recognized over the state as better schools, Stevens said.

Mrs. Durham To Conduct Classes

Mrs. Margaret Ann Durham, Hereford High School home-making teacher, will conduct a class on covering shoes Wednesday and Thursday, July 13 and 14, from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m. in the home-making department.

Anyone wishing to attend is invited. There is no charge for the class, which is offered to adults as well as girls.

The following material is needed: one pair shoes, any type with closed heel and toe, new or used; one pair of scissors, one small bottle of glue, one dozen push pins, which are available in the home-making department, material for covering shoes, which may include gingham, print, leather or suede. Rags are also needed for stuffing the toe of the shoe.

Vows Repeated Saturday

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Jeanne Brown and Don Jackson Saturday, July 9, at 10:30 a. m. in the First Presbyterian Church.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Howard Brown of 413 Star St., and Jackson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Jackson, 907 Main St.

The Rev. Russell Wingert, pastor, read the double-ring ceremony in the presence of close friends and relatives, as the couple and their attendants stood before the altar banked with greenery and seven branched candelabrum holding tall white wedding tapers.

Clusters of white gladioli tied with white satin ribbon marked the family pews.

Miss Carol Ann Newell, organist, played a concert of wedding music preceding the ceremony and accompanied Mrs. George Snider, sister of the bridegroom, who sang "Whither Thou Goest," "Because" and "The Wedding Prayer." The traditional wedding marches were also played by Miss Newell.

Miss Carol Ayers of Amarillo, cousin of the bride, attended as maid of honor. Bonnie Wagner and Margaret Burrus served as bridesmaids. They wore street-length dresses of yellow organza over taffeta, fashioned with fitted bodices, bracelet length sleeves and full skirts. They carried large white chrysanthemums surrounded by feathered carnations.

Clinton Jackson assisted his son as best man, and ushers were Larry Edwards, John Hammett, Don Bomar, C. D. Fitzgerald, Bobby Jackson and Truman Price.

Wearing a formal gown of embroidered silk organza fashioned with fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline re-embroidered with sequins and pearls and long petal point sleeves, the former Miss Brown was given in marriage by her father. Her bouffant skirt worn over hoops, and her fingertip veil of illusion was held by a regal crown of sea pearls and sequins with removable pearl drop. She carried her bridesgroom's Bible topped with yellow rosebuds encircled with white carnations.

A reception followed the wedding in Fellowship Hall of the church. Assisting with the serving were Ruby Brewton, Janie Pool, Carol Kent and Becky Jackson, sister of the bridegroom.

The bride is a graduate of Hereford High School and is presently employed with Brown, Graham and Glover Accounting Firm.

Jackson is a graduate of Hereford High School and has attended West Texas State College, Canyon.

Following a short honeymoon trip the couple will make their home four miles north of Hereford. He plans to continue his college studies at W. T. in the fall.

Mrs. Don Jackson, formerly Miss Jeanne Brown (Palo Duro Photo)

Out-of-town guests include Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Graham and Betty of Tulsa, Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Ayers, Mr. and Mrs. R.

F. Brown, Robert and John Brown and Mrs. T. M. Anderson; all of Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. George Snider of Borger.

Bride-Elect Is Honored

Among the pre-bridal courtesies being given for Miss Elaine Wagoner, bride-elect of Barry Lynn Jones, was the miscellaneous shower - tea given Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Charlie Noland.

The Noland home was decorated throughout with midsummer flowers in a variety of colors blending with the decor of the home.

The refreshment table was laid with a white net cloth banded in satin ribbon over ice blue. Clusters of white flowers were caught to the cloth at the corners. For the centerpiece peace roses were elaborately arranged in Cambridge Arms candelabra holding white tapers. Appointments were in crystal and silver.

Music was provided throughout the calling hours by Tommie Kay Robinson and Diana Fields of Amarillo.

Standing with the bride-elect to receive the guests were her mother, Mrs. Robert Wagoner, Mrs. H. E. Wester, mother of the bridegroom, Miss Margaret Wofford of Amarillo, who will serve as maid of honor in the wedding, and Misses Barbara Wagoner and Betty Trent of Amarillo. Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. Fred Ruland, Dorothy Faye Daniel, Clarabeth Holt and Carolyn Williams.

Guests were registered by Sandra Wester, sister of the bridegroom and Ann Wagoner.

Assisting as hostesses and making up the house party were Mesdames Ed Skypala, Clinton Jackson, J. C. Williams, Joel Hodges, Earl Holt, Maurice Tannahill, N. D. Bartlett Jr., Elmer Patterson, E. W. Young, Howard Beasley, Hugh Book-out, Ray Johnson, Linton Wilson, Orpha Click, Martin Gilliland, Earl Springer, J. E. Noland, H. V. Crawford, D. C. Kinsey of Portales, N. M., Otis Dickey, Jack Brown, Tom Robinson, J. C. Engagement And Approaching Wedding Plans Are Revealed

Mr. and Mrs. Conley Esmond of Route B, Lamesa, have announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Sandra, to Jack Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Muri Parker of Hereford.

The couple are planning to be married on August 6, at 8 p. m. in the Midway Baptist Church near Lamesa.

Miss Esmond graduated from Lamesa High School and will receive a B. S. degree from West Texas State College, Canyon, in August. She is a member of Alpha Chi, Kappa Beta Phi, national education fraternity, and is listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Parker is a graduate of Hereford High School and attended West Texas State College. He is presently associated with the Collier Publishing Company, Springfield, Mo., where the couple will make their home.

Wedding Date Is Announced

Tall, stately Talisman roses accented with matching satin ribbons highlighted decorations for the tea table Wednesday afternoon when Mrs. James W. Witherspoon entertained at the Witherspoon home to announce the engagement of their daughter, Eleanor Irene, to Calvin Robert Couch, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Albert E. Couch of Manhasset, Long Island, N. Y.

The table was laid with an ivory linen and batenburg lace cloth and centered with a tall arrangement of roses. Satin ribbons extending from the flowers revealed the romance in gold lettering, "Irene and Cal, August 13."

Mrs. C. F. Moore and Mrs. Troy Moore received the guests at the door. Others in the house party were Mesdames Dave St. Clair of Clovis, N. M., sister of Mr. Witherspoon, Bill Scott of Amarillo, Wayne Thomas, Earnest Langley, John D. Aiken, John Beasley, W. B. O'Brien of Amarillo, sister of Mrs. Witherspoon and Bob Bradley;

Also Misses Zell Crump, Kay Seamands, Mary Ellen Seamands, Helen Sears and Neil Spradley, sister of Mrs. Witherspoon.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Hockaday School for Girls in Dallas and of Mary Baldwin College, Staunton, Va.

Her fiancé graduated from Task School, Watertown, Conn., and received his degree from Washington - Lee University, Lexington, Va. There he was a member of Phi Psi Fraternity and of the White Friars, social club.

The wedding will be held in the First Methodist Church at 4 p. m. on Aug. 13.

the ceremony before an altar draped in white against a background of palms and white gladioli and daisies, centered with a satin covered kneeling bench and flanking candelabra. Flanking the entrance leading to the altar were floor vases holding white gladioli, daisies and dahlias and aisles were marked by nosegays of white daisies and bridal streamers.

Mrs. Howard Scott was organist, and Miss Carole Sneed sang "Always," "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Wedding Prayer." The traditional wedding marches were used as the processional and recessional.

Matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Walker Freeman of Friona. Bridesmaids were Toni Billingsle of Muleshoe and Betty Jean Cates of Amarillo. They wore pink organza dresses with half hats of organza and tiny veils sprinkled with rhinestones and carried large nosegays of pink carnations arranged with tufts of ribbon.

Flower girls were Debbie Slaughter and Sharon Freeman. They wore dresses similar to the other attendants and Donnie Blankenship served as ring bearer.

Best man was Albert Ricketts, and ushers were Gary Smith, brother of the bride, Jimmy Ward of El Dorado, Ark., Donnie Elliott and Ronald Rayburn. Groomsmen were Nelson Rutter and Eldon Owens. Candles were lighted by Gary Smith and Ronald Rayburn.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a white imported silk organza gown styled with torso bodice featuring a sweetheart neckline and brief sleeves complemented by elbow mitts. Embroidered leaf and rose design encircled the neckline and cascaded over the bouffant skirt which flowed from intricate gores, accented at the center back by a bustle bow, and extended into a chapel train.

Her fingertip veil of imported illusion was attached to a Juliet cap of silk organza outlined with ropes of seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white feathered carnations on a white Bible. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom, and she wore her maternal grandmother's yellow gold bracelet.

The bride's mother wore a brown chiffon frock made over taffeta with a pink rosebud cor-

Newlyweds Feted At Afternoon Tea

Mrs. John S. Coombes of Waco, a recent bride, was honored at a late afternoon tea given by her mother-in-law, Mrs. Ellis Coombes, at the Coombes home, 707 N. Lee Ave., July 2.

The couple was married on June 4 in Waco. She is the former Miss Virginia Salmond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Salmond. Coombes is associated with the Travelers Insurance Company of Waco, and Mrs. Coombes is employed as a legal secretary.

The entertaining rooms were decorated throughout with midsummer flowers with roses and shasta daisies predominating.

The tea table was laid with an elaborate cutwork linen cloth marked by an arrangement of yellow lilies, Bells of Ireland and yellow tapers. Appointments were in crystal and silver.

Members of the house party included Mesdames L. Z. Oldham, R. G. Blue, Gilbert Davis Jr., W. Glenn Williams, Ron Zimmerman of Canyon, B. F. Cain, Essie Cardwell, C. W. Frye of Amarillo, Carl Williams, C. Ora Cockrell, H. F. Neely, Louis Woodford, Delmo Williams, O. H. Culpepper, Ervin Robinson Jr., John P. Robinson and Misses Donna Williams, Carolyn Williams and Susie Woodford.

Donna Williams and Susie Woodford presided at the guest register.

Welcoming the guests at the door were Mrs. R. G. Blue, Mrs. Ron Zimmerman and Mrs. O. H. Culpepper, with the hostess and her daughter, Dorothy, and the honorees, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Coombes, receiving the guests.

Other out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Petersen of Lubbock and Mr. and Mrs. Pat Sullivan of Amarillo.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Whalin of Muleshoe are announcing the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Gladys Marie, to Rudolf William Jesko of Hereford. Jesko is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Jesko of Hereford.

Vows will be exchanged on Thursday, July 14, at 6:30 p.m. in the Immaculate Conception Church of Muleshoe.

Mr. Jesko is a graduate of Lubbock schools and attended the University of Texas for two years. He also served two years in the U. S. Army. At present he is engaged in farming near Muleshoe.

BOOM IN PETROCHEMICALS
DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The petrochemical industry has expanded six times since World War II, the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas reports.

Petrochemistry, involving making chemicals from oil and natural gas, is estimated by the bank at a rate of 50 billion pounds valued at six billion dollars.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church social hall. The bride's table was laid with a white organdy cloth over pink and centered with the attendant's bouquets. Assisting with the serving were Mrs. M. A. Wood of El Dorado, Ark., Mesdames Clyde Rayburn, Gordon Slaughter and J. B. Snead and Misses Jeannette Rayburn and Clea Kay Rutter.

For her wedding trip to points in New Mexico, the bride wore a gray two-piece suit with small white hat and white accessories. Her corsage was a cluster of white carnations.

The bride graduated from Hereford High School and attended West Texas State College, Canyon, for two years.

Mr. Garrett is a graduate of Hereford High School and is now serving in the U. S. Army, stationed at Fort Ord, Calif.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Ward and Jimmy of El Dorado, Ark., Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Blankenship of Claude, Mrs. Lou Nunley of Enid, Okla., grandmother of the bride, Maxine Ware of Littlefield and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Rutter of Lubbock.

The rehearsal dinner was given in the home of Mrs. M. T. Rutter Thursday evening. Assisting Mrs. Rutter and her daughter, Clea Kay, as hostesses were Mesdames Clyde Rayburn,

BUSY DESPITE STRIKE
NEW YORK (AP) — Producer Cheryl Crawford has been going ahead with plans for new shows this fall despite the labor troubles that darkened Broadway. She has four new plays and two new musicals planned.

Her favorite entry seems to be a stage musical version of "Hold Back the Dawn," from a movie made in 1941 about an American school teacher waiting with some Europeans below the Mexican border for an opportunity to enter the United States.

Main interest on this now centers on the fact that the songs are some recently discovered among unpublished compositions by the late Jerome Kern.

THURBER ANNOYED
NEW YORK (AP) — Although "A Thurbur Carnival" is a Broadway box office hit, author James Thurber is complaining.

He is annoyed because such a vast new audience is now discovering him, and is curious why so many hadn't read and been amused by his sketches written first for magazines.

Of course, one answer is the stage version of his works have top flight performances by such stars as Tom Ewell, Peggy Cass and Paul Ford.

EMMA SAYS 'NO'
ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — A note has been pinned to one page in the marriage license record book in the office of County Recorder John G. Utz. It reads: "...phoned. He said Emma would not marry him." Utz says he pinned the note to the record to show why the license data was not complete. He adds there would be no refund to the man who lost Emma.

SO WHAT?
ADA, Okla. (AP) — Ranger Virgil Williams arrested Vigil Williams for fishing without a proper license. The men are not related.

WRITING TEAM: Housewives Gretchen Travis Mochler, left, and Anita MacRae Feagles, who teamed up to write a murder mystery, are now at work on their second book.

Housewives Turn Mystery Writers

By NORMA GAUHN
NEW YORK (AP) — Uncounted numbers of housewives go about their daily chores, musing, "I ought to write a book."

Few of them make it. Chief reason, say two women who have just had their first joint-writing effort published: "It's just plain terribly hard work. Most people wouldn't bother." However, Anita Feagles and Gretchen Mochler did bother, and successfully overcame formidable obstacles of six children (four Feagles, two Mochlers), one pregnancy and the usual whirl of comings and goings in suburbia.

Their collaboration is a mystery story set in their hometown of Chappqua, N. M., called "Trial by Slander" (Rinehart). Currently they're at work polishing the final draft of a second book, also a mystery. Their pen name is Travis MacRae, combining their maiden names.

The first book took about a year to complete. Says Gretchen: "We set aside one day a week to work together and let absolutely nothing interfere unless one of the kids was sick. The rest of the time we were on the telephone, working things out."

We didn't plan on telling anyone what we were doing," says Anita. "But the kids let the word out — they'd tell everyone. Our crazy mommies are writing a book."

For their work day, Gretchen would see her 12-year-old daughter and 9-year-old son off on the school bus, clean up the breakfast dishes and drive three miles to Anita's. Her 11-year-old daughter and 7-year-old son had left for school; her 5-year-old daughter was supplied with playthings and 9-month-old son was napping.

Anita furnished the plot for "Trial by Slander." Her banker husband, Robert, has a collection of guns and one was kept in a kitchen cupboard. "I got to wondering what would happen if someone took that loaded gun and shot somebody. We went on from there. My husband still keeps guns — but not in the kitchen."

"Ideas for a story are the easiest thing of all," Travis and MacRae agree. "Murder plots are all around — you just look around your bridge club and start thinking, 'What if...'"

"It gets hard, though, when you have to make the story stick together and the characters do what they should. And actual facts take lots of work."

"Research!" says Gretchen, who once worked on the Omaha, Neb., World Herald and did public relations work. "You think you know all about something but just try writing it into a story."

For one thing, they visited the local police department and to the officers' amusement, questioned them on operations at the station.

"We also had to know if a dog could be knocked unconscious for several hours and come to without suffering ill effects," says Anita.

"We called two veterinarians and both said yes. We called a third to doublecheck; he said, 'Bring the animal-in to me at once!'"

Travis MacRae are both pretty and reddish-haired; Gretchen at 42 is nine years older than Anita. Gretchen's husband, Richard, is an advertising man.

Both admit there are days when they'd rather scrub four floors than sit down to the actual job of writing. "I'm surprised at how much housework I get done," Gretchen says, "while fighting off the book."

Both women report their husbands are pleased and proud of their writing success.

"Dick kept telling me not to count on publication too much," Gretchen says. "Then when it

THE CONTE METHOD
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Richard Conte doesn't concern himself with the well-known acting methods — he has his own.

The Conte method applies to only one person: a dark, almost sinister-looking man who has been playing top character roles for 15 years.

"I've discovered that personality is based upon the dynamics of the individual and orientation to one's work is the key," Conte says. "Orientation is the source of energy and out of that comes the pleasure for work which is the secret of life."

"Orientation, energy and therefore pleasure. If you derive pleasure from it, it has to be good and you'll have the energy. I stress energy because it's in nature."

An actor can always make a role alive and interesting if he understands about orientation and energy, Conte believes.

His acting theory also considers motivation:

"A lot of people are under the delusion that money is happiness. This is not true. It's the orientation. It's doing your job the best way you know how and from that comes money."

Joe Sewell of the Cleveland Indians set a major league record in 1925 when he struck out only four times in 155 games.

Community-Wide Forum

On The
Home For Older Adults

Will Be Held

Sunday, July 17th

2 p.m.

In The Community Center

The meeting will be broadcast over KPAN but everyone is cordially invited to be present to ask your questions about this or any other home.

Rev. Don Davidson, Executive Director, and other members of the Board of Trustees of Methodist Homes for Older Adults, Inc. will be present for the forum discussion. It will follow strictly the question and answer pattern. If you need to be a member to move into the home you are invited. If you are interested in buying a deferred membership in the home you are invited. If you have a loved one whose memory you could make live on after you are gone by a Memorial Apartment in the home. You can learn particulars at this meeting. It is hoped that there will be more people present who are not Methodists than the number who are Methodists, just because Methodists do not make up the majority of the community. It is quite evident that we have the wholehearted support of the Hereford Area and we are thankful for this fact. Every citizen is invited and welcome.

Rev. Davis will remain in Hereford on Monday and Tuesday to be available for private conference at the bank (1st National) for any who want to talk seriously and personally of this matter.

American Operas Get Up-And-Down Reception

NEW YORK, (AP) — "Yes, Gwendolyn, there really is an American opera." The State Journal, Lansing, Mich., exulted after seeing recent performances by the touring New York City Opera with its repertory of four homegrown works.

That was the staunch opinion, too, of Julius Rudel, and on the basis of it he managed to get these, among others, performed here with Ford Foundation help, and with Ford again rallying generously to his support, took them on the road to 20 cities.

City Opera director Rudel's opinion hasn't changed a bit in spite of an uneven picture of the tour's accomplishments. "Audiences were almost belligerently favorable," he declared. He regretted to report three tough handicaps: "We had to combat the fact that the operas were not known. Then we were up against the fact that they are American, and Americans haven't the habit of thinking fellow Americans can write opera. Finally, many potential patrons must have said to themselves, if we're going to see opera, why go to anything but the master works, why spend money on operas that are confessedly not the world's best?"

"Even so," he went on, and offered a thick envelope of clippings and correspondence to prove it, "though audiences could be small, and critics critical, we had some most favorable reactions. The total press score was nine critics against 16 undecided, 48 in favor."

The Bushnell Hall management in Hartford, Conn., summed up: "Financial situation disappointing" but "a real cultural and education service to the community."

At Indiana University, the story was "scanty audience in iron suspense." In Boston despite the "bleak sight of row upon row of empty seats" in Symphony Hall, Jules Wolfers of the Boston Herald declared Carlisle Floyd's "Susannah" was a work that "comes close to greatness."

Out in Chicago the same work was lambasted. Don Henahan of the Chicago Daily News reported that it "proves no work of art can be pieced together out of odds and ends." Roger Dettmer of the Chicago American declared bitingly that there was nothing wrong with "Susannah" except that it needed a libretto, music and a stage manager. Claudia Cassidy of the Chicago Tribune was unfriendly. Washington was the only other city, Rudel recalled, where the press was hostile. Paul Hume of the Washington Post read the libretto ahead of time and decided nothing could save it unless the music did, Rudel said; then heard the music and decided it saved nothing. Hume liked Douglas Moore's "The Ballad of Baby Doe" but asked why any management could "confine any operatic venture to just American operas."

Strawberry Torte Is Heavenly Treat

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AN INQUIRING COOK'S fancy turns to torte. What are they anyway? She has heard of Schaum Torte with fresh strawberries and would appreciate a recipe. Irma Rombauer, America's famous cookbook author, puts torten under the heading of cake in her "Joy of Cooking." Webster, agreeing with Mrs. Rombauer, says a torte is "literally cake, especially the rich variety. Specifically a sticky cake made of nuts, fruits, white of egg, often crumbs, and very little, if any flour."

SMALL BUT DREAMY version of the German Schaum Torte: crisp meringue with fresh strawberries and whipped cream.

I take issue with this definition on one point, and I'm sure Mrs. Rombauer would support me: all torten are not sticky!

Schaum Torte is a meringue. When I was a little girl my mother and her friends made it a toasty affair, using at least six egg whites and baking it in a spring form pan. Nowadays cooks often make a small Schaum Torte with two to four egg whites, bake it in a pie plate and sometimes call it Angel Pie.

SMALL SCHAUM TORTE
Ingredients: 2 large egg whites (at room temperature), 1/8 teaspoon cream of tartar, 3/4 cup sugar, 1 quart medium-sized strawberries, 1 cup heavy cream.

Method: Grease bottom and sides of a heat-resistant glass pie plate (inside dimension 7 1/2 by 1 1/4 inches). Beat the egg whites with the salt and cream of tartar until they hold rounded peaks. Beat in 1/2 cup of the sugar, a tablespoon at a time; continue beating until glossy stiff straight peaks form. Spread evenly on bottom and sides of prepared pie plate but not on rim; have sides come up about 1/2 inch above inner edge of plate. Bake in slow (275 degrees) oven 55 to 60 minutes. Meringue will be tan color. Cool partly; loosen meringue from pie plate. Hull berries; reserve half and sprinkle with 1 tablespoon of the remaining sugar; halve remaining berries and sprinkle with another tablespoon sugar. Whip cream with remaining 2 tablespoons sugar; chill. Immediately before serving, drain berries; fill meringue with 3 layers of cream alternating with 2 layers of halved berries; begin and end with cream; garnish with whole berries. Makes 6 servings.

Note: For a fancy edge on the torte, spread meringue on rim of pie plate; force a little meringue through a pastry tube with rosette tip to decorate rim with line of rosettes. In this case gently loosen edges of meringue from sides of plate as soon as it comes from the oven.

Did Writers Miss Boat On Roush?

By FRANK ECK
WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (B) — The baseball writers didn't know a good thing when they saw one so now it's up to the Oldtimers' Committee to decide whether Edd Roush belongs in baseball's Hall of Fame.

Each even year the writers have the privilege of voting on who should be elected to the Hall. To have his plaque hung in Cooperstown, N. Y., a player must be named on 75 per cent of the ballots. In the election last January, Roush missed by 56 votes. Nobody was elected.

The writers no longer can vote for Roush because he will be considered an old timer when they ballot next in 1962. Writers can vote only for men who have played big league ball in the last 30 years.

So now it's up to the committee on veterans to decide next January on the status of the former Cincinnati outfielder who compiled a .323 career average.

Earle (Greasy) Neale, the former Yale, West Virginia and Philadelphia Eagle football coach who led the Reds in hitting with .357 in the 1919 World Series, has been spending his winters golfing around West Palm Beach.

He played next to Roush for seven seasons so it seemed worth the stop to get Greasy's reaction to the latest balloting.

"To me," Greasy began, "Roush is someone special. He was easily the best outfielder in the National League for at least 10 years. Roush could hit to all fields, had power, could bunt, drag past the pitcher, steal and knew how to stretch singles into doubles and doubles into triples.

"One season I saw him get seven base hits on pitch - outs. He just threw his bat at the ball and got the hits anyway. One of them was a triple.

"In the outfield he could go back like Tris Speaker or come in to make those shoe-string catches."

How come John McGraw of unanimous praise of the New York press. They will continue to as long as Rudel keeps them in his repertory here.

the Giants let him go early in his career?

"That's one deal McGraw always regretted," says the 66-year-old Greasy. "One day Roush hit a ball straight up into the air and in disgust he threw his bat back toward the Giant bench. McGraw picked it up and surprise came over his stern face.

"Whose bat is this?" McGraw asked.

"That's my bat," replied Roush.

"Don't ever let me see you use that bat again," McGraw shouted.

"This is the first league I ever played in where the manager picked your bat," snorted Roush, not knowing it was a sin to talk back to John J.

"McGraw saw red."

"Where did you ever hit .300?" thundered McGraw.

"I hit .300 in every league I ever played in," said Roush, "and I'll hit .300 in this one if you let me play regularly."

"McGraw couldn't get rid of Roush fast enough. He traded him to Cincinnati and spent 16 years trying to get him back. He finally got him back, too, and gave him a $75,000 contract for three years, something unheard of 30 years ago.

"One day McGraw waved Roush from left center to right center. The batter hit the next pitch to the spot Roush had deserted. When Edd came back to the bench, McGraw said: "Eddie, the next time I move you - don't budge."

"From that day on McGraw always let Roush use his own judgement on where to play the hitters."

DACOSTA GETS THE JOB
NEW YORK (B) — Morton DaCosta, who staged the current Broadway musical, "The Music Man," has been signed to direct the new drama, "The Wall," scheduled to open Oct. 11.

"The Wall" concerns the story of the Jewish uprising against the Nazis in the Warsaw ghettos. The play is a dramatization by Millard Lampell of John Hersey's novel, and will be produced by Kermit Bloomgarden and Billy Rose.

Although a serious drama, the play will have a background of Jewish folk songs.

Maybe the Oldtimers' Committee ought to listen to Greasy Neale. After all he knew Edd Roush better than anybody.

ONE OF FACELESS MILLIONS:

Chinese School Teacher Is Statistic That Counts

By SPENCER MOOSA
TAIPEI, Formosa (U) — "Small Flower" is happy even though her legs are bare, her flat shoes well worn, her dress made of cheap cloth. But she wonders whether she can scrape together enough food for her little family tomorrow.

She is happy because she is a school teacher, one of the thousands of underpaid men and women in a profession made honorable by Confucius himself.

But "Small Flower" is also one of the faceless millions and millions of Asians whose existence is poised just above the subsistence level.

She is the statistic counted in the toll of flood or when drought brings famine to Asia or when even the slightest inflation brings starvation.

Yet, with a job, children and some entertainment, she is far better off than many.

Her real name is Mrs. Chu Ming-tse but she prefers her maiden name, Fong Yu-hwa, which translates into "Small Flower."

Married at the age of 16 to a political science student in Anhwei Province, "Small Flower" and her husband chose this Nationalist island for their home in 1949 rather than remain on the mainland. At 39 she has already done a lot of living.

"Life under Communist rule would have been unbearable," she says, recalling how her once comfortable parents - in - law had been dispossessed of their land, refused jobs and forced to become beggars.

Paid the equivalent of $12.75 a month, "Small Flower" wages

FAMILY CIRCLE: Formosa school teacher Mrs. Chu Ming-tse and her two children, Yen-ping, 9, right and Yen-ming, 7, eat lunch in their one-room apartment.

as a daily battle against the rising cost of rice.

Flood prices have soared 20 per cent since a great flood ravaged the farmlands of central and south Formosa last August.

"Small Flower's" tiny income is supplemented by $1.50 a month for her three dependents and $10 from her husband, half his pay as manager of a naval club at Tsingy, 130 miles from Taipei.

Pinching every penny, she spends an average of $15 a month for food and $4 for a part - time maid to help look after her bright children, 9 - year - old Yen-ping and his sister, 7 - year - old Yen-ming. She meets all her other expenses with the $5.25 remaining. Once a month she takes the children on a half - day bus excursion. Cost: $1.50. And twice a month, they see a movie. With bus fares and a soft drink, that eats up 65 cents.

On the mainland, Communist policy often results in separation of husband and wife. The inexorable laws of economics and distance have worked a similar hardship on "Small Flower". Her husband is able to visit the primary school compound where she lives only once every

Vacation Time Of Family Fun

By Dorothy V. Whipple, M. D. TOGETHERNESS That's what you hear on all sides. Families who do things together are good families, and good families produce good children.

This is all very true, but it can be run into the ground too. Sometimes a little separateness is good for the soul. A man, woman or child, may need a parcel of time to be himself in his own world. This is not necessarily an indication that the family is falling apart. A person sure of the "me" inside him comes back to the family with a greater contribution to make to group living.

Take a good look at yourself and at your family. Don't be pushed into a family hunt for your vacation by the pressure of public opinion. On the other hand don't be pushed out of it in order to establish some mythical independence. A vacation is for fun. Do what is going to be most fun for every member of the family and do it without misgivings and without guilt.

Some families look forward with eager anticipation to getting away from the pressures of the regular life, and having delightful blocks of free time to do together the things they all enjoy together at home but never seem to have as much time as they would like to be together.

For such a family a cottage on a lake, at the seashore or in the mountains provides the atmosphere for talk and play. Families like this have a great deal of inner resourcefulness. They do not depend upon the outside world for their entertainment. They swim and fish, dig in the sand or climb mountains and picnic and their joy comes in doing these things together.

Ping will become an engineer, the daughter a doctor - bring her more happiness because "they both have kind hearts."

When the floods came, "Small Flower" contributed a days pay for relief. Yen-ping donated his entire savings - 25 cents. And Yen-ming helped collect clothes for the victims. "I only wish I could have given more," she said.

NO LUXURIES: Mrs. Chu Ming-tse stands before the tiny kitchen which she shares with another school teacher.

If the children are widely separated in ages an extra child or sometimes two to pair off with the family's children add good companionship. In such a vacation Mother still has all the household chores to do. If this is no burden to her she will have fun, too, in the outdoor environment.

But maybe Mother would like some freedom from the kitchen. Then perhaps a vacation in a resort where meals and housekeeping are provided. A resort offers other advantages.

There are pleasures to seek apart from the family group. There are other people and various members of the family can enjoy new friends. A resort vacation combines the togetherness of the family unit with the possibility of as much separateness as desired.

Then there are gyping vacations - trips to new parts of the country with every night or two spent in a different place. If you plan such a trip, look carefully at the ages and stages of your children. Long hours in a car can become very tedious, and little children become bored with sights.

Ten - year - old Vance was far more anxious to stop when he spied a group of youngsters playing baseball than he was to look at a beautiful waterfall or a historic monument.

But maybe you don't want any part of a vacation where the whole family traipses off together. Perhaps Dad would just love a chance to go off with the boys on a fishing trip or maybe Mother would get a new lease on life by attending a

Most people I see are really fed up with the rains. Speck Marnell says he wishes I would quit bragging about my forecasts and stop all of this foolishness. All of which is a rare attitude for this part of the country. It seldom happens.

No matter how wet it gets, though, you can depend on the fact that Pat Wederbrook has seen it wetter. Pat says when the horses start bogging down out on the prairie it is bad, but he has seen the time when horses bogged down so far that cowboys lost their saddle blankets, too.

"One year back there," recalls Pat, "all of the cowboys rode bareback. You could always get another horse, but those blankets and saddles were hard to come by."

Earl Plank says this wet spell reminds him of an old timer he knew back in the Panhandle-Borger country.

"Never get more than 10 miles away from home without a fan and an overcoat," advised the old timer. Earl says the longer he lives in the Panhandle, the more he appreciates the advice.

Emmett Milburn made a trip to Lubbock this week and says he forded six lakes between Dimmitt and Plainview. They routed him back through Levelland and just as he passed that thriving community he heard the Levelland radio announce that eight families had to be evacuated, due to flooded conditions in the residential area.

Louis Woodford, never to be outdone, horned in with an experience last Sunday while out in the country. His car got stuck and he was walking to a nearby farm house when a little cloud turned up and the rain began falling in sheets. Louis says it was coming straight down, but he noticed a few feet to his left there was no rain. He merely moved over into the dry area and says he followed a direct line to the house without a drop of moisture but, 10 feet to his right, it was raining cats and dogs. Lets see you top that one, Pat.

Some few people are a bit upset with the highway department for attempting to drain 385. Jim Roberts says why don't they just stock the lake, then people wouldn't need the road in the first place. He can't see the use of building the Sanford Lake, when we already have a natural lake right here at home. When you stop to consider the growing number of boats around here, Jim could be right, too.

And speaking of lakes, Ray Cowser says he figures our editorial last Sunday dealing with a city water supply from the proposed Sanford Lake, was premature. Ray doesn't agree at all. He says our area should weigh carefully the proposal. He thinks it would be a bit high, but perhaps worth every cent to tie on the line and at least contract for the minimum. Dudley Bayne also informs me that the city operates nine wells. Being a politician, Dudley never did actually say whether he agreed with the editorial or not.

"When dad's store burned out back there, we figured it was a blow we just couldn't survive," philosophizes Pick. "However, after the visit, it seems to me that moving west was the best thing that ever happened to the Harman's."

Some of the old competitors are still there, and seem to be drying up on the vine. Like others who travel extensively, Pick says he didn't see any other town or area on the whole trek which he would trade for Hereford and Deaf Smith County.

Frank X Tolbert, the Dallas News columnist, is hinting for an invitation to Hereford these days. He wrote a book, "The Day of San Jacinto", in which the Texas scout, Deaf Smith, is a principal character. H. L. Hunt, Dallas "zillionaire" who will eat no bread unless the flour is milled from Deaf Smith County wheat, has recently released "Alpaca," which is his first novel. Tolbert figures we should stage a big autograph party her in the "Town Without A Toothache", inviting both authors.

"Mr. Hunt can be billed as the world's richest author," suggests the columnist, "and Tolbert can be billed as the poorest in the universe."

O. K. - O. K. Consider yourselves invited! We will turn over the front portion of The Brand office for the party. Charlie Seals says he will personally wash the windows, and Postmaster Florence Traweck says she will furnish some of those genuine post office pens, in case you need them. They may have to send all of the way to Milwaukee to get it, but the Chamber of Commerce will have some stone-ground Deaf Smith flour for Mr. Hunt. "Poor-boy" Tolbert can, of course, eat Oklahoma flour like the rest of us. The Brand will even buy their lunch for as many days as they want to stay.

Just one string attached. When I get around to writing my own book (and my wife says that will be the day), I am going to expect the same treatment from Hunt Enterprises and from the Dallas Morning News. Reciprocity, they call it; that's all I want! Meanwhile, I have to think-about wet - mopping the joint anybody volunteer for but, with such distinguished visitors, it seems imperative. Will mop, that is?

The Sugar Situation As Viewed Here, Elsewhere

Most observers anticipate that it would take a minimum of three years for the beet sugar industry to successfully fill any sizeable gap in the 3.1 million ton quota previously assigned to Cuba. Primarily, this is due to expanding acreage and increasing facilities.

Hereford growers, along with the others on the High Plains, can expect some acreage increase for the coming growing season, however, as a result of lopping off of Cuban imports. Immediately, much of this tonnage will be shifted to South American countries with a strong probability that Brazil may carry a large portion of the quota increase.

The condition cannot possibly hurt Hereford's chance at getting the proposed sugar refinery. To us, the overall picture is greatly improved, but the $15 million plant is far from being a reality. Much depends upon the U.S. State Department, along with the Department of Agriculture, and upon the willingness of U. S. capital to back the venture.

Meanwhile, Hereford's campaign to establish a sugar refinery in the area is attracting considerable outside interest and, because the outside viewpoint is important, we reproduce two editorial comments of the past week:

Self Support In Sugar . . .

From The Dallas Morning News, July 4, 1960

Importance of assuring our own sugar resources against war contingency was stressed by James Witherspoon of Deaf Smith County, president of the Texas Sugar Beet Growers Association, reports Fred Pass, farm editor of The News. Most important in that is the fact that it can be done, the point overlooked by most commentators discussing our threat to cut Cuban sugar imports and Castro's to lay an embargo on sugar to us.

Castro has said that we cannot afford to stop buying Cuban sugar. A number of news writers have said the same thing. All of them overlook our ability to produce.

This country was once a large sugar-producing country. This production was cut down primarily by artificial favoritism to Cuba. Colorado and some other Western States have a vast potentiality for sugar beet production. Louisiana has resources for cane sugar production, has protested Cuban quotas for years. The most prosperous crop ever grown in Texas was cane for sugar production. The most prosperous farming area of antebellum days was along the coast in the vicinity of Wharton and Fort Bend counties where sugar built most of Texas' early fortunes. The fine old plantation homes, many of which stand today as points of historic interest, were largely built by sugar, not cotton.

With our warehouses bursting with cotton, wheat and other agricultural products, it seems that an expansion of sugar acreage might be a healthful development in our economy. There is an important point in the argument of Mr. Witherspoon that, for defense purposes, the United States ought to be independent in this matter of a food as important as sugar.

Castro today thinks he is sitting pretty, that he can turn on or off the economic spigot to his own profit. But if he can't sell his sugar and can't buy oil, that resolves itself into wishful thinking that will not work.

— DALLAS NEWS

Would Keep Tax Money In U. S.

From County Wide News,

Littlefield, July 3, 1960

Our Neighbor Hereford is spending all sorts of money trying to get the government to let it have a sugar beet factory . . . and more sugar beet acreage . . . while on the other hand the U. S. is spending all kinds of money importing sugar from "used to be friendly" Cuba.

Hereford has maintained a representative in Washington for some time, they've played politics for all its worth . . . and seemingly to no avail.

Fidel Castro has threatened to confiscate all U. S. business interest in Cuba if the U. S. cuts the quota of Cuban sugar on which it pays the island nation a bonus of 150 million dollars a year.

American investments in Cuba before Castro came to power totaled about a billion dollars, but the revolutionary regime has taken about a third of this chiefly sugar and cattle lands.

Americans, particularly those working for sugar and cattle companies have been arrested arbitrarily and harassed repeatedly.

The U. S. is still buying about 3 1/2 million tons of sugar a year from Cuba, more than half the Cuban crop, and is paying 2 cents above the world market.

It has been reported that the Communists are in complete control of Cuba . . . only 90 miles from the U. S.

I think it is high time we kept some of this taxpayer money home, instead of using it to help the Communists get a foothold next door. Not just because Hereford needs more vegetable industry . . . and we hope they get it, but for the human sense of fairness and plain old intelligence.

Yes, we're looking pretty dumb in our handling of this Cuban situation, when actually there's no need. If we can't handle a little country like this, how can we expect to take care of ourselves when larger countries keep pressing us?

— County Wide News, Littlefield

Prosperity Hits Tadpoles Create Hereford Area Local Interest

The Hereford territory is fast becoming a "bright spot" in the economic world of 1960. Not too many people realize the situation, including many in our own area, but things are looking up, and could easily result in additional gains.

The minor boom started with the recent wheat harvest when farmers cut more grain than anticipated; then the potato crop started maturing, and prices jumped to above normal. At the same time, our basic crops of cattle, grain sorghums, alfalfa and other vegetables are looking mighty good, thank you. And just for good measure, prospects for an increased sugar quota are excellent. The only possible answer to all of this "plus money" is a mild sweep of prosperity for the area.

Meanwhile, it is a different story in other parts of the country. Steel mills have been operating below 60 percent of capacity; national automobile quotas are lagging under estimates, and appliance manufacturers are sponsoring nationwide clearance sales. Many resort operators have vacancy signs out all over the place and even the taverns have empty stools. Giant corporations are reporting lower earnings and many stock dividends are growing smaller instead of larger.

These things mean little to the person who wishes to keep his money safely in a bank vault or safety deposit box but, to the host of people who will be spending plus money from this area, they can mean plenty. If there is anything better than having money to spend, it is having that same money at a time when other people are a bit pinched. It means better bargains, top quality and improved service, all of which adds up to greater buying power.

Such is the position in which we are about to wake up and find ourselves and, for a change, we'd say: "It's nice. Real nice."

Be careful of those odd jars and bottles you see in the garage, or around the house these days. They could be the forerunners of another Louis Pasteur or Madam Curie.

Mostly, though, we imagine they represent normal attempts on the part of young minds to better understand nature, and to find out if pop was right when he said tadpoles actually turn into real, live frogs.

Mom, of course, may take a dim view of the business when miniature frogs start hopping about the kitchen, but, like thousands of moms before her time, she will probably come through the ordeal with flying colors.

Almost as amazing as the nature of tadpoles and frogs is that basic characteristic of youngsters to collect the specimen. You can see them up early, all over town, in pursuit of science these days — and most of them are small fry who never previously considered themselves especially interested in the field.

The POWER of FAITH by Howard Bradie

The faith of a stricken young man inspired the town of Cedar City, Utah, into action.

Ross Eager was denied his ambition to become a missionary when he became totally paralyzed from polio. Nevertheless, he married, became a father and supported his family.

When he was recently flown to California for further hospital treatments, his home town, sparked by the Mormon Church, rebuilt his home. "There is something about those kids that helps us all," said his bishop. "You go to help them and come away spiritually uplifted." Eight hundred townspeople, tradesmen, merchants, and members of other faiths as well as his own gave their services or contributed. "I stopped to make a contribution; I came away a richer man," was a comment. In a way, Ross' missionary ambition was realized.

"When, because of the love we all have for you, you are able to bring people together working so happily in performing this labor of love," wrote a project worker. "You truly are performing a mission that few can accomplish in this world."

Snakes Are Characters Of Fascinating Stories

By MRS. R. L. CRISWELL

There are snake stories and more snake stories. Some are unbelievable, such as the monster found near Carrizozo, N. M. The length of it does not sound too exaggerated, but the head as big as a steering wheel and the rattles as big as a baseball — now that is a 'whopper'. With all due respect to the herpetologist, old mother nature does slip once in a while and even humans grow far beyond their natural size.

Since there has been so much rain all over the country and almost everyone is aware that there are more snakes than usual. Of course there are going to be some unusual stories, and they are not all about rattlesnakes.

There is the bull snake; now whether that is the proper name for it or not, I do not know, but it does grow eight to ten feet long and is a fearsome looking reptile that lives on rodents, eggs, birds and chickens. They do, people say, have the power to charm or cast a spell over victims.

This happened in 1921 in the early spring. This lady had gone to live on a large ranch with her husband. Their home was five miles from a rural mail route. They did not own a car so she rode to the mailbox every day or two for the mail, and in so doing crossed a large creek. This creek sometimes got out of bounds and since it was in red soil, the banks washed on cliffs of eight to twenty feet high.

After crossing the creek one morning she heard a bird making the most pitiful sounds. As she was a lover of birds, she rode over to the cliff and looked down. She saw a crevice that was wide at the edge of the creek but narrowed to a few inches and a bull snake had charmed a redbird into the crevice and was carefully moving in closer for the kill.

She sat on the horse watching; the bird would make the piteous cry and flutter a few feet from the ground, then drop back to its place against the wall of the crevice, so frightened that it could not be still.

She stepped from the horse, picked up a rock and dropped it into the crevice hoping to hit the snake. It did not, but it broke the spell as the bird flew quickly away and the snake also doubled back out of the crevice and disappeared. One lovely bird saved from the horrible ordeal of being swallowed.

Major Causes Of Fire Purpose Of Inspection

Mr. Ben F. Smith, special Fire Inspector for State Fire Insurance Commission, was in our city this week for the purpose of locating and reporting to the Commission at Austin all conditions that can be corrected and removed which experience has shown to be the most frequent causes of fires.

The State Fire Insurance Commission is now, and has been for some time, engaged in making a rigid inspection of practically every city and town in the state and, after the inspection of the city and town is completed, is taking up with its city officials the question of eliminating or correcting the hazardous conditions found.

Many dangerous fire hazards exist in almost every city or town of the State and, in many instances, they are due to lack of proper conception of the latent danger that lurks in such conditions.

For example, the careless and improper handling of volatile oils has been, and is now, almost daily the source of very destructive fires. Poor electrical wiring, improperly installed gasoline lighting systems, gas engines and heat devices, collection of rubbish, paper, trash and empty boxes — each and all create a hazard that may, at any moment, break out in a serious fire or even a conflagration.

25 YEARS AGO

Hereford's application to PWA funds to build a $50,000 addition to Central School was formerly submitted to Julian Montgomery, state director, Friday. C. H. Dillehay, superintendent, went to Fort Worth Monday night to place the application.

Plans for the construction were prepared by Rittenberry and Carder, Amarillo architects. Legal status of the school district was outlined by Gilliland and Witherspoon, Hereford attorneys. Dillehay carried the latter material, the estimates and plans having been sent to Montgomery earlier.

Under the plan, a grant of 45 per cent will be furnished through PWA, and the school district will pass bonds to finance 55 per cent.

This will require a minimum bond issue of $30,000. Estimates place the local portion of the cost at $28,000.

This is well within the district's bonding ability, Jesse Stanford, board president, pointed out. The district's bond credit is good up to $44,000 at this time. "We of the board felt the district cannot afford to pass up this opportunity," Stanford said. "It will be just a matter of a few years until we will be forced to make these improvements and it would be folly not to take advantage of the grant at this time, it amounts to saving that much."

$500,000 HOUSING APPROVAL SOUGHT

Second phase in a half-million dollar housing project for southwest Littlefield was in sight Wednesday after the planning commission had given the program its tentative blessing at a meeting Monday afternoon. Final approval is expected from the commission Thursday night when a revised plat is presented for study. City Council is to pass on the project Friday morning at a called session, and if approved, construction of homes should get underway shortly after July 15, Weldon Steele, president of Trans-Western Development Co., Lubbock, said. The new building program, which may see as many as 66 new homes erected eventually in the area, is to be known as the Cannon Terrace Addition No. 2, with homes ranging from $8,500 to $15,000 or higher, Steele told members of the planning commission. The proposed new addition lies south of Cannon Terrace Addition No. 1, and when fully developed will provide homes for 66 families. For the present, however, only about two-thirds of this number will be built along three streets — Peach Tree Lane, Mocking Bird Lane and Blueberry Lane. These are only temporary names, however, with two of the streets offset extensions to streets in Addition No. 1. City manager J. W. Harrison said the names probably will be changed since the new addition will not be a direct extension to present streets.

BOARD SETS BOND SALES

The Levelland School Board Thursday night set the date for sale of $710,000 worth of recently-approved construction bonds, hired an architect for the building project and then approved a slate of insurance recommendations for district property set up by the Levelland Association of Insurance Agents. August 25 was set as a date of sale for the bonds, okayed by Levelland school district voters in a Saturday election. Fiscal advisor Joe Smith was authorized by the school board to make arrangements for the sale of bonds. After approving the sale of bonds, the board voted to employ three men from Lubbock as architects for the upcoming building program. The firm has done architectural work in the past for the local school district and also prepared preliminary drawings for trustee's study prior to a defeated bond election in November.

FAIR PREPARATION UNDERWAY

Plans and leaders for Moore County's eighth annual county fair were announced this week by Franklin Baer, fair board president. The event is planned for Sept. 16 and 17 at the National Guard Armory on East 14th Street. Principal activity currently underway is the preparation of fair books under direction of the Moore County Home Demonstration clubs. Advertising prize money and ribbons will be given for the winners in various events and a special award is being planned of $10 for the largest number of entries from a single family. Second-place award will be $5. All exhibits, with the exception of livestock, will be in place at the fairgrounds by 10 a.m. Sept. 16. Meanwhile, as advance preparation got underway, officials issued a plea to county merchants to prepare commercial exhibits for the fair. Last year's fair was lacking in commercial exhibits, officials pointed out, causing the size of the event to decrease until only one building was required. Both the armory and the warehouse were required to show exhibits during a record-breaking fair in 1958.

The BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Editors note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bindweed farm is getting set for the summer National Political Conventions, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor:

A neighbor of mine who has been working sixteen hours a day so he can rest and take it easy possibly the last ten or twelve months of his life, had a flat on his car near my house yesterday morning and was working fast to get the spare on so he could rush on into town to get a part for his tractor so he could get back to work and I was standing there helping him, somewhat, at least I offered to help but he figured I'd be in the way, so he said "No thanks, you probably want to get back in your field and get on with your work. Here, take this newspaper. I understand you like to read em. I never have time to read one myself."

I didn't say anything, but I took the paper and went back home, not to my field, I don't need outside advice on how to run this farm, and sat down on the porch and read where Harry Truman isn't going to the Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles.

Regardless of what reason Mr. Truman gives for not going, I already know.

Him and me have discovered the best way to attend a political convention, prize fight, baseball game, summit conference, or any other sporting event is to lean back in an easy chair, prop your feet up, and watch it on television. Dodging traffic, fighting your way into a convention hall or baseball stadium, and trying to see around the man in front of you while somebody behind you is yelling in your ears . . . all that belongs to the bygone era and me and Mr. Truman are living in the 20th century. The only hitch in the set-up is that some day the delegates themselves may catch on, like baseball players already have, and refuse to go without a good salary, sick benefits, and retirement pay. Some people say some of the delegates in fact have already seen to these details, but I don't know anything about that.

Meanwhile, though, when the Democratic convention starts in Los Angeles, and the Republican convention starts in Chicago, I'll be on hand, sitting comfortably at home on my bindweed farm out here, waiting to see which party really gets smart and writes a government-financed picture-tube replacement plank into its platform. That's one phase of the farm problem everybody seems to have overlooked.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Snakes.....

ranch see many natural battles of nature, and see things that are not easily explained. Can you explain this one in any way but fright?

It was a summer night, with one of those brilliant moons that lit the earth as brightly as day. The couple was sleeping on a screened-in porch. The lady was awakened by a rattling that sent chills down her spine. She listened intently for a moment, then awakened her husband and asked him: "Is that a rattlesnake?"

He listened drowsily for a moment, then raised his head and looked down the road toward the river, some half mile away. There was no doubt about it—it was a rattler, and a large one to make so much noise.

As they watched they saw the snake come into sight. He was in a hurry, very much so as he made no pause but traveled quickly along the ground and turned into the driveway toward the house.

It could not get under the house as it was on a concrete base, but it was clear that the snake was looking for a hiding place. They had set an old cast iron heater outside to be hauled away. The snake went directly to it and coiled. It was, so large that the coil was a foot or more thick as it raised its head from the center of the coil, twisting it about to get a better view of its surroundings. That it was set for battle was clear as it kept close watch toward the river.

It was so large the couple decided it would be too risky to try to kill it with a hoe. The man shot it with a pistol and killed it with two shots. It was at least six feet long and the track it left in the sand of the road was as large as the track of a tire. People came for miles to see the big "rattler," and to exclaim in awe at its size.

If you have never seen one of the yellow diamondbacks just after it has shed its old skin, you have missed something. They are a clear yellow gold with shiny black diamond-shaped spots down its length, and as I heard one person say: "Whew! It is beautiful with a sinister beauty of death."

As a child I was fascinated by the tale of the baby girl and the rattlesnake. Whether it is true or not I do not know, but it was said the rattlesnakes loved milk and tales were told of rattlesnakes milking cows by rearing their heads up and nursing the cow as a calf. That forked tongue rules that out as far as I am concerned, but you know there are tales and tales.

The baby was about 15 months old and when she was hungry, her mother gave her a glass of bread and milk and she would go and sit under a favorite tree to eat it. She had done this most of the summer.

One day her father was there and he saw her go to the tree. Later the mother went to the window to look about the baby and saw it feeding a snake with her spoon. She would take a bite and then give the snake a spoonful.

Paralyzed with fear, the mother made a sound that brought her husband running. He too saw the spectacle. Fearfully, he watched until the snake seemed to have its fill and started away.

He ran for the baby and also killed the snake. The baby looked and looked for its pet as it went again to the tree with its bread and milk. Needless to say that she was never allowed to go alone. True?

How about this one? It was a rainy spring and this farm couple had several cows to milk, but they would go to the far side of the pasture when it became cool and were very late in coming in to be milked. On this particular day they had all come in but one.

Cows will respond to their names after a period of time. They called and called but she did not come. She said: "I decided to walk after her. Even though it was getting late, the sun was low on the horizon. I found her in the usual place, but she was running and bawling crazily. I wondered what was wrong but was totally unprepared for what I saw in the next few minutes."

"The old cow tucked and kicked up her heels and ran with her head down for several yards, then turned and ran as if the 'boogers' were after her. Then I saw it. A bull snake seven or eight feet long was chasing her. Suddenly she turned and chased the snake, bellowing and caporting; shaking her head and going through the motions of horning it. The snake then turned and ran for several yards, and again would turn and chase the cow."

"This kept up for ten or fifteen minutes. I did not know whether to be afraid and run or stand and watch the fun, but I did have a prickly feeling. At last the cow chased the snake to a hole in the ground and he ran in. She started for home, running and jumping and bellowing. After watching the pen she was or seemed to be fine. My husband would hardly believe me when I told him of what I had seen."

Is it a common occurrence? Is it unusual? We know animals play, but...

This is a fishing story with fish and a snake, a cottonmouth moccasin, and a frog played a part in it.

"I caught an eight pound channel catfish," a person said: "As I sat fishing quietly I heard a slithering noise and looking at a clump of weeds and saw a medium-size cottonmouth stick his head up out of the weeds to give me the once over. I did not move as he was several yards from me, but I could hear it as it slid among the weeds toward the water."

"Suddenly the cry of a frog startled me, and since it was from the same clump of weeds I knew the snake had captured a frog. The frog kept crying, and crying is the proper word as it had such a frightening mournful sound. Just then my

Summer Emphasizes Beauty Shortcomings

By VIVIAN BROWN
IS THERE A GIRL who doesn't have a beauty problem? We'll bet not, judging from our mail bag that gets heavier with warmer weather. One girl worries about her bathing suit. Should she go all out this year and wear a bikini, she asks.

"I am rather plump around the hips, and my thighs are a little heavy, otherwise my development is good. I fell in love with a bikini suit. There is not much to it, and my father is shocked at the idea. But if it is the fashion and all the girls are wearing the style, it shouldn't look too daring on the beach. Should it?"

It depends. I haven't seen "all the girls wearing them," however, and I don't know that I would be the first to wear one unless I had a perfect figure. Your parents are good judges of such things. I don't believe they would suggest that you abandon the idea unless it is unbecoming to you. Why don't you try to lose the extra pounds before you wear the suit publicly?

Students Attend Youth Assembly

Five Hereford students attended the Northwest Texas Methodist Youth Assembly which was held July 4-8 on the McMurry College campus in Abilene.

They include Suzanne Langley, Nelia Gilliland, Sharon Hill, Glenda Fuhrmann and Joyce Ann Roe.

The featured speaker was the Rev. Glen Mingledorff of Smyrna, Tenn., Director of the assembly was the Rev. Charles Luttrick of Lubbock.

The week's activities provided training for the 414 high school students in Bible, worship, singing, recreation and program planning.

Meeting Held By Faithful Workers

The Faithful Workers Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church met Tuesday morning for a coffee and business meeting in the home of Mrs. Roy Calvert.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Grady Parsons, and Mrs. E. Ramey gave the prayer. The devotion was given by Mrs. Louie Olson. Her topic was "God's Flowers of the Bible."

The class voted to adopt Carolyn Virden for their project for this year. The group were dismissed with prayer given by Mrs. Grady Parsons.

Mrs. Fred Welch had the social. Those present include Mrs. Ruby Virden, Mrs. Louie Olson, Mrs. H. E. Miller, Mrs. E. Ramey, Mrs. Fred Welch, Miss Della Stagner and hostess Mrs. Roy Calvert.

Polish Artist's Abstract Work Hints Change In Reds' Attitude

By W. G. ROGERS
Associated Press Arts Editor
NEW YORK (AP) — Is nonobjective art creeping back under the Iron Curtain?

Are Communist countries becoming less hostile to this popular Western creative activity as they have already relaxed their aloof attitudes in other cultural concerns?

A welcome sign of change — whatever it may mean in the long run — was the recent exhibition here for the first time of 25 completely non-naturalistic paintings by a Polish artist.

Shown at French & Co. galleries, these sizeable, freshly imagined and exciting works are by 40-year-old Aleksander Kobzdej. He doesn't particularly like the word "abstract," but they are abstractions — evocations of man's thought in shapes not identifiable. A couple of them even have areas of collage, mainly swatches of burlap applied to the surface of the canvas. The subjects are "Cruelty," "Blown Out," "Mother Earth," "Conflict," "Forgotten Pastures," "Crushed," "Vertical" and "Verticality" and even "Biblical."

Round-faced, sturdy Kobzdej spoke a little German and a little French, and his attractive wife got along well enough in English. But he preferred to answer questions in Polish through an interpreter connected with the gallery.

"The government's attitude toward this kind of painting is neutral," he declared.

"And at the moment just this sort of thing — glancing around at his display — 'is being done by a considerable group of younger Polish painters.'"

Even under the czars, the Russians never turned out paintings that stood comparison with the great works of the Western world. Their novels, operas and choreography were superb, the paint brush stymied them. But in the first two decades of this century, partly on their own and partly spiked by experimentation in France and Italy, they developed some creative workers who in turn influenced the West importantly.

The Russian Wassily Kandinsky, living in Germany, did the first wholly non-naturalistic painting. The Polish-Russian Kazimir Malevich founded Sup-rematism; Russian brothers Naum Gabo and Antoine Pevsner, moving eventually to France and this country, originated Constructivism. The Russians, absorbed by revolution, ignored art in our sense, and mistrusted it. Their leaders, like those in Fascist Germany, though it was not so true in Mussolini's Italy, opposed avantgarde work as too individual, too disruptive of the group, the commune, the state.

Here again, however, are abstractions, officially accepted by Poland, and like those shown, incidentally, in a Polish pavilion at a Russian fair a couple of years ago.

Kobzdej, explicitly dissociating art and politics, began his career as a representational painter; photographs of his early essay indicate he was an able, but seemingly not an innovating, artist in the field of representationalism; he could paint recognizable portraits and trees, hills and streets.

Since 1948, the dates on his works show, he has changed his style, and his approach. His abstractions owe little to American abstract expressionism; their sources are European, but they are individualist; their color is subdued but the design is always challenging. Among American purchasers already are Washington columnist Joseph Alsop, Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, III, and New York City's Museum of Modern Art.

O'NEILL DUO
NEW YORK (AP) — A double bill of Eugene O'Neill plays, "Hughie" and "The Emperor Jones," are being planned by director Jose Quintero for Broadway opening this fall. "The Emperor Jones" is a familiar classic, but "Hughie" is rarely seen.

Leaching Is Still Best System For Salt Soils

COLLEGE STATION — Irrigational leaching is still the best system in alleviating salt and sodium fills of farm soils, members of the Salinity Conference were told June 22-23 at Texas A&M College.

The method, however, is effective only when the soil is open and permeable.

Dr. W. F. Bennett, soil chemist for the Texas Agricultural Extension and program chairman, said the conference was held to discuss saline and sodic soils and ways to combat the trouble.

Salty and alkaline soils are a major problem in irrigated areas of the Rio Grande Valley and in far West Texas.

One of the main speakers, Dr. P. J. Lyerly, research co-ordinator at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station near El Paso, told the group that soil salinity results in reduced availability of water to plants, produces poor stands and yields and retards plant germination.

Leaching, he said, is an effective way to fight salinity, but the soil must be in good physical condition to allow water to percolate deep into the ground.

"On the other hand, excess irrigation water, or a poor irrigation system, can result in a higher water table which can intensify the salinity problem," he said.

The scientist said tests have shown that sandy soils are the least suitable for irrigation with salt-tainted water.

Dr. Lyerly's recommendations for farmers with salinity troubles on their land were to level the fields, use plenty of water, make sure there is adequate drainage, grow salt-tolerant crops, plant good seed, fertilize regularly and employ soil building crops. Gypsum and sulphuric acid have not been too effective in correcting soil salt problems, he said, but these "amendments" may be good for sodic soils.

Dr. George A. Pearson, plant physiologist with the U. S. Salinity Laboratory at Riverside, Calif., said removal of salt is related to movement of water through soil by leaching. Drainage tile may be necessary to boost percolation. Sodium, he said, can cause tight soils and permeability problems. Applying calcium (gypsum) can help correct the condition. Sometimes, sulphur or

Relatives From California Visit With Jack Weavers

By MRS. T. L. COLLINS
Mr. and Mrs. Joe Weaver and her mother, Mrs. Lon Hayhurst, and his mother, Mrs. Betty Weaver from Sonoma, Calif., arrived Monday, June 27, to visit with his brother, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Weaver and family. Mrs. Betty Weaver remained in the community for an extended visit, while the others left on Tuesday for New Mexico to visit other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Payne, Larry and Darla of Hereford attended the Saturday evening meal with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rader. On Sunday the Raders spent the day in Hereford with the Paynes.

Gene Benningfield from Borger is spending this summer here helping his uncle, Jack Weaver, with the farm work. Benningfield graduated from Borger High School on Thursday, May 26. He came the next day to attend his cousin's graduation; namely, Jannell Weaver, from Hereford High. He has remained with them since that time.

Mrs. Marvin Payne, Larry and Darla of Hereford and Mrs. Frank Pannell of Littlefield came on Wednesday morning to visit Mrs. Joe Rader. Mrs. Rader went to Hereford and spent the day with them there. Pannell was harvesting wheat near Westway at that time.

Mr. and Mrs. Tomas L. Collins returned Friday, July 1, from their trip to the Austin, Corpus Christi area. They met their daughter, in-law, Mrs. Raymond Collins, and her parents and other relatives.

Traveling from San Marcos to Corpus Christi heavy rains fell. Cotton was in bloom, maize was heading out and watermelons were seen standing in about four inches of rain water. This was the first rain since Easter for that area.

The bridge was built last summer, and completed in October with a cost of $17,000,000. Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Perrin, John and J. V. went to Haskell on Friday, July 1, to visit their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Stone, Mrs. Julia Perrin and other relatives and friends.

They attended a Smith - Sanders family reunion with 62 present while there.

Mrs. Julia Perrin accompanied her son and family home on Monday, July 4. She will visit relatives here during her stay.

continued to fall steadily, with cloudiness. Between five and six inches has fallen since Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Collins spent Thursday night with friends, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Troyer, in Littlefield, on their return trip home.

Wesley and Spike Crume, nephew of Mrs. Johnson, are spending the summer here with Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Johnson, Bill and Wayne.

Visitors in the Cliff Johnson home on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. D. Baker of Lubbock, Donna Sue Guseman of Hereford, Betty Scott and Mrs. T. L. Collins.

Mr. and Mrs. Collins ate dinner Sunday with Mrs. J. F. Ward in Hereford. They visited in the afternoon.

Walcott School Board met in a regular session Tuesday night, July 5, at the school. Those present were Jack Weaver, Glenn Burrus, G. V. Hall and Thomas Collins.

Wayne Johnson attended the Will Rogers Range Riders Rodeo in Amarillo Monday, July 4.

OKLAHOMA VISITOR
Mrs. Caudie Ola Brown of Hereford visited the past month in McAlester, Okla., with her daughter, Mrs. Colline Kinsey and husband.

Mel Benesch, Field Services Officer for the Post Office Department, spoke to the Lions Club Wednesday, July 6, on the subject of "What Gives With The Post Office Department."

To explain the postal system, Benesch said there are 37,000 post offices in the United States today employing 520,000 people.

The post office employs the largest vehicle fleet, numbering 85,000 vehicles, 30,000 of which are used for the rural service. The vehicles travel one and one-half million miles each day.

Last year, 62 billion pieces of mail passed through the post offices and two billion through parcel post. The volume of mail has almost doubled over the past ten years, Benesch said.

"You are part owner in the largest business in the world today," Benesch said.

Benesch concluded by pointing out one thing which businessmen can do to help the post office, and that is to mail their letters before 5 p. m. Instead of mailing at 5 p. m., mail the letters during the afternoon so that there will not be such a rush at 5 and the mail can get out on time, Benesch said.

There are 540,000 boats for recreation in the United States.
