

Hostile Herd Hogged Headlines

Top Local Events of 1981 Listed

By BOB NIGH
MANAGING EDITOR

While the black clouds of a depressed national economy helped cover Hereford and Deaf Smith County with an air of anticipation and anxiousness through the year 1981, the final four months were brightened with a ray of sunshine in the form of the Hereford Whiteface football team.

The '81 Herd (in posting the school's finest ever season in a 13-1, semi-final effort) not only focused much of the attention of area citizens on the 48 minutes of grid warfare each week, but helped show that optimism can be contagious.

And, by providing an outlet for enthusiasm and optimism the success of the Herd emerged as the top local news story for the year.

The team's success overshadowed such bleak stories as the closing of the Armour plant, and made us forget the shortcomings of others such as those who were implicated in the state's largest food stamp theft.

The Top 10 Stories of 1981 were varied; from the happiness of the football team and the tears of joy of a local family who celebrated the rescue of a loved one from the jaws of death in a timely well, to the shattering loss of a meat packing plant which affected some 450 local families.

The Top 10 Stories of 1981 included:

1. The Hereford Whitefaces' football success.
2. The closing of the Armour plant.
3. The food stamp theft ring uncovered.
4. The rescue of Jared Arthro from an abandoned well.
5. Local impact of the possible location of the MX Missile system here.
6. The gift of the Pitman residence to the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame.

7. Randy Vogel and Tamara Myers' sweep for Deaf Smith County in the Houston Livestock Show, and a record auction payoff.

8. The Town and Country Jubilee.

9. The breaking of a theft ring at the Lubbock Texas Instruments plant due to local detective work.

10. The construction of the A&A Coating Plant here.

Following are brief synopses of the top 10 stories for the year.

1. Hereford coach Don Cumpton entered the 1981 season with an overall record of 16-13-1 at the HHS helm in three prior seasons. The team began the campaign with a major question mark in the offensive line, depending upon depth at running back and quarterback to help carry them through the rough times.

Those rough times were far and few between during the year, however, as the Whitefaces became the first HHS team to post a 10-0 regular season mark, and eventually moved farther into the state playoffs than any other Whiteface squad had.

While never being considered a serious threat for the state 5A title by many "downstate" experts, the Whitefaces mowed down their opposition with a 9-6 struggle against Plainview the only real test.

After completely dominating a heavily-favored El Paso Bel Air team 22-0 in the Regional game, the Herd went on to claim a 28-16 quarter-final win over Ft. Worth Eastern Hills.

And, despite a 10-7 loss to eventual state champion Richardson Lake Highlands in the semi-finals, the Herd will be long remembered not only by Hereford citizens, but by many area football fans who became true Whiteface fans as the season progressed.

The 13-1 record was by far the best HHS mark ever posted, and the selection of a host of Whitefaces to the All-District 4-5A team and the postseason all-star teams announced by the Amarillo and Lubbock papers only embellished the shining season which did much to help Deaf Smith Countians forget for a while the troubles of our times.

2. The announcement that the local Armour Meat Packing Plant was to be shut down followed by only one day the attempted assassination of President Ronald Reagan. The loss of the plant was a blow to the economy of Deaf Smith County since 380 hourly workers and some 80 salaried employees were involved.

The announcement of the closing was the second for the Hereford plant, which had been announced some 11 months before in April of 1980. That 1980 decision to close the plant had been reversed in October of that year.

But, the reversal never came in 1981. The plant officially shut down on Oct. 2, 1981.

Listed as the reason for closing the plant was "the company's inability to overcome a discriminatory labor contract, which puts Armour's beef operations at a major disadvantage to its principal competitors."

A final twist of irony was added to the story in December when Armour & Company announced that it had signed a new labor contract with the United Food and Commercial Workers International Union.

The new contract, involving 4,100 workers at 18 plants still in operation, covers Armour operations through August of 1984.

Hard-Working Poles Promised Benefits

By The Associated Press

In an apparent effort to spur production and boost Poland's crippled economy, the martial law government is holding out the promise of early retirement and increased disability pay for more than 2 million workers.

The official PAP news agency Friday quoted a Council of Ministers decree promising extra benefits to those "who perform tasks hazardous to health, work in conditions causing rapid physical exhaustion, run a high degree of occupational risks and do work requiring special physical and mental efficiency."

PAP said these workers may retire at 55 instead of 60 and will get a 5 percent hike in disability pensions.

The report did not link the decree to Premier Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski's declaration of martial law Dec. 13 that banned the independent Solidarity union and suspended most civil liberties. But the new privileges appeared aimed at undermining worker resistance to the military crackdown.

Leading the PAP list of recipients of the new benefits are coal miners who provide the government's chief source of foreign currency and are among the nation's most militant pro-unionists. Other recipients include chemical workers, drivers, teachers, communication workers, fishermen, meat packers and others with taxing jobs, PAP said.

Reports of scattered strikes, particularly in the coal fields of southern Poland, slowdowns and industrial sabotage have reached the West since the imposition martial law, hampering efforts to revive Poland's near bankrupt economy. The military junta has jailed strike instigators, detained thousands of union leaders and dissidents and repeatedly warned Poles they must work.

Meanwhile, Warsaw Radio said the Communist Party newspaper Trybuna Ludu reported today that there are at least 200,000 so-called "social parasites" in Poland today, most of them physically healthy and many of them young people.

The report claimed many of the "parasites" were perched on the dividing line between idleness and criminality. It also noted that major crimes — murder, rape, robbery and theft — doubled in 1981 over the previous year, but dropped by 70 percent since martial law was imposed.

In other official reports from Poland reaching the West on Friday, Warsaw Radio announced former radio and television chief Maciej Sactepanski and others will stand trial for corruption and mismanagement.

Police Officer Injured in Chase

Hereford Police officer Rick Barrick suffered severe abrasions on his neck early Friday morning after he ran into a clothesline pole while in pursuit of a suspect.

The incident began around midnight Thursday when an officer noticed a vehicle at Sugarland Mall, stopped to investigate, and gave chase when the driver of the car sped away.

According to the report the suspect finally left the vehicle near the intersection of Ave. G and Park Ave. and the of-icers gave chase on foot. Barrick reportedly ran full-speed into the line. He was treated by ambulance personnel at the scene and made his way to Deaf Smith General Hospital for further treatment. He was able to finish his shift.

The suspect escaped the officers due to the accident, but was brought down to the police station later by his father. The 15-year-old subject's case has been turned

Mubarak Wanting New Cabinet Formed in Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — President Hosni Mubarak today asked Deputy Prime Minister Fuad Mohieiddin to form a new cabinet because Mubarak wants to devote all his time to the presidency, the official Middle East News Agency said.

"I will help the president as a prime minister according to his instructions needed in the general plan which required a limited change to cope with the present times," the agency quoted Mohieiddin as saying.

The cabinet is to be formed by Monday, and informed sources said the main changes would be in the areas of economics and planning.

The Middle East News Agency said Mohieiddin announced the shakeup after meeting with Mubarak, who until now had retained the same Cabinet appointed by President Anwar Sadat in May 1980.

Observers said the Cabinet shift had been expected. Mubarak, the former vice president who took over following the assassination of Sadat on Oct. 6, appointed himself prime minister after Sadat was gunned down by Moslem extremists.

The cabinet has been essentially the same since May 1980 when Sadat dismissed then Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil, assumed the premiership himself and appointed a 25-man cabinet. The cabinet has grown due to shakeups ordered by Sadat and now numbers 32.

Well-informed Egyptian sources said they expected Mohieiddin to make changes mainly in the area of economics and planning, which now is headed by Abdel-Razzak Abdel-Meguid, who holds the title of deputy prime minister for economy and finance and minister of planning.

No Pattern Seen In Rash of Traffic Deaths

By The Associated Press

Traffic accidents already have killed at least 33 people in Texas and authorities say it would take a miracle to keep the final toll below the 38 deaths projected for the grim New Year's weekend count.

Department of Public Safety spokesman Larry Todd said authorities were at a loss to determine what prompted a rash of fatal accidents early in the counting period.

"There is no pattern to it," said Todd. "The weather has not been that bad, there are no icy roads, there is nothing to attribute it to."

"We know many were alcohol related. I don't know why some drivers think it's necessary to have a few drinks on New Year's Eve and then try to drive. I guess because of tradition some people think they have to do that."

Todd said officials believe half of all fatal accidents in Texas are alcohol related and that statistics show at least 35 percent involve drinking drivers.

He said extra highway patrolmen were on duty and that city/police departments had added additional manpower as the weekend moved into the most perilous time for travel.

"Traditionally Friday and Saturday night are the most dangerous of the week," said Todd.

The 78-hour count began that began at 6 p.m. Thursday will not end until midnight Sunday.

"It would be a miracle if we did not go over the estimate," said Todd. He said officials expect that some of the people injured in weekend accidents will die from their injuries later and will not be added to the death count until after the midnight Sunday deadline.

Killed in the most recent accidents were three pedestrians: Dirk Dewayne

Gore, 26, killed near his hometown of Silsbee; Santos Guzman, 19, struck on the East Freeway in his hometown of Houston, and Rosemary Davila, 23, of San Antonio, killed north of Castroville.

Italian Agency Reports $2 Million Reward For Dozier Info

VERONA (AP) — Friends of kidnapped U.S. Brig. Gen. James L. Dozier have offered a $2 million reward for information leading to his release, the Italian news agency ANSA reported.

A spokesman at the NATO headquarters here, where Dozier was the highest-ranking American Army officer, refused to confirm or deny the ANSA report.

U.S. and Italian officials denied earlier reports that their governments were offering rewards. Both governments have refused to negotiate with the Red Brigades terrorists who abducted Dozier from his home in this northern Italian city Dec. 17.

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell Rabb delivered New Year's messages Friday to Dozier's wife, Judith, from President Reagan and Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr.

Rabb said the messages "expressed great concern and sympathy and hope that in this new year the hopes of Mrs.

Dozier about her husband are realized."

More than 400 police are searching for Dozier and his captors. But house-to-house searches, roadblocks and identity checks in heavy rain Friday turned up no fresh clues.

The radical leftist urban guerrillas have yet to make known any terms for Dozier's release.

Children in Serious Condition After Crash Kills Mother, Others

DURANGO, Colo. (AP) — Two Texas children remained in serious but stable condition today as investigators tried to determine what caused the fiery airplane crash that killed their mother and three others on New Year's Eve.

Investigators from the National Transportation Safety Board in Denver and Washington and from the Piper Corp. of Vero Beach, Fla., were to begin their probe of the crash today, said NTSB spokesman Verlin Tranter in Denver.

Tranter said his office was involved because the crash involved a commercial, scheduled air flight.

Meanwhile, 5-year-old Jimmy and 9-year-old Stacey Sadler of Houston, Texas, were in the intensive care unit today of Mercy Medical Center with burns, cuts and possible head and internal injuries suffered in Thursday night's crash.

Dock Losses Money On Defective Ships

BOSTON (AP) — The Massachusetts Port Authority lost a $171,000 annual charge for dock space when three ships were towed out of storage at the Army base in South Boston recently.

Massport was charging El Paso Marine Co. of Houston, the ships' owner, $57,000 a year for space for each vessel. One ship, the El Paso Cove Point, a 65,000-ton liquefied natural gas carrier, was towed out Wednesday, while sister ships, the El Paso Columbia and the El Paso Savannah, left two weeks ago. They were towed to port in Halifax, Nova Scotia.

The ships, declared defective by the U.S. Maritime Administration in 1979, can't sail on their own.

Unicorn Hunters Banish 'Revenue Enhancement', Haig

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — "First time ever," "revenue enhancement," and Secretary of State Alexander Haig are among the "banishments" from the English language proclaimed Friday by the Unicorn Hunters of Lake Superior State College.

The group, which annually bans words and phrases for overuse, misuse or general uselessness, issued this year's "banishments" after receiving 2,000 nominating letters from as far away as Paris and Tokyo, according to archivist W.T. Rabe.

In its New Year's Dishonour List of Words Banished from the Queen's English, the Unicorn Hunters ordered Haig to "speak only classical Latin for a probationary period of six months."

"Haig's misuse and abuse of the language is chronic, perhaps irreversible," said

Peter Thomas, senior herald of the Unicorn Hunters.

The Unicorn Hunters said they banished "first time ever" and its cohort "all-time record" because "it is only a matter of time until they are united into a single monster of redundancy and inaccuracy." "Revenue enhancement" made the list as an undesirable euphemism because it is "simply a tax increase."

Also banned were "offsourcing" as a synonym for importing, "repository" as a euphemism for dump, and "sit on it" because it is "one of the stupidest phrases in the English language."

One member of the Reagan administration, Secretary of Commerce Malcolm Baldrige, was singled out for special honors for his efforts to eliminate sloppy and bureaucratic language.

The Unicorn Hunters proclaimed Baldrige the first "Knight Sans Pareil of the Unicorn Quest" and dubbed him Sir Malcolm of Potomac.

The Unicorn Hunters admit that their proclamations banishing the use of objectionable words may not always be observed by others but "at least we make a lot of people feel guilty," Rabe said.

He said that "even the telephone operators are not yapping 'have a nice day' as frequently since we banished that one."

Pope Urges Disarmament, Prays For Poland's Ills

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II on Friday urged nuclear disarmament, prayed for an end to martial law in his native Poland and strongly defended the independent union Solidarity.

Celebrating a World Peace Day Mass for 15,000 faithful in St. Peter's Basilica, the pontiff warned of the "grave threat" of nuclear war.

"Any nuclear war would inevitably cause death, sickness and suffering on such a grand scale that any effective medical intervention would be impossible," the pope said, reading parts of a study compiled by the Pontifical Academy of Sciences on the devastating effects of nuclear war. "The medical structures of every country would be inadequate."

The pope last month sent five delegations of scientists from the Pontifical Academy to Washington, Moscow, Paris, London and the United Nations in New York to talk to government and U.N. representatives about the threat of nuclear war. The academy is made up of scientists appointed by the pope from various creeds.

"Even if the nuclear attack were directed only on military installations, it would be just as devastating for a whole country, because the installations are not concentrated in one area," the pope said.

"Therefore, numerous nuclear arms would be exploded. The radiation in the air would kill innumerable persons and would contaminate immense regions," the pope said.

Later, the pontiff gave his New Year's Day message in warm and sunny St. Peter's Square. About 50,000 tourists and pilgrims, some waving red and white Polish flags and carrying banners of the independent trade union Solidarity, filled the square and listened.

food on the frigid mountain a few hundred yards from the ridge of the Continental Divide.

An Army helicopter returned to the snow-swept northern flank of Mount Columbia on Thursday to shut off the single-engine Piper Cherokee's emergency radio signal. Two skiers from Rocky Mountain Search and Rescue left the chopper and descended the mountain, looking for the missing pilot.

"They looked everywhere he might have gone and found no trace of the man at all," Blondeau said.

Following Thursday's unsuccessful search efforts, Louis Dahn of Rocky Mountain Search and Rescue called off the organized search until some leads surface as to Meeks' whereabouts.

Four Crash Survivors In Improved Condition

SALIDA, Colo. (AP) — The four survivors of a Christmas Eve plane crash high in the storm-battered Colorado Rockies were reported in improved condition Friday after organized efforts to find the fifth member of their party were halted, officials said.

"There's nobody up there looking today," said Chaffee County Sheriff's dispatcher Jeff Blondeau. "They'd be crazy if they were because they'd be the next ones to get lost. We got another foot of snow yesterday and it's been snowing like the dickens all night."

Meanwhile, the survivors of the crash were reported in good condition at Salida Hospital.

Patricia Meeks of Dallas and her two step-sons, Gary Meeks Jr., 18, and Darren Meeks, 15, both of Houston were lifted from the crash site Tuesday in a dramatic nighttime rescue and taken to Salida Hospital. The fourth survivor, Stephen Smart, 33, of Port Mansfield, Texas, stayed behind with rescuers and joined the Meekses at the hospital Wednesday.

The missing man, pilot Gary Meeks, 42, of Dallas, was dressed in cowboy boots, jeans and a leather jacket when he walked away from the crash site Christmas Day in search of help.

He hasn't been seen since, and officials held out little hope of his survival.

The other four occupants of the plane, huddling in the snowbound fuselage to keep warm, were rescued after spending five days without Meeks' whereabouts.

About this time each year, many of us sit down to sort out our priorities and make resolutions for the coming year. Some of those resolutions are well-meant, but seldom kept while others are whole-hearted attempts to improve ourselves.

Perhaps one of the most memorable pieces ever written is the "disiderata," found in old St. Paul's Church in 1692. Although hundreds of years old, its message still carries a timely meaning and it might well serve as a resolution for all of us during the coming year.

"Go placidly amid the noise and haste, and remember what peace there may be in silence. As far as possible without surrender be: on good terms with all persons. Speak your truth quietly and clearly; and listen to others, even the dull and ignorant; they too have their story.

"Avoid loud and aggressive persons, they are vexations to the spirit. If you compare yourself with others, you may become vain and bitter; for always there will be greater and lesser persons than yourself. Enjoy your achievements as well as your plans.

"Keep interested in your own career, however humble, it is a real possession in the changing fortunes of time. Exercise caution in your business affairs; for the world is full of trickery. But let this not blind you to what virtue there is; many persons strive for high ideals; and everywhere life is full of heroism.

"Be yourself. Especially do not feign affection. Neither be cynical above love; nor in the face of all aridity and disenchantment it is perennial as the grass.

"Take kindly the counsel of the years, gracefully surrendering the things to youth. Nurture strength of spirit to shield you in sudden misfortune. But do not distress yourself with imaginings. Many fears are born of fatigue and loneliness. Beyond a wholesome discipline, be gentle with yourself.

"You are a child of the universe, no less than the trees and the stars; you have a right to be here. And whether or not it is clear to you, no doubt the universe is unfolding as it should.

"Therefore, be at peace with God, whatever you conceive Him to be, and whatever your labors and aspirations, in the noisy confusion of life keep peace with your soul.

"With all its sham, drudgery and broken dreams, it is still a beautiful world. Be careful. Strive to be happy."

HAPPY NEW YEAR TO ALL.

Market Produces Long List Of Losers

By CHET CURRIER AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market produced a long list of losers in 1981, ranging from savings and loan and energy issues to silver-mining stocks and several individual companies that fell on hard times.

But there were big winners as well, most notably among companies that became takeover targets in another year of merger mania.

"It wasn't a very good year to start a new decade," said Argus Research Corp. in its summary of 1981.

Even the "traditional" yearend rally, when it arrived in the last two sessions Wednesday and Thursday, was unimpressive. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, with a 1.62 gain to 875.00 in the past week, finished the year with a loss of 88.99 points, or 9.2 percent.

Other readings for the week showed the New York Stock Exchange composite index unchanged at 71.11, and the American Stock Exchange market value index down 0.61 at 320.63.

Big Bond volume, which had already established a record for the fourth consecutive year, averaged 36.84 million shares a day in the final week, against 39.11 million the week before.

In a computer tally of 1981's biggest percentage changes in the waning hours of the year, several savings and loans — with their much-publicized problems with high interest rates — placed prominently among the losers.

Fidelity Financial, Financial Federation, Biscayne Federal Savings & Loan and Financial Corp. of Santa Barbara had declines of more than 50 percent.

Such prominent silver issues as Hecla Mining and Callahan Mining, as the price of silver tumbled to a 2½-year low in late December.

Two years before, Hecla had been the No. 1 performer of the year among NYSE issues, climbing from 3½ to 30, adjusted for a subsequent split. In the past week, the stock was back down to just above 10.

Among individual companies hit by steep losses, AM International fell from 16½ early in the year to below 5, and International Harvester tumbled from a high of 26½ to the neighborhood of 7½.

Energy stocks, which produced some of the best gains of 1981, meanwhile did a dramatic turnaround. The list of the sharpest declines at the American Stock Exchange was dotted with such names as Great Basins Petroleum, Ranger Oil of Canada, Damsen Oil, Juniper Petroleum, Sundance Oil, and Tubos of Mexico.

There were some dramatic exceptions in the energy group, however — companies that became takeover targets. Santa Fe International rose 19½ to 50½; and Clark Oil 9½ to 36½. Conoco, involved in the year's most celebrated merger battle, soared from 47½ to 96 before settling back to 64½ as DuPont Co. completed its acquisition of the company.

Among securities firms, which ranked as another prime catch during the year, Dean Witter Reynolds more than doubled in price pending completion of its takeover by Sears Roebuck and Shearson Loeb Rhoades gained almost as much before it was absorbed into American Express.

Medicare and Medicaid cost taxpayers nearly $60 billion in 1981, and the Reagan administration is considering ways to clamp down on the programs' soaring costs.

But Ms. Wilensky said government planners should take note of the fact that the rising cost of the tax breaks is outpacing the growth of Medicare and Medicaid.

While Medicare costs rose at an average annual rate of 17 percent between 1975 and 1979, and Medicaid costs jumped 13 percent annually, the tax expenditures were rising at a 19 percent annual rate, the study said.

On a per capita basis, the study said, the government spends far more on the poor and near poor — $327 apiece in 1977 — than on the rich — $142 each, the study said.

But the total cost of Medicare, Medicaid and tax breaks for the high-income people was $9.7 billion, compared with $10 billion spent on the poor and near poor, it said.

The study defined the poor and near poor as those with incomes up to $10,000 for a family of four in 1977.

Reagan's Cuts Could Close City

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — Nearly half the 55,000 residents of East St. Louis get public aid, and over 50 percent of the city's budget is federally funded. Now officials fear Reagan budget cuts may deliver a knockout blow.

At risk are projects aimed at turning around the fortunes of southern Illinois' largest city, where vacant lots and ramshackle buildings are a sharp contrast to the skyscrapers of thriving St. Louis, just across the Mississippi.

Already, federal cuts have reduced or wiped out benefits to hundreds of recipients, says Bill Kreeb, coordinator of a budget cut task force appointed by Mayor Carl Officer.

"The effect (of federal cuts) has been catastrophic," says state Rep. Wyvetter Young.

Government Spends As Much On Rich As On Poor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government spends just as much on health care for the rich through tax breaks and Medicare as it does for the poor through Medicaid, a new federal study concludes.

And the cost of the tax breaks and subsidies for the affluent is soaring even faster than the Medicaid and Medicare costs, according to Gail R. Wilensky, an economist for the National Center for Health Services Research.

Using figures culled from a national health survey of 40,000 persons, she found that the Treasury Department has underestimated how much it is losing in tax revenues because of the exclusion of employer-paid health insurance premiums from workers' personal income taxes.

The Treasury estimated its loss at $5.6 billion in 1977, but the survey indicates the loss actually was $7.9 billion, the study said.

And that tax loss has ballooned to an estimated $22 billion in 1981, Ms. Wilensky said in a telephone interview Friday.

In addition, workers can deduct half of their health insurance premiums, up to $150, plus all medical bills in excess of 3 percent of their income. That cost the Treasury $2.4 billion in 1977 and an estimated $3.4 billion in 1981, Ms. Wilensky said.

Safety Record Hit By Airlines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's major airlines have logged 26 consecutive months of flight travel without a fatal accident, eight months longer than the previous record, the Federal Aviation Administration said Friday.

The government agency noted that this record was established "despite the firing of 11,453 striking air traffic controllers."

In a statement, the FAA said it marked the first time that the airlines had gone two full calendar years without a major accident involving a large passenger jet.

The record was set during a period in which the airlines flew well over a half-billion passengers on over 10 million flights," the FAA said.

The agency said the previous record for non-fatal crashes by major airlines was 18 consecutive months, established between February 1964 and August 1965.

The last fatal crash of such a jet operated by a U.S. airlines was an accident involving a Western Airlines DC-10 in Mexico City on Oct. 31, 1979, in which 70 people were killed.

In the last 26 months, however, there have been two fatal accidents involving other kinds of aircraft operated by the country's flag trunk and local service airlines, the FAA said.

returned indictments against 15 individuals for multiple counts of unlawful possession of food stamps and theft during a special session.

Two of the indictments involved counts of organized crime. Zulema Garcia, 37, a former employee of the Texas Department of Human Resources, was named on all 15 indictments.

A total of 14 other persons were indicted in the case, which involved charges of falsified applications for food stamps, and an alleged kickback scheme involving the food stamps.

Mrs. Garcia was eventually found guilty on 14 of the 15 charges against her after she pled guilty as such, and received fines and sentences totaling $35,754 and 63 years in prison.

4. On July 10 4-year-old Jared Artho fell into an abandoned well on his grandfather's farm located near Milo Center. His subsequent rescue from the 250-foot deep shaft by the combined efforts of area law enforcement agencies, Deaf Smith General Hospital employees, and members of the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department was a story which drew not only national, but worldwide media attention.

Artho survived the two-hour ordeal with virtually no injuries, making the event a miracle considering the outcome of a similar tragic happening only a month earlier in Italy. In that June 10 incident in Frascati, Italy, 5-year-old Alfredo Rampi lost his life.

Rookie fireman Carey

Black, the central figure in the heroic rescue, said of Jared: "He was tough, not your average four year old. I don't know what we'd have done if he hadn't grabbed the rope."

It took only minutes for the rescuers to haul Artho back up from the would-be grave, culminating some two hours of intense effort.

5. The possible location of MX Missile system in Deaf Smith County caused quite a stir in 1981, beginning in January with a public comment period concerning the system available to the public.

A concerted effort by many local citizens managed to convince the Air Force that the missiles were not wanted in Deaf Smith County.

A decision in October by President Reagan to house the MX Missile in underground silos presently occupied by Minuteman Missiles was testimony to the fact that public outcry does make a difference. The opposition to the missile basing system, not only by area citizens, but by those in other areas being considered, was great.

6. The National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center was formally deeded the former residence of Marsh and Debbie Pitman on Sept. 25. Local attorney James Witherspoon, acting as Pitman's agent, formally presented the deed to the home and an accompanying 2 3/4 acre plot of land located in the northwest section of town.

The estimated value of the gift of the approximately 6,000 square foot residence and the land was set at $1 million.

The hall of fame plans to utilize the home as its new headquarters. The hall, which has honored 41 women of the west, is currently located in the basement of the Deaf Smith County Library.

The gift was further enlarged recently when John D. Pitman gave an additional 14 acres of land to the hall of fame as well.

7. Deaf Smith County 4-H members Randy Vogel and Tamara Myers created quite a stir at the Houston Livestock Show in March as Vogel showed the Grand Champion Steer, and Miss Myers exhibited the Reserve Grand Champion Steer.

Vogel's 1,279-pound Chianina steer brought a record $112,000 at the show's auction, and Miss Myer's 1,245-pound Limousin-angus steer brought $90,000 at the sale.

The event marked the first time in the history of the prestigious show that exhibitors from the same county had exhibited both the Grand Champion and Reserve Champion steers.

8. The Hereford Town & Country Jubilee provided for much fanfare and entertainment in late August during a four-day run which included the All-Girl Rodeo sponsored by the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame, a fun run, a carnival, dances, a barbecue, exhibits of various kinds, and a parade.

Community-wide participation was great during the celebration, which may become an annual event.

9. Six persons were involved in a "major theft ring" at the Texas Instruments plant in Lubbock, and the ring was broken up in April after leads in the case were discovered by Deaf Smith County officials.

Information gained after 15-year-old Craig Hamman of Hereford came across a cache of 418 TI watches which had been dumped in a tailwater pit led to the eventual break in the case.

Detective work on the part of Sheriff's deputy Luis Liscano was cited as a major factor in breaking the case. The subsequent arrests cleared up between $85,000-$100,000 worth of missing items from the Hub City Plant.

According to a Lubbock district attorney's office spokesman several TI dockworkers conspired with truck drivers to reroute merchandise which was later divided up among the conspirators and sold.

10. The A&A Coating Plant began operations in October, adding to the sagging economic outlook and providing a ray of hope for future prospects of additional industry locating in Hereford and Deaf Smith County.

The plant began with a contract to coat 400 miles of 20-inch heavy duty pipe for a gas pipeline to be installed from Walsenburg, Colo. to Seminole, Texas.

A&A built a plant of approximately 24,000 square feet on a 50-acre tract of land leased from the Santa Fe Railroad.

Dana Ulibarri was crowned Miss Hereford of 1981 by the previous year's winner, Diane Warden. At right are Tamara Myers and Ran-

Betty Gilbert, left, led the Women's Division in a number of successful projects during the year. Margaret Formby, president of the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame, and director Garth Thomas received deed to the Marsh Pitman home from attorney James Witherspoon. The HOF will now have a permanent home.

A Special Message for 1982

At this season one likes to remember good things of the past year. One of the best things about 1981 has been the association with the good people of Hereford and the surrounding area. We appreciate your confidence in us.

Imperial Judge

What a federal judge has wrought, let no man put asunder.

We have had a number of examples of an imperial judiciary in recent years and there seems to be no end of the authority these judges take for themselves, regardless of what elected officials may say or what ordinary people may think.

Judge Luther Bohannon of Oklahoma City, one of the most autocratic federal judges, ranking perhaps just behind Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler, Texas, has caused quite a stir in Oklahoma in the past few weeks.

Judge Bohannon ordered the director of the Oklahoma prison system to quit forthwith and at once the practice of putting more than one prisoner in a cell at any of the state's penitentiaries.

He issued a contempt of court citation against the poor director, relenting only after the man pointed out that he didn't have the power to turn criminals loose in Oklahoma.

The judge then threatened to fine the state of Oklahoma $1,000 a day until double ceiling was ended.

Judge Justice has issued the same kind of an order. Governor Bill Clements responded by ordering tents brought in and now Texas inmates are enjoying fresh air in squad tents to spare them the misery of sharing a cell with another prisoner.

Federal judges don't have to weigh the practical aspects of what they rule. Judge Bohannon could care less that Oklahoma can't conjure up funds out of thin air to build new prisons. He said do it and will fine the state if it isn't done.

The same Judge Bohannon a couple of years ago threw out the Oklahoma City school busing plan and ordered one of his own. The fact that his plan called for spending some $380,000 for more school buses didn't bother him a bit. He said do it and expected it to be done.

The federal judge in Houston who has decreed that Texas taxpayers shall dig down in their pockets to pay for educating swarms of illegal alien children cares not a whit about the cost to taxpayers.

He no doubt believes that the American taxpayer, on any level, is there to be milked and can be required to pay for any program that any federal judge decrees.

These judicial decisions do not have to be based on any laws that are passed by the state legislatures and the Congress of the United States. These are new laws, in the form of judicial decrees, and while they are made by judges insulated and protected from the public, what they rule has the same force as laws passed by representatives of the people.

Why should any lifelong appointee to the bench have the authority to shove aside the authority of any state in solving their own problems?

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:
The Department of Energy has scheduled a public hearing in Hereford Jan. 19 on the program of drilling test holes for nuclear waste repositories.

For the information of readers, we would like to submit some questions which we think should be posed at this public hearing. These include:

1. Why has the DOE operated in secrecy over the past three years after running into thorough opposition to previous efforts to make this area into a nuclear waste dump?

2. How much tax payer's money has been expended in this secret effort?

3. In that the DOE is being dismantled and has been thoroughly discredited as a viable entity, why is tax money continuing to be wasted in an effort to force nuclear waste on this area?

4. Reportedly, DOE personnel have referred to this agricultural region as a "wasteland." Does this explain your contempt for the people of this area expressed by your actions of recent months?

5. You say that 800 jobs can be created in this area for a year or so. The mobile M-X military bureaucrats promised us 20,000 jobs in return for devastating our land and water table. Isn't your bid a bit low?

6. Will you guarantee indemnity for the reduced property evaluations, the loss of sales of agricultural products, and the reduction of retail sales by merchants?

7. How long will the nuclear waste retain its radioactivity? What right do we have to sell our future generations in this area for a "mess of pottage?"

8. Why isn't this issue already decided. Suitable salt domes and desert areas where heavy populations do not exist and agriculture is not a factor were located long ago?

9. Why did the state and federal elected representatives of this Palo Duro Basin area not warn their constituencies long ago of this covert effort?

10. How was the nuclear waste leak at Hansford, Washington, which has not been, and cannot be, cleaned up, handled with regard to public safety and liability?

11. Why is an area which is far from any of the "benefits" of nuclear energy expected to accept the economic devastation of becoming the dumping area for the nuclear garbage?

12. What is the liability insurance provided by the DOE to the potential accidents in transporting the waste past towns and farmsteads in this area?

13. Why did the railroad industry not accept test results as conclusive evidence of integrity in their report to the president, page 112.

14. Material states that we will be held open for "regional repositories" if not selected the first time around. Explain.

15. Does DOE have in its budget funds for relocating the thousands of people who will choose to leave an area when it becomes a nuclear waste dump?

16. In that the containers used above ground have a viable life of 30 years and Plutonium 239 has a lethal life of 24,000 years, can you guarantee no leakage for future generations?

Please respond to all questions thoroughly!

Sincerely
Frank Ford

The Penultimate Word

MAW-MAW

She died last night. She gave death one heck of a battle in the process. I knew she would, she gave life quite a tussle for 78 years.

She came from a background of education and culture. Her father was a professor. I have always thought of him as the "brainy," absent-minded type. One day he forgot to get out of the way of a trolley in Oklahoma City. Life got tough, then.

She moved to a mountain college in Kentucky for her education. Taught in a mining camp so far up the mountain, the train had to back in. There was only one car in the camp. Why there was one, no one knows. There were no roads, the only driving possible was on a pasture they called the baseball field. So, they drove around the field on Sunday afternoons.

She taught school so long, she taught the kids of her kids, and so well that she covered almost every grade and every subject.

When she became a grandmother, she tried hard to be "Maw-Maw." She called herself by that name. Somehow, the family could not call her that. She was fun and common, but there was just enough of the aristocracy left in her to make "Maw-Maw" not fit. I called her Mrs. Maddox for 30 years. I don't know why.

She was laughter. Her laugh lit up rooms and could be heard through closed doors.

She was industry. She became a rock hound with the same gusto she used for laughing. Her house became a rock pile.

She was fun. Christmas stockings at her house were a tradition of the unusual, the odd, even the weird.

She was the lady with a ham. I wish I had the money she spent on hams for funeral dinners. No one could die in her town without getting a ham!

She was love. At 78 years of age, she was in a hospital miles from home, and 40 people sent cards. We sent letters to her friends and had to buy 80 stamps just to cover the close ones.

She was never "Maw-Maw" to me. I do not know whether God wanted to bless me, or give her a thorn in the flesh, but somehow she became my Mother-in-law. She did that well also.

Warm Fuzzies,
Doug Manning

Real Wisdom From Big Brother

By Richard L. Leshar
WASHINGTON — Regular readers of this column know that from time to time, I devote this space to the "Wisdom of Big Brother" and recount some of the more outrageous ways in which the government wastes our money and interferes in our lives. Please be assured that this feature will continue.

However, in keeping with the spirit of kindness and generosity that marks the holiday season, I would like to demonstrate that if we look hard enough, there really are a few pearls of wisdom amidst all the seaweed.

First honors go to—are you ready for this?—the Congress. Despite a recent epidemic of cold feet on Capitol Hill, Congress was dragged kicking and screaming to some very wise decisions in 1981, among them:

The Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981, the largest tax reduction package in history. I am told that even some members who voted against it are now sending newsletters home to their districts to crow about the many new incentives for saving and investing. Across-the-board tax cuts, the availability of individual retirement accounts to all workers, and the indexing of tax brackets beginning in 1985 are truly revolutionary provisions that will profoundly affect the future spending plans of the federal government.

The budget cuts: Federal spending is still under control, but the first step away from a 40 year habit is the hardest, and Congress took it. Planned increases in federal spending have been reduced by some $140 billion over the next three years.

Block grants: Congress made significant progress toward reducing federal paternalism and returning authority to state and local governments by folding many specific programs in the health, education and community development areas into block grants.

In addition to Congress, other "Brothers" deserve a tip of the hat:

Ronald Reagan's "junkyard dogs," better known as inspectors general, have rooted out more than $2 billion in waste, fraud and abuse in federal agencies after just six months of scrutiny. No doubt there are many more bones buried in the federal junkyard.

Then, there's the WASHINGTON (NEA) — Here's one for the "don't do as I do" department. The Reagan administration is critical of the Freedom of Information Act, which gives citizens access to government records and documents.

The Justice Department particularly opposes the use of the act to "harass and burden" government agencies and to try to avoid court-ordered discovery processes in legal cases involving the government. Department officials recently urged a Senate committee to take action to prevent the act's being used in these ways.

Meanwhile, the Reagan campaign committee was battling with the Federal Election Commission over an audit of its use — and possible misuse — of federal funds during the 1980 campaign. (The committee has since received a clean bill of health from the FEC.)

Lawyers for the committee went into federal court seeking to prevent the FEC from releasing any preliminary audit. At the same time those lawyers filed many Freedom of Information Act requests with the commission seeking access to the work papers of those auditing the Reagan-Bush campaign.

When the commission refused to release the requested documents — on Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. This agency recently took the peculiar step of returning $21.7 million from its 1981 budget to the Treasury, rather than embarking on a last-minute spending spree for pencils and desk blotters as is the usual practice in the bureaucracy.

Finally, consider the case of Frank Mankiewicz, president of the taxpayer-funded National Public Radio network (NPR) and liberal warhorse of the Democratic party.

In a deferential bow to reality, Mankiewicz announced recently that rather than cry over the budget cuts that had afflicted NPR, he would embark on a new campaign to wean the network from federal dollars through fundraising activities in the private sector. "We're the first 'formally federal grantee' to embark on this step," Mr. Mankiewicz stated. "It's fairly thin ice out there. It's chancy, but it's the only way we can go." Welcome to the marketplace, NPR!

While the Reagan Justice Department was asking Congress to pass laws preventing abuses of the Freedom of Information Act, the Reagan campaign committee appeared to be engaging in the very practices that the department wanted to prevent.

the grounds that they contained information that "would allow a committee to obscure apparently improper contributions" — the campaign went to federal court to try to force their release.

So, while the Reagan Justice Department was asking Congress to pass laws preventing abuses of the Freedom of Information Act, the Reagan campaign committee appeared to be engaging in the very practices that the department wanted to prevent.

Richard Boyer's phone is ringing off the hook these days.

Boyer is the chairman of the Democratic Party in New Hampshire, whose primary is the traditional starting point for presidential hopefuls.

The lesson of Jimmy Carter's early start in 1976 has not been lost on potential candidates for 1984.

In recent days, former Vice President Walter Mondale, Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado, Sen. John Glenn of Ohio, Sen. Joseph Biden of Delaware and Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts or members of their staffs have thoughtfully informed Boyer that they are available to appear at any kind of upcoming Democratic function in the state.

In fact, there is a danger that the guests at the head table will outnumber the audience at some of these Democratic gatherings.

The Bootleg Philosopher

Looking Ahead

Editor's Note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his "Deaf Smith grass farm on Tierra Blanca Creek looks at the new year ahead.

Dear editor:
Every time a person turns around it looks like a new year is upon us.

For 1982 I don't have any predictions, other than the flat prediction that times will get either better or worse or stay the same.

But I do have a suggestion. As you know, 1982 is an election year, from ground level on up to the U.S. Congress.

Ever since elections were invented candidates have gotten elected on promises they don't keep. Figure out what the people want, promise it, get elected, and forget it.

I've figured out something that can be done about this.

As you know, in order to bind the sale of a farm, say, sometimes the buyer has to put up a forfeit called earnest money, which he loses if he backs out.

Why don't we require candidates to underwrite their promises by putting up earnest money?

If a local candidate promises to pave the road in your area, a candidate for the legislature promises to cut state taxes, a candidate for governor promises to reduce the number of state employees, a congressional candidate promises to slash Federal spending, a presidential candidate promises to balance the budget, require each to put up a forfeit guaranteeing delivery.

To prevent the forfeit from becoming just another promise, each candidate would sign a binding contract agreeing, if elected, to assign 20 percent of his salary to the treasury every month his promises go unfulfilled. The agreement should stipulate that the office-holder couldn't raise his salary to pay for the unfulfillment.

You might argue that, even if a candidate signed the agreement and reneged, he'd hire some two-bit lawyer to fight the case in court, dragging it out for years.

I don't believe so. Tell me where in these high-priced times you can find a two-bit lawyer.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Polish Support

President Reagan is criticized from some quarters for not taking "a stronger stand" on Poland.

It's easy at times like this, confronted with a situation like this, to think with our emotions instead of our intellects.

The President has messaged support for the people of Poland in every way he can.

He has denounced their Communist government, has cut off its bank credit, its fishing rights, its airline rights.

The President has condemned the Soviet Union for its part in Poland's problems, calling the Soviet "a force of tyranny."

Our President messaged Soviet President Brezhnev that Moscow will be made to pay for outrages committed under martial law in Poland.

Last Christmas Eve our President led us in burning candles in windows as beacons of support for Solidarity, the Polish trade union.

What more could the critics have us do?

We have to be very careful that we are not led more by politics than by principle lest we hypocritically react more when it's Poland and less when it's Afghanistan.

Why doesn't the U.N. "do something about Poland?"

In the first place, the toothless U.N. was unable even to do anything about Vietnam.

But in this instance, outgoing U.N. President Kurt Waldheim explains that the United Nations is powerless to intervene "in what is still an internal matter."

Of course, that's the way Moscow sees it.

Moscow has been accusing the United States of an unscrupulous propaganda campaign, fanning the fire, prodding Poles to kill one another.

A consideration that few Americans stop to look at during a time of knee-jerk indignation is this: If any union or unions in the United States tried to take over the United States, we, too, would call out the troops.

The Warsaw government insists it can do no less and has done no more.

History is a source of some encouragement.

Twenty-five Christmases ago there was a comparable cataclysm.

Hungary's Janos Kadar was reviled as "a Soviet stooge."

Backed by Soviet tanks with ruthless efficiency, Kadar crushed the "freedom fighters" of Hungary.

But in the years since he has become a Hungarian national hero and Hungary has become a Soviet bloc showpiece of stability, tranquility and prosperity.

Our President's responses are carefully premeditated not to worsen the situation they are designed to improve.

Haig Receiving More Authority; Replacement For Allen Possible

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — President Reagan, planning "a pretty wide shakeup" of his foreign policy operation, will give his national security adviser more authority in a move that could lead to the ouster of Richard V. Allen, White House officials say.

Deputy Secretary of State William P. Clark, one of the most senior members of the Reagan inner circle, is said by one top White House official to be the unanimous choice of the president's top advisers to replace Allen in the upgraded job.

Allen remains on a paid leave of absence pending completion of a review of whether his contacts with former Japanese business associates and omissions from his financial disclosure form violated a White House code of conduct. The Justice Department has cleared Allen of any illegal wrongdoing in connection with those actions.

In two separate interviews Friday, Allen told reporters no one has told him he will be replaced.

"This is a decision that the president is to make, and I'm sure that when the appropriate White House review is done and the conclusions are drawn, that he'll be in a position to make a decision," he said.

The president was meeting this afternoon with Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr., who, like Reagan, is spending the New Year's holiday at the desert resort of Palm Springs.

Haig, who feuded with Allen throughout the first year of the Reagan administration, planned to confer with the president on the visit to Washington next Tuesday of West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt.

But other topics, including the Polish crisis and the contemplated shift in the White House national security operation, could be added to the agenda.

"I would guess that there would be a pretty wide shakeup," said one official, adding that it would deal with both personnel and the procedures by which foreign policy decisions are reached.

Asking that he not be identified by name, the official said the decision could be made as early as next week. Asked about the likelihood that Allen would leave, another aide said, "There's got to be some contingency planning."

But presidential counselor Edwin Meese III said no final decisions were made.

Reading from prepared notes, deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said: "The president has before him a number of recommendations of the office of the assistant to the president for national security affairs. The objective is to improve the process of communication and coordination."

He said Meese was making recommendations to the president on the basis of an informal study.

Meese has overall responsibility for coordinating national security operations and domestic policy operations.

Clark, who, with Haig and Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger were guests with Reagan at a New Year's Eve party given by publisher Walter Annenberg, had no formal meeting planned with the president, Speakes said. But he said Clark and Reagan had seen each other socially while in Palm Springs.

The president and his wife, Nancy, arrived in Palm Springs Wednesday afternoon and will return to Washington Sunday. As they have been for more than 10 years, they were New Year's guests at Annenberg's 200-acre compound.

Friday was a day for watching college football bowl games on television and Reagan's only venture outside the lush, irrigated desert estate was to a private dinner.

He also was said to have set aside time for work on his State of the Union address expected to be given Jan. 26 and on preparations for his meeting with Schmidt.

On New Year's Eve, according to assistant White House press secretary Mark Weinberg, the president and Mrs. Reagan joined approximately 80 guests of the Annenbergs in dancing and in singing "Auld Lang Syne" and did not retire to their quarters until 1:15 a.m.

When Reagan returns to Washington, one of the first items on his agenda is likely to be Meese's recommendations.

Senator Bill Sarpallus Reports

WE HAVE TO MEAN BUSINESS

AUSTIN — In the past ten years, the population of Texas has increased about 27 percent. That's a lot. In the same period of time, the crime rate in Texas has increased about 90 percent. That's too much. We must stop this increase.

Last week we talked about how we need more discipline in our criminal justice system to show young people and older criminals we mean business. Here are a few examples of what we should do.

For one thing, we must allow our schoolteachers and administrators to administer quick and fair punishment. "Spare the rod and spoil the child" is as true today as it was in Biblical times.

Of course, not all children will respond to this treatment. Some will end up in the custody of the Texas Youth Council, the state agency in charge of juvenile delinquents. Here again, TYC needs more power to discipline these youngsters. They need quick, certain, fair and humane punishment for their wrongdoings.

We heard testimony at our meeting of the Committee on the Criminal Justice System of Texas from a well-known criminal defense lawyer. He said he was fed up with seeing young men come into his office after committing a crime such as burglary or car theft, only to see them get probation.

He said these young people commit crimes against people's property, and then know they will get probation two or three times before they go to jail. "This is wrong. What we need to do is put them in jail — maybe not for forty years, but for 60 or 90 days. We need to create a situation where they know they will be punished, even if the punishment is not too severe," he said.

Remember, this call for punishment came from a man who makes his living keeping people out of jail.

We think the lawyer really was saying two things. First, there is no certainty of punishment today. Second, it would be more effective to make sure every criminal is punished, lightly perhaps, than to gamble with the system we have now.

The system we have now is a gamble. Stealing a car can get a criminal 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine, but it probably won't. More likely, the accused will be arrested and released. From arrest to the end of the appeal process will take about four years. Then the criminal might go to jail, or he might get probation.

Anyone who has ever had a child or a puppy knows four years is not the way. We must send a clear signal to children, juveniles and adults — if you break the rules, you will be punished. We don't need to spend $10,000 a year to house a first offender for 10 years in prison, but we need to bust them fast and sure. We need to show them we mean business.

We know you mean business about crime — we all do. But we want to hear from you about how to stop it. Write Senator Bill Sarpallus, P.O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711.

Shareholders Spend Busy Week Helping Companies Restructure

By JAMES PELTZ AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved into 1982 on a rather dull note, but many stockholders briefly put their holiday season on hold this past week to tie up some important loose ends.

It was a busy week for Sears, Roebuck & Co., the nation's leading general-merchandise retailer that is becoming an industry leader in offering a broad range of financial services.

In Los Angeles, stockholders of Cgdwell, Banker & Co., the nation's largest real estate brokerage company, approved their company's acquisition by Chicago-based Sears.

The next day, people owning stock in Dean Witter Reynolds Organization Inc., the fifth-largest U.S. securities firm, also approved their company's purchase by Sears.

In just two days Sears, for an investment of just under $800 million, became a vigorous competitor against other financial services giants such as American Express Co. and Prudential Insurance Co. of America.

At the same time, holders of Allegheny International Inc. and Sunbeam Corp. were approving, in separate meetings, their companies' merger in a transaction valued at about $550 million.

Allegheny, headquartered in Pittsburgh, already operates in several industries, including metals and consumer products. With Sunbeam, Allegheny now will be a leading maker of small appliances and outdoor products — both at home and abroad.

Most Marathon holders, meanwhile, already have tendered their shares to U.S. Steel, but the steelmaker under court order is not allowed to pay them a cent of its $8.3 billion offer until midnight Wednesday.

Until then, Marathon holders could withdraw their shares and tender them instead to Mobil, but that is only if Mobil can convince the courts to postpone the date U.S. Steel can begin buying shares and then convince them that its buying of Marathon would not violate antitrust laws.

In other developments this past week:

—The government's leading economic indicators fell a modest 0.3 percent in November, following declines of 1.6 percent in October and 2.1 percent in September. Some economists said that suggested the recession might be slowing, but others argued the November drop was a temporary pause in the economy's decline. —Savings and loan industry losses mounted in November as sales of All Savers Certificates slumped, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board said. The net worth of the nation's 3,800 federally insured S&Ls fell $636 million in November to $27.9 billion as the industry continued to struggle to capture deposits going to higher-yielding investments.

Health Care Costs Starting To Go Up

WASHINGTON — The cost of tax breaks and other government health-care subsidies for well-to-do Americans is increasing faster than the cost of Medicaid and Medicare, a new federal study concludes.

While Medicare costs rose at an average annual rate of 17 percent between 1975 and 1979 and Medicaid costs jumped 13 percent annually, the cost of tax breaks was rising 19 percent a year, the study said.

The pricetag for Medicare, Medicaid and tax breaks for high-income people was $9.7 billion, compared with $10 billion spent on the poor and near poor during the period, according to the National Center for Health Services Research.

The poor and near poor were defined as those with incomes up to $10,000 for a family of four in 1977. The high-income group had incomes of $32,000 or more in 1977 — four times higher than the government's poverty line.

Gail R. Wilensky, an economist for the center, a branch of the Department of Health and Human Services, said government planners should take note that the rising cost of the tax breaks is outpacing the growth of Medicare and Medicaid.

The study noted that since 1960, "government financing of health care has increased fourteenfold," from $6.6 billion to $91.4 billion in federal, state and local outlays in 1979.

Ms. Wilensky said that data from a national health survey of 40,000 persons showed that the Treasury Department has underestimated how much it is losing in tax revenues because tax breaks.

The Treasury estimated this at $5.6 billion in 1977, but the survey indicates the loss actually was $7.9 billion, the study said.

The figure climbed to an estimated $22 billion in 1981, Ms. Wilensky said in a telephone interview Friday.

The tax breaks include exempting the value of employer-paid health insurance premiums from workers' personal income taxes.

In addition, taxpayers can deduct half of their health insurance premiums, up to $150, plus all medical bills in excess of 3 percent of their taxable income. That cost the Treasury $2.4 billion in 1977 and an estimated $3.4 billion in 1981, Ms. Wilensky said.

On a per capita basis, the study said, the government spends far more on the poor and near poor — $327 apiece in 1977 — than on the affluent — $142 each.

The government also spent $5.6 billion, or $178 apiece, on people with incomes between $10,000 and $16,000, and $9.5 billion, or $116 apiece, on those with incomes between $16,000 and $32,000.

Medicare and Medicaid cost taxpayers nearly $60 billion in 1981, and the Reagan administration is considering ways to clamp down on the programs' soaring costs.

Police Brutality Trial To Open This Week

By SUSAN STOLER
Associated Press Writer
BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — One of five former McAllen policemen indicted on charges of abusing prisoners has asked that his trial — scheduled to begin this week — be moved outside South Texas because of "pre-judicial" publicity.

"For the past two years, all areas of South Texas have been consistently bombarded with newspaper stories, television news stories and radio reports of lawsuits filed against the McAllen Police Department," said a motion for a change of venue filed on behalf of Roberto Ramos, a former police sergeant.

"A public hostility has been generated that is such that this defendant will be prejudiced and it will be impossible to obtain a fair and impartial trial within the Brownsville division of the Southern District of Texas and indeed, the (entire) Southern District of Texas," said Ramos' lawyer, Buck Pettitt, in a sworn statement.

Ramos is accused of ordering subordinate officers to beat Rene Escamilla during an arrest Sept. 24, 1977. Ramos and four others are charged with criminal civil rights violations, punishable by up to one year in prison and a $1,000 fine.

U.S. District Judge Filemon Vela will consider that request and others Monday in a pre-trial hearing on the case. Jury selection is scheduled for Wednesday.

The case gained national attention after television networks broadcast videotape recordings of officers allegedly abusing prisoners in the booking desk area over several years.

The tape recordings were made by a monitoring system installed to protect officers from harassment suits.

Federal prosecutors say they will oppose the request to move the trial and have asked Vela to allow use of the tape recordings as evidence against certain officers. The incident in which Ramos is accused allegedly took place outside the booking desk area and is not on tape.

In one instance, prisoner Pedro Dennett was seen being kicked, shoved against the wall and slammed into the booking desk by several officers on Oct. 23, 1978. Dennett had been arrested for driving while intoxicated.

Three former policemen — Tom Carter, Jaime Contreras and Alfredo Saldana — were indicted in connection with the Dennett arrest.

"The videotape of the beating and kicking of Pedro Dennett constitutes the best evidence of the deprivation of constitutional rights charged in the indictment," said Ross Connealy, a U.S. Justice Department lawyer from Washington who will handle the case.

bring up three "extrinsic offenses" involving Ramos.

The first purportedly occurred Aug. 19, 1977, when Ramos stopped Jose Rivera as the man drove away from the area of an alleged burglary, court papers said. Two other officers arrived.

"Ramos kneed Rivera several times in the groin and stomach, knocking down both him and the other officers," the document claims. "Ramos then kneedropped Mr. Rivera twice in the back."

Ramos also allegedly beat a man July 28, 1976, and on Aug. 28, 1976, he allegedly beat a man arrested for disorderly conduct in a bar. The prisoner required medical attention but Ramos beat him "without reason" as other officers prepared to take him to a hospital, Connealy alleged.

Allegations of police brutality among officers on McAllen's late-night shift first surfaced during a series of civil suits filed against officers, the police department and city officials.

Most of the alleged victims were Hispanics but the officers were both Anglo and Hispanic. Approximately 75 percent of McAllen's 65,000 population is Hispanic.

The city of McAllen has agreed to out-of-court settlements totaling approximately $400,000 in several civil suits.

U.S. District Judge James DeAnda has ordered changes in the department's training and internal complaint procedures.

The brutality controversy caused two police chiefs — Jack Caldwell and Roy Eckhardt — to resign in two years' time.

Juan J. Hinojosa, lawyer for Contreras, said the videotape seen on national television was edited and does not show the full sequence of events.

"The question is: What force was necessary to control and subdue a prisoner?" said Hinojosa.

One defendant in the Dennett episode, Carter, has asked to be tried before a U.S. magistrate instead of a federal district judge and jury. Hinojosa said his client and Saldana may join in that request.

The fifth defendant, Isidro Ybanez, is accused of assaulting Joseph Allen Smith on May 20, 1979.

Prosecutors have said they intend to bring up other incidents of alleged police brutality involving defendants Ybanez and Ramos.

On July 16, 1979, prosecutors allege in court papers that Ybanez and another officer verbally and physically abused a handcuffed juvenile who had been arrested on public intoxication charges. Ybanez later was suspended for two days as a result of the incident, government lawyers said.

Connealy said he plans to —Whales have a strong herd instinct. If an old leader swims ashore to die, the rest of the pack may follow.

—Whales may swim into shallow water to eat schools of herring or squid, then become trapped when the tide goes out.

—They may flee aground to escape attacking sharks.

—Ear parasites may damage the whales' hearing, which the animals need for navigation.

But all the explanations biologists have dreamed up over the years are just theories.

"We're left with the same old enigma," Lambertsen said.

Whale Strandings An Enigma For Scientists

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer
WOODS HOLE, Mass. (AP) — For a veterinarian, it is the ultimate frustration. Dozens of suffocating whales lie stranded on a beach. They are so bulky they cannot be moved and so sick they cannot be saved. Sometimes they are so big they cannot even be killed.

This strange ritual of the sea has been going on throughout history. The giant underwater mammals swim onto the sand and wait to die.

No one knows why, but theories range from ear parasites to blind loyalty to a dying leader.

Mass strandings happen around the world. On the East Coast, groups of whales or porpoises will commit what seems like suicide about once every three years.

A specialized corps of veterinarians goes to their aid. But almost invariably, they can do little but put the animals to death.

"Efforts have been made to save these animals," says John Prescott, director of the New England Aquarium in Boston. "Our success rate is virtually zero the world around."

The aquarium helps coordinate the New England marine mammal stranding network, which oversees the rescue and care of these animals. When a whale goes aground, the network contacts one of a half dozen veterinarians who specialize in whales.

Among them is Dr. Richard Lambertsen, who is also a whale biologist at the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution. He has spent a career looking at beached whales, including the victims of New England's latest mass stranding early last month.

"You can treat these animals following your best medical judgment and fail nonetheless," Lambertsen said. "And generally you do fail. No stranded animals have lived for very long after one of these events. Some might live for a month, but for some unexplainable reason, they go downhill and die. And this is with intensive medical therapy."

The last time he was called out was Dec. 6, when 24 pilot whales stranded themselves on Nantucket, Martha's Vineyard and Cape Cod beaches. The big air-breathing animals swam ashore during a snowstorm. Dozens of large adults and then calves and juveniles.

The biggest were 14 feet long and weighed 3,000 pounds. They lay passively, sometimes flipping their big tails or grunting and whistling among themselves.

Because of the storm, the vets had trouble flying to Nantucket, where most of the animals were stranded. By the time they arrived, the animals had been out of water for several hours, and were having trouble breathing.

Whales' lungs work fine underwater, but they collapse under the animals' weight when whales are stranded on land. Despite the poor results of the past, the vets tried to save several of the whales.

One 350-pound baby was carted to the airport and flown to the Mystic Marineland Aquarium in Connecticut, where it later died. Another, 1,200-pound whale got as far as the airport, but the plane and loading equipment were too small, so the animal was killed.

A third whale was towed two miles out to sea by the Coast Guard, then released. The whale seemed to be swimming normally, but the next day, the veterinarians found it beached again, this time in much worse shape.

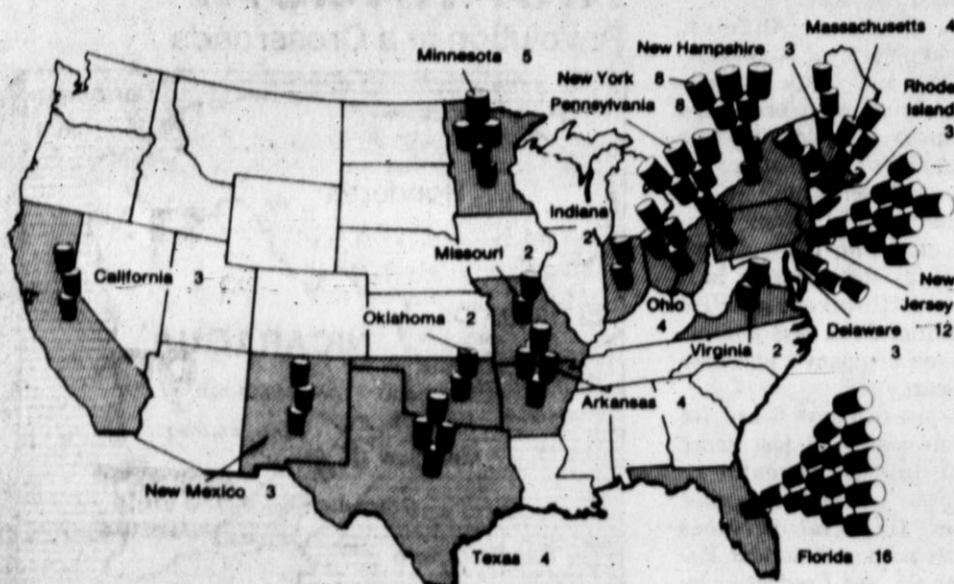

"That's another source of frustration," said Lambertsen. "You see something that looks like success and then find out that you may not have done that animal any good at all. You may have just prolonged its suffering."

Nantucket has been a common beaching spot for herds of pilot whales. In 1914, 187 of them swam aground.

As hard as pilot whales are to deal with, beached sperm whales are worse. These animals can be 50 feet long and weigh 50 tons, so big that they cannot even be put out of their misery. Bullets will not kill them.

In the latest case, Lambertsen theorizes that the whales were literally driven ashore by the storm.

Trial Of Three Men Accused Of Richey Killings 'Legal Botch'

By BILL CRIDER
Associated Press Writer
The trial of three men accused of murdering W.R. Richey and his wife at Haughton, La., during a 1964 holdup now stands as a wretched legal botch.

In the latest development, Floyd E. Cumbe, 46, was allowed to withdraw his plea of guilty and a district court judge canceled both of his 21-year prison terms for manslaughter.

At least the Cumbe case didn't wind up with a financial loss — like the $55,000 that had to be paid to former rodeo star Jack Favor in 1976 when he sued on a claim that he was railroaded into prison in the Richey killings.

And though the recent court action cleared Cumbe on the Richey charges, he did not go free as a result.

In 1967, the last time Louisiana law had a grip on Cumbe, officers escorted him out of the state and let him loose. He headed for Tulsa, Okla., and is now serving two life sentences for killing Sheila Farley and Opel Richter in Tulsa two days after he was freed.

District Judge Monty Wyche of Benton granted Cumbe's plea that his Louisiana convictions be canceled.

Cumbe claimed his constitutional rights were violated because a lawyer was not appointed to represent him before he pleaded guilty, and because he was not advised of his rights to appeal.

Bossier-Webster District Attorney Henry Brown did not oppose the claim when it came up in court in early December. He also did not contest Cumbe's claim that "evidence exists that the plea may have been the result of improper inducements."

The action means Cumbe could be eligible for parole earlier than his tentative parole date of October 1992, and his chance of release might be improved.

Three men were charged in the Richey killings: Favor, Cumbe, and Donald Lee Yates.

In 1967, when Louisiana let go of him, Cumbe was supposed to have been sent to Angola Prison to begin serving the 21-year sentences after pleading guilty to manslaughter in the Richey killings.

Instead, Bossier Parish Sheriff Vol Dooley, then chief deputy, took him to Texas and freed him. Dooley, who acted in the direction of then-Sheriff Willie Waggonner, later testified that he thought Cumbe's sentence had been suspended.

In a 1973 federal court hearing in Shreveport on Favor's claim that he was railroaded, Cumbe testified that Louis H. Padgett Jr., who was the Bossier Parish district attorney at the time, bargained with him to testify against Favor.

Cumbe said Padgett, later to become a district judge, told him: "Floyd, I can't give you immunity but if you will help us in this case, I'll make sure you never do a day in the Louisiana penitentiary."

Cumbe was the state's key witness against Favor, who wound up with two life sentences. The Shreveport hearing resulted in a U.S. District Court order that Favor be freed or given a new trial.

Federal court intervention in the case set off fierce state court resistance. The Louisiana Supreme Court contended the feds overstepped their authority in telling state courts to hold a hearing on whether the prosecutor and judge were involved in illegal collusion.

However, federal courts had the last word.

The second time around, the state district court jury found Favor innocent in 1974. The third man charged in the Richey killings, Yates, testified that he and Cumbe robbed the Richeys, that Cumbe pulled the trigger on the gun that killed them, and Favor was nowhere around.

Favor had already spent seven years at Angola Prison, where he founded the prison's annual rodeo.

The $7 million lawsuit filed by Favor was against Dooley, Padgett, District Judge O. E. Price and Waggonner. It accused them of conspiring against him in dealing with Cumbe.

Favor, 66 and ailing, was philosophical about the $55,000 settlement in 1976.

"I took the best I could get," he told a reporter at the time. "Sometimes you don't get what you want."

perjury, accused of lying to the grand jury that investigated the handling of the case.

However, a series of unusual legal wrinkles developed.

First, on Sept. 18, 1972, Judge David T. Caldwell, assigned as a special judge, dismissed the indictments on a legal technicality.

Then another district court judge, Enos McClendon Jr., extended the deadline to Nov. 31.

Then the whole thing wound up in the state Supreme Court, with the defense contending the state filed too late in appealing Caldwell's action.

The high court ruled that McClendon had recused himself from the case earlier and therefore he could not extend the deadline. Furthermore, there was no Nov. 31, since the month had only 30 days in it.

Caldwell's dismissal was upheld.

Yates' role in the Richey case also is a curious history. First he pleaded guilty to murder without capital punishment and was sentenced to life on Nov. 27, 1967. Records show he was then turned over to the federal government to serve a prior 20-year term for bank robbery, with his state sentence to be served at the same time.

On Feb. 1, 1971, a judge granted a writ bringing Yates back to court, the then-District Attorney John Benton amended the murder indictment to manslaughter. Yates immediately pleaded guilty and drew a 17-year sentence.

Then in 1974 a motion to "correct an illegal sentence" had the sentence wiped out on the ground that state law does not allow a prisoner to serve his state sentence at the same time that he serves a federal sentence.

Released from Leavenworth on parole in 1979 after serving 12½ years, Yates since has been arrested by Florida authorities on a charge of robbing a bank at Bristow, Fla.

Trees To Be Given Away

The national Arbor Day Foundation is giving two free White Dogwood trees to all new Foundation members joining during January, 1982.

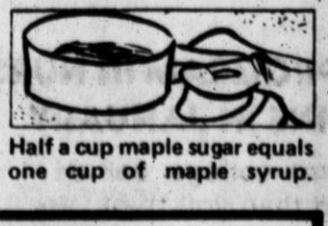

The free trees are part of the Foundation's effort to promote tree planting during 1982, the 100th Anniversary of the first observance of Arbor Day in schools.

The National Arbor Day Foundation, a nonprofit organization, is working to improve the quality of life throughout the country by encouraging tree planting. The Foundation will give two free Dogwood trees to new members contributing $5 or more during January.

The trees will be three to five feet tall and will be sent postage paid, with enclosed planting instructions at an appropriate time for planting this spring. They are guaranteed to grow, or they will be replaced free by the Foundation.

To become a member of the Foundation, and to receive the free trees, a $5 membership contribution should be sent to Two Free Trees, National Arbor Day Foundation, Arbor Lodge 100, Nebraska City, NE 68410, by Jan. 31.

Tigers Finish Undefeated; Championship 'In the Bag'

Sugar was sweet for Pitt—but not as sweet as Orange was for Clemson.

soon," said Clemson Coach Danny Ford after his top-ranked Tigers beat No. 4 Nebraska 22-15 in the Orange Bowl in Miami Friday night and virtually sewed up its first national collegiate football championship.

Meanwhile, 10th-ranked Pitt conquered second-ranked Georgia 24-20 in a Sugar Bowl thriller in New Orleans and wrote off any chance the Bulldogs might have had for the national title.

Osborne was bitterly disappointed over the loss, calling it "probably the most disappointing loss I've ever had. We had a chance to take it all. We had it in our hands and we let it slip away."

Nebraska's Big Eight kings finished the season with a 9-3 record.

Coach Vince Dooley of Georgia called Marino "truly a great, great quarterback. The tight end (Brown) made a great play, and Marino made a great play. But I don't think we can play any better. We played our hearts out to the bitter end."

Whitefaces Take Third In Basketball Tourney

BORGER — The Hereford Whitefaces are slowly becoming a finely-tuned ballclub, and the Herd swept a pair of contests over Vernon and Perryton Thursday to claim third place in the Berger Basketball Tournament.

McNaney and Gary Long also reaching double figures with 10 points apiece.

"Are we No. 1? I've been waiting on that," Ford said, rhetorically. "Are we the best team in the country? We're the only team to beat the No. 2 team (Georgia), the No. 8 team (North Carolina) and the No. 4 team (Nebraska). There ain't no one else in America that did that this year."

The combination of those decisions, coupled with third-ranked Alabama's 14-12 loss to No. 6 Texas, leaves little suspense in the race for this year's national champion. The results of The AP poll will be announced tonight.

Marino, who completed 26 of 41 passes for 261 yards, brought the Panthers back in the final four minutes after Georgia had taken a 20-17 advantage midway through the final quarter. The rangy Pitt quarterback hit Brown on a 5-yarder early in the final quarter and connected with All-American Julius Dawkins from 30 yards in the third period.

Terry Orr dashed 8 yards with 2:06 to play for Texas' second touchdown of the final quarter as the Longhorns beat Alabama in Dallas. The victory maintained Texas' mastery over Alabama, a team the Longhorns have beaten seven times and tied Bryant, incidentally, was repelled in his bid for a record seventh straight bowl victory.

California entered the Union in 1850 as a bilingual state, its constitution requiring that all laws be published in both Spanish and English.

The 'Faces raced by Vernon 69-55 in a Thursday morning game, and then shocked Perryton 41-33 in the third place battle that afternoon.

Against Perryton in the third-place game, Alan Wartes collected 15 points in leading Hereford. Long tallied 10 again, as the Herd avenged a 56-48 loss to the Rangers on Dec. 18.

No one else went undefeated, either. The Tigers finished the season with a 12-0 sweep and held on to the No. 1 position with the most tenacious grip of all. There were six other No. 1 teams who fell by the wayside in this year of crazy bounces.

The Tigers took advantage of two Nebraska fumbles in the first half, scoring on Donald Igwebuike's 41-yard field goal and Cliff Austin's 2-yard run, to take a 12-7 lead at intermission. Clemson pulled away with a 10-point third quarter and polished off the best season in its 86-year history.

It was the 11th victory in 12 games for the Panthers, who used a swarming defense to hold Georgia All-American tailback Herschel Walker under 100 yards rushing for the first time in 14 games. Walker, who scored two touchdowns on runs of eight and 10 yards, was limited to only 84 yards on 25 carries as he was stalked constantly by Pitt tackle Dave Puzzuoli.

Marino, named the Most Valuable Player in the game, said the winning play wasn't designed to go to Brown, that Pitt merely wanted to get first-down yardage on the Washington continued the Pacific-10's domination over Big 10 teams in this oldest of all bowl games, making it 11 victories in the last 13 games for western clubs.

But, it is cohesiveness to which the coach attributes the late success of the Whitefaces. "The biggest difference in our team is that we're finally learning what everybody else is doing," he explained. "We're learning where everybody else is going to be; it's still going to take a couple more weeks, but we're slowly developing into a more consistent team."

The Bulldogs lost in the finals of their own tournament Thursday night, dropping a 52-51 overtime decision to Pampa.

"We shut down their big man (Gary Rinkler)," Decker said. "That was the big thing. We denied him the ball inside, and their other kids were having trouble hitting from the outside."

Horner Jordan's TD pass to Perry Tuttle capped a 75-yard march in which the elusive junior completed all four pass attempts for 48 yards. Igwebuike, a Nigerian transfer student, closed out the Tigers' scoring with a field goal from 36 yards following Billy Davis' 47-yard punt return to the Nebraska 22.

Marino, named the Most Valuable Player in the game, said the winning play wasn't designed to go to Brown, that Pitt merely wanted to get first-down yardage on the

Against Vernon, Wayne High led the Herd charge with 14 points, but really stood out on the boards. "Wayne had nine defensive rebounds and four offensively to lead us," Decker said. "He also had three three-point plays that charged us up."

The Whitefaces will play Berger at home Tuesday with a 4 p.m. sophomore game beginning things. The JV match will follow at 6 p.m. with the varsity game set for 7:30.

"We hit some crucial baskets early that got us into the lead. He's been a really steady player for us."

"They have a great football team," said Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne of the Atlantic Coast Conference Tigers. "They certainly deserve to be No. 1."

Clemson Closing In On Championship

By HERSHEL NISSESON
AP Sports Writer
MIAMI (AP) — Top-rated Clemson probably nailed down its first national championship when the Tigers took advantage of two Nebraska fumbles in the first half, scoring on Donald Igwebuike's 41-yard field goal and Cliff Austin's 2-yard touchdown run to defeat the fourth-ranked Cornhuskers 22-15 in the Orange Bowl Friday night.

fense and the Tigers, all year long one of the nation's most opportunistic teams, took advantage of both Nebraska turnovers.

The tenacious Tigers, an opportunistic team all year, capped a Cinderella 12-0 season as the nation's most improved club in its typical unspectacular fashion — a stubborn defense and just enough offensive punch. They scored on three field goals by Igwebuike.

Clemson wanted some respect and the Tigers got it. "They certainly have a great football team," said Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne. "They certainly deserve to be No. 1."

Nebraska's explosive rushing attack, ranked No. 2 in the country at 330.5 yards a game, was held to 193. And the Cornhuskers' deadly 1-2 tailback punch of Roger Craig and Mike Rozier was fairly well contained — Craig had 87 yards on 10 carries, Rozier 75 on 15 — even though Rozier lofted a 25-yard option pass to Anthony Steels for Nebraska's first touchdown and Craig rambled 26 yards for the other.

The Tigers even did a little crowing at the expense of their detractors. "Once Nebraska or somebody like that beats you, they say, 'Welcome to the Big Eight,'" said Tuttle, the top receiver in Clemson's history, who caught five more for 56 yards. "I think the scoreboard told the story tonight, and it's a good feeling. They call the ACC a basketball conference, but this proves we can play on the same level as any conference in the country."

"With the exception of a couple of missed tackles, I thought we played a very inspired football game," Ford said. "The defense really did a job, we got a plus out of our kicking game and (Billy) Davis' punt return (a 47-yard gallop that set up Igwebuike's final field goal) took some pressure off when we were able to get some points out of it."

With more than 20,000 of its frenzied orange-clad fans among the crowd of 72,748, Clemson finally notched the victory that seems certain to earn them the national respect for which they have long yearned, plus recognition as a major power.

In fact, Clemson outgained the Huskers 289-256 in total of-

Pittsburgh Sees 24-20 Victory Over Georgia

Warner Was 'Fired-Up' For Penn State Winn

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Penn State's Curt Warner said he had plenty of incentive to play well in Friday's Fiesta Bowl.

"I got fired up to play against a good player," said Warner, who rushed for 145 yards and two touchdowns to power seventh-ranked Penn State to a 26-10 victory over No. 8 Southern Cal.

"But I really didn't set out to show up Marcus Allen at all, it just worked out that way."

The performance by Warner, a junior tailback who missed two full games and part of two others this season because of injuries, sparked. Allen, the Trojans' Heisman Trophy winner, on the other hand, was held to just 85 yards on 30 carries.

Warner carried 26 times and scored on runs of 17 and 21 yards. His first touchdown came just 15 seconds into the game and followed a Penn State recovery of an Allen fumble on the Trojans' 17.

His second scoring run gave the Nittany Lions a 24-7 advantage early in the third quarter.

The Penn State defense, controlling the line of scrimmage, also forced two fumbles by Allen, who had gained an NCAA record 2,342 yards this season. The Nittany Lions converted those two turnovers into 10 points.

"I don't like to make excuses, but I don't think we came out prepared to play," said Allen. "I really wasn't worried about how much yardage I got. If we'd passed the whole game, it would have been okay."

"Those things just happen," he added.

Penn State Coach Joe Paterno, whose team had defeated Ohio State in the last Fiesta Bowl, said he believes the Nittany Lions deserve consideration for the national championship.

"I thought the winner of this game should be No. 1," he said.

John Robinson, the Southern Cal coach, said his Trojans could seem to do nothing right, commenting:

"We were defeated in about every way. We made plenty of mistakes. It wasn't a good day for Marcus Allen, but it wasn't a good day for any of us."

The other Penn State scoring came on a 52-yard pass from Todd Blackledge to split end Gregg Garrity, a 21-yard field goal by Brian Franco in the second period, and a safety in the third quarter when Dave Paffenroth blocked a USC punt attempt and the ball rolled out of the Trojan end zone.

Southern Cal had tied the game 7-7 late in the first quarter when linebacker Chip Banks returned an interception of a Blackledge pass 20 yards for a touchdown. The other USC points came on a 32-yard field goal by Frank Jordan in the third quarter.

The victory closed Penn State's season at 10-2. The Trojans finished 9-3.

The game, the first between the schools since Southern Cal beat Penn State 14-3 in the 1923 Rose Bowl, attracted a Fiesta Bowl record crowd of 71,053 to Sun Devil Stadium.

Penn State, holding the Trojans' vaulted rushing game in check as no other team has been able to do in recent years, gave up just 60 net yards on the ground. The Nittany Lions, meanwhile, had 218 yards rushing.

Halfback Roger Jackson and tackle Leo Wisniewski spearheaded the aggressive Nittany Lion defense.

Jackson plucked Allen's fumble out of the air to set up Penn State's first score. Wisniewski recovered Allen's second fumble, with Jackson making the tackle, to set up Franco's field goal in the second quarter.

Penn State's second score was one of just two sustained touchdown drives during the game, both by the Nittany Lions. The first march covered 69 yards, with Garrity cutting in front of Trojan defensive back Joey Browner to grab the scoring pass.

Warner's second score capped an 80-yard drive that took nine plays.

Blackledge, a sophomore, finished the contest with completions on 11 of his 24 throws for 175 yards and was picked off twice.

John Mazur connected on 11 of 23 for USC, for 123 yards. He, too, was intercepted twice.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Dan Marino fired a 33-yard touchdown pass to tight end John Brown with 35 seconds remaining to give 10th-ranked Pittsburgh a 24-20 victory over second-ranked Georgia in the 48th Sugar Bowl football game Friday night.

Marino, who completed 26 of 41 passes for 261 yards, brought the Panthers back in the final four minutes after Georgia had taken a 20-17 advantage midway through the final quarter.

Marino, who finished with three touchdown passes in the game, hit Brown on a 6-yarder early in the final quarter and connected with All-American Julius Dawkins from 30 yards in the third period.

It was the 11th victory in 12 games for the Panthers, who used a swarming defense to hold Georgia All-American tailback Herschel Walker under 100 yards rushing for the first time in 14 games.

Walker, who scored two touchdowns on runs of 8 and 14 yards, was limited to only 84 yards on 25 carries as he was stalked constantly by Pitt tackle Dave Puzzuoli.

Georgia, the defending national champion, got its other TD on a 6-yard pass from Buck Belue to Clarence Kay with 8:31 left in the game. The Bulldogs finished with a 10-2 record.

Pitt's other score came in the second quarter, a 41-yard field goal by Snuffy Everett.

Georgia appeared to have the victory in hand when Pitt failed on a fourth-down fake-punt gamble at midfield with only 5:29 left to play, but the Bulldogs failed to move and were forced to punt with Pitt taking over at its 20 with 3:46 remaining.

Marino had an 18-yard pass to halfback Bryan Thomas and an 8-yard run in the game-winning drive.

The winning touchdown came on a pass right down the middle as Brown made the catch in the end zone without breaking stride.

Georgia's go-ahead march earlier in the quarter featured a 23-yard scamper by Belue and a 24-yard run by Walker on which he ran over All-American linebacker Sal Sunseri.

Walker also turned in a tackle-breaking effort to set up Georgia's first touchdown when he hauled in a short pass at the Pitt 40 and completed a 31-yard run to the 15 on which he broke through four defenders.

Georgia's first score came on a 51-yard drive after Clarence Kay recovered Tom Flynn's fumble on a punt return.

The Bulldogs also capitalized on a fumble recovery for their second touchdown when Eddie Weaver recovered a fumbled pitch out by Thomas at the Pitt 10.

Marino connected on five of six short passes for 16 yards in the drive that ended with Everett's field goal and cut Georgia's halftime lead to 7-3.

The tall quarterback moved the Panthers 80 yards with the third-quarter kickoff by completing three passes for 48 yards.

Pitt's touchdown drive early in the fourth quarter covered only 23 yards after Michael Woods recovered a fumble by Walker. Thomas had three straight runs to the six from where Marino rolled to his left and hit Brown in the end zone.

The Panthers caught Georgia's rushing defense off guard throughout the game, as Thomas hammered out 129 yards on 25 carries and fullback Wayne DiBartola contributed another 68.

The game drew a crowd of 77,224 into the Louisiana Superdome.

Georgia appeared to have the victory in hand when Pitt failed on a fourth-down fake punt gamble at midfield with only 5:29 left to play, but the Bulldogs failed to move and were forced to punt with Pitt taking over at its 20 with 3:46 remaining.

Marino also had an 18-yard pass to halfback Bryan Thomas and an eight-yard run in the game-winning drive.

New York Giants Wild-Card Longshot In NFL Playoffs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The New York Giants are a wild-card longshot in the National Football League playoffs, but San Francisco 49ers Coach Bill Walsh says, "They may be the key to the Super Bowl for us."

The 49ers, whose 13-3 record was best in the league this season, have had two weeks to prepare for the Giants, who visit Candlestick Park Sunday. New York beat the defending National Conference champion Philadelphia Eagles last weekend to reach the NFC semifinal round.

The Giants' 9-7 regular-season record included a 17-10 loss to the 49ers at Candlestick Nov. 29. No other NFL playoff entry had more than six losses. But Coach Ray Perkins' team has not lost since that game on the 49ers' soggy field. The Giants reached the playoffs, for the first time in 18 years, by scoring an overtime victory over the Dallas Cowboys, favored over Tampa Bay in this weekend's other NFC playoff game.

The Giants are 1-0 where it counts, postseason play, and the 49ers' 13-3 record and NFC West championship are in the past, Walsh has reminded his team.

If they win, the 49ers will be the host team for the NFC title game next Sunday.

An upset victory by the Giants, third-place finishers in the NFC East, would send them to Dallas or Tampa Bay.

Washington Takes Iowa, 28-0

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Washington's offense and defense surprised even the Huskies in their 28-0 Rose Bowl victory over Iowa Friday.

Washington's shutout was the first in the Rose Bowl since the University of Southern California blanked Wisconsin 7-0 in 1953. That gave the Pacific Coast its first win over the Big Ten since the two conferences began their exclusive agreement in 1947.

"I didn't expect this," said Washington sophomore quarterback Steve Pelluer, who completed 15 of 29 passes for 142 yards with one interception. "I didn't expect a high-scoring game at all. But I felt pretty good when we had a 13-0 lead at halftime."

"I didn't think we'd get a shutout, I honestly didn't," said second-team All-America defensive tackle Fletcher Jenkins of the Huskies. "Iowa's offensive line is pretty big and powerful."

It was the Washington defense's first shutout of the season and the first time Iowa was blanked this season.

"I certainly didn't expect that," echoed Washington Coach Don James. "I thought this would be a very close game."

"I think our shutout was a combination of some good defense and some good breaks."

Jacque Robinson was another Washington surprise.

The talented freshman tailback from San Jose, Calif., was named the Rose Bowl's Player of the Game with 142 yards and two touchdowns on 20 carries.

"He made us look like a poor-tackling team," Iowa's Hayden Fry said of Robinson.

"I told myself to have my best performance," Robinson said.

Robinson didn't even start the game. He finally came in for Washington junior Ron "Cookie" Jackson, who had 24 yards on eight carries in the second quarter. Robinson didn't play in the third period, either.

"The thing about Jacque," remarked James, "is that he's 30 pounds heavier (at 5-foot-11 and 204 pounds) than our other tailbacks. He can break a lot of arm tackles that a 170-pound guy can't."

"He's had some fumble problems in the past but we didn't fumble today and I was delighted."

Linebacker Mark Jerue led Washington with 13 tackles. He said one thing that wasn't surprising — at least to him — was Iowa's inability to pass.

Hawkeyes' quarterbacks Gordy Bohannon and Pete Gales completed only 10 of 21 passes for just 84 yards and had three interceptions. Bohannon had four turnovers — two fumbles and two interceptions.

Mississippi Shuts Out Kansas, 10-0

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Mississippi State "intimidated" Kansas on the opening kickoff, and the Hall of Fame Bowl was over before his football team could recover, says Jayhawks Coach Don Fambrough.

The Bulldogs shut out Kansas 10-0 in the fifth annual game Thursday, but the contest could have been called after the first 12 seconds.

Mississippi State's Rob Fesmire, an All-Southeastern Conference safety, recovered a fumble by Kansas' Darren Greene on the opening kickoff. Then on the first play from scrimmage, quarterback John Bond, the game's most valuable player, scored on a 17-yard run.

After Bond's touchdown, Dana Moore added a 22-yard field goal in the second quarter to cement the score.

"We didn't ring the bell quite enough," State Coach Emory Bellard said, "but we did move the ball down the field a good bit."

The Bulldog defense, meanwhile, refused to yield much on the ground or air. Kansas had planned to run right at State and mix in a short passing game. But the losers got only 35 yards on 40 runs, and its quarterbacks, Steve Smith and Mike Frederick, were sacked time after time.

J. Giles is an all-star

A few years ago, Jimmie Giles dreamed of someday playing in the Major League Baseball All-Star Game. But Giles changed sports.

Now he wears a Tampa Bay Buccaneers jersey. And he's going to play in a different type of all-star game: the NFL Pro Bowl in Hawaii on Jan. 31.

At 6-foot-3 and 245 pounds, Giles, a tight end in his fifth NFL season, is a quick and agile receiver and a solid blocker. He is the only Buc offensive player ever named to the Pro Bowl (he made it in 1980, too).

What about Giles and the Great American Pastime?

"Baseball is where sports all began for me," says Giles, who was the Los Angeles Dodgers' 12th-round draft pick in 1976. He spent that summer with the Dodgers' Class A minor-league team in Bellingham, Wash.

"I always felt real confident in baseball. In terms of baseball, I think being a third baseman helped develop my quickness and hand-eye coordination."

But Giles says he came to an important decision: "I could use my potential better in football."

So he returned to Alcorn State in Mississippi to finish his degree in business administration. And to play some more football.

What had made Giles turn to the gridiron in the first place?

"When I was a junior at Alcorn State, they were building the Superdome and calling it the Eighth Wonder of the World," recalls Giles about the New Orleans stadium. "Football was the farthest thing from my mind."

Then it was announced that the first college football game in the Superdome would be Alcorn State vs. Grambling.

"When I heard that," Giles says, "I got so excited I jumped straight into the air and said, 'I'm going to play in the Superdome!'"

Giles made the football team the very next day. But the Braves lost 24-3 to Grambling, which was led by now-Tampa Bay quarterback Doug Williams.

So, Giles' Superdome dream was a bit of a nightmare. Not the kind of beginning one would expect for the future Bucs all-time leader in receptions, yards and touchdowns.

After graduating from Alcorn State in 1977, Giles reported to the Houston Oilers, who had drafted him in the third round.

He was acquired by the Bucs in 1978 — the only player in a trade that gave Houston the opportunity to draft Earl Campbell. For Tampa Bay's top pick (No. 1 in the NFL in 1978), Houston traded off Giles and four draft choices.

All trades should have such happy endings.

Much of Giles' quickness and agility in the NFL may be attributed to his first love — baseball. But he trained especially hard before the 1981 season.

"I lifted weights for the first time this past off-season," says Giles. "I felt my natural strength fading a bit, and the lifting gave me more endurance. It also made me a more confident blocker. Since I'm used a lot as a blocker in our offense, I needed the extra strength to battle those big defensive ends."

The Bucs became the youngest expansion team ever to win a division title when they recorded a 10-6 mark in 1979. This season, they got into the playoffs again, as NFC Central champions on the strength of a 9-7 record.

Twenty-three players from the 1979 Bucs squad formed the nucleus of this season's squad.

"This team is much more mature than the '79 team," claims Giles. "Our biggest asset is that we have better back-ups than we did then. When one guy goes down now another steps in and does better."

According to Giles, the play of quarterback Doug Williams was instrumental in Tampa Bay's success this season.

ACC In Standing With Other Conferences After Clemson Win

MIAMI (AP) — The Atlantic Coast Conference has long been noted for its basketball teams, but Clemson wide receiver Perry Tuttle said Friday night that the top-ranked Tigers' Orange Bowl victory should go a long way towards establishing the ACC as a football power.

"We believed in ourselves. We knew what we had to do," said Tuttle, a senior from Winston-Salem, N.C., who caught a touchdown pass in Clemson's 22-15 triumph over Nebraska. "They talk about the ACC as a basketball conference, but this proves we can play on the same level as any conference in the country."

"Once Nebraska or somebody like that beats you they say, 'Welcome to the Big Eight.' Well, I think the scoreboard told the story tonight and it's a good feeling."

Bengals Going After Smerlas Full Force

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals used finesse against Buffalo Bills nose tackle Fred Smerlas in their first meeting. This time, they're going to have to block him head-on.

"When we talk about Smerlas, we talk with respect. He's one of the guys our guys really respect," said Cincinnati offensive line coach Jim McNally, himself a Buffalo native and a Bills fan.

"You've got to be able to block him. You can't finesse him all day long," said McNally.

The Bengals continued last-minute preparations Friday for Sunday's American Conference playoff game here Sunday with Buffalo.

Cincinnati used a series of collapse-blocking techniques to handle the muscular nose tackle in the 27-24 overtime victory over Buffalo in the regular season.

"We had a pretty good game plan," said Cincinnati center Blair Bush. "We kept him off-balance."

"It's absurd, with a guy that big and that strong and that good, to run right at him and not recognize his strengths," added Bush, who considers Smerlas the best in the National Football League at the position.

"That was one of my poorer days," said Smerlas of the first game. "I just didn't have the intensity," said the 270-pound strongman. "At the beginning of the year, I wasn't fired up or into it as I was later."

Buffalo defeated the New York Jets last week to stay alive as a wild card in the AFC playoffs.

Cincinnati defensive end Ross Browner has been bothered by a pinched nerve in his neck, but Coach Forrest Gregg said Browner will be able to play Sunday.

Robinson Sparks Huskies To 28-0 Win

By JACK STEVENSON
AP Sports Writer
PASADENA, Cal. (AP) — Freshman tailback Jacques Robinson provided the Washington Huskies' spark Friday, leading his team to a 28-0 victory over Iowa in the 68th Rose Bowl football game.

Robinson, a 204-pound speedster from San Jose, Calif., ran 1 yard for Washington's first touchdown and went 34 for another as the underdog Huskies regained control for the Pacific-10 over the Big 10 in Rose Bowl play.

The shutout was the first for Washington this season and made it 11 victories in the last 13 Rose Bowl games for the westerners and seven out of the last eight. Washington gained revenge for its 23-6 loss to Michigan a year ago and Iowa lost for the first time in three visits here.

The 12th-ranked Huskies finished with a 10-2 record while the Hawkeyes, No. 13 in the latest rankings, wound up 8-4.

Robinson, who said before the game he hoped to become the first Heisman Trophy winner from the University of Washington, was named the most valuable player of this game.

Iowa quarterback Gordie Bohannon was guilty of four turnovers — two fumbles and two interceptions.

Washington's second touchdown, also coming in the second quarter, was aided by a pass interference penalty against Iowa's Lou King on Aaron Williams in the end zone on a second-down play from the 19. Vince Coby then scored from the 1.

Robinson's long run brought the third touchdown and reserve quarterback Tim Cowan scored the finale on a 3-yard run. That followed a Bohannon fumble at the Iowa 18 recovered by Lynn Madsen.

Washington's solid defense was led by senior linebacker Mark Jerue, who was the leading tackler of the game.

Although it rained Thursday night, skies were clear and the field relatively dry for the game.

Robinson, who played sporadically during the season, led all rushers this New Year's Day with 142 yards on 20 carries.

Washington sophomore quarterback Steve Pelluer hit 15 of 29 passes for 142 yards for the Huskies, who went into the game 2½-point underdogs to the Big Ten champions.

Washington drove 65 yards in 11 plays for the first touchdown as Robinson gained 34 in seven carries. The big play was a pass from Pelluer to Anthony Allen for 34 yards. Washington drove again later in the second quarter, going 60 yards in eight plays after taking over at their own 40 with just 1:35 to go.

The touchdown for Coby was justice for him, since he'd been on the Washington squad five years, once as a redshirt, and never played in the Rose Bowl although his club had been here three times in the past five years, winning twice.

Fullback Norm Granger was the leading ground gainer for Iowa with 80 yards in 13 carries. Bohannon completed just six of 14 passes for 33 yards.

The game lived up to its previews as a defensive struggle, but it was the Huskies who took advantage when their defense provided opportunities.

Beating The Odds

Mountaineers' Victory A 26-6 Upset

ATLANTA (AP) — On paper, Florida was a prohibitive favorite over West Virginia in Thursday's Peach Bowl game.

But the Mountaineers claimed after their 26-6 upset victory that they never believed that analysis. Nor did they believe an article in an Orlando, Fla., paper which said West Virginia's participation in the game would set the Peach Bowl back 30 years.

Several West Virginia players said after the convincing victory, which was sparked by a pair of touchdowns by tailback Mickey Walczak and four field goals by freshman walk-on kicker Paul Woodside, that they believed Florida had little respect for them.

"I spent some time with some of the Florida players this week," said one West Virginia player, who didn't want to be identified. "You could tell they didn't respect us. They felt like all they had to do was go out and play the game."

West Virginia Coach Don Nehlen read the Florida newspaper article to his team before the game.

"We haven't had any respect at all," said Woodside, who wrote letters to a number of colleges last year, asking for an opportunity to walk on as a kicker.

"We weren't supposed to be on the same field with a team from the great Southeastern Conference," said quarterback Oliver Luck, who wound up his record-setting career by completing 14 of 23 passing attempts for 107 yards and a touchdown. "They felt West Virginia was some Ivy League school or something."

Nehlen, in his post-game comments, repeatedly referred to the fact that West Virginia was given little chance. "Thank goodness our team never felt like that," he said.

West Virginia ends the season with a 9-3 record, its best record since an identical mark in 1975, when the Mountaineers beat North Carolina State 13-10 in the Peach Bowl.

Years' Biggest News Stories Came From Bullets Of Assassins

By DAVE GOLDBERG AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — In a year in which the biggest news came from the barrel of assassins' guns, the attempt on President Reagan's life has been voted the top story of 1981 by Associated Press editors and broadcasters.

Reagan, his press secretary James Brady, and two other men were wounded in the shooting March 30. The story edged out the return of the American hostages after 444 days of captivity in Iran.

The Top 10:

1. The attempt on Reagan.
2. The return of the hostages.
3. The Sadat assassination.
4. The attempt on the Pope.
5. The new conservative administration in Washington.
6. The American economy; the budget and tax cuts of Reaganomics; high interest rates and recession.
7. The flights of the space shuttle Columbia.
8. The air traffic controllers strike and their dismissal by Reagan.
9. The appointment of Sandra Day O'Connor, the first female Supreme Court justice.
10. Developments in Poland.

The runners-up were stories about the wedding in England of Prince Charles and Lady Diana; the deaths of 113 people in the collapse of a walkway over a dance floor at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Kansas City; the strike that eliminated a third of the baseball season; the arrest of a suspect in the two-year run of deaths and disappearances of blacks in Atlanta, and Israel's bombing of Iraq's nuclear reactor.

The ballots were compiled before the Polish government's declaration of martial law and the breakdown of Solidarity. The vote was on the preceding unrest and conflict attending the rise of Solidarity.

Votes were tabulated by 10 points for a first place vote, nine for second down to one point for tenth place. The vote for first was one of the closest — the shooting of Reagan finished with 5,246 points to 5,224 for the hostage story.

The Top 10 stories:

The Attempt on Reagan
At 2:25 p.m. on March 30, the president was leaving the Washington Hilton Hotel after addressing the AFL-CIO Building Trades Council when six shots were fired at him from close range. Before Reagan was pushed into his limousine, by Secret Service agents, he was hit in the side below the left arm. A bullet penetrated Brady's brain. A Washington police officer and a Secret Service man were also hit.

Police and agents seized John Warnock Hinckley Jr., 25, son of a well-to-do oilman from a Denver suburb. Authorities described Hinckley as "wandering, aimless and irresponsible." In a series of letters to teen-aged actress Jodie Foster he said his unrequited passion for her might lead him to do something which would make him famous.

2. The Return of the Hostages

Since Nov. 4, 1979, when Muslim fundamentalist militants seized the American Embassy and its occupants in Tehran, the fate of the hostages preoccupied America. That was so up to the final moments on Jan. 20, 1981, when the hostage release upstaged the inauguration of the new president.

Jimmy Carter had hoped that he could leave office with the hostages free. After several weeks of convoluted negotiations revolving around the transfer of Iranian financial assets held in American banks, it appeared a deal was set for Jan. 19, the day before Ronald Reagan was to take office. After several near-misses, it was finally closed shortly after 3 a.m. on Jan. 20.

But the Iranians had the last laugh on Carter. The 52 hostages were held at Tehran airport until after noon EST, when Reagan took the oath of office, and it was the new president who announced their release.

3. The Sadat Assassination

On Oct. 6, President Anwar Sadat of Egypt and most of his Cabinet were watching Egypt's Armed Forces Day Parade when four men in military uniforms jumped from a jeep and began throwing grenades and firing automatic weapons. Stunned guards seemed frozen as the assassins charged the reviewing stand, killing Sadat and leaving carnage in their wake.

4. The shooting of the pope

Pope John Paul II was greeting pilgrims from his jeep in St. Peter's Square on May 13 when he was shot by Mehmet Ali Agca, a 23-year-old Turk who authorities said had connections to right-wing terrorist organizations. Two American women were wounded in the attack.

The 61-year-old Polish-born pontiff was hit in the stomach but was sufficiently recovered within a day to take Communion and listen to mass. He spent three months in and out of hospitals.

5. Reagan Takes Over

It was probably the sharpest reversal in the course of government since 1932. Reagan, a man of conservative principles, became president and proceeded to cut taxes, government spending, particularly in social programs, and to beef up the defense budget. The latter was in line with a new hard-line anti-Communist approach to international affairs.

6. The Economy

If Reaganomics steered a new economic course for the country, the economy itself seemed as balky as ever. Inflation eased to a rate below double digit, but interest rates soared to a new high in midyear before easing a bit. Unemployment climbed to over 8 percent.

7. The Space Shuttle

On April 12, the space shuttle Columbia, designed as a reusable space cargo ship, roared into space from Cape Canaveral, Fla., with astronauts John Young and Robert Crippen aboard. The flight went smoothly and the Columbia became the first fixed-wing space vehicle to land itself when it touched down at Edwards Air Force Base in California 54½ hours later.

In November, when Joe Engle and Richard Truly took the Columbia on its second flight, it was delayed several times, then halted after 54 hours and 13 minutes — three days early — when a fuel cell broke down.

8. The Air Traffic Controllers' Strike

It was another example of the Reagan administration following through with action on conservative principles. When 12,000 members of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers' organization walked off the job Aug. 3 in a dispute over pay and working conditions, Reagan gave them one day to return to work. When they didn't, he fired them.

Public support was clearly lacking for the controllers, who averaged $33,000 a year in salary. They predicted dire consequences. But with supervisors and new recruits filling their spots, there were none.

9. Sandra Day O'Connor

During the 1980 campaign, Ronald Reagan pledged to name a woman to the U.S. Supreme Court. When Justice Potter Stewart announced he was stepping down, Reagan had the opportunity. He named Sandra Day O'Connor, a 51-year-old Arizona appeals court judge, to become the first woman on a court where 102 men have served.

10. Poland

For most of the year, events in Poland were as they had been since the rise of the Solidarity union movement in the summer of 1980: strike, negotiation between union and government, liberalization, a government shakeup. Then a repeat of the cycle. And above it all hovered the specter of Soviet intervention.

But it wasn't the Soviets who intervened, it was the Polish government and military. On the evening of Dec. 12, tanks rumbled in Warsaw. Martial law was declared and union leaders and dissidents were rounded up. Strikes were met by force.

Foreign Briefs

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) —

East Africa's largest-circulation newspaper on Friday accused President Reagan of bringing African-American relations "to their lowest level for many years."

In an editorial, the independent Daily Nation said Reagan demonstrated "how inconsequential Africa was to his administration" when he ignored the continent completely in his New Year's message on all major global issues.

"In spite of all Reagan rhetoric about cultivating closer ties with Africa and extending the bond of friendship, the administration in Washington has publicly only chosen stands opposed to those supported by Africa in all major issues," the paper said.

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) —

Israeli troops killed 205 Palestinian guerrillas, most of them in Lebanon, during military action in 1981 while losing six Israeli soldiers, the military command said in a year-end report issued Friday.

The report said 250 guerrillas were wounded in the action, while 26 Israeli soldiers were wounded.

Authorities in Lebanon have given much higher casualty totals from Israeli military action. They say more than 300 were killed in one attack, when Israeli jets bombed Palestine Liberation Organization headquarters in Beirut last July.

TOKYO (AP) —

A high school baseball coach burned to death on his school playing ground early Friday in an apparent suicide following an argument with his team about smoking, police reported.

Police said the body of Yoshio Miyauchi, 35, was found in a fire-demolished van on the ground of the Washimiya High School north of Tokyo. They said he had called his wife on New Year's Eve asking her to "take care of the children" and then set his vehicle on fire after dousing it with kerosene.

Miyauchi, known for his devotion to baseball, reportedly had a falling out with his team on Dec. 28 after he caught six players smoking at a winter training camp. He told them that he could not coach such players and said he was quitting, police said.

Bright And Brief

LAWTON, Okla. (AP) —

Comanche County District Attorney Dick Tannery says he will ask that a grand jury be called next week — even though there's nothing in particular to investigate.

"I personally believe we should have one every couple of years to keep up the people's faith in government," he said. "We haven't had one since 1976, so I feel it's already past time to have one."

He said Thursday that in light of the bad publicity county commissioners are getting in Oklahoma, it would be good to "clear the air" in Comanche County.

More than 150 commissioners, former commissioners and equipment suppliers have agreed to plead guilty in a massive federal probe of kickbacks to county officials.

"I have reason to believe that none of our current county commissioners will be touched by that," Tannery said. "I believe we have an honest county government, and the people need to know that in light of all the headlines."

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) —

Betty Wilkinson knows exactly how much junk mail her household got in 1981 — 200 pounds.

The 57-year-old keypunch operator said she collected enough "occupant-resident" junk mail to fill four 30-gallon plastic trash bags.

"We called the mailman in yesterday," she said Thursday. "He just laughed and laughed. Then he told us he delivers to 700 households in our neighborhood. That means 200 pounds multiplied by 700 for our neighborhood alone."

The grandmother of five said other family members

"just figured I was a little kooky but they let me go ahead" with the scheme.

"I've been wanting to do this for years and years but someone would get to the mail before me and throw it out," she said.

"You wouldn't believe the things I got," she said. "If I bought all the insurance I was offered, I'd be insured for a billion dollars!"

She'd been offered pecan groves in Georgia, apple groves in Washington, magazine subscriptions, clothing, and even a chance to be a miracle healer who could rub headaches away.

The Consumer Alert
by Mark White
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Once the Christmas season has passed consumers often are faced with the returning or exchanging of gifts.

Although most consumers expect to be able to return or exchange their gifts with little or no problems, this may not always be the case.

Most merchants will accept an exchange of merchandise, as a form of customer service, but stores are not legally required to exchange merchandise, refund money or give the customer a store credit on their purchase, unless the item is not as represented or the item is found to be defective.

It is recommended that before a consumer makes a purchase, especially one that entails a large sum of money, they inquire about the store's "refund and exchange" policies on gifts purchased. All merchants have their own return or exchange policies, and consumers may find some merchants are more restrictive in their policies than other merchants which they have dealt with in the past.

When purchasing items such as swimsuits, under-garments or intimate apparel, the consumer should be especially certain that the correct size is purchased. For the protection of the purchaser, these items are all sold on an "All Sales Final" basis and are not returnable or exchangeable.

Consumers may avoid problems or delays in seeking refunds by following these recommendations:

—Return goods in their original packages.
—Take all your sales or charge receipts, price labels and tags with you.

—Return items to the department where it was purchased or to the service desk designated for refunds.
—Explain your reason for returning merchandise.

—Should problems be encountered regarding your refund, ask to speak with either the Department or Store Manager.

In the event that the problem can not be satisfactorily resolved and you feel an adjustment is due, contact your local Better Business Bureau and Attorney General's Office.

The first airmail service in the U.S. began May 15, 1918. The first such stamp cost 24 cents but was reduced within the year to six cents.

Columbia Heralds New Era

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The launch and return of the space shuttle Columbia heralded a new era in manned spaceflight.

A flight in April and another test seven months later highlighted a busy 1981 in space — a year in which Voyager 2 transmitted spectacular photos of Saturn and the Soviet Union continued aggressive manned and unmanned programs in space.

For the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Columbia's maiden voyage was one that long had seemed almost unattainable, as engineers struggled for years with the technology needed to get a reusable spaceship off the ground.

But for 54 hours in April, those problems were mostly forgotten as astronaut John Young, making a record fifth space trip, and Robert Crippen rode the shuttle into orbit, guided it flawlessly through its paces and brought it home. It was the first time men have landed a winged spacecraft on Earth like an airplane.

Columbia was designed to make 100 or more round trips. Proof of its reusability came in November, when the 100-ton craft roared off launch pad 39A at Cape Canaveral, Fla., carrying astronauts Joe Engle and Richard Truly on a planned five-day test.

Trouble struck when a power-producing fuel cell went bad, and Mission Control halted the flight after a little more than two days.

By cramming their work schedule, Engle and Truly were able to achieve about 90 percent of their goals, including successful tests of a 50-foot mechanical arm that will deploy and retrieve satellites.

The shuttle journeys ended a six-year drought in U.S. manned spaceflights. If plans hold, 1982 will be busier — with Columbia and its sister ship, Challenger, beginning cargo-carrying missions.

American experts estimate the Soviets are at least 10 years away from developing a reusable spaceship as sophisticated as the shuttle. But, using well-tested hardware, the Soviets launched 43 men into space during the past six years, and sent six cosmonauts aloft on three flights in 1981 to link up with the Salyut 6 space station.

After the last 1981 mission, the Soviets said they were retiring Salyut 6, which was home for 16 crews over 44 months. They indicated a Salyut 7 station would be orbited in 1982 and that it could form the nucleus of a 12-to-14-person laboratory by 1985.

American analysts believe the large Soviet station will be used as a military command post for surveillance and weapons testing.

After the final cosmonauts left Salyut 6, the Soviets linked the unmanned Cosmos 1,267 satellite to one of its docking ports. Defense Department sources reported the satellite is the prototype of an anti-satellite battle station that could be equipped with weapons capable of blasting U.S. spacecraft out of the sky.

The United States also is developing killer satellite weapons, and the Pentagon is working on designs for a manned orbiting command post.

The Soviet Union maintained a vigorous unmanned space program in 1981, launching nearly 100 satellites compared with about 20 for the United States. Among them were two ships destined for March landings on Venus.

Voyager 2 was the year's most productive spacecraft, swooping within 63,000 miles of Saturn in August and relaying startling pictures and information.

Among its tentative findings: —The environment of Saturn, a giant 700 times the size of Earth, is so complex that it is producing phenomena that cannot be explained. Instead of a few rings as was once believed, the planet is circled by uncounted thousands. The planet's moons total at least 17, and scientists suspect there are more.

—Puzzling forces on Saturn seem to keep the rings and moons in foment, producing unexplained gaps and spokes. —Golden clouds on the gaseous body are whipped by 1,000 mph winds.

After Saturn, Voyager 2 sailed on a path that will permit it to explore Uranus in 1986 and Neptune in 1989.

Voyager 2 marks an end to an era of U.S. planetary exploration. A pinched budget has forced NASA to cancel several robot probes in favor of the shuttle. Only one new planetary launch is scheduled in this decade — the Galileo project to orbit Jupiter in 1987 — and it too might be axed.

Woman Hangs Self In Cell

RICHARDSON, Texas (AP) — A 25-year-old Waco woman, arrested for assaulting a police officer in this Dallas suburb, managed to slip off handcuffs and chains and hang herself, authorities said.

A Dallas County medical examiner Friday ruled a suicide the death of Annette Greenwood Shabazz.

Ms. Shabazz was arrested shortly after 11 p.m. Thursday when an officer saw her running east in the path of westbound vehicles on a Richardson road. When the officer slowed down, she leaped onto the hood of his patrol car, police said.

When the officer, Wayne Dobbs, struggled to pull her off the hood, she grabbed his .45-caliber automatic, pointed it at him and pulled the trigger several times, police said. But the gun did not fire because they safety was on.

During a struggle with Dobbs and two other officers who arrived to help subdue her, Ms. Shabazz yelled, "Kill me, kill me!" police said.

Ms. Shabazz was placed in a cell in handcuffs and shackles while officers tried to contact a peace justice to obtain a mental health warrant to transfer her to a hospital psychiatric ward, police said. When they were unable to locate a peace justice, officers notified a hospital and were instructed to take her to the drug abuse ward.

But when an officer entered the cell, he found Ms. Shabazz nude and hanging from the door keyhole.

According to a police statement, the woman removed her handcuffs and waist-chain and took the ratchet end of the handcuffs and crammed it into the keyhole in the inside of the door.

She then "wrapped the chain around her neck several times and sat down."

"The weight of her body was not enough to cause strangulation so she apparently, with great effort, repeatedly and forcefully pushed her throat against the chain," the statement said.

Tests were being conducted to determine whether Ms. Shabazz was under the influence of drugs at the time of her death, said Eve Gray of the medical examiner's office.

Ann Landers Anonymous Poem Is Full Of Wisdom

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My sister sent this to me. It appeared in the church bulletin in a small town in Oregon. I hope you will think it is good enough to print. I got a lot out of it.—Edna D. In Eugene, Ore.

DEAR EDNA: So did I. Here it is. Sorry we don't know who wrote it. I like to give credit when it's due.

Be understanding to your enemies.

Be loyal to your friends.

Be strong enough to face the world each day.

Be weak enough to know you cannot do everything alone.

Be generous to those who need your help.

Be frugal with what you need yourself.

Be wise enough to know that you do not know everything.

Be foolish enough to believe in miracles.

Be willing to share your joys.

Be willing to share the sorrows of others.

Be a leader when you see a path others have missed.

Be a follower when you are shrouded by the mists of uncertainty.

Be the first to congratulate an opponent who succeeds.

Be the last to criticize a colleague who fails.

Be sure where your next step will fall, so that you will not stumble.

Be sure of your final destination, in case you are going the wrong way.

Be loving to those who love you.

Be loving to those who do not love you, and they may change.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A letter to you regarding adopted children searching for their natural parents has been on my mind for years, and it was finally written to you by the lady from Illinois. I'd like to add my two cents to hers to emphasize how strongly we natural mothers feel about having this gaping wound from the past opened up—for that's exactly what it is.

Please, Ann, don't abandon this cause — too many lives would be torn apart. We can never form an organization, as the adoptees have, to publicly express our views. So I, for one, am depending on you to fight for our right to confidentiality, which we thought was assured.

And now a question. I am so upset over the possibility of being contacted that I have considered writing to the adoption agency to request that this never be done and to keep that request in my file. Would this be a deterrent to any effort to find me?—Uneasy Mother

DEAR MOTHER: You can count on me not to let you down. I will continue to support the parents who raised the child no matter how many clubs spring up.

My advice is do NOT contact the adoption agency. A wise motto to keep in mind at all times is this: "Never stir up anything if you want it to stay settled."

Blakely, Artho Exchange Vows

Red poinsettias, a unity candle, and a pair of spiral candelabra strewn with greenery decorated St. Anthony's Catholic Church Saturday afternoon for the wedding of Lisa Joy Blakely and Dennis Raymond Artho of Vega. Deacon Kenneth Artho officiated at the marriage ceremony with Father Xavier Butler performing mass.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. R.L. Blakely and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Artho, both of Hereford.

Wedding music was provided by Cheryl Betzen, organist, and Carmen Flood, who sang "The Lord's Prayer," "Wedding Song," and "Whither Thou Goest." Serving as candle lighter was Mark Artho, son of Joe Artho of Hereford.

A Seven-Point Plan

By LOUISE WALKER
County Extension Agent

Decided to save money and energy by lowering the thermostat setting—but now your feet are cold?

Don't blame the thermostat or your feet or your socks!

Attack the situation with a seven-point plan, remembering the thermostat setting is only one of seven factors that influence thermal comfort.

Comfort also depends on clothing, radiant heating, humidity, activities, drafts, each different room and your own physical fitness—all working against each other or together, depending on you.

1) THERMOSTAT SETTING can work for you ONLY IF the area in which the thermostat is actually located has the same conditions as the room(s) you want heated, housing experts tell us. Check each room's temperature. Close off unused rooms to enhance the heating of in-use rooms, if necessary.

2) CLOTHING offers an insulative value, so take advantage of this. Wear layers of relatively thin clothing. Air will be trapped between the layers and warmed by body heat. As you warm up, Polly Robinson of Brady was maid of honor and Archie Crim of Stamford was best man.

Bridesmaids included Barbara Jacks of Tulsa, Okla., Mrs. Rhonda Artho, sister-in-law of the groom from Dumas, and Mrs. Janis Artho, sister-in-law of the groom from Amarillo.

Groomsmen were Stephen Artho, Mike Artho of Dumas, and David Artho of Amarillo. Serving as ushers were Rowan Alexander of Tulsa, Dennis Schilling, Arlin Woehl of San Angelo, and Jim Lawson.

The flower girl was Jennifer Brorman, daughter of John Brorman of Adrian. Joseph Artho, son of Joe Artho, was ring bearer.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white all-over embroidered lace designed with a high sheer victorian neckline. Her closely fitted bodice was overlaid with lace, and the long, full, sheer sleeves were caught up at the wrist in deep cuffs. The skirt fell into a deep scalloped V-hemline which swept to back fullness and extended into a chapel length train. Satin underlining enhanced the sheer lace of the gown.

She wore a matching lace coil designed with a mantilla type veiling of lace which fell to floor length, and carried a bouquet of white roses and carnations accented with navy ribbon and lace.

The bride's attendants wore floor length smoky blue velour gowns with round necklines and bows at the waist. The full three-quarter length sleeves were accented with lace and navy velvet ribbon. They carried white longstem carnations.

Following the wedding ceremony, a dinner and dance were held at the Knights of Columbus Hall. A silver candelabrum with carnations and greenery decorated the serving table, which held the three tiered wedding cake featuring a blue fountain surrounded by five heart shaped cakes.

Julie and Jeanne Brorman served cake, punch, and coffee. Becky McGilvary registered guests.

For her trailing costume, the bride chose a mauve velvet skirt and jacket with matching mauve silk blouse. Following a wedding trip to Colorado, the couple will be at home in the Ford Community, north of Hereford.

The bride graduated from Hereford High School in 1979 and attended Texas A&M University. She is currently attending West Texas State University, where she will graduate in May with a degree in Elementary Education.

The bridegroom is a 1977 graduate of Hereford High School and a 1981 graduate of Texas A&M University, with a degree in Agricultural Economics. He is currently employed with Hereford Grain in Vega.

Out of town guests attending the wedding included Catherine Batenhorst, grandmother of the groom from Canyon, and Mary Batenhorst, great-grandmother of the groom from Umbarger. Other relatives and friends attended from Dalhart, Vega, San Angelo, Lubbock, Brady, Stratford and Dallas.

whenever necessary to maintain comfort. If you've followed the seven-point plan, a simple solution to changing comfort problems may be as close as your closet.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Cummings, Crume Repeat Vows

The First Baptist Church of Stephenville was the setting for the wedding of Georgia Lee Cummings and David Lynn Crume on Dec. 19. The Rev. Steve Graham of Fairbew, Okla. officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Joe Cummings of Stephenville, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Crume of Hereford.

Jo Joiner, pianist, presented traditional wedding music prior to the ceremony. Ernie Turley and Cathy Bennett, both of Stephenville, sang "Endless Love," accompanied by Mrs. Joiner, after the mothers of the bride and groom were seated.

For the processional, Mr. Turley sang "For Baby, For Bobby" and accompanied himself on the guitar.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother and father, wore a bridal gown of white silk chiffon that featured a Queen Anne neckline. The bodice, made of French imported lace, fell to a natural waistline with a peplum back. The skirt flared out to a chapel length train, and the sleeves were a split bishop style.

Her veil was a Juliet cap trimmed in lace that fell to a chapel length. The bride carried a cascading bouquet of camellias, fuchsia, stephanotis and white peach blooms, accented by pink and mauve grosgrain ribbon.

Before proceeding to the altar, the bride gave her mother a rose. The altar was marked by a white lattice that was trimmed with cedar boughs and wine satin bows. Candelabras were at either end of the lattice.

As something old, the bride carried her great-grandmother's lace handkerchief. Something new was her bridal gown. Something borrowed was a pair of pearl earrings, and something blue was a garter worn by the bride's mother in her wedding.

Jana Cummings, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Best men were Cheryl Anderson of Gorman and Debbie Giles of Stephenville.

Each of the attendants wore identical floor length gowns made of wine quiana fashioned with an attached capelet of sheer net and nylon, lace trim and schiffli embroidery. They carried clutches of pink peach blossoms, miniature phalaenopsis orchids, and mauve and burgundy morning glories. They wore a matching wreath of flowers in their hair.

The bridegroom was attired in a white tuxedo with a pink carnation boutonniere. Glen Elliott of Lubbock served as his best man. Groomsmen were David Steele, of Stephenville, and Wayne Schumacher of Dallas.

Ushers were Chuck High of Lindale, Kevin Warren of Farmersville, and Lonnie McMillan of Cisco. The attendants and ushers were attired in black tuxedos with pink carnations and heather boutonnieres.

For the ceremony, the mother of the bride chose a floor-length gown of burgundy quiana. She wore a wrist corsage of mauve orchids. The groom's mother wore a floor-length gown of rose pleated chiffon with a corsage of mauve orchids.

Mrs. Harriet Cummings, grandmother of the bride from Littlefield, wore a floor length blue chiffon gown. She also wore a corsage of mauve orchids.

During the recessional, Mr. Turley sang "Follow Me." The bride and groom lit a unity candle from two smaller taper candles before proceeding up the aisle. The bride also presented a long stemmed rose to her new mother-in-law.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. Mrs. Connie Fitzgerald presided at the guest table.

The bride's table, attended by Delette Jenkins and Anne Peele, featured a four-tiered white cake trimmed with rose, pink and mauve icing. The cake was topped by a miniature bride and groom which was used at the wedding of the bride's parents.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID LYNN CRUME
...nee Georgia Lee Cummings

The punch, served from a crystal bowl, was a fruit slush punch. Nuts and mints were served from crystal appointments.

The groom's table, attended by Judy Mason, held trays of cheese, nuts, finger sandwiches, and a German chocolate cake. The table was decorated with Christmas greenery and a burgundy colored candle.

Members of the house party were Mrs. Jesse Tackett, Mrs. Conley Jenkins, Mrs. Ronnie Giles, Mrs. John P. Jones, and Mrs. James Rucker.

For her going away outfit, the bride wore a velveteen wine jacket over a silk cream blouse. The skirt was a wool plaid of wine, cream, and blue. The outfit was accented by a corsage of mauve orchids. The groom wore gray slacks and a burgundy sweater. His boutonniere was a mauve carnation.

Following a short honeymoon trip, the couple will be at home in Fort Stockton, where the groom is employed as a teacher and coach.

Out of town guests were Messrs. and Mrs. Kenneth Berg, Denton; Jackie Meredith, Belton; Gwynne Owen, Cedar Creek; Roger Owen and children, Waco; Bobby Owen, Hereford; Scot Harrison, Cleburne; Logan O. Cummings, Austin; John W. Lander, Rawlins, Wyo.; John P. Jones, Glen Rose; Taylor Virdell, Llano; Don Jones and family, and Delbert Dodds, all of Lubbock; Dan Smalley and Johnny Gann, all of Ranger; and Charles Peele, Hamilton.

Others were Jack Cummings and Linda Cummings, both of Piquayune, Miss.; Jenny Hanawalt, Houston; Pauline Galvez, Mineral Wells; Jack Bohner, San Antonio; and Margaret Moody, Fort Stockton.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

Last week, I began shivering uncontrollably. My mouth became dry. I could not concentrate. My nerves were like a cavity exposed to an ice cube.

Then I realized why. I had gone through an entire day without seeing Brooke Shields. The withdrawal symptoms were predictable.

It brought back memories of an overdose of Farrah Fawcett in 1978, and of 1979, when I picked up a magazine that did not have John Travolta on it and I couldn't stop crying.

Every year, the media blitz in on someone and we are saturated with all there is to know about them. In some instances, the depth of the person deserves no longer than 15 minutes, yet week in and week out they create a supply of facts for which there is no demand.

For eight months once I followed closely the dating habits of Princess Caroline of Monaco. I knew what time Caroline got up in the morning, who she was with, what they did and what they were charged with. I should have known so much about my own daughter.

At one time, I kept pace with every move of Jacqueline Onassis. She didn't floss without my knowing about it. Then it was Marie Osmond who dominated my life and last year, the face that made pork a four-letter word: Miss Piggy.

For awhile, I didn't think I could survive Miss Piggy. She had her own TV show, wrote books, guested on talk shows, appeared on the cover of Time and every other major publication while her likeness was reproduced on glasses, pillows, sheets, cocktail napkins, toothbrushes, stationery, posters, T-shirts, ashtrays, banks, bookends, beach towels and bumper stickers. I was a full-grown woman who couldn't face the morning news without coffee from a mug with a pig in a blonde wig, for God's sake.

I know more about Brooke than any person has a right to know. People have entered a marriage knowing a lot less. I thought a long time, before we planned a trip to South America for a vacation. What if they had never heard of Brooke Shields? How could I handle ten no-dimple-no-Calvin Klein days?

Over Rio, my palms began to sweat and itch. I needed a drink of water. I felt lightheaded. Then I saw a man next to me thumbing through a Portuguese newspaper. I saw a small face surrounded by fat hair and said out loud, "Thanks. I needed that."

I could make it through the night now.

Lamaze Classes

Begin Jan. 11

Lamaze classes will be starting Jan. 11 for those with due dates through March. They will run from 7-9 p.m. each Monday evening. There will be a fee of $25 charged for the seven week course, and classes will be held at the new location of the Church of the Nazarene, at La Plata and Ironwood.

Anyone interested in pre-enrolling for the class is asked to call Penny Jessup at 364-6435.

To Be Married

Mr. and Mrs. Lucio Blea, Jr., 330 West Second, announce the engagement of their daughter, Kathy, to Eugene Lucero. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lucero, 703 Thunderbird. The couple plans to be married on Friday, Jan. 29 at the Primera Iglesia Bautista Mexicana. The prospective bridegroom is presently employed at A&A Coating Company. They plan to reside in Hereford after the wedding.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hacker announce the engagement of their daughter, Sonya Marla, to Larry Joe Bagwell of Carrollton, Tex. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bagwell of Snyder. The couple is planning a Feb. 27 wedding in the First Christian Church of Hereford. The bride-elect graduated from Hereford High School in 1978 and attended Texas Tech University. She is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority, and is a recent graduate of Braniff Education System. The prospective bridegroom is a 1973 graduate of Snyder High School, where he was valedictorian. He graduated in 1975 from Western Texas College in Snyder with an A.A.S. Degree in Management, and is a member of Phi Theta Kappa Honor Society. He is presently vice-president of Mister Penguin Tuxedos of Dallas.

County Spelling Bee

Set March 4-5

The 1982 Deaf Smith County Spelling Bee has been scheduled for March 4-5 in the basement of the Deaf Smith County Library.

The Junior Bee will be held at 1 p.m. on Thursday, March 4 and the Deaf Smith County Bee will be held at 1 p.m. on Friday, March 5.

Winners of the county bees will compete in the regional bee in Amarillo on April 24.

The regional champion will leave for Washington, D.C. on June 6 to compete in the 55th national event.

The Scripps-Howard National Spelling Bee is sponsored regionally by the Amarillo Globe-News. Copies of the 1982 "Words of the Champions" practice spelling book may be picked up at Griffin Real Estate or by calling 364-1251.

Red Cross Update

By BETTY HENSON
Executive Director
A world wide campaign to raise more than $6 million dollars for the Polish Red Cross in Poland has been launched. The funds are to help low income, elderly, and young children in Poland. ARC national headquarters announced an initial donation of $100,000 to the program, and urged more than 3,000 local chapters in the United States to answer the appeal for funds.

Red Cross action was taken in response to a call by the League of Red Cross Societies in Geneva, Switzerland, to its worldwide memberships to assist the Polish Red Cross with relief efforts. The Polish Red Cross has responsibility for 50,000 low income, aged and handicapped persons and for 20,000 children from families with social problems for at

FFA, 4-H Booster Club To Meet

The Deaf Smith County FFA and 4-H Booster Club will meet Tuesday, Jan. 5 at 7:30 p.m. in the Lounge of the Community Center.

Plans for the upcoming stock show will be discussed. On the agenda are discussions of the Parade of Champions and solicitation of donations.

All parents of local 4-H and FFA members are urged to attend. For more information, contact Herb Vogel at 364-5680 or Sue Powell at 357-2577.

least a four month period. Because of the high cost of transportation, the American Red Cross stressed that financial assistance is the most effective way of meeting the needs of these vulnerable groups. The funds will be transferred to the League, which will purchase food, clothing, blankets and other items.

The shipments will go to specifically designated Red Cross warehouses in Warsaw, Wroclaw Lodz, Gdansk, Krakow, Krosno and Wloclawek for distribution to individuals. Checks should be made out to the American Red Cross earmarked Polish Emergency Relief and sent to the Deaf Smith County Chapter, Box 1371, Hereford, 79045.

The Disaster Committee is collecting clothing and household items for the Keith Gooch family. The sizes of clothing are: children-girls, size three, and boys, size six; adults-ladies, size 14 and size 31-34 pants; and medium shirts for men. Call the office at 364-3761 to have items picked up or bring items by the office at 101 Ave. E.

Couple Honored With Reception

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald L. Vaughn were given a reception Tuesday night, Dec. 29 in honor of their recent marriage. The reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the First Church of the Nazarene, Ironwood and La Plata, and was hosted by the ladies of the church. Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. E.L. Vaughn of Pasadena, Tex.

Gerald Vaughn and Sandi Aileen Boss were married Nov. 7 in the Youth Chapel on the grounds of the PTL Heritage Village, USA, Charlotte, N.C. Their attendants were Debbie Gillard of Charlotte and Daniel Olson of Hereford.

Guests at the afternoon ceremony included Glenda Vaughn, mother of the groom, and Steve and Travis Vaughn, brother of the groom, all of Hereford; and Mabel Hicks, of Guymond, Okla., grandmother of the groom.

The bride is the daughter of Leon and Diane Boss of Charlotte. She is a graduate of Olympic High School and Central Piedmont Community College.

The bridegroom is the son of Loyd and Glenda Vaughn of Hereford. He is a 1978 graduate of Hereford High School and attended West Texas State University. He is currently employed by PTL Christian Network, Charlotte.

The couple is presently residing at 9313 Sprinkle Lane, Charlotte.

Bozeman Retires As Pastor Of Temple Baptist Church

By LINDA CAUDLE
Family News Editor

The Rev. J. L. Bozeman and his wife, Evelyn, are being honored today on his retirement from the pastorate of Temple Baptist Church. Church members will host an appreciation and retirement luncheon for the Bozemans immediately following the morning worship service, during which special testimonies will be shared.

Former members of Temple Baptist Church, as well as friends from other churches which Bozeman has pastored, will be in attendance also. Bozeman is retiring after over 30 years in the ministry.

The Bozemans came to Hereford on Oct. 1, 1966, and he has pastored Temple Baptist Church for the last 13 years. "We have seen a lot of things happen in the time we've been here," comments Bozeman, "and count it a real privilege to have served the fine people of Temple Baptist Church these past 13 years."

While working in the oil fields, as he had for about 16 years prior to becoming a minister, Bozeman married his wife in Lubbock, where she was going to school. He was originally from Mexia, Tex., and she grew up in Houston. The couple celebrated their 42nd wedding anniversary on Dec. 21.

The Bozemans have one daughter, Mrs. Larry Heard. Her husband is pastor of the First Baptist Church in Idalou, Tex. They have three children, Rick, James, and Amy.

In 1949, shortly after his conversion, Bozeman began pastoring. He has been pastor of Northside Baptist Church in Kermit, Tex.; First Baptist Church in Frankel, Tex.; Inspiration Point Baptist Church in Ft. Worth; and First Baptist Church in Plains, Tex. He graduated from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in 1959.

In past years, Bozeman has served in Baptist state work, and since living here he has held several positions with the Amarillo Association of the Baptist General Convention. Among these are vice-moderator, and positions on the budget committee, the camp committee, and the evangelism committee.

Bozeman has also been a trustee at High Plains Baptist Church.

Willborn Selected District Head Of McMurry Fund Drive

Herbert Willborn of Amarillo has been named chairman of the Amarillo District of the McMurry College Annual Fund Drive. Kickoff for this area is Jan. 12.

The First United Methodist Church in Dumas will host volunteers from area churches to assist in the fundraising event. Time for the luncheon meeting is scheduled for 12 noon.

A dinner meeting is also scheduled for Jan. 12 at 7 p.m. at St. Paul United Methodist Church in Amarillo. Another meeting is set for 7 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 13 at the First United Methodist Church in Hereford.

Funds raised by the volunteers provide sustentation for the teaching efforts of McMurry College, a four-year liberal arts school established in 1923 in Abilene.

McMurry is owned and operated by the Northwest Texas and New Mexico conferences of the United Methodist Church, which includes the Amarillo, Dumas and Hereford areas.

Mr. Willborn is a member of the McMurry board of trustees.

Goodbyes were given to Brenda Garcia, who is moving soon to Wichita, Kan. Following the program, refreshments were served by Gina Streun and Rachel Coleman. Special recognition was given to Angela Streun, who designed the cover sheet of the program; and to Eva Lookingbill, Cynthia Streun, and Lacy Driver for furnishing refreshments.

The Bozemans have chosen to stay in Hereford after their retirement. They have moved from the parsonage to their home on 235 Star, and have been busy remodeling and adding on a garage. They like Hereford and have made many friends here.

"One of the highlights of our time here has been to see the spiritual growth of our congregation," says Bozeman. "Several members of our church have gone to be missionaries and pastors during the time I've been pastoring here."

After retirement, Bozeman plans to be available for interim and supply pastoring, and wants to continue going on crusades and Bible conferences, as well as revivals. "I want to continue enjoying the fellowship of people here, and would like to preach when I have the opportunity to do so," he adds.

In addition to these activities, Bozeman plans to continue with his hobby of printing. He acquired an old printing press almost ten years ago, and has been doing invitations, forms, letters, and other items for about eight or nine years. He didn't know how to work the press when he first bought it, but with the help of a church member, he has been perfecting the art.

Evelyn enjoys sewing, cooking, and working with church activities. She has done youth work for the Baptist Association in past years, and has worked with children in the various churches with which they have been involved.

She has served as church hostess at Temple Baptist Church for the past five years. This job involves planning church parties, fellowships, socials, receptions, and other events.

J.L. BOZEMAN

Evelyn has also held various offices in the Women's Missionary Union.

One of the highlights of Bozeman's pastorate here was when church members planned a special "This is Your Life," inviting about 30 people from the Bozeman's former churches to come and participate. "Church members prepared dinner for all of us, and we had a wonderful time of reminiscing together," says Bozeman.

Christmas Eve Program At Frio Baptist Church Successful

The Christmas Eve program at Frio Baptist Church was well attended. Mrs. Weldon Stephan was in charge of the program. Several people from out of town who were here visiting relatives came also, bringing children for the program and to see Santa, who always appears to visit and pass out presents to the children.

The Lon Connors and children, Josh and Micah, of Mesquite, were among the visitors. They were enroute to Amarillo to be with relatives for the holidays. He was pastor at Frio Baptist Church in 1975. The Connors visited the T.L. Sparkmans also.

Olagene West and daughters, Donna West and Linda Moore and her husband, Gary, spent the holidays with Olagene's mother, Mrs. Blanche Baldwin and the Eugene Baldwins. Mrs. Baldwin's sister, Vi Keene of Levelland is also visiting there. Olagene and Donna are from McAllen and the Moores live near Ker-ville.

Here for the holidays with Marguerite Cole and Bill and the John Paetzolds were her daughters, Mrs. Herman Vinson, her husband, and daughters, of Childress; also Cheryl and Sal D'Amato and daughter of Oklahoma City, and sister, Nell Miller. They all spent part of the weekend with Marguerite's mother, Mrs. Gladys Mobley. The Earl Renos, of Midland, were here to be with the family group also.

On Saturday, Mrs. Mobley and Mr. and Mrs. Reno went to Friona to visit relatives, Mrs. Bud Smiley, who was visiting her daughter, Mrs. Muri Massey. Mrs. Smiley is Mrs. Mobley's sister-in-law.

With the Manions for the holidays were their daughters, Billye Cagle, her husband, Gary, and daughter, Amanda, of Oklahoma City. Mr. and Mrs. Mike Mayes of Oklahoma City also came. The Gregg Jones and Jay Manion completed the family group. Mr. and Mrs. Jones are repairing their home, which was heavily damaged by fire some time ago and hope to move into a section of it in the next few days. They will continue to work on the remainder after moving.

The Rev. and Mrs. E.C. Branch of Fredricksburg visited Frio Church Sunday.

He gave both the morning and evening sermons. They were guests of the Tommy Sparkmans for lunch.

Here with the Ted Caros for the holidays was his mother, Mrs. Pauline Caro of Van; the Caro's daughters, Sonie of Plainview; Denie, a teacher at Canadian; and Cindy, who is moving from Portales to Dimmitt. She will be employed with Dimmitt's KDHN radio station beginning Jan. 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Bearden of Avery, spent the holidays with her sister, Mrs. Lloyd Shultz and her husband. There for the weekend also was a son, Dennis Ashby, his wife, Linda, and their daughter, Kim, of Lubbock. On Christmas day, Joe Shultz and sons, Joe Ky, John Lloyd and Justin of Plainview, came for the day. Mrs. Joe Schultz is still recovering from recent eye surgery and following treatment.

Visiting the Charles Sells during the weekend was Debbie Stringer, of Santa Paula, Calif. She is the daughter of Buck and Willa Mae Stringer and lived here a few years as a child. She is now principal of a private Christian school in Santa Paula. Miss Stringer is a graduate of Wayland Baptist College in Plainview. She attended church at Frio Sunday with the Sells.

Mrs. Vada Axe's children, the Tommy Needhams of Amarillo, and the Frank Ethingsons of Dimmitt were here during the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Andrews, Lynette Andrews, and Mrs. Lucille Berryman spent the holidays with the Rocky Andrews in Carthage, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Andrews visited her parents, the Harold Closes, in Tyler during the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Haseloff, Rockport, spent all of Christmas week with their daughter, Mrs. Joe Andrews and family.

Ann Zetzsche, of Corpus Christi, spent the holidays with her parents, the George Zetzsches. Cay, the Zetzsche's other daughter, is here for the semester break from her studies at Texas Tech.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Barber spent the holidays with their son, Jimmy, and his family in Memphis, Tenn.

The Rev. and Mrs. Gene Tone and Tim spent several days with their daughters and aunts in Odessa during the holidays.

The Robbins family spent the holidays together, with the whole family gathering at Lake Kickapoo, near Archer City, on Dec. 26. Mr. and Mrs.

Frank Robbins and Scott went from here early in the week and visited their son Jerry and family at Archer City. Scot remained with the Jerry Robbins the remainder of the visit.

Frank and Ruth then visited their other children, Genie and Allen Burkhalter and children, Ft. Worth; Patty Robbins, Dallas; and Ruth's sister's family, the Glen Edwards, at Tyler. The Gene Cotton family of Amarillo met them, as did the Steve Robbins of Lubbock, and all were present at the lake house site. That event was hosted by the Jerry Robbins.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Walton recently moved into Hereford. They have lived in the Easter community since before they were married in 1925, she having moved there with her family in 1923 and he coming in 1919. They had only moved once before. Neighbors helped them with this move to Fir Street. They farmed their place most of these years, having rented it to others since Mr. Walton retired from active farm work a few years ago.

The Billy Warricks had their children home for Christmas; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Warrick and Brock, of Plainview, and Raymond Warrick of Amarillo. On Sunday, they went to Plainview to help the grandson celebrate his first birthday.

Mrs. Jerry Maeder and children, Danny, seven, Jennifer, two, and Catherine, six months, arrived Dec. 21 from Panama to stay here until Mr. Maeder is stationed in San Diego, probably in March. The Maeders have been in Panama about three years with the navy.

Mrs. Maeder is former Linda Blackburn, daughter of the Arthur Blackburns. The two youngest girls were born since they have been in Panama, and the Blackburns had not seen them. They had a very special Christmas together this year (an understatement!)

Here for the long Christmas holidays were Mr. and Mrs. Les Draves and Randy, of Alamosa, Colo. They were visiting her parents, the Elza Warricks and sister, Mrs. Floyd Neil and family. On Christmas day they were all at the Neil home, and in the afternoon the Billy Warricks and their visiting sons and family came up to be in the family gathering. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Zorns, of Friona, also joined the others on Christmas Day.

Mrs. Christine Pettyjohn, Larry and Roy, all of Phoenix, were here during the holidays visiting her father, Otto Olson, and brother, Lloyd Olson, and his family, and other relatives.

Thursday night will be the New Year's Watch in Frio Baptist Church. Activities are planned from 10 p.m. through the midnight hour.

Holt Adds To List Of Best-Sellers

By DIANNE PIERSON
County Librarian
THE JUDAS KISS by Victoria Holt heads the list of new books available this week at the Deaf Smith County Library. THE JUDAS KISS is the latest addition to Holt's unbroken string of international best-sellers. She is one of the most popular authors in the world.

Holt's twentieth novel, an exciting tale of intrigue in the Bavarian Alps, takes the reader to the Grand Duchy of Bruenstein, where lovely Francine Ewell has eloped with her suitor, Baron Rudolph, heir to the throne. Pippa, her younger sister, is left behind to face the wrath of their grandfathers, autocratic master of Greystone.

Pippa's only solace is that soon she will join her sister in the Bavarian Alps. But abruptly her sister's letters stop and Pippa stumbles upon a newspaper clipping that tells of a murder in a faraway country—the victims are Rudolph of Bruenstein and his mysterious companion, a beautiful Englishwoman.

Pippa sets off across Europe to seek the answer to her sister's fate...but she also finds adventure, romance, danger, and her own fate. Other bestselling novels of Victoria Holt's are THE MAKE OF THE ENCHANTRESS, THE SPRING OF THE TIGER, and MISTRESS OF MELLYN. Victoria Holt dominates the field of romantic suspense.

HEAT by Ed McBain also heads the list of new books. Ed McBain returns to his mastery of the police procedural story in his thirty-fifth 87th Precinct novel.

Why would any man, however deranged, take an overdose of sleeping pills and then calmly turn off his air conditioner with the city sweltering through a backbreaking heat wave? This question nags at Detectives Bert Kling and Steve Carella.

Kling's got other problems: his wife is almost certainly cheating on him, and he is being stalked by a psychopathic ex-con. While Carella scratches away like a terrier at the "suicide," Kling grows less and less capable of coping.

In a shattering triple climax, the tinderbox elements converge. Ed McBain makes it clear that there can be no real winners here, except for the reader. HEAT is a delightful mystery that will hold its readers spell-bound.

LITTLE GIRLS LOST by Doris Shannon is a terrifying thriller in the tradition of FLOWERS IN THE ATTIC and WHERE ARE THE CHILDREN? In a tiny town in the middle of Canada, three young women vanish. Two are wealthy—all are orphans. Bess Porter, a well-known novelist and recluse, dabbles in detective work. When she takes the case on, she keeps the reasons to herself.

In a deserted house on the edge of town, briefly inhabited by an odd and secretive family, the first body is discovered. LITTLE GIRLS LOST suspends its unrelenting and with this book, Doris Shannon establishes herself as an undisputed master of the genre.

Tomorrow Deadline For Nominations

Tomorrow is the deadline for submitting nominations for 1981 Woman of the Year, a title bestowed upon one woman each year by the Women's Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

Nominations can be brought by the Chamber of Commerce office until 5 p.m. tomorrow.

Anyone may submit a nomination for consideration. Submitter does not have to be a member of the Women's Division. The nomination does not have to be signed, but must be in a sealed envelope, which will be opened by the secret committee.

The woman nominated should be a member of the Women's Division, and such things as volunteer work for the Women's Division, other community work, charitable work, church activities and youth work are factors to be considered.

The secret committee will not consider things done for which the individual was paid to do her regular job.

Woman of the year will be named at the first general meeting of the Women's Division, which has been set for Jan. 12. New officers will also

Mummers Tradition Seeing A Change

By LEE LINDER Associated Press Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tradition falls hard for the Mummers, who have been parading longer in America than anyone else, and this year, more women than ever before will be among the prancers, dancers and strutters on New Year's Day.

The greatest attention centers on Dorothy Plies, a 21-year-old banjo player, the first woman captain of a string band.

"It shouldn't create any problem, but there are going to be plenty of guys who are not going to like it," said Bud Geisler, president of the 49-member South Jersey String Band.

He said Ms. Plies was named captain because "our theme is Mickey Finn's Ragtime Review, and Mickey was a famous banjo player in San Francisco back in the '30s. She won't be out in front just looking pretty, she will be playing."

South Jersey is one of 24 string bands participating in what is billed as America's longest parade, a million-dollar extravaganza expected to last nearly 12 hours.

Women first cracked the all-male Mummers ranks about five years ago, breaking in as band musicians, or as part of the production numbers that highlight the musical themes.

"I don't like to talk about it," says Fred Calandra, president of the Philadelphia New Year's Shooters and Mummers Association, the formal organization of the various string bands. "I don't approve of women being in the parade, but I guess it has to be."

"Showtime at the Copacabana."

Ken Stein, one Hegeman member, pointed to the slit gown on a sketch of the showgirl costume and made the pitch against using guys for gals.

"If we used real girls, yes, they'd look gorgeous, but no way," said music director John Pignotti Jr. "This band has never paraded with girls, not in 62 years."

While parading took place for more than two centuries, with neighborhoods later putting up some small prizes in the 1890s, Philadelphia's first formal City Council-sanctioned parade was held in 1901 with about 2,500 revelers.

Every year since there have been more satins, more silks, more sequins, more feathers, more bands and more participants.

On Friday, for the 82nd official march, a total of 25,842 people, including about 300 women, will cavort to the parade's theme "Oh Dem Golden Slippers" in competing for $315,100 in prizes, the largest amount ever put up by the city.

It started with $6,500 in 1915.

The official parade was canceled only twice — in 1917 because of an influenza epidemic, and in 1934 because of the Depression. However, the marching went on informally in the blue-collar neighborhoods of South Philadelphia where mummery's roots never died, and the parading never stopped.

There also have been a few postponements because of snow or rain, in order not to ruin the expensive costumes which, by tradition, cannot be used a second time.

It takes an average of $25,000 to outfit a string band, and the top prize, given by judges picked by the city's Recreation Department, is only $7,700.

The rest of the money is raised through raffles, dances, and public appearances.

Unlike other parades, like those celebrating the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif., the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City, or the Macy's Thanksgiving extravaganza in New York, there are no commercial sponsors, no commercial floats, no big out-of-town stars or bands. Everything is done in the Philadelphia area, by and for the participants.

Mummery, American-style, is older than the United States. The seeds were sown by Swedish and German settlers who prowled the Philadelphia waterfront in the late 1600s, ringing bells and pounding pots to scare away demons at the start of a new year.

Over the years, the shenanigans accelerated and the revelers donned masks and costumes and began shooting guns as they went house to house seeking a kiss or a glass of good cheer.

"They had the tendency to do these things, and they passed them on to their children," says Calandra. Many old-time Mummers still like to be referred to as "New Year Shooters."

In 1793, a Quaker lady thought she had the answer to the satire and masquerading in the name of the Greek mythological god of ridicule, Momus.

"They are now practicing the foolish custom of firing out the old year," she wrote in 1793. "May the next be spent to good purpose by those who are spared to see the end of it."

Others claim mummery began with the Roman festival of Saturnalia, when Rome's laborers were freed from work and allowed to cavort in masks in a binge of satire.

The Mardi Gras traces its roots to Philadelphia mummery. The first torch-and-float Mardi Gras parade in Mobile, Ala., in 1827 was organized by Pennsylvania-born Michael Krafft who founded the "Cowbellion de Ratkin Society" which later shifted to New Orleans.

Republicans Requesting New State Senate District Boundary Lines

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Republicans are asking State District Judge Herman Jones to do what an expert on legislative redistricting claims, a state judge has never done before — draw new state Senate district boundary lines.

The expert, Austin lawyer Steve Bickerstaff, has been hired by Attorney General Mark White to help defend the plan adopted by the Legislative Redistricting Board.

A hearing is scheduled Tuesday on a suit by state GOP chairman Chester Upham and six Republican senators that challenges the plan.

"A state court has never before drawn legislative districts," Bickerstaff said.

As an indication of how political redistricting is, two of the GOP senators are seeking statewide office, and apparently all five Democrats on the redistricting board will be running statewide in 1982.

Board members White and Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong have announced for the Democratic nomination for governor; Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Comptroller Bob Bullock are seeking reelection; and House Speaker Bill Clayton is expected to announce for land commissioner this month.

seats. State Democratic Party chairman Bob Slagle said, however, the GOP could lose four seats.

Clements vetoed the new Senate districts approved by the Legislature. That veto gave the board the job of drawing districts for 1982 elections.

"The one that I vetoed was tragic. The one put forward (by the board) is tragic," said Clements.

The board also drew new districts for state representatives after the Texas Supreme Court had invalidated the Legislature's House plan.

House and Senate plans are being challenged in a federal suit set for trial Jan. 18 before a three-judge panel in Dallas. That lawsuit, also filed by Republicans, consolidates a suit in San Antonio against the House plan and a Dallas suit against the Senate plan.

Republican Gov. Bill Clements stated, "I have said when the time comes I will make an issue of this in the various campaigns of the individuals involved. There is a price that is going to be paid by the people who advocated that plan."

The board adopted the Hobby plan, 4-1, and the lieutenant governor called it "fine from a legal point of view."

The House Study Group said the "best estimate" is that Republicans would lose three of their eight Senate

Flynt Claiming Veterans Used By Hanoi Government

INDIANAPOLIS — The National Commander of The American Legion, Jack W. Flynt, of Dimmitt, has soundly criticized the visit to Hanoi of four Vietnam War veterans. Saying the group, headed by Robert Muller, Executive Director of the Vietnam Veterans of America, Inc., were used by the Hanoi government, Flynt said.

"It is obvious now that the Hanoi regime exploited the Muller group which was ill-equipped to deal with the crafty communists. It is a pity that this sorry episode has been added to the unpleasant memories and frustrations still lingering in the hearts of so many fine young men and women who fought for their country in Southeast Asia."

I can't imagine any of the 700,000 Vietnam veteran members of The American Legion applauding Muller's laying a wreath at the tomb of Ho Chi Minh. Nor can we understand how he can say "it's obscene to think what we dumped on these people." Has he forgotten what the North Vietnamese dumped on their countrymen in the south; how they treated our POWs; what they are doing today to their own people, to the Cambodians and Laotians?

And what about the families of the many Americans still unaccounted for? If Hanoi is sincerely interested in helping account for those still missing, it would allow the specially trained U.S. recovery teams to do their work, not simply provide lip service for the TV cameras. It is unforgivable to use the plight of these poor people in such a propaganda venture.

Texas Politicians Spend '81 Preparing for '82

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas politicians spent most of 1981 getting ready for 1982.

The 1982 elections, highlighted by Gov. Bill Clements' re-election drive, will determine the depth of Republican gains with Texas voters that was first signaled by Clements' win in 1978, followed by Ronald Reagan's sweep of Texas in the 1980 presidential election.

Although labeled an "off political year," with no primary or presidential elections, 1981 had plenty of political happenings.

These included:
— Reshaping congressional and legislative districts as dictated by the 1980 census and at the same time satisfying current and would-be candidates.

— A voters' decision on seven proposed state constitution changes that turned largely into a political argument.

— A late 1981 scramble to announce for the 1982 races.

The redistricting efforts of the 1981 Legislature are still in federal and state courts, contested by Republicans and minorities. Whether they will be settled by the Feb. 1 filing deadline is questionable. Some suits may be appealed to higher courts.

The Texas Republican Party's challenge of state senatorial redistricting goes before a state district judge in Austin on Tuesday.

A federal court test over legislative redistricting, both Senate and House, is set for trial Jan. 18 in Dallas.

Results of an Austin federal court trial on congressional districts have not been announced.

Under the congressional redistricting plan, first approved by the Legislature, Republicans expected to pick up four more seats making a total of nine GOP congressmen from Texas, which now has a total of 27.

There are estimates the 1983 Legislature will include about 50 new Senate and House members, much of the change caused by redistricting. The normal turnover is about 80 or 35 in the House and only a few in the Senate.

Numerous other political changes were proposed to the 1981 Legislature but only one major act passed.

The successful bill, by Speaker Bill Clayton, would tighten statutes concerning contributions to political candidates. A candidate would have to report any contribution of more than $50 cash or check.

For a while it appeared there would be a big legislative fight over changing primary election dates from May and June to July.

The big interest issue in the Nov. 3 constitutional amendments referendum was one that would allow half of the state's surplus revenue to be earmarked for future water projects. It was originated by Clayton and supported by Clements. Opponents called the proposal "funny money" and "pay now-plan later." Voters defeated it decisively.

Another amendment would let the governor and top legislative leaders exercise more control over budgets set for state agencies by the Legislature. It also failed by a wide margin.

Even before the November election, would-be candidates got itchy feet and many declared themselves into the 1982 races.

At the end of the year, it appeared Clements would be challenged in November of 1982 by the winner of a hot Democratic primary race featuring at least three well-known officials — Attorney General Mark White, Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong and Sen. Peyton McKnight of Tyler.

Texas Republicans will get a chance to select their nominee for U.S. Senate from said he would veto it if passed.

Clements recommended a bill that would allow a five-state regional primary in the 1984 presidential election but neither the House or Senate approved.

A bill to allow a candidate's name on more than one party's ballot was quickly killed by the state Democratic committee.

Another bill that failed to get a vote in either house was one to allow non-partisan election of state judges.

And there was no enthusiasm for a move that elections be held on Sundays, as is done in some Northeast states.

General Mark White, Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong and Sen. Peyton McKnight of Tyler.

Texas Republicans will get a chance to select their nominee for U.S. Senate from a three-man primary race to face Democratic Sen. Lloyd Bentsen.

Other late 1981 announcements include hot Democratic races for agriculture commissioner, land commissioner and attorney general.

Something new in political maneuvers was added just before the year's end, when newly inaugurated Secretary of State David Bonior proposed that private sponsors help pay for the 1982 election.

Bonior said the 1981 Legislature appropriated only $5.5 million for the election, then raised the pay of election workers to make the total cost about $9.5 million.

Dean asked private business and individuals, including organized labor, to make up the expected $1 million deficit. Donators would get a tax writeoff, if the IRS agrees.

'60 Minutes' Snatches No. 1 Rating Slot

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS' "60 Minutes" was back on top in the week ending Dec. 27 as the No. 1 program in prime time, grabbing the spot from another CBS show, "Dallas," which was pre-empted Christmas night, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed.

The programming maneuver that cost the network "Dallas" for a week didn't seem to hurt, though, as CBS listed eight of the week's 10 highest-rated shows and won the three-way competition for the fifth straight week. It was CBS' eighth finish at the top in the 12 weeks of the new TV year.

"60 Minutes" now has been No. 1 four times in the last five weeks, while "Dallas" — last season's top-rated program — has finished first six times.

The rating for "60 Minutes" was 29.9. Nielsen says that means of the nation's homes with television, 29.9 percent saw at least part of the program.

CBS' average rating, meanwhile, was 16.7 to 15.9 for ABC and 12.8 for NBC. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the period, 16.7 percent of the country's TV-equipped homes were watching CBS.

The rating for NBC was the lowest for any network this season, and it came despite a good showing by "Little House on the Prairie," which finished fifth.

The only other Top 10 show not on CBS was ABC's "Monday Night Football" finale between Oakland and San Diego, which finished 10th.

The highest-rated of the season's new programs was ABC's "Fall Guy," in 19th place, which CBS scored with "Bill," a "GE Theater" special, which finished in a tie for sixth.

NBC had four of the week's five lowest-rated programs, beginning with a movie, "The Man in the Santa Claus Suit," No. 65. "NBC Magazine" was 66th, followed by "Best of the West" on ABC, and two NBC shows — "High Hopes: The Capra Years," and a "Project Peacock" repeat, "Donahue & Kids."

Here are the week's 10 highest-rated programs:

- "60 Minutes," with a rating of 29.9 representing 24.3 million homes, "Alice," 24.5 or 20.1 million, "The Jeffersons," 24 or 19.7 million, and "Archie Bunker's Place," 22.7 or 18.6 million, all CBS; "Little House on the Prairie," 22.4 or 18.3 million, NBC; Movie: "Bill," and "M.A.S.H.," both 21.5 or 17.6 million, both CBS; "One Day at a Time," 21.3 or 17.4 million, and "Trapper John, M.D.," 21.2 or 17.3 million, both CBS, and "NFL Monday Night Football," Oakland vs.

San Diego, 21 or 17.2 million.

The remainder of the Top 20:

- "House Calls," CBS; "Fantasy Island," ABC; Movie: "Shampoo," ABC, and "Private Benjamin," CBS, tie, and "Love Boat," "John Denver and the Muppets Christmas Special," "Hart to Hart," "Three's Company," "Fall Guy" and "Too Close for Comfort," all ABC.

WHO AM I?

They call me "Jaws." Why? I'm known for talking plainly. That makes me controversial. So what I want to help my sport grow. It's certainly been good to me. I've earned more than $2 million — for more than 30 victories.

LET FAITH CONSOLIDATE YOUR NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS

As the season of fun and festivity draws to a close, let us give some serious thought to a worthwhile task which most of us have undertaken rather half-heartedly at this time every year, despite our good intentions. Driven by a natural impulse to turn over a new leaf in our lives as well as on the calendar, we compile our annual list of personal reforms and even try to follow it for a few days before consigning it to limbo along with its predecessors. This year for a change, try simplifying it into one all-encompassing resolution: to attend the Church of your choice regularly throughout the coming year. If you will do so and try to live by the lessons you learn there, this will be the only New Year's resolution you'll ever need.

"Be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God."
— Romans 12:2

I'll turn over a new leaf. — Miguel de Cervantes

Top Sales, Bottom Income, Smuggler's Paradise

By MACK SISK Associated Press Writer

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — This is a boom town for some, a bust town for others. And it's paradise for smugglers.

It is a boom town because Laredo leads all metropolitan areas of Texas with $20,149 in retail sales per household, second only to town Casper, Wyo., in all of the United States.

At the same time, it is a bust town for many because its work force ranks second from the bottom in Texas in per capita income at $5,109.

The disparity can be explained by the volume of sales made to both rich and poor Mexicans who jam the downtown area and malls daily to purchase goods, which are shipped legally or smuggled by various methods into Mexico.

Businesses in Laredo, across the river from Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, like those in other border cities, are enjoying an economic boom linked to new-found prosperity in Mexico, while at the same time many of its 93,000 residents live in depressed conditions.

Mexicans come by plane, train, car, bus, bicycle and on foot to pack millions of dollars worth of goods across the Rio Grande, creating a dichotomy of wealth and poverty.

Each morning, streets and malls are littered with discarded sacks, boxes and labels where Mexicans have bought new clothing, stripped out the brand tags and worn them back across the bridge — some with as many as a half dozen sets of clothing on at one time — to avoid paying any taxes when they cross the bridge.

Some Mexicans can be seen donning new shoes and purposely scuffing them to make them look worn, or stuffing clothing into empty suitcases they bring. Others simply pay a bribe to Mexican customs officials to look the other way when they cross with U.S. products.

Other impoverished Mexicans can be seen at used clothing stores picking through six-foot tall piles of tatters looking for something suitable to wear.

While so many Mexicans come to shop that parking and walking space is at a premium on the narrow streets of Laredo, others cross the Rio Grande each day to work at minimum wage throughout the city, helping depress wages.

It all has to do with supply and demand. There's a short supply of affordable goods for people in Mexico, which has a 30 percent inflation rate. And there's an oversupply of people looking for work, because unemployment ranges up to 50 percent in some areas of Mexico.

Smugglers profit in such an environment.

Each night five or six converted military cargo planes laden with television sets, stereos and other goods destined for Mexico fly out of the Laredo International Airport. The planes are back again the next day, empty.

"They (smugglers) are moving Japan to Mexico," said a local U.S. Customs official, who asked that his name not be used. But the U.S. Customs Department says it is the responsibility of Mexicans — not Americans — to stop the smuggling.

Raul Gonzalez Galarza, the Mexican Consul General in San Antonio, said it's illegal to export electronic equipment into his country.

"The importation of television sets is prohibited by the (Mexican) Department of Commerce," Gonzalez Galarza said. "That is the reason the price in Mexico is higher than in the United States. Knowing the difference in price, they take advantage of the situation and they smuggle not only televisions, but all kinds of electronic equipment."

He said his government has stepped up efforts to curtail electronics smuggling and maintains such illegal importations are down 30 to 40 percent this year, "but still smuggling is a big problem."

Merchants in Laredo have come to rely heavily on sales to Mexicans.

Without them (Mexican shoppers), we wouldn't have bread and butter," said Amelia Cervera, manager of a women's clothing store in River Side Mall. "If something happened between our two governments, I don't know what we would do."

"I'd say 85 to 90 percent of our customers are from Mexico," said Alex Becerra at a record shop. "They buy top 100 albums, and I'd say 90 percent of them pay cash."

"Practically everybody who comes in here is from Mexico," said Federico de la Garza, a clerk at a shoe store.

"They buy big boots, shoes and clothes. They don't buy anything in Mexico because of higher taxes there and higher quality here. Everyone's from Monterrey. We don't get hardly anyone from Nuevo Laredo."

Laredo's business boom began about four years ago when Mexico discovered massive petroleum reserves. Since then Laredo's population has increased by nearly 10 percent.

From 1977 to 1979, according to Chamber of Commerce figures, Laredo's retail sales increased by 41 percent — the highest increase in the state. During the same period, automobile sales increased nearly 35 percent at a time other areas reported drastically reduced sales.

The boom was enhanced by the discovery of a mammoth natural gas field in Webb County that saw a 200 percent increase in production of from 39 million thousand cubic feet in 1974 to nearly 113 million thousand cubic feet by 1978.

Laredo, founded in 1755 is the busiest U.S. port of entry on the Mexican border and is a conduit for 26 percent of all trade between the two countries, said Lee Gardner of the Chamber of Commerce.

A recent survey of 802 Texas cities by state Comptroller Bob Bullock showed

Laredo's one percent sales tax produced $6,884,210 during 1981, up 32.4 percent from the year before, twice the state average.

Sales taxes also were up in the border cities of McAllen, 36.96 percent; Pharr, 32.32 percent; Mission, 19.25 percent; Hidalgo, 27.24 percent; Brownsville, 31.4 percent; and Eagle Pass, 31.06 percent, Bullock's survey showed.

At the same time, McAllen-Pharr-Edinburg reported the lowest per capita income in Texas at $5,034, Laredo was second lowest with $5,109 and Brownsville-Harlingen-San Benito was third with $5,731.

This compared with a statewide per capita income level of $9,513.

Mayor Aldo Tatangelo said he is optimistic that the retail prosperity in Laredo will continue, but at the same time he is pessimistic that anything will happen soon to change the depressed wage structure because of the city's proximity to Mexico's cheap labor supply.

"Mexicans are our biggest customers, 70 percent," the mayor said. "Downtown, especially, all of the stores are programmed for the Mexican buyer. I'm very optimistic about Laredo. We have tremendous potential because of geography."

Today In History

Today In History By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, Jan. 3, the third day of 1982. There are 362 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Jan. 3, 1961, the United States severed relations with Cuba.

On this date: In 1921, India's first session of parliament convened.

In 1942, Japanese troops began the siege of Bataan in World War II.

In 1967, Jack Ruby, the slayer of presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald, died of cancer in Dallas.

And in 1980, President Carter asked the Senate to refrain from action on the SALT II arms treaty because of Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

Ten years ago: With the Nixon administration wage and price controls in effect, the AFL-CIO said it would report every retail price increase to the Internal Revenue Service as a possible violation.

Five years ago: The International Monetary Fund granted the largest loan in its 30-year history — nearly $4 billion for Britain to bolster its currency.

One year ago: Iranian radio broadcasts said it was "improbable" the 52 American hostages would be freed before President-elect Ronald Reagan took office. As it turned out, the release coincided with Reagan's inauguration.

Today's birthdays: actor Ray Milland is 74; former Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal is 56; hockey great Bobby Hull is 43.

Thought for Today: "Curses are like processions. They return to the place from which they came." — Giovanni Ruffini, Italian writer, 1807-1881.

FARM NEWS

Farm Rebound Predictions About One-third Short

WASHINGTON (AP) — A year ago, the Agriculture Department predicted farmers' income would rebound in 1981 and retail food prices would jump sharply. They were wrong. Farmers' net income for 1981 will wind up close to the depressed level of 1980, and food prices will end the year up about two-thirds as much as forecast.

farmers say falls short of providing adequate price supports for major commodities. The huge crops of 1981, including record harvests of corn, wheat and soy, are a blessing and a curse for thousands of farmers.

harvests were large, recovering as did most commodities after the drought-shrivelled 1980 harvests. When the domestic and world economies weaken, those commodities suffer with the rest.

the previous two years, are caused in part by farmers taking it on the chin financially. In 1979, net farm income, after adjusted for the value of farm inventories, rose to $32.7 billion. Farm income dropped in 1980 to $19.9 billion, after adjustment.

Suspended Soviet Negotiations May Be Prize, Not Punishment

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's decision to suspend negotiations for a new long-term grain agreement with the Soviet Union could wind up working to the advantage of the Soviet government he's trying to punish.

Soviet Union. The Soviets have permission to buy up to 23 million tons in 1981-82. If Reagan does not permit a new grain agreement before the current one expires next Sept. 30, one result will be the transformation of the Soviet Union into just another customer of the American farmer.

that the current multi-year accord puts restrictions on how much grain the Soviets can buy. It authorizes a maximum of 8 million metric tons a year unless the United States approves a higher level for a specific year, as it did this fiscal year, and requires the Soviets to buy at least 6 million tons a year.

year; 15.7 million in the third; and were heading for even larger quantities the fourth year. But on Jan. 4, 1980, then-President Carter decided to punish the Soviet Union for its actions in Afghanistan.

Wheat Farmers To Try Africa

WASHINGTON (AP) — A scheduled trade mission of high-level U.S. officials to Africa next month is an opportunity to help boost wheat sales to that part of the world, says U.S. Wheat Associates Inc.

tion, scheduled Jan. 8-21. It is to be headed by Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige and Agriculture Secretary John R. Block.

In the first year, which began Oct. 1, 1976, the Soviet Union took about 6.1 million metric tons of wheat and corn.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Union and the United States agreed to extend the current agreement another year — until Sept. 30, 1982 — so there would be plenty of time to work out a new agreement.

Exacerbating the situation for many farmers are decisions by the Reagan administration and Congress to trim federal spending, including programs that provide massive federal aid for rural areas.

The research department of DeKalb frequently surveys farmers for information on acreage and estimated yield. Recently the chemical company asked questions about soil tillage practices compared to that of five years ago and found some interesting results.

Over half of over 1,500 respondents are tilling the soil less, while 44 percent have not changed. States where over half the respondents have cut back on tillage include Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana and Illinois—the very heart of the Corn Belt.

Farmers Tilling Soil Less

By definition, no-till includes planting directly through a growing or chemically-killed crop or through the residue of a previous crop with no plowing and little or no prior tillage of any sort.

Schanzenbach, of Selby, S.D., said in a statement issued by the organization's office here that Africa is "one of the largest undeveloped markets" for U.S. wheat and that the trip is "a unique chance to make high level contacts" in some of the countries that have the greatest market potential.

Nigeria, for example, has increased its imports from 894,000 metric tons of wheat four years ago to 1.2 million tons in 1980-81, with the United States capturing about 80 percent of the market, he said.

Thereafter, with the United States giving its approval for levels exceeding the normal 8 million tons, the Soviets got 14.6 million tons in the second

Brown Oposses Waste Dump

AUSTIN — Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown has announced his support for the citizens of Swisher County in their objection to the development of a nuclear waste site in that county.

2,700 head of sheep raised in the county last year. "The unknown complications of long-term storage could have a very adverse effect of the water supply, not only of Swisher County, but also neighboring counties.

Surprisingly, four percent of all respondents are doing more tillage in preparation for corn than they were five years ago. The tendency to till more instead of less was scattered, but was stronger in the western Corn Belt—Minnesota, Nebraska and Missouri.

ing for ways to cut fuel use and found that their modern corn planters worked just as well in soil that was not as fine and smooth as a garden, extra spring tillage was eliminated.

Pesticide Program In Compliance

Swisher County is the most agricultural of the diverse counties in the state. The variety in crops is shown in the production of cotton, wheat, oats, sorghum, corn and vegetables. An important livestock producing area, the county marketed 245,000 head of cattle from area feedlots in 1980. There were also 9,800 head of hogs and developed and less productive areas," Brown said. "We in America are just beginning to realize the limitations of land and water and the implications they have for future food and fiber production. We should have a people's policy that says we will maintain soil and water for its best use."

When farmers started looking for ways to cut fuel use and found that their modern corn planters worked just as well in soil that was not as fine and smooth as a garden, extra spring tillage was eliminated.

Those practicing no-till corn production tend to have been at it for several years. Kentucky no-till operators had an average of 11 years experience, Michigan nine.

550-ton Reactor Erected at Borger

BORGER - A 550-ton vessel has been erected at Phillips Petroleum Company's refinery here following a 700-mile rail journey from Houston. The reactor, 75 feet long and more than nine inches thick, is one of four this size being installed by Fluor Corporation subsidiaries as part of a refinery modernization program that will cost in excess of $300 million. The huge vessel necessitated unusual requirements for its journey to the Panhandle and subsequent erection upon arrival, according to Fluor Engineers and Contractors, Inc., the prime contractor. It was loaded onto two heavy-duty, 12-axle rail cars of 300-ton capacity each. The cars were connected by a specially-designed skid with slide plates which cradled the vessel, distributed its weight between the cars and allowed it to accept motion, particularly around turns, on its 30-mile-per-hour trek to north Texas. Each slide plate measured four inches thick, six feet wide, and nine feet long, and weighed five tons.

A new, heavy-lift system, designed and manufactured to the specifications of Daniel Construction Company, another Fluor subsidiary, was waiting for the vessel when it completed its seven-day trip to Borger. The system has a maximum lift capacity of more than 1,000 tons and employs 14-inch-diameter swivel balls to accommodate six different modes of operation. Monitoring devices on all support "guy line" cables insure accurate and uniform pretensioning, according to Daniel, and instrumentation on the hoist cable indicates tension pull during the lift within an accuracy of plus or minus one percent.

The rail cars that carried the vessels to Borger are also being used as the tailing device to erect the vessels. As the 80-ton-pull hoist inches the top of the vessel upward, the bottom end of the vessel, sitting on a swivel and supported by the rail car, is powered slowly forward by a locomotive. The pulling and forward movements of the hoist and locomotive are coordinated carefully to keep the huge weight centered and the delicate assembly in balance and within tolerances. Aided by four-way remote communication, the first of the heavy lifts at Phillips took less than 75 minutes. Such lifts typically take an hour or less but are months in the planning. Daniel rigging specialists began planning the Borger lifts nearly two years ago, and drew 35 pages of sketches detailing the intricate maneuver.

The Borger facility is one of five Phillips refineries in the United States and has a crude-oil throughput capacity of 97,000 barrels per day. The modernization will allow the processing of low-quality crudes which have increased in quantity on the world market.

The work force at Borger, the largest labor pool yet assembled in the Panhandle for one project, is expected to peak at around 1,600 early next year. The program is scheduled for completion about December 1982.

Germplasm Needed As Genetic Backup for Crop Production

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The General Accounting Office has told the Agriculture Department improvements are needed in the national system for storing seeds and other "germplasm" as a genetic back-up for U.S. crop production.

The GAO report said the reason for concern about the loss of native strains is "the irreplaceable nature of genetic diversity." The only place genes can be stored in living systems such as the embryo in a kernel of corn or wheat.

"The native varieties can become extinct once they are replaced in favor of seed introduced through plant breeding. The genetic heritage of a thousand years in a particular area can be lost in a single year," it said. "A time may come when man is totally dependent on the genetic strains he has preserved."

The report said the department has exhibited "insufficient management attention" regarding germplasm collection, storage and maintenance.

Actions for improvement "should include identifying all curators; implementing a policy for backup storage; determining the viability of the small grains collection; and assuring that germplasm is adequately stored, monitored and replenished as needed."

Department officials "generally agreed" with GAO's conclusions and recommendations for upgrading the system, the report said.

Plant scientists have been warning for many years that the genetic base of U.S. crops has been shrinking and that this represents a potential danger to future production.

For example, if most or all of a crop is produced from the same or very similar genetic stock it could become vulnerable to disease, thus wiping out most of that year's production.

Genetic vulnerability of Ireland's potato crop the 1830s led to famine and the death of 2 million people when "a previously unknown disease" struck the harvests, the GAO said.

The GAO, an auditing agency of Congress, submitted its report recently to Agriculture Secretary John R. Block, with copies also going to key members of Congress.

A national germplasm system was designed to help guard against such losses by preserving the base stock — germplasm — of domestic and wild food plants. It is a cooperative system involving U.S. department, state experiment stations and private germplasm preservers.

"Historically, the United States has been able to return to areas of genetic diversity to collect germplasm for further breeding programs," the GAO said.

"However, in the last decade Mexican farmers have planted hybrid seed corn from a U.S. seed firm; Tibetan farmers have planted barley from a Scandinavian plant breeding station; and Turkish farmers have planted wheat from the Mexican wheat program.

"Each of these areas of crop-specific genetic diversity is rapidly becoming an area of seed uniformity, resulting in loss of genetic diversity."

No Reaganomic Turnaround, Recession Recovery Uncertain

By OWEN ULLMANN Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — In 1981, Reaganomics was supposed to turn the economy around. Instead, the year ended in a deepening recession and prospects for recovery were uncertain for the new year.

The year 1981 was also supposed to be when President Reagan would tame the federal budget and take a big step toward wiping out chronic deficits. Instead, Reagan's plans threatened to pile up the largest deficits in history — more than $400 billion in the next three years. The brightest economic development of 1981 was the declining inflation rate: After two years of double-digit rises, inflation seemed likely to come in under 10 percent. Most economic forecasters expect inflation to slow even more in 1982, possibly below 8 percent.

But short-term interest rates surged above 20 percent, conventional mortgage rates topped 18 percent for the first time, the housing market collapsed and the auto industry sputtered along. Economic activity fell, and unemployment climbed to a six-year high of 8.4 percent — more than 9 million Americans were out of work.

Interest rates declined late in 1981 as the recession curbed individual and corporate appetites for credit, but financial experts held out little hope for a return to single-digit rates in the foreseeable future.

Most economists predict the recession will linger into the spring and unemployment will return to a post-World War II peak of 9 percent before strong economic recovery gets under way.

Reagan and his advisers express confidence that the 1982 installment of the tax cut he won from Congress will put the economy on the road to long-term prosperity by mid-1982. Unlike previous recoveries, the administration says, this one will not be accompanied by inflation. It will take more than a year, however, for unemployment to fall below 8 percent, under Reagan's optimistic scenario.

Reagan's White House has issued rosy predictions before, only to withdraw them, and the same could happen with this latest forecast.

Several private and government forecasters — and White House budget director David A. Stockman — say the greatest danger is that interest rates will return to record levels and halt the economic boom that is supposed to lie around the corner.

The fear is that increased borrowing needs of government and private businesses will create a demand for credit that is greater than the Federal Reserve Board is willing to meet. And as long as the Fed maintains its tight-credit policy to lower inflation, the cost of acquiring money will rise.

Administration economists say they plan to reduce anticipated deficits through deep cuts in non-defense areas and some tax increases. According to Reagan's supply-side theory, the tax cut will help eliminate red ink by triggering prosperity that will bring increased revenues even with lower tax rates.

The 1982 test of Reagan's program will be whether the tax cut produces those results.

Sanctions May Hurt Economics

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Trade restrictions against the Soviet Union, such as those announced by President Reagan, can hurt them, but they can damage U.S. economic interests too, if only in a small way.

Exports are a top priority for any economy with a balance of payments problem or, in fact, for any economy seeking to regain lost strength. And the United States has lost considerable strength this year.

Imports, for example, now account for one-quarter or more of U.S. domestic steel and automobile markets, and the trade deficit for the year may exceed the previous high of $42.36 billion in 1978.

While there are special factors in that deficit, such as the tripling of imported oil prices since 1973, there is a warning too that the United States has been losing its competitive position in world trade.

Things aren't likely to improve very rapidly either, because Western Europe, with which the United States has a trade surplus, will seek to boost its economic recovery in 1982 by exporting to the United States.

Economic sanctions against the Soviet Union, therefore, may hurt that nation, but they can hurt the United States and the value of its dollar too by making it more difficult to reduce the foreign trade deficit.

In all, the new restrictions may amount to less than 10 percent of the more than $3 billion a year of American exports to the Soviets, but every little bit hurts or helps when the problem is as persistent as the deficit. After reaching that record-high in 1978, it fell only to $40.37 billion in 1979 and then to $36.36 billion last year. Through November of this year it had already climbed back to $38.4 billion.

Prospects aren't good either. On Christmas Eve, Chicago's Continental Bank issued an analysis that projected a trade deficit of close to $50 billion for 1982. Until late in the year, it said, no contribution to the U.S. economy can be expected from the foreign trade sector.

To the contrary, a deficit of that size can be measured in such things as worsened unemployment (expected to reach 9 percent at some point in 1982), reduced corporate sales, and lowered government revenues.

"PENNIES FROM HEAVEN"

"Pennies from Heaven," from MGM. Directed by Herbert Ross. Written by Dennis Potter. Starring Steve Martin, Bernadette Peters and Jessica Harper. Rated "R." ★ ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO—FILM CRITIC

This is the kind of film that's hard to describe. It doesn't fall into a category, but between them. With its wild production numbers, matched with a brooding, moody often sordid story, "Pennies from Heaven" is a mixture of Busby Berkeley and Ingmar Bergman. As a musical it is superb; with terrific terpsichorean talent staged to some of the best music of the 1930s. The story is simplistic and time-worn—a husband gone astray impregnates the small-town school marm which leads her into a life of prostitution; but the film's intent is complex. Perverse, elating, depressing, sad, ridiculous—"Pennies from Heaven" is all these.

REVIEW

The success of "Pennies from Heaven" at the box-office is nearly impossible to predict. Those who enter the film expecting it to be Steve Martin at the musicals will certainly enjoy his musical numbers (he definitely has happy feet), but may hate him in the somber story. Fans of Fred Astaire and other performers of the 1930s will relish the authentic music, but may be turned off by the peculiar plotline.

But the point of the whole film is the counterpart of the two elements, the harsh reality of real life, and the music we create to fantasize, to "get away," to cope with every day lives. It is on this basis that the film should be judged, and in that sense it succeeds very well, even at the risk of alienating the audience.

Steve Martin is not a hero but an anti-hero, a sort of Walter Mitty of the musicals who fantasizes himself into Hollywood illusion and happiness. As the school marm smitten by traveling salesman Martin, Bernadette Peters plays a role she was born to perform. She belongs to the 1930s, with cupie-doll lips and Betty Boop voice, and is simply perfect. Martin takes a lot of risks in this film, expanding his own character and talents, and for that alone he rates merit. The producers of this film know what they have, and are careful to state in the advertisements that this is a drama. Even so, this film is an experience-like no other film seen in a long time. It may not make a fortune initially, but with its peculiar mixture of genres and styles (not unlike "Rocky Horror Picture Show"), "Pennies from Heaven" shows every sign of becoming the first cult film of the 1980s.

Steve Martin, producing and performing in "Twilight Theatre," a TV comedy/variety pilot, cuts up for "ET" cameras in a sketch with Pam Dawber, Michael York, George Peppard and Martin Sully, this week on the syndicated "Entertainment Tonight." (Check listings for station and time in your area.)

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT: A bitter feud is simmering on the set of "WKRP in Cincinnati"—pitting Loni Anderson and Gary Sandy against the rest of the cast. Sandy, who plays station manager Andy Travis, is making life unbearable on the set of the top-rated CBS show, say his co-stars. One "WKRP" star says: "If Gary left the show today, nobody would know he was gone." Sandy is apparently fuming over the decision of the producers to strip him of top billing, in favor of Loni and Howard Hesseman. The 35-year-old actor is said to be bitter towards his fellow cast-members—all except Loni, recently parted from husband Ross Bickell. Loni and Sandy have been seen together at many Hollywood functions, and Sandy recently bought Loni's car and house in North Hollywood. Although Sandy insists that the rumors of their affair are "all wrong," insiders say the couple are "quite comfortable" together, both on and off the set.

TV BACKSTAGE: Robin Eisenman (Stacey, "General Hospital") got the scare of her life when she opened her front door in Los Angeles to find four policemen and an ambulance outside. A friend had been worried because Robin could only whisper on the phone—she had laryngitis. "I was in flannel pajamas with socks on and a big robe when the police knocked," Robin told me. "I was so embarrassed." She wrote a note to explain, and the police went away—with autographed pictures under their arms... The on-again, off-again romance between "Guiding Light" castmates Lisa Brown (Nola) and Tom Neilsen (Floyd) is definitely on now. Nola may have jilted Floyd at the altar, but in real life, Lisa told me: "Tom and I are going steady."... "Days of Our Lives" casting agents think they've found a new heartthrob—in a magazine underwear ad. And now they're trying to track him down.

TV CLOSEUP: And now, in the seemingly endless saga of the soap operas that might be called "Guess Who's Making a Guest Appearance on Her Favorite Daytime Drama?", throw in the name of Carol Burnett. In the last episode of our story, it will be recalled, Elizabeth Taylor made several appearances on her favorite soap opera, "General Hospital," after letting the producers know it had been her secret wish to do so for years. Now it's Miss Burnett's turn to fulfill a longstanding wish to be seen in ABC's "All My Children," which she watches every day. In Los Angeles Rick Ingersoll, her spokesman, said the comedienne planned to tape her stint on the show. Stay tuned for the next installment... When he's not playing "As the World Turns" evil Dr. John Dixon, Larry Bryggman can be found at the Manhattan Theater Club, where he's starring in "The Resurrection of Lady Lester."... Singer/actor Rick Springfield (Dr. Noah Drake, "General Hospital") was forced to cancel his second show at a Texas rock concert because female fans charged the stage.

ALBUM REVIEWS

Loverboy Get Lucky (Columbia) Loverboy was the surprise success of last year. Surprising because they're not that good. Their songs make great dance music when covered by a local bar band, and sound adequately hook-laden when emanating from a car stereo. But as far as being a top concert draw—well, it just indicates the unquenched desire of many listeners for "more of the same." Get Lucky is certainly more of the same; it sounds just like their first album.

Bobby and the Midnighters (Arista) Bob Weir of the Grateful Dead gets together with a gaggle of illustrious cohorts (credits ranging from the Mahavishnu Orchestra to Steppenwolf) and gives us an upbeat compilation of tunes that recognizably come from the same pen as "Sugar Magnolia," "Truckin'" and "One More Saturday Night." An LP that sounds as if the band had fun making it.

Elvis Costello Almost Blue (Columbia) Another top-name artist using his power to buy freedom: the freedom to indulge in a non-commercial album of a favorite idiom. Joe Jackson did it with big band sounds, Carly Simon with torch songs, Mick Fleetwood with African rhythms. Costello brings us a Nashville-produced wallowing in whining pedal steel, a plethora of disintegrating relationships (country style) and songs by Hank Williams, Merle Haggard and Gram Parsons. Will country music fans buy Elvis Costello? Will Elvis Costello fans buy this departure?

UPDATE

Blondie's Debbie Harry is in Toronto filming "Videodrome," a new one by David ("Scanners") Cronenberg... Rick James is said to be negotiating with the movie studios to film his "pet project"—a black version of Lewis Carroll called "Alice in GhettoLand."... Paul Williams is filming a TV pilot about a guy who, too short to make the cops, becomes a private detective. Williams will play the lead short person; Pat McCormick (who is 6' 7" tall) will play his sidekick... There's talk of a Steve Martin late-night show, perhaps to replace the again-ailing "Saturday Night Live." The pilot, which runs January 16, features guests Shelly Duval, Martin Mull and Dev... A program featuring jazz and blues music is being prepared for syndication. It'll be called "Ad Lib."

(Check your friendly Fox store for exact time.) Your pictures will be ready after the last delivery the next day, excluding holidays. If not, your order is FREE!

1/2 OFF DEVELOPING AND PRINTING COLOR PRINT FILM

On any 110, 126, or 35mm color print roll film (full frame, C-41 process only). One roll per coupon. Excludes use of other coupons. Valid at any Fox Photo walk-in or drive-up store.

SOUND COUNTRY

Mr. & Mrs. Charlie Daniels visit with country legend Roy Acuff backstage at the Grand Ole Opry House following the Charlie Daniels Band performance with the Nashville Symphony Orchestra.

A fiddle, the devil, and Epic's Charlie Daniels Band joined the Nashville Symphony Orchestra recently at the Grand Ole Opry House for the Symphony Association's ninth annual "Outing," a concert benefit for the Orchestra.

A standing ovation from the capacity crowd of more than 4,000 brought Charlie and band back for multiple encores. Following "Orange Blossom Special," Daniels brought the Orchestra downstage to join the band and surprise guest Roy Acuff for a medley of "Amazing Grace" and "Will the Circle Be Unbroken."

The original cast of "Country Hoedown" celebrated Christmas on the CBC-produced "Tommy Hunter Show." Joining Tommy Hunter were Gordie Tapp, King Ganam, Tommy Common, The Hames Sisters and Lorraine Foreman.

Through the years, probably every major country artist has recorded a song written by Sonny Throckmorton. And it has been estimated that a Sonny Throckmorton song has been played once every five hours on every country radio station. That's quite a track record for someone that most country fans have never heard of. But Sonny's recent signing to record for MCA Records might eliminate that problem. Ironically, his first MCA single, "A Girl Like You," is a song he didn't write. The tune was written by Buzz Cason and Freddy Weller.

The David Frizzell and Shelly West Album, their second for Warner/Viva Records, will be shipped to record stores along with their next single, "Another Honky Tonk Night on Broadway."

HILL STREET BLUES

An angry Mick Belker (Bruce Weitz, left) grabs a self-styled "Captain Freedom" (Dennis Dugan) after the well-intentioned caped crusader inadvertently interferes with the grubby undercover officer's arrest of a gas station robber, in "The World According to Freedom," on NBC-TV's "Hill Street Blues" THURSDAY, JANUARY 7.

Meanwhile, Capt. Furillo (Daniel J. Travanti) moves swiftly to find the three young hoods who savagely pillaged the sleazy night spot and left at least two patrons dead. Aware of a possible gang connection, he rounds up a colorful assortment of warlords from such rivals as the Pagans, Shamrocks and Mau Maus, and uncharacteristically threatens them with the promise of hard times ahead if they refuse cooperation in the dragnet.

HEALTH Symptoms of hypoglycemia

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am a 26-year-old female and have been diagnosed as having low blood sugar. A restricted diet has helped this condition. I would like to know if fructose can be useful in my diet. I have heard that it can be used by some diabetics instead of sugar and that it has a different effect on the body than sugar. Is this true? If so, how much can be used without harmful effects?

DEAR READER - If you read my column often you know that hypoglycemia (low blood sugar) is diagnosed far more frequently than the condition exists. Too many people getting this diagnosis should not be made unless it can be demonstrated to have a significantly low blood glucose level. The diagnosis should not be made unless it can be demonstrated that real low blood glucose levels occur at the same time that the symptoms are induced. Many healthy athletic people have surprisingly low blood glucose levels and don't have a single symptom.

The problem is that the symptoms attributed to hypoglycemia can also occur from many other conditions. The release of adrenaline, from anxiety or other causes, can induce these same symptoms. Happily, some of the same measures that help the person who does have hypoglycemia also help the person who has similar symptoms but who does not have hypoglycemia.

Fructose is absorbed differently and it may help in a person who has reactive hypoglycemia, the type that occurs in response to having eaten sweets and starches. It is useful in some mild diabetics. But in diabetics who must take insulin it is of little value and begins to affect the blood glucose level the way glucose or table sugar does.

It provides the same number of calories as ordinary sugar, so you should not use very much of it. Fructose is converted to glucose in the liver and muscles. Diet is not the only important factor. Avoiding coffee, tea, colas, cigarettes and alcohol is also important in the true reactive hypoglycemia patient or many of those with similar symptoms simply induced by the release of excess adrenaline.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Exactly what nutritional value does lettuce have? I am arguing with my mother about it.

DEAR READER - Calorie-wise it has very little. There is some difference in various types of lettuce but in general 100 grams (3.5 ounces) of lettuce contains about 15 calories. That is a lot of lettuce, and that is why it is popular for salads for weight control. About one out of five calories in lettuce are from protein, but it is of little importance because there are so few calories anyway.

Its main nutritive value is from its content of vitamin A and folic acid. It is a good source of vitamin A. Since we all need some folic acid, lettuce and other green leafy vegetables used in salads are an important part of our diet. Also, folic acid in foods that require cooking is easily destroyed, hence the green leafy salad becomes even more important. The bottom line is - Eat your lettuce, son!

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am desperate and I don't know who else to ask. Our family doctor is fat so he doesn't think I have a problem, although I am 10 to 15 pounds overweight and it is all on my tummy, hips and thighs.

I went on a low-calorie diet two years ago. I lost all that excess fat and I felt so much better. I felt like a teenager again, although I'm 44. I had more energy and my arthritis didn't bother me. I felt great for six months or so. Then we took a vacation and it was hard to eat the right food and I started gaining weight. Since then I can't seem to control myself and I get so miserable after overeating. I've tried gagging to throw up but I couldn't. I am an active person and have a daily exercise program. I jog and bike.

I lose two pounds one week and gain back one pound the next. I've tried grapefruit, bran, you name it. I've gained the whole 15 pounds back and I need help.

DEAR READER - If your doctor is not interested in your weight control, you might want to see one who is. You need to be sure you do not have a low thyroid problem, even though this is seldom the cause of being overweight.

You might profit by some forms of exercise that strengthen and build your muscle size, perhaps at one of the local health clubs.
